Spring baseball discontinued at Wayne-Carroll school

By LaVon Anderson

A baseball program will no longer be available to students in the Wayne-Carroll School system.

Members of the Wayne-Carroll board of education met Tuesday afternoon and voted to discontinue the program effective with the 1984-85 school year.

The unanimous vote came following a recommendation submitted by board member Joyce Reeg on behalf of the school's Activity Task Force.

REEG SAID the 15-member task force was unanimous in its recommendation that the program be discontinued in the district.

"This recommendation is based on a lot of research," said Reeg, adding that task force's number one concern was lack of competition in the area.

Reeg said students in the baseball program must now travel to Omaha and Lincoln to compete.

Board member Arnold Emry said comments he had heard among patrons of the district indicated they felt students interested in baseball would still have an opportunity to compete through the city's summer-recreation program.

Emry added that the school district also will have an opportunity now to strengthen its track and golf programs.

REEG SAID one of her initial concerns in deciding whether or not to discontinue the program regarded the availability of baseball equipment which can no longer be utilized by the school district.

Superintendent Francis Haun said the board's decision to discontinue the program is in agreement with his own personal recommendation.

Board members requested that an inventory of baseball equipment be taken and a list of items no longer useable within the district be submitted at next month's board meeting.

BOARD MEMBERS Tuesday afternoon also gave formal approval to the proposed 1985-86 school calendar.

The 1985-86 school year is scheduled to begin on Aug. 29 and end on May 30 — for a total of 180 school days.

Vacation days are scheduled Sept. 2 for Labor Day; Oct. 24-25 for teacher's convention; Nov. 8 for parent-teacher conferences; Nov. 21-22 for Thanksgiving; Dec. 23 through Jan. 1 for Christmas; and New Year, March 28-31 for Easter; and May 26 for Memorial Day.

Commencement will be held on May 18. Workdays will be held on the three days prior to the opening day of school.

IN DISCUSSING the school calendar, which includes dates on which the board of education meets, board member Neil Sandahl said he had been questioned regarding the time of board meetings.

During the winter months, the board meets at 3 p.m. Board meetings other months of the year begin at 7:30 p.m.

Sandahl said one resident of the district questioned whether the board was accessible during the winter months to working persons.

Board members expressed unanimous agreement that alternative arrangements would be made in order to hear anyone who wishes to appear before the board and cannot do so during regular meeting hours.

State requests land valuations hike

By Chuck Hackenmitter

Wayne County Board of Commissioners were informed Tuesday morning of a proposal by the Nebraska State Revenue Department which would increase county land valuations.

However, Wayne County Assessor Doris Slipp has recommended that the present land valuations not be raised.

The state has recommended a valuation of between $1,800 to $1,890 per acre for top quality irrigation ground; from $1,350 to $1,420 per acre for top quality dryland ground; and $785 to $825 per acre for quality pasture ground.

Currently, the valuations as were established in 1980 were $1,100 per acre irrigation ground; $710 per acre for quality dryland ground; and $420 per acre for pasture land.

In speaking with sources, including realtors, Slipp said dryland has been selling since the last farm sale in June, far less than $500 per acre.

The 1985 Nebraska legislature must make a decision concerning land values following Amendment IV's passage in the November general election which places agricultural land different than commercial classification, according to Slipp.

THERE HAS BEEN some discussion coming through the legislation which would consider having all farmland value remaining status quo for 1985.

"We could raise to the new valuations. But then the legislature would do something and then we would have to back off of the numbers," she said.

"We could leave it up to the state board of equalization this fall," she added.

By not raising the rates, the only problem she anticipates is land that borders Cuming County, which she anticipates will be raising land valuations. "The only thing that concerns me is across the county lines."

City absorbs NPPD utility rate adjustment

By Chuck Hackenmitter

For the third consecutive year, the city of Wayne will absorb the rate increase of the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), meaning there will be no rate increase passed on presently to the consumers who purchase electrical power from the city.

Wayne City Administrator Phil Kloster told the city council members Tuesday evening that despite absorbing the increase, the city will still have a decent margin to work with in calendar year 1985.

Late in 1983, NPPD had announced a two-year wholesale rate increase that included for 1985 an average increase of approximately 1.5 percent for the 52 municipalities and 26 other public power districts and rural cooperatives that are full requirement wholesale customers of the District.

The 1985 average residential rate increase (for those not receiving power through an entity that has purchased the power wholesale) of 1.9 percent follows a 1984 increase of 3.3 percent and a 1983 increase of 2.1 percent, according to an article published Dec. 4 in The Wayne Herald.

AS ONE of the shortest regular city council meetings in years — less than 10 minutes — the city council members voted on one non-regular agenda topic of whether to terminate a resolution and an agreement in reference to a city right of way in Wayne.

Sustained by a city of Wayne approved a plan near the east addition of Wayne with an easement on the lots to be possibly used for a road providing access to a park.

John Vakoc later had requested that the lots be abandoned to allow the area to be developed into larger lots. The potential for the park is now located near 10th Street and Providence Road, according to Kloster.

The Wayne city council voted unanimously on Tuesday evening to go along with Vakoc's request and abandon the easement.

ALSO TUESDAY evening, the Wayne City Council joined with other city board members after adjournment in honoring Norm Mellon for his dedicated work as city clerk.

Mellon, who has been involved with Wayne city government for the past five years, will begin employment on Jan. 15 with the city of Holdrege, Nebraska. He will serve as Holdrege's city administrator, clerk-treasurer.

"This is the last (regular meeting) night for Mellon," said Mayor Wayne Marsh. "I, for one, will miss him being here."

Johnson found guilty in district court

A man who wrote a bad check worth $1,880 to a Wayne County farmer and businessman was arraigned in District Court last Wednesday, Jan. 2, and was judged guilty.

Roger Elvin Johnson, also known as Bill Hanson who was residing in LeMars, Iowa before criminal charges were filed, was found guilty of issuing a bad check on June 3, 1983 in Wayne County.

Johnson obtained property, services or present value by issuing a $1,880 check to Dick Sorenson of rural Wayne, which was drawn on the First National Bank of Bancroft, Nebraska.

The sentence at the arraignment was deferred pending pre-sentence investigation and report of the District Probation Office. Johnson was ordered to appear before the district court personally on Feb. 6.

Bond for the appearance of the defendant was fixed in the sum of $20,000 which may be satisfied by defendant's personal recognizance.

ESU delays action on contract

By LaVon Anderson

Members of Educational Service Unit One's board of directors have delayed action on the contract of ESU 1 Administrator Harry Mills for 1985-86.

That decision came Tuesday night after board members met for nearly an hour in executive session to discuss an agenda item which called for action on the administrator's contract.

After reconvening, the board voted unanimously not to take any action on the administrator's contract and to table the matter.

ALSO DISCUSSED during the executive session was the administrator's report on the evaluation of ESU 1 directors, including Assistant Administrator Rodney Garwood and Special Education Administrator Duane Tappe.

Following the executive session, board members questioned Mills as to the last time an evaluation of the directors was made.

Mills told board members that the latest evaluation was dated June 29, 1984.

Board members asked that Mills conduct a current evaluation and present it at next month's regular board meeting.

NEW ESU 1 BOARD members who assumed their positions Tuesday night are Paul Steffens of Hartington, Ervin DeBoer of Walthill, and John Post of Bloomfield.

Steffens replaces Dave Hay in Cedar County; DeBoer was elected from Thurston County to replace Darrell Merry; and Post was elected from Knox County to replace Doc Walstrom.

Hay, Merry and Walstrom all chose not to seek re-election to the board.

Re-elected to the board last November were Randy Shaw from Wayne County and Leo Kramer from Dakota County.

They, along with the three new board members, join at-large ESU 1 board members Claire Hansen of Coleridge, Dr. Robert Jacobs of Verdigre, Marvin Borg of Concord, and Deryl Lawrence of Wayne.

NEW BOARD officers were elected Tuesday night and include Deryl Lawrence, chairman; Claire Hansen, vice chairman; and Randy Shaw, secretary. Hansen, who replaces Darrell Merry as vice chairman, served as chairman of the board during 1984. Shaw was re-elected secretary.

John Portwood of the Wakefield National Bank was re-appointed treasurer. Portwood is not a member of the board.

Chairman Lawrence appointed Claire Hansen and Marvin Borg to serve on a committee with Administrator Mills in seeking a replacement for board member Bernel Gustafson in Dixon County.

Gustafson's term expired Jan. 1 and no one filed for his position from Dixon County during November's general election.

A new board member to replace Gustafson will be appointed in February.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, Chairman Lawrence named board members Randy Shaw, Paul Steffens and Ervin DeBoer to a committee to study all of the ESU 1 general levy programs.

DeBoer will serve as chairman of the committee which is to submit its report in February for anticipated action at the March board meeting.

Formation of the committee comes following last month's board meeting during which a proposal to change the nursing services program as a way to cut ESU 1 costs was soundly defeated.

Last month's proposal was submitted by board member Randy Shaw. Serving with Shaw on a committee to study ESU 1 nursing services were Marvin Borg and Leo Kramer.

VOTING AGAINST Tuesday night's motion to appoint a new committee to study all of the general levy programs was board member Marvin Borg.

Voting in favor of the motion were Bob Jacobs, Claire Hansen, Randy Shaw, Deryl Lawrence, Paul Steffens, Ervin DeBoer and John Post. Leo Kramer was absent from the meeting.

"In reference to this newly formed committee," said Borg, "I just hope they aren't set out on the same chopping block as the nursing services committee was. We were given a job to do and we did it."

IN SUBMITTING the motion to form a committee to study all the general levy programs, board member Post said he doesn't feel nursing services should be cut without first looking at everything else.

Regarding the nursing services program, Administrator Mills told board members he had met with school superintendents earlier this week to update them on the difficulties facing ESU 1.

"There is a lot of mixed opinion on how this (nursing services) should be handled next year," said Mills.

"I have to take a good hard look at the costs," added Mills. "I have nothing against the nurses. In fact, I think they are a fine group of people doing a tremendous job."

"Whatever decisions are reached," said Assistant Administrator Garwood, "it is only fair and fitting that the board move as expeditiously as possible."

THE ONLY other action taken by board members Tuesday night involved setting the 1985-86 mileage rate to be paid to ESU 1 employees.

Board members voted to follow Administrator Mills recommendation that the mileage rate be set at 20 1/2 cents per mile for 1985-86.

ESU 1 staffers presently receive 22 cents per mile.

The only board member voting against Mills' recommendation was Bob Jacobs.

MILLS SAID the 20 1/2 cents per mile was recommended because of new IRS regulations which state that employers who compensate employees at more than 20 1/2 cents per mile must report the entire sum to IRS on a W-2 form for the employees.

