Wayne State football player found dead from shotgun wound

Wayne State College student Kevin McArdle, 21, was found dead of a shotgun wound Thursday morning in his off-campus apartment at 522 East Fifth Street.

An autopsy report will not be released until later this week but Wayne County Attorney Bob Ensz, who serves as county coroner, said McArdle's death appears to be self-inflicted.

Ensz said the pathologist who performed the autopsy told him Friday that all evidence indicates McArdle died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the chest.

McArdle, a junior at Wayne State, was a three-year starter for the WSC football team and a professional football prospect. He had 1 year of athletic eligibility remaining.

ENSZ SAID the Wayne State athlete died sometime after 2:30 a.m. Thursday. Bill Luxford, McArdle's roommate, discovered the body on McArdle's bed at about 8:30 a.m., Ensz said. According to Ensz, a 12 gauge shotgun, belonging to McArdle, was found lying on the floor near the bed. Luxford was asleep in his bedroom next to McArdle's room but did not hear the shot, Ensz said. The county attorney said the barrel of the shotgun apparently was in contact with McArdle's chest and pointed out that the shot probably was muffled by McArdle's "massive body" — greatly reducing the sound of the shot.

Ensz said suicide is suspected but added that no note was found in the apartment. The Wayne Police Department and Wayne County Sheriff's Office investigated the incident.

The body was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City for an autopsy.

Kevin McArdle

CSIC and District 11 as a defensive end in his sophomore season.

The 6-5, 230-pound McArdle led the Wildcats with 152 tackles during the 1983-84 season. The 1981 graduate of Omaha Roncalli High School was majoring in physical education.

"On behalf of the faculty, staff and students of Wayne State College, we extend our deepest sorrows and sympathy to the family, friends and college community at the tragic death of Kevin McArdle," WSC President said, following announcement of the incident.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR Ron Jones said that McArdle's athletic contributions to Wayne State will not be forgotten.

"We've suffered a terrible loss in terms of Kevin as a student, a person and an athlete. He had made a tremendous turnaround and set a good example for others, both on and off the field," Jones said.

WSC Head Football Coach Pete Chapman said McArdle's contributions to Wayne State athletics are obvious and added that his impact on the players, coaches and students will be felt in the future.

"I heard a quote somewhere that said, 'Our talents are God's gift to us and what we do with them is our gift to God,'" Chapman said. "Kevin was really working on a great gift back to God. People should remember him as the kind of person he was when he died."

The funeral is scheduled at 11 a.m. today (Monday) at St. Leo's Catholic Church, 102nd and Blondo, Omaha. Kremer Funeral Home of Omaha is in charge of arrangements.

McArdle was named honorable mention NAIA Division I All-American for last season. He was chosen honorary defensive captain of the Omaha World-Herald's All-State College Football team.

McArdle also was selected to the Central States Intercollegiate Conference second team and the NAIA District 11 first team. He earned honorable mention honors in the

Time running out to buy tickets for Fresh Aire

Now is the time to purchase tickets for the Fresh Aire concert scheduled Thursday, April 5 in Wayne.

The group Fresh Aire, also known as the Mannheim Steamroller, will perform at 8 p.m. in Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus.

Sandra Elliott, chairman of the Wayne Centennial Cultural and Historical Committee, said the group has agreed to hold an additional concert if the first one is a sellout.

THE PERFORMANCE, which will be part of Wayne's Centennial activities, is the only concert the group has scheduled in Nebraska.

The Omaha-based group has received international attention for its mixture of old and new sounds, according to Bud Froehlich, chairman of the Wayne Centennial Committee.

All of the individual pieces of music they perform are written within old forms of music but with a sound consistent and current with today's idioms.

The music blends traditional styles, particularly Baroque, with contemporary sounds derived from jazz and rock to produce an original form of musical experience.

The term, "Fresh Aire" is used for all of the group's record albums but Mannheim Steamroller actually is the name of the group. They recently finished production of a new album called "Fresh Aire V," a combination of the group and the London Symphony and Cambridge Singers.

THE CONCERT also will combine still photography, animated film, dance, computerized lighting and special effects.

