THE WAYNE HERALD

Council makes plans to review its insurance program

In an attempt to put the city's insurance program in order and also to save some money, the Wayne City Council gave the initial go-ahead for an extensive study of Wayne's present insurance program.

"Norm (Melton, the city clerk) has struggled for a long time with numerous problems with our insurance problems and we have, as a result of his work, called out some of our problems and put other areas in order," said Phil Kloster, city administrator.

"But, quite frankly, we know we are under-insured, mis-insured, over insured in certain areas," he said. "Along with this, of course, is our employee health insurance program which would actually be the first program we would go out for bid on."

KLOSTER SAID the risk management proposal calls for the city to advertise and receive bids for a thorough evaluation of the city's insurance programs and physical structures.

He said if it is proposed that the risk contractor will not be allowed to bid on the insurance package.

"That's just smart business. We want a disinterested third party to design specifications upon which we review our entire package and then in turn evaluate the bids that come in from the respective agencies," Kloster said.

Kloster said the city also wants to be sure that all the local agents and their respective insurance companies be allowed to bid on the specific insurance package once it's developed.

This will insure the local agents, "a good shot of continuing at the business they now have," Kloster added.

IT WAS POINTED out at the meeting that Norfolk spent $12,000 for its risk management evaluation. The City of Wayne has $12,000 budgeted for its study.

Councilman Darrel Heier questioned the need to spend that much money for the evaluation. "We're talking $12,000 here, and I know we have a lot of equipment and buildings and we want to have the best health insurance for our employees, but isn't this something that can be handled by the administration department people?"

Kloster said the study is something that can't be handled properly within the city.

"You can't set guidelines on what you want and make them plenty high and ask for a bid in this direction? Or you can't have a committee that decides on what type of health insurance is plenty adequate?" questioned Heier.

"I guess if you feel confident in evaluating an insurance policy, then great, we've got somebody we rely on to do this," Kloster replied. "I guess I challenge you, in the state of Nebraska particularly, where they do not use basic english language in insurance contracts. Most people don't have the expertise to evaluate an insurance contract."

Heier volunteered to serve on a committee.

Kloster pointed out that "every single aspect must be evaluated."

"I don't think it's that complicated Phil, replied Heier.

KLOSTER SAID Wayne budgeted $12,000 on what Norfolk spent but added that he felt it would not cost Wayne that much money.

After considerable discussion, the council decided to ask for bids on the risk management study. It was pointed out that the city can decide not to accept any of the bids if it chooses.

"I would feel much better if we had an independent survey of our whole insurance program," Mayor Wayne Marsh said.

A PER DIEM proposal for Wayne volunteer firemen who attend fire school also involved considerable discussion.

A resolution has been drawn up and was examined at Tuesday's council meeting. The resolution calls for the City of Wayne to match the Rural Board's payments of $15 per day to firemen who attend fire school.

Included among the fire schools are the Nebraska Fire School, the Nebraska Arson School and the National Academy.

The fire department requested the payments to help replace lost wages by firemen who take off work to attend school. The payments will not be paid for attending conventions or conferences.

The council decided to have some revisions made on the original resolution and put it on the next agenda.

IN OTHER ACTION, the council:

- Passed an annual resolution giving approval to a request by State National Bank to be a city depository. Banks must make this request each year.
- Passed a resolution officially consolidating two street paving projects on Windom Street and Fairgrounds Avenue. The council had given approval earlier this year but the State requested that the council submit a resolution combining the two projects.

Wayne-Carroll school board lets bids for school bus

Members of the Wayne-Carroll Board of Education have given their approval for Superintendent Francis Haun to let bids on a new 54-passenger school bus.

Haun said two bids will be taken—one for the chassis and one for the body. According to Haun, an older model bus now being used by the district will be traded in on the new one.

The superintendent said funds for the new bus have been budgeted in the district's general fund.

Meeting Tuesday afternoon at the high school, board members also heard a report by Haun on final inspection of the vocational educational shop addition at the high school.

HAUN SAID final inspection by the architect was made Monday afternoon.

Final payment, according to Haun will not be authorized until January because of some items yet to be completed.

Haun told board members he had asked the school's architect to submit a cost estimate on rewiring the middle school.

The rewiring project is among items which have been backlogged from the school's last 7 year evaluation, Haun said.

He added that the architect will submit an estimate for board members to study if they should decide to proceed with the project.

Funds for the project would come from the district's sinking fund.

DISCUSSION AT Tuesday's monthly board meeting included the use and purchase of computers by the district.

Haun said although the purchase of new computers has been budgeted, he would like to hold off on any purchases until February

"From everything that I have read and heard, it is my feeling that by February these (computers) will be considerably more reasonable than they are now. I would like to hold off until then."

Board member Arnold Emry questioned if the school has any written policy planned for utilization of the computers.

"There is just a course description," Haun said. "I think that is a good question and I think it is a controversial computer I do know that we can't ignore the computer."

"I THINK that we ought to start thinking about a long-range plan for the use of these computers," said Emry.

Haun agreed and said he will look into the matter.

Haun informed board members Tuesday of the formation of a faculty committee on quality education.

He said the committee will be comprised of three faculty members appointed by the Wayne Education Association.

The committee will meet each week until February to discuss quality education within the district, and will report back to the board periodically.

"Some of the things we will be zeroing in on will be teacher evaluation, professional growth, and in service," Haun said.

BOARD PRESIDENT Becky Keidel appointed Arnold Emry to chair the board's negotiating team for 1984-85.

Serving with Emry on the team will be Keidel and board member Cap Peterson.

Ideas concerning negotiation procedures will be discussed during an executive session at next month's board meeting.

Also scheduled during next month's executive session is a yearly evaluation of the superintendent's performance.

Board members were provided forms Tuesday to assist them in their evaluation of the superintendent.

Several reports were heard Tuesday afternoon, including an announcement by Haun of a tuition shortfall.

Haun said the district has received $32,598.39 from Wayne County for the first quarter claim of $78,750.

