THE WAYNE HERALD

State title fulfills dreams of father, son

By Randy Hascall

Two dreams were fulfilled Saturday when junior Kevin Koenig became Wayne High School's first wrestling champion in the school's history.

For many years, Kevin had dreamed of becoming a state champion. For many years, his father Don had dreamed of coaching a state champion.

It is ironic that both dreams were fulfilled at the same time. Koenig the coach started Wayne High's wrestling program 17 years ago. Although the school has produced many exceptional wrestlers over the years, none had captured a gold medal at state—until this year.

"DAD WAS ONE of my main incentives. I knew he had never coached a state champion and that he wanted one," Kevin said, remembering the many occasions over the years when his dad had mentioned that.

Wayne High has had numerous state medal winners including coaches-up Ken Daniels and Allen Wischhof. Jim Meyer, who now coaches at Ft. Calhoun, was a third place finisher for the Blue Devils.

Coach Koenig's son turned the dreams into reality Saturday afternoon with a hard earned Class B 185 pound state championship.

The victory pushed his season record to 31-0 and his three year mark to 74-3. The only other loss in his wrestling career came in a freestyle match when he was in junior high. Counting matches at the junior high and elementary levels, he has claimed more than 110 wins.

KEONIG LIKELY would now be a three time state medal winner but a shoulder injury sidelined him late in his freshman year with a 14-2 record. Last year, he placed third in state at 185 pounds.

In his 31 matches this season, Kevin has scored 33 takedowns while allowing only 1. Koenig pinned 23 of his 31 foes. Even more amazing is the fact that the state champ gave up only 8 points for the entire year.

Six of those points were scored by Brad Ferguson of Chadron in the state semifinal match. Ferguson was the only individual to take Koenig down but still suffered a 9-6 loss.

Kevin has downplayed many wrestlers with his tremendous strength, which he uses to neutralize most foes' moves. The Wayne grappler can bench press 305 pounds.

DON AND KEVIN were welcomed back home Sunday afternoon by a caravan which turned out to meet the Koenigs, state qualifiers Mark Janke, Rod Lutt, Doug Doscher and assistant coach Lonnie Ehrhardt at the city limits.

Nearly 100 Wayne residents turned out on short notice as an informal reception was held at the middle school. Coach Koenig was informed of the reception before leaving Lincoln but said the wrestlers knew nothing about it.

"The closer we got to Wayne the more excited I became," Don said. "We want to thank the people in town for sharing an important moment in our lives." Don said.

"It was nice of the people to turn out and show their support," Kevin added.

BOTH KOENIGS said they believe that a referral to wrestling as an "individual sport" is a misconception.

"You're out there on the mat by yourself but how did you get there?" asked Coach Koenig. "The team was there. They were as much a part of that championship match as Kevin was. His teammates made a big difference."

Kevin said he agrees that his teammates deserve much of the credit. "You bet they deserve a lot of credit. I was just representing the team."

For the first time in his career as a coach, Don decided not to work out with any of his wrestlers this year. He said he didn't want to be responsible for any injuries to wrestlers.

Kevin worked out with Chris Wieseler, Tim Book and Brian Loberg most of the year. Teammates and Wayne fans gave him needed support during his matches at state.

THE FANS at state didn't get to see the strain on Koenig's face during his matches. He was forced to wear a protective face mask because of an injury he suffered in the district tournament.

Four of his lower teeth were knocked back in a district match when an opponent's elbow struck him in the face. Two were broken off under the gum and will require root canal work.

The mask came off after the championship match and Kevin, who rarely shows much emotion, revealed a grin during the medal presentation.

"I don't usually let it show when I'm real excited. I probably wouldn't have smiled when they gave me the medal but a bunch of the guys (teammates) were making faces at me," Kevin explained.

KEVIN SAID strength, quickness and knowledge of moves are 3 important assets in wrestling.

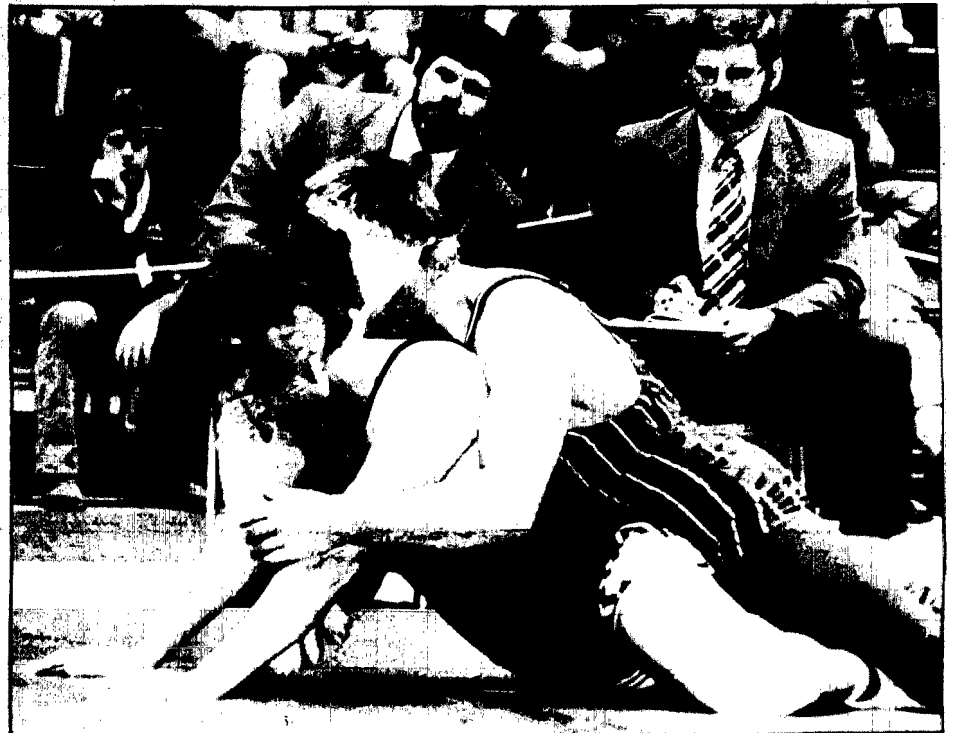

For Kevin, the state championship is an exceptional accomplishment in a high school career that is not over. He has 1 year of education remaining.

It is hard to imagine a state champion having any weakness but Kevin said he hopes to improve his rides (moves in the top position). He added that he will have to work hard next season and be ready for each match.

Kevin, who started wrestling in third grade, downplays his state championship, saying that it was important to him but adding that he has his whole future ahead of him.

So, what did Koenig the coach tell Koenig the wrestler before he championship match?

"I just said, 'It's yours,'" replied Don.

COACH KOENIG watches his son wrestle in the Class B 185-pound state championship match. Kevin won the gold medal to become Wayne High's first state champion since his father started the wrestling program 17 years ago. Seated by Don Koenig is assistant coach Lonnie Ehrhardt.

Record 19 inches of snow demobilizes Wayne area

Sunshine and warmer temperatures early this week are helping ease the effect of the weekend's record snowfall.

A total of 19 inches of snow was dumped in the Wayne area Friday night and Saturday, according to Pat Gross, Wayne's official weather keeper for the National Weather Bureau. The wet snow amounted to .6 of an inch of moisture.

That snowfall set a new record for amount of snow in a 24-hour period, breaking the record set by an 18-inch snowfall recorded in late November. Norfolk reported 22 inches of snow and Verdigris had 24 but Sioux City reported only 8 inches.

MOTORISTS HAD to contend with ice and slush covered streets Monday and Tuesday. Street crews began snow removal on Saturday but couldn't keep up with the storm.

The heavy, wet snow was difficult for the snowplows to push and created problems for the crews. Wayne's city street crew continued on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, opening streets and alleys, removing some of the slush and dumping snow.

Vern Schulz, superintendent of the Wayne Street Department, said this snow was harder to move than the 18-inch snowfall in late November.

The wet snow was so heavy that snow blowers weren't effective in clearing the streets, Schulz said. The street crew was forced to use loaders and V plows to remove the snow.

"THIS SNOW is harder to move because of the weight. It's more expensive but it is a little more time consuming," Schulz said. "Otherwise, everything is going fine."

Packed snow and frozen slush made driving rough on some streets.

The condition of highway to south of Wayne was considered poor early in the week. Other stretches of highway were snow covered and congested.

A WAYNE Street Department crew works to clear the piles of snow from Main Street.

Tickets are being sold for Fresh Aire concert

Tickets are on sale for the Fresh Aire concert scheduled Thursday, April 5 in Wayne.

The group Fresh Aire, also known as the Mannheim Steamroller, will perform at 8 p.m. in Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus.

Sandra Elliott, chairman of the Wayne Centennial Cultural and Historical Committee, said the group has agreed to hold an additional concert if the first one is a sellout.

THE PERFORMANCE, which will be part of Wayne's Centennial activities, is the only concert the group has scheduled in Nebraska.

The Omaha based group has received international attention for its mixture of old and new sounds, according to Bud Froelich, chairman of the Wayne Centennial Committee.

All of the individual pieces of music they perform are written within old forms of music but with a sound consistent and current with today's idioms.

The music blends traditional styles, particularly Baroque, with contemporary sounds derived from jazz and rock to produce an original form of musical experience.

The term, "Fresh Aire" is used for all of the group's record albums but Mannheim Steamroller actually is the name of the group. They recently finished production of a new album called "Fresh Aire V," a combination of the group and the London Symphony and Cambridge Singers.

THE CONCERT also will combine still photography, animated film, dance, computerized lighting and special effects.

"This is an excellent opportunity for people to experience a first rate nationally acclaimed performance," Mrs. Elliott said. "The annual sellout performances in the Orpheum Theatre in Omaha will not take place this year so that Wayne can enjoy the privilege of hosting the only Nebraska Fresh Aire concert in 1984."

The $10 general admission tickets for the show are on sale at First National Bank and State National Bank in Wayne, the Student Union information window at Wayne State College, Mid City Stereo in Norfolk and Uncle John's in Sioux City.

They also may be purchased with MasterCard, Visa or money order mailed to: Fresh Aire, P.O. Box 346, Wayne 68787.

Leap Year specials planned

Wayne merchants are planning special activities next Wednesday as part of a Leap Year promotion by chamber of commerce members.

