Dairy Queen to receive loan

The Wayne City Council Tuesday night gave its unanimous approval of an application by Dairy Queen to obtain funds through a Community Development Block Grant.

Dairy Queen will now be able to borrow $35,000 at one-half the prime lending rate. The $35,000 is part of a $135,000 Community Development Block Grant through the Department of Economic Development, which the City of Wayne had been awarded.

Anne Svoboda of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce explained that the block grant program provided a grant to the city so that funds can be lent out to help finance small business.

The grant allows the city to lend any portion of the funds to either new businesses or existing businesses that plan to expand. The main criterion for obtaining a loan through the program is the creation of jobs.

Once the funds are repaid to the city, they become the city's property to lend out for economic development.

JACK MIDDENDORF, owner of the Dairy Queen, originally inquired about what funding was available and was told of the block grant funds, for which he later applied.

The money will be used to help fund the project. The new business will provide four full-time and some part-time jobs, Midden dorf said.

Councilman Jim Craun said the Department of Economic Development asks that one full-time job be created for each $10,000 that is borrowed.

City Administrator Phil Kloster said that another retail establishment is working on making an application for some of the remaining $100,000.

He pointed out that the city will lose access to the money if it is not lent out within the next year.

Before a vote was taken, Councilwoman

Carolyn Pitter expressed her displeasure that members of the council had a short period of time to study the issue before voting.

She said she felt the information should have been distributed to the council several days before the meeting rather than the night of the meeting.

COUNCILMAN FREEMAN Decker expressed his approval of lending the money to Dairy Queen. "I'm worried about the future of Wayne," Decker said. He then named six or seven buildings in Wayne which are vacant and said that bothered him.

"This is a calculated risk but a very plausible one. Frankly, the city doesn't look good with all these empty buildings," Decker said. "A stranger can't be too impressed with all the empty buildings."

Jim Thomas, owner of PoPo's II, suggested that the council consider dividing the funds into smaller block grants, in the neighborhood of $10,000 to $15,000, and distribute the money to existing businesses that are in need.

Former White House aide plans stop in town today

Former presidential advisor and White House press secretary, George Reedy, will headline a Public Affairs Institute program at Wayne State College today (Thursday), according to Cliff Ginn, division head of the WSC Social Sciences Division.

The program is scheduled at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, in the north dining room of the WSC Student Union. It is free and open to the public.

The program, titled "Orwell's Year," will address the concepts advanced by George Orwell in such works as "1984" and "Animal Farm" as they apply to modern times.

REEDY SERVED as special assistant to President Lyndon Johnson from 1961 to 1966. Currently, he is professor of journalism at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

Since leaving government service, he has written a number of works on the presidency and the politics of the day. His most recent book is "Lyndon B. Johnson, a Memoir," published in 1982.

In addition to Reedy, the program will present Dr. Nelson Potter, chairman of the philosophy department at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and Dr. Mike Steinman, professor of political science at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Rita Kissen, WSC assistant professor of English, will serve as a respondent while Allen O'Donnell, director of the Wayne Public Affairs Institute, will serve as moderator.

Providence Road discussed

Council gives authorization for water supply studies

Second and third phases of the study of Wayne's water supply were given the go-ahead by the Wayne City Council at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The council's authorization allows the studies to begin. Phase II will consist of revenue and rate analysis, taking into consideration the capital costs of all items needed within the next 15 years.

The phase should be completed within four to six weeks at a cost of between $4,500 and $5,000.

Phase III will study operating expenses and plans for a new well field. Service costs are expected to be in the range of $12,500 to $15,500.

The city's water supply and the studies being done will be examined in more detail in a future Wayne Herald story.

THE COUNCIL reviewed the plans being proposed for the construction of South Providence Road from 10th Street to Poplar Street.

In fall of 1983, the City of Wayne was informed of Urban System Funds that were available and requested that South Providence Road be included in the Urban Systems Project.

If Wayne is successful in its grant application, as much as 75 percent of the project could be funded federally, according to City Administrator Phil Kloster. The remainder of the cost would be handled by the developer of the subdivision.

The council gave preliminary approval of the project, paving the way for City Attorney Kem Swartz to draft the necessary documents.

IN OTHER ACTION, the city council:

- Passed an ordinance creating Storm Sewer District 84-1 and will advertise the project for bids which will be opened at 7:45 p.m. on May 8.
- Discussed delinquent special assessments and that small payments have been received on some of the accounts.
- Discussed health insurance plans for city employees and transferred retirees to the new plan.
- Passed a resolution applying for a mini-bus grant.
- Passed a routine resolution appointing Bruce Gilmore and Associates as engineer for Storm Sewer District 84-2 in the Western Heights subdivision.
- Heard a report from Administrator Phil Kloster that, within 30 days, replacement of trees will begin in Wayne's downtown district. Kloster said the tree trunks will be at least three inches in diameter.
- Received a check for the city worth more than $15,000 from Peoples Natural Gas for occupation tax collection.

Secretary picked for county fair

The Wayne County Fair Association has selected its new secretary, Arnold Marr was chosen to fill the position, according to association president, Dick Sorenson.

He will be replacing Marilyn Koch, who resigned from the position last year.

Marr and his wife Joan have been residents of Wayne for 27 years, and they have five sons. He is a semi-retired district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service and is currently employed part-time at the Coast to Coast store in Wayne.

Current officers of the Wayne County Fair Association are Dick Sorenson, president; Martin Willers, vice president; and David Ley, treasurer.

The Wayne County Fair is scheduled Aug. 9, 10, 11 and 12 and entertainment has been selected.

On Thursday, Aug. 9, Olie Anderson's Auto Daredevils Thrill Show is scheduled. Clyde Foley Cummins and his band will perform on Friday, Aug. 10.

On Saturday, Aug. 11, a tractor pull and pickup pull are scheduled. A demolition derby will be held Sunday, Aug. 12. Awards presentation to Pioneer farm families also is planned at the fair.

Republican forum Friday

Six Republican candidates running for the United States Senate in May's primary will be featured at a candidates forum Friday, March 30 in Wayne.

The forum, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Woman's Club room of the city auditorium, is sponsored by Wayne County Republicans.

Wayne County Republican Chairman Charles Maas said Ken Cameron, Richard Thompson, Fred Lockwood, John DeCamp, George Boucher and Nancy Hoch have been invited to participate in the forum. Congressman Doug Bereuter also has been invited.

Local Republican candidates are especially encouraged to attend the forum which is open to the public.

Fresh Aire next week

Only a week remains to purchase tickets for the Fresh Aire concert scheduled Thursday, April 5 in Wayne.

The group Mannheim Steamroller, better known as Fresh Aire for the style of music played, will perform at 8 p.m. in Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus.

The performance, which is part of Wayne's Centennial activities, is the only concert the group has scheduled in Nebraska.

THE OMAHA-BASED group has received international attention for its mixture of old and new sounds, according to Bud Froehlich, chairman of the Wayne Centennial Committee.

All of the individual pieces of music they perform are written within old forms of music but with a sound consistent and current with today's idioms.

The music blends traditional styles, particularly Baroque, with contemporary sounds derived from jazz and rock to produce an original form of musical experience.

The term, "Fresh Aire" is used for all of the group's record albums but Mannheim Steamroller actually is the name of the group. They recently finished production of a new album called "Fresh Aire V," a combination of the group and the London Symphony and Cambridge Singers.

THE CONCERT also will combine still photography, animated film, dance, computerized lighting and special effects.

"This is an excellent opportunity for people to experience a first-rate nationally acclaimed performance," Mrs. Elliott said. "The annual sellout performances in the Orpheum Theatre in Omaha will not take place this year so that Wayne can enjoy the privilege of hosting the only Nebraska Fresh Aire concert in 1984."

The $10 general admission tickets for the show may be purchased at First National Bank and State National Bank in Wayne, the Student Union information window at Wayne State College, Mid City Stereo in Norfolk and Uncle John's in Seward, Neb.

They also may be purchased with MasterCard, Visa or money order mailed to: Fresh Aire, P.O. Box 346, Wayne 68787.

Music boosters will meet Monday

The Wayne-Carroll Music Boosters will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday (April 2) at the Wayne High School lecture hall. Refreshments will be served and entertainment will be furnished.

The Department of Social Services is providing for joint administration of local offices in an attempt to increase efficiency of services.

Government Day correction

A story in the Wayne-Carroll School news which appeared in the March 26 edition of The Wayne Herald incorrectly reported that County Government Day was sponsored by the Wayne Veterans of Foreign Wars.

County Government Day was held March 15 and was sponsored by American Legion and auxiliary units in Winslow, Wayne and Carroll.

Neihardt center summer hours set

The John G. Neihardt Center, a branch museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society, will return to summer visitation hours on Sunday, April 1.

The museum, which honors the late poet laureate of Nebraska, John G. Neihardt, will be open Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday hours are 1:30 to 5 p.m.

Wakefield kindergarten roundup

Dates for kindergarten roundup and pre-school have been set at Wakefield Community School.

Kindergarten roundup will be held Friday, April 13. Students whose last names begin with letters L to Z are asked to attend at 9 a.m., while those with last names beginning in A through K will meet at 1 p.m. Both groups will meet in the elementary school library.

Dates for pre-school are April 24-27 and May 1-4.

Officers training rescheduled

The 4-H officers training meeting postponed March 19 because of bad weather, has been rescheduled for tonight (Thursday). The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the north dining room of the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus.

All 4-H clubs are encouraged to send officers to the training. Four-H leaders and junior leaders will work with officers to help them learn about their duties. In addition, a session on parliamentary procedure will help 4-Hers practice those skills.

Laurel rounding up kindergarteners

Laurel-Concord Public Schools will be holding morning and afternoon kindergarten round-up sessions on Friday, March 30.

Round-up is for children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1984. All youngsters entering school at that time must be 5 years old by Oct. 15, 1984.

During round-up, youngsters will be tested for language development and hearing. Parents, who are asked to bring their child's birth certificate, will meet with the school nurse and kindergarten teacher.

Parents planning to send their child to kindergarten in the fall are asked to notify the school by today (Monday). Parents will receive a schedule telling them what time to bring their child.

College scholarships are available

Junior and senior class high school students who are interested in applying for $1,000 college scholarships should request applications by May 7 from the Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation, 721 McKinley Road, Lake Forest, Ill. 60045.

Any student interested in receiving an application should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with a note listing his name, address, city, state and zip code, year of graduation and approximate grade point average.

Fifty award winners will be selected on the basis of academic performance, involvement in extracurricular activities and need for financial aid.

Concert next Thursday

MANNHEIM STEAMROLLER will perform its Fresh Aire concert next Thursday in Rice Auditorium.

Art show is planned

The Wayne Centennial Art Committee will sponsor a Nebraska statewide competitive art show titled "Horizons 84," to be held in the Wayne State Val Peterson Fine Arts Center from Aug. 31 through Sept. 2.

The exhibition will include painting, prints, sculpture, drawing and mixed media. The committee is seeking businesses and individuals in the Wayne community interested in adding to their collections, and willing to commit in advance a minimum of $200 toward the purchase of art work from the show.

A special viewing will be held prior to the opening so buyers may make their selections. If the choice is more expensive than the original commitment, the buyer will pay the full price of the work he or she selects.

The total amount of money raised in commitments will be listed in the prospectus outlining entry rules and procedures. The committee also is seeking grant money but community support will be needed if grants are to be received. The committee has set a total goal of $2,000 combined from grants and the community.

Ray Replogle, a member of the committee, said the awards will guarantee sales, which in turn encourage artists to participate.

Tom Butler, assistant director of the Sioux City Art Center, will judge the show. The committee is asking interested persons to make purchase award commitments no later than April 10.

police report

Several thefts and a couple of incidents in downtown Wayne were investigated by the Wayne Police Department this past week.

The reported thefts involved a purse stolen from the high school stolen letters from the Gay Theatre marquee, a sweater stolen from Les' Steakhouse and four hub caps from a car near Melodee Lanes.

