THE WAYNE HERALD

WSC athletics appear safe from cuts

Wayne State College probably will not lose its intercollegiate athletic program.

This statement was affirmed Thursday by Wayne State College President Ed Elliott and Nebraska State College Board of Trustees Vice President Alan Cramer. The supposed "cuts in the colleges' budgets are not really cuts at all Cramer explained. "The budget issue is really a complicated one," he said.

The "cuts," as reported by statewide media, refer to cuts from an earlier budget proposed by the legislature's appropriations committee. The early budget was recommended in April.

According to District 17 State Senator Gerald Conway of Wayne, a state income shortfall — caused by falling revenue due to lower than expected sales and income tax revenue — was predicted in May.

It was this income reduction that caused the budget cuts — not from current year's budget, but from the April recommendations for the 1985-86 budget.

According to Dr. Don Whisenbunt, Wayne State vice president, the WSC general fund budget will actually be $19,524 more than this year, a 0.03 percent increase. The "general fund" refers to tax monies.

THE COLLEGE'S budget is further supplemented by tuition and student fees and by federal and state department of education grants.

"While it appears that the college's budgets will be slightly higher this year, actual available operations dollars will probably be less," Cramer said.

"The legislature has mandated that all state employees must receive a 3 percent salary increase. This increase, coupled with associated fringe benefits such as retirement and social security benefits which are based on salary, will probably eat up the tuition increase the board has proposed," he explained.

Relative to the intercollegiate athletic question, Cramer said that while the college board has constitutional authority to expend the budgets as it (the board) sees best, "we cannot afford to ignore the legislature's dictates."

"We need to discuss this situation with [Appropriations Committee Chairman] Senator Warner, Senator Conway and other legislators. There have been times when the colleges have been punished for ignoring dictates," he said.

"Personally, I would like to see the colleges find the money by small cuts throughout the institution, rather than all coming from one program."

ELLIOTT told The Wayne Herald: "My position is that Wayne State College initiated sports reductions and dollar reallocations several years ago to help ensure effective use of taxpayers dollars.

"I think it's totally inappropriate for the appropriations committee to meddle in intercollegiate affairs by using the budget as a club. Regardless of the program being discussed, the responsibility for program alteration rests with the college presidents and the State College Board of Trustees."

"I stand by the policy statement drafted by the four presidents and accepted by the State College Board of Trustees as our official position."

The policy statement, as issued at the State College Board of Trustees' meeting last week, states:

"A significant part of the Role and Mission of the Nebraska State College System is intercollegiate athletics. Intercollegiate sports and athletics are organized to offer desirable personal development and recreation for players and a healthy focus for college loyalty.

"The athletic program is considered an integral part of the total educational program at the colleges. The goals and objectives of the athletic program are congruent with other academic departments."

"Further, it is our belief that intercollegiate athletics serve as a laboratory experience for many students in their academic programs and provide interested men and women opportunities to participate in competitive sports with students of like ability from other colleges and universities."

"Equally important is that athletics serve as a model for life as it stresses the democratic ideals of ethical values, respect for others and pride in individual and group accomplishments."

"We, the Presidents and Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State College System believe that intercollegiate athletics should be supported in the same manner as our other educational opportunities."

From Public Service Commission

Bell seeks rate hike

Northwestern Bell today asked the Nebraska Public Service Commission for an increase in telephone rates that would bring company earnings in Nebraska to the authorized level. The proposal offered would yield $14.5 million, producing a 7.5 percent increase in revenue.

"The increase is necessary for Northwestern Bell to remain technologically competitive and to maintain our traditional high level of service," said Don Bliss, Northwestern Bell vice president and chief executive officer for Nebraska.

Where local measured services are available, residential customers would pay $16.15 per month for a private line and unlimited local calling. Business customers would pay from $40 per month for a private line and unlimited local calling.

rates would be $32, $28 and $24 with usage allowances of $10, $5 and $0.