Stores will be open extra hours—from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Special discounts will be offered during those hours.

From 8 a.m. to 8:30 many businesses will offer 29 percent discounts. The discount will be 25 percent from 8:30 to 9:30, 20 percent from 9:30 to 10:30, 15 percent from 10:30 to 11:30, 10 percent from 11:30 to 12:30, 5 percent from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., 10 percent from 1:30 to 2:30, 15 percent from 2:30 to 3:30, 20 percent from 3:30 to 4:30, 25 percent from 4:30 to 5:30 and 29 percent from 5:30 to 6 p.m.

Some businesses will offer other types of discounts. In addition, many merchants will be giving out coupons for free cups of coffee at Vef's Bakery, POPO's II, Daylight Donuts or 7-Eleven.

Special promotional advertisements will be published in Monday's edition of The Wayne Herald.

Essay contest on alcohol education

Three topics are being proposed to students who enter the annual essay contest sponsored by the Nebraska Council on Alcohol Education Inc.

Junior high students will write on "The Keg Party Generation: Alcohol Use Among Youth." Senior high school students have the topic, "Alcohol in the Media: Effect Upon Youth."

Students can use no more than 700 words in their essays. The contest will close March 12. They can win up to $150 in saving bonds.

For more information write: Nebraska Council on Alcohol Education Inc., 4547 Calvert St., Suite 6, P.O. 6225, Lincoln 68508; or call: 489-3000.

Scholarship finalists

Blaine Jabs and Rodney Porter, seniors at Wayne-Carroll High School, have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

They are among 13,500 students nationally who will compete for 5,200 National Merit Scholarships. Scholarship winners will receive their offers in March and early April.

Blaine and Rodney were among students from across the nation who entered competition through the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test available to juniors at their local high schools.

Blood bank is coming Tuesday

The Siouxland Blood Bank will be accepting donations at Providence Medical Center in Wayne on Tuesday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The last 6 donors will be screened at 2:30. Donors must be in good health and between the ages of 17 and 66. They should eat an adequate meal before donating and never had hepatitis, jaundice or cancer.

Wayne graduate in Midland play

John Warne of Wayne, a graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School is a member of the cast selected for Midland Lutheran College's spring production of "The Elephant Man."

The play is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. March 8-10 in the old gym on the Midland campus.

Snow days slated in Laurel

Laurel businesses will sponsor special promotions today (Thursday) during Snow Days sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The event also will feature a softball game on Saturday, Feb. 25 at the Laurel softball field, regardless of weather conditions. Participation is open to all interested persons for a $1 fee. Admission for spectators also is $1.

Ballroom dancing also is planned Saturday during a Snow Ball from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. in the Laurel city auditorium. Music will be provided by Complete Music of Norfolk, and admission is $2 per person. Proceeds will go to the Laurel Pool Improvement Fund.

There will be several drawings for prizes during the dance, including a grand prize mystery gift.

Hosts for international students sought

Host families are being sought for 25 high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Colombia, Brazil and Japan for the 1984-85 school year.

The program is sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange. The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August of 1984, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in late June of 1985.

AISE also is seeking American high school students who would like to spend a high school year in one of those countries. Anyone interested in the program should contact: Susan Kruse, 1615 Fair Avenue, Falls City 68355; 245-3519.

WSC to host jazz festival

Wayne State College will host the Jazz Festival, to be held Saturday, Feb. 25, in Ramsey Theatre, located in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Schools will compete for first, second and third place trophies and will be judged by Reginald Schive of Storm Lake, Iowa, and Ray DeBilliss of Vermillion, S.D.

In addition to school awards, Mid Bell Outstanding Musician awards will be presented to one student in each of the following categories: woodwind, brass, drums and rhythm instrument other than drum.

The Wayne State College Jazz Ensemble will also perform. All performances are free and open to the public. Dr. Ray Kelton, WSC band director, is the festival chairman.

Monthly siren tests scheduled

The City of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of the Civil Defense outdoor warning sirens at 1 p.m. tomorrow (Friday).

All siren signals will be tested in the silent mode with the exception of the HI/LO signal, which will be allowed to run approximately 15 seconds to test the effectiveness of the system.

If any resident living near a siren location should fail to hear the HI/LO signal, please contact the Wayne Police Department promptly, so that the siren can be checked for malfunction.

Peru State representative in area

A representative of Peru State College will be at Wayne High School at 8:30 a.m., Monday, Febr. 27 and at Winside High at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow (Friday) to discuss higher education planning with area students.

Beth Probst, admissions counselor at Peru State College, will be available for consultation on the college's academic programs, financial aid opportunities and extracurricular activities.

Peru State is a four-year, co-educational, fully accredited college supported by the State of Nebraska. The college offers a wide selection of four-year academic programs including several pre-professional courses of study.

Dean's list announced

The names of students who have earned a place on the dean's honor roll for first semester at Kearney State have been announced.

Dean's honor roll student must complete 12 or more hours for which quality points are awarded, with a grade average of 3.5 or better on a 4.0 scale. Students earn 4.0 for an "A," 3.0 for a "B," and 2.0 for a "C." Courses taken on a credit/no credit basis can not be included among the necessary 12 credit hours because quality points A, B, or C are not awarded.

Area students who earned a 4.0 or straight "A" average are Shelby Farris of Wakefield and Brenda Mosier of Wayne. Kathy Gustafson of Wakefield earned a 3.5 average.

Ping pong winners

THE ANNUAL Wayne Middle School ping pong tournament produced these first, second and third place winners in singles and doubles divisions. The tournament, which has been held for several years, was recently completed in the basement of

business notes

Lowell Schardt has been appointed to the position of district sales manager for the Plains Division of Pioneer Hi-Bred International Inc. Schardt began his duties in our northeast Nebraska on Jan. 15. His responsibilities include working with and directing Pioneer salesmen, assigning sales areas within his district and evaluating product performance in the field. Prior to his employment with Pioneer, Schardt worked as a co-manager for 2 years at the Herd Company, Thundersburg, a division of Barlett. He also was a farmer in a family partnership in Hastings. Schardt and his family now live in Clearwater but will soon relocate to the Norfolk area.

Thompson, Jim Cutshall and Stan Canner, all of Carhart Lumber Company, recently returned from attending the Lumbermate 10th annual Wood Roof and Floor Truss Seminar for building component manufacturers. The seminar, sponsored by Lumbermate Company, a leading connector plate producer and structural engineering firm in St. Louis, was held at Marriott's Pavilion Hotel in downtown St. Louis, and was attended by 250 building component manufacturers from across the country. The participants attended 3 days of scheduled workshops on many wood truss topics pertaining to product use, public safety, material properties, marketing and structural design. Workshop guest speakers represented the USDA's Forest Products Laboratory, Weyerhaeuser Company, the Southern Pine Inspection Bureau, the American Plywood Association and Purdue, Illinois, Washington State and Virginia Tech universities.

New round of brick-and-mortar projects

By Melvin Paul
The Nebraska Press Association
 After bringing new construction to a halt this fiscal year, Nebraska State Government is preparing to begin a new round of brick-and-mortar projects.
 In his January 4 Budget message to lawmakers, Governor Bob Kerrey recommended funds to begin four major construction projects. In its own preliminary budget for fiscal year 1984-85, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee has concurred with Kerrey's recommendations, and added a fifth major project to the Governor's list.
 Kerrey and the committee agree on beginning a $19.2 million animal science complex at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, a $10 million lab science building and a $2.2 million circulation road at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, at Omaha and a $1.8 million prisoner work-release center in Omaha.

Kerrey's list a $4.7 million activities center at Chadron State College.
 In all, the committee has tentatively set its capital construction budget for next year to $26.9 million, of which $20.4 million would be for new projects and the balance for continuation of earlier projects. Kerrey recommended a capital construction budget of $22.9 million, of which $16.3 million would be for new projects.
 The committee budget represents a 245 percent increase over current year capital construction appropriations. Kerrey's proposal represents a 194 percent increase.
 Vocational education programs in Nebraska high schools would benefit from a special state aid program under a proposal which is working its way through the Legislature.
 The Education Committee bill, LB 568, would provide $2 million for such programs as vocational agriculture, home economics and industrial arts.

needed to improve the preparation for the work-force of the 50 percent of Nebraska high school graduates who don't attend college.
 Although the bill is poised at final reading, it still faces many obstacles before it's enacted.
 Some lawmakers, including Senators Chris Beuller of Lincoln and Vard Johnson of Omaha, oppose the measure.
 Johnson said last week in floor debate that vocational education programs are important, but "surely are not our first priority."
 Johnson said funding of education should instead be directed toward an academic program which instills in students an appreciation for "the values of Western Civilization."
 A QUESTION also remains about whether Governor Bob Kerrey is going to approve of the new spending program. The second-year cost of the aid program is tentatively set by lawmakers at $4 million.
 Nine candidates will be listed on the May 15 Nebraska All-Star Presidential Democratic-Primary Ballot, and President Ronald Reagan will be the lone entry on the Republican ballot, Secretary of State Allen Beermann decided last week.

 State law gives Beermann sole discretion in deciding the presidential candidates who will be listed on the Nebraska ballot.
 Among the factors Beermann considers in choosing from the more than 150 announced presidential candidates is their acceptance as candidates by the national news media, their presence at other state primary election ballots and their effort to qualify for federal campaign matching funds.
 The Democrats who Beermann decided to list are Reubin Askew, Alan Cranston, John Glenn, Gary Hart, Ernest Hollings, Jesse Jackson, Lyndon Larouche, Jr., George McGovern and Walter Mondale.
 The candidates may have their names removed from the ballot if they file with Beermann an affidavit on or before March 16 indicating that they have no intention to run for president.
 Other candidates may be placed on the ballot if they collect 300 signatures of Nebraska voters.

Cut like a knife

Times are tough for farmers. As tough as they've been for many decades.
 Many farmers soon will be leaving a profession that has occupied them for many years. It's not a pretty picture.
 Another thing that is not pretty is the rumors that are circulating throughout Wayne and the surrounding area. Rumors of farmers declaring bankruptcy.
 There are enough farmers in the area who are declaring bankruptcy without rumors being started about those who aren't. It's a difficult period through which most farmers are going.
 It also has to be difficult for farmers to hear rumors that they are declaring bankruptcy or going out of business when it isn't true. Some of those unconfirmed rumors have been floating around the area in recent weeks.
 The rumors have gotten out of hand and they can cut like a knife.