"This is an excellent opportunity for people to experience a first-rate nationally acclaimed performance," Mrs. Elliott said. "The annual sellout performances in the Orpheum Theatre in Omaha will not take place this year so that Wayne can enjoy the privilege of hosting the only Nebraska Fresh Aire concert in 1984."

The $10 general admission tickets for the show may be purchased at First National Bank and State National Bank in Wayne, the Student Union information window at Wayne State College, Mid City Stereo in Norfolk and Uncle John's in Sioux City.

They also may be purchased with MasterCard, Visa or money order mailed to Fresh Aire, P.O. Box 346, Wayne 68787.

Equipment, service changes Bell customers are given options

Northwestern Bell customers will have several options concerning their telephone equipment as a result of the divestiture of the Bell System.

Ken Berglund, manager of the local Northwestern Bell office, said customers should examine their options before deciding what route to take.

The telephone wiring inside a home has become a customer's property. Owners can maintain the wire themselves, pay the telephone company to maintain it or pay someone else to maintain it.

Northwestern Bell would make repairs and charge customers hourly wages or customers have the option of entering a wiring contract agreement with the company.

Berglund said the current charge for that agreement is 50 cents per month.

Berglund said that under that agreement, Northwestern Bell will service all wiring in a home, even if the customer wired additional telephones himself—as long as he used approved wiring.

BERGLUND SAID if customers have problems with their telephones they should check to determine what the problems are before calling the company.

For example, if a customer plugs in another telephone and hears a dial tone, the original phone set is the problem, Berglund said.

Northwestern Bell customers now have these options:

- Buying new equipment from Northwestern Bell's subsidiary.
- Continuing to lease present telephone equipment—but from AT&T.
- Buying present equipment.
- Buying or leasing equipment from a variety of suppliers.

THE BAD NEWS for Northwestern Bell customers is that service rates are on their way up. Berglund claims that higher rates are necessary to maintain quality service locally.

The company always relied on long distance charges for needed revenue, Berglund said.

However, while customers will see an increase in their service charge, they will be able to hook up additional telephones at no additional charge for service, Berglund said.

Another option which should be available in Wayne in 1986, according to Berglund, is "measured service." Under that option, customers would pay for what they use. A customer who doesn't make many phone calls could save "quite a bit of money," Berglund said.

Customers who make many phone calls would have to pay more, he added.

Former LBJ aid to speak

Former presidential advisor and White House press secretary, George Reedy, will headline a Public Affairs Institute program at Wayne State College on Thursday (March 29), according to Cliff Ginn, division head of the WSC Social Sciences Division.

The program is scheduled at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, in the north dining room of the WSC Student Union. It is free and open to the public.

The program, titled "Orwell's Year," will address the concepts advanced by George Orwell in such works as "1984" and "Animal Farm" as they apply to modern times.

REEDY SERVED as special assistant to President Lyndon B. Johnson from 1961 to 1968.

Currently, he is professor of journalism at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

Since leaving government service, he has written a number of works on the presidency and the politics of the day. His most recent book is "Lyndon B. Johnson, a Memoir," published in 1982.

In addition to Reedy, the program will present Dr. Nelson Potter, chairman of the philosophy department at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and Dr. Mike Sternman, professor of political science at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Rita Kissen, WSC assistant professor of English, will serve as a respondent while Allen O'Donnell, director of the Wayne Public Affairs Institute, will serve as moderator.

Lounge purchased Mert's Place: a new face in familiar place

There's a new place in town. Actually, it's an old place but a new owner.

According to the new owner and manager, Mert Ellis of Wayne, "Mert's Place" will cater to the regular customers, but welcomes the new ones, too.

The bar, located at 111 East 3rd Street, was known for several years as the TP Lounge.

Previously called "Prenger's," the establishment was remodeled about a year ago when Linda Prenger became the new owner.

Ellis, who took over on March 1, said he isn't planning to make any changes in the building, since the recent remodeling. He also plans to offer the same bar and lounge services.

Ellis, who has lived in Wayne since childhood, has worked in hardware, sporting goods and also for the City of Wayne.

