Board to meet with teachers

The area of teacher salary negotiations was the main item of business at the regular monthly meeting of the Wayne-Carroll Board of Education Tuesday night, Oct. 9. The board members went into executive session to discuss the salary negotiations, but no formal action was taken. They did agree to a final meeting between representatives of both the board and the teachers organization to discuss the issue. They also gave approval to a motion presented by board representative Arnold Emry which would allow an impasse to be declared if no decision is reached.

Emry's motion stated that "the Board of Education's negotiation team be authorized to declare an impasse in teacher salary negotiations should the WEA reject the final salary offer of the board...and that the board be further authorized to appoint legal counsel to represent their interest in fact finding and such other legal action as may be necessary in accordance with school law."

The board also accepted a freeholders petition from Terry Janke to bring in a quarter section of land into the school district. The current mileage rate of 21.5 cents per acre was lowered to 20 cents per acre in a vote taken by the board. Haun had reported that it would eliminate the preparation of W2 forms, which would have become a necessity had the rate remained at the current level.

Cap Peterson was re-elected to serve as the board's legislative representative to the Nebraska Association of School Boards. A proposal by representatives from the Wayne High School Choir was heard and accepted by the board, which will allow the choir to attend the Worlds of Fun Festival of Choirs in Kansas City, Mo. on May 11-12, 1985.

Council discusses audit

Passage of several ordinances plus an audit report on the city's finances were highlights of Tuesday evening's Wayne City Council meeting. John Porter of Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, an auditing firm from Lincoln, presented an audit to the Wayne city council members which was later passed into an ordinance and is now available for inspection at the city clerk's office. In the management phase of the audit, Porter recommended that two people, instead of one, have access to the safety deposit box. He also touched on improvements for the city's capitalization policy, joint custody receipts and the lottery agreement. Porter said the current firm which supplies the lottery equipment to the city of Wayne should report quarterly and annual earnings reports to the city council. The city has "no reports to date," Porter mentioned. Councilman Freeman Decker asked Porter, following discussion of the audit, if Wayne "is in good shape financially." Porter answered by saying Wayne does not have the financial problems which many other communities face. "The administrative staff has the capabilities and do a good job. They are a pleasure to work with," he said. City Administrator Phil Kloster asked Porter what the advantages would be in compiling the audit through use of a computer. PORTER SAID the present system used by the city is difficult. The numbers, he said, are all there on receipts and disbursements. "But sometimes we see numbers and don't know what they are there unless we dig more," he said. With computers, Porter said the city will get the balancing factor and better description of funds. Hand machines, he added, are not conducive for the auditors. He said the computer will provide more timely information. "The computer is generally a better system to audit with. I think it was a good move on the part of the city to come up with a computer purchase," he said. Councilman Larry Johnson asked Porter how the audit could be completed if the recreation board's records were also not audited. Porter said that he cannot audit the books of the recreation department because they have a separate board. KLOSTER REPORTED to the city council what the cost would be if the city would lease a computer system rather than purchase the terminals and software outright. Several weeks ago the council voted to accept the $141,150 five-year total bid from Computoservice, Inc. of Mankato, Minnesota for a computer system which includes six work stations (terminals) which can be expanded to seven. Planned location of the hardware is one work station and printer in the police department, one work station in the city manager's office, and three printers and a memory in the city clerk's office. Computoservice, Inc. has a lease option available, but no lease with agreement to purchase terms on its computer systems. If the city would have gone with the lease arrangement, Kloster said $45,711 more would be expended compared the computer system being purchased outright. "And at the end of five years, they [Computoservice] can come in the door and walk off with our machines and software. We would lose the licensing of the software," Kloster said. THE CITY COUNCIL also "cleaned house" with several of its ordinances which

Building project waits for grant approval

A misinterpretation of state grant regulations has thrown a cog into the construction plans of what is expected to be the new True Value business location in Wayne. The partially constructed building, which would cover approximately 10,000 square feet, is on the corner of 5th and Dearborn in Wayne. For many weeks, there has been no construction at the building site on the southwest corner of the block containing Bill's C/W. The project was expected to be completed by September or October. However, a recent denial by the state to provide a $150,000 Community Development Block Grant from the Department of Economic Development has resulted in stopping construction entirely on the building as of this date. Both the city council and Wayne Industries had endorsed the request by Luaders Inc. to receive a low interest loan amount of $150,000 from the state block grant program for financial assistance in constructing the building. Anticipated costs for completion of the building was estimated at $300,000. However, the maximum which the community block grant could fund was one-half of that amount, or $150,000. The grant money could be repaid within a 20 year period or sooner, according to terms of the grant program by Luaders Inc. during the April 10 city council meeting, were to lease the building to Rod Varitek's True Value Store. CONSTRUCTION on the Luaders Inc. building began in June. Weeks after the construction began, the work by Simpson's Structures of Norfolk was halted.

The state did not approve the $150,000 block grant request because there was too much work completed on the building project, according to David Ley, president of Wayne Industries. Ley said there was a misinterpretation of how far one can advance on the project prior to approval of the block grant. The site, he said, had to be inspected prior to approval of the block grant. "According to the guidelines, the construction was not supposed to take place, not at the level it is now," Ley said. That's the reason for denial at this present time," he added. No lawsuits have been filed as of Tuesday in regard to the project by either Luaders Inc., Rod Varitek or Simpson's Structures, Ley said.

After the grant for $150,000 in block grant funds for the low interest loan was turned down by the state, Wayne city officials and Wayne Industries representatives traveled to Lincoln in hopes of getting the block grant application altered so that the remaining part of the project could be partially paid by the block grant loan funding. "We requested the amount be altered from $150,000 to $80,000," Ley said. It would cost an estimated $160,000 to complete the building project. However, the block grant loan program only allows 50 percent of that amount to be allocated for the building construction project. Currently, Ley said the application is now in Lincoln and is "not approved as of yet." "Until it [the alternate loan] is approved, no further construction can be made on the building," he added. There were no more details of the building project as of Tuesday evening.

Borg appointed to legislative relation network

Little action was taken by the Educational Service Unit 1 board of directors during a meeting Tuesday night at headquarters in Wakefield. Marvin Borg, a board member from Wakefield, was appointed to serve on the Legislative Relations Network. Appointed to represent the ESU 1 board of directors on the Advisory Council were Deryl Lawrence of Wayne and Ervin DeBoer of Walthill. Although DeBoer is not a current member of the ESU 1 board of directors, he is the only person to file for that position from Thurston County. Darrel Merry, present board member from Thurston County, is not seeking re-election. Lawrence and DeBoer join other Advisory Council members Derwin Hartman, Wayne County; Bob Rogers, Knox County; Lionel Froese, Dixon County; Mel Waldner, Dakota County; and James Lotquist, Cedar County. Waldner serves as council president. In other business Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members voted unanimously to verify successful teaching experience for Solveig Korte, ESU 1 speech pathologist from 1979 to 1983.

DUANE TARPE, ESU 1 special education administrator, reported to the board on nine new staff members. They include Carol Beacom of Hartington, speech and language clinician for Wynot, Newcastle and north Cedar County; Delores Boeckenhauer of Wakefield, special education instructor in the ESU 1 children's program in Wayne; Vernae Bosch of Wakefield, audiologist; and Rachael Cassel of Randolph, speech and language pathologist for Randolph and Wausa. Other new staff members are Tamora Dalin of Wayne, speech and language pathologist for Wayne and Carroll; Sheila Maas of South Sioux City, speech and language pathologist for Winnebago and Jackson; Leah Merkwan of Yorkton, S. D., language intervention teacher for Santee and preschool home visits; Dyan Poppen, of Newcastle, resource teacher in Newcastle; and Louise Torkelson of Norfolk, resource teacher in the Hoskins Public School. Tarpe said although it is too early in the year to evaluate the new staff members, he has had positive feedback from many of the schools they serve. BEFORE ADJOURNING, ESU 1 Administrator Harry Mills reported on the District School Board meeting he and board member Bernal Gustafson of Wakefield attended on Sept. 19 in Norfolk. Mills also reported on the ESU 1 administrators meeting held Sept. 19 in Wakefield.

Mills also invited board members to attend a State School Board and Administrators joint convention slated Nov. 15 and 16. Next meeting of the ESU 1 board of directors is scheduled Nov. 13 at 8 p.m. in Wakefield. Doug Bereuter, a Republican, captured 79.4 percent (251) of the student votes in the 1st District Congressional race, followed by Monica Bauer with 65 votes, or 20.6 percent. There were no write-ins and 23 students did not vote on the race. In the non-partisan 17th state legislative district contest between Gerald Conway and Merle Von Minden, Conway, a professor of business at Wayne State College, had a total 228 student votes (77.6 percent) while Von Minden registered 65 votes. There were 45 people who filled out ballots that did not vote on the race between Conway and incumbent Von Minden.

Reagan, Exon win college mock election

Ronald Reagan grabbed an overwhelming majority of votes while the U.S. congressional race between Republican Nancy Hoch and Democrat James Exon was fairly close during Monday's "mock election" at Wayne State College. The "mock election," sponsored by the Wayne State College Young Republicans, gathered in 339 student votes — just 12.3 percent of the total student enrollment at Wayne State College. Serving as election officials for presidential, U.S. Senate, U.S. Congress and 17th district legislative seat races were Troy True, a student senator and vice-chairman of the government committee; and Donald Hickey, associate professor of social science at Wayne State College. The polls were open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. within the upper level of the student center, according to WSC Young Republicans President Roger Gamble. In the presidential race, Reagan garnered a large share of the student vote with 261 (78.4 percent), while Democratic challenger Walter Mondale had 65 votes (19.5 percent) of the total. Seven percent of the students had write-ins for other candidates. Winning the mock election U.S. Senate race was Democrat Jim Exon with 60.9 percent of the vote while Republican Nancy Hoch took in 38.8 percent of the student vote.