Employees, in turn, must include all the payment in their gross income listed on their federal income tax return.

Board members pointed out that despite Tuesday night's action, mileage would still become a negotiable item during 1985-86 contract talks.

An agreement reached in the master contract would supercede action taken tonight, explained Secretary Shaw.

NEXT MEETING of the Educational Service Unit 1 board of directors is scheduled Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. at headquarters in Wakefield.

Wayne man writes account of rare goose spotting

Last Saturday, several people from Wayne, Wisner, Laurel (including Laurel High School Independent Science Research Class) traveled to the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge near Missouri Valley to see, for the first time in 50 years, a Bean goose.

It was the first Bean goose sighting in the continental United States since 1924.

Only DeSoto was one of those who attending the Bean goose viewing, which received media attention from area daily newspapers. Here, he writes about the once in a lifetime experience.

by Lylo George

Last Friday I bumped into my friend Mark Brogie, a hard core birdwatcher. He asked me if I was going to see the Bean goose at DeSoto.

"A 'what' goose?" I echoed somewhat incredulously.

"A Bean goose."

"You mean Bean as in Blue Lake Green Beans?"

"Yes, a Bean goose. One hasn't been seen in the continental United States since 1924. It should be worth the trip to see."

I told Mark that it sounded like a wild goose chase to me. But I just might be wiser enough to go along for the ride.

The next morning I found myself standing the pre-dawn January chill of Wayne, Nebraska waiting for an assortment of teachers, high school science students and civilians to get loaded into vehicles.

CARAVANING WITH a bunch of birdwatchers is an interesting experience. If someone sees a hawk immediately every vehicle screeches to a halt. The windows come down and the side of the van seems to sprout lenses, cameras, spotting scopes and binoculars all aimed at the latest bird in an attempt at identification.

Fortunately, everybody was in a hurry to get to DeSoto Bend to see the Bean goose so we didn't have to stop too often. The chance to see something this unusual and check it off in the back of the bird book seems to offer quite an incentive to hard-core birders.

At DeSoto we walked about 1/2 mile to the observation site. It looked more like a temple dedicated to optics than a wildlife refuge.

There were little cheap dimensore binoculars. There were cameras with 500mm lenses and extenders. There were spotting scopes and expensive binoculars.

Tripod after tripod stood all in a row. If I were a telescope salesman I would hang out at rare bird sightings.

Do birds watch people?

If I were a bird, I think the idea that there are several dozen lens unless I was staring back. Was the Bean goose sitting there making little checks in his people book just like the people were in their bird books?

I wonder how many Vibram Saled Marsh Stompers or Blue Gortex Coated Scope Eyes the Bean goose was able to check off.

To be quite honest, a Bean goose (Anser fabalis middendorffii) for those that care) looks like, well, looks like a goose. It didn't look that much different than ones that used to chase me across peoples' barnyards.

ITS CHIEF distinguishing features are orange feet and an orange band across the bill.

While we watched, the misplaced migrant spent most of its time on the ice of the lake standing around, walking around and sitting around with its back to the bird watchers.

Not exactly what I would call Disney film material, but since it was thousands of miles from its Eurasian home, territory the Bean goose still managed to be a crowd pleaser.

I've always wondered how the Bean goose got its name, Ed Brogie (another of the famed bird ing Brogie brothers) seems to own almost every bird book a person could want included in his collection is a book called "Word for Birds" by Edward Gruson.

According to this book it might have been originally thought that this goose ate beans. It turns out however that the Bean goose diet has almost nothing to do with beans.

Speaking of eating, I speculated out-loud in front of birders what a BAKED Bean goose might taste like.

It's a good thing there weren't any leathers and fur nearby.

Church exempt status brings controversy

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

Few public office seekers have been successful as write-in candidates, but one who has been is state Senator-elect Carson Rogers of Ord.

In the November election, Rogers defeated Harold Rademacher of Loup City for the 41st District legislative seat being vacated by Sen. Don Wagner of Ord.

Rogers was listed on the November ballot, but he emerged from a six-candidate May primary election without the benefit of a ballot listing.

On March 14, Rogers, a 60-year-old hog farmer, filed with the Secretary of State for the office of Valley County Supervisor at the time of Wagner's announcement that he wasn't seeking a third legislative term.

Because Rogers had already filed for the office of Valley County Supervisor at the time of Wagner's announcement, under state law, his filing for the Legislature could stand only if nobody filed a protest with the Secretary of State.

On March 15, Rogers' legislative filing was nullified by a protest from a supporter of one of the five other candidates seeking the legislative seat.

"It filed me up a little when they removed my name from the ballot," Rogers said recently. "It gave me a little more incentive to get elected."

Rogers' name was written in by 1,773 voters — 23 percent — in the May 15 primary election. That was good enough for a second-place showing and general election run-off with Rademacher. On Nov. 6, Rogers beat Rademacher with 56.3 percent of the vote.

Rogers had the benefit of being well-known in the nine-county legislative district. He had served 13 years on the Valley County Board of Supervisors. He left the county board because of his responsibilities with state and national pork producers association, and was planning to return to the local office until Wagner created the legislative opportunity.

Oppose Regulations
About 200 ministers and church representatives flocked to the State Office Building in Lincoln recently to express their opposition to a public hearing to proposed regulations which would limit their current property tax exemptions.

The new regulations have been proposed by the State Revenue Department following legislative action on the issue.

According to the proposal, property must be used exclusively for religious, charitable or educational purposes to qualify for an exemption. When a property has mixed uses, an exemption would be granted only for portions of the property used for an exempt purpose.

If a parsonage had no specific room set aside for church business, such as office space, the church would have to pay property tax on the entire house. And if the house did contain a minister's office, only the office would be exempt.

Representatives of several churches and colleges owned by churches said the regulation goes against Nebraska Supreme Court rulings that a property is free from tax if it is used predominantly for the exempt purpose.

Anne Lee Krentl of the Nebraska Conference of the United Church of Christ questioned whether it's appropriate for a regulatory agency to define what constitutes "use for religious purposes."

She said taxing parsonages would curtail the work of churches at a time when government is asking them to play a bigger role in helping people in need.

An associate of the Rev. Everett Sileven of Louisville, who has fought the state on the issue of school approval, read the clergyman's testimony into the record.

"Never will we ever concede that a county tax assessor or any other government official has the right to determine if any activity of a citizen is religious or non-religious for taxing purposes," Sileven wrote.

If county assessors are allowed to specify what part of church property will be taxed, "we will take whatever measures are necessary to protect the church property," Sileven wrote.

Leave board as is

Recent recommendations from the Citizens Commission on Higher Education, passed on to Nebraska Governor Bob Kerrey, include a proposal to allocate authority of the four state colleges to the University of Nebraska board of regents.

This Regents board would consist of nine members that would be appointed to the board position by Kerrey.

This proposal has created a stir among state college board members and administrators. We feel they have a legitimate gripe.

Consider the most recent information submitted to this publication by the office of the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges — which include Wayne State, Kearney State, Peru State and Chadron State.

- The state college system has the lowest cost per student of any public system in Nebraska.
- In 1984, the state colleges set a record for the highest enrollment in their history. That translates to a 6.2 percent increase over 1983 and a 42.6 percent increase over the last 10 years.
- The state colleges set new records for the number of "non-traditional" (those students above 23 years old) that attended. Over 32 percent of the students at the state colleges fit into that category.
- The state college system introduced a "new concept" in a Master of Business Education degree in 1984. This concept takes learning to those who are actively working and can't afford to take time off for this advanced degree.

Dr. Ed Elliott, president of Wayne State College, notes that if the state needs economic revitalization, then the Masters of Business Administration Degree is one step toward helping achieve it.

- The state colleges produce the overwhelming majority of teachers in the schools outside of Lincoln and Omaha. In 1984, the state colleges participated in first step enactment of the Omnibus Education Bill designed to improve education in Nebraska.
- Other events in 1984 included the first full year of a redesigned faculty/administrative evaluation system; beginning the pilot year for the new Teaching Excellence Award for all college faculty; and improving salaries for both faculty and classified staff so that the state colleges can afford to hire and retain a productive staff for decent wages.

Success of the state colleges over the past years can be attributed to a dedicated and hardworking board of trustees who have a sole purpose of who are making decisions that has enriched the present status of the state college system.

Sometimes it makes more sense to leave a good thing alone.

And by looking at 1984 and the role of state colleges in Nebraska's higher educational sector, accomplishments bear another look before considering the elimination of the state college board of trustees authority.

Views on farm crisis roll in

Farm Crisis Mail

In my last column, I talked about the problem facing our farmers and all of our agricultural sector today — and of the need to spend more time focusing on solutions and less time rehashing problems. Indeed, I would be the very last person to discourage constituents from sending me their views, but you should also know, I think that we are, first of all, rather well-informed on the problems now facing individual farms and agribusiness families. My key staff and I are now spending so much time responding to a discussion of problems and requests for us to participate in listening sessions that we will soon be immobilized and unable to address our time to the search for solutions to those problems.

congressman doug bereuter

While representatives from rural states are particularly outnumbered in the House of Representatives, each state has equal representation in the United States Senate. We will have to work together on a bipartisan basis in both Houses to implement the very best idea of our own and the recommendations from Nebraska farmers. As I said in the last column, it is not acceptable to simply be a "Senator No" or "Congressman Negative." It is not acceptable to simply wash one's hands like Pontius Pilate, and discharge one's duty by voting "no" if the solution one proposes is not accepted. You have a right to expect your elected representatives, at the state and federal level, after input from constituents, hearings, and research, to set forth their own positions and to be ready to accept the best legislative compromise possible when compromise is necessary.

Offices Has Moved

On the first day of the 99th Congress last Wednesday, the Washington office of Nebraska's First Congressional District moved from 1314 Longworth Building to 2446 Rayburn Building.

For the office, this move means more filing, drawer, and shelf space, as well as better facilities for handling mail and packages. For the staff, it has meant days of packing and unpacking office supplies; of searching for misplaced materials, and of coping with disconnected telephone lines.

The new accommodations are improved, but certainly not luxurious. We have seven staffers working in one room. We hope that they will no longer be sharing their space with Capitol Hill's notorious brigade of crawling bugs.

The office address is 2426 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington D.C. 20515. The telephone number, which does not change, is (202) 225-4806.

Share That Star

The Copyright Office of the Library of Congress has returned a list of microfilm submitted for copyright by the International Star Registry of Northfield, Ill., and closed the file on the firm's application. The microfilm contained a list of names of individuals who paid a fee to the company to register a star in their name.

