Courthouse issue, two races will highlight election

With Nebraska's primary election scheduled for Tuesday, proposed construction of a new Wayne County Courthouse will be the key issue on the ballot.

The two main races in the county will involve the First Ward of the Wayne City Council and the Winside Board of Education.

In Wayne's city council race, five candidates hope to be finalists for next November's general election. The top two vote-getters will battle head-to-head in the November election.

Candidates are Larry Creighton, Kent Hall, Stanley Hansen, John Redel and Richard Reed. Incumbent James Graun's name also will be on the ballot but he submitted his resignation as councilman Tuesday night and will not seek his seat.

Candidates for the Winside school board are Bill Burris, Sharon Haller, Derald

Hamm, Richard Jenkins, Gene Jorgensen, Dale Topp, Dean Mann, Randall Miller and Robert Wacker.

The Wayne County Courthouse issue will be on the ballot throughout the county. Voters will be asked to vote either for or against the issuance of bonds not to exceed $1.3 million to construct a courthouse and to purchase necessary furniture and equipment.

The contest between Gerald Conway and Merle Von Minden for the 17th District of the State Legislature will be merely a popularity contest in the primary election. A favorite will emerge from Tuesday's election but both candidates' names will be placed on the November ballot.

The same situation applies to Erroy Hefer and Bert Evans in the 19th District.

WAYNE'S CITY COUNCIL seats are up for grabs in all four wards but two candidates are uncontested. Darrel Fuelberth is unopposed in the Second Ward and Keith Mosley is unopposed in the Third Ward.

Freeman Decker and Gordon Nelson are seeking the Fourth Ward seat with both candidates advancing to November's general election. There will be no voting for those seats in the primary election.

Voters will not get to cast their ballots for Wayne Board of Education candidates at this time. Because three seats are available and only three individuals are running, all three automatically qualify for November's election.

VILLAGE ELECTIONS in Carroll, Hoskins, Sholes and Winside will decide who will serve on the boards of trustees in those communities. They will not be on the November ballot.

In Carroll, four candidates are seeking three seats on the board. Candidates are Susan Gilmore, Harold Leberg, Mark Tietz and Wayne Ulrich. There are no real races in Hoskins, Sholes or Winside.

Anton Vlasak, Glenn Nelson and Tom Bauer are seeking three seats in Sholes. Patricia Bridgman and Alvin Wagner are seeking two seats in Hoskins and in Winside. C.O. Witt and Nancy Warnemunde are seeking two seats.

Vying for a Third District position on the State Board of Education are Charles Maas and Walter Thompson. Lester Menke, Dwaine Rethwisch and Clifford Rohde are running for three seats on the Wayne County Noxious Weed Control Authority.

Seeking a seat on the First District of the Board of Governors of the Northeast Technical Community College are Richard Corkle and Marlin Fleming. Allen Burkhardt is an at-large candidate.

DEMOCRATS WILL get to choose between Gary Hart, Walter Mondale, Jesse Jackson, Ernest Hollings, George McGovern, Alan Cranston and Lyndon Larouche Jr. for president.

J. J. Exon is unopposed for his U.S. Senate seat. On the Congressional ticket, Donald Bercey, Monica Bauer and Marlin Pals are Democrats seeking office in the First District.

On the Republican ballot, President Ronald Reagan is unopposed in his bid for a second term. Running for a U.S. Senate seat are Richard Thompson, Ken Cameron, George Boucher, John DeCamp, Fred

Superior rating

Wayne band tops its class in Worlds of Fun contest

Not only did members of the Wayne High band have a world of fun at their last competition. They were named best band in their class.

The Wayne band received a plaque as best band in its class and was given a superior rating at the 11th annual Worlds of Fun Festival of Bands held Saturday and Sunday in Kansas City.

"The students' behavior was outstanding and was exceeded only by their performance in the competition," Director Ron Dalton said. "It was a great trip." Dalton said the Kansas City trip provided the only opportunity for the band to compete in a concert contest outside of Nebraska.

Forty-four bands from schools in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Arkansas, Missouri and Texas participated in the competition.

Bands were divided into six classes and Wayne was selected best band in Class A, which consisted of 13 bands. No other band in that class received a superior rating. Twelve superiors were given in all classes.

Winners in other classes were Muskogean, Iowa; Sulphur Springs, Texas; Stuttgart, Ark.; Sedalia, Mo.; and Fayetteville, Ark.

In order to qualify for the Worlds of Fun festival, bands must have received at least one superior at the state level.

NINETY-TWO MEMBERS of Wayne's band and 14 sponsors left Wayne Saturday. The band performed late Saturday afternoon, then participated in activities at Worlds of Fun and stayed over night at Kansas City.

The group went back to Worlds of Fun on Sunday and returned home that night. Students and sponsors paid their own way to Kansas City. Cost for each student was about $75, including food. The Wayne Music Boosters assisted the students. No school district money was used.

The group traveled on two charter buses and three vans. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Metteer, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Stuberger, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Keating, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Hillier, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hintz and Mr. and Mrs. John Melena.

Security State Bank of Allen selects directors and officers

Directors and officers for Security State Bank of Allen were selected recently at a re-organizational meeting.

Named as directors were William Snyder of Allen, Richard Adkins Jr. of Laurel, Bernard Peterson of Laurel, Fay Stewart of South Sioux City, William Haskell of Laurel, Walter Chase of Laurel and Duane Shingley of Laurel.

Richard Adkins Jr. was named president of the bank. William Snyder was chosen executive vice president and Wanda Van Cleave of Allen will serve as cashier.

Other employees are Rob Bock, Dorothy Ellis and Barbara Strivens.

Bids opened for storm sewer district

Carlson Construction of Wayne has submitted the apparent low bid on construction of a storm sewer district in the south end of Wayne near the abandoned railroad line between Douglas and Lincoln streets.

Six bids were opened Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the Wayne City Council. Carlson Construction submitted a base bid of $12,891.52. The high bid was $22,681.10 by M.E. Collins Contracting Company of Wahoo.

The city engineer's estimate for the project, which was submitted at the Feb. 28 council meeting, was $20,400. At that time, engineer Dennis Hirschbrunner told the council the actual cost of the project might be "a little less but not a lot less than that."

PLANS CALL for the use of 13-inch and 24-inch sewer lines to help solve a drainage problem in that area of town.

The council voted to defer the bids back to the engineer for review and asked that the engineer bring back a recommendation of which bid to accept at the May 29 city council meeting.

City attorney Ken Swartz pointed out that construction work could begin no earlier than June 29 because of a required 30-day waiting period.

The six bids: Carlson Construction, Wayne, $12,891.52; Penro Construction, Pender, $16,050.00; Gill Construction Company, Jackson, $16,984.05; Midwest-Bridge & Construction, Norfolk, $17,256.34; Casle Construction, Columbus, $18,477.75; M.E. Collins Contracting, Wahoo, $22,681.10.

THE COUNCIL approved the preliminary plat for Otte Subdivision at Tuesday night's meeting and established park fees.

The subdivision, located on Grainland Road, will be divided into three lots. After some discussion, the council established the fair market value of the property at $18,000. The park fee will be eight percent of that amount or $1,440.

Otte Construction purchased the property for $9,000 in 1970. Councilman Darrel Fuelberth, a realtor, was asked what he thought the fair market value of the land might be.

Fuelberth said he had not seen the land but guessed that doubling the $9,000 figure might produce a fair value. Kurt Otte, representing Otte Construction, said he thought the $18,000 figure was a fair one.

Because the Wayne Planning Commission plans to discuss Otte Subdivision at a May 21 meeting, the council voted unanimously to establish the fair market value at $18,000 rather than call for an appraisal of the property.

THE PAVING of Fairgrounds Avenue and South Window Street drew some council attention Tuesday night. The council authorized the agreement to proceed with the pro-

Wayne merchants will offer free labor for area farmers

Help is on the way for area farmers who are running behind in their spring field work.

Members of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, realizing that farmers are behind schedule due to an extremely wet spring, have decided to offer free labor to any farmers who seek it.

Employers and employees of Wayne businesses will help farmers with their spring work, whether it means driving a tractor, filling planters with seed, doing chores or any other work that needs to be done.

Help is available on a first come-first served basis by calling the Wayne Chamber of Commerce office at 375-2240. Volunteers will work 12-hour days at no cost to the farmers.

"Wayne merchants know the predicament farmers are in and we've decided to volunteer free labor for spring farm work," said Anne Svoboda, chamber manager. "We're offering free labor because we realize farming is our largest business and we appreciate the farmer."

Look for complete details in Monday's Wayne Herald.

Craun resigns his council seat

Six candidates will be listed on Tuesday's primary election ballot for a First Ward City Council seat. But only five of those candidates actually will be seeking the seat.

The incumbent councilman for the First Ward, Jim Craun, submitted his resignation to the Wayne City Council Tuesday night.

"This letter is to announce that I will not be seeking another term on the Wayne City Council. I am resigning my position as councilman for the First Ward as of June 1, 1984," Craun said in a letter to The Wayne Herald.

The councilman said he and his family will be leaving the Wayne area at that time. Councilman Keith Mosley, filling in as head of the council in place of the absent mayor Wayne Marsh, told Craun that he and the council appreciate Craun taking the time and effort to serve on the council.

Councilwoman Carolyn Filter, City Administrator, Phil Kloster and Mayor Wayne Marsh were absent from Tuesday's meeting.

IN OTHER ACTION, the council: *Updated an ordinance concerning occupational tax on alcoholic liquors.

*Approved the application of Thomas Schmitz as a volunteer fireman.

*Heard a request by letter to change family hour at the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool from 6-to-7 p.m. to 5-to-7 p.m.

*Heard a complaint by letter that a truck that was stuck on Fairground Avenue left deep ruts on the street.

Wayne High's final concert is Sunday

Wayne Carroll High School's third annual grand finale music concert will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the high school gymnasium.

Groups performing will include the Concert Choir, Swing Choir, Stage Band and Concert Choir. Rob Stuberger and Ron Dalton are directors.

Music from throughout the year will be highlighted at the concert. All contest selections will be played. Special recognition will be given to parents whose last child is graduating from Wayne High this year.

The public is invited to attend the concert.

Nine percent increase

ESU sets salaries for classified staff, aides

Educational Service Unit One's board of directors met Tuesday night and set the salaries for classified staff members and teacher aides for the 1984-85 year.

Meeting at headquarters in Wakefield, board members voted unanimously to approve an increase of approximately nine percent for all full-time classified staff members as recommended by ESU Administrator Harry Mills.

The classified staff includes office personnel, custodians, etc.

THE BOARD also gave its unanimous approval to a 1984-85 salary schedule recommendation for teacher aides as outlined by Duane Tappe, ESU-1 special education administrator.

The contract calls for a total overall increase of $4,257 or .0937 for eight teacher aides at South Sioux City, whose contracts run for 185 days.

Five Wayne aides, with contracts of 230 days, will receive a total overall increase of $1,329 or .03.

Tappe's recommendation, as approved Tuesday night by ESU board members, also calls for an overall increase of $993 or .0942 for two resources aides. Their contracts run for 185 days.

Tappe said the total percentage increase in salaries for all teacher aides for 1984-85 amounts to .0656 or $6,581.

Benefits include single health insurance coverage and income disability insurance for one-half time or more employees.

DERYL LAWRENCE of Wayne, a member of the board's contract negotiating team, reported Tuesday night on contract negotiations for the 1983-84 year between the board and ESU Education Association.

Lawrence said the association has met to study a proposal from the board for the unit's certified employees.

He said a meeting of the board's negotiating team and ESU Education Association is scheduled tonight (Thursday).

IN OTHER action Tuesday night, the board granted a one year leave of absence for Chris Jorgenson, special education teacher at Bryan School in South Sioux City.

The board also voted unanimously on the verification of successful teaching for Nancy Roberts.

Roberts has been employed by ESU 1 for three years as speech and language clinician.

Board members Tuesday night also heard a report by Tappe on special education contracts with schools.

"We've been working hard to project costs to cover the costs to schools," said Tappe, adding that the projected budget contains a lot of variables.

"It's difficult to really know where we're at until negotiations are finalized and everybody knows what programs they want," said Tappe.

Tappe added that in some cases new contracts may be sent out to the schools.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, board members discussed the possibility of purchasing or leasing a three-stall garage located across the alley from ESU 1 headquarters to store coop purchases.

In his monthly report to the board, Mills recommended that the board consider paying for the garage through coop purchase funds from the schools.

Mills said during the past six or seven years, ESU 1 has accumulated a little over $7,200 through a one and a half percent handling charge to the schools for all coop purchases.

"I think we're charging schools too much for handling if we're accumulating money," said board member Bob Jacobs of Verdigre.

"I think perhaps to be fair to the schools we should consider lowering that one and a half percent," said board member Randy Shaw of Wayne.

Gustafson and Leo Krampfer, to look into the possibility of purchasing or leasing the garage before next month's regular meeting.

BOARD MEMBERS gave unanimous authorization to Mills to purchase several large items on coop purchase for next year, including typewriters, a dictaphone and computer.

Mills said all of the items amount to approximately $4,000.

Before adjourning, Tappe reported to the board on a national CEC (Council for Exceptional Children) Convention he attended recently in Washington, D. C.

Next meeting of ESU 1 board of directors is scheduled June 12.

Wayne High coaches ask former pro to address alcohol problem

Bob Newton, former football player for the University of Nebraska, the Chicago Bears and the Seattle Seahawks will be in Wayne Monday evening to address an alcohol problem among Wayne High students.

Wayne High coaches Ron Carnes, Lonnie Ehrhardt and Don Koenig, concerned over alcohol abuse among high school students and athletes, asked for help from Newton.

The former All-American will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Wayne High lecture hall. Students and parents are encouraged by the coaches to attend Newton's talk.

AT A MEETING of Wayne High coaches Tuesday morning, Carnes said that concerns include the possibility of alcohol related arrests this summer, setting examples for middle school students and the attitudes of athletes. He cited peer pressure as a major reason for alcohol abuse.

Newton, who is now assisting the Nebraska football coaches, has addressed alcohol and drug problems in previous talks.

Ehrhardt said it is important that the athletes understand how to accept peer pressure. "We want to take away any pressure there can be before next fall."

Koenig said that anyone planning to go out for wrestling next winter would be required to attend Monday's talk. "It is strongly recommended that parents come. It is open to the public and everyone can benefit," Koenig said.

THE COACHES said they weren't saying that Wayne High has a serious problem but added that one person missing from an athletic team because of alcohol or drug abuse is a problem.

The coaches pointed out that if an athlete is picked up for minor in possession, it could carry over until next fall and force that person to sit out part of an athletic season.

"We had an opportunity to bring someone in to try to help with the problem," Carnes said. "We would like to have parents there. They need to understand the problem too."

Newton's appearance will be sponsored by the Wayne Blue Devils Booster Club.

County roads feel effect of weather

Gravel roads in Wayne County are taking a beating from this past snowy winter and a moist spring.

County road maintainer crews are battling the sloppy road conditions and wet weather to try to remedy the messy road situation, according to two of Wayne County's three commissioners.

"The road conditions aren't worth a damn," said county commissioner Merlin Beiermann Monday. This spring's work of straightening out Wayne County's sloppy roads has been one of the worst projects to accomplish since he began his term as county commissioner over nine years ago.

"We get about two days of sunshine and then four days of rain. We're gaining, but slowly," he said.

Beiermann said the major problem is getting the gravel and maintainers on the roads.

"We'll be using a little more gravel than last year," he said.

The roads really aren't too bad, he added. The main problem is the chuckholes which allow the water to stand. "These roads take a lot of maintaining," he said.

APPROXIMATELY $300,000 has been budgeted this year for gravel on county roads, Beiermann estimated. That about $30,000 has already been spent in spreading gravel on the muddy roads in Wayne County.

"I've had about $16,000 hauled in already for my own district," he said.

There are nearly 860 miles of county roads in Wayne County and of that total, Beiermann said "probably 75 percent are gravel roads."

"Just give us a week of grading and maintaining and we'll mainly get the bad spots covered," Beiermann mentioned.

"There's just not enough days with sunshine," he said.

Gerald Pospisil, another Wayne County commissioner, said he hasn't checked yet as to the dollars worth of gravel he has seen hauled in his district.