ELAINE RUMP, a member of the Task Force on Gifted Education, reported on some of the activities which have been discussed during recent meetings of the task force.

Reports on the recent Nebraska Association of School Boards convention were given by board members Cap Peterson, Joyce Reeg and Arnold Emry. Also attending the meeting were Haun and Keidel.

Before adjourning, Haun announced that a report from the external visitation team that toured the district last month has not been returned.

He said board members will discuss the report when it is received.

PETERSON EXPRESSED concern about icy steps at the west entrance of the high school.

Haun said he will meet with the shop instructor to see if his class would make a hand rail to place on the steps.

Following the meeting, board members viewed a film on education.

Next meeting of the board of education is scheduled at 3 p.m. Jan. 10 at the high school.

Wayne centennial headquarters is open

Wayne now has a centennial headquarters.

Located where The Computer Farm used to be, at 110 North Main Street, the headquarters will feature commemorative items.

Centennial items will be sold from 7 to 9 p.m. through the holiday season on nights that Wayne businesses are open. Hours also include from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays and on Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m.

SOME OF the items that will be for sale are commemorative plates, pewter steins, crystal bells, engraved pocket knives (with scissors), key fobs, belt buckles, medallions, crocks, coffee mugs, T-shirts, playing cards, shot glasses and other stocking stuffers.

Commemorative committee members Joanie Burst and Gilroy Seymour said volunteers will work in the store, which will be the only location to purchase the centennial items. The headquarters was open last night (Wednesday) for the first time.

People are welcome to come down and look at what we have. Some of the items would make nice Christmas presents," Mrs. Burst said. "We recommend early buying to insure getting what you want."

Most of the centennial commemorative items are marked with the official centennial logo and others have Wayne centennial markings.

After the Christmas season, the headquarters will not open again until about Mother's Day.

ALL FUNDS raised from commemorative sales will be used for centennial expenses.

The centennial plate is bordered in gold. A scene taken from an authentic picture of Wayne's main street in 1886 is painted in six colors on each plate.

The committee is planning to auction off a sterling silver belt buckle worth more than $500. That auction will be held during centennial week. Belt buckles numbered 1 through 100 also will be sold.

Specialty dated coins can be purchased now. The others will be auctioned off at a later date. Each of the 100 coins will have a special date; for example—1884, 1910, 1973 etc. Only one coin will be available for each year.

Use of the centennial headquarters is being donated by the Lisikas, who own the building.

The Commemorative Committee is made up of Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Burst and Dale Gutshall.

Property tax relief

Sales tax is a possible revenue source

By Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association

Some senators and lobbyists are looking at the special half-cent state sales tax which Nebraskans are now paying as a possible revenue source of ongoing property tax relief programs.

The tax was considered temporary at the time it was authorized last May, and Gov. Bob Kerrey says he's intent on keeping it that way.

Kerrey, who proposed the temporary cash flow tax, said during the 1983 session that under no condition would the tax be collected for more than nine months, from last July 1 to next March 31.

"I'LL RESIST it to my final breath," Kerrey said of possible legislative attempts to continue the tax. "That's my half-cent and it's going to come off."

Nebraska Realtors Association Executive Director Larry Triplett confirmed recently that a property tax relief proposal under consideration by his association and other business-oriented lobbying groups would rely on continuation of the temporary sales tax for funding. In addition, Sen. Tom Vickers of Farnam said he wants the temporary tax extended to help fund his plan to increase state aid to education.

Others, too, have acknowledged interest in the tax as a funding source for their proposals.

The theory behind many of the property tax relief proposals which are being considered for introduction when lawmakers convene the 1984 session on Jan. 4 is reduction of the dependence of local governments on their property tax revenues through an increase in their state aid payments, the main sources of which are the sales and income taxes.

TO EFFECTIVELY reduce local property taxes, state government would have to increase aid to local governments by tens of millions of dollars.

The state currently levies a basic 3.5 percent tax plus the 0.5 percent temporary tax for a total state sales tax rate of 4 percent. Some cities levy an additional local sales tax.

By continuing a 4 percent sales tax indefinitely, the state could raise an estimated $50 million for property tax relief in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee says he thinks that criminal laws relating to financial institutions are sloppy and need to be rewritten.

Sen. Chris Beutler of Lincoln says he is preparing legislation for introduction in the 1984 session to correct what he views as deficiencies in law. The Legislature is scheduled to convene its 60 day 1984 session on Jan. 4.

SEVERAL PROBLEMS have come to his attention since the collapse on Nov. 1 of Commonwealth Savings Co. of Lincoln.

"The current criminal law as it applies to industrial loan companies is sloppy," he said.

As an example, Beutler said, violation of a law limiting the amount of money which commercial banks may loan to one person or business is a felony. A similar violation by an industrial loan company, such as Commonwealth, is a misdemeanor, Beutler said.

His bill would impose uniformity by increasing the penalty for industrial loan companies, Beutler said.

Another fault which Beutler said he'll address is the absence of a statute dealing specifically with deceptive bookkeeping by industrial loan companies. Some other types of financial institutions are subject to felony penalties for such practices.

Criminal prosecutions related to the Commonwealth case must be tried under state law in effect at the time of alleged wrongdoing. If deceptive bookkeeping practices at Commonwealth are uncovered, Beutler said, prosecutors are likely to have to use the general theft by deception statute.

State examiners of industrial banks are not subject to any criminal penalties for failure to report unsafe conditions, Beutler said. His bill will attempt to impose such penalties, he said. Beutler said he has no information which suggests that the examiners of Commonwealth were at fault.

A fine fantasy

Wayne's "Fantasy of Trees" was pulled off with flying colors over the weekend—all kinds of colors.

More than a thousand people toured the city auditorium during the two days and saw more than 60 trees decorated in a variety of ways.

Some of the trees were decorated simply. Others were ornate. Some required a considerable amount of work and showed lots of imagination.

The Wayne Centennial Historical and Cultural Committee sponsored the event and did a good job of planning and preparing.

The dozens of trees blended well together to form one pretty display. The whole thing proved to be an excellent idea with considerable success.