Since the company was founded in June, 1979, an estimated 100,000 people have paid $25-$35 each with the understanding that a star in their name would be listed in a book which will be copyrighted at a later date in the Library of Congress of the United States of America," according to the firm's recent promotional literature and correspondence.

The Library has received numerous inquiries during the Christmas season regarding the authenticity of the firm's claims to register the names of stars. The Library has repeatedly emphasized that it has no connection whatsoever with any star registry. The Science and Technology Division of the Library has stated that the only official organization that gives designation to planetary features is the International Astronomical Union.

Helping nongame wildlife

Nongame fund
by Cheryl Stubbendick

Nebraskans have an opportunity this year to help our state's nongame wildlife with a few strokes of a pen. For the first time, Nebraska Income taxpayers can designate a portion of their tax refund to benefit nongame and endangered wildlife species.

Nongame wildlife includes everything that is not commonly hunted, fished or trapped — more than 450 species or nearly 80 percent of all the animal life in Nebraska. It includes songbirds such as the cardinal and bluebird; hawks and owls; the great blue heron, other wading birds and shorebirds; the tiny screeper and swift fox; and many species of frogs and turtles.

Line 16 on the 1984 Nebraska Individual Income Tax Form lets you contribute $1, $5, $10 or a greater amount of your choice for the Nongame Species Conservation Fund. Unlike the contribution to presidential campaigns you can make on your federal tax form, a contribution to the Nongame Fund will reduce your refund. However, your contribution does qualify as a federal tax deduction for 1984.

THERE ARE MANY good reasons to make a contribution to the fund. In the past, the state Game and Parks Commission's nongame and endangered species program was funded entirely through the state's general fund. In 1984, the budgeted amount was $160,000, or about $320 per nongame species. Clearly that's not enough to meet the need.

It is true that nongame species receive some spin-off benefits from the fees paid by sportsmen to hunt game species. For example, preservation of wetlands for ducks also helps other nongame species. But fees from hunting and fishing licenses are naturally targeted to the game animals, and the nongame species have many of their own specific needs.

Overall, the objectives of this program are to maintain the diversity and abundance of our nongame wildlife resources; to prevent nongame species from becoming endangered or threatened and to restore currently endangered and threatened species. These are worthy goals which all Nebraskans should support.

PRESERVATION OF wildlife species is necessarily a long-term effort. The Game and Parks Commission plans such long-range programs as these:

- Reintroduction of species gone from the state, such as the river otter, peregrine falcon and eastern chipmunk.

- Design and implementation of habitat management programs for state and private lands that would benefit nongame species.
- Development of a computer data bank of biological information on Nebraska's nongame species and wild plants for use in determining and monitoring their status and distribution.
- Funding various research efforts, such as data collection to aid management programs.
- Establishment of an urban wildlife habitat program for city parks, green belts and backyards.
- Implementation of a public awareness campaign to promote the values of nongame wildlife and the need for conservation.

All of these plans are important and none of them are cheap.

In a very real sense, the fate of many of our nongame wildlife species rests with each of us. Through our 1984 tax forms, we have an easy way to do our part.

Budget freeze continues attracting support

Yes you are hearing correctly. The Administration and many in Congress are finally acknowledging that the federal budget deficit is the number one priority, and could be dealt with most fairly by a budget freeze similar to what I have supported.

The annual federal budget deficit is expected to exceed $210 billion next year. These yearly deficits accumulate and become part of the national debt which is nearly $1.6 trillion. Interest payments on the national debt are growing at an alarming rate, becoming a larger budget expense each year. In 1984, the interest payments on the national debt are about as much as President Kennedy's entire 1963 federal budget!

While it is time to early to determine what the final form of a budget freeze may take, it is possible it could be very similar to bipartisan freeze plans I have previously authored and supported. We had offered a plan to reduce the federal budget deficit by freezing spending on most domestic programs for one year. While the Administration and many in Congress opposed spending freezes earlier this year, it now appears the President and others see it as a workable way to cut the budget deficit.

An across-the-board approach is an effective and fair approach to reduce the budget deficit which threatens our economy. Our suggestions emphasized spending cuts above revenue increases. Our plans were endorsed by many previously concerned about runaway budget deficits. We believed then, and still maintain, that a one year spending freeze would dramatically step up efforts to balance the federal budget. A freeze would also send a positive signal to the financial markets to lower interest rates.

The budget deficit is a national crisis for all sectors of the economy. As a member of the Senate Budget Committee, I am enthusiastic about the President's expressed desire to work with Congress to attack the budget deficit. With early signs showing some consensus for a budget freeze, it is possible the federal government will make a significant stab at reducing the deficit.

As one of the original advocates of a budget freeze and a member of the Budget Committee, I will be among the Senators working with the Administration to forge a workable budget where all parts are treated fairly. It is reassuring to see a consensus growing between the Administration and the Congress on reducing the deficit. A consensus which we can hopefully build upon for the benefit of the economy and our nation's children whose future is being mortgaged away by the growing national debt.

$39,000 minimum wage

By Martin Lefkowitz

What is the federal minimum wage? Most people would answer "$3.35 per hour" and would usually be right — but not always.

Would you believe $18.91 per hour, or $39,332.80 a year for a standard 40-hour week? That is the federal minimum wage for bricklayers working on certain federal construction projects in and around the nation's capital.

The justification for minimum wages has been to protect low-wage earners from exploitation, even though most reputable economists now agree that these minimum wage laws do nothing more than reduce the number of jobs available to the least skilled workers.

But why is the federal government setting a minimum wage that is more than double the average hourly rate in manufacturing and about 125 percent more than the average paid for all non-supervisory private sector workers? It is ostensibly to protect local workers from unfair competition from workers coming in from outside the Washington area and working for less money than is customary for bricklayers in Washington.

Does the $18.91 per hour minimum wage reflect the wages in the Washington area?

A recent review of the Washington Post classified section found 11 ads for bricklayers. Ten of those offered wages ranging from $13 to $14.50 per hour. The other was for a job that paid $18.91 per hour, including a $2.35 per hour set-aside in a savings plan that goes to the worker when he leaves. What was the difference between the $13 to $14.50 per hour jobs and the one paying $18.91 per hour? Just one thing. The job paying $18.91 per hour was a Davis-Bacon job.

What is a Davis-Bacon job? Davis-Bacon refers to a wage-setting bill passed in 1931 that regulates the wages contractors on federal construction projects must pay their employees.

The wages are supposed to reflect average local prevailing wage rates — the wages paid by employers in that area. But in reality, the wages end up reflecting the highest, rather than the average, local wages because there is a built-in bias that tends to give greater weight to union wage scales. That is known as the "30 percent rule." Under that rule, if 30 percent of the workers in a community work at a certain wage, such as a union wage scale, that wage becomes the prevailing rate, even if 70 percent of the workers in that community work at non-union jobs that pay substantially lower pay scales.

Who pays for the higher wages?

The contractor?

Guess again. It's you, the taxpayer. A study by the General Accounting Office in 1978 showed that the Davis-Bacon wage-setting mechanism increased public construction costs by an average of 3.3 percent. This means that this year the cost of public construction projects will be more than $1.5 billion above what is would have been in a free market environment. In addition, the added records that had to be kept by federal contractors resulted in an estimated cost of $189.1 million in 1977, suggesting that the current paperwork cost would exceed $300 million.

All in all, the Davis-Bacon Act is a good example of unnecessary and expensive government regulation.

Instead of paying for services based upon what the hospital bills after care is given, the Prospective Payment Program determines the amount to be paid before care is given," Wood said. "This will provide a more equitable system, with opportunities and incentives for hospital efficiency which have not existed before."

Hospitals located in communities other than those listed above will continue to be reimbursed on the basis of charges, but will also be subject to a new, stringent Utilization Review Program which will evaluate the appropriateness of hospital admissions and services received.

The program's impact upon premiums should begin to be realized within 12 to 15 months after implementation. "We hope we will begin to see a further moderation in the rate of premium increases," Lorenzen said. "However, that will depend upon utilization and other factors."

Wildcat grapplers keep 1985 Winside Invitational trophy at home

The Winside wrestlers came back strong following the holiday break and captured the championship trophy at their own 1985 Winside Invitational on Saturday with a healthy 136 1/2 to 106 1/2 margin over Stanton in a nine-team field.

It was the first invitational win for the squad this season.

"IT'S A REAL boost to come back after three weeks and win...and a really pleasant surprise," said Coach Paul Sok. "It's been several years since we have even received a trophy in our own invitational, let alone won the championship."

Winside came away the winner in four weight class championships, including Jeff Thies who remained undefeated at 185 pounds with a pin over Greg Schulte of Norfolk Catholic.

Doug Paulsen finished first in the 105 pound weight class with a pin over Jeff Peck of Logan Valley, and teammate Mike Jaeger defeated Kelly Bruckner of Norfolk Catholic at 155 pounds for the championship.

At 167 pounds, Mike Woerdemann won his first invitational championship of his high school career with a 13-6 decision over Dan Von Seggern of Logan Valley.

Freshman Mace Kant suffered his first loss of the season in the final round when he was pinned by Gene Daniel of Stanton.

IN CONSOLATION ROUND action, Chris Olson pinned opponent Brian Wolff of Stanton midway through their match at 132 pounds. Jeff Bolich was pinned by Mark McKain of Oakland-Craig at 112 pounds and Darin Greunke was taken down by Andy Gustafson of Oakland-Craig in his match at 119 pounds.

"Highlights on the day included first round wins for Jeff Bolich, Rod Deirdrichsen and Chris Jorgensen, their first victories in the season.

Winside fielded a full 12-man team in the competition and 11 of those wrestling won at least one match throughout the day.

"We had a little problem with the flu over break and some of the kids came back a little weak," Sok said. "But right now they're all looking good and wrestling up to par."

"Jeff Thies is improving all the time and he did a fine job on Saturday, along with Doug Paulsen and the rest of the team," said Sok. "Paulsen has 10 wins so far this season and all but one of them has been a pin."

Winside and runner-up Stanton are scheduled to face off in dual action at Winside tonight (Thursday). On Saturday, Jan. 12, the Wildcat ninth and tenth grade wrestlers will compete in a tournament at Pender.

Stay at free throw line aids Trojans in win over Walthill

Looking at the shooting statistics from the Wakefield vs. Walthill boys basketball game, it appeared that maybe the field goal and free throw totals were transposed along the way for the Trojans.

But that was not the case, as Wakefield hit 26 of 42 free throws in the game to notch a 58-40 win over the Bluejays and improve their record to 3-6 overall.

