Chief says '83 crime rate among lowest

Wayne's 1983 crime rate will be among the lowest in the state, according to Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild.

In his annual report, Fairchild said he has no doubt Wayne will be among the leading crime-free cities in the state when the Nebraska Crime Commission finishes its state-wide tally.

"I can only classify 1983 as an outstanding year as far as the operations of the Wayne Police Department are concerned. We were able to hold the line or even improve in almost every area of our responsibility," Fairchild said.

WAYNE EXPERIENCED 199 reported crimes in 1983—a figure Fairchild said may sound a little high for a community this size. But, he pointed out that many of the crimes were "very minor vandalisms" and other minor crimes.

There were no homicides, rapes, robberies or felonious assaults reported in Wayne. There were 7 misdemeanor assaults and 1 assault of an officer reported. Four of the misdemeanor assaults were cleared and the other 3 were unfounded.

There were 3 reports of stolen autos but 2 were determined unfounded. There were 77 reports of larceny/theft with 19 determined to be unfounded. In 1982, there were 93 thefts reported and 20 were unfounded.

Ten burglaries were reported and 3 were unfounded. The number of founded cases of vandalism climbed from 26 in 1982 to 53 in 1983. Of that total, 18 involved vehicles and 24 involved buildings.

ARRESTS IN 1983 totaled 89—an increase of 19 from the previous year. The breakdown shows arrests of 69 adults and 20 juveniles.

Fairchild said that the number of crimes reported increased by 13 percent from 1982 to 1983 but added that the clearance rate increased by 7 percent. Criminal arrests were up from 18 to 29.

In 1983, 464 arrests were made by the police department resulting in $15,256 in lines. That compares to 432 arrests and $10,379 in fines for 1982.

Speeding charges made up the majority of arrests with 171 arrests and $3,463 in fines. Charges of no valid registration resulted in 67 arrests and $975 in fines.

The major source of income from fines stemmed from 20 minor in possession charges which resulted in $3,700. Nine arrests for driving while intoxicated accounted for $1,600 in fines.

THE POLICE department issued 2,011 parking tickets in 1983 for an increase of 186 from 1982. Parking fines totaled $5,113.

The majority of parking tickets, 1,155, were issued for parking from midnight to 5 a.m. Another 300 tickets were issued for parking on streets marked "No Parking This Side."

The number of animals impounded declined from 70 in 1982 to 56 in 1983 but the number of vehicles impounded rose from 27 to 57. The police investigated 152 traffic accidents on public streets and 42 on private property. Those figures were 151 and 39 respectively in 1982.

Chief Fairchild said the city had an exceptionally good traffic accident record going until the last 5 weeks of the year when bad weather arrived. Nearly 24 percent of Wayne's accidents occurred in that five-week period.

FAIRCHILD EXPRESSED dissatisfaction with police salaries. "The one overshadowing cloud in the department this year has been employee morale," he said.

The chief said that the department held its budget request increases to a minimum and within a 7 percent lid. The request included a $25 per month salary increase for each employee, Fairchild said.

He said the budget was approved with more than enough money allotted to grant the salary increases. Yet, the only change was a "much needed minor salary scale adjustment for 1 employee," Fairchild said.

Council studying 15 streets

Members of the Wayne City Council are presently studying the parking situation on 15 Wayne streets.

The streets were excluded from a resolution passed at the last council meeting, which restricts parking between midnight and 5 a.m. in 10 designated areas of Wayne. The council voted 5-1 to pass that resolution.

Darrel Heier cast the only no vote. Councilman Carolyn Filter was absent and Gary Van Meter had submitted his resignation prior to the meeting.

THE COUNCIL voted to further examine the 15 streets to vote before making a decision.

Alternatives include adding midnight to 5 a.m. regulations, adding 24 or 48-hour snow emergency parking regulations, or leaving the parking situation as it now is.

The streets being examined are:

- The west side of Oak Drive from 7th Street to 2nd Avenue.
- The west side of Maple Street from 2nd Avenue to Grainland Road.
- The south side of 2nd Avenue from Birch Street to Maple Street.
- The east side of Birch Street from 2nd Avenue to 1st Avenue.
- The north side of 1st Avenue from Birch Street to Maple Street.
- The west side of Wilcliff Drive from 3rd Street to 1st Street.
- The west side of Blaine Street from 3rd Street to 1st Street.
- The west side of Sherman Street from 1st Street south to the city limits.
- The west side of Douglas Street from 1st Street south to the city limits.
- The west side of Lincoln Street from 7th Street south to the city limits.
- The west side of Pearl Street from 6th Street to Clark Street.
- The east side of Pearl Street from 5th Street to 3rd Street.
- The north side of 5th Street from Pearl Street to Lincoln Street.
- The south side of 4th Street from Main Street to Pearl Street.
- The south side of 4th Street from Main Street to Logan Street.

Group seeking funds has no WSC sanction

A group that is conducting fund raising activities in the Wayne area has no connection with Wayne State College, according to WSC Foundation Director Kirk Hutton.

Hutton said Wednesday morning that a group called "Buying Power" has been contacting businesses in the area asking for donations to help advertise their businesses with WSC students.

Hutton said the activities are not sanctioned by the college and said questions can be directed to him.

Two incumbents file for seats on school boards

Two incumbents have filed for office on Wayne County school boards, according to Wayne County Clerk Oregella Morris.

Neil Sandahl has filed for reelection to the District 17 (Wayne-Carroll) Board of Education and Dale Topp has filed for reelection to the District 95 R (Winside) Board of Education.

Nebraska's Primary Election is scheduled May 15 and all incumbents for offices must file by March 1 if they plan to run for reelection.

Positions in Wayne County for which elections will be held include: 1 Wayne County Commissioners seat, 3 seats on the Wayne County Nodux Wood Board, 4 Wayne City Council seats, 2 Wayne Airport Board seats, 3 District 17 Board of Education (Wayne-Carroll) seats, 2 Winside Village Board seats, 3 Carroll Village Board seats, 2 Hoskins Village Board seats, 3 Shales Village Board seats, 3 District 95 R (Winside) Board of Education seats, 2 District 60 R (Wakarusa) Board of Education seats.

