Crisis committee wants to be factor on '85 farm bill

by Chuck Hackenmiller

About 40 people — including banking officials, representatives of Senate and Congressional offices in Washington, farmers and the media — joined in discussion last Saturday afternoon at Emerson, trying to compromise on objectives needed to solve northeast Nebraska's agriculture problems. The meeting was sponsored chiefly by The Farm Crisis Committee, which was originally started following the Midwest Governor's Conference in mid-November. The committee is headquartered in Emerson. "All of us here realize the plight of rural America. No person in this room can say they are not dependent on the farmer and no farmer can say he is not dependent on those who aren't farmers," said Tim Wrage, a fertilizer dealer who is chairman of The Farm Crisis Committee.

Objectives arrived at by the farm crisis committee prior to Saturday's meeting Wrage said, have been drawn up as a first measure in providing the federal government with input on the 1985 farm bill.

Four principal objectives were brought to the attention of the farm meeting participants. "We want you to be objective, not saying they won't work but telling us how to make it work," Wrage said.

OBJECTIVES OF THE farm crisis committee are as follows:

- Interest rates must be lowered to 2 percent over the inflation rate. This action could be subsidized by FHA and SBA subsidizing the interest charged by the applicable lending institutions and should stay in effect until the Federal Reserve and the budget deficit come into line. These rates would apply to operation loans.
- Price for corn must be raised to $4.50 per bushel, soybeans $10, wheat $6.40 and other commodities accordingly. This action could be accomplished through the set aside of applicable acres and the payment of deficiency moneys for variances between the cash price and the target price for both livestock and grain.

Loan levels for commodity prices should be established in order to spread out the sale of commodities and to establish a false bottom for pricing. Loans must be repaid within a 23 year period. The commodity must be sold on the open market, not turned over to the government.

Deficiency payments should be made on actual yield, not established yield. Ceilings for the amount of grain allowed to qualify for the deficiency payments must be established at a level to help the family farm — not the corporate farmer (100,000 bushels would appear to be the logical ceiling).

"The standards for the acceptable export of American grains must be changed to include no more than 5 percent foreign matter (current regulations allow for 30 percent foreign matter). A quality product is raised and a quality product should be sold.

And non-active farmers should not be allowed to invest in agriculture for the tax advantages. One example is the depreciation/investment credit allowance for breeding stock.

GOVERNOR BOB KERREY'S agriculture advisor, Bill Kerrey, was present at Saturday's farm crisis committee and injected several of his own insights into the proposed objectives.

"We need what is exactly going on in this room. People getting together...getting organized...and developing simple objectives," Kerrey said.

Groups, he said, have the power to help write the 1985 farm bill. "Organizations such as this are necessary to get the job done," he said. He advised the committee to "keep the message very simple and not present a myriad of issues."

Dealing with farm crisis

Churches offer support

Ways of dealing with the farm crisis are now under consideration by churches of Wayne, according to one area member who attended a recent conference dealing with the difficult times farmers and businessmen are facing.

A group of 45 people attended a conference Saturday at Boys Town, sponsored by the Nebraska Synod of the Lutheran Church in America. Attending from this area were Pastor Kenneth Willock who serves St. Peter Lutheran Church in Pilger and St. Luke in Stanton; Dale Topp of Winfield; St. Peter Lutheran Church representative; Mary Monson of Wayne, representing Redeemer Lutheran Church who is also reporter for the Nebraska Lutheran newspaper; and Pastor David deFreese of Christ Lutheran Church in Pierce.

The conference was a follow up of a conference conducted in March, 1983 in which the directives were offered to have the "church be a catalyst" for a dialogue between farmers and other vocations. Goals of the second conference were to listen, learn, examine the "food-chain" and to identify ways to further inform people regarding food issues.

"NOT ONLY DID the conference highlight food issues, but also the financial crisis which farmers are currently confronting.

"Churches in northeast Nebraska are willing and ready to help. They feel they have a good network — not only locally but on a nationwide basis," said spokesman Mary Monson. "The church can help information on existing programs and direct people to them. They can't help with the money, but can communicate the problem and express our concern and help in any way we are able," she added.

Below are some of the stories of people which were presented at the conference, as written by Monson:

Howard Hanson, Iowa farmer — We need time. My dad said during the depression that those who had time weathered the storm. You've heard it said "we'd get along

Holiday shoppers stay close to home

"Optimistic" seems to be the word this Christmas shopping season, according to several Wayne merchants.

"I would say business is probably up just a bit from last year," said Rich Zrust of Kuhn's Department Store, adding that the reaction he has received from shoppers is that they're tired of fighting crowds in larger surrounding cities and feel that prices are a little better in Wayne.

Zrust credited this year's Chamber of Commerce Christmas promotion as another reason shoppers are staying closer to home. "I've gotten a lot of good comments regarding the gift certificate give-away," added Zrust.

Zrust said he looks for business to continue to get stronger through Christmas. "People are in a much more positive mood since the corn is out."

DAVE LOOSE of Pamida Discount Center says business there also is up from last year. He credits the good weather for increased shopper activity.

Like Zrust, Loose said he too thinks business will continue to increase from now until Christmas.

"I've got to tend to believe that because we have one more shopping weekend this year," commented Loose. "I think the last week is going to be the best weekend of the year."

Roger Nelson of the Rusty Nail said business there is about on par and he's pleased with that.

"The days have been somewhat 'feast and famine type,'" said Nelson. "We've had some real good days and then one or two relatively poor ones."

Nelson added that he expects a good Christmas shopping season but certainly not a record setting one.

GARY VAN METER of Mines Jewelers said he's satisfied with business there so far this season and is optimistic that it will pick up.

"Christmas is the one time of year that people do show and express their feelings," said Van Meter. "Underneath it all, there's still the desire and willingness to give something special."

Van Meter said unmounted diamonds are a popular item in his store this year. "A woman deserves a little special treat this year," said Van Meter. "After all, it's the women who have probably borne the brunt of the economic woes in emotionally supporting their families, their husbands and themselves."

Van Meter said china sales and crystal have also taken off this Christmas season.

"TRAFFIC HAS been good for this early in the season," said Randy Pedersen of the Diamond Center, adding that he feels business there is running ahead of last year.

Pedersen said shoppers are looking for more quality items. "We're selling a lot less inexpensive jewelry and a lot more expensive jewelry."

Jack Hausmann of Coast-to-Coast agrees that customers are looking for better quality merchandise that is also practical.

Popular this year at Coast-to-Coast, according to Hausmann, is the new ultra sonic portable humidifier. Socket sets, hammers and coffee makers and coffee thermos bottles are also selling well.

Hausmann said Trivial Pursuit is a very popular game this year, along with Stomper toys, Barbies and Care Bears for the kids.

The portable AM FM radio and cassette compact are also very popular, according to Hausmann.

POPULAR TOYS at Pamida Discount Center include the match box cars, Rainbow Britie dolls, Go Bots, Tonka toys, and Hasbro's glo worm and glo bug.

"Cabbage Patch dolls if you can get them are probably the number one item this year," said Manager Dave Loose.

Loose said electronic items seem to be popular among the teenagers.

For the adults, Loose said Black and Decker Dust Busters, floor lamps and automatic garage door openers are extremely popular this year. He credits better rebates than last year as the reason for an increase in the sale of small appliances.

Loose said Pamida also is seeing an increase in its new line of furniture.

RECLINERS ARE the most popular items this Christmas shopping season at Discount Furniture, according to Randy Surber.

"People are looking for things they really need like recliners," said Surber, adding that big ticket items are moving a little slower.

Surber said business there could be better, but he's happy considering the state of the economy. "It could be a lot worse."

Tom Schmitz of T and C Electronics said it's too early to judge the amount of traffic in his store, although televisions and satellite dishes have sold very well for the past several months.

"It's too early to say what's going to happen," said Schmitz, "but we definitely hope it picks up."

ALTHOUGH THE traditional Christmas rush hasn't begun in earnest, most Wayne merchants agree that business thus far is running about the same as last year.

"I wouldn't say business is up," said Will Davis of Sav-Mor Pharmacy, "but I do think people are shopping earlier than last year. People don't want to get caught in bad weather like they did last season."

"I know the economy is not good, but we're hoping for better things."

In anticipation of the economy, Davis said he has tried to gear towards less expensive items that look nice.

"Shoppers are purchasing smaller items and more of them," said Davis. "High ticket items just are not selling."

Phil Griess of Griess Rexall Store agrees that this year's Christmas shopper is looking for bargains. Popular at Griess Rexall are perfumes, colognes, Russell Stover candy and Cabbage Patch clip-ons.

Business at the Ben Franklin Store is running close to last year, according to Jean Nuss. Saleable items there include Care Bears, Transformers, Trivial Pursuit and the old favorites such as Barbie dolls.

POPULAR APPLIANCES this year include microwaves and clothes washers and dryers.

"I think the season has probably started a little earlier than last year for us," said Darrell Doescher of Doescher's Appliances.

"We've got a new style microwave that is a pretty hot item this year."

Doescher said he hopes business will at least stay the same from now until Christmas. "But, we could always use more. We'll work nights if we have to."

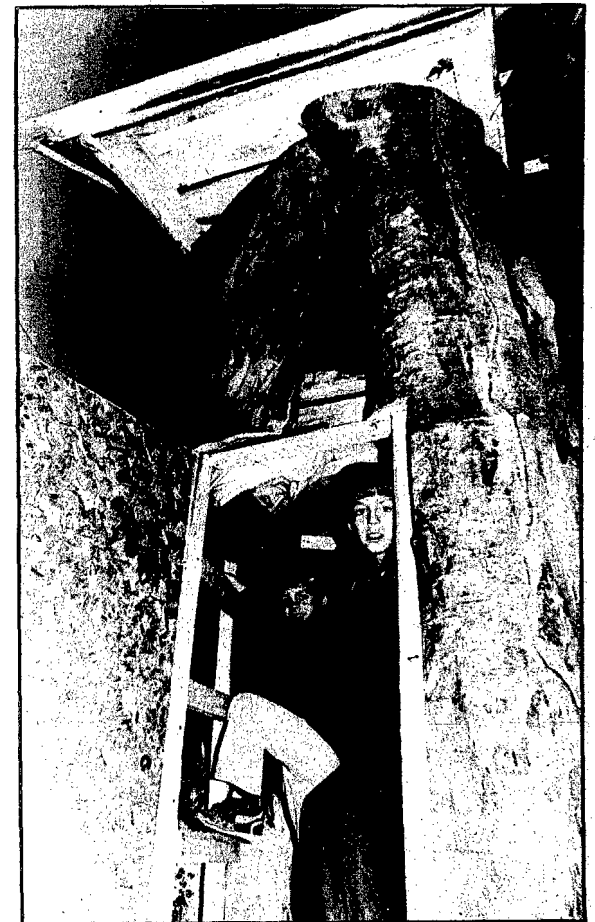

Marge Kudrna of Charlie's Refrigeration and Appliance said shoppers there are looking at washers, dryers and stoves.