In areas where local measured service is not available, resident customers would pay from $14.35 to $15.20 for a private line and unlimited local calling. Business customers would pay from $35.95 to $38.15 for a private line and unlimited local calling.

"The rates we have proposed with our current application recognize the need to continue to offer lower cost alternatives for telephone customers willing to control their usage," Bliss said. "In today's environment where telephone customers have become communications consumers, we must continue to offer options that allow them to buy only what they need."

In the request filed today, Northwestern Bell also proposes an increase in the charge for directory assistance calls from the present 25 cents to 30 cents per call. The current allowance of five free monthly calls for resident customers would be reduced to three calls per month, with no call allowance for business users. Customers would continue to receive two numbers per call.

In addition, Northwestern Bell asks three measured service options under the current filing. Monthly

ed that the 25 cent coin telephone rate now in effect at some public locations be extended to all coin telephones. Nonrecurring charges for establishing business and residence service would increase by 15% under the proposal.

"Despite strict expense controls applied during 1984, Northwestern Bell's Nebraska financial results fell short of the level we needed to reach," said Bliss. "During 1984, the number of Northwestern Bell employees directly involved in providing service to Nebraska customers continued to decrease. At the same time, our business volumes grew. In short, we handled more business with fewer people."

"On the other hand, Northwestern Bell invested an additional $82.8 million to improve the telephone system in Nebraska in 1984. We need to earn at least our approved rate of return to be able to maintain and improve the service we offer," Bliss said.

"We need to have confidence in our financial future in Nebraska so we can continue to be a positive force for growth and development in this state."

Worm Away

by Chuck Hackenmiller

You can relax. You can watch the fish jumping out of the water. It's almost a vacation in itself.

I'm talking about fishing. All of the above hold true only if you don't take along your little sister.

When I was growing up in Iowa, living several miles along a small river called the Little Cedar, I took one of my five little sisters along. It was her first time fishing and she was anticipating that big catch — just as long as I was the one that pulled the nasty hook out of the fish while she turned her head.

We found a nice cozy and shady spot along the river bank and a cool breeze drifted through the tall grass. The air had the smell of fish in it.

Instinctively, I grabbed my pole, ran for the coffee can filled with nightcrawlers and tied the bait onto the hook. I ran back to my fishing spot and tossed in my line, turned up my radio and listened to the Twins lose a Baltimore Orioles game.

"Can you help me?" my little sister asked.

"What do you want me to do?" I asked.

"Put a worm on the hook for me," she said. "I don't like to kill them. Besides, worms are dirty and little girls aren't supposed to get dirty."

I told her the first bait of the hook was on me. But she'd have to learn how to bait her own for the remainder of the afternoon.

ONCE THAT WAS done, I rested my head in a grassy area and was about to doze when the voice again made its presence.

"I'll bet you'll never guess what I just did," she said.

I took one look and trying my best to restrain my impatience with her, asked: "How in the heck did that happen?"

There, in a corner, was a tree fully decorated with fishing line. "I guess the wind took the line," she chuckled.

If it wasn't my second best fishing pole, I'd have let it go. I climbed through the poking branches of the tree and untangled the knots that had even a boy scout could tie. The hook was on the very top branch, tangled with a pine cone. By the time I got down from that tree, I was exhausted.

She lost the worm, of course, so I baited her hook again against my better judgment. "Now don't bother me again," I said rather angrily.

Well, she did bother me, again and again. Twice she lost her hook in some snags and rocks along the bank of the river. I had to wade out there in the muddy river water just because she pleaded that her worm be saved.

ANOTHER TIME, she thought a bumble bee had come along and slung her in the arm. Actually, she had stuck herself with the hook.

I finally had an opportunity to rest and was sleeping soundly when the little brat came up and shook me so hard that I thought we were in the center of an earthquake.

"Look what I caught!" she exclaimed.