From there, walkers will travel down to the Grandstand Rd., past the fairgrounds, across Highway 35 and one mile north, where they will turn east on the Dude Ranch Drive in road. Walkers then will go south on Highway 15, through the trees to Wayne State College fitness course and back to the Wayne Elementary School playground. Walkers are asked to stop at the mile marker and have their names checked to keep track of the number of walkers. Water will be available along the route and provisions will be made up any persons unable to complete entire route. A short course of two miles will be available for those who wish to participate — but please for greater distance.

Walking for hunger
The 1984 CROP Walk for Hunger will take place Sunday, Oct. 14, in Wayne. The 10 mile walk will begin at 1 p.m. in the vicinity of the Wayne Elementary School playground. Participants are asked to meet there between 12:30 and 1 p.m. to register. Funds to aid the world's hungry are raised by participants soliciting pledges for each mile walked. Walk participants will collect pledge money and return money and envelopes to their church representatives no later than Oct. 28. The walk route is expected to be similar to the one used last year. The CROP Walk will begin at the elementary playground and follow the one-mile course at the high school.

Criticism is unjust

American workers are most productive

American workers — along with American business — have come in for a great deal of criticism for being unproductive.

According to their critics, they are no match for the workers in other nations, such as Japan and West Germany. Stories are legend about Japanese quality circles, participatory management and workers who are constantly pushing toward greater and greater productivity and outproducing their U.S. counterparts.

But just how productive or nonproductive are American workers in relation to those of other free-market economy countries?

The truth is that the American workers as a group are the most productive in the world!

When one measures the output of each worker as a percentage of his nation's gross domestic product (the total value of all production that takes place within the borders of each country), Americans come out on top.

While it is true that other countries have been pining away at our lead by increasing their productivity at a faster rate than we have, and that we are behind in certain industries — such as steel, where foreign factories are more modern than our own — the American worker is clearly no slouch when it comes to international competition.

BASED ON THE purchasing power of each worker's production, an American worker produces between 6.0 percent and 11.5 percent more than his counterpart in other major free market economies. Granted, this reflects quite a bit of slippage in American superiority since 1960 when the average American worker was producing almost four times as much as the average worker in Japan or 67 percent more than workers in West Germany.

But it could be expected that these other nations would close in on the United States since they were rebuilding their war-devastated industrial base with the most modern up-to-date facilities while much of the U.S. industrial base remains decades old. During the period between 1977 and 1980, productivity in the U.S. actually declined while that of other major industrial countries continued to increase, narrowing the output gap. However, since the current recovery began in the fourth quarter of 1982, productivity in the U.S. has increased by over five percent, more than the cumulative increase in American productivity in the six previous years.

Now the real challenge begins. With other nations approaching an equal footing with the United States, can we keep our lead?

The answer seems to be "yes," but that answer must be qualified. American workers cannot continue to outproduce workers in other countries with Yankee ingenuity alone. They need machines, tools, computers and all the most modern equipment to hold their lead. And without ample capital investment, they are sunk.

AT THE MOMENT, they are getting what they need. The current economic recovery shows that we are indeed supplying that necessary equipment to American workers. Investment during the current economic recovery has grown faster than it has in any recovery since the end of World War II.

Much of the credit for this goes to the tax changes enacted by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 which provided incentives for work, savings and investment while slowing the growth of the share of America's income taken by the government.

The present state of productivity shows that Americans do not need tariffs and quotas to protect their jobs and keep them competitive with the rest of the world. They need investment. Placing quotas on foreign-made goods coming into this country does nothing but place American in a position of competing from weakness rather than strength.

American workers, when equipped with proper capital equipment, can outproduce the world competition.

The challenge of population growth

By Anthony Wayne Smith

As I write and you read these lines, 800 million people on this planet are starving or close to starvation. This is 3.5 times the entire population of the United States. It is more than one human being out of six. These are the figures for serious malnutrition and starvation. Hundreds of millions more live in degrading poverty.

Over much of our planet, a precarious balance exists between food and people. An abnormal weather can affect the food supply of whole continents. Breakdowns of government or transportation — or wars — can plunge nations into famine almost overnight. Then, the more prosperous countries (such as the U.S.) are called upon to send in food.

How did the world get to this point? World population is now 4.7 billion. By year 2000, it will probably reach 6.1 billion; by 2020, 7.8 billion. Some demographers hope it may level off there; most doubt it. There will not be enough cropland to produce the food all these people need. There is hardly enough now — as 800 million starving or near starving people attest. People have been streaming into sprawling urban centers of the poor countries. They come in search of jobs, because there is not enough land to support them in rural areas. They swell the armies of unemployed and survive in squalid shanty towns.

NOT SO MANY YEARS ago, there was almost universal hope that industrial development would soon provide jobs for all who needed them in the less developed countries. It was argued that this would lead to a rise in living standard which, in turn, would lead to smaller families. There was also hope that new agricultural research and technology would produce enough food for all the world's people.

Such hopes proved unrealistic. Each agricultural or industrial advance has been overwhelmed by ever increasing numbers of people in many less developed countries. There seems to be no "catching up" with the world's soaring rate of population.

About 40 years ago, this dilemma began to alarm some influential people. They believed that food and economic aid should continue, but it would be only a stopgap until developing countries got their population growth under control. This meant limiting the birth rate. And the best way to do that, they reasoned, was to educate as many people as possible in the use of contraceptives and other methods of limiting fertility.

Private foundations funded educational programs to persuade people that planned parenthood, birth control, and small families were desirable. Many governments began giving out contraceptives at little or no cost.

DESPITE SUCH EFFORTS, populations kept climbing in places that could least support more people. In fact, as medical aid and food-relief programs grew in generosity, populations shot up as never before. People still wanted large families.

Already controversial, population control programs tried a new approach: Some countries offered various incentives — called "bribes" or penalties" by critics — to get couples to limit their families to two children or less. The reasoning is that more than two children will mean a net increase in population.

I believe we, as Americans, have both an unselfish and a selfish reason to face up to the challenge of population. The unselfish reason is that we should not tolerate a billion or more people living at the brink of starvation or in abject poverty. The selfish reason is that the effects of overpopulation can drag us down, too. Our economic prosperity could not long survive in a world that could not buy our products, or pay its debts.

Facing up to the challenge of population means considering a great variety of deeply held personal, moral, ethnic, cultural, national, and religious convictions. Granted all the difficulties and others, the truth is that in spite of earnest efforts we have thus far failed to solve this problem. And time is running out for constructive solutions.

Ag group seeking passage of amendment

Leaders of farm organizations are frequently asked, "Why are there so many different farm organizations? Why don't all of you guys get together and speak with one voice?" The answer, of course, is that the different organizations have differing philosophies, even though they may often be aiming for a common goal.

Yet on a few occasions, the various farm organizations are in agreement on how to reach the common goal. We have one such occasion in Nebraska right now. Virtually all of the ag-related organizations are working for passage of Constitutional Amendment 4 in the Nov. 6 election.

Amendment 4, put on the ballot by the Nebraska Legislature during its special session in August, would allow the legislature to separately classify agricultural land in setting property valuations.

In actual practice, Nebraska has classified ag land separately for many years. But this past January, the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled in "Kearney Convention Center, Inc. vs. Buffalo County Board of Equalization," that the Kearney Holiday Inn should be valued for property taxes in the same way as surrounding farmland.

The Nebraska Constitution requires that "taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all tangible property." Statutes require all real estate to be valued at 100 percent of actual value. The Kearney case determined that actual value and market value are the same.

THE PURPOSE BEHIND Constitutional Amendment 4 is to allow the state to continue its long-time practice of classifying farm land separately. If passed, however, the amendment would merely permit the Unicameral to make such separate classification — it does not mandate it.

The problem of ag land valuations is compounded by the proposed introduction of the new ag land valuation manual, which had a public hearing Aug. 29. Many of the valuations in the manual are unrealistic, since they are based on selling prices of "add-on" units. A farmer will pay a higher price for a small unit of land that is adjacent to his current holdings. But by itself, that new unit would not be economical to farm, and another farmer would offer much less for it.

The ag groups involved in the Amendment 4 issue say they believe many farmers and ranchers do not realize the implications that the new land manual has for them, especially if coupled with 100 percent valuations. Many of the valuations in the manual are actually higher than land is selling for today. Certain farmers would be very pleased to get as much for an acre of ground as the manual says it's worth.

FOR COMPARISON PURPOSES, consider a 400-acre irrigated farm in south central Nebraska in a class III school district. Seventy-seven percent of the total valuation of the district is farm real estate. Taxes for support of schools and the county would be $4,761. If Amendment 4 is passed and ag land is classified separately. If the amendment is not passed and the new land manual implements 100 percent of market value in selling valuations, taxes for support of schools and the county on that same land would be $5262 — $501 more. (This comparison assumes maintaining expenditures at current levels.)

In seeking passage of Amendment 4, Nebraska's agricultural producers are not asking for a tax break. They're asking for fairness, not favors. Agricultural land is different from other kinds because of its productive capacity. Nebraska's economy is based on its largest industry, agriculture, and thus all Nebraskans have a stake in passage of Amendment 4.

Tax cut by increasing taxes?

Letter to the editor:

Recently there was a newspaper story headed "Property Taxes in a La Vista Could be Cut by Sales Taxes." This is the story reporting the idea of a $140 property tax cut on a $50,000 home, according to the city administrator of this suburban community, by adding a local sales tax.

Ho Boy!

Where have we heard that story before? Tax Cuts by increasing taxes?

It should not be necessary to recite the numbers again, should it? How all taxes have "gone up" and "gone up" and "gone up" and each time a "new" tax has been established, the story is, up!, and up!, and up! The people of La Vista must look at the history of political promises and taxes.

In 1967 the people of Nebraska agreed to a sales and income tax on a state level in return the state was supposed to get out of the property tax business, with property taxes to be the province of local governments. I am sure that if you were to check the press reports they contained words like "equity" and "less taxes," and "simplify the process," and a lot of other political verbiage.