Good show

Reprinted from The Sioux City Journal
 In the welter of second guessing over the Iowa caucus results, Siouxlanders can make a prediction with a fair degree of certainty: We have seen the last of the 1984 presidential candidates in these parts.
 Certainly, we knew this would happen as soon as Monday's caucuses were history. No—even before the caucuses were held, the Democratic presidential hopefuls had abandoned us for next Tuesday's shoot-em-up in New Hampshire.
 We would rather guess we'll not see either Republican or Democratic candidate once they have been chosen next spring, since the Great Plains is not exactly where the issue will be settled.
 But the pre-caucus politicking was a fascinating show while it lasted. And Siouxlanders can now be permitted to speculate on the results of the Iowa caucuses.
 For one thing, the results were not quite cut and dried. Mondale's big victory was all but assumed, of course. But Hart's second place came as a surprise to almost everyone—including Hart.
 Beyond that, the big news of the caucus was the dismal finish of John Glenn. Add to that the fact that Sen. Alan Cranston of California came in a weak fourth, when he was shooting for a strong third, and the Democratic field could very well now be narrowed to 2 persons. New Hampshire's primary next week could put the cap on it.

Violence in the Capitol: A step-up in security

The November bombing on the Senate side of the Capitol is not the first incidence of violence in that building through shootings, bombings and other violence have been rare in recent years. In the 19th Century, Members themselves sometimes created the violence.
 It is said that Van Buren wore pistols when he presided over the Senate. A Library of Congress photograph shows a "free for all" in the House during the debate on the Kansas statehood bill.
 In 1971, a bomb exploded in the Capitol in a ground floor restroom. It caused extensive damage, but no injuries. Following the explosion, there were extensive improvements in Capitol security. Since the recent November explosion, security measures have again been increased.

Among other things, the recently passed amendments expand the definition of construction to include (1) remodeling to improve access for handicapped persons, (2) remodeling to conserve energy, (3) renovation or remodeling to accommodate new technologies, and (4) purchase of historic buildings for conversion to public libraries.

THE AMENDMENTS also provide grants to state and local libraries to acquire foreign language materials. The maximum grant a library may receive in any fiscal year is $15,000.

Some form of reform is needed

By Cheryl Stubbendiek
Nebraska Farm Bureau
 For at least 10 years, Congress has been considering an overall reform of the Immigration and Naturalization Act. Every president since Harry Truman has called for such reform and has sent legislation to Congress in hopes of achieving it.
 Although there is general agreement on the need for reform, there is no consensus about what form is should take. The House of Representatives is expected to begin debating one reform proposal in March, but already proposed amendments are flying fast and furious.
 The Immigration and Naturalization Service estimates that at least 300,000 of the five to 10 million illegal aliens now in the U.S. are employed in agriculture. This number is about 10 percent of the total of agricultural workers in the U.S., but about 15 percent of hired farm workers. Thus, farmers as employers of temporary workers have an interest in immigration reform proposals.

ed in a single rather vague paragraph Under House Resolution 1510, the H-2 program would become very complex.
 One provision in the resolution makes it a civil or criminal offense -- with heavy fines and possible prison terms -- for anyone knowingly to employ an undocumented worker. I.e., an illegal alien To avoid discrimination against foreign looking or foreign sounding persons, the bill (and a similar one in the Senate) would require every employer to check that an applicant is a citizen or has some other legal right to be in this country and is eligible for employment.
 This information would have to be recorded on a form supplied by the U.S. Attorney General and would have to be kept on file for three years. Penalties up to $500 are provided if the Immigration and Naturalization Service finds that a person has been employed and the form has not been kept on file. The House bill does exempt those who employ fewer than four persons.
 Obviously, such documenting and record keeping would be onerous to farmers who often are in a time crunch when seasonal labor is needed. An amendment approved by the House Judiciary Committee and offered by Rep. Kindness of Ohio would make this program far more palatable. It provides that an employer is not required to record documentation on every prospective employee: UNTIL he is found guilty of knowingly employing an undocumented worker. After the first offense, documentation and record keeping would be required and penalties for not doing so would apply.

THE HOUSE Labor Committee is opposing the Kindness Amendment Under labor's proposal, that first warning would be eliminated (except for those employing no more than three such workers) and if an employer chose not to do the documentation and keep the records, he would be presumed to have knowingly hired an illegal alien. Obviously this flies in the face of our historic presumption of innocence until guilt is proven.
 Another amendment sponsored by the House Labor and education committees would permit agents of the Immigration and Naturalization Service to enter open fields without a search warrant to look for undocumented workers.

Farmers and ranchers should not be discriminated against in this respect since non farm properly owners already have the right to demand a search warrant.
 The proposals sponsored by the House Labor Committee reflect the historic attitude of the U.S. Department of Labor, namely that the department's job is to protect the jobs of U.S. workers. In reality, such temporary workers have generally done the jobs domestic workers were unwilling to do, such as hoeing beets.
 Along the same line, organized labor generally has said that there are plenty of U.S. citizens to do such work if only employers would improve the wages and working conditions.
 These proposals by the labor committee represent a frontal attack on agriculture, which depends on a viable temporary worker program for seasonal jobs. This is especially amazing when a relatively small number of jobs (the estimated 300,000 are involved).
 The Kindness Amendment should be retained, along with a requirement for search warrants to search open fields

Local control best way to influence community affairs

MERLE'S MESSAGE
from the Unicameral
 Legislative activity continues at an intense pace as the session approaches the halfway mark. As of last Wednesday, more than 300 bills were still at the committee stage awaiting public hearing or other committee action.
 Bills which aren't sent to the full Legislature for consideration soon have little chance for passage and will automatically die at the end of the session.
 I have received many letters and phone calls this week from people concerned about LB 744 which prohibits the use of video lotteries. The measure has put me in a difficult situation so I thought I might take a few moments to explain my position.
THOSE WHO contacted me expressed opinions both for and against the bill in about equal numbers. I know how those who are against video lotteries feel because I do not favor lotteries in general. However, the current situation in my district makes it very hard to vote for a bill to eliminate them.
 As the law now exists, counties and villages have the authority to operate a lottery within their jurisdiction. If their residents vote to approve it. Allowing residents of the political subdivision which will be most directly affected by the lottery's operation to vote on the question is an excellent example of local control.

 I have always advocated local control because I believe it is the best way to provide you and me with the opportunity to directly influence the affairs of our communities. Since becoming your state senator, I have voted consistently to retain the small amount of local control we have left.
 This year, for example, there is a bill to require counties to provide a retirement plan for all county employees, including county sheriffs, but the decision to participate in the plan is left up to the county Board.

WHO SHOULD make that decision? The state -- or your County Board which sets your tax levy and knows firsthand if your county wants or can afford such a program. Another bill would require everyone to adhere to a statewide building code. Again, we have a proposal which will take a substantive decision away from our counties, cities and villages.
 I don't believe I can support these proposals because of my position on local control. Having said this, I can't very well take lotteries. It should also be remembered that, since it is a matter which is decided locally, the current situation can be changed locally if there are enough people who petition to put the matter up for another vote.
 The Christian School issue was back before the Legislature on Monday. The Education Committee has advanced LB 698 which would eliminate the requirement that private schools operate with certified teachers. Instead, they could employ teacher who pass a competency test approved by the state Department of Education.

 An attempt was made Monday to amend the bill by substituting the recommendations of the Governor's Task Force for the committee proposal. This would have waived school approval and teacher certification standard for private schools if their students took a nationally recognized achievement test each year. The amendment failed on a vote of 20-26.
 Among other measures discussed last week was LR 3. LR 3 calls for a constitutional amendment to require the state to provide funding for any new programs which it funds the counties or other political subdivisions to provide.
 Sponsors of the measure agreed to lay the bill over for further action after a kill motion was filed on the resolution Tuesday. The state must realize that it can't force local governments to deliver additional services without providing additional revenue. I think the idea deserves serious consideration.
 If you have any questions or would like to comment on this or other legislation, please contact me c/o State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509 or call 471-9777.

Briefly speaking

Centennial gospel concert

Residents throughout the area are invited to attend a gospel concert on Sunday, March 4, as part of Wayne's year-long centennial celebration.

The concert is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. at First Church of Christ.

A number of groups from Wayne area churches, including a youth group, will be presenting special music. The program will include a song in German and spirituals. Persons attending the concert also will join in several selections.

Residents who would like a ride to attend the concert are invited to call 375-3401.

Bridge players invited to compete

All men and women bridge players are invited to compete this Sunday, Feb. 26 at 7 p.m. in at least 20 boards of duplicate play at the Woman's Club room in the Wayne city auditorium.

If 12 or more players attend, organizers hope to make the competition a regular event on the second and fourth Sunday evenings of each month. If enough interest is expressed, games also will be held on the first and third Thursday mornings of the month.

Any player is welcome, even if he or she is not familiar with duplicate techniques. A brief orientation for novices will be held 1/2 hour before play begins.

A small fee will be collected at each game and given to charity.

Persons who need a partner or wish additional information are asked to call Jane March, 375-1339.

Woodwards wed 30 years

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Woodward of Concord celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on Feb. 14.

Present for the observance were Mr. and Mrs. Thaine Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Woodward and family, Irma Woodward and Eltoise Yusten of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Neyron Woodward of Wayne, Keith and Kevin Woodward and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mulhair and family of Wakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hale of Allen.

The evening was spent playing cards, with prizes going to Mrs. Neyron Woodward and Thaine Woodward, high, and Mrs. Richard Mulhair and Walter Hale, low. A cooperative lunch was served.

BPW schedules meeting

Wayne's Business and Professional Womens Club (BPW) will meet Tuesday, Feb. 28 at the Black Knight in Wayne.

Following the 6:30 p.m. supper, Sister Rosann Ocken, Wayne State College campus minister, will speak on "Love One Another."

Sister Rosann, a graduate of Creighton University, with degrees in elementary education and pastoral studies, has served as Wayne State campus minister the past 2 1/2 years. Previous to coming to Wayne, she was involved in ministry work and in the teaching profession.