"Mert's Place" is open 7 days a week, weekdays and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to closing and Sundays, 1 p.m. to closing.

Anyone wishing to attend the dinner should contact state Democratic headquarters at 715 South 14th Street, Lincoln 68508.

Clarkson Service, formerly Terry's Skelly, is scheduled to open for business on April 2. The business was purchased by the Getty Oil Company.

"I'll be able to give customers full service now," Clarkson said. Service also will include minor car repairs, brake jobs, oil changes and other types of maintenance. Ed Grashorn will be shop mechanic.

The Derby station will continue to operate at its present site but a new manager will be hired.

Talent contest is planned

A community-wide talent contest is being planned for April 3 by the Wayne State College Spanish Club. Anyone who would like to participate in the Talent Night Gala can register by contacting Lynn Wisniewski at 375-3757.

Tornado Awareness week near

An average of 31 tornadoes a year cut across Nebraska leaving behind damage and at times taking their toll in death and injury. Community preparedness is the key to lessen the impact of these violent storms and minimize the threat to life.

Again this year the National Weather Service, in conjunction with the Nebraska Civil Defense Agency, will conduct a voluntary statewide tornado warning drill. The drill is set for Thursday, March 29, as part of "Nebraska Tornado Awareness Week," March 25 through March 31. Alternate date will be March 30.

The exercise will consist of a mock tornado watch at 2:05 p.m. CST/1:05 p.m. MST followed by a mock tornado warning at 2:20 p.m. CST/1:20 p.m. MST. The test message will be disseminated to the news media and public by the NOAA Weather Wire Service and NOAA VHF Weather Radio.

The objectives of "Tornado Awareness Week" and the voluntary drill are to create continued awareness of the regions severe weather threat and to provide the opportunity for public, emergency service agencies and communities to review their severe weather preparedness plans and test their effectiveness.

Library gets contribution

The Paxton Vierling Library of Wayne State College is $2,000 richer, thanks to a contribution made by the Paxton Vierling Steel Company of Omaha. The check was enclosed in a letter from Ed Oxen, chairman of the board of Paxton Vierling Steel Company, for continued support of this mathematics and science library.

The Paxton Vierling Library, which is housed on the first level of the Ralph M. Carhart Science Hall, was established through a donation by the Paxton Vierling Steel Company in 1970.

The reference library is available to all WSC students studying chemistry, biology, computer science, earth science, mathematics and physics as well as those participating in any one of 20 pre-professional programs offered by the mathematics and science division.

According to Dr. Frank Praher, WSC mathematics and science division head, the gift will be used to purchase current books, periodicals and subscriptions specifically for mathematics and science.

Praher said he was pleased with the Paxton Vierling Steel Company's contribution. "I feel great about the whole thing. It (the contribution) is a big help in allowing us to provide current references for the educational programs in the mathematics and science division," he said.

America is still box office smash

By Richard Lasher
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Five years ago, President Carter delivered his "Malaise" speech. We were told that America's best days were behind her. We had entered an age of limits — limits to economic growth and limits to our hopes and dreams. American was no longer that shining city on a hill.

Politicians counseled despair and hopelessness. America no longer had anything the rest of the world would want or, indeed, that our children would want. The federal government was not, mind you, responsible for our problems, but would help us manage our steady and inevitable decline.

In response, I wrote a column rejecting this gloomy thesis. I quoted Ted Morgan, a man born in France to an aristocratic family. He had moved to the United States seeking expanded opportunity and wrote a book entitled "On Becoming American." He was interviewed on "60 Minutes" by Mike Wallace, who noted, "Ted, you write, 'this country is a success in the same way a Broadway show is a success.'"

"THAT'S RIGHT," Morgan replied, "because everybody is standing in line waiting to get in. It's a box office smash."

Ted Morgan was right. Immigrants from every nation on the face of the earth are coming to America. Others are on waiting lists. In some nations, immigrants must wait as long as a decade to come to America. Still, they come.

These prospective Americans are voting with their feet, registering their faith in America, her present and future opportunities and freedom. No other nation in the world receives this vote of confidence. It could be a source of pride for all Americans, and it must remind us of how truly blessed we are to live in a nation where individual liberty is respected, and initiative and hard work are rewarded, not discouraged.