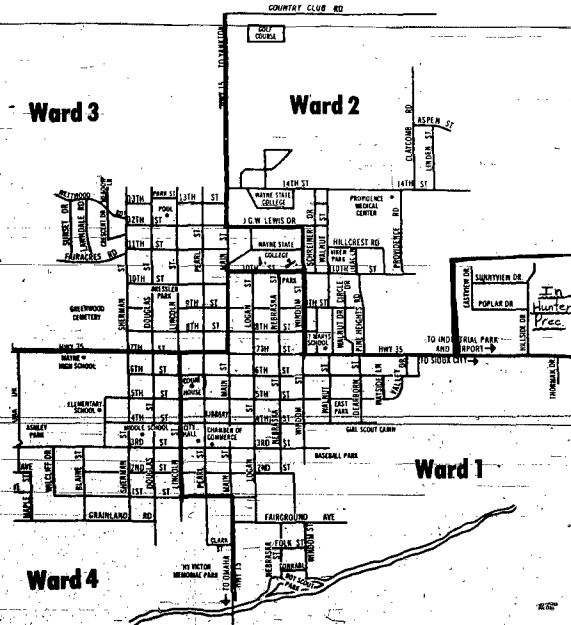

"But it has been a tremendous amount," he said. "We're hauling gravel every day we can."

Pospisil said the last two winters have been awfully bad. We lost quite a bit of gravel plowing now and it will take a lot of gravel to get it back," he said.

School board will accept bids for roof work

Members of the Wayne-Carroll school board gave approval Tuesday night to seek bids on repair work on the roofs of the middle and elementary school.

Superintendent Francis Haun reported to the board that roofing projects have been scheduled on a two-year time table and have an estimated cost of $80,000.

The project outlined includes repair work on the upper level of the middle school's older section and the flat deck located over the lunch room, along with having the entire roof of the west elementary school redone.

AS CURRENTLY proposed, the first half of the project will include the repair work needed at the middle school and the east wing of the elementary school.

The second half, scheduled for 1985-86, will allow for the renovation of the elementary school's west wing roof.

The board voted unanimously to authorize the architectural firm of Davis, Eaton, Stange and Darling to take bids on the first half of the project. Those bids will be subject to the board's approval of the architectural design for each project.

Members of the school board met in executive session to discuss salary negotiations for the upcoming year. Once out of executive session, the board's only action was to approve a 20c an hour increase in the base and beginning salaries of all hourly wage workers.

BECKY KEIDEL presented the board's Distinguished Service Award to Mrs. Angela Denesia, a 6th grade teacher at Wayne Middle School for the past 17 years and a member of the teaching profession for 35 years, who will retire at the end of this school year.

Other items on the agenda included: Discussion of the 84-85 budget—Dr. Haun reported that a preliminary budget will be available in June and is workable budget should be finalized by August.

Computer study committee—A committee was established to determine needs of teacher in-service meetings during the summer and fall. Board gave approval that the main focus of these meetings be in the area of computers, for the benefit of both the students and faculty.

Chapter 1 Grant—The grant was received in the amount of $71,303, and elementary school principal David Luth has already developed a budget using approximately $68,000 for teachers and aids within the program.

School district goals—A series of short- and long-range goals were discussed by the board in the areas of curriculumstruction and buildings/roads.

Legislators seek expense reimbursement

Many of you are aware, I'm sure, of the ongoing controversy in Nebraska over the issue of compensation for state legislators. Salaries for the legislature have been specified in the state constitution since Nebraska's inception in 1867.

Several changes have been approved over the years but salaries remain relatively low at $400 per month in comparison with other states. Because legislative salaries are set by the Constitution, any change requires a favorable vote of the people and approval they have been very reluctant to give.

Advocates of higher compensation have not given up, however. Earlier this year, an initiative petition drive was underway seeking to increase legislative salaries to $900 per month. An alternative approach was also being pursued in the state courts.

Supporters of this approach thought that it might be more advantageous to seek reimbursement for the expenses of state senators which are incurred in the performance of their legislative duties. Things like mileage to and from Lincoln, the price of an apartment during the legislative session, meals, etc.

In support of their position, plaintiffs in senator merle von minden

the lawsuit argued that the same section of the constitution which specified legislative salaries also allowed reimbursement for expenses. It is clear that mileage expenses for one trip per session to and from Lincoln are reimbursable, however, there has been an ongoing debate for some time over whether or not the constitution provides anything more.

ON MARCH 30 of this year, the Supreme Court supplied the answer to this debate in a decision known as State ex rel Douglas V.

Beefmann. In a unanimous unsigned opinion, the court declared that the Nebraska Constitution permits reimbursement for such things as room, board and travel during legislative sessions.

Although the decision has been hailed by many legislators and others, there are those, including myself, who feel that this decision is totally erroneous.

Stretching reason to the limit, the court has abandoned the intent of the voters and seeks to convince us through a grammatical analysis of the constitutional language that the voters really intended to open the floodgates and allow wholesale payment of expenses. I am not convinced by the court's reasoning.

It goes like this: the constitution states "Each member of the Legislature shall receive a salary of not to exceed $400 per month. . . . In addition to his salary, each member shall receive an amount equal to his actual expenses in traveling . . . once to and returning from each regular or special session . . . Members of the Legislature shall receive no pay nor prerequisites other than said salary and expenses . . ."

ACCORDING TO the Supreme Court the adjective "said" which precedes "salary and expenses" modifies only "salary" and not "expenses". In other words, the constitution might just as well say "Members of the Legislature shall receive no pay nor prerequisites other than expenses and said salary". I think judicial license has exceeded its limits.

The above language was put into the constitution in 1934 at a time when the state was still feeling the effects of the Great Depression. Supporters of the many amendments which passed that year (adopting a one-house legislature, limiting the number of legislators and their salaries) argued that approval would lower the cost of state government. It doesn't seem logical that they intended to provide exorbitant expense accounts as well.

The final word on the subject may not yet have been heard. The state has the ability to petition for a rehearing on the matter but I have no idea whether they intend to do so. Although I personally feel that an increase in senators' salaries is warranted, I do not feel that this so-called "end run" is the proper way to attain additional compensation.

Limited contribution

To the editor: As the past president of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association I am very much aware of the influence special interest groups have in the Nebraska Legislature.

Therefore, I was very pleased to see that Senator Merle Von Minden has limited his campaign contributions from any one political action committee. While such money is contributed by local farmers, businessmen, teachers, retail groups and dozens of others, "special" interests limits are needed.

We have learned from Washington that elected officials can not serve effectively if they have too heavy a financial contribution obligation from any one group.

It concerns me that Von Minden's opponent four years ago accepted over $4,000 from the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA). According to the Lincoln Star the NSEA has a "war chest" of $175,000 to support legislative candidates in 1984. That would amount to $7,000 or more per legislative race in 1984 and more funds are expected for the November general election.

Herb Schimek, the NSEA lobbyist, said, "We'll spend what we need to spend to get the job done."

I am not opposed to education, neither do I want a senator too obligated to any one group. Mr. Conway, Von Minden's opponent is a college professor and I am wondering how much money he will accept from the NSEA or any other political group.

It seems like the voter deserves to know. Tom Gustafson Wakarusa

County succeeds

Saving the past

To the editor: A few years ago Clay County, Iowa was divided in a dispute almost identical to what you are now experiencing. A group of dedicated citizens like you fought tooth and nail to preserve our beautiful old courthouse —our county's last historic public building (Our beautiful Carnegie library had been destroyed a few years earlier in the name of progress and been replaced by an ugly building with a leaky roof).

On three different occasions the courthouse issue was voted on —each one worded differently, but each one with the threat of losing the courthouse completely. Eventually the lovers of history and tradition prevailed —our courthouse was renovated and a new office building constructed across the street in the next block for additional needed space.

Bring a bus load of doubters to Spencer to look at our courthouse. We'll make believers of them.

Fifty years or a hundred years from now your grandchildren and their grandchildren will thank you and your generation for saving a page from the past for them.

Phyllis Beuing Everly, Iowa

No more increases

To the editor: About building a new courthouse, I feel it is nearly past time for me, a Wayne County taxpayer, to stand up and say, "We have had enough tax increases. We cannot pay any higher land tax and interest rates during this depression. The red light has been on for a year or two, to stop higher taxation."

I was born, raised and lived in Wayne County, and paid taxes all my adult years. Through the years, taxes have gradually increased, but the last five years they have been jumping.

On the farm where I live, 10 years ago we paid $4.77 on the same acre, ('73 tax year); five years ago we paid $5.44 on the same acre; ('79 tax year) and today we pay $14.07 on the same acre, ('83 tax year). Improvements have increased this some, but this is not an unusual hobby. I collect old tokens used by stores, barber shops, Indian Traders, saloons, foris, and other businesses years ago. The tokens were "good for" a loaf of bread, one drink, one shave, one ride or whatever. They were usually made of metal, and while having the general appearance of a coin, they were made in all shapes and sizes with some even picturing buildings, animals, etc.

We who lived through the '30's learned one thing, real good, and that is to NOT spend more than we take in.

The courthouse is built on a good foundation, good material, maybe in some parts better than today's materials. Let's bring the old courthouse up to required standards, as good as we can, over several years at as reasonable cost as possible.

We can be proud of this historical building. It is still special to me.

Ray Agler Rural Wayne

Looking for old tokens

To the editor: I am a lover of history and I have a somewhat unusual hobby. I collect old tokens used by stores, barber shops, Indian Traders, saloons, foris, and other businesses years ago. The tokens were "good for" a loaf of bread, one drink, one shave, one ride or whatever. They were usually made of metal, and while having the general appearance of a coin, they were made in all shapes and sizes with some even picturing buildings, animals, etc.

I have reason to believe that some of these tokens were used in your area years ago and I would be most interested in obtaining some of them for my collection.

I would like to hear from anyone having one or more of these tokens or from anyone who might be able to help me.

I now live in South Dakota and my address is: P.O. Box 1573, Sioux Falls, S.D. 57101.

Councilman resigns

To the editor: This letter is to announce that I will not be seeking another term on the Wayne City Council. I am resigning my position as councilman for the First Ward as of June 1, 1984. My family and I will be leaving the Wayne area at that time.

I appreciate your past support and encouragement and hope you continue to voice your concerns to your local elected officials. I have enjoyed representing the people of the First Ward and hope they will exercise their right to vote in May and again in November.

Sincerely, Jim Craun Councilman, First Ward

Candidate responds

To the editor: This letter is being written in response to an article in The Wayne Herald last week. In that article, Senator Von Minden described contributions to $1,000 per interest group, and further felt that the public should know how much I was receiving from contributors. These questions were meant, through innuendo, to cast suspicion on me and the so-called "special interest" that may or may not be supporting my campaign.

First, I would like to say that, as a Senator, if you feel obligated to a special interest group because they financially supported your campaign, then, your values are such that the specific amount you receive doesn't make much difference. The real question is whether you are going to sell yourself, not for how much.

Although Merle's challenge is nothing but political rhetoric, he has raised a serious issue regarding campaign spending. Since I am not independently wealthy, and campaigning is expensive, I do have to rely on contributions. However, I have never given a single contribution any indication that I would do anything in their behalf, and I never will.

At this point I am more concerned with the total amount of money that will be contributed. You may have noticed that Merle conveniently did not address this issue. The last campaign is a good example. I only accepted 53 percent of what Merle did in the last general election campaign. As of April 10th, Merle had already received as much money ($6,165.84) for this contested primary election as I received for the entire 1980 general election. The majority of his money is coming from PAC's. I will file my disclosure as soon as I receive my first $1,000.

Since by law, full disclosure of finances is required and is available in the court house, I would like to challenge the media to inform the public about who, as well as how much is being contributed to the candidates. At that point the voters can decide what is, or is not, appropriate campaign financing. Gerald A. Conway

Delegate selection compromised

By Melvin Paul Nebraska Press-Association— This year for the first time, Nebraska Republicans have abandoned their practice of selecting their entire national convention delegation through popular election on the primary ballot.

In the primary election next Tuesday (May 15), Republican voters will select only nine of their 24 national convention delegates by the ballot, three from each congressional district. The remaining 15 delegates to the GOP national convention, which is scheduled for Aug. 12-16 in Dallas, will be selected at the Republican state convention on June 30 in Lincoln.

As they did in 1980, Nebraska Democrats again this year will select all their national convention delegates at the state convention rather than on the primary election ballot.

NEBRASKA REPUBLICANS devised the ballot-convention hybrid as a compromise. Supporters of the ballot system contend that the process is more open and less prone to manipulation. Supporters of the convention system say that the method helps draw greater numbers of people into party affairs, and rightfully rewards the rank-and-file party workers rather than the "big names" who may have contributed little to the party organization.

Although filing for the primary ballot is closed, Republicans have until May 25 to give notice to the state party that they intend to run for delegates at the state convention. Thus, those who fail to get elected delegate by the ballot won't be precluded from attempting to become a delegate at the state convention.

Nebraska Democrats, who are entitled to 30 delegates at their San Francisco convention July 16-19, will chose delegates at their state convention to reflect the finish of presidential candidates Walter Mondale, Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson in the popular vote next Tuesday. Democrats have until May 17 to inform the state party of their interest in running for delegates at the state convention, which is scheduled for June 15-17 in Omaha.

One hundred ten Republicans have filed for convention delegates on the primary election ballot, and all but six are pledged to Reagan. The others are listed as uncommitted.

Former Gov. Charles Thone, State Treasurer Kay Orr, U.S. Rep. Doug Bereuter, former Ambassador Milan Bish and eight state senators are among the candidates on the ballot.

A FORMER NEBRASKA state official returned to Lincoln this week to take over the top job on Gov. Bob Kerrey's staff.

W. Don Nelson, who most recently has been administrative assistant to Wyoming Gov. Ed Herschler, became Kerrey's chief of staff. From 1971 to 1977, Nelson was director of former Gov. J. J. Exon's State Office of Planning and Programming, an agency whose name has since been changed to the state Policy Research Office. Nelson, 40, replaces chief of staff William Hopponer, who intends to leave the office soon for work in the private sector. Nelson will be paid $55,000 annually for his work in the governor's office.

He will earn an additional sum from a part-time faculty appointment in the Community Resource and Research Center of the College of Architecture at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Specifics of the UNL appointment, including salary, have yet to be determined.

Nelson resigned from the Exon administration in 1977 to become the director of the Wyoming Department of Health and Social Services. In 1980, he became administrative assistant to Herschler, who isn't seeking re-election this year.

Nelson holds a bachelors degree in psychology and a masters degree in urban and regional planning from the University of Florida, and a law degree from Florida State University.

Nebraskans named to wheat council

I was pleased to learn that Hazel M. Fox, Chairman of Human Nutrition and Food Management at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, has been appointed by Department of Agriculture Secretary John Block to serve on the Wheat Industry Council. Raymond Davis, of Potter, Nebraska, has been reappointed to the council.

The twenty-member council administers a national research and nutrition education program for wheat and wheat foods. Membership is composed equally of wheat producers, processors, end-product manufacturers and consumers. Members are appointed for two-year terms. The so-called "junk food" rule that kept food of minimal nutritional value from being sold in schools from the beginning of the school day to the end of the last school lunch period has been overturned by a court decision.

THE U.S. COURT of Appeals for the District of Columbia said that the Department of Agriculture (USDA) had exceeded its rule-making authority when it issued its "time and place" regulations. That is why the USDA is proposing that these restrictions apply only during the breakfast and lunch periods and in food-service areas.

Although the court's decision applied only to carbonated beverages, USDA is including other minimally nutritious foods in its proposal. These regulated foods are water ices, chewing gum, and certain candies that are primarily sugar.

The deadline for commenting on the proposal requires a May 14, 1984 postmark. Comments should go to Stanley Garnett, USDA, Alexandria, Va. 22302. Currently, the Federal regulations do not restrict the states from imposing stricter limits.

The Department of Transportation is cautioning parents about a potential safety problem involved with installing some child safety seats in passenger cars. The problem may arise when the seat is installed with the type of lap belt that is not automatically tightened by a retractor. Parents should inspect the installation, making sure that the lap belt is tightly cinched. Make sure that the ear-seat holds securely in place.

If you have trouble installing a child car seat, contact the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's toll free hotline (800-424-0393).

Briefly speaking

Pair tops fine arts competition

David and Ranae Fuoss, children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuoss of Wayne, recently placed first in two separate divisions of fine arts competition held at their school, Tri-City Christian Academy, in Tempe, Ariz.

A ninth grader, David received first place with a textile entry in the art division, while his sister Ranae, a seventh grader, placed first with a classical piano solo.

Both advanced to state competition where they also received first place awards. Plans are currently being made for regional competition to be held in Santa Maria, Calif. in May.

Williams receives BPW award

Wayne State College student Karen Williams was awarded the Marge Madsen memorial scholarship at a recent meeting of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club.

A junior business major from Madison, Williams was selected from several applicants by business instructors at Wayne State. The scholarship will be used next fall.

The scholarship was named memory of Marge Madsen, a long-time member of the Business and Professional Women's organization.

Williams name was incorrectly listed in the May 7 issue.

Hartman on committee

Jay Hartman of Wayne has recently been named a member of the Piano Tuning Advisory Committee at Western Iowa Tech Community College in Sioux City.