At last month's BPW meeting, members voted to present a $100 scholarship to a business major at Wayne State. The presentation will be made at a later meeting.

BPW meets the fourth Tuesday of each month. Women who would like additional information are asked to call President Lili Surber, 375-1207 or 375-2555.

Koenig first Devil champ, Thies third for Winside

Wayne's Kevin Koenig became the first Blue Devil state wrestling champion in the history of the school and Winside's Jeff Thies fought his way to a third-place medal in the final day of competition at the Nebraska State High School Wrestling Tournament last Saturday at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Bob Devaney Sports Complex.

Koenig and Thies, both competing at 185 pounds (Classes B and D respectively), were the only medal winners out of seven wrestlers to make it to state from the two schools.

SOPHOMORE MARK Janke (105 pounds) of Wayne, was the only Blue Devil besides Koenig to wrestle in more than one match. Rod Lutt (126 pounds) and Doug Doescher (132 pounds) lost their opening round matches and were eliminated when their conquerors lost in the next round.

The same fate befell Winside's Kyle Miller (132 pounds) as he lost an 11-5 decision to Sumner's Joe Bower, who lost his next match.

Janke went up against Tony Roman of Grand Island Central Catholic in the consolation brackets, but was pinned at the 3:20 mark.

Koenig won the gold medal by virtue of a 5-0 decision of Ogallala's Ty George, and finished the season with a perfect 31-0 mark. Twenty three of those victories came by pins.

WAYNE HEAD coach and Kevin's father, Don Koenig, said he was fairly confident Kevin would win the championship after escaping with a 9-6 decision over Chadron's Brad Ferguson in their semifinal match. Kevin had to score a takedown in the waning seconds before the victory was assured. He was also bothered during the match by an injury sustained during the district competition.

Koenig took an elbow in the mouth at West Point which bent two teeth in his lower jaw back and broke two more off below the gum line. The injury forced Koenig to wear a protective mask, but Ferguson's hand managed to work its way underneath, and the match was stopped for 1:58 while Koenig recovered.

Coach Koenig said Kevin held back some in the championship match.

"I think he wrestled pretty conservatively," coach Koenig said. "He saw the score (3-0) and knew he could beat the kid - he didn't want to blow it."

The younger Koenig agreed. "Yeah, I was conservative," Kevin said. "When you get ahead in that situation, it's not something you want to lose."

BOTH KOENIGS agreed the semifinal match against Ferguson was tougher than the championship bout.

"He was a lot better wrestler," Kevin said in reference to Ferguson. "Those (the semifinals) are probably the toughest matches of the whole tourney."

Kevin, who wrestled at 167 pounds as a sophomore last season and took third at the state tourney, said he hopes to remain at 185 next season.

The next step up is heavyweight. "That is a whole different style of wrestling," Kevin said.

WINSIDE MENTOR Paul Sok said he was extremely pleased with Thies' third place finish, especially after the junior lost a heart breaker via a pin by Wayne Lienemann of Wilcox in the final 30 seconds of their semifinal match on Friday.

The two were tied at 4-4 at the time. Thies then had to wrestle the following morning in the consolation bracket, where he decisively beat Jamie Hardin of Beaver City 7-2.

He then had to turn around and wrestle for third place a few hours later, where he pinned J. Steele of Arnold at the 2:27 mark.

"JEFF DID a super job controlling the match," Sok said. "It takes an awfully strong kid to get beat and come back like that right away."

Sok said he was also pleased with the Wildcats' season.

"We had a lot of fan support, even though we had a little bit of a down year," Sok said.

Few people would disagree that Winside competed in the toughest district - six of the teams in the D 2 district (Clarks, Leigh, Osceola, Scribner and Greeley) finished in the top 11 at the state meet.

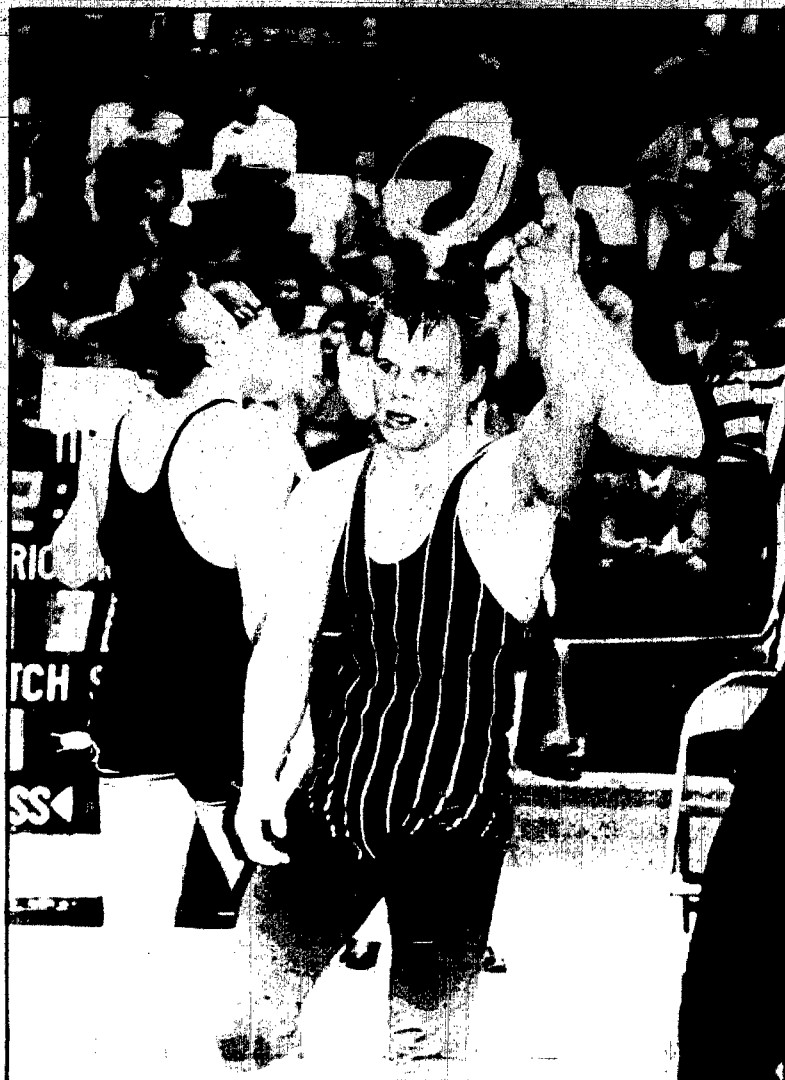

"We had a winning dual record and we finished in the middle at state," Sok added.

'Flat-footed' Trojans trounced by Emerson five

Somebody must have put something in Wakefield's water on Tuesday. That would help explain the sluggish performance by the Trojans' girls basketball team en route to a 42-18 drubbing at the hands of Emerson-Hubbard in the opening rounds of the Class C1-8 district basketball playoffs at Wakefield.

The Trojans found themselves trailing 10-4 at the end of the first period and 23-11 at halftime.

Things didn't get any better in the second half, as Wakefield went ice-cold — scoring just one point in the third period and six in the final stanza.

Wakefield head coach Mary Schroeder didn't offer any excuses for her team's play. "What can I say?" she said. "We played poorly — we were flat-footed."

That fact was evidenced by the Trojans' 7-of-47 (14 percent) shooting from the field. Emerson-Hubbard was 18-of-43 (41 percent).

"We just weren't sharp," Schroeder said. "We got three speeds ahead of ourselves and couldn't get back into our normal game."

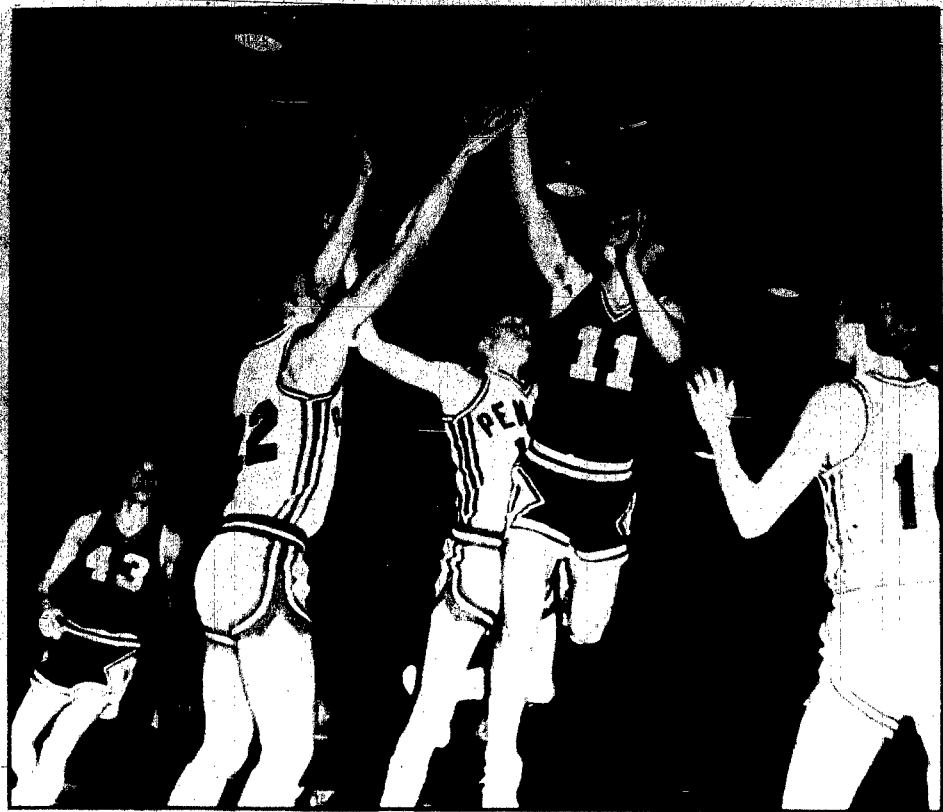

The Trojans' Brenda Jones paced Wakefield with nine points and five rebounds while Kim Nelson had 13 points to fuel the Pirates.

The Trojans finished the season with a 6-11 mark.

JEFF COBLE (11) of Wakefield shoots over the Pendragon defense.