"We've had lots of lookers and we're hop-

Warm waiting

MICK AND Connie Hassler, who reside near Emerson, had a clever idea in renovating a hollow tree trunk into a nifty place where the Hassler children can wait "inside" at the end of the driveway for the school bus to arrive. It took a couple of weekends for Mick to construct the two-story bus shelter. The second story of the tree trunk has a look-out window. At play are the Hassler children, Heidi (looking from "top floor"), Michael (climbing ladder) and J.J. (at right).

Transmission line bids

The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) board of directors has approved a contract with Alcan Cable of Atlanta, Ga., for the purchase of wire to be used in the construction of a 345,000 volt transmission line in northeast Nebraska.

The bid was $1,598,730.

The wire will be used on the line linking NPPD's Hoskins substation in Stanton county with the Rau substation owned by Iowa Public Service near Sioux City, Ia. Completion of the transmission line will strengthen NPPD's electrical system in northeast Nebraska and provide additional reliability to an area where electric energy consumption is growing.

Commissioners table taxing farm vehicles

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners decided at their regular meeting on Monday to table a resolution on the taxing of farm vehicles until the Dec. 18 county board meeting.

Merlin Beiermann said he believes a study needs to be made to determine the fairest way of taxing farm vehicles before a resolution is adopted. Beiermann said several questions need to be answered on the issue before a decision is made.

that a farm motor vehicle which is garaged at the owner's residence in a town away from the farm during the greater part of the year is not directly and closely connected with a farm and shall be taxable at the residence of the owner.

Also Monday, a resolution to withdraw securities from First National Bank of Wayne in the amount of $25,000 was approved by the board of commissioners and the Wayne Herald was designated as the county's official newspaper for 1985.

Foundation reports contributions

Wayne area residents have contributed 45.6 percent more money to the Wayne State Foundation during the first 11 months of 1984 compared to the first 11 months of 1983, according to Kirk Hultón, executive director of the Wayne State College Foundation.

Cash gifts during the 11 months of 1984 have totaled $35,795, while at the same time last year the total was $19,487.

Of the $35,795 figure, $23,625 was derived from Wayne businesses, Hultón said.

The recently concluded Wayne State Foundation Businessman Fund Drive fell short of its $11,000 goal — raising $9,375 in cash and pledges. But that was attributed to the tremendous surge of contributions earlier in the year.

"The money raised in Wayne shows that the area residents are investing in the growth and future of Wayne," Hultón said at a breakfast of businessmen Tuesday morning.

"The $35,000 figure really demonstrates that the people of managers. He cited the imbalances of both administrations in the 1970's and unfair world trade practices among the causes of the farm crisis.

He believes that price supports should be geared to the world situation and that farm income should be disconnected from grain support.

• JOE VAAGE, ex banker. "The story on Main Street was that I retired because I couldn't stand to foreclose on friends or people I had worked with over the past 30 years. It was true."

In talking with farmers and their wives, he saw anger, hurt, frustration, depression and fear. They told him that though they both work up to 14 hours a day or more, they knew that one mistake and their way of life would be over. "We don't want giveaways — we want to be profitable like any other business," he said.

Non farmers have no idea of what it takes to operate a farm, he said. They have a glorified picture of acres of beautiful land, good crops and money rolling in from the sale of livestock. They believe the bankers caused them to expand and get them in trouble, but in fact, the bankers tried to hold it down.

It was too easy to buy things on credit with no downpayment.

Foreclosure is the lenders' last resort. The lending institutions don't want the property — they had worked on solutions for months. It can't be sold because there are no buyers. Communication needs to improve between farm families, friends and community.

The farmer needs someone to talk to — pastors and bankers have both been involved in counseling.

"Faith is sustaining many farm families. The church needs to let them know they care and that they can come to the Church for help."

Vaage suggested that more active participation in the programs of the church would help and that perhaps the church could become involved in career counseling for those who might be forced to leave the farm.

"The church can be a safety net and a listening ear," he said.

"Prayer will do a lot. Don't forget to pray!"

One form of education was the presentation of a filmstrip prepared by Pastor Wittrock, Dale Topp and Pastor Raymond Thiel of Omaha called "The Odyssey of a Hamburger" which explains how the meat gets to the consumer.

Representing the viewpoints of the church were Bishop Dennis Anderson of the Nebraska Synod and Bishop Paul Werger of Iowa Synod, in addition to representatives from the Division of Mission in North America, New York and a church advocate from Washington, DC.

Farm crisis

"I encourage you to listen to Tim Wraga (the chairman). Stay together and zero in on the important criteria," Kerrey mentioned.

Neither small hobby farms nor bigger farms are suffering from conditions today as the medium sized farms or "guys like you" are, he said.

Medium size farms represent an overwhelming representation in Nebraska and yet are really fighting for existence, he added.

Concerning the high interest rates, considerations would be to cut the nation's deficit — Kerrey said the deficit is related to the interest rate — or "buy the interest rates down."

"Infusion of capital would be needed to buy the interest rates down," he added.

State Senator-elect Gerald Conway said it is unlikely there are resources at the state level to buy down the interest.

Higher price support for wheat and feed grains is needed from the government. "That same kind of statement can't be made about livestock. One group wants government involvement, some don't," Kerrey said.

He is confident the grain which goes into the Nebraska elevators is of high quality. Something must happen when the grain goes out "If the United States is going to compete [with other grain exporters], then we are going to have to have a high quality product."

THERE ARE SOME who would like to see tax breaks to agriculture "wiped off the books." However, Kerrey feels differently about some areas of tax breaks.

"It makes sense to allow investment credit for a producer than for someone who is living off the farm and does not produce," he said.

Some of the input from the discussion at the farm crisis meeting included the following measures:

• Governor Kerrey's office is to solicit support from governors of area farm belt states (such as Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri) so that concentrated pressure can be applied at Washington to insure a variable 1985 farm bill is implemented.

• An advisor Kerrey told those present Saturday that governors can back groups such as The Farm Crisis Committee and help open doors to communication at the federal level.

"The governors will open the doors for us. But we don't even know the room number," said a person at the meeting.

• Gain Bill Kerrey's aid in the development of a task force to study the Nebraska banking system and see what can be done to ease the immediate pressure being applied to our farmers/ranchers and local lending institutions by federal and state regulatory agencies.

• Request State Legislator Conway, who would be meeting with the state legislators on Monday and Tuesday of this week, to gain support from each district legislator so that each district's needs and inputs can be considered in the development of the 1985 farm bill.

EACH LEGISLATIVE district is to form a representative group consisting of a farmer/rancher, banker and small businessman to meet as a statewide group to develop input for the 1985 farm bill.

There also was discussion of possibly sending a large representation of state legislators to Washington to speak with the senators and congressmen.

Conway, in a telephone interview with The Wayne Herald Tuesday, said nothing consequential has been derived from his conversations with the other state legislators. "But the mood down here [in Lincoln] is that there is a definite concern for the [agriculture problems]. I really think that will be the number one thing [when the sessions begin]," he said.

Consensus he has obtained from the state legislative members is that objectives and input be forwarded to the legislature by a regional representative. He also said there would likely be support for the ag committee members (or ag chairman) to bring the proposals or input of the farm bill to the federal government in Washington.

"And work with the independent Bankers Association to develop a position and means for accomplishing the objective of lower interest rates through capital infusion by FmHA (Farmers Home Administration) and SBA (Small Business Administration)."

Public works crew gearing for winter

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Last winter's consistent snowfall was characterized as a bad winter for the city of Wayne — particularly for the city's public works department equipment and the employees who had to man the machines.

Vern Schulz, Wayne superintendent of public works, said the department had "the same problem many other communities have — staying up with it."

The two chief problems which the public works department faces each year, Schulz said, are to have cars parked in the pathway of the snow removed and "people blowing or pushing snow back out on the street."

"It is the job of the public works department to clear the snow from curb to curb when possible after a snowfall," Schulz said. "It is our knowledge that during this removal process the street department has no choice but to fill in driveways. There is no way to prevent it."

People sometimes blow or dump the snow within the driveways right back onto the streets, he said. "The snow cannot be left there as it will leave a rut or turn to ice when melting," Schulz said.

The street department must again return with a snow plow and remove the snow back into the driveway, at the expense of all taxpayers in the city, Schulz said.

THIS WINTER, the public works department will be clearing the streets with the following equipment: four trucks with plows, one motor grader, two front-end loaders, one blower and a single street sander.

Prior to this winter, the city of Wayne has purchased a new plow and a truck. Schulz said the purchases were both replacements for worn-out equipment.

After a heavy snowfall, all personnel of the public works department (which includes nine employees) will be operating equipment or participating in snow-clearing operations.

Schulz reminds city residents of two city ordinances concerning proper procedures for snow removal and placement of snow within the city limits.

All sidewalks must be cleared of snow or ice to the full width of the sidewalks within 24 hours after the storm, according to the first ordinance. If a resident does not comply to the ordinance, the city has been authorized to hire personnel to remove it — and then bill the property owner.

The Wayne Police Department can also issue a summons to appear in court.

In Wayne's business district, snow must be scooped into the street at least one foot from the curb when immediately possible to permit removal by street crews. Only snow from the sidewalk to the street is permitted to be dumped into the street for hauling.

Any snow beyond the sidewalks, stations and off-street parking will have to be removed by private operators.

Another ordinance regards the improper placing of material on city streets. Snow from driveways, parking lots or sidewalks cannot be blown by snow blowers or pushed by machine back onto the city streets.

FDIC actions require evaluation

FDIC Needs to Recognize Farmers' Problems

Last week I contacted the Chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), William Isaac, to ask that his agency show some sensitivity toward bank customers affected by the liquidation of David City and Verdigre Bank loans. I also asked the FDIC Chairman to propose changes in the deposit insurance system that would enable the FDIC to better deal with the special problems of the agricultural economy. The House Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee, on which I serve, will be discussing deposit insurance reform during the upcoming 99th Congress, and I see this as an opportunity to begin to address some of the weaknesses, flaws and omissions in the system.

I pointed out to Chairman Isaac that untimely and excessive claims by the FDIC on proceeds from the sale of collateral may unnecessarily force viable operators out of business. In addition, the liquidation of a number of loans in a single community can make the financial situation worse for both the borrowers and the community.

Agency slow to respond
I also told the FDIC Chairman that I am very displeased that his agency has been so slow in responding to inquiries about these problems. I first contacted the FDIC about problems in Verdigre and David City on October 24. In spite of a letter and a phone call on that date, the FDIC did not respond until November 24.

