Physical limitation not a handicap

Accident doesn't halt ambition of Allen's Olesen

by Jackie Ostien

No matter what a person does in life, their limitations are their own. 12-year old Jason Olesen, the son of Richard and Sandy Olesen of rural Allen, doesn't feel that he has any limitations, despite the fact that he lost a good portion of his left heel and calf in a mowing accident as a young child.

After a week in the hospital, the doctors again examined the foot and leg to determine the actual extent of the damage. Jason remained in the hospital another week and then returned home, coming back to the hospital for occasional check-ups.

Through Richard's brother-in-law who was himself a Shriner, the Olesens learned of the Shriners Hospital in Minneapolis, Minn., which specialized in care for children with injuries such as Jason's. Later that July the family made the first of what proved to be many trips to Minneapolis to begin the long recovery process.

JASON REMAINED IN the Shriners Hospital for a total of eight weeks on his first visit, as doctors began work on re-building the skin and tissue of his leg and heel.

The first surgical procedure was a full thickness skin graft to cover a portion of Jason's heel, but according to his parents, the graft "didn't take" and a second graft was needed. The second and partial graft was performed weeks later and proved to be only partially effective.

At one point, he also had surgery to remove scar tissue from the back of his leg which had been impeding the healing process. Doctors then decided to let the injury heal on its own and Jason was able to return home.

JASON HIMSELF CAN recall the incident, which occurred on Memorial Day 1975 when he was 3½ years old. Playing outside near some trees, Jason heard a noise, and thinking it was his sister playing a game with him, he sprang out to surprise her. As he landed, his left leg slipped underneath a lawn mower passing by.

He was immediately taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City, Iowa, where doctors advised that his foot be amputated. Both Richard and Sandy were against the idea, so the damage to Jason's foot was sewed and repaired as much as possible at the time.

Corn harvest continues

Photography: Chuck Hackenmiller

ALTHOUGH SOYBEAN yields have been disappointing to many area farmers, the corn yields have been rated satisfactory to excellent by corn producers. That goes from combining grain to picking ear corn, as is done on the Ken Nolte farm several miles north of Wayne.

For the next three years, Jason reported back to the hospital only for periodic check-ups. He was fitted with an insert which would enable him to walk and wear shoes, and also had to have sponge inserts to prevent rubbing and sores on the heel area.

THE ORIGINAL INSERT included a plastic covering which protected the injured portion of his leg and heel, and the back half of the bottom of his foot. "Jason was usually only able to wear tennis shoes, and then he had to have two different sizes for quite some time because of the insert," said Richard Olesen.

Richard worked on the insert and made some changes which would allow Jason to wear boots as well. In addition to making it longer to support the entire bottom of the foot, he also added some thickness in the bottom of the insert to compensate for the slight difference in the length of Jason's injured leg.

At the age of eight, Jason again entered the Shriners Hospital for a third graft. This time, the doctors performed a bi-lateral flesh graft, which would build up the heel area.

During the process, the doctors surgically attached Jason's heel to an area of the calf of his right leg for the graft. A metal apparatus held both of his legs immobile for a period of six weeks while the graft process took place, and Jason was, for the most part, bedridden. He also developed a staph infection and had to spend the last three weeks of the grafting process in isolation.

ONCE THE FLESH graft was complete, doctors used skin from his abdominal area to close the area on his right leg. Since then, Jason has had no new surgeries, but is usually fitted with a new insert every six months to accommodate his growth. He must return to the hospital for routine check-ups and X-rays twice a year.

There is a possibility that Jason may again undergo surgery in the future, a process which would stretch the bone of his left leg about three centimeters to even it with the right. Similar to wearing braces, a metal "bone stretcher" would be attached to the bone of the leg itself and remain there for a period of four to six weeks. While he hasn't been cleared for the procedure yet, Jason must reach his full growth potential before he can undergo the process.

THERE WAS A period of time immediately after the accident when he was confined to a wheelchair, and later had to walk on crutches, but for the most part, Jason said he was able to do lots of things. His attendance at school was usually not effected, since surgeries took place during the summer.

Currently a seventh grader at Allen Consolidated Schools, Jason enjoys sports and has been active in the physical education classes, including volleyball and basketball. He was also a member of the Allen PeeWee baseball team which won the league championship this past summer, playing right field and catcher.

Jason also attended the Wayne State Basketball camp this summer and received the award for being the "Hardest Worker" for his age group.

Football is also a favorite sport of Jason's and this year he was a member of the Allen junior high team, a team which won it's first games in the past six years. Playing a contact sport like football hasn't given Jason much trouble so far. In his first game, the protective insert he wears cracked and had to be repaired, but otherwise "it really didn't make much difference", said Jason.

Dave Uldrich, who coaches the junior high team, said that Jason has had no problems making adjustments to playing football. "His injury has made him a little slower, but he is out there working just as hard as everyone else...no one treats him special," Uldrich said.

Whether Jason will be able to play football at the varsity level with his plastic insert remains to be seen. The State of Nebraska High School Athletic Association has special rulings on the use of such devices in contact sports and Jason's insert will probably have to be examined and ruled upon by the Association.

SPORTS ARE AN important part of life for the entire Olesen family, with daughter Nikki participating as a sophomore on the Allen Eagle volleyball team. Says Sandy, "both Nikki and Jason are involved in athletic events, and attending them is something we enjoy doing as a family."

Richard is now a member of the Shriners organization and involved with a variety of their activities. "After all of the help that Jason received from the Shriners hospital, it seemed like the right thing to do," said Sandy.

Like many other young Nebraska athletes, Jason someday hopes to play football, basketball or participate on the track team at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. If not, he also enjoys playing the saxophone and being a member of the Big Red Band is always a possibility.

Fact-finding next step in Winside teacher negotiations

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Winside's Board of Education voted to declare negotiations with the Winside teachers at an impasse during a special meeting conducted on Oct. 16.

This means the teacher contract negotiations will now go into the fact-finding stage. Two representatives, one each selected by the bargaining parties, will pick another representative in trying to hammer out a compromise in the teacher contract talk.

The board of education voted to appoint Dean Curtis, Superintendent of the Ashland Public School, as their fact-finding representative.

WINSIDE SCHOOL BOARD'S offer, which was recently rejected by the teachers, included the following:

- Base pay — $12,550 for a beginning teacher. The previous contract year was $12,000.

- Index — 4 percent x 4 percent x 2.

- Health insurance and/or annuity — $180.48 paid per month toward monthly family premiums ($140 last year); $94.17 paid per month toward monthly single premiums ($90 last year), the difference between the $66.51 premium and $94.17 may be placed into an annuity of the teachers' choice; $80 to be placed into an annuity of the teachers' choice for any teacher who elects not to take health insurance (same as last year).

- Extra duty — Raise the head volleyball coach's salary to equal that of football, basketball and wrestling head coaches' salaries; pay people assigned to ticket taking at varsity contests $10 per night ($5 last year).

THE WINSIDE Board of Education had studied information received from 11 other conference schools who have settled negotiations, according to Principal Don Leighton.

The board of education, he said, not only felt their offer was fair, but total compensation for the package was higher than eight of the 11 schools.