As a member of the advisory committee, Hartman will be involved in helping with the evaluation of existing programs and designing new programs within the area.

He also recently was upgraded to the status of registered craftsman by the Piano Technicians Guild, Inc. To receive the craftsman status, an individual must pass a rigid series of tests which include identification and repair of pianos. It is the highest level which can be obtained within the guild, preceded by student and apprentice ranks.

Special Mothers Day hours

The Wayne Centennial Store, located at 110 Main, is extending their store hours this week only for Mothers Day shopping.

New hours are 1-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m., Thursday, May 10; 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Friday, May 11; and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, May 12.

The store has a wide range of gift ideas, including crochets with plants, bells, plates and centennial dresses in a variety of colors and sizes.

Fellowship Day observed

May Fellowship Day, sponsored by Church Women United, was held in Wayne at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Friday, May 4.

Approximately 70 women from six Wayne churches participated in the service to celebrate the heritage and customs of the Spanish-speaking families in the United States.

Rev. Doniver Peterson spoke, relating customs of many peoples who have shared in the local heritage, such as our forefathers of many different cultures.

Grace Melton was the soloist.

Linda Carr, local president, reported on attending the state meeting in Alliance during April. She was asked to attend the National Church Women United conference during July in Indiana.

The next celebration will be World Community Day on Nov. 2 at the Wayne Presbyterian Church.

Reception in Newcastle

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. David Blatchford, who were recently wed in Normal, Ill., will be held Sunday, May 20 from 2-4:30 p.m. at the Gospel Chapel in Newcastle.

There will be a short program beginning at 2:15 p.m.

All relatives and friends are invited to attend. No other invitations are being sent.

Spring Music program May 11

Students of District 57 school will present their spring music program tomorrow (Friday).

The program is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

Niemann given Scouting award

Paul Niemann, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Niemann of Denver and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Florenz Niemann of Wayne, recently was honored at the Court of Honor where he received the Eagle Scout Award in Denver.

He has been active in Scouting since 1976. Along with being involved in various instrumental groups at his high school, he is a member of the Golden Youth Symphony Orchestra and toured New Zealand with the group last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Florenz Niemann and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reeg of Wayne attended the Court of Honor award ceremony held in Denver in April.

From primitive to patriotic

Spring tea a musical event

Over 90 people attended the Wayne County Home Extension Club Spring Tea held on May 7 at Trinity Lutheran School in Hoskins.

The theme of the program was "The Family Well-Being and Music Connection", and featured participation from individual members of the area home extension clubs and the audience. Mrs. James Robinson composed the program which chronicled the history of music from primitive to present and it's relationship to the changing family unit.

Mrs. Ron Lange and Mrs. Alex Liska gave the greetings and welcome. The We Few Home Extension Club was in charge of registration.

EACH OF the 13 Wayne County Home Extension Clubs were represented within the program, which featured a variety of skits, singing and dancing. The clubs included and their presentation were:

Star Club—Primitive rhythm and dance.

A Teen—Indian song and dance.

We Few—Sweet Betsy from Pike (pioneers).

Scattered Neighbors—Square dancing.

Serve All—Patriotic marching and national anthem leaders.

Hillcrest and Highlands—Patriotic "marchers" and Pledge of Allegiance leaders.

Town and Country—(Home Sweet Home) Service families.

Highlands—Duet "One Day at a Time".

Monday Mrs.—Trio "Let Me Klink" and Klatter—Blue Skirt Waltzers.

Farm Fans—Fun song leaders.

Three—M's and Happy Homemakers—Audience participation.

A certificate of recognition was presented to Mrs. Lyle Marolt in honor of her 50 years of membership in the Home Extension Club by Wayne County Extension Agent Mary Temme.

MRS. ROBERT Porter gave a presentation on the cultural arts display which featured crafts and writings from various Wayne County Home Extension Club members. Those items which were selected to go on to state competition included a piece of creative writing by Kathy Cratenbeck and an entry in the hand stitchery category by Mrs. Porter.

The Tea Table was organized by the Star Home Extension Club.

The money collected by the Silver Tea offering will go to the Wayne County Home Extension Council Health Fund and will be used to sponsor two Wayne area youth at a diabetic camp near Fremont this summer.

Heitmans celebrate golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Heitman of Laurel were the guests of honor at an open house in observance of their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, April 29 at the Laurel City Auditorium.

More than 290 guests from Iowa, California, Hartington, Randolph, Coleridge, Belden, Wayne, Winslow, Newcastle, Lincoln, Dixon, Pilger, Norfolk, Carroll, Orono and Laurel attended the reception. They were registered by Colleen Jeffries.

The anniversary cake was baked by Mrs. Morris Dendinger of Hartington and cut and served by Joan Cautrell, Dorothy Wert and Vivian Papenhausen.

Carol Heitman of Laurel served coffee and punch was served by Linda Heitman, also of Laurel. Waiters and waitresses were Lynn Olsen and Curt and Marlin Papenhausen of Coleridge, Roger, Todd and Troy Heitman of Laurel, Ronald Wert of Wayne, Bill Heitman of Laurel and Curt Jeffries of Winslow.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mary Ann Christensen, Liz Norvell, Darlene Burns, Karen Gramquist, Nagine Anderson, Norma Johnson, Joyce Lundahl and Judy Berteloh.

The Heitmans were wed on April 12, 1934 in Neligh, and lived in Hartington for nine years before moving to Belden, where they resided for 29 years. They have been living in Laurel for the past 12 years.

The couple has four children, Mrs. Curtis Papenhausen of Coleridge, Bill Heitman of Laurel, Mrs. Ronald Wert of Wayne, and Roger Heitman of Laurel. They also have five grandchildren.

Victor to compete for Nebraska teen title

Laura Victor, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Victor of Wayne, has been selected as a finalist in the 1984 Nebraska National Teen-ager Pageant to be held June 22-24 at Hastings College in Hastings.

The Nebraska National Teen-ager Pageant is the official state finalist to the Miss National Teen-ager Pageant which is aired on national television each year in August from Fort Meyer, Fla.

The winner of the Nebraska pageant will receive a $500 cash scholarship, a $4,000 tuition scholarship to Hastings College, a 4-year tuition scholarship to Oklahoma City University worth $15,000, a full Barbizon modeling scholarship and an all expense paid trip to Florida to compete with 52 other state winners representing every state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico for the title of Miss National Teen-ager for 1984.

Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Fla., in 1984, will award two $10,000 tuition scholarships to the state citizenship award winners, a $16.00 regional scholarship, and two $24,000 tuition scholarships to the national citizenship award winner.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise, personality and appearance. There is no swimsuit competition. Each contestant will participate in the National Teen-ager volunteer service program.

Miss Victor is sponsored by M and S Oil Co., Pamida, Inc., Leaders, Inc., State National Bank and Trust Co., and the Cliff Peters Agency.

Decorations were in rainbow colors, those chosen by the bride for her wedding.

A total of 26 guests from the Carroll and Wayne area attended.

Miss Oberg, daughter of Fred Oberg of Pender and Dee Pflanz of Wayne, will wed Don Straight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Straight of Wayne, on June 9 at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne.

JAYCEEETTE PRESIDENT, Mindy Luft and Pat Gross, library board president, display the industrial slide projector which is currently available for check out from the Wayne-Public Library.

Jayceettes donate funds for projector

The Wayne Public Library has recently acquired an industrial slide projector, made possible through a donation by the Wayne Jayceette organization.

Mindy Luft, president of the Jayceettes, said the organization decided on making the $200 donation for the projector after conducting a search into various areas within the city to see what types of needs existed. A committee was formed to look into the areas and group members also gave input on the matter.

The industrial-weight machine is much stronger than a regular slide projector and is currently available to the public through organizations. It may be checked out for $2.

Pat Gross, president of the Wayne Public Library Board, said that the library was "extremely pleased to have the projector available for use by the public". He added that they expect the slide projector to be in "constant demand" and see a great deal of use throughout the community.

baptisms

Karl Jean Johnson

Karl Jean Johnson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laverie Johnson of Concord was baptized during morning worship services at Concordia Lutheran Church on Easter Sunday, April 22.

Rev. David Newman officiated the services. Sponsors were Capt. and Mrs. Steve Forney of Moore, Okla. and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Knudsen of South Sioux City.

Blue Devils move to district finals

The Wayne Blue Devils and the Omaha South Packers will meet today (Wednesday) to decide the district high school baseball championship winner.

Wayne reached the district finals Tuesday afternoon after defeating Bancroft-Rosalie in five innings by 10-run rule, 15-5. In the earlier game, Omaha South went the full seven innings in defeating Laurel by a 24-6 score.

Steve Overin pitched the first four innings for the Blue Devils in the game against Bancroft-Rosalie and allowed just three hits, striking out six and walking five Panther batters.

Ted Lueders came in to relieve Overin in the fifth inning, allowing two hits and two runs before retiring the Bancroft-Rosalie batters.

The Blue Devils picked up 10 hits in the game, four of those hits off the bat of Overin who hit two singles, a triple and in the bottom of the fifth inning an inside the park homerun.

BANCROFT-Rosalie scored the first run of the game in the top of the first inning after Kevin Bruning walked, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on a single by Panther pitcher Bonine.

Wayne scored three runs in the bottom of the second inning when Overin singled and Todd Dorsey drew a walk. Both Overin and Dorsey moved to scoring position after stolen bases and passed balls and later scored on a base hit by Lueders.

Lueders stole second base and advanced around the base paths on passed balls thrown by Bonine to score another run.

Lueders got his second RBI single in the bottom of the third inning, scoring Dorsey, who reached base on a walk.

Bancroft-Rosalie pulled to within one run at the top of the fourth inning after Overin walked Hermelbracht, Brent Tietz and Chris Butler and also gave up a single to Larry Zobel. He put an end to the two-run inning by striking out Scott Freiberg.

An eight run fourth inning allowed Wayne to pull away from the Panthers. Kevin Maly led off the inning with a one-out bunt single.

Jeff Sherrin walked and Don Larsen followed with a single. Overin then blasted a towering triple. Todd Dorsey drew a walk and Chris Wieseler was hit by a Bonine pitch.

AFTER LUEDERS reached base on a fielders choice, Casey Nichols lofted a run-scoring sacrifice fly and Shannon Dorsey followed with a single. More runs scored when Maly reached base on an error of a fly ball by the Panther centerfielder.

The final blow by Wayne occurred in the bottom of the fifth inning after Overin led off with his inside the park homer followed by consecutive walks issued to Wieseler, Brent Pick and Shannon Dorsey. Maly then scored both runs with his second hit of the contest and the game was ended.

In the game prior to Wayne's win, Omaha South jumped to a 7-1 lead after three innings of play and went on to post a decisive win over Laurel.

Laurel got its first run of the game in the third inning when Chad Blatchford walked and scored on a double hit by Brent Haisch.

The lead by Omaha South was narrowed to 8-6 in the fourth inning as Laurel scored five runs with two outs. Scott Lindsay started the rally with a single followed by another base hit by Paul Pearson.

Chad Lake drew a walk and Craig Hanson double to drive in two runs. Blatchford then slashed a triple, scoring two more runs.

Omaha South was shut out in the fifth inning, but came back in the sixth inning to score seven runs to stretch its lead over Laurel by a score of 15-6. The lead was further padded by Omaha South as they scored nine more runs in the top of the sixth inning to run away from the Bears.

Blatchford paced the Laurel hitting attack with two hits.

Omaha South had 17 hits in the contest and capitalized on nine Laurel errors.

SQUARING TO BUNT is Blue Devil-Jeff Sherrin in Tuesday's district semi-final game against Bancroft-Rosalie.

District title evades WSC

The NAIA District 11 softball championship slipped from the grasp of Wayne State Sunday evening in a controversial 3-1 nine-inning loss to Kearney State in Vermillion, S.D.

The Lady Wildcats had apparently won the district championship game in the bottom of the eighth when Carmen Doeschot scored what was thought to be the winning run.

But WSC Coach Sue Kovar said Kearney State appealed that Doeschot failed to touch third base on her scoring play and the umpire agreed with the disputed decision.

The game apparently ends the Lady Wildcats' most successful season ever at 26-14 unless they receive an at-large bid to the NAIA national tournament May 17-19.

WSC was rated No. 7 in the NAIA national poll last week. KSC moves to bi-district play.

The district tournament was to have been played in Omaha. But wet fields moved it to Kearney at the last minute on Friday. After the first day of play, rain erased Saturday's games.

WSC and Kearney State, the only unbeaten teams in the tourney, were going to meet in the championship contest Sunday in Kearney. Again, the rain forced moving the game indoors to South Dakota's Dakota Dome.

Against the Lady Lopers, Teresa Durbala had two singles. Denise Hatfield doubled and Doeschot and Lori Johnson singled for WSC's five hits. Wayne State sent the game into extra innings when Kristy Govig scored the tying run in the bottom of the seventh on an error.

Wayne State won two first round games on Friday, beating Doane 15-0 in three innings and stopping Concordia 6-3. Mary Lingelbach went live for six in the two games with six RBIs. She and Govig were three for three in the Doane game.

The four teams in the double-elimination playoff are Wayne State, Peru State, Kearney State and Doane (or Dana).

The winner of the District 11 tourney advances to a four-team Area tournament May 17-19.

Wayne wins Oakland meet

It's been since 1975 when Oakland-Craig had not placed first in the team's own high school golf invitational.

Oakland's string of first place wins was halted Monday afternoon as the Wayne Blue Devils high school golf team golf took top honors in the 12-team Oakland-Craig invitational tournament.

Cole Froeschle of Wayne shot two strokes less than teammate Rod Dahl to capture medalist honors at the invitational. Froeschle shot a 41 the first nine holes and 38 the second nine for a total score of 77.

Mac Maciejewski, "Blue Devil" golfing coach, said Monday the conditions of the golf course at Oakland were "as bad as we have ever played on."

On several of the fairways, Maciejewski said his players had to "wade through water."

There were several rule changes made because of the nasty weather conditions, he said, to adapt to the conditions of the golf course.

"The wind was blowing at 35 miles per hour, it was chilly and some of the team members had to play with gloves and scarves," he said. "That has to prove these kids really wanted to win this meet."

When the Wayne team members saw they had a 1-2 point lead after the first round, the Blue Devils "saw they had a chance," Maciejewski said.

"Each of our players improved in the second round by an average of five strokes per man," he added.

THE BLUE Devils had a team score of 225 the first round. In the second nine holes, the team shaved its strokes to 200.

Only the top four scores of the five-man team are used in total team scores at the end of the invitational. Froeschle's 77 score was added to Dahl's score of 79. Brad Moore's score of 84 (44 and 40) and Tom Perry's score of 89 (48 and 41) for a team total of 322.

Individual standings are as follows:
1. Froeschle, Wayne 77 2. Dahl, Wayne 79 3. Dave Doerr, Plainview 79 4. Bruce Knaak, Plainview 83 5. Don Brockman, West Point, 83 6. Grant Maffies, Blair 83 7. Kelly Danielson, Oakland 84 8. Moore, Wayne 84 9. Carler Hansen, Blair 85 10. Mike Peterson, Oakland 85 11. Brad Stender, Blair 86 12. David Jindra, West Point 87 13. Ted Landholm, Oakland 88 14. Rex Balwin, Oakland 88 15. Pat Svec, Scribner 89; Perry, Wayne 89; Layne Marsh, Wayne, 96.

Team standings were as follows:

- Wayne-327 2. Plainview 345 3. Blair 349
- Oakland-Craig 349 5. West Point 371 6. Oakland-Craig-B 374 7. Logan View 381-8. Scribner 385 9. Blair B 391 10. Stanton 401 11. Bergan 416 12. Beemer 459.

The Blue Devils enter district golf competition at Columbus this Friday. Teams finishing in the top three at district and the top five individuals with the lowest scores will go on to state competition.

Wayne's Froeschle won the state individual golf title in Class B in last year's high school state competition.

TED LUEDERS SLIDES safely into third base ahead of the tag by Bancroft-Rosalie's Kevin Bruning.

Stoltenberg first in two individual events WSC track team claims 6 titles

Wayne State's women's and men's track teams came away from Hays, Kan., last weekend with six individual championships and a second-place team finish for the women in the Central States-Intercollegiate Conference meet.

Coach LeRoy Simpson's team was led by Missy Stoltenberg who won the 100 and 200-meter dashes and was a part of two winning relays. She also placed in two other events.

Teams could enter as many as six entrants in an individual event and teams with a lot of depth were able to rack up points easily.

Winside qualifies nine to state

Winside High School qualified nine individuals at districts who will compete next week in the 1984 Nebraska high school boys and girls state track meet at Omaha Burke High School.

The state track meet is slated to begin on Friday, May 18 and Saturday, May 19. District competition for Class D (which included Winside) took place Tuesday afternoon at Wayne State College.

