

THE WAYNE HERALD

Grain price outlook not encouraging

by Chuck Hackenmillar

In Monday's Wayne Herald edition, a farm and ranch outlook report appeared concerning farm real estate, farm production, farm equipment sales and the farm bill. The forecast was provided from farm and economy specialists through the Ag Communication News Service at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Below is a continuation of the report, looking at grain, livestock and livestock product prices.

Feeder cattle

Feeder cattle and calves should bring higher prices during 1985. "Marketing decisions for feeder cattle and calves in 1985 should be easier than in the recent past," said Al Wellman, UN-L extension farm management specialist. Abundant hay and feed grain supplies will allow feeder cattle and calf owners maximum marketing flexibility during early 1985. Look for the highest prices to occur between March and May, Wellman said. "Prices for yearling feeder steers are predicted to range between $69 to $76 per hundredweight for the peak period. Steer calves will sell for between $72 to $80 per hundredweight. Increased placement of cattle into feedlots early this year and good early pasture range growth will likely put upward pressure on feeder cattle and calf prices during the first two or three quarters of the year, Wellman said. "Yearling steer prices in 1985 are expected to average equal to or slightly higher than fed cattle prices. Calf prices are expected to gain relative to yearling prices this year," he concluded.

Dairy industry

Pending circumstances, the support price for milk will drop to $11.60 per hundredweight by summer, according to H. Doug Jose, UN-L extension farm management specialist. "Production and consumption are not in balance, so the industry will experience adjustments over the next couple of years." Production is expected to be up 2 percent from 1984, but that will be more than the anticipated increase in consumption, said Jose. Surpluses should remain over the 5 billion pound target level in the year ahead. Dairy herd sizes and total milk production have decreased from 1983 figures, but Jose said producers are poised to rebuild herds and production after April of this year. Lower grain prices will tend to encourage higher feeding levels and will result in greater production, he said. Federal government net purchases in 1984 were 7 billion pounds. If 1985 surpluses are projected at over 4 billion pounds, the USDA is authorized to cut price supports by 50 cents per hundredweight on April 1. If by July 1 surpluses for the following 12 months are projected at 5 billion pounds or more, another 50 cents could be cut.

Wheat prices

Increased foreign competition, large carryover stocks and the threatened loss of the Chinese market have led to a lackluster outlook on wheat, said Lynn Lutgen, UN-L extension grain marketing specialist. "The only bullish news that the wheat sector has seen recently was USDA's December estimate that winter wheat seedings were down 26 percent to 28 percent," said Lutgen. Probably reasons cited for the slow market are the huge carryovers along with speculation on the new farm program and how it will impact contacts such as loan rates. "Those factors, coupled with the overall pessimism that surrounds the wheat complex suggest it will take an extreme change to switch to a strong bullish market," he said.

Corn prices

"Doom and gloom" talk that corn prices would slide forever has abated, said Lutgen. He looks for prices to strengthen in the near term (April-May) time period. But prices could fall by 1985 harvest time to lower than prices at the 1984 harvest level. "The main positive factors are the large quantities of corn acreage being put under the government loan program and intensification of recent export activity," Lutgen said. "As we look forward to spring, we could have the farm gate price rise to approximately $2.85." However, the increase will be short-lived. "Much depends on the weather for new crops, but if we assume an average corn crop, no large increase in demand and the 1984 farm program being slashed, outlook would indicate fall cash prices might range between $2 and $2.40," Lutgen said. "It appears we need to look towards some method of ensuring a price level for 1985 crops."

Soybean prices

You can't get any lower to bottom prices for soybeans, Lutgen said. "It would appear that soybean prices have finally bottomed out or are close to the bottom," he said. Some improvement during the next few months in the cash price for soybeans is on the horizon, due to four factors: "The U.S. Department of Agriculture has lowered its final 1984 crop production estimate. "South American production projections are lower than their past high projections. "Severe weather overseas has the potential to increase United States exports. "And many producers are in a holding action waiting for higher prices. "While soybean prices are expected to increase into the spring, next fall's prices will depend on the number of acres planted and the weather," he said. Strength of the U.S. dollar relative to other currencies also bears close watching, Lutgen said. "This has a major impact on soybean export."

Egg price

Egg production in 1985 will average 2 to 3 percent greater than in 1984, according to Earl Gleaves, extension poultry specialist at UN-L. Gleaves said a very slight change in egg production usually results in a much greater change in prices in the opposite direction. During the first quarter of 1984, there was a 74 percent increase in egg prices with only a 2 percent decrease in egg production. "The trend in 1985 is going to be the opposite of this example," Gleaves said.

According to the USDA Crop Reporting Service, New York Wholesale Egg Prices will decline 2 to 3 cents at the beginning of the year, with a slow increase of about 5 cents the rest of the year. One of the reasons for the poor outlook for egg prices, Gleaves said, is the national market. "The national market is too big," he said. "It is going to be a touch-and-go year."

Health Fair coming to Wayne

by Chuck Hackenmillar

March 28 could be the day your health turns turns for the better. That is the date of the Wayne Health Fair, sponsored by the Wayne County Cancer Society. Planners of the event are Kris Giese, chairman of the Wayne County Cancer Society Campaign, and secretary Linda Baddorf.

Thirty-four exhibits have currently committed to participation in the Health Fair, according to Baddorf. Cooperation among the health industry has been outstanding.

"Everyone we talked to has shown interest and excitement in the Fair. They want to do it immediately," said Baddorf. "People can go find out (for free) the different kinds of services available, or what types of groups are available for health needs. They will learn a lot about new medical technology. They can see what organizations do that they donate money for," said Baddorf.

One of the events which will begin before the March 28 Health Fair is a coloring contest for kids up to fourth grade. Cash prizes will be provided by the Wayne Herald, and judging will be by the Wayne State College art department.

There are three categories in the contest — those in pre-school and kindergarten, first and second graders, and third and fourth graders.

Entries should be submitted to the Wayne Herald office by March 23. All pictures will be displayed at the Health Fair.

DURING THE HEALTH FAIR, the Wayne State College Home Economics Club is conducting a "nutritious bake sale" which Baddorf said will feature items such as pumpkin bars, raisin bread or whole wheat products. The Wayne State College Physical Fitness Department will have computerized fitness testing equipment at the Health Fair.

A Poison Control Program will be offered by St. Luke's Medical Center of Sioux City in the Women's Club Room. All elementary school children are taking a field trip to see this program, according to Baddorf.

However, the program is geared for all ages — including pre-schoolers. There will be free testing done of blood pressure by Red Cross; Diabetic Screening by the Lions Club; and hearing tests conducted by Ray Stallons and Associates of Sioux City.

Other booths currently reserved for the event are: Home Safety Check, by Kathy Flink and the Wayne High School Home Economics Department; Drug Information, from the Wayne High School Counseling Department; and Nutrition, from the Wayne County Home Extension Office.

THERE WILL BE booths on Dentistry, Optometry, Respiratory Therapy, Home Health Care, Alcoholics Anonymous and Al Anon, T.O.P.S., General Information, St. Luke's Burn Center, laboratory equipment display, Physical Therapy, M.A.D.D. and S.A.D.D., Diet Center, Mental Health, Hospital Auxiliary, Siouxland Blood Bank, Providence Fitness Center, Weight Watchers, Diabetes Foundation, Spiritual Health, Arthritis Foundation and the Heart Association.