Paul Sok of Winside, a representative of the teachers, said the last base salary his group had proposed was $12,650.

Curtis, the school board representative, will meet with the representative chosen by the school teachers. These two people will choose a third person to meet with them to make recommendations for reaching a settlement.

If the board of education and the teachers fail to reach a settlement during fact-finding, the matter will be taken up to the Court of Industrial Relations. The decision which is made by the industrial relations court will be the final settlement, according to Leighton.

Negotiations between the Winside Board of Education and the Winside teachers began in February of this year, he said.

Wayne, West Point square off in state play-offs

It was announced Friday evening that Wayne-Carroll Blue Devils will confront a nearby rival — the West Point High Cadets — in the first round Wednesday evening (Oct. 31) of the Nebraska Class B State High School Football Play-offs.

The game will be played at Wayne State College Memorial Stadium in Wayne, with kick-off slated for 7:30 p.m.

The Blue Devils, who ended the season undefeated at 9-0, played the West Point Cadets in September. Wayne, on their home turf, handed the 8-1 Cadets their only loss of the season, winning the contest by a 7-0 score.

All the points scored in the game came in the second quarter when Blue Devil Dan Gross caught a 39-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Brad Moore and Chris Wieseler connected on the extra point kick. West Point had reached the "Wayne" 12 yard line in the fourth quarter and had threatened to score, but a strong defensive effort by the Blue Devils and a penalty put the Cadets out of scoring reach.

The winner of Wednesday evening's game between the Cadets and the Blue Devils will face the winner of the Elkhorn (7-2) and Blair (9-1) contest in the second round of the play-offs.

Other pairings in the Class B opening round play-off picture are as follows: Imperial (8-1) at Grand Island NW (9-0); Omaha Roncalli (6-3) at Seward (8-1); Wood River (8-1) at Columbus Scotus (9-0); Bennington (7-2) at Aurora (8-1); Gothenburg (8-1) at Chadron (9-0); and Grand Island C.C. (7-1) at Pierce (9-0).

(8-1); Neligh (6-3) is at Milford (6-2); and Norfolk Catholic (6-2) is at Battle Creek (7-2), all in Class C-1.

From Class C-2, Weeping Water (6-3) is at O'Neill S.M. (9-0); and Pender (5-4) is at Grant (7-1).

The Eight Man-1 area match ups include

Beemer (7-1) at Humboldt (9-0) and Dalton Leyton (7-2) at Leigh (7-0). Eight Man-2 division area contests include Coleridge (6-2) at Loomis (7-1).

Certified Municipal Clerk

Melton receives designation

The International Institute of Municipal Clerks announces that Norman J. Melton, Clerk Treasurer of Wayne, has been awarded the designation of Certified Municipal Clerk for achieving the high educational, experience and service requirements established by this Institute for attainment of this honor.

Melton began his service with the City of Wayne in 1979, and previously he was associated with the United States Army for 20 years, as an Infantry Officer. He received the Combat Infantryman Badge, the Parachutist Badge, the Bronze Star, the Meritorious Service Medal and the Army Commendation Medal. He completed the three-year education program for professional clerks held at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. This program involves over 100 student/instructor contact hours of in-depth courses in public administration, social and interpersonal concerns, and functionally related subjects. It is designed to provide perspective, information, and practical skills for greater understanding of those changes taking place in each community.

Melton is currently vice president of the Northeast Nebraska Clerks Association, and he is a member of the International City

Management Association, the Government Finance Officers Association and the Clerks Section of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, as well as the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

Trick or terror

Reports occur each Halloween about youngsters who, after canvassing the neighborhood areas "trick or treating", are victims of pranks themselves — some of a deadly nature.

For instance, the Circle K organization, a service organization to the college and the community, sponsored a Halloween Party Sunday (Oct. 28) with treats, costume judging, games and cartoons available for the Wayne children in kindergarten to fourth grade.

Other area communities put on similar parties. All of this with the intention to break away from the traditional door to door trick or treating campaign.

These sort of parties are refreshing ideas which gives the children their fill of candy and Halloween entertainment. Parents know their child is safe. It is a good idea.

Still, it reflects a sorry state on society today that young children cannot enjoy the traditional Halloween "trick or treating" without parents fearing for the life of their child.

Perhaps people might think the parents are being a bit "over-dramatic." But they aren't the ones who prefer to take chances. They would rather keep everyone home on Halloween Eve than to see their son or daughter on an emergency operating table as surgeons struggle to remove a foreign object from the child's throat.

That is the reaction of some parents. Can they be blamed for their attitude?

Those that follow tradition and travel the streets for "treats and tricks" will find their journeys and adventure safer if they follow these precautions as prescribed by Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital in Norfolk.

•Make sure a child is visible to motorists. Parents should apply reflective tape to the back, front and sides of costumes — including trick or treat bags.

•The majority of Halloween traffic accidents occur when children dart between parked cars. Children should visit houses on one side of the street first, then cross the street at the crosswalks to visit houses on the other side of the street.

•Encourage children to "trick or treat" during daylight hours. •Have an adult travel with children to make sure there are no problems along the way.

•Keep porch, yard and hall lights on for the visitors. Clear the yard of all objects such as sprinklers, hoses, trash cans and lawn furniture.

•Halloween masks block a child's vision from oncoming traffic, objects left in someone's yard or obstacles on the sidewalk. A painted face is the best solution to this problem.

•Costumes that are too big or that have capes, long skirts or trousers and dangling sleeves pose tripping hazards.

•See to it that accessory items are safe. Wands, knives, broomsticks and swords can be made out of cardboard to prevent any accidents.

•"Trick or treat" goodies should be brought home for inspection before a child eats any. Pins and needles can be inserted through wrappers without disturbing the outside wrapper.

•To insure that children do not sneak "goodies," parents should prepare their child's favorite meal before he/she begins "trick or treating."

•And when the children return, cut up all the candy and fruit in small sections and throw out any items with torn wrappers or that have been unwrapped or tampered with.

by Chuck Hackenmiller Wayne Herald editor

I will admit it. During this past weekend I was a Nebraska Cornhusker fan.

Face it. If a family wants to communicate with Nebraskans on Sunday mornings (day after game day) — they had better know about Cornhusker football.

The day after a Cornhusker win, it is nearly impossible to find a Sunday edition of a Nebraska daily newspaper at area newsstands.

When there is a Cornhusker loss, newspaper stands find it difficult to exhaust their supply of the Sunday issues. True "Red" fans are many and it would be unfair not to give the "Huskers" a supportive chance.

By the way, all this talk about the Nebraska Cornhuskers, especially when Wayne-Carroll has an undefeated high school team and Wayne State is in the thick of the race for the conference title certainly isn't indicative of my preference of favorite teams.

You have to start at football's grassroots level to become a Nebraska Cornhusker.

I root locally, and then expand my team selections to the remaining state colleges and universities.

This weekend, though, I let my hair down a little and made an exception.

HOWEVER after attending last weekend's Colorado-Cornhusker contest in Boulder, Colorado, my intuition tells me I don't dare mention an allegiance to the Cornhuskers — particularly if I pronounce my loyalty in another state.