In that response, the FDIC Assistant Director responsible for liquidations said that the agency is very aware of the financial problems of the loan customers and is making every effort to minimize the impact of the closings on innocent individuals. I have now asked for specific information about the care given to liquidation of these loans.

How many of the loans are farm-related? In how many cases is the FDIC releasing up to 40% of the proceeds from sales of livestock pledged as collateral? In how many cases are funds being released at a lower rate? Shouldn't the release figure for some of these farm families be higher than 40%?

I also asked if liquidations of collateral are necessary to meet loan obligations, when they might begin and over what time period would they occur. And, I made clear to the FDIC Director that I expect an early and complete response to this request.

FDIC hurting farm communities, itself

The FDIC's practice of freezing assets for certain bank customers is causing unnecessary hardship for residents of these communities. Furthermore, the FDIC seems to be undermining its own objectives. In an agricultural community during harvest season, lack of adequate operating capital can be devastating to farmers striving to harvest their crops. Unless farmers can meet these seasonal expenses, their income earning capability can be severely damaged or even destroyed.

In turn, their ability to meet past loan obligations will be destroyed, thereby hindering the FDIC's objectives.

Buck stops where?

"A tale...full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." Macbeth.

Shakespeare's words seem appropriate in describing results of a "Farm Crisis Committee" meeting Saturday in Emerson. Approximately 40 invited farmers and small town bankers met with government officials to discuss the farm crisis and project possible solutions.

Representatives from offices of Governor Kerrey, Senators Exon and Zorinsky and Congressman Bereuter attended but none of the officials themselves showed up.

Farmers and bankers present did an excellent job of identifying the problems and their cause. The following thoughts are not new:

- Interest rates must be lowered to 2 percent over the inflation rate.
- Commodity prices must be as follows: corn, $4.50; soybeans, $10; wheat, $6.40; other commodities accordingly.
- Increase exports and greater quality control of U.S. grain exports to prevent intentional contamination.
- And tax loopholes must be closed to prevent non-active farmers from using agricultural investments as tax shelters.

How can these things be accomplished? Most likely through a farm bill. And from our knowledge of the past, farm bills are written in Washington.

And yet no Washington representative could tell the [Emerson] group how to help write the farm bill.

Senator Exon's representative told that Exon, along with other farm belt Senators, had sent two telegrams to the White House. He (Exon's representative) suggested that the farmer and bankers visit Washington to explain their plight. And they must keep the pressure on.

"Send 10 people, then 20, then 40...but keep the pressure on." Sounds like more effort than co-signing two telegrams, doesn't it? The Zorinsky and Bereuter reps offered nothing.

It was even suggested that all 49 Nebraska legislators march on Washington.

And what will the delegation do in Washington? Pound on President Reagan's desk? Threaten Senator Kennedy with ousting if he doesn't help?

No, the leadership has to come from the Congressional delegations of the farm belt states. Exon, Zorinsky, Daub, Bereuter and Smith have to form a coalition with other farm states in writing a farm bill that will save us.

The government bail-out of the Continental Bank, a $30 billion institution in Chicago, was discussed at the Emerson meeting. The mechanics of the bail-out are intricate and complicated, but it suffices here to say that billions were loaned to prevent a colossal bank failure.

And why was the bail-out offered? To save a catastrophic collapse affecting millions of people.

Is this situation different than the farm crisis a dozen or so states face now?

The farm belt Senators and Congressmen need to gather data showing the inevitable collapse of the farm and related communities in the event nothing is done. Our Washington representatives should show their colleagues that farm, bank and business failures across the breadbasket present, past and future could equal the Continental situation.

Not just rhetoric but actual statistics of the inevitable...millions out of work, property and profits gone from the tax roles and millions on welfare.

Sound exaggerated? Not at all.

Last week International Harvester in Rock Island, Illinois laid off 1,650 people and killed recall hopes for thousands more when they sold their Farmall tractor factory. At the same time, Caterpillar tractor company announced it might trim operations including 500 Davenport, Iowa workers.

John Deere has laid off about 3,500 workers and another 2,300 were put on seasonal leave. The J.I. Case company of Bettendorf, Iowa put 186 workers on indefinite leave and 1,200 more will be on seasonal layoffs. All this is just in the Quad Cities area.

Now multiply all this by thousands of failing farms and related industries such as fertilizer, pesticide and seed companies and their workers, all of the small businesses which lose their customers and you have a catastrophe of Continental proportions.

In addition many will lose their farms, homes and businesses. Many will go on welfare. Gone will be the property taxes, gone will be the income taxes and gone will be the sales taxes.

The difference between the Continental situation and the farm problem is one of size.

The bank crisis was of a single institution of huge proportions. Each farm and related failure is a small incident. But what is the impact on the economy of ALL the farm failures?

A single statistic would boggle the mind of the toughest bureaucrat and get attention in Washington.

The leadership MUST come from Washington...not from hundreds of farmers and bankers running up and down the marbled halls of the Rayburn and Longworth buildings.

And if Exon, Zorinsky, Bereuter, Daub and Smith cannot gather support among dozens of others whose states are in the same plight, then we have elected the wrong officials.

The farm belt buck stops in those marbled halls.

Pay equity on state agenda

Capitol News By Melvin Paul

State employee unions and women's right organizations are bracing for another legislative fight in 1985 over the controversial principle of pay equity for state employees.

The theory behind pay equity, which is also known as comparable worth, suggests that pay discrimination exists between male-dominated and female-dominated jobs, despite the fact that the jobs are of equal value to the employer. For example, truck drivers - most of whom are men - are likely to be paid more than office secretaries - most of whom are women. Yet the jobs themselves are of comparable worth to the employer.

The concept is separate but related to the principle of equal pay for equal work, which suggests, for example, that men truck drivers and women truck drivers should be paid according to the same wage scale. Existing state and federal laws are intended to assure that employers provide equal pay for equal work.

Representatives of several interested organizations have been working in recent months to draft legislation calling for a study of pay equity in state employment. The study would determine whether the state pays the same for male- and female-dominated jobs of comparable worth to the state as an employer.

AMONG THE GROUPS WORKING on the bill are the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women, the Nebraska Association of Public Employees, the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employers (AFSCME) and the Pay Equity Association.

Last session, Sen. Bernice Labedz of Omaha and 17 co-sponsors introduced a bill calling for a commission to study possible pay discrimination between male- and female-dominated jobs in state government, and a companion funding bill, for $175,000. The bills died largely because of concerns of lawmakers about the potential cost to taxpayers of rectifying inequities in the state pay system.

The state of Iowa, for example, has appropriated $10 million this year for upgrading the salaries of its employees in female-dominated jobs.

Opponents of the pay equity principle argue that the labor market should be the sole determining factor in how much the state decides to pay its employees.

The Kerrey administration last session recommended to lawmakers that they wait for guidance on the pay equity issue from the U.S. Supreme Court. Last December, a federal judge ruled that the state of Washington had discriminated in pay given to employees in female-dominated jobs. The judge awarded back pay to 15,500 employees. The judgment against the state has been stayed pending appeal, but if forced to pay, the state may face costs of up to $503 million, according to some estimates.

THE STUDY PROPOSED in Nebraska would attempt to evaluate the worth of state jobs objectively according to such factors as required knowledge and skill, mental demands and working conditions. According to numerical ratings assigned to each job, the state would be able to identify discrimination in its pay plan.

The study would be the first step in upgrading underpaid jobs. Supporters of the legislation say no reliable estimate of the cost to Nebraska state government can be developed until the proposed study is completed.

Supporters of the pay equity study say they are encouraged by the turnover in the Legislature since last session. Of the 22 senators who voted for advancement of the pay equity funding bill last session, only three are not scheduled to return when the 1985 Legislature convenes on Jan. 9.

Meanwhile, eight of the 10 new senators, who were elected on Nov. 6 responded affirmatively to a League of Women Voters questionnaire when asked if they favored spending state money to bring female-dominated jobs in line with male-dominated jobs of comparable worth.

Bring values on land downward

To the editor:

The exposure of the high taxation on Wayne property by Mr. Coryell as compared to our neighboring towns should be of concern to all of us. It also raises the issue of over-valuation of farmland. For years, whenever a farmer would spend a few hundred dollars to improve his place, the assessor was very quick to raise his evaluation. For the last four years, farmers' land valuation has decreased by tens of thousands of dollars. I think this should start a mass exodus of farmers into the assessors office requesting a substantial decrease in the valuation (for tax purposes) of their farms. This should be a top priority action issue for the farm bureau, livestock feeders, farmers union, NFO, or any organization directly related to agriculture.

Assessors cannot be expected to alter the valuations with every temporary or seasonal up or down move of land prices. HOWEVER, with a 4 year steady decline in prices, it's high time to face the issue.

I realize any relief gained for the farmer as suggested above would be small in addressing the massive crisis in agriculture - but it would help! The low-commodity prices and high interest rates are devastating not only to the whole agriculture industry but is having a "domino" effect up and down Mainstreet U.S.A., especially in our rural hometowns. I firmly believe the tax shelter laws need to be changed to preserve the cattle industry. I was infuriated today to hear (direct from the "horses mouth" of one involved) that the originator of a popular feed has entered the cattle feeding business because of our present tax shelter laws. He resides in California, but is feeding cattle in Colorado. He has recently purchased $1,700,000 worth of corn and is purchasing $200,000 worth of cattle. Citing another example: A commercial feedlot here in Nebraska recently received an order to purchase and feed out 30,000 cattle under the condition that he could lock in up to $35 per head LOS5! Farmers and cattle feeders don't aim to do that. A change in tax shelter laws could prevent this. These men could still be welcome to feed cattle but for the same motive farmers and cattlemen do - PROFIT.

This letter is endorsed by an additional group of concerned farmers and cattle feeders.

Tax on nursing services well spent

Dear taxpayer:

Last spring, the Educational Service Unit #1 board appointed a special study committee to look into nursing services provided to the schools in our area. (It should be noted that school nursing services are paid from the ESU mill levy, in addition to general property taxes.)

The mill levy money, "from your taxes," provides all children with:

- Annual health screening which includes height and weight measurement, dental, vision, and scoliosis evaluations, with recommendations for further follow up by other professionals as needed.
- State required review of mandated immunizations for school-age children.

• Health education programs which include: CPR training, nutrition and personal hygiene, growth and development, drug and alcohol prevention programs, and specific health-related programs, as requested by individual schools to meet their special needs.

- Early detection of their health problems such as epilepsy, diabetes, head lice, infections, etc.
- Directions, as needed, to the correct medical facility or funding agency. The school nurse often acts as go-between for families and specific agencies.

There are concerns that proposals may be made by the boards study committee to shift these mill levy monies away from child centered nursing services to hardware items such as: audio-visual, photography, film developing, computers, and additional administrative costs.