The Cancer Society will have a booth with many pamphlets and posters, a film on oral cancer and visual aids on the effects of smoking on lungs. A general health information booth will also be available with Vials of Life from Marian Health Center, Immunization information and information on death supplied by area mortuaries.

"Many of the booths will have films or slides," Baddorf said.

The last health fair of this proportion, she said, was in 1978 when it was sponsored by the Home Extension Office.

"This year's Health Fair began when we wanted to publicize the Cancer Society and let people know we really do more than collect money. We also provide service, education and save lives," Baddorf said.

"Then we thought, why not have all health groups participate who want to say 'we just don't collect money,'" she added. The Health Fair is designed "not to be a walk through and pick up a pamphlet" type of event. There is more involvement, she said.

"What organizers hope to accomplish, she said, is to encourage check-ups, get individuals involved with health programs and be checked for their physical fitness. "Health consciousness is getting bigger and bigger. So people might as well do something about it," she said.

Area schools compete in choral festival next Wednesday at Wayne State College

Ten high school choirs from Nebraska and Iowa will be blending their voices at the Wayne State College Choral Festival, Wednesday, March 13 in Ramsey Theatre, according to Dr. Carl Rønneberg, professor of music. Lincoln Southeast High School has been invited to participate as the Honor Choir. Its concert will follow the morning activities. Rønneberg said. The Lincoln Southeast High School choir is directed by Jim Shores, a Wayne native and a WSC graduate. Other high schools participating from Nebraska are York (directed by Greg Turner), Wayne (directed by Rob Stuber), Platte (directed by Tim Gansbom), Randolph (directed by Roxanne Ulf) South Sioux City (directed by Merlin Lempiak) and Waller Newman (directed by Virginia Schieder).

THE SCHOOLS from Iowa are Schleswig (directed by Vicki Von Engelen), Emmet (directed by David Johnson), and Woodbury (directed by David Johnson). Underwood (directed by Carl Rønneberg) will also participate. The schools will perform at the Wayne State College Ramsey Theatre. The festival will feature a variety of choral pieces, including a special performance by the Lincoln Southeast High School choir. The festival will be held in Ramsey Theatre at the Wayne State College campus. The festival is open to the public.

Washington trip gets results

by Chuck Hackenmillar

"With the president's administration, they talk to us. With Congress, you could talk to them."

That's what District 17 Senator Jerry Conway told The Wayne Herald while in Washington as part of a delegation from the Nebraska Legislature.

"It was a busy schedule. The media attention has been fantastic — helpful in communicating the message to the entire nation," Conway said.

The senate delegation has returned to the Unicameral in Lincoln and now the grassroots level — those farmers who are in need of federal assistance — are in Washington to present their case.

"When I'm home in northeast Nebraska, Washington, D.C. seems a million miles away. Those who live in our nation's capitol find it easy to have the same perspective when they think of Nebraska," Conway said.

He doubted they would be able to see President Reagan. However, a delegation of the senators were allowed to meet with Vice-President Bush.

He said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole spoke to the Nebraska legislator delegation, saying "We were there legislatively." Dole told the delegation that everything in the proposed farm bill is there to help solve the problems and that there is money available, Conway said.

"I can't see committing more money to a plan that is not working now," Conway said. Support received from the Nebraska representatives of U.S. Senate and Congress brought "no complaints at all" from Conway.

CONWAY SAID the legislators met with Secretary of Agriculture John Block and a list of "undersecretaries."

And did the state senators accomplish the intended goal? Conway thinks so.

"Our goal was only to be drawing attention to the farm crisis situation. And we were certainly doing that," he added.

"We opened some eyes and rattled the cage of the federal bureaucracy. We gained national press which we needed to acquire public support for solving the problems we face," he said.

Senator Elroy Hefner said one noticeable absence was a meeting with President Reagan.

"I was one of a group of Nebraska legislators who went calling on the President at the White House in an attempt to see VISIT, page 2a

Kiwanis Club plans pancake feed

Wayne Kiwanis Club's annual pancake feed will take place next Thursday, March 14 at the Wayne City Auditorium. Serving will begin at 5 p.m. and will continue until everyone has been served.

Tickets for the pancake feed (both adult and children under 12) can be purchased in advance from any Kiwanis Club member. The tickets will also be sold at the door. This is the Kiwanis Club's major fundraiser of the year as Kiwanians volunteer their work of flipping and serving pancakes toward raising money to support youth activities in the area.

Among the activities which the organization sponsors for youth include the annual Kiwanis Scholastic Awards Banquet; Kiwanis Junior High Track Meet; Kiwanis Swim Meet; the Kiwanis Youth Golf Tournament and the Wayne Special Olympics.

Kerrey speaks on general fund budget

by Melvin Paul
Governor Bob Kerrey returned last week from the winter meeting of the National Governor's Association in Washington, D.C., saying that state government must scale back its expectations to adjust to hard times in agriculture.

Speaking to reporters on his return, Kerrey said his proposed state general fund budget of $884.7 million ought to be reduced.

"I have some sense today that $865 million may be too high," Kerrey said.

Agricultural topics dominated the agenda of the governors' meeting, and Kerrey said the message presented by himself and other Farm Belt governors seemed to have little effect on the Reagan administration's resolve to enact a market-oriented farm bill this year. Kerrey said that a free world market doesn't exist for agricultural goods, so the Reagan approach is bound to fail.

"The result of the Reagan administration farm policy will be to reduce farm income in the coming years, Kerrey said, and that will diminish taxes collected by state government.

KERREY DIDN'T say exactly how much he thought should be trimmed from the proposed state budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. He did say that the $884.7 million which existing tax rates are expected to generate in the next fiscal year is close to where he would like to see the state budget be when it is completed.

Kerrey said he intended to talk to several state lawmakers to get their ideas on how the state budget can be restrained.

One outgrowth of the Reagan farm policy, Kerrey said, may be the need to spend more state money on economic development, and to target the effort to rural communities. Farm families are likely to need more off-farm work to survive financially, he said.

Kerrey said he prefers state government to direct more of its effort in helping farmers to economic development rather than by offering direct credit, a function he said is better left to the federal government and private lenders.

"It's not likely we're going to be able to do much in the way of credit," he said.

Meanwhile, the Appropriations Committee last week began a series of public hearings on its preliminary state budget. Based on information presented at the hearings, the committee will develop state budget bills for submission in April to the full Legislature.

Attorney General Robert Spire, who was sworn in on Friday, has a net personal worth of nearly $2 million, according to information filed with the Nebraska Accountability and Disclosure Commission.

In filing out the required statement of financial interests, Spire went far beyond the legal disclosure requirements to include detailed information about his personal finances.

"There is a proper balance between the public's right to know and a public official's right to privacy," Spire wrote in an addendum to the agency's disclosure forms.

"Because of the particular circumstances related to the office of Attorney General at this time, I believe full disclosure is needed."

On Jan. 4, Governor Bob Kerrey appointed Spire to replace Paul Douglas, who resigned following his conviction in December on a charge of felon perjury for lying to a legislative committee about his business dealings.

Spire listed total assets of $2,017,254, against total liabilities of $69,560.

Stock in the Ball Corporation of Muncie, Ind., represents nearly half of Spire's assets. His 20,000 shares of common stock in the glass jar manufacturing firm are worth $842,500, according to the net worth statement.

Spire, who terminated his relationship with his old law firm, also owns farm land in Otoe County that is worth an estimated $220,000.

