Blizzard buries Wayne in 18 inches of snow

By Randy Hascall

The Wayne area was buried in 18 inches of snow as a blizzard blasted northeast Nebraska Sunday and Monday. Flashes of lightning and cracks of thunder throughout the snowstorm sent a message for residents to watch out. When the storm was all over, Pat Gross, Wayne's official weather keeper for the National Weather Bureau, said Wayne had recorded 18 inches of snow. Gross said that figure probably is a record for most snowfall in a 24 hour period.

WAYNE'S CITY snow removal crew went out for the first time Sunday afternoon and then worked a 16 hour shift, beginning at 4 a.m. Monday. The crew worked from 2 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday to clear the streets, alleys and haul the snow away.

"This was definitely one of the worst storms, if not the worst, I've seen in my 19 years," said Vern Schulz, superintendent at Public Works. "I hope everyone will please bear with us, we're doing everything we can."

The city's eight man crew had every piece of equipment out and had all streets and some alleys cleared by Wednesday morning. Schulz said a week of work would still be required to haul the remaining snow, clean some intersections and finish clearing the alleys.

ACCORDING TO SCHULZ, the snow removal crew couldn't follow its normal procedure completely. The crew normally begins clearing streets in the downtown area and works out in all directions. The hospital has priority. Due to low visibility and heavy snowfall, the crew worked wherever possible in the early hours of the storm. Schulz said

"Our equipment was not big enough for this storm. The visibility was terrible and we couldn't get anywhere. We just busted through snowbanks," Schulz said.

The crew has been hauling snow to six areas, five of which are within the city limits.

THE WAYNE Rescue Squad also kept busy on Monday and Tuesday. The unit responded to 11 calls in the two days. However, Louise Jenness, director of the Rescue Squad, said most of the calls were not weather related.

The rescue unit brought two expectant mothers to Providence Medical Center during the storm. Both women gave birth at the hospital.

Among the other calls were assistance for a diabetic coma, and complaints of chest pains.

Mrs. Jenness said the rescue squad couldn't have operated effectively without the help of the National Guard and Police Department. "They helped a lot. We couldn't do it without them. We received a lot of cooperation from a lot of people."

THE BLIZZARD stopped most activity in the area. Most businesses were closed Monday and mail was not delivered. No area schools had classes on Monday or Tuesday. Wayne State College also had no classes either day.

Automobiles were buried with only snowmobiles operating during the early part of the storm. Most people who needed to venture out in the cold were out on Monday.

Travel throughout much of Nebraska was at a standstill Monday and finally started picking up on Tuesday.

Now that most streets, driveways and sidewalks are cleared, warnings of another approaching storm have been issued.

Von Minden postpones his area appearances

State Senator Merle Von Minden's scheduled appearances in some northeast Nebraska communities were postponed due to the weather.

Von Minden's appearance in Wayne is now scheduled Saturday at Daylight Donuts from 8:30 to 10 a.m. He will be at the fire hall in Hoskins from 1 to 2 p.m. that day. Both appointments originally were scheduled for Tuesday.

Von Minden's appearance in Wakefield is still scheduled from 1 to 2 p.m. at the city council chambers today (Thursday). From 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. the senator will be at Diane's Cafe in Emerson.

Tomorrow (Friday) Von Minden will be at the Village Cafe in Newcastle from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and at the Dixon County Courthouse in Ponca from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. Those meetings originally were set for Monday.

Von Minden said he encourages everyone to stop in and visit with him about concerns and upcoming activities in the Legislature. The senator will be accompanied by his legislative aide, Leland Miner.

MAYOR WAYNE Marsh holds a handful of gloves which have been donated for needy persons.

Santa in town tonight

Santa Claus has sent word that he will be arriving in Wayne this evening, (Thursday).

He plans to make his first appearance in downtown Wayne at about 5:30 p.m. If the weather is nice, Santa will tour downtown Wayne in a fire truck at that time. He will then visit with youngsters from 6 to 8 p.m. at Peoples Natural Gas Company at 208 Main Street.

Santa will use the gas company as his home away from the North Pole throughout the Christmas season. He will be stationed there from 6 to 8 p.m. on weekday evenings, from 12 noon to 2 p.m. on Saturdays and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sundays.

