Council gives recommendation for liquor license

After much deliberation Tuesday night, the Wayne City Council voted 3 to 2 to recommend that the Nebraska State Liquor Commission give approval of a liquor license to the new King of Clubs lounge. Co-owners Dan Olson and Bonnie Gregor now will wait for word from the liquor commission concerning their application. They originally sought a Class C license (on and off-sale) but agreed to settle for a Class I license (on-sale only) at the council's recommendation.

leading to some pushing and shoving. He pled guilty and paid a $50 fine, he said. Olson paid a $100 fine and spent 10 days in jail for a trespassing violation in Atkinson in 1982. He said he was charged with trespassing while hunting and pled guilty. When Swarts asked if there were any other infractions of the law, Olson replied that he had gotten charged for minor possession and "other minor infractions 7 or 8 years ago."

Councilman to the rescue

Carolyn Filler came to the rescue of the Wayne City Council Tuesday night. The councilman had intended to miss the council meeting because of family illness but was called to the meeting when her presence was needed. With Councilmen Keith Mosley out of town on business and Leo Hansen out of town on vacation, the council didn't have enough members to form a quorum until Mrs. Filler was called to the meeting. The seat vacated by Gary Van Meter's resignation also has not yet been filled. Only 4 councilmen, Jim Craun, Darrel Heier, Darrell Fuelberth and Larry Johnson, present, the council was 1 member short of a quorum which is required before a city council meeting can begin. Mrs. Filler arrived at approximately 7:45 p.m., the meeting started and proceeded as planned.

Mrs. Filler asked the co-owners why they did so much remodeling before applying for a liquor license. Mrs. Gregor replied that they first applied for a license in early December but "waited and waited with no word from the state." She said she finally called the state office and they couldn't find the application. They had to re-apply at a much later date, she said. COUNCILMAN DARREL Heier said he was concerned about Olson's infractions of the law and termed it a liability. Darrell Fuelberth, elected mayor pro tem for the meeting in place of the absent Mayor Wayne Marsh, asked Olson if his temper ever gets the best of him. Olson replied that it does not. Mrs. Filler said that the city has had problems over the years with some bars in town, although not recently, and said that is the main concern of the council. Olson replied that his parents were in the bar business for many years and said this "looked like an excellent opportunity to work hard and make something for myself." He said he has been a rancher at Atkinson the past few years and added that the cattle business is not that good. The council and the co-owners agreed that a Class I license would be acceptable. WITH COUNCILMEN Keith Mosley out of town on business and Leo Hansen out of town on vacation, the council voted 3 to 2 to deny a Class C license but grant a Class I license. The council seat recently vacated by the resignation of Gary Van Meter has not yet been filled, leaving the council with only 5 voting members Tuesday night. A Class I license was not permitted in Nebraska until the last session of the Legislature. It permits the sale of liquor to be consumed within the business but does not allow the sale of takeout liquor. Councilmen Filler, Jim Craun and Larry Johnson voted in favor of the liquor license request. Fuelberth and Heier voted against the request.

Sewer charge increase passes first reading

An ordinance which would raise the sewer user charge passed first reading Tuesday night at the Wayne City Council's regular meeting. The increase would take effect June 1, if the ordinance is approved. It now must pass second and third readings. The increased charge is part of the requirement stemming from the construction of Wayne's wastewater treatment plant. City Administrator Phil Kloster said the increase will raise revenue prior to the operation of the treatment plant and in turn reduce the amount of the loan required for the project. The charge will cover debt service as well as operation and maintenance of the plant. THE COUNCIL also discussed the proposed purchase of a computer system for the city. The estimated range of the cost of such a system is $63,000 to $103,000 over a five year period. Numerous proposals and options led to the wide variation of the estimated range. The collecting of bids was approved at Tuesday's meeting. Approximately 1 dozen proposals are included in the city's plans. The computer system would be tied to the administrator's office, the city's main office and the police chief's office. IN OTHER ACTION, the council: •Dispensed $3,000 to the Centennial Committee. That amount is part of the money that has been budgeted to the committee. •Gave first reading approval of an ordinance setting a plumbers license charge of $25 for initial application and $5 a year thereafter. •Gave first reading approval of an electrical code with unchanged rates.

Bereuter to be in area

Nebraska First District Congressman Doug Bereuter has scheduled a mid-winter constituent listening session at 1 p.m. this Saturday afternoon in room 407 of the Wakefield City Hall. The public is invited by Bereuter to voice concerns and ideas regarding national and international affairs. "I've found listening sessions to be an important part of my total goal of keeping in touch with First District residents," Bereuter said. He said the meeting will give persons in the Wakefield area an opportunity for face-to-face communication with their Congressman. Previous listening sessions have been conducted by Bereuter in late spring or early summer. Bereuter said he wanted to try meeting with constituents at another time of year to make sure everyone who wants to talk to him has the opportunity to do so.

Water supply in Allen is reported safe

For the first time in many years, the nitrate level of Allen's water has met federal standards. Village Clerk Pearl Snyder said that the first nitrate report from Allen's new well has been returned from the state department. The nitrate level is listed at 2.9, well below the maximum level of 10 set by the United States Environmental Protection Agency according to the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974. Mrs. Snyder said this is the first time in many years that Allen's nitrate level has been below 10. Water samples are sent in monthly to the State Health Department to be tested.

Tappe, an employee of ESU 1 for the past 10 years, was offered a contract of $32,000 for 1984-85, plus full family insurance, dental insurance and professional organization dues. ESU sets salaries, discusses cost of nursing services

Discussion of the Educational Service Unit nursing program for the coming year, and action on the salaries of ESU 1 Assistant Administrator Rodney Garwood and Special Education Administrator Duane Tappe occupied the majority of time Tuesday night during a meeting of the ESU 1 board of directors. Meeting at headquarters in Wakefield, the board voted to set Garwood's salary at $35,000 for the 1984-85 year, with full family insurance, dental insurance and professional organization dues. Board member Deryl Lawrence questioned whether nursing services presently being provided by the unit to private schools is legal. Mills stated that the unit presently provides nursing services to approximately 1,300 students in private schools, or approximately 10 percent of the total number of students served. "But can we legally contract with private schools for nursing services?" questioned Lawrence. Board member Randy Shaw said nursing services are provided to private schools, although the private schools do not contract for the service. Lawrence again questioned the service to private schools and suggested the unit seek legal opinion regarding the issue.

"I THINK THE point is well taken and this would be a good time to seek legal advice," stated Assistant Administrator Garwood. "I think we should have a percentage of our tax money that goes into nursing, and the rest should be funded by the school," said board member Bob Jacobs, adding that he feels the nursing service is one of the best programs provided by ESU 1. Before moving on to other business, board members agreed to study a tentative schedule of nursing hours, assignments and costs and to seek opinion concerning the issue of providing the service to private schools. IN OTHER ACTION Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members voted unanimously to honor a grievance filed by TMAH teacher Diane Lundquist. Speaking to the board on behalf of Lundquist was Kim Calvillo, chairman of the grievance committee. Also present was Linda Hamm, president of the ESU Education Association. In her grievance, Lundquist contested her salary schedule placement at BA plus 18 and sought acceptance of undergraduate hours to advance her to BA plus 27 on the salary schedule, as previously accepted. Following lengthy discussion, board members voted to honor the grievance as presented by Lundquist and to place her on the salary schedule at BA plus 27 with back pay of $535 for 1982-83 plus $133.74 as of Nov. 18, 1985. ESU 1 BOARD members Tuesday night heard a report by Lisa Smith, an employee in the ESU 1 central office, on the unit's general accounting system presently being placed on a mainframe computer located at ESU 10 in Kearney. Last November, board members voted to place the unit's general accounting system on the mainframe computer with batch mode processing, beginning in the 1983-84 year. Board member Deryl Lawrence also reported Tuesday night that contract negotiations for the 1983-84 year are underway between negotiators for the board and ESU Education Association. Lawrence said another meeting is scheduled Feb. 27 at which time the board will present its proposal to the association team. IN HIS MONTHLY report to the board, Administrator Mills recommended that all staff be considered for contracts next year under the present conditions. Mills said ESU 1 is in the process of surveying schools for their requests in the area of special education for the coming school year. The board discussed sending representatives to a legislative relations meeting Feb. 21 in Lincoln, to the NESUBA spring workshop March 2 in Kearney, and to a school board workshop March 19 in Laurel. Board members also discussed sending interested area school administrators and board members on a trip to Minnesota with ESU 8 on March 22-24 to visit several schools regarding their computer programs. Mills said cost to the unit would be $500, plus $150 for each representative going. He added that each school would be responsible for the cost of its representatives. BEFORE ADJOURNING, the board voted unanimously to accept a co-op purchase contract with ESU 17. Board members also voted unanimously to contract with Macy schools for psychological services for the remainder of the year. The service would be provided for 3 days each week at an estimated cost of $9,600 for the remainder of the year. The board also voted to allow a $9,154 bill to Arnie's Ford Mercury of Wayne for the purchase of a new car to be used by ESU staff members and administrators. Payment will be made upon the satisfactory acceptance and delivery of the automobile in approximately 10 days. Next meeting of ESU 1 board of directors is scheduled March 13 in Wakefield.

Drinking age climbs to 21

By Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association
 After 15 years of allowing younger people to drink, the Legislature has decided to restore the legal drinking age in Nebraska at 21.
 Lawmakers last week gave 35-12 final approval of a bill which raises the legal drinking age from 20. Five years ago, the lawmakers raised the legal drinking age from 19.
 The new law, which was sponsored by Senators William Nichol of Scottsbluff and Howard Peterson of Grand Island, will take effect next January 1. People who have reached the age of 20 by the effective date will be able to continue to drink legally.

SUPPORTERS OF the bill said the higher age will reduce alcohol abuse among young people, and reduce traffic fatalities.
 They turned back last minute attempts to amend the bill, including an effort by Senator Chris Beutler of Lincoln to substantially rewrite its provisions.

