Pedaled out

"BUT DAD, THIS IS harder than I thought it was going to be," says one young participant in Wednesday afternoon's kiddie pedal tractor pull held during the Dixon County Fair. Many area boys and girls took part in the event for youngsters age eight and under. See inside pages for more fair pictures.

Dixon Day coming

The community of Dixon is gearing up for its annual Dixon Day celebration on Sunday, Aug. 12.

The Dixon Community Improvement Committee met earlier this month with the mayor and representatives of several community organizations to establish chairmen and committees.

Events scheduled to take place during the day-long festival include a parade at 1:30 p.m. beginning at the school house. Parade chairman is Vonda Dempster.

At 5 p.m. there will be a free barbecue sponsored by the Dixon Elevator in observance of its fifth anniversary, and by Young's Service Station which has been in business 30 years.

OTHER ACTIVITIES will include kids games and races, with Dee Pierce and Sandy Strivens serving as chairmen; an adult pedal tractor pull headed up by John Young; a girls softball game with Jo Dennis in charge; and a tug of war and dunking tank sponsored by volunteer firemen with LeRoy Bathke as chairman.

Other games will be sponsored by St. Anne's Altar Society with Jeanie Kavanaugh as chairman. LeVern Strivens is in charge of concessions and Velma Dennis is chairman of Dixon T-shirt sales.

United Methodist Women will have a lunch stand with Wilma Eckert serving as chairman.

THE FINAL event of the day will be a street dance sponsored by the Dixon Community Improvement Committee. Music will be furnished by Patches 11.

Winside phone system is changed

Northwestern Bell will complete a telephone central office project in Winside on August 2, with cutover of a new electronic switching system.

The electro-mechanical equipment in service since 1964 will be replaced by a computerized telephone switcher.

Ken Berglund, Northwestern Bell manager in Wayne who serves the Winside area, said new dialing instructions for some calls within Winside will apply following conversion to the new system. Some of the changes involve dialing more digits, but once the call is dialed, it will go through more rapidly, according to Berglund. Listed below are the dialing changes effective when conversion to the new system takes place August 2nd.

All local calls will require dialing a seven-digit number. This means that customers can no longer dial five digits to reach another Winside customer.

Customers with a two-party line who wish to reach the other party on their line will dial the party's seven-digit number. The dial and hang up technique will technique will still apply, but the dialing code currently used will no longer function.

All coin telephones in Winside will be converted to Dial-Tone First. This means a coin deposit will no longer be required to place calls to the operator ("0").

The new system involves application of an innovation called remote switching. The switching unit installed in Winside is linked to a larger electronic switcher located in Norfolk, allowing the remote unit to provide the same features and service as the host system. Remote switching was designed to bring the benefits of electronic switching to telephone exchanges where large, individual electronic switchers are economically impractical. A special feature of the remote unit is the continuation of local telephone service in the event data links to the host office are broken.

Berglund said the new system, installed at a cost of over $240,000, provides faster, more efficient dialing and several new convenience features. Concurrent with conversion, he said Winside will be put on the Automatic Number Identification system, which allows customers to dial their long distance calls straight through, without waiting for an operator.

Northwestern Bell customers in Winside will soon be able to order Custom Calling Features and Touch-Tone dialing, thanks to the new switching equipment. These optional convenience features can be added to current telephone service, and carry a monthly charge.

In addition to these improvements, a new service called International Direct Distance dialing will be available, whereby customers can direct dial calls to more than 80 overseas locations.

The Winside exchange is the fifth telephone central office capacity in areas like Winside, while providing customers with modern communications services.

Northwestern Bell has installed remote switching systems in the Humphrey/Creston, Laurel, Allen/Waterbury and Wakefield exchanges.

Allen in energy program

Allen will join six other cities to participate this year in the Nebraska Community energy Management Program.

Governor Bob Kerrey made the announcement Wednesday during a news conference in the State Capitol.

"The Energy Office will be assisting residents in Allen, Burwell, Ravenna, Schuyler, South Sioux City, West Point and Wood River in local energy planning, decision making and action," said the Governor.

The Nebraska Community Energy Management Program teams local resources with state assistance to foster increased local economic activity through energy efficiency.