But since then look at what has happened. From 1967 some property tax rates (remember—"rates") have gone down but setting that has been a taxable valuation increase from $12,000,000,000 to over $40,000,000,000 in Nebraska. When you apply the "tax rate" to the increased—"taxable valuation"—the net result in property tax dollars levied is over double from 1967 thru 1983. Did your property taxes go down in 1984? Do you believe any election campaign statements made this month and next will guarantee a lower property tax next year?

And another thing.

When the state was taken out of the property tax business in 1967, did they go out of the property tax business? Technically, constitutionally — yes. But not really — about half of the state sales/income tax revenues go back to local government in the form of "state aid" (back in the depression days we called it "relief"). "State aid" is purely and simply a state collected property tax subsidy to pay for spending that is local in nature and should be paid for with locally levied property taxes. The promoters of "state aid" have created the illusion that state collected sales and income taxes are not a cost to local taxpayers — that "somebody else" pays sales taxes — which is a fallacy.

In 1983 La Vista collected $848,000 in property taxes; in addition La Vista received about $466,000 of sales/income tax subsidized "state aid." The real property tax bill — if La Vista were responsible for all its own spending — that property tax should be near $1,400,000, and increase of over 50%. On the other side of the coin, if the state were really out of the property tax business, sales and income taxes could be less, probably by as much as 20%/25%.

The taxpayers of La Vista, and of Nebraska have been misled by their elected officials and hired administrators for years with discussion, and promises about "fair and reasonable" taxes. The next month will be no different — the teachers union with their grand plan to increase sales tax will put pressures on state senator candidates with their petition for an increase in sales taxes to the tune of nearly $100,000,000. The empty promise is that half that increase will go for "property tax relief" which their petition cannot deliver unless their campaign contributions already have the votes. Have you heard that one before — "property tax relief"?

In a paraphrase of the little old lady at the hamburger stand — "Where's the guarantee? — Where's the guarantee?"

Until there is an enforceable guarantee that a shift in taxes to sales taxes will be codified in an ordinance or placed in the constitution — do not buy the promise of tax relief with a "new sales tax." That goes for La Vista, it goes for the people in Kearney, it goes for Fremont and it goes for any other town which proposes property tax relief by collecting another tax — it goes for the unfulfillable promise of "one-half of a one percent sales tax increase for property tax relief" being carried in a petition by the soldiers of the Nebraska State Education Association.

School vehicle use questioned

Letter to the editor:

On my way to the Wayne High-David City football game on Sept. 28, I noticed a Wayne High School vehicle following me. Mr. Zeiss was driving (school principal) and had three young boys with him.

Zeiss watched the game and on the way back he had a couple more kids. But nothing involved with or in the school activities. If he had brought or taken back the cheerleaders for example it would have been different, but the district.

I am in the armed services and this would be considered vehicle abuse because it was used for personal use. School gas was probably used for the trip plus extra wear and miles on a vehicle taxpayers paid for.

I still pay taxes to this state and when I see a situation like this I feel they are not being used properly. Something should be done about this.

Editor's note: Requirements of the Nebraska School Activities Association state that a school administrator or an appointed individual with administrative capacity must be physically present at each of the school's athletic or scholastic event. The individual can be the principal, superintendent or an appointed school official. Nobody else can drive the school-owned vehicle to the event.

Pork producers can be proud

Letter to the editor:

At the recent 3rd quarter by State Directors meeting, statistics were revealed on the State Fair pork promotion. Pork Chop Shop was another success at the Nebraska State Fair this year. It was operated this year by 734 volunteers.

Throughout the fair pork servings consisted of 27,223 portions. This is an increase of 10% over 1983. This included 13,709 pork chop dinners; 10,885 pork burgers; 1,990 taco salads and 453 pork specials.

On Sunday the 2nd of September 4063 pork were served, or an average of 9 seconds of operation in total 6 1/2 tons of pork was served. This was one successful pork promotion, that all pork producers can be proud of! The Pork Chop Shop was covered by 11 radio and 2 television stations.

The NPPC (National Pork Producer Council) now has a 24 hour "Pork Line." Porkline is a market hog price recording message up dated at 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. daily.

You can call Porkline after 11:00 a.m. each morning to get current hog market quotes, and each evening to hear a recap of the day's markets and a forecast of hog prices for the following day. You can share in Porklines information by calling 515/225-1990. You only pay for the call.

Check of facility can provide assurance

For working parents, the decision can be unsettling. Torn between the need for child care and the recent reported incidents of sexual child abuse at some day care centers, working parents may view their situations with alarm.

Although there is cause for concern, Secretary of Health and Human Services Margaret M. Heckler says there really is no cause for alarm. The overwhelming majority of preschools and day care centers, according to Secretary Heckler, are strictly supervised facilities where parents can entrust their children with full assurance that their health and well-being will be protected. At the same time, she acknowledges, child sexual abuse is a tragic and ugly fact of life.

How can parents protect their children? To begin with, the Secretary says, parents need to understand that they are the first line of defense.

That defense starts, according to the Department's National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (NCCAN), with a careful selection of the care giver. To determine if the facility you chose is safe and reputable, it recommends a thorough investigation — including checking with your local or state licensing agencies and other parents.

NCCAN advises that among the specific things parents should look for in selecting a facility is the program's degree of openness — particularly its attitude toward parental participation and your right to drop in and visit any time.

Some other suggestions:

- Be certain the facility requires specific written permission from you for every outing and never give blanket permission for your child to be taken off the premises.
- Make a thorough check of the facility's hiring policies and practices to learn as much as you can about the staff.
- One of the most strategic defense mechanisms a parent can employ, says NCCAN, is knowing how to open and maintain good communication channels between you and your child. A major part of good communications, NCCAN advises, is not only making time to talk with your child every day but learning to be a good listener and observer. It is vital to learn as many details as you can about your child's daily activities and feelings.

NCCAN also recommends:

- Impress upon your child an understanding that he or she has the right to say no to anyone who might try to touch them.
- Without frightening your child, emphasize that some adults may want to do things to them which they call secrets, but that adults who do such things are probably doing something wrong and that the secret—or proposed secret—should be reported to you.
- The Federal agency also notes that children are often too frightened to talk about sexual molestation, but they may exhibit a variety of physical and behavioral symptoms which parents need to recognize.
- The symptoms and behavioral changes include such things as:

- Sudden loss of appetite; recurrent nightmares or disturbed sleep patterns; vaginal or rectal bleeding, pain, itching, swollen genitals and vaginal discharge; age-inappropriate expressions of affection or unusual interest in, or knowledge of, sexual matters; sudden fear of a person or place; intense dislike at being left somewhere or with someone.

NCCAN stresses that parents must listen and believe a child who reports sexual molestation because children rarely lie about sexual abuse.

If you suspect your child has been a victim of sexual abuse you should report your suspicions immediately to the police or your local social service agency.

In seeking medical attention for your child, select a physician with experience and training in detecting and recognizing child sexual abuse.

NCCAN also says it is important for you to demonstrate your support and reinforcement for your child because child victims of sexual abuse often feel guilty or responsible.

Finally, don't blame yourself but be aware that the vast majority of child sexual abuse occurs in situations where the child knows and trusts the adult. It is essential for parents to scrutinize the individuals to whom they entrust their children.

What's in a name

Over the past week there has been discussion concerning whether or not the high school in Wayne should be referred to as "Wayne High School" or "Wayne-Carroll High School."

A Carroll mother had complained that the high school juniors were selling T-shirts with only "Wayne Community School" written on them.

On Tuesday we received an "unsigned letter" (which we couldn't publish because of our often stated policies) addressed to this editor from a concerned citizen of Altona. The writer said the name has always been Wayne High, "even if a few kids from Carroll attend school there."

The letter writer went on to say that the name has been Wayne High School "until the last couple of years when all of a sudden The Wayne Herald staff writers started calling it Wayne-Carroll, which is ridiculous."

Several daily newspapers, the person wrote, have the good sense of calling the school Wayne. Pender is not called Pender-Thurston, nor is South Sioux City called South Sioux-Dakota City.

In researching the name status, we have found that the legal description used by the school administration in Wayne is "Wayne Community School", according to school superintendent Francis Haun.

However, he said the name of Wayne-Carroll School District has often been passed on as a courtesy to Carroll, which had at one time a high school but merged with Wayne High in the late 1950's.

The name "Wayne-Carroll" is being used on the stationery of the district's middle school and elementary school, Haun said.

So both names are often used in the title of the schools in Wayne.

Carroll area residents voted to close the high school and merge with Wayne in 1958, according to Haun. Carroll still retained its kindergarten through fourth grade students.

Since then, the name of Wayne-Carroll has been used by some while others have continued using Wayne Community Schools as its official name.

It was not an "all of a sudden" Wayne-Carroll name which the writer accused The Wayne Herald of initiating over the last few years.

The name, Wayne-Carroll has been used for over 20 years.

We will continue using the title "Wayne-Carroll" as a courtesy, just as the school district is doing, because of what we consider as fair to the area residents of Carroll.

Had there been no consolidation of Carroll High School, Wayne Community Schools would have been adequate. To avoid confusion on future matters, perhaps the school board should consider eliminating one of the two titles.

Trading with the Chinese Grain purchases not linked to textile trade barriers

Chinese and grain

Whether the Peoples Republic of China intends to fulfill its agreement to purchase at least six million metric tons (MMT) of grain from the United States prompted a meeting on Thursday, Oct. 4, in which I joined with six other House members from agricultural districts to talk to Zhang Wenjin, the Chinese ambassador.

In the last two years, Chinese purchases have fallen short of the six MMT mark. In 1983, the Chinese purchases 3.8 MMT, including corn and wheat, and 4.2 MMT have been contracted during the first seven months of this year. While the ambassador stopped short of making a firm commitment to purchase the full amount required under China's agreement with the United States, he did indicate that China would make its best efforts to comply with the agreement.

The ambassador stressed several times that China would not link its grain purchases to textile trade barriers which have been temporarily imposed by the United States. He said that while the Chinese opport protectionist trade legislation, they will not use this as an excuse for not fulfilling the terms of their grain agreements.