It could be hazardous to my health.

Being a top quality football team ranked among the top 10 time after time is likely to irritate teams which fall consistently in the loss column to the Cornhuskers.

How do I know all this? Put it this way, You know you are an unwelcome Nebraska fan when:

•The people who bought the tickets for us (which in this instance would be my wife's brother Tom Ortmeier, a former Wayne Businessman) suggested we don't take our Nebraska-licensed vehicle to the stadium in Boulder as a precaution against antenna breakage and other damages.

•We wore red. The Colorado Buff fans were "seeing red."

•Prior to the start of the game, when the teams were warming up on the playing field at Folsom Stadium, people near the student section were throwing corn husks onto the playing field (and several other objects, such as ice).

•The CU section was chanting continuously "Way to go, Syracuse. Way to go, Syracuse!"

•Before the teams entered the field, a fan rode atop a livestock trailer that carried the CU buffalo. He was beating a red, stuffed object (presumably representing a Cornhusker) on the top of the trailer, as it was being carted around the stadium.

•Towards the end of the third quarter, as Nebraska rallied from a 7-0 deficit behind the quarterbacking of Travis Turner, things began to get a bit uglier.

In the middle of the fourth quarter, several of the CU cheering sections began walking before the Nebraska fans in the first row, at times taunting the visitors. That led to real jabs between the Cornhusker fans and the Colorado hecklers.

The police immediately escorted the hecklers off the field.

Now tell me, What instills a person to react so ugly and violent in a college football game. Was it because the Cornhuskers foiled the CU upset bid? It has to be frustration.

It was a heck of a football game and enjoyable to watch, despite the briskness of a cold and snowy day. Observing and listening to the crowd was equally as interesting.

IT WAS SO COLD they tried the "wave" in the stands (a new concept in crowd cheering) and it turned into an iceberg.

I'll convert to becoming a Cornhusker fan someday. But only within the confines of Nebraska.

Not everybody thinks those Cornhuskers are America's team. Just asks the CU Buffs.

Before converting completely to an "official Cornhusker fan", I think it would be worthwhile to take in the action around home.

There's some good football being played in this area. Consider the football teams of Wayne-Carroll, the varsity (which is play-off bound), reserves, freshman and eighth grade football teams all have ended the season on successful notes. All have ended the seasons without a loss.

Maybe that's something for the record books. At least that gives Blue Devil Head Coach Lonnie Ehrhardt something to look forward to in upcoming seasons.

And the Wayne State College Wildcats can be considered one of the top passing offense teams in the nation.

Some advice I would offer is to come to the games. There should be plenty of area football left to see.

•The majority of Halloween traffic accidents occur when children dart between parked cars. Children should visit houses on one side of the street first, then cross the street at the crosswalks to visit houses on the other side of the street.

•Encourage children to "trick or treat" during daylight hours.

Corporations not taking over farms

Any number of strange things occur during an election year, some of them with amazing regularity.

One of these is the politicians' predictable call to "save the family farm."

Most politicians never get around to defining "family farm." Instead, they speak in ominous tones about the dread danger of corporate takeover of U.S. agriculture.

To get right down to it, the threat of corporate takeover has been greatly exaggerated. It's an emotional issue, one that can become inflamed because the public can be easily alarmed by any real — or imagined — threat to its food supply.

Change of any kind away from an individual's perception of traditional farming or ranching can be unsettling, even if that change improves the food supply and reduces grocery prices.

The 1974 Census of Agriculture made a special effort to identify farm owners and classify them by their percentage of production. The 1974 results showed that corporations of all types owned and operated only about 2 percent of all U.S. farms.

And of that 2 percent, nearly 80 percent were family-owned and operated. The 1978 Census of Agriculture, released last year, showed that the percentage figures remained much the same. Individuals or families operated 87.8 percent of all U.S. farms and ranches, partnerships accounted for 9.7 percent and corporations accounted for 2.1 percent.

The remaining 4 percent was owned by organizations such as Boys Town, prisons or institutions doing experimental research.

AGAIN, THE VAST majority of all farm corporations — 88.6 percent — are family-owned.

Looking at the 1978 census data, another way, 66.7 percent of the total farm and ranch acreage was owned by individuals or families. Partnerships accounted for 15.5 percent, corporations for 11.7 percent and "other" for 6.2 percent.

Of the corporate-owned land, 10.1 percent was family-held and 1.6 percent was held by non-family corporations.

What this mass of statistics does is confirm the strength of the family farming system and refute fears about corporate takeover. So how come all this hoopla about saving the family farm?

The concern is generated and promoted by political and social action groups for their own purposes. It tends to peak in election years. It's politically popular to profess support for the virtues of family life on the farm.

Federal farm program legislation of dubious value often has been promoted as strengthening the farm family.

It is true that farm and ranch production processes are complex and therefore puzzling to many people. This becomes increasingly apparent as both farms and cities grow larger and farming changes more rapidly.

American farm families have been among the first to benefit from change by increasing production through new technology. As a result, farming or ranching by today's family is a great deal different from what most people think of as a typical or traditional family farm.

And certainly many family farms and ranches are having a tough time of it these days and everyone who eats should be concerned about this.

But there is no reason to worry that corporations are taking over America's farms and ranches.

To the editor:

Your column "Letters to the Editor" should realistically be entitled "Letters to be Edited." By the time you had finished "hacken away" on my letter, I was not sure that I had even written it.

The most important points had been removed, reformatted, or rewritten to change the meaning totally. The only reasons I am writing this letter are to voice my displeasure with the editorial liberties you took with my letter and to let your readers know that I would not write anything with such poor usage of the English language.

Gwen O. Cook

Editor's Note: During the typesetting of Cook's letter, part of a sentence was inadvertently omitted. The paragraph should read as follows:

If the paper wishes to have an informed voting public, equal space and placement should be provided for opposing candidates' views on political issues. It appears from the article that the paper is providing "free" paid advertising for a political candidate under the guise of "news."

This editor did not "intentionally" remove or rewrite any of the important parts as stated by Cook. The letter was reformatted (broken into more paragraphs) to provide easier reading to our subscribers.

Meetings scheduled Nov. 8-9

Parents encouraged to prepare for conference with teachers

Parent-teacher conferences are scheduled Nov. 8 and 9 in the Wayne-Carroll school system, and High School Principal Dr. Donald Zeiss said there are several things parents can do to prepare.

Zeiss said the conferences are just one of the steps the school takes to work with parents to build their child's educational program.

"They (the conferences) serve as an opportunity to get to know teachers, learn about the school and curriculum, and discuss strengths and weaknesses in various areas," said Zeiss.

TO PREPARE for the conferences, Zeiss said parents can begin by making a list of things that will help the teachers understand their child better.

For example, Zeiss added, parents can write down any special health needs or problems that their child might have, outside interests and hobbies, feelings about school relationships with brothers and sisters, etc.

In addition, Zeiss suggested that parents make a list of things they would like to find out from the teacher, including discipline policies, grading policy, daily schedule, homework policy, health and safety programs, etc.