On Friday night, a person pulled a pocket knife and threatened bank employees, when asked to leave the King of Clubs. A fight occurred outside the 4th Jug and Wade Lindsay was transported to the hospital with minor injuries, reportedly knife wounds. Charges may be filed in the incident but the name of the subject has not yet been released.

Other police reports included a loud engine harassment a lost dog, a vehicle driving on a lawn and a possible stolen vehicle.

Budget likely to be above $800 million

MERLE'S MESSAGE

After the excitement of last week, the Legislature returned to tackle the budget and make another effort to reach some type of agreement on the education bills.

The next few days promise to be very busy as we try to finish the remaining legislative business before the session ends. The adjournment date for this year has been tentatively scheduled for Monday, April 9.

The budget for the upcoming fiscal year is almost sure to be well above $800 million. If all appropriations requests before the Legislature are approved, the budget could reach one billion dollars!

The governor has stated that he intends to hold the line at $800 million by utilizing his line-item veto power; however, I think that will be a very difficult task.

Other expenses include the cost of erecting a witness stand in the courtroom and hiring a court stenographer. The Legislature was really left with no alternative since the necessary funding had to come from somewhere. However, there were some legislators who felt that the accused justices were shirking their constitutional responsibilities and resented having to pay for their replacements.

On Thursday, the Legislature advanced LB 1125 to select file without my support. The bill creates a telecommunications and information center for the purpose of identifying and developing opportunities in the field of communication. Although the idea sounds good, in reality it creates another governmental agency which will intrude into another area best served by private enterprise.

There is no question that the private sector is better suited than government to identify a particular industry's needs and to step forward to fulfill those needs in the most efficient manner. The cost for this proposal is $470,000 but I fear that, like other government programs, the cost will dramatically escalate in the future.

A CONTROVERSIAL constitutional amendment was also up for debate. LR 244 would expand the Legislature's authority to issue bonds for water projects. The issuance of such bonds is presently limited to water projects constructed for the purposes of water conservation and management.

Approval of LR 244 would allow bonds to be issued for water projects for domestic and municipal water supply, sanitary and storm sewers and other assorted purposes. What this really means is that the Legislature would allow the state to assume more debt and move it further away from the pay as you go concept. At weeks end, a kill motion failed and the bill advanced to Final Reading.

I am against incurring the state's debt and putting an additional burden upon the shoulders of our children. The projects envisioned by the supporters of this measure should be paid for by the users of such projects and not the taxpayers.

The week ended in lengthy discussion over the fate of two major education bills, LB's 974 and 928. LB 974 is best known for its proposal to appropriate $25 million to increase teacher salaries. A few days earlier the Legislature reduced the figure to $10 million with the Governor's approval.

In a move not well received by education, the Unicameral struck the stipend language entirely which effectively eliminates any state aid for improving teachers' salaries. At one point there were 26 amendments pending on LB 974. Debate extended into the evening before the bill as amended was advanced to Final Reading.

The Christian school bill, LB 928, was considered Friday morning. By mid-afternoon, the Legislature advanced an amended version of the bill to Select File on a vote of 29-14.

As amended, private schools can operate without certified teachers provided they pass a Department of Education test or show competence by some alternate method. It remains to be seen whether this approach will satisfy anyone involved with this controversial issue.

Protect our pre-schools

To the editor:

If our representatives in the Unicameral pass LB 130 it will mean that many of the finest pre-schools in this state will close. Also, hundreds and hundreds of pre-school children will be denied the quality pre-school education they need and deserve.

The reason LB 130 is a bill that would force pre-schools to comply with most of the same standards mandatory to day care centers. Let me make this abundantly clear, a pre-school and a licensed day care center are two entirely different businesses both in scope and philosophy. I am not against regulations for pre-schools, just against an abundance of regulations that are redundant, unnecessary and would cost the tax paying public thousands of dollars.

Also, many of those regulations would cost the pre-school teacher thousands and thousands of dollars in structural changes. What will these fine teachers do? Raise their prices, take large numbers of children to cover the overhead, or fold? Virtually every teacher I know in the recently formed NE Nebraska pre-school assoc. would have to fold.

The differences between a day care center and a pre-school are plain. A day care center takes many children, it takes infants, serves a hot noon meal, gives naps, at times keeps children from 6:30 in the morning to 6 o'clock at night. Parents who work full time expect care for their children at an average of 40 hours per week! It is a sellers market especially in small towns. (There are many more small towns in Nebraska than large).

Working parents are at the mercy of the establishment. If the centers were not tightly regulated, pennies would be pinched, standards would be relaxed, children attending would ultimately suffer by poor care and sub-standard emergency protection. Most day care centers would not allow poor care but the laws are made to protect people and their children from the poor ones.

Pre-schools are entirely different in every single respect but I want to make 2 points especially clear! 1. Pre-schools offer a buyers market business. Parents are not locked into the pre-school their child attends if the parents observe poor conditions or poor quality education, they can pull their child out, find a new pre-school or work at home with him. Average time per pre-schooler in school is 5 to 6 hours a week. 2. 90 percent of the best pre-schools in rural areas are run by conscientious, educated, experienced, hard working, concerned women who teach in their homes usually in basement school rooms.

These facilities are fine, clean discrepancies. Pre-school teachers would be required to take nutrition classes when we serve no meals! Pre-school teachers would be required to meet five safety laws required for establishments who take large numbers of children and infants for long periods. I am not speaking about fire extinguishers and smoke alarms but extremely costly fire doors and fire walls! (I know that I could get my small number of students out of my school in 4 minutes or less even if I had to carry them out one at a time! If I ran a pre-school in a separate building then I would need such safety measures for the sake of the children, but my home, my school room, is my property, my life. I use extreme caution in all safety matters pertaining to my home.

My letter is not intended as an appeal for a free rein for pre-schools. I advocate certain educational and experience requirements for teachers, low child-adult ratios, continuing education for teachers, certain safety standards as regards to fire safety, etc. I advocate safe and spacious areas of play and learning. I advocate nutritious snacks. I am in favor of parental visits throughout the year to insure the quality of education for the children.

I would even be in favor of 3 and 4 year olds. I am interested in regulations in proportion to the service being supplied to the consumer. I am interested in rational recognition of the pre-school business as it is being practiced in rural America.

LB 130 is listed under child care! I am a teacher. I do not supply a babysitting or child care service. I supply an educational service to caring consumers. LB 130 should be listed as "LB 130 Part time Child Education".

If LB 130 Child Care passes as is, our representatives will be clearly undermining their constituents right to excellent pre-school education for their children. The only pre-schools to survive such monetary hardships will be those how take huge numbers of children to cover the overhead costs, or ones who charge high prices. I repeat the monetary hardships I am speaking of mount into thousands of dollars. Think of all the wonderful teachers who would be forced to shut off their contact with our nations newest generations.

This is another clear case of the big bureaucratic over-regulation of a consumer oriented service. If the service supplied is sub standard, don't go there, if it is excellent, support it!

I would really like to see a strong letter writing campaign to our representative Von Minden. I don't think our senators really know what is involved in this issue.

Lawmakers decide on impeachment

By Melvin Paul

Nebraska Press Association

At the beginning of the debate last week on the historic resolution to impeach Attorney General Paul Douglas, it seemed that very few of the 49 state senators had any idea how things would turn out.

Several senators said they went into the floor deliberations without knowing how they would vote on the questions of censure, condemnation and impeachment.

At the end of hours of debate, lawmakers had voted 27-19 approval of a resolution of impeachment. By that act, the lawmakers sent to the Nebraska Supreme Court the question of whether Douglas should be removed from office.

Lawmakers also adopted a resolution condemning Douglas' business dealings with the insolvent Commonwealth Savings Company and his representation of those dealings to investigators following the failure of the institution.

DOUGLAS SAID the legislative actions are unwarranted, and that he'll defend himself before the Supreme Court.

A poll of senators a few days before the debate by the Associated Press indicated that the vast majority thought there would be no impeachment.

After adoption of the impeachment resolution late Wednesday afternoon, Senator Vard Johnson of Omaha, chairman of the special legislative committee on Commonwealth, said he didn't know what to expect until a vote early in the deliberations on a relatively mild censure resolution.

The censure, sponsored by Senator John DeCamp of Neligh, failed on a 13-32 vote. That seemed to be the first clear indication that lawmakers considered the Douglas matter too serious to let go with a slap on the wrists.

As a result of a recent Revenue Department report predicting a decline in state revenues, Governor Bob Kerrey last week recommended to state lawmakers a series of budget revisions which would result fiscal year 1984-85 state general fund budget which could be funded with a 19 percent state individual income tax rate and a 3.5 percent state sales tax rate.

THE 1984 INCOME tax rate is now 20 percent of federal tax liability, and the state sales tax rate is scheduled to drop from 3 percent to 3.5 percent on April 1.

Kerrey sent his four page letter of proposed budget revisions to lawmakers as they began their annual budget debate.

The letter marked Kerrey's first comprehensive commentary on the proposed state budget since his Jan. 8 budget speech to lawmakers. At the time, Kerrey recommended an 18 percent income tax rate and $846.6 million in general fund spending. The budget he recommended in January appears to be no longer affordable, Kerrey said.

About 500 Nebraska corporate franchise taxpayers can expect refunds totaling up to $23 million from the state revenue over the next 16 months, the result of unanimous Nebraska State Supreme Court decision handed down recently.

Ruling in a case known as Douglas versus Karnes, the high court ruled that the state corporate franchise tax law, as it existed before the 1983 Legislature changed it, was "invalid, discriminatory, (and) proscribed by federal law."

LAST YEAR state franchise taxpayers, who for the most part are banks and other financial institutions, began filing for state tax refunds for tax years 1979 through 1982 as the result of a January 1983 U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down the Tennessee tax law.

In that case, the high court said the Tennessee law was invalid in that it treated earnings from securities issued by the federal government such as treasury bills, differently from those issued by state and local governments. Income from federal government securities was taxed, while income from state and local government wasn't taxed.

At the time, Nebraska officials said a similar inconsistency seemed to exist in Nebraska law. In order to receive judicial guidance, state officials set up the lawsuit on which the state court ruled.

Epidemic of slot machines

To the editor:

It seems that consideration of video lottery machines and gambling in general has grown to epidemic proportions. There are some points we definitely need to consider and which proponents of the lotteries have seemed to ignore.

1. The question of gambling in Nebraska is not new. It was considered in the 1930's and judged not to be the direction for the state to take, nor the solution to the problems of a staggering economy.

2. The use of the name "video lottery machine" seems intended to confuse most people. Are they really any different than slot machines?

3. The promise of "big bucks" taken in which will save money of the average citizen, is a "pie in the sky" kind of promise. In most places the reality of that is yet to be realized. Will it ever be? (i.e. have taxes in Atlantic City where gambling has really been promoted fallen? South Sioux City is over budgeting $36,000.00 to be used in "rebates" (bribes?) to utility customers, even though, while the lotteries have taken in $107,441.92, the city has spent about $114,000.00.

4. The money spent to play "video slots" comes from somewhere. Is the local citizenry right? Does that not mean, then, that money is withheld (siphoned off?) from the local economy? After all, there is only so much money available in a given area.

It seems to me that many people are being caught up in a "Pollyanna" kind of thinking where our taxes will be lower and all our problems will be solved. Let's be realistic. And let's also consider the morality of gambling and the victimizing of the compulsive person.

It is one thing to take a carefree trip to Las Vegas or Atlantic City for a few days (with a limited amount of money to risk), and quite another to be confronted every day, as we go about our normal living and activities, with the temptation of "something for nothing."

Drinking age makes sense

To the editor:

I would like to respond to your viewpoint in last week's Wayne Herald concerning the legal drinking age.

I would point out that the safety problems on Nebraska highways created by youth driving to Iowa for liquor are minor (no pun intended) compared to the overall state problems of teenage drinking.

Every state that has raised the minimum drinking age reports a marked decrease in accidents and alcohol related problems. Nineteen states, including Alaska, have raised the age to 21.

Nine other states have raised to 21 (including Kansas, Colorado, and South Dakota) for hard liquor, with a lower age for beer and wine.

