THE WAYNE HERALD

DAVID LEY received the 1984 Citizen of the Year Award Sunday evening during the annual meeting of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Ley selected Outstanding Citizen

David Ley, bank president of the State National Bank of Wayne, was selected as Wayne's 1984 Citizen of the Year. The announcement was made during the annual meeting of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, which took place last Sunday evening at The Lumber Company.

Stan Morris, a former recipient of the honor, presented the special plaque honoring Ley as Citizen of the Year.

"Many of us serve our community not only through our individual business efforts, but in a number of different organizations and clubs as well," said Morris before presenting the award.

"If only a few of us had remained as dedicated as this year's recipient — to the commitment of making Wayne, Nebraska a better place for all of us to live," he added.

Ley attended the University of Lincoln for one year before entering military service. He was a private first class in the army for two years, stationed part of that time in Vietnam.

After release from military service, he returned to Lincoln where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration and is currently serving on the President's Advisory Council to the University.

His association with Wayne's State National Bank and Trust began in 1970.

Ley has been involved with many areas of the community and its development.

He is a past president and still active member of Wayne Industries. Since the Wayne Airport Authority's organizational existence, he has been a member.

He also serves on the Police Retirement Fund committee and has been a member of the Wayne County Ag Society for over 10 years — now holding the office of secretary-treasurer.

Ley is also an advisor to the Boy Scout Council and is a three-year Ak-Sar-Ben team member.

"In his endeavor to see that the level of academic achievement at Wayne State College will remain high, and that the future of Wayne State will be secure, he is currently serving as the President of the Wayne State Foundation," Morris said.

He, his wife Kaki and three sons attend the first United Methodist Church, where he is chairman of the finance committee.

Also, he is a past Master of the Wayne Masonic Lodge and is a Shriner with the Abu-Baker Temple. He is also an active member of the Cornhusker Shrine Parade Unit.

Also during the annual meeting, past-president Randy Pedersen highlighted various Chamber of Commerce projects that took place in 1984.

Pedersen was also presented a special "past president" award from the Chamber of Commerce.

Manufacturing firm considering Wayne facility

A major metal manufacturing firm is considering establishing a manufacturing facility in Wayne.

The company's name and what it manufactures has been kept confidential and will not be released at this time.

"Most individual companies do not like to have people know who they are until they have located their location, so the name has to remain confidential," said Anne Svoboda, executive vice-president of Wayne Industries.

This company has requested that an inventory be made of the work force in the area. This work force inventory is one of such magnitude that it covers from 25 to 30 miles surrounding Wayne, according to Svoboda.

According to the work force inventory information which was mailed to homes and businesses, the company will offer permanent, full-time jobs with excellent working conditions, wages and fringe benefits and an opportunity to grow with the company.

THE PURPOSE of the inventory is to determine the amount of available workers in the area — for the metal company or any company within the next few years that expresses interest in locating to the Wayne area.

The inventory requests data concerning the individual's age, education, distance from Wayne, present employment, present hourly earnings, distance traveled from home to work and areas where the individual had significant work experience.

It also asks the individual if he or she would consider an offer of employment from the manufacturing firm if located in Wayne and if students, upon completing their education, would consider remaining in the Wayne area if the manufacturing firm had offered good employment opportunities.

Once the confidential inventory is penciled in, the information can be sent, postage free in the accompanying envelope, to a box number in Columbus, Nebraska.

Svoboda said it should be stressed that all people should fill out the form, regardless if they currently have a job now, in the future or are now unemployed. "It helps us determine what the labor force is out there," she said.

Results of the inventory will not only reveal the available work force, but also will give industrial firms an indication of what the average hourly earnings would be for the employees in the Wayne area and the number of workers would have the experience which the company desires.

The deadline for mailing the questionnaire is Monday, Jan. 21.

Message from Wayne Industries

You will be receiving, by mail, a Labor Inventory survey. A major manufacturer that is considering locating a plant in Wayne requested that the survey be conducted. The results of this survey will help the company determine if Wayne and surrounding communities supply the needed force for their operation.

Whether or not you are currently employed, it is important that you complete this survey and return it immediately. All replies will be held strictly confidential by the inquiring company.

Information for more than one family member can be included on the form. More forms are available at the State National Bank and at First National Bank.

Your attention to this matter could have a significant, positive impact on the economy of the Wayne area.

The Drinking Age: enforcers fear more kegger parties

The following is the second article of a series prepared by The Wayne Herald editorial staff concerning Nebraska's new drinking age law.

Over the span of six weeks, viewpoints will be publicized from various representatives, including law enforcement officials, counselors, educators, organizations, parents and students.

Signed letters to the editor are welcome for people who wish to speak out on the legalized drinking age, which on Jan. 1 was raised to age 21.

A lot less 16 and 17 year olds had that knowledge of association now since the age expanded from 19 to 21," Nicholson said.

What will happen is that the 18 year old will ask the 20 year old to obtain the alcohol from the 21 year old, who then procures the alcohol to the 20 year old and the 18 year old, according to Nicholson.

Two types of kegger parties could be on the rise — the college kids who have parties in frat houses and attend the Thursday night keggers, and high school kids who tend to frequent the countryside with their parties, Nicholson said.

At one time, keggers within the town were a problem. Not as much anymore, Nicholson said.

"I didn't stop the keggers, though. It just made them move out of town and into the country," he added.

"One problem is that they [those conducting the keg party] don't realize that it is against state and federal law to charge admission to the party because they are selling liquor and beer without a state liquor license," he said.

"Their first defense is that the admission money goes for the food and band. They should know that any part of the funds received that go to alcoholic liquor is a violation of state and federal laws," he said.

Nicholson said property owners who permit keg parties on their land and also the individuals sponsoring keg parties are liable if injury or accidents occur as a result of the party.

LeRoy Janssen

Several nationwide magazines, actually publish ads specifying the services of producing a fake identification card, printing and laminating service at a cost of from $5 to $15, Nicholson said.

Law enforcement officials are currently pushing for legislation which would retain the pictures of individuals on drivers' licenses, since it is helpful to law officers and bar owners in providing a description of the subject's physical appearance, along with the individual's name and age.

Governor KERRY had proposed in his fiscal budget to eliminate the photographing on drivers' licenses.