A spokesman for the Nebraska Energy Office told The Wayne Herald Friday that the state of Nebraska "is an energy importing state."

"We import about 90 percent of their energy. Reducing consumption of energy will mean fewer dollars leaving this state," he said.

Rather than spending excessive amounts on energy, people can spend what is saved at other businesses which in turn would create more jobs on the local level.

"The Nebraska Energy Office offers information, analysis and tools," said the Governor in his announcement Wednesday, "and the people make the decisions on how they want to reduce their consumption of energy. Then the Energy Office helps them realize that goal."

WHAT ALLEN RESIDENTS must do, according to the energy office representative, is form an energy committee comprised of citizens from the community — which can include café workers, ministers, civic group leaders or utility representatives.

This committee will look at a report of the kinds of fuel used in Allen, how the fuel is used, the cost of transporting the fuel to and from Allen and then analyze the cost of the fuel to Allen and its economic impact.

The group will then discuss with the public the alternatives to cut energy consumption and then implement the plan.

"We hope that by increasing the energy efficiency, more development will stay in Allen which will benefit the community's economy," the spokesman said.

Governor said that this program is unique in the nation because of its reliance on local decision-making.

"This use of Nebraska's share of federal conservation is important because it allows Nebraskans to determine their course and goals in energy policy," Kerrey said.

Allen is the smallest-populated community in the program this year.

Doctor joins Wayne Family Practice Group

A new face will be joining the Wayne Family Practice Group on Monday (today). David Wachs has joined physicians Willis Wiseman, Todd French and Jim Lindau at the family practice clinic located at 214 Pearl.

Wachs is originally from Aberdeen, South Dakota and attended Northern State College before entering medical school at the University of South Dakota (two years in Vermillion and two years in Yankton).

His three years of residency took place in Bismarck, North Dakota.

He and his wife Marilyn have three children — Justin, Kelly and Anthony. His family has been residing in Wayne since July 1.

Wachs will specialize in family practice, which includes obstetrics, pediatrics, adult medicine and surgery. This will be his first practice since his residency completion.

"My special interests are in obstetrics and well child care. I am also very interested in adult medicine and the treatment of heart disease, high blood pressure and hypertension," Wachs said.

Among the high points which drew Wachs to Wayne were the hospital facility and the community itself.

"I liked the size of the community and the group practice situation. The hospital seemed really impressive for this size of community," he said.

"The health care offered at the hospital is really progressive," he added.

He prefers the family practice over specializing in a separate medical field because, he said, "it allows me to get involved in medical treatment for the whole family."

His hobbies, he said, are outdoor sports such as golf, hunting and fishing. More so, he said he enjoys spending time with his family. Working in a clinic with three other physicians allows him that time, he said.

Firm planning apartment units

Midwest Management, Incorporated of Topeka, Kansas is announcing plans to construct apartment units in Wayne for the elderly and/or small families.

The units will be one and/or two bedroom apartment units.

The apartments will be designed, economically, for those persons of "moderate income levels," according to a representative of Midwest Management.

Each apartment will be provided with drapes, a range, refrigerator and a garbage disposal and a multi-purpose room which will be available for laundry and for office space. Should there be sufficient interest in the community, as indicated in a survey questionnaire advertised in this issue, then optional services such as meals, crafts, recreational programs, housekeeping services and personal care services could be included.

The spokesman mentioned that the apartments would be brick and cedar garden-type units and could rent for as little as $165 per month, with rents to be based on income of the applicant.

"Should the response from the community be great enough as a result of the survey, the company would anticipate investing ap proximately $700,000 in the apartment complex to include as many as 24 apartments," the company representative wrote in a news release.

Midwest Management would manage the apartments and would offer the optional services to the tenants. The survey form does not obligate anyone, but simply provides an indication of interest in the community, the representative emphasized.

"Any assistance from the city and/or citizen groups to help in the promotion of the survey would greatly enhance the success of the project," the spokesman said in the news release.

County Fair Aug. 9-12

Country music singing, crashes and stunts, demolition of cars and tractor and pickup pulls will top the entertainment list of this year's Wayne County Fair which is scheduled for Aug. 9-12.