District 17 students will start 1984-85 school year on Aug. 30, get out May 30

The 1984-85 school year at Wayne Carroll High School is scheduled to begin on Aug. 30 and end on May 30.

The Wayne-Carroll Board of Education gave formal approval to those dates Tuesday at its monthly meeting.

The board has scheduled 180 days into the school year, allowing for 5 snow days. Nebraska law mandates a minimum of 175 school days each year.

VACATION DAYS are scheduled Sept. 3 for Labor Day, Oct. 25-26 for teacher's convention, Nov. 9 for parent-teacher conference, Nov. 22-23 for Thanksgiving, Dec. 24-Jan. 1 for Christmas vacation, April 5 for Easter and May 27 for Memorial Day. Commencement will be held May 19.

Because a centennial parade is planned on the afternoon of Aug. 31, school may be let out early to allow students to participate, Superintendent Francis Haun said.

Workshops will be held on the 3 days prior to the opening day of school.

The first quarter will run from Aug. 30 to Nov. 2, the second is scheduled from Nov. 5 to Jan. 18, the third from Jan. 21 to March 22 and the final quarter from March 25 to May 30.

THE CONTRACTS of the school's superintendent and principals were renewed at Tuesday's school board meeting.

The board extended Supt. Haun's three-year contract by 1 year. The salary will be set at a later date.

Haun recommended that the contracts of principals Don Zeiss, Dick Metteer and Dave Luit be renewed for a year and the board followed his recommendation.

Dale Hochstein, representing the Wayne Education Association negotiation team, entered a formal request that the board recognize the WEA as the official negotiating board for the faculty.

Hochstein said the team will ask the board to review salaries, insurance policies, extra duty policies and leaves.

THE SCHOOL board gave its approval of the WEA handling negotiations for the faculty. Other members of the negotiation team are Bill Wilson, Sally McNeill, Twyla Wiltse, Jacque Day and Pat Straight.

Negotiations between the school board and the faculty representatives are required to begin within 21 days.

The board's attorney, Kenneth Olds, made addition to the resolution to bring it in order and the board voted unanimously to approve it.

THE POSSIBILITY of getting a scoreboard at the Wayne High track and practice football field was mentioned to the board by member Joyce Reeg.

She said that Hart Beverage Company of Sioux City has placed the cost of a scoreboard ($4,195) into its budget if the budget is approved, the company will purchase a scoreboard for the school. The high school would handle installation of the scoreboard.

Mrs. Reeg said a representative of the school's present softdrink supplier, Chesterman Bottling Company of Sioux City, would pay only $250 toward a scoreboard.

If the Hart Beverage budget is approved and if Wayne is granted a new scoreboard, the school would have to serve Pepsi Cola, rather than Coca Cola, in its concession stands and pop machines, Mrs. Reeg.

MEMBERS OF the school board, when examining the monthly bills, gave special notice of the higher-than-normal utilities bills.

According to the report, the school district paid $26,827.39 to Peoples Natural Gas Company for utilities from Nov. 31 to Feb. 1.

A bill of $1,176.25 was paid to Wayne Skelgas Inc. for fuel at the Carroll school. An additional bill of $3,151.43 was paid to the City of Wayne.

It was pointed out that $55,000 was budgeted for fuel and a large portion of that amount already was spent.

IN OTHER business, the school board:

• Discussed several legislative bills and the governor's proposal to cut driver education aid.

• Praised the Artist-in-the-schools program that has been started.

• Was reminded by Superintendent Haun that the filing deadline for incumbent board members is March 1. The terms of Becky Keidel, Neil Sandahl and Jim Hummel all expire March 16. The filing deadline for other candidates:

• Discussed the future of Wayne's computer program and the possibility of purchasing additional computers.

• Next meeting is scheduled 8:30 a.m. on March 13.

Unemployed proposals affect farmers

By Cheryl Stubbendiek, Nebraska Farm Bureau

Congress is giving serious consideration to providing health insurance coverage for the unemployed. It sounds like a good idea at first glance.

Health insurance — money paid out for something that may or may not happen — is often the first thing to go when the newly unemployed person tries to put expenses in line with low or no income. And if the uninsured, unemployed individual does have a serious accident or injury, he's got a very big problem.

The thought of providing for the unemployed in this way is noble on first blush. But as with many other good ideas, the specifics need attention. And whether they realize it or not, farmers would be adversely affected by legislation proposed to implement these health benefits.

It takes a little background to fully understand the farmer's connection. Late last year, the House passed H.R. 3021 and sent it to the Senate. The bill would provide health insurance protection for the unemployed, and its price tag could be $2 billion the first year. As proposed, it amounts to a new entitlement program in the form of an amendment to the Social Security Act.

THE BILL provides for federal-state sharing of the cost to provide coverage for persons whose employers do not provide health insurance as an employee benefit. In addition, persons who are laid off by employers who do provide such an employee benefit would receive the health insurance for 90 days after they were removed from the payroll.

The Senate committee on labor and human resources and on finance also are considering similar proposals. S. 1264, now attached to S. 242, was introduced last spring. It would require employers to extend benefits for 90 days beyond termination of employment, and it would give former employees the right to remain in an employer's group health plan for another 90 days at the individual's own expense.

And further, it would provide for a public assistance or entitlement program in the form of block grants to the states. This would mean another six months' of health insurance protection, courtesy of the federal treasury.

Not surprisingly, the Reagan Administration has made it known that it will not approve any bill on this subject that would add to the federal deficit. So, in effect, funding for health insurance for the unemployed would have to be placed entirely on the backs of employers. Or, the public portion of the funding would have to come from a new source of funds or from cuts in some other program.

ALSO NOT surprisingly, Congress has come up with various ways of providing for the public funding, including a $2 billion cut in the general Medicaid program cost, and an amendment to the federal income tax law to tighten the rules on income averaging.

Instead of a 120 percent increase over the base year income as the minimum requirement for averaging, the figure might have to be increased to 140 percent.