WITH THE ANTICIPATED increase in violations, Nicholson said more manpower could be used in controlling the abuse of underage drinking.

"There are only 12 liquor commissioners in the whole state to cover 93 counties. In western Nebraska, one agent has charge of 25,000 miles in a 13 county area," he said.

Nicholson has relied on the support provided by the local police and sheriff depart-

Dave Nicholson

Last year he was aided by local law enforcement authorities in breaking up or investigating up to six keggers in Wayne County alone (a total of over 30 in his 10 county area).

"I'd say we only got about 1/5 of them, though," Nicholson said.

Sometimes the police or sheriff's department conducts their own investigations [of keg parties] and then turns the information over to me," he said.

Agents and law enforcement officials are currently lobbying on a law which would make keg beer sales available only to establishments such as Pizza Hut. "They [those throwing the party] would have to buy cases of beer for their parties. That [cases of beer] would certainly be much more visible to us than a keg. You are more likely to find 15 cases of beer in a car than a single keg," he said.

NICHOLSON WOULD have liked to see the drinking age law changed to say those of the mandatory 21 age be entitled to on and off sale liquor, and allow the 19-year-olds to be served in bar establishments but prohibit the 19-year-olds from purchasing alcohol and carry it outside the establishment.

Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen said he would prefer seeing a uniform drinking age from state to state, no matter what age all states finally settle on.

With today's mobility as such, almost any kid has access to interstate land some place, he said.

"There's really no way to enforce the law until the age is uniform. It's just essential," Janssen said.

He said restrictions on drinking don't have any effect unless parents and other significant persons set an example. If the parents have it around, he said, age isn't going to make any difference.

"It seems that teenagers are especially susceptible to addiction because they are going through a lot of stress and changes in their lives. Any crutch that can be utilized will be," Janssen mentioned.

People who are susceptible to alcohol are persons who need to forget something, and kids haven't quite learned the coping mechanisms. "Alcohol itself isn't the problem necessarily, because kids just don't like the coping mechanisms to cope with life," he said.

"A lot of AA people have said that until there completely sober and away from using the crutch. They never really grew up."

"What I'm saying is that there is a certain percentage of teens and people in their early 20's who are more susceptible than others to addiction. Not all teenagers are in that bag, but the people who haven't developed coping mechanisms are more prevalent in that age group than those who are older," Janssen mentioned.

UNTIL THEY LEARN to cope (called state of complete adolescence) the problem is going to be there, he added.

"People who are the loudest in that age group are generally the least mature."

Nicholson said he is one of three agents from the state of Nebraska who schedules speaking engagements throughout the year in talking to organizations and schools about alcohol regulations (both federal and state) and slides of accidents or incidents involving a controlled substance.

He also meets one year with the liquor retailers within his district to discuss legislative bills that are being introduced, new types of fake identification cards that are being circulated and federal law changes.

"Raising the information is an important factor in good law enforcement."

"Public education really helps," Nicholson said.

by Chuck Hackenmiller

David Nicholson, speaking from a law enforcer's viewpoint, says the new drinking age law has its weaknesses.

According to the new law, anyone who is born after Jan. 1, 1985 is not old enough to meet the drinking age requirement.

Nicholson, as an agent of the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission who enforces within a 10-county area (including Wayne County), sees problems ahead.

More underage people will be using false identifications to obtain liquor or alcohol.

People who are of legal drinking age will continue procuring liquor to the minors.

There will likely be more keg parties. Those who are age 19 who got their drinks in the bars will go out on the street and find other areas where they can drink, Nicholson said.

The new drinking age law will likely lessen the number of those who are 11 to 17 years old from gaining alcoholic beverages from those of age.

When the drinking age was 19, the knowledge by association, principle, where the alcohol procurer could have been a member of the senior high school class, was evident in schools.

Great Plains yard closes in Laurel

Great Plains of Laurel was notified last Friday by its head office in the Twin Cities to close its lumber yard.

Rod Smith, from the Communication Department of Great Plains in the Twin Cities, told the Wayne Herald Tuesday that about 40 of the total 82 lumber yards in Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana were released from the ties of Great Plains.

"Of part of that number, there have been negotiations for sale of some of the yards," Smith said.

"Some of the companies, within the next week or two, will be under a different name with minimal disruption to the community," he said.

As of Wednesday morning, it was not clear how many of the yards would be sold.

Lawmakers open 89th Legislature

viewpoint

The video issue

Capitol News
By Melvin Paul

An eight-ballot race for speaker and the depositing of a veteran committee chairman highlighted the opening day of the 89th Legislature last Wednesday.

Lawmakers re-elected Speaker William Nichol of Scottsbluff to a second two-year term. In defeating Sen. Bernice Labez of Omaha on a 25-23 vote, Nichol became only the second lawmaker to ever be elected to two terms as legislative speaker.

Only former Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, who was elected to the post in 1979 and 1981, had accomplished two victories in speakership elections.

Nichol managed to gather the 25 votes needed for election only after seven inconclusive ballots. Until then, neither he nor Labez could muster more than 24 votes. Several senators speculated that Labez herself switched her vote to break the deadlock and elect Nichol. She would neither confirm nor deny the speculation.

In a last minute challenge, Sen. Vard

Johnson of Omaha ousted Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca from the chairmanship of the Revenue Committee, a post Carsten had held for eight years.

Johnson didn't announce his candidacy until moments before the voting. Johnson, who told colleagues that the Legislature must move more aggressively to accomplish property tax relief, defeated Carsten 25-24.

IN ANOTHER MAJOR race, Sen. Peter Hoagland of Omaha defeated Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha for the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee. The vote was 26-22.

For Chambers, 47, the race marked the fourth time in his 14-year legislative career that he has lost the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, a post on which he has served continuously since entering the Legislature in 1971.

The Legislature's only black and only political independent, Chambers' colleagues have granted him a chairmanship only once. He briefly chaired the Government Committee early in his legislative career.

Hoagland, a 43-year-old attorney, is a six-year legislative veteran.

Sen. Rod Johnson, a 27-year-old Harvard farmer, was elected chairman of the Agriculture and Environment Committee. He, defeated Sen. Jim Pappas of North Platte and Sen. Harold Steck of Pleasant Dale.