Good job, teams

The Wayne High School Blue Devils will have played their first tournament game at state in Lincoln's Bob Devaney-Center before readers in the rural routes receive this newspaper and read this editorial.

Whatever the outcome, Head Coach Bob Uhing and his assistants Ron Carnes and Duane Blomenkamp and the entire Blue Devil basketball team should be commended for a remarkable season.

Before the season began the Wayne Blue Devils had been ranked at the top in Class B. That ended abruptly when in the first game they were defeated soundly by a Blair team.

They rebounded from the loss and rolled up 10 victories in a row before being narrowly defeated by an outstanding West Point team.

That was the end of their losses for the season as the Blue Devils picked up five more regular season wins and three district wins (including a two-point win over West Point).

Now they are at state. There are many distractions — such as the media hype which goes along with the success of a team. Playing a morning game isn't going to make things any easier for the Blue Devils playing Elkhorn Mount Michael.

"We'll play it one game at a time, with the goal of improving every game," Uhing said in the basketball preseason report.

That's what they will be doing at the state tournament. Playing one game at a time because they can't afford to look ahead.

It has been 21 years since a team from Wayne has gone to the high school state basketball tournament. The enthusiasm has enthralled not only the student body but also the faculty, administration, alumni and other Blue Devil followers.

What is even more enticing about the whole situation is that it comes at a time when people are sick of winter and need something else to occupy their minds.

To the team and coaches, it has been a good season already and anything you can add to it enhances it even more.

And to the students, we hope the spirit and challenge and enthusiasm carries on through areas of academics, as well as athletics. An all-state selection in band or chorus is just as prestigious to those not competing in sports as a championship trophy is to a state basketball championship trophy.

Give it your best shot Blue Devils. That's all we can expect as we root you on in the state tournament.

Turning the tables now to the recent success of Wayne State College basketball, the Wildcats have put together a good season. Coach Rick Weaver and his staff have done an outstanding job in bringing the "Cats on the doorstep to the nationals in Kansas. Nobody expected that — except maybe Weaver and his team.

And the team did this against some tough odds — the greatest being notification that Weaver would be coaching his last season at Wayne State College, and that notice coming in the midst of the regular season.

Weaver could have not cared about the remainder of the season. But he wanted the best for his team. He has worked hard, giving 100 percent or more and the net result was a win over top ranked teams such as Washburn and Emporia and now a possible bid to the national tournament.

He has accepted a head coaching position at Baker University in Kansas next year.

Lucky Baker University. Our loss is their gain. They are getting a good man for the job.

Washington trip makes media impact

I've just returned from Washington as part of a delegation from the Nebraska Legislature. Our goals included informing the Reagan Administration, Congress, and the national media of the very real crisis that midwestern agriculture has had thrust upon it.

Dozens of cameras and notepads from national and regional media followed us every step of the way. That certainly helped us in our quest to make some very concrete arguments to representatives of the Administration and Congress.

by Sen. Gerald Conway

I was somewhat disappointed by the lack of interest we found from the Administration. Many of us joined together one night for a walk to the White House where we tried to deliver a letter requesting the President to meet with us and discuss the crisis. We were informed by the gate guards that the White House did not accept letters on Sunday. The President refused to meet with the delegation (legislative representatives from over 15 farm states) and stated more than once "there will be no ball-out for agriculture." He spoke repeatedly of putting agriculture into a free market, but gave us no indication of how a smooth transition is to be achieved.

The highest level response we could get was a meeting by a few members with Vice-President Bush who seemed to express surprise at most of the information presented to him. We also met with Secretary of Agriculture John Block, Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole and a list of Under-Secretaries. The dominant message from these people was that the Administration had no idea of what was going to do. Given this firm stance and knowing the Administration is checked by Congress we then concentrated on the House and Senate Members.

In the House and Senate we received a much more helpful reception. Members of Congress generally appreciated the clarity and immediacy that we brought to the crisis. Many remarked that they had never before seen such a grassroots show of force. As elected representatives, they recognized the fact that each state representative was speaking on behalf of thousands of constituents from home districts. Collectively we presented hard, urgent facts with a calm, assertive voice.

We made our presence known in a variety of forums: As the representatives of rural areas and small towns in Nebraska, we testified at committee hearings, talked with national media and made our case to the nation.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, the Joint Economic Committee, the D.C. representative, the House Appropriations Committee, and the USDA were just some of the people whom we informed about what was happening to the Nebraska agricultural economy and what they need to do about it. They, in some cases, immediately responded to the need to put pressure on administrative offices to better serve the agricultural communities with existing programs.

Now that I'm home, and have thought about the time we spent there, the people we talked to and the debates we caused, I feel good about what we were able to accomplish.

The miles between us were erased as we stood right in front of the politicians and the press and told them the truth about the crisis in Nebraska and the impact upon society if not put into check. And they listened. So did the rest of America.

Farm credit bill gets passed

Farm credit bills pass house and senate

During the last week of February, the House of Representatives passed an emergency farm credit bill by a vote of 318-103. That bill, which contains many provisions that are the same as or similar to an emergency farm credit bill I introduced earlier, would provide $3 billion in additional funds for loan guarantees, ease terms for direct loans and loan guarantees, and force a speedup in the processing of applications by requiring the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) to respond to a lender's application for approval of a loan guarantee.

congressman doug bereuter

I was successful in amending that bill on the floor to force the FmHA to act within 25 days on applications from agricultural lenders for approved lender status. I told my colleagues in the House that because this is the time of year that farmers, ranchers and agricultural producers renew their loans with their lenders, and because the Spring planting season will soon be upon us, it is imperative that we in Congress face the urgency and immediacy of the credit problem facing rural America. We must force the Department of Agriculture to move with all possible speed when applications are received.

I introduced another amendment that would have required borrowers obtaining new FmHA guaranteed operating loans to use their existing lenders, unless the lender had failed, closed, or been liquidated. It also required the lenders to agree to enter into agreements with borrowers to provide sufficient credit under the program for five years, if the borrower continued to operate the farm or ranch for five years.

This amendment seemed absolutely essential if we are to avoid creating additional service problems for the Federal Farm Credit System and a nightmare of additional paperwork caused by bank shopping. To move quickly with assistance, we must be sure that the approved lender program works and that banks are motivated and prepared to participate. That is the only way to meet the massive debt restructuring needs in the short time available and prevent these same operating loan default problems from recurring next year.

Unfortunately that amendment was not adopted. Its opponents had not yet perceived the problems in a community where the bank fails, and they have not grasped the difficulties that are created when borrowers abandon the Production Credit Association and the Federal Land Bank for commercial institutions with lower guaranteed loan rates, as was the case in the bankrupt Spokane District of the Federal Land Bank System.

The Senate bill, which passed by a vote of 50-48, provided $1.8 billion additional in loan guarantees. It also has $100 million which would provide for interest rate buy-downs by the Federal government on Federally insured guarantees for financially strapped farmers. Otherwise, it is essentially the same as the House passed bill.

Appropriations bills could help farmers

Also, the House passed an Urgent Supplemental Appropriation that would earmark $1 billion in Federal loan guarantees for farmers so in debt that they would not qualify for the Administration's debt restructuring program. The bill includes a $17 million sum for extra personnel to staff FmHA offices that are dealing with a backlog of loan applications.