The tax money for nursing services is being well spent because the school nurse may be the only medical professional some children in our area have available to them. It is important for all taxpayers to realize that if you want these quality nursing services to continue at the same level you should contact your local school officials, school board members, and your area ESU #1 board members, Dr. Randall Shaw, Deryl Lawrence, Marvin Borg and share your concerns.

The report of the study committee is on the agenda of the regular ESU #1 board meeting taking place at 8 p.m. at the ESU #1 office in Wakefield, Neb., Dec. 11, 1984. Board meetings are always open to the public.

Ballroom is back

Wayne native featured in California newspaper

Former Wayne resident Bill Lessman and his wife Vi were recently featured in a full page article which appeared in The Sacramento (Calif.) Bee newspaper.

The article, entitled "Swinging is back on the ballroom floor," focused on the growing popularity of Big Bands in the Sacramento area as well as throughout the country.

For the past 24 years, Lessmans and their orchestra have performed for dancers in Sacramento — Bill as saxophonist and soloist, and Vi on the piano.

On Saturday nights, the Lessman orchestra plays at a 6,000 foot ballroom on the third floor of the Masonic Building. They also have a Thursday night dance at the American Legion Hall.

The article, which was written Nov. 2, states that although Lessmans aren't the only orchestra in Sacramento, they are indisputably the oldest.

LESSMAN, WHO grew on a farm northeast of Wayne — the youngest child in a family of eight older sisters — traveled to California with a nephew, Lester Rewinkel, at the age of 17. His father, William, had died the previous year.

Bill's sister, Mrs. C. V. (Erna) Agler of Wakefield, recalls her brother's interest in music developing at a very early age.

"When Bill was just a tiny kid he'd come home from church and go straight to the organ to play the songs we had sung in church," recalls Mrs. Agler. "He's a born musician, I guess."

Lessman still owns the C-melody sax he purchased as a 4-H boy in Nebraska with money he received from selling his farm animals.

Vi Lessman

Bill Lessman

In addition to Mrs. Agler, other surviving sisters are Mrs. Charles (Edna) Roggenbach and Mable Pfleger, both of Wayne, and Martha Kophamer of Illinois.

ACCORDING TO the Sacramento Bee article, making music is a second career for Lessman, who put in 40 years making soap for Procter & Gamble Co., most of that time in Long Beach, Calif.

In 1949, he was moonlighting weekends as a vocalist with Lawrence Welk at the Ocean Park Ballroom in Los Angeles.

The article states that although Welk offered him a job, Lessman opted for the security of Procter & Gamble, never dreaming that he (Welk) would become an institution on television.

In 1952, Procter & Gamble transferred Lessman to Sacramento. Eight years later he and Vi, an Iowa native, decided to rent a hall and start a public dance.

Lessmans performed the first 11 years in the Native Sons Hall. At that time the orchestra included Bill, Vi and three other musicians. Today, the Lessmans are backed by five musicians.

When the Native Sons building was torn down, the Lessmans moved to the Eastern Star Temple where they played for three and a half years before moving to the Masonic Temple.

THE SACRAMENTO Bee article states that the popularity of Big Bands has risen steadily in recent years with many hotels and clubs jumping on the wagon.

Lessman, who is retired from Procter & Gamble, said he has seen a definite change in the complexion of the crowd in recent years.

"I think the younger people are finding out that ballroom dancing is better than the rock, where the dancers are so far apart," the article quotes Lessman.

Holiday shopping

(continued from page 1a) ing they'll come back," said Kordna, adding that she's optimistic for what's to come.

ALL OF WAYNE'S clothing store owners agree that sweaters, both men's and women's, are undoubtedly the most popular Christmas gifts.

Roger Nelson of the Rusty Nail said the glorified sweat shirt look is also popular this year among the younger generation.

Also popular this year at the Rusty Nail are ultra short button down collar sport shirts, corduroy and tweed sport coats, sweater vests and women's coordinates.

Rich Zrust of Kuhn's Department Store said he sees a trend towards more basic type clothing and less gilly or fringed items. Zrust said Cabbage Patch earmuffs are selling extremely well as are the wildlife printed sweat shirts.

In addition to sweaters, Chuck Surber of Surber's Clothing said popular clothing items this year include washable wool slacks and other clothing that has a warmer feel to it.

Surber said combination blazers-skirts and blazers-slacks are selling well in the women's department, while dress shirts and ties always make good gifts for dad.

Surber noted that white business this year is close to normal, he definitely expects an increase as Christmas draws closer.

"We still have 20 shopping days left and in a town our size I think we'll do most of our business the last two weeks."

AT SWANS' Women Apparel, owner Marie Mohr said men this year are purchasing suits for their wives.

"Sleepwear, Isotoner gloves and slippers, earmuffs, sweat suits, and always, always sweaters are also selling well," noted Mohr.

Dorothy Johnson of Queens Fashions said business there is picking up as Christmas approaches.

"I think the outlook is good," said Johnson, adding that shoppers this year are more practical and purchasing items such as sweaters, blouses, dresses and lingerie.

In the kids clothing department, Joanie Thomsen of Kid's Closet said pajamas and sweat suits are selling well this year.

"I've heard grandparents say they're giving more practical gifts this year and not as many toys," said Thomsen.

"I've been pretty tickled with business so far," said Thomsen, adding that comments she has heard lead her to believe that more people are shopping closer to home this year.

DONNA SHUFELT of the Montgomery Ward Catalog Agency said business there has been very good this year and she expects the big surge is over.

Shufelt noted that Dec. 17 is the last date customers can still order items in time for Christmas.

Shufelt added that in addition to clothing, other popular catalog items include VCR's, microwaves, and robot type toys for the children.

Like everybody else, Shufelt said Montgomery Ward is having trouble getting Care Bears and Cabbage Patch dolls.

Merna Stalsberg of Sears' Catalog Agency said they have been quite busy and customers have until Dec. 15 to order items in time for Christmas.

"We expect to be extremely busy right until the 15th," said Stalsberg, adding that microwaves and VCR's are also popular among adults at Sears, as well as the 4 x 4 cars and glow worms for the youngsters.

WAYNE BUSINESSES will remain open extra hours from now until Christmas to accommodate local and area shoppers.

"Wayne merchants are doing everything feasibly possible to give the customer the best possible product at a reasonable and fair price," noted businessman Jack Hausmann.

Rudebusches home at Randolph following November wedding rites

Making their home at Randolph are Mr. and Mrs. John Rudebusch, who were married Nov. 23 in a candlelight ceremony at St. John's Lutheran Church in Randolph.

The bride, nee Diane Fowler, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Fowler of Casper, Wyo. A 1976 graduate of Scottsbluff Senior High School and a 1979 graduate of St. Francis School of Nursing, she is employed as a nursing traveling nurse.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rudebusch of Randolph, graduated from Randolph High School in 1975. He farms south of Randolph and is also employed as a lineman for Wayne County Public Power District.

THE COUPLE'S 6 o'clock double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ivan Arman of Randolph.

Matron of honor was Patty Weis of Scottsbluff, and bridesmaid was Alicia Aschenbrenner of Gering. Dan Rudebusch of Randolph served as best man. Groomsman was Roger Schurman of Norfolk.

Ushers were Lauren Wessel, Ron Schaefer and Randy Gubbels, all of Randolph, and Paul Gubbels of Plainview.

Soloist was Eric Carpenter of Hartington, and guitarist was James Fowler of Casper, Wyo.

Lighting candles was Vanessa Fowler of Alliance. Flower girl was Amy Koehn of Neligh, and ring bearer was Derrick Weis of Scottsbluff.

FOR HER WEDDING day, the bride appeared at her father's arm wearing a candlelight gown of satin with a schiffli lace overlay. The gown was designed with a Queen Anne neckline and cathedral-length train.

Her fingertip veil was held to a Juliet cap with a lace overlay, and she carried silk zinnias, azaleas and wedding stars.

The bride's attendants wore floor-length knitted lace neck inserts. They also carried silk zinnias, azaleas and wedding stars.

The bridegroom wore a candlelight tuxedo with tails, and his attendants were attired in dark brown tuxedos, cream shirts with wing-tipped collars, and brown bow ties.

The bride's mother wore a rust and tan paisley print dress in street length, and the bridegroom's mother chose a royal blue crepe knit with organza sleeves, also in street length.

Cats playing tough; post Western victory

Wildcat basketball Coach Rick Weaver told his squad that the home game with Missouri Western Tuesday night in Rice Auditorium would be an important one.

"We go on the road from now until Jan. 22, and we knew that picking up this win at home was going to be important for us," said Weaver. The Cats upcoming road trips include a yearly two-week tour of four European countries, beginning Dec. 30.

"Right now we are aiming for the .500 mark at Christmas."

JOHN THOMSEN takes a shot.

The Cats record stands at that point right now with a 4-4 mark, but two of those losses were to formidable foes, including Drake University last week and a five-point, 61-55 defeat at the hands of the University of Nebraska-Omaha on Saturday night.

Upcoming road games between now and the holidays include South Dakota State Saturday night, Dec. 8; Midland Lutheran College at Fremont on Tuesday, Dec. 11 and Concordia College in Seward on Thursday, Dec. 13.

THE WILDCATS picked up a win in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference Tuesday night when they downed the Griffons of Missouri Western 76-57.

Scoring remained close between the two teams in the opening minutes, with the last Missouri Western lead a 14-13 score with 12 minutes in the first half.

The Cats then were able to collect points, and went up by 10 points at 2:34 on a lay-up by Tracy Penn off a Calvin Sprew assist.

The Griffons then scored five straight points in the closing minute of the half to narrow the gap to five points, 34-29.

A pair of free throws in the opening seconds of the second half put Western within three points before Wildcat Coach Rick Weaver called a time out "to motivate" his players. "We started out slow in the second half, so we called a time out to re-group and motivate," said Weaver.

The tactic proved to be the right move, as Wayne State went on to outscore Missouri Western 26-10 and shot a blazing 73 percent from the field in the second half to seal away the win.

WESTERN WAS REALLY cold from the floor in the second half, and that really helped us out a lot," said Weaver. "We were able to outscore them big, and that had to be the key to the outcome of the game."

The Cats played a better offensive game in the second half, according to Weaver, especially in the areas of running the offense and working the ball in which resulted in better shots and the Cats high shooting percentage.

Calvin Sprew led the list of five Wildcats in double figures with 16 points. Tracy Penn added 14 points from the guard position and John Thomsen dumped in 13 points. Dan Radig came off the bench to hit for 12 points and Vince Tillo rounded out with 11 points. Sprew also hit the board hard for the Cats with 11 rebounds.