Beutler's amendment would have left the legal age for drinking alcoholic beverages at 20. It would have established provisional drivers licenses for people under 21. Conviction for driving while intoxicated would require revocation of the provisional license. Additionally, any minor convicted of drinking while driving would have his or her license suspended for two years.
 Beutler criticized the apparent political motivation of colleagues in voting for the bill.

"You're voting this way because a majority of people in your districts — not knowing the facts — think there's going to be a salutary effect on the problem," Beutler said. "Let's not be hypocritical."

BEUTLER SAID the higher legal drinking age doesn't deal effectively with alcohol abuse among young people and punishes young people who drink responsibly. Neither does it deal with the problem of teenage drivers who drink, he said.
 Senator John DeCamp of Neligh last week handed the special Commonwealth Saving Company legislative committee a new proposal for repaying with state funds the depositors in the insolvent financial institution.

As described by DeCamp during a public hearing at Nebraska Wesleyan University, the new plan would bring the question of reimbursement of depositors to the Legislature for consideration this session. Too much time has been wasted already as the state seeks solutions, DeCamp said.
 The DeCamp proposal would short-circuit the current tort claim process under which the state would pay depositors if governmental negligence can be established.

THE ATTORNEY for the Commonwealth committee, Richard Kopf of Lexington, has told the committee that state tort claims procedures represent the only possible constitutional route by which public money could be used to pay depositors.

The tort claims procedures presume negligence on the part of the state. In the Commonwealth case, the alleged negligence is in the failure of the State Banking Department to take action during recent years on the mounting evidence of serious liquidity problems at the institution.

DeCamp estimated at $58 million the cost of reimbursing depositors up to the $30,000 guarantee of the Nebraska Depository Institution Guaranty Corporation. Under his proposal, DeCamp said the state would be able to take over Commonwealth and sell its assets to regain at least a portion — and perhaps all — of what it pays out to depositors.

The Nebraska Investment Council would take charge of the insolvent institution under the plan.

"I think (our) promoting the atmosphere of safety puts some responsibility on the state," DeCamp said.

In proposing his plan last week, DeCamp abandoned his apparently unconstitutional plan which would have created a quasi-governmental corporation to be funded with $65 million in state funds to require and dispose of the Commonwealth firm.

A necessary increase

Persons living in and near Wayne are looking at higher sewer user charges in the near future.
 The rate increases haven't yet been approved by the Wayne City Council but will be at a future meeting.
 No one likes rate increases but this increase is a necessity. It stems from a directive issued by the Environmental Protection Agency and is part of a requirement brought about with the construction of a wastewater treatment plant.
 The increase probably will amount to about an additional $4 or $5 payment per quarter for most people.
 It's not an explosive increase but, at the same time, it is an added burden for each citizen. Unfortunately, it is a burden each of us must bear.

Drinking and pregnancy

The week of Jan. 15, was designated by the Congress and proclaimed by the President as "Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week."
 And with good reason: fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS) ranks only behind Down's syndrome and spina bifida as the most common cause of birth defects with associated mental retardation in newborn babies. If you are pregnant or are thinking about having a baby, FAS is a health problem that you should know something about.
 Almost everyone is aware that alcohol abuse over a period of time can contribute to a number of serious disorders in adults, including muscle and heart disease, malnutrition, digestive problems and liver cirrhosis. It should not surprise us to learn, therefore, that alcohol, when abused during pregnancy, can also damage the far more delicate system of the unborn baby.
 For a number of years, now, researchers have been studying infants born to women who drank heavily during their pregnancies. What they have found in a significant number of these infants is a disturbing pattern of physical, mental and behavioral abnormalities — fetal alcohol syndrome.
 Babies with FAS were shorter and lighter in weight than normal babies, and they didn't "catch up" later, even when given special postnatal care.
 Babies with FAS also had abnormally small heads, several facial irregularities, joint and limb abnormalities, heart defects and poor coordination. Most were mentally retarded, as well, and exhibited a number of behavioral problems, such as hyperactivity, extreme nervousness and poor attention spans.
 Not every symptom of FAS was seen in every baby, of course; symptoms varied from child to child. But even one symptom of fetal alcohol syndrome is an unnecessary tragedy.
 The point to be made, and remembered, is that alcohol can have devastating effects on the unborn baby. So, how should you approach the question of drinking during pregnancy? What should you think about it and what, if anything, should you do?
 Research is just now beginning to show the amount of alcohol that may harm the developing baby. While there are, as of yet, no hard and fast rules, we do know that even moderate amounts of alcohol pose a risk to the unborn baby.
 Women who consume 2 normal size drinks a day, for example, increase their chances of miscarriage and of having a baby that is smaller than babies born to women who drink infrequently or not at all. Women who drink heavily during pregnancy 6 or more drinks a day — clearly risk giving birth to a child with fetal alcohol syndrome.
 There is much that we still do not know about fetal alcohol syndrome. We are not sure, for instance, at what time during pregnancy the fetus is most susceptible to the damaging effects of alcohol. Nor do we know to what extent the effects of drinking may be compounded by such other factors as smoking and poor nutrition.
 Until all the facts are in, however, the best advice I can offer women who are pregnant or who want to become pregnant is to refrain, completely, from drinking alcoholic beverages. If we do not yet have all the answers, at least two facets of the drinking and pregnancy problem are beyond dispute: first, the more the mother drinks, the greater are the risks she takes with the health of her unborn baby; second, there is no possibility of fetal damage from alcohol when the mother doesn't drink at all.
 The safest and wisest choice, I'm sure you will agree, is to avoid alcohol during this most important time of both your life and your baby's.

Supreme Court decision is body blow

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Nebraska Farm Bureau
 The Nebraska Supreme Court's decision on Jan. 27 declaring unconstitutional the way agricultural land is assessed for tax purposes amounts to a body blow to the state's farmers and ranchers.
 For years, county assessors have used the Nebraska Land Manual to set valuations for agricultural land. The manual provides excellent guidance for fair assessment because it recognized the difference in soil, precipitation and land productivity of various kinds of farm and ranch lands.
 As a result of use of the manual, the state was divided into Land Valuation Areas. Within these areas, use of the land and classification of soil types were considered in determining the income producing capability of the land.

NOW THE SUPREME Court has ruled that all land must be assessed at market value, which primarily is based on sales value. There is an irony here — assessing agricultural lands at "fair market value" will result in the doubling of taxes on many of those lands, which will in turn drive down their market value. Unfortunately, lower land values also mean less collateral to borrow against to operate a farm or ranch.

This ruling makes more precarious the already difficult financial situation of many of the state's farmers and ranchers. In recent years, farmers and ranchers have found it necessary to work ever larger units to earn a living.

Consequently, property taxes on farms and ranchers are not just a big ticket item, they are a huge ticket item. These taxes are reflected in the cost of farming — the cost of doing business — whether the farmer or rancher owns or rents the land.

Some state officials and state senators are trying to discount the real impact that the Supreme Court decision could have on farmers and ranchers. They claim taxes won't double because other adjustments will be made to offset the coming valuation increase. Some state senators even have suggested that the court's decision provided a needed club to force rural senators and rural interests to agree to property tax relief for urban taxpayers.

SUCH A CLUB — really more of machine gun — isn't needed to convince agricultural interest that property tax reform is needed. They know it and they are willing to pay their fair share of taxes.

But, farmers and ranchers feel that tax law should recognize that Nebraska's very existence is based primarily on agriculture. That the tools needed for agricultural production — i.e., land — should be affordable.

Farmers and ranchers further feel that a piece meal approach to property tax reform isn't going to be to anybody's advantage. Through Farm Bureau, the state's largest farm organization, they have called for an independent study of Nebraska's tax system. Such a study would be done by an objective, out-of-state concern, as was done by an objective, out-of-state concern, as was done in the 1960s.

That study, named for its chief author, Harold F. McClelland of Claremont Graduate School in California, provided a framework for the tax restructuring which the Legislature did in the 1960s and early '70s.

Nebraska's agricultural community feel it's time for such a study again — especially when a large number of tax studies done by in state sources in recent months have resulted in conflicting conclusions.

A WELL DONE study could take a couple of years. In the meantime, the vital interests of the state's farmers and ranchers could be restored through passage of LR 232CA, a constitutional amendment which would allow continued use of the Nebraska Land Manual.

Or, if the senators prefer, passage of another legislative resolution, 233CA, would also serve the purpose. LR 233CA would provide for separate and distinct classes of property, including land actively used for agriculture, land not used for agriculture and all improvements to real estate.

If either of these resolutions is passed by the Unicameral, it would appear on the November ballot. And Nebraska's citizens — all of whom depend on agriculture — could voice their opinions.

Budget surfaces to debate for first time

The Legislature entered its sixth week with the budget being debated for the first time. This session Discussion centered around LR 255 which is a non-binding resolution that will set a target spending figure for the Legislature to follow as it develops the state budget.

On Jan. 6, the governor proposed a budget of $848.6 million. The Appropriations Committee is suggesting a budget of $829.7 million. After spending much of Wednesday and Thursday mornings on this issue, about the only thing anyone could agree on was that no one could agree. I predict more of the same in the upcoming weeks.

Appropriations for last year's budget totalled $743,404,960.00. With inflation at less than 4 percent and a $30 million cash reserve which we will soon have in the state treasury, I don't believe we need such a tremendous increase in state spending.

A budget of around $775 million would be reasonable under current conditions. That would offset inflation and provide for modest growth in state government.

LB 56, FOLLOWED closely by many, reached final reading Tuesday and was passed into law by a vote of 35-12. On Jan. 1, 1985, the legal drinking age in Nebraska will go from 20 to 21. Anyone 20 years of age on Jan. 1, 1985, will be "grandfathered" in, that is, they will be allowed continue drink legally.