The federal government is pressing hard to get all states to conform to the minimum drinking age of 21.

As for Wayne College students and youth making a Friday or Saturday night trek to Sioux City to "hit the bars" and then driving home intoxicated, this will continue regardless of state laws.

New study is good news for the red meat industry

By Cheryl Stubbendieck

Nebraska Farm Bureau

Nothing delights beef, pork and lamb producers more than good news about red meat. That being the case, a recent study announced by the National Live Stock and Meat Board is probably responsible for those ear to ear grins.

"Estimated Dietary Contribution of Red Meat in the U.S. - 1982," is to be released soon as a Meat Board white paper. The author, Burdette C. Breidenstein, Ph.D., is the board's director of research. He used data from a study conducted by the well respected research firm of Yankelovich, Skelly & White.

The word "estimated" in the title is a bow to strict standards of scientific description. All estimates in the study are based on rational assumptions and have a maximum-minimum error factor built in, meaning that even slight changes or variances in any estimate will not significantly alter the results.

WHAT BREIDENSTEIN did was look at the nutrient composition of red meats, meat actually consumed by Americans per capita and meat usage patterns by consumer market segment.

Breaking down how much meat is consumed by Americans, according to their frequency of usage, the study shows that consumers eat far less red meat on a daily basis than was previously thought — both by those within the industry and those on the outside. On a per capita basis, Americans are consuming just under four ounces of red meat a day — the equivalent of a Quarter Pounder.

What does the consumer get in his four ounces? For one thing, only 87 milligrams of cholesterol per day. This is good news, given that the most stringent recommendation for cholesterol intake comes from the American Heart Association, which says 300 milligrams, max.

According to the study, then, Americans are getting only 29 percent of their daily cholesterol allotment from red meat.

OUR AVERAGE consumer is also getting less saturated fat than some have suggested. USDA says only 48 percent of the fat in beef is saturated, 36 percent in pork is, and 56 percent in lamb is saturated. So, of the 8.7 percent of the average consumer's daily calories that comes from the fat component of meat, considerably less than half is from saturated fats. That's more good news.

Also on the plus side, 45.5 percent of the Recommended Dietary Allowances for protein (for adult males) comes from that four ounces of red meat, along with a quarter of the RDA for iron and zinc, 16-23 percent of the thiamin, riboflavin and niacin and 71.0 percent of Vitamin B-12.

For the sake of comparison — and perhaps of argument — the study also looked at the heavy user of red meat, the fellow who eats twice as much red meat per day, or 8.74 ounces cooked weight. Even at that high rate, the heavy user is getting only 718 calories or 27 percent of an adult male's 2,700 calorie budget from meat.

As for dietary fat, the heavy red meat user is consuming 52.3 grams of fat per day. Based on approximately 9 calories per gram of fat, he's getting only 472 of his calories, from fat or about 17.48 percent. Since the usual recommendation is to get no more than 30 percent of daily calories from fat, the heavy user is still doing okay.

INTERESTINGLY — and perhaps not coincidentally — data from the study come at a time when five livestock and meat industry organizations have released a joint statement of principles. The five groups have followed these guidelines for several years, but just recently articulated them jointly.

They agree that "overwhelming scientific evidence points to a diet of moderation and variety. Individuals with specific health concerns that require dietary modification should be diagnosed and have diets prescribed by a physician. We agree with the concept of the dietary guidelines recommending the avoidance of too much fat, sodium and sugar."

Another principle from that joint statement promises, "We will concentrate on the positive aspects rather than using valuable resources in reacting to each anti-meat statement that may appear in the media." The study cited here gives those organizations an opportunity to...

Town team appreciative

To the editor:

The basketball tournament sponsored by the Wayne Town Team this past weekend was a big success thanks to a lot of people. Through its success, we earned enough money to help pay the expenses for our upcoming season.

Thanks to the teams, the players, the fans, the ladies who set up refreshments, those who sponsored teams, the city for the use of the auditorium, Raintree for supplying refreshments, Mike Breske for helping ref, Hank Overin and Paul Otte for their support and The Wayne Herald for its publicity.

And last but not least, thanks to all of the town team players who took the time, to come and help by refing, keeping score and cleaning up.

We're planning to make this an annual event.

Mike Meyer, Town team coach

Educational fun

To the editor:

We would like to thank all the people involved in making Wayne County Government Day a very interesting and educational experience. We would also like to thank the Winslow American Legion Auxiliary for the lunch they provided.

Dixon County poster contest designed to stress 'buckling up'

Dixon County third graders are invited to enter a "Get-It-Together" seat belt poster contest sponsored by home extension clubs in the county.

Purpose of the contest is to make both youth and adults aware of the importance and effectiveness of "buckling up" for safety when riding in a vehicle.

All third grade youngsters in Dixon County are eligible to enter.

POSTERS SHOULD be on 12" by 18" paper and may be done in pencil, crayon or paint on either white or colored paper.

The child's name, address and county should be included on the back of the poster.

Entries may be given to a home extension club president or taken to the Dixon County Extension Office at the Northeast Station, Concord, by April 6.

TEACHERS AND parents of third graders are asked to encourage youngsters to enter the contest.

The winning poster from Dixon County will be entered in the state contest to be held in June.

The top three winners of the state contest will receive $10 for first, $5 for second, and $3 for third place. In addition, each of the winners will receive an autographed picture of Husker football player Mike Rozier.

PERSONS WHO would like additional contest details are asked to contact Mrs. David Manz Newcastle, Dixon County health/safety leader, or the Dixon County Extension Office.

Final goal

Wayne baseball team will shoot for repeat state berth

A young Wayne High baseball team has its sights set on a repeat trip to the state baseball tournament.

The Blue Devils have only one senior on the squad, infielder David Longe. Five starters return from last year's team, which compiled a 10-3 record and lost to Lincoln Southeast in the first round of the state meet.

The pitching duo of junior Steve Overin and sophomore Don Larsen should provide punch at the plate as well as consistency on the mound.

OVERIN, WHO plays shortstop when he's not pitching, batted .441 last year and finished with a 2-9 pitching record. Larsen, a first baseman, led the team in hitting with a .461 mark and went 2-1 on the mound.

Other returning starters are junior catcher Chris Wieseler who hit .333, junior Todd Dorsey who hit .428 and Jeff Sherer who became a starter late in the season.

Players vying for positions on coach Mike Maillette's squad include sophomores Shannon Dorsey, Casey Nichols, Jeff Hausman and Brent Pick; and freshmen Ted Luaders, Steve Luft, Jason Jorgensen, Scott Nichols and Robbie Gamble.

Juniors fighting for positions are Rod Luft, Lance DeWald, Melvin Main and Rick Haase.

Maillette said the weather has made it difficult to see the abilities of various individuals.

THE BLUE DEVILS are scheduled to open their season Wednesday (April 4) with a double-header at Laurel if the weather clears up.

Season schedule:
Wednesday, April 4—at Laurel, 2:30, 4 p.m.

Thursday, April 12—at Bancroft, 2:30, 4 p.m.

Wednesday, April 18—host Laurel, 2:30, 4 p.m.

Tuesday, April 24—at Boys Town, 2:30, 4 p.m.

Monday, April 30—host Lincoln Pius, 2, 4 p.m.

Thursday, May 7—host Bancroft-Rosalie, 2:30, 4 p.m.

May 7-11—District tournament.

May 17, 18, 19—State tournament.

WAYNE HIGH baseball players work out in the high school gym since Mother Nature hasn't provided ideal conditions outdoors.

Uhing selected as Wayne High coach

Hartington Cedar Catholic basketball coach Bob Uhing has signed a contract to coach boys basketball at Wayne-Carroll High School. The position was vacated recently when Bill Sharpe resigned his coaching duties.

In addition to coaching basketball, Uhing will teach math, science and social studies at the Wayne Middle School.

Uhing has a record of 102 wins and only 12 losses for a winning percentage of 89.47 percent. In his five years of coaching at Hartington CC, Uhing's teams have been ranked in the Class B top 10 every year.

HE COACHED his teams to the state championship in 1980 and 1984. His teams won three district and two conference titles. Under Uhing, Hartington CC has lost only two home games in five years.

Before taking the head coaching job at Hartington CC, Uhing spent five years as coach at Hartington Holy Trinity junior high school, compiling a record of 64-2.

Uhing received a B.A. degree from Mount Marty College, Yankton, in 1974 with a major in elementary education and a teaching minor in history.

He taught at Holy Trinity grade school from 1974 to 1979 and Cedar Catholic High from 1980 to 1984.

UHING ATTENDED coaching clinics held by Tom Apke of the University of Colorado; Lute Olson, formerly of the University of Iowa; Denny Crum of Louisville; George Raveling, formerly of Washington State; Dale Brown of LSU; John Wooden, formerly of UCLA;

Bob Uhing

Hubie Brown of the New York Knicks, and Cotton Fitzsimmons of the Kansas City Kings.

Uhing, who is teaching high school math and history, presently is taking graduate courses at Wayne State College.

The new Wayne coach was born in Hartington and graduated from Cedar Catholic High School in 1970.

Uhing said he is pleased to have the opportunity to come to Wayne and said he is looking forward to the challenge.

Laurel baseball players to overcome small numbers

Laurel baseball coach Gale Hamilton may have to wait awhile before he finds out how good his team will be this year.

The Bears are scheduled to open their season Wednesday (April 4) with a double header at home against Wayne. But, snow and water on the baseball field may have the final say.

Five of the 12 players listed on the Laurel roster are returning lettermen. Four are seniors and the other is a junior.

HAMILTON SAID that senior Jim Casey has good range in the outfield and a strong arm. Senior John Chase is known for his defensive skills and should be the key to a strong infield, Hamilton said.

Laurel's ace pitcher will be senior Brian Haisch, who also is a good hitter. "He will have to throw well if we are going to be competitive with the larger schools," Hamilton said.

The other senior is Craig Hanson who was designated hitter last season. Hamilton said Hanson will play in the infield, possibly at first base or third.

The only junior on the squad is letterman Mike Granquist. Hamilton described Granquist as an excellent infielder who bats about .350. "He has leadership skills and we're looking for a lot from Mike," the coach said.

HAMILTON WILL have to rely on freshmen and sophomores to fill the other positions on the team.

The coach has high hopes for freshman Brent Haisch, who played Legion baseball last summer and led the team in home runs. Hamilton expects Haisch to be strong both on offense and defense and said he is one of the best freshman ballplayers in the area.

Sophomore Chad Blatchford has a strong arm, lots of desire and determination. Hamilton said. Other sophomores are Paul Pearson, who Hamilton said is the most improved player from last year, Andy Fredrickson and Randy Prescott.

Freshmen Scott Lindsay and Chad Lake also will fight for starting positions.

Snyder bolsters

Weather hampers Wildcats

By Nancy Rude

WSC Sports Intern

Mother Nature has once again put a damper on the Wayne State outdoor track season.

Coach LeRoy Simpson and his 31 member team will have to put their first scheduled meet in Wayne (March 27) on hold. According to Simpson the track could have been ready but there would probably have been some problems with the field events.

This year's women's squad will be looking for leadership from its three seniors, Kelley Peterson-Snyder (Nehawka), Stacy Moore (Missouri Valley, Iowa) and Tracy Newberger (Omaha).

SNYDER WILL be trying to gain All America honors for the third year in a row. She was national champion in the 100-meter hurdles at the NAIA national championships last spring and third in 1982. Snyder has captured four Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) titles—two in the 100-meter hurdles and a pair in the 100-meter dash. She won both league races last year.

Moore will be running the 400 and intermediate hurdles, while Newberger will be trying to make a return trip to the nationals in the shot put.

Simpson has high hopes for Snyder and sophomore Vicki Wamberg Byrkit (Wausau) to repeat as All-Americans. Byrkit is the school record holder in the high jump at 5-6

Simpson said the strong events for the women should be the sprints, and that the team is also "sitting pretty good in the distance events." Simpson feels the women could finish as high as second in the CSIC.