IN THE STATISTICS column, Wakefield put up just 25 shots from the floor in the game, hitting 16 of them for a impressive 64 percent average. The big difference in the game came at the line for the Trojans as they hit 26 of 42 for 62 percent and the winning edge. Half of those shots came off the arm of senior Brian Soderberg who hit on 13 of 15 attempts, including 7 of 9 in the fourth quarter enroute to scoring a game-high 23 points.

The Trojans opened up a 12-8 lead in the first quarter and gradually added to that throughout the second period to hold a 25-14 halftime advantage.

A pair of quick buckets by Jason Erb and a field goal by Soderberg in the starting moments of the third quarter padded the Wakefield lead, which they maintained throughout the rest of the game.

Wakefield spent most of the fourth quarter at the line, launching 25 free throw attempts and scoring on 15 of them.

"We spent a lot of time working on our oftensive game over the break, and it was good to see it pay off for us," said Trojan Coach Clark Cocco.

That payoff was especially noticeable in the scoring department, with three Trojans breaking the double figure barrier. In addition to Soderberg's 23 points, Jason Erb dropped in 13 points and Wade Nicholson added 10 points.

Cocco also commented on the fact that his team only put the ball up 25 times from the field, stating that his team "was at the line for so much of the evening that there really wasn't much of an opportunity for them to get the ball up."

Walthill outscored the Trojans from the free 20 of 60 shots for 33 percent, but committed 25 personal fouls to send Wakefield successfully to the charity stripe.

The Bluejays edged Wakefield out on the boards by a 37-32 margin. Leading rebounders for the Trojans were Soderberg with eight rebounds and Erb with seven boards.

IN THEIR CONSOLATION round game at the Homer Invitational on Saturday evening, Wakefield came back from an early 10 point deficit only to be handed a 65-63 loss to Pender.

Both teams were knotted at 12-12 at the end of the first quarter before Wakefield's scoring drive let down and Pender opened up a 27-10 halftime lead.

Defense wasn't the strong point in the third quarter for either team as they each went on a scoring spree and tallied 25 points. In the fourth period, Wakefield managed to get a hold on the Pender offense and held them to 13 points while reeling out 21 points to close the gap to two points in the waning moments. A long jumper by Brian Soderberg at the buzzer fell short as Wakefield took the 65-63 loss.

Jason Erb and Wade Nicholson had outstanding nights in the scoring department despite the loss, each recording season bests of 23 points, while Brian Soderberg added 10 points.

Wakefield plays host to Winside in a game slated for tomorrow (Friday) evening.

Laurel Lady Bears take Ponca tourney title over hosts 41-26

Laurel's Lady Bears captured the championship of the Ponca Invitational basketball tournament with a 41-26 win over host team Ponca on Saturday night.

Along with the victory, Laurel also boosted their season mark to 8-0.

AFTER OUTSCORING Ponca 11-2 in the first quarter of the game, Laurel fell upon hard times scoring and managed only two points in the second period, while the Indians netted seven points to close the gap to 13-9 at the half.

"We really had control of the game in the first quarter, but hit a cold spell in the second from the floor," said Laurel Coach Gale Hamilton. "I'm a little disappointed to see that, but it happens once in a while."

Laurel came back to score six straight points midway through the third quarter to give them a 22-18 lead, before shutting down the Indian offense for the remainder of the game and limiting them to eight points.

The Lady Bears offense came alive in the fourth quarter, racking up 19 points to widen the winning margin. For the night, Laurel shot 13 of 42 from the floor for 31 percent.

Senior Wendy Robson and Junior Michelle Joslin were the statistics leaders for Laurel. Robson netted 13 points and pulled down eight rebounds, while Joslin added 11 points and seven boards.

"I WAS HAPPY with the play of Sara Adkins and Michelle Joslin, they both shot well from the free throw line and had a good night in rebounding and ball handling," said Hamilton. "From the line, both Adkins and Joslin were 5 of 7 for 71 percent."

The Laurel Lady Bears, currently ranked fifth in the latest poll released by the Omaha World-Herald, appeared a little slow in their tournament opener against Bancroft-Rosalie, and Hamilton commented on that play.

"Last year when we would win the close games, everyone would come up and congratulate us, but this year if we win a close one, they ask us what is going wrong. A team can't play championship ball every night, and we're happy with the way things are going."

Laurel was scheduled to face a tough defensive Wynot squad tonight (Thursday) at home.

Inside scoring attack boosts Wayne to win over Warriors

The three inside players of the Blue Devil basketball team's starting five netted 49 of Wayne's 57 points on the way to their eighth straight win of the season, 57-38 over Schuyler Tuesday night.

Junior Don Larsen dropped in 20 points and combined with a 16 point showing by junior Brent Pick and 13 points from senior Rod Dahl to head up the scoring and boost Wayne's record to 8-1. The Blue Devils currently hold down the fourth place spot in the most recent Omaha World-Herald Class B boys basketball poll.

WAYNE AND SCHUYLER battled to a 14-9 score at the end of the first quarter before Brent Pick, reeled off six straight points in the beginning of the second period to set Wayne up 20-9 before the Warriors were able to make their presence felt on the board. The Blue Devils defense was able to hold Schuyler to just four points in the quarter to lead 26-13 at halftime.

Both teams scored evenly in the third quarter and Schuyler closed the gap by one point to 36-24 going in the final period.

There, a turrid shooting exhibition by the Blue Devils shut off any hopes the Warriors had of making it a close game, as they hit 8 of 9 shots for 16 points from the floor.

Wayne shot strong from the floor for the night, hitting 24 of 43 for 56 percent and added 9 of 23 shots from the line for their final tally of 57.

Schuyler went 0 of 9 at one point in the second quarter to slow down their offense. On the night they were 15 of 45 for 33 percent, but fared better than the Blue Devils at the stripe, converting 8 of 15 attempts for 53 percent.

The Blue Devils also held a sizable margin on the boards, out-rebounding Schuyler 40-18 in the game.

DESPITE THE FACT that his team claimed a 19-point win, Wayne Coach Bob Uhing wasn't necessarily pleased with the performances that he saw in the game.

"In comments made following the contest, Uhing said he felt that if the Warriors, 4-4 coming into the game with Wayne, had shot better, they could have come away the winner in the game against the Blue Devils. He also felt that his team gave up a lot of offensive boards and were lucky that Schuyler didn't convert on the ones they pulled down.

"We didn't come out emotional in this game, we weren't 10 for it," Uhing said. "We have been talking about it a lot in practice, about keeping our intensity level up, but we haven't been able to do it for every game we still have a lot of work to do."

Uhing added that the three-way scoring punch provided by his inside people didn't actually occur by planning. "That those three would score as well as they did wasn't by design. Our inside people were just able to get open."

Wayne stays at home for their next game, scheduled with Stanton tomorrow (Friday) night.

The Wayne High wrestling team posted a second place finish in their return to tournament action on Saturday at the Wisner-Pilger Invitational.

The Blue Devils finished with 147½ points behind Creighton, which won the meet with 159½ points. The Wayne junior varsity also scored to place eighth in the 11-team field with 16 points.

WAYNE ENDED THE DAY with three weight class championships and brought home a total of 10 medals.

At 135 pounds, Kevin Koeng defeated Steve Koehms, of Wisner-Pilger, in a 7-0 decision for the championship. Senior Tim Book was also a champion at 167 pounds, making a 2-2 decision over Dave Landholm of West Point.

Terry Schuyler won his first Invitational championship of the year with a 7-5 decision over Jeff Chase of Creighton at 132 pounds.

Scott Johnson was downed in his final round match at 126 pounds by Richey Schuetz of West Point with a pin at 4:48 in the match.

In consolation round matches, Marc Rahm was a third place finisher at 112 pounds with a pin over Craig Dervek of Schuyler at 1:46.

75-50 final score

Wildcats fall to state-rated Snyder

The Winside Wildcats bowed to a seventh-ranked Snyder boys team in a 75-50 contest played in Winside Tuesday evening.

The Warriors rated seventh in the latest Class D-2 poll released by the Omaha World-Herald, put the ball up 74 times and hit on 32 tries for a 43 percent shooting average enroute to the win.

Winside trailed by only five points at the end of the first period, 16-11, before Snyder poured on 25 points in the next eight minutes to pull to a 41-27 halftime margin.

Back-to-back quarters of 18 and 16 points in the third and fourth periods aided in insuring Snyder with their fifth win against three losses.

'SNYDER IS JUST A good basketball team,' said Winside Coach Mark Erbeub. "They are a fast-paced team and they shoot the ball very well...their big scoring punch in the second quarter really gave them a boost in the game."

Mike Thies hit double digits for Winside with 13 points, joined by Kevin Jaeger with 10 points. Darryl Mundill led the boards with nine rebounds, followed by Thies with six and Jaeger with five rebounds.

Snyder also led the Wildcats in rebounding, which Erbeub also cited as a factor in the game. "They were able to pick up some offensive rebounds and convert them into buckets."

"I was generally pleased with our job on offense...our free throw shooting was poor, and it could have helped keep us in the game during the first half," Erbeub said. On the night, Winside hit 10 of 26 attempts for 38 percent.

Defensively, Erbeub felt his squad may have been as good as it was due to its reliance in part to the strength of the Snyder offense. A pair of Warrior players, Jay Smeal and Rod Hunke, each logged 18 points.

The Wildcats are scheduled for a road game with Wakefield tomorrow (Friday) night before hosting Stanton in the second game of a boys girls doubleheader Saturday night.

Snyder also led the Wildcats in rebounding, which Erbeub also cited as a factor in the game. "They were able to pick up some offensive rebounds and convert them into buckets."

Wayne goes 1-2 versus Gladiators

Wayne's seventh and eighth grade recreation basketball teams came away with a 1-2 record in their first competition of the season against the Gladiators of Omaha last week.

The eighth grade girls team took a hard-fought 28-27 victory over the "Gladiator team," coming back from a 19-17 third quarter deficit to win on a shot in the closing seconds.

Dana Nelson led the Wayne girls with 12 points, followed by Holly Paige with nine points, Betsy Leisbeck with four points and Ann Perry with three points. The team hit 12 field goals from the court and added 4 of 10 free throws to round out their scoring.

The seventh grade boys team went down in a 53-40 defeat to the Gladiators B team.

Scoring for Wayne were Willy Gross with 15 points, Matt Carman with 11 points, Brian Moore and Matt Peterson with five points and Ryan Shaw with four points.

In the eighth grade boys game, Wayne was also felled by a 13-point margin, losing 44-31 to the Gladiators A team.

Doug Larson led Wayne with 12 points, while Sean Baker scored nine points, Jess Zeiss and Jarrod Wood each scoring four points and Kevin Hausmann adding two points.

A schedule of upcoming games for the recreation league teams appears elsewhere in the sports section.