The immigrants continue to arrive at our shores. Some through legal immigration; others slip past our border guards, risking imprisonment. (And let us remember that some nations employ border guards to keep their people in.)

EACH YEAR an estimated one million immigrants come to America. They carry the same dreams and hopes that sustained immigrants who traveled by boat from Europe at the turn of the century. Even if we are sometimes blinded to the strength and vitality of our nation, we can see in the eyes of these immigrants that they know and trust in America's greatness and opportunity.

They have risked everything, often leaving families and friends behind, to join in the Great American Future.

Today, we have further proof of how the world views America and its future. For those individuals who cannot come to America are now sending their money to invest in what they believe to be the greatest engine of wealth creation the world has ever known — the free American economy. In 1981 foreigners invested more than $80 billion in America. In 1982 foreign investment swelled to more than $87 billion. That is confidence in our future.

While some American politicians and cynics may deride our accomplishments and belittle our future as a free and prosperous people, millions of individuals from around the world are putting their money on America. Such investment creates jobs here and fuels our economic growth.

Some may still preach decline and despair, but with millions of people risking everything to come to our shores and millions of others investing their life's earnings in our economy and our future, I will certainly not be one to bet against America and her future.

Do you ever read the labels on the food and other products you buy in the stores?

What in the name of Ralph Nader do they put in that stuff?

Think about it. If your mother asks you what you had for dinner tonight can you answer her?

"Well Mom, I had some phosphoric acid, a little sodium benzoate, a side of monosodium phosphate and some polyethylene glycol."

Are you kidding? Your mom is liable to call the rescue squad.

What is that stuff? Whatever it is, it sounds worse than Dr. Pepper. Is that what it takes to "Be a Pepper?" It's just the thought of those ingredients that make me sick.

lotion, don't use liquid soap. That is, not unless you want to get olefin sulfonate, lauramide dea, sodium lauriminodipropionate, cocoamphocarboxyglycinate and polyquaternium all over your hands.

If you think I made up all those goofy terms, just check out the label on your bottle of liquid soap. The people who put the labels on there tried to put every letter of the alphabet in one word. And they nearly succeeded.

If you ask me (and very few people would) the guys who invent those names (propylparaben etc.) are butchering the English language.

They're just trying to show off by coming up with names that no one can pronounce. What vocabulariest! Let's give each of them a dog biscuit!

Can't you just picture this group of scientific men and women standing around in a laboratory, conversing in an attempt to decide on names for these additives?

"Hey boss, I was messing around with some of the weird looking stuff in these test tubes and when I mixed them together look what they done."

"Ah yes, good work. Let's use that stuff in vanilla pudding and we'll call it, ah... well, how about isobiotriglycolate? I don't believe we've used that name before."

Actually I really don't believe all of those ingredients are in those products. My theory is that they have a four-cent product they want to sell to the retail stores for 78 cents.

When they list all of those long, scientific names on the labels, people are bound to be in awe. One look at the label is all it takes to see why you have to pay a bunch of money for a cheap product.

Out of curiosity, I decided to find out what kind of ingredients they could possibly put in a small box of gelatin dessert.

Would you believe sugar, gelatin, fumaric acid (for tartness), sodium citrate (controls acidity), salt, artificial flavor, artificial color and absorbic acid?

Sounds nutritious, doesn't it? At least the label explained why fumaric acid and sodium citrate were used.

That label also brought out another important point — we're living in an artificial world. How many of the products in your cupboard and refrigerator contain artificial flavoring and coloring? Or, to make things easier, how many don't?

How many of you use hand lotion? Go ahead, hold up your hands so I can take a count.

You mean you use isopropyl palmitate, stearic acid, triethanolamine, glyceryl stearate, methylparaben, imidazolindinyl urea, propylparaben, dimethicone and titanium dioxide on your hands? And there's still something left of them? If you decide to wash off your hand

Which scores are important?