The spirit of Christmas and the spirit of the centennial both were demonstrated by the finished product as well as all the work that went into it.

It's refreshing to see that a people still have enough interest to make a project like this a successful one.

Car thefts costly

Automobile thefts cost U. S. car owners and taxpayers a total of $3.3 billion a year.

To reduce the expense of automobile theft, I have called for the enactment of federal auto-theft prevention bills now pending before Congress.

The legislation would require car makers to put permanent identification numbers on the most salable parts of cars — such as front-end assemblies and doors.

Enactment of federal theft prevention legislation will curb the financial drain and sense of loss and violation felt by consumers from auto theft.

Existing legislation requires automobile manufacturers to put serial numbers on engines and transmissions.

In 1981, policyholders paid a total of $1,350 million extra in automobile insurance — an average of $15 per automobile — because of automobile theft.

In 1981, such items as money, clothes and tools stolen from automobiles cost Americans an estimated $300 million to replace.

The sales price of new and used cars includes the costs of locks, alarm systems and other devices to prevent theft. In 1981, car owners spent a total of $295 million on these devices.

To prevent automobile theft, consumers spent approximately $370 million on home garages and $50 million in public parking lots and garages.

Consumers also pay theft costs that their automobile insurance policies do not cover. For example, most insurance policies have $50 to $100 deductibles on automobile theft. Theft not covered by these deductibles cost consumers more than $50 million in 1981.

Also, many of those who have had their cars stolen have had to rent others until their own cars could be replaced.

In addition, uninsured drivers paid a total of $150 million to replace stolen cars that were never recovered.

Public expenditures related to automobile theft cost taxpayers $311 million. Such outlays covered the cost of police, judicial and legal services, public defense and corrections facilities. Expenses related to theft of automobile contents cost taxpayers an additional $622 million.

Producers seek leaner product

By Cheryl Stubbendiek
Nebraska Farm Bureau

Many Americans are perpetually on a diet as they aim to become trim and lean. Because of this, America's cattle, hogs and sheep have been following a modified diet as their producers seek to raise a leaner product for the consumer.

In a recent publication of the National Livestock and Meat Board, Drs. Burdette C. Breidenstein of the meat board and Robert G. Kauffman of the University of Wisconsin take a look at trends in the three livestock industries.

Meat has been a component of man's diet for centuries, but the products we enjoy to day are a far cry from way back when. They're even different from those our parents and grandparents ate in earlier years.

ONE OF THE reasons for the change is that today's livestock are produced primarily for food. There's much less demand for by products such as lard, tallow and grease. There was a greater market for these products in earlier days, and the livestock producer had an economic incentive to produce animals that would yield mass quantities of these products. Knuffman and Breidenstein note: As a consequence, the meat from these animals had a different taste and appearance from what we enjoy now.

Consumers' tastes also have changed. Our current preoccupation with personal lean-ness has made lean meats more desirable. But a few years back, the scientists say, "fat was where it was at" because of taste considerations, or the "magical" non-stick qualities fat imparted to baking pans.

Back in the 1800's, most cattle were produced on grass and other forages. And consequently they were four or more years old when slaughtered, which meant the beef from these animals needed some kind of tenderizing or specific preparation to make it acceptable.

Over the years, feeding grain to cattle was found to improve the eating quality of the meat, because the cattle could be slaughtered at a younger age. This was a direct result of a much higher rate of gain on high concentrate rations, as opposed to an exclusive roughage ration, the scientists point out.

In 1927, adoption of the USDA beef grading standards gave formal recognition to the beneficial effects of quality of marbling and youthfulness.

With the establishment of grading standards, fat cattle were widely perceived as highly desirable "steakhouse" and cut steers, and led to produce cattle with heavier fat deposits than we would now consider acceptable.

In 1965, USDA established yield grades which reflected differences in relative portions of lean. With these changes, fat steers had more incentives to produce leaner cattle, which is what consumers were beginning to demand at the retail level.

Important changes in hog production date back to the 1940's and early '50's. Long before we were demanding leaner pork products, inexpensive vegetable oils greatly reduced the demand for lard. Intensive genetic and selection programs, crossbreeding and hybridization programs, begun at the time have led to major changes in today's hog.

THREE OTHER problems along the way pigs became so muscular that feet and leg problems were common and females had birthing difficulties because their pelvic cavities were too muscular. By the start of the '80's, pork producers were again emphasizing muscling but they took precautions to avoid the problems of too much muscle.

For sheep producers, the challenge has been to produce a leaner lamb without sacrificing the wool. Perhaps because of this double requirement, leanness has come a little more slowly. Kauffman and Breidenstein speculate:

What does all of this mean? It means the meat industry has demonstrated its ability to respond to changing market place and it can be expected to continue to do so. Say these scientists. That's good news for all of us who expect to keep on eating meat for years to come.

Recognition

To the editor:

I would like to recognize the Wayne chapters of the Salvation Army and the American Red Cross. When called upon they acted quickly and generously. In particular, I would like to thank the volunteers who make it all possible: Rev. Keith Johnson and Jocelle Bull from the Salvation Army and Richard Armstrong from the American Red Cross.

We in Wayne County are so fortunate to have these organizations which have resources which can help in times of real need.

A game plan

To the editor:

It has been brought to our attention that, as representatives of the student body, we, the Student Senate, should attempt to save the old president's house, which is located to the east of Morey Hall.

Happy holidays to the vandals

To the editor:

I think it is a shame that during the Christmas season people in Wayne cannot put up outside lights without worrying about having them stolen!

For three years now I have tried with no success. In 1981, the lights were cut. In '82, bulbs were removed. And in '83, the lights were completely ripped off of one tree.

So, to the VANDALS who took the lights from 805 Lincoln St., Saturday evening between the hours of 7 and 11 p.m., I extend to you the wish of a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. It is quite obvious you have no idea what the spirit of Christmas really is!

And, I would appreciate it if after the holiday season you would please return the lights to where you stole them.