At 8 p.m. on Aug. 9 will be the Olie Anderson Auto Thrill Show, where people can view the world's largest Dodge 4x4 monster pickup-in-action.

Olie Anderson's Daredevils will explode in 90 minutes of thrills, chills and spills. There will be bone jarring crashes, laughs with Dipstick the Daredevil Clown and a mind-blower of a stunt called the Russian Dynamite Death Car. Two Hollywood stuntmen will ride on two wheels and motorcycles will jump through flames and space.

On Friday night, immediately after the presentation of Pioneer Awards and Special Awards at 8 p.m., the Clyde Foley Cummins Show will begin.

CUMMINS is the grandson of Country Music Hall of Fame member, the late Clyde (Red) Foley of Grand Ole Opry and Ozark Jubilee fame.

Besides singing, Cummins can play 32 different musical instruments. In his Wayne County Fair performance, he will be playing approximately a dozen instruments.

The Clyde Foley Cummins Show is set for long stands at the 1984 North Dakota State Fair in Minot; the Tulsa State Fair in Tulsa, Oklahoma; the State Fair of Texas in Dallas; and the Louisiana State Fair in Shreveport.

During his show in Wayne, Cummins will be performing such hits as "Tennessee Saturday Night," "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy" and "Peace in the Valley."

The sanctioned tractor pull at the Wayne County Fair is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 11 beginning at 1:30 p.m. On that same day, at 7:30 p.m., will be the start of the sanctioned pickup pull.

On the final day of the 1984 Wayne County Fair, Sunday, Aug. 12, will be the demolition derby, slated to begin at 7 p.m.

Electricity users to see decrease

Nebraska Public Power District's 108,000 retail customers and 80 full requirements wholesale customers will be paying less for the electricity they use from now until the end of the year.

The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) board of directors have approved a larger Production Cost Adjustment (PCA) factor credit on electric bills that will refund excess revenue in the PCA account.

The refund will have the effect of reducing electric bills for retail and wholesale customers approximately 1 percent. The average NPPD retail residential customer using 750 kilowatt-hours per month will see a reduction of about 50 cents per month on the electric bill.

Refunds are passed on the NPPD's retail customers directly on their electric bills. NPPD's wholesale customers, which include public power districts, rural cooperatives and municipalities (including the city of Wayne) will pass on the benefits to their customers in a variety of methods.

Lightning makes big hit

LIGHTNING STRUCK this tree in Wayne's Bressler Park Wednesday evening, stripping down the bark and doing some damage to the concrete shuffle board. The crack of thunder indicated to nearby residents that the "hit" was close by.

Program grain movement needs ASCS approval first

Erwin D. Morris, Chairman of the Wayne County ASCS Committee said farm program participants who are planning to move farm-stored grain under loan to make room for their 1984 grain must make arrangements in advance to do so.

"Farmers who plan to commingle their 1984 and 1983 harvests and request a loan, also need to make arrangements with our office."

He said grain under regular or reserve loan is mortgaged and if it is removed before repayment of the loan or receipt of release authorization, it is considered unauthorized removal and subject to penalty. The penalty consists of immediate repayment of the loan, plus interest, plus early redemption, of applicable, denial to store his most recent harvest on his farm, and then obtain authorization from the county ASCS committee to release the older crops from other bins.

If a farmer does not have sufficient storage space, upon approval of the county office committee, grain under loan can be released to the farmer up to 30 days before he or she expects to have the new grain harvested. The grain can then be removed from the bin and sold or fed.

A third method is for the producer to get permission from the county ASCS committee about 90 days before harvest to release the grain under loan which is then placed in a licensed warehouse. "We will hold the warehouse receipt until 30 days before harvest."

The ASCS official also reminds farmers that careful and regular inspections of their farm-stored crops at this time are particularly important. Producers with price support loans are responsible for the quality of the grain through the loan's maturity date.

Indigent spending

In August, members of the Nebraska Judiciary Committee will be examining the method through which the counties supply legal defense for indigents accused of crimes.

One of their stops during August to gather input on the issue will be Wayne, Nebraska, according to State Senator Chris Beutler. Beutler said last Monday that the U.S. Supreme Court decisions in the 1960's and 1970's have mandated state courts to meet constitutional requirements by supplying legal counsel to persons unable to afford representation.