Steck was eliminated on the first ballot, and Johnson beat Pappas 25-23 on a second ballot.

A later than normal start and the need for periodic recesses is likely to push the adjournment of the 90-day 1985 sessions into early June, much later than the customary Pre-Memorial Day adjournment in May.

THE JAN. 15 STARTING date for the 1985 session could be no later under the constitutional directive that lawmakers begin their work on the Wednesday following the first Monday in January.

A recently adopted legislative rule also requires lawmakers to take a four-day recess after the first 10 working days, the end of the period during which unrestricted bill introduction is allowed. This mandatory break allows time for the printing of the bills and for senatorial review of the proposals before them.

In addition, lawmakers will take a number of long weekend breaks during the session, including those for President's Day and Easter.

Little substantive business is expected to be transacted during the first few weeks of the session. Daily sessions at the beginning are likely to be dedicated mainly to bill introduction and rules debates.

Clerk of the Legislature Patrick O'Donnel said he expects public hearings before the committees to begin on or about Jan. 28.

The hearings will consume weekday afternoons until about mid-March, O'Donnel said. Until then, lawmakers will meet only in the mornings. At the completion of the hearings, lawmakers will begin full-day meetings until adjournment.

The video lottery machines may no longer be operating, but several lawmakers aren't ready to pull out the plugs without a fight.

A bill sponsored by six state senators, including District 17 representative Gerald Conway, will allow video lotteries to again operate in Nebraska.

Regulation of the lottery would require the following, if the proposed bill is passed into law:

- Video lotteries operating before Jan. 1 (the day when the video lottery machines were to be outlawed in Nebraska) would go back into business. Any new lottery would have to win voter approval.
- Lottery machines could only be located in establishments that have retail liquor licenses for consumption on the premises, and no more than 12 lottery machines could be in the establishment.
- Players must be 21 or over. Violation would mean a one-year suspension for the operator and a possible misdemeanor conviction for the minor.
- The government subdivisions will have to do quarterly audits of all lottery accounts and transactions.
- The measure establishes a Lottery Tax Fund. One percent of the fund would go toward the Nebraska Bingo and Lottery Control Act (an agency to be established if the bill were passed). The remaining amount goes to the Lottery Tax Fund. Each year, the fund would be distributed to counties proportionally — based on the ratio of the county's entire population to the entire state population.
- Distribution would require 10 percent going to the county general fund, 30 percent to cities and villages on a population basis and 60 percent awarded to school districts on a per pupil basis.
- Payout provisions would allow the local government to receive at least 7 percent of gross lottery proceeds. Nothing less than 65 percent must be used in awarding prizes and no more than 8 percent must be used to pay lottery expenses.
- And a commission (Nebraska Electronic Lottery Commission) would be established to oversee operations and license manufacturers of video lottery equipment.

Conway told The Wayne Herald Tuesday the proposed bill will go to public hearing. It is already in committee.

He said the drafted bill is just a tool to serve notice on the video lottery issue — just a skeleton developed for discussion and distribution among the legislators.

There are still a lot of players to the game, Conway said.

Even though Conway had co-sponsored the bill, he has definite apprehension concerning several clauses within the original draft.

He does not believe the communities should "automatically" be grandfathered into video lottery operation, as proposed in the bill.

In Wayne's situation, an election was required to decide if a "ticket lottery" operation was wanted by citizens of the city. Election results favored the ticket lottery.

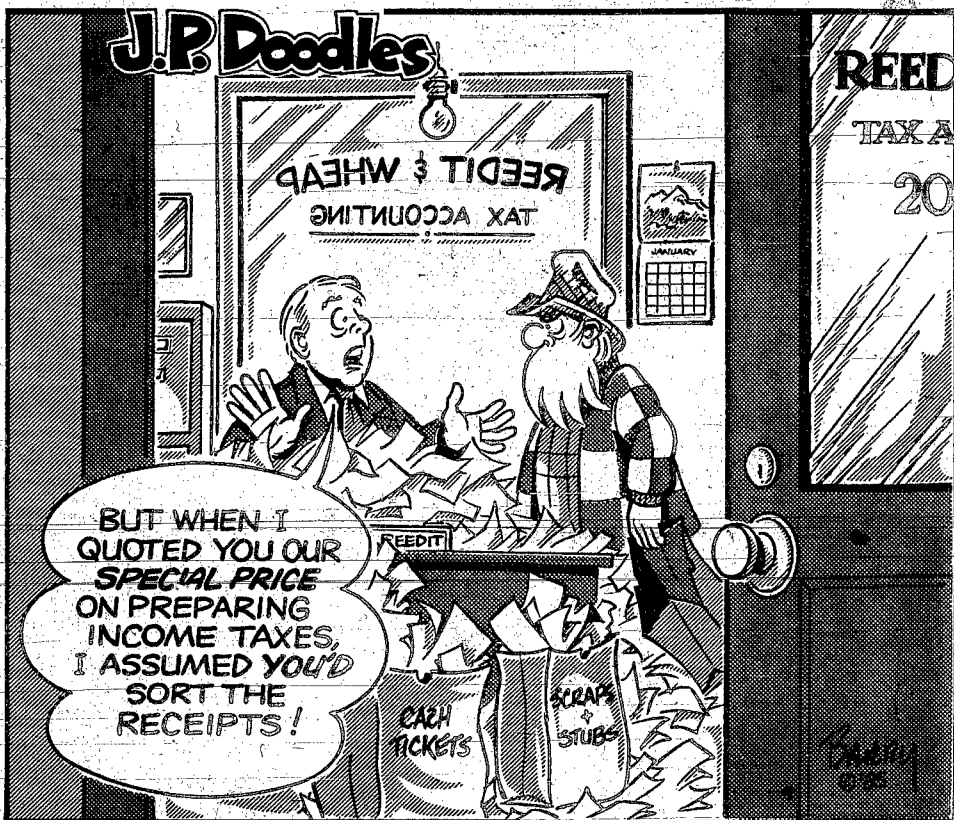

Later in 1983, the video lottery machines were ushered into Wayne and the surrounding area without a vote from the public sector.

Conway is right in saying that all political subdivisions, including those who had lotteries in operation before the Jan. 1 ban, that have interest in video lotteries should place the issue before the vote of the people.