Nights that Santa will be at the gas company are Dec. 1, 8, 15, 16, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23. He will be at the company from 12 noon to 2 p.m. on Dec. 10, 17 and 24. On Dec. 11 and 18, he will appear from 2 to 4 p.m.

Santa Claus will have candy for all children and will listen to any Christmas wishes at that time.

Mail to the Herald Letters to Santa welcome

The Wayne Herald received a telephone call this week from that jolly, old gentleman himself—Santa Claus.

Santa asked if the newspaper would, once again, collect his letters from children in the Wayne area. The Herald gladly obliged.

Santa Claus said he will read each youngster's letter carefully and try his best to see that everyone has a merry Christmas.

He said he and his elves are already busy collecting and making gifts of all types.

Some substitutions may have to be made, Santa said.

The Wayne Herald will collect all letters to Santa and print them in the newspaper. The letters will then be forwarded to Santa at the North Pole, giving him time to get the gifts ready before Christmas.

Area youngsters should address the letters to: Santa Claus, c/o The Wayne Herald, 114 Main Street, Wayne, Neb. 68787. All letters should include names, ages and hometowns.

Council sets water connection fee

The Wayne City Council, meeting Tuesday night, passed an ordinance setting a flat rate connection fee for anyone tapping in to Wayne's water main.

At the recommendation of City Administrator Phil Kloster, the council set the residential connection fee at $300 and the fee for non-residential users at $1,500.

The new fees will replace a formula which has been used to determine fees. Kloster said a fixed rate is preferred because if a business is thinking about coming into Wayne, the city can tell them how much it will cost to tap in to the water main, rather than give them a formula.

THE CONNECTION fee is designed to encourage businesses to tap into the city's water line, Kloster said.

The other main action taken by the council concerned the replat of Lot 2, Bannister 1st Subdivision in Wayne.

The lot is located between North Highway 15 and Muhs Acres. Kloster said the property owner has a chance to sell the lot but the buyer wants to enlarge the lot.

By enlarging the lot, required front footing can be put in and a septic tank can be placed farther away.

A park fee of 8 percent will be assessed.

IN BUSINESS concerning Wayne's snow removal, Councilman Gary Van Meter passed along a word of appreciation from Jack Hausmann, Hausmann, who moved to Wayne last spring, said he was real pleased with the city's snow removal.

Mayor Marsh brought up a concern that was directed his way. He said he received a phone call asking why the snow wasn't cleaned off of 15th Street.

The mayor replied to the caller that it is not a city street. The caller then asked him why there is a sign that directs motorists to the hospital.

Councilman Leo Hansen suggested that a "Snow Route" sign be placed at the location, directing hospital traffic four blocks south.

The council will look into the matter.

VAN METER INFORMED the council that Valley Engine is attempting to generate its own power because some of its monthly bills have been so high during peak months.

The only visitor at the meeting, Wayne Fire Chief Dutch Stitzman, once again brought up his department's request for per diem payments to the men who attend fire school.

Kloster and Mayor Marsh discussed the request that the per diem request will be discussed at the next city council meeting.

Mayor seeks mittens for needy

Mittens and hands go together.

With the help of residents in the Wayne area, Mayor Wayne Marsh is hoping to help keep some needy hands warmed by mittens this winter.

The mayor is seeking donations of mittens and gloves, both old and new, for his "Mitten Tree." The mittens collected will first be used to decorate a tree in the City's Centennial Christmas Tree Display the weekend of Dec. 10 and 11.

The mittens will then be distributed to the area's needy at Christmas to help warm some hands—both big and small.

Anyone who would like to donate new or used mittens or gloves to the drive should deposit them before next Thursday evening (Dec. 8) at First National Bank, State National Bank or City Hall collection sites.

"Help make some needy hands warm this Christmas. Collect some mittens for the mitten tree," Mayor Marsh said. "With your help, we will have some warm hands this Christmas."

Legislators probing Commonwealth insolvency

Another super job!

To the editor: Vern Schulz and the Wayne City Street Department are to be commended for their efforts in opening the streets for traffic after the recent storm. They always do a super job!

LaVern Ostendorf Wayne

Hometown friends

To the editor: Everybody is tired of the old cliché "Shop at home", but when our family was faced with an emergency the past weekend it was the hometown merchants that came through.

Bill's GW, Rusty Nail, Koplins, Merchant Oil, Wayne emergency services, city police, Campus security Steve Schumacher and city street department are among the many services we take for granted.