OTHER TEAM members for the women and their events include freshman Deb Johns (Sioux City), javelin, freshman Deb Benton (Sioux City), 400 and 400 intermediate hurdles; sophomore Mary Kay Becker (Norfolk), long jump and hurdles; freshman Missy Stollenberg (Wayne), hurdles, 100 and 200; junior Kim Pohlman (Stanton), 100 and 200; sophomore Cindy Heesacker (Humphrey), 200 and 400; and freshman Lynn Surber (Wayne), 800 and 1,500.

For the men this year, Simpson feels the field events could be the strong point.

"The men could have their highest finish ever in the CSIC," Simpson said.

One trackster has already set a school record. Freshman Mark Vollmer of Wisner set a record in the triple jump with a leap of 47.3 during the indoor season and placed seventh in the national meet.

There are six other field event participants for the men. They are junior Tim Buentz (Charter Oak, Iowa), shot put, sophomore Randy Ditter (Humphrey) shot put and discus, freshman Joe Work (Herman, Iowa), javelin, junior Jeff Sorenson (South Sioux City), and senior Scott Driver (Wynot) pole vault and high jump, and junior Lonell Greene (East Orange, N.J.), long jump and triple jump.

This year's sprinters include sophomore Curt Munson (Norfolk), freshman Kurt Aesinger (Pittsboro) and freshman Stacy Erwin (Omaha), 100 and 200; sophomore Darwin Barnes (Wolbach) and freshman Fred Silitik (Council Bluffs, Iowa), 100, 200 and 400; and freshman Darin Blackburn (Malvern, Iowa), high hurdles, intermediate hurdles and 200.

Those running the longer races include sophomore Larry Hinman (Sacramento, Calif.), freshman Ken Dooley (Missouri Valley, Iowa) and senior Troy Brende (Sioux City, Iowa), 400 and 800; freshman Jim Podany (Petersburg), intermediate hurdles, and 800; senior Gary Kaiser (Wynot), 800 and steeplechase; and freshman Lance Zach (Columbus), 1,500.

The team will be looking towards the Kearney Relays on March 31.

"Everyone is looking forward to getting outside," said Del Stollenberg, who is assisting Simpson with coaching duties this season. "I feel everyone has shown improvement from one meet to the next." Stollenberg said, referring to the short indoor season Wayne had earlier this year.

There has been one major injury on the team. Freshman Greg Downey (Merna) has a stress fracture in his lower leg. It is not clear when he will return at full strength.

Kelley (Peterson) Snyder: an All-American by either name

By Steve Jones
WSC Sports Information Director
The times have changed for Kelley Snyder.

The times have gone down in terms of tenths of seconds in the 100-meter hurdles for the two-time Wayne State College All-American track performer. And the times are different for the young woman who earned her past track honors under her maiden name, Kelley Peterson.

"The responsibilities are a little heavier now," said Kelley, a personable 22-year-old senior from Nehawka who married Kevin Snyder last June.

Marriage has added another responsibility to an already busy lifestyle this spring.

KELLEY WILL be trying to qualify for her fourth straight NAIA national track meet this season. Yet along with her heavy Wayne State track workouts, she's also a full-time student teacher at Wayne High School and works with the hurdlers on the Wayne High girls' track team two afternoons each week.

"If (working with the prep hurdlers) cuts into my practice time, but I'm also practicing as I'm coaching," she said. "I have to keep my nose to the grindstone. I don't mind the work, I'm just busy."

"My weekends will be shortened, especially when we have a track meet. But my husband Kevin is very supportive and helpful. He's also a pretty good cook and that helps when I drag in after practice."

Kelley's track accomplishments at Wayne State are as long as this spring's outdoor track season will be short if warm weather does not come. She's placed in the last two national NAIA meets and has won four Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) crowns.

Kelley was fourth last spring in the NAIA 100-meter hurdles in 14.81. The year before she was third.

"Every year the nationals get tougher," she said. "The girls are getting faster and faster."

SHE QUALIFIED for the NAIA meet in the hurdles as a freshman but did not score. Kelley has also run in the spring medley and 4x100 relay races at the national meet.

Two of her CSIC titles came last year. Her hurdles time of 14.66 broke her own year-old league standard. Kelley also won the 100-meter dash in 1983, something she also accomplished as a freshman.

As a prep athlete at Conestoga High School in rural Murray, Kelley participated in basketball, volleyball and track. She advanced to the state track meet all four years, but a state champion ship eluded her each spring.

Her 100 hurdles times in high school were good (in the .15s), but they improved a good deal by college. She credits the WSC coaching and running with 6 foot 5 Ed Blackburn, a former Wildcat All American hurdler, for her progress.

"For two years I ran with Ed Blackburn and I picked up a lot of things from him.

But I'd have to take about four steps for every one he took," said Kelley, who's 11 inches shorter than Blackburn.

"And (head coach) LeRoy Simpson and (assistant coach) Del Stollenberg do a great job."

THIS SEASON will be Kelley's final competitive one. She's not talking burnout, but she's ready for a change to teaching and possibly coaching. Her hurdling and sprinting days will be over, but she figures she'll still be doing some distance running.

So trying to finish her WSC career on a good note at the national meet is one of her goals.

"My major goal is to place, but I have to get there first," she said. "Those are realistic goals."

Kelley related another goal. Not losing to her teammate Missy Stollenberg, a promising freshman hurdler Kelley has worked out with a lot.

"Half of me hates to lose, but the other half says if I lose, I want to lose to Missy. She's going to be an excellent track performer. I don't want to lose, but the possibility is there. My records here are to be broken."

Kelley, a biology and physical education major, and Kevin, an industrial education major at WSC who's also student teaching in Wayne, are applying for jobs. They'll go to wherever one of them gets a teaching position.

But this spring, she'll have a good time with her times.

Wilbur expecting good things

With 14 lettermen returning from last year's Wakefield girls track team, coach Dennis Wilbur is expecting some good things to happen.

The weather has kept Wilbur from seeing his squad in action yet this season but he has high hopes.

One state-qualifying relay team, three-fourths of another state relay team and the leading individual all return for the Trojans.

The 1,600-meter relay team of Kristi Miller, Kristal Clay, Leigh Johnson and Suzanne Stelling will be hoping for a return trip to state. The fastest time for the team last year was 4:21.

SUSIE McQUISTAN is the only newcomer on a 400-meter relay team that competed at state last year. Other members of the team which recorded a best of :52.9 are Michele Meyer, Kristal Clay and Kristi Miller.

Sophomore Suzanne Stelling is one of the team's leading athletes. In addition to the 1,600-meter relay team, she also qualified for state in the 400-meter dash and high jump with high marks of :60.0 and 5-1 respectively.

The squad has five senior lettermen back. They are Carl Johnson in the shot put and discus; Michele Meyer in the 400-meter relay and sprints; Michelle Rischmueller in the 3,200 and 1,600; Marie Turner in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relay; and Trisha Willers in the 3,200 relay, 1,600 and 800.

THERE ARE NO juniors on the squad but Wilbur has nine sophomore lettermen. They include: Kristal Clay in the hurdles, 400 relay, long jump, 100, 200, 400 and 1,600 relay; Tonia Clement in the 400, 800 and 3,200 relay; Beth Engstedt in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relay; Leigh Johnson in the long jump, 200, 400 and 1,600 relay; Kristi Miller in the 1,600 relay, long jump, 100, 200, 400 and 800 relay; Terri Nuernberger in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relay; Pam Sievers in the shot put and discus; and Suzanne Stelling in the high jump, hurdles, 200, 400, 800 and 1,600 relay.

Two other sophomores on the team are Jana Radtke in the 200, 400 and 1,600 relay and Susan Thompson in the 100, 200 and 400 relay.

Thirteen freshmen will add depth to the Wakefield team.

The list includes: Dawn Boatman in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relay; Jeanni Carson in the 100, 200 and 400 relay; Marci Greve in the 200, 400, 800, 400 relay and discus; Kaye Hansen in the 100, 200, 400, hurdles and 400 relay; Valerie Krusemark in the 200, 400 and 1,600 relay; Stacey Kuhl in the 100 hurdles, 300 hurdles, 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relay; Susie McQuistan in the 100, 200 and 400 relay; Tammy Nicholson in the discus and shot put; Amy Peters in the sprints and middle distance; Desirée Salmon in the 100 hurdles, 100, 200 and 400; Jennifer Salmon in the 100, 200, 400 and 800 relay; Stephanie Torczon in the discus and shot; Tanya Willers in the 800, 1,600, 3,200 and 3,200 relay.

Wilbur said he thinks McQuistan, Kuhl, Willers and Engstedt show promise. "We hope to improve in the distances and sprints. We also should show improvement in the hurdles," he said.

Golfers wait weather improvement

The Wayne High golf squad is waiting an improvement in the weather for the opening of its season. The first meet of the year was scheduled Tuesday but postponed.

With Class B state individual champion Cole Froeschle returning, and with Rod Dahl joining the team, Coach Harold Maciejewski is looking forward to considerable success.

Brad Moore and Tom Perry, two of Maciejewski's other leading golfers last year, are back and ready to go. Those four will be joined by two seniors, Perry Benschhof and Jayne Marsh, who saw plenty of action last season.

A promising freshman class adds to Maciejewski's optimism. The class includes Kevin and Tim Griess, David Ellis, Jay Luff, Jaret Olson, Erich Janzen and Wendy Erickson.

Sophomores on the squad are Tom Perry, Jerry Heier, Lesa McDermott and Nora Froeschle. Juniors are Rod Dahl and Brad Moore. Seniors are Cole Froeschle, Perry Benschhof, Layne Marsh and Cindy Denton.

The Blue Devils now are hoping to open their season Monday (April 2) in a triangular with defending Class C champion Oakland-Craig, and Beemer at Oakland. A triangular with Oakland and West Point was postponed Tuesday.

TAX SHELTER

THINK SUNRISE CONDOMINIUM

It's true, one of the best tax shelters might be right here in Wayne. The Internal Revenue Service now lets you own rental property and rent to parents or relatives and take all the deductions afforded other rental programs.

This means you could own a Sunrise Condominium, rent it to a relative that doesn't have a high income that needs sheltering and have a direct tax deduction of over $11,000. In the 25% tax bracket, that would mean as much as $3,800 tax savings. The first year would be even more with as much as a $14,000 deduction which translates into $4,900 tax savings. Including the tax savings, depreciation and only a 8% inflation rate, the return on investment would be between 28 to 34%. Where can you find a better return on an investment?

And it's one of the soundest investments in town — new homes real estate values are probably rising of their bottom. This year will mark the beginning of another six year cycle that will see new homes again increase dramatically in value, so invest in real estate now!

'Hamlet' visiting Wayne

Hamlet will walk the stage in Ramsey Theatre, located in Wayne State College's Val Peterson Fine Arts Center, on Tuesday, April 3 at 8 p.m.

The National Shakespeare Company, noted as America's foremost touring repertory group, will present Shakespeare's popular tragedy play "Hamlet."

"Hamlet" is the story of a young man, being haunted by his father's death, his mother's remarriage, and his own inaction, who must triumph over his guilts and fears if he is to respect himself as a man.

The National Shakespeare Company, based in New York City, was founded in 1963 by Philip Meister and Elaine Sulka following a request from Upsala College in New Jersey to produce an anthology show.

The company's first tour consisted of a 6-week jaunt through New Jersey and New York state. Now, 21 years later, the National Shakespeare Company has performed in all 48 continental United States and parts of Canada, and has reached approximately 2 1/2 million people.

The company performs primarily for colleges, universities, and community arts centers.

TOURING FOR the National Shakespeare Company is not an easy job. Since the tour consists primarily of one night stands, the 12-member company travels to a different location almost every day during its 8-month trek. Many times the company drives 6 hours a day, which concludes with a performance that evening.

The company is self-contained. The actors, aside from their acting duties, drive the bus, set up the scenery and lighting, and perform all technical jobs required to make the show run. "Hamlet" is being directed by Ron Daley, who has been with the National Shakespeare Company since 1976. He holds masters degrees in theatre and English with specialization in Renaissance drama.

The National Shakespeare Company is being brought to Wayne State as part of the Special Programs Series.