A questionable point in the drafted bill is the distribution of funds, where the funding is distributed by proportion to all counties in Nebraska.

Some of the larger counties may not even operate video lottery machines — yet it appears that they will get the brunt of the funding.

This isn't the fair way to handle the funding. It would be wise for legislators to review that part of the clause of the proposed law before advancing the bill to the next step of becoming a state law.

Issues call for working together

Parity answer to economic woes

Last Wednesday the oath of office was administered to me and nine other new state senators as part of the ceremonies on the opening day of the 1985 Nebraska Legislature. I found this special day particularly gratifying and I'm sure that I'll remember it for a long, long time.

The oath that we took reminded me that in doing my job "to the best of my ability," I have two especially important responsibilities: to get you the information and action you need, and to help shape effective state policies. I plan to be an active, accessible legislator.

Of primary interest to us in northeast Nebraska is the continual erosion of our agricultural economy. As with all difficult problems, easy answers are not available. I have been conferring with Governor Kerrey and other senators on options open to us. Your continued sharing of ideas is critical. I believe by working together with our national representatives we will be able to address the problem. The unified concern of the legislative body was evident for this problem when we were able to pass a resolution that supports a delegation from Nebraska carrying our critical message to Washington. This was an idea that was received by a local group and was received very positively this week by the legislature. It is through these cooperative efforts that solutions will be found.

Property tax relief is also on everybody's mind. Many of us were elected with a commitment to seriously deal with this issue. It looks as though we'll have the opportunity to make some very real gains in this area. I have co-sponsored a bill with Senator Vard, Johnson and John DeCamp that will give direct relief to the taxpayers and reduce the property tax burden. There have also been several other bills introduced that are attempting to alleviate the burden placed on property owners. I'll be keeping you posted on further developments through this column as the weeks progress.

I have also been involved in legislation to treat the issue of video lotteries. Though a lot of work still lies ahead to iron out the particulars, this is a first step in taking the initiative to resolve this issue. This is one area that is going to be of special importance to many people in our district.

Another significant issue that affects our local economy is legislation I am sponsoring with several other senators that extends the School Weatherization Program. This program supports an energy conservation effort that has brought over one-half million dollars into our district since the beginning of the program in 1981. The bill I am co-sponsoring would extend the program for another six years, bringing more energy savings and jobs to the 17th District.

When you have comments or ideas you want to pass on, please contact me during the legislative session in Lincoln at: Senator Gerald Conway, State Capitol Room 2002, Lincoln, Neb. 68509, (402) 471-2716.

You may also find it helpful to call the toll-free hotline for information on bills. The hotline operates from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday during the legislative session. The telephone number is 800-742-7456.

To the editor:

Well lets see. In the last few years Oliver Corp has been sold to the White and then resold? J.L. Case Co sold to Tenneco. Recently the Giant International Harvester sold to Tenneco. Massey Ferguson Ltd reportedly having talks with Allis Chalmers. Ford's Tractor & Sperry New Holland are no doubt Candidates and Even Deere & Co is probably having some long talk sessions about finance. The big new New Holland building in Columbus, Nebr. appears to be empty. Fiat of Italy reportedly owns 51% of the Hesston Corp. Losses have been in the millions, probably billions by now. Think of the tens of thousands who have been laid off by these plants. Think of the lost business of companies that supply materials to these plants. Think of the steel industry, rubber, electrical, and computer component type businesses that don't have these orders to fill. Banks are going broke. Government revenues are below expectations. Our national debt is near 1.5 Trillion dollars and nobody knows what to do.

Hey man it's very simple. Give the farmer parity for his corn and wheat. You will see the economy revive just like a tree that is receiving water after a long drought. There is no other way. It is impossible to revive a tree by watering a few leaves on a branch 20 feet in the air when the roots are all dried out.

Thank you Wayne Jaycees

Letter to the editor:

Volunteerism is on the rise! A group of young men in our community who are a vital service organization still believe in the philosophy that "service to humanity is the best work of life." The Jaycees are to be congratulated for their contributions to our community and the opportunities they offer their members. With economic conditions becoming more strained, our country needs volunteers more than ever to make our communities the best they can be.

The Wayne Jaycees would like to say "Thank You" to the Wayne Jaycees during "their week"—U.S. Jaycee Week, January 13-19. This dynamic group of young men has been active in the Wayne community for 21 years. Major projects that the organization has completed recently have been Christmas Tree Sales and their annual leaf pick up. They also put on the fireworks display for the Centennial Kick-off. Other annual projects include the Demolition Derby at the county fair and the K-8 Junior Wrestling Tournament.

They also sponsor scholarships for two Wayne High seniors. In addition, monetary contributions have been made to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The U.S. Jaycee and Wayne Women chapters collectively raised over 2 million dollars for MDA.

One of the most recent large accomplishments that the Jaycees brought about was the completion of the Jaycee softball complex in Wayne. The completion of the complex has been an asset to the Wayne men's and women's softball leagues, providing them with much needed playing fields. Improvements continue to be made at the complex as the Jaycees raise the funds.

Family activities and personal development are also major points of emphasis in the Jaycees as they train their children, as well as themselves, to be better members in the community.

We, the Wayne Jaycee Women, proudly commend our Jaycees for the many accomplishments they have contributed to the community of Wayne. They are a great bunch of guys to have as our counterparts—always there to lend a hand, as we all work together, striving to make our community a better place.

Future uncertain for rural housing programs

By Cheryl Stubbendieck

The Reagan Administration is proposing to end current rural housing and development programs and to transfer their responsibility to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Right now, the Farmers Home Administration in the USDA administers rural housing programs.

The Council for Rural Housing and Development says it is unalterably opposed to these moves and if it can't persuade the administration to reverse its policies, it will take the issue to Congress. According to the council's president, Joseph A. Shepard, the need for rural housing programs is great.

More than 40 percent of the country's worst housing is in rural areas, he says, and nearly two million rural housing units are substandard, meaning eight to 10 million rural people live in substandard housing.

IN ADDITION, housing outside of metro areas is twice as likely to have kitchen and heating defects. Three times as likely to have plumbing problems, and 10 times as likely to have inadequate sewage systems.