Fourth quarter difference

Winside puts score in Snyder

Winside's girls basketball team succeeded in pulling a scare into Class D-2 rated Snyder on Tuesday evening before allowing the Warriors a 49-42 victory in Winside.

The Wildcats led the tenth-ranked Snyder at the end of the first period before the Warriors pulled together and tied the score at 25-25 inside the locker room at halftime.

"I'M PLEASED WITH the way our girls played against Snyder," said Winside Coach Jill Stenwall. "For the most part, they were more patient on offense than they have ever been. But we still have times where we'll get behind and start to hurry things up too much."

A five point scoring difference in the final quarter proved to make the difference in the scoring, as Snyder notched 11 points to six points for the Wildcats.

Part of Winside's success in keeping the game close was their ability to "front Snyder's leading scorer throughout the entire game." "We tried to front their big gal and keep her from reaching her 20 points average," said Stenwall. "Stenwall said, 'White she was able to reach her scoring mark in the game, Stenwall said that if her team hadn't attempted their defensive strategy, she would have scored even more points and Stenwall was pleased with the effort."

"We didn't have much time to learn all the techniques for fronting an opponent between our game with Wakefield and Snyder, but it worked as good as we could have expected."

Missy Jensen led scoring for Winside with 13 points, and Trisha Topp added 10 points. Topp was also the team's rebound leader with 11 boards, while Missy Jensen hauled in 10 and Tammy Brudigan took down nine boards.

Winside, 28, will tangle with Stanton in the first game of a boys girls doubleheader Saturday night, Jan. 12.

THE WILDCATS DROPPED a 54-36 decision on the road to Beemer on Friday night, Jan. 4.

The Bobcats doubled Winside's shooting from the court, hitting 18 of 62 shots compared to 11 of 31 for the Wildcats.

Leading scorer for Winside was Trisha Topp with seven points, Kay Meierhenry and Leah Jensen each dropped in six points. Brockman had a strong night on the boards, pulling down 13 rebounds, supported by Trisha Topp with nine boards.

The Winside junior high team was also in action over the past weekend, winning the Beemer junior high tournament on Saturday.

In their first round game, Winside downed Zion St. John's 41-6, led by the scoring of Lisa Janke with 16 points and Kristy Miller and Mary Bruggier with 11 points each.

In the championship game versus Beemer, Janke again topped the scoring to aid Winside to a 17-12 win and the first place finish.

Last year, the junior high team placed third in the tournament.

Wildcat girls add second win to record

The Winside girls basketball team was able to add a second win to their season record when they edged the Wakefield-Frontiers in a close 41-34 game Monday night.

Both teams shot evenly from the field, hitting 13 field goals, but it was at the free throw line where the difference in the scoring showed up. Wakefield made 8 of 27 at the line for 30 percent on the night, while Winside notched 15 of 24 for 63 percent and the winning margin.

THE WILDCATS HELD a slim one point at the end of the first quarter, 9-8, and increased that margin to 21-15 at the half. Wakefield came back to outscore Winside in the third period and narrow the gap to four points, 32-28. Scoring was close down the stretch in the final minutes before Winside dropped in a bucket to preserve their victory.

"While we shot better from the floor, the key things that has been hurting us is our free throw shooting, especially since Christmas," said Wakefield Coach Arnold Cerny. "We just can't win games if we keep missing that many shots each game." Seven of the shots Wakefield missed were the front end of one and one opportunities.

Laurel's balanced scoring falls shy of mark in 68-47 loss to Homer Knights

A balanced scoring attack by the Laurel Bears fell short in their latest contest, a 68-47 loss to Homer on Tuesday evening at home.

Laurel committed a 50 percent average from the field, and capitalized on 16 of 29 free throws to log the win. Laurel hit 19 of 42 from the floor for 45 percent, and scored 9 of 16 free throws in the loss.

THE BEARS TRAILED by only two points at half but let up a little coming out in the third quarter, according to Coach John Held. "We didn't play the type of ball that we are capable of in the third period. The scoring margin doesn't really indicate the type of game it was."

The scoring attack for Laurel was a balanced affair, with Troy Heitmann leading the points with 12 points. Scott Rath added 10 points and Brent Halsch and Mike Forsberg each contributed eight points.

Homer held the advantage on the boards for the game with a 30 to 24 margin. Leading rebounder for Laurel was Scott Rath with seven boards.

Held felt that the game's officiating played a key role in the outcome for the Bears. "I was upset with the officiating. I feel that it took us out of the game." Both Rath and Halsch got into foul trouble early and spent much of the game on the bench before fouling out.

"Homer outscored us on the inside, and we weren't able to do that to them," Held said. But he added, "Laurel did come back at the Knights in the fourth quarter, and they responded well to the pressure put on by the Bears."

Laurel was tagged with 25 personal fouls in the game, and Homer committed 19 personal fouls.

IN THEIR CONSOLATION round game at the Ponca tournament on Saturday evening, Laurel went down to Bancroft-Rosalie by a 59-43 margin.

The Bears fell behind early in the first quarter and trailed at one point 18-4 before working their way back to a three-point deficit at halftime.

Leading scorers for Laurel were Troy scorer for the Wildcats was Carmen Reeg and Christi Thies, each with six points. Wakefield was led by Kristi Miller with four points.

Allen girls even season record at 4-4 in rematch win against Bancroft-Rosalie

Allen's girls basketball team evened their season record at 4-4 and tied a score with the Bancroft-Rosalie Panthers in a game played Tuesday night in Allen.

The Eagles won a 38-34 contest over Bancroft, just three days after being defeated by them in the consolation round game on the Ponca Invitational Basketball tournament at 45-35.

"We played a more consistent game against Bancroft-Rosalie on Tuesday night," said Allen Coach Gary Troth. "We worked the ball well on offense and eliminated giving up some of the easy shots that we gave them on defense Friday night."

Allen expanded a two point first quarter lead to seven points at halftime, 27-20, and went up 35-24 going into the final quarter.

IT WAS THERE that the Eagle scoring expression was shut down, as they came up with just three points in the fourth quarter, while the Panthers threatened with 10 points to narrow the gap.

"We were up by 11 points there in the fourth quarter, and Bancroft-Rosalie started to foul us a lot, and we didn't make the front end of the one and one shots," Troth said.

The Eagles scoring was led by Pam Heckathorn with 12 points, while Diane Magnuson and Shelly Boyle each netted six points.

Kris Blohm, a 5-11 sophomore, came off the bench to score four points and aided in helping the Eagles match up in height. "Kris came off the bench well for us and gave us help in matching up with some of the taller Bancroft girls."

Diane Magnuson and Mary Oswald were the top rebounders with eight and six rebounds each. Overall, the Eagles held a 32 to 30 edge on the boards.

Troth said his team was ready for the rematch with Bancroft so soon after their loss. "Most of the girls were ready, they really felt that they could win the game. The team hustled out on the court all night long, he added, and that also was a key to their successful play.

In junior varsity play, Allen also came away the winner in a 23-6 ballgame. Tiffany Harder led scoring with nine points.

Allen will host Winside in a game slated for Monday, Jan. 14.

THE ALLEN GIRLS suffered a pair of losses in their outing at the Ponca Invitational over the past weekend, falling to Ponca 33-24 in the opening round game and to Bancroft-Rosalie 41-35 in the consolation game.

Poor shooting hurt the Eagles in their game with Ponca, as they hit only 6 of 39 shot attempts in the game for 21 percent.

Allen trailed by only one point at the end of the first quarter, but Ponca was able to build on their lead through the remaining periods for the nine-point win.

Pam Heckathorn and Denise Magnuson each scored six points for Allen, and Mary Oswald added five points. Diane Magnuson pulled in eight rebounds and Oswald had six.

Against Bancroft-Rosalie in the consolation game, Allen came out strong at the basket in their first quarter but fell short in the fourth in the loss to the Panthers.

Bancroft took advantage of an Allen offensive switch in the third quarter to outscore the Eagles 16-6 and take a nine point lead. Allen threatened with 11 points in the final period but couldn't overcome the Panther's margin.

Pam Heckathorn scored 11 points in the loss, and Denise Magnuson and Shelly Boyle each added six points.

Allen's 3-5 on the season, is scheduled to host Winside Monday night, Jan. 14.

Eagles take home Ponca trophy after 46-44 thriller in final over Indians

Anyone who saw the first game between the Allen and Ponca boys basketball teams earlier in the season wouldn't have been surprised at the game played when the two teams met for the championship of the Ponca Invitational Saturday evening in Ponca.

Much like the 49-48 thriller which Allen won in mid-December, both teams saw their leads disappear before the Eagles came out on top of a back and forth 46-44 battle and the championship trophy.

"I THOUGHT IT would really be tough to beat Ponca twice in one year," said Eagle Coach Dave Uldrich about the Allen-Ponca rivalry. "The kids were able to prove that they could do it."

Scoring started out slow for both teams in the first quarter, with Allen holding a 4-0 lead before Ponca got on the board with a bucket at 5:07 in the quarter. The Eagles increased the lead to 10-4 on a basket by Steve Jones, but saw Ponca sneak into the lead by outscoring Allen 10-2 in the closing minutes of the period.

In the second quarter, the Indians stretched their lead to six points, going up 23-27 with 3:37 in the half. Allen's Craig Noe came up with four of his five points to pull the Eagles to within two points and Shawn Mahler hit both ends of a one and one at the line to knot the score at 23-23 with under two minutes. Allen took over the lead with 50 seconds left on a field goal by Steve Jones following an offensive rebound, and went in to the locker room with a 25-24 advantage.

Coming out in the third quarter, Allen gave up a number of turnovers which allowed Ponca to regain the lead, 26-25, and set off a see-saw scoring binge between the two teams for the remainder of the game. The Eagles held a slim 33-34 margin going into the fourth quarter.

A drought at the free throw line for Ponca aided Allen in the final eight minutes, as they hit only 4 of 14 shots including a pair of misses which would have tied the game with 13 seconds left.

After tying up the game at 43-43 with 1:51 on the clock, Allen's Steve Jones hit a basket to put the Eagles in the lead for what turned out to be the rest of the game, 45-43.

PNCA'S MIKE OSADA added the Indians final point on a free-throw with 40 seconds and Craig Noe hit the front end of a one and one at the line for Allen's final point in the game with 26 seconds on the clock.

"In the first quarter, Jay Jones got into foul trouble for us and Steve Jones sprained his ankle while we were up by six points, and Ponca took advantage of those factors and got ahead," said Uldrich. "We came out in the third quarter and looked like we forgot to get back in the game right away, and Ponca also played some good pressure defense."