At Winside's qualifying district, the winners of the first two places in each individual event qualified for the state meet. Winners of first place in the relay events also qualified for the state meet.

Winside's high school girls track team took two first places and a single second place finish while in boys competition, the Wildcats managed one first place and three second place finishes.

Wildcat Kristi Thies jumped 5'11" for first place and automatically qualified for the state meet and teammate Missy Jensen picked up a second place and trip to state with a 5'0" jump.

Winside grabbed another spot in the girls track state meet by taking first in the 4x400 relay with a time of 4:30.7. Running the relay were Jill Boldt, Tammy Brudigan, Tracy Topp and Missy Jensen.

IN THE boys division, Winside nabbed its only first place in the 4x100 relay. Team members in the relay included Dan Mundt, Mike Thies, Dallas Nau and John Hawkins.

Hawkins qualified for two other events at the state meet. He had a second place finish in the 100 meter dash with a time of 11.3 seconds and had another second place in the 200 meter dash (time 23.7).

Wildcat long jumper Dan Mundt had a second place finish, leaping 19'11 3/4", to also qualify for state.

Newcastle won the boys high district track title with 114 points. Winside placed fourth out of the 11 teams competing at the district level.

Winside's girls track team tied for third place with 10 competing teams. The championship was won by Verdigris with a team score of 112 points.

Other Wildcats have an outside chance of qualifying for the state track meet, pending the outcome of the 10 other districts in Class D held throughout the state. In the individual events, the non-qualifying times (those not placing first or second) from all districts are compared and the two fastest times will qualify.

Those with third place finishes for Winside included Dallas Nau in the high jump at 5'10"; Brent Nau in the high hurdles with a time of 17.1; Tammy Brudigan in the 400 meter run (66.4); Falk in the hurdles with a time of 17.0; and Winside's 4x100 relay team which finished with a time of 56.1.

Non-qualifying times from all Class D districts will be compared and the fastest second place will also qualify.

'hacken' away at sports

by chuck hackenmiller

O-L-I-V-E-S

KCAU-Channel 9 of Sioux City is the only station which came across our television screen because our rented house contains no antenna and cable hadn't been hooked up yet to the set.

With the rain pouring down Sunday afternoon and the sports scene literally flooded out for another day, on came the television revealing a snowy picture of a USFL game between the Birmingham Stallions and the Philadelphia Stars.

Scrabble, a word game played often by my wife and I, was pulled down from the shelf. I could concentrate on Scrabble and still watch the game at the same time.

V-I-A-L-S

Both the Stallions and the Stars were tearing up the league, winning game after game, and this was supposed to be the highlight game of the USFL season.

In the early going, the first quarter hinted glimpses of an lack-luster game as both offenses couldn't get untracked. In Philadelphia's first four running attempts, only a single yard was gained.

Birmingham's scoreless performance after the first quarter wasn't even worthy of comment.

O-F-F-E-R

Then the Stars turned on their offensive passing machine and ran the score up to a 23-0. The Stallions managed to kick a field goal and the halftime score stood at 30-3.

At this point, the television game announcers were overly surprised at the game's outcome.

The announcers analyzed the situation by saying Birmingham must now "play for pride, then confidence, and perhaps the team could make a comeback" in the second half.

Birmingham's defense held the Stallions to no points the third quarter. The problem was — Birmingham also failed to score. Comeback?

Z-I-T

By the time Birmingham scored a touchdown and two point conversion with a little over 10 minutes remaining in the game, the Scabble score was neck and neck. My concentration shifted to the word game.

B-O-R-E

Here I was with the letters W and X (letters which probably should have never been invented) and falling behind.

"First of all play for pride, then confidence and then possibly a comeback," I recollected from the television announcers' earlier statements.

My luck was equal to that of the Stallions — no comeback and I lost the game. So much for the USFL.

I guess there will always be Scrabble games to play.

A for effort

At times, when hundreds of athletes are competing at a track meet invitational, the merits of one individual is constantly lost in the flow of the day's many events.

One individual, however, should be mentioned for his performance in obtaining a first place finish in the pole vault event at the Lewis and Clark Invitational held last week.

Junior Derek Lineberry of Laurel High was reaching heights equal to his conference contestants when he attempted a vault of 10'6" and sustained a back injury.

Two vaults following the injury resulted in nothing but grimaces of pain for Lineberry. Then, on his third jump, Lineberry said he blocked out the pain and cleared the bar.

Laurel track coach John Jonas said he gave Lineberry a back rubdown before the vault, which was then raised to 11 feet. Jonas said Lineberry cleared the 11 foot mark and won the event — his first ever in an invitational.

Jonas said Monday that Lineberry is still stiff and sore from last week's conference invitational and had planned on visiting a doctor Monday. Whether or not he will be able to participate in the district meet this week "will be up to the doctor," Jonas said.

Rule changes

There were several rule revisions made by the Nebraska School Activities Association in high school wrestling and basketball sports for the 1984-85 seasons. Some of the wrestling rules include:

- No contestant can compete in more than five full-length matches per day and cannot wrestle two consecutive matches without a 45 minute rest period between them.

- Minimum weight for a 98 pound class is 83 pounds and the maximum for heavyweight would be 275 pounds.

- A match can't be stopped when warning for stalling in the neutral position or warning or penalizing the defensive wrestler.
- And a warning will be given prior to penalizing a coach for misconduct.

Some changes in basketball include:

- Four time outs can accumulate and be used at any time during the game.

- A player fouled in the act of shooting or dunking may grasp the ring to prevent injury.

- And a flagrant foul carries a 2-shot penalty if it is part of a multiple foul.

The basketball season will return to the split format used prior until last year, where boys begin their tournament series a week prior to the girls and the state tournaments will be separated.

Last year, the classes of C-2, D-1 and D-2 held both boys and girls tournaments the same weekend and classes A, B and C-1 held boys and girls tournaments one week later.

Also, in football, a 9-game regular season will be the length of the season which schools can build schedules on past next season. The playoffs will begin in the 10th week of the football season.

Local sponsored team wins tourney

A team sponsored by Joe Lowe Realty of Wayne took first place honors in the first Donnie Mac's AAU Basketball Tourney at Sioux City.

Paced by Brian McDermott's 19 points and Kevin Leim's 16 points, Joe Lowe's Realty defeated Adler's Sporting Goods of LeMars by an 85-79 score in the championship game.

The team featured several former college players from Mount Marty College in Yankton, including Wayne High School graduate Monte Lowe.

Al Jones, former Wayne State ball player, had an 18 point game playing for the Pizza City team.

Wayne Country Club sets schedule

The golf league season is already underway at the Wayne Golf and Country Club.

The ladies golf league starts on June 5 and June 23 and 24 is the member-guest tournament.

Some other upcoming events include: the two-man scramble on May 28; men's open tournament on June 3; parent-child tourney on June 17. Two-ball foursome events are scheduled for May 4, 13, 18, and 27; June 1, 10, 15, 29.

Baseball district finals Wednesday

The finals of the high school district baseball tournament will take place tonight (Wednesday) instead of the scheduled Thursday date.

The game will be played at the Wayne State baseball diamond. Wayne's Blue Devils will go against Omaha South in the district championship.

State track meet next weekend

The 1984 boys and girls state track meet will be held on Friday, May 18 and Saturday, May 19 at Omaha Burke High School on 12200 Burke Blvd.

All preliminaries in events other than the 3200 meter run will take place on Friday and all finals will be run on Saturday. Classes B and D preliminaries Friday will be between 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Classes A and C preliminaries will be from 3:30 p.m. till after 7:30 p.m.

Finals on Saturday will have girls' C, C.B. and A classes competing first by event, followed by events in the boys' D, C, B, A classes. As soon as each event is completed, then the next event will start.

Wayne State announces sign-ups

Four athletes have announced they will attend Wayne State College next year to participate in either basketball or baseball.

Signing up for basketball were Brian Ruffcorn, a 6'4" 185 pounder from Gretna and Brad Schulz of Beemer, a 6'4" 180 pounder.

Two players from Grand Island will play baseball next season for the Wildcats. They include Bob Day, a pitcher and Greg Gaden, an outfielder.

New times posted at Atokad Park

There will be two major changes at Atokad Park in the times this year, post time and the summer starting date.

Atokad Park's 1984 summer dates will be May 19 through July 29, running every Saturday and Sunday. There will be performances on Memorial Day May 28 and July 4.

The 1:30 p.m. post time this summer will be a half hour earlier than last year. Again, this summer on July 4 the post time will be 10 a.m.

The quality of horses have been up graded at Atokad because of the $1300 average purse structure, according to general manager, Maurice Topt. The stall applications are being screened much closer since Atokad can only stall hundred head of thoroughbreds and there are many more stall applications. Atokad plans to run 11 races a day with a full field of ten in each race.

There was a 29% increase last year in the handle over the previous year and reservations indicate an increase this season.

The average handle last summer was $156,516 and attendance for the 1983 season was 63,260 people. A fall race season will take place this year, running from November 19 through December 16.

State National Bank honored for loans

State National Bank and Trust of Wayne has been honored by the Nebraska Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators for making more than $1 million in guaranteed student loans to Nebraska students.

The bank was awarded a certificate of appreciation and named a member of the organization's newly formed "One-Million Dollar Club" at the association's semi-annual meeting April 11 and 12 in Grand Island. State National Bank and Trust was one of 25 associate lender members of the organization receiving the certificates at the meeting.

to $5,000 per year ($25,000 total) as graduate students from participating lenders.

In Nebraska, these loans are guaranteed for repayment by the state's designated guarantee agency, Higher Education Assistance Foundation, the nation's largest non-profit guarantor of student loans. Since HEAF began guaranteeing loans in Nebraska in January of 1980, the Foundation has guaranteed more than $267 million in 117,000 loans to Nebraska students in cooperation with more than 450 participating lenders. HEAF maintains offices in Lincoln.

"These certificates are to show our appreciation of the strong participation of these lenders in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program," said Dannt Warrtck, outgoing president of the association and the financial aid administrator of Metropolitan Technical Community College in Elkhorn. "They have made it possible for thousands of Nebraska students to pursue their educations."

"We are proud of these Nebraska banks, credit unions and savings and loan associations for their performance in providing financial access for students who attend Nebraska post-secondary educational institutions," said Larry O'Meara, regional director for HEAF in Nebraska.

Under the federal Guaranteed Student Loan Program, students enrolled in eligible post-secondary institutions including colleges, universities, vocational and technical schools may borrow up to $2,500 per year ($12,500 total) as undergraduates and up

The Nebraska Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators is primarily an educational organization which provides its member administrators and lending institutions current information about the federal Guaranteed Student Loan Program and other forms of student financial aid.

Pork producers meet

Eleven Wayne County Pork Producers' directors and their wives met May 3 at Ron's Steak House in Carroll. Don Spitze, Wayne County agricultural agent, and Mike Brumm, swine specialist at the Northeast Station, were also present.

Betty Stralman and Barb Stefensmeier of the Cumming County Porkettes entertained the wives with a presentation of various craft items of pig designs plus several pigskin outfits. An award will be presented by the WCPP to the outstanding open class pig mania exhibit at the Wayne County Fair. Anyone interested in more details may contact Kathy Rutenbeck at 375-3155.

Gene Luff, state representative, presented a check and plaque from the American Pork Congress for Wayne County's outstanding membership promotion. He reported Wayne has been asked to work at the Pork Chop at the Nebraska State Fair on Sept. 1.

WCPP will have a booth and will assist with the hog show at the Wayne County Fair. A female farrowing school will be held the last week in June, and a computer show, in August. A fall barbecue for all members will take place Aug. 25 with the Banquet set for Oct. 21. A Wayne Chamber of Commerce coffee will be sponsored Oct. 19.

The Pork Producers will assist in several upcoming events including Old Settlers in Winside on July 22, a KMNS Ag Fun Day at the Sioux City Stockyards on Aug. 18, and the Wayne Centennial parade. Interested persons should contact President Chuck Rutenbeck for additional information.

Music camp scheduled

The 40th annual Wayne State College High School Summer Music Camp, the oldest and one of the largest music camps in the Midwest, will be held July 22-29 on the Wayne State College campus.

This year's guest conductor will be Rich Matteson, internationally known jazz performer and clinician from North Texas State University who will direct at the camp and lead a workshop for school directors.

The camp includes three bands, three choirs, six swing choirs, five jazz bands, or orchestra, and many elective offerings. Students can channel their study into choral, instrumental or piano tracks.

Cost for the eight-day camp is $120. All students who receive a 1 rating in a senior high solo event are eligible for a $40 scholarship.

For more information or to register for the camp, contact Dr. Cornell Runestad at Wayne State College.

Willow Bowl future to see reconstructive face-lift

By Kelly O'Gorman
Wayne State Co-Editor

Over the years, it has become an annual May ritual at Wayne State. Spring graduates have hoped, cried and prayed for a Willow Bowl commencement that started a WSC tradition in 1938.

Recently, however, the location of the future spring and summer graduation appeared in doubt, due to a decline in the condition of Willow Bowl block retaining walls.

"The one part particularly bad is the bridge area on the west side," Dr. Ed Elliott, WSC president, said. However, there is nothing for students to worry about.

The repair of the Willow Bowl is an "important upcoming project," Elliott said, and the project has been placed on a priority list.

The Willow Bowl is "a significant landmark on campus," and Elliott is concerned about preserving a structure with "meaning and value to the institution."

Elliott proposed two options for repairing the Willow Bowl. The first calls for replacing any cracked or broken pieces with a similar stone.

The second option, however, calls for taking out and replacing all stone in current retaining walls.

"I want to do it right," Elliott said. Adding that he is "concerned about getting a stone that will last," Elliott said that he would like to see the second option implemented.

The feasibility of this option is in doubt, however, since more money would be needed to properly replace all Willow Bowl stone.

Money for the repair will more than likely come from donations to the Wayne State Foundation, and if large private donations were received by the Foundation specifically for Willow Bowl repair, it would be easier to fix the landmark properly, Elliott said.

Elliott is also looking into the commitment of state funds for the project, and said it may be possible for private donations to be matched by the state of Nebraska.

Estimates on the cost of repair have not yet been taken, and the college will have to contract for any repairs.

Elliott said that the staff wanted to start repairing the Willow Bowl last fall, but that weather conditions have hampered the project. Elliott now hopes to start the project next fall or spring.

An added concern to the aging of several Willow trees which will have to be replaced in the near future, Elliott said it "will be a sad day" when the remaining tall trees must be cut down and replaced. The last Willow Bowl renovation occurred in 1977, when several trees were cut down and replaced.

faculty profile

Del Stoltenberg

Del Stoltenberg, Wayne State College assistant professor of physical education, has good things to say about WSC students. "I think the students at Wayne State College are more serious today about their education and goals than students in the past were. Students are here because they want to be here," Stoltenberg said. Stoltenberg began teaching at WSC fifteen years ago, after having taught and coached at the high school level in South Sioux City, Scribner and Grand Island.

He received his bachelors degree in physical education from Peru State College and began his graduate studies at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln before completing them at Wayne State College.

Stoltenberg, who currently serves as the assistant track coach at WSC, is a sports enthusiast, who loves "any outdoor activity other than fishing."

Professional organizations of which he is a member include the National Education Association, the Nebraska Education Association, the Wayne State Education Association, and the Nebraska Coaching Association.

Stoltenberg, who is a native of Nebraska City, now makes his home with his wife, Delores, and their children, Jay, 22; Tracy, 20; Melissa, 19; and Jon, 15.

Doug Taber

After being born and raised on the east coast and studying on the west coast, the Midwest is quite a change for Doug Taber, Wayne State College assistant professor of history.

"Both my wife and I miss the scenery the coasts provided, but we have come to enjoy this area as well," Taber said.

Taber, who started at WSC in the fall of 1977, received his undergraduate degree in history from Rutgers University in New Brunswick, New Jersey. He is presently working on his Ph.D. through Stanford University. In preparation he studied two years in Paris on a Fulbright Scholarship—researching—medieval history.

Taber says he is generally content at WSC. "The people I work with are very good people. And there's a great relationship amongst the faculty. The students are generally hard working, but I wish I could get them to work harder," he said.

Taber is a member of the Medieval Association of American and the Mid America Medieval Association. His hobbies include billiards and reading.

He and his wife Linda have three children: Peter, 5; Jennifer, 1; and a newborn daughter, Kathryn.

Rick Urwiler

According to Rick Urwiler, education is undergoing some exciting changes, thanks to modern technology.

Urwiler, assistant professor of library media and coordinator of instructional resources in information services at Wayne State College, says "Technology is becoming an important part of teaching and we're relying on it for learning to take place."

He cited computers, television, and satellite communications as examples.

Urwiler received his bachelor of fine arts degree in education from Wayne State College and then went on to get his masters degree and an education specialists degree in instructional systems, technology from Indiana University at Bloomington.