TO A CERTAIN EXTENT the textile issue and its impact on United States grain purchases has been somewhat misrepresented in the news. Of the grain that the Chinese have had to import, the bulk has come from the United States. The cutbacks which have occurred in the last two years have affected all grain exporting countries, not just the United States and the cutbacks are more attributable to increased productivity of the Chinese farmers. In just this decade the Chinese have experienced quantum increases in their grain yields. Total Chinese domestic wheat production rose from 63 MMT in 1981 to 81 MMT in 1983. Yields rose from 2.1 metric tons/hectare in 1981 to 2.8 metric tons/hectare in 1983.

As China becomes more self sufficient in its wheat production, wheat imports will become less necessary. At the end of this year, all Chinese grain agreements including those with the United States, Australia, the European community, and Argentina excluding one with Canada, will expire. The Canadian agreement will expire in 1985. With the productivity increases which the Chinese have achieved, purchasing it is unlikely that they will commit themselves to purchasing the large volumes that they have in the past.

While the level of future Chinese grain sales is questionable, there is no doubt that the Chinese are eager to trade with the United States for other agricultural products and technological goods. The shopping list of the Chinese is large, and the Chinese have the available cash reserves to make purchases and to embark upon large scale joint ventures with United States companies.

SOME OF THE JOINT ventures would include the purchase of airplanes, jeeps, power plants, and the construction of highways, dams, and other internal improvements. There is also considerable interest on the part of the Chinese to continue the expansion of its livestock production. For agriculture, this holds for perhaps our greatest prospects for increased exports. With increased livestock production, there will be a commensurate increase in the need for corn and other feed grains.

What is essential if we are to expand our exports to the Chinese is that we maintain a free and fair trading relationship with China, a nation that has over one fourth of the world's population. The United States has only begun to tap this potential market.

Q. My husband died four years ago and I inherited his property which is now worth $160,000. Due to medical problems, I did not have his will probated at the time. Now I am concerned that there will be a huge inheritance tax on my son when he inherits the property from me, upon my death. Should I have the will probated now?

A. Probate is a court proceeding which recognizes the validity of a will and establishes the rights of individuals to property owned by the deceased. Probate is necessary if your husband owned any real property in his name only, or personal property in excess of $10,000 in value in his name only. Without probate you would not have title to the property.

However, if all of the property were jointly owned between you and your husband at his death, there would be no need for probate although the will should be filed with the county court. If probate is necessary, there are certain simplified proceedings which may be available when probate has been delayed.

The present value of the property is not material to whether any tax proceedings must be completed as a result of your husband's death. The value which must be known is the date of death value of the property which your husband owned. There were changes in the federal estate tax law which became effective Dec. 31, 1981, and in the Nebraska inheritance tax law which became effective Dec. 31, 1982. Whether or not any tax is due will depend upon the date your husband died and the value of the property at the time of his death. Based on the facts given it is likely that any tax due would be minimal, but you should communicate with your attorney to ascertain what tax returns might be necessary to file and whether any tax might be due.

Your son's tax liability upon your death will depend upon the value of your estate at your death. Your attorney can help you select some estate planning procedures now which can minimize the tax burden on your son.

Q. Please explain how a child can become "emancipated" from her parents. Can the child do this without the parent's consent? Can either the parents or the child initiate the emancipation? Can a child of 17 be emancipated?

A. All unmarried persons under 19 years of age are considered to be minors under current Nebraska statutes.

Generally, the term "emancipation" is used to refer more to the removal of parental rights and duties toward the child than to a child's independence from parental influence. When viewed this way, emancipation is generally the result of some act or omission of the parent, and cannot be accomplished by an act of the child alone. Some states, however, do consider certain acts of the child alone to be sufficient to terminate a parent's obligation to support.

Nebraska statutes do not prescribe any set procedures whereby a minor may become emancipated. However, the Nebraska Supreme Court has determined that the emancipation of a child by a parent may be proved by circumstantial evidence or by an express agreement, or implied from the conduct of the parties.

The court has also said that where a minor departs from the family home with parental consent, takes his personal belongings with him, thereafter furnishes his own support and receives nothing from his parents, that minor becomes emancipated, thereby relieving the parent from liability to those who furnish necessities of life to the minor.

To summarize, there is no hard and fast rule to determine emancipation, and much depends on the particular circumstances of each case. Generally however, an unmarried person under 19 years of age cannot become emancipated without his or her parent's consent, either express or implied.

Q. How soon after you move to Nebraska from another state can you obtain a divorce?

A. Nebraska law requires that one of the parties must have been a resident of the state for at least one year immediately prior to the divorce. Persons who do not meet the residency requirement may choose to have a legal separation, which can later be changed to a divorce action after the one year requirement is met. In a legal separation, the parties live apart but the marriage is not legally dissolved. However, the court can make provisions for a division of the couple's property, and for custody and/or support of their minor children.

What happens to an heir's share of the estate if that heir cannot be located?

A. If an heir cannot be located, the personal representative for the estate must make a satisfactory showing to the court that he or she has been unable to locate an heir to whom payment has been ordered by the court. Upon making such a showing, the personal representative must then pay over the lost heir's "legacy" (or portion of the estate) to the county judge as administrator.

If the heir has not demanded payment or been paid within three years of the time the legacy is paid over to the county court, the money is deposited in the state's General Fund, as required by the Nebraska Unclaimed Property Act. The missing heir may later file a claim to recover the property with the State Treasurer, under the same act.

ELECTION PREVIEW

EDITOR'S NOTE
Nebraskans will be voting on four issues when they go to the General Election polls on Nov. 6. So that voters can understand the issues and the proposed changes to the state Constitution, the Nebraska Press Association in cooperation with this newspaper has prepared a series of reports on each of the proposed issues. Each report deals with a single issue, briefly defining it, explaining its purpose and finally stating the arguments for and against it.
This is the first report in the series.

1. USE OF MONEY AND VEHICLES CONFISCATED IN DRUG ARRESTS.

"Constitutional amendment to allow certain money to be divided equally between the use and support of the common schools and drug enforcement purposes and to allow the use of certain forfeited conveyances by law enforcement agencies."

PURPOSE: The proposed amendment, which was placed on the ballot by a vote of the 1984 Legislature, would allow money confiscated in drug arrests to be divided evenly between the public schools and the county government in the jurisdiction where the arrest occurs. The county portion would have to be used for drug enforcement purposes in a manner to be prescribed by the Legislature. The amendment would also let law enforcement agencies use vehicles such as autos, boats and airplanes that are confiscated in drug arrests for the enforcement of drug laws. When sold, the proceeds from the vehicle would be used for the support of the public schools.

SUPPORT: Drug enforcement is costly to law enforcement agencies, and it is logical that ill-gotten profits from drug sales should go for the support of the activity. Law enforcement officials told a legislative committee at a hearing on the proposed amendment that they are irritated when offenders in Nebraska are given back their money. Undoubtedly some of that money is again spent on illegal drugs, officials say. The amendment would curtail or stop that practice. If federal agents are involved in an arrest, the money eventually is given to the U.S. Department of Justice. That money, however, isn't necessarily spent on drug enforcement in Nebraska, officials say. Confiscated vehicles would be useful to law enforcement agencies in undercover operations, they say.

OPPOSITION: With the exception of fines for overweight vehicles, the Nebraska Constitution currently assigns all revenues from state fines and penalties to the support of public schools. Some educators have said that the appropriate place for the confiscated drug money is a fund for school support. The portion allotted to drug enforcement erodes support for education, they say. Some senators expressed concern that some counties with only minor drug problems could reap a windfall under the amendment if a major arrest happened to be made in that county.

An essential freedom

America is fortunate to have a free press. Our counterparts in other countries do not have this luxury. Their hands are tied by political leaders who dictate what will be printed.

Today it is almost commonplace to read of various lawsuits to control the freedom of the press and the people's right to know. Vital to all citizens, to all who love their country, to all who believe in the Constitution and principles upon which our country was founded, is a free and unshackled press.

We've been in this community service business for many years. Because we grow up here, live here and honestly believe in the future of this area we feel we are a media that can be counted on to carry out the fine tradition of a free press, offering valuable and informative information each week to its readers.

National Newspaper Week began on Oct. 7. The logo of National Newspaper Week has as its centerpiece a black and white photograph of the Statue of Liberty. Keeping this in mind, President Ronald Reagan wrote: "As that great monument in New York Harbor is now being refurbished, let us rededicate ourselves to the principles of a free press and renew our commitment to support and defend it against all enemies."

Arthritis quackery is booming business

Arthritis quackery is a booming business. The Arthritis Foundation reports that Americans will spend about a billion dollars this year on unproven—and useless—arthritis remedies. And the sale of untested "cures" and treatments continues to grow annually.

"Arthritis quackery flourishes for two main reasons," said Michael E. McCreery, President of the Arthritis Foundation's Nebraska Chapter. "First, because there are so many people to prey on. Thirty-six million Americans are affected by arthritis—that's one in every seven people."

The second reason people buy unproven remedies is that arthritis is a chronic disease. "Once someone has arthritis, it is likely to be with the person for life. Therefore, people are almost constantly searching for new ways to relieve their pain," Mr. McCreery said.

The amount spent annually on these unproven devices, remedies and "miracle cures" is 40 times the amount donated last year to the Arthritis Foundation, which conducts programs of research, patient services and public and professional education. The Arthritis Foundation is the only voluntary health organization working to find the answers—causes, cures and prevention—to the more than 100 forms of arthritis.

THE "AMERICA for Mondale Ferraro" party was highlighted by the televised presidential debate.

First CSIC loss for Wildcats

Interceptions ground WSC Airforce

The Wayne State College Airforce was temporarily grounded Saturday afternoon when it gave up a total of eight interceptions on the way to a 21-14 loss to the Tiger of Ft. Hays State on the road in Hays, Kan.

The Wildcats put the ball up 61 times to set a new school record, and completed 19 passes for 229 yards in the game, while limiting the Tigers to 151 yards, including a 19 yards in the rushing category.