Two weeks ago, I reported on the progress of LB 183, a bill which will shift the burden of proof in insanity cases from the state to the defendant. The bill was passed on Friday, Feb. 3, and sent to the governor for his signature.

I was very disappointed to learn that the governor decided to make 183 the subject of his first veto of the session. However, my disappointment was short lived, as the Legislature successfully overrode the veto on Thursday morning.

LB 183 is now law and will become effective 3 months after adjournment of the session. A defendant raising the defense of insanity will now have to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that he was insane during commission of the crime.

A BILL INCREASING the motor vehicle registration fee passed on Tuesday morning. I opposed, to no avail, LB 171 which raised the total cost of the registration to $17.50. This contains an increase of $1 which will be used to finance construction and maintenance of recreational roads in our state parks and recreation areas.
 The $1 dollar increase brings the total earmarked for recreational roads to $1.50 for each motor vehicle registration.

I opposed the bill because I object to the practice of increasing the motor vehicle registration fee every time someone is looking for an additional source of revenue. Requiring the necessary dollars from the general fund or increasing the appropriate user's fee is preferable to adding more cost to our vehicle registration.

On Thursday afternoon, the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee held a public hearing on LB 744. Under provisions of the bill, the definition of a gambling device would be expanded to include mechanical lottery devices thereby prohibiting the use of video lotteries.

If successful, this measure will have a significant impact on my district. I'm not sure at this time whether there are enough votes to bring the bill out of Committee.

If you have any question or would like to comment on this or other legislation, please contact me at the State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509 or call 471-2727.

Abraham Lincoln visits school

A knock at the door Friday afternoon brought an unexpected surprise to students of Wayne County School Districts 59 and 15.

"I got tired of the students telling me how boring social studies is," smiles District 59 teacher Erlene Jager, who invited Abraham Lincoln to the school Friday to visit with the students in honor of his 175th birthday.

Guests for the special program were students of School District 15 along with their teacher, Nancy Ahlvers.

Playing the part of Abraham Lincoln was Wayne State College Student Paul Duin, who told students several stories of his childhood in Illinois and sang songs popular during the 1800's, accompanying himself on guitar.

Traveling to the school with Mr. Lincoln (photo at left) was Ricky Moses, also a student at Wayne State, who explained to the students the hardships of slavery in the south during the 1800's. Moses also thanked Lincoln for the Emancipation Proclamation he issued on Jan. 1, 1863, freeing the slaves.

In addition to Mr. Lincoln's visit, students of the two schools did pencil portraits of Lincoln, created pudding paintings of the log cabin he grew up in, read stories and letters, viewed a filmstrip, and held open discussion concerning the 16th President of the United States.

Students in District 59 are, with parents' names in parenthesis, Kim Nolte (Dick), Shawn Nolte (Kenneth), Chad Jones (Leonard), and Vickie Meyer (Ferris).

Students in District 15 are Wendy and Chad Spahr (Doug), Robyn, Holly and Chad Sebade (Ron), Chad Hank (Gary), Dustin Milligan (Rick), David and Susan Sorensen (Dean), and Bowdie Otte (Gerald).

Blue Devils fifth at B-2 District; send four to state tournament

Wayne finished fifth in the Class B-2 District Wrestling Tournament held last Friday and Saturday at West Point High School. The Blue Devils tallied 107 total points and will send four wrestlers to the state tournament in Lincoln, which starts today (Thursday) at the Bob Devaney Sports Center on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

The top four finishers in each weight class qualified for a trip to state. Those wrestlers from Wayne earning a state berth were: Mark Janke (4th place-105 pounds), Rod Luff (4th place-126 pounds), Doug Doescher (2nd place-132 pounds) and Kevin Koenig (1st place-185 pounds).

Koenig, Wayne's only qualifier to make the trip to state last season (a third-place finish), is unbeaten on the year, sporting a 27-0 record. He is ranked second, but first-place Dave Pieters of Auburn was pinned by Ashland's Jim Fiala in the championship match at the B-1 district competition held at Fair-Norris High School.

The Class B-2 team point totals and number of state qualifiers each school will send to state are listed below, followed by Wayne's individual results.

Eagle girls to district C2-6 final

Allen's girls roundballers moved into the championship game of the Class C2-6 District Basketball Tournament played last night (Wednesday) by virtue of a 41-27 spanking of Hartington at Laurel.

The Eagles were scheduled to face Wausa in the 6:30 p.m. contest. Game results from the championship game will appear in Monday's Wayne Herald.

The game against Hartington wasn't a cakewalk, however, as Allen turnovers kept the Wildcats in the game early. The score stood at 8-8 at the end of the first period.

"It kept them in the ballgame a little bit," said Allen mentor Gary Troth.

Part of the Eagles' problems were caused by the Cats' man-to-man defense.

"We didn't execute right away," Troth said. "We hurried a little bit and didn't establish good, basic offense at first."

Allen finally got unfracked and took a 22-16 lead into the locker room at the half after Michelle Harder came off the bench. Harder was nursing a severely sprained ankle.

The third period stanza saw the Eagles come out to take complete control of the game as Tami Jewell hit two buckets to put the tally at 31-21 going into the last period.

It was all Allen after that as the Eagles coasted to the win.

Troth said he was satisfied with the Eagle attack, which saw balanced scoring. Jewell hit 15 points while four players tallied six.

"Everybody contributed," Troth said.

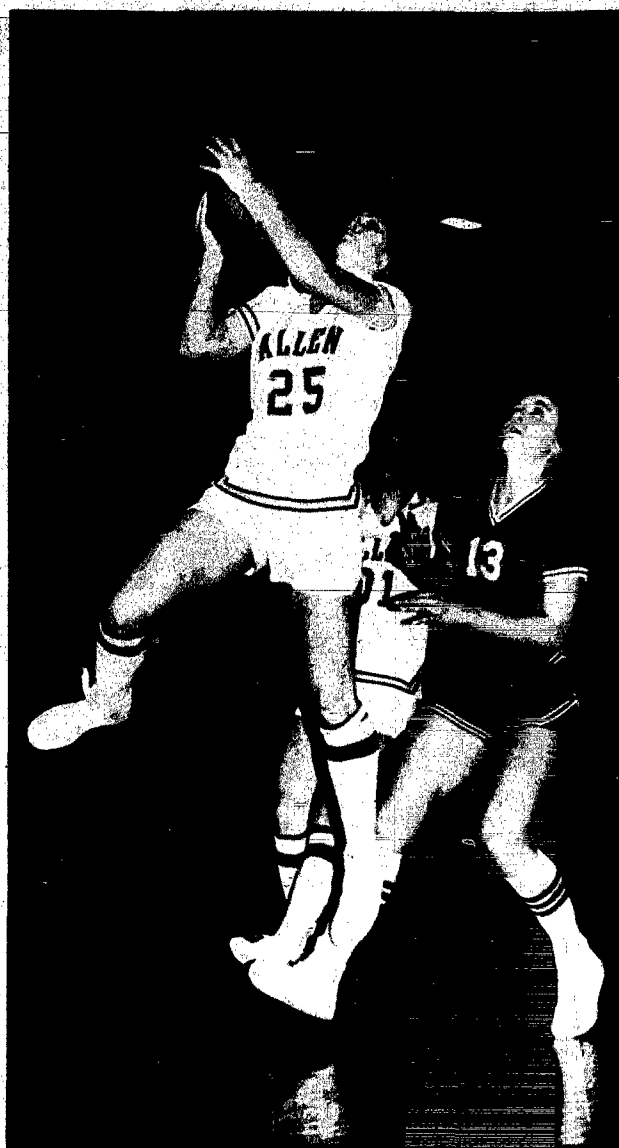

"We made a couple of adjustments at halftime and told them to go out and play smart basketball."

The Eagles finished shooting 17 of 40 (42 percent) shots from the field.

"We missed some ducks in there, too," Troth said.

Allen outrebounded the Wildcats 29-25 as Deanna Hansen tore down six boards and Jeanne Warner and Jewell each added four.

Cats break century mark

It didn't help the Bruins of Bellevue College to hit 50 percent of their field goals against the Wayne State Wildcats Tuesday night in Rice Auditorium — the Wildcats hit 66 percent.

It didn't help the Bruins to have three players in double figures — the Cats had four.

It also didn't do the Bruins much good to score a respectable 73 points, because the Wildcats went beyond respectability and tallied 104 points on the night to rout the visitors in an Nebraska Athletic Conference game.

THE WIN put Wayne State in sole possession of second place in the NAC again, with a 4-3 mark. First-place Kearney State is first with a 5-0 mark. The top two finishers in the NAC state school division will advance to the playoffs against the two NAC private schools in the state with the best records to decide who will go on to the NAIA playoffs in Kansas City.

Wayne State was hot to say the least against Bellevue. The Cats vaulted to a 61-33 halftime lead while hitting a sizzling 78 percent (25-of-32) from the field in the first half. They also made good on 11-of-18 free throws in the same span.

THREE WAYNE State players were already in double figures at the break. Russ Uhing had 13 while Jimmy Gooch and John Thomsen each had 12.

The second half wasn't quite as stunning for the Cats. They only managed to outscore the visitors 43-40, but had enough of a cushion to coast to the win.

On the night, center Vince Tillo and Thomsen paced the Wildcats with 18 points each, while Uhing added 15 and Gooch finished with 16.

On the boards, Wayne State held a 31-24 advantage as Calvin Sprew led the way with seven caroms.

The win put the Wildcats at 12-18 overall and helped them warm up for this weekend, when highly touted Ft. Hays and arch rival Kearney State come calling.

Pittsburg 71, Wayne State 54

Wayne State self-destructed in the second half last Saturday night at Rice Auditorium to fall victim to CSIC foe Pittsburg State 71-54.

The Wildcats played the visitors tough and trailed by one (33-32) at the half.

Things were still looking good for the Cats in the second half — until the 15:34 mark.

