Didn't get away

Rain brings on relief to June dry spell

by Chuck Hackenmillar

Rain that fell late Tuesday afternoon and early evening might have been a yield savor to some Wayne County farmers as the critical stages of plant growth are now arriving.

Prior to Tuesday evening, it had been a dry June. After a soggy April and a less than average rainfall for May, the area is still ahead of its total rainfall average (as of the end of May) by three inches.

But June is well below its average monthly rainfall of 4.82 inches. Last June, 8.01 inches of moisture accumulated on the ground. Only casual sprinkles have fallen during June thus far and there are less than two full weeks remaining in the month.

"June has been dryer than the dickens," said Wayne County Extension Director Don Spitzke.

"I just got a call from someone with 30 acres of soybeans who said the soybeans aren't coming up out of the soil," Spitzke said in relating to the previous dry conditions.

And what effect is the dry weather having on other crops?

"The lack of rain on the oats, Spitzke said, could cut yields since heading is beginning in the fields. "Pastures are drying up, too," he said.

Without moisture to activate the herbicide sprayed on the crops by farmers, the control of weeds "do not work as good."

"And if is too cool for corn and soy bean growth," he added.

BUT THE windy and cool weather has its advantages, Spitzke said.

"This windy, cool and dry weather is going to keep the corn borer population extremely low. Corn borers like to emerge on hot humid nights when there is no wind. I don't expect a significant amount of first brood corn borers," Spitzke mentioned.

However, there has been a lot of cutworm damage in Wayne County — in some areas the damage has been very severe. Although the cutworm intrusion affects soybeans and alfalfa, the basic crop in jeopardy is the corn.

Cutworms have also been seen in new growth of alfalfa.

"Variegated cutworm problems surface every five to 10 years and this year there is concern in central and eastern Nebraska," according to Keith Jarvi, pest management supervisor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord.

"Cutworms develop in the first cutting of alfalfa," he said. "They feed on the foliage without cutting the plants off."

Jarvi said if the second growth of alfalfa isn't greening up like it should, check the crowns of the plants. He said variegated cutworms like to feed at night and hide in the soil during the day.

He suggested digging near the plant's crown. A rescue treatment should be applied if more than two or three cutworms are found per square yard. Commonly used treatments are Loraban 4E and Pydrin.

"If left untreated, they can hurt the regrowth of the alfalfa," Jarvi said.

Variegated cutworms also can cause damage in adjoining corn or soybean fields.

"Variegated cutworms are similar to armyworms because they march from the alfalfa fields into adjoining row crop fields and start feeding there," he said. "So it's very important to apply a rescue treatment now."

Organizers of Wayne's fifth annual Chicken Show have scratched out ideas for several new events this year and are bringing back many of the egg-eating favorites from previous years.

This year's wing-ding will kick off with a national omelet cook-off at 5 p.m. on Friday, July 12.

Activities will continue all day Saturday, July 13, and wind down at 11 p.m. on Sunday, July 14 when Wayne Yacht Club members challenge the world in a race through the mighty Logan Creek at 1 p.m.

TWO NEW EVENTS have been added to this year's list of activities being held in conjunction with Chicken Day.

An ASA approved Chicken Show softball tournament is planned July 12-14. Entry deadline is July 3, and persons wishing additional information about the event are asked to contact Denny Robinson, 375-4881 or 375-1143.

An Egg-Arta is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m. on July 4 when egg-shaped vessels will be launched into Logan Creek. Prizes will be awarded.

CHICKEN SHOW enthusiasts who wish to participate in The Wayne Herald's annual Chicken Poetry and Essay Contest have until Monday, July 8 to mail their limericks and essays to Box 262, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

Any entries which arrive after July 8 will not be considered in the contest which offers $5 for the best limerick and $5 for the best essay.

The winning entries and several other top selections will be printed in The Wayne Herald.

NON-PROFIT organizations wishing to hatch funds through sponsoring Chicken Show concessions and games have until June 30 to contact Maria McCue, 375-1986.

Individuals, organizations and businesses also are encouraged to begin making plans for participation in the 1983 Chicken Show parade on July 13 at 11 a.m.

The only stipulation for entries, according to organizers, is that they must make reference to the chicken or the egg.

Entries, including a description, should be sent to Chicken Show Parade Committee, Mylet Bargholz, Eagles Chairman, Rt. 1, Wakefield, Neb., 68784.

The parade is being organized by the Eagles Auxiliary which asks that entries be received by July 1 so that a proper parade order can be arranged.