She had caught the first fish. Oh, the fish wasn't gigantic, a record catch or anything like that. It was just a bullhead that would likely be thrown back into the river.

It enraged me that after all the work I went through for her, she catches the first fish.

Then, I remembered my own pole and found it wasn't where I had laid it. My best fishing pole had been dragged into the river.

"You should have been watching your pole. Now what are you going to fish with," she said.

After she made that remark, I decided to give up completely and started walking right into the moving river, hoping perhaps that the pole didn't wash downstream and was still in the vicinity.

I barely heard her say: "Boy, this fishing is fun. When can we go again?"

Once again we plead that game statistics and stories be turned into The Wayne Herald office immediately.

There is a possibility that the late contributions will not likely be published when liked, since covering both sports and editing news copy at the same time demand a lot of time. Preference will likely be given to the dates of upcoming events, at least for a brief period of time.

A little effort on behalf of the coaches, particularly those in the men's softball league, in bringing in the scores or other statistics and material would indeed be appreciated.

Buying back time

Wayne-Carroll Board of Education's recent decision to buy back the 20 minutes a day of school nursing service which the Education Service Unit will be cutting should be considered a plus for the school system.

The additional cost to Wayne Public Schools to duplicate the level of last year's nursing service will be less than $1,500 for 1985-1986.

What kind of price can you put on the health of a child? The job is more than being there in the school nurse office, day after day, waiting for injured or feverish children to come in for assistance.

Currently, the nurse at Wayne-Carroll School is active in conducting health classes throughout the school system, assists in providing CPR training classes and shares her expertise in the adult living classes at the school.

She is there usually during the noon hour, just in case a child is injured during the recess hours.

In some school districts, having a school nurse is sometimes the only health care a student receives. Earlier in the year, when concern about how ESU was going to allocate its nursing services was brought to The Wayne Herald's attention by Superintendent Francis Haun, it was mentioned by Haun that it would likely be a $9,000 item to pick up the full cost if Wayne-Carroll decided to break off with ESU and obtain their own nursing services.

For now it seems that paying $1,500 a year is a more viable alternative than breaking off the nursing service contract with ESU.

Q. My mother divorced my father before I was born. My father was ordered to pay child support and he didn't. If my father would die, can I collect past due support from his estate? Would I inherit from his estate if he died without a will?

A. Traditionally, and according to Nebraska law, the right to receive child support generally belongs to the person having custody of the minor child (in this case, your mother) and not the children themselves. Thus, if your father would die, your mother may have a valid claim for past due support against his estate. In addition, a law adopted last year provides that the obligation to pay child support does not necessarily end at the non-custodial parent's death. Therefore, if your father were to die, your mother could make such a claim against his estate, but it is questionable whether you yourself would be able to do so. The outcome of such a claim against your father's estate would depend on the nature and amount of other claims against his estate and all surrounding circumstances.

As to your second question, yes, you would inherit from your father's estate if he died without a will. The disposition of the property of persons dying without a will is controlled by the laws of "interstate succession." Under these laws, the surviving spouse (if your father has remarried and his wife is still living and he has no children by that marriage) and the child of a previous marriage (such as yourself) would each inherit one-half of his estate. Furthermore, if there is no surviving spouse, you and any other children your father may have will inherit the entire estate, to be divided equally among all the surviving children.

Q. Could child support be handled as an automatic payroll deduction?

A. Yes, in certain circumstances. Generally, the non-custodial parent will first be given an opportunity to voluntarily make child support payments. If he or she fails to independently meet this obligation, however, and if the payments are 30 days or more in arrears, the court must, upon request, order the non-custodial parent's employer to withhold the applicable amount from his or her paycheck. The money withheld by the employer is then sent to the clerk of the court entering the order, where it is made available to the custodial parent. Before the court will make such an order, an application must be submitted requesting the withholding of funds from the non-custodial parent's paycheck, and a hearing conducted regarding the merits of such a request. The application may be made by any person having a direct interest in the welfare of the child (for example, the custodial parent) and the non-custodial parent must be notified of the upcoming hearing and must receive a copy of the application. To evaluate your chances of success and determine how to proceed to file the application, you should consult your local county attorney prior to instituting such an action.