To the editor:

I would like to "Thank" the former athlete for inadvertently making a point that needs to be stressed at this particular time. That is, the school board and administration seem to be more interested in a teacher's ability to teach than his or her own lost record. They realize that Wayne Carroll SRA scores are more important than athletic scores. In recent years, SRA scores have exceeded both the national and state averages. This record is based on the performances of all our students.

Since the "total" development of the student is a consideration, coaches for a variety of sports are employed. Wayne coaches' records most often reflect the innate abilities of the athletes. Nevertheless, most of the athletes have been very nice young people. As Casey Stengel was supposed to have said, "When we win, we have great talent; when we lose, I'm a lousy coach."

I hope the silence of the Silent Majority does not lead the board and administration to assume we all agree with the people who have been openly critical of the coaches and succumb to their pressure. Winning athletic scores are fun and contribute to pleasant memories; winning SRA scores lead to the future success of a lot of really nice young men and women.

SRA scores are the scores that are on the envelope or in the report cards that were sent home earlier.

street talk

A controversy has grown in Texas in recent weeks concerning the possibility of televising an execution. This week The Wayne Herald decided to gather opinions on that subject. Our question: "Do you feel that executions should be shown on television?"

"Yes, because it shows all hardened criminals who commit serious crimes that that's how they should be dealt with." — Dave Schwartz

"No, I don't think they should be, because my stomach couldn't handle it." — Tammy Meier

"I think they should be televised to show the people what they are getting into if they kill someone. But I feel they should consider how a life was taken before they sentence someone to capital punishment." — Laren Murray

"No, I don't for 2 reasons. First, I don't believe in capital punishment. Second, even if I did believe in it, I don't think it should be on TV." — Paul Duin

"No, I don't believe they should be. A person's death is a very personal thing. I don't see how someone could get satisfaction by seeing someone die." — Roberta Welte Welcome back! Yes, I'm welcoming my regular readers back with this column. And, I'm inviting new readers to join me each week in The Wayne Herald.

Each week I bring you information to help you with everyone's occupation - homemaking.

Some of the ideas may be well used, others may be brand new. Whether new or old, you can use these ideas to help you at home or in your relationships with people.

I HAVE promised several people not to overdo it with columns about child care and babies. After returning to work from a maternity leave those topics naturally come to mind.

The topic on most peoples minds right now is spring. Yes, spring did arrive last week even if there is snow on the ground.

Soon you will be pecking away winter coats and heavy sweaters. It is time to begin thinking spring and new fashions. There is certainly something for everyone in the Spring 1984 collection.

Gone are the old rules about fashion. You are free to choose the style that best fits your personality and lifestyle.

MAYBE YOU'VE seen the colorful clothing layouts in popular magazines or checked a few stores for the latest trends. What will happen there truly is something for everyone. The younger, trendy set will be flashdance dressing. Sweatshirt fleece and loose styles are popular. Those baggy sweatshirts and T-shirts without sleeves may look like rags to mom, but not to the fashion industry.

For the more traditional dressers, tailored styles are still in. Women's fashions will take on broader shoulders and bigger lapels, and footwear will feature low heels.

These styles are popular with the working woman who likes a professional look and comfort.

THE FEMININE look is another major trend. Dresses that are soft, with a touch of lace are in style. Some suits will be more feminine in their cut and the colors used.

What will the popular colors be? Take a clue from nature and select natural sands, beige and tans. For accent try the colors found in vibrant tropical flowers. More subtle colors will include the muted pastels.

There truly is a mixed bag in the fashion forecast.

Everyone can make their own personal statement with today's fashions. Let's all think spring, and spring clothes!

The ensemble, which recently performed for the Husker Conference Band Clinic in Emerson, and for schools in Schuyler, Columbus and Silver Creek, will present a program of pop music in a variety of styles, from Glen Miller's "American Patrol" to Maynard Ferguson's "Chameleon."

Matteson will be guest clinician during the 1984 Wayne State College Summer Music Camp which is held annually for high school students.

Another feature of the Jazz Ensemble will be a performance of "Prison of Promise," an original piano/voice composition by Wayne State College senior Cindy Linder.