An African Famine Relief Appropriations bill passed on the same day included in Food for Peace funds $80 million for commodities to be supplied from the existing Commodity Credit Corporation inventories, or to be purchased by CCC from private stocks. In addition to that $480 million, there is included $120 million for the direct sale of CCC commodities existing in the inventory or to be purchased from private stocks.

political notes

Nation

Senator Ed Zorinski has introduced legislation that permits retiring railroad workers to keep part-time jobs and still receive their federal railroad pensions. Current law required railroad workers to give up all part-time employment before they can begin receiving retirement benefits. He termed that requirement an "injustice" since most other government and private pension plans ban part-time work only in the employee's former field of industry.

The Nebraska senator termed the cost of his bill "minimal" since it does not deal with other specifications for receiving railroad retirement benefits, such as age.

State

Sallie Folsom, National Republican Committee woman, told a hearing of the Senate Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee, "Nebraska has a voter registration system that works."

Two of the bills she addressed will permit election day registration while the others permit registration by mail.

"Seventy-four percent of Nebraskans voted last November — more than 20 points higher than the national average," Folsom said.

"Let's not increase the election day administrative burdens on clerks. In Minneapolis, Minn., where election day registration is legal, 47 percent of election day registrants voted in the wrong ward and precinct. When you consider that in Nebraska each resident has his or her own school district, hospital district, natural resource district, education service unit and in some cases different legislative districts in one precinct, the chance for error greatly increases," she said.

Potential for vote fraud is great and the probability of detection is extremely small, she said.

Folsom said registration by mail hasn't improved voter turnout.

"Although voter registration by mail was originally heralded as a means of increasing voter turnout, the 1976 election did not confirm those expectations," she said.

"In fact, those states that introduced or greatly expanded voter registration by mail between 1972 and 1976 suffered a decline in voter turnout of two percentage points."

Death penalty an expression for revenge, need to seek better ways to prevent crime

Letter to the editor:

A recent letter to the editor of The Wayne Herald was critical of Senator Conway's vote to advance the bill abolishing Nebraska's death penalty (LB70). Senator Conway was quoted as saying, "I see no use for the death penalty other than revenge."

The writer of the letter implied that the death penalty does serve a useful purpose: protection of the innocent citizen from violent crime. He referred to the case of Paul Krider, a convicted murderer who recently escaped from the penitentiary and killed his wife (and later himself).

Unfortunately, the death penalty would not have protected Mrs. Krider nor does it protect the rest of us. According to an article by David Bruch entitled "Decisions of Death" which appeared in the Dec. 12, 1983 issue of The New Republic, out of the approximately 33,526 convicted murderers in this country, only 1,163 were sentenced to death. The presence of a death penalty on the books, therefore, does not mean that every convicted murderer will receive a death sentence. Mr. Krider did not receive a death sentence. Only a very tiny — and extremely arbitrary — fraction of convicted murderers do. There are currently 12 people in the Nebraska State Penitentiary, compared with 167 people serving 1st and 2nd degree murder life sentences.

The reality is that most convicted 1st degree murderers are given a life sentence, and serve an average of 18-20 years before parole. Those receiving 2nd degree life sentences serve an average of 12-14 years. LB 70 actually stiffens the sentence for 1st degree murder, by establishing a mandatory 30 year sentence with no parole.

It could be argued that all persons convicted of murder ought to be given death sentences. Moral questions about executing over 30,000 people aside, this would not be feasible because of the astronomical cost. Death sentences cost more than $20,000,000 per person (for trial, appeal, housing on death row and execution) as compared with $300,000 - $700,000 to maintain a prisoner for 30 years. But even if we did somehow rid our society of all convicted murderers, this would offer us little protection because convicted armed robbers are much, much more likely statistically to commit future murders than any murderer is to repeat his crime.

A reasoned approach to LB 70 yields the conclusion that it provides the citizens of Nebraska with better protection from crime than does the death penalty. Mr. Conway is right — the death penalty is an expression of revenge. Let's not waste our time and energy crying out for vengeance, when we ought to be looking for better ways to prevent crime.

Sincerely,
Joan Sudman Shapiro

The Wayne Herald, Thursday, March 7, 1985

Early speaking

Pops concert slated at Winside

Winside High School music students will present their annual pops concert on Tuesday, March 12. The public is invited to attend the free program at 7:30 p.m. in the elementary multipurpose room.

Performing will be members of the concert band, stage band, choir, girls glee and swing choir.

Pancake breakfast in Allen

Allen Music Boosters will serve a pancake breakfast on Sunday, March 10 from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the school auditorium. Cost of the meal, which includes pancakes, French toast, sausage, eggs and drink, is $2.50 for persons 16 years of age and older, and $1.25 for ages five to 15. Children four years of age and younger will be admitted free.

Proceeds from the event will be used for a band trip to Rapid City, S. D. in May.

Town Twirlers dance in Laurel

The Town Twirlers Square Dance Club will meet March 17 in the Laurel city auditorium. Dean Dederman of Norfolk will call, and hosts are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Fiscus of Laurel and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fork of Carroll.

The club met in Laurel March 3 with Jerry Juncé of Carroll calling. Morris Jacobsen, Mrs. Lavern Bauermeister, Chuck Keizer and Mrs. Martha Walton served.

Schuyler plans 'Oakfest'

The Schuyler Arts Council will host its third annual "Oakfest '85" juried art show and sale on Sunday, March 24 at the Oak Ballroom.

The show and sale of original art will begin at 10 a.m. and continue through 5 p.m. Greenblatt and Seay, strolling stringed musicians, will perform from 1 to 4 p.m. The event is free and open to the public.

An innovation to this year's "Oakfest" will be demonstrations by area folk artists including Diana Hollman, Lincoln, wheat weaving; Frank Hoppe, Rogers, decoy carving; Phyllis Klirna, Lincoln, quilting; Jack Kroeger, Schuyler, stained glass; and Barbara Pokorny, basket weaving.

Program on USSR and China

Jean Benback was hostess for the March 4 meeting of Acme Club. Fourteen members answered roll call by telling which foreign country they would like to visit.

Helen James presented the program on her visit to the USSR and China.

Next meeting will be a 12:30 p.m. luncheon on March 18 at The Lumber Co. Hatfield Hall is in charge of the program.

Duplicate bridge played

A. C. Butler and Budd Bornhoff Sr. took first place with 43 points in the March 3 duplicate bridge play at the Wayne Woman's Club room.

In second place were Dee Stollenberg and Anne Keating with 39 1/2 points, followed by Dan Monson and Connie Decker with 39 match points. Bob Johnson and Jack Rohrbeg beat four other teams with 38 points.

Future games are scheduled March 17 and 31 at 7 p.m. in the Woman's Club room.

Game fees during February were donated to the Heart Fund. During March, game fees will go to the American Cancer Society on behalf of the Wayne Woman's Club.

Women meet at St. Paul's

President Evie Schock welcomed the 26 members attending the Feb. 24 meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran Church women. Hostesses were Loretta Baier and Elaine Draghu.

Reports were given by various committees, including a request by the Altar Guild for donations of lilies for Easter Sunday.

Immanuel Medical Center sent a "needs list" for 1985, and members were asked to furnish material for sewing kits or contribute to the fund.

It was announced that Service Group Two served a meal for St. Olaf band members who performed at Wayne State College. The Northeast District Assembly meeting is scheduled April 18 in Norfolk.

The program, entitled "This Is My Story," was presented by Grace Melton, Marilyn Carhart and Evie Schock. Members heard faith histories from a number of older persons.