Session considered as historic as legislature comes to end

Capital News
By Melvin Paul

LI. Gov. Don McGinnley rapped his gavel at 4:37 p.m. last Wednesday (June 5) to bring the 1985 legislative session to a conclusion.

Lawmakers were quick to proclaim the 90-day session one of historic importance, mainly because of the passage of the mandatory school consolidation bill, and because of the round of budget-cutting that resulted in the $807.5 million general fund budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The budget-cutting, which included the elimination of funding for three agencies that act as advocates for women, Hispanics and Indians, averted an increase in the state's current 19 percent income tax rate and a 3.5 percent sales tax rate.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the session marked a fundamental shift in which interest groups competed against themselves for limited state revenues. In the past, the interest groups conspired to force state spending upward, he said.

"Next year, the (budget-cutting) trend either will continue and intensify, or be cut short by a major tax increase," DeCamp said.

SPEAKER WILLIAM Nichol of Scottsbluff, an 11-year legislative veteran, assessed the 1985 session as "the most historically important session since I've been here."

Nichol agreed that the school consolidation bill and the budget bills were the most significant activities of the session.

Nichol, a Republican, said he enjoyed almost complete cooperation in his role as speaker, "but I would also say that this year you saw the Democrats working together more as Democrats and the Republicans working together more as Republicans."

Shortly before adjournment, lawmakers heard Gov. Bob Kerrey tell them that their session was one of disappointments — and accomplishments.

Patrons of small rural school districts and people affected by state budget cuts had a reason for dissatisfaction with the 1985 session, Kerrey told lawmakers in the traditional pre-adjournment speech by the chief executive.

"They felt real disappointment," Kerrey said. "They felt somehow their government had let them down."

At the same time, Kerrey said, the session was "tremendously productive."

IN A DEPARTURE from tradition, Kerrey announced weeks ago that he is already planning to call the Legislature into special session in August.

Originally, Kerrey said the session will deal with implementation of LB 662, the new school consolidation law. Kerrey told reporters last week that he expects the session also to deal with further cuts in the general fund budget.

Kerrey praised lawmakers for extending the sales tax to business utilities through LB 715, and for refusing to legalize video lotteries through LB 144. Strong lobbies attempted to persuade lawmakers to decide otherwise.

"You've faced all kinds of vested interests, and faced them courageously," Kerrey said. Despite the probable need for further reductions, Kerrey called the general fund budget "a remarkable document."

The budget increases appropriations for state employees' salaries, special education and Medicaid. It also provides funding for the state takeover of municipal courts in Lincoln and Omaha. Despite those appropriations, the increase over the budget approved by the 1984 Legislature is less than one percent.

The lawmakers, staff and lobbyists noted a certain irony in the casual pace of the final day of a session of bitterly debated issues.

Kerrey issued no budget vetoes, so, unlike most years, the final day involved little controversy.

Kerrey did veto on Wednesday LB 717, a bank tax bill; LB 598, a measure that would outlaw open containers of alcoholic beverages in vehicles, and LB 171 an accompanying $94,393 appropriations bill for an additional juvenile court judge in Douglas County.

Of the three bills, lawmakers attempted to override Kerrey's veto of the juvenile judge bill. The override motion failed on a 20-22 vote.

news and notes

Improving your child's eating habits

Has mealtime become a battle between you and your child? Parents are often concerned about their child's eating habits. The following hints may help enhance mealtimes for the picky eater as well as the rest of the family.

—Involve children in food preparation, such as tearing up lettuce, setting the table or other activities.