RESIDENTS ALSO may want to begin planning for this year's Fowl Players Talent Contest slated to take place on Friday, July 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Wayne city auditorium.

Prizes will be awarded in two categories — 14 years of age and under, and over 14 years of age.

Organizers said talent may include such things as a chicken song, a skit, reading, or dance that has to do with chickens or eggs.

Entry forms may be obtained from Wayne Radio KTCB or from the

ANOTHER EVENT which requires pre-planning, according to Dean Craun, one of the Chicken Show organizers, is the Chicken Chariot Race which will be held at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 13.

Craun said entrants may build their own chariot or borrow one from a friend.

Craun added that workshops on designing and building a chariot are being planned by the Wayne Regional Arts Council and by the Wayne County Jaycees, which is sponsoring the event.

Workshop dates will be announced.

ORGANIZERS of the Chicken Show expect this year's wing-ding to be one of the best in the five-year history of the event.

A display of chicken and egg items will grace downtown store windows throughout the three-day celebration.

A schedule of activities on Friday, July 12 includes the national omelet cook-off in the Wayne Woman's Club room at 5 p.m., and the Fowl Players Talent Contest in Wayne city auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

A chicken box social auction is planned in conjunction with Friday night's talent show. Persons attending the event are invited to pack a dessert for two in a chicken theme decorated box. Prizes will be awarded.

SATURDAY'S ACTIVITIES will take place this year in Bressler Park at Tenth and Lincoln Sts.

Dahlquist handed down prison sentence

Marilyn Dahlquist of Laurel has been sentenced to serve 18 months in prison on two counts of making false financial statements to the First National Bank of Sioux City.

The statements were used by the Sioux City bank in the decision-making of making loans to Dahlquist, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Murphy for the Northern District of Iowa.

Murphy said Dahlquist was also convicted of a conspiracy to make false statements to the First National Bank and had been sentenced to five years imprisonment. That sentence was suspended and Dahlquist will be placed on probation for five years.

Dahlquist was originally indicted on 12 counts, Murphy said. However, the nine other related charges were dropped in exchange for the guilty plea by Dahlquist on the three counts.

Sentences against Dahlquist were handed down on June 6 by Chief Judge Donald E. O'Brien.

Murphy said the charges had stemmed from dealings with First National Bank over the course of 12 years, he said Dahlquist had submitted annual and semi-annual statements to the bank.

The bank used these statements in their decision to secure loans to Dahlquist. "The financial statements showed an increase on the number of cattle he supposedly had on his ranch," Murphy said.

"In July of 1981, the whole thing fell apart," he said.

Murphy said there had been 6,500 cattle listed on the financial statement, and only about 1,500 were on the ranch. It was estimated that the amount of loss to the Sioux City bank was $3.8 million.

The bank foreclosed on the $3.8 million in outstanding loans and the Dahlquists responded by filing for Chapter 11 reorganization.

First National Bank's records showed the lending institution did perform inspections on Dahlquist's land, but they never actually went out and counted Dahlquist's total head of cattle at any one time.

Charges are still pending for Dahlquist's two sons, James of rural Wayne and Robert of Colorado Springs, Colorado. Murphy said Wednesday morning there is a possibility that the charges on the two sons would be deferred for approximately a year which would be considered a probation-type period.

The bank has filed suit in civil court to retrieve the money it claims it is owed. The Dahlquists have filed a countersuit, it was reported.

New sports editor hired

John Prather of Ogallala has been hired as the sports editor for The Wayne Herald. He anticipates moving to Wayne in early July.

Prather, 25, is currently the sports editor at the Keith County News in Ogallala. His duties include editing, writing and photography at the Ogallala newspaper, which is published twice a week.

He is a May, 1983 graduate of the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls. From September of 1982 to May of 1983, he served as associate sports editor at the Northern Iowa newspaper, where he wrote stories, headlines and cutlines, edited copy, laid out and pasted up copy and assigned stories to reporters and writers.

Prather began working as sports editor at the Keith County News in August of 1983.

His duties there included writing stories, headlines and cutlines; editing copy; laying out and pasting up copy; taking photographs; and covering nine high schools and activities at Lake McCaughy and the surrounding area.

During this time, he has received a first place award in the "Best Sports Column" competition during the 111th annual Nebraska Press Association Convention for Class C newspapers.

Join will replace Jackie Osten, who resigned from the Wayne Herald at the end of May to accept a job at Wayne State College.