Dan Radig hit a 10-foot jumper to give the hosts a 42-37 lead, but then the roof caved in.

The Gorillas went to the races and outscored the Cats 31-12 in the remainder of the game to register the win.

The loss put the Cats at 2-10 in the CSIC while PSU went to 4-7.

Tillo tabbed

Wayne State center Vince Tillo has been named the Nebraska Athletic Conference Player of the Week.

The 6-5 sophomore from Sioux City, Iowa scored 34 points and pulled down 34 rebounds in the Wildcats' three games last week. In WSC's 60-49 win over Peru State, Tillo had eight points and eight caroms. In the Cats heart-breaking 59-58 loss to CSIC foe Missouri Southern, he tallied 14 points and pulled down nine boards while he accounted for 12 points and a career-high 17 rebounds in a 71-54 loss to Pittsburg State.

Fort Hays State Tigers
The Tigers were the NAIA's No. 1 team until being upset last Saturday at home by Emporia State, 62-61. FHSU beat Washburn Friday, 75-60.

Fort Hays State is led by center Nate Rollins, who averages 17.2 points and 8.0 rebounds per game. Edgar Eason, who does not start, is second in scoring at 12.4 and Reggie Grantham is third at 11.6.

The Tigers stopped WSC Jan. 27, 86-69, and have won the past 7 games with the Cats. Wayne State has not beaten FHSU since the second game of the 1979-80 season; a 91-82 WSC decision.

Kearney State Antelopes
This long-running rivalry will have a bearing on a number of factors. Not only is this meeting a Central States Intercollegiate Conference game, it is also a Nebraska Athletic Conference (NAC) meeting.

The NAC standings are used to determine the NAIA District 11 playoff teams. Currently KSC is atop the NAC with a 4-0 mark, while the Cats are second at 3-2. The top 2 teams qualify against the top 2 Nebraska NAIA private colleges.

The game is also the spotlight cage game of the season for many Wildcat fans. Even though the Lopers have won the last 10 meetings, the Wildcats lead the series 60-52. WSC last defeated KSC in the 1978-79 season, 69-67.

Brian Anderson (13.4 points per game) and Jon Bergmeier (13.3) lead the Loper scorers. Anderson and Scott Johnson lead the KSC rebounders with 7.5 and 6.2 per game respectively. Jeff Hoppes, Kearney State's standout performer injured in a car accident during the holiday break, could likely be in uniform this weekend. The Antelopes downed WSC Jan. 28, 95-81.

Those one guys
We were late for the hockey game, so we called a taxi to speed us to the Sioux City Arena. The "we" I'm referring to consisted of yours truly, some former college buddies of mine, and KTVI-TV sports director Steve Taylor (a high school cohort). The hockey game was last Saturday's Sioux City Muskateers date with the Dubuque Fighting Saints.

The cab company sent us a driver who informed us his name was "Al 38" (evidently in reference to his cab number).

Al 38 was a friendly guy and the consummate cab driver — he knew something about EVERYTHING in Sioux City. If not, he just pretended to.

What a creep
I hadn't been to a hockey game since the Knights pulled out of Omaha in 1975. As a matter of fact, I was with Taylor that time too — we got thrown out of a playoff game between Omaha and Denver because Taylor insisted on annoying the Denver goalie by pelting him with pennies. Great guy, that Taylor.

He hasn't changed. As I was standing at the concession stand waiting to purchase a refreshment before the game, Taylor barked over my shoulder (when the girl behind the counter had her back turned) "How about some service, f---er?"

A ventriloquist couldn't have done better throwing his voice. Naturally, she thought I was the foul-mouthed culprit and waited on me last. Oh, the jokes!

Ah, sweet revenge!
We had pretty good seats for the game (compliments of John McNeil of the Muskateers' front office) and settled in to watch the action.

It was at this point that I decided to get back at Taylor. I knew that, although he's only been on the air in Sioux City for a few months, he was recognizable to several people in the crowd. Nobody had any idea who the rest of us were, so we did what all good Americans would do: we turned in to hockey fans.

Unless you've ever been to a hockey game, it's hard to explain just what this entails. One thing is requisite — lots of obnoxious screaming.

While not intending this as a slam, let me just say that using that criteria, Sioux City has a lot of good hockey fans.

Yer mother!
The Dubuque players were subjected to a constant barrage of crowd harassment ranging from Bronx cheers to direct queries about their ancestry. It was great. It only took me a few minutes to get back into the swing of being a hockey fan — much to Taylor's embarrassment.

Sure, I was a little rusty on some of the rules (the blue line, icing the puck, etc.) but who cared? I was having fun.

What's more, I was having fun at Taylor's expense. As we grew more boisterous, Taylor blipped lower into his seat.

Big Larry, one of the members of our entourage, scolded Taylor.

"Heck, if you wanted to impress people, you never should have agreed to come with us," he said.

How true.
What made things better was the fact that we had picked the ideal game to attend. Sioux City is sitting in first place (Southern Division of the United States Hockey League) and was playing their arch-rivals before a home crowd.

While we had seats near center ice about 10 rows up, I can safely say that there isn't a bad seat in the Sioux City Arena. The place only seats about 2,500, which gives each fan a darned good view of the action.

Schuyler rematch set

Devils clinch home berth

The Wayne Blue Devils boys basketball team clinched a home court district playoff spot against Schuyler next Wednesday night by virtue of a 54-51 win over the Elkhorn Antlers last Saturday night on the road.

It was the first time that the visiting team has won the game in the series between the two schools.

WAYNE TOOK advantage of what was probably one of its most consistent team performances of the season against the Antlers to gain a slim 16-15 advantage after one period and a 28-22 advantage at the half. Dan Gross, who finished with 11 points on the night, helped ignite the Devil attack with seven first-period points.

The second half saw Wayne take command 42-32 at the end of three and hold off a 19-point Elkhorn rally in the final stanza.

"I thought our kids played really well," said Wayne mentor Bill Sharpe. "We didn't do all good things, but I think we played more consistent than we have been."

THREE WAYNE players finished the night in double figures. Sophomore Don Larsen led the pack with 25 points while Gross and Rod Dahl added 11 and 10 points respectively.

Sharpe was also pleased with the play of the Devils' bench.

"Urwlter (Carl) and Sherer (Jeff) came off the bench and did some good things for us," Sharpe said. "It was also nice to see Gross in double figures."

Sharpe added that while guard Pete Warne failed to score any points in the contest, he "did some nice things for us."

tallied 12 of the Devils' 26 boards. Elkhorn had just 19 caroms on the evening.

IN JUNIOR varsity action, Wayne used a 21-point fourth period to overcome a scrappy Elkhorn squad that gave the Devils all they could handle.

Scott Baker and Brent Pick paced the Wayne attack with 13 points each while on the boards, Urwlter tore down six of Wayne's 16 rebounds.

The win put the young Blue Devils at 9-4 on the season.

Wayne will play host to Pierce tomorrow (Friday) night in the regular season finale before hosting Schuyler in the district game next Wednesday.

It was the Warriors who knocked the Devils from their lofty number-five ranking earlier in the year with a 44-36 spanking at Schuyler.

27 first-quarter points sink Wayne

Pierce exploded for 27 first-quarter points Tuesday night en route to a 72-37 drubbing of Wayne in high school girls basketball action at Pierce.

The Bluejays used the hot hands of Kelly Zierke (13 points) and Paula Dolson (21 points) to establish themselves quickly as Wayne had trouble getting unfracked.

"We played with them for a while and then we let them get up by 10 points," said Wayne mentor Dale Hochstein.

The Blue Devils regrouped and outscored the Jays 13-12 in the second period, but found themselves trailing 39-19 at the half.

Pierce added 17 points in the third period and 16 in the final stanza to nail Wayne's coffin shut.

The Blue Devils scoring attack was fueled by Karen Longe's 13 points as Wayne hit just 22 percent (15-of-66) of its shots from the floor.

Longe also paced the Devils with 23 rebounds on the night.

In junior varsity action, Wayne upended the Bluejays 32-24 as a roller-coaster scoring attack provided Wayne with 12 points in the first period, one in the second, six in the third and 13 in the fourth.

The Blue Devils were paced by Laura Keatings' eight points and Kecia Corbitt's 14 rebounds.

Wayne is scheduled to meet Schuyler on the road tonight (Thursday) and will close out the regular season next Tuesday at home against West Point.

Verdigre ousts Winside girls in districts

Winside's girls roundballers were ousted from further competition in the Class D1-7 District Basketball Tournament, falling 51-32 to Verdigre at Hartington Tuesday night.

The Hawks parlayed a 27-point performance by 5-9 senior Patty Mady into the easy victory.

Winside coach Don Leighton said Mady was the key to the game.

"There was just something about her," Leighton said. "It didn't look like she was doing that much, but when you add it all up —"

Verdigre blasted off to a 16-9 advantage after one period and led 29-18 at the half. The Hawks tallied 13 points in the third period to Winside's six and coasted to the easy win.

Winside was paced by Pam Peters' eight points while teammates Leah Jensen and Missy Jensen each added six.

On the boards, Winside pulled down 29 caroms as Leah Jensen tallied the Cats with six.

Winside coach Don Leighton was happy with his squads' effort.

"We took the ball right at them for a while," Leighton said. "The girls tried awfully hard."

Winside finishes the season with a 1-18 mark.

VIKING DAVE Fink (41) tries to get the ball past Eagle defenders Kevin Chase (12) and Craig Noe (32).

Allen gets no charity in loss

If there was a difference in the Allen boys basketball team's 48-38 loss to Wausa in the opening round of the Class C2 & District Basketball Tournament Tuesday night at Laurel, it was free throws.

While the Vikings went to the line 25 times and came away with 18 points, Allen failed to make 11 of the charity stripe once during the game.

Except for that glaring difference in the statistics, the Eagles played Wausa fairly, even until a scoring drought sank Allen's ship in the second half.