Jay Jones hit for 10 points in the game for Allen and Max Oswald came off the bench to net 10 points on a 5 of 5 shooting performance from the floor. Both teams shot well from the floor, with the Eagles hitting 21 of 52 for 40 percent and Ponca shooting 52 percent on 16 of 31 from the court.

Rebounding was also a key in the outcome of the game, with Allen holding a strong 42-29 lead on the boards. "Ponca had rebounded us in our earlier game, and the fact that we outboarded them Saturday night really stuck out," Uldrich said. Individual rebounders for Allen included Steve Jones with 12, Max Oswald with 10 and Craig Noe with nine boards.

At the free throw line, Allen hit 4 of 9 tries while Ponca netted 12 of 28 attempts, 14 of those in the final period.

"WE TRIED to keep the pace of the game slow, and make Ponca slow their game down to give our people time to get into position," said Uldrich. "If the tempo of the game had been faster, it might have taken a toll on our bigger kids down the line."

Uldrich was pleased with the performance of his team as a whole, and cited the play of Max Oswald in the game against Ponca. "Max was called on to do a job when some of the kids got in trouble, and he did it well. As a team I feel the kids really 'jelled' together in the tournament."

The Eagles have now won three straight games, to boost their mark to 6-3 overall, after splitting their opening six games for a 3-3 record before Christmas. "I don't feel that we are playing streaky, there are just times when we get cold-offensively and our kids start doubting their ability. If we had been playing like we did over the weekend at the Ponca tournament, we could be undefeated," Uldrich said.

Allen was scheduled for a rematch with Bancroft-Rosalie, their first round opponent in the Ponca tournament, tomorrow (Friday) night on the road.

Shooting, scoring performance for Blue Devils improves in spite of loss

The Wayne High girls basketball team saw their shooting and scoring percentage improve despite the fact that they suffered a 53-38 loss to South Sioux City on the road Saturday evening.

Wayne netted 14 of their shots during the game, and added 10 free throws to score 38 points, well above the 19 point average that had plagued them during the past two games since holiday break.

THE BLUE DEVILS had trouble bringing the ball downcourt in the first quarter, and that, combined with a flawless 9-9 shooting performance by South Sioux City at the free throw line gave the Cardinals a 17-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and a 31-10 margin at intermission.

Wayne brought their scoring together in the second half as South Sioux City was only able to better them by two points in the remaining quarters, 22-20.

Kecia Corbit was the only Blue Devil in double figures, with 11 points, backed up by Sonia Skokan with eight points. Corbit also led on the boards with eight rebounds.

On the boards, Wayne held a slight 35-34 edge in the statistics.

Free throws were a key factor in the game for the Cardinals, as they hit 17 of 21 from the line for 81 percent overall.

Wayne Coach Dale Hochstein was pleased with several aspects of the game for his squad, despite the loss. "When we ran our offense, we reversed the ball and were able to get the wide-open shot. The people moved well inside and picked up some nice buckets underneath."

HOCHSTEIN ADDED THAT his team recorded a season-high 14 blocked shots, and credited it to an improved aggressive defensive style. "We hit 17 of 21 free throws against South Sioux City. He also said that while his team recorded 27 turnovers to the Cardinals 16, "the game was a physical one, and turnovers were to be expected in a game of that nature."

The Blue Devils are looking forward to playing at home, according to Hochstein. Only two of their eight games have been at home, and those included a win over the Norfolk junior varsity and a one-point loss to Columbus-Lakeview. Wayne has fallen in all six of their road games.

In their junior play, South Sioux City came away with the 59-32 victory. Leading scorers for Wayne were Kecia Corbit with six points and Jennifer Moore with five points.

In the evening's first game, Wayne's freshmen team was downed by South Sioux 30-24. Leslie Keating and Andrea Marsh led scoring with six points each. Sarah Peterson was the top rebounder with nine boards.

Wayne's varsity, 17, gets their chance on the home floor tonight (Thursday) in a scheduled game against Howells.

Wayne's reserve wrestlers capture first dual win over West Point Central Catholic Wayne's junior varsity wrestling squad hosted it's first dual competition of the season on Monday evening and pulled off a 4-1 victory over the varsity squad of West Point Central Catholic.

The Blue Devil reserves came away with nine wins in the 12 weight class, including five pins.

"This dual provided our junior varsity with experience, and that will prove to be helpful, since many of these wrestler will move up to varsity next season," said WHS wrestling Coach Don Koehn. "It's also good when a junior varsity can pick up a win against a varsity team." West Point Central Catholic's wrestling program is in it's second year.

Strong rebounding by Walthill 'Jays shuts down Wakefield gals in 54-31 loss at home

A strong rebounding game by the Walthill Bluejays was the key to success in their 54-31 win over Wakefield girls basketball team on Tuesday evening.

The Jays held a 45 to 22 rebounding margin over the Trojans in the game, including 24 offensive rebounds compared to 13 defensive boards for Wakefield.

"Walthill also shot the ball over twice as much as we did, and that plus their strong rebounding made the difference," said Trojan Coach Arnold Cerny. The Bluejays converted on 19 of 43 field goal attempts, while Wakefield put the ball up 31 times for nine field goals.

After leading by six at the end of the first quarter, Walthill continued to build on their lead and expanded it to a 27-15 halftime score.

A bright spot for Wakefield was the play of guard Stacy Kuhl, a sophomore who pumped in a season-high 16 points on 6 of 11 field goals and a 4 of 5 performance from the line. Backing her up in scoring was Roni Starzl with 10 points.

Starzl and Marci Greve shared rebounding honors with five boards each in the game.

"For the first time, Stacy shot the way we know that she could. When you have a guard that is putting up shots of 15 feet from the wing and making over 50 percent of them, you have to be happy,"

Cerny also added that the team's offensive game was hurt by the fact that starter Darla Hartman spent much of the night in foul trouble and played very little in the second half of the game before picking up her fourth foul early in the fourth quarter.

He credited Wakefield's rebounding deficit to simply being out of position on the boards, and said that rebounding, along with free throw shooting and breaking the press will be key areas for the Trojans to work on in future practices.

"We're also still looking for some of our play to come around offensively for us, and someone to come off the bench and become an offensive threat on the floor."

Wakefield, now 0-10, had the week off, and will be on the road at Ponca this Monday, Jan. 14.

WAKEFIELD'S FRESHMAN squad fell to Pender in a game played on home on Saturday morning, 34-19.

The frosh were led by Sheila Anderson with eight points and Kodi Nelson with eight rebounds. As a team, Wakefield was 5 of 30 from the field and hit 9 of 20 free throws from the line, while Pender was 15 of 31 from the floor and 2 of 6 in the free throw department.

Each team could only muster two points in the first quarter, but Pender came alive in the second period to outscore the Trojans and take charge of the game. It was the second meeting for the two teams, as Pender took a three-point decision in a game played before Christmas.

Wakefield Coach Arnold Cerny was pleased with improvement that he saw in his team during the game. "We handled the pressure very well, and there are some girls on offense who will take the ball to the hoop."

Cerny said that his team will continue to compete in freshmen games as they come up, adding that they provide a great deal of experience for the younger players.

The next game on tap is scheduled against Winside on Saturday, Feb. 2.

WSC Wildcats, now 5-1, winning their way through European slate

The Wayne State College Wildcat basketball team continues to have success on the court during their two-week European tour, picking up two more wins and suffering their first loss in competition.

The Cats notched their third win in a row Saturday night when they downed the Bad Gadesburg team in West Germany in a close 86-83 battle.

WAYNE STATE HELD a slim 82-80 lead with 35 seconds left in the game and was boosted to a 84-80 lead when Mike Dalby hit a 25-foot jumper with time running out on the 38-second clock. Bad Gadesburg pulled to within two points after bringing the ball downcourt, but Wayne's Ed Heritage, who became eligible at semester, put in a lay-up with five seconds left to ice the win.

Double figure scoring for the Cats was led by Tracy Penn and John Thomsen, each with 15 points, followed by Dan Radig with 14 points and Vince Tillo with 13 points. On Sunday evening Wayne State entered tournament play in the first round of the Chateau Club Tourney in Paris, France. The Wildcats won their contest against the host team Chateau Club 87-79.

WSC was down 43-41 at the half after trailing 25-15 earlier in the period. John Thomsen hit 10 straight points to bring the Cats back into the game and the three-point field goal also benefited WSC as Ed Heritage nailed three during the course of the game for nine points.

Tracy Penn topped scoring with a total of 34 points and John Thomsen added 20 points. Penn was also honored as the outstanding player in first round competition.

Featured on the Chateau Club team was former Drake University player Andy Graham, 6-9, along with John David for Virginia Tech, 6-6. They added 24 and 21 points respectively in the loss.

IN THE FINALS of the Chateau Club tournament, WSC became the victim for the first time, falling in a nip-and-tuck 91-90 decision to the Racing Club of Paris Monday night.

Tracy Penn and Ed Heritage each logged 29 points in the game, in which the Cats were also down at the half by a single point, 35-34. Among the players WSC's cagers faced against the Racing Club were 6-9 Greg Reveling of Stanford University, a fourth round draft pick of the Los Angeles Lakers several years ago.

WSC is scheduled for one more game in Belgium before going on to Amsterdam, Holland for a day and returning to the United States on Jan. 11.

In his calls to Wayne, WSC head Coach Rick Weaver reported that among the sites which the group has visited was the Eiffel Tower and the Arch of Triumph while touring Paris, along with numerous other sites of interest.

Mabel Savidge celebrates 100 years

by Chuck Hackenmiller

In the year of the Wayne Centennial, Mabel Savidge of Wayne — who now resides at the Wayne Care Centre — had a 100-year celebration herself.

She turned 100 years old on Dec. 31 (New Year's Eve).

Most people have associated the Savidge name with the Savidge Amusement Company, a company based in Wayne that toured throughout the country for 35 years before falling prey to the nation's Great Depression.

On Saturday afternoon, Mabel's son, Walter Savidge, Jr. and grandson Clark Savidge, both of Omaha, came to the Wayne Care Centre and presented her with a congratulatory card signed by President Ronald Reagan as a tribute to her 100th birthday.

Mabel's talent was not limited to keeping the Savidge Amusement Company books and keeping tabs on the operation of the amusement business. Traveling the circuit was sometimes long and tedious, but Mabel always had her music to liven the atmosphere of the amusement shows.

HER PARENTS, Frank and Elizabeth Griffith, homesteaded four miles north and a half-mile west of Wayne. She attended a country school and then went on to State Normal College in Wayne, where J. M. Pile was then serving as the college president. She finished the teachers' course in 1902 studying piano and later became assistant teacher of music at the college.

Afterwards, she attended the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. She taught at the conservatory for a year and then returned to the Midwest where she taught for a few more years in various towns.