"Sprew did a good game for us on the boards, and both he and Tillo were strong scorers inside for us," said Weaver. "John Thomsen also made some shots from the outside early in the game to keep us in there and Tracy Penn showed a good, overall floor game, taking up some of the leadership on the court."

"It just seemed like each player would have a streak at one point or another in the game, it gave us a balanced offense at last."

The Cats shot 56 percent from the floor for the game, compared to 40 percent for the Griffons.

WAYNE STATE was almost able to give an "upsetting" performance against the Mavericks of the University of Nebraska-Omaha Saturday night at the UNO Fieldhouse.

The Cats hit 42 percent from the field and tossed in 9 of 11 free throws to stay in the battle with the Mavericks and lost by a slim 61-55 margin.

VINCE TILLO passes off to Calvin Sprew (44) to set up the Cats offense.

In the opening moments of the game, the Wildcats roared to an 8-2 lead on buckets by Tillo and Sprew before both teams settled down and duled up and down the court to a 32-31 UNO lead at the intermission.

The initial minutes of the second half picked up where the first quarter let off, and the Cats stayed within two at the midway point.

UNO then came up with a pair of back to back three point baskets which aided them in opening up a 10 points lead with 6:17 on the clock.

The Cats clawed back in the closing minutes, on baskets by John Thomsen, Jim Myer, Gooch and Tillo pulled them to within four points at 59-54 with 2:39 left.

A slam dunk by Rickey Suggs with 1:09 on the clock tied the win for UNO at 61-55.

"I thought both teams played hard throughout the game," said Weaver. "We did have some trouble through with their big size (6-9 and 6-10) inside."

Weaver felt the turning point in the game came when UNO notched the two three point buckets back to back to increase their lead. "We also had some turnovers at critical points at the end of the game which hurt us too."

"Our kids played with a lot of intensity and hustle and defensively, would have to say it was their best effort all season."

The Wildcats scoring was led by Vince Tillo with 20 points, Tracy Penn with 17 points and Calvin Sprew with 10 points on the night. Sprew nabbed nine rebounds to top the Cats in that department.

Soccer Club tries hand at indoor tourney

Moving indoors with the arrival of cold weather, the Wayne State Soccer Club competed in its first indoor tournament over the past weekend in Iowa.

Ten members of the club participated in a 20-team tournament sponsored by the United International Soccer Club at the Des Moines Area Community College Ankeny campus on Saturday, Dec. 1.

Each team competed in three inter-division games, with the four top teams going on to championship play.

WAYNE, A MEMBER of Division I, lost their opening game to the Cyclones of Ames, Iowa 5-1. Wayne's lone goal, which opened the game's scoring, was made by Mike McMorrow. The Cyclones later advanced to the championship game.

In game two, Wayne also lost a close 1-0 match to the tournament sponsors, the United International Soccer Club. The game-winning goal came at the close of the first half.

Wayne battled to a 2-2 tie in their final game of the tournament with Dowling, a high school team from the west Des Moines area. Both Wayne goals came in the first half, with the first scored by Jerry Krebsbach on an assist by Mike McMorrow and the second by McMorrow.

The Wayne club nominated player Jenny Alexander for the tournament's most valuable player award, which was won by a representative of the Cyclones soccer team.

CLUB REPRESENTATIVE Mike McMorrow said the Wayne Club entered the tourney with no indoor soccer experience, and "really didn't know what to expect."

There are various rule differences between the indoor and outdoor sport, including size of the playing area, the amount of actual playing time and boundaries. The playing area for indoor soccer is similar to that of an elongated basketball court, with the walls included in the legal playing area. Teams consist of six rather than 11 players, including the goalie.

The ball used is the same dimension as those used in outdoor soccer, but has a covering similar to a tennis ball. The playing periods are shortened from 45 minute halves to 12 minute halves, to make for a faster paced game that requires more controlled passing and movement, according to McMorrow.

Those participating for Wayne included Doug Lebbert, Jenny Alexander, Tore Nelson, Sharon Anderson, Jerry Krebsbach, Jason Lund, Joe Work, Chris Hayden, Dan Wolken and Mike McMorrow.

WSC Cats junior varsity basketball squad ups record to 6-3 with win over Yankton

Wayne State's junior varsity basketball team turned a four point halftime advantage into a sizable winning margin Monday night when they downed Yankton College 85-64 in Rice Auditorium.

A well balanced scoring attack, the goal of junior varsity Coach Del Mounts, was obvious in the win, with five players in double figures.

Russ Rosenquist led with a game-high 22 points, followed by Jeff Reed with 17 points, Jim Myers with 14 points, and Mick McGill and Paul Martin with 10 points each. Ron Martin added eight points and Mike Hoffart two points to round out scoring.

MYERS HAD A strong all-around performance, pulling in eight rebounds and dishing out seven assists to lean the team in both areas. Rosenquist and Paul Martin each contributed five rebounds and Rosenquist also gave out five assists.

In the team statistics, Yankton had a slight advantage on the boards, with 39 boards to Wayne State's 36. The Cats proved to have a better night controlling the ball with just 14 turnovers, compared to 24 for the Greyhounds.

"It really was a sloppy game for us," said Coach Mounts. "Yankton played that type of game, and as the game progresses, we started to play that way too."

The team's well-balanced scoring was the highlight, for Mounts, and he said that as performances like this continue, with all team members scoring well and contributing in other areas, "it just shows that they are learning to play together as a team."

The Wildcat junior varsity was scheduled to play at Nebraska Wesleyan last night (Wednesday).

Winside matmen log champs at Randolph

The Winside Wildcat wrestlers posted four weight class championships on their way to a fifth place finish in the Randolph wrestling invitational on Saturday, Dec. 1.

The Wildcats tallied 97 1/2 points to finish fifth, while winner Creighton scored 118 points to edge out runner-up Plainview with 117 points.

Mace Kant captured first place in the 98 pound weight class with a 3-2 overtime decision over Paul Beacom of Osmond. Teammate Doug Paulsen clinched the 105 pound weight class top spot by pinning Scott Hoskinson of the Norfolk High reserve team at 5:12.

At 132 pounds, Chris Olson took a decision over Steve Loberg of Randolph, 4-3, for first place. Senior Jeff Thies won in his final round match in a 18-3 decision over Greg Schulte of Norfolk Catholic.

In the consolation bracket, Mike

Woerdeman ended in third place with a 11-0 decision over Jerome Koenig of the Norfolk High reserves.

According to Winside Coach Paul Sok, it was the first time in his experience with the Wildcats that they have had more than two champions at the Randolph Invitational.

"Along with that, we also had more top place finishers than any other team at the meet," he added. Winside was the only class D school among the eight teams competing.

"Half of the team that we had wrestling placed third or above, and it was an outstanding job," said Sok. "We had some other kids that might have placed, but a lack of experience is still hurting them."

"Things won't get any easier for the Wildcats in the coming week as they had a dual scheduled at Pender tonight (Thursday) and compete in the North Bend Invitational on Saturday, Dec. 8. Of the teams scheduled for the meet, four Class B schools will be represented, along with the defending Class C state wrestling champions, North Bend.

"It gives the kids incentive to go against wrestlers from these bigger schools, and they also have some confidence coming off their performance at Randolph," said Sok. "They know that the competition is going to be good."

Laurel girls gain 35-23 Clark division win over Winside

The Laurel Bears girls basketball team came out on the winning end of a 35-23 score over the Winside Wildcats in a Clark division game played Tuesday night in Winside.

The game was the season opener for Winside, and the second win in two starts for the Laurel Bears.

LAUREL GOT THEIR initial lead in the first quarter when they shut down Winside's scoring to take a first quarter 12-4 lead.

Winside got back into the offensive side of the game in the second quarter, matching up scoring with the Bears to keep the Laurel lead to nine points at the half, 21-12.

Neither team was able to put many points on the board in the third quarter, as a lone free throw by Laurel's Renee Vanderheiden was the only score in the game until Lori Jensen put in a bucket for the Bears with 1:51 on the clock for a 24-12 score.

In the final quarter, the two teams tussled back and fourth, with Winside able to close within eight points, 30-22 with just under four minutes to play on a jumper from the line by Tammy Brudigan. The Wildcats were not able to close the gap to less than 10 points for the remainder of the game.

The Bears scoring was led by Renee Vanderheiden with 10 points, followed by Gail Twiford with nine points. She was the top rebounder with 12 boards along with Michelle Joslin with 11 rebounds.

For Winside, Tammy Brudigan and Kay Meierhenry logged six points each, and Trisha Topp added five points. Brudigan and Meierhenry were also top rebounders with three each.

Each team scored 11 field goals, but the difference came in the performance at the free throw line, as Laurel sank 13 of 20 attempts, while Winside was only able to hit 1 of 8 tries.

LAUREL COACH GALE Hamilton said that while he saw an improvement in his team's confidence level in the game with Winside, their shooting was not as good as it could have been. "We just had a lot of shots that went in and out and we were a little cold. I'm not concerned about it continuing.

Hamilton also felt that while his team was probably in control of the game throughout, they had problems fouling which he feels resulted from "not moving our feet as well as we could have."

The Bears will be without the services of two of their starters due to injuries suffered in the past week. Sara Adkins injured her ankle during the Winside game, with the extent of the injury not known, and Tami Schmit suffered a bruised tendon in her ankle during a practice session.

Winside Coach Jill Stenwall was pleased with her team's performance in their opening game, especially on defense. "We played the best defense we possibly could have, they showed 30 solid minutes of defense and never gave up while they were out there."

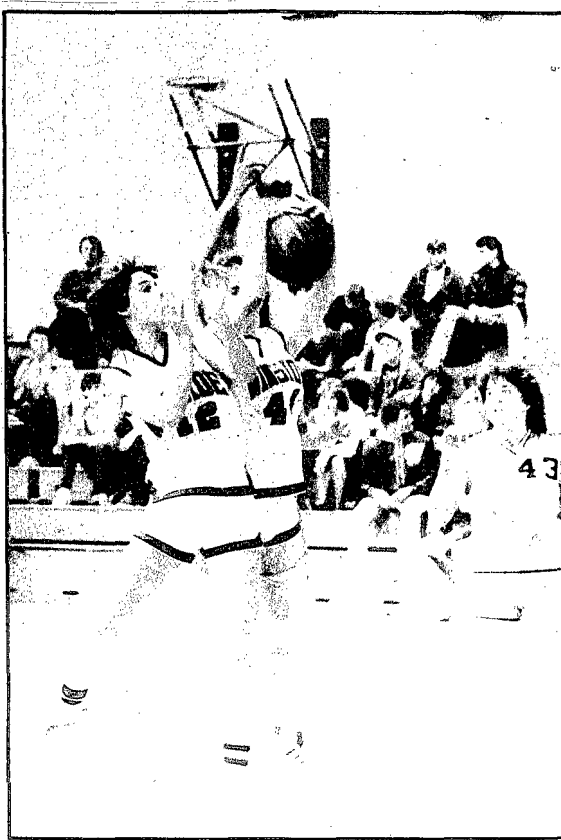

Winside's next game was scheduled for tonight (Thursday) when they host Newcastle, while Laurel will face off against Allen on the road tonight as well.