He is single and lists his interests as sports, writing and reading.

NEBRASKA'S DEPARTMENT of Economic Development Monday awarded its largest grant in dollars ever — $1.4 million — for a new Timpette, Inc. refrigerated semi-trailer manufacturing plant in Wayne. The grant will help Timpette train workers and buy machinery for the Wayne plant. DED officials presented the grant on the basis of Timpette's success in David City, the number of jobs the new plant will create and the diversity it will supply in the Wayne area. On Tuesday, Wayne city officials and Timpette signed a master agreement which included all interested parties involved with the package. At Monday's signing ceremony were, from left: Ken Allred, executive vice-president of Timpette; Jim Remick, president of Timpette; Jean Garvey, division of community affairs program manager; Don Dworak, DED director; W. A dental education program has been added to the Friday, June 21, Cuming County Women, Infants and Children and Immunization Clinic in Wisner.

Dr. Stephan Becker, DDS, of Wisner will be on hand at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 10 a.m. to offer information to clinic participants. The clinic marks the start of both the WIC program and free immunizations in Cuming county.

Vouchers are distributed to those who meet income guidelines for items such as milk, cheese, eggs, iron-fortified formula, infant cereal and infant juice.

The immunization clinic, running from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, is open to children aged from two months of age and will consist of the children's series DTP, polio and MMR immunizations. Parents or legal guardians must accompany the children and bring the child's immunization records. The serum will be furnished by the Nebraska Department of Health.

For more information concerning any program offered at the Wisner clinic, please contact Goldenrod Hills CAC at 846-5493.

PMC benefits from shared services program

Patients at Providence Medical Center of Wayne are benefiting from a new portable echocardiography unit used there through the Shared Services program of St. Luke's Regional Medical Center.

St. Luke's travels to Wayne and five other area communities on a contract basis to perform echocardiography testing on patients. The hospital is using the new equipment, which costs $54,000, thanks to funding from St. Luke's Auxiliary.

The new echo unit is important, says Bob Motz, St. Luke's outreach respiratory therapist, because it is state-of-the-art technology that enables patients to be evaluated in their own community hospitals.

Motz says the unit is a good example of the growing use of portable equipment today which allows smaller community hospitals to offer specialized services previously available only in larger regional medical centers.

Community hospitals get the services of a trained technician and sophisticated technology, Motz adds, but they don't have to keep the technician on their payroll or buy costly equipment.

Echocardiograms, the St. Luke's therapist says, use ultrasound to measure heart valve and wall motion to reveal disorders of the heart. Sound waves are reflected off the heart to produce an image of the heart muscle, its valves and chambers on a monitor.

During the test, Motz attaches electrodes to the patient's chest to monitor the heart rate and then places a transducer on the chest. The sound wave image of the heart is portrayed on the unit's monitor and recorded on video tape. After Motz performs the procedure at the area hospital, he takes the videotape back to St. Luke's for interpretation by a Sioux City cardiologist. A report is telephoned back to the area hospital within 24 hours, and a written interpretation by the cardiologist immediately follows.

Echocardiography is just one of several cardiology services St. Luke's provides to area hospitals.

Motz points out, St. Luke's also performs holter monitor testing, EKG overread services, pacemaker evaluations and service in other areas such as nutrition consultations, respiratory therapy and lung function studies.

Crop protection

Nebraska Governor Robert Kerrey is encouraging interested individuals to write to Merritt Sprague, who is manager of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation with the U.S. Department of agriculture in Washington, D.C. Why?

Because the federal government administration has proposed to turn the Federal Crop Insurance over to private insurance companies, according to one area federal crop agent.

According to Governor Kerrey, the Administration is proposing to phase out premium subsidies (up to 30 percent) which are paid to farmers in order to help defray participation costs and to encourage them to rely on this self-help alternative to the disaster programs.

Secondly, the FCIC is attempting to phase out its direct policy writing program and simply play the role of reinsuring private insurance companies.

While it appears appealing on the outside to reduce subsidization and return to the private sector, on the inside it is tearing away at a source of insurance which many farmers in Nebraska have counted on for decades.

According to the area federal crop agent, the changes that have been proposed or indicated, if under the influence of private companies, include:

- Eliminating units so that the farmer would have only one unit per state, regardless of how widely separated his farm tracts are located.

- Increasing the premiums by a minimum of 50 percent on up to 400 percent.

- Denial of insurance is the right of private companies. They may have refused to insure crops in some areas and states, or individual farmers with bad crop experiences.