In Nebraska, the financial burden of these decisions fell to the counties and each county deals with the problem of indigent defense it chooses, he said. He noted that indigent defense costs have become so expensive, county budgets are straining to meet them.

"If any small county experienced a major crime requiring indigent defense counsel, it could easily bankrupt the county," Beutler said. He said indigent defense costs have skyrocketed since 1975. That year, the counties paid approximately $300,000 for indigent defense. In 1982, the counties spent approximately $3.5 million and $2 million of that cost came from counties without public defender offices.

Beutler said it appears a public defender office is much more cost effective than court appointment of attorneys, which he said is the method most counties use. Both the heavily populated counties of Lancaster and Douglas fund their own public defender office.

However, Beutler said creation of a system which does not relieve the county budget is not sufficient. One alternative he mentioned would be state funding.

This issue will be taken to people in Grand Island, Sidney, Chadron and Wayne for interim study hearings in August, he added.

Wayne County has spent over $4,000 during the past fiscal year in costs to court-appointed attorneys. There have been only four court cases during the past fiscal year which required the county appoint an attorney for the indigent.

These figures indicate it would be impractical for the local county to establish a separate public defender's office and pay an attorney wages to operate the office.

Substituting state funding for the county's responsibility of paying for indigent defense seems to be the better of the two alternatives mentioned by Beutler.

Anytime $4,000 can be trimmed from any expenditure budget it's a plus. If a trial of a serious crime ever did occur, it could save the county thousands of dollars in attorney costs.

So whatever decision is made by the state judiciary committee will surely affect the county taxpayer's pocketbooks.

The time to bring the issue to light is when the judiciary committee comes to Wayne in August (the date to be later announced). This is one opportunity citizens can take advantage of at the home front, voicing opinions on both sides of the issue before a final decision is made.

Presidential battle with inflation proving successful

by Richard L. Leshar

There was more than a dime's worth of difference between the candidates in 1980. Just how did the Reagan administration vanish inflation while at the same time creating millions of new jobs and a surging recovery? To begin with, inflation was attacked at its root—the printing presses of the federal government. We stopped hearing about how inflation was somehow "built into" our economy, or how it was all the fault of those nasty Arabs. Or sunspots. Or gremlins.

Inflation, caused solely by government increasing the money supply faster than the increase in the supply of goods and services, was attacked by slowing the growth of the money supply and by cutting taxes and eliminating excessive regulation to increase the supply of goods and services. A growing economy and a sound dollar brought inflation down quickly.

This may seem like simple common sense to you. It is. But common sense is a rare commodity in Washington D.C. and Ronald Reagan is the first president since John F. Kennedy to produce both economic growth and job creation while lowering inflation.

As you assess the field of candidates for national office this summer and fall, listen carefully to what they have to say about the nation's economic policies.

If your congressman or senator voted against the tax cut of 1981, or prefers tax increases to spending restraint, I suggest the following sobering exercise. Take a dollar out of your pocket and remind yourself that had the economic policies of the Carter/Mondale years continued until 1984, that dollar would be worth only 79 cents.

For while the economic recovery has focused our attention on such heartening statistics as the 4.8 million new jobs created in the past 18 months and the rip-roaring growth of the economy, our victory over inflation has received scant attention.

The deaf ear turned to one of the Reagan administration's major successes is puzzling, for the runaway inflation of the Carter/Mondale years was a central issue in the 1980 elections.

Just four years ago, let us remember, America was suffering from back-to-back years of double-digit inflation. During the last twelve months of the Carter administration inflation was raging at 12.4 percent.

Today the inflation rate is 4.2 percent.

What this means for the price of beef is that a pound of ground beef that costs $1.33 today would have cost $2.10 if the rate of inflation at the end of the Carter/Mondale Administration had continued. Had inflation continued unabated, the weekly family food bill of $98.00 today would total $131.00; a gallon of gasoline would cost $1.88, not the present $1.21 and a three bedroom home priced at $68,700 today would cost $91,100.

Hacken' away

by chuck hackenmiller

Moving household belongings from one house to another is never fun. It's tedious, tiresome and a pain in the back (and other places).