He taught art at Treynor, Iowa from 1967-69 and instructional technology at Polk Community College in Winter Haven, Fla. from 1971-75. He then returned to WSC in the fall of 1975.

He is a member of the Association for Educational Communication and Technology (AECT), and serves as president for the Nebraska Educational Media Association (NEMA).

Urwiler, who is a native of Laurel, enjoys working in his garden when time permits. He makes his home in Wayne with his wife Penny and their two children, Carl, 16; and Julie, 11.

Two awards given

Schmitz gets grants

Janet Schmitz, WSC professor of French, was recently named the recipient of two grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Both grants came from the Summer Seminars for College Teachers program, with funding coming from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Schmitz will attend the "French Poetry and Poetics" seminar at the University of Wisconsin from June 18 through August 10. She has been awarded a $3000 stipend for attending this seminar.

The other grant she received involves studying comparative literature at a seminar entitled "Literature, History and Ideology in the Nineteenth Century." This seminar will be held at Brown University in Providence, R.I. during the summer months.

Schmitz was only allowed to accept one of the grants and chose the one in Wisconsin, because it will be new part of the country for her.

"I've all ready seen the East Coast when I attended my first seminar in 1976 at the State University in New York," Schmitz said.

Dagle gets accepted

Stacey Dagle, a recent Wayne State College graduate, has been accepted to the College of Medicine at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, Omaha.

Dagle received his bachelor of science degree in chemistry with a minor in biology at the WSC graduation commencement Sunday, May 6.

He, along with WSC classmate Bruce Yoder of Beaver-Crossing, a December 1983 graduate, will start medical school in late August among a class of 120 students.

While at WSC, Dagle served on the student senate and the student judicial board, and was a student representative to the board of trustees of the Nebraska State Deafes.

He also served as a chemistry tutor and belonged to Lambda Delta Lambda, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Blue Key honoraries. Dagle was voted outstanding sophomore chemist of the year in 1982.

He and his wife, Darla Shaw Dagle of Bassett, have a two-year old daughter, Elizabeth. Dagle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Dagle of Wausa.

Nine go to New York

United Nations experienced

By Doug Janousek
Special reporter
And Wayne Staler co-editor

For the 11th straight year, Wayne State College sent a delegation to New York City for the National Model United Nations. Wayne State is the only Nebraska college that attends the national conference.

Nine students and their advisor Allen O'Donnell, associate professor of political science, left for the Big Apple on Sunday, April 15 to spend a week working in the Model U.N.

The delegation was headed by WSC senior, Tom Stine of Wayne, who was elected as a vice president to the General Assembly Committee.

WHILE ATTENDING the National Model United Nations the students participated in committee meetings identical to actual United Nations functions.

They also addressed the same major issues that the U.N. is currently working on, including the Iran/Iraq war, prices set by OPEC, the conflict in El Salvador and the announcement made recently by the United States to abide by any decisions made by the International Court of Justice concerning Latin America.

This year, WSC represented the African nation of Ghana. In past years, Wayne State represented the U.S.S.R., Denmark and other nations from every continent.

Organizers of the annual conference estimated that 1,350 to 1,400 students from more than 150 colleges around the U.S., Canada, and Japan attended this year's event.

AFTER HAVING some free time to take in the sights and sounds of the city, the conference opened with a keynote address in the United Nations Assembly General Hall by Ambassador Tom Eric Vraalsen of Norway.

Vraalsen spoke on the role of the U.N. in the world today and commented on some of the criticisms that have been leveled against the United Nations.

He noted that critics have said the U.N. is inefficient and bureaucratic. He added that some of the charges are valid but that the U.N. is no less efficient than any other organization of its time.

Vraalsen said the United Nations can only be what its members want it to be. He said there is often the misconception that the U.N. is an independent organization; when it is instead an organization of independent states.

VRAALSEN SAID the multinational organization has successfully halted wars in the Middle East three times in the past and has often been the only recognized mediating party in many international disputes.

After Vraalsen's address, the students returned to the Grand Hyatt Hotel and broke up into their individual committees.

In their committees each delegation was expected to act as they would if they were really from the nation they were representing. To aid the students in this, meetings with actual diplomats were arranged for each group of students.

The remainder of the week was spent working in committee sessions where the students argued their nation's point of view. The final day of the conference was spent back in the U.N. complex where the delegates voted on the issues on which they had worked all week.

ACCORDING TO organizers of the conference, its purpose is to make "America more aware of the United Nations and its functions."

Students at the Model U.N. compete with each other for awards on their performances during the conference. This year schools like Wayne State against Boston University, Georgetown University, Princeton University and Columbia University.

Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota each sent one school to the conference while other states sent as many as eight schools, with some schools representing more than one nation.

O'Donnell said the experience his students gain from participating in the conference is the most important aspect of the trip. He said students learn more about themselves in the week they spend at the U.N. conference than they can anywhere else.

Boss of the year

CLIF GINN (center), head of the social science division, was voted "Boss of the Year" by members of the Wayne Education Office Personnel Association at Wayne State College recently. He was nominated by

faculty accomplishments

—MS. LIN BRUMMELS, director of academic counseling, has been selected to serve as the Nebraska State Chairperson to the National Academic Advising Association.

—DR. JOE FLECK, division head of education and head of graduate studies, served as president-elect of the Nebraska Association of Teacher Education during 1983-84 and was named president during the spring conference in Lincoln on April 6-7. Dr. Fleck chaired the planning committee for the conference which focused on the issue of recruitment in teacher education. Dr. Fleck also served as a panelist during the spring conference of the Nebraska Community School Association in Kearney. The topic was "Assisting Rural Schools Achieve Quality: The College's Role."

—DR. ALAN LUPACK, interim assistant professor of humanities, has had a short story, "The Basketball Game" accepted for publication in the "Occasional Review." His poem, "Wept Willow," will appear in a forthcoming issue of "Still Night," a literary journal published in Racine, Wis.

—DR. BOBBY LUPACK, associate professor of English, was recently elected president of CLASSIC, a consortium of learning and language skills faculty. The consortium includes members and guests from colleges in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota.

—DR. DONALD WHEISENHUNT, vice president, has been awarded a grant of $500 from the American Historical Association for research on "Origin of Utopian and Communal Groups during the Depression."

WSC choir to hold pre-Europe concert

The last appearances of the WSC Concert Choir prior to its departure for Europe on May 14 have been announced by Dr. Cornell Runestad, conductor.

Tomorrow (Friday) the singers will be presenting assembly concerts at Wisner-Pilger and Pender High Schools at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

The choir will appear at the 6 p.m. Mass at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne on Saturday evening, May 12.

On Sunday, May 13, they will perform at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services at First United Methodist Church in Norfolk. The choir will sing for more than 30 minutes at each service.

The 56 member choir will be departing for Europe on Monday,

May 14, and will present concerts in the Netherlands, France and Switzerland.

"Our European agent has just informed us that we have been scheduled to sing at the Notre-Dame Cathedral in Paris," Dr. Runestad announced. "We're thrilled at the opportunity to perform in one of the world's oldest and most famed cathedrals."

The choir is also the featured American choir at the Swiss National Song Festival in Erstfeld, Switzerland, where more than 60 Swiss choirs are gathered for five days of music making. The Wayne choir presents the Saturday evening concert at this Festival.

The choir will return home June 1.

Paris in the Spring
 Paris in the Spring has reached Wayne High and with it come promises for another successful Junior/Senior Prom.

This year's prom will be held on Friday in the high school gymnasium. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. Mrs. Joyce Niemann is the caterer and she will be assisted by parents of juniors and seniors.

The waitresses, headed by Trisha Frevert, are Lori Jacobson, Beth Janke, Roni Johnson, Lesa McDermott, Penny Paige, and Becky Pospisil. The waiters, headed by Danny Gross, are Scott Baker, Tim Fleming, Andy Hillier, Mark Janke, Don Larsen, and Jan-Mc-Cright.

At the banquet, Mr. Curt Frye, guidance counselor, will give a short speech, followed by the main speaker, County Attorney Bob Enz. After the banquet a dance is scheduled with live music provided by the Tracterz. Pictures will be taken at the prom by Jammer Photography, and the parents of the junior and senior class officers will chaperone.

Following the dance, the Blue Devils Booster Club is sponsoring an after prom party. The party will be held from 1 a.m. to 5 a.m. in Rice Auditorium. There will be music, snacks, prizes, games, breakfast, swimming, and a movie.

The theme for this year's prom is "Paris in the Spring." The decoration will be a surprise. There is no color scheme, simply springtime colors.

Months of hard work have been spent preparing for the Prom. The junior class raised money by selling jewelry, working in concession stands, and selling tickets for the booster club fish fry. Becky Kelley, the junior class sponsor, would like to thank Mr. Blenderman for his artistic help in creating the mural.

She is also grateful for all the effort and dedication that the juniors have put into this year's prom. She said, "I really compliment the juniors on all the hard work they put into it, and I'm sure they are going to have a very special prom. And a special thanks to Lisa Jacobson, president of the class."

Dissecting felines
 Wayne-Carroll students have been diligently dissecting furry felines during their Biology II class, under the supervision of Mr. Dale Hochstein. The class consists of seven students, six seniors and one junior.

The students compare the different body systems of the cat to those of the human body. All of the body systems are covered by the class.

Diseases and their effect on the systems of the body are also studied by the class. Symptoms of disease, cures for the disease, and the healing process of the disease after cured are also studied.

Mr. Hochstein said, "This is a good class to get people involved in with college prep situations. We do different things like have one person get up in front of the class and lecture for the whole class period without using notes. We also do a lot of lab situations."

What are the goals of the class?

1. To have a college prep setting with a lab and do research.
2. To obtain knowledge in medical fields such as veterinary medicine and dentistry.

Graduation Exercises will be held

"Reach high, for the stars lie hidden in your soul. Dream deep, for the dream precedes the goal." This is the class motto of the 1984 senior class of Wayne-Carroll High School. Sixty-nine seniors will graduate.

The commencement exercises will take place on Sunday, May 20 at 2 p.m. in the afternoon at Wayne State College. Weather permitting, the exercises will be held in the Willow Bowl. In case of inclement weather, graduation will take place at Rice Auditorium.

Four juniors have been elected by the senior class as ushers.

They are: Lisa Jacobson, Amy Jordan, Rod Lutt, and Chris Hillier.

Holes in ears latest craze
 Picture this situation. Dim lights. A potato. A gleaming needle, and a huge ice cube wrapped in a red-spattered washcloth. A young girl of Wayne-Carroll High age, faking bravery, yet with sweat beads dripping off the end of her nose.

"This agony is the price many girls pay to stick to the new ear-ring fads. Young women at Wayne High are choosing to puncture the lower parts of their ears. They, then often suffer the discomfort of weeks of infections or just plain sore ears.

However, the magic of modern technology has created the ever popular ear puncher. This hand-held device houses the earring, something pretty to be shown at the front of the ear, a sharp steel section to be impaled through the softest portion of the ear and a post to secure this insane attack.

Fads come and fads go, but that single hole or two or six holes in ears stay with you forever. Is nose piercing next? What about lip piercing? Beware of someone you thought to be friendly carrying such things as a cut potato, a needle, and a pretty washcloth in her pocket.

Be An Informed Voter!

In order to cast your vote for responsible government on Tuesday, May 15 here are 16 things to know about Senator Von Minden.

His personal efforts eliminated the unfair often unethical auto inspection sticker.

Reducing property taxes and limiting state spending are priority concerns of his.

He is a strong advocate favoring local decision making and less big government.

They said it couldn't be done, but his bill to reduce taxation on small race tracks kept ATOKAD open.

With his position on the important Judiciary Committee he has shown his belief in protecting the innocent public rather than extending the rights of criminals.

The National Federation of Independent Business and the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry have acclaimed his voting record as "perfect" or "near perfect."

He was named 1983 Legislator of the Year by a Nebraska organization for his votes on 57 different issues favoring financial responsibility, less government intervention in private lives, and for law and order.

He supported increased penalties for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

He was instrumental in eliminating the Drivers License examination for good drivers.

He has shown the ability to listen to varying viewpoints and has polled voters to learn their positions on major issues.

Experience on the Dixon County Board of Supervisors and the Allen Board of Education taught him how laws passed in Lincoln affect things here at home.

In education he supported increasing teacher retirement, improvements in work study programs and increases in vocational education training.

Contributions to his campaign have been limited so that any one interest group does not gain too much inappropriate influence.

He supported the Master's Degree program for Wayne State College.

He has been very active in efforts to reduce the abuses in Nebraska's social welfare programs.

Incoming water in an ordinary water heater
Doesn't create turbulence, allows harmful sediment to accumulate.

Incoming water in a State TURBO water heater
Creates a "vortex" of turbulence that keeps sediment in suspension.

State TURBO water heaters stay energy-efficient.

Sediments in the water supply tend to settle and build up inside a water heater tank. This buildup decreases the water heater's energy efficiency and increases your fuel bills. But State Industries' new TURBO water heaters are designed to keep sediment from accumulating, so they stay energy-efficient year after year. Make sure your next water heater is a State TURBO!

news briefs

Winside resident wins trees

Rodney Deck of Winside won 150 black locust, 50 red pines and 50 green ash trees in the "Trees for Nebraska" contest sponsored by KRVN Radio of Lexington.

The contest is sponsored each year to promote tree planting on farms and ranches. Farmers and ranchers become eligible to win by sending the station a letter describing how and where they would plant the trees.

Approximately 8,000 trees were given away to listeners through the contest. Deck was one of 20 all-large winners. There was one grand prize winner and there were eight district winners.

Local resident on honor society

Richard Harding, son of Judy McQuistan of rural Wayne, has been named to the presidential honor society at the DeVry Institute of Technology in Phoenix, Ariz.

To be eligible for the honor, students must have cumulative grade point averages of at least 3.5 after two or more terms of study. Harding, a student in electronics engineering technology, has a 3.9.

Wayne girl to graduate Kearney

Brenda Hansen of Wayne is one of 644 students who will receive diplomas at Kearney State College commencement exercises Friday (May 11).

She will receive her degree in dietetics.

Wayne man on NETV committee

A committee of 50 has been named to conduct a $2 million campaign to replace aging production equipment for the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Alan Cramer of Wayne is a member of that committee.

Pioneer Farm Family awards

Once again in 1984, the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben and the Nebraska Association of Fair Managers are combining their efforts to honor those Nebraska Pioneer Farm Families whose land has been owned by the same family for 100 years or more. This is the 29th year of such recognition.

All nominations for Pioneer Farm Family recognition must be submitted by May 15 to the secretary of the local county Fair board.

Throughout the years, 2,826 farm families have been honored at 70 county fairs as a result of this program.

Leon Meyer, Milligan, president of the association, and Orville Koch, Syracuse, secretary-treasurer, said that once again this year Ak-Sar-Ben will host the honored families at a banquet during Ak-Sar-Ben's 37th annual livestock exposition and rodeo, Sept. 19 through 30. The banquet will be held on Thursday, Sept. 20.

Honored families will receive from the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben an engraved walnut plaque and an aluminum gatepost marker for their farm. The Association of Fair Managers will present a special framed citation to each family.

WSC Biology Club plans car wash

Do you have a vehicle that is in dire need of a car wash? If so, you might want to stop at the Wayne State College Biology Club's car wash Sunday.

The car wash will be held from 12 noon until 6 p.m. at the Derby station in Wayne. Proceeds will help pay for the club's planned research trip to the Gulf of Mexico.

Scout paper drive is Saturday

Boy Scout Troop 174 will conduct its regular paper drive in Wayne Saturday. The drive will begin at 8:30 a.m. and residents should place bundles of paper at curbside.

Kiwanis honors banquet is Sunday

The highest ranking students in grades seven through 12 at Wayne Public Schools will be honored at the Wayne Kiwanis Club honors banquet Sunday.

Speaker will be Dr. Ursula Walsh, who serves as academic counselor for athletes at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Drug abuse workshop planned

Staff of the Nebraska Prevention Center for Alcohol and Drug Abuse will present a workshop on community organization for drug abuse prevention today (Thursday), at the Best Western Villa Inn in Norfolk. The workshop is open to laymen and professionals involved with (or trying to start) prevention programs in their communities.

There is no registration fee for this workshop, but registration is limited to 30 participants. Call 472-6046 or 472-6047 for more information.

Senior Legal Fair Saturday

How to make a will, protect yourself from consumer fraud, keep your mouth and teeth healthy, and maintain your health through a good diet are among the topics to be covered at the Senior Legal Fair, Saturday (May 12), from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. All northeast Nebraska and area senior citizens are welcome to attend the event in the Senior Citizens Nutritional Center, 1615 1st Avenue, South Sioux City.