The Vikings held a slim 9-8 advantage after the first period, but trailed Allen 22-21 at the half as Eagle Mike Hings tallied a bucket after a Wausa turnover.

Allen suffered through a third period scoring drought that saw the Vikes vault to a 29-24 lead. Allen finally got on the board in the second half as Kevin Chase hit at the 1:08 mark.

Wausa then exploded to open up a 10-point lead in the final stanza and all Allen could do was foul and hope the Vikings missed.

They didn't miss many — hitting 11 of 15 charity tosses in the final stanza.

Allen mentor Dave Uldrich said the Eagles fell apart in the second half.

"We rushed our shots," he said. "They were having trouble with our zone defense early, but I figured they would adjust to it."

Scoring honors for the Eagles were shared by Chase and Derwin Roberts, who each tallied 10.

Wausa didn't fare any better from the field on the night. The Vikes were 16 of 42 (38 percent) while Allen was 19 of 47 (40 percent).

In the rebound department, the Eagles were outboarded 34-22 as Jay Jones paced the Eagles with eight caroms.

Allen finished the year at 6-11, a slight improvement over their 3-13 mark of the previous season.

"We're still on the way up," Uldrich said.

Gussies gouge Wildcats

They keep plugging away, but the Wayne State College Lady Wildcats can't seem to win no matter what they do.

The Lady Cats, fighting dwindling numbers during the second half of the season, proved they still have some fight left in them as they fell 69-60 to CSIC foe Pittsburg State last Saturday at Rice Auditorium.

The Lady Gussies came into Rice Auditorium sporting a 13-7 overall mark and stood at 5-5 in the CSIC. Wayne State was looking at a 5-16, 0-11 mark.

The Cats hung tough on the first half Saturday and trailed 38-34 at the half. Vina Kelly sparked the Cat attack with 15 first half points while Barb Wragge added nine.

The second stanza saw the Gussies take a 55-42 advantage at the 9-14 mark before Kelly ended the Wayne State scoring drought with a steal and a layup to put the tally at 55-44.

That was to be the Wildcats' last roar for the night, as Pittsburg hung on for the win. Wayne State finished shooting just 33 percent (21 of 62) from the field while Pitt was 31 of 64 (48 percent).

Kelly led all scorers with 23 points while teammate Wragge added 17.

The Lady Cats will host Fort Hays tomorrow (Friday) night at Rice Auditorium and will entertain Kearney State on Saturday.

Wakefield walloped

Oakland Craig's boys basketball team outscored Wakefield 17-3 in the final six minutes of the first half en route to a 70-51 drubbing of the Trojans at Wakefield Tuesday night.

That scoring run allowed the Knights to jump on top 42-22 at the half and coast to the easy win in the second half.

Wakefield coach Ernie Kovar said the key to the game was Oakland Craig's 6-3 Mike Peterson, who burned the Trojan defense for 37 points.

"We tried a number of things to stop him but he just went over the top," Kovar said.

The Trojans hit 30 percent (17 of 55) of their shots from the field while the Knights were 28 of 48 (41 percent).

On the boards, the Knights finished with a 50-31 advantage. Wade Nicholson paced the Trojans with 11 rebounds.

Petersen's 37 points led all scorers while Wakefield was paced by Nicholson's 14 points.

The Trojans will attempt to end the regular season on a winning note tomorrow (Friday) night when they play host to Ponca.

Devil freshmen place 1st, 3rd at tourney

The Wayne Blue Devil freshman boys basketball team used a two-game 24-point performance by Ted Lueders to vault to the championship of the Randolph Invitational Freshman Tournament played Feb. 9 and Feb. 11 at Randolph.

Lueders scored 12 points in each of the Devils' two wins — a 51-42 victory over Hartington Cedar Catholic on Feb. 9, and a 50-48 spanking of Crofton in the championship game on Feb. 11.

Bill Liska tied Lueders for scoring honors against HCC while teammate Cory Dahl added 11.

In the rebound department, Wayne was fueled by Dahl and Troy Wood, who each tore down six caroms.

Ted McCright also tallied 12 points in Wayne's championship game while Wood added eight and Dahl tallied six.

The Blue Devils out rebounded the Warriors 16-13 as Wood and Jon Stoltenberg each ripped down four.

The Wayne freshman girls were not as fortunate as their male counterparts in the Crofton tourney, falling 35-16 in the first round.

The Warriors tallied 10 points in the first period while limiting Wayne to just one bucket by Missy Jones.

Crofton took a 16-6 advantage at the half and never looked back.

Wayne was paced by Kecia Corbit and Shelly Pick with six points each. Corbit led the Blue Devils with 13 rebounds while Pick added eight.

In the consolation game of the Randolph tourney, Wayne belted Crofton 25-22 to lay claim to first place in the tournament.

The Devils led 8-6 after one period of play and 17-12 at the half.

Wayne was led in the scoring department by Kecia Corbit's eight points while Mary Gross and Shelly Pick each added six.

'Star-Death' at planetarium

Wayne State College's Dale Planetarium, located in the lower level of the Carhart Science building, is presenting "Star Death" every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. through March 18.

"Star Death" deals with the final stages of stellar evolution. Star death results in the production of the strangest objects in the universe — pulsars, quasars, and the incredible black holes. The show is free and open to the public. In addition, special showings can be arranged for school groups and other organizations by appointment.

For more information, contact the planetarium by writing to Box 77, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787, or call (402) 375-2200.

WSC hosting Honor Band Festival

Wayne State College will host the ninth annual Honor Band Festival on Saturday, Feb. 18. Participating will be 160 bandsmen from 23 area schools.

Karl Rogosch, supervisor of music for Sioux City Public Schools, and Dr. Ray Kellon, Wayne State College director of bands, will be conducting.

The bandsmen will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre, located in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center. The concert is free and open to the public.

Speaker, workshop program scheduled

A speaker and workshop program has been scheduled at Wayne State College for non-traditional students.

The session will take place on Thursday, Feb. 23 in room 18 in the lower level of the U. S. Conn Library on the college campus.

The session will run from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

This fourth in a series of 8 programs is entitled, "Coping with Personal Pressures."

Speakers include Donna Bliss, Wayne State director of counseling, Sr. Rosann Ocken, Wayne State campus minister; and Dr. Stan Reiss, director of Tri County Guidance Center.

PURPOSE OF the program is to familiarize new students as well as "non-traditional" students with the college.

Non-traditional students are defined as students over the age of 23, particularly married students, commuters, veterans, single parents, elderly students/senior citizens, adults exploring career changes, extended campus students, and women beginning college after raising families.

Persons who would like more information about the program are asked to contact Dr. Alan Lupack or Donna Bliss at Wayne State. (402) 375-2200

Grazing system seminars set

Ranchers and range professionals desiring to learn more about the Savory Grazing System will have that opportunity during two seminars in North Platte this month.

Allen Savory, who developed the unique grazing system, will be featured during both seminars, said Roger Witte of Mullen, Central Sandhills extension agent.

"We've developed the seminar for two audiences," Witte said. The seminar on Feb. 27 will be directed towards range professionals and the Feb. 28 session will be designed for ranchers. "However, if there's a date conflict people could attend either day," he said.

Three Natural Resources Districts and the Soil Conservation Service and Cooperative Extension Services in several Sandhills counties are sponsoring the seminars.

Both events will be held at the Ramada Inn in North Platte starting at 10 a.m. Feb. 27 and 9:30 a.m. Feb. 28.

There's no registration fee but a charge will be made for lunch.

Tillage day tickets on sale

There is still time to buy reduced priced tickets for the Area Conservation Tillage Day to be held at the Wayne city auditorium, Tuesday, (Feb. 21) according to Don C. Spitzer, Wayne County extension agent.

These reduced priced tickets may be purchased from either the Soil Conservation Service or the extension office and must be purchased by 5 p.m. Friday or full price will be charged.

Fourteen different topics by the different speakers will be presented. More than one dozen commercial exhibitors will have booths at the meeting.

EDB recommendation withdrawn

Recommendations for use of EDB ethylene dibromide in stored grain insect control in Nebraska have been withdrawn, according to David Keith, University of Nebraska extension entomologist.

Keith said references to EDB in the Cooperative Extension Service publication EC80-1534, Insect Prevention and Control in Farm Stored Grain, should be deleted.

All uses of EDB on stored grain were suspended by the Environmental Protection Agency of Feb. 3, 1984, Keith said.

In Nebraska, the primary uses of EDB products have been as grain fumigants, primarily by elevators and commercial fumigators, he said. Farmers have been generally discouraged from using fumigants due to the application hazard, and farmer usage of EDB has been very slight, he added.

EDB is included in a number of commercial formulations, usually in a mixture of other fumigant products. "Loss of the product," Keith said, "will probably not seriously affect stored grain insect control in Nebraska."

February loan rate is 10 percent

Commodity and farm storage loans disbursed in February by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation will carry a 10 percent interest rate, according to CCC Executive Vice President Everett Rank.

The 10 percent rate reflects the interest charged by the U.S. Treasury in February and is the same rate in effect the preceding month, Rank said.

PIK program helped

1983 soybean review: weather heated up prices

By Maggie McNeil
Soybean Feature Service
What a year! Going into 1983, soybean prices looked under the weather with January beans trading below $4. By the year's end, however, nearby soybean options were trading above $8 and expectations were for even higher prices into the spring.

What happened? An unprecedented government acreage control program along with an equally significant drought in the United States sharply cut into soybean and corn supplies, causing an explosive market and a super-sensitive trading atmosphere almost all year.

In a special year-end review in Soybean Update, the weekly marketing newsletter of the American Soybean Association, editor Maggie McNeil presented a brief rundown of what happened last year.

PIK, AFTER much speculation, the Payment-in-Kind (PIK) program was finally announced by President Reagan in January. This new program offered farmers an added incentive to cut back on acreage by providing them with a certain percentage of their established corn and wheat yields — in the form of government warehouse grain receipts — in return for setting aside up to 100 percent of their corn acreage.