But when confronted with special favors in a time of need, these hometown friends, among others, went far beyond their normal services.

Would the merchants in Norfolk, Sioux City, Lincoln or Omaha have responded? Chalk Manske

Veterans tribute

To the editor: Our Flag We know you are just a symbol. Of blood and guts and tears. Of magnitude and glory compiled throughout the years.

Every star a shining light as you flutter in the breeze. Every bar a slash in time woven by communities.

The hippies slur you. The draft dodgers, they don't care. So somebody has to wave you if you wave over our land so fair.

To those who gave They loved this life like you and I. They loved their country too. Would you exchange today with them? They gladly would with you.

Would we forget to remember the veteran that is here?

Aren't we forgetting the fellow the public used to cheer? J.A.P.

A Cuban swap?

To the editor: For the first time since Castro took over Cuba we have a diplomatic chance to use our powerful leverage. Let's take a bipartisan approach to the following by offering to swap the Cuban "workers" (where did they get the guns to fight?)

We should offer to swap them along the following lines:

1 Return all hijackers of U.S. planes to Cuba. This would lessen the desire to gain "freedom" there while endangering American lives.

2 Remove all Cuban soldiers from Nicaragua, El Salvador, and other Central American countries.

3 Take back the Cuban criminals (if in told these are the worst in the world), and mental patients shipped to the U.S. during the last major Cuba-Miami boat lift.

4 Remove all Cuban troops and support personnel from Angola and other countries where they are spreading communism when people all over the world want freedom (Poland).

5 Dismantle all offensive missiles. Of course, Castro has told his soldiers to fight to their deaths to protect Grenada while he is surrounded by 20,000 soldiers, missiles, tanks, and thousands of cigars. Smoking one at a time while he spreads the venom of communism wherever Russia tells him to go.

Reagan is the first president since Eisenhower to have the guts to do what is right to protect American (men, women, children, and many medical students) in a foreign land. Grenada. Thank God for President Ronald Reagan.

Im just sorry that Senator Percy is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. I think my 13 year old son, Jeff, knows more about foreign affairs than Chuck does. In fact, Percy scares me to death, although he seems like a gentle, kind man.

Congressman Tom Corcoran wouldn't be like Percy. He's got common sense like most of us. Hopefully he will replace Percy in the Illinois primary next year.

Letters from readers are welcome. They should be timely, brief and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

Judiciary Committee Chairman Chris Beutler of Lincoln, Appropriations Committee Chairman Jerome Warner of Waverly, Public Works Committee Chairman Loran Schmit of Bellwood, Business and Labor Committee Chairman William Barrett of Lexington, Speaker William Nichol of Scottsbluff and Constitutional Revision and Recreation Chairman Bernice Labedz of Omaha.

DeCamp said the committee needs blanket subpoena power for its investigation.

Under legislative rules, subpoena powers may be used if other methods of persuasion fail to produce necessary documents or testimony. The power is to be used only in instances of "primary importance" to the welfare of the state of Nebraska. "The rules state, DeCamp declined to say whom - if anybody - he expects to subpoena, or whether he views it as stand-by power.

Some principals in the Commonwealth matter including Commonwealth President S.E. Copple, are reported to be in Arizona. Whether the Legislature has authority to compel testimony from people outside the state is uncertain.

IN A LETTER delivered to Gov. Bob Kerrey, DeCamp outlined questions he would like to see investigated. Among the questions, DeCamp said, is whether there was any negligence, misfeasance, malfeasance or other improper acts by officials of the state in the enforcement of banking laws.

The focus of the criminal investigation relating to the Commonwealth failure has been the office of Lancaster County Attorney Mike Heavican.

Heavican last week filed the first criminal charges in the case, including one count against S.E. Copple for allegedly receiving an illegal loan from the bank.

The legislative investigation is likely to continue several months, senators say.

The Commonwealth failure is expected to leave the 1984 Legislature with a heavy agenda of banking legislation.

Among other questions is who, if anybody, should be liable for the losses of Commonwealth depositors. Advertising by Commonwealth and other industrial savings banks indicated that depositors' money was guaranteed up to $30,000 by the Nebraska Depository Institution Guaranty Corp.

THE ASSEST of NDIGC are expected to fall far short of the sum needed to cover Commonwealth depositors' losses.