Speakers for the event include representatives from Dr. Joseph L. Aitken, P.C., Dakota County State Bank, City of South Sioux City, Iowa Public Service, South Ridge Medical Clinic, P.C., First Lutheran Church, Joe Morten Insurance, Matney's Colonial Manor, Dennis J. Mahr, Lawyer, Deputy County Attorney of Dakota County and Horneber Law Offices.

Free coffee and doughnuts will be served. Lunch will be available at a nominal cost, and transportation arrangements may be arranged through area Senior Citizens Centers in your town or village. There is no charge to attend the fair.

For further information contact William Horneber or Debra Murgock at 494-2422 or Donie Erickson at 494-1500.

Next week is state CPR week

Governor Robert Kerrey has proclaimed May 13-19 as Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation Week in Nebraska. The National Conference on Citizen CPR will be held in Omaha next week.

CPR instructors, administrators and others interested in attending should contact Dr. Richard Moore at the Center for Continuing Education, University of Nebraska Medical Center, 42nd and Dewey Avenue, Omaha 68105 or 559-4152.

Kiwanis elects new officers

The Wayne Kiwanis Club elected new officers who will take over duties next fall.

Kenneth Berglund will be president. Jack Middendorf will be president-elect. John Dorcey will serve as vice president and directors are Pat Gross, Francis Haun and Gary Van Meter.

Airman Daniel A. Churilla, son of Helen J. Churilla of Lincoln, and Albert M. Churilla of Wayne, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is a 1981 graduate of Piux X High School, Lincoln.

obituaries

Wendall Hanson

Wendall Hanson, 33, of Jacksonville, Fla. had a fatal fishing accident on Sunday, May 6, 1984 at a lake 50 miles from his home. The body was recovered Tuesday morning.

Services are pending in Florida. Wendall was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W.E. (Bud) Hanson of Concord.

Andrew (Rex) Fisher

Andrew (Rex) Fisher, 58, former Allen resident, died Wednesday, April 25, 1984 at Huntington Beach, Calif.

Services were held Friday, April 27 at Brothers Mortuary in Long Beach, Calif.

Andrew Fisher was born Oct. 24, 1926 at Waukegan, Iowa. He married Beverly Jean Hodges on June 1, 1947. He managed co-ops throughout the state of Nebraska. He was manager of the Allen Co-op before moving to California several years ago.

Survivors include his wife, Beverly; one daughter, Mrs. Cathy Danielson of Sacramento, Calif.; two sons, Craig Fisher of Santa Cruz, Calif. and Jeffrey Fisher of Long Beach, Calif.; two sisters; four brothers; and seven grandchildren. Burial was in the Veterans Administration Cemetery in Riverside, Calif. with full military honors.

...as lovely as a tree

A tree is one of the most common objects in the world, yet trees create images that we often take for granted or don't even notice. The pictures displayed here provide some images that often go unnoticed. The wet spring has created a swampy look (top photo) around some trees near Laurel. Special effects produced this unusual image (photo immediately above) of a large tree near Wayne. Light of a full moon on a cloudy evening, and some supplemental light from a strobe, produced an unusual-looking image (center right) at the Wayne city ball park. Closeups of bark and roots add an unusual texture (photos at right) to the picture page.

June 25 deadline set

Pesticide dealers throughout Nebraska who sell restricted use pesticides have until June 25 to file a one-time report with the regional office of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The applicator's certificate number, issuing state, certification expiration date, and for commercial applicators, the categories in which the individual is certified.

— The product name, EPA registration number and, where applicable, state special local need registration number.

— Quantity of pesticide purchased.

— Date of transaction.

Gold said the following information must be recorded:

— Applicator's name and address of his/her residence or principal place of business.

— The applicator's certificate number, issuing state, certification expiration date, and for commercial applicators, the categories in which the individual is certified.

— The product name, EPA registration number and, where applicable, state special local need registration number.

— Quantity of pesticide purchased.

— Date of transaction.

IN CASES INVOLVING sales to a noncertified person, the dealer must record:

— Names of both the noncertified person purchasing the pesticide and the certified applicator who will use the pesticide and the addresses of either their residence or principal place of business.

— The same elements of information as described in the second through fifth items above.

Similarly, the rule does not apply to pesticide dealers who sell or distribute only general use pesticides. However, if a pesticide applicator also acts as a restricted use pesticide dealer, he must report to EPA in accordance with federal regulations, Gold said. "The regulations allow only 10 days for filing revisions to the initial report."

Gold said individuals affected by the new rules who have questions about them should contact C.E. Poindexter, Toxic and Pesticides Section, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region VII, 324 E. 17th St., Kansas City, Mo. 64106; telephone (816) 374-3036.

Big drinking hole

THESE CATTLE don't have far to go to find a drinking hole. Their cattle lot looks more like a lake after consistent rains this spring.

Many grains can be used as feed

A number of extension agents around Nebraska have fielded questions from cattle feeders on the nutritional and economic factors of using various grains, in various combinations, in rations without sacrificing feedlot performance.

Two questions commonly asked recently are:

1. What is the least cost ration for finishing between milo, corn and ear corn at current prices?

THESE ARE difficult questions to answer.

The level of any grain to be fed in finishing diets is based not only on its nutritional characteristics but also on its price and availability relative to other feeds. The price and availability of corn is fairly uniform across the state; however, the price and availability of milo, ear corn, wheat and oats varies considerably. Milo is more abundant in southeastern and southwestern Nebraska, whereas, wheat is more abundant in the Panhandle.

Wheat also can increase the chance of acidosis; therefore, its use should be restricted to 40 percent of the ration dry matter. Oats and ear corn supplies tend to be located in small quantities in various parts of Nebraska. Thus, transportation costs become very important (10 to 50 cents per bushel).

Because ear corn (80 percent grain, 20 percent cob) has both an energy and roughage value, its value is also dependent upon the value of roughages (corn silage and alfalfa hay in particular).

Moisture content is also important. Different grains are sold on different moisture bases. Do not get caught buying water, when purchasing any feed, know the price and moisture level of your feed.

IN SUMMARY, when determining the grains to feed, remember the following points:

1. Know the price, moisture content and availability of the grain. Nutrient analysis is also useful if it can be obtained.
2. Know the price of related feedstuffs.
3. Know your transportation costs.
4. Know your feed limitations — limit wheat to 40 percent of the ration dry matter.
5. Feed combinations of grains to improve animal performance, especially when feeding wheat.

Growing degree days are behind normal

Despite the gradually warming soil temperatures in most areas of Nebraska, all but two climate reporting stations indicate below normal growing degree days for cool season crops, the Agricultural Climate Situation Committee of the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service was told in Lincoln Monday (April 30).

Growing degree days (GDD) are determined by subtracting a base temperature (40 degrees Fahrenheit for cool season crops) from the daily average temperature at a given location, according to Ralph Neild, NU extension climatologist.

The concept of GDD indicates the relationship of temperature to crop development based on two premises: 1. There is a base temperature below which crops will not grow; and 2. The rate of growth increases as temperatures increase above that base, Neild said.

KEN HUBBARD, NU extension climate resources specialist, told the committee there may be only a slow improvement in the GDD situation, since both the short and long range forecasts for Nebraska suggest continued below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation.

Below normal temperatures will delay crop development and may result in delayed maturity of long season hybrids, Neild said. "Farmers need to be aware of the GDD situation in their own areas," he said.

The cold, wet weather has held back the development of pasture grass, NU extension beef specialist Paul Guyer told the committee, and cow-calf operators should realize there's "not much to eat out there." Additional hay, forage or supplemental grain should probably be supplied in most cases, he said. "Cool weather also tends to precipitate grass tetany," and operators may want to consider magnesium supplement for their livestock.

NU extension soils specialist Don Sander said Nebraska farmers should consider using starter fertilizer, put down at planting time, regardless of soil test results. "We have a situation where soils are cooler than usual and wetter than usual," he said. "Studies in Wisconsin, where poorly drained soils are more typical than in Nebraska, have shown that increased yields can result from use of starter fertilizer." "But," he said, "they should also take row spacing into consideration, since ammonia stays in its original form longer in cool, damp soil." Sander added that row spacing is even more important in minimum tillage situations.

Grosses have much nutrition potential

When used to complement cool-season grasses, warm-season grasses provide the nutritious growth lacking in many pasture programs, according to Bruce Anderson, University of Nebraska extension forage specialist.

"Problems with establishment and management are being replaced by new methods and success stories," he said, "and scientist and cattlemen alike are 'rediscovering' that grasses like switchgrass, big bluestem and indiangrass have great potential as summer pastures."

While warm-season grasses won't replace cool-season grasses, they will provide excellent grazing in summer to complement the cool-season species. "Cool-season grasses make up 60 percent of their growth before June 1," he said. "A pasture program that combines warm and cool-season grasses can improve grazing efficiency by leveling out the distribution of grass growth over the entire season."

DURING SUMMER, gains of livestock grazing warm-season grasses can be much higher than if cool-season grasses are grazed, Anderson said. "A University of Nebraska study has shown that steers grazing cool-season grasses in spring and fall and warm-season grasses in summer gained 38 percent more weight from April to late September than steers that grazed only cool-season grasses."

Historically, warm-season grasses have been difficult to establish, often taking three to five years to get a good stand, seed has been expensive and management poorly understood. "But," Anderson said, "these problems no longer prevent the use of these grasses. Researchers have developed rapid establishment techniques and now know how to manage these grasses. More seed is being produced, and improved varieties are being developed." A good stand can be established in only one to two years.

Anderson offered the following tips in establishing a good stand:

- Do not mix warm and cool season grasses in the same pasture. They are difficult to manage when mixed.
- Plant single species of warm season grasses, especially switchgrass, whenever possible. Switchgrass matures earlier than other warm season species and is more efficiently managed as a monoculture.
- Apply lime, phosphorus and potassium before seeding only if soil tests demonstrate a need. Do not use nitrogen at seeding because it will stimulate weed growth.
- Use a drill designed to seed warm-season grasses. Switchgrass can be seeded with a standard grain drill, but special grassland drills are needed to seed fluffy grasses like big bluestem unless the seed has been "debearded."
- Control weeds in seedings of switchgrass or big bluestem by seeding early and using atrazine preemergence. If weeds become a problem, clip them when they begin to shade new seedlings. The most frequent cause of seeding failure and slow establishment of warm season grasses is poor weed control.

Do not use companion or "nurse" crops.

Hasten establishment by using atrazine the following spring. All warm season grasses tolerate atrazine after they have been established and survive one winter.

WARM-SEASON grasses perform better on weathered soils that are low in native fertility compared to cool-season grasses. They are more efficient in use of available moisture and fertility, Anderson said. "They do respond to fertilizer, and both nitrogen and phosphate are needed to produce optimum forage yields."

If soils have moderate or higher levels of phosphate, only nitrogen is needed. "But,"

Anderson warned, "be careful when nitrogen is applied to warm season grasses: early spring and fall fertilizing can stimulate weeds and reduce stands. So can excessive rates of nitrogen. Fertilize moderately in late spring when grasses are about six inches tall."

The key to profitable use of warm season grasses is proper grazing management," he said. "Production will be reduced by overgrazing. Warm season grasses need longer rest periods following close grazing or haying than cool season grasses."

At stubble heights of 10 inches or more, enough leaves usually remain to permit continuous grazing, but rotational grazing nearly always increases production, he said.

ANDERSON SUGGESTED planning grazing management at the time of seeding. "Maturity differences and the associated management problems can be avoided when planting is properly planned." The NU forage specialist said the following should be included in planting plans:

- Seed switchgrass in pure stands only. Later maturing grasses can be seeded in pure or mixed stands. About two acres of late maturing warm-season grasses are needed to balance each acre of switchgrass.
- Graze switchgrass when grass gets 10 inches tall. Stock heavily to graze it down to 4 inches in three weeks, then remove all livestock for at least a 6 week regrowth period.
- Graze the later maturing grasses during those 6 weeks. Leave 6 to 8 inches of stubble at all times, especially if grazing continuous rather than in rotation.
- Switch grass regrowth can be grazed next. Use 1 until 8 inches of stubble remains.
- Warm-season grasses are making a comeback in pastures throughout the western and southern cornbelt," Anderson said.

Plan for increasing calf crop would aid beef industry

The weakest link in beef industry efficiency appears to result from the low percentage of calves weaned per cow herd.

While it's difficult to find accurate data on our calf crop weaned, in Nebraska it is probably about 80 percent and nationwide somewhat less. Increasing this level 5 percent or perhaps even 10 percent is the quickest way to boost herd profits in many cow herds in the state. This could be achieved in most cases with very little additional dollar input.

Closer attention to the details of management will be the major input. Fitting production programs to feed, equipment and labor supplies, close attention to disease prevention and control and other measures.

BUT IF WE WERE successful in increasing calf crop by 5 to 10 percent nationwide, the additional calves could create a "spare" or "surplus" supply demand balance. Conceding this possibility, increasing calf crop percentage need not increase total number of calves produced.

Let's use nine cows to do the work of 10 that were kept before improved management practices are or were put into practice. It may be difficult to increase calf crop in many herds. But, combining with practices which increase weaning weight, most herds should be able to use nine cows to produce the equivalent total return of 10 under today's average management practices.

Some key signs for the need for improved management include:

- Weak calves at birth. Inadequate nutrition the last 60 days before calving can be the cause. If cows are in very thin condition, inadequate energy-protein nutrition could be involved. Otherwise, inadequate Vitamin A and/or phosphorus are the most likely causes. If only a few calves are weak, suspect disease involvement as the likely cause.
- Cows calve late or are open in adequate nutrition before or after calving. Inadequate body power or disease may be involved. If calves are strong and healthy at birth pre-calving nutrition is not likely to be the major problem. If the heavy milking cows are the ones that calve late or are open, suspect inadequate nutrition from calving to breeding.
- If you decide that this is a cause, then you must evaluate whether it is more profitable to de-emphasize milk production or feed a higher level of nutrition from calving to breeding. Bulls may be less active than desirable or have low fertility or be too few for the number of cows to be bred. Diseases which may be involved are vibriosis, trichomoniasis or brucellosis.
- Calf death loss is high during the calving season. Many factors may be the key cause, including:
  1. Inadequate attention and assistance at calving. 2. Sires used transmit too heavy birth weights. 3. Scours or other diseases. 4. Stormy weather.

The cause needs to be identified and steps taken to minimize losses from these factors in the future.

Cow death loss There are many causes of cow death loss. A record of causes of death should be kept and management designed to minimize or eliminate that which occurs with greatest frequency. In many herds major death losses are caused by nutrition related disorders such as: nitrate poisoning, magnesium (grass) tetany, bloat, rumen compaction (when extremely low quality roughages fed without proper supplementation). Occasionally cattle die of starvation but this is likely only following a period of very low feed intake.

Lightweight calves at weaning Lightweight calves are the result of poor nutrition due to either genetic or inadequate cow (feed) or genetically low growth rate. Genetic involvement can be corrected by selection of replacement bulls. If low milk production in cows is due to inadequate pasture, two avenues are available to correct this problem: 1. Renovate and/or fertilize pastures to provide more feed during the inadequate season. 2. Wean calves early so they can be fed adequately until their normal weaning date.

4-h news

Gingham Gals The Gingham Gals 4-H club met May 1 at the Grace Lutheran Church.

Christy Heinemann called the meeting to order. Roll call was answered by naming your favorite flower. Fifteen members attended and six mothers. The meeting began by giving the pledges.

Mrs. Sandahl congratulated the eight girls who gave speeches at the county contest. Reports were also given by the eight girls who attended "Fun and Learning Day" at Winside. Girls were reminded of events coming up this summer.

The club has been asked to sing at the Wayne Care Centre, and will do so after the next meeting, which will be held at 2 p.m. on June 5.

Karmyn Koenig gave a demonstration on "Fancy Folds" and Marsha Von Seggern gave a speech. The group practiced songs for the song contest and discussed outfits. Hostess Jennifer Chapman served lunch.

Margo Sandahl, news reporter.

Meetings will be held in the evening the rest of the summer.

Ann Meier hearty gave a demonstration on "The Use of Color".

Matt and Bobby Stoffel gave talks on the "Selection of Hogs for Breeding".

Russel Puls showed a film strip on "Making the Best Beef". He also led a discussion on Record Books.

Mark Stoffel gave a demonstration on the uses of various tools for laking care of baby pigs.

Refreshments were served by Cammy and Tad Behmer.

The next meeting will be on Monday evening, June 11 at 8 p.m. at the Hoskins Public School.

Holly Neitzke, news reporter.

Four of our five new members, Sonya Plueger, Shawna Hohenslein, Jan Kavanaugh and Alyssa McGraf were initiated into the club and received a 4-H symbol.

Lunch was served by Shawna and Todd Hohenstein, along with Mark, Shanon and Michelle Isom.