Those numbers are depressing, but Shepard also notes that current rural housing programs administered by FmHA have helped more than half a million rural families obtain decent housing—more than 500,000 rural counties have no Federally chartered savings and loan institutions, he points out, and because rural areas have only 17 percent of the nation's savings, financing simply is not available in rural areas to construct needed housing.

Shepard and his council believe eliminating the direct federal funding provided by Farmers Home could mean a drastic reduction in rural housing construction, and a big cut in job creation in rural America. In fiscal 1984, FmHA assisted with production of more than 80,000 rural housing units, he says, which was responsible for the creation of more than 100,000 jobs.

The council has several specific fears about transferring rural housing authority to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Perhaps the most salient is that "the move would mean transferring federal housing assistance for rural areas from local county offices in rural communities to a HUD area office located in a remote large city."

IN ADDITION, HUD itself is not adequately funded — its programs have been cut by two-thirds since fiscal 1980, and a requirement that 20 to 25 percent of HUD assistance go to rural areas has been dropped. Even if all currently available HUD funds were split down the middle between urban and rural needs, rural areas would still be getting much less than they currently receive through FmHA.

And, the council also makes the point that rural housing problems are not just smaller versions of those facing urban areas. In urban areas, HUD can rely on a voucher system for providing short-term housing. In rural areas, there simply is not an available stock of housing which would allow this urban strategy to work.

Shepard and the Council for Rural Housing and Development make some valid points. Although the Reagan Administration should get credit for looking for ways to cut federal outlays and reduce the deficit, the old adage "if it ain't broke, don't fix it," would seem to apply here.

Cedar County Extension Council names Homemakers Day delegate

Mrs. Marge Dybdal, chairman of the Cedar County Home Extension Council, will represent the council during Omaha Homemakers Day slated next May.

She was named Jan. 7 when the council met at Ridgeview Manor in Coleridge. Fifteen attended the meeting conducted by Mrs. Dybdal.

The council announced plans to conduct another seal ball contest in Cedar County during 1985. The program is a project of the State Safety Committee.

All third graders of the county may participate by drawing a poster using the theme "Get It Together." First, second, and third place prizes will be awarded at the county level.

THE DEADLINE for women to apply for the Homemakers Educational Grant is Feb. 15. Women must be a member of a Nebraska Home Extension Club to apply for the grant, which must be used between June 1 and Dec. 31.

It also was announced that nominations for the offices of vice president and public relations chairman are being sought on the Nebraska State Council of Home Extension Clubs. Each term is for two years.

In other business, the council approved plans for a county sponsored tour with Mrs. Tom Noecker as chairman.

This year's Spring Salad Day will be held in Randolph with Mrs. Russ Jensen of Randolph as chairman.

A "SEW TO SAVE" clinic will be held on Thursday, Jan. 31 from 9:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. at the city auditorium in Hartington. Cost is $4.75 including luncheon, or $2 without lunch.

The clinic is sponsored by exension clubs in Cedar and Dixon Counties—and final registration date is Jan. 24.

FAMILY well-being packets were distributed to local presidents attending the council meeting.

All of the 17 clubs in Cedar County are to submit reports to Mrs. Roberta Lute, cultural arts leader, containing summaries of cultural arts lessons presented and resource persons who gave demonstrations during 1984.

Next council meeting is scheduled April 4 at 1:30 p.m. in Hartington.

WHS drama team wins districts

THE WAYNE-CARROLL HIGH School drama team won the Class B championship in district one-act play competition held Monday at Dana College in Blair.

The Wayne cast includes, from left, Lori Baker, David Zahniser, Mary Gross, Shelli Schroeder, Don Whisenhunt, Ben Whisenhunt, Chris Hillier and Sandy Blendenman. Not pictured are Vini Johar, Melinda Olsen, Jassi Johar and Brian Schmidt. The team's winning performance of "Interview," written by Van Itallie, was a unanimous choice of the judges and qualifies Wayne as one of eight schools in the state to compete in Class B finals to be held in Cozad on Jan. 26.

Other schools participating in the district competition included Blair, Hartington Cedar, Pierce, West Point and Logan View. Wayne High's drama coach is Ted Blendenman.

Concord residents observe 40th Concord residents Mr. and Mrs. William Rieth celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with an open house reception on Jan. 13 at Grace Lutheran Church.

Clifford Stalling of Allen, best man at the couple's wedding ceremony, was among guests attending the observance.

Master of ceremonies for the afternoon program was the couple's son, Gene Fletcher.

The Rev. Steve Kramer opened the program with an inspirational message, followed with a poem, "Ruby Reflections," written by the couple's daughter, Julie Benson.

Shirley Fletcher wrote and presented a review of the family's history which introduced the grandchildren and great grandchildren, who concluded the program by singing three musical selections. They were accompanied by grandson Tom Fletcher of Wayne.

GRANDDAUGHTER Tiffany Benson registered the approximately 130 friends and relatives who attended from Sioux City, Wakefield, Wisner, Laurel, Hartington, Wayne, Allen, Concord and Omaha.

Granddaughters Irene Fletcher and Chris Fletcher cut and served the cakes which were baked by Marlys Rice of Concord.

Pouring was granddaughter Kathy Bourek and serving punch was great granddaughter Stephanie Bourek. Great grandchild Shannon Fletcher, Jeremy Fletcher and Amber Bourek assisted in the serving lines.

Kitchen help included Robert and Mona Meyer, Mrs. Sally Lubbers and Mrs. Delores Koch.

HOSTING THE event were the couple's children, including Vaughn and Julie Benson, and Gene and Shirley Fletcher, all of Wayne, and Dona Danesia of Harbor City, Calif.

Ina Karnes Fletcher and William H. Rieth were married on Jan. 11, 1945 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Concord.

They have resided all their married lives in the Concord area.

bridal showers

Teresa Biggerstaff

Teresa Biggerstaff of Wakefield was presented a miscellaneous bridal shower Jan. 6 in the Al Hitz home in Wakefield.

Twenty-one guests attended from Wakefield, Wayne and Omaha. Entertainment included two poems and pencil games.

Hostesses were Susan Baker and Carla Meier, both of Wakefield, and Randy Hitz and Cristy Hingst of Omaha.