Trojan rally falls short, Pendragons to finals

Pender's sophomore guard Jim Lehmkuhl made a sophomore mistake Tuesday night during the Pendragons' C1-8 District basketball game against Wakefield. He came off the bench and promptly grabbed a rebound and tried to put it through Wakefield's basket.

Fortunately for Lehmkuhl and Pender, the shot was no good. Unfortunately for Wakefield, it was about the only mistake the Pendragons made all night en route to a 35-67 victory.

The Pendragons came out smoking and opened up a 26-14 lead after one period of play and led 44-24 at the half.

The scrappy Trojans kept fighting and made the final score somewhat respectable. In fact Wakefield coach Ernie Kovar was quick to point out.

"ONE THING these kids have shown all year is a lot of character," Kovar said. "They battle hard. Tonight is another example — we had every reason in the world to get blown out."

Kovar applauded the efforts of Soderberg, who made just 2 of 5 shots from the field in the first half but caught fire in the second stanza to hit 8 of 10 shots. He finished the night with 23 points.

Pender's 6-3 Brian Wilmann led all scorers with 26 points.

KOVAR SAID the Pendragons' fast start was due to a coaching mistake on his part. "If there was a fault, it was because we didn't tip to the man to man early enough," he said. "We stayed in the zone and they just rattled us."

Wakefield finished shooting 47 percent

(30 of 64) while Pender was 32 of 60 (53 percent).

The Pendragons outrebounced the Trojans 31-28.

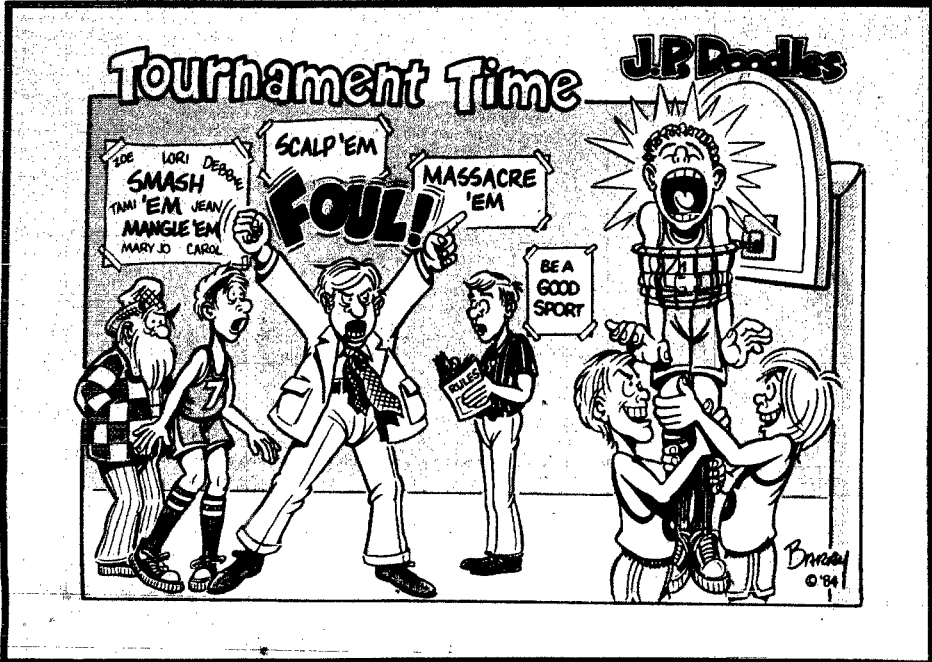

The Trojans finished the season with a 9-11 mark, which Kovar said was a noble accomplishment.

"This is really a fine bunch of kids," Kovar said. "It would have been easy for them to only have four wins, but they kept scrapping."

7-of-42 shooting Blue Devils ousted

Wayne High School's girls basketball team ended its season with a 57-21 loss at the hands of Schuyler on the road Tuesday night in opening-round action of the Class B-4 District Basketball Tournament.

The Warriors took a 31-12 advantage at the half and continued to roll in the second stanza.

Wayne was hurt by poor shooting all night, hitting just 16 percent (7 of 42) of its shots from the field en route to the loss. Schuyler was 24 of 80 (30 percent).

Karen Longe led the way with 15 caroms.

Complete statistics were not available at press time and will appear in next Monday's Wayne Herald along with a complete season statistical analysis.

The Devil attack was paced by Laura Keating and Fran Gross, who each tallied six points, while

Allen native is Indiana MVP

John Warner, a 1972 graduate of Allen High School, was recently named as the Most Valuable Player of 1983 by the Indiana University rugby team.

Warner plays the fly half position, which is the equivalent to a running back in American football.

The Indiana squad posted a 7-5 record this past season.

Warner is a captain in the U.S. Army and is attending Indiana University in pursuit of a Master's Degree in Physical Education. He will begin teaching classes at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., next school year.

Warner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Warner of Allen.

Bag lunch scheduled

Non-traditional students at Wayne State College may bring their own lunch to the Senate room in the lower level of the Student Center on Monday, Feb. 27 and enjoy an informal discussion with President Ed Elliott.

The luncheon starts at noon. The fifth in a series of programs is entitled "Meet Wayne State College's President." The program is designed to familiarize non-traditional students with the college.

NON-TRADITIONAL students are defined as students over the age of 23, particularly married students, commuters, veterans, single parents, elderly students/senior citizens, adults exploring career changes, extended campus students, and women beginning college after raising families.

Activities for the entire year have been planned for non-traditional students, including a financial assistance workshop, job market prospects, and job search assistance.

Persons who would like additional information about the program are asked to contact Dr. Lupack or Donna Bliss at Wayne State, (402) 375-2200.

Coping with personal pressures

A speaker and workshop program has been scheduled at Wayne State College for non-traditional students. The session, entitled "Coping With Personal Pressures," will be held today (Thursday) from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in room 18 located in the lower level of the U. S. Conn Library on the college campus.

Young Democrats elect officers

The Wayne State College Young Democrats recently elected officers for the spring 1984 school term.

They are Tom Spine, Yankton, S. D., president; Kathleen Neustrom, Wayne, vice-president; Tim Carper, Omaha, secretary; and Joe Hurd, Schuyler, treasurer.

John Vrbka of David City was elected state representative to the Nebraska Young Democrats, and John Moench of Omaha was elected public relations representative.

Faculty sponsors for Young Democrats are Allen O'Donnell of Wayne State's social science division, and Russ Rasmussen of Wayne State's math and science division.

WSC hosting jazz festival

Wayne State College will host a Jazz Festival on Saturday, Feb. 25 in Ramsey Theatre, located in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

The Wayne State jazz ensemble also will perform. All performances are free and open to the public.

faculty profile

WSC to host competition

Wayne State College will host the first annual undergraduate competition for art students.

The contest is being co-sponsored by the Nebraska Art Teachers Association and Wayne State College.

The exhibition is open to all undergraduate art students living in Nebraska.

ACCORDING TO Ray Replogle, Wayne State art teacher, a total of 45 works from 31 artists have been accepted in the first jurying.

The artists come from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Chadron, Concordia, Doane, Hastings, Kearney, Wesleyan and Wayne State.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the top four pieces as judged by Jon Nelson, curator for the Art Collection Center for Great Plains Studies, located at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

THE ART SHOW will be shown in the Nordstrand Art Gallery located in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center, and will run from Feb. 26 through March 16.

The art show is free and open to the public. Hours for the Nordstrand Art Gallery are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Saying that "student quality is very good" at Wayne State College comes easily to Dr. Jack Imdieke, assistant professor of business, as he begins his fourth year at Wayne State.

A native of North Dakota, Imdieke received his bachelors degree in business education and physical education from Valley City State College in North Dakota in 1968, and then went on to teach high school for six years.

In 1975, he received his masters degree from the University of North Dakota (UND), and in 1979 he earned his doctorate from UND.

IMDIEKE SAID he first became interested in business education in high school, where he had a coach who also taught business courses.

Imdieke belongs to several professional organizations, including the Association of Records Managers and Administrators, the Society of Data Educators, the National Business Education Association, the Mountain Plains and Nebraska State Business Education Associations, and Delta Pi Epsilon, an honorary business organization.

IMDIEKE AND his wife, Ellen, reside in Wayne with their two children, Kim 9, and Michael, 6. Ellen is a teacher at St. Mary's Elementary School.

Dr. Jack Imdieke

In addition to sports, Imdieke's hobbies include collecting record albums, especially those from the 1940's and 50's.

He said he likes Wayne State because "the smaller size institution gives you the opportunity to deal with students on an individual basis."

Pork producers should evaluate facilities

By Martin Keeler
Dept. of Ag Communications
Heat exchangers are offering the same allure to many hog producers in the 1980s that solar energy offered homeowners during the late '70s.

Because of a depressed market and concerns about general operating economy, pork producers are attempting to reduce some of their operating costs.

"If they can recover some of the system from a ventilation system, it's very beneficial," Gerald Bodman, a University of Nebraska extension agricultural engineer, said.

ALTHOUGH HEAT exchanger technology isn't new, the agricultural market for commercial heat exchangers is still an experimental realm.

Pork producers who are considering buying a heat exchanger should evaluate their present building construction and ventilation systems first, according to Bodman.

"In a poorly constructed building, a heat exchanger would look like it was saving a lot of money," he said. "But, a producer could save a lot more money for a lot less investment simply by making a good building to begin with."

In well-constructed swine buildings, about 70 to 80 percent of heating costs are due to heat lost through the ventilation system.

"That's an unavoidable cost because you simply have to get rid of moisture, and as you get rid of moisture, you take heat with it," he said.

Heat exchangers use warm exhaust air to preheat incoming cold air. To do this, they have a series of metal or plastic plates that separate intake from exhaust. The heat is exchanged through these plates, which transfer heat but prevent contamination of the fresh air.

PRODUCERS SHOULD beware of units that merely blend and recirculate air, Bodman said.

The three types of heat exchangers on the market are classified by the direction of airflow, which affects efficiency.

The most efficient is the counter-flow model in which the intake and the exhaust air flow in opposite directions. Its practical operating efficiency ranges from 25 to 30 percent.

The next most efficient is the cross-flow model in which intake and exhaust pass at a 90-degree angle to each other. Its efficiency is rated at 15 to 20 percent.