Nichol, who as Speaker of the Legislature, has the power to set the work agenda, has promised to devote whatever time is needed to the Commonwealth matter.

Like other senators from outside Lincoln, Nichol has been inundated with calls and letters from concerned depositors. He said many of those who have contacted him, mostly Lincoln area residents, are concerned that lawmakers from elsewhere will not assign a high priority to Commonwealth-related legislation.

Nichol said he considers the Commonwealth matter, and the ripple effect it has had on other financial institutions, a statewide problem.

Post Office proposing rate hike

Keeping in touch By Congressman Bereuter

As many of you may already know, on Nov. 1 the United States Postal Service was authorized by its Board of Governors to seek a general rate increase. The postal service proposes to raise the price of a first class stamp from 20 cents to 23 cents. The rates for all other classes of mail would also be raised with an average across the board increase of approximately 15 percent.

The next step in this process is for the postal service to file a formal proposal with the independent Postal Rate Commission, a body of five presidential appointees.

The Postal Rate Commission then begins a 10 month proceeding examining the postal service's proposal and to consider alternatives. This is regular administrative litigation, on the record, and open to intervention by any interested party. The public is represented by a statutory "Officer of the Commission". The Postal Rate Commission will issue a written "recommended decision" to the Governors, probably by early September, 1984.

THE GOVERNORS may then accept the recommended decision and implement it, or reject it and send it back to the Postal Rate Commission for further proceedings. Or, they can modify the decision and implement it as modified. The governors, a body of nine presidential appointees, make the decision about when new rates will be implemented.

There is no point at which Congress can directly intervene in this process. In 1970, the Postal Reorganization Act was signed into law, creating a quasi corporation to replace the Post Office Department.

There was certainly some very real reason for lessening Congressional involvement in the administration of postal matters, but I have long believed that the general removal of the Postal Service from the management and oversight of the president and Congress so abruptly and completely was a mistake.

AS IN PAST years, homemade pie and coffee will be served throughout the day.

In addition, Methodist Women will serve a dinner of hot turkey sandwiches, pie and coffee from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Brodersen said working persons who would like to eat at the fair may phone ahead to the church office so their lunch will be ready to pick up when they arrive at the church.

Shut-ins may also phone the church office ahead of time, preferably one day ahead of the fair, and have their hot meals delivered to their homes.

Pilot Parents speak to two area groups

Representatives of the Wayne Laurel Pilot Parents recently spoke to two area groups about their experiences in parenting handicapped children.

In the everyday living class taught by Susan Johnson at Wayne State College, each Pilot Parent mother gave information about her child's specific handicap, followed with questions and answers.

The group also gave a program for St. Michael's Altar Society in Coleridge, with a slide presentation on Pilot Parents. Each member spoke briefly and answered questions.

PILOT PARENTS are parents of handicapped children who assist new parents of handicapped youngsters by offering support and information.

Persons who could benefit from talking to a representative of the group are asked to telephone Mr. and Mrs. Larry Haase, Wayne, 375-2243, or Mr. and Mrs. Terry Magdanz, Laurel, 256-3127.

Guests invited to attend Three M's Club meeting

Three M's Home Extension Club held a quest night meeting Monday evening, Nov. 21 in the home of DeLores Utech.

Guests were Mary Lou Exleben, Betty Lessmann, Helen Beckman, Mary Husmann and Gilsoon Youn. Seven club members attended.

The group shared what they are thankful for.

DURING THE business meeting, it was announced that tray favors have been made for Providence Medical Center.

Plans were made to participate in the "Fantasy of Trees" display at the Wayne city auditorium Dec. 10-11 in conjunction with the city's centennial celebration.

The club is planning to purchase a Christmas gift for a resident of Wayne Care Centre. Lanora Sorensen and Verdina Johs reported on the Thrust workshop they attended recently.

The president announced that the theme for the coming year is "Family Well Being."

A get well card was signed for Shanna Schroeder, a surgical patient in St. Luke's Hospital, Sioux City.

JOCIELL BULL presented the lesson, entitled "Liking Me, Liking You."

Next meeting, Dec. 19, will be a 7:30 p.m. dinner at the Black Knight with husbands as guests. There will be a homemade gift exchange.

Mush!

The brontosaurus of a snowstorm that pounced on the Midwest earlier this week has not helped me in compiling pre-season information on Laurel High School's boys and girls basketball teams for The Wayne Herald's Winter Sports Guide. I had originally scheduled a visit to both Bear camps on Monday afternoon, but Mother Nature sort of put the kibosh on that.