All Wayne State College students, faculty and staff, as well as holders of Wayne State activity passes, will be admitted free of charge. Admission for the general public is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for high school students and younger. Tickets will be available at the door.

'Women, Families and Work' program slated at Wayne State

"Women, Families, and Work" is the title of a program to be presented at Wayne State College on April 5 at 6:30 p.m. in Lay Theatre, located in Brandenburg Education Building.

Dr. Jesse Bernard, author of "The Female World," will be the keynote speaker.

Bernard will examine the changing role of women in modern society, particularly their increased involvement in the work world, and the conflicts women encounter as they enter this world.

The implications of this societal change for families and society are profound and will be addressed in the program.

Dr. Jo Taylor, head of the humanities division at Wayne State, will act as commentator and discussant.

Sociology, she has been the recipient of numerous awards, including honorary doctorates from such institutions as George Washington University and Northwestern University.

In 1974 she delivered the opening address for International Women's Year to the United Nations.

PI GAMMA MU, the social science honorary, is sponsoring the program.

Major funding was provided by the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, a state program of the National Endowment for the Humanities. The presentation is free and open to the public.

faculty accomplishments

—DR. DON HICKEY, associate professor of history, has been invited to take part in two seminars this summer: a 2-month NEH seminar at Stanford University on the American Revolution, and a week-long seminar sponsored by Project '87 on the First Amendment at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

—DR. RAY KELTON, professor of music, directed the Wayne State Jazz Ensemble in concerts at Schuyler, Columbus and Silver Creek on March 15. The ensemble will be in concert at Wayne State College today (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre.

—JANET SCHMITZ, associate professor of French, attended a workshop on "Total Immersion in the Teaching of Language," given by Dr. John Rassias of Dartmouth College in Kansas City, Mo. March 3-4.

Visiting poet to read at Wayne State

Madeline DeFrees, professor of English in the MFA program in creative writing at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, will present a reading of her poetry Thursday April 5 at 7 p.m. on the Wayne State College campus.

The reading will be given in the commons area, located on the second floor of the Humanities building.

The reading is free and open to the public.

DeFrees, who is being brought to the Wayne State campus through the Plains Writers Series, will be in residence at Wayne State from April 2-6.

She has published 5 books, including 2 volumes of prose and 3 collections of poetry.

She was awarded the 1981-82 Guggenheim Fellowship and a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

DeFrees has read her poems in more than 40 universities, high schools and poetry centers, including the Library of Congress. Her poems have been published in 7 anthologies and more than 50 periodicals.

Brown bag lunch scheduled

Non-traditional students at Wayne State College may bring their own lunch to the Senate Room in the lower level of the Student Center today (Thursday) at noon.

Dr. Bob Lohrborg, Wayne State director of placement, will present a program entitled "Job Market Prospects: Job Search Assistance."

'To Worlds Unknown' showing

Wayne State College's Dale Planetarium, located in the lower level of Cahner Science Building, will be presenting "To Worlds Unknown" every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. from April 1 through April 29.

"To Worlds Unknown" is an imaginary voyage to the planets and their moons, worlds whose features have only recently been unveiled by interplanetary probes from the Earth.

"To Worlds Unknown" is free and open to the public. In addition, special showings can be arranged for school groups and other organizations by appointment.

For more information, contact the Planetarium by writing to Box 77, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787, or call (402) 375-2200.

Insectigation meetings

Irrigators Do You Inject Chemicals?

Lower Elkhorn NRD and the Cooperative Extension Service of Cuming and Madison counties will sponsor irrigation meetings for producers with an emphasis on injecting chemicals through the irrigation system. Wisner City Auditorium will be the site of a meeting beginning at 1:30 p.m. April 12, 1984.

The Norfolk meeting is co-sponsored by NTCC and will be held in the Macley Building at 7:00 p.m. April 12, 1984. This meeting will be preceded by a free soup supper at 6:00 in the cafeteria. The meetings will help inform irrigators about the restrictions and limitations involved in chemical injection, also the property procedures and advantages of this process. The following agenda is for both meetings.

Groundwater Levels & Aquifers of NE Nebraska

— Bruce Hanson, Conservation and Survey Division, UNL.

Calibration of injectors & Pumping Plant Efficiency — Tom Dorn, Irrigation Specialist, UNL.

Applying insecticide through irrigation systems — Bruce Monke, Dow Chemical.

DEC Regulation of Chemicals in Irrigation Water — Clark Haberman, Dept. of Environmental Control.

Use of insecticides in irrigation systems — John Witkowski, Extension Entomologist, UNL.

Current Water Law and Check Valves on Irrigation Systems — DeLynne May, Irrigation Specialist, UNL.

Irrigators View of Insectigation — Bill Meyer, Pierce County Irrigator.

Prepare for tree planting

Although the weather has not shown it, spring and tree planting time is approaching. Trees are a crop like most others you plant, and as such, requires planning and preparation to be a success.

- SCS personnel are available to plan windbreaks, assist in ordering trees and arrange for planting if desired.
- If you have not ordered trees yet, you should do so very soon.

- If the area to be planted was not prepared last fall, it should be tilled when conditions permit in the spring. Well prepared soil is important for tree planting as well as any other crop. Hard cloddy ground will reduce the survival and growth rate of seedlings.
- If trees cannot be planted as soon as you receive them, they should be "healed in" in a dark, cool, moist area.

Steps in tree planting

Tree Seedlings still available

Individuals may still order tree seedlings from the State Forester, c/o Bessey Nursery at Halsey (order forms available at SCS and Extension Offices).

Seedlings may be ordered in lots of 25 from NRD tree planter Loren Denker of Wisner or through the West Point or Fremont SCS offices. These trees are from the same source and the same price ($28 per hundred), but must be picked up from Loren Denker unless planted by him.

W. M. ORR NAMED FOR CITY'S MAYOR

Reflecting in Contest for City Clerkship Results in Majority for I. C. Trumbauer.

ANOTHER CONVENTION CALLED

Second Ticket to be Named Tomorrow Night—Plans should be Attended and Participate.

These nominations for municipal offices were made by the citizens party Friday evening. W. M. Orr, mayor; H. S. Ringland, treasurer; I. C. Trumbauer, clerk; Robert Jones, engineer; Ernest H. H. Foster, commissioner; Second ward, J. H. Foster, councilman; Third ward, L. C. Gildersleeve, councilman; Third ward, Mrs. W. H. Morris and J. H. Kemp, members of the school board.

The municipal improvement party has a notice in today's Herald, over the names of F. G. Fuller and F. E. Gamble, calling a convention to be held for tomorrow evening for the nomination of city officers. Those who did not participate in the citizens' nomination would be eligible to take part in the meeting tomorrow evening. The attendance of women was small at the first convention. It is expected that women are in much better attendance at the city hall tomorrow night.

For members of the board of education, Mrs. W. H. Morris, J. H. Kemp, F. E. Gamble and W. L. Fisher were named. The vote resulting as follows: Mrs. Morris, 75; Kemp, 71; Gamble, 46; Fisher, 22.

Following the selection of the ticket, Chairman Moran called on J. H. Kemp, mayor, and F. S. Berry, city attorney, for brief talks touching the city's affairs. Mr. Kemp explained that the city is in a position to have the most vigorous problem in local municipal affairs, in now self-maintaining and in good shape. He said all electricity is metered and that figures were available to show that the plant is a paying enterprise.

At the ward caucuses that followed, three candidates for councilmen named at the beginning of this report, were nominated by acclamation. Mr. Berry endorsed what Mr. Kemp had said in regard to the healthy condition of the power plant. He advised questioner that the council would equalize existing conditions so that the burden would not be unjustly distributed.

Public Meeting to Consider Paving. A public meeting is hereby called for Tuesday evening, March 22, at 7:30, at the city hall for the purpose of considering the advisability of undertaking additional paving this year. Everyone is welcome, but the city council is especially desirous to meet those who own property in the proposed new paving districts. In general, the proposed new paving districts embrace the following streets: On the east side, Nebraska and Seventh streets and the cross streets between Logan and Nebraska. On the west side, Lincoln and Douglas. First and Seventh, around the high school block, and the cross streets between Pearl and Douglas streets.

Barn Burns at Noon Today. A barn situated north of the Burnett Wright residence on Nebraska street and owned by Dan McManigal was this noon completely destroyed by fire. Shortly before 12 o'clock, firemen hastened to the scene of the blaze, the cause of which is still unknown. So great was the headway that destruction of the structure could not be prevented. About two tons of hay and some grain were saved. No live stock was lost. The estimated at $400.

Prof. Fessler Renders Musical Selections

The students of the Wayne State Normal were entertained at a concert Wednesday morning when Prof. C. E. Fessler rendered several instrumental selections. The first, by Haydn, represented a Revolutionary war composition when music was written simply for music's sake and when a formal pattern was followed. The second selection was the prelude to the opera, "Lohengrin" by Wagner. The theme of the music was founded upon the story of Lohengrin, one of the knights of the Holy Grail, who returned to the Grail after his mission on earth had ended in success. The beginning of the selection representing the descent to earth, was repeated at the end, and increased in volume with the movement of the story.

The School District Paying off Its Bonds

At a recent special meeting, the Wayne school board ordered paid $5,000 of the district's bonded indebtedness. This payment is made before maturity, and at a discount of five per cent, thus saving in interest and discount on the amount a total of $200 a year. Previous payments, amounting to $8,000, now leaving a bonded indebtedness of $27,000. The board has made arrangements to create a sinking fund to pay the balance of the bonds in due time.

Blair's Bank Closed, Reopened Wednesday

Lincoln, March 16.—Appointment of J. E. Hart secretary of the state department of trade and commerce, as receiver for the defunct Castetter bank of Blair, Neb., inaugurated a policy Tuesday that the department will follow in future bank failures. It was announced by Secretary Hart Wednesday.

The department will not only ask that it be given the receivership, but also planning to introduce a bill in the present session of the legislature to require this procedure. The bill is being drafted by the attorney general's office.

Under the national banking act, the present banking laws, the state banking bureau has no control over the affairs of closed banks, other than a provision by the last legislature requiring the receiver who is appointed by and responsible to the district court, to file a quarterly report with state department.

SPECIAL MEETING WITH CONTRACTOR G. P. ABEL

Council Adjourned Forcing May be Laid as Cheaply Now as Later.

At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, Geo. F. Abel, paving contractor, was present to explain market conditions and talk over future street improvements. He advised that paving could be done as cheaply now as at any time during the next few years. He showed that the peak in prices had not been reached when Wayne let its contract a year ago. The cost of asphalt went up $18 a ton after this contract was awarded, and it is now $11 a ton less than it was a year ago. Abel has a contract for last year's prices for all the asphalt he orders between now and June. He explained that the same paving bid here at $4.35 per square yard had cost in some other towns later last year as high as $5.95 per square yard. He said brick and cement had advanced in price, but that they would be more efficient. Bid freight rates are higher. He does not look for further reduction in cost of materials for a few years. He thinks it will be several years before paving contracts for Wayne can be let cheaper than now.

The contract will be governed in its action by the wishes of the different proposed paving districts. Last fall a generally signed petition from the western part of town, asking for paving, was presented. It is believed that part of the town is still generally in favor of the improvement, though a renewed expression of opinion is needed. "If it is agreed," sentiment would almost unanimously support paving. Districts favoring it would not wait for it to be laid until they are ready for it, as the Herald understands.

The council is inclined to call a mass meeting to discuss future paving contracts, and be governed by the feeling expressed. The fact that Mr. Abel is on the ground with equipment is pointed out as a reason to expect that his bid would be advantageous to the city. Whether to let contracts now and have the benefit of the improvement or wait to expect that the possibility of cheaper markets is the question to be determined.

Laying Paving Brick Was Resumed Tuesday

Laying paving brick was resumed Tuesday, and favorable weather has permitted continuation of the work without interruption. Lower street, south of the depot, has been finished, and operations were transferred this morning to side streets. A large force of men is employed, and the work is progressing rapidly.