Miss Biggerstaff, daughter of Mrs. Pat Biggerstaff of Wakefield, and Eric Brink, son of Mrs. Jill Brink of Wayne, will be married Feb. 9 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wakefield.

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary met Jan. 7 and draped the charter in memory of Marguerite Parke.

Taking part in the memorial service were President Mary Kruger, Ethel Johnson and Faunell Hoffman. Members sang "Abide With Me."

President Kruger opened the meeting in the Vets Club room. Attending were 13 members and one guest, Eleanor Carter, who was welcomed as a new member.

Advancing the colors were Sergeants at Arms Frances Dorrig and Faunell Hoffman, pro forma. Chaplain Ethel Johnson gave the opening prayer, followed with the flag salute and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

community service chairman, encouraging auxiliary members to take part in community affairs.

Thank you notes were read from Lottie Longnecker, Mrs. Paul Mines, and the family of Marguerite Parke.

Chaplain Johnson closed the meeting with a prayer for peace, followed with the singing of "America." Serving were Virginia Koll and Eveline Thompson.

Craft lesson given at Klick and Klatter Club

Emelia Larsen presented a craft lesson at the Jan. 8 meeting of Klick and Klatter Home Extension Club.

Fourteen members attended the meeting in the home of Marvyl Corbit, responding to roll call with what they hope to accomplish this winter.

Mrs. Larsen assisted the group in making lace decorated straw mat butter tins.

members to be aware of dangerous frost areas when driving, and Marvyl Corbit encouraged the group to read "Scraps of the Statue of Liberty - All Works of Art."

MARCELLA Larson announced that the club scrapbook has been completed, and President Niemann thanked members for making favors for the hospital. The group voted to make more favors for the hospital during the month of October.

PRESIDENT Joyce Niemann opened the meeting with the flag salute and the thought for the day, which was a poem entitled "Happiness."

Irene Victor led members in singing "Winter Wonderland" and "We Prepare for Tomorrow," accompanied by Marjan Jordan.

A letter was read from Donald Whisenhunt, vice president of Wayne State College, announcing programs available there.

The club will present a book to Wayne Public Library, entitled "Hutterian Brethren." Eunice Corbit received the hostess prize.

Several articles were read, including "Holidays in January" by Marcella Larson; "Professional Shoppers" by Viola Meyer; "On the Eve of a New Year - It's Time for a Clean Slate" by Lorene Gildersleeve; and "Home for the Holidays" by Stella Liska.

Eunice Corbit warned

VIDA SUTHERLAND will present the lesson, "From the Earl to the 80's" at the club's next meeting, scheduled Feb. 12 at 1:30 p.m. in the home of Ruth Flier.

Members will answer roll call with their favorite sandwich spread.

Home sewing tips: This time of year always seems to be a good time to get out fabric and patterns and sew some new clothes.

Sewing can save you dollars in your clothing budget — but not always. The person's sewing skills, garment selected, type of fabric and time to complete the project all impact on your savings.

One area where a real savings exists is in children's clothing. The Risdon Corporation recently released the results of a study comparing the costs of ready-to-wear and home-sewn clothing.

THIS INDEPENDENT study compared the costs by considering materials needed and time consumed. Girls' wear in the 4 to 6x size range were used to collect data for the study.

The learn-at-home packet is available for a small fee by contacting the Wayne County Extension Office.

Not all types of wearing apparel should be sewn at home if excessive sewing time is required.

Sewing a child's dress, T-shirt, skirt or pull-on pants can save as much as 70 percent over ready-made costs. Play clothes such as overalls may require more advanced techniques which would decrease any savings.

Another advantage to sewing children's clothes is making them with built-in growth features such as deeper hems or release tucks in sleeves and skirts.

THE COOPERATIVE Extension Service has a learn-at-home packet called "T-shirt Time for Tots." It includes patterns for a simple T-shirt in several sizes, and ideas for decorative touches.

The learn-at-home packet is available for a small fee by contacting the Wayne County Extension Office.

Home sewers also will be interested in the Sew to Save Clinics sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Five clinics will be offered in northeast Nebraska, the last week in January. Clinics located near Wayne include Wisner on Jan. 28; Norfolk on Jan. 29; Hartington on Jan. 31; and Dakota City on Feb. 1.

Each daylong clinic will offer a variety of workshops for the beginner to the advanced home sewer.

THE WISNER Sew to Save Clinic is being jointly sponsored by the Wayne, Cornish and Stanton County Extension Offices.

Several local resource people will present one hour workshops at this clinic. Featured on the program are Lois Shelton of Lois' Silver Needle, and Cleve Willers of Kuhn's Department Store.

Complete workshop information and registration instructions are available at the Wayne County Extension Office, 375-3310. Early registration by Jan. 21 is encouraged at most sites, but walk-in's are welcome.

Noting 85th

ALL FRIENDS and relatives are invited to attend an open house reception honoring the 85th birthday of Ben J. Fuetberth of Wayne. It will be held on Sunday, Jan. 27 from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Woman's Club room of the Wayne city auditorium. Hosting the event are the couple's families. The honoree requests no gifts.

JEWELINE THOMPSON reported on an oyster soup supper which the Wayne auxiliary sponsored on Dec. 20 at the Norfolk Veterans Home. Attending from Wayne were Mary Kruger, Eveline Thompson and Harold Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson also reported that the auxiliary has 91 paid up members, just one member short of reaching 100 percent.

She also presented information on the Girls State program and announced that she will be contacting high school guidance counselors later this month.

Ethel Johnson, conservation chairman, told of ways to conserve energy.

The program and serving committees for next month were read by Marie Bruggar.

PRESIDENT Kruger read an article entitled "Selling the American Legion Auxiliary to the Public."

The president also reported that the auxiliary is to make 15 small and 12 large centerpieces for the Norfolk Veterans Home for the month of February.

Members will meet to make the centerpieces on Jan. 21 at 1 p.m. in the Vets Club room. Storm date is Jan. 28.

Hospital Chairman Linda Grubb reported she visited Anna Mau, Mrs. Paul Mines and Lottie Longnecker at the Wayne Care Center. Helen Hupp at the Wakefield Health Care Center, and Hattie Hall, who is hospitalized.