Excitement, overtime elements in Allen girls victories

Allen basketball fans can notch two wins for the Eagles girls basketball team as they claimed victories in a pair of close contests on Saturday, Dec. 7 against Wynot, and on Tuesday night on the road versus Ponca.

The win over Ponca also counts in the standings of the Lewis division of the Lewis and Clark conference, and was the first game for both teams in divisional play.

The Eagles pulled out to an early 11-4 lead against Ponca's 1-3-1 defense, but in the second quarter Ponca began to switch their coverage between a 2-1-2 zone and man-to-man, which Allen had trouble adjusting to, according to Coach Gary Troth.

Tied 16-16 at the half, the Eagles opened a slim three point margin behind their shooting in the third period. Ponca was able to fight back against the deficit and tied the game up in the closing minutes, 29-29.

Both teams played a slow-paced and deliberate style of basketball in the overtime period, with limited shooting. The break in the game came with eight seconds remaining when Allen's Pam Heckathorn picked off a Ponca pass and drove the length of the court for a lay-up, her only points of the game.

Allen's scoring was led by Denise Magnuson with 13 points and Diane Magnuson with 10 points.

"We had a lot of good shots in the game, but they just didn't fall for us," said Troth. He added that he was pleased with his team's defensive effort, especially in the second half.

"We were also able to cut down on the number of turnovers in this game from the last (30 to 12), and we played together well as a team," Troth said.

In the reserve game, Allen fell to their hosts by a score of 17-14. Leading scorer was Kristi Hansen with eight points.

THE EAGLES WERE able to put together two completely different halves of basketball for a come from behind win over Wynot in their season opener Saturday night, Dec. 7.

Both teams appeared to be evenly matched through the first quarter of play with Wynot leading 13-12 going into the second quarter.

Allen then fell on hard times scoring, while Wynot had no problem finding the basket, outscoring the Eagles 20-9 to take a 33-21 halftime lead. At one point, Allen trailed the Blue Devils 33-14 before coming up with a seven point scoring spree.

In the third period, Allen began to turn the tables in the scoring department, making up seven points to close to a 39-35 deficit at the start of the final quarter.

The Eagles scoring came alive in the closing eight minutes as they notched 19 points to overtake Wynot and gain the four-point win.

Two Eagles ended the night in double figures with junior Denise Magnuson hitting for 16 points and senior Mary Oswald dumping in 12 points. Oswald also led on the boards with 12 rebounds, with Diane Magnuson adding eight boards and Denise Magnuson seven rebounds.

Free throw shooting also played a role in the games outcome, and the teams went to the line a total of 61 times in the course of the game. Allen hit 17 of 31 attempts and committed 29 personal fouls, while Wynot was 13 of 30 from the line and logged 25 personal fouls.

"IN THE SECOND quarter, we started turning the ball over and had trouble sustaining our offense," said Eagles Coach Gary Troth. "Our half-court play was poor and we put up very few shots."

Allen was able to turn the game around in the third quarter on better ball control and making the good shots, said Troth. The squad also rebounded better in the second half, after giving up a lot of offensive boards in the first two quarters.

Troth was also happy with the team depth which came through in the win. "We played 10 players throughout most of the game, so we were able to get Wynot tired. In the second half, we were still able to play an aggressive style of game."

The Eagle reserves won their season opener as well, outscoring Wynot 36-16. Leading scorers were Barb Hansen with eight points and LeAnn McDonald and Kris Blöhm with six points each.

Allen was scheduled to host the Laurel Bears in a contest this evening (Thursday).

Cool shooting limits Trojan gals in opener

An icy shooting percentage limited the Wakefield girls basketball team in their season opener Monday night against Homer.

The Trojans were nipped on their home court by a 31-28 margin.

Wakefield slipped behind 8-0 in the opening moments of the game and trailed 10-4 at the end of the first quarter.

Homer continued to take advantage of the Trojans shaky shooting and rebounding performance and upped their lead to 21-12 at halftime.

"OUR GIRLS WERE nervous with the first game jitters in the first half and let Homer have easy baskets," said Wakefield Coach Arnold Cerny. "They also outrebounded us in the half, especially on the offensive boards. We just weren't working hard enough."

In the second half, Cerny's squad came out and changed from man-to-man to a zone press defense, which caused Homer problems and let the Trojans back into the game.

Wakefield outscored the Lady Knights 7-2 in the third period and 9-8 in the final quarter to narrow the final score.

Leading scorer for Wakefield was Kristal Clay with nine points, followed up by Roni Starzl with seven points and Darla Hariman with five points.

For the night, the Trojans were 5 of 58 from the field, which averages out to just under nine percent. "We shot the ball as much as possible...but we weren't as patient on offense as we need to be," said Cerny.

"Some of the shots that we missed were easy ones, wide open."

"THEY SHOWED A lot in coming back the way they did in the second half, and they showed me a lot of things as far as the way they can play. I was really impressed."

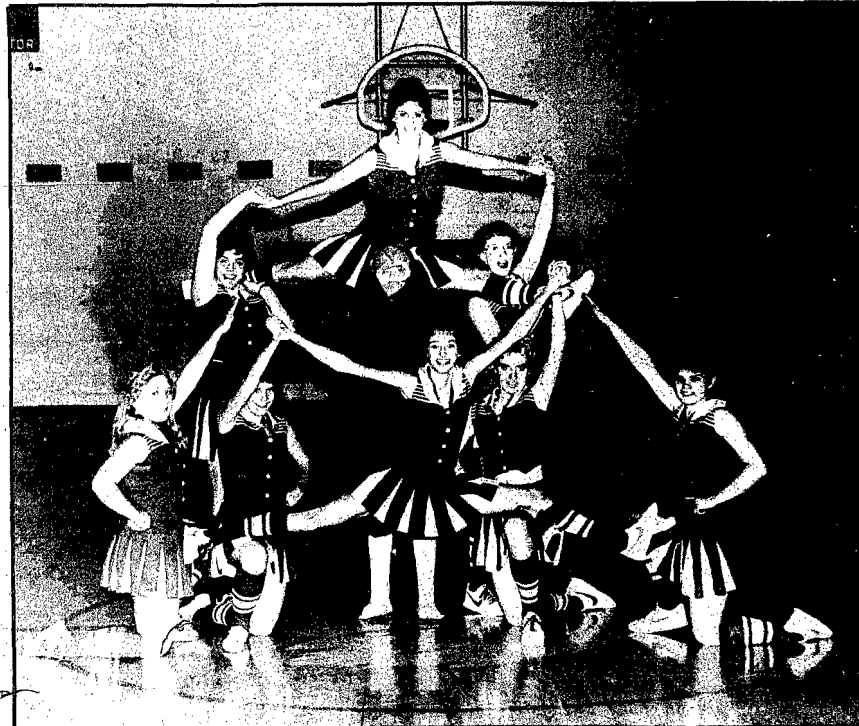

my said that two of his starting players were in the entire game, and another had just two minutes on the bench.

"I'm not at all disappointed with our effort; it was our execution which hurt us. Now we know where the work is needed and we'll be working on shooting and boxing out for rebounds."

Wakefield's next game is scheduled for this evening at home when they host Pender.

Tables turn on the Lady Wildcats in three straight court losses

Wayne State's women's basketball fortunes took a tumble during the past week in the form of two losses on the road and a defeat in the home opener of the Central States Interscholastic Conference.

The Lady Wildcats moved to 4-3 on the year with a 96-57 loss to CSIC foe Missouri Western Tuesday night in Rice Auditorium.

The Lady Griffons outscored WSC 21-7 in the opening 10 minutes of the game to build their early lead. They continued to build on that lead with a 50 percent shooting touch from the field to widen the gap to 40-25 at the half.

Wayne State had trouble finding their offensive game again in the second half, allowing Missouri Western to ease into the win.

"MISSOURI WESTERN is a very good team," said Lady Wildcat Coach Lenny Klaver. "We also had a poor night shooting and on defense." The Lady Griffons were tabbed for the runner-up spot in the conference at the pre-season media luncheon in October.

"We expected them to be as good as they were, but I'm disappointed with the way our girls reacted...they were intimidated," Klaver added.

Wayne's scoring was led by junior Deb Nygren with 17 points and sophomore Shelle Tomaszkiwicz with 11 points. Shari Krohn hit the boards for a dozen rebounds while Tomaszkiwicz responded with 11 rebounds.

Western was led by senior Cheri Kempf with 23 points and 11 rebounds.

The Lady Cats were also plagued with an over-abundance of turnovers, giving the ball up 27 times on the night.

From the floor, WSC shot at 33 percent for the game, while Western connected on just under 54 percent, hitting 42-78 to Wayne's 20 of 60.

"We had a poor night shooting, we missed a lot of shots that should have been made," said Klaver.

OVER THE WEEKEND, The Lady Wildcats dropped a pair of road games to Doane College at Crete on Friday night, and a close contest with Hastings College on Saturday.

The Lady Tigers of Doane avenged an earlier season loss to Wayne State, downing the Lady Wildcats 64-51.

WSC got off to a slow start scoring against Doane and trailed 38-21 at the half.

In the second period, the Lady Cats outscored Doane 30 to 26, but fell short in making up the earlier deficit.

Junior forward Shari Krohn gave one of her best performances of the season, shoveling in 12 points along with a dozen rebounds to lead the Lady Wildcats. Fresh Michelle Blomberg came off the bench to add 12 points.

Turnovers again were costly for WSC, as they logged 27 turnovers in the loss.

On Saturday afternoon, WSC fell in a close contest with the Lady Broncos of Hastings College, 69-67.

Trailing by a slim 1-point margin at the half, 30-29, the two teams battled down to a 67-67 tie with one second remaining. At that point, Lady Bronco Cheryl Huges hit a pair of free throws following a WSC foul to claim the win.

BARB WRAGGE topped the Lady Cats scoring with a season-high 28 points, which included 14 of 18 shots from the line. That performance set a new school record for most free throws made in a game, which had been set by freshman Michelle Blomberg with 13 free throws against Briar Cliff in the season's home opener Nov. 19.

Other Lady Cats in double figures included Shelle Tomaszkiwicz with 14 points and Deb Nygren with 13 points.

Heading up the rebounding charts were Shari Krohn with nine rebounds, followed by Wrage and Nygren with eight boards each.

"Our effort against Doane was one of our worst so far this season," said Klaver. "We shot poorly and got behind in the first half, and while we had a spurt in the second half, we couldn't catch up."