Faculty Club Tackles the Fourth Dimension

"The Einstein Theory of Relativity" was the topic discussed at the March meeting of the State Normal Faculty club, which met in the recreation building Thursday evening. Prof. I. H. Bittel and Prof. R. C. Chinn explained that the theory was concerned with the existence of a fourth dimension, time, which is used in judging spatial relationships. The speakers developed the formula used in the theory, explaining it step by step. The fact that the Einstein theory holds only for objects moving in the field of philosophy, education, mathematics and other sciences made the discussion particularly interesting to the hearers. Following the speaker, the time was devoted to the performance of several experiments, after which the mechanism of the wireless in operation was examined.

Eyes Injured by Acid. Leslie Kundell, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kundell of this city, had the misfortune to get acid in his eyes yesterday at the State Normal laboratory when he attempted to clean a bottle by means of lysol. Some element which, when mixed with the lysol, formed an explosive. A physician was summoned at once, and Leslie would be able to attend school again in a few days.

Miss Florence M. York and Mr. Edward R. Kinley of Wakefield, were married in Omaha Wednesday, March 16. They will live on a farm near Wakefield. Mrs. Kinley is a graduate of the Wayne State Normal and taught school in Wakefield. She was book-keeper and cashier in Ahern's store for the past year.

DAMAGE TO FARM HOUSE BELIEVED INCREDIBLE

Returning From Dinner, Jose P. Johnson Finds Home in Burning.

Fire believed to have been of incendiary origin, damaged the home occupied by Jose P. Johnson, four miles west of Wakefield, last Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson had gone to a dance, and returned home about 10:30 o'clock. On arriving, they discovered a bed on fire and the flames making headway in the room. With panic of water they succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. The found entrance had been affected through a window in the bedroom and that oil had been used in starting the fire. Sheriff O. C. Lewis was notified, and on investigation he found on the window sill finger prints which he believed to be those of a man who accompanied a state fire commissioner to the Jensen home to make an examination.

HARDING OF IOWA AMONG SPEAKERS

Former Iowa Governor and Omaha School Board Member to Address Meeting in Wayne.

Large Attendance Assured. Prof. A. F. Gulliver of Wayne State Normal Faculty in Charge of Local Arrangements.

Former Governor Harding of Iowa, and Assistant Superintendent Leon O. Smith of the Omaha schools will be the principal speakers at the meeting of the Nebraska Teachers' association in Wayne April 2. Mr. Harding will talk on "Education and Business," at the meeting Friday evening, April 1, and Mr. Smith will discuss "What's What in Mental Measurements" on Saturday morning, April 2.

Last year the attendance of teachers reached nearly 500 but this year the number is expected to reach 800. Prof. A. F. Gulliver of the Wayne State Normal faculty, is treasurer of the association, and is looking after local arrangements. The other officers of the association are: Superintendent O. H. Bimson of Oakdale, president; Superintendent L. J. Sagar of Albion, vice president; Miss Marjorie Farmer of Pierce, secretary.

On Thursday evening, March 21, the annual declaratory contest will be held. At that time about 250 schools will be represented. The great number of schools entering the preliminary is being reduced by elimination contests.

The convention will be divided into three sections—rural, elementary and secondary. In addition there will be twelve general conferences. The main speeches will be delivered at the general sessions.

Nebraska Farmers to Meet. Lincoln, Neb., March 16.—Representatives of all farm organizations in the state have been invited to attend the meeting to be held in Lincoln, Monday, March 21, to hear the details of the proposed marketing of grain and to elect seven delegates to the ratification meeting to be held at Chicago, April 6. Members of the committee who will appear at the Nebraska meeting are: C. H. Hyde, of Oka, Okla.; A. L. Middleton, of Eagle Grove, Ia.

While representatives of all farm bureau organizations in the state have been invited to attend next Monday's meeting, it is probable that not more than four organizations will be officially represented. The Nebraska Farmers' union, the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation, the Nebraska Wheat Growers' association, and possibly the state grange.

The position of delegates to represent the farm bureau is well known. They are in favor of ratification. Delegates representing the Wheat Growers' association, it is said, probably will agree to ratify the proposed plan if certain concessions are granted. Supporters of the marketing plan say these differences can be ironed out satisfactorily.

Expect Fight on Delegates. The principal fight, if any, it is pointed out, will be among the supporters and opponents of the plan within the Farmers' union delegation. This organization, it is said, is divided into two factions. One faction, followers of C. H. Gustafson, chairman of the committee of seven, and president of the Nebraska Farmers' union, will urge the election of delegates from their organization who will support the marketing plan. The other faction, it is said, are followers of E. M. Pollard, of Nebraska, who has openly opposed the marketing plan. Disinterested persons who are in a position to know the status of the two factions say it is possible that there will be no open fight at Monday's meeting.

Belongs Main to Counterproposal. New York World. No opinion by the attorney general of the United States in regard to any provision of the Volstead law is valid unless it is countermanded by the Anti-Saloon league.

Shower for Miss Marjolan. The Grotto club met at the home of Mrs. L. E. Lyle on Monday, March 14. The meeting was in the nature of a shower for one of the members, Mrs. Ella Morrison. Because the meeting was in the nature of a "shower" in the club program books, each member brought her needle and answered to roll call with a compliment about some other member of the club. Mrs. L. E. Lyle sang a parody on "Wearing of the Green," which introduced a "kitchen maid" to the guest of honor. The maid, in return, proved to be a broom dressed in appropriate kitchen garb, which concealed an array of culinary articles and kitchen aids.

A two-course luncheon was served by the committee. Mrs. Thornhold, Mrs. Cavanaugh and Mrs. Vath. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Horace Theald next Monday.

Bible Study Circle. Mrs. A. E. Laase was hostess to the Bible Study circle Tuesday afternoon, when the crucifixion of Christ formed the nucleus of discussion. A letter from northern China describing the experiences of many of the famine sufferers and telling about the work of the committee which visited that region December 16, was read. A part of the letter stated that about 40,000 persons around the locality from which the correspondence was written, met a sudden death on that occasion.

Letters were also read which told of Dr. Harry Strachan's return to America in preparation of a five years' evangelistic tour of South America. A correspondence from Agnes Glenn told of the opening of a new mission station in Chitl Ken. The next meeting of the circle will be Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Wm. Libengood.

Birth Record. A daughter was born Monday, March 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bates, six miles southwest of Wayne. A daughter was born Tuesday, March 15, to Mr. and Mrs. August Valikamp, and one-half mile southwest of Wayne.

Insecticide application questioned

First year corn fields may need second look

Nebraska farmers are the target of heavy mass media advertising by commercial firms urging the application of insecticides at planting of first year corn. "Just in case" soil insects are present, a University of Nebraska insect specialist reported this week.

David L. Keith, NU extension entomologist, said "historically, NU specialists have recommended against the use of 'insurance-type' applications of insecticides, unless the odds of having a problem are significant."

Keith advised crop producers, when reading this type of advertising, "to remember that our best recommendation for corn rootworm control is to practice crop rotation.

"IN THE CASE OF PIK acres," he said, "the odds of significant infestation by rootworms and other soil insect pests are low and in most cases will not justify the use of soil insecticide."

"We do not support the routine use of soil insecticides in these and other situations on first year corn, as outlined in 'yield challenges' and other forms of promotional advertising," Keith stated.

Keith said unnecessary usage of chemicals adds needless expense to already high production costs; can result in environmental side effects; can hasten the development of resistance to insecticides.

"No soil insecticide manufacturer has enough data to prove that the use of their product consistently gives a yield advantage," Keith said.

Where insects are likely to be a threat, NU insect specialists "do not hesitate to recommend appropriate control measures, including soil insecticides," Keith said.

KEITH SAID insecticides are likely to be necessary on first year corn under any one of the following three situations:

1. Following soybeans infested with weeds or volunteer corn;
2. Following weedy oats stubble, especially in northeast Nebraska;
3. Following PIK acres that were allowed to become very weedy in 1983.

More detail on situation No. 1: Heavy infestation of flowering weeds or volunteer corn, in excess of 5,000 plants per acre, can attract corn rootworm beetles, which may then deposit eggs. First year corn can be damaged in these cases and may benefit from soil insecticide treatment.

In about 15 drought affected counties in southeast Nebraska, the odds of having some damage from rootworms is probably increased, Keith said, since many corn fields were unattractive in midsummer 1983.

"But," he said, "the odds of having a problem are not as high as having rootworms in a normal continuous corn situation."

Detail on situation No. 2: The northern corn rootworm, most common in northeast Nebraska counties, can infest corn following oats -- if flowering weeds were attractive to moving beetles in July and August 1983. Such fields should be treated with soil insecticides.

MORE DETAIL on situation No. 3: A few fields which fall into this category will benefit from treatment with soil insecticides -- again, if weeds attracted significant numbers of beetles last summer.

What about possibilities from other insects on first year corn -- cutworms, wireworms and other seed-attacking pests?

"In the case of cutworms, the weather and seed infestations this spring probably are the most important determining factors -- not PIK land," Keith said. "In any case, soil insecticides applied at planting do not give consistent ly good control of cutworms, especially if populations are heavy. Best control is obtained by spraying after cutworm damage first appears, usually in late May or early June," he said.

Seed-attacking insects such as wireworms, seed corn beetles and seed corn maggots can be prevented cheaply with a granular box seed treatment, Keith said. "This method should provide effective protection in all but instances of extremely heavy infestation. The chances are very slim for such an occurrence."

"If wireworms were present in a field in 1983, or the field is coming out of pasture sod and being planted to corn, an in-furrow treatment with one of the approved soil insecticides is recommended," Keith said.

Irrigation tour is set

The 1984 Nebraska Irrigation Tour will be held Aug. 14-17, headquartering at the Midtown Holiday Inn in Grand Island. Tour coordination Leslie F. Sheffield has announced.

Sheffield, a University of Nebraska extension farm management specialist, said the tour will focus on new irrigation projects in the Loup, Platte and Blue River Basins.

It is expected that 2 buses will originate in Lincoln and one in Grand Island to accommodate four participants, he said. If interest warrants, a fourth bus will originate at Norfolk.

Details of the tour will be announced later, Sheffield said. He urged persons who are interested in joining the tour to hold the dates on their calendars. Reservations will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis, he said.

4-H conference set in June

Four-Hers interested in attending this year's Nebraska State 4-H Conference to be held June 19-22 may preregister with the Cooperative Extension Service office in their county.

The conference, "planned by 4-H youth for 4-H youth," will be held at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus. Cost for the five-day event is $70.

Plans for the conference also include a luncheon with state and local government officials at the Cornhusker Hotel. Entertainment, get-acquainted functions and special ceremonies will complement educational functions during the week.

Clark-McNary trees selling fast

Persons planning to plant windbreaks, woodlots, wildlife habitats or Christmas tree plantations this spring must act immediately if they wish to obtain trees through the Clark-McNary tree distribution program.

That word comes from Dennis Adams, University of Nebraska extension forester, who said only about 600,000 tree and shrub seedlings remain of a total of 2.9 million available for this season.

"Several species are sold out," Adams said. The seedlings are sold annually by the Nebraska Forest Service for conservation purposes.

Orders may be placed at local Cooperative Extension service or Natural Resources District offices, Adams said.

Area student 'outstanding sophomore'

The Beta Chapter of Alpha Tau Alpha, an agricultural education honorary fraternity at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, recognized outstanding achievement of several members during its annual awards banquet.

The outstanding member of the year was awarded to Lane Sabata, David City. Sabata served as president during 1983-84 and represented the organization at various state and national meetings.

Other awards presented were, Rich Bochart, Rockville, outstanding senior; Dave Hansen, Allen, outstanding junior; and Kim Mohr, Butte, outstanding sophomore.

Dan Acheson, Vocational Agriculture Instructor from Kimball was awarded the Outstanding Cooperating Teacher award. Acheson has taught Vocational Agriculture in Kimball for 15 years and continues to provide excellent student teacher supervision at Kimball High School.

Beef industry show planned

People who are interested in the beef industry and youth of Dakota, Dixon, Cedar, Wayne and Thurston counties have gotten together to form the Five County Steak Preview Show, to be held May 5 at the Dixon County Fair grounds.