Next meeting will be a birthday party on March 27 at 2 p.m. The Altar Guild will have the program, and hostesses will be members of Service Group Two.

Women unite for Day of Prayer

MANJIT JOHAR of WAYNE presents the program during World Day of Prayer services held Friday afternoon at Redeemer Lutheran Church. Mrs. Johar, a native of India, spoke on the theme "Peace Through Prayer and Action." She told the nearly 100 women attending the event that "all religions believe that people love God" and "we should give our Christian love not just at Christmastime, but all year through." World Day of Prayer is sponsored by Church Women United. This year's service was written by Christian women of India. The next meeting of Church Women United will be May Fellowship Day on May 3 at 9:30 a.m. at the United Presbyterian Church.

Bottgers observe 40th year with reception in Wayne

The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Bottger of Wakefield was observed Sunday, March 3 with an open house reception in the Wayne Woman's Club room.

Hosting the event were their daughter and family, Edith and Jerry Anderson, Lori, Gary, Mindy and Kassi of Wakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henschke, also of Wakefield.

Gary and Mindy Anderson arranged gifts and registered the 110 guests who attended from Randolph, Fremont, South Sioux City, Tekamah, Wayne, Pender, Emerson and Wakefield.

Flowers were Lynelle Benschhof of Wayne, flower girl.

The couple's wedding 40 years ago was in the home of Mrs. Ernest White of Randolph sang two songs, "Blue Skirt Waltz" and "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver."

The program closed with prayer by the Rev. Ray Greenstodt. Entertaining with accordion music during the afternoon program and the dinner was Ervin Schmidt of Pender.

THE ANNIVERSARY cake was baked by Mrs. Kenneth Thomsen of Wakefield and decorated in colors of ruby and white. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Paul Henschke of Wakefield and Mrs. Corky Bolger of Tekamah.

Mrs. Ernest White of Randolph poured, and Lori Anderson of Wakefield served punch. Waitresses were Elaine Peters of Dixon and Viola Meyer of Wayne. Assisting in the kitchen were Rose Halvorson, Fern Bjorklund, Iris Larson and Florence Geewe.

BOTTGERS were married March 4, 1945 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, rural Wakefield.

They resided the first year on a farm west of Wayne before moving to their present farm home south of Wakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Luis Sikyang of Wayne were co-hosts for a supper for 40 guests in the Anderson home following the afternoon reception.

Methodist church plans special musical program

A service with Wilbur Sayles, host of the 30-minute HymnTime Radio Programs, will be presented Sunday evening, March 10 at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

The Rev. Keith Johnson said the public is invited to attend the special program at 7:30 p.m.

First United Methodist Church is located on the corners of 6th and Main Sts.

Wilbur Sayles

SAYLES' LAY Music Mission is a program of the spoken word combined with the music of the Elkavox, a instrument played like an accordion but with the sound of both the accordion and organ combined.

Since April 1968, Sayles' HymnTime Radio Programs have been carried on a network of stations from coast to coast.

He receives and accepts invitations from all church denominations and groups.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a column underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Students and advertising

Students in advertising classes at Wayne State College (WSC) had a chance to put their efforts into practice.

Members of the class "Principles of Advertising" taught by Jutu Kohhapa, assistant professor of social sciences, used a class project to benefit the community of Wayne.

Wayne Chamber of Commerce manager, Anne Svoboda, said, "Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) offered Communities in Nebraska which utilized NPPD a chance to advertise in an industrial magazine. The magazine 'Area Development' is geared for site planners, industrial managers and industrial realtors. Wayne has the conditions for an industry, so we took them up on the offer."

Svoboda said most communities have their own promotional agency, but Wayne has no specific slogan, nor pre-planned promotion, so the project was then turned over to students in advertising classes at WSC. Two sections of the advertising class were divided into teams, which met and decided on artwork copy or words in the ad and a theme.

The ad was made to attract industry to Wayne. Svoboda met with Kohhapa to choose the best ad of the six groups, then went to Wayne Industries for approval.

The advertisement, which was a combination of two winning teams, will appear in the April edition of "Area Development."

Cable project research at WSC

By Mary Beth Krikey WSC Student

"Cable Television Advertising for Small Businesses" was the title of a project that took Wayne State College (WSC) student Rick Small and Roy Cook, a Ricks instructor, to San Diego, Calif. last month.

Small, of Norfolk, said this came about after a Small Business Institute (SBI) case he was working on needed more research. The SBI office in Wayne, located at the college, gives students a chance to have hands-on experience with local small businesses who need help with their businesses, said Cook.

A Norfolk businessman asked Small about the feasibility of advertising on cable television. Small said he researched the idea and found it was "virgin territory," and not much had been written on the topic at all. Small said Cook became interested after he too found little information on cable television advertising for small businesses.

The paper was submitted after much research, Small said, to the SBI and was published. The paper qualified to be presented at the San Diego convention for Small Business Institute Directors.

Small said the paper can now be used by directors of SBI at colleges and universities to help them solve their own problems with small businesses, such as advertising. Small said he and Cook met several people at the convention who were interested in their project, or had similar experiences and could relate some ideas.

Continued research will be done, Small said, and he hopes to capitalize on some of the work. Small, a non-traditional student at WSC said he will graduate in May and would like to start his own business or work with one.

Bechen presents senior recital

Gene Bechen, son of Mr. and Mrs. LaDean Bechen of Schleswig, Iowa, will present his senior recital in Ley Theatre in Brandenburg Education building Tuesday, March 12 at 8 p.m.

The recital is free and open to the public.

In recognition of the 300th anniversary of the births of Baroque composers J.S. Bach and G.F. Handel, Bechen will begin his program with arias by Bach and will climax his program with a well-known baritone aria from Handel's Messiah, "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

Trumpeter Keith Kruger, Wakefield, will join Bechen for this aria. Bechen's program will also consist of an aria by Verdi, a group of German songs and a group of contemporary songs in English. Debbie Jacobsen, Lyons, will be a guest performer at the recital.

Bechen has been active in the WSC music department as a performer and conductor and has participated in all of the performing groups for the past four years. He has conducted bands such as the WSC marching band, pep band, concert band and has appeared as a guest conductor with the Northeast Nebraska Symphony.

He has been studying voice privately for four years. Bechen is president of the Gamma-Delta chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary fraternity for college bandsmen, a member of MENC (Music Educator's National Conference) and is manager of the WSC Madrigal singers.

KSC next in line

Cats on NAIA tourney doorstep after 65-51 win over Doane

The Wayne State Wildcats went in search of their first trip to the NAIA national tournament in Kansas City since the 1969-70 season last night (Wednesday) when they traveled to Kearney to battle with the Antelopes in the final NAIA District 11 playoff game.

Head Coach Rick Weaver felt his team was a heavy underdog going into the game at Cushing Coliseum, but looked forward to the opportunity of playing for a trip to the national tournament. "It puts a little life in the District 11 with Kearney and Hastings being in the finals for so many years."

WSC EARNED THE berth against Kearney State after upending the Doane Tigers on their home floor Saturday night, 65-51. The win gave the Wildcats a 16-15 record going into the fight with Kearney.

The Lopers are no strangers to the final round game, having represented the District 11 annually for the past eight years and claimed seven District 11 titles. KSC defeated Midland College 104-83 in Kearney on Saturday night.