U.S. farmers took the bait. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) was offering PIK signups was better than anyone expected, and when the sign-up period ended on March 11, U.S. Farmers said they would idle almost 40 million acres of corn, bringing acreage down below 60 million acres.

Meanwhile in Brazil, the United States' soybean growing competitor, an excellent bean harvest was just getting underway. Update editor McNeil travelled to Brazil to get a firsthand look at the crop and reported record yield potential out of the major producing areas.

USDA estimated a Brazilian bean crop of 15.3 million metric tons, up sharply from the previous year's drought-reduced crop of 13.2 million metric tons. Rains later hit Brazil's southern most and highest-yielding bean areas, causing late season harvest losses. Final estimates for the crop ended up at 14.75 million metric tons.

Rumblings of decreased U.S. soybean acreage were beginning to be heard in the market. The feeling was that the big participation in PIK would force some soybean acreage cuts.

The annual Soybean Association planting survey put soybean acreage at the surprisingly low figure of 64 million acres. USDA's first planting report didn't reflect the big PIK enrollment, and put bean acreage at the neutral figure of 65.81 million acres.

BUT USDA was full of surprises in 1983 and stunned the market in June with a bean acreage figure of 63.345 million acres, way under the average trade expectation of 66.1 million acres, and down 9 million from the 1982 acreage. Beans opened up sharply in Chicago the following day.

U.S. soybean planting was underway by this time with conditions good so far. In fact, many areas were ahead of normal bean planting schedule because of the fewer corn acres to plant.

July brought hot dry weather to the Midwest, crops and prices sizzled. By the end of July, midwestern corn leaves were curling, silking was slowing, pollination was hurt and yields were dropping daily.

The drought persisted into August and the normally drought resistant bean crop began to suffer. Plants were wilting, leaves were dropping and crop analysts were reporting irreversible bean damage in major producing areas. USDA estimated the bean crop at 1.843 billion bushels, down from the previous year's 2.229 billion. Export projections started dropping, but bean pricing began moving up.

By September, soybean yield estimates were really gloomy and quality problems were also being anticipated. USDA lowered the U.S. crop estimate to 1.525 billion bushels and dropped exports to 740 million. A bullish stocks report putting bean stocks at the low level of 386,564,000 bushels sent bullish waves through the market and people started talking about $12 beans.

BUT THE MARKET was on a roller coaster ride and isolated reports of better-than-anticipated yields weakened prices, only to be followed by a supportive USDA production report in October that put bean production at 1.517 billion bushels and ending stocks down to 120 million.

November saw an extremely volatile bean market, with analysts at USDA's annual Ag Outlook conference predicting a sharply swinging market until U.S. and South American 1984 bean production was more certain.

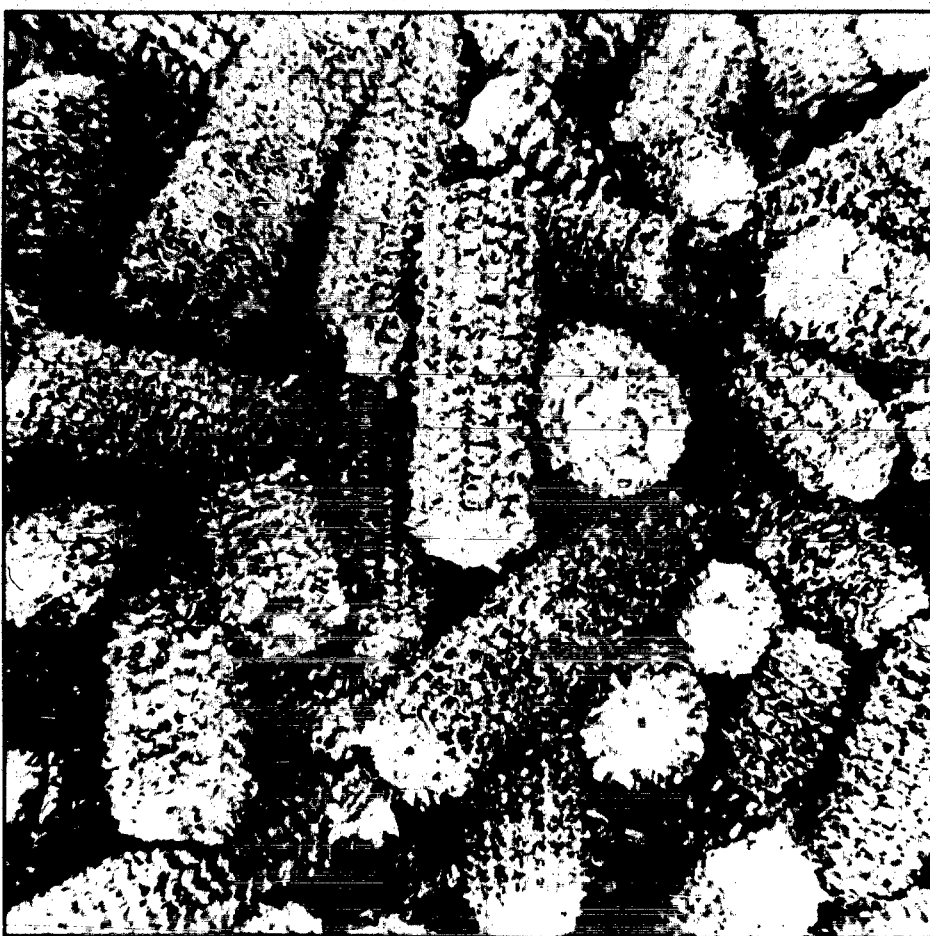

Brazilian bean planting was getting underway in November, amid reports of increased acreage and perfect weather. But there were reports of seed supply tightness and fertilizer shortages that would make the Brazilian bean crop more vulnerable than usual to bad weather. Attention would be focused on South American weather through the spring.

By the end of 1983, the U.S. market appeared to be coming out of the technical downturn that had set in November. Analysts were predicting strong prices into the spring as demand still needed to be rationed out more. USDA predicted ending stocks at 150 million bushels and exports at 710 million.

USDA started off 1984 with another big surprise. The USDA's annual 1983 U.S. crop production report, issued in mid-January, pegged U.S. soybean production at 1.595 billion bushels, up almost 40 million bushels from their November estimate of 1.537 billion bushels and sharply above trade expectations.

The upward movement that many analysts had been predicting for the first of the year appeared to be temporarily halted. Although USDA hiked export projections up to 725 million bushels, the market outlook retained its bearish cast.

GINGHAM GALS
The Gingham Gals 4-H Club met Feb. 7 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. Hostesses were Lana and Lisa Casey.

In observance of Valentine's Day, the club played a candy contest game and each girl wore red. Jennifer Chapman was initiated as a new member.

Christy Heinemann called the meeting to order. Fourteen girls answered roll call by naming their favorite candy. Minutes and the treasurer's reports were given, and projects and club goals for the year were selected by members.

Following the meeting, speeches were given by Karmyn Koenig, Teresa Prokop, Anne Sorensen, Lana Casey and Brielle Jones. Christy Heinemann gave a demonstration on banana blueberry bread.

Next meeting will be March 6 at Grace Lutheran Church. Hostesses will be Tara and Tonya Erxleben, and each girl is to wear something green.

Cattle feeders seminar tomorrow

Nebraska Governor Bob Kerrey and Robert L. Peterson, president of Iowa Beef Producers, Dakota City, will head up a corps of speakers addressing the Nebraska Cattle Feeders Seminar in Lincoln tomorrow (Friday).

The former day and a half program has been shortened to one day, but has been packed with speakers on current issues, according to Rick Stock, University of Nebraska extension beef specialist. Meeting site is the new Cornhusker Hotel.

The morning session, following 9 a.m. registration, will feature a kickoff talk by Lee Everett, division meat manager for Nash Finch Company, Grand Island; on "What's Ahead in Meat Merchandising." He will be followed by Tommy Beall, director of market research for Cattle Fax, Denver, Colo., who will discuss "Impact of Dairy PIC and Cattle Supply," and Dick Gady, vice president for economic research, Coe Agra, Omaha; on "Grain Relationship to Livestock Feeding."

KERREY WILL speak at a noon luncheon. Afternoon speakers are:

—Chuck Harmon, president of American Ag Credit Corporation, Aurora, Colo.; on "The Modern Approach to Financing Livestock Operation."

—Norm Timmerman, "Story of a Commercial Feeding Operation," (Timmerman & Sons Feedyard, Indiana)

—Jim Ray, Chief, Livestock and Grain Division, Market News Branch, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA; on "The Reliability of USDA in Livestock and Meat Reporting."

Peterson will speak at the evening banquet.

The pre registration fee is $50; on the day of the conference, $60. The fee includes tuition, program materials and two meals.

Event co-sponsors are the Feedlot Council of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association and the University of Nebraska animal science department and Cooperative Extension Service.

Reserve grain status is announced by USDA

Corn may not be removed without penalty from the farmer-owned grain reserve while oats will remain in release status through February, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the decision on the reserve commodities was made following a review by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation of its average market prices Feb. 1, as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, adjusted to reflect the market price received by farmers.

The national average adjusted price of $3.12 per bushel for corn on Feb. 1 was 3 cents below its reserve IV release level and 13 cents under the release level for reserve V. Rank said storage payments for corn will be earned in all states beginning Feb. 1. For corn which has been in the reserve at least one year interest accrual will stop, he said.

On Feb. 1 the national average adjusted price for oats was $1.74 per bushel, 9 cents above the commodity's reserve release level. Storage payments for oats stopped on that date.

There are approximately 428 million bushels of corn in reserve IV, about 779 million bushels of corn in reserve V and an estimated 4.7 million bushels of oats in the reserve.

Daily markets received by CCC for corn are Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis. The daily market reviewed by CCC for oats in Minneapolis.