Now the farmer connection is clear. First, none of the bills under consideration exclude seasonal workers from eligibility. This means that a Nebraska farmer could employ someone for three months, provide him with group health insurance, and then be required to extend that coverage for another three months after the seasonal job is over.

There is no small concern for Nebraska, perhaps especially for the western part of the state where seasonal labor for sugar beet production is employed.

Second, the threat to income averaging is a threat to farmers. In an occupation which has its financial ups and downs, increasing the percent over base year could render many farmers ineligible. For those, the change in income averaging amounts to a sizeable tax increase.

The Congress should recognize that seasonal employment is a special case and exempt it from the health insurance for the unemployed proposals. And it should look beyond changes in income averaging for another source of public funds for the program.

An override needed

Let's all hope the Legislature can muster up enough votes to override Gov. Robert Kerrey's recent veto of Legislative Bill 183.

The bill was passed by the Legislature by a vote of 27-18 last week. Kerrey vetoed the bill Tuesday.

Under Nebraska law, the prosecution must prove all elements of the crime and the defendant's sanity beyond a reasonable doubt. The bill would shift the burden only to the issue of sanity, requiring the defense to prove the accused insane by a preponderance of evidence.

Criminals have been avoiding jail sentences and have been released to roam the streets for too long, because of the insanity law.

This bill is not a solution to the ridiculous insanity rulings but it is a step in the right direction. It should be up to the defense to prove the defendant is "insane."

That should not be the job of the prosecution. It is the prosecution's duty to prove that the defendant is guilty. He would still be innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

It is not likely the required 30 votes will be collected to override the governor's veto. However, 3 supporters of the bill reportedly were absent when last week's vote was taken.

The burden of proof in insanity plea cases has properly been shifted in 27 other states. It's a wise move that Nebraska should follow.

another viewpoint

Ban video gambling

As fervently as is possible, the Journal hopes there are 25 men and women in the 1984 Legislature with the personal resolution needed for passage of LB744. The bill would outlaw video slot machines and all other mechanical gambling devices.

You'd think enactment of a bill which has 15 sponsors going in would not be that difficult. That assessment fails to account for the enormous pressures against the measure.

There is pressure applied close at hand. It comes from a swarm of lobbyists very well paid by gambling interests. There is pressure from a distance, from communities which see casino-style gambling as a means of raising governmental income without asking citizens to be responsible.

And we intend no personal disrespect, but there cannot help but be pressure from within. State Sen. Loran Schmit, a legislative power, has a direct financial interest in LB744 not getting to Gov. Kerrey's desk.

Schmidt reportedly owns 50 percent of the stock in a company which makes gambling equipment and which currently has 105 video slots operating in Nebraska. (Schmidt could help the situation's atmosphere by declaring a conflict of interest. He should announce he will not vote on any issue related to LB744 nor will he participate in debate or off-the-floor discussions.)

On Schmidt's side, and all who feel as he presumably does, it must be said that the Nebraska Supreme Court long ago widened the frightful behavioral possibilities permitted under the lottery amendment Nebraska voters innocently wrote into their state constitution years ago. Much more recently, an Omaha judge put his approval seal on video gambling. At least the proposition is headed for a state Supreme Court review.

As always on public policy issues, and this surely is one—the Journal's preference is for decision making by elected policy makers. In this case, that's the Legislature, not the Supreme Court.

We could again recite the inventory of evils which attend casino gambling, and that's what video slots will bring—already has brought, selectively—to Nebraska. But men and women of the smallest exposure to the world already should know what they are.

The first thing is LB744 being advanced to the full Legislature by the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee after Thursday afternoon's public hearing. Later enactment, as was said, is a critical matter. Much, including the maturity of the state, is at stake.

Now needed: fair telephone rates

By U.S. Senator John Danforth

Americans are deeply concerned and rightly so, about the outlook for telephone rates in the next few years.

Across the nation, we face a round of rate increases which could put telephone service beyond the reach of many customers, especially the elderly and the poor. In addition, small businesses could be hit very hard by the proposed increases in costs.

At the heart of the problem is a struggle over whether long distance telephone service should continue to subsidize local, in-town service.

THE KEY to holding down the price of basic service has been a contribution from long distance revenues. I believe very strongly that this policy should be continued.

Telephone service is not a luxury. It is a necessity of life. We must not allow it to be priced out of reach because of age or income.

Tragically, however, that is precisely what the Federal Communications Commission's policies would do — put telephone service out of reach for a great many Americans.

The FCC wants to remove the historic subsidy provided by long distance service by imposing an access fee, starting at $2 per month on residential service and $3 per month on commercial service.

THE ACCESS FEE would go toward the cost of being connected to long distance service. It would be put on your bill even if you never made a single long distance call.

I believe the monthly access fee should be abolished or, at a minimum, postponed for at least two years to give Congress time to take action legislatively.

There are at least three forces at work to raise the cost of telephone service. One is inflation that has built up over nearly two decades in which the cost of telephone service has remained fairly constant.

THE ACCESS FEE policy of the FCC was not intended by the court order separating the regional telephone companies from it — the judge in the case expected that access fees would be used to help keep local rates down.

Instead, the FCC is trying to achieve just the opposite result by imposing on local customers the cost of connections to the long distance networks.

I am supporting legislation to block the imposition of access fees on residential customers and small businesses next year; to earmark a small portion of long distance revenues to hold down rates for the poor; and to provide some help to small telephone companies that serve rural areas where costs are especially high.

I believe such legislation is the fairest and most direct way of assuring that basic service is available at a price people can afford to pay.

Blueprint for a working America

By Ellen Vollerger

While the American economy is pulling itself out of the worst recession since World War II, many experts are forecasting a split-level recovery which could leave millions of industrial workers and others, both men and women, behind, such a recovery would have profound policy implications for the country. I believe it's up to Congress to address the problem.

The Community Renewal Employment Act which was recently passed by the House of Representatives by a 240 to 178 vote would provide jobs in areas of high unemployment through grants to local government for labor costs involved in the repair, maintenance or rehabilitation of essential public facilities, such as bridges, hospitals and schools.