Lesson for the next meeting will be by Jeanne Warner. Games will be by Mitch Pettit and Ryan Creamer. Demonstrations by Ryan Creamer, Jeanne Warner, Mark Isom, Mitch Pettit and David Isom. Lunch will be served by Jay and Ben Jackson and Jan and Tammy Kavanaugh.

Next meeting will be May 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Northeast Station.

Renee Plueger, news reporter.

WRANGLERS On Wednesday, April 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Northeast Station was the Wranglers 4-H meeting.

The secretary's report was given with 18 members and nine guests. The treasurer's report was given.

We decided to table the club tour until the next meeting. The lesson was given by Sonya Plueger and Shawna Hohenstein on rabbit showmanship.

Games were by Jan Kavanaugh, Leslie Isom and Jenny Lee. Speeches were given by Sonya Plueger, "The Cow Committee," Jan Kavanaugh, "My Trip to Alamogordo at Bracketville, Texas," and Renee Plueger, "Des Moines or Bust". They will be held in the evening the rest of the summer.

Ann Meier hearty gave a demonstration on "The Use of Color".

Plastic mulch in the garden Using black plastic mulch in the home vegetable garden can reduce the amount of labor involved in gardening. It helps in controlling weeds and grasses by preventing sunlight from reaching weed and grass seedlings.

It also helps conserve plant nutrients by preventing them from leaching through the soil.

Use of black plastic mulch results in good soil structure by preventing crusting and compaction by rain. Injury to roots is avoided because there is no need to cultivate close to the plants.

Plastic mulch also helps to reduce fruit rots on crops like tomatoes and cucumbers, by preventing direct contact with the soil. Another advantage is heat absorption. In early spring, plastic mulch raises soil temperature three to five degrees higher than bare soil and can result in earlier yields.

One disadvantage is that nut grass will grow right through it and can lead to even greater infestation.

Garden rows should be thoroughly prepared, fertilized, firmed and moist enough for planting before the plastic is laid.

The most common width of plastic mulch for home gardens is three feet, but it is available in widths up to five feet. To lay the plastic, dig a trench at each end of the row and along each side of the row. Roll the plastic down the row, placing edges in the trench. Place soil from the trench on the edge of the plastic to secure it.

When ready to plant, cut slits or punch holes in the mulch at desired intervals. Dig a hole for the transplant or, if seeds are to be planted, work the soil in the opening before planting. A bulb planter is excellent for this chore.

Vegetables grown successfully using black plastic mulch include tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, squash, cucumbers, watermelons and cantaloupes.

To add fertilizer, especially a nitrogen sidedressing, punch holes between plants and place one to two teaspoons of ammonium nitrate in each hole, or sidedress in the middle of the rows and work into the soil and irrigate.

When irrigation is necessary after planting, dam up the ends of the rows and flood the middles. This allows water to soak under the plastic. Gardeners should not allow the soil under the plastic to dry before irrigation, because it's very difficult to get the soil moist again after that.

A recent development known as "trickle" or "drip" irrigation, which consists of a water hose with pin holes in at intervals, has proven to be a very practical way of irrigating under plastic mulch.

4-H scholarships available for 1984-85

Approximately 30 4-H scholarships worth $21,100 are available to high school and college students needing help in financing their college educations, said Nancy Wagner, University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service 4-H project assistant.

Past or current 4-H members can apply for any of these scholarships offered by state and national donors. She said the application deadline for the scholarships is Aug. 15, unless otherwise indicated. Following is a list of available scholarships, the number awarded, the dollar amount to be awarded and special requirements:

Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Scholarship. One $150 scholarship to an incoming freshman enrolling in any college or trade school located in Lincoln.

— KFAB Radio Scholarship. Two $250 scholarships to top individuals in the State 4-H Public Speaking Contest.

— Union Pacific Railroad Scholarship. Twenty $500 scholarships to incoming freshmen whose home counties are served by the railroad. Approximately half of these scholarships will go to 4-H members, the others will go to Future Farmer of America members.

— Gertrude L. Warren Career Scholarship. One $750 scholarship offered on a national basis to incoming freshmen enrolling in an accredited college or trade school.

— Edwin T. Meredith Foundation Scholarship. One $1,000 scholarship to incoming freshmen in 15 states who are enrolling in accredited colleges or universities.

— Alpha Gamma Rho Scholarship. One $1,000 scholarship offered on a national basis to an incoming freshman planning to major in agriculture, forestry, veterinary medicine or closely related fields.

— Dekalb Agresearch Inc. Scholarship. Four $1,000 scholarships offered in 48 states to incoming freshmen planning agricultural careers who have past or current 4-H record work in agricultural programs.

— Chicago and North Western

Association Scholarship. Six $1,000 scholarships offered on a national basis to incoming freshmen planning to pursue a degree in home economics or a closely related field. To qualify for his scholarship, the student must have completed one year of dairy goat 4-H project.

— R. B. Warren Scholarship. A new scholarship, worth $1,000 to be given to one student or divided between two students active in the horse program. Application deadline for this scholarship is June 15.

— Champion Valley Farms Inc. Scholarship. One $1,000 scholarship offered on a national basis to students enrolled in a College of Veterinary Medicine at one of 26 universities in the United States.

— American Dairy Goat

Association Scholarship. Six $1,000 scholarships offered on a national basis to incoming freshmen planning to pursue a degree in home economics or a closely related field. To qualify for his scholarship, the student must have completed one year of dairy goat 4-H project.

— R. B. Warren Scholarship. A new scholarship, worth $1,000 to be given to one student or divided between two students active in the horse program. Application deadline for this scholarship is June 15.

— National Winners. Most nationally sponsored 4-H projects select the top six or more 4-H members as national winners. National winners receive college scholarships of various amounts. Only state winners in these project areas are eligible.

— University 4-H Club. Members of this organization are eligible for other college scholarships.

For further information on these and other scholarships, contact your county extension agent for application forms, filing dates and details of the selection process. Wagner said.

In addition to applying for 4-H scholarships, Wagner suggested visiting the financial aids office at your college. "You may qualify for grants, scholarships or low interest loans from other sources," she said.

4-H teens write for peers

Cynthia Waide of Winslow was among 26 older teens and former 4-Hers who contributed stories to the first edition of "4-H Teens Today," a newspaper designed to tell Nebraska teens about opportunities for them in 4-H.

Edited by Sandy Heng of York, Gail Steenson of Wolbach and Ward Utter of Kenesaw, 4-H Teens Today includes youth viewpoints about teen programs offered by Nebraska 4-H. Also included in the newspaper are registration information, dates and other details for becoming involved in these special activities.

Copies of the paper have been sent to each Cooperative Extension Service office for distribution to county teens. Copies also will be available at state and district 4-H teen events. The 4-H Awareness Team will be promoting the newspaper, along with radio and newspaper publicity. Copies also will be provided to each county 4-H council.

Field scout training scheduled

University of Nebraska extension specialists have scheduled three training sessions for field scouts during May.

Lloyd Andersen, NU extension entomologist, said field scouts are hired by individual producers or agricultural consultants to make insect and weed observations in fields during the growing season.

The training sessions are also open to seedsmen, fertilizer and chemical dealers and elevator operators, he said.

The field scout meetings will be at the UNL East Campus Union on May 16, the NU North Platte Station on May 18 and the NU Northeast Station at Concord on May 23.

All sessions begin with 8 a.m. registration and conclude by mid-afternoon.

4-H members are needed

Do you have youngsters ages 8 to 18 interested in 4-H, but don't know how to get them started? If so, the Dixon County Extension Service wants to know about you.

Several Dixon County clubs would like to have new members. Your youngster may want to join one of these clubs. Also, you may be able to join with other families to start a new club. About one-fifth of the eligible youngsters in Nebraska are involved in 4-H, and more than 100 projects are designed to appeal to both urban and rural youth.

4-H members are involved in program which encourages both individual growth and group cooperation. 4-H members learn how to exhibit projects at the county fair, and are eligible to enter 4-H competition. They learn how to follow the rules, but also to express their individualism. 4-H helps develop confidence, cooperation and a sense of self worth.

Most 4-H activities take place in the summer, and parents are encouraged to be involved along with their youngsters.

Enrollment deadline is June 1. If you are interested in 4-H, or know a youngster who is, contact the Dixon County Extension Office, Northeast Station, Concord, or call 584-2234.

Grain mixtures improve finishing cattle performance

By Rick Stock
Extension beef specialist
University of Nebraska

The number 1 nutritional disorder in feedlot is acidosis. Acidosis is the sickness that occurs when cattle consume too much grain.

Starch, which is the main component of grains, is digested primarily in the rumen. This results in the production of acids which make the animal sick, causing low feed intake and reduced animal performance and possible death. Other problems which are associated with acidosis include sudden death syndrome, polio enceph-halomalacia (brainers), founder, off-feed syndrome, liver abscess, foot and hoof problems in dairy and clostridial infections.

Grains can be categorized by their rate of starch digestion in the rumen. Wheat, barley and high moisture corn (ground and stored in a bunker) are digested rapidly and extensively in the rumen, with only a small amount reaching the small intestine. This rapid digestion can result in acidosis. Milo, on the other hand, is digested slowly in the rumen and a greater proportion of the starch reaches the small intestine to digest starch.

HOWEVER, TOO much milo can overload the capacity of the small intestine to digest starch. Thus, feeding a mixture of rapidly digesting grains (wheat, barley, high moisture corn) and slowly digesting grains (milo, whole shelled corn) should increase animal performance.

We have used high moisture corn (25-30 percent moisture, ground and stored in a bunker) as our rapidly digesting grain and either dry rolled milo, whole shelled corn or dry rolled corn as our "slowly digesting" grain. Feeding a combination of 50 75 percent high moisture corn with 50 25 percent dry whole shelled corn has improved animal gains (4.5 percent) compared to feeding high moisture corn only.

Compared to 100 percent high moisture corn, 100 percent whole shelled corn, this combination has also improved feed conversion 6.5 percent and 6 percent, respectively. The best response has been during the initial 28 days or during the time period when cattle are changing from forage diets to high grain diets. Daily gain and feed conversion have been improved 12 percent during this initial period. Cattle fed mixtures of high moisture corn and dry rolled milo or old (2, 3, 4 years old) high moisture corn and old damaged (sample grade) corn have gained faster and more efficiently than cattle fed any of these sources alone.

The use of grain mixtures is not limited just to combinations of high moisture corn and dry corn or milo. Cattle fed at 50-50 combination of whole and cracked corn have been shown to gain faster and more efficiently than cattle fed whole or cracked corn, separately. With present grain market conditions, the feeding of wheat has become practical in certain areas.

Because of its high potential to cause acidosis, most veterinary recommendations have been to limit wheat to 40 percent or 50 percent of the ration dry matter. Feeding dry rolled milo or whole shelled corn with wheat should reduce the chance of acidosis.

Feeding grain mixtures will not solve all the problems related to acidosis. Environment and management still play a major role in affecting cattle performance. However, feeding the proper grain mixtures will allow a producer the opportunity to improve animal performance while decreasing input costs.

Diversity marks state's patterns

Diversity is a word often used when comparing one area of Nebraska to another. The state's variety of topography, soil types and consistency and water table levels has been well documented. Perhaps less well documented, but publicly at least, is the state's diversity of weather patterns.

A look at weather statistics gathered over 50 years and compiled by University of Nebraska extension crop specialist, Don Hanway provides an insight into weather averages for given parts of the state.

The greatest difference in weather averages in the state generally occurs between the extreme northwest and the extreme southeast, the same two areas that have the extremes in elevation — 840 feet above sea level in the southeast corner to 5,300 feet in the northwest.

THE HIGHEST annual average precipitation in the state is in the southeast, with 36.29 inches at Falls City. The lowest average annual amount is 14.57 inches in the northwest at Scottsbluff. And there are increments in between: Lincoln, 28.1 inches; Albion, 26.21 inches; and North Platte, 19.90 inches. The diversity of weather patterns is also evident when looking at a shorter period of time.

Even during a time when all eight state reporting divisions had above average rainfall, the Southeast had more than the northwest: from April 1 to April 20, 1984, the northwest division had 2.65 inches compared to their average for the period of 1.02 inches, the southeast had 3.88 compared to their 1.67 average.

The shorter the time frame considered, the more likely for discrepancies to be noted. From April 1 to 20, the northeast division had the most precipitation — 4.77 inches compared to their average of 1.54.

THE AVERAGE number of freeze-free days per year in the northwest is 120. The extreme southeast corner of the state has an average of 170 freeze-free days, with one small pocket in the southeast and another in the east central averaging 180 frost-free days.

Based on averages over the years, you can expect the last spring freeze on April 25 if you live in the southeast — or on April 20 if you live in one of those two pockets. The last date of spring freeze in the northwest is May 20, with a small pocket as late as May 25.

Chances of possible freeze after May 1 are 30 percent in the southeast and 90 percent in the northwest.

Chances for early fall freeze are also better in the northwest, with an average first freeze date of Sept. 20 compared to Oct. 15 in the southwest. The probability of freeze by Oct. 1 is 10 percent in the southeast and 80 percent in the northwest, with a small pocket in the Panhandle at 90 percent.

the farmer's wife

My Mom is celebrating Mother's Day by retiring, and we are all celebrating with her. She is probably the most efficient person I know, and the best penny pincher.

Mom was never plentiful on the farm north of Waco. At first, it was the egg money that bought groceries and shoes.

SHE MADE ALL our clothes, coats included. My first purchased coat came from the catalogue when I was in seventh grade, and I can remember the day it arrived at the mail box. It was green, with a hood, and it smelled so good.

Then, when my little sis started school, Mom rode with a car load of people who worked at the York egg plant.

The advantage to this job was that they laid off in the late summer, so Mom always had time to dress chickens and preserve what she had raised in a huge garden. This included a strawberry patch that, in my eyes, had no borders. Mom's therapy is pulling weeds.

But I spent a few weeks working at that egg plant, and it was a tough way to earn bucks. I stood on a cement floor, at a stainless steel tray, breaking eggs into a stainless steel container. I did not eat eggs the whole time.

EVENTUALLY, MY parents moved to Lincoln and my Dad was a guard at the penitentiary. Mom started at Russell Stover's. We all liked this job best because she could buy "seconds" cheap. To this day, we are very biased in favor of that brand of candy.

Neither of my parents had the opportunity to go to high school. Consequently, they were big on higher education. At our house, it was not, "If you go to college," but "when you go to college."

This Mother of mine acquired a high school diploma with a GED in her middle years. Then she took a Civil Service exam and applied at the VA hospital as a nurse assistant. She's been there for 16 years, and now she's going to turn in her mometers and uniforms.

She learned to swim in the Blue River, but took swim lessons as an adult, too. Now she swims at least once a week, and I gave her a new suit for her birthday. It's a size smaller than mine. My Sis got her a jogging suit.

When she bought her house, there was not a plant in the yard. First, she spaded up a part of the back for the garden. Then she planted roses, shrubs, and flowers all over. Everything has been redecorated, recaptured, repainted, insulated, and resided.

SHE'S A CREATIVE cook who reads cook books for fun. She follows Big Red football and basketball, and gets into baseball in the summer. She also loves to fish.

She finds time to visit shut-ins, and run errands for them; and belongs to a Bible study group. She keeps the arthritic fingers limber with crocheting Granny squares.

"When we were small, she cleaned out the brooder house for a play house. She made doll clothes and blankets. She sang "From This Valley They Say You Are Going" and "When It's Lamp Lighting Time in the Valley."

She saw to it we got to Sunday School, 4-H, and piano lessons. She gave us good values, a sense of humor, and encouragement to do what we wanted to.

I saw some travel brochures laying by her phone the last time I was there. I hope she gets to take lots of trips. I pray she'll be around to spoil her great grandchildren.

When she sees this, she's going to have a fit. She's my biggest fan, and I want to say publicly that I love her and appreciate all that she's done for me.

Happy Mother's Day Mom, and Happy Retirement. And, yes, you will still get a gift!

With egg prices high, many may enter industry

If you have been wondering why egg prices are high lately, a University of Nebraska extension poultry specialist has the answers.

Earl Gleaves said the egg industry has been overproducing for four years, but this stopped about eight months ago. At the time there was a severe disease outbreak in Pennsylvania that 7 1/2 million layers had to be killed.

"This shortage of supply caused egg prices to stay high and probably will keep them there for the next six months or until a new pullet crop is grown," Gleaves said.

BUT THESE HIGH prices may not last for long, he added.

With egg prices high, Gleaves said many people are interested in raising layers. "Everybody wants to get in, that's the natural thing because egg prices are good," he said. Gleaves added that the egg industry seems to thrive on marginal conditions and if the industry could keep supplies down now, egg prices would stabilize at the higher level.

Gleaves said producers who have been out of the industry may want to return. Those returning to the egg industry need to be cautious, Gleaves warned.