January CLEP exams offered at Wayne State

A program that enables people to earn college credits by examination will be offered Jan. 23 at Wayne State College (WSC).

The College Level Examination Program (CLEP) provides students the option of earning college credit without enrolling in college courses. CLEP provides an opportunity to save both time and money in earning a college education. Students wishing to participate must register by Jan. 21.

Anyone can take CLEP exams and submit scores to one or more of 2,500 participating institutions. To receive college credit at WSC, students must either be currently enrolled or have met WSC admission requirements.

Students can get a good overview of the areas they select to take a CLEP exam by obtaining a booklet titled "Guide to the CLEP Examinations" from the Student Services Office at the college. The booklet can usually help you decide if you have enough knowledge about particular academic areas to attempt the related CLEP examinations. The booklet may be borrowed on an overnight basis or purchased for $5.

Credit received for CLEP is entered on a student's record without a grade, thereby not affecting grade point averages. There is no official record entered if the CLEP exam is failed, and students can re-take the same exam again provided appropriate fees are paid. Wayne State places no limit on the maximum number of credit hours earned through CLEP and taken before the senior year.

Each CLEP exam usually takes about 90 minutes to complete. The fee for General and Subject Examinations is $30 per exam. Scores are reported to the student and the college within one week.

For more information contact the WSC Student Services Office: CLEP, (402) 375-2200, ext. 213.

Four Wayne State students will study in Denmark

Four Wayne State College students are about to begin what should be the most unusual, yet exciting, semester of their college careers.

The students will spend the spring 1985 semester earning 12 hours of credit at the University of Copenhagen in Denmark as a part of the Danish International Study (DIS) program.

The four are Diane Kuhl, Newcastle; Shane Prill, Stuart; Shari Dyer, Omaha; and Lisa Fish, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

They will leave Jan. 20 and will fly from Omaha to Copenhagen via Chicago. The 12 credit hours each student will earn will transfer back to Wayne State. Dyer will study a liberal arts program at the University of Copenhagen, while the other three will study business.

This is the sixth-year Wayne State has participated in the DIS program, according to WSC Director Of International Education Chuck Kay.

Kuhl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kuhl of Newcastle. She is a junior and a member of the Wayne State Marketing Club; Phi-Beta-Lambda business fraternity and the WSC marching band.

Prill is the son of Robert and Brenda Prill of Stuart. He is a senior studying business administration with a finance concentration and is a member of College Republicans.

Dyer is the daughter of Elaine M. Dyer of Omaha. She is a junior working on a double major of art and business administration with a marketing concentration.

Fish is the daughter of Evelyn Fish of Council Bluffs, Iowa. She is a junior majoring in business administration and fashion merchandising. A graduate of Plainview High School, she is vice president of the Wayne State Marketing Club.

During their stay in Copenhagen, the four WSC students will live with families. The three students studying business will also travel beyond the Iron Curtain to East Berlin and Poland.

The Wayne State students are scheduled to arrive back in the United States May 30.

Warnke coming to Wayne

Mike Warnke, an internationally-known Christian comedian-evangelist who formerly worshipped the Devil, will hold a concert at Wayne State College's Rice Auditorium Jan. 30 at 7 p.m.

Accompanied on stage by his wife, Rose, he will describe his former life as a hippy, Marine Corps medic, drug addict/pusher and a priest presiding over a coven of witches. He is best known for his use of humor in relating his life story and conveying his Bible-based appeals for Christian salvation.

Traveling from their home base of Danville, Ky., 30 weeks per year, the Warnkes have personal nondenominational ministry.

Warnke's evangelistic career commenced after his first book, The Satan Seller, was published in 1972. He has been a keynote speaker at many Christian conferences in the U.S., Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Denmark and Sweden, appearing before the Queen of Denmark, and the King of Sweden. His second book, Hitchhiking on Hope Street, was published in 1979 by Doubleday and Co.

MIKE WARNKE was Record World Magazine's Contemporary and Inspirational Non-Musical Artist of the Year for 1976, 1977, 1978 and 1979. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Valley Christian University in the field of Christian counseling and a Doctorate in philosophy.

Rose Warnke, a graduate of the University of Kentucky, performs her own gospel music. She sings and plays piano and guitar. Her compositions are featured on the WORD recording "Higher Education" and "Growing Up," which features the evangelistic messages of her husband.

Tickets are available at the Living Waters Book Store and WSC Student Center in Wayne, Abby Book Store in Norfolk, New Life Book Store in Columbus, Teen Challenge in Laruel and Zondervans and Fitzgibbons in Sioux City, Iowa.

PHOTOGRAPHY WORKSHOP

The Wayne Regional Arts Council will be sponsoring a photography workshop by Dennis Linster. The workshop will be on camera handling techniques and be held at Benhack Hall at WSC in room 103. The workshop will be held on Wednesday evenings from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., starting Wednesday, Jan. 23 and will run for 5 weeks.

The cost will be $25 for Arts Council members, $35 for non-members.

Local funding coming from state

The city of Wayne will join other area communities, counties, Natural Resource Districts, school districts and technical colleges in receiving one of seven upcoming state aid payments for the current fiscal year.

Nebraska State Treasurer Kay A. Orr has certified to the Department of Administrative Services that tax funds in the amount of $27,082,545.57 are available for current distribution to local governments.

The distribution of these state funds is intended by the Nebraska Legislature as replacement for local personal property taxes lost when the Unicameral, in 1975, exempted agricultural animals, machinery and business inventories from personal property taxes, Mrs. Orr said.

THE AID TO cities, counties and NRDs replaces the amounts distributed under the Personal Property Tax Relief and Local Government Subdivision Programs, the state treasurer noted.

Wayne's December payment will be $10,964.41. The city will be receiving the same payment for each of the next six months until June 30, 1985, when the fiscal period ends, according to a spokesman from the state revenue office.

The same situation exists for area communities. Laurel will receive $2,157.31 for its December payment. Winside will obtain $218.58 this month and Wakefield will receive a payment of $2,354 during December and each of the ensuing months leading to the end of the fiscal period.

The total amount allocated this December to cities across the state of Nebraska totaled $2,438,390, according to Orr's news release. December payments to the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District was $9,695.24, with total aid to the natural resource district being $98,000.