"WE JUST weren't good fundamentally on offense in the game against Ft. Hays...we weren't doing things right," said WSC Coach Pete Chapman. "The number of interceptions which we gave up were the result of a lot of small things which just kind of snowballed together, such as some breaks in blocking, running the wrong pass routes and Hays pass coverage."

The two teams traded possessions throughout the first period with neither able to put points on the scoreboard. The Cats threatened one time midway through the quarter on a drive that began on their own 32-yard line and ended with a 45-yard field goal attempt by Herve Roussel that was no good.

In the opening moments of the second quarter the Cats made good on their second field goal attempt of the day when Roussel chipped in a 41-yard kick with 14:54 left and took a 3-0 lead.

On their next possession following a Hays punt, Wildcat quarterback Ed Jochum was intercepted on a second and 15 yard play by linebacker Rene Ford, who returned it 30 yards for the score. The extra point attempt by Howard Putter was good.

THE FACT THAT Hays took a 7-3 lead at the half was a turning point in the game for the Wildcats, according to Chapman. "When they went in at halftime up 7-3, it changed the complexion of the game for us. Chapman said that if the Cats had been able to get ahead early, their defense would have helped them defend that lead throughout the remainder of the game, but since Hays held the lead, it "changed the Wildcat game plan."

At the half, the Cats had outyarded the Tigers 163 yards to 90 and had limited their ground game to just 12 yards on 20 carries. The Cats pulled within one point with 10:51 in the third period when Herve Roussel kicked a 23-yard field goal after a Wayne State drive stalled on the Hays six yard line.

On the following drive, the Tigers took the ball from their own 27 yard line but punted it from their own 13-yard line after two rushing attempts failed to reach the first down. The Wildcats gave the ball back on the first play from scrimmage on a pass in interception and linebacker Sam Holloway ran the ball back 31 yards to set up a touchdown from quarterback Randy Fayette to receiver Marty Boxberger with 8:22 remaining.

WAYNE STATE answered back and tied the score near the end of the third period on a 44-yard run by Elvis Harrell which was the result of a pass interception by linebacker Steve Besch. Besch nabbed the pass to gain possession, then shoveled the ball to team mate Lamont Lewis who in turn lateraled it to Harrell who ran in for the score. The two point conversion pass from Jochum to receiver Matt Hoffmann was good.

In the final period, the Wildcats had a couple of scoring opportunities which were stalled off by pass interceptions in Tiger territory.

The deciding points came with just over a minute left to play when the Tigers moved the ball down the field on a 46-yard drive which ended with a seven yard scoring pass from Fayette to Boxberger.

"Our defense played as good as they have in any game so far this season," said Chapman. "A lot of our kids played well and it was another good team effort by all of them. They were effective on shutting down the Hays rushing attack...it's not often that a team has 150 yards offense in a game and a win."

IN THE PASSING department, starting signal caller Ed Jochum ended the day with 17 completions in 51 attempts with seven interceptions. Tom Leitschuck also saw some time in the quarterback spot, throwing the ball 10 times for two completions and one interception. Together they totaled 229 yards in the air. Leitschuck was the leading ground gainer for the Cats, picking up 26 yards on four carries.

Matt Hoffmann proved to be the favorite receiver as he caught the ball five times for 75 yards, while Ray Hooker had four receptions for 44 yards.

Darin Blackburn handled the punting in the game, with six kicks for 251 yards, giving him an average of 41.8 yards per game. Defensive leaders included junior linebacker Tony Shaw with 12 total tackles, 10 solos and two assists, while Randy Hupp was credited with eight solo stops, two assists and a pair of quarterback sacks. Keith Turner logged five solos, one assist and four quarterback sacks.

Washburn Ichabods hope to spoil Wildcats homecoming with first win

The accuracy of the Central States Conference pre-season football poll will face yet another test this Saturday when top pick Washburn University invades Memorial Stadium to face off with the Wayne State Wildcats, a club which was chosen to finish seventh among the league's eight teams.

An added highlight will be the fact that the game is part of Wayne State's annual homecoming festivities, which began this week.

The Cats are 4-2 overall and 1-1 in the CSIC following their 21-14 loss to Ft. Hays, while the Ichabods are still searching for their first win, coming off a 21-20 defeat at the hands of Pittsburg State this past weekend. They hold a 0-5 season record and are 0-2 in the conference.

WAYNE STATE Coach Pete Chapman is not fooled by Washburn's winless season and expects Saturday's game to be a tough, defensive battle. "I feel that it will be the defensive teams which will determine the outcome of the game," The Wildcats will also need to give a good offensive showing and Chapman feels that the WSC Blackshirts, which have been a high point all season long, will enable the offense to do it's job.

"They (Washburn) will be looking to gain respect and will be fighting to pick up some wins," said Chapman.

The Wildcats are also looking to stay in the conference race, and the game with Washburn could prove to be a critical one. "We have to start getting back to normal. The loss to Ft. Hays is over and done with and the players are realizing that there is nothing that they could about it."

Chapman added that if the fact that he was absent from practice sessions due to an illness last week was a problem, it is being corrected this week since he has returned to his teaching and coaching duties full-time.

THE QUARTERBACK position has been the weakness of the Ichabod team so far this season, following the graduation of their number one signal caller from last year's championship team. Both of the top two returnees were lost to injuries, and the starting job has seen a number of applicants in the past weeks.

Expected to get the nod this week is James Gambrell, who has seen the most action of any Washburn quarterback so far. Last year he was a wide receiver in the Ichabod lineup.

In the series, which began in 1970, Washburn University leads Wayne State 6-3, including wins in the last three contests.

Cats records shift again

While the records didn't fall as fast and furious as they have in weeks past, the Wayne State College Wildcats grid-ers did have another strong performance in the passing and defensive departments which enabled them to keep their foothold among the leaders in both the national and District 11 NAIA statistics.

During the loss to Ft. Hays, the Cats put the ball in the air a total of 61 times to break the existing school record of 58 which was set earlier this year against Midland College.

Starting quarterback Ed Jochum set the individual pass attempt record for a game with 51 tries, compared to the former record of 46 which he set for a third time against Missouri Western with 46 pass attempts last week.

Another new school record which wasn't so heartily received was that of interceptions in a single game, as the Wildcats gave the ball up through the air eight times on the 61 pass attempts with 19 completions.

IN LOOKING AT the NAIA Division I national statistics, kicker Herve Roussel is still atop the individual kick scoring column with an average of 8.8 points per game on 12-16 field goal attempts and 17-19 converted extra points.

Quarterback Jochum is currently listed as third in the individual passing category with an average of 274.5 yards per game and third in individual total offense department with 276.2 yards per game.

As a team, the Cats dropped from first to third in passing offense, averaging 332.2 yards per game.

Closer to home in the District 11 statistics, Jochum leads in individual passing with his 274.5 yard average.

Two of his favorite targets, Matt Hoffmann and Sonny Jones are numbers one and two in the pass receiving department. Hoffmann has caught the ball 30 times for 598 yards for an average of 19.9 yards per carry and just under 100 yards per game. Jones has reeled in 19 passes for 407 yards to average 21.4 yards per catch and 67.8 yards in each of the six games.

Jones is also listed among the kick off return leaders with four returns for 74 yards, giving him an average return of 18.5 yards.

Both Roussel and Hoffmann are among the scoring leaders in the district, with 52 points and 38 points respectively.

Sophomore Darin Blackburn has come on to take over the punting duties in the past couple of games and leads the district in punting with nine kicks for 378 yards and a 42.2 yard average.

IN TEAM statistics, Wayne holds down a pair of first place spots in both team passing and team rushing defense. The Wildcats have passed the ball 308 times for 124 completions and 22 interceptions for 1,993 yards and 15 touchdowns for an average of 332.2 yards per game.

The Wildcat defense is also proving to be a tough competitor, allowing their opponents just 80.7 yards per game on the ground on 264 carries for 484 yards and seven touchdowns.

A trio of blackshirts are also vying for the honor of most intercepted passes for the season, with Steve Besch, Elvis Harrell and Lamont Lewis all having four interceptions, just one behind the district leader.

Soccer Club 'takes shape' with win

The Wayne State Soccer Club, is continuing to see it's game take shape as the season progresses after posting a 3-1 win over The Rockets at Headig Park in Sioux City on Sunday afternoon.

The win now gives the Wayne team a 1-1-1 overall record, as they head into a three-game home stand beginning this Sunday, Oct. 14 when they host the Iowa Beef Processors team in a match beginning at 2 p.m. on the soccer field located east of the Wayne State College varsity baseball field on the northwest edge of the campus.

IBP WILL BE a 6-0 coming into Sunday's match, and appears to be a probable winner in their division of the Siouxperland Soccer League, which includes Wayne State. Earlier in the year, IBP lost the league's season-opening tournament to the University of Nebraska-Omaha by a 6-1 decision.

In the game on Sunday, a pair of goals by Wayne in the second half broke a 1-1 halftime tie and gave the local club their initial win of the year.

The Rockets took an early lead with around 30 minutes left in the first half when they scored an easy goal following a miscommunication between one of Wayne State's fullbacks and goalie.

Wayne evened the score shortly before half time with 3:36 left when Chris Hayden kicked in a point off of an assist by Jay Krebsbach.

Wayne was able to go on, to dominate the second half of the match, logging a pair of goals for the 3-1 win.

WITH JUST OVER 30 minutes left to play, Mike McMorrow headed a corner kick by Krebsbach into the net for the score, and kicked in another goal several moments later off an assist by Chris Hayden.

It was a strong showing by the Wayne State Club, as they allowed their opponent to cross the center line just four times in the entire second half of play.

"The team is beginning to work together better," said player-coach Mike McMorrow. "We were all really happy to see that we were able to take charge on the field and really control the second half of the match."

The injury situation also seems to have cleared up for the squad, and the team should be at full strength for Sunday's match.