Mabel married Walter Savidge, co-owner of Savidge Amusement Company in 1911. But her enchantment with Walter had been years before the marriage ceremony, according to her son Walter.

"She saw my father in Wayne walking a tight line from one building to another. She thought it was funny then. It turned out that she married the guy," said Walter, an Omaha realtor, said.

With an old purchase of an old beafed down coal fire to run a merry-go-round, Savidge Amusement grew to become the largest of its kind in the United States. "Dad wanted to have a circus. But mom [Mabel] said no way did she want to have just one night performances. This way, they could stay for a week," he said.

The Savidge Amusement was more than just sideshows and amusement rides. There was also a dramatic group that traveled with the company.

Several of these actors later ended up in Hollywood. One of them was Lyle T. Tol, who became a well-known actor in the 1940's and 1950's, appearing in episodes of the Loretta Young Show," Walter said.

MABEL, HE SAID, played piano in the company's big top, sold reserve seat tickets and kept the books for the traveling company.

"At the peak of the Savidge Amusement Company, they had 125 employees," he said. Below is an account written several years ago by Mabel Savidge of the amusement company's travels.

"We began a life which was for me a new career — summers on the road in our 15-car private pullman train from April until late fall, winters in opera houses with vaudeville between acts.

Our big tent seated 1,000 people and as a drawing card we had a wonderful aerial act, the "Flying Balwins," paying them $300 a week.

During summers our specially made tent served as theater for the New York and Chicago dramatic productions. The production required eight men to operate the stage and about 15 performers plus numerous vaudeville acts between scenes.

We had the unusual oddities — Baby May, the smallest fat lady who tipped the scale at 490 pounds and could speak seven different languages, the Madagaskar pygmies, and the George Thompson family in which Mr. Thompson was the smallest at 32 inches.

Mabel and her husband always strived for a clean show, since during the company's existence many of the bookings took place in the bible belt communities, said Walter.

who spent many of his growing up years at his grandmother's house during the spring and the fall, while his parents toured the country.

"It was called a 'Sunday School Carnival.' There was no gambling for money, no athletic shows. Nothing that would cause a 'hey, rube.' They didn't want to fight with the towners," he added.

ONE OF Mabel's last journeys with the Savidge Amusement Company came in 1911 when the group traveled to South Dakota. The depression hit and grasshoppers were so thick the railroad cars skidded off the tracks, he said.

Mabel has never taken a drink or smoked a cigarette all her life, he said. Her husband died in Sept. of 1949.

She has resided in the Wayne Care Centre for the past 3 1/2 years. Walter would have preferred Mabel move to Omaha to be near him, but she flatly refused.

"I won't leave here. I like it a lot. It's [Wayne] a nice clean town," Mabel said.

She has always stressed that all of her life, Walter said.

As Mabel wrote in her published excerpts, "Memories boil to the surface and surround us. I have been a part of two centuries. What a pleasure to live. This I know and believe — it is not how long we live but how we live that matters. It is hard to doubt those words if they are spoken by someone such as Mabel who is starting on her second 100 years."

Citizen of the Year honored

Chamber annual meeting Sunday

Wayne Chamber of Commerce will conduct its annual meeting on Jan. 13 at the Lumber Company restaurant, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

All members and their spouses or guests are invited to attend.

The main event for the evening will be the announcement of the 1984 Citizen of the Year. This award is given to a person or persons who have been nominated by a fellow Chamber member as being worthy of this honor.

Selection of the winner is based on all-around contributions to the community development — both personal and civic — and not just for extraordinary performance within the nominee's business or employment.

They must also have a reputation in the community for character and respect and be a good leader.

Winners in recent years have been Lyle Seymour and Bob and Marilyn Carhart. This year's winner will be introduced by Stan Morris, also a past Citizen of the Year.

A short program will include the annual report on the status of the Chamber and the introduction of the 1985 officers and board of directors. These people include Dale Stoltenberg, president; Don Koerber, president elect; Anne Svoboda, executive vice president; and Phil Griess, treasurer. The remaining board members are Lois Hall, Grant Ellingson, Vaughn Benson, Dean Craun, Carolyn Vokoc and Dick Sorenson.

Those able to attend will dine on a variety of complimentary hors d'oeuvres and have access to a cash bar. Music and dancing are also planned to add to the evening's festivities.

Reservations are not required and any questions concerning the annual meeting can be answered by calling the Wayne Chamber of Commerce office.

at the Middle School to receive ETV programming in individual classrooms, rather than moving a tape recorder from room to room.

Hauv said work will be done free of charge by ETV technicians and local school district personnel.

IN OTHER business Tuesday, the board accepted a freeholders petition from Dale and Karen Johnson to bring their land into the district.

Voted unanimously to request a 1984 review for AA accreditation.

Accepted a recommendation from Hauv that the contracts of all three principals be continued for the 1985-86 school year. They include Dan Zeiss of the high school, Richard Meitner of the middle school, and David Luff of the elementary school.

Agreed to fill out evaluation sheets regarding the performance of Superintendent Hauv. Action on the superintendent's contract will be taken at next month's meeting.

Went on record as being opposed to possible elimination of state funding for the drivers education program. Elimination of state funding could cost the district as much as $8,000, based on last year's reimbursement figures.

Inspected a new Young Chang U-131 professional piano which was purchased last month for use at the high school.

Learned from Hauv that the Wayne High band has been invited to perform

March 1 in Lincoln during a meeting of the Nebraska State Band Masters Association.

Received an invitation from Kathy Fink, home economics instructor, to attend an eighth grade state show on Friday, Jan. 11 at 2 p.m. in the Middle School library.

ALSO DURING Tuesday's meeting, new board member Sid Hillier received the oath of office from Becky Keidel, board president.

Hillier was elected to the board last November and replaces Jim Hummel who chose not to seek reelection.

Keidel, along with board member Cap Peterson, were re-elected president and vice president, respectively, during Tuesday's board meeting.

Doris Daniels was re-appointed to serve as secretary/treasurer. Daniels is now a member of the board of education.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, board member Joyce Reeg requested that a continual study and review be made of school policies.

"I feel insufficient as far as policy making goes," said Reeg, who questioned whether an ongoing review of the policy-making process, at a time during monthly board meetings, would be beneficial to other board members as well.

"I think I would be a better school board member if I kept up on those things," added Reeg.

Board members agreed to begin a review of the policy-making process at a meeting scheduled Feb. 12 at 3 p.m.

Feeding Sows to Prevent Problems

Bred sows are often underfed in the winter, which can lead to baby pig problems at farrowing.

A gestating sow requires 3 to 3.5 lbs. of feed per day in the summer, but in the winter, its maintenance requirement may nearly double to a range of 5 to 6.5 lbs. per day.

The actual amount is highly dependent on the housing management system employed. For example, a sow that has access to a shelter for sleeping, but must go outside for feed and water, may require as much as 6 lbs. of feed or more per day. A sow in a more confined system and that doesn't go outside, may need only 4 to 5 lbs. of feed per day, again depending on the room temperature.

Observing the condition of the sow provides a good indicator of when it is being overfed, but a poor indicator of when it is being underfed.

The risk of not meeting the sow's feed energy need is having weak, poorly growing piglets depending on low-sucrose milk—the only dietary component that needs to be adjusted is feed energy. Producers should ensure that bred sows receive the recommended vitamin and mineral levels on a daily basis.

Feed energy requires management on a seasonal basis according to the sow's living conditions, vitamin and mineral requirements are the same the year round and should be calculated on a daily basis when formulating diets.

Beware of Nylon Tow Ropes

There have been several fatalities in Nebraska when nylon ropes were used to pull loads ranging from a stalled vehicle in the mud or snow or pulling some type of heavy load in either construction or farm jobs.

In no case did the rope itself break, however the part to which the rope was hooked broke or came unattached. The parts which were hooked to the rope came forward at great velocity and hit either bystanders or the equipment operators.

A number of persons have had bumpers pulled off cars and hit ches break, thus allowing the rope to have a sling shot or rubber band effect which sent the hooked and flying free. This speed can range up to 600 miles per hour or faster.

The stretching of the rope is a form of stored energy, much like you would have in the compressing or stretching of a spring. One accident involved a D-4 caterpillar tractor being used to pull a stump. When the rope came unhitched from the stump, it came forward with such velocity that it went through the 2 1/2 x 3/4 inch differential housing of the tractor.

Results in flavorful product

Safety of microwaving pork confirmed

New research from the National Live Stock & Meat Board's Pork Industry Group establishes pork can be prepared easily in the microwave oven and result in a safe, tender, juicy and flavorful product.

This is good news for consumers because the microwave's growing popularity is likely to continue. Forecasts indicate by 1990, as many as 50 percent of U.S. households will have a microwave oven. Procedures for cooking food in conventional ovens differ from those for microwave ovens. Fresh meat, specifically pork, is no exception.

As early as the mid '60s, professional home economists and meat scientists learned heat distribution varies between meat cuts cooked in microwave ovens. Scientists were also concerned certain micro-organisms, specifically Trichinella spiralis, in pork, if present might survive in meat unevenly cooked in a microwave oven.

WHILE GOVERNMENT, industry and manufacturers' microwave cooking recommendations took necessary safety precautions, the exact parameters involved in heat distribution and microbial survival were not well understood. The Pork Industry Group then directed an extensive scientific investigation, requested by the National Pork Producers Council.

to determine proper and safe microwave cooking recommendations for fresh pork.

The key finding of the research work indicated that "evaporative cooling" occurs when meat products were cooked in a microwave oven. This phenomenon can cause as much as a 30 F temperature variation within a product.

Once the evaporative cooling effect was understood, several cooking methods were tested, which had to meet the following criteria:

- * reduce temperature variation and evaporative cooling;
- * test a wide range of microwave oven types;
- * establish the time and temperature relationship required to destroy Trichinella spiralis;
- * and fit consumer needs; and result in a safe and palatable product.

The procedure meeting all five criteria involved using a cooking bag which produces a closed environment, creates a vaporous atmosphere and reduces the degree of evaporative cooling. While the procedure does not completely reduce temperature variation, the degree of variation is sharply reduced and the entire product reaches a temperature significantly above that required to destroy Trichinella spiralis.

After extensive work in the test kitchens at the Meat Board and more testing at Iowa State University, procedures were finalized for microwaving pork roasts.

The Meat Board is currently preparing microwave cooking recommendations for a variety of fresh pork cuts.