Recognition

To do this we have come up with a "game plan" of sorts that lists a set of viable uses for this building. Currently we are working on a second plan on how to implement our ideas.

We, along with President Elliott and other interested people, will be discussing the feasibility of this and other plans.

It is our belief that this facility should be maintained for use by the students, as well as the college administration. It is our belief that this can be done.

What we would like to see this building used for directly affects the students of Wayne State College.

Our plan entails providing:

1. Permanent office space for the scholastic honoraries in the upstairs, which would help alleviate the problems of these honoraries working out of a dorm room and/or advisor's office. Two or more honoraries could share a given office.
2. Guest rooms for visiting dignitaries or entertainers, depending on space available after the first plan is put into use.
3. Banquet and initiation facilities for campus organizations at minimal cost to these organizations.

4. A facility for the preservation and display of Wayne State memorabilia and artifacts.

In addition to providing these services for the students and college as a whole, we feel that the loss of the president's house is one that is inconceivable. The historical value, as well as what the building can and does symbolize — Wayne State College as a blend of the new and old.

We have on this campus a unique combination of old and new from the old president's residence to "Cybele." Can we afford to lose this piece of our heritage? We hope not.

To save this building we need the support of all the students, as well as the faculty and administration.

Wayne ups record to 4-0; Lakeview and Laurel fall

The Wayne Blue Devils upped their season record to 4-0 Tuesday night with an impressive 78-40 drubbing of winless Laurel.

Wayne got by Columbus Lakeview 56-33 on the road Saturday night.

Against Laurel, the Devils jumped out to a quick 6-0 lead before the Bears scored their first bucket of the night with just 3:04 remaining in the first period.

Wayne used its considerable height advantage to block several of Laurel's shots, cause 23 turnovers and intimidate the Bears on the boards — a fact both coaches conceded.

"I think we intimidated them," said Wayne head coach Bill Sharpe. "I think we got them a little intimidated on the press — Dahl (6-8 Rod) had some blocks down there."

LAUREL MENTOR John Held said the Bears were "definitely intimidated."

"That's something we're going to have to get over or we're not ever going to come around," Held said. "Dahl is so tall though — we had four or five shots that we got turnovers on that, against somebody else, we might have made."

Wayne continued its dominating ways and was ahead 15-8 at the quarter and pulled in front 22-10 at the 5:55 mark in the second period off of a 20-foot jumper by junior Steve Overin after a Pete Warne steal.

THE DEVILS went into the locker room at intermission with a commanding 38-14 lead.

Wayne took the opening tip-off of the second half and went up 40-14 on a Leif Olson jumper before Laurel came alive and scored two quick buckets — the second a 10-foot jumper by Mike Granquist to put the tally at 40-18.

It looked as if the Bears might start a rally at that point as they got the ball back after a missed shot by Wayne and patiently worked the ball underneath before Dahl reasserted himself with another block.

From that point on, Sharpe substituted liberally with no noticeable ill-effect and Wayne coasted to the easy 78-40 win.

SHARPE SAID he thought Wayne was finally beginning to come around after sluggish performances in its first three outings.

"We're beginning to play a little better all the time," Sharpe said. "But our outside shooting is still not together on our half-court offense."

"We finally got our break going — if you get that going you don't have to do much else."

Scoring honors for the Blue Devils against the Bears was shared by Dahl and 6-5 sophomore Don Larsen, with 12 each. Steve Overin had seven assists on the night.

WAYNE SHOT 52 percent (37-of-71) from the field to Laurel's 51 percent (17-of-33).

Rebounding was led by Larsen with nine, while Dahl accounted for seven.

Wayne had 21 boards for the game — six offensive and 15 defensive.

Against Lakeview, Wayne was paced by Dahl's 20 points and 13 rebounds as the Devils shot just 39 percent (24-of-61) from the field to Lakeview's 50 percent (25-of-50).

LAUREL WAS led against Wayne by Troy Heilman and Mark Penlerick, who each tallied 11 points, while Lakeview's leading scorer was Kuta with 16 points.

In junior varsity action, Wayne dumped Columbus-Lakeview 39-42 and clobbered Laurel 80-37.

In the Lakeview game, Wayne's Jeff Sherer led the way with 13 points while teammate Brad Moore added 12.

Against the Bears, Shannon Dorsey captured scoring honors with a total of 13 points while Carl Urwiler, Scott Baker and Sherer each tallied nine.

Wayne is slated to play Wisner-Pilger at home tomorrow (Friday) night while the Bears of Laurel will travel to Osmond to take on the Tigers the same night.

Held: HCC will take Devils

Laurel head basketball coach John Held, who's Bears were spanked 81-40 by Hartington Cedar Catholic last Saturday night before dropping the 78-40 decision to the Blue Devils of Wayne, predicted that HCC will handle the Blue Devils when they meet later this season.

Wayne will travel to Hartington on Jan. 20 while HCC will visit Wayne on Feb. 4.

"Cedar Catholic really gets after the ball on defense," Held said. "Right now, I'd have to pick Cedar Catholic — but things can change so fast in basketball, you never know."

Now THAT'S domination!

It was quite a feat. Yes folks, the Wayne High School wrestling team traveled to Blair to compete in an invitational against the Bears as well as teams from Tekamah, South Sioux City, Arlington, Gretna, Logan View and Oakland-Craig.

The Blue Devils are so dominating on the mat that they took 5th, 6th AND 7th place in the tourney. Actually, Wayne was 5th, but I saw fit to put "Devils 7th at Blair" in the headline and reported that the Devils took 6th place in the lead to the story. I then listed them 5th in the team standings.

Yes, my continuing crusade to totally baffle the sports public goes on.

My boss, Jim Marsh, just shook his head a lot over that one. I better watch it — or else buy him a neck brace for Christmas.

Fish postage?

I visited the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission Grove Trout Rearing Station last week and was told by unit superintendent Robert Singley that, as of Jan. 1, trout fishermen in Nebraska will be required to purchase a $5 Trout Stamp in addition to a regular fishing license.