FEATURED STUDENT soloists include Jeri Anne Grader, Emerson, and Teresa Travis, Lenox, Iowa, alto saxophones; Shelly Fowler, Columbus, tenor saxophone; Guy Darnell, Winslow, trombone; Dave Jenkins, Travor Koch and Vance Wagner, all of Norfolk, trumpets; Sharyn Whipple, Stanton, bass; Cindy Linder, Onawa, Iowa, piano; and Nancy Peterson, Smithland, Iowa, drums.

SNOW HINDERS the workouts of the Wayne High girls' track team.

Four state qualifiers return

The Wayne High girls track team will see competition for the first time this Friday, but according to coach Darrel Heier, "who will be participating in each event is still a big question."

Heier said the weather has limited team practices and he hasn't had a chance to observe each girl's potential. The team, consisting of 34 girls, will have 4 returning state qualifiers and several other returning lettermen.

FRAN GROSS, senior and returning letterman, is expected to do well in the 400 meter dash, in which she participated at state last year.

Gross also has potential in the 200 meter dash and relay events. Heier said

Aver both state qualifiers in the 1,600 meter relay last year. Heier also has possibilities in the 400 meter dash.

Other contenders for the race are junior

Sarah Lohrberg, sophomore Beth Jones and freshman Kacie Corbin.

THE TEAM is also receiving special help from Kelly Peterson. Peterson, a student teacher and hurdler competitor for Wayne

Heier said that the hurdles race could be a "really positive event" for the team.

Competitors include junior Lisa Jacobsen, a past state qualifier in the 1,600 meter relay; senior Deb Werning, junior Paula Koplin, and freshmen, Jodi Dilman, Jen Noller, Wessel and Shelley Pick.

In the 100 and 200 meter dashes, Heier expects Allen, Anderson and Werning to do well. Freshmen Missy Jones, Cindy Brown and Corbin are also contenders in the shorter distances, he said.

Several girls are also possibilities for spots in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 meter races. They include juniors Deb Bull, Laura Stroupe and Tiffany Wilke, sophomores Trisha Frevert and Dawn Hightree, a recent transfer to Wayne High.

IN THE FIELD events, senior Sarah Bliven will throw the discus, along with sophomore possibilities, Jodi Broderick, Michelle Lutt and Nancy Bahns.

Shot put competitors include junior Lori Baker and freshmen Rhonda Datskoetter, Anna Lueder and Cheryl Murray.

Former WSC basketball coach wins national women's crown

Helen Carroll had dreamed of coaching a women's basketball team to a national championship. That dream was achieved last week as Carroll's North Carolina-Asheville team upset the University of Portland (Oregon) to win the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics national title.

Carroll coached at Wayne State College during the 1978-79 and 79-80 seasons, compiling a 20-40 record. She started at Asheville the following season and now has a 64-32 record at the school. Carroll became the first female coach to ever coach a team to the national title.

An outside shot with 4 seconds left in overtime lifted the Lady Bulldogs to a 72-70 win over Portland. To reach the finals, North Carolina-Asheville upset the nation's top-ranked Southwest Oklahoma, which had compiled a 47-0 record over the past 2 seasons. NC-A won that game 57-54. Carroll and her ball club were back in the Midwest to win the national tournament. The games were played at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Asheville, which finished the year with a 32-5 mark, entered district play ranked 16th in the nation. When districts were completed the Lady Bulldogs had jumped to ninth.

"I feel my 3 years at Wayne State College helped me a lot in preparing my philosophy of coaching," Carroll said by telephone Wednesday morning. "That was a critical period of time."

Carroll said she didn't spend time thinking about winning a championship but did feel she was coaching the country's best player in 6-2 senior Sheila Ford. Ford is the first woman player to score 2,000 points and grab 2,000 rebounds in a career, Carroll said.

Word survey
What is a roudade? When 20 juniors and seniors were asked this question, only one knew the right answer.
A couple of students and Mr. VanCleave thought it was a drink which could be found in a bar in Rio de Janeiro—Troy Heitman said, "Roudades are those little gravel stones that you find on the highway after they have fallen out of someone's tire." Two students thought it was a type of relief just like Rolaids, but spelled differently.
The true meaning of a roudade, according to Webster, is a slice of meat with or without stuffing in a braised or sauteed beef.