The least efficient is the parallel-flow model in which warm and cold air flow in the same direction. Efficiency is in the range of five to 10 percent.

Bodman said the initial requirements for considering a heat exchanger are: an energy efficient building; a good ventilation system; good management of the ventilation system.

"It's important to recognize that a heat exchanger is not a replacement for a ventilation system, but is an accessory to a good ventilation system," he said.

BECAUSE HEAT exchangers discharge warmed air at one point, a distribution system is necessary. Producers should avoid single discharge, high velocity systems. High velocity air can increase temperature requirements for equal comfort by 5 to 10 degrees.

Producers also should recognize that the other 20 to 30 percent of heat required in a well-constructed building is lost through the ceiling, walls and floors, the ag engineer said. This heat loss is unaffected by use of a heat exchanger, he noted.

Although literature on heat exchangers talk about 50 to 60 percent efficiencies, practical operating efficiencies are lower because of dust and condensation buildup on the exchanger plates, Bodman said.

"The producer must recognize that he is going to have to make some labor investments to keep the unit clean," he said.

He said weekly cleanings would likely be required to maintain high efficiency. Producers should expect dirt and ice in these units.

Another consideration is the electrical cost for extra motors.

"One of the factors I keep running into is that because of the way electrical systems and propane systems are plumbed or wired into the operation, very few producers really know within a hundred dollars what it's costing them to operate a particular building," Bodman said.

If a producer doesn't do some pencil pushing with these figures, he may end up paying the electric company everything he saved on propane, he said.

this and that

Abortion problem in cows

Abortions are quite common in the beef cow herd and may be minimized if the cause is known. Abortions usually occur during the latter stage of pregnancy in late winter.

It is not too alarming to lose one calf by abortion because of the many possible causes; however, a producer must be alert.

Your veterinarian should be aware of the first loss when it occurs. If another abortion occurs, contact your veterinarian again so proper samples can be collected and forwarded to a laboratory for possible diagnosis. Even with proper sample collection and laboratory tests, many tests are inconclusive about the actual cause of the abortion.

Sample items of value in laboratory diagnosis of abortions include the fetus (aborted calf), placenta (cleanings) and blood samples from the cow. The cause of some types of abortions is diagnosed only with blood samples, while others are diagnosed from the other tissues.

Some diseases that may cause abortions include vibriosis, several types of leptospirosis, IBR (red nose) and BVD (bovine viral diarrhoea). Certain poor quality feeds, nitrates, molds and other toxic substances also can cause abortions.

Preventive measures for this year may be limited, but a knowledge of abortion causes may aid in making future herd decisions.

Contact your veterinarian for more information if you have these problems in your herd.

TGE

Pigs under 21 days old are very susceptible to death from TGE. Precautionary measures are all important to avoid a devastating TGE outbreak in baby pigs, since no effective treatment is available. This is particularly important with colder weather when TGE is more prevalent.

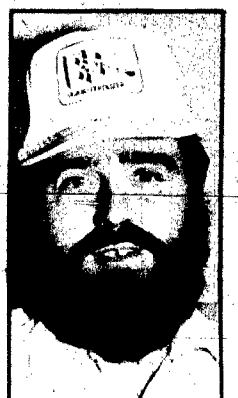

Preventive measures include keeping baby pigs and breeding stock away from other livestock, particularly newly purchased pigs. After pigs have recovered from a TGE outbreak, the TGE virus can be found in the digestive and respiratory tracts for up to four months.

Because the carrier state cannot be determined by testing, spread by carrier pigs that appear healthy is possible. Newly purchased breeding and feeder swine be kept away from the farrowing area. A much better plan is never to bring feeder pigs onto a farm with farrowing sows.

Care should also be taken to avoid transporting the virus via manure on clothing, boots, trucks, and other machinery. Particularly during the winter, this type of spread can be significant.

Farm talk

This week, The Wayne Herald asked 8 people attending a conservation tillage program at the city auditorium on Tuesday, "What do you feel are the advantages of utilizing a conservation tillage program?"

"Less equipment cost and fuel consumption for the low tillage I yield the same as anyone else in a normal year and better than others in droughty years because of the moisture conservation." — Steve Glassmeyer, Wayne, conservation tillage farmer

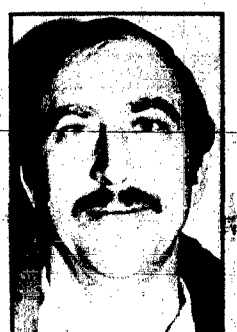

"The No. 1 advantage is reducing soil erosion. It also provides a fuel and labor savings and conserves soil moisture." — Elbert Dickey, Lincoln, Extension Agricultural Engineer

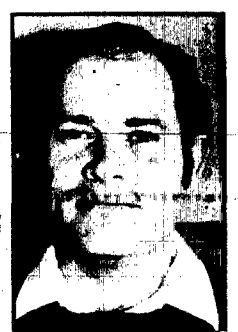

"It saves soil, time and money. It's good management and we need to be good stewards of our soil." — Harold George, Dixon, conservation tillage farmer

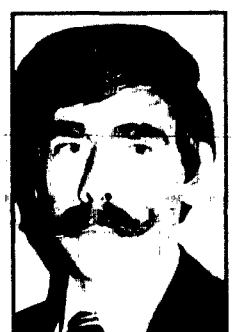

"The main advantage is to conserve soil moisture. Farmers also make less trips across the field and in the end get greater yields." — John Gilchrist, Norfolk, Ciba Geigy sales rep.

"Less cost per acre in equipment, labor and fuel. It's also a better management of time in the long run. There's less soil erosion and better quality soil." — Dale Jackson, Allen, conservation tillage farmer

"In 11 years, I have cut production costs without a loss in yields and possibly an increase. It's a good cost effective soil conservation practice." — Lowell Johnson, Wakefield, conservation tillage farmer

"The main benefits are reduction in soil erosion, potential for additional moisture retention and also for reduced fuel and labor in plowing." — Dave Shelton, Wayne, Extension Agricultural Engineer

1984 looks more optimistic for cattle

"This year is expected to be better price-wise for both yearlings and calves," said a University of Nebraska extension marketing specialist, in an encouraging note for cow-calf operators and feeder cattle producers.

Agricultural economist Al Wellman said the improved national economy and higher fed cattle prices should allow much stronger prices during longer periods in 1984. Prices for yearling feeder steers and calves in 1983 averaged below 1982 levels, he said.

Expected declines in feed grain prices also should contribute to higher bids for feeder cattle and calves by the last half of 1984, Wellman predicted.

PRICES FOR feeder cattle, especially the heavier feeders, and for calves have rallied from the fall, 1983 lows, Wellman confirmed.

"As always, yearling feeder cattle prices will remain near fed cattle prices until spring grazing time," he said, as cattle feeders remain cautious buyers.

Under the best foreseeable circumstances, yearling feeder cattle prices may average above $70 per hundredweight during the spring quarter, the economist said.

Influential factors include good grazing conditions, improved fed cattle prices, continued prospects for lower feeder prices and resumption of herd building.

Later this year, total feeder supplies are likely to tighten considerably, he said. And calf supplies will tighten this spring and again in late summer.

At the same time, lower feed grain prices and higher fed cattle prices are likely to sharply increase the demand for feedlot replacement cattle during the last half of 1984, Wellman said.

Retaining a modest number of heifers for the breeding herd would further tighten supplies.

AGAINST THIS backdrop, Wellman sees prices for yearling feeders averaging in the upper $60 range during the last six months of this year. For the year overall, prices for yearling steers may average $4 to $7 per hundredweight above the $62 to $63 hundredweight average achieved in 1983. Feeder calf prices may be more volatile, he said, especially this spring when calf prices might raise $4 to $8 per hundredweight above yearling prices.

Slaughter cow prices may average in the lower $40 per hundredweight for 1984, or about equal to slightly above last year. Beef cow slaughter may remain below year earlier levels from spring through this fall.

"However, possible sharp increases in dairy cow slaughter, particularly in the first half of the year, could reduce cull cow prices well below the $40 level depending on the level and the timing of dairy cow sales, Wellman said.

Currently, many Nebraska cattleman have been forced to move cattle from stalks or winter grazing to forage or hay feeding situations, the economist reported. Wintering cost are edging up as stockmen look at available feed supplies and anticipate the need to buy some additional feed.

Feed supplies are expected to be adequate but at higher prices at least until spring, than paid in 1983, Wellman said.

Summarizing, Wellman said that "if feeder cattle and calf prices achieve higher levels in 1984, then the stage may be set in the second half of this year to encourage the cattle industry to expand inventories in 1985."

farm briefs

Soybeans have low germination

Many of the soybeans grown in this area in 1983 have low germination, according to Don C. Spitzer, Wayne County extension agent, and should be checked for germination.

This area of possible low germination of soybeans cover northern Nebraska and Iowa and all of South Dakota. The most reliable method of checking soybean germination is through the State Seed Lab at Lincoln.

Soybean samples may be sent through the Wayne County Extension Office and should be done soon, Spitzer said, because the State Seed Lab will soon have more germination samples than they can handle promptly.

Beef members to weigh calves

Wayne County 4-H beef members will be weighing their 4-H calves Saturday (Feb. 25) at the Wayne Sales Barn from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Farm safety workshop today

A farm safety workshop will be held at the Laurel City Auditorium today (Thursday) at 7 p.m. sponsored by the Laurel Rescue Unit. Farmers and their families are invited.

Topics to be discussed include toxic atmospheres, power take off accidents, tractor overturns, burning, auger accident falls and crushing accidents. University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Safety Specialist Paul Schmitt will conduct the workshop.

Specialist forecast: Poultry outlook looking chipper

Turkey and egg producers are looking at a more chipper price outlook than in recent years.

Earl Gleaves, University of Nebraska extension poultry specialist, makes that forecast based on reports presented at the Agricultural Outlook Conference sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He points to the decline in egg flocks and turkey production as the primary reason for improved returns in 1984.

The egg outlook is good, Gleaves said, when it is compared to the beginning of the past five years. First year layer flock is the smallest at any time since records have been maintained in the United States, Gleaves said.