The extra money is needed because the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is turning the reins of the Crawford Fish Hatchery over to the state on July 1, 1984. The federal government has ceased to provide funds for the operation.

Fishermen using the Two Rivers State Recreation Area near Valley and those with Senior Citizen permits will not be required to purchase the stamps, but those trying for trout anywhere else in the state will have to.

As an avid angler, I don't object to the move. Everything costs more these days. But, as Singley said, "What else can you spend $5 on and use all year?"

I will put my foot down, however, if they pass legislation requiring a Carp Stamp.

Time marches on

As the years creep by, I am constantly searching for ways to assure myself that I'm really not that old.

It wasn't too many years ago that it was easy for me to look up to players on the Nebraska football team. I remember the 1970 Nebraska glidders coming to Blair for an exhibition basketball game. I stared in awe at Husker middle guard Eddie Periard.

When I went to college in Lincoln, the players were closer to my age, so I began looking up to NFL players.

Now as I sit and watch NFL games on television it's difficult for this ancient (78) warrior to realize that many of those first and second year players were in grammar school when I was a senior at good old Blair High.

I now pay special attention when each player's age is shown. As much as I hate to admit it, I often don't root for one particular team — but rather for guys that are my age or older.

The Dallas Cowboys' Tony Dorsett is my age. It pains me when I hear announcers talk about his "ancient knees."

My brother-in-law used to go through the same thing. He was a die hard Washington Redskins fan back in the early 1970's when the "Skins" went by the nickname "The Over the Hill Gang." Most of those guys were Ron's age (Early 30's) and he felt a special affinity for them. At the time, I couldn't understand what he was so excited about.

I guess it's just a way to try to hold onto your youth.

Old and fat

I can imagine how good the Oakland Raiders' George Blanda must have made millions of men feel when, at 47 years of age, he was still kicking field goals — and occasionally calling signals for the Raiders.

A friend of mine (Big Giant Dumb Stupid Larry) plays rugby for the Lincoln Rugby Club. Larry (29 and one of the youngest players on the squad) told of going up against a college team in a tournament a few years back.

After one particularly long run, Larry (who stands 6-5 and weighs about 285) was trying to catch his breath, when one of the youngsters on the other team started making fun of him.

"Just wait!" Larry told the lad. "Some day you'll be old and fat too!"

It's just a matter of time.

Go Kenny Stabler.

One-point loss Devil bid short

It almost fell into place for the Wayne High School girls basketball team against West Point on Monday night.

The Blue Devils had a 16-10 lead at halftime and led by 10 points with just over 4 minutes left in the game, but ended up losing 38-37 to the Cadets in overtime.

The Blue Devils suffered from poor shooting from the field and from the free-throw line all night. Wayne shot a meager 31 percent from the field and 32 percent from the charity stripe against West Point.

Wayne hit just 6 out of 31 at temps from the field in the first half and 8 out of 14 in the second half (including overtime).

"Our free throws really hurt us," said Wayne head coach Dale Hochstein.

The Blue Devils hit only nine of 28 attempts.

On the positive side, Wayne cut down its turnovers — a problem the Blue Devils had in their first outing.

"We only had 18 turnovers against West Point versus 33 in our last game," Hochstein said.

Karen Longe accounted for 17 of Wayne's 36 rebounds. She also had eight points on the night.

Leading scorer for the Devils was Janine Baier, with 11. Team mates Lisa Jacobsen and Laura Keating each added seven.

Leading scorer for the Cadets was Sandy Schroeder, with 12. Beth Sauer added eight points — including a bucket with three seconds left to send the game into overtime.

In reserve action, Wayne lost another heart-breaker to the Cadets, 16-15.

Laura Keating led an ice cold Blue Devil attack with four points. Wayne shot only 18 percent from the field. Tiffany Wilke

Wildcat matmen eighth at North Bend tourney

The Winside wrestling team competed in the North Bend Tournament last Saturday and ended up taking last place out of eight teams with 40 points.

First place David City tallied 174 points to runner up Ashland's 113.

Three Wildcat grapplers placed in the competition. Jeff Thues took third place at 185 pounds. Chris Olson was third in the 132 pound category and Mike Woerdemann finished fourth at 155.

This decision — Columbus Lakeview's Todd Luchinger 12-4 while Olson won a 3-1 victory over Todd Ashlock of Weeping Water. Woerdemann was pinned by Weeping Water's Rick Hoffman at the 4:51 mark.

The only other Wildcats to win matches at the tourney were Darin Schellenberg (119 pounds), Mike Jaeger (155 pounds) and Kyle Miller (132 pounds).

Miller suffered a sprained ankle and did not finish the tournament.

Winside head coach Paul Sok said that Miller could wrestle this Saturday at the Osmond Tournament, but has decided to hold him out until after Christmas.

"I don't want to take the risk of creating a nagging injury," Sok said. "District and State is a lot more important than a regular tournament."

Sok said a lot of the Wildcat's problems are because of youth and lack of experience.

"That's part of it, but between the first and second seeds (at North Bend), 13 out of 24 got knocked off — we were right in the middle of that," Sok said.

He added that Winside still has several wrestlers, including Jaeger, make weight and should impress

Christmas holiday when the wrestlers are allowed to carry two extra pounds.

Sok said the fact that Winside was the only Class D school at the tournament did not help the Cats' cause.

"We're taking our lumps," Sok said, "but it's like this every year."

The Wildcats are slated to compete in the Osmond Tournament this Saturday.

Team standings from the North Bend Tournament follow:

Tourney standings

1. David City 174 points
2. Ashland-113 points
3. Winsner Pilger 109 points
4. North Bend 104 points
5. Weeping Water 95 points
6. Milford 48 points
7. Columbus Lakeview 43 points

Trojan girls fall to 1-2

After a fast start in their first game of the season, the Wakefield girls basketball team stumbled in its next two outings, dropping a 42-27 decision last Friday to Wausa and absorbing a 51-33 drubbing at the hands of Emerson Monday night.

The Trojans were out-rebounded in both contests — 22-16 against Wausa and 42-29 in the Emerson game.