—Sit down to eat with the children and encourage pleasant mealtime conversations. Children enjoy company, special meals and "occasions." Candles, pretty, unbreakable dishes, washable tablecloths or placemats and relaxing music are a few ideas.

—When a child doesn't eat, don't fuss. Clear the table without comment and resist the urge to offer other food, especially high sugar or high fat "snack" foods before the next regularly scheduled meal. If the child insists on a snack, offer only nutritious foods. It doesn't take a child long to learn that the best way to guarantee an unending supply of cookies is to refuse to eat meals!

—Example is the best teacher. Show your food preferences by offering nutritious foods.

—Keep the number of choices small at each meal. Toddlers (children three years and under) can actually be emotionally upset over having to make choices. When you offer choices, be sure to give them a choice between foods that are of similar nutritive value. For example, offer an apple and an orange rather than an apple and a brownie.

—Try not to talk about or exhibit your food dislikes around the children. If you never touch a green vegetable, chances are the children will refuse them too. Allow the children to make their own choices. Be willing to prepare foods that you or your family doesn't like! It's important that you live by your rules. Please taste everything.

—All children have smaller stomachs than adults. Serve child-sized portions. Limit liquids (beverages) before a meal. A glass of juice or milk takes up a lot of room in a small tummy.

—Allow children to serve themselves. It helps them learn how to make important decisions.

—Offer more water and less juice and soft drinks. Water doesn't supply any calories so it isn't as likely to displace solid foods. A 4-ounce (1/2 cup) glass of juice and 16 ounces (3 1/2 cups) of milk will supply most of the vitamin C and calcium that a young child needs. The remaining amount of liquid can best be met with plain water. Over-consumption of liquids can contribute to anemia by displacing solid foods.

—Clear your house of as many foods of low nutritional quality as possible. The picky eater may be more interested in drinking milk if the refrigerator isn't full of soft drinks. Cheese and crackers may be more appealing if the cookie jar is empty. Don't despair if the child refuses to eat meat, which is a very common complaint with pre-schoolers.

ON THE AVERAGE, children will eat enough to meet their nutritional needs if nutritious food is available in a relaxed atmosphere.

Make mealtime enjoyable, and if the dietary habits don't improve consult your doctor about the need for a vitamin/mineral supplement.

Keeping pheasant numbers in NE Nebraska

by Chuck Hackenmiller

In less than eight weeks from today, pheasants that were raised from chicks will be released into the alfalfa fields of the Charles Mahler farm.

The pheasants are the project of Shawn Mahler, 18, a 1985 graduate of Allen Consolidated High School. Raising pheasants has been his summer project for the Allen Chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) during the past three years.

This year, he received his 105 pheasant chicks from Janesville, Wisconsin. There are times when the birds have arrived on the Mahler farm from Minnesota.

During the three years he has raised over 375 pheasants in an effort to populate the birds into an area where pheasants are few and far between.

His first year he raised 100 birds and ended with 92. The second year, when he received 200 chicks, he lost 25 from pneumonia. This year he has lost eight birds.

His ration of birds released to birds obtained is satisfactory, he says.

Upon the completion of eight weeks, the pheasants are let loose into the fields. He estimates that there are more female pheasants in his project this year than males. "We want to put female pheasants (hens) out there [in the fields]. Hopefully, there will be enough of the male pheasants around to get the population up," Shawn said.

Before the pheasants are released, he said the birds are banded for identification. "There have been reports of the birds at least five miles away from the release location," he added.

His interest in pheasant raising, he said, was stirred by his shop instructor and FFA Advisor, Tom Wiemes. Jim Johnson, son of the Earl Johnsons, is another Allen FFA member who is raising pheasants (for the first time) as a FFA summer project.

Shawn enjoys hunting. But just because the pheasants are raised and almost all released on his parent's farm — that doesn't mean that the family farm is a fantastic area to hunt pheasants.