Within the conference, Zeiss said teachers will tell parents test results and what they mean, what subjects are being taken and how he/she is doing, strengths and weaknesses in school, and any other observations that can be helpful.

The teacher may also have suggestions or ideas to be used at home to help a school.

ZEISS SAID when the conference is over, parents will have a better understanding of all aspects of the child's school experience.

"They will know more about strengths and weaknesses, special abilities and current performance, and should have a plan to help children do the best from then on."

Zeiss said this could mean new rules on watching television, special time to do homework, contact with other agencies if necessary, or any other changes agreed upon by the parents and the teacher.

"EVERYONE BENEFITS from a parent-teacher conference," stressed Zeiss, adding that parents learn new things about their children and get ideas on how they can help them do better in school, while teachers understand each child better and do a better job of meeting each one's educational needs.

"Most importantly," said Zeiss, "the child receives a better and more personalized education."

Have a safe, fun Halloween
 In ancient Britain, when the Druids needed food and firewood to celebrate their New Year, Druid priests would go from home to home begging for what they needed.

And in Medieval times, the poor would go "a souling" — exchanging prayers for dead souls and promising to lead bad spirits away from town in return for gifts of food.

Today, the sight and sounds of children dressed in imaginative costumes tricking and treating throughout the neighborhood is something we often look forward to as Halloween draws near. It is an activity that ties together all sorts of other Halloween festivities, from school parties to "haunted" houses.

BUT HALLOWEEN also has its darker side. Among parents, these celebrations raise three main issues: pranksterism, safe food treats, and street safety.

Recent events have prompted many city officials to ban trick or treating and other organizations to provide alternative activities.

Parents wishing to preserve Halloween's traditions, but who find the holiday becoming a little too scary, have become more involved with the supervision of door-to-door trick or treating. This way they can ease their worries, while ensuring that their children still have fun.

For many, trick or treating has been a simple notion, either give a "treat" or endure practical jokes on you or your property.

Some parents and communities have viewed this sort of activity as both destructive and as a mild form of blackmail.

To emphasize the positive aspects of Halloween, they focus on a more constructive interpretation of the word "trick" — encouraging such simple magic tricks as palming a coin, more active tricks such as juggling, or the simplest, guessing the identity of a person in disguise.

SO, FOR THE favor of being entertained, the giving of a treat has become more acceptable. Many parents now refer to the activity as "trick AND treating" or, as the kids say, "trick 'n' treating."

—Disguises are, of course, tricks enough to deserve a treat: "Guess who I am?" allows children to both surprise and delight.

—Magic tricks are wonderful for children on the move. There are many sources for learning simple tricks: from friends, from books on magic, and from games for children at the library. What better time to do magic than on the anniversary of Houdini's death?

—Active tricks such as juggling, singing or reciting a short poem or limerick also involve the "tricksters" in the tradition.

—Halloween treats usually mean candy. However, packaged or homemade cakes, cookies or doughnuts, fruits, nuts, popcorn and other foods that are traditional at harvest time have become increasingly popular.

HAVE A SAFE and happy Halloween this year by planning ahead with your children. Make this special night more fun for young and old alike.

QUARTERBACK TED LUEDERS takes the snap and gets set to handoff to running back Tom Perry.

BLUE DEVIL defenders Chris Wieseler (54) and Dan Gross (28) sandwich the Eagle ball carrier.

Blue Devils go on to playoffs after 47-21 O'Neill win

The Wayne-Carroll Blue Devil put the finishing touches on their first undefeated regular season in ten years last Wednesday night, rolling past the O'Neill Eagles 47-21 at Memorial Stadium on the Wayne State Campus.

The win gave the Blue Devils a perfect 9-0 record in regular season play and marked a complete turnaround for the Wayne football program, which just four years ago, in 1980, was 0-9 in the regular season and in last place in the West Husker conference. That year, those players who are now seniors on the Blue Devil squad were eighth graders and just setting their sights on the high school program.

It was also the first undefeated regular season for Coach Lonnie Ehrhardt at the helm of the Blue Devil football program, which he joined in 1980, and both he and the team are thrilled at the results of the season thus far. "The kids really feel good about finishing the regular season at 9-0. It means a lot to them," said Ehrhardt. "It's a tribute to the hard work and effort that everyone has put into the program."

In 1974, under former Coach Al Hansen, the Wayne team ended the regular season at 9-0 and split in a pair of playoff games before ending the year at 10-1.

THE BLUE DEVIL offense roared for 21 points in the game's first quarter, beginning with a drive from midfield which ended eight plays later on a nine yard run by senior running back Steve Overin. Senior Chris Wieseler kicked the point after to give Wayne a 7-0 lead with 6:55 on the clock.

O'Neill stalled on their next drive with the ball and Wayne took the ball over on their own 47-yard line. Six plays later Overin carried for the second of four touchdowns on the night, taking the ball in from the three-yard line. Wieseler booted the point after to increase the Blue Devil lead to 14-0 with two minutes left in the first period.

The Wayne passing game came into use throughout the contest as sophomore quarterback Ted Lueders hit the arms of waiting receiver Steve Overin on a 46 yard screen pass for the touchdown with 40 remaining. Chris Wieseler split the uprights on the point after attempt for the 21-0 lead.

THE SECOND QUARTER saw a slight letdown in the Blue Devil defensive efforts as O'Neill sustained a 70 yard drive downfield to chew a hunk of time off the clock and score on a one-yard run by tight end Gerard Parks with 4:09 in the half.

"Our defense played very well throughout the night, but showed a little letdown in the second quarter," said Ehrhardt. "That gave some of the momentum to O'Neill, but it really never hurt us in the outcome of the game."

Wayne again piled points on the board in the game's third quarter, adding 20 points to swell their lead to 41-7 going into the final 12 minutes.

The Blue Devil defenders held O'Neill deep in their own territory and on fourth down and seven, the Eagles gave up the ball on a bad snap from center on the fake punt attempt and Wayne took over on the O'Neill five-yard line.

The scoring drive took just two plays, a carry by Overin to put the ball at the three-yard line and then a plunge by Overin to cross the goal line for the score. Chris Wieseler's fourth straight extra point of the night put the score at 28-7 Wayne with 7:33 in the third period.

THREE MINUTES LATER, the Blue Devils senior Kevin Maly returned an

O'Neill punt 16 yards which combined with an Eagle penalty to give Wayne possession

Playoff position

The Wayne-Carroll Blue Devils will face the West Point Cadets in the opening round of the Class B Nebraska High School play-offs.

The announcement came as a mild surprise to the Blue Devil coaching staff members. "We really don't think we would be playing them," said Blue Devil Head Coach Lonnie Ehrhardt.

"It will be a good game because it's a rematch. Both have been successful teams this season," said Ehrhardt.

Game time of the football contest between the Cadets and the Blue Devils will be Wednesday evening (Oct. 31) 7:30 p.m. at Wayne State College Memorial Stadium.

West Point boasts of a 8-1 season record - their only loss coming to the hands of Wayne on Sept. 21 at Memorial Stadium. The Blue Devils won the game by a 7-0 score.

In that game, Wayne had 208 yards of total offense compared to 105 yards for West Point. Brad Moore had tossed a 39 yard scoring strike to Dan Gross and an extra point kick by Chris Wieseler produced the only points of the evening.