Wakefield head coach Mary Schroeder said the Trojans' main problem against Wausa was trying to stop 6-3 Jodine Finck, who finished with 23 points.

"We fronted her and backed her, but they were just lobbing it in to her," Schroeder said.

Against the Pirates, Wakefield fell behind early and never recovered.

"We were down 15-2 before we even knew what happened," Schroeder said.

Poor shooting plagued the Trojans in both contests. They shot 21 percent from the field against Wausa and 24 percent against Emerson.

Scoring for the Trojans was led by Brenda Jones in both games. She tallied 12 against Wausa and 17 in the Emerson game.

Wakefield is scheduled to play Hartington tonight (Thursday) on the road.

41-point loss HCC drubs Bears

The Laurel Bears got fried in the trying pen last Saturday against Harington Cedar Catholic before jumping into the fire for their date with Wayne on Tuesday night. Both Harington CC and Wayne are Class B powers this year, and the final scores proved it. Harington CC eviscerated the Bears 81-40 while Wayne blasted Laurel 78-37 (see accompanying story).

Laurel was led in the scoring department by Mark Ponterick with eight points while teammates Mike Granquist and Troy Heilmann each tallied six. Harington Cedar's Tom Blach led all scorers with 20 points. In rebounding, Laurel was outboarded 37-21. "We didn't play that bad," Held said. "We shut down their other players pretty well." Laurel will return to Class C competition this Friday (tomorrow) night when the Bears travel to Ormond.

Lady Cats absorb loss at hands of Northwestern

Adding an extra 15 minutes to warm up did not help the Wayne State Lady Wildcats basketball team Tuesday night against Northwestern Iowa as they dropped a 74-62 defeat to the Raiders in Ormond, Ia. The Wildcats were late in coming out of the locker and were outplayed the entire length of the game. The Raiders were led by Nygren's 19 points and eight rebounds while Shellenhorst added 16 points and six rebound boards. Junior guard Vina Kelly tallied 12 points. Leading scorer for the Raiders was Patty Olson who tallied 21 points from her post position. Wayne State fell to 1 while Northwestern moved to 2 on the season. The Wildcats will try to rebound tomorrow Friday night when they travel to Muskegon to take on Brian Cliff.

Wildcats drop pair

It is hard to find a basketball team that has to win the game the first half to have a successful season. Unfortunately for the Wayne State basketball team, it dropped two close contests in its first two games. The Wildcats were downed 47-42 by the inside College of Soudak and 62-40 by a heart breaker in overtime by Midland, Ia. leg 84-79 on Monday.

CCC loan interest rate levels

Commodity and farm storage loans disbursed in December by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation will have a 9-7/8 percent interest rate, CCC Executive Vice President Everett Rank announced recently.

The rate for this month is the same in effect during November and reflects the interest rate charged CCC by the U.S. Treasury in December, Rank said.

Livestock judging contest set

Eight vocational agriculture district livestock judging contests for high school students will be held at four sites in Nebraska, beginning Dec. 20 and continuing into early January.

Winners in district contests qualify for competition in the state's vocational agriculture livestock judging contest to be held in April. Officials expect 900 individuals to compete on 225 teams from different vocational agriculture departments in the district contest series.

The contests are co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska departments of animal science and agricultural education. Contestants, competing at the junior and senior levels, will be required to visually appraise livestock, use production records available on animals and defend judging decisions by developing and delivering oral reasons. Participants must estimate the quality and yield grade of a beef steer and the average backfat and USDA grade of a market hog.

The eight district contests will be conducted at four sites. The schedule: Dec. 20 — UNL East Campus judging pavilion, Lincoln; 22 — Fonner Park, Grand Island; Jan. 3 — Keith County Fairgrounds, Ogallala; 5 — Howard Pitzer Ranch, Ericson.

Controlling velvetleaf in beans

Split applications of herbicides to soybean stands have shown 100 percent velvetleaf control in experiments conducted at the University of Nebraska.

NU agronomy research technician Kevin Walteyne and agronomy professor Orvin Burnside reported results of their research to increase control and reduce costs of destroying velvetleaf to the 1983 North Central Weed Control Conference Dec. 6.

Greenhouse and field research was conducted using six herbicide treatments in a split application — preplant incorporation and preemergence — to determine which herbicide combinations gave the best velvetleaf control, according to Walteyne.

No significant difference in percent of control or in grain yield was noted with any of the herbicides under the split application method. Pendimethalin and metribuzin seem to be the most economical combination.

Weed control in wheat

The most significant differences in winter wheat weed control is cultivar variety, according to research conducted at the University of Nebraska's North Platte Station.

Steve Valenti, weed science graduate assistant at NU, told the 1983 North Central Weed Control Conference Dec. 6 that Centurk 78 proved to be more competitive with weeds than other cultivars tested under comparable nitrogen fertilizer treatments.

While yields varied greatly under different nitrogen treatments, Valenti said that Centurk 78 and Lincoln gave the highest yields in both spring and fall nitrogen treatments, and yields were higher for all cultivars when fall fertilized.

He suggested the yield differences could have been due to variations in nitrogen level and cultivar among plots.

Farm show is scheduled

Joe Stavas, executive director of the Columbus show, indicates a heavy influx of exhibitors covering all aspects of agriculture for farmers, leaders, ranches, land investors and anyone interested in agriculture for the 80's. The show space is at capacity according to Stavas, with more than 140 exhibitors reserving space.

The Educational Seminars will be furnished by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Nebraska. A special feature this year is the addition of an FFA segment under the direction of Gary Miracle, FFA advisor for the Lakeview High School FFA Chapter.

The Northeast/Central Nebraska Farm Exposition, now in its 17th year, is Nebraska's top outside show. The two day program annually attracts some 9,000 persons from throughout Nebraska and adjoining states. Show schedules and information are available by contacting Joe Stavas, Box 518, Columbus, 68601. Phone: 402-564-2866.

SCS office gives hints for planting windbreaks

The Soil Conservation Service has issued some reminders for people who are planning to plant windbreaks next spring.