I'm convinced that there is no perfect way to move. First you must worry if everything will fit into the transporting vehicle. Secondly, you must decide what goes in first and last.

The final decision is unexpected because it concerns what must be left behind. All that space you thought would be available has suddenly disappeared.

Disappeared — along with the screwdriver, hammer and wrenches needed to put the furniture back together again; the keys to the car; the billfold which might have been tossed in the desk drawers packed under all those boxes in the front of the moving truck; the baby's favorite toy; the necessary papers to verify the miles traveled to and from the moving location; and the cap to the truck's gas tank.

We were told that our moving truck (which by the way was the same model of vehicle demonstrated on television's 20/20 which mentioned that the back wheels will sometimes fall off) used to travel 412 miles to Wayne would be sufficient to move furnishings from a three bedroom house.

placement, I only could squeeze in furnishings equivalent to a 1 1/2 bedroom house. When the truck company said furnishings from a three bedroom home would fit, maybe they meant only three beds.

Instead of traveling the highways with my family in the driver's seat, my traveling companions were the barbecue grill and the lawn mower.

There was no radio in the truck, but that was okay because the cab was so noisy one couldn't hear it anyway. About halfway through our 412-mile journey the wind picked up tremendously. With the pedal to the metal, the wind had more speed than the maximum m.p.h. attained with the truck.

We estimated we had a total of eight miles to the gallon. The highway passing by Wakefield, now in the process of being repaired, was a sea of potholes and visions of broken glass pouring out once the truck doors were open flashed through my mind.

But the move was successful in most aspects. The pieces of furniture might not be assembled perfectly, because somewhere between the moving the instructions for assembly were lost. There were very few scratches on the wife's favorite furniture (of all things, that worried me the most) and the television set is functioning properly. However, several bookshelves will never be the same again and the lawn mower has been acting up since moving to Wayne.

NOW, AS AN EXPERIENCED MOVER, I CAN OFFER THE FOLLOWING ADVICE:

Order a truck larger than what you think you will need, unless there is something which you hate but the "other half" of the family adores. That way if there is no room you can leave it behind.

Don't pack away the tools until the final item is loaded in the truck.

Make a list of all things which fit through the door when you first brought them into your home. It saves time when moving because you're not always wondering whether or not the door was removed to get the item through the entry.

Ship the family dog and cat ahead of time and don't forget the litter box.

Develop a keen sense of direction and ability to find people when nobody is around. This helps when you announce "It's time to move the freezer" and the four or five people helping you suddenly disappear.

Label everything — toys, breakable items, garden supplies, the dog dish — that needs to be separated from other packages. Also, you will find that if you return all that was borrowed from friends, neighbors and relatives — you'll probably reduce your moving load in half.

Pack a lunch that you can eat while on the road. Once you're moving along at a good pace, it's hard to stop. While on the road, be prepared to get some certain angry looks from passing motorists who followed you miles upon miles on a winding and hilly road because they could not pass.

DON'T LET THE WIND — which is blowing you from one side of the road to the other and holding you down to just 35 miles per hour on four-lane highway — bother you. It's all part of moving.