Role reversal

Someone once said: "Know your enemies well — for it is they whom you will become most like." I couldn't help but remember that while watching the Nebraska vs. Oklahoma game last Saturday. It wasn't too many years ago that the Huskers had the dominating defense and everyone in college football feared the Sooners' vaunted option attack. Now the Sooners are running the formation and Nebraska has the prolific option quarterback a la Steve Davis, J.C. Watts, etc.

Not a misprint

It was pointed out to me last week that Nebraska will host Oklahoma two years in a row — in 1986 and 1987. A look in my Nebraska Press Guide confirmed that, but I was sure it had to be a misprint. I also noticed the schedule shows Kansas State playing in Lincoln the same two years. A check with Nebraska's sports information office revealed that a deal was struck between several Big Eight schools so teams won't have to play their two biggest conference rivals on the road during one season.

No gravy, please

It was with great amusement that I read about the The Denison (Iowa) Review's all star prep football team. Granted, The Wayne Herald's "All-Area Team" doesn't have the most imaginative name, but it's better than the tag the Review came up with. Right on the front page was a nice color picture of the paper's all star selections under the title of "All Meat Empire." All Meat?!? Needless to say, that got a few guffaws around the office.

Big deal

O.K., O.K., I messed up. I have taken enough ribbing about my column on the opening day of pheasant season to make me quit using numbers in my column. For those of you who missed it, I was figuring out how much buckshot was blasted into Nebraska's skies on opening day based on estimates given by the Game and Parks Commission. My math was right, but I mistakenly wrote that each shotgun shell contains 1.25 pounds of lead shot, when, in fact, it should have been 1.25 OUNCES.

Due to the blizzard ...

Devil boosters to reschedule

The Wayne-Carroll Booster Club's general membership meeting scheduled for last Monday night in the Wayne High School commons area, was postponed because of inclement weather.

1st-half blast skins Cats

The Wildcats of Wayne State went up against NCAA Division I University of Northern Iowa last Saturday at Cedar Falls, Iowa and came away 88-70 losers, but no worse for the wear, according to Wildcat coach Rick Weaver.

The Cats went ahead 28-26 with 5:37 remaining in the first half on a Lonell Greene dunk, but Northern Iowa then exploded — outscoring the Cats 19-2 up to the buzzer to take a 45-30 lead.

The Panthers then scored 17 unanswered points, highlighted by a three-point play by Randy Kraayenbrink. The second half saw the Panthers score only three more points than the Wildcats.

leading scorer was once again sophomore forward Calvin Sprew, who tallied 15 points. Teammate Craig Willis had 13 points while Russ Uhing added 10 and John Thomsen accounted for 11.

The Cats had 33 boards to the Panthers' 31. Greene and Willis each had seven. Wayne State shot 46.6 percent from the field compared to UNI's 60 percent.

The Wildcats' game scheduled for Tuesday night at Blair against Dana College was postponed because of the blizzard.

Pork industry promotion planned

A promotion for the pork industry is being planned in Winside by the Wayne County Pork Producers. The promotion will be held at Ray's Locker and Miller's Market.

Coffee and homemade sausage links will be served at Ray's from 8 a.m. to 12 noon this Saturday (Dec. 3). Joni Jaeger is in charge for the Wayne County Pork Producers. Karen Reeg, second runner-up in the county pork queen contest, will be at the business.

At Miller's Market, little sausages and coffee will be served from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 17. Joni Jaeger is chair man of the event. Deb Krueger, Gail Jaeger and 1983 Wayne County Pork Queen Susie Petersen will be in attendance.

Free recipe booklets will be distributed at both Winside businesses.

Siouxland farm equipment show

The dates for the fourth annual Siouxland Farm Equipment show are drawing closer, less than two months away. Farm Shows USA, the producers of the event and the management of the Southern Hills Mall announced the dates at Jan. 13, 14, 15.

The event is again slated to be the Siouxland area's largest farm equipment display show.

The three-day farm trade show is designed to present area farmers and farm dealers a wide range of displays dealing with agriculture and farm production. Companies from Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin will be taking part, to display more than 300 farm product and service lines.