Ground preparation probably is the most important factor for good tree survival. If the area where the windbreak is to be planted is grassland it should have been plowed this fall.

If it has not been plowed, it is better to delay the planting one year so the ground can be properly prepared, the SCS office reported.

Spring tillage may leave a poor seed bed and fail to kill the grass, which will then compete with the trees for moisture. If the area is cropland, tillage may be done in the spring or fall. Several passes with a disc followed by a field cultivator will work well.

TREES SHOULD be ordered as soon as possible. The Clarke-McNary tree program sells tree seedlings for $28 per hundred, but supplies are limited.

Order forms are available through local SCS, extension and NRD offices. SCS personnel will assist in planning, species selection and arrange for planting if desired.

When the trees arrive in the spring, they should be planted right away. If that is not possible, they should be stored in a cool, dark area and the roots should be kept moist and covered.

Once the trees are planted, a good maintenance program is necessary to get them off to a good start. Good weed control can double the growth rate of trees and given a beneficial windbreak in half the time.

IN THE ROW, weed control can be accomplished by hoeing or with herbicide. Between the rows, weeds can be controlled by cultivation or discing.

Some farmers plant an annual cover crop or row crops such as grain sorghum or soybeans in the area to protect from erosion. The crop residue also helps to protect tree seedlings from wind damage.

Mulching around the trees is not recommended because the mulch provides shelter for rodents which feed on the bark of the young trees, causing extensive damage.

During prolonged dry spells, it may be necessary to water the trees. A good watering weekly is better than light waterings daily.

It also is recommended that windbreaks are checked annually for any losses. Replacements should be made with the same species.

A good maintenance program for a minimum of three years should lead to a well-established windbreak with a good growth rate. For more information or assistance call the local Soil Conservation Service, County Extension Office or Natural Resources District office.

Some emergency feed assistance is planned

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today issued eligibility and funding guidelines for the emergency feed assistance program to sell Commodity Credit Corporation-owned low grade corn to livestock producers whose livestock feed suffered because of drought, hot weather or related disaster.

The farmer or rancher must be located in a county designated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture as a disaster area due to drought, said Everett Rank, administrator, USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The farmer or rancher also must have suffered a loss of feed normally produced on the farm and must not have sufficient feed on hand to maintain foundation livestock and poultry through the end of the 90-day feeding period, which begins when a producer applies for assistance. Signup begins on Dec. 6 and runs through Dec. 14.

CCC-owned lower grade corn will be sold to producers at 75 percent of the current basic county loan rate for the average quality of available corn in the county where the corn is stored, Rank said.

The maximum amount of assistance that may be granted is 10 pounds of feed grain per day per animal unit times the number of days in the feeding period. The maximum amount is reduced by the amount of feed on hand and the total amount may not exceed the amount of feed on hand and the total amount may not exceed the amount of production lost.

Rank said farmers and ranchers should contact their county offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service beginning Dec. 6 for further details and to make application for assistance.

Farm bureau meets

Dixon County was well represented at the annual convention of Farm Bureau Federation held Dec. 7-8 at Grand Island.

Harold George of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Koester of Allen, and Larry Boswell of Allen attended the convention.

Harold, Duane and Larry are members of the Farm Bureau House of Delegates which considered recommendations on state and national issues prepared by the County Farm Bureau.

State recommendations passed by the delegates became policy for the Nebraska Farm Bureau, while national recommendations were forwarded for consideration by the American Farm Bureau Confederation Convention to be held next month.

The delegates went on record in favor of amending L.B. 72, the farm truck license bill. The amendment would remove the penalties involved and allow farmers to use farm licensed trucks in exchange of services with their neighbors.

The delegates also voted in favor of repealing the Class C operators licenses required for farm trucks under L.B. 72.

During the convention, Nebraska Farm Bureau President Bryce Neidig of Madison called for an in-depth study of the total Nebraska tax system to be done by an out-of-state party, with no pre-conceived bias.

New trends issue challenge to food industry

The decline in population is one of four basic trends that is having a big impact on the food industry in the western world, a visiting professor from the University of Lund in Lund, Sweden told faculty and students at the University of Nebraska recently.

Solveig Wikstrom, professor of marketing and consumer affairs, was brought to NU by the Department of Food Science and Technology and Business Administration. Her seminar titled "Consumer Transformation and Its Implication for the Food Industry in the Future—A Cross National Comparison," stressed that the food industry "should and could adapt to today's changing environment."

CONSUMER TRENDS seem to be similar, Wikstrom said, from one country to another in the western world. She said the decline in population is creating a maturing market, which "brings all sorts of problems."

"It's very easy to develop and prosper if you have an automatic increase in the demand year after year." But because population leads to another trend—change in family structure. The increase in one and two person households and the decrease in larger families in countries such as Sweden the United States, Japan and West Germany, Wikstrom said.

"Influences the size of products, packaging and retail systems, and the way people live and eat."

Another trend is the proportion of women in the workforce. In Sweden, about 80 percent to 85 percent of the women work, Wikstrom said. She added that in the United States about 70 percent of women have jobs outside the home.

THE FOURTH AREA creating changes in consumer food buying habits is the amount of disposable income people have. "People are much more careful with their money today than they were in the '70s. They are very careful with their money when it comes to the household budget," she said. She added that more people are opting for low cost, low quality food.

Wikstrom also noted several consumer problems which the food industry should be concerned about. These problems, she said, are "not just found in Sweden; they are on an international level."

People today, Wikstrom said, are worried about food safety—additives, preservatives and pesticide testing. "People don't get the proper information. We have a big information problem which peaks in the food industry," she said. "We have labeling regulated in Sweden as you have here in the United States, but the labeling is for technicians—they aren't consumer oriented."

In addition, Wikstrom said, people today are "very much concerned about fitness and health. They can see what you eat affects how you develop as a person." But, she added, "there is a conflict between the demand for convenience food and for nutritious, healthful and safe foods. So the food industry has to tackle the information problem in this area too."