Kearney features a potent scoring attack, with four players averaging in double figures, including Jon Bergmeier, 20.3 points; Brian Anderson, 12.9 points; Dana Falter, 11.1 points; and Kip Kircher, 11.0 points. Kircher also led the team in rebounding with an average of 7.6 boards per game.

The two state schools met twice during the regular season, with the Antelopes coming from behind to win 76-68 at Wayne and taking a 103-88 victory on their home court.

In WSC's last NAIA tournament appearance, the Wildcats were defeated in the first round by Guilford College of Greensboro, N.C., 90-73. The Cats had also fallen in opening round games the previous two years. The Wildcats were coached by Dave Gunther, who now heads the program at the University of North Dakota.

THE WILDCATS capitalized on a frigid shooting performance by Doane in the first half to build a substantial 25-15 halftime lead and held on for a 65-51 win over the Tigers in Crite.

The Tigers' shooting was non-existent from the perimeter in the first half, as they hit just one of 19 shots from the outside and 7 of 26 attempts overall. WSC fared much better from the field, netting 11 of 21 shots for two buckets and a free throw to clip the WSC lead to seven points, 38-31, with 11:28 in the game.

The Wildcats maintained their margin and leading 44-37, again went into their four corner offense with five minutes left to play.

DOANE WAS FORCED to foul in order to make a run at the WSC lead, but WSC converted an eight of nine free throws in the last three minutes to preserve their lead and the win. The Cats final two points came off a slam dunk by senior-guard Jimmy Gooch at the buzzer.

Tracy Penn came back off a high injury to head up WSC's scoring with 15 points. Jimmy Gooch and Vince Tillo added 13 points each to also hit the double figure mark.

Brian Hoffman led the Doane cause with a game-high 25 points, 12 of those coming in the first half.

Rebounding chores were handled by Calvin Sprew with 10 boards, along with Tracy Penn with eight rebounds and Gooch and senior Doug Vieselmeyer with four each. As a team, WSC held a 32 to 25 advantage on the boards.

It was shooting percentages from the floor that ended up being the key difference in the game. WSC carded a 61 percent mark on 25 of 41 shots on the night, while Doane came back in the second half to hit 16 of 35 shots and improve their overall shooting performance to 37.7 percent.

Weaver accepts coaching job

Wildcat cage coach Rick Weaver, who will end his coaching career at WSC at the end of this season, has been named the new head men's basketball coach at Baker University in Baldwin City, Kan.

Baker University, with approximately 800 students, is a member of the NAIA District 10, and participates in the Heart of America conference. Other schools within the conference include William Jewell, Missouri Valley, Graceland, Mid-America Nazarene, Tarkenton, Central Methodist and Culver-Stockton.

At WSC, Weaver currently holds a 68-101 record in five years at the helm of the Wildcat program.

52.4 percent

A bucket by Tracy Penn put the Wildcats up by 10 points, 23-13 with 3:30 in the opening half. WSC held onto that margin when they went to their four corner stall game and junior Calvin Sprew hit a baseline jumper from eight feet with six seconds left.

Three straight baskets by John Thomsen, Vince Tillo and Jimmy Gooch increased the Wildcats lead to 14 points, 35-21. Doane then came alive from the floor and poured in a

Wayne State baseball drops three season opening games in Oklahoma

The Wayne State baseball team opened the 1985 season with a 6-3 loss to Phillips University in Enid, Okla. on Sunday.

Phillips came up with three first inning runs on a pair of hits coupled with Wildcat defensive miscues. The Wildcats settled down and played even ball with Phillips in the final six innings.

Senior catcher Jeff Scharn drove in two of WSC's three runs and sophomore first baseman Mike Hoffart logged the other Wildcat score.

Junior pitcher Dave Lang, in his first appearance for WSC, took the loss on the mound and allowed Phillips six runs on six hits.

The second game of the doubleheader scheduled for Sunday was cancelled due to rain.

THE WILDCATS dropped a pair of games to Oklahoma Baptist in Shawnee on Tuesday. WSC fell short in a battle of the bats in the first game, losing a 17-13 decision to the Bison, and were downed 6-5 in the second game of the doubleheader.

WSC cracked the bats for 15 hits in the opening loss to Oklahoma Baptist, including homers by seniors Gregg Cruickshank and Jeff Scharn. The Bison countered the Wildcat offensive attack with 10 hits to score 17 runs, while committing no errors.

Senior Pete Saccone led the way in hitting with a pair of doubles and a single, along with Cruickshank who added a pair of single base hits to his home run. Pole Miller, a senior outfielder, notched a double and single in his trips to the plate, and sophomore Mike Hoffart cracked out a triple and single base hit in the game. Completing the list were senior Jeff Strain and freshman Dale Clayton, each with a pair of singles.

Junior pitcher Mark Priegnitz and relief pitcher Dennis Vollmer were on the mound in the game for the Wildcats.

WSC WAS UNABLE to hold off a scoring spree by Oklahoma Baptist in the bottom of the third inning, as the Bison scored all six of their runs to earn the 6-3 decision.

Jeff Scharn ripped a home run for the only extra base hit for Wayne State in the game. Junior pitcher Jeff Rothrock took the loss for Wayne.

Lenny Klaver's Wildcats were scheduled to continue their southern swing with a second doubleheader against Oklahoma Baptist yesterday (Wednesday). Other games on the trip include a twin bill with Cameron University of Lawton, Okla., today (Thursday) and games with Southeastern Oklahoma in Durant on Friday. The Cats will wind up with a doubleheader at Austin College in Sherman, Texas on Saturday.

Lady Wildcats log split with NCAA Creighton in opener

With Nebraska's unpredictable weather, it's not often that a coach expects to get in a softball doubleheader on the second day of March.

But, despite a breeze that kept the wind chill at a winter-like level, Wayne State's Lady Wildcats made their 1985 season debut on Saturday against NCAA Division I foe Creighton University, splitting a pair of games played in Wayne.

The Lady Wildcats, under the guidance of first year Coach Marilyn Strate, fell to the Lady Bluejays 4-2 in the opening game, but bounced back to win by a similar score in the second game of the twinbill.

"I was really happy to get a split with Creighton," said Strate. "The outcome was excellent...things went better than I had hoped. Our pitchers did a fine job and defensively we ended up with less errors than Creighton did."

IN THE AFTERNOON'S first game, the opener for both squads, the Lady Jays rallied with three runs in the top of the sixth inning to elipse a 1-0 WSC lead to take control of the game. Each team added a single run in the final Inning of the game.

Wayne's initial run came in the bottom of the fourth Inning, when junior catcher Teresa Durbala, who received a base on balls, crossed home plate on a hit to the shortstop by first baseman Suzy Todd.

Creighton used a trio of singles in the sixth Inning to set up their scoring. Sophomore Mary Lingelbach brought in Wayne's second run of the game in the bottom of the seventh when Tomasziewicz fired out a triple for the game's only extra base hit with two outs.

Senior pitcher Lauri Owens took the loss on the mound for the Lady Wildcats, striking out two batters and giving up one walk.

Marina Watson was the winning pitcher for Creighton.

A THREE RUN rally by the Lady Wildcats in the bottom of the fifth Inning turned around a 2-1 Creighton-lead in the second game of the afternoon.

The Lady Jays came up with two runs in the top of the second Inning, but WSC cut the lead to one point when Suzy Todd scored on a single by Mary Lingelbach with two out in the bottom of the same Inning.