Start your engines
Gentlemen, start your engines," John Jonas might say after 7 students completed his Automotive Service and Repair course at Laurel Concord High School.
Under Mr. Jonas, 7 students examine the parts and functions of multicylinder, internal combustion engines. Some of the parts include the heads, valves, camshaft, and carburetor. Brent Heydon stated, "I'm hoping to gain advanced knowledge of engines and how they work. Earl Johnson adds, "The experience will save me money that I might spend in the future on engine repairs."

Mr. Jonas designed the course to give the students a valuable, useable knowledge in servicing and maintaining their own cars and to possibly get them interested enough in the field to continue study after graduation.
According to Mr. Jonas, the class follows a set procedure. The students study a certain part of an engine from the textbook, for example, the cylinder head. Cylinder heads sit like a human head on top of the main cavity of the engine.
The head holds the valves and often the camshaft. The camshaft tells the valves when to open and close. The students actually remove the cylinder heads from an engine and look at its functional parts. The instruction moves from the textbooks to the real thing and back to the book.
Mr. Jonas added that Chilton motor manuals, which the students must provide, are a reliable source for engine specifications such as the amount of torque, clearances, and parts

Student Voice

There's gotta be a santa
"Ho, ho, ho," says Santa Claus. "Thank you Easter Bunny. Bak! Bak," says the little boy on the M & M commercial. These phrases are widely used, and loved, by all children. Parents in the Laurel area believe children should have imaginary Santas, Easter Bunnies, and Tooth Fairies.
Nick Britzell believes that a child will learn to respect tradition and the thoughts that go with the holidays.
Mr. Lyle VanCleave stated, "Every child needs to dream or believe in the unknown."
The blackboard jungle
Knives, guns, violence and rape are what some teachers in New York City have to put up with, according to "Reason" magazine. The pressures put on Laurel High school teachers are much different.
According to Mrs. Susan Brandow, junior high English and psychology teacher at Laurel, her biggest pressure is put on by herself. Mrs. Brandow feels that she should get things done on time for the kids' sake. Mrs. Brandow said, "The faster I get tests graded, the sooner the kids can see how they did. It's important for them to see that they did well right away, otherwise they might get discouraged."
Students at Laurel have mixed feelings about how they pressure teachers. Most said they do put pressures on teachers, but couldn't explain how. Craig Hanson said, "Sometimes we put too much pressure on them to correct tests. Like during semester tests."
Mrs. Diane Tyrrell, a first year English teacher, said, "I'm a teacher, but a little extra pressure on herself because she is new. She

A: Missile Toe.

The joke is found on page eight of the March 9 "Weekly Reader."

SAD News

On Wednesday, March 14, Wakefield Speech and Drama members traveled to Allen to participate in the district speech contest. Nine members from Wakefield attended and were accompanied by their instructors, Mrs. Val Bard and Mrs. Betty Heier.

It turned out to be an excellent day for Wakefield in that 6 of the 9 received superior ratings which also qualified them for state competition.

Those students who will be attending State Speech Contest on Saturday, March 31, in Lincoln include: senior Kiela Lund and freshman Susie McQuistan who both participate in informative speaking; Kiela Lund and freshman Randy Kinney whose area is duet acting; and junior Mike Murphy, seniors Carl Johnson and Shelley Krusemark who perform in the oral interpretation of drama category.

The 3 other students attending also did well in that all received excellent ratings. Those students and their respective areas include: Tonia Clement, serious prose; Kaye Hansen, entertaining speech; and Rachel Prochaska, original public address.

Music "notes"

Six clarinet players and their instructor, Mrs. Diane Trullinger, attended the Licorice Stick Festival at Morningside College on Saturday, March 10. The students were able to work with clinician Bob Spring who is an instructor at Morningside College.

In the afternoon the students spent time rehearsing and performing with "the world's largest clarinet choir," which included students from Iowa and South Dakota as well as Nebraska. One of the highlights of the afternoon was a Dixieland Concert performed by professional musicians from the area. The students who attended from Wakefield were: Tammy Nicholson, Lynn Anderson, Shelia Anderson, Raquel Lueh, Lana Ekberg and Stephanie Fisher.