The winner of this game will play the winner of the Elkhorn and Blair contest Wednesday evening, according to Ehrhardt.

of the ball first and ten on the O'Neill 27-yard line. The Eagles were again penalized 13 yards to move the ball to the 14-yard line where Overin rushed for three yards to the 11. Junior running back Tom Perry made his first points of the game seconds later when he carried the ball on a 11 yard romp to the endzone, followed by a point after by Wieseler with 4:30 in the quarter.

Wayne gave up the ball on a fumble during their next possession and O'Neill took over on their own 45 yard line, only to have the pass on their first play from scrimmage intercepted by senior Pete Warne. Warne, playing in the defensive secondary, sprung up for the interception and raced 56 yards down the sideline for the touchdown to increase the Wayne lead to 41-7 with two minutes left. Wieseler went wide on the extra point attempt to leave the score intact.

Ehrhardt let his reserves see action in the closing minutes of the third period and throughout the final quarter. Tom Perry scored his second touchdown with 8:08 in the game on a five-yard run which capped a drive which began on the WHS 44 yard line. A bad snap from the center on the extra point ended the Wayne scoring at 47-7.

O'NEILL TOOK advantage of a pair of scoring opportunities in the game's waning minutes. After taking the ball over on their own 39-yard line, O'Neill tailback Mark Hargison ran the ball in from seven yards out for the touchdown with the extra point by Dave Sharp good.

The final touchdown for the Eagles came with 1:45 when quarterback Greg Appleby hit fullback Rick Devall on a 38 yard touchdown-pass-Sherp's extra point made the final score 47-21.

Wayne totaled just 183 yards rushing in the game, which is under their game average, but passed the ball six times for as many completions and 105 yards in the air. Ted Lueders was 5-5 with the total yardage and one touchdown while Steve Overin threw the ball one time for a completion.

Top receivers included Steve Overin with two catches for 70 yards, Kevin Maly with a pair of receptions for 18 yards and junior Dan Gross with one catch for 12 yards.

Overin led the rushing game with 16 carries for 109 yards and three touchdowns. Tom Perry had 12 rushing attempts for 62 yards and two touchdowns, while Ted Lueders kept the ball five times for one yard.

Other ball carriers included Pete Warne with one rush for three yards, junior running back Tim Fleming with four rushes for seven yards, sophomore running back Alan Foote had two carries for five yards and sophomore quarterback Jon Stollenberg and wingback Rod Luft each had one rush for minus two yards.

"I was very happy with the performance of our players who stepped in and played well; including Tom Perry, Bill Liska and Mark Creighton," said Ehrhardt. "We were able to give the younger kids some playing time and get experience...that will help us out down the line."

Senior running back Kevin Koenig, who suffered an ankle sprain in the game versus Hartington Cedar Catholic, was held out of the offensive lineup and saw action on defense "to keep him loosened up," said Ehrhardt. Koenig is expected to be ready for full action in the Wednesday night playoff game.

Wayne's defensive effort was headed by Dan Gross with three solo tackles and eight assists for 11 total tackles. Chris Wieseler had 11 tackles and also recorded a fumble recovery, and Koenig had 10 stops on one solo and nine assists.

Rod Luft had nine tackles on nine assists, while senior Carl Urwiler had eight tackles, including a pair of solo quarterback sacks.

Junior tackle Jeff Hausmann logged eight tackles and senior Darrin Bafner had eight stops as well.

Junior Jon McCright and Hausmann both broke through the O'Neill defensive line for quarterback sacks and Pete Warne intercepted an Eagle pass for a touchdown return.

The return teams for Wayne also saw a great deal of action with Kevin Maly returning two punts for 31 yards and a pair of kickoffs for 68 yards.

"Our ball returns really helped out, and gave us great field position all night long," Ehrhardt. "Whenever we took the ball over, we were always in good shape."

Starting center senior Tim Book suffered muscle spasms in his upper back and was forced to leave the game during the first half. Ehrhardt said they will continue to work on the problem and Book should see some action this week.

Area teams battle

Wakefield holds on to take 42-38 victory over Laurel

A game which began with the looks of a blowout ended up coming down to the final seconds as the Wakefield Trojans slipped past the Laurel-Concord Bears last Wednesday night at home 42-38.

The Trojans opened to an early first quarter 22-6 lead and increased to a 30-12 halftime margin before the Bears "roared" back into the contest in the third and fourth quarters, outscoring Wakefield 28-12 to close the gap to four points.

Wakefield relied primarily on their ground game for moving the ball throughout the night, carrying the ball 43 times for 230 yards and passing for 83. Laurel showed their most balanced offensive output of the season, rushing 42 times for 198 yards and going to the air for an additional 215 yards.

THE HIGH-SCORING affair began quickly when Wakefield took possession on their own 26-yard line. Junior halfback John Halverson took the ball 44 yards on the fourth play from scrimmage to score the touchdown. Sophomore halfback Brad Lund carried the ball in on the extra point try to give Wakefield a 9-0 lead.

On the following kickoff, Wakefield's kicker gave up a squibby kick which hit a Laurel player and was recovered by Wakefield on the Bears 34-yard line.

The scoring drive took 11 plays and ended with a one-yard plunge into the endzone by Lund. John Halverson ran in the extra two points try to put Wakefield up 16-0.

On one of their next possessions, Laurel began at their own 28-yard line and sustained a drive to the Wakefield 37-yard line, where quarterback senior Kyle Daberkow hit Jeff Curry on a pass play for the score. The passing attempts for the extra points fell incomplete.

The quarter's scoring spree was ended when senior Brian Soderberg took the following kickoff and raced downfield 71 yards for the score. The point after pass attempt was intercepted to leave the Wakefield lead at 22-6.

IN THE SECOND period, Wakefield took control of the ball at their own 24-yard line after Laurel turned it over on downs. The Trojans drove downfield and scored on a 15-yard pass reception from Soderberg to Halverson. Jason Erb caught the pass from Soderberg for the extra point conversion.

With three minutes remaining in the half, Laurel combined a mixture of pass and running plays to mount an offensive attack which moved them into scoring position, where sophomore Brent Haisch latched onto a nine-yard pass from Daberkow for six points.

Laurel had one more scoring opportunity just before half when they intercepted a Trojan pass to regain possession and then sprung a 42-yard pass play from Daberkow to Jeff Curry to get to the six-yard line. At that point, Laurel got off three plays, including two incomplete passes and a two-yard run by Haisch before time ran out.

Bears fans received an additional scare in the opening moments of the third quarter when Laurel gave up the ball on a fumble of the opening kickoff. Wakefield was unable to use the ball to their advantage and turned the ball back over to the Bears on a punt.

NEITHER TEAM WAS able to do much with the ball on their next possessions, until Wakefield broke loose on their first play from scrimmage after taking the ball over on downs. Brad Lund took the ball on the handoff from Soderberg and was able to get through the hole and ramble down 56 yards for the touchdown to increase the Trojan lead to 36-12 at that point. The run attempt for the two points failed.