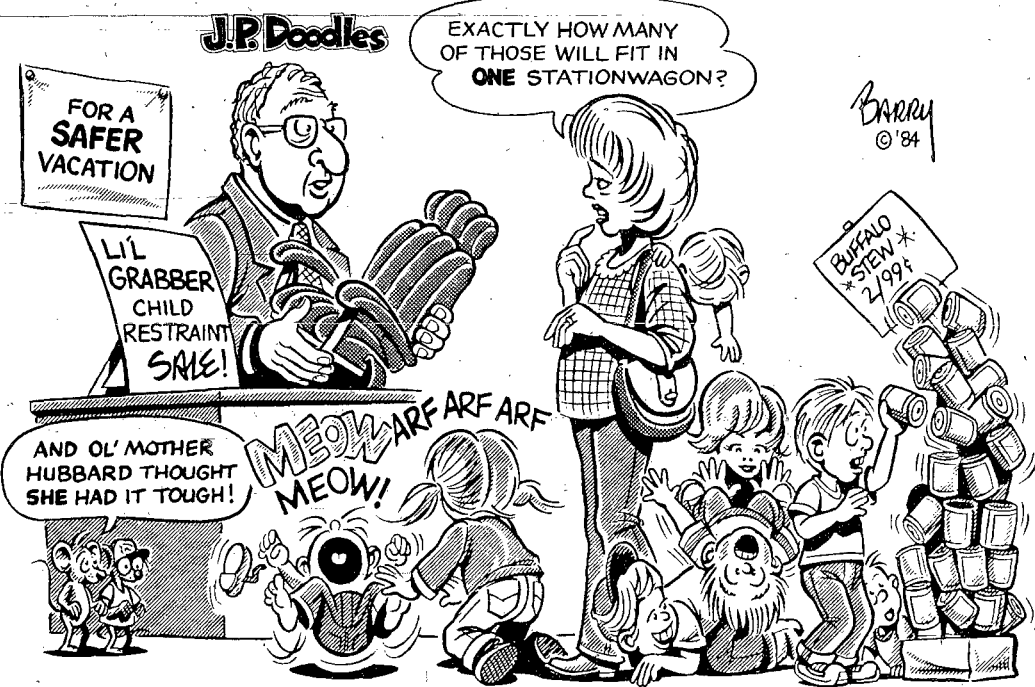

Be there on time if you tell someone on the other end when you'll arrive. Otherwise that help you were promised might be finding more exciting things to do, although I don't know what can be more fun than moving household furnishings.

Moving can be a thirsty job. Have some refreshments for the helpers.

Have the helpers place the furniture in a pile at a single location in your new house. This way you can take your time in adjusting to the new house and maybe by the end of a year's time, you can finally have everything where you exactly prefer it.

And finally, don't panic or jump to frenzied conclusions when getting to the new location and finding out your wife forgot to pack the clothes, your son says he left the water running in the bathtub and dad left the broiler going in the stove.

WSC choir performance appreciated

To the editor:

A few days ago I received this simple heartwarming letter from the director of the Swiss Choral Society in Volketswil expressing appreciation for the appearance of the WSC Concert Choir at the Swiss National Song Festival in Ersfield this past summer. It expresses thanks not only for recent singing but for American assistance in WW II as well.

I hope you think it will be worth printing. Our Choir was the featured (and only) American group at this festival.

Dr. Corneli Runestad
Below is the letter

A few weeks have already passed since you came to Switzerland and I and my choral colleagues would like to send our best greetings to you.

Never before, have we had a choir with us, singing so wonderful. We enjoyed your "Piano and Forte," the movements of your mouths and the clear words; we were fascinated also about the discipline in your choir.

In the Grossmunster Cathedral at Zurich with its excellent acoustics, our hearts were thrilled by listening to your marvelous songs.

Due to this circumstance I became a free man, otherwise I would have been shot. That's why I was burst into tears and I imagined that perhaps cousins or relatives of your vocalists came to Italy in those days to bring us peace. On the occasion of your visit, I tried to explain some of these events to Jerry Anne.

All I hope that we will realize the trip to America within two years, though we are not able to take the floor so grand as you did here, but we hope to see you, and how would we be enjoyed!

Should anybody of you make a trip to Switzerland for holidays, he can address himself on any of (contact) us, we will take care for night's lodging.

Is it possible to read this letter by the conductor on one of your auditions? (rehearsals)

We very often talk on our auditions (at our rehearsals) of your visit and we would be very pleased to hear from you soon.

Sincerely greetings from conductor and men's choral society Volketswil, best wishes and good luck.

Kindest regards
Dario Rosina

Program commended

To the editor:

There's a lot of truth in the old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." So I'd like to commend Girl Scout Troup 145 and especially, the "Cat and Mouse" planning committee of Jill Perry, Michele Meyer, Sara Campbell, and Pam Boehle as well as all the many others who worked with them to bring the "Cat and Mouse" program to our community.

No one will ever know how much pain we all have been spared by this "ounce of prevention."

This sensitive and effective program has helped our children learn how to avoid potentially dangerous situations. Thanks for providing such a needed, timely service to our Wayne community!