Fire blight control
If you have had problems with fire blight in apples, crab apples, mountain ash or cotoneaster in the past, chances are good that you'll have problems again this year unless you do something about it.

You can do two things this spring to beat this disease which has become increasingly severe in many parts of the state. Prune diseased parts early this year if you haven't already done so.

Prune about mid-March before trees are growing actively. Varieties with some resistance recommended for Nebraska are Delicious, Winesap, and Northwestern Greening.

WHEN PRUNING, cut at least 10 inches below the edge of the infected area or canker. Sterilize the cutting tools after each cut to avoid spreading the disease by dipping the shears or knife in the disinfectant or pouring it over the cutting edge. A 5 percent lysol, or a 10 percent household bleach or 70 percent denatured rubbing alcohol are satisfactory as disinfectants.

Other practices which help control fireblight are spraying in the blossom stage and avoiding excessive nitrogen fertilizer combined with heavy watering which produced succulent growth. Fire blight is worse on such growth.

Rooting houseplant cuttings
Growing houseplants is fun — propagating them is even more fun. Multiplying plants by cutting or "slips" has long been accomplished by placing a cutting in a glass of water and watching it root. Although this method works well for many plants, there are several problems.

Now you are ready for the cuttings. With a sharp knife, make a 1 to 2 inch section of stem from the tips of the plant. Remove the lower leaves from the cutting to prevent their rotting in the media.

These are called "stem cuttings," meaning the cutting consists of the leaf and the leafstalk. These compounds do hasten cutting and used according to package instructions.

Next poke holes in the "rooting media," sand, perlite, etc., with a pencil. Insert your cuttings into these holes and pack the media firmly so the cuttings don't wiggle. Water thoroughly and cover the bucket with a clear plastic bag to enhance the humidity of the greenhouse.

Place the bucket in filtered light. Avoid direct sunlight which might cook the cuttings. Open the plastic bag occasionally to allow air circulation.

Check after two weeks for rooting by gently digging the cuttings out of the media with your fingers. If roots haven't formed, gently replant. When roots are about one inch long, you're ready to transplant from the bucket into the small pot.

Reducing milk output

Dairy producers sign contracts

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng said last week that 37,530 dairy producers have signed contracts with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to reduce milk output under the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983. The contracts will be accepted at the amounts offered by the dairy producers, he said.

The participants, representing some 12 percent of the nation's dairy producers, have contracted to reduce fluid milk output by 9.3 billion pounds. This would be about 5.5 percent of the estimated milk output during the 15 months of the program. The reduction in calendar 1985 will be about 7.4 billion pounds, and could range from 6.5 to 9.2 billion pounds.

This is a substantial amount, but it is only what was disappointing since we had hoped a larger number would be contracted. Lyng said the program's surplus problem is not being resolved as quickly as anticipated had hoped.

CONTRACTS SHOW an intended herd reduction under the program of 336,796 head above normal culling. Producers also indicated their intention to send 23 percent of that amount to slaughter by Jan. 31. The remaining reduction will be at a rate of about 20,000 head per month. "This should not have a significant impact on cattle, poultry or hog markets," Lyng said.

Lyng said payments to participants of $10 per hundredweight of reduction will total about $930 million. This will be financed by a 50 cent per hundredweight USDA assessment on all milk produced in the 48 contiguous states and marketed for commercial use.

This assessment runs from Dec. 1, 1983 to March 31, 1985. It replaces two 50 cent assessments imposed under legislation previously enacted by congress in an attempt to resolve the dairy surplus problem.

Another mandatory assessment of 15 cents per hundredweight will begin when the program for dairy product production, research and nutrition education becomes effective. Lyng said USDA is working on the portion of the act which calls for the establishment of a 36 member National Dairy Promotion and Research Board.

LYNG SAID dairy product promotion efforts will be designed to increase public consumption and further decrease the cost of the government's dairy surplus acquisition program.

However, he said, participation figures indicated that a further reduction in milk output will be needed after the 15 months in the program have lapsed. "It also appears that further adjustment will be necessary to bring the dairy supply and demand closer into balance."

The $13.10 per hundredweight average support price for milk was reduced by 50 cents on Dec. 1, 1983 as authorized by congress under the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act. Lyng said it appears this may need to be reduced by another 50 cents on April 1, 1985.

The act permits this action if USDA estimates net purchases of milk products by the Commodity Credit Corporation will exceed six billion pounds of milk equivalent in the succeeding 12 months. Also, USDA may reduce the support to $11.60 on July 1, 1985 if it estimates net government purchases will exceed five billion pounds milk equivalent in the following year.

December marked the 56th consecutive month of year-to-year increases in milk production. Since 1979, these increases have resulted from gains in both cow numbers and the amount of milk per cow.

Of Nebraska's 5,000 milk operators, 1,031 are enrolled.

The farmer's wife

by pat matherhany

With your first, you don't realize what you're getting into. They learn to play volleyball and basketball in junior high, and run around the track in the spring, and proudly bring home uniforms and "sweats" to be washed.

Then, during the fall of her freshman year, the coach says, "I hope you're going to let her go out. She has a natural advantage with that height."

And Mom, thinking about all the late supper and practice time involved, replied, "I don't think so. Practice is after school, so she would miss the bus. It interferes with study time, and with practice on that French horn."

THERE FOLLOWED several discussions around the supper table: it's an asset, socially; "please let me try, I'll keep my grades up"; and Dad finally promised to get her home after practice. Mother weakened, and it's been a hectic life ever since.

The coach was right about the socialization aspect, and it certainly does teach lessons, some good, some not so good.

Life really isn't always fair, and it's like a piano in that "what you get out of it depends on how you play."

Sue showed a lot of determination by coming home with Most Improved Player medals in 2 sports.

She met a lot of neat kids from other schools, managed to show poise under some trying circumstances, and learned the true meaning of sportsmanship from her coach. SPORTSWRITERS SELDOM write about parents, who sit on backless bleachers in all kinds of gyms, fix fast meals when the bus leaves early, wash loads of sweat socks and shorts, and log hundreds of miles on the family car or in the booster buses "following the team."

We pray, "Please let her play" when she's on the bench, and "Please don't let her go!" when she gets into the game. In the case of sons, and football and wrestling, we add, "Please don't let him get hurt" (85 percent injury rate for 4 years of football!).

Our social life revolves around the school calendar, we neglect other friends for those we see at games, and we become avid readers of the sports pages.

WE CURSE and discuss the coach, the refs, and the game plan. We offer cheers when things go well, and shoulder and Kleenex when they don't. We replay the close games in our sleep.

We learn about sprained ankles, shin splints, sore muscles, tendons, cartilage, arthroscopies, and that fracture takes at least six weeks.

We've seen amazing displays of temper, tears, and unsportsmanlike conduct in the heat of the moment.

We've seen parental pressure that could properly be called child abuse. We've attended sports events in fog, mud, rain, snow, ice, and wind.

We've wondered many times if it's all worth it, as when we are paying for a pair of basketball shoes.

ON THE PLUS side, we've seen a lot of character developed, a sense of comradery in victory and defeat, some outstanding performances by some great kids, male and female; and we've developed an appreciation for development of coordination and physical attributes.

This year, we've had the challenge of attending junior high, high school and college basketball games together. The kids, and the college games are 100 miles away!

We still don't know if it's worth it. We estimate we have at least four years of it left.

We notice parents of former athletes still coming to wrestling meets and games. I have a hunch it becomes a habit that's tough to break.

Tonight we have a free evening. It's tempting to stay home by the fire. But we're going to Norfolk to watch a couple of teams we've been reading about.

Maybe, instead of a habit, it's an addiction. If so, we'll have to start looking for a detox center.

Economist's corn predictions

Rags to riches headed back to rags

The 1983 corn production year saw prices go from a "rags to riches" situation, and "we probably are headed back to the 'rags' side of the market."

This pessimistic outlook comes from Lynn Lutgen, University of Nebraska extension economist, based largely on predictions of a strong U.S. dollar holding down corn exports and increased competition in the corn market because of improved corn yields around the world.

While acknowledging the presence of a number of bullish factors indicating the prices possibly could rise, Lutgen predicted trading of corn the next couple of months will be between a range on the futures of about $2.25 to $3.45 a bushel. "This would translate to a range of $2.90 to $3.15 or possibly $3.20 on the Nebraska cash market," he explained.

"IF FUTURES continued to trend below the $3.25 to $3.45 range, we could see prices 10 cents to 15 cents lower than present levels," Lutgen continued.

Recommended strategies for producers might be looking for opportunities to sell corn during short-term rallies and possibly forward price some of the 1984 crop, he said.

Looking further ahead, Lutgen said the 1984 crop, assuming average yields and increased total acres planted due to fewer acres taken out for PIK compared to 1983, could result in a total supply of around 8.5 billion bushels for the 1984-85 season.

"This would make the situation look very much like 1982, a year of overabundance of corn supplies," when corn dipped to $2.20 to $2.30 per bushel, Lutgen said. "If this happens, fall 1984 cash prices in Nebraska could drop to a range of around $2.40 to $2.50 a bushel," Lutgen said. "We cannot expect to find help in the export picture due to the strength of the dollar and competition, nor can we expect our exports to increase sufficiently to offset the potential corn crop that would be produced in an average year," he reiterated.

PROJECTED ENDING stocks of corn in the United States in October 1984 are 595 million bushels, compared to the previous year's total of 3.43 billion bushels of corn, Lutgen said. It is estimated that the farmer-owned reserve will carry only 50 million bushels of corn and the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) inventory will be only 175 million bushels by this fall, he said. This would make free stocks 370 million bushels.

The basic fundamentals of supply and demand production and usage, resulting in the projection of the low free stock carryover, "would indicate on the surface that the price of corn should have risen and continued to rise above preharvest levels," Lutgen said. But, he said, corn prices ran into some of the same problems as did other grain markets—demand side strength weakened overseas due to such factors as the strong U.S. dollar.