HE OFFERS the following reasons for the decline in layer flock size:

- The relatively low egg price of the past few years.
- A record increase in the practice of recycling.
- The rate of layer mortality increase.

Higher feed costs will exert pressure to prevent major increases in the hatching of first year layers, Gleaves said. He thinks the hatch will remain similar to 1983 numbers, at least through the first nine months.

"The high cost of money and low egg prices forced many producers to recycle," Gleaves said. He added that many of these producers had never recycled before. This practice has caused the age of the national flock to increase each year as older hens are kept in place of the first year layers.

GLEAVES SAID despite the older age of the flock, the rate of layer age has continued to increase year after year.

"The egg industry appears to be doing a better job of egg dusting/recycling with the hatch pattern. This will tend to stabilize the egg-type chick hatch and help prevent overproduction," he said.

In spite of feed prices, Gleaves said producers can expect a good first quarter. Prices continue to set new records. The avian flu has killed more than 4 million egg layers to date.

The relatively high prices of the late second quarter of 1983 will probably be about the same in June-September, 1984 as in June-September, 1983. Conditions in the last quarter of 1984 will depend on how well the egg-type chick hatch is maintained in the first half of the year, Gleaves said.

THE PER CAPITA turkey consumed in 1983 increased one-half pound from 1982. That totaled to 100 million pounds more than 1982. Turkey stocks on hand Dec. 31, 1983 were the lowest since the late 1970s. Gleaves said turkey production for the first quarter of 1984 is estimated at the 430 million pounds, with a total availability of 600-620 million pounds.

"That's 6 percent to 8 percent below last year's 640 million and 10 to 6 percent below 1982," Gleaves said. "This is the first decline during this period since 1978."

But production and marketing costs will be higher again this year, he added. Feed costs will remain high during the first three quarters and will depend on weather conditions for the fourth quarter. Total production is expected to be similar to 1983.

Consumer sized, whole bird, dressed turkeys started the year at 20 to 25 cents per pound higher than at the same time last year. If these prices continue, Gleaves said, 1984 will be a year that can overcome high feed prices.

But since half of the total amount of turkey sold is in further processed items, basing estimates on whole bird pricing may not be realistic. "As the market expands and continues to grow, Gleaves said the whole bird market will be "less and less important in determining turkey meat value."

"We need to be looking for a better way to establish price," he

Marketing specialist says feeders may see profit periods

Top managers in cattle feeding operations may experience in 1984 the longest period of monthly profits since 1979, a University of Nebraska extension marketing specialist predicted.

Al Wellman, in analyzing fed cattle outlook for 1984 and beyond, said "the positive news to take from 1983 into 1984 is that cattle on feed numbers are constructive. This sets the stage for stronger fed cattle prices in 1984."

Profitability levels will be determined by the level of feed costs and what cattle feeders are bidding for replacement animals, the agricultural economist said.

THE DEMAND side of the market strengthened in 1983, Wellman said, and red meat demand is expected to grow stronger in 1984-85.

Cattle numbers at the beginning of this year are estimated at close to the 115.2 million head recorded in January 1983. Forage supplies are expected to be tight but adequate unless the remainder of the winter is unusually severe, he said.

"Favorable cattle prices early in 1984 should check most plans for any further cattle sell-off and total cattle inventories should remain about the same or decline only slightly during 1984," Wellman said. (Fed cattle prices reached the highest level in 18 months at Omaha the week of Jan. 16, with observers citing higher priced grain and bitter cold as influential factors.)

With the national economy expected to continue a strong recovery in 1984, consumer attitudes and incomes promise to be much improved, Wellman said. In addition, U.S. beef exports, which have been expanding, are expected to increase again in 1984. U.S. beef imports this year are expected to be near to slightly below 1983 levels.

WHILE AVERAGE red meat prices this year may rise only moderately over year ago prices, there will be a large variation in quarterly retail price patterns, the livestock marketing specialist said.

"In the first quarter, red meat prices probably will be lower than a year ago because of a decline in hog prices. But second quarter red meat prices should be nearly equal to year ago levels," Wellman said.

From then on, Wellman said, strong demand coupled with slightly reduced red meat supplies will push prices sharply higher during the last half of the year.

His specific price predictions on prices of choice fed steers at Omaha:

- Average $66 to $68 per hundredweight this year, compared to $62-$63 per hundredweight in 1983.
- Fed steer prices may average $64 to $68 during the

Time will tell program's worth

With the paid Dairy Diversion Program a little more than one month old and figures out on the numbers of producers involved with the program, a University of Nebraska extension dairy specialist favors a "wait and see attitude."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture released figures showing only 12 percent of the nation's dairy producers are enrolled in the program. These dairy farmers plan to trim milk production by 23 percent of their normal flow.

These cutbacks add up to only 5.5 percent of the nation's estimated total milk output between Jan. 1, 1984 and March 31, 1985, the present duration of the program.

dairyman he needs to cut back production if he wants to stay in business. "This program is a way out and gives the dairyman some time. He has 15 months to get his act in order," Cole said.

THE USDA is threatening to cut the base price by 50 cents at the end of 15 months and may even cut it by an additional 50 cents at a later date if production still hasn't come down, Cole said.

"The government is giving the dairyman a warning, time and a paid incentive to adjust," said Cole.

The government buys surplus products to protect the industry, Cole said. It's cheaper for the government to pay this incentive to producers than to buy the surplus, store and give it away.

Cole said the government could tell the dairy producer to "sink or swim" but this would only cut the industry to the bone. U.S. population will grow and the industry may not get back up again, he said.

NEBRASKA'S participation in the program is higher than the national average. About one fifth or 21 percent of the Nebraska's dairy producers plan to participate in the program.

Nebraska producers also plan to divert a higher percentage of their production than the national average. Those who signed up for the program intend to divert 24.5 percent of their base milk production.

The Milk Diversion Program pays producers $10 per 100 pounds of milk for the percentage that they reduce between 5 percent and 30 percent. The program was enacted to cut down the record-breaking volume of surplus dairy products in government storage.

"We'll have to wait and see what will happen," said Phil Cole. "With only this number of people signed up, the program won't reduce the surplus problem enough."

Cole said this program is a break for the dairy producer because the USDA is telling the government to pay this incentive to producers than to buy the surplus, store and give it away.

Cole said the government could tell the dairy producer to "sink or swim" but this would only cut the industry to the bone. U.S. population will grow and the industry may not get back up again, he said.

"THIS PROGRAM will cost us some dairyman," Cole said. "When some cut down they didn't adjust enough."

Adjusting may mean cutting back on overhead costs such as labor and surplus feed and culling not only poor cows from the herd but also some good cows, Cole said.

"We haven't done real well on the first round but we haven't lost yet," Cole said. "I have hope for the rest of the 15 months."

Cole said that cutting back production should be a goal for every dairyman because it is in his best interest and that of the dairy industry.

"The ball game isn't lost yet," said Cole. "But the whole team has to get in and help."

Mr. Farmer's wife

As I write, we are watching the closing ceremonies of the Olympics. In spite of the lapsed performances, the weather delays, and the problems of Lou Vairo and the "clapper line," it's been beautiful and interesting.

One of the most fascinating performances was not on slope or ice. The Russian chess master, Karpov, was shown playing 20 simultaneous games, with any and all challengers.

It made us wish we could take advantage of the hospitality of our friends in L.A. for this summer. Also made us wish we had the muscles and conditioning of all those fine athletes to scoop this wet snow!

We had to be content to watch state wrestling finals on the tube, and we had the same thought then. Congratulations, Kevin Koenig, we were rooting for you.

stuff up and down the lane." And it looks as though we will be doing that for a few more weeks now.

We finally went to see "Terms of Endearment" and enjoyed the shots of UNL and Lincoln General Hospital. No one warned me that Debra Winger dies, and I didn't have enough Kleenex. But, again, we were disturbed by the language and the bedroom scenes. Is this really last year's best picture?

I also read Josh, by Joshua Logan, this week. It's fascinating stuff for people of my vintage because he describes the beginnings of Mr. Roberts, South Pacific, Picnic, and other great plays and movies. He, too, uses such raw language. People keep telling me that this is the way Americans talk. I hope that isn't true.

One other important thing to bring to your attention: February is Heart Month, not just for sweethearts, but for the pump in your body.

I'm in a recertification class for CPR instructors at Northeast Tech. There are firemen, teachers, nurses, EMT's, and a new college grad looking for employment; all being brought up to date in the teaching of this life saving skill.

FOR THE RECORD. I did not get a food processor for Christmas — he couldn't get to town on the 24th. And I did get to go out to eat for Valentine's Day. Thank goodness. Winside's Community Club traditionally has a pancake feed on that day!

The girls brought us candy and carnations. The Big Farmer brought an oversize canvas handbag. "Oh," I exclaimed, "just the thing to carry while tramping around in Europe." "No," he answered, "for carrying

ALSO FOR the record, I do know how to spell camaraderie. It was comoderie in last week's column. I'm vain about my spelling; I once took second place at a district contest.

I knew how to spell every word in the blue Eafon's speller, but the winner knew how to spell isosceles and hypotenues. He had worked ahead in his math book.

Problem was, my old Royal upright typewriter was ailing and in the repair shop. I was doing this weekly nonsense in NEBRASKA LEADS the nation in number of citizens trained in CPR. We're also doing a fine job of teaching it in our schools. Make sure you know how to do it.

Reading about it, or seeing a film about it, is no adequate preparation. It takes a nine-hour class, and practice on Resuscit-Ann. And if you learned how several years ago, get recertified.

Better yet, take care of your heart and you may not ever be the person needing CPR. I guess shoveling snow and walking in knee-deep wet snow both qualify as aerobic exercise, but you have to be in good condition for either.

Finally, because of our editor's untidy desk, I'd like to include this maxim: A perfectly kept house is a sign of a mis spent life! (Apologies to Jan Morris.)

Ag economist sees hope for improved hog prices

Improving economic conditions coupled with reduced meat supplies should result in higher hog prices in 1984, and producers should be able to turn a profit by mid-year.

Larry Bitney, University of Nebraska extension farm management specialist, bases that opinion on smaller numbers of hogs coming to market in the first half of the year and on the possibility of lower feed prices as a result of large corn and soybean crops in 1984.