Chicken Show thanks

To the editor:

I would like to take the opportunity to congratulate a first class Wayne Chicken Show. I know many people volunteered a lot of time in preparing for the show and these people can be proud of a job well done. A special thank you to the many contributors of goods and services. The Wayne community is very fortunate and grateful for your gracious donations.

ask a lawyer
a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. If a will is drawn up by a lawyer, is it necessary that the same lawyer be used for later changes in the will, or to probate the will?

A. No. An individual who hires an attorney may discharge his or her services, in favor of another at any time for any reason. There are some advantages in retaining the same attorney throughout the estate planning process, however. For example, the lawyer who originally drew up the will should have a good understanding of the estate involved and may be able to handle later procedures more quickly, efficiently and inexpensively.

What is a Section 11 Bankruptcy?

A. We assume you are referring to a Chapter 11 bankruptcy. Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code provides for an alternative to Chapter 7's plan of rapid liquidation of assets to satisfy creditors.

Under Chapter 11, a business or an individual may be able to reorganize and formulate a plan providing for the treatment of claims against its assets. The important benefit to debtors under a Chapter 11 proceeding is that they are allowed to remain in possession of their assets and continue to operate, although all or part of them may ultimately be applied towards satisfaction of creditors' claims. Under Chapter 7, in contrast, a trustee is appointed to liquidate company and/or personal assets and distribute them to creditors.

In reorganization proceedings, the bankruptcy court must approve any reorganization plan filed by the debtor or a creditor. The main purpose of Chapter 11 reorganization is to permit the rehabilitation of a debtor's business so that it may continue operations rather than close down altogether. Reorganization is often a preferable alternative to quick liquidation for all concerned. In addition, reorganization may preserve employees' jobs which would otherwise be lost.

Besides reorganization, Chapter 11 has provisions allowing a debtor to supervise a slower and more orderly liquidation process. Thus even if liquidation proves to be the only ultimate alternative, a business may enhance its recovery by managing the process itself.

If I give cash gifts to my relatives at a rate of $3,000 per year, after my death can they go back three years and include those gifts in the value of my estate?

A. Also, I understand there is an automatic deduction from the value of an estate of $325,000 and that this amount goes up each year. Is anything subtracted from this amount first, such as the gifts I make during my lifetime?

Under current Federal law, you may give "present gifts" of up to $10,000 per person, per year, tax free (presently there is no Nebraska state gift tax). A present gift is an outright gift of cash, real property or personal property in which the giver has absolutely no further legal interest (e.g. no strings attached).

Although present gifts are not taxed as part of the estate upon death, gifts which are not outright gifts and which have a retained interest are taxable as part of the estate. An example of such a taxable gift would be almost any kind of trust account or a gift in which the recipient only has a future interest (in which the gift comes to fruition only in the future).

As to your second question, there is presently a $22,000 estate credit (not a deduction) from which taxable gifts made during your lifetime will be subtracted. If the law is not changed, that amount will increase to $400,000, $500,000 and $600,000 on January 1 of 1985, 1986 and 1987 respectively.

Norfolk win prepares Midgets

The Wayne Midget baseball team will enter the 1984 Class B Area 3 Midget baseball tournament being hosted by Wayne with a 20-2 record following a 10-3 win over Norfolk at home on Friday evening, July 27.

The Midgets are scheduled to open against Schuyler in first-round action of the tourney on Wednesday, Aug. 1 at 6 p.m. at Overlin Field. The other first-round game will feature West Point against Wahoo, beginning at approximately 8:30 p.m.

Wayne finished up their 1984 regular season schedule with the win over Norfolk. The Midgets used six hits, including a triple by Shannon Dorcey and a double by Dan Gross to score their 10 runs.

Norfolk opened with a run in the top of the second inning, when a runner advanced to first on a single and was later walked across for the score.

Wayne answered back with three runs in the bottom, starting out with walks for Dan Larsen and Jeff Hausmann and a fielder's choice by Tim Fleming to advance the runners. Dorcey then popped out a base hit to score a run with one out.

Four runs by Wayne in the bottom of the fourth inning gave them a 7-1 lead. Brent Pick started the inning with a walk, followed by a walk for Dorcey. With one out in the inning, Gross went to first on a fielder's choice to load the bases before Scott Baker rapped out a single to score Pick.