Funds would also be provided for the conservation, rehabilitation and improvement of public lands and for funding of essential public lands and for funding of essential public safety and health services.

THE LEGISLATION, which is now pending in the U.S. Senate, would focus on providing jobs for the long term unemployed and to families where no one is employed full time.

The bill not only makes good economic sense, it also makes sense from a policy point of view. The recent bridge collapse on a Connecticut highway vividly illustrates the shape of many of our nation's streets and bridges.

The Congressional Budget Office estimates that governments at all levels must spend an extra $11 billion each year in this decade to repair deteriorating transportation and water systems.

Additionally, the social services provided by the bill are in short supply. The U.S. Conference of Mayors reports that only 36% of the eligible population receive health services, only 14% receive day care and a scant 4% are reached by employment and training programs.

Currently, the U.S. Conference of Mayors estimates, local officials meet only 43% of the demand for emergency services, such as food and shelter.

APPROXIMATELY a half a million jobs would be created this fiscal year if the legislation became law. In fiscal year 1984 over 900,000 people would be employed if the authorization was fully funded.

The bill also contains strong language prohibiting unemployed workers from replacing public employees already on the job. In addition, the legislation has provisions designed to guard against patronage-developing in the placement of unemployed workers.

The money would be targeted to those most in need of help and to those most likely to utilize job training. By statute, funds would reach eligible counties, cities and states within a maximum of 105 days. The bill would produce quick and effective results.

AMONG THE major features of the bill are:

The jobs created will be of benefit to the community, including the repair of essential public facilities and the delivery of vital services.

The bill is targeted toward individuals and areas suffering the deepest unemployment.

The bill provides important assistance to families hard hit by the recession. Over 2 million individuals have been unemployed six months or more and many of these have exhausted all forms of relief. According to the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, over 60% of the total unemployed population receive no unemployment benefits.

Local communities are ready to move swiftly. Most have backlogs of work they are unable to carry out because of limited resources.

The bill contains the strongest and most enforceable accountability provisions of any federal grant program to protect against abuse and substitution.

No recovery will be complete if we are caught looking over our shoulders at a huge unemployed workforce which has little chance of finding a job or making a meaningful long term contribution to our economy. That's why passage of the Community Renewal Employment Act is essential.

The MX would put Nebraska at risk

Reprinted from the Omaha World Herald
By Betty Olson
Nebraskans for Peace

Recently, one of the Pentagon's representatives spoke of the delight of western Nebraska farmers looking forward to an MX on the back 40 — as if it were a beloved milk cow or palomino riding horse.

BUT several farm organizations — NEO, U.S. Farm Association, Nebraska Wyoming Wheat Growers Association, and WIFE have said "no" to the Pentagon offer of MX.

So have major church organizations active in Nebraska — Catholics, Lutherans, Presbyterians, Methodists, Disciples of Christ, the United Church of Christ, Church of the Brethren — as have Republican Reps Douglas Bereuter and Virginia Smith, Democrats J.J. Exon and Robert Kerrey, and the Nebraska Democratic Party.

REP. HAL DAUB and Sen. Edward Zorin sky continue to say "yes" to the MX. Can they be hanging on the dream of a world saved from communism by its destruction? "We had to destroy the global village to save it?"

The nature of the pet to be placed in the Panhandle back 40 deserves scrutiny. Why isn't it to be placed there? It is far more deadly than any Russian weapon. The MX is the most deadly weapon the world has seen according to the congressional research report, "MX Intercontinental Ballistic Missile Program," (March 1983).

The accuracy of the MX would be 0.5 to 1.0 of a nautical mile — better than either the Minuteman III or the best Russian missile the SS 18. Each warhead would have a lethality six times as great as that of the best current Russian or American missile.

Because this report reveals that the present Minuteman III is comparable in power and accuracy to Russia's SS 18 the MX can not be a response to better Russian missiles — the Scowcroft Commission argues.

"It is a first strike weapon designed to blow the Russians to kingdom come. Its warheads will be aimed at Soviet missile silos to destroy them before they can destroy us, and they are accurate enough to break up even the Soviets' most hardened silos. Their only option in responding would be to launch on warning.

SUPPORTERS OF THE MX make much of the argument that its presence will discourage the Soviets, but Tom Wicker of The New York Times said in a recent column published widely in Nebraska "The MX is surely the wrong weapon for the task" of deterring the Russians.

Wicker says that it will "present an attractive target... 1,000 warheads lined up on 100 missile-like battleships at Pearl Harbor to be destroyed by 200 Soviet warheads." Wicker observes that MX deployment in vulnerable Minuteman silos will "double invite Soviet attack."

He fails to mention, however, that the effect of any attack would fall primarily on Nebraska, that prevailing west winds would carry radiation and fallout from eastern

Wyoming and western Nebraska across the Panhandle wheat belt, across our corn belt to our state's eastern cities.

Statistics by the Union of Concerned Scientists on death from any Russian attack on the Minuteman silos indicate that blast, radiation and fallout would wipe out 100 percent of the Panhandle's population and at least 50 percent of the rest of the state. An attack on the MX would bring more death and destruction.

The Minuteman was designed as a defense, not a first strike, weapon. It did not in any way Russian attack and the risk of losing our population. But as Wicker and the congressional report make clear, the MX is designed to attack the Russians first.

It is undefended and indefensible in the form that Congress is attempting to approve it. The MX is a vulnerability which would only increase the vulnerability of the United States to destruction and of the population of the state. Its farmland, cities, livestock and industries

Building the criminal justice program from zero to 40 majors has been the greatest accomplishment of Wayne State.

Campbell is in his tenth year as the criminal justice instructor at WSC. "The criminal justice program was only on paper before I came."

He received his bachelor's degree at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in Engineering, his masters at Utah State in Sociology and is currently an ABD (all but dissertation) at Utah State in Social Psychology.

Campbell sought a small college/small town environment and is happy with Wayne State. "I have an excellent division in which to work and an excellent division head."

Campbell and his wife Sara have one son and a daughter "Wayne is a good place to raise a family. It is safe and clean."