Klaver was pleased with his squad's performance against Hastings College the following day, saying that "the effort was much better, we just happened to come up on the short end of the score."

"We are rebounding the ball and controlling the boards well, but our shooting is what is hurting us right now."

The Lady Cats continue to entertain a six game home schedule Friday night, Dec. 7 when state college rival Chadron State comes to Rice Auditorium. On Saturday, Dec. 8, Northwestern College will be the opponent. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

YOUR HEART

The Right Beat

Exercise intensity for aerobic conditioning is measured by heart rate. A good activity level is 70 percent of your maximum heart rate, which is determined by subtracting your age from 220. Thus, the recommended exercise heart rate for a 40-year old person is 126 (220 minus 40 times 70 percent).

The Lower The Better

People who are physically fit generally have lower resting heart rates than those who are not, which means that their hearts don't have to work as hard to pump blood. A reduction of 10 beats per minute in a person's resting heart rate can save over three weeks of work for the heart over the course of a year.

Warming Up, Cooling Down

To avoid excess strain on the heart, and injury to your muscles, warm up for about five minutes before working out, and cool down after exercises. Never abruptly stop exercising. The sudden stop in motion may cause lightheadedness or muscle cramping.

Attention Wayne rec league cagers

Due to scheduling conflicts with the Wayne City Auditorium, the Wayne men's recreation league basketball action will not begin until Monday, Dec. 31, according to Director Hank Overin. Overin added that he will contact the league players concerning future game times.

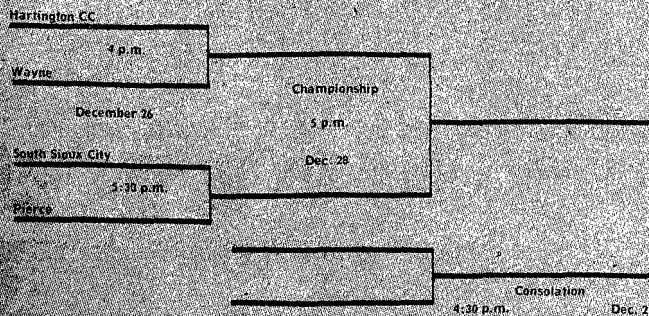

Over 130 players are involved in the A, B, C and D leagues, with all teams within each division filled. D league will be featuring group rather than team play, with four groups of eight players which will rotate throughout the season.

Warns not to be complacent

Specialist optimistic about beef, swine outlook

The livestock industry could be the "profitability center" of the agricultural sector in the next couple of years, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension livestock marketing specialist told an audience of livestock feeders here Nov. 29. Al Wellman spoke at a feeders seminar sponsored by the Farmers Co-op Grain Co.

"I'm optimistic about favorable prospects for strong market prices for both slaughter cattle and hogs in 1985," Wellman said. Producers who are in a weak position now, but still in a sound operating posture, should strengthen their financial standing, he said, and producers with strong finances should improve their situation. But he warned them, "Don't get sloppy" and complacent in livestock management.

Cow-calf operators, at a disadvantage for the past two-three years in the cattle industry, should gain in relative position in 1985, he said.

In analyzing supply and demand factors expected to govern prices producers get next year, Wellman said the outlook is sufficiently bullish that most producers probably will be "willing to take most of their risks in the cash market," in considering marketing strategies.

"The supply side of the beef cattle picture is very constructive" in relation to increased market prices, Wellman said.

WELLMAN SAID he still believes in the beef cycle theory, noting that 1984 is the sixth year of the current cycle, with its duration unknown at this time. Of seven cattle cycle indicators used by economists, three are considered positive and one neutral, the economist said. In contrast, in 1973, all seven indicators were negative, presaging a sharp break in prices.

The U.S. cow herd, the total of which will not be reported until after Jan. 1, 1985, "is the most productive in history," Wellman said. Heavy culling of older, more undesirable cows has left mostly first-calf heifers and younger, vigorous cows. Wellman said he did not agree with one recent estimate that cow numbers would be down 5 percent as of Jan. 1, but rather nearer 1 percent or 2 percent.

As a sidelight, Wellman said some producers have liquidated cow herds for financial reasons and are boarding cows for other stockmen. "There's lots of corn stalks and range out there," he said, and some pasture and rangeland in the state will not have cattle on it next for the first time in 50 years.

Price outlook indicates producers should be able to background or winter lightweight calves and make money, assuming conservative selling prices, Wellman reasoned.

Seasonality continues to be a factor in market prices, also, Wellman said. Historically, prices paid for fed cattle are higher in the first two quarters of the year, he said. Over the past 10 years, prices have increased half the time in December to January while in eight of the 10 years, prices have improved in March to April. There is some feeling prices will improve earlier in the quarter of 1985 than in most years, Wellman added.

Choice, 900 to 1,100-pound steers at Omaha could hit the low $70-per-hundredweight figure early in 1985 if factors are not extreme, Wellman said. He told feeders he foresees $72 cattle in the second quarter, with the price sliding off to $71 in the third quarter and $69 in the fourth quarter, for a year-long average of $70.25. The yearly average for 1984 is expected to be about $66.75 per hundredweight, with the fourth quarter at $67.

COMMENTING BRIEFLY on hog price prospects, Wellman said he sees "good prices throughout 1985," with levels in the first two quarters possibly better than thought earlier. "During the past 30 days, we've seen the first indication that sows are being held back by producers," Wellman said, signaling the beginning in growth of hog numbers. Because sows are being held back to enter the breeding herd, the supply will be lower than earlier estimated, he said.

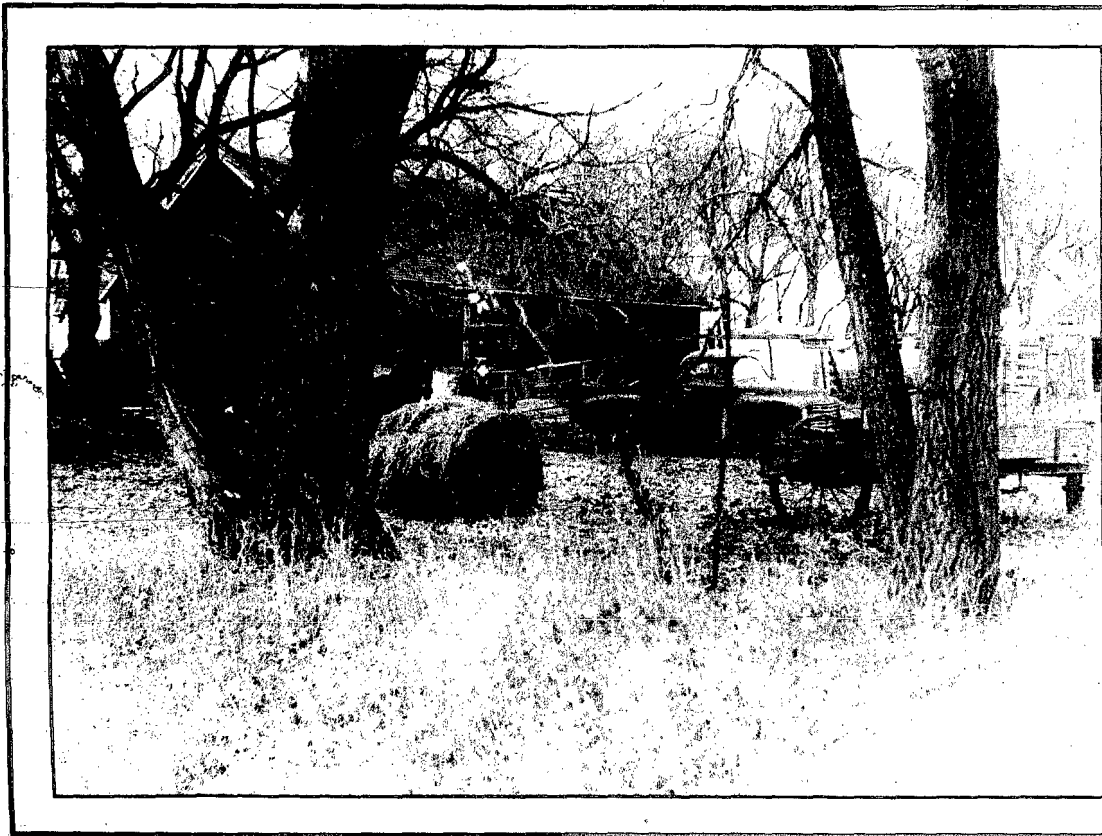

Historically, hog prices increase most years from November through January, Wellman said. "This 1985 may be the year to bet against the trend of prices going down as much late in the first quarter and in early the second quarter," Wellman said. He predicted that prices would keep above $50 per hundredweight for market hogs on the major seven-market average in December, and remain near $50 at the first of the year. "Then they look to move up sharply and consistently into the summer," he said.

Both beef and pork producers need to be aware of strong expansion in broiler numbers, Wellman said, with egg sets up 6 percent to 7 percent. "Poultry and turkeys are a growth industry," he said, noting that per capita consumption of poultry meat has increased from 40 pounds per person in 1965 to 63.64 pounds in 1984. Reminding that in 1983, for the first time, more poultry than pork was consumed, Wellman said the American Meat Institute discounts the impact of diet health issues on consumers' choices at the retail counter in 1985. Rather, he said, the basic economic factors of consumers' disposable income and relative prices of substitutes—in this instance, poultry for beef—have been the major demand shifters.

In answer to a question regarding the effect of center pivot irrigation in the Sandhills on cattle production, Wellman said irrigation has made possible a greater capacity for cow-herds, but the number of acres irrigated because of some liquidations by producers weakened financially by the costs of irrigation development and other factors.

For Nebraska Farm Bureau Convention

Farm Bureau members meet in Kearney

Six members of Dixon County Farm Bureau will represent the county at the annual convention of Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, to be held Dec. 25 at the Kearney Holiday Inn.

Harold George, Larry Bgsell and Duane Koester are the county's elected delegates and will participate in Nebraska Farm Bureau's House of Delegates at the convention. Voting delegates determine the organization's policies on state issues and also make recommendations on national policy issues.

The women's activities include a luncheon at which State Conventions Sherman Lewis will be the featured speaker. Both the Young Farmers and Ranchers and Farm Bureau women will join in fund raising activities for Farm Bureau's Nurses, and educational loan funds during the convention.

Gov. Robert Kerrey is scheduled to be the featured speaker for the annual Nebraska Farm Bureau banquet on Dec. 3. Other highlights include a farm broadcaster's seminar with representatives of financial organizations on Dec. 3 and presentation on Dec. 2 of the Outstanding Young Farmer and Rancher award.

State President Bryce Neldig of Madison, elected to a three-year term in 1981, will seek a second term during the balloting on Dec. 5. Three other positions on the state board of directors also are up for election.