Following is the recommended procedure for microwaving fresh boneless pork roasts:

- * choose evenly shaped boneless roasts weighing no more than 3-3 1/2 pounds, with a diameter not to exceed four inches.
- * place into a 10 x 16-inch oven cooking bag and place in microwave-safe baking dish or a microwave-safe rack with sides.
- * evenly sprinkle roast with a package (24 grams) of brown gravy mix for pork.
- * close bag loosely with string or a 1/2-inch strip cut from open end of bag.
- * allow 22 minutes per pound.
- * cook at medium low or 30 percent power (approximately 200 Watts).
- * invert or turn roast halfway through cooking period and rotate dish 1/2 turn and continue cooking.
- * and cover roast (in bag) tightly with foil and let stand 10 minutes.

Geared toward lean hog Swine grading system changed

The U.S. Department of Agriculture changed its swine grading system Jan. 1 and is currently proposing changes in beef grading standards, according to Dennis Burson, extension meat specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"Because of the development of the lean, meaty hog in the last few years, the swine grades were changed to make them more meaningful," Burson said. "In beef grading, the USDA is considering eliminating the kidney, pelvic and heart fat grading factor."

Burson said the swine grading change was made by the Agricultural Marketing Service Livestock Division, Standardization Branch, USDA. The change consists of a narrowing of the grades to reflect current industry conditions to reflect the kind of hogs being produced today and to identify high yielding hogs with a high percentage of lean cuts.

Removing the internal fat factor would eliminate cooling cost and would increase efficiency to the packer, which may be an advantage to the producer. Also, eliminating one factor of the grading procedure would require a new method of calculating beef grades, Burson said.

"Eighty percent of the carcasses would stay in the same grade," Burson said. "Most of the carcasses currently yield grade in the 3 category, with the leanest and 5 the fattest."

THE GRADES are U.S. 1, 2, 3, and 4. The 1s have less than an inch of backfat at the last rib. The 2s have from 1 to 1.25 inches of backfat. The 3s from 1.25 to 1.5 and the 4s are 1.5 inches and up.

"In 1968, 8 percent of the hogs were No. 1s, 42 percent were No. 2s, 35 percent were No. 3s, and 12 percent were No. 4s," Burson said. "In a survey done in 1980, 71 percent of hogs were No. 1s, 24 percent were No. 2s about 3 percent were No. 3s, and less than 1 percent were No. 4s."

Down in rural areas 1984 4-H enrollment increases

While 1984 Nebraska 4-H enrollment increased 4 percent over 1983 and more youths enrolled from urban areas and small towns, the number of 4-Hers from farms decreased slightly, according to Ken Schmidt, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension 4-H youth specialist.

Schmidt attributed the decrease to the continued decline in the number of Nebraska farms. For the past 10 years, farm enrollment has decreased by about 1 percent each year.

"Youths living on farms still comprise 31.8 percent of the total enrollment in 4-H, while 68.2 percent of 4-H enrollment is from small towns and cities," Schmidt said.

"This (1984) is the sixth consecutive year with 4-H enrollment over 40,000," Schmidt said. The percent of young Nebraskans, ages 9 and 19, who participated in 4-H in 1984 is the same as in 1983 (22.3 percent). However, this figure has been on the increase in recent years, Schmidt said.

Four 4-Hers worked on nearly 190,000 projects during 1984. The most popular 4-H projects continued to be those related to individual and family resources, with nearly 60,000 projects. Animal projects were the second largest with 36,404 projects.

"The largest individual project was the embryology project with an enrollment of 10,377. The 4-H horse project was second highest with 4,550 4-Hers participating," Schmidt said. Schmidt said the new computer project attracted 1,175 participants this past year.

Major content for the program was coordinated by Dr. William C. Pratt, Professor of History, University of Nebraska at Omaha. Cultural affairs unit staff member Michael Farrell served as program producer, director and interviewer. Jim Underwood was videographer/editor and Barbara Stanford performed audio recording and mixing. Gene Bunge, senior producer for cultural affairs, served as executive producer.

Farm protest movements featured

A Nebraska Educational Television Network cultural affairs special tracing the history of farm protest movements in the United States highlights this week's programming over all stations of the Nebraska ETV Network.

In Nebraska and across the Midwest, the number of family farms is decreasing steadily. Prices for farm land and for farm products are declining and farm debt is high. During times like these, American farmers' history have organized in protest against low crop prices, monopolies, bankers, politicians and government policies.

A new Nebraska ETV Network cultural affairs special, "Plowing Up a Storm," premiering Tuesday, Jan. 22 at 8 p.m., recounts the history of the various farm movements since the Civil War and compares them with today's volatile farm situation.

A modern-day foreclosure sale sets the stage for this historical review of farm protest movements, including the Grange beginning in the 1860s, the Farmers' Alliance in the 1880s, the People's Party (Populists) in the 1890s, the National Farmers' League beginning in 1915 and the Farmers' Holiday Association in the 1930s.

Archival film, photographs, newspaper accounts and cartoons, combined with interviews with participants of the movements (or descendants of those participants), help to tell the story of farmers' dissatisfaction during times of low farm prices and depressed farm markets.

The 90-minute program was produced with cooperation and funding support from the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, the North Dakota Humanities Council, the Iowa Humanities Board, the Central Educational Network and Nebraskans for Public Television, Inc.

Richard Reeves, nationally known author, syndicated columnist and regular reporter for public television's weekly "Frontline" series, serves as narrator/host for "Plowing Up a Storm."

the farmer's wife

by pat melarhenry

They came around with aerial photos of the farm again this year. This one was a smaller size, from a totally different angle, and I really was impressed by it. But the Big Farmer told them we couldn't possibly afford it; furthermore, he wasn't sure how long it'd be his anyway!

So we were all surprised when it showed up under the Christmas tree. The guy had come back, the Farmer made an offer, and he took it.

It's hanging on the kitchen wall. The shelterbelts are lush green; the hay stacks are picturesque; all the contours show up so nicely. It represents mountains of blood, sweat, and tears; not to mention mud, snow, and manure. It also reflects pure joy.

My cousin tells me our Creator intended us to "till the soil," and it is innate in each of us. I'm pretty sure I'm missing it, but I recognize it in a lot of people, especially men who grew up on farms.

My brother spent 21 years in the Navy and loves boats. He has a challenging job now lives where it's warm and flies all over the country. But he would like to be farming.

I have a doctor, nurse, anesthetist, and teacher friends who would rather be farming.

U.S. interest rates are the highest of any industrialized nation in the free world. People in Africa are starving yet they are exporting farm commodities!

17% of the average wage earner's salary is spent on food. In some countries, it is 75%, and they stand in line to purchase it.

FOR EVERY DOLLAR a farmer earns, it generates seven more. It works in reverse when he doesn't earn it. One of every five people in the U.S. earn money off ag-related businesses. Nebraska's economy is especially linked to agriculture.

One man even told me this week that it is all a master plan to take the land from the people, and to devalue the dollar.

I responded that someone had told me that if American agriculture fails, some other country would take up the slack. He said that in five years, we may not be able to afford imported products.

One editorial reminds us that farming is not "a way of life," that living in the country is. Farming is a business. It is one sick business. And doctors cannot agree on a prescription!

What's worse, I have the feeling that only people in the Midwest are aware of the poor prognosis.

I chuckled today to see that the popular magazine, Farm Wife News, has become Farm Woman News. I've been teased on occasion about the title of this column. But it won't become "The Farm Woman."

I live on a farm because I'm a farmer's wife. I loved the farmer first. I'm not even a very good farmer's wife. I don't raise chickens, milk cows, or castrate pigs. I drive tractors under protest only!

My particular farmer and I could make it in town. And we may be choosing that option soon.

But I'm afraid for America if this trend continues. If FMHA owns farms, that's government farming.

If banks own farms, decisions will be made from a profit standpoint only. Will these decisions include conservation?

I watch my Farmer struggle with another Net Operating Loss. And I wake up in the middle of the night and wonder what the future holds; I look at the new picture on our wall, and hope it doesn't just become a treasured keepsake. I wouldn't like to write "The City Man's Wife." Somehow, it just doesn't have the right ring.

Just Passing Through

THERE WAS no passing room for vehicles meeting this obstacle Saturday afternoon. The building pulled by tractor traveled south down Wayne's Main Street and turned east on 7th Street as it rolled slowly along to its destination — the Lyle Garvin residence.

From Social Services

Helping low income on heating

Social Services Director Gina Dunning today announced that the Department of Social Services has more than $11 million in federal funds available to help eligible low income Nebraska households pay their heating bills this winter. The assistance is available through the Nebraska Low Income Energy Assistance Program, administered by the Department through its local Social Services Offices.
More than 37,500 Nebraska low income households were assisted by this federal program in 1984 and more than 40 percent were elderly or handicapped households. "I encourage those in need to apply," Dunning said. To be eligible, the household must have income and resources within the Program guidelines and must be responsible for paying their heating bill. The amount of the benefit will be based on the household's income, household size, fuel type, and area of the state the household lives.
Anyone interested in applying for this program may do so by contacting their local Social Services or the Community Action Agency. Applications will be accepted through April 30, 1985.

Workshop helps manage future

The Extension Service is offering a workshop called Managing for Tomorrow that will help farmers better understand their financial problems and how to cope with them. The program offers four days of workshop plus a number of individual consultations with specialists on a one to one basis.
A complete computer analysis will be made for each individual farmer to explore a number of different alternatives which might be open to him.

Managing for Tomorrow is being offered at a fraction of its real cost because it's being heavily subsidized by the government. Managing for Tomorrow should not be confused with other programs that offer only a fraction of what is being offered in this program.

This is the same workshop that some farmers from Wayne attended in December in West Point. This program will be offered in Wayne and first session will start in February. Tentative deadline for signing up is Friday, Jan. 11 although additional applications may be taken if the workshop is not filled. For additional information contact the Wayne County Extension Office, telephone 375-3310.

FOOD AWARENESS By Ann Crowley R.D., Ph.D.
ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF SERVICE
From the time a food product leaves the farm until it reaches your table it has gone through many hands. One of these is the wholesale grocer who supplies the products to your local supermarket. The Nash Finch Company is the wholesale grocer that supplies the food and other items to your supermarket.

Nash Finch Company has been a wholesaler grocer for one hundred years. They have successfully grown and now serve retail grocer stores in the midwest from North Dakota to Texas and from Montana and Wyoming through Illinois.

When the company started in 1885 in Davis Lake, North Dakota they had one team of horses and a wagon for the delivery of groceries to the country stores. Today the company has its own fleet of trucks that deliver from eleven distribution centers located throughout the midwest. The latest in computer technology used by Nash Finch Company assures the prompt delivery of fresh produce and high quality dry products.

The Nash Finch Company's motto is "Customer Satisfaction is Always First." Their success can be attributed to the fact that they have always worked with that goal in mind.