Besides his activities on campus, Campbell is faculty advisor for the TKE fraternity.

Planetarium to present shows

Wayne State College's Dale Planetarium will be presenting two public planetarium shows during the Spring of 1984 school semester.

"Stardeath" will run from Feb. 12 to March 18. This program deals with the final stages of stellar evolution. "Star death" results in the production of the strangest objects in the universe: pulsars, quasars, and the incredible black holes.

The other program being presented is "To Worlds Unknown." This program is an imaginary voyage to the planets and their moons, worlds whose features have only recently been unveiled by interplanetary probes from the Earth.

"To Worlds Unknown" will run from April 1-29. All presentations of both programs are shown on Sunday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. in the Dale Planetarium, located in the lower level of the Ralph M. Carhart Science building. All programs are free and open to the public. In addition, special showings can be arranged for school groups and other organizations by appointment.

For more information contact the planetarium by calling 375-2200.

CLEP exams offered at Wayne State

A program that enables people to earn college credits by examination will be offered Feb. 15 at Wayne State College.

The College Level Examination Program (CLEP) provides students the option of earning college credit without enrolling in college course. CLEP provides an opportunity to save both time and money in earning a college education. Students wishing to participate must register on or before Monday, February 13, 1984.

Anyone can take Clep exams and submit scores to one or more of 2,500 participating institutions. To receive college credit at WSC, students must either be currently enrolled or have met WSC admission requirements.

Students can get a good overview of the areas they select to take a CLEP exam by obtaining a booklet titled "Guide to the CLEP Examinations" from the Student Services Office at the college. The booklet can usually help you decide if you have enough knowledge about particular academic areas to attempt the related CLEP examinations. The booklet may be borrowed on an overnight basis or purchased for $5.

Credit received for CLEP is entered on a student's record without a grade, thereby not affecting grade point averages. There is no official record entered if the CLEP exam is failed, and students can re-take the same exam again provided appropriate fees are paid. Wayne State places no limit on the maximum number of credit hours earned through CLEP and taken before the senior year.

Each CLEP exam usually takes about 90 minutes to complete. The fee for General and Subject Examinations is $28 per exam. Scores are reported to the student and the college within one week.

For more information contact the WSC Student Services Office. Clep (402) 375-2200, ext. 213.

Wildcats down Peru, take over second place in NAC

Wayne State's mens basketball team raised its season mark to 11-16 with a 60-49 victory over the Bobcats of Peru State at Rice Auditorium Tuesday night, but more importantly, the Cats took over sole possession of second place in the Nebraska Athletic Conference's state school division.

The win put the Wildcats at 3-7 in the NAC, behind first-place Kearney State. The top two finishers in the state college division will advance to the playoffs against the top two finishers from Nebraska's private schools to determine who will advance to the NAIA national tournament in Kansas City.

THE WILDCATS almost slept through this one however, as Peru State came out in its patented sloooow down game and lulled the Cats to sleep while sneaking to a 16-6 lead with 13:10 left in the first half.

Wayne State mentor Rick Weaver called a time out at that point to regroup his charges and the Wildcats fought back to within 30-25 at the half.

The second stanza saw Wayne State take a 31-30 advantage at the 16:31 mark as junior guard Jimmy Gooch hit from the baseline.

The contest went back and forth from that point until Tracy Penn hit a three point play with 6:48 left to put the Cats up by four at 46-42.

IT WAS still anybody's game at that point, that is until THE PLAY broke Peru State's back.

With Wayne State's Russ Uhing trying to rebound the ball on Peru's end of the court and the Bobcats putting intense pressure on, the senior guard lobbed a bomb the length of the court to the waiting arms of teammate John Thomsen who went up for the slam dunk.

The play put the tally at 54-45 and Rice Auditorium erupted in applause.

From that point on, Peru was forced to foul the Wildcats while trying to get possession and Wayne State pulled out the 60-49 win.

Wayne State was outrebounded 18-17 in the first half, and finished behind the Bobcats on the night (33-27).

CENTER VINCE Tillo paced the Cats on the boards with 8 caroms

Weaver said the Cats were simply not ready to play in the first half.

"I think we were still on the bus from Topeka," Weaver said in reference to the Cats trip to the Jayhawk State last weekend.

"We let Peru dictate the tempo, but in the second half we adjusted and executed well on offense," Weaver said. "We made the most out of the shots we did get."

Wayne State finished shooting 54 percent (25 of 46) on the night after hitting just 44 percent (11 of 25) in the first half. Peru made good on just 39 percent of its shots for the game, shooting a miserable 23 percent (17 of 30) in the second half.

PERU STATE mentor John Gibbs said losing after leading for the first half is getting to be a familiar scenario for the Bobcats.

"We've done that about seven times this year," Gibbs said. "We just didn't shoot it well in the second half — we missed point blank twice."

Weaver was more than pleased with the win and emphasized that it didn't come easily

"We were fortunate to win," he said.

Peru could have easily won tonight."

The Wildcats were fueled by Thomsen's 19 points while Tracy Penn added 11.

Wayne State will host CSIC foe Missouri Southern tomorrow (Friday) night before meeting Pittsburg State at Rice Auditorium on Saturday. The Wildcats are 2-8 in conference play.

The second half saw the Bods take a 61-46 advantage at the 9:49 mark as the Cats began to falter and finally fell behind 80-57.

To the Cats' credit, they outscored Washburn 10-2 in the last three minutes of the game to make the final tally 82-57.

Wayne State was paced by Tracy Penn's 32 points while Carrier tallied a game-high 31 points for Washburn.

Washburn 82, Wayne State 67

Wayne State dropped to 2-8 in the CSIC last Saturday night by virtue of a 82-67 loss on the road to Washburn in Topeka, Kan.

The Ichabods took a 15-14 lead before the Cats went up 16-15 at the 10:07 mark on a Tracy Pebb bucket. Wayne State put the tally at 20-17 off of a pair of Lonell Greene free throws before the Ichabods fought back to turn the game into a see-saw affair.