Willers and Kella Lund; Juniors Melodie Witt, Jane Gustafson, Darla Hartman, and Brian Soderberg. The members' parents as well as their sponsor, Mrs. Alvin Sundell, were invited.

The NHS has also been busy with fund-raising activities. On March 9 the group held a St. Patrick's Day Dance, and on the morning of March 10, the organization held a bake sale.

County Government Day

Wayne High Juniors and Windsor High sophomores got a chance to visit the Wayne County Courthouse to experience County Government Day, sponsored by the Wayne Veterans of Foreign Wars. Students spent their time becoming familiar with the administration of their county.

Students were nominated and elected by their classmates to fill the various administrative offices. They spent part of the day in their elected offices, experiencing the officials' positions and asking questions. The rest of the day involved listening to discussions by guest speakers, watching films and attending mock acquittals. They also watched two sessions of county court.

Wayne students who attended County Government Day included: county assessor, Karen Longe; county treasurer, James Predoehl; superintendent of schools, Curt Nelson; veterans service, Darrin Barner; county judge, Amy Gross; agricultural agents, Rod Luit and Mary Beth Glinnsman; district probation, Amy Jordan and Terry Schultz; sheriff, Tim Book; clerk of district court, Trevor Hurlbert; county attorney, Lisa Jacobsen; welfare office, Ann Sorensen; county commissioner, Pete Warne; Sarah Lembeck and Shell Meyer; county clerk, Kevin Koenig.

Hard work pays off

Rebecca Schmidt, a junior at Wayne High School, is the proud winner of a state wide German contest. In early January of this year, the American Association of Teachers of German administered a test to students of German across the nation.

The ensemble receiving an excellent rating was the wood wind quintet: Sheila Cowgill, Rhonda Elsberry, Krista Ring, Bonita Main, and Valerie Rahn.

Two students received medals for outstanding instrumental solos. Kurl Runestad placed fifth in the overall trumpet solos, and Jim Hartman placed second in the overall baritone solos. The group received a fourth place rating in their class.

The group plans to perform several songs this year, including "The Check's In The Mail," featuring Kurl Daum on trombone and Gregg Elliott on alto saxophone; "Song For My Daughter," featuring Kurl Runestad on the flugelhorn; and "Wheels," featuring Dave Remer on trumpet, Gregg Elliott on alto saxophone, and Becky Schmidt on piano.

Speaking of Wayne

The Wayne speech team came home with five superior ratings and an excellent last week. The students attended a district speech contest Tuesday March 13 in Fremont. The contest was held at Midland College and seven area high schools attended.

Two students from each event were chosen to go to state competition. David Melton will be competing on the state level with his interpretation of serious prose and Jassi Johar will also be going to state with his original public address.

Students who competed but will not be going to state competition are: Chris Hillier, who received a superior rating on his entertainment speech, Melinda Olson, who delivered an informative speech and received an excellent; Michelle Brodsky, who received a superior on her poetry reading; and David Reemer, who gave an extemporaneous speech and also received a superior.

Each student was critiqued and Wayne High foreign language students celebrated International Foreign Language Week March 5-9. The school walls were adorned with posters encouraging people to learn foreign languages as a step towards peace.

Monday night the students held a pot luck supper. German and Spanish records were played and a variety of foods was served. Later in the week German teacher Mrs. Zahmiser taught the Spanish class about Berlin while the German students learned about Mexico from Mrs. Victor, the Spanish teacher.

Artist entertains with pantomime

Mime artist Nori Konishi presented his program, "Beyond Words," to students and faculty at Wayne Carroll High School on March 1. The convocation consisted of 4 skits, "First Date," "Operation," "The Weight Lifter," and "The Monster," all performed in pantomime.

Nori showed the student body some mime and how to mime different things. He demonstrated feeling a wall and leaning against a counter and had volunteers from the audience experiment with the mimes.

Nori was born and raised in Osaka, Japan. He first became interested in mime when viewing Kabuki theater in his native country.