The Siouxland Farm Show will again be free admission to the public, and farmers will find plenty of free parking. Farm shop pers will also have the opportunity to register for free door prizes, no purchase will be required for registration.

The Siouxland Farm Show is produced by Farm Shows USA of Austin, Minn., an independent promotion firm that puts on several farm and home shows throughout the midwest area.

Dairy Days will stress efficiency

It's always nice to know the key to a person's success. Dairying is no different. Nebraska dairymen will be able to hear what the top one percent of producers in the state attribute to their success during the Area Dairy Days to be held Dec. 5-9 across Nebraska.

University of Nebraska extension dairymen Don Kubik and Philip Cole interviewed 12 dairy producers who are in the top one percent. They will share what the producers say account for their herd's high production levels.

One variable worth noting from the interviews is the age of the producers.

KUBIK SAID when the first interviews were conducted 10 years ago, the majority of the managers were in their 50s. In contrast, the dairy manager's average age this year was 32. But, with only one exception, their parents are still somewhat involved in management decisions.

Kubik noted that the older generation has relinquished the major management decisions to the younger generation. But the younger generation, he said, seems to recognize and use the wisdom and experience of the older generation.

The average number of cows in the dairy herd is 100, although the herds of those interviewed range from 50 cows to 150 cows. Kubik said the Dairy Herd Improvement Association records in these operations are supplemented with excellent herd health and financial records.

These records are used for decision making, income tax planning and for credit purposes.

Other topics to be discussed during the Area Dairy Days are steps to business success, genetically superior replacements, raising and housing healthy replacements, feed quality, ensuring excellent milk quality, feeding systems and herd health.

Dates and locations for the series are Dec. 5 - Ag Park, Columbus, 10 a.m. - 4 H Building, fairgrounds, Broken Bow, 10 a.m. - 7 - Knights of Columbus Hall, O'Neill, 10 a.m. - City Auditorium, Hartington, 8 p.m. - Indian Trails, Beemer, 10 a.m. Cooperative Extension Office, Seward, 8 p.m. - 4 H Building, fairgrounds, Beatrice, 10 a.m.

Federal law needed to protect buyers of mortgaged commodities

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Nebraska Farm Bureau

Despite the efforts of states such as Nebraska to pass laws to protect buyers of mortgaged agricultural commodities from paying twice for their purchases, federal legislation is needed.

Although grains and other ag commodities have been involved, the problem is most acute with livestock against which there is a lien or mortgage, and then does not use the proceeds of the sale to pay off the lien.

The lien-holder often makes a claim against the buyer of the mortgaged livestock, even though he may not have known of the existence of the lien.

IN NEBRASKA, the so-called "double jeopardy" bill sought to address this problem during the 1983 Unicameral session. Widely supported by agricultural organizations, that bill, LB 117, remains on file for the 1984 session.

Some provisions of LB 117 did end up in another bill, LB 343, which created the Uniform Commercial Code Filing Council. The council is to recommend a system to implement amendments to the code, including some that address double jeopardy.

The mortgaged commodity problem arises because of language in the Uniform Commercial Code which specifically exempts agricultural transactions from the code's protection.

The code says persons buying farm products from a person engaged in farming buy the products subject to any security interest created by the seller on the property. Only ag transactions are exempted. Apparently this provision was included in the code to facilitate interstate trade, but it apparently has not served this purpose.

IT IS DIFFICULT to determine just how serious the mortgaged commodity problem is, but the Farmers Home Administration has some figures. In fiscal 1978, it referred 105 livestock claims with a value of $508,130. In fiscal 1982, 393 claims worth more than $4 million were referred.

The Livestock Marketing Insurance Agency, which sells insurance coverage dealing with mortgaged livestock, estimates that the value of claims made by lenders to buyers of livestock is between $10 million and $15 million a year.

Claims amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars have been made against large firms, but equally important are claims ranging up to $50,000 made on small businesses with small profit margins, which face the possibility of being financially crippled as a result of present law.

Farmers as well as marketing firms are affected by the mortgaged commodity problem. Framers buy products such as feeder cattle, pigs and breeding stock from other producers, and under current lien laws, they would be required to make double payments when loans are not repaid to the lien-holder.

CONCEIVABLY, the problem could continue to grow as farmers continue to struggle through tough times and as lending practices are relaxed as a means to aid those farmers.