Washburn used four points each by freshman Keith Downing and All-America candidate Gary Carrier to take a 37-30 halftime lead.

I can hardly wait

It's all set. Even though I don't have any vacation time coming until May, I have my week of leisure all planned out for June 24-30.

Chicago's Wrigley Field won't be out of such places as New York and California. Since I only have a week coming, I decided to make a trek to the windy city with four former college roommates of mine to watch the Cubbies.

One of these guys (Rick Poore) makes this an annual journey. Rick is a die-hard Cubbies fan who will be engaging Wayne's own Galen Wiser in a contest in this space to predict the outcome of this season's major league baseball races.

It was by no accident that we decided to go the week that the Cubs happen to be playing the Pittsburgh Pirates. I did some intense lobbying there.

Special dates abound

According to the 1984 schedule I had mailed to me from the Cubs' front office, we will be there for two of several "Special Dates" scheduled at Wrigley next season.

Monday, June 25 is "Salute to Champions" day while the 27th is simply noted on the calendar with "The Chicken".

I assume the latter refers to the San Diego Chicken. I don't know what champions they'll be saluting — heck I won a pool tournament once, I wonder if I'm eligible?

I once heard a comedian on television making light some teams' attempts to fill the stands with such special dates.

This guy said he was waiting for "Handgun and Hard Liquor Day."

They'll try anything

Judging by some of the special dates the Cubs have planned, he wasn't too far out of line.

They have the predictable "Baffling Helmet Day", "Cap Day" and "Pennant Day" but then things really get silly.

May 20, for example is a day all baseball fans in Chicago do doubt have marked on their calendars — "Toiletty Kit Day".

No, I'm not kidding. Every adult, age 14 and over gets one, according to the schedule.

The Cubs go on a run from May 26-28 with three consecutive biggies. The 26th is "Poncho Day", the 27th is designated "Floppy Hat Day" and, as if that isn't enough, they top it all off with "Big Sunglasses Day" on the 28th.

If every fan who collects those three items shows up at the next home game wearing them, the Cubs are going to be the laughing stock of the major league baseball in more ways than one.

There's somewhat of a dry spell after that, until August, when we have "Thermos Day", "Farmer's Day" (What's the deal — the first thousand fans through the turnstiles each get a free alfalfa farmer?) and "Scarf Day".

At the end of the schedule, the Cubs have set aside Sept. 28-30 as "Fan Appreciation Weekend." I suppose, after subjecting those poor people to all those ridiculous promotions, plus an entire season of what will probably be another Cubbie debacle, it's the least they can do.

New defense puts Wildcats at 0-17

Winside's girls basketball team dropped to 0-17 on the season Tuesday night by virtue of a 45-21 loss at the hands of Wynot on the road.

The Wildcats "experimented" with a new defense, employing the man-to-man for the first time this season.

"We put it in the night before at practice," Winside mentor Don Leighton said. "All things considered, I think the girls did a real fine job with it."

Despite the new defensive scheme, the Blue Devils owned a 12-2 lead after one period and led 25-9 at the half.

The second half saw the Devils outscore the Wildcats 22-12 en route to the victory.

On a positive note for the Cats, they outrebounced Wynot, pulling down 30 boards. Missy Jensen tallied 12 carsoms to pace the Cats.

Jensen also added 13 points to lead the Winside attack while Joell Backman had 10 points for the Devils.

In junior varsity action, Winside closed its season at 8-3 with a 26-6 loss to Wynot.

"We just didn't play good," Leighton said. "We had a long layoff since our last game (Jan. 26)."

Tracy Topp led Winside with 9 rebounds.

Trojans squeeze out win

It could have been anybody's ballgame. That was the assessment of Allen head girls basketball coach Gary Troth after his Eagles dropped a 49-48 decision to the Wakefield Trojans at home Tuesday night.

"We had a chance to win it, but we just played terrible defense," Troth said. "We jugged up and down the court — we haven't had any intensity."

While Troth was upset with his team's defensive showing, Wakefield mentor Mary Schroeder said some of the credit should go to the Trojans' offense.

"We really took the ball to the hoop," Schroeder said. "It was by far our best offensive showing of the season."

The Trojans trailed 12-8 after one period and were behind 22-18 at the half. They tallied 15 points in the third period and 16 points in the fourth stanza while limiting the Eagles to 26 points.

Schroeder said another key to the game was missed free throws on Allen's part. The Eagles went to the line 16 times but only came away with 2 points.

Both teams pulled down 22 rebounds on the night.

The scoring attacks were led by Trojan Brenda Jones, who had a game-high 26 points. Allen was fueled by Tami Jewell's 17 points.

If Allen had a weakness, it was because starter Michelle Harder left the game in the first period with a sprained ankle.

"I'm not sure how severe it is," Troth said. "We might not have her for districts."

Woes continue for Cats

The woes continued for the Wayne State Lady Wildcat roundballers last Saturday night in Topeka, Kan. as the Lady Blues of Washburn University blasted the Cats 85-53.

The loss put Wayne State at 5-15 on the season and 0-10 in the CSIC.

The Lady Blues raced to a 46-22 halftime lead while shooting 54 percent from the field. The Wildcats only beamed 36 percent of their shots in the same period.

Things didn't get any better in the second half as the Lady Blues hit 47 percent of their shots while the Cats fell to 29 percent.

Washburn was paced by four players in double figures while Wayne State was fueled by Barb Wragge's 14 points.

Cedar dumps Wayne second time

Things aren't getting any better for the Wayne High School boys basketball team after the Blue Devils dropped their season mark to 7-6 with a 54-45 loss to Hartington Cedar Catholic last Saturday night.

The loss marks the second time the Devils have lost to the Trojans this season, while Wayne defeated HCC in the championship of the Wayne State College Holiday Tournament in December.

The Devils and the Trojans were knotted at 6-6 after one period of play Saturday night before Wayne took a 22-20 lead into the lockerroom at intermission.

The third period was all Cedar Catholic though, as the Trojans tallied 16 big points while holding the Devils to just 6 to take a 36-28 advantage into the final stanza.