Casey Nichols then came up with a single to score two more runs and a walk by Fleming brought the final run of the inning across the plate.

Norfolk added two runs in the fifth inning on three walks and a double before Jeff Hausmann came on the mound to relieve Wayne's starting pitcher Don Larsen and threw the final strike out of the inning.

Dorcey opened the fifth inning with a triple, and Ted Lueders went to first on a Norfolk error to put two men on base. A Dan Gross double scored Dorcey to make the score 8-1.

Norfolk managed to tag Wayne with two outs on a double play, but not before a base hit by Scott Baker scored two runs for the final margin.

Scott Baker led the hitting for the night with a two-for-four performance, including three RBI's. Shannon Dorcey was two-for-two with a triple and single and one RBI. Dan Gross's RBI double was the only other extra-base hit of the game.

Pitcher Don Larsen threw nine strike outs and gave up eight walks before being replaced by Hausmann. Hausmann finished out his two and a third innings with five strike outs.

Norfolk error difference in Junior win; Area play begins this week

A Norfolk error in the bottom of the sixth inning with the score tied proved to be the margin of difference as the Wayne Juniors took a close 5-4 decision over Norfolk on Friday night, July 27 at Overlin Field.

It was a taste of revenge for the Wayne Juniors, as they had been downed earlier in the week by the same Norfolk team on the road 7-1.

The Juniors held a 14-10 mark heading into a doubleheader at Elkhorn on Sunday, July 29. On Tuesday, July 31 the Juniors will open play in the Class B Area 3 Legion Baseball tournament in Wayne with a game against Jackson, beginning at 1 p.m.

Both teams scored a single run in the second inning, as Norfolk combined a Wayne error and a single to score.

Wayne came up with their run after Jeff Sherer got on base with a double and Jeff Jorgensen followed him up with a RBI single.

Neither team scored again until the fifth inning when each added three runs to keep the score tied up at 4-4.

Norfolk started the inning with a walk and then strung together four straight singles to score their runs. Starting pitcher Steve Overlin left the game with two outs in the inning, relieved by Todd Dorcey.

Pat Melena walked to open Wayne's half of the inning, followed by Todd Dorcey with a single to put two men on. Steve Overlin then blasted out a three run homer with one out to tie the game.

The deciding run of the game came with two out in the bottom of the sixth inning when Jeff Jorgensen reached first base on a fielder's choice. Pat Melena then drove out a line drive past the pitcher which resulted in a Norfolk error and scored the winning run.

Steve Overlin topped the hitting with a home run and double in three trips to the plate. He also threw three strike outs as Wayne's starting pitcher. Todd Dorcey also notched three strike outs on the mound after coming in for relief.

HEALTH TIPS From Your Family Physician

AEROBIC EXERCISE

As "health promotion" and "wellness" have become important in society, more and more people are now participating in aerobic exercise. This exercise involves rhythmic movement of large muscle groups with low to moderate intensity over an extended period. Examples include running, cycling, racquet sports and swimming.

The potential benefits include: weight loss, improved cardiovascular fitness, decreased cholesterol level, increased HDL cholesterol level (protective effect), reduced risk of heart attack, tranquilizing effect, decreased risk of osteoporosis (bone loss), reduced blood pressure and blood glucose (sugar) levels.

The exercise program should include: warm-up and cool-down stretching and specific duration and frequency of exercising.

People over the age of 35 who are relatively "unfit" should consult their physician prior to undertaking a regular vigorous exercise program. Treadmill "stress-testing" may be useful in this group. Followup is especially important for those with high blood pressure, angina (heart pain), diabetes, arthritis or marked obesity.

Exercise alone is certainly not the complete answer to better health. The factor of high blood pressure, smoking and elevated blood fat levels pose an unquestionable risk and should be addressed with or without exercise.

Camp features classical to contemporary

Photography: Chuck Hackenmiller

THE WAYNE State College Music Camp continued into Sunday as hundreds of students from this area, northeast Nebraska and Iowa took part in the event. Concerts were scheduled nearly every evening as the students practiced earnestly during the day. When the students leave Wayne State, no doubt their talents will be as fine-tuned as their instruments. This page features the instrumental portion of the camp. There were also honor performances by the concert choir and music interpretation lessons.