AID DISTRIBUTED to area counties during December were Cedar County, $18,437.88; Dixon County, $16,399.20; and Wayne County, $16,067.86. The total amount which has been provided during December as state aid to counties is $2,379,999.99.

Aid to technical colleges for December totaled $2,308,885.01 while December school district aid amounts to $14,857,280.57.

According to Treasurer Orr, amounts distributed to school districts are based on enrollment and other statutory criteria and are computed by the State Department of Education.

A breakdown of the figures for the school districts across the state was unavailable at this time.

Tax help from local library

The Internal Revenue Service has furnished the Wayne Public Library with a variety of materials to help taxpayers prepare their federal income tax forms, Kathleen Tooker of the library said.

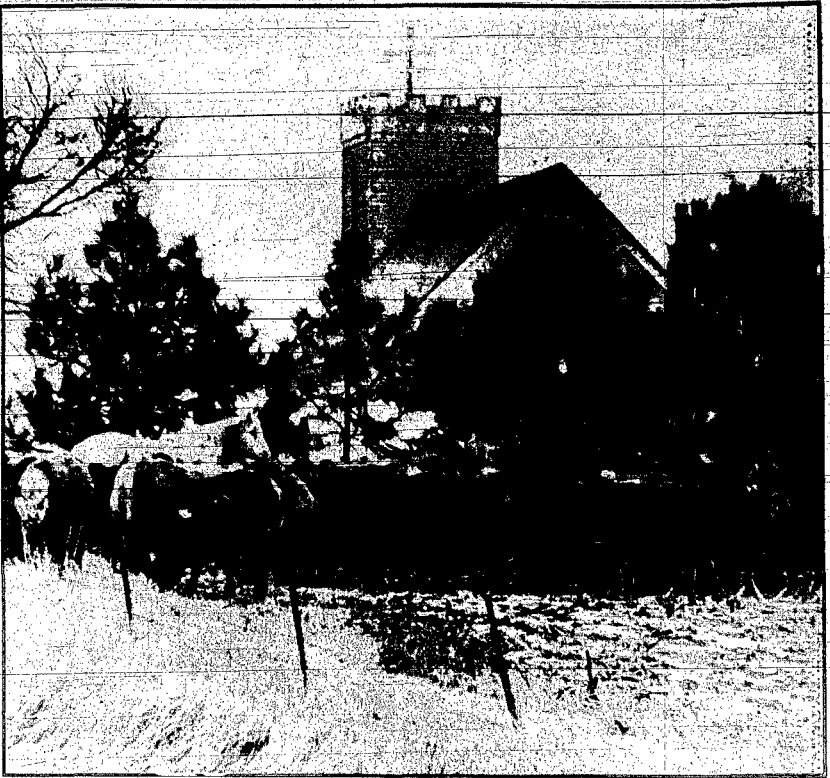

One useful aid is audio cassettes containing simple, line-by-line instructions for preparing Federal Forms 1040EZ, 1040A and Schedule 1, 1040 and Schedules A, B, and W. The Wayne Public Library also has IRS Publication 1194, a four-volume set of the IRS' most requested publications and Publication 1132, which contains over 90 reproducible tax forms that can be easily photocopied for a small fee. In addition, Publication 910, the handy Taxpayer's Guide to IRS Information, Assistance and Publications, is available at the library.

This publication contains useful year-round tips on how to obtain tax information.

As an added service, several of the most needed forms and publications are available in braille and distributed through the Regional Libraries for Blind and Physically Handicapped.

While Wayne Public librarians are not expected to serve as tax experts, they will be able to direct the public to these many helpful tax aids.

known whether any group or organization had negotiated for purchase of the Laurel's Great Plains lumber yard.

Farm economy, vital to small communities where Great Plains had thrived, is now deteriorating which is one reason why the head quarters in the Twin Cities had decided to close some of its yards, according to Smith.

Things are starting to get tough on main street, Smith said.

The closing currently leaves Laurel without a lumber yard within the community. Great Plains had been in the community for the past 30 years — but its roots go back to when the lumber yard was originally founded in 1892 and later brought over to Laurel, according to Laurel sources.

A little snow goes a long way

THE WAYNE Yacht Club sponsored a Cross Country Ski Regatta last Sunday. Fourteen participants traveled on skis up to four miles, and were able to avoid areas where there was a lack of snow. The course ran through the college and country club grounds north of Wayne. In photos, clockwise from far left, John Renzelman prepares to head out into the outlined route; Wayne Wessel reflects on the proper cross-country ski form; skiers glide in to open country; Breck Giese takes a spill on his skis; and a lone cross country skier slides along beside a country setting.

GOD SAW HE was getting tired And a cure was not to be. So he put his arms around him And whispered "Come with me." No words can express our appreciation for all the beautiful prayers, visits, cards, food and acts of kindness shown to us when Martin was ill, and now in our time of sorrow. Special thanks to Pastors Vogel, Pennington, Kramer and Brogaard; also to the Allen Rescue Service. God bless each one of you for your concern. Clarice and Curtiss Blohm; Craig and Kim Blohm; Richard and Carmen Stark; Larry and Colleen Nobbe; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Blohm; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blohm; Frieda Bose; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barilko; J. Dorothea Hassler; Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Carlson. 117

WE WISH to express our deepest gratitude to all our friends, relatives and neighbors for flowers, cards, visits, food and memorials sent at the time of illness and death of our mother and grandmother Mary Dohren of Pilger. A special thanks to Rev. Michael Gruhn and St. John's ladies. Marvin and Darleen Frevert, Thomas and Janalee Kleber, David and Mary Frevert. 117

THANK YOU from the bottom of our hearts for all the acts of kindness shown us since Kevin's death. The prayers, visits, cards, memorials, food, supplies and lovely flowers all are deeply appreciated. A special thanks to Rev. Matthews, Rev. Marquardt and Rev. Sarthout for their comforting visits and assistance. Also Rev. Keith Johnson. Friends and relatives have meant so much to us and we are deeply touched by all the expressions of love for Kevin and for us that has been shown. Jim, Lynette, Michelle Joslin and Mike Kosaka, Elvin (Bates) Joslin, Virgil and Ruth Luhr, Aunts, Uncles and cousins. 117