Cost of food is of great concern to people everywhere, Wikstrom said. "How can the food industry keep costs at a reasonable level? This is a real challenge for the food industry, but it's an exciting challenge," she said.

Selecting a Christmas tree

If you want to enjoy your Christmas tree longer, buy a fresh tree and keep the base of the stem in water. To prevent needles from drying and boughs from dropping. Also, fresh trees are not a fire hazard. A Christmas tree with moisture in its branches and needles is no more flammable than a damp leaf.

To prevent disappointment and potential hazard, check for freshness before you purchase a Christmas tree. Gently stroke the needles. If the needles drop off, the tree is not fresh. Another test is to lift the tree and strike the butt on the ground. Too many needles dropping indicates the tree is not fresh and should be a reject.

After you have selected a tree and brought it home, store it out doors. Keep the butt in snow or a pail of water until you are ready to bring it inside to decorate. Warm rooms are tough on natural, fresh trees and cause them to dry unnecessarily.

Before erecting your tree, take a few precautions to ensure freshness. Saw off about one inch of the butt of the tree stem straight across (not at an angle). The fresh cut removes clogged resin that could prevent the tree from absorbing water.

Mount the tree in a stand that hold plenty of water and add water daily to keep the stand filled. A Christmas tree may absorb up to a gallon of water daily, depending upon size and condition.

Windbreak research homes

Like to slow the wind down? Research has proven that a properly established and cared for windbreak can reduce wind velocity up to 70 percent.

In other words— for 200 feet on the leeward side—a windbreak could reduce a 30 mile per hour wind to just 10 miles per hour. How much more comfortable would your home be with this protection? Contact the Extension or SCS Office for Clarke McNary Trees.

Energy-conscious? Studies have shown that a farm home protected by a windbreak can be heated for 23 percent less than the unprotected home. Windbreaks and shelterbelts also result in savings for livestockmen.

Deficiency payments will soon be made

Eligible wheat farmers soon will receive an estimated $735 to $765 million in deficiency payments on their 1983 crop, barley farmers will get about $35 to $40 million, and oat farmers about $7 to $10 million, according to Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Rank said deficiency payments are required under the 1983 wheat, barley and oats programs because average market prices received by farmers during the first five months (June through October) of the marketing year were below established target price levels of $4.30 per bushel for wheat, $2.60 for barley, and $1.60 for oats.

The deficiency payment rate is based on the difference between the established target price and the higher of the national weighted average market price for June through October or the loan rate.

National weighted average market prices were $3.51 per bushel for wheat, $2.39 per bushel for barley, and $1.49 for oats. Thus, eligible producers will be paid 65 cents per bushel for their 1983 crop wheat based on the $3.65 loan rate, 21 cents per bushel for this year's barley, and 11 cents for oats, based on the national weighted average market price.

Deficiency payments will be made to wheat, barley, and oats farmers who participated in the 1983 acreage reduction programs. Rank said the payment checks will be issued through local ASCS offices as soon as possible after Dec. 9.

Producers participating in the acreage reduction programs were eligible for advance deficiency payments at a rate of 32.5 cents for wheat, 20 cents for barley, advanced to the producer for the respective crop. A total of $34 million has been paid in advance deficiency payments for wheat, $27 million for barley and almost $2 million for oats.

"It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas!"

One thing about all the snow, it makes the country side look like a Christmas Card. And we're receiving a few of these already, too. I usually have mine out by now, but I haven't received our picture reprints yet.

"I'm guilty of sending a printed letter every year. I know some people are offended by them, and I've read some very clever satire about them."

But I am offended by a card with only a name and no news. And we send over 100 cards every year.

It's not possible for me to send handwritten notes with each one.

WE ALL FEEL that the exchange of cards is an important part of the season, one we aren't willing to do without. It's so great to hear from friends and family all over the country.

Another sign of the season for me is singing The Messiah. The first time I heard this great work performed, the University of Nebraska singers and orchestra did the honors.

I was still in grade school, and I was so moved and awe struck by it. When I finally bought a record of it, the complete work by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, it was the first record I got.

When, many years ago, a local music teacher announced that a Community Chorus would sing the Messiah on the first Sunday in December. We practiced at Norfolk Senior High on Sunday afternoons.

Our kids came along and played in the "green place," the large forum carpeted in green. It even served as our stage.

THERE ARE a great number of people who know and love The Messiah. The last three years, it has just been a "Messiah sing."

People who went to sing it together on Sunday afternoon to rehearse, and present it that night. The kids sing along now too.

This year, we were up against The Nutcracker Ballet and slick roads, and there were only 100 people to hear us. But we were singing it for the audience, we sing it for ourselves and for the goose bumps we get in "The Hallelujah Chorus."

Another thing our family enjoyed this week was the TV special, "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever." This script was based on a book by Barbara Robinson which we have chuckled over for years. It's the story of the meanest family of kids ever, and the way they take over a church's pageant. It gave me a feeling that being involved with our church's pageant for several years may have something to do with my appreciation of the story.

If you missed the show, get a copy of the book. You can read it in an hour, and it's guaranteed to brighten your day.

A RELATIVELY new tradition in the Hoskins community is the cookie exchange. Twelve women get together at someone's home, bringing 12 dozen of their favorite Christmas cookies.

We eat tasty items and drink hot spiced cider and talk—then we sit on the floor in a circle and pass cookies around until we each have one dozen of each kind of cookie.

And that's my Christmas cookie collection! Great fun.

Of course, the basketball and wrestling seasons are in full swing. And there will be a couple of school music programs, and three pool-luck dinners that I know of.

I took some out—grown jeans and I—dated coats to the Good Neighbor collection center yesterday. One little fellow was hugging a pair of cowboy boots that had seen better days.

But there was some wear left in them, and he looked happy. I marvel at the way this organization gears up during the holidays, trying to make them joyful for every one.

When we watch the 6 o'clock news, it's difficult to be joyful. So it's important to concentrate on the music, the sharing, and the real "spirit" of Christmas. Here's hoping you catch it!