Wayne snapped out of it but it came up on the short end of a 17 point rally to drop the 54-45 decision.

Three gridgers inked

Wayne State head football coach Pete Chapman announced the signing of three high school gridgers to letters of intent Tuesday morning.

The three players are:

Steve Wickman, a 6-1230-pound offensive guard-middle guard from Pierce High School.

Wickman was the Class B All State nose guard this past season.

Rich Ruffcorn, a 6-0-215-pound center from Omaha South.

Ruffcorn, who carries a 3.8 grade-point average and ranks 12th in his class, was the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Scholar-Athlete of the Year. He was also second-team All-Metro and second-team All-State.

David Murphy, a 6-2-230-pound fullback from Omaha Bryan.

Other recruits will be announced as they are signed.

Bears back on track

Laurel got back on the winning track on Monday night by registering a 60-46 victory over the Coleridge Bulldogs on the road in boys basketball action. The win put the Bears' record at 2-12 on the season, but marked their second victory in their last three outings.

Laurel mentor John Held said the key to the game was Laurel's shooting. The Bears were 25-of-45 (55 percent) from the field and 10-of-18 (55 percent) from the free-throw line against Coleridge.

"When you shoot like that it's sure a lot easier to win," Held said.

"em." Held said. "I don't know if we were more relaxed or what."

The Bears got some fast breaks off the press and went up 41-32 going into the third period. Laurel outscored the Dogs 19-14 in the fourth period.

"We just did a whole of a job in the second half against the press," Held said. "We got some good weakside help."

Part of the Bears' second-half success could be directly attributed to Mark Penlerick. The 6-2 senior finished the night shooting 9-of-12 from the field and 8-of-10 from the charity stripe for 26 points — 24 of those coming in the second half.

"We just have to learn how to win," Held said. "We usually get ahead and then put pressure on ourselves instead of the other team."

Laurel will have a chance to register its third win of the season tomorrow (Friday) night on the road against Wausa — 58-51 conquerors of the Bears in the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament last week.

Not just for KICKS

Story and photos by Kevin O'Hanlon

INSTRUCTORS AND senior student oversee the rest of the class during a stretching exercise.

THOMAS HELPS one of the younger students limber up. Individual instruction allows students to progress at their own speed.

If you pick a fight with Tim Thomas, he'll probably try to talk you out of it. You just better hope he convinces you.

Thomas, a 1980 graduate of Wayne High School, holds a black belt in taekwondo. He also teaches students ranging from 5 to 42 years of age in the ancient form of Korean self defense five nights per week in Wayne and Pender.

Thomas said he teaches his students, first and foremost, to avoid a confrontation if possible.

"It is an insult to us for somebody to use what we teach them to beat somebody else up — it's a stab in the back," Thomas said.

Thomas' co-instructor, Kim Timperly, said the students are taught to be aware of everything around them and to take precautions ahead of time.

"If you walk into a bar, for example, we tell our students to know where all the exits are," Timperly said. "We tell them to ask themselves, 'Is this a place where I don't want to be?'"

Thomas said he will try to avoid a fight, even if it means running.

"Using words to control a man is also an art," he said.

Has Thomas ever had to use his prowess in taekwondo in a real fight?

"I had to once, but I don't really like to talk about it," he said. "It was a bad situation — somebody attacked a friend of mine with a broken beer bottle."

"Part of the martial artists' duty is to protect those who can't defend themselves," Thomas said.

But just what is taekwondo?

Thomas explained that taekwondo is 80 percent "foot techniques" (kicks and blocks) and 20 percent "hand techniques" (punches and blocks).

"It's an advantage because the legs are bigger, stronger and longer than the arms," he said.

"People always ask me if taekwondo is the same as karate," Thomas said. "It's not, but it's similar. Karate had its origins in Japan while taekwondo can trace its roots to Korea."

"Each martial art is based on a previous martial art," Thomas said. "It can all be traced back to the temple boxing in ancient China."

People take up taekwondo for a variety of reasons, Thomas said.

For Thomas, a pre-med major at Wayne State College, it was a matter of trying to keep his knees in working order. A football career at Wayne High School saw Thomas go under the surgeon's knife four times for operations on torn cartilage and ligaments.

"With the flexibility and conditioning that I've received since I started taekwondo, I haven't had any trouble with my knees," Thomas said.

Timperly, who teaches science at Osmond High School, said he started "mostly for the mental aspects."

"I did it to develop my powers of concentration and all that," Timperly said. "Plus it's something I've always wanted to do."

Students may join classes at any time and proceed at their own pace.

"Two students who start at the same time usually don't progress at the same rate," Thomas said.

Thomas started studying taekwondo a little more than two years ago. He received his black belt in October.

Timperly holds a red belt (one step below black) and will try for his black belt during the next testing period.

A person starts out as a white belt, then progresses through the various colors as his prowess improves. After white comes yellow, then green, blue, red and black. Each color has varying degrees of mastery, for a total of nine degrees from white through red.

"Once the black belt is earned, there are nine additional degrees of achievement."

The American Taekwondo Association conducts testing approximately every two months.

"It's possible to become a black belt in as little as two years, but the average is two and one-half to three years," Thomas said.

The instructors determine when a student is ready to test for advancement to a higher degree.

There is very little actual sparring at the lower degrees, Thomas said.

"Basically they are just showing technique," Thomas said. "As you get up higher, there is a little more contact, but you try to keep your kicks a few inches from your opponents' face."

Thomas said people who take up taekwondo just to become better fighters usually don't last very long.

"If they just want to learn how to fight and don't want to work, they usually end up quitting," Thomas said.

Taekwondo is an art — the person has to want to be there to make his body and mind stronger," he added.

The mental aspect of taekwondo is just as important as the physical side.

Every belt color has a history and meaning that the student must learn in conjunction with the "forms" to earn advancement. Forms consist of putting the student in a fighting situation, usually against several opponents of equal or higher degree to see how he'll fare.

Respect is also an integral part of taekwondo. An American and Korean flag hang at the front of the workout room at the Fitness Center and members must bow to each as they enter or leave the room.