They formed the show to give all 4-H'ers and FFA enrolled in market beef or breeding beef a learning experience and another chance to show their animals in front of a judge.

The show is designed to keep youth interested in the beef industry; they will get more experience in grooming, showing, and come more familiar with terms used in the beef industry.

For entry forms and further information contact Lindy Koester, RR, Concord; or Doug Peterson, RR 2 Dixon.

Local dairyman is honored

Marvin Penner of Beatrice received his sixth silver bar award denoting 35 years of high butterfat production at the annual meeting of the Nebraska State Dairymen's Association (NSDA) here Thursday (March 15).

The NSDA provides plaques to producers for the first five-year period in which an official Dairy Herd Improvement Association herd averages 460 pounds of butterfat, while a silver bar is awarded for each subsequent five-year period that the herd maintains at least that level of production. This year, 53 producers received plaques or silver bar awards.

Phil Cole, University of Nebraska extension dairyman, said 1984 NSDA awardees, in addition to Penner, included: Fifteen years (second silver bar award) Ronald Kittle, Win-side, 592 pounds, 68-cow herd.

Farrowing crates discussed

'Kilograms of bacon' a problem

One of the problems facing swine producers is the loss of young pigs that are crushed when sows lie down in farrowing crates.

That was one area discussed at a meeting in Wayne by Professor Seaton Baxter, a building and animal welfare specialist from Scotland.

Baxter said pigs are crushed not only when sows lie down but also when they rise. Most farmers don't care to have "one kilogram of instant bacon," Baxter said.

"NO ONE HAS found an alternative to farrowing crates at the present time," Baxter said. "However, if we constrain the space to a minimum, the pig can only get up and down one way."

Baxter told his audience in the Wayne Woman's Club Room that before farmers make a decision on what type of farrowing crate to use they should think about what goes on in the crate.

Some options include an anti-crush rear gate, and an adjustable trough which forces sows to stand over the slots on a partly perforated floor.

"We're seeking better crates, and we're improving things marginally," Baxter said.

BAXTER POINTED out that the sow is just half of the problem. He said that the strongest motivation of baby pigs is "to be beside the sow."

The specialist said one way of keeping the pigs away from the sows is to create a small microen-

$600 in prizes Siouxperland pig show and sale set

Siouxland feeder pig producers will be competing for more than $600 in cash prizes, trophies, and top awards, in the Siouxperland Feeder Pig Show and Sale, coming up Saturday, April 14, at the Sioux City Stockyards.

The fifth annual event is open to all and features pen-of-five and individual competition, according to Jim Roderburg of the Siouxperland Feeder Pig committee.

The only change for the '84 show is the minimum weight requirement for entries, which moves from 30 lbs. in past years, to a 40 pound minimum this year.

"The earlier fair schedules make it necessary for swine project 4-H and FFA members to start with feeder pigs a little heavier than 30 pounds, and we feel this change will fill their needs better," said Roderburg.

Other rules and regulations include: Entry fee of $15 per pen of five (to be deducted from sale money); no conditioning or grooming will be permitted; pen of five with at least 2 of each sex 13 barrows and 2 gilts, or 3 gilts and 2 barrows; In individual pigs will come out of the pen of five; minimum of 40 lbs., maximum of 80 lbs. Weight divisions may be divided into 3 classes based on the total number of entries: limit of 4 pens of 5 per each owner; all pigs will be consigned to the Siouxperland Feeder Pig Show and must be sold.

Weigh in of consignments will be from 3:5 p.m. on April 14, followed by a free lunch at 6 p.m. The show and judging begins at 7 p.m., with the sale held around 8 p.m.

Cash prizes will be awarded in the different weight divisions for both pen-of-five and individual competition, and overall grand champion and reserve honors will be selected.

Numerous door prizes will be given, with the Woodbury County Pork Producers donating a free feeder pig for the grand prize.

Entry details are available from any Sioux City Stockyard's marketing agency, or call the Sioux City Stockyards at 712-252-0551 for more information.

Local marketing interests at the Sioux City Stockyards, the Stockyards Co. and various agribusinesses co-sponsor the event.

Agribusiness will meet with students

Nebraska agribusiness companies interested in international trade will have an opportunity to find out more about foreign countries and their markets through a new program sponsored by the University of Nebraska and the State Department of Economic Development.

The new program, called the foreign student agribusiness contact program, is designed to bring together Nebraska agribusiness leaders and foreign agricultural students studying at NU, said Robert Kleis, dean and director of international programs at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"We see this as a unique opportunity for agribusiness in Nebraska to find out more about the cultures and market prospects in countries they're interested in," he said. "It's also a chance for our foreign students to learn about American agribusiness and see more of Nebraska and its agriculture."

KLEIS SAID HE and Bob Valentine, director of the international division, Nebraska Department of Economic Development, decided to coordinate the program after several firms expressed interest in contacting foreign agricultural students at the university.

"We want to give both our students and the business community in Nebraska an opportunity to exchange information," he said.

There are 250 agribusiness firms in Nebraska that do business overseas, said Norm Tooker, assistant director of international programs and professor of agricultural education at NU. Some of the firms do as much as 50 percent of their business abroad. Others are very interested in expanding their markets, he said.

Nebraska companies which sell farm equipment, irrigation systems, veterinary and pharmaceuticals as well as livestock and grain products have expressed interest, he said.

Sioux City meet FFA livestock judging planned

Future Farmers of America (FFA) livestock judging teams from a four state area will be competing for top honors in the Sioux City Invitational, April 13 at the Sioux City Stockyards.

Approximately 100 teams from FFA high school chapters in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota, are expected for the traditional event which traces its origin to 1950. The 34th annual event is also one of the largest FFA livestock judging events in the Midwest, according to LeRoy Barnes, Public Relations Director for the Sioux City Stockyards and Contest Manager.

Teams are comprised of 4 members, which will place 4 classes of livestock in the competition. 20 divisions of slaughter steers, slaughter heifers, feeder steers, barrows, gilts, slaughter sows and feeder pigs, and 20 divisions of market hogs, and 20 divisions of market lambs will be judged.

the farmer's wife

It's amazing the way a couple days of sunshine can affect my attitude -- and the attitudes of everyone I meet. Since there is more wet stuff in the forecast, I'm making a determined effort to enjoy the sun today.

Farmers who send their wives off the farm to help out with the cash flow problem learn quickly that she must usually get to work, no matter what condition the roads are in. I've gone on the tractor, to wherever the car is parked, and then often had to worry about getting the car out, too.

Last Monday morning, the Big Farmer pulled the car out with the pickup. It's always a trick to find a good place to hook the chain. This time, the chain slipped, grabbed the bumper as it went by, and left me sitting in a snow drift while the pickup went down the road with a bumper dragging behind!

MY FRIEND at work lives on a farm at Stanton. That morning, her husband told her she'd better drive the pickup. He'd go on the tractor. She jumped in the pickup and headed for the highway, snow flying on all sides.

At the highway, she saw that he was still behind, so she stopped and rolled down the window. "See Ann, he's out there, why am I leaving you?" The husband's face was red, he wanted to go ahead of her. She thought he would be there in case she got stuck.

With the logic most women use, she hadn't stopped to think about how she would get around the pickup if it did need to be pulled.

"This is the same gal who couldn't get the bathroom door open one morning, only to find friend husband asleep on the floor in front of the furnace register after being in the cold farrowing barn all night!"

I HEARD Roger Welsch on ETV talking about Nebraska's weather. It's not the winters that bother me so much, but the 78 days of March are what I can't stand!

Everywhere I went this week, someone was taking a vacation. One couple went skiing, one on a business trip to New York, and another to Seattle. I was feeling really sorry for myself!

Then a patient's husband started a conversation with, "Well, if you're married to a farmer, you, obviously are working because you want to, not because you have to." Those were fighting words!

We had a discussion about net worth, deflation, and interest rates. I'm sure I didn't convince him. The problem with net worth is that it's all on paper, and you can't even borrow on it. Keeping going down!

I heard a guy on the radio say, "I still don't know why the farmer's wife is so back is great, but I was out assisting a heifer at 3 a.m. and I'm going to need more than a pat on the back."

Did you see that article that said that for the second year in a row, the net income of farmers in 1983 was less than American consumers spend on bread wrappers, cereal boxes, milk cartons and other packages that contain the food sold in grocery stores?

AG DEPARTMENT economists say food packaging the last two years averaged $24 billion annually. Net farm income dropped to $22 billion.

The average American worker spends 51 minutes of each work day earning money to feed himself and his family, a percentage much lower than any other major country in the world. Food related jobs provide work for one of every five employed Americans.

The caption of the latest Successful Farming sums it up: First a picture of a quarter of a pig, then a picture of a quarter of a pig, then a picture of a quarter of a pig, then a picture of a quarter of a pig.

Have you ever seen a pig? The meat on it is so good, it's almost impossible to eat. It's so good, it's almost impossible to eat. It's so good, it's almost impossible to eat. It's so good, it's almost impossible to eat.

Financial woes

Alternatives are available

Planting ornamental trees
Now is the time to start thinking about adding ornamental plants to landscapes.

Here are some basic planting rules:

- If possible, plant when the soil is moist but not too wet. Container or balled and burlapped plants can go out anytime — even in summer.
- Dig holes half again as deep and half again as wide as the ball of soil around the roots. Set plants the same depth they grew in the nursery, except that short-rooted plants are planted shallower.
- Arrange the soil in a saucer shape around each plant for watering purposes.
- Mutch each tree to save moisture, prevent soil packing and control grass and weeds.
- Prune each plant, as much as a third to a half. If roots are lost in digging, provide balance by removing some of the top.
- Stake a tree more than 5 feet tall, using a wire threaded through a garden hose or soft cord to tie the tree to the stake.
- Wrap the trunk of a tree more than 6 feet tall for protection against heat and borers, using burlap strips or special waterproof paper.
- Water at least every 10 days in dry weather.
- Unless you use a slow release fertilizer, wait until the second year before fertilizing.

While there are no "quick fixes" or easy cures to the financial problems facing Nebraska's farmers and ranchers, a number of alternatives are available.

Doug Jose, University of Nebraska extension farm management specialist, suggested the following ideas for consideration by the state's farmers.

Farmers should analyze the potential of alternative crops to increase net returns, he said. "Pick crops that, in your opinion, have the best chance of maximizing returns over cash costs." This can be done by comparing expected harvest selling prices to probable cash production costs and then calculating prices and yields necessary for alternative crops to break even with the highest net return.

Another suggestion is to consider substitution of lower cost labor for higher cost capital inputs, Jose said. An example would be to "walk through crops to remove weeds rather than using high cost herbicides."

Using the least cost form of fertilizer and applying it in the most cost effective manner is another consideration for the farmer who wants to save money. "Farmers should calculate the cost per pound of actual nutrient for the different forms of fertilizer available. For nitrogen, anhydrous ammonia is usually the cheapest form," he said. "Nitrogen is more efficient if knifed in as a side dressing than if applied prior to planting."

Jose also stressed the need for careful assessment of the level of inputs needed. Fertilizer rates, he said, should be determined by soil test. "Yield goals should be considered carefully and only the level of nutrients applied that can be effectively utilized this year."

Alternative herbicides should be compared to get the best protection for particular weed problems at the least cost per acre.

THE ECONOMIC threshold level of insect infestations should be assessed before chemicals are applied.

The farm management specialist also suggested looking at the potential of crop insurance. "Calculate the cash flow obligations per acre" for crops planned for this year. "This includes cash

4-h news

CARROLLINERS
The Carrolliners 4-H Club met with 11 members March 12 at the Carroll school.

Pam Junck conducted the business meeting and Missy Jensen reported on the last meeting. For roll call, members told what they would like to change their name to.

A report was given by the theme booth committee. The song contest was discussed and songs were sung with LeAnn Janke accompanying.

LeAnn and Brenda Janke showed how to do counted cross stitch, and Mrs. Bryan Janke gave a demonstration on sewing.