"Make sure," as an egg producer, that you are located where there is a ready market," he said. Gleaves said there is not a market in the western half of Nebraska, forcing the producer to go to Colorado or eastern Nebraska. Transportation can be a serious problem, he said, and finding a buyer who wants to handle the eggs after they've traveled so far is hard.

Production costs also are a concern to producers. "Feed prices are high, so even though egg prices are good, the margin of profit is not as great as it might appear on the surface," he said.

Production costs should be watched carefully because they can easily get out of hand, he said.

Gleaves said the turnover of money and capital in the egg business is very rapid, which makes it a good cash flow business. "If you're competitive and enter into the business in the right way, it can definitely be an enterprise that can help the farm income picture," he said. "In the egg industry, there's a good possibility of getting a contract, which is a good way of getting into the business."

Conservation plan 264,000 acres to be retired

More than a quarter million acres of highly erodible land will be retired from crop production for five to 10 years by producers who signed up for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's acreage conservation reserve program, Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block announced recently.

The program was among several new initiatives announced last December to encourage more farmers and ranchers to reduce soil erosion and improve natural resources. The 264,000 acres enrolled in the program are classified as highly erodible meaning the land is eroding at least twice the tolerance level. On the average, a loss of up to five tons per acre is considered tolerable.

"I AM VERY pleased that farmers and ranchers are willing to make this long-term commitment," Block said. "This means that our special conservation program could conserve millions of tons of topsoil on the 264,000 acres over the next several years."

To be eligible for consideration for acreage conservation reserve funds, farmers must be enrolled in a 1984 commodity program requiring an acreage reduction. Under the program, the government will provide 90 percent of the cost for planting grass or trees rather than crops on highly erodible land.

Block said the special program also will help determine the effectiveness of combining a useful short-term commodity program objective with a long-term conservation objective.

"It will give USDA and the Congress a chance to evaluate the willingness of farmers and other landowners to make a long-term commitment to retire highly erodible cropland," Block said.

BLOCK SAID he expects a conservation effort to be a very strong part of the future of agriculture, both in government and in the private sector.

"The subject also must be addressed in the 1985 farm bill. We must seriously question the extent to which farm commodity and credit programs sometimes encourage row-crop production on highly erodible lands," he said.

The 12 states with the largest acreages enrolled in the acreage conservation reserve program are Missouri, 32,769 acres; Iowa, 20,700; Oklahoma, 17,724; Texas, 17,557; North Dakota, 17,372; Montana, 16,501; Illinois, 12,807; Nebraska, 12,338; Idaho, 10,068; Minnesota, 9,938; Michigan, 9,322; and Tennessee, 9,112.

CANDY STRIPERS

A candy stripper recognition day was held at the Wakefield Health Care Center the afternoon of April 30. The girls who were presented certificates were Jennifer Lunz, Melinda Rischmueller, Buffany Blecke, Wendy Kratke, Jennifer Neal, Renee Nixon and Jennifer Gustafson. Mrs. Martha Svoboda was the supervisor of the candy stripper program.

The program was started in December, 1978. Since that time there have been 43 girls in the program. They have served a total of more than 7,506 hours.

Jennifer Gustafson has served for three years with a total of 428 hours. This is the most hours any candy stripper has earned.

Jennifer Lunz has been a stripper for two years and has served 217 hours and Buffany Blecke also has served two years and worked 110 hours.

LUTHERAN CIRCLES

Eleven members of the Salem

Lutheran Church Circle 1 met at the fellowship room on Thursday. Mrs. Robert Oberg was hostess. Mrs. Robert V. Johnson was a guest and she gave the lesson. Mrs. Marvin Mortenson will host the Thursday, June 7 meeting at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Jack Kruger hosted Circle 2 on Thursday with 12 members present. Miss Helen Sundell was a guest. Mrs. Erwin Brown gave the lesson and Mrs. Alden Johnson gave the devotions. Margaret Sundell will host the Thursday, June 7 meeting at 2 p.m.

Helen Gustafson hosted Circle 3 with 11 members present. Mrs. Robert V. Johnson was a guest and she gave the lesson. Helen Carlson will host the Thursday, June 7 meeting at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Clyde Evans hosted Circle 4 on May 1 with five members present. Mrs. Dean Salmon gave the lesson. Mrs. Tim Bebee will host the Tuesday, June 5 meeting at 8 p.m.

HAPPY HOMEMAKERS

The Happy Homemakers Extension Club met May 2 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. LeRoy Lunz. Roll call was what do you remember most about your grandmother. The meeting opened with the reading of the collect. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The secretary read a thank you from Mrs. Dennis Fredrickson and also the minutes of the last council meeting. The treasurer's report was given. It was voted on and approved to give $10 to the Providence Medical Center life line. The president reminded the members of the upcoming events. They also discussed the banner to be made. They will help with the food stand at the Fischer farm sale on June 5.

Mrs. Francis Fischer gave the lesson on "Arthritis". Mrs. Francis Muller will host the June meeting. It will be a family picnic at the Wakefield park on Sunday, June 10 at 6:30 p.m.

JUNIOR FIRE PATROL

The Junior Fire Patrol graduated on May 1. They got dressed up in firemen's gear for a rainy ride on the fire trucks. Those graduating were Wendy Kratke, Melinda Rischmueller, Christy Oite, Matt Anderson, Kyle Torczon, Ernest Ping, Rodney Greve, Renee Nixon, Traci Hingst, Keith Wenstrand, Cory Blattert, Jim Erickson, Lu Kay and Carol Greve served refreshments.

The Wakefield Volunteer Firefighters each year teach fifth grade students various aspects of fire prevention and protection. The students attended the classes one night a month during the school year.

As a part of the evening's activities, the firefighters gave the fire patrol a ride on the fire truck and the Firefighter's Auxiliary served refreshments.

PETITION CIRCULATED

A petition is being circulated in Wakefield to try and get door to door delivery or some other modified home delivery postal service. Petitions can be signed at the offices of Dr. Paul Byers or Dr. C.M. Code or the Republican office. Mrs. Charles Kinney Jr. and Faith Nuernberger also have petitions.

Anyone wanting to sign up should do so as soon as possible so that the petitions can be collected and sent to the postmaster in Omaha, according to Miss Nuernberger.

BARD HONORED

Students and teachers recently honored Harley Bard with a "hats off to Harley Bard day" at the Wakefield Community Schools. Harley, who has been a custodian at the school since 1959 retired this year.

A "This Is Your Life" program was held in the school auditorium with Lyle Trullinger as master of ceremonies and Superintendent Derwin Hartman spoke.

A painting bought by the students was presented to Harley and was donated to the school on his behalf. Mrs. Mildred Brownell, president of the Wakefield Education Association, presented the painting. Mrs. Alice Johnson also presented Harley with a special hat.

Teachers in the high school presented Harley with an over night stay in Sioux City. Students in kindergarten through 12th grade participated in the "Hats Off to Harley" by wearing all different types of hats to school that day.

BANVEL® HERBICIDE

Kill musk thistle in pasture.

Get pasture you can be proud of for pennies per head per month — with Banvel® herbicide plus 2,4-D.

You can be proud of the effort you've put into your cattle, so they deserve the best. That means pasture that's free of musk thistle. This spring you can wipe out musk thistle for pennies per head per month with Banvel® herbicide plus 2,4-D. A Banvel herbicide plus 2,4-D tank-mix is easy on your grass but you get the extra killing action of Banvel herbicide — for leaf-tip to root-tip broadleaf control. You'll eliminate musk thistle as well as leafy spurge or Canada thistle. And that means more grass for your cattle.

See your ag chem dealer and find out why pasture you can be proud of costs just pennies per head per month.

APPRECIATION NIGHT
Tuesday night's appreciation night in Winside, sponsored by the Winside Community Improvement Committee to recognize the community's support of past improvement efforts, produced numerous suggestions from area residents for still more improvement projects in the community.

Working in groups, Winside area residents who attended the event suggested improvement projects which include: acquisition of chairs and tables for the auditorium; clean-up of vacant and unsightly property; addition of playground equipment in the park for pre-schoolers; relocation of the library to provide larger library facilities and to allow room for new restrooms in the auditorium; construction of a Veteran's Memorial; start up of a pre-school in the community; and establishment of Meals-on-Wheels and Big Brothers/Big Sisters programs in Winside. The group also expressed their pride in Winside's present ball park and city park, paved streets, auditorium facility, well school system, churches and new street signs.

According to Gloria Lessman, co-chairman of the Winside Community Improvement Committee, the suggestions will be assigned to committees, considered—and their feasibility studied. Anyone with interest in any of the suggested projects or anyone who has additional improvement suggestions should contact Gloria Lessman or Esther Carlson.

Tuesday's appreciation night, which had been postponed by blizzards over the winter, was held to express thanks to community residents for their support of improvement activities in Winside as part of the Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) and also to welcome new residents and businesses to Winside.

The committee gave special recognition to Winside clubs and organizations, the village board, the fire department and rescue squad, the churches, the AAL, scouts, the library board, the Winside Public Schools and local businesses as well as numerous individual volunteers.

"Winside's success as a state finalist for three consecutive years in the NCIP program is attributed to the support and participation of area residents," said Lessman, "and with their continued efforts we can look forward to another successful year in NCIP, and more importantly, to an even better community."

She added that the next WIC meeting is Wednesday, May 16 at the auditorium and anyone interested in becoming involved should attend.

POST PROM PARTY

The first post prom party was held Saturday night from 1 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. in the Winside city auditorium for the junior and senior students and their dates. It was sponsored by the parents of the juniors and seniors. They had a 98 percent turnout.

The theme of the party was "Las Vegas Night." Some of the games that were played were black jack, keno, throwing darts for dollars, ring toss, bumper pool, ping pong, foosie ball, and video movies. Play money was furnished for the games.

Every half hour a drawing was held and at 2:30 a.m. an auction was held. Gift certificates and items donated by various businesses were auctioned at this time.

Following the auction, a breakfast was served, consisting of scrambled eggs, toast, sausage, juice and coffee. J.W. Claybaugh of Carroll donated the eggs and Ray's Locker donated the sausage.

Barbeques, chips and pop were served throughout the evening. Buns and chips were donated by Oberle's Market of Winside, IGA in Wayne donated buns and The Thrifty Way in Norfolk donated chips. The pop for the party was donated by Pepsi Cola, R.C. and The Coca-Cola Co. of Norfolk.

The drawing for the prizes was held with Mike Jaeger receiving the grand prize of an AM/FM cassette radio. Second prize was a six-week judo course from the Norfolk Judo Club, won by Karen Reeg. Third prize, a one year membership to the Norfolk YMCA, was won by Becky Janssen. Fourth prize, a $50 savings bond donated by the student council, was won by Missy Jensen.

Donations were received from 49 businesses in Norfolk, six in Hoskins, 26 in Winside, 10 in Wayne and two from Carroll. The party was a success and plans are being made to have a survey of the parents and students next fall to plan another post prom party for the coming juniors and seniors.

PROM

"Sweet Dreams" was the theme for the junior senior prom, which was held Saturday in the multi-purpose room of the Winside Elementary School. The gym was decorated in white, light blue, dark blue and silver by the junior class.

Rev. John E. Hafermann gave the invocation, Chris Jorgensen, junior class president gave the welcome and Pam Peter, senior class president gave the response. She also read the class will and prophecy.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the waitresses and waiters. They were Kristi Servin, Julie Warnemunde, Kay Meierhenry, Teresa Brudigan, Ryan Prince, Doug Wylie, Chris Olson and Doug Mundi.

The royalty was announced by Chris Jorgensen. Cindy Falk was named queen and Scott Janke, king.

Dance followed the banquet with music being furnished by "Complete Sound."

Nancy Powers and James Halferly are the junior class sponsors.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scout Troop 179 and Cadettes 235 met Thursday at the fire hall with eight members present.

Their leader, Peggy Eckert, handed out the badges which were earned during the year. They earned their local lore, popular arts and business wise badges. The girls from last year received the sign of the rainbow badge. Each girl received a membership star and the cookie badges were also passed out.

Wendy Rabe received a sleeping bag for selling the most boxes of cookies in the area, including Wayne, Wakefield and Winside. Fun day was discussed and final plans were made for the trip to Sioux City, May 9. They will appear on Channel 9, Sunday, May 13 at 11 a.m. on the "Kids World" program with Jim Henry as host. Day camp brochures were handed out.

Six girls attended the Junior Girl Scout Day in Plainview April 28. The entertainment of the day include pom-pom routines and roller skating. They also sang Girl Scout songs and watched a film, "Cabana."

The sixth grade girls were given a demonstration on how to apply make up by an Avon representative.

The next meeting will be today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. in the fire hall.

AMERICAN LEGION

The American Legion Post 252 met May 1 in the Legion Hall with 12 members present. Robert Jensen, commander, conducted the meeting.

Memorial Day plans were discussed. The speaker will be LeRoy Ristow of Foster.

It was decided to donate $100 to the cemetery tree fund.

The election of officers will be held at the next meeting June 5 at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall.

AWARDS NIGHT

The Winside public school will hold their annual Awards Night Tuesday, May 15 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room. Awards will be given in athletics, drama, speech, music and also academics. Following the presentations, there will be coffee and baked goods served. Each family or student attending awards night are asked to bring some kind of dessert such as sweet rolls, cookies, etc. The school will furnish the coffee, plates and napkins. The public is invited to attend.

CANCER DRIVE

Mrs. George Voss, chairman of the Cancer Drive, reports that $226 was collected in Winside. One half of this amount stays in Wayne County to be used by cancer patients for equipment and useful items that they may need for their well being.

Centennial pet show Saturday

A centennial pet show for teenagers and children will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday north of the Wayne city auditorium. Pre-registration is preferred with entry forms available at the banks and grocery stores in Wayne. Entrants may bring completed forms with them. Youths are encouraged to enter all types of small pets. Ribbons will be awarded to all participants. The pets will be judged in these categories: longest tail, shortest tail, biggest spots, smallest spots, most spots, best dressed, friendliest, most personality, prettiest eyes, longest ears, shortest ears, shortest nose, longest nose, smallest pet, most well behaved, noisiest, most feathers, longest whiskers, softest hair. Anyone who has a pet that doesn't fit into any of the categories is welcome to bring it along anyway. Participants will be invited to make a stop at the Wayne Care Centre with their pets following the show. A balloon sale will be held near City Hall in conjunction with the pet show. Approximately 200 balloons will be on sale for 50 cents.

Return addresses and instructions will be tied on the balloons and buyers will release their own balloons all day Saturday. Prizes will be awarded in August. Joyce Reeg is in charge of the balloon sales. For more information call Kathy Luft at 375 3248, Judy Haas at 375 1927 or Linda Dorcay at 375 1941. Rain date for the show is May 19. card of thanks

THE LOVE AND concern shown to my dad, Elmer Lyons, by Ed and I, also Sharon, Joyce, Larry and Dan and their families during the final illness and passing of our loved one Vernice Lyons has helped us so much the past few days. Special thanks to Dr. Lindau, the staff at Providence Medical, the staff at Hillcrest Care Center, to everyone for all the beautiful cards, flowers, memorials and food to Rev. Matthews for all his kindnesses, prayers and visits to Mom and his special funeral sermon, to Gene and Mrs. Wacker for the beautiful music, the Justa Club members for serving the family dinner, the United Methodist Women for the luncheon following the services and to Brian and Rowan for all of their kindnesses. You've all helped us glimpse a rainbow through our tears. Mom was a "special" lady who will live in our hearts forever. Mrs. Ed (Dorothy) Grone & Family m10

A VERY SINCERE thank you to each and everyone who remembered me with flowers, cards, telephone calls, visits, gifts and food I received while in the hospital and since returning home. Your prayers and messages of concern also were greatly appreciated. Special thanks to Pastor and Eleanor Johnson for their visits and prayers. Alice Muller. m10

THANK YOU for the big Easter basket and puppet I won at Vel's Bakery. Tarrah Magdanz. m10

I WOULD LIKE to thank everyone that helped me get to the hospital after my fall. I also wish to thank all my family, neighbors and friends as well as the entire staff of Providence Medical Center, and Dr. Wiseman for the wonderful care, cards, visits, prayers and phone calls while I was in the hospital and since my return home. Julia Haas. m10

MANY THANKS to all who remembered me with cards, visits and phone calls. Thanks to Dr. R. Benhath and Gary West and Sister Gertrude. Also, thanks to Pastor Miller for his many visits and prayers. Also, to the people of Carroll who came to my rescue. And, special thanks to little Scott Frederickson for getting help when I fell. Harry Hofeldt. m10

I WOULD LIKE to express my gratitude to everyone who shared in my graduation. The many sincere wishes, cards and gifts were very nice, and this certainly meant a lot to me. Thanks again. Julie Maben. m10