The Bears then put the spark in their offensive unit, taking the kickoff on their own 34-yard line and used a Brent Haisch run of 20 to get in scoring position to set up a 24-yard run by Haisch for the score. The pass for the extra points was incomplete to bring the Bears closer with a 36-18 margin.

At the end of the period, senior Mike Granquist came up with a pass interception for Laurel at their own 39-yard line. The Bears moved the ball on a series of running plays and broke into the endzone on a four-yard push by Brent Haisch, closing the gap on the scoreboard to 36-24 at the end of the third quarter.

The final period saw Wakefield's offense score their last points of the game when Brian Lund scored his third touchdown of the night on a 39-yard run on the second play from scrimmage. The point after failed and the Trojans held a 42-24 lead.

From then on, the scoring game belonged to Laurel, as they scored two touchdowns to pull within four points.

THE FIRST CAME on the series following Wakefield's score. The Bears went from their own 21-yard line to the Trojan three-yard line on a series which included two pass interference calls on Wakefield. The touchdown came off a three-yard pass from Daberkow to senior Mike Forsberg, and the point after from Haisch to Scott Rath was also good.

Wakefield intercepted a Laurel pass on their next possession and began to work their way downfield. On fourth down they punted the ball which was blocked and recovered by the Bears' Randy Prescott and returned to the three-yard line before he was knocked out of bounds.

Dave Kardell ran the ball into the endzone for the touchdown with :51 on the clock to bring up the score to 42-38.

The Bears went with the inside kick, which proved successful, as they recovered the ball on the Wakefield 40-yard line. A complete pass up the middle gained 15 yards, but the Bears were called for an illegal motion penalty followed by an incomplete pass to stall the drive. With 11 seconds left in the game, Wakefield's Jason Erb pulled the rug out from under Laurel when he picked off a pass and time ran out.

BRAD LUND ended the game as the leading rusher with 24 carries and 180 yards for three touchdowns. John Halverson had five carries for 55 yards and one score for Wakefield.

Laurel's Brent Haisch had 26 rushes for 139 yards and a pair of touchdowns, along with Jeff Curry who had 11 attempts for 55 yards.

In passing receiving, Jeff Curry had two receptions for 79 yards and a touchdown for Laurel, while Jason Erb led Wakefield with six catches for 46 yards.

Defensively, Brian Soderberg led all tacklers with 25 stops and one pass interception. Teammate Brad Lund added 10 tackles and Jeff Rose had one solo and 11 assists for 12 tackles and one fumble recovery.

Kirt Roberts had five solos and 10 assists for 15 tackles and Jason Erb had a pass interception and a fumble recovery which set up Wakefield's second touchdown of the game.

For Laurel, Scott Liewer had 12 tackles, followed by Randy Prescott with 10 tackles including a quarterback sack, a fumble recovery and recovery of a blocked punt. Dean Jones and Mike Granquist each hauled in a pass interception and Dave Kardell logged a quarterback sack in the game.

"OFFENSIVELY, IF we had healthy backs, we would be in a much better position," said Wakefield Coach Dennis Wilbur.

"We have lost a back in each of the games that we have lost, and depth at the running back position just wasn't there."

"In the third quarter, Laurel really did a job on us... and we had fumbles that hurt us. In the fourth quarter, we ran 10 plays from scrimmage, and three of those were fumbles," Wilbur added.

Laurel Coach Kurt Buckwalter cited that his team had chances to win, and that the Bears "put just as many touchdowns on the board as Wakefield, but the missed extra points proved to be the difference."

"We had chances to win, and we came back against a lot of different things after being down so far so early," Buckwalter said.

Hopes for even season fall in Eagle 28-22 loss to Wildcats

Allen saw their hopes of a .500 football season fall short last Wednesday night as the Hartington Wildcats picked up the first win of the season downing the Eagles 28-22. The loss ended the football season for Allen at the 3-5 mark.

NEITHER TEAM WAS able to put together an offensive drive in the opening 12 minutes as they moved back and forth at midfield, but struck with two touchdowns each in the second period to lead to a 14-14 knot at halftime.

The Eagles put the first points on the board with a drive which ended in a five-yard pass from senior quarterback Brian Hansen to junior Steve Jones for the score. The pass proved reliable on the extra point as well, with Hansen hitting junior Brian Malcom for two points.

Hartington came back to even the score a 8-8 moments later when they took the ball down and crossed into the endzone on a two-yard running play. Their try at the two point conversion was also good.

The Wildcats then scored a second touchdown on a 15-yard pass play to cap a series and missed on the extra point try to lead 14-8.

IN THE CLOSING minutes of the half, Allen evened the score at 14-14 when senior back Shawn Mahler took the ball on a handoff and broke through for a two-yard touchdown run. The kick attempt for the extra point was no good.

The third quarter scoring began with the Eagles' Hansen taking the ball in from the four-yard line on a quarterback keeper. Shawn Mahler handled the ball on the successful extra point try and Allen took a 22-14 lead.

Hartington ended the night's scoring with a pair of touchdowns to overcome Allen and earn the win, including a 42-yard touchdown run from scrimmage to tie the score and a two-yard burst in the final moments to take the lead 28-22.

Allen had a final opportunity to score in the closing second and drove the ball down to the Hartington two-yard line before time ran out.

Both teams posted strong rushing attacks, with the Eagles out-yarding Hartington High 315 yards to 220 yards. Allen went the way of the pass 19 times for seven receptions and one touchdown while the Wildcats were 50 percent in the air on six completions in 12 attempts and one touchdown.

"WE DROPPED A couple of touchdown passes in the game, which really hurt us, along with giving up an interception on the goal line," said Eagle Coach Dave Uldrich. "Hartington had ball control throughout the third period, which also proved to be an important factor."

Another area which might have affected the Eagles, said Uldrich, was the almost two-week layoff that they had since their last game against Walhill, which they won 55-28.

Leading rusher for Allen was Shawn Mahler with 22 carries for 119 yards and a touchdown, while senior back Shane Fahrenholz had 12 rushes for 95 yards. The night's other rushing touchdown was scored by Brian Hansen with eight carries for 12 yards and the score.

Brian Malcom had two pass receptions for 17 yards and Steve Jones had one catch for a five-yard touchdown.

Leading the defensive stats was Jay Jones with a game and season-high 35 tackles. Shawn Mahler added 21 stops and picked off two Wildcat passes and Brian Hansen had 13 tackles and one fumble recovery on defense. Shane Fahrenholz also logged 13 tackles on the night.

WSC reserves post first grid win in finale

Despite the loss of their quarterback in the third period of the game, the Wayne State College Wildcat junior varsity football team poured on 41 second-half points to post a 57-14 victory over Nebraska Wesleyan on Monday.

The win ended the team's season with an even 1-1 record, including a tie with Westmar College and a loss to Midland Lutheran College earlier in the year.

WAYNE LED THE game at the end of the first period off a touchdown run of six yards by freshman Rob Fangman with 11:32 on the clock, followed by the successful kick for the extra point.

The WSC defense was able to break through the offensive line and get into the endzone with just over two minutes left in the period to sack the quarterback for a safety.