"They [the pheasants] can really scatter. Some can go travel at least a half-mile away. Just because I raise them doesn't mean there is great hunting here," he said.

The pheasant chicks need a high level of protein in their diet. "The birds are so nervous that without protein they start to pick on each other," Shawn said.

Shawn has always had a keen interest in unique animals. He remembers when it was legal to have raccoons or skunks so they could be kept as pets. Now they have several ferrets and he has over 25 domestic pigeons to care for — something that he's been doing "more for pleasure" for the past six years. At one time he had over 200 pigeons.

Shawn Mahler has raised pheasant chicks for the past three summers. He also has an inventory of domestic pigeons (above right). The chicks are kept in a tank to prevent pneumonia and infection from the environment.

The pigeons have special names such as the Saddleback Fan Tail and Tumblers. He had homing pigeons at one time.

Shawn knows it has been a difficult undertaking to keep ahead in the pheasant numbers throughout northeast Nebraska.

"I've always liked birds. Still you don't see very many pheasants around here."

And that's why he enjoys taking on this type of project — so that the cackling of a frightened pheasant and the beauty of the bird in flight doesn't become a thing of the past in northeast Nebraska.

Game lasts over four hours

Laurel nips Wayne Towners in extra innings

In a game that was finally settled in the wee morning hours Thursday, Laurel squeaked by the Wayne Town Team by a score of 9-8.

The 14-inning contest was the longest in Tri-County play this season, lasting about four hours.

Wayne got a strong pitching performance from John Reed, who pitched 13 of the 14 innings and gathered 17 strikeouts. He was relieved by Todd Schwartz in the 14th inning, who gave up three singles which brought in Laurel's winning run and ended the game.

Wayne scored the first run in the game in the bottom of the first inning after Mike Breske walked, had a stolen base and scored on a single by Mike Meyer.

They added another run in the top of the third inning after shortstop Breske again singled, followed by a single by Schwartz which drove in Breske. Rightfielder Jeff Dion followed with a single but Laurel closed the game by Wayne scoring three.

Laurel tied the game at 2-2 in the bottom of the fourth inning when Mike Hoffart walked, advanced on a passed ball and scored on a single by Manganaro, who later came across the plate after an outfield error.

Wayne scored five runs in the top half of the seventh inning to pull ahead 7-2. Jerry Morris got things going with a double followed up by a walk to Breske, a sacrifice fly by Dion, two walks and an error by the catcher, a single by Todd Pfeiffer and another error by the Laurel second baseman.

Cleve Stolpe of Laurel socked a two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh to make the score 7-4. They went ahead in the bottom of the eighth inning, scoring four runs — two of those runs coming off a double hit by Stolpe.

Wayne tied the score at 8-8 in the top of the ninth inning after Bob Rabe and Pfeiffer singled and pitcher Reed whacked a double to drive in the tying run.

In the bottom of the 14th inning, Laurel's Thompson led off with a single, followed by another single by Dave Marquardt, a sacrifice bunt by Stolpe and a single lined by Kelly Robson which scored Thompson with the winning run.

Wayne collected a total of nine hits in the game while Laurel had 10 hits. Laurel pitchers combined for 14 strikeouts and allowed 14 walks to the Wayne hitters. Reed and Morris had the only extra base hits for Wayne — both were doubles.

Johnson, Janke throw no-hitter

Roni Johnson pitched three innings and Shannon Janke one inning in combining efforts on a no-hitter as the Wayne 18 and under girls softball team blasted Wakefield 21-0 in a game played Thursday evening.

Wayne had only four hits in the game, but capitalized on Wakefield's 21 walks and numerous passed balls to score their runs.

The 18 and under girls from Wayne scored four runs in the first inning on six walks and a double that was hit by rightfielder Paula Koplin.

They added four more runs in the second inning on five walks and a single by shortstop Karen Lange. Seven runs were scored in the top of the third inning when Lise Jacobsen and Koplin both reached base on errors, clean-up hitter Sarah Lebock walked, Lori Jacobsen followed with a double and three more walks were given up by the Wakefield pitchers.