Wayne State claimed the lead in the fifth Inning when centerfielder Michelle Blomberg reached first on an error by the Creighton pitcher. The Lady Cats' next batters, Carmen Doeschot and Tomasziewicz, each received a base on balls to load the bases with one out.

Blomberg came home on a sacrifice fly by Teresa Durbala and a costly error by the Lady Jays' third baseman allowed Doeschot and Tomasziewicz to get home and boost the WSC lead to 4-2.

Mary Lingelbach pitched in the win for Wayne State, giving up two runs on five hits. Jody Schwartz took the loss for the Lady Jays.

"Our hitters made really good contact with the ball...we were successful with our bunting, and proved to be quicker on base running than we had thought," said Strate. Strate made some changes in positions prior to the start of the games, moving Suzy Todd to first base and Tomasziewicz to left field.

"The team adapted well to changes, our outfield really covered ground well and took away some Creighton hits by covering that well," Strate commented. "Our newcomers are meshing well with the returning players at this early point in the season."

The Lady Cats are currently on their annual southern trip and were scheduled for a doubleheader with Central State of Oklahoma yesterday (Wednesday) and a scrimmage with Oklahoma Baptist today (Thursday). The remainder of the trip includes the Central States Tourney Friday and Saturday, March 8-9.

Playing heavy against the hoopers

IT WAS FUN AND GAMES with a serious undertone Saturday night as Wakefield residents took on the KCAU Channel 9 Heavy Hoopers in a benefit basketball game. A capacity crowd filled the school gymnasium for the game which raised $1,327. Proceeds will go to the Farm Crisis Committee and the Wakefield "W" Club. Pictured along the sidelines in the top left photo are, from left, Bill Kinney, coach of the Southside Farmers, along with assistant managers and waterboys Larry Sampson and Dean Boeckenhauer. Number 8 Steve Greve, top right photo, takes a rest following the quarter which saw the Southside Farmers pitted against the Heavy Hoopers. In the bottom right photo, from left, Vicki Foote, Deb Foote and Ver-

You haven't heard me complain about the weather all winter, and I'm not complaining now. All I had to do was watch TV this morning and see people struggling to clear walks and get to work. The memories are too vivid. I don't know how we escaped, but I'll take the rain.

Our house is situated so that we never know there is a north wind; but, wow, the other directions! Today, from the west, it's creeping under the kitchen door and keeping the porch very cool.

4-H calves were weighed in Saturday morning. The annual decision-making took place: "eye-balling" the calves and guessing how they will gain or what the judge will want.

The new baby calves have begun arriving, so we're hoping for a return to the dry spring weather we were enjoying.

Another annual event heralding the approaching of spring is the meeting of mothers of junior class members to plan the prom meal. Larger schools have these meals catered; thus missing out on all the planning and cooking. Actually, it really is fun. There were some "old pros" in this group, and we made short work of the planning. Now it's up to the kids to put up the crepe paper, hire the band and transform the gym into a party room.

Tomorrow, March 5th, is Teacher Recognition Day in Nebraska. Wish I could send roses, but this paragraph in the Wayne paper will have to do. Maybe I can get in some hugs at the school open house tonight. I've had the opportunity to meet many fine teachers in this area, and I salute you all.

THERE ARE some definite disadvantages to middle age. One is, now that the kids are finally sleeping in, you seem to have lost the ability. Your eyes pop open at the usual time, and your back aches any way, so you get up, even on Saturday. Then, after lunch, when you want to read the paper, you can't keep your eyes open. Heck, I used to read under the covers with a flashlight until 2:00 in the morning. Now I can't get past the 10 o'clock news.

A lot of people have written a lot of letters to elected officials the past six months. Most of the time, all they accomplish is a means of ventilation. Two things have occurred recently that have given me hope that they do some good.

The first was that ridiculous IRS ruling about deducting pickup miles and keeping a log to verify which were actually business-related. Congress received so much mail on this subject, the ruling was rescinded. Some enterprising Congressional aide should compile and publish the letters; they make entertaining reading.

The other requirement that has at least been put on hold is a new three-page monthly report form we were to use in Home Health to summarize our patients for Medicare. We are now doing a monthly one-page medical information form. Reviewers read them and use them to determine if our visits were justified, and reimbursable.

As you can imagine, these require a lot of time, but I can understand their necessity.

BUT THE NEW three-page version, caused a great hue and cry, and two days before they were to be implemented, we received a call saying they would not be used.

I have a tiny bit of faith restored in the democratic process! But the gal who dreamed these up deserves Proxmire's Golden Fleece Award. There was a lot of time involved in developing the form, and a lot of money used to print them for all agencies in the country.

Ann Wilkowski has given me a Murphy's Law desk calendar. Remember Murphy? "If anything can go wrong, it will?" Each one of the 365 pages has more of these, like "Life can only be understood backward, but it must be lived forward," and Murphy's law of government. "If anything can go wrong, it will do so in triplicate."

I kind of like Foster's Law. "The only people who find what they are looking for in life are the fault-finders." And my final thought for the day, from another calendar on my desk, "If you can see some good in everybody, nearly everybody will see some good in you."

Law draws fire

An Internal Revenue Service requirement to require extensive record-keeping of mileage for income tax deductions once again drew fire from Nebraska First District Congressman Doug Bereuter.

Bereuter, among more than 200 members of the House of Representatives who have cosponsored repeal legislation, signed a letter Friday urging the House Ways and Means Committee to report a repeal bill to the floor for consideration by the full House.

The letter, authored by Representatives Thomas Luken (D-Ohio) and Buddy Roemer (D-La.), said, "The outcry from our constituents has been as loud and prolonged as on any tax issues."

The requirement would make extensive record-keeping mandatory for farmers and small businessmen so that they could deduct mileage on vehicles used for business purposes. Bereuter said the requirement was particularly unrealistic for farmers. "They would have to log every trip they make in their pickup trucks. Can you imagine the number of times a farmer runs into town for supplies; the trips he makes to check his crops and to feed livestock? The record-keeping would make his day unproductive."

Bereuter and his colleagues acknowledged that IRS has issues revised regulations to alleviate the impact of the regulation. The revisions don't go far enough, the Congressmen said.

"The Commission has attempted to choose among different groups in the taxpayer public and set standards for substantiation accordingly. This is a hit and miss approach that is guaranteed to result in inequities. A reasonable standard should be made to apply across the board, treating taxpayers equally."

The letter, which is to be delivered to the Ways and Means Committee the week of March 4 notes that the requirement would increase revenues by an estimated $100 million for the United States treasury. "It is conservatively estimated that the cost to the consumer is at least $1 billion. That is an incredible price to pay for the relatively minuscule gain in revenue."

More than 60 House members are expected to sign the letter.

Gardening clinic cancelled

The Home Gardening Clinic scheduled for the afternoon of March 7th at the Northeast Research and Extension Center has been cancelled.

Gardeners are invited to visit their local County Extension Office to review the list of gardening bulletins available to them at little or no cost.

Also, any local organization can schedule an alternate program featuring videotapes, extension publications, and local agents. Contact Stan Starling, Dixon County Extension Agent, at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, Concord or call 584-2234 for scheduling.

Irrigation management meeting

An irrigation management meeting will be held Wednesday, March 13, at 10 a.m. at the ASCE meeting room in Wayne, announced Don C. Spitzer, Wayne County Agent.

Farmers who irrigate have a high investment which requires strong management and we are going to discuss some of these management techniques at our March 13 meeting explains Spitzer.