BITNEY EXPECTS per capita consumption of red meat to decline in 1984. "Pork consumption per capita is expected to total 60 pounds, down two pounds from 1983." The 62 pound consumption last year was up 3 pounds from 1982.

The NU specialist sees pork production in the first quarter of 1984 up about 7 percent from a year ago, but only up about 1 percent in the second quarter over 1983.

Probable reduced supplies of pork and the stronger consumer purchasing power should continue to lift hog prices in the mid to high $50s in the third and possibly also the last quarter.

are expected to remain at this level at least through the first half of 1984. If expectations of large corn and soybean crops materialize, feed prices should drop in the last half of the year.

"Rising real disposable incomes and reduced meat supplies should strengthen meat prices in 1984 and as a result boost live animal prices," he said.

"The average price received for market hogs in the first quarter should average nearly $50 per hundredweight," he said. "During the second quarter (prices) should be in the $48-$52 range."

"Except for brief periods," Bitney said, "producers are not likely to realize profits until next summer."

"However," he said, "producers who have production costs that are 10 percent under the average are likely to realize profits all year long. Thus, the incentive for careful attention to management is high. Efficient utilization of facilities, high rates of reproductive efficiency, balanced rations at least cost, high survival rates of baby pigs, and higher hog prices through careful marketing practices are often characteristics of high profit hog enterprises."

He added that production costs

Dairy production, price outlook are more uncertain than usual, specialist says

The outlook for the dairy industry is more uncertain for 1984 than it has been for many years, according to University of Nebraska extension farm management specialist H. Douglas Jose.

The dairy diversion program is an entirely new approach for a government dairy program, according to Jose. Never before have dairy farmers received direct payments as incentive to reduce production.

"The big outlook question is what will happen after the end of the dairy program period on March 31, 1985," he said.

THE GOVERNMENT is expecting much of the reduced production resulting from the program to be sustained. But if this does not occur and surpluses remain high, the milk support price may be reduced to as low as $8 per hundredweight.

The diversion program is a signal to the dairy industry that the costs of overproduction are getting too high, Jose said.

Over the past five years, milk consumption has increased at a rate of only one percent per year, while milk production per cow has increased at a rate of two percent per year with cow numbers holding steady or increasing slightly.

"Most of the increase in consumption can be attributed to increases in population," Jose said. "Per capita consumption of fluid milk has declined nearly 10 percent since 1975."

It is hoped that the new advertising program funded by the 15 cent checkoff will increase consumption, he said.

"The dairy price support policy for 1985 and beyond is as uncertain as next summer's weather," he said. "It depends on how successful the incentive program is in reducing production and the effectiveness of the new advertising program in increasing use"

The Board of Community Schools of Wakefield met Tuesday afternoon at the school building to discuss the school year.

Mr. Hartman discussed the special education services the school is now receiving from Educational Service Unit 1 and the board felt the school should continue those services for the year.

A fourth grade elective, Spanish class, was discussed and the consensus of the board was to continue it through the end of the school year on an elective basis.

Principal Joe Coble discussed the following items with the board: high school students release time for work, early entry program with Wayne State College and the direction of the football program for the next 3 years.

Repair work on the ship area at the bus barn was discussed and the board gave Bob Miner permission to take care of the matter. The work will be completed by Wednesday and will be a great asset to the school.

Successful teaching of Ruth Larson and Sharon Shaw was reported and the board expressed appreciation for their efforts. The board also expressed appreciation for the work of the staff in the elementary building.

SCOUT WINTER CAMP

Three girls from the local Junior and Cadet Girl Scouts attended a winter camp Feb. 2-5 at Cross Arrows Camp near Nickerson. Attending were Angie Rasmussen, Kristen Miller and Melinda Rischmueller.

There were 35 girls from north-east Nebraska camping in the troop house. Each participated in hiking, games, songs, crafts and skis.

The girls were divided into patrols and each patrol had duties such as cooking, ceremonies and Sunday morning vesper. They ended their camping experience with a talent show Sunday afternoon.

Girls who have earned one badge since the first of the year include: Lynn Anderson, Lynn Schultz, Kelly Ekberg, Kristen Miller, Sarah Salomon and Starr Hillinger. Melinda has earned 2 badges and has also earned the Sign of the Rainbow. This sign is 1 of only 3 that may be earned in all 6 years of Junior and Cadet Girl Scouts.

The girls will be delivering their cookies starting the weekend of Feb. 25. There are 37 extra boxes of cookies ordered and if anyone is interested in buying more cookies contact Eugene Bach at 287-2550 for the different kinds available.

SLUE AND GOLD BANQUET

The Wakefield Scouts had their Slue and Gold banquet Feb. 4 at the Scout Hall to celebrate the 7th birthday of Boy Scouts.

Waterford has 25 active Tiger Cubs, Cub Scouts, Webelos and Boy Scouts at this time.

Lyle Brown was introduced as Cub Master for Den 1 and II. He gave a presentation on the importance of pack cooperation emphasizing that parents slay or boys alone without unity through the pack could not have a successful growing group.

Boys receiving achievement awards from Bob Cat to Wolf were Kelly Turney, Mason Beard, Jason Notebook, T.J. Preston, Mike Anderson, Chad Rasmussen and Darrel Piper. Kenny Schultz received 2 yellow beads towards his Wolf Badge.

Receiving Bear Badges were Scott Johnson, Marcus Tappe, Anthony Brown, Brandon Benson, Ben Gustafson and Arlen Chase.

Jeremy Jensen received 3 red beads towards his Bear Badge. Marcus and Brandon will join the Webelos group this month as they will both be 10 years old on the 15th.

The Boy Scouts were recognized for having won first place in basketball at the Sport-A-Rama held in Wayne 3 weeks ago. Scouts receiving swimming skill awards were Stuart Clark, Chris Lofe, Mike Mogus and Matt Pette. The Boy Scouts welcomed Cory Glatfelter into their troop.

A special guest was Jay Van Housen, district executive. He encouraged more parental involvement in leadership capacities. He also stressed that the only way the program can continue its successful route is through the parent's enthusiastic support and participation.

Special events—the boys are looking forward to are the Sport-A-Rama in the fall, the Kickoff in late March and one-third of the proceeds stay with the local scouts. Cub Day Camp in Norfolk will be a Saturday in June so a large turnout is anticipated and the boys again plan to have the local fireworks stand in July.

The Boy Scouts have already begun preparations to attend Camp Cedar's in Fremont July 8-14.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The Wakefield-Community Club is making plans to have a float built to be used this summer at various parades, county fairs, etc. A committee which has been working on the project reported to the Club on Feb. 9 at the regular coffee meeting hosted by the Senior Citizens Center.

Members of the committee, Norman Minola, Berneal Gustafson, Mike Salton and Marvin Borg, met last Monday to discuss the project. Don Kvam of Kvam Displays in Study City were present and gave ideas, estimate of the cost of a float and how to make the float flexible and easy to change from one design to another without too much effort.

Also present at the meeting representing the Senior Citizens were Ivan Johnson, Elvis Olson, Everett Van Cleave and Connie Navrak, center director. The Senior Citizens have volunteered to construct the float and a deadline date of June 1 has been set to have the float completed.

A girls softball program was discussed with the club serving as this year's sponsors. Marcia Krueger, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fischer and Ben Larson were named to select a site and place for the annual Community Club banquet.

Superintendent Derwin Hartman gave a report on school activities and the club will sponsor Teacher Recognition Day at the school March 1. It was announced that Paul Fischer is collecting eye glasses and hearing aids as a Lions Club project and the items can be left at the center.

ART DISPLAY

Eight students from Wakefield Community Schools were selected as winners in the Lewis and Clark Conference Art Exhibit and Show held in Emerson recently. Wakefield has 31 entries and ranked fourth among the 11 schools entered.

Winners included: Harlan Ulrich, Tom Halverson, Wayne Newton, Brenda Jones, Lucas Tappe, John Wreidt, Angie Rasmussen and Melf Peterson. Mrs. Jackie Dietman is the teacher.

The winning entries will be included in a traveling art show to all of the conference schools entered in the contest. The show will be in Wakefield during the week of March 15 and the public is invited to view the art work in the hallway between the high school and elementary school any time that week.

Waiting just one more year to start an IRA will cost George $43,467.

There are rewards for starting an Individual Retirement Account early. When you do, you build more security into your retirement.

If George opens his IRA at age 25, (based on 9.50% annual interest) a $100 monthly deposit will provide him with retirement funds of $487,645 at age 65. Beginning his IRA at age 26 would provide funds of $444,178 — a loss of $43,467 for delaying one year.

Choose a plan to suit your budget now. Even $25 a month becomes a substantial retirement fund and every penny you deposit in your Federally insured Midwest Federal IRA is deducted from your 1983 taxable income.

SCHOOL NEWS
Valentine's day was celebrated by both Dixon students and teachers when mothers, Mrs. Bill Garvin, Mrs. Bob Dempster, Mrs. Lee Johnson, Mrs. Charles Peters and Mrs. Kenny Strivens came and conducted games, provided prizes and served lunch. A mathathon was held recently at the Dixon school with more than $240 collected for St. Jude's Children Research Hospital in Tennessee. Pupils were to get pledges, work math problems and collect according to the number they had correct. Larry Jacobsen collected the largest amount and received a tote bag with a St. Jude's emblem, awarded by the Research Center. Four students receiving t-shirts with emblems for their efforts were Charity Jacobsen, Jessie Jacobsen, Debbie Roeder and Kathy Pierce.

Golden Hills is awarded funds

Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council has been awarded federal funds for emergency food and shelter programs.

The 12-county area served by Goldenrod Hills has been chosen to receive $4.25 million to supplement emergency food and shelter programs.

The selection was made by a national board made up of national voluntary organizations and chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). United Way of America will function as the administrative staff and fiscal agent. The board was charged to distribute $40 million appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A local board, of which Alice Rohde of Carroll is a member, will determine how the funds awarded to Wayne and Pierce counties are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by private voluntary organizations in the area.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local organizations chosen to receive funds must: be non-profit; have a voluntary board; have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit; practice non-discrimination; and have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and shelter programs. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Marci Malishewski, Pierce County, 758-5309; Myra Snodgrass, Wayne County, 379-3028; or Goldenrod Hills, 846-5493.