Respect for the "seniors" (instructors and those of a higher degree of achievement) is also required.

Students address Thomas and Timperly with a crisp "Sir," not unlike Marines in boot camp.

At the beginning and end of each class, the students and instructors recite The Student Oath: "I shall obey the tenets of taekwondo. I shall respect the instructors and seniors. I shall never misuse taekwondo. I will be champion of freedom and justice. I will build a more peaceful world."

This is followed by the Tenets of Taekwondo: Courtesy, integrity, perseverance, self-control, indomitable spirit and victory.

Timperly said the student's laughter methods of incapacitation as a means of self defense.

Major targets include the ankles and shins (very little muscle padding), knees (easy to dislocate) and the groin area.

"There are varying degrees you can teach," Timperly said.

His original instructor used to teach taekwondo in the armed service.

"He taught us combat techniques such as the 'eye pluck' where you reach out and literally tear out your opponents' eye," Timperly said.

"That's just for life and death situations, though," he added. "Traditional taekwondo has plenty of ways to incapacitate someone — permanently if necessary."

Thomas said there are always the inevitable comparisons between boxing and taekwondo. People often ask him who would win in a fight between a boxer and a martial artist.

"They think the martial artist is invincible," he said. "There's such a mystique that goes along with it (martial arts)."

Thomas said the martial artist would be at a definite disadvantage in a boxing ring.

"In a boxing ring, you're selling rules," he said. "You're putting pads on your hands and feet and you're saying that you can't kick below the belt."

"You're taking away three-fourths of the martial artist's weapons."

He said in most cases, the boxer would probably win.

"In a street fight, it would be a completely different story, though," Thomas said.

Taekwondo, as were the other martial arts, was considered to be a cult when it was first introduced to the United States.

"Some of the people who don't understand what we do have accused us of running a cult," Thomas added.

Thomas and Timperly plan to teach the classes at Wayne for at least another year before passing the reins to another student — just as Thomas took over for his instructor, Randy Boden.

"We'll be bringing somebody up through the ranks by then," he said.

Thomas hopes to enter medical school in the fall of 1985 while Timperly plans to limit his instruction in taekwondo to Osmond.

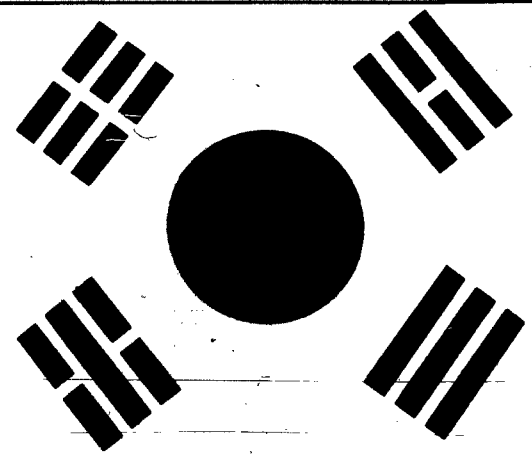

"We're not making any money with it," Thomas said. "We just enjoy teaching."

And with that, the ancient art of taekwondo is perpetuated.

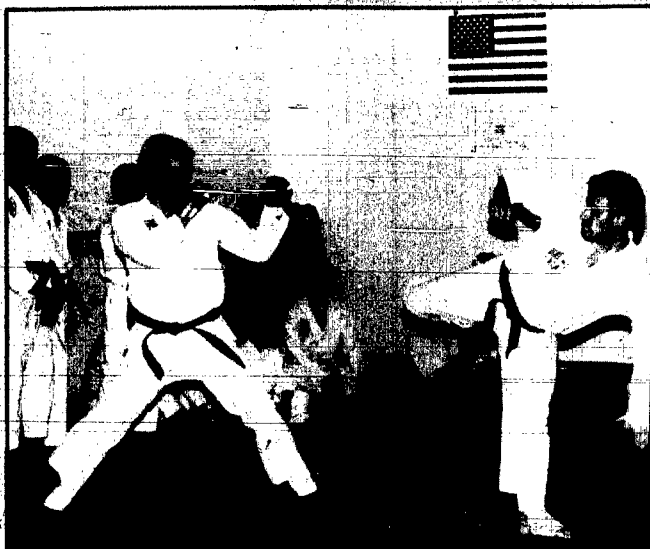

Thomas and Timperly will put on a board breaking demonstration during the halftime of the Wayne vs. Pierce boys basketball game on Feb. 17 to benefit victims of multiple sclerosis.

The martial arts experts will be taking pledges on the number of boards they can break using taekwondo kicks and punches, with all proceeds going to aid multiple sclerosis victims.

The pledges will be combined with similar funds raised in Columbus, Lincoln and Grand Island.

THE KOREAN flag represents taekwondo's roots.

Family Counseling
 Some statistics report that five out of nine marriages will end in divorce today. This adds up to 75 percent of all marriages. Today, approximately 25 million stepchildren live in the United States. Of these, one out of five are under age 18.
 Your marriage does not have to end up as one of the 75% of failed relationships. There is hope and help for you in proven Christian counseling principles.

Rehabilitation
 Men and women of all ages, as well as youth, with life controlling problems of alcohol and drug addiction frequently need the ministry of a rehabilitation program of in-depth Christian counseling.
 Using the concept of ministering to the total person, counseling is directed to the spiritual, emotional, intellectual, vocational and social aspects of the counselor.

Seminars and Workshops
 Growth in marriage seminars provide couples with tools and inspiration for developing and maintaining a meaningful relationship based upon the principles of a Christ-centered home.
 After 22 years as a pastor and Christian counselor, I have come to realize the need of an alternative to the humanist view of counseling.
PEACE MINISTRIES IS A PART OF THE ANSWER TO YOUR NEED
 It is not the purpose of peace Ministries to add any particular church, but the Body of Christ in general using Biblical principles and methods.
 Rev. Jimmy D. Root, D.Min., will be conducting special services of interest to the entire family at Christian Life Assembly of God Church, 901 Circle Drive, February 10, 11, 12 at 10:45 a.m., 6:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.