Extension specialists will discuss when to irrigate and how much; the right plant population and weed control; how much fertilizer and best methods of applying fertilizer. These are just a few of the management techniques that will be discussed.

4-H crops project

4-H members who love tilling the soil may be interested in winning yields in the 1984 crop production contest sponsored by the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association. Stan Starling, Dixon County Extension agent, reports that 106 4-H and FFA youth completed the contest. Plaques, certificates and ribbons were provided by association members including Nebraska Corn, Sorghum, Soybean and Wheat boards.

Purple ribbon yields ranged from 177.1 to 209 bushels per acre of irrigated corn, 99.7 to 147 for dryland corn, 124.5 to 140.6 for irrigated sorghum, 83.9 to 131.9 for dryland sorghum, 62 to 63.1 for irrigated soybeans, 47.4 to 56.8 for dryland soybeans, and 81.4 for the one purple award for wheat.

Contestants submit measured yields for small areas of the field. Starling relates.

Extension crop clinic

A crop production update clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday, March 18, at the Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord, reports Stan Starling, Dixon County Extension Agent. In addition to Starling, Extension Agronomists Charles Shaprio and Russ Moomaw will present materials useful for the 1985 season and answer producers' questions.

The emphasis will be on efficient crop production using a systems approach and will include proper fertilizer placement, timing of fertilization, the use of rotations for soil fertility and weed control, winning herbicide combinations, crop variety test results and recommended varieties for 1985 planting. No reservations are necessary. Mark your calendar for March 18th and make plans to attend, Starling invites.

Queen choices needed

The Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association will select a queen to reign over their organization at the annual state convention to be held in Kearney, Nebraska this fall. The outstanding young "Miss" that will be crowned queen will assume the position now held by Miss Kim Hall of Plainville. Her duties will include representation of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association at the major state events and promotion of the red meat industry.

A local runoff will be held to select the state candidate from the Northeast Livestock Feeders Association. Interested girls can obtain additional information and entry blanks from Betty Lamplot, Thurston, phone 335-2508.

The winning state queen will be provided with a new Western pants suit. Also, expenses incurred during her appearance at such events as the State Fair, All-San-Ben, and the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association State Convention will be paid by the association.

Purchasing a Microcomputer
There has been a lot of advertising of computers for farmers recently. If a farmer is thinking about a microcomputer for home and farm business use, the first question that should be answered is "What do I want the computer to do?" The steps the farmer should go through are:

1. Determine the business objectives in buying a computer or specify the problem the computer will solve. Determine the priority use for the computer.
2. Investigate available software to meet the specified objective.
3. Compare software packages that generally do what you want done.
4. Select the software package that best meets your needs and is easiest for you to use and appears to be the most reliable.
5. Select hardware that will run the software you have selected.
6. To use your microcomputer as a terminal to operate AGNET programs, discuss the auxiliary hardware and software necessary with the computer dealer. Have the dealer demonstrate the interfacing with AGNET before you buy any of the computer components from him.

Treating Soybean Seed
Soybean growers should plant the highest quality seed possible for maximum yields. The best way of getting good seed is to buy certified seed that has the percent germination listed in the certified label along with the variety name and the seed treatment if one is used.

Seed lots with greater than 80 percent germination generally will not benefit from seed treatment when planted at recommended seeding rates. Those with less than 80 percent germination may benefit from seed treatments by increased stand and possible increased yield.

Decisions to use bin-run or poor quality seed should be based on the fact that any seed treatment fungicide effective against seed-borne diseases will not increase germination more than 20 percent. If bin-run beans of 50 percent germination are treated with a fungicide, the grower should not expect more than 70 percent germination in the field.

Captan, Thiram, Apron and Vitavax 200 and PCNB terrazole fungicide combinations are the most widely used soybean seed treatment materials.

Keep funds for interstate

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Those of us who live on the flylands where urban mass transit systems and needs are few need to be concerned about some trial balloons floating around Washington, D.C.

Mass transit interests are testing a proposal designed to boost spending by about 50 percent and raise $5 billion in new revenues. These monies would be raised by increasing the motor fuel tax and diverting highway use funds to further subsidize mass transit.

Any proposal to divert highway use funds ought to raise an outcry. But there's more to the mass transit proposals being floated:

- A $2 billion increase in transit program spending.
- A "gas tax" increase, earmarked for mass transit, to replace general fund financing. This is projected to raise $6 billion in annual revenues by increasing the gas tax to 4 cents a gallon.

An inequitable distribution of program funds. Forty-five states would receive fewer dollars from the program than they pay into the fund. Almost certainly, Nebraska would be among the 42.

IF THIS PROPOSAL were enacted, it would transfer billions of bucks from the pockets of motorists to transit users — and from rural to urban areas. It could have a devastating impact on funding for much-needed highway improvements.

Sources in Washington say this proposal is not actively being considered right now, but it's on the books and with the Reagan Administration calling for an end to most other federal assistance for mass transit, it could get serious attention. If not now, then next year when the Administration says it is going to pull the rug out from under mass transit.

Senator Alfonse M. D'Amato, R-N.Y., has introduced S.352 for himself and several other eastern, urban senators, proposing to amend the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 to continue mass transit. It would be easy to add a proposal to that bill which would earmark another penny or two from the highway trust fund for urban mass transit. So far, the bill sits in the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee.

Farm Bureau and other rural interests believe the Federal Highway Trust Fund should be maintained for its current purposes — the so-called "R2" — resurfacing, rehabilitation, repair and reconstruction — of the interstate highways, many of which have passed their designed lifespan.

"You don't need to travel very far along Nebraska's Interstates to know the need is here for the 'R2s. Money shouldn't be diverted from this present need to fund urban mass transit."

Stubbendieck is director of information for the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

Northrup King Leaf Award

DENNIS LUTT of Wayne, area Northrup King dealer, was recently recognized for his excellent 1984 sales achievement at Gold Leaf Dealer Awards ceremonies held at Norfolk. A plaque with a silver medallion and matching lapel pin was presented to Dennis Lutt and wife, Jeanne, by John Carollo, area territory sales manager. According to territory sales manager John Carollo of Wayne, "Dennis Lutt earned his award by selling more than seed. He monitored performance during planting, growing and harvest, to ensure growers the highest possible level of product service." Lutt was among several Northrup King dealers presented with either the Silver or Bronze Leaf Dealer Award. Left to right are Dennis and Jeanne Lutt, Vern Palmberg, vice president of northern division, and John Carollo of Wayne, territory sales manager.

Interest Rates Aren't The Only Thing To Consider When You Buy An IRA. Yes, interest rates are important. But so is the other ingredient needed to make the magic of compound interest work. You've seen the numbers. $2,000 deposited each year at 11% will total $142,530 after 20 years, $443,800 after 30 years, and $1,201,663 after 40 years. That's why it's so important to put money aside in an IRA now—so it'll have time to grow into the nest egg you need for your future. Every customer is treated as someone who is extra special

Local merchants need your continuing support so they make it to your advantage to shop locally. No matter what you need, from groceries to clothing, to hardware supplies, you'll find the best buys at the local stores. Good customers keep the merchants in business, and quality service and merchandise keep the customer coming back so it's a bargain for both of you!

When you shop locally, everyone benefits. It's more convenient so you save gas and time. You get friendly, knowledgeable service because local merchants "know" you and appreciate your business. They depend on you to keep their stores going strong. And some of what you spend goes back into the community in the form of taxes and charitable contributions paid by the merchants.