TGE in swine

Mid-winter is the time for swine producers to keep an eagle eye out for symptoms of transmissible gastroenteritis, one of the leading types of baby pig scour.

Swine producers who have sows approaching farrowing should be extremely cautious about bringing in new hogs to the farm and should avoid introducing new breeding stock prior to farrowing. A rule among swine men is, do not purchase new hogs one month before or 15 days after a scheduled farrowing.

There is still much to be learned about the spread of the disease which can completely wipe out all pigs under a week of age within a few days. Quite often outbreaks can be traced directly to the addition of new swine to the premises. It's also possible that the disease may be spread by birds, wild or tame animals or by humans or vehicles traveling from one pen to another. This means that another good management rule would be to keep neighbors or visitors out of the farrowing house and the breeding herd.

TGE IS A VIRAL infection of baby pigs, causing severe diarrhea and vomiting. It is very infectious, can spread rapidly and can affect pigs of any age, but the older the animals are the less apt they are to have serious problems with it. The older hogs show watery discharge 3 or 5 days and then suddenly recover.

Vaccine is available but seldom used on Nebraska herds. The vaccine is administered 3-5 weeks prior to farrowing to produce immunity in the sow and then pass it on to the baby pigs through the colostrum in her milk.

Supplemental feeding for beef cows

When the bulk of the grain and leaves have been taken, leaving the stalk as the primary source of feed, protein supplementation usually is needed. This may be the only change necessary if there are adequate stalks. As much as 4 to 5 pound of plant protein may be needed if the cow is to consume enough of this low-quality roughage to provide her energy needs before calving.

Hay will be the most economical source of supplemental protein. In addition to providing protein, it also will add to the energy needed by a cow. Prior to calving, feeding medium-quality alfalfa hay at the rate of about five pounds per head daily usually will provide adequate protein supplementation for low-quality roughage rations fed to appetite.

Feeding the hay every other day or every third day reduces labor and equipment costs and helps assure that the more timid cows get their share.

While grazing stalks or stubble, cows should be provided a free choice high phosphorus mineral supplement. About 60 to 90 days before calving, they should receive about 20,000 I.U. of vitamin A daily. This may be provided in their protein or mineral supplement or by adding one million I.U. of stabilized vitamin A per pound of salt feed.

the farmer's wife by pat meierhenry

We seem to be celebrating a lot of silver wedding anniversaries lately. For one thing, student nurses in my day were not permitted to marry until the last six months before graduation. There was a bunch of weddings that whole year, in little towns all over Nebraska.

We'll be celebrating 25 years with my old roommate this next Sunday at Tecumseh. Millie's wedding had been planned for September, but was postponed until December, because Millie finished school three months late.

After we were accepted into the school of nursing, we were matched with roommates. Millie and I came from farms near small towns, we each had one brother and a sister; we even belonged to the same church.

I looked around at the other girls in the dorm, and thought it was good that they had put us together. I wasn't sure I could have adjusted to some of the characters I met.

By the time I graduated, three years later, I could have roomed with any one of these gals. Each was special in her own way.

Denver Children's Hospital. Millie's last name began with G, so she went in an earlier group. I acquired a new roommate.

Millie's sweetheart was in the Navy, stationed abroad; and I only knew his picture, which, of course, went along to Denver.

Her group happened to be in Denver when the date of our second year in school rolled around.

Students at Children's were housed in a tall dormitory with a super-formal lobby in which visitors were required to wait. Its main feature was a marble goldfish pond, very ornate and lovely.

I don't know for sure what got into those student nurses. I suspect it was "3.2" beer. But they decorated that lobby in honor of their second year in nurse's training with toilet paper, vaseline on door handles, and red ink in the goldfish pond. (The fish were safe in the upper level. This was a large goldfish pond.)

Problem was, the ink stained the marble. Suddenly, Lincoln General students were ink disgrace, and Children's threatened to discontinue the affiliation.

This called for drastic action, and the culprits were suspended for three months.

Everything happened in three-month blocks. And we graduated in August of the following year; these poor gals had to stay on until November.

MILLIE WAS A quiet, ladylike gal, and I doubt that she had much to do with the mischief. But she did have an ornery streak. She was a good roommate because she liked to bake. She would often bring goodies after a weekend at home. There was a kitchen on our floor.

Sometimes the food was stored in the refrigerator there. And sometimes, it disappeared.

Millie got mad, so she baked a special batch of chocolate chip cookies one weekend, using broken bits of Ex-lax.

She put them in the frig in a sack that said, "KEEP OUT." Revenge is sweet. There were three people who had to rush from class in the next few days.

The sailor eventually came home, and the wedding was lovely, in a Christmas theme.

So we'll go to Tecumseh for dinner, toast the honored couple, and have some laughs about those "good old days" which seem so long ago now. We treasure the memories.

Loan program keeps farmers going

Lending programs administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture have prevented thousands of farmers from going out of business, a USDA official said today.

"According to preliminary figures from a new farm and housing activity report, in fiscal 1984 USDA's Farmers Home Administration made special arrangements with over 33,000 farmers who could not make the required payments on their FmHA loans," said FmHA administrator Charles W. Shuman.

"FmHA county supervisors in nearly 2,000 local offices rescheduled, consolidated or reamortized loans for over 30,200 farm borrowers," Shuman said. "They also deferred part of the loan payments due from more than 2,800 farmers."

"Without these special actions," he said, "these farmers would not have been able to continue farming."

SHUMAN SAID USDA also subordinated its lien position on security for over 31,000 FmHA farm loans, for farmers who had borrowed up to the FmHA limit.

Those subordinations made collateral available to farmers for their use in obtaining additional credit from private sector lenders.

"Again, most of these farmers would not have been able to stay in business without this special assistance," he said.

"Even in these difficult times for agriculture, over 70 percent of FmHA borrowers are making their payments on schedule. One way or another," Shuman said, "we stayed with nearly 98 percent of all of our borrowers during the year. As a lender of last resort, the case could be made that the agency has kept its present 273,000 FmHA borrowers from going out of business."

Shuman said President Reagan's new Farm Credit initiatives will give the agency even more authority to assist farmers in fiscal 1985. "We expect that through the additional debt set aside and private sector farm loan guarantee provisions, we will be able to help even more farmers stay in business this fiscal year than we did the last."

Soaping down

THE WAYNE State College Student Senate members, in an act of good will to Wayne businesses along Main Street, washed windows of the businesses free of charge. Dean Jacobs, student senate president and "Catman" at Wayne State College, washes a downtown business window Saturday morning, while Rod Blunk looks on.

Pilger phone change completed

Northwestern Bell will complete a telephone central office project in Pilger on Dec. 6, with cutover of a new electronic switching system. The electronic mechanical equipment in service since 1965 will be replaced by a computerized telephone switcher.

"Pilger customers will have a wider range of choices with more control over their local telephone costs than ever before," said Ken Berglund, Northwestern Bell manager in Wayne who serves the Pilger area.

For those who want to control the cost of their local service, Local Measured Service will provide an alternative to a flat monthly rate starting Jan. 16, Berglund said. Pilger customers will also be able to order Custom Calling Service and Touch-Tone Dialing, thanks to the new system, he said. These features can be added to current telephone service for a monthly charge.

Berglund said new dialing instructions for some calls within the Pilger exchange will apply following conversion to the new system. Some of the changes involve dialing more digits, but once the call is dialed, it will go through more rapidly, according to Berglund.

version to the new system takes place in December. "All local calls will require dialing a seven-digit number. This means that customers can no longer dial five digits to reach another Pilger customer."

Customers with a two-party line who wish to reach the other party on their line will dial the party's seven-digit number. The dial and hang up technique will still apply, but the dialing code currently used will no longer function.

LISTED BELOW are the dialing changes effective when conversion to the new system takes place in December:

• All coin telephones in Pilger will be converted to Dial-Tone First. This means a coin deposit will no longer be required to place calls to the operator ("0").

• Concurrent with conversion, Pilger will be put on the Automatic Number Identification system, which allows customers to dial their long distance calls straight through, without waiting for an operator.

Average 1.9 percent higher

NPPD raises electric rates

The 108,000 retail customers of the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) will see the smallest increase in their basic electric service rate in 12 years during 1985.

"WE FEEL WE have done a good job of holding down the costs over which we have immediate control," Schaufelberger said. "We are confident that our construction and operating budgets, although frugal, will not result in a decrease in service or reliability."

AN NPPD retail residential customer using an average of 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month would experience an increase of approximately $9.32 during the entire year over the 1984 rate. A customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours per month would see a year-long increase of $14.44 on the electric bill, and a total electric customer using an average of 2,300 kilowatt-hours per month would experience an increase of $26.04 between the 1984 and 1985 rates.

The NPPD board of directors has approved a new retail residential rate schedule for 1985 that will average approximately 1.9 percent higher, excluding the production cost adjustment (PCA), than the 1984 rate for basic electric service. Not since 1974, when there was no rate change, have NPPD's retail customers experienced such a low increase.

Late in 1983, NPPD announced a two-year wholesale rate increase that included for 1985 an average increase of approximately 1.5 percent for the 57 municipalities and 26 other public power districts and rural cooperatives that are full requirements wholesale customers of the District.

A reduced demand for electricity has enabled NPPD to delay major transmission and generation construction which contributes to the small increase. Summer load control efforts, energy conservation and the state's economy are all believed to be playing a role in the reduced demand for electricity. The NPPD board of directors earlier this year placed a one-year freeze on the basic salary ranges of the District's 2,000 employees.

The PCA factor in 1985 billings will continue to be a credit as was the case during 1984. However, the PCA factor credit at the beginning of 1985 will be smaller than the PCA credit being applied to bills at the end of 1984, which may make it appear that the rate increase is higher. However, the Board was told that the PCA credit during 1985 will probably average about the same as the credit during 1984. The PCA credit, which is a result of the inability to accurately predict fuel costs, actually lowers electric

The 1985 average residential rate increase of 1.9 percent follows a 1984 increase of 2.0 percent and a 1983 increase of 2.1 percent.

The new rates become effective with billings on and after Feb. 1, 1985 for monthly billed customers and with billings on and after March 1, 1985 for customers billed bi-monthly.

The Best 400 in the world's first zero 400 paper. Now you can depend on your toughest copiers automatically. And that's an unbeatable advantage for you. The unique fast action lens gives you a virtually limitless range of copy sizes from almost a half page to a full page. Automatic scaling lets the 400 take a stack of different size originals and give you uniform size copies automatically. Also, paper with the standard 400 top edge - different size originals - even letter size paper - can be copied in paper size by auto-scaling. A full width of 400 lens - a projected lens - including automatic auto-focus, makes the 400 series the most reliable copier because they're made with the best components. There's no other copier out there like it.