A rundown of the remaining games for the 1984 season includes the game with IBP on Oct. 14, followed by a match with Morningside College in Wayne on Thursday, Oct. 18 beginning at 4:30 p.m. and a Sunday, Oct. 21 game with Westmar College, also in Wayne.

On Sunday, Oct. 28, the Siouxperland Soccer League tournament is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. at Headig Park in Sioux City, Iowa.

Record at 4-0

Reserves keep winning tradition alive

The winning tradition continues among the Wayne-Carroll football teams as the Blue Devil reserves racked up a 16-0 win over the South Sioux City Cardinals Monday night in South Sioux City.

The win boosted the JV's record to 4-0 overall with one game left on the schedule against West Point High on the road on Monday, Oct. 22.

THE BLUE DEVIL junior varsity scored their points in a wide variety of ways, including the first score of the game which came in the opening period on a 21-yard run by junior running back Tom Perry to cap a 46-yard drive. The two-point conversion run attempt by Tim Fleming, also a junior running back, was good to give Wayne their initial 8-0 lead. Perry ended the game with a total of 129 yards on the ground to lead all rushers.

In the second quarter, junior Scott Baker downed the South Sioux quarterback in his own endzone for a safety to boost the lead to 10-0 at halftime.

Wayne's defense also notched the game's final score in the third period when Tim Fleming intercepted a Cardinal pass and returned it 40 yards for a touchdown. The extra point attempt failed.

An additional highlight of the game for the Blue Devils was a 63-yard punt by Tom Perry.

Defensive leaders for the game included junior guard Rod Gilliland with 12 tackles, followed by Scott Baker and sophomore tackle Bill Liska with 10 stops each and junior guard Tim Hansen with nine tackles.

a game that everyone played well in," said Coach Don Koenig, citing both the offensive and defensive players as giving strong performances.

If there was a low point in the game, Koenig said that it would have been the large number of penalties which Wayne was called for, but he added that they didn't commit as many penalties as the statistics might indicate.

Sophomore Jon Stoltenberg, who has been handling the quarterbacking duties of the reserve team since Ted Lueders moved up to varsity, has been doing a good job at the position, according to Koenig. Since Wayne is primarily a rushing team, Stoltenberg hasn't had an opportunity to do much passing, but is doing well with setting up the offense and handing off the ball to his backfield runners.

Bears win over Cats aids in division race

The Laurel-Concord volleyball team improved its standing among the leaders in the Clark Division of the conference with a three set win over Winside on Tuesday evening.

The Bears moved to 7-6 overall, but more importantly, boosted their division record to 5-1. Winside fell to 2-6 overall and 1-5 in the division with the loss.

IT WAS THE Wildcats that took the early lead when they went up 9-2 in the opening set before heading into a 15-8 win.

Coach Carol Manganaro's Bears took charge in the second and third sets to win by scores of 15-5 and 15-6.

"I'm still very concerned because of our tendency to start the game so slow," said Manganaro. "We have to start getting the motivation earlier in the match...and a key to that will be maintaining the strong mental attitude that we had following both the Wakefield and Winside games."

For Winside, it has been a frustrating fact that they have opened with first set wins in several of their latest matches but aren't able to maintain their game into the second and third sets.

"I'm not able to put a finger on the problem," said Coach Jill Stenwall. "but I feel it's mostly in the mental area of our game."

Laurel was led in scoring by Renee Vanderheiden with nine points on 14-14 good serves and Michelle Joslin also with nine points on 11-12 successful serves.

Wendy Robson was the top spiker for the Bears with 11-17 downed spikes for four aces. Vanderheiden added 11-13 good spikes for two aces and Daneen Rohde was 9-11 at the net.

"Setting is still a weakness for our team, the girls who are setting for us are all first-year people," said Manganaro. "It's something that we'll continue to stress in our practice sessions."

FOR WINSIDE, Trisha Topp headed scoring with nine points on 13-14 serve attempts.

Missy Jensen knocked down 27-32 spikes with eight aces while teammate Kerri Lighthouse handled the spiking chores with 50-55 good assists.

The Wildcats took both the reserve and freshmen games, winning the B match by scores of 15-7 and 15-12. Julie Warnemunde was a key player in all areas, notching 16 points on 18-19 serves with seven aces. She also had 14-15 good sets and spiked the ball down 8-9 times for four aces. Teammate Kay Meierhenry had 4-5 downed spikes for a pair of aces.

Laurel's B team leaders were Connie Hirschman with six points on 8-9 serve attempts. Lori Lindsay was 10-11 in the spiking department.

Winside's frosh took a three set 11-6, 6-11, 10-6 win from Laurel. Michelle Thies and Tricia Hartman shared the top scoring honors with eight points each. Hartman also led in setting with 17-17 good sets and was perfect at the net with 8-8 spikes for four aces.

Marny Bertloth was the leading scorer for Laurel with seven points in 11-11 good serves.

Devils loss to Hartington ends road trips

The Wayne-Carroll volleyball team ended the long road portion of their schedule with a loss at the hands of Hartington Cedar Catholic Tuesday night.

The Blue Devils will now return home for a three-game home stand which will close out the regular 1984 season, beginning with Pierce tonight (Thursday).

THE LADY TROJANS, previously ranked eighth in the Class B state ratings, downed Wayne in two sets by scores of 15-7 and 15-11.

Sarah Lesbock was the leading scorer for Wayne with 9-9 good serve attempts for six points. As a whole, the Blue Devils served 94 percent from the line on the evening.

Head Coach Mavis Johnson was pleased with her squad's serving performance, saying that "it has been a weakness for us in the past and we're glad to see it improved."

Karen Longe headed up play at the net with 10-13 good spikes for two aces. Kollite Frevert was the top setter with sterling 22-22 good sets in the match.

The Blue Devils ran into trouble with their blocking game, which really hurt them in the match against Hartington. "Since Hartington had so much power, we needed to be beat them at the net and we weren't able to," Dalton said.

THE RESERVE TEAM was able to notch a win and boost their season record to 6-2 with a 15-3, 12-15, 15-13 win over Hartington CC. Virginia Hoffmann had nine points on 16-16 serves while Lori Jacobsen also had nine points on 11-13 serves. Jacobsen was also the team's top setter with 21 good assists.

Spiking was led by Laura Keating with 16 downed spikes and two aces. Sonja Skokan added 14 good spikes and two aces as well.

Skokan and Shelly Pick blocked well in the game, each picking up three ace blocks.

Wayne's frosh volleyball team also added to their win column with a 11-3, 11-2 victory over the Lady Trojans. The victory gives the team a 7-2 record.

Sarah Peterson was the leading scorer with 15-15 serves for 15 points.

AEROBIC EXERCISE has been incorporated into the Wayne fifth grade physical education class recently as part of a class project by Wayne State College student Pam Bishop. Bishop, a 1977 graduate of the college, is enrolled in a course taught by Dr. Ralph Barclay entitled "Physiology of Muscular Exercise." Along with the help of Don Koenig, physical education instructor at the Middle School, Bishop has been conducting a four-week project which involves measuring and recording heart and pulse rates before, during and at various intervals following exercise. The findings will be compiled into a research report which will be presented as part of the course requirements. Above, members of the fifth grade class go through the aerobic dance routine to popular music. Below (left) Bishop helps a student find their pulse following the workout session, while below (right) another student measures the pulse rate for himself.

Newcastle bows to Allen in divisional win

After surviving a tough first match, the Allen volleyball team went on to take a two set win from Newcastle in an important Lewis division game played Tuesday night in Newcastle.

The Eagles outlasted the Raiders 12-13 in the opening match after being down 15-14. A three point string by Pam Heckathorn combined with a pair of ace spikes by Denise Magnuson to spark the comeback behind win.

IN THE EVENING'S second varsity set, Allen had an easier time, taking it by a 15-6 margin.

"Both Newcastle and Allen had one loss in our division of the conference, so it was a very important game for us in that aspect," said Eagle Coach Gary Troth. "The win put us in a very good position."

The Eagles scoring was led by Pam Heckathorn with eight points in 9-10 good serves and Mary Oswald with six points on 10-10 serve attempts. Also strong at the serving line were Tammy Kavanaugh with 8-9 serves, Shelly Boyle with 9-10 serves and Denise Magnuson with 8-9 successful serve attempts.

Spiking duties were evenly shared by four of the team's members.

Denise Magnuson was 13-15 with seven aces spikes while Mary Oswald was 11-13 with seven aces and Shelly Boyle was 6-7 with four aces. Diane Magnuson was 9-11 at the net with four aces and had one ace block.

TROTH WAS VERY pleased with the performance of his setters, who included Tammy Kavanaugh with 31-31 good sets for 13 kills and Pam Heckathorn with 21-22 sets for six kills.

In B team play, Allen took the win in three sets by scores of 13-15, 15-6 and 15-6 and moved their record to 4-3.

Tiffany Harder led the scoring with 20 points and Kristi Chase added nine points. Chase also was 6-9 at the net with five ace spikes and had four ace blocks. Barb Hansen was a strong 7-7 in spiking with five aces.

Allen's freshman team improved their mark to 4-1 with a 11-2, 14-12 win over Newcastle. Lana Erwin and Angie Jones were the leading scorers with seven and six points respectively.

Allen's next opponents include Winside this evening (Thursday) and an important divisional game with Homer at Allen on Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Lady Cats go 1-2 in conference weekend

In their second full weekend of Central States conference volleyball action, the Wayne State Lady Wildcats posted a 1-2 record at a quadrangular in Topeka, Kan.

Teams competing in the weekend's action along with the Lady Cats were host school Washburn University, Ft. Hays State and Pittsburg State.

IN OPENING PLAY on Friday night, WSC was defeated by the Ft. Hays State Lady Tigers in three straight sets, 4-15, 11-15 and 12-15.

Continuing into Saturday, the Lady Cats were handed a close defeat by Washburn in three sets, 8-15, 14-16 and 14-16, but bounced back in the day's final match to win over Pittsburg State in five sets, 15-3, 14-16, 14-16, 15-6 and 15-8.