A field goal with :25 left in the half boosted the Wayne State margin to 12-0 at the halftime.

The WSC offense took a severe blow in the opening minutes of the third period when quarterback Terry Graver suffered a dislocated shoulder and left the game. Replacing him was freshman defensive back Glenn Matthews, who had gained his quarterbacking experience as the signal caller at Omaha Central High School.

With their offensive situation, reserve Coach Rich Bisaccia said that the team implemented a basic sweep running play and keyed on that through the entire game, with great success.

The play proved to be very productive as the Cats went on to score 20 third quarter points and 21 fourth quarter points to romp past Nebraska Wesleyan by the final margin.

SCORING BEGAN WITH a four yard run by Rob Fangman with 12:24 on the clock and continued with a 14 yard run by freshman running back Mike Bullard two minutes later.

The lone scoring pass came from the arm of Matthews to sophomore wide receiver Darryl Mountain for 17 yards.

Wesleyan's first score came in the closing seconds of the third period when they reached the endzone on a three yard run.

Midway through the fourth quarter Bullard broke loose on a 31 yard touchdown run to score for the Wildcats.

Less than a minute later Wesleyan made good on a 14 yard scoring pass and a two point conversion to close the gap to 44-14 in favor of the Cats.

The last score of the game came with 6:46 remaining when freshman running back Kenny Ross snuck free and raced 36 yards to the endzone to make the score 53-14.

ROSS'S LONG RUN helped to make him the top ball carrier in the game with 95 yards on 11 carries. Mike Bullard had 12 rushes for 83 yards and sophomore Rodney had 43 yards on 10 attempts.

Wayne's pass receiving game was led by freshman wide receiver Bob Backman with five catches for 58 yards and sophomore Rob Hanzlik with 50 yards on three receptions.

Freshman linebacker Greg Cavill had 11 tackles with three solos and 12 assists by the defense unit. Junior defensive lineman Joel Broekemeier had 10 stops and freshman defensive lineman Don Bierman had eight.

Bisaccia said that the win showcased the team's "best group effort of the season" and was a major step forward in boosting the junior varsity program.

Pheasant, quail seasons open Nov. 3

The day upland bird hunters have been awaiting all year is almost here, as Nebraska's 1984 pheasant, quail and Hungarian partridge seasons open Saturday, Nov. 3.

This year's pheasant season will continue through Dec. 31. The daily bag limit will be three roosters, the possession limit is nine.

Hunters may have to work somewhat harder for their birds this year if biologists' population estimates are correct.

Because many of the birds will be younger, they may be more difficult for the hunter to identify when they flush in the field.

Hunters may also cackle when they fly, but the sound is likely to be more of a raspy croak than the usual distinctive sharp cackle of the adult rooster. Young hens are easy to identify because they look just like adult hens.

The 1984 bobwhite quail hunting season will be Nov. 3 through Dec. 16. The daily bag limit will be four, the possession limit is 12.

This year's abbreviated season and smaller bag and possession limits reflect a considerable decline in quail numbers across the state.

Biologists say Nebraska is on the northwestern fringe of the quail range and a severe winter, like last year's usually results in substantial losses.

Recent reports indicate there were some late hatches which may influence the quail populations to some degree and put some younger birds in the hunter's bag.

THE HUNGARIAN PARTRIDGE season will continue through Dec. 31. The daily bag limit is three, the possession limit is nine.

Shooting hours for all three upland bird species are one half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The hunter must have a 1984 Nebraska Hunting permit and a 1984 Nebraska Habitat Stamp in his possession while hunting.

Both are available from any of 1,200 permit vendors across the state.

THE NEBRASKA Public Power District (NPPD) has been granted four temporary restraining orders barring owners of 11 parcels of land within Thurston County from prohibiting the power company to enter those grounds for purposes of surveying and inspecting. The orders were granted in the District Court of Thurston County earlier this month after four area families notified NPPD that they felt the easements which granted NPPD access to those lands were no longer valid.

ONE PERCENT of Cumming County students dropped out of secondary school in the past year, compared to the state-wide average of 2.7 percent, according to a report from the state department of education. Drop-out rates in surrounding counties include: Burt, 3.1 percent; Dodge, 2.7 percent; Madison, 2.8 percent; Wayne, 1.9 percent.

WISNER volunteer firemen were called to a fire in a corn field about 10 miles northwest of Wisner about 12:30 p.m. last Tuesday, however the fire had already been extinguished when they arrived. Jim VonSeggern, who was combining the field farmed by Herb Albers Jr., apparently was able to smother the fire before the department arrived.

Be An Informed Voter!

JERRY CONWAY'S opponent is campaigning on his "experience" as a politician — Jerry is campaigning on leadership.

SPECIAL INTEREST GROUPS: Jerry Conway's opponent has collected 78% of his general campaign contributions to date from organized special interest groups (PAC's). Jerry has accepted only 28% to date from PAC's and 72% from individuals for his general election campaign.

STATE SPENDING: Jerry Conway's opponent this year voted to override the Governor's vetoes and spend over $9,000,000.00 more of our tax dollars, including $1.8 million for an activity center in Chadron.

TAXES: Jerry Conway's opponent voted to increase taxes at least NINE times in the last four years.

SPENDING: In the uncontested primary election, Jerry Conway's opponent spent over $8,400 — Jerry spent less than $2,300. Which candidate is really fiscally conservative?

The Wayne Herald, Monday, October 29, 1984

Tales to Tell

Once again The Wayne Herald, with the annual cooperation of Wayne County School District, No. 51 will "treat" our readers with youthful (some bizarre) tales of adventure and mystique. Teacher of the grades seven and eight students is Morris Jacobsen. The pumpkins pictured are the photographed results of the First National Bank of Wayne Pumpkin Carving Contest.

The Monster Bowl

The fans are coming in by the dozens to witness the big game. Hi, I'm Howard Frankenstein. I'm here to bring you this exciting game. Here comes the teams! They flipped earlier to see who kicks. The Ghosts won. There goes the ball. The runner is on the 30 yard line and down he goes. Now the Ghosts throw a pass. Oh my! Nobody can stop number 16! No, wait, it's number 13 (Dracula). It looks as if he's flying. Touch down! Folks the fans are going wild!

The score is 7 to 0 at half time. We'll be back after this station break.

Welcome back, this is Howard Frankenstein. While you were gone, the Ghosts made a touch down. The score is now 7 to 7.

(Later on in the game.) It's the fourth quarter with 4 minutes left in the game. There's a flag on the play, clipping against the Ghosts, 15 yards. The Ghosts throw a pass. They made a 1st and 10 with 10 seconds left. 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, they kick! The kick is good. The Ghosts have won the game 7 to 10.

This has been Howard Frankenstein giving you this play by play game. Stay tuned for more stories.

The Spook House

It was Oct. 31, 1984, when it all happened. I woke up about 6:45 a.m., got dressed, did my chores, at my breakfast, and went to school. It was a normal day except for the spook house. If you are easy to scare, don't read this part.

Today was the day when we scare all the little kids. First, there was blood all over the floor. Then Mike's brains were all over.