Although state legislation to deal with the problem is useful, federal legislation is needed because livestock movement and marketing, especially, very often occur across state lines. Lack of uniformity in state laws could create additional problems. A federal law also would address the question of whether federal agencies, such as FmHA, are subject to state law.

Dennis D. Casey of the Livestock Marketing Association summarized the mortgaged commodity situation well: "(It) is clearly unfair and unjust...quite simply, the failure of a borrower to repay his loan is the business of that borrower and his lender(s), and should not fall on the shoulders of buyers and/or markets."

The need for this legislation is clear and debate should not be lengthy. Discussion should center around procedures for protecting the buyer, not around the need for the law.

Don't buy mastitis

If you buy a cow with little or no information about her, you have a 40 to 50% chance that she will have mastitis.

When someone indicates that a cow does have mastitis, generally they are talking about clinical mastitis. For each cow with clinical mastitis, there are 15 to 40 cows with subclinical mastitis.

If a cow with mastitis (clinical or subclinical) is brought into your herd, she will serve as a source of infection for other cows in your herd.

HERE ARE some ways to obtain replacements, ranked in order from the least to the most risk of introducing mastitis:

- Keep a closed herd, raise your own replacements
- Culture cows prior to purchase; buy only from herds with good health programs
- Buy breed heifers from herds with good preventive herd health programs; culture heifers after calving
- Buy young cows, first or second lactation, with monthly DHISomatic cell count record; cell count of individual should not be over 200,000 per milliliter

ANY COW with mastitis will produce less milk than same cow without mastitis. Certain types of mastitis infections: streptococcus agalactiae and staphylococcus agalactiae and staphylococcus aureus, are very contagious. Avoid bringing cows with these infections into your herd.

Saving energy on home heating

Heating and cooling your home accounts for about 70% of residential energy costs.

- Close off unoccupied rooms and shut their heating vents. If waterlines run through the room, keep the room warm enough to prevent freezing. Use kitchen, bath, and other fans sparingly; in one hour these fans can blow away a household of warmed air.
- Keep your fireplace damper closed, unless you have a fire going. An open damper in a 48 square inch fireplace chimney can let up to 20% of the heat from your furnace escape.
- Lower your thermostat to 65 degrees F during the day and 55 degrees F at night. You can save approximately 2% on fuel costs for every degree you reduce the average temperature.
- Have your furnace serviced at least once a year. This could save you 10% in fuel consumption. Be sure to also clean and/or replace the filter in the forced air system regularly as needed.
- Keep draperies and shades open in sunny windows; close them at night.
- For comfort in indoor temperatures use the best insulation of all warm clothing.

Farm award

DONALD C. SPITZE (right), Cooperative Extension agent chairman for Wayne County, received the 1983 Extension Award of Merit from the Nebraska Chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta at the agricultural honorary's annual awards banquet Nov. 20. Spitze, pictured here with Leo Lucas, dean and director of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, was cited for identifying specific needs in his county and providing information for corn and cattle producers to improve their production capabilities.

the farmer's wife

by pat meierhenry

I'm just not ready for this! Not only did we have a blizzard, we set records for the most snow in 24 hours, and the most snow for the month of November. That definitely was not necessary.

When the wind blows hard during a snow storm, cattle bunch together. Sometimes, they manage to knock down a hot wire, or walk over fences covered by snow.

Then they simply walk with the wind. Once, some of ours went down the main street of Hoskins, and were rounded up by the farmer at the south end of town.

THIS TIME, they enticed some of the neighbor's cows and calves, and most ended up 2 1/2 miles south of us. Soon we were getting reports from neighbors in that direction, describing color, size, and ear tags.

Thank heaven for the telephone. When you can't get off the yard, you can still track your livestock.

By supper-time, the kids were getting silly. When the phone rang, Sue said, "It's 10 o'clock, do you know where your cattle are?" Tomorrow, there will be the job of sorting and driving them home.

The month of November was National Farm Women's Month, and I almost missed it.

There were no special ceremonies, parades, or flags flying. But it was a whole month, not just a week or a day. The Secretary of Agriculture must recognize our importance.

THE NEWSPAPER article I saw about it tried to measure a woman's contributions to farm-ranch business in terms of hours and dollar value.

It begins with field work, and estimates that farm women spend 284 hours annually in the field. It gives us credit for 600 hours of animal chores.

This must be the dairy women. I can't even operate the feed wagon, though I have helped repair it. I have been known to fork a little hay to the horses.