Bean price outlook is drab

With a month of the new year gone, "the trend on soybeans is for lower prices to producers," according to an analysis of the situation by a University of Nebraska extension economist.

Grain marketing specialist Lynn Lutgen said "1984 appears to be a year—at least in the short term—in which soybean growers, if they are going to average a projected average cash price of $7.88 per bushel, will have to look for selling opportunities and sell on rising markets."

A decrease in harvested acres of soybeans in 1983 and an accompanying drop in national soybean production of 30 percent due to drought conditions and the impact of the PIK program fostered "extreme optimism" last fall among analysts, Lutgen recalled.

DESPITE A record carryover of 387 million bushels of soybeans on Sept. 1, 1983 as a result of a bin busting 1982 crop, it was felt the potential decrease in soybean supplies because of the sharply curtailed 1983 harvest would boost prices well above the 1982 average farm price of $5.57 a bushel.

During "an era of optimism," the agriculture sector heard prediction of a range of $8 of $14 for soybeans last fall, Lutgen recalled. March 1983 futures hit a high of about $9.80 in early September and since have declined to present levels.

A continual strengthening of the American dollar beyond earlier estimates has mad soybeans much more expensive overseas, Lutgen said. Exports are expected to decline from 900 million bushels last year to 775 bushels this year—a drop of 20 percent, he added.

A series of extremely "bullish" reports on supply and demand last fall were offset dramatically by technical factors in the market, Lutgen said, "and all charts displayed a downward trend (in prices) and the market has continued in the manner."

FOR THE balance of 1984, at least two factors will continue to influence price as the U.S. growing season nears, Lutgen said. —The strength of the U.S. dollar will continue to impact the value of beans. "It does not appear the dollar will weaken significantly," Lutgen stated.

—The time is fast approaching when competing soybean-producing countries will be starting to market their soybeans. Brazil is projected to produce a crop of 15.6 million metric tons, up 300 million tons from previous projections.

"If we assume an average crop this season, we can expect an increase in acres harvested and the average yield to increase by at least 3 bushels per acre. This leads us to conclude that this fall's (October-November 1984) prices will be less than the present price levels," Lutgen said.

Mastitis increases

Alert affects milk industry

Milk quality tests on dairy herds throughout the state show dramatic increases in violations of somatic cell counts, according to the State Department of Agriculture. This situation can prevent producers from selling their milk and possibly result in producers' permits being suspended.

These high somatic cell counts are the result of inflammation of the udder (mastitis). "We would like to alert everyone possible to this situation," as oftentimes, subclinical cases of mastitis can go undetected for a period of time," said Dan Borer of the Bureau of Dairies and Foods. Borer called the situation serious, adding it will continue to affect producers in the months ahead. Producers must keep good records in order to market their milk.

The Grade "A" law and the manufacturing law somatic cell count requirements are "whenever three out of five of the last consecutive somatic cell counts are in violation, the producer's permit shall be suspended

"In the case of Grade "A," the regulatory agency will suspend the producers, the plants are required to reject their milk.

The Bureau of Dairies and Foods urges all dairy producers to adopt a basic mastitis control program and to contact their industry fieldman for more information.

Another valuable source of information is the Mastitis Control Guide, produced by the University of Nebraska's Cooperative Extension Service. Borer said

These guides provide assistance and guidance and were prepared by a team of mastitis experts. To obtain the guides or receive more information, contact Dan J. Kubik, Northeast Station, Concord, Nebraska 68028, telephone 584-2281.

We hope to alert interested persons to what we consider a serious situation for dairy producers," Borer said. "We suspect many will feel some adverse affects before we get back to normal."

Work-study scholarships in Japan

Ten scholarships are available for youths 16 to 19 years of age to study and work with farm families in Japan.

According to John Orr, University of Nebraska extension 4-H specialist, those selected will spend May 30 to July 22 studying the Japanese culture and agriculture while living with farm families.

"Applicants should have experience working with farm machinery and livestock," Orr said. "They should have knowledge of fertilizer recommendations and agricultural practices. And they should be interested in the importance of world trade to agriculture," he said.

DELEGATES WILL be selected March 1. Orr said Applications are due in county extension offices by Feb. 24.

"College graduates are finding that interviewees from business and industry are especially interested in the applicant's international experience," Orr said. "This experience will be very valuable to persons who will eventually have careers as farmers, ranchers or in other areas of agribusiness."

Orientation will be provided to all delegates, he said. Each delegate will gain experience in language, Japanese culture, Japanese agriculture and trade issues during orientation.

"Japan is the world's largest importer of farm products, having imported more than $5 billion of basic products in 1983," Orr said. "Delegates will learn the system of grain handling in Japan. They will have a chance to learn the Japanese viewpoint on agricultural trade issues of importance to Japan and Nebraska."

A grant by the U.S. Information Agency has provided the funds to initiate the program. Orr said. Orientation and additional support will be conducted by the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service.

Rabies vaccine includes horses

U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have approved recommendations for the use of a rabies vaccine to include protection for horses against the disease.

Dr. David A. Espeseth of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said his agency has approved label revisions recommending the rabies vaccine of Merieux Institute, Inc., Athens, Ga., for immunizing horses.

He said the only manufacturer previously licensed to produce a rabies vaccine for horses had ceased production more than a year ago. The Merieux Institute vaccine was initially licensed for use in dogs and cats, and later expanded to include cattle and sheep.

Recent test has demonstrated the effectiveness of the vaccine in protecting horses against the disease.

USDA staff veterinarian Espeseth said a 2 milliliter dose given into the muscle has been shown to protect horses three months of age or older. We recommend revaccination, he said.

Under the Virus-Serum Toxin Act of 1913, all veterinary biologics such as vaccines, bacterins, antigens and toxins must be licensed by USDA if they are distributed in interstate trade. Biologics manufacturers must also obtain establishment licenses that require high standards of operation, sanitation, quality control and record keeping.

Waiting just one more year to start an IRA will cost George $43,467.

There are rewards for starting an Individual Retirement Account early. When you do, you'll get more security into your retirement.

If George opens his IRA at age 25, (based on 9.50% annual interest) a $100 monthly deposit will provide him with retirement funds of $487,645 at age 65. Beginning his IRA at age 26 would provide funds of $444,178 — a loss of $43,467 for delaying one year.

Choose a plan to suit your budget now. Even $25 a month becomes a substantial retirement fund and every penny you deposit in your Federally insured Midwest Federal IRA is deducted from your 1983 taxable income.

Midwest Federal charges no fees or commissions. Stop in our office and we'll show you what your IRA can grow to if you begin now.

LOWER ELKHORN NATURAL RESOURCES DISTRICT

Groundwater levels rebound

Static groundwater levels in the Lower Elkhorn NRD have rebounded dramatically from 1982 to 1983. In fact, the average levels for most counties are the highest now than they have been since Lower Elkhorn NRD started the well monitoring program in 1976. This is particularly encouraging when you consider that precipitation during 1976 to 1983 period averaged 26 inches annually, which is normal for this area.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD monitoring program consists of spring and fall measurements of water levels in randomly picked irrigation wells. The measurement is taken by lowering a steel tape down the well and recording the static (non pumping) water level in the well.

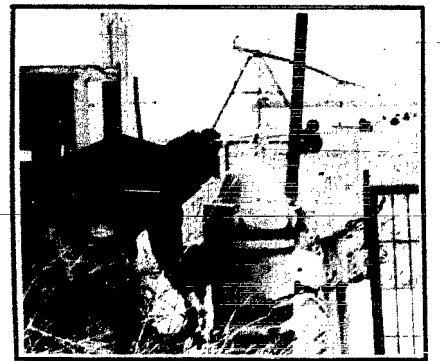

Almost 300 of the 2951 irrigation wells registered in parts of 13 counties in the Lower Elkhorn NRD are being monitored. Over a period of years, this information will help indicate areas of significant water-level declines and also evaluate the general availability of ground water resources.

Conservation and Survey Division and the United States Geological Survey which includes many other Natural Resources Districts throughout the State.

Recharge to an aquifer (layer of porous water bearing material, such as sand or gravel) is affected by temperature, soil moisture, and vegetation at the time we receive precipitation. (Ex.: Rain on frozen ground or a lack of vegetation increases runoff and thus, decreases recharge to the aquifer). The ground water supplies presently used have come almost entirely from precipitation within your local watershed.

Assistant Manager Don "Skip" Kahler monitors the static water levels of nearly 300 wells every spring and fall.

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District's monitoring program is part of a state-wide program coordinated by the University of Nebraska

In the 1976 to 1983 period, spring readings of the Lower Elkhorn NRD's monitored wells showed 218 water level rises ranging from .05 to 15.02 feet, and 55 declines .05 - 7.03 feet.

In the 1976 to 1983 period, spring readings of the Lower Elkhorn NRD's monitored wells showed 281 water level rises ranging from .25 to 15.10 feet, and 15 declines .01 - 2.14 feet.

Water level changes do not always compare logically with precipitation. The thickness, permeability, and porosity of the aquifer and overlying unsaturated material also affect the amount of water level changes. Over most of the Lower Elkhorn NRD, short-term water level changes brought about by weather conditions and/or heavy pumping are larger than the long term water level trends.

Data for individual monitored wells are available at the NRD or Nebraska Natural Resources Commission in Lincoln.

the 880 trees would be used and the purpose they serve. Entries should be submitted in February or March to KRVN radio station.

Cedar trees now available

A limited number of Eastern Red Cedar tree seedlings are now available for spring planting. The Clarke-McNary distribution program sold out of the seedlings very early in November, but Lower Elkhorn NRD has now obtained a small inventory from other NRD's.

If you wish to obtain cedar seedlings for spring planting of windbreaks, contact your local SCS office. SCS personnel can also assist you in design, species selection, and arrange for planting if you desire.