The first person to come in was Mary. She fell on the blood that was on the floor. Her face turned the same color as the floor. The mannequin made the rest of her body purple. After she was done, she called her mom to come and pick her up.

The next day of course we had to clean it all up.

The funhouse

Lisa, Phillip, Denise, and Tony were waiting in line to get tickets to the funhouse. When they went into the funhouse, they sat in a gondola. Then the castle doors opened, swallowed them, then closed again. At first the gondola moved rapidly into the pitch blackness, but then it stopped. A light popped on to the left and above it a leering pirate laughed and thrust a sword at them. They kept going and the car slowed even more, then stopped.

Something creaked loud overhead. An arm thrust down from the low, unlighted ceiling over the gondola, an arm that ended in a large, long-fingered, fur covered hand with sharp claws. What ever it was, its claw's pierced Tony's throat, hooked deep in his flesh and hauled him off his seat. Tony kicked frantically, his shoes drumming on the front of the gondola for a second or two. Overhead a trapdoor banged shut.

Phillip looked at the girls. "Let's get out of here," he said. They moved deeper into the funhouse. All of a sudden, Lisa started to run the opposite way, Denise yelled, but it was too late. "This is crazy," Phillip answered. The instant he finished speaking, a speck of blood appeared in the center of his chest. Then there was a follow-up noise that echoed through the cavern-crack! Phillip's mouth fell open. He gurgled, sighed, and slumped over. Denise thought she heard Lisa scream, a short cry of terror and pain. Then nothing but the usual funhouse noises. Denise turned around, saw a trap door and opened it. She heard a growl, a hideous, non-human freak walked toward her. She had an old rusty knife she had found on one of the exhibits. When he came close enough, she pulled out the knife, shoved it deep in his stomach. Then she heard something clunk! She sat up. She was in her room. It was all a bad dream.

One Halloween Night

One Halloween night we went trick-or-treating and we got caught in an alley and two ghosts put us in a cage. They left and we could not think of a way out of the cage. I saw a button and pushed it and Mike, Jr., and I fell through a trap door. We hit the bottom with a boom and then we saw a door and started to walk for a mile or two. We ended up by a haunted house. When we got half way home we saw two sheets. Then we saw Tim and his friend. They were laughing. Then we knew it was Tim and his friend that scared us. So then Mike, Jr., and I scared them too.

The Slumber Party

It was Halloween night and all the girls had a slumber party at the old house. We were ready to go to sleep when we heard a stone hit the window. We opened the shade and saw a man with blood all over his face. We heard a scream come from the other side of the house. Some of the girls wanted to go home. I felt a cold wind go across my back. We heard a creak and something go across the attic floor. No one would go up the stairs with me. So I went up myself. Every stair step made a noise. One was broke. I stepped around it carefully. When I got up there, I saw a recorder. When I turned it on, it made the same kind of noise we heard. Then right when I was turning it off, I felt somebody touch me on the back. I turned around and saw a man. I ran down the stairs being careful to jump the broken step. But just as I got down the stairs, I heard a crack. It was the man. He forgot to jump the step and got a concussion. One of the girls called the police. By the time they got there, the man woke up and we never saw the man or went by the house again.

One Frank

On Halloween Day Julie had Lisa come over to go trick or treating. When she got there, they rode the three wheeler. Then they played tapes and watched T.V. When it was 8:00, Julie and Lisa went to change into their costumes. As they were changing, Lisa saw someone look in the window. It had a bloody face. Julie and Lisa were really scared. Julie's parents had gone to a party. They were all alone. They ran out of her room and went into the living room. Then they saw another face. They started screaming and ran into her parent's room. As Julie was shutting the curtains, she saw another face. They both were really scared now. They ran into the bathroom, and saw another face. Julie and Lisa didn't know what to do. So they ran into the kitchen to phone her parents, and saw another face, but it was Lisa's brother. Lisa went to let them in. Both of them were really mad. They said it was a joke. That night, Julie and Lisa went trick-or-treating and had a blast. They both had two sacks of candy. It was a great Halloween.

One Halloween Night

One Halloween night, not too long ago, Ricky Adams, who had just gotten back from going trick-or-treating was in his bed trying to get to sleep. His mind was full of scary thoughts, so when he looked in the corner of his room and saw a dark figure, he was very scared. He couldn't help thinking of all the scary things it could be. He was afraid to move or say anything for fear of what this horrible thing might do to him. So he just kept as still as he could until he finally fell asleep. He dreamt all night about the figure in the corner.

The next morning when Ricky woke up, he found out that the dark object in the corner was just his teddy bear.

The Snow Ghost

One cold snowy Halloween night, Officer Frank Ohulahan and I were on patrol for egg throwers. When a call came in, it was reported that the legendary snow ghost had been spotted. We knew it was a prank, but we decided to check it out any way. When we arrived at the corner of 150th and Wilsher Boulevard, we got out of the car. We split up. After I checked the next house and questioned the occupants, I heard Frank yelling for me. I came running.

Frank had found a young trick-or-treater no older than eight lying in the snow with his head cut length ways with a chain saw. We called for reinforcements and then started following the blood trail.

The snow storm turned into a blizzard and our walkie-talkies weren't working. We saw a cave. We couldn't see the trail anymore so we decided to go in until the snow let up. It was dark inside and our flashlights weren't working. Then the snow ghost jumped out with the chain saw. It went G-r-r-r. And before I knew what happened, Frank was lying on the ground cut in half at the waist. Then he came after me. I slipped and fell. He was almost on top of me. Then every thing went blank. The next morning I woke up in the hospital and my hands and tongue were cut off. I couldn't write or talk so the case of the snow ghost was never solved.

Trick-or-Treat

I went out of the house one night to go trick-or-treating. I knocked on a door and a witch answered. I told her trick-or-treat. The witch was brewing stew. I went to the next house and knocked on the door and said "trick-or-treat," and a ghost answered. I went down the street and saw a bat. It kept flying straight. I walked down the street farther and saw a ghost. It flew around and landed. I ran up the street. Here came the bat again. I ran behind a tree. It went past. I went on the street and I went trick-or-treating again.

CANCER

The term "cancer" reflects a new growth in the body with a harmful nature and a lethal potential. Cancer cells can arise in any body tissue, at any age. They can spread by direct extension, by blood channels, or by lymphatic drainage channels. In our society deaths by cancer are exceeded only by those resulting from cardiovascular disease. Almost 56 million Americans now living will be diagnosed as cancer patients, one in every four. Although two thirds of those diagnosed as cancer patients will probably die of their disease, approximately one third will be alive 5 years after treatment. This does not include skin cancers which have a better outcome. Females are more prone to develop cancer than are males, but the gap is closing. In females, the common cancers are those of the breast, colon, uterus and skin, in males the common lesions are those of the lung, colon, skin, prostate and oral cavity. The most rapidly increasing cancer in terms of lethality is lung cancer. The rise in women's lung cancer rates exceeds men's, however the number of men afflicted is the highest overall. This incidence correlates directly with cigarette consumption. This brief summary of the cancer problem introduces our next four articles. They will cover skin cancer, lung cancer, breast cancer and colon cancer respectively. Current recommendations for screening will also be covered so previously published on July 2, 1984.