The next category is errands. I'm sure the 255 hours they have isn't enough. I spend 3/4 of my life doing errands because my time is considered least valuable around here.

I deliver vehicles to the garage and pick them up again. I fake tires in for repair. I pick up feed and fertilizer, and I go after "parts."

This may involve trips to Winslow, Wayne, or Norfolk and usually requires taking the broken part along (and it's always greasy).

ACCOUNTING FOR a lot of hours, 409, is "coordination and management activities." This is accomplished by keeping a large calendar and a message board by the phone.

The Big Farmer tends to get upset when he wonders aloud when the 707 will be done, and I remember that the mechanic called last week!

Under this category would fall "watching the gate" while livestock are moved, sorted, or loaded. And pulling the tractor that won't start, in a cold sleet, after dark, when you're not even sure how to stop the one you're driving.

The grand total was 2,545, at a value of $15,830. Remember this, guys, as you ponder the little woman's Christmas present.

Corn vs. beans

Market price tug-of-war

"There's sort of a tug-of-war going on between crops in the marketplace. It's corn versus beans, and wheat is in more or less of a neutral spot right now."

The description of the current market picture was offered Nov. 17 by Lynn Lutgen, University of Nebraska extension grain marketing specialist, who said "corn has the potential to display more (price) strength than soybeans."

Soybeans, which were leading other commodities in market trends in late September and October, now are showing weakness, Lutgen said.

"THE QUESTION now is whether prices will recover in late November, December and into early January, as many observers have predicted," Lutgen said. Price levels are likely to depend more on the financial markets than on the supply and demand mechanism, he explained.

"The major change in the last 60 days," he said, "is that we're starting to recognize a deflationary period. Deflation contributes to a bearish outlook because soybeans are more expensive for buyers in Europe and other nations." There is a different relationship between the export market and the domestic market for corn as compared to beans, Lutgen said. For one thing, more corn is fed in the United States.

In general, beans are weakening and corn strengthening because of what the trade terms technical reasons, Lutgen said. He predicted a "price rundown" on soybean futures to perhaps $7.80 per bushel on January contract. As sellers put up strong resistance, there will be some recovery. "Many analysts still have the strong belief that the market will test all-time high prices between now and the first of the year," Lutgen said.

A strong concern now is the increasingly shorter time for the market to recover before it starts to feel the probable effects of next year's crop, especially from such large world suppliers as Brazil, Lutgen said.

TIME IS NOT likely to be on the side of the producer, trying to ride out the current period of uncertainty, he observed. Not to be ruled out are possible but unpredictable bullish influences in late winter and spring of 1984, such as poor crop prospects in large soybean producing countries or unforeseen increases in export demands, he said.

While the probable pattern for the soybean market is for prices "to run down, till the gap, settle down, and then raise again," the jog upward will give a good indication of whether or not prices will recover in the next month and a half, Lutgen analyzed.

A bearish aspect of the corn market is the substitution of wheat and/or sorghum in feeding rations, Lutgen said, particularly the widespread use of wheat in the southern Great Plains. Mile prices in Nebraska are being dampened by decreased demand for milo in Texas. Some grain traders who deal with multiple commodities consider milo at least temporarily a drag on the market, he added.

Because of record supplies of wheat and a stagnant cash market, the continued heavy use of wheat in livestock rations may make it difficult for sorghum to maintain its usual relationship as being 90 percent as valuable as corn, Lutgen commented.

Hoskins girl attends All-State at Kearney

Kathy Gnirk of Hoskins, a senior at Norfolk High School, attended the All-State Nebraska Music Educators' Association Clinic-Nov. 17-19 in Kearney. Kathy, a member of the chorus, was chosen in October to participate in the honor's group. During the three-day event, she practiced with a mass choir of 452 other juniors and seniors, with a final concert on Nov. 19 in Kearney State's Cushing Coliseum.

CLINICIAN for the choir was Carlyle Weiss, professor of choral music at the University of Wyoming in Laramie, and a native Nebraskan. The choir was accompanied for three selections by the University of Wyoming orchestra. Also featured in the grand finale concert were the All-State orchestra, comprised of about 100 students, and the All-State band, comprised of approximately 150 members.

THIS IS THE second year Kathy has been selected to participate in the All-State chorus. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gnirk of Hoskins.