"Against Hays, the scores really don't indicate how close the match actually was," said WSC volleyball Coach Marilyn Strate. "We stuck together and played well as a team, and I had a lot of players going in and out...but our skill level always remained good."

"In the win against Pittsburg, those two 14-16 losses were very tough games for both teams and we tried to bring in fresh people to give some of the players who had been out there all morning a rest."

THE TEAM ALSO welcomed senior spiker Beth Erickson back in to the lineup following an injury to her thumb earlier in the season at a practice session. Strate said that Erickson's thumb had healed much better than doctors had earlier expected and by using a special brace to protect the area, she is able to have the entire hitting surface of her hand open.

Diana Asay led the weekend's scoring with 42 good serves and 21 points. The team served up a 94 percent, which was an improvement over performances in the past, according to Coach Strate.

Andra Jones led in spiking percentages with 22 spikes going down for kills in 27 attempts. Beth Erickson had 26 good spikes for 20 kills and Asay was 20-30 at the net.

The Lady Wildcat setters gave a fine showing over the weekend, Strate said. Jill Zeiss tallied 63 good assists while Linda Bode added 40 good sets and Sue Walter 24 good assists.

Deb Prenger and Mitch Esters each logged 11 blocks at the net in the three matches.

The WSC netters played on the road in Sioux Falls, S.D. against Augustana College and National College Tuesday night and are scheduled to take their 14-9 overall record into the Midland College volleyball tournament this coming weekend. The Lady Wildcats are also 2-4 in the CSSC.

faculty profile

Ron Jones, Wayne State College's athletic director and division head for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics (HPERA), has had a long association with the college.

The 1963 WSC graduate was a student-athlete, graduate student, teacher, coach and now an administrator at his alma mater.

In his present position, Ron must balance his time carefully between the duties as division head and athletic director "to find enough time to devote to both parts of the responsibility to do them effectively."

As division head, the Farnhamville, Iowa, native is in charge of the students majoring in physical education, recreation, coaching, etc. As athletic director, he administers all eight intercollegiate sports.

RON CAME to Wayne State after two years at Fort Dodge (Iowa) Junior College, where he was a fine basketball and baseball player. Ron played both sports at WSC as well. He earned most valuable player and all-district status in both sports his senior season along with gaining All-America honorable mention honors in basketball in 1963.

Upon graduation, Ron served as a graduate assistant at WSC for a year, coaching the freshmen basketball team. The next three years he was a teacher and coach at Osage (Iowa) High School before returning to Wayne State in 1967 as the assistant basketball and baseball coach.

Ron was named head basketball coach prior to the 1969-70 season and compiled a winning record before taking a year's leave of absence to work on his doctoral program at the University of Kansas. When he returned to WSC, Ron became baseball coach and earned another winning record.

THE NEXT planned expansion at Wayne State, the Rice Auditorium addition, has been keeping Ron busy. Early plans call for an addition to Rice for more recreation space that will enable the HPERA division to expand its many programs.

"The new facility will allow us to develop more opportunities for the handicapped to take part in physical education as well as recreational activities," he said.

"That will be one of the big improvements that we'll possibly get accomplished."

An avid athletic game official, who works, most Friday nights during football and basketball season, Ron and his wife, Karen, live east of Wayne. The Joneses have three daughters (Brittney, age 11, Britney, 9 and Brystal, 5) and a son (Brandon, 3).

Medicare reimbursement formula changes

All general care hospitals in Nebraska could benefit from a recent announcement by Secretary of Health and Human Services Margaret Heckler that changes will be made in a Medicare reimbursement formula.

A number of midwestern congressmen, including Doug Bereuter, who protested the proposed formula, said Secretary Heckler's assurance that the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) will adjust the wage index is good news for hospitals serving rural areas.

Officials of the Nebraska Hospital Association in Lincoln told Bereuter that all general care hospitals in Nebraska, about 90 in number, could benefit from the changes which are to be reported by December 31 at the latest.

The issue, Bereuter said, has been the basis for determining a labor-wage index to be used in calculating Medicare reimbursements. The Health Care Financing Administration had planned to use an index based on full-time employees, not full-time equivalents as Bereuter and others had proposed.

"The effect of the proposed formula would have been devastating to Nebraska's small hospitals,"

Bereuter, who first raised the question about the HCFA reimbursement formula in early November, 1983, said Nebraska hospitals use higher-than-normal numbers of part-time employees.

"Nationally, the part-time employee rate is 26 percent but in the Cornhusker State, the rate is 44 percent," he said.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS developed with use of the disputed index showed Nebraska hospital costs lower than any other state in the United States. Only Puerto Rico, a territory, had lower costs according to the bureau's statistics.

Bereuter said, "Without the adjustment that Secretary Heckler has promised, the future of the non-metropolitan hospitals in Nebraska would have been in peril. The Secretary admitted that the wage index was inaccurate in portraying hospital wage rates and differences in wage rates, primarily because of the failure to take into account the impact of the numbers of part-time employees used by rural hospitals."

Bereuter said the change in the Medicare reimbursement formula is the second time that he has had to intercede with Health and Human Services on behalf of Nebraska's small hospitals. In his first term, Bereuter was successful in halting implementation of a uniform hospital reporting system that would have required rural hospitals to spend large sums of money to comply and thus significantly raise the per day cost of beds.

had to be updated to meet with state statutes. City Attorney Ken Swartz said the ordinances had minor wording changes.

The ordinances included the following: redefine owner of a vehicle; require property owners to repair or replace damaged driveway approaches; require property owners to repair or replace sewer lines; filling in vacancies in office by special election; the annual audit and financial statements; bingo regulations; and bingo tax.

Another ordinance was passed by the council Tuesday evening allowing annexation in the area where the city fuel tank now stands.

Also during the meeting, the council:

- Held off on a decision for the final plat of the Coryell Subdivision. The park fee has not been paid as of Tuesday evening, which prevents the council from approving the plat.
- Tabbed a decision on a north-south alley vacation request on the Taylor-Wachob's addition.
- And approved, at the request of four property owners who signed petitions, a plan to place no parking signs on Walnut Street between 12th and 14th Street.

State colleges report record fall enrollment for second year

The four colleges of the Nebraska State College system have recorded a new record fall enrollment for the second consecutive year, Carroll Thompson, chairman of the board of trustees, said Monday.

Increases were registered at each of the colleges, pushing total enrollment in the four college system up 6.5 percent over a year ago to an all-time high, of 13,936 students. Percentage increases based on initial enrollments ranged from 10 percent at Peru State College and Chadron State College to 5.9 percent at Wayne State College and 4.8 percent at Kearney State College.

Wayne State enrollment figures totaled 2,405 in fall of 1983 and increased to a fall enrollment of 2,547.

These 1984 figures will tend to increase by the end of the semester in December.

Four factors are fueling the increasing widespread interest in the colleges among high school graduates and the older non-traditional students.

They include the increasing recognition of the very high quality and the personalization of the academic programs at the colleges; regional accessibility; the increasing commitment by state government in supplying funds for improving faculty salaries and for more modern classroom space and other facilities; and more academic program cooperation with the other public higher education institutions in the state.

Enrollment increases continue to show that the colleges are attracting over 90 percent of their students from within the state, and that the academic standing of the new students is as high or higher than those new students who were being enrolled three and four years ago.

"Higher education will continue to become more and more important to people of all ages in Nebraska as we move to compete more successfully in the world economy, as is increasing longevity offers adults the opportunity for the multiple career life," Thompson said.

"We anticipate a continued growth in enrollments as the four colleges in our system adjust their programs to serve the changing needs of the new high school graduates and the older, non-traditional students."

Soybean loan purchase rate set

The final loan and purchase rate for 1984-crop soybeans will be $5.02 per bushel, the same as the preliminary rate announced earlier and the minimum permitted by law, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said all producers of 1984-crop soybeans will be eligible for loans and purchases since USDA does not require farmers to take part in production adjustment programs as a condition of eligibility.

Rank said current law provides for the loan rate to be at a level equal to 75 percent of the simple average price received by farmers during the past five years, excluding the high year and the low year. However, the loan rate may not be set at less than $5.02 per bushel.

Soybeans are not eligible for the farmer-owned reserve programs or for storage payments, Rank said.

This is National 4-H Week

Almost 61,000 Nebraska 4-H'ers and their 10,000 adult and 3,000 junior and teen leaders will participate in the national observance of 4-H Week Oct. 7-13.

William E. Caldwell, Assistant Director 4-H, Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, said the national theme this year is "4-H: Building on Experience."

The National 4-H Week theme challenges 4-H members to use their own as well as the experiences and expertise of others in acquiring practical skills," Caldwell said.

"In our rapidly changing world, it is increasingly important that young people learn life skills, prepare for meaningful careers, and assume citizenship and leadership responsibilities," Caldwell said.

Observed since 1927, National 4-H Week has been a time for 4-H members, their volunteer leaders, donors and friends to evaluate the past year's accomplishments and achievements. Caldwell said many counties in Nebraska will have special events to mark the occasion.

The 4-H program is conducted by the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service based at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. It is an informal, learn-by-doing program for boys and girls age 9-19.

Individual projects and activities, according to Caldwell, are the core of 4-H work, aimed at helping young people develop to their fullest potential.

Honors are presented

Two Nebraska families and a staff member of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Cooperative Extension Service were honored at the International 4-H Youth Exchange Host Family Weekend recently.

The group offers a full scholarship valued at $4,000 for youth 19 to 26 years of age to live in one of 38 countries from four to six months. The IFYE program application deadline is Dec. 1, 1984, for the 1985 program year and information is available from local extension agents.

The National Alumni Association for IFYE presented plaques to Mrs. Helen Glock of David City and Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Rethwisch of Wayne at the weekend held at the Nebraska State 4-H Camp near Halsey. Don Sifring, extension 4-H youth and community resource development specialist at the West Central Research and Extension Center, North Platte, was named 1984 honoree for outstanding contribution to international understanding.

Minimizing calculated risks of garbage feeding

Feeding garbage to swine has its benefits, but it also has its risks. The U.S. Department of Agriculture and its state counterparts are trying to minimize those risks.