After the starters were taken out of the game, Wayne continued to score runs with five in the top of the fourth inning. The game was called because of the 20 run difference.

Sarah Peterson had a hit in the fourth inning and seven other Wayne players drew walks.

Jacobsen led the Wayne hitters with a double, which resulted in two runs batted in. She also scored home plate three times in the game. Johnson struck out five Wakefield batters and walked three during her three innings of pitching. Janke came in in the bottom of the fourth inning, and after allowing a walk, retired the side on ground-outs to end the game.

The win boosted the 18 and under girls record to four wins without a loss. On Monday, the 18 and under and the 15 and under girls host Norfolk.

Next Thursday (June 13) is the starting date of the league tournament at Homer which will continue Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Despite outpitching their opponent 10-5, the Wayne Juniors lost to Sioux City, Heelan, 7-6, in a game played Thursday evening.

There were two games scheduled with Heelan, but the second game was halted after the fourth inning because of darkness.

Jeff Sherer spent the entire distance on the mound for Wayne in the first game and took the loss, allowing just the five hits while walking nine and striking out one Heelan batter.

Tony Winger of Heelan got the win, with Burt Keating entering the ballgame and picking up the save when Wayne threatened to tie the game or possibly pull ahead in the late innings.

Each team scored a run in the third inning; Wayne's first run of the game came after Shannon Dorcey singled and Dan Gross followed with a run-scoring double.

Heelan's first run came on two consecutive walks and an error by the Wayne shortstop.

Three more runs were scored by Heelan in the bottom of the fourth inning on a walk, a double and a single and a sacrifice fly.

Wayne closed within one run (at 4-3) in the top of the fifth inning when McCright reached first base on a third baseman's error and Darrin Barnett and Dorcey hit back-to-back singles; A sacrifice by Dan Gross and Steve Overin brought in another run. Heelan moved ahead 7-3 with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning on two hits, a double and a single that brought in two runs.

In the top of the seventh, Dorcey started the seventh inning by reaching base on a walk. He scored later on a home run batted by Overin. Scott Baker then came through with a single and scored on a ground rule double smacked by Sherer, closing the gap to make it 7-6.

Heelan's Keating came on the mound in relief and got the next two Wayne batters out to end the game. Baker and Dorcey provided a good share of the hitting attack against Heelan, each gaining two hits. The loss evened the Wayne Juniors record to 5-5. Three of those losses have been at the hands of Heelan.

On Friday night the Juniors traveled to LaPlata in a Ralph Bishop league game. Hank Overin, Junior coach, said that LaPlata has disbanded its Midget team, due to lack of participants.

In Wakefield Midget action, it took 16 innings before Madison defeated Wakefield by an 8-7 score Thursday evening.

Nelson had two hits in the game. Mike Magnus had a single which brought in two Wakefield runs, according to Coach Paul Eaton.

In the late innings, Wakefield had a chance to win the game as they had the bases loaded and nobody out. A line shot hit by Doug Robertson was grabbed by the Madison third baseman, who stepped on third to double off the runner. The next batter for Wakefield struck out to end the scoring threat.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Wayne County Weed Control Authority has dedicated itself not only to noxious weed control, but also to the prevention of dissemination of noxious weed seed. The Director of Agriculture has determined that noxious weeds seed may be disseminated through the movement of machinery and equipment, grain and seed, hay, straw, nursery stock, fencing materials, sod, manure, and soil as well as articles of similar nature. Methods of treatment have also been prescribed by the Director and may be obtained from the Wayne County Weed Control Authority.