Lunch was served by Holly Sebade and Heidi Hansen.

Next meeting will be April 9 at the school.

Heidi Hansen, news reporter.

SPRING BRANCH
The Spring Branch 4-H Club held its first meeting of the year March 11 at the Hoskins Public School.

Newly elected officers are April Marotz, president; Erin Marotz, vice president; Holly Neltzke, secretary and news reporter; and Cammy Behmer, treasurer.

Each officer appointed a junior officer. They are Jill Brudigan, junior president; Tad Behmer, junior vice president; Jennifer Puls, junior secretary and news reporter; and Doree Brogren, junior treasurer.

Leaders, who served refreshments, are Mrs. Melvin Meierhenry, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Puls and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wittler.

Next meeting of the club will be April 1 at Hoskins Public School.

LESLIE LIVEWIRES
The third meeting of the Leslie Livewires 4-H Club was called to order by President Kaye Hansen in the home of Art Greve.

Officers training was discussed, and Linda Greve and Pam Svoboda gave a demonstration on sheep parasites.

Next meeting will be April 16 in the home of Bob Hansen. Kaye Hansen, Kevin Svoboda, and Matt and Valorie Krusemark will give a demonstration on swine.

Kathy Svoboda, news reporter.

Landscaping ideas
The old-fashioned landscaping ideas of covering up a house with vines, bushes, and trees is no longer practical.

In the old days, many houses were large, porches were high, and they needed large growing plants. But today, we are building low and attractive homes so why use so many large growing shrubs?

To help you in selecting and placing plants around your home, here are some suggestions.

1. Select plants for the landscape which will not grow out of bounds. There are many species of broadleaf evergreen and deciduous shrubs which are low-growing and attractive. Use them in home landscaping to reduce maintenance problems in the future.
2. Too many different plants around the home are not attractive. Many times a grouping of 3, 5, or 7 plants of the same species can create a most attractive design. Repetition of landscape elements can be attractive.
3. Locate plant groupings at the most important places around the home. Some of these are the corners of the house, the entry area, or in other locations where strong vertical lines are created.
4. Space plants so that they have room to grow to maturity. Most plants will spread a distance which is equal to two thirds of their height or more. Even though the landscape may appear open after it has been planted, remember that plants will grow and fill into these open areas.

State fair barrow show plans made

Swine producers who want barrows tested and entered in a show at the 1984 Nebraska State Fair can obtain entry forms now in anticipation of identifying March farrowed pigs. Producers from Nebraska and other states can enter if they meet the May 1 entry deadline.

Bill Ahlschwede, University of Nebraska extension swine specialist, said barrow entries will be tested at the Senek Boar Test Station near Wymore.

Producers can check out their hogs' performance at a cost of $6 each, Ahlschwede said, with the fee covering only the class entry and not fair exhibitors' passes. Exhibitions are limited to two entries.

The delivery date has been moved back one week this year to allow younger pigs to be entered. Pigs will be received May 18 and May 19 at the Senek Station.

The testing stations assumes ownership of the hogs upon acceptance, he said, and can refuse any entry. Health certificates will be required, he said, and any barrow weighing more than 40 pounds will be rejected. Barrows from 35 pounds to 55 pounds are preferred, he said.

The tested barrows will be shown by exhibitors at the fair on Thursday, Aug. 30, the specialist said. "Pigs which fail to reach 200 pounds or have severe soundness problems will not be brought to Lincoln," he added.

At the state fair show, barrows will be judged on foot in classes, based on test weight, with 15-20 head in each class. The animals will be slaughtered and carcass data gathered. Cash premiums will be given for 12 places in each class of the live show, and for the first 20 places in overall carcass competition.

For more information, contact Bill Ahlschwede at: 219 Marvel Baker Hall, East Campus, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, Neb 68583-0908, or call (402) 472-6416.

Action teams help speed loans

Stepped up efforts to speed processing of applications for weather-related disaster loans for farmers who suffered losses on their 1983 crops are resulting in better service to farmers, a USDA official said.

Michael E. Brunner, associate administrator of USDA's Farmers Home Administration, said special action teams have been assigned the task of spotting potential problem areas and recommending changes where needed. Teams have so far visited Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Mississippi and Missouri. Other states will be visited as needed.

The special action teams are made up of FmHA specialists from the national office in Washington and from non-affected states. The teams visit agency county offices, review processing procedures, talk to farmers and determine if additional staffing or other support is needed.

Brunner said efforts to speed up processing include hiring and training temporary employees, sending in specialists from other areas, authorizing overtime and streamlining the check issuing system.

Efforts to inform farmers they may be eligible for emergency loans and to urge them to file their applications early to avoid the last minute rush have been under way since the program started last September, Brunner said. Deadlines for farmers to apply for disaster loans is six months after their county has been named eligible.

"Now the applications in many states are flooding in and we're working to get those checks out to farmers by planting time," he said. "We expect the action teams to pin point problem areas so we can speedily meet our commitment to provide needed assistance to farmers."

USDA might change formulation method

The U.S. Department of Agriculture plans to include single person households when determining Farmers Home Administration Community Programs loan interest rates and grant funds, announced Frank Marsh, FmHA state director.

The proposal would change the way community program interest rates and grant funds are formulated in the past, the agency used median "family" income, which excluded persons living alone, in determining interest rates and grant amounts. The proposal would allow the agency to use the median "household" income, which includes single people.

The old definition excluded about 27 percent of the people counted in the 1980 census. Many of these single person households are those persons with the lowest incomes, such as widows or widowers on fixed low incomes.

The proposed rule change would affect both the water and waste disposal loan and grant programs and the community facilities loan program.

Comments on the proposal should be sent to: Directives Management Branch, Room 6348 S, Farmers Home Administration, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250. The comment period closes April 11.

Crop insurance application deadline is set April 15

April 15 is the last day to apply for crop insurance for spring crops in Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota, Stanton, Antelope, Boyd, Brown, Cuming, Holt, Keya Paha, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Rock and Thurston counties, according to Robert Rieger, district director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Crop insurance covers unavoidable loss of production resulting from adverse weather conditions, wildlife, earthquake or fire. Three coverage levels — 50, 65 or 75 percent — are available for insurance protection. Additionally, FCIC offers three optional price elections for valuing production lost or damaged, Rieger said.

Rieger said the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will cost share up to 30 percent of the cost of carrying insurance in order to assist producers.

To select an agent, producers should check the list of agents available at their county ASCS offices. Applications should be submitted to the same agent no later than April 15.

The top five spellers will go on to the Dixon County contest to be held in Allen on Thursday, April 5. The county winners will be eligible to advance to the state contest in Omaha on Saturday, April 14.

A written test of 50 words will be given followed by a spell-down to determine the winners in each class and the champion on the local contest.

Bobbi Weiershauser was the top speller last year from the Wakefield school. She also placed second in the county contest and Stacey Kuhl of Wakefield was the third place county winner. Bobbi will be eligible for this year's contest.

The local top speller will receive a $50 US Savings Bond from the Wakefield Republican and a dictionary will be presented to the runner-up. The top speller in each grade will also receive a cash award from the Republican.

SPEECH CONTEST
Nine speech students of Mrs.

VAI BARD AND MRS. BETTY HEER participated in the district speech contest held in Allen on March 14. They brought home six superiors and three excellent ratings. Winning superiors and going to the state contest were Kiet Lund, Shelley Krusemark, Cari Johnson, Randy Kinney, Susie McQuistan and Mike Murphy. Excellent ratings went to Tonia Clements, Kaye Hansen and Rachel Prochaska.

This is the first year in speech for Kaye Hansen, Tonia Clements, Susie McQuistan, Randy Kinney, Cari Johnson and Shelley Krusemark.

The state contest will be held in Lincoln on Saturday, March 31.

JUMP ROPE FOR HEART CAMPAIGN
The Jump Rope for Heart campaign will be held Saturday, March 31 in the Wakefield Community School auditorium. Ernie Kovar will be the coordinator of the event.

Students in grades four through eight will participate in the fund drive from 1 to 4 p.m. Funds will be raised through pledges and the youngsters will be calling on townspeople asking for pledges.

The jump rope campaign is being held in cooperation of the Heart Association and the Nebraska Association for Health.

FmHA officials discuss economic emergency loans

Last week I met with top Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) officials, including director Charles Shuman, to discuss the serious problems faced by many farmers in Nebraska and, particularly, in the southeastern part of the First Congressional District.

I called for the meeting as a result of reports I have heard on visits around the First District. A variety of difficulties on the farm front stretches back to 1975. The culmination of these problems made last year the worst year in the past 30 for farm bankruptcies.

Farmers suffered the high interest rates that have descended from a prime rate of 21 1/2 percent in January of 1981, and last year they suffered the worst drought in 30 years. For most American farmers, economic recovery remains an unattained goal.

LAST YEAR some areas of southeast Nebraska lost 75 to 90 percent of the normal dryland corn crop and, in some cases, over 50 percent of the grain sorghum and soybean crops.
 Last fall, after these losses occurred, I worked to get drought assistance for the producers who were affected. While I was successful in obtaining drought designation, those farmers' problems are not over.

In my meeting last week, I expressed concern to Shuman about the use of Economic Emergency loans in guaranteed loan programs. Farmers and bankers have objected to the paperwork, red tape, and long delays involved in processing these loans.
 Shuman has agreed to take steps to eliminate unnecessary paperwork and to establish a system whereby bankers participating in the program could get umbrella approval for guarantees by agreeing to loan approval criteria. At present, a banker must submit each loan application to FmHA for approval. The FmHA director also agreed that his agency should try to speed up the initial review of FmHA loan applications and the appeals procedure.

AS A NEW CONGRESSMAN, the first appearance I made before a Congressional committee was on behalf of a number of my constituents who operate sand, gravel and stone mines. When the Mine Safety and Health Amendments Act was passed in 1977, it was intended to toughen the enforcement of standards for safety in the mining industry.

Its application, however, was extended to both coal and noncoal mines. This presented significant problems for sand and gravel industries, which are very different from deep coal mining operations. These very small operations faced the same fines, paperwork, and compliance costs as deep, underground operations.

I was active in efforts to limit application of these standards so that the small sand and gravel operations in my district would not be burdened with excessive unnecessary government regulation.

One of the mines that contacted me about these problems was a small operation in Garland. I often referred to the success of this small business in my testimony before Congress. I noted with interest earlier this year that their quarry was commended for seven years of operation without a disabling injury.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
The City of Wayne, Nebraska, will receive bids for proposed construction for furnishing and installation of underground irrigation systems for the Wayne field complex, located at 4th and Winwood Streets, until 4:30 p.m. April 10, 1984, at the City Hall in Wayne, Nebraska. At that time, all bids will be opened and publicly read aloud. The work to be installed in this project involves the design of an underground irrigation system, including the preparation of a layout plan of the system, for the three ball fields which comprise the ball field complex. The work also involves the construction of the irrigation systems, as designed including all necessary parts and labor. The bid on the project will be an aggregate bid on all work to be performed on the project. Details of construction materials to be used, and methods of installation for this project are given in the plans and specifications. A contract will be awarded to the low responsive, responsible bidder based on the aggregate bid on the project. The contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of the City Clerk in Wayne, Nebraska. Copies of these documents for personal use may be obtained from Bruce Gilmore & Associates, Inc., P.O. Box 565, Columbus, Nebraska, 68601, telephone (402) 564-2800, upon payment of $20.00 of which will be refunded if the plans and specifications are returned in good condition within 10 days after the bid opening. Each bid shall be accompanied in a separate sealed envelope by a certified check drawn on a solvent bank in the State of Nebraska, or bid bond in an amount not less than five percent of the engineer's estimate for the work bid, and shall be made payable to the City of Wayne, Nebraska, as security that the bidder, to whom the contract will be awarded will enter into a contract to build the improvements in accordance with this notice and give bond in the sum hereinafter provided for construction of the improvements. Checks and bonds accompanying bids not accepted shall be returned to the bidder. No bids shall be withdrawn after the opening of bids without the consent of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, for a period of 30 days after the scheduled time of closing bids.