According to Bert W. Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, "garbage feeding" is more than recycling leftovers from restaurants and catereries. To the approximately 8,000 commercial feeders who use this practice, it also includes products like stale bread from bakeries, and heads, tails and other waste from fish processors.

"The benefits from recycling food waste through swine are obvious," said Hawkins. "Why waste food that's unsuitable for people to eat, but is suitable and nutritious for food producing pigs?"

Nevertheless, he said, there is a continuing risk that disease organisms could be fed to swine along with the meat products in food waste, and controls are needed to prevent this.

THE RISK IS MORE than theoretical, Hawkins said.

"Recently, USDA participated in an international task force to eradicate African swine fever from the Dominican Republic and Haiti," Hawkins said. "African swine fever is a foreign animal disease for which there is no treatment or vaccine. It doesn't affect humans, but it can kill up to 100 percent of infected animals."

"The eradication campaign took more than four years and cost $20 million. The outbreak in the Dominican Republic began when untreated airline garbage originating in foreign countries was fed to local swine."

Congress helped balance the benefit of waste prevention against the risks of disease transmission by passing the Swine Health Protection Act in October 1980. Under this law, USDA is authorized to establish a uniform system to regulate the treatment of food waste fed to swine. States with laws as strong as the federal statute, or stronger, may take the lead in enforcing the rules. Otherwise, federal inspectors take over the function of seeing that food waste is properly treated. States may also ban garbage feeding altogether, and 16 of them do.

"Most food waste feeders respect the trust placed in them. A few, however, still don't take feeding rules seriously," Hawkins said.

OVER THE YEARS, a number of garbage feeders have been investigated and prosecuted under earlier state laws. However, this year USDA completed action against the first individual officially charged with violating the 1980 act.

Joseph Buzon of Rocky Hill Farm, Saugus, Mass., was fined $3,500 by a federal administrative law judge. Buzon operated a garbage-feeding facility without a permit or license early last year and wasn't treating the garbage he fed.

Judicial officer Donald A. Campbell said, "Buzon's penalty of $500 per violation is very modest, compared with the $10,000 per violation authorized by the Swine Health Protection Act."

According to Hawkins, the judicial officer is correct. "I have absolutely no sympathy for someone who reaps the benefits of feeding food wastes, but doesn't take responsibility for minimizing the risks," Hawkins said.

USDA has asked the U.S. Attorney in Massachusetts to start formal proceedings to collect the fine levied on Buzon.

Take special precautions

Boars need special winter care

For Midwesterners, fall signals the start of "winterizing" season. The house, the car and farm machinery all must be prepared for the chilling days of winter.

Pork producers need to take one extra cold-weather precaution — winterizing their boars, said Morris Smith, Pork Marketing and Operations Manager for Land O' Lakes, Inc. "The season of the year has a great influence on the reproductive performance of hogs," Smith said. "Winter weather presents some special problems for breeding stock."

Temporary infertility may strike boars during extremely cold weather, Smith said. This infertility problem has been observed in all breeds of boars commonly used in the Midwest. Yearling or older boars appear most affected.

Exposure to chilling winds can lead to a lower sperm count or sperm cells that are abnormal or immature, he said. Although 95 percent of the boars in the animal hospital at Iowa State University returned to normal fertility, recovery takes at least two months, Smith said.

"The results of this infertility often show up in the farrowing crate in July and August, when frostbite is the last thing on a pork producer's mind," Smith said.

HE SUGGESTED a few management techniques to reduce cold-weather infertility •Provide adequate housing. Open-type buildings may not protect boars enough when wind chills are 20 degree below zero.

•Allow about 20 square feet of dry, well bedded sleeping space. Two inches of straw raises the temperature 14 degree Fahrenheit.

•Feed according to the boar's condition and the environment. This may mean an additional pound or two of feed per boar per day.

•Transport boars in a covered truck or trailer with plenty of straw and protection.

•Always have one boar more than you actually need as a margin of safety.

Hanson to speak at banquet

Family Members Farming Together Without Family Trouble" is the subject of the speech to be given by Dr. Ron Hanson, the guest speaker for the upcoming Wayne County Pork Producer Association's fourth annual awards banquet.

He has earned national recognition for his outstanding teaching abilities and his work with students.

Dr. Hanson is a widely traveled speaker who delivers a powerful and inspirational message in a highly entertaining and motivating manner on the "true to life" human relationships and personal problems which usually develop among all family members when a son returns back home, often with that new daughter in law, in order to get started in farming with mom and dad on the family farm.

His speech will include topics such as family difficulties after a son returns home to farm, problems of estate planning, the value of "team effort" among all family members, and the importance of family relationships. This is a follow up to his speech last year, "Keeping on Friendly Terms while Farming with Dad."

The banquet will be held Sunday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Union. During the evening the 1985 Wayne County Pork Producer Queen will be crowned as well as a number of 4-H and open class awards will be presented.

The public is invited, and tickets will be available at the door.

Expanding into other farming enterprises

Dr. Doug Jose, Extension Farm Management Specialist and project leader for the Managing for Tomorrow program, writes the second article in a four part series about the program. Managing for Tomorrow is a program offered by the Cooperative Extension Service and is being run by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Agricultural Economics.

Dr. Jose addresses the question: I'm in a position to expand to other farming enterprises. Will the program give me some direction as to which enterprise I should choose?

When you go into an ice cream store to buy a cone, how do you decide which flavor to select? You probably pick the one you "like the best" or a new flavor that sounds "interesting and exciting." In short, you select the one which will give you the most satisfaction.

Selecting farming alternatives is a little more complicated but the objective is the same — to select the set of alternatives which provides you and your family the most satisfaction.

Other than the personal satisfaction of farming we need to look at satisfaction in the terms of new income, net worth, ability to meet cash flow and return on investment.

THE QUESTION OF alternative enterprises really raises two questions. First, is the alternative economically and physically feasible and second which alternative or set of alternatives is the best, given the set resources you have?

"Best" could be defined in terms of an alternative plan which maximizes the cash flow surplus in a typical operating year or the plan which will maximize the net worth over time.

In the Managing for Tomorrow program, we will work out the details of the possible alternative plans such as the costs, capital requirements and the expected output. If the analyst and the family need assistance to work out some of these input/output relationships, other extension specialists will be consulted. The goals and preferences the family has previously specified will be reviewed to determine if they are consistent with the alternatives being considered.

FOR EXAMPLE, THERE is no point in considering adding a hog enterprise if other members of the family dislike hogs.

The objective of the individual consultation phase of the project is to help the family find the best alternative for their situation. Looking at other farming enterprises will not only be considered but, in fact, will be encouraged. The computer analysis will allow us to compare, in a comprehensive manner, a number of different plans.

For further information on the Managing for Tomorrow program please contact Don C. Spitz, Wayne County Extension Agent. Several of the banks in Wayne County are also helping promote the program and brochures and applications are available from them or the Extension Office.

If you prefer you can call directly to the Farm Financial Information Line, a toll free number 800-535-3456, for more information and to enroll.

Soybean fields
In recent years, there has been a tendency for many farmers to till soybean fields in the fall after harvest. We all know that soybeans, when compared to corn and small grains make fields more susceptible to wind and water erosion.

Some information from Minnesota proves the point. On the average, one ton of plant matter remains on the soil surface for each 40/acre of soybeans produced. By comparison, 120 bu. corn leaves 3 tons of residue and 80 bu. small grain produces 4 ton of crop residue per acre.

The one ton of soybean residue covers 60% of the soil surface. After corn harvest, the residue covers 85 to 95% of the soil surface. One pass of a tandem disk reduces soil cover by soybean residue to 20%. The reduction is much less with corn and small grain residue. Therefore, fall tillage of soybean fields is certainly not a recommended practice in northeast Nebraska.

Pasturing frosted forage
Frosted sudan, sorghum, and Johnson grass may be safely pastured or green chop fed if reasonable precautions are taken. Cows should not be turned out on frost damaged crops when they are hungry. Before turning animals on such pasture they should:
•Receive a full feed of hay or hay and grain if they are accustomed to having both before going to pasture.
•Have an adequate and balanced mineral supplement available.
•And have access to a good water supply.
Any growing sorghum or sudan plant can contain dangerous levels of prussic acid. Generally, prussic acid content is not increased by freezing, but regrowth following a killing frost may be very high in prussic acid.

If there is a significant amount of regrowth it would be safer to wait 10 days to two weeks after the killing frost before continuing or starting to pasture the fields. The crop should be safe after leaves and stalks have turned brown.

Some plants will accumulate nitrates when growth is suddenly interrupted by frost. However, the possibility of nitrate poisoning is pretty well eliminated if ample hay and grain is fed along with the frosted feed.
If it is not practical to feed hay and grain along with the frosted crop, it may be best to make the crop into hay or silage. Making the crop into either hay or silage will pretty much eliminate both the nitrate and prussic acid problem.
Grazing of frosted alfalfa generally does not present any special problems.

AMERICAN LEGION
American Legion Post 81 Commander Larry Anderson, Vice-Commander Jeff Swanson and District Vice-Commander were among 187 American Legion leaders who attended the Nebraska American Legion's annual leadership training school Sept. 23. Hosted by Lincoln Legionnaire Club Post 3.

They joined other Nebraska Legionnaires for the one-day school which provided instruction for new American Legion post officers and interested Legionnaires.

Participants heard presentations on various American Legion programs as they affect veterans, suggestions for community service programs and ways to increase local post membership. State legion officers and committee members served as instructors.

Topics discussed included Americanism, Legion Baseball, High School Oratorical Contest, County Government Day, Civil Defense, Boy's State, Publicity, Law and Order, Veterans Benefits, Sons of the American Legion, Membership and Internal Management.

The American Legion is a federally chartered veterans service organization, with a national membership of 2.6 million war-time veterans, including nearly 65,000 members in Nebraska.

Commander Anderson stated that membership in the local post is due. All members are urged to pay their dues as soon as possible.