With the harvest season approaching very rapidly, please keep in mind the provisions of the law requiring owners of harvest equipment to clean prior to movement to another field. This machinery and equipment being used in the harvest of crops should be treated or cleaned as follows:

1. Removal of all material from the tops and sides of all parts of the machine by sweeping and the use of forced air and water.
2. Opening the lower end of all elevator returns, and measuring devices and removal of all noxious weed seeds and seedlings from shakers, sieves, and other places of lodgment.
3. Run the machine empty for a minimum of five minutes, alternately increasing and decreasing the speed.
4. Follow the manufacturer's detailed instructions for cleaning the machine.

These treatments should be performed while the article or the machine itself is still on the land in which it became infested if at all possible. This will not only prevent spreading noxious weed seed from one field to another, but also from one land owner to another.

For treatment methods of all other articles and questions, please contact the Wayne County Weed Control Authority, Russ Lindsay, Superintendent. Telephone Number — 375-3772.

ANNA SEZ:

Hello there! A beautiful summer morning. No wind to speak of. A salty pair of veins have taken to me, making me feel like I wish that there were some worn houses for them. Enjoy their singing. Our pair of robins love their nest on a willow in the Central Park. Gals pretty hot these part of the afternoon. Mother robin keeps turning around to make her young comfortable.

Welcome to our new residents — Arnie, Heidi, Edie, Ollie, mother and her friends. Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family of Jack who passed away on May 18 at the home.

We had a pleasant afternoon the 6th when the Central Social Club came to help us play bingo and gave prizes of fresh fruit and candy. Mrs. Joyce Hanson, one of the club members, told me that the club was formed in 1912. We wish to thank them for a happy afternoon.

Heidi Richardson has moved to Omaha. There are church services on Sundays as follows: On Sunday, June 2, there are the Methodists. On Sunday, June 9 there are the Faith Baptists. On June 16 there is the Grace Lutheran. On June 23 there is the Wesleyan Methodist and June 30 there is the Evangelical Free Church.

Bible study is each Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Among the activities there are movies on Monday afternoon. On Tuesday afternoon we have sing-along with Harry on the organ. On Wednesday afternoons we have cards and dominoes. On the 1st and 4th Thursday of the month we have our card party. On the second Monday of the month St. Mary's Ladies come with treats. On the 3rd Thursday of the month we have our bridge party of the month. There are 3 on the 15th day: June 15, Mrs. Helen, June 22, Mrs. June A. Paula, June 29, Mrs. Katie, June 24, and on the 24th day, June 24, we will sing the birthday song and have treats. On Friday we have bingo. On Saturday there is Rhythm Band with Dick Horton and his musicians. Sometimes Dorothy Beckenhouse plays the organ. The ladies from the Methodist Church come on Wednesday, June 26 with treats.

On June 12 there will be a 2 p.m. tea for the ladies and guests. Deb Dickey will present the program.

We wish to thank Gordon Nelson for the silver bellows, titled "Mother's Day Bellows," that he brought to the church.

Legion Auxiliary will hold their monthly meeting here at Care Center on June 20. 16 awards will be given. A card needs to be in the group — membership pins will be awarded to Marguerite Hines, Lottie Longacker, Emma Kralic, Anne Mae and Hazel Smith. The Alliance ladies are to come on June 18 and the Methodist ladies will entertain us on June 24 at 2 p.m.

Until next time — make new friends, but keep the old; one is never too old and the other is never too young.

SHOP LOCALLY!

The money you spend helps your community grow & prosper

A part of everything you spend in local stores goes to make your town a better place to live for you and your family. Merchants pay taxes, make charitable contributions and support local institutions. The merchants are your neighbors and they want to work with you to improve and support the good life in your community. You'll be helping your neighbors and yourself.

When you shop locally, everyone benefits. It's more convenient so you save gas and time. You get friendly, knowledgeable service because local merchants "know" you and appreciate your business. They depend on you to keep their stores going strong. And some of what you spend goes back into the community in the form of taxes and charitable contributions paid by the merchants.

Remember...

Your money buys more when you shop at a local store. It's good for you, good for us, good for the community.