Governor Kerrey said some Nebraska farmers may no longer be able to purchase crop insurance, even if they could afford it. Those in high risk areas, such as dry beans, will likely find private companies unwilling to cover them.

The Federal Crop Insurance program has, for decades, been an important tool for farmers in securing advance credit and also serves as protection for their crops against natural disaster such as hail, wind damage or drought. Under the present system of federal crop insurance, farmers have the protection of the government which assures him the right to insure any major crop in any area regardless of high risks, and at an affordable cost.

We find no argument in Governor Kerrey's statement that this change is unconscionable, particularly during these times of financial crisis in agriculture.

Pulling the federal crop insurance rug out from under farmers, after encouraging its use, is a manipulative abuse of the state's ag product producers.

Facing today's economic realities

by Richard Leshner

In May, thousands of business and vacation travelers were stranded when United Airlines pilots went out on strike. Losses mounted for United at the rate of $3 million to $15 million a day, and the days stretched into weeks.

And the most startling aspect of this destructive walkout was that the pilots were not even striking over their wages. They were attempting to shed down the nation's largest airline over the wages of future employees.

The original issue in the strike was United's desire to implement a two-tier wage system. Under a two-tier pay scale, existing employees retain current pay, benefits and scheduled increases. New employees are brought in at a lower rate. Such systems are not entirely new — they were first implemented on a large scale in the late 1970s. — Two-tier systems are in place in companies like American Airlines, U.S. Air, Frontier Airlines, Greyhound, Lockheed, Boeing, McDonnell-

Douglas, Giant Foods, Safeway, UPS and Dow Chemical. Even United's flight attendants have accepted a two-tier system.

But opponents of two-tier wage systems complain that the unfairness inherent in such a system — workers getting different pay for the same job — would harm productivity and morale; and that employees would ultimately try to phase higher-paid senior employees out of the work force. Union leaders argue that two-tier wages are a dagger aimed at the hearts of their organizations, pitting worker against worker in this way. They argue, would undermine union solidarity — leaving a chink in their armor as they negotiate for higher wages and benefits.

BUT IN FACT, the two-tier systems seems a truly Socratic solution to the dilemmas presented by structural changes in the economy. This is especially true in industries which, like airlines, are making the transition from regulation to free price competition in a deregulated market.

Facing stiff competition from new airlines — some of them employee-owned or non-union and paying pilots from $50,000 to $85,000 in wages and benefits — United is finding it tough to keep the red ink out of the bottom line while footing a compensation package averaging $125,000 per pilot. The airline had just $259,000 in profits last year on revenues of $6.2 billion.

The two-tier wage system would allow United some breathing room in the breakneck competition. American Airline's package, for example, is saying that company $100 million a year.

But the two-tier system is a blessing for workers, too. Senior employees find their wages and benefits preserved — and their jobs when a two-tier pact saves the company from bankruptcy or layoffs. And a two-tier system creates jobs for new employees that might not otherwise exist because of tight costs. The response to calls for replacement employees in recent strikes, including United's, indicates that many workers would be more than grateful to accept work at the second-tier wage.

Finally, as the two-tier wage allows industries to return to good health, it might eliminate the need for its own existence. American Airlines is finding some of its second-tier employees being wooed away as increased business creates new demand for skilled employees. A healthy jobs market creates its own demand.

A fairly agreed-to and carefully monitored two-tiered system has something in it for everyone: lower costs for employees, protection for senior workers and jobs for new ones and lower prices for consumers. It's time for organized labor to wake up and face the realities of today's economy.

Protecting Nebraskans

Law may 'trigger' interstate banking

Protect Nebraska from Interstate Banking Trigger. The State of Nebraska could be forced to allow nationwide interstate banking if Congress passes an interstate banking bill in its present form and if L.B. 452, which is pending before the Nebraska Legislature, is passed.

At a House Banking Committee session last week, I made my second attempt in two weeks to protect the State of Nebraska from a law that would trigger interstate banking in any state that permitted it to occur. And for a second time, the Banking Committee voted in favor of the provision, which would force any state with regional banking laws to permit nationwide interstate banking by July 1, 1990, or within two years of the time the regional banking laws are enacted if such enactment comes after 1990.

Nebraska does not have regional banking laws and would not be affected by the trigger at present. However, L.B. 452 would permit regional banking and would thus 'trigger' interstate banking in Nebraska. Earlier this month, during subcommittee action on the House bill, I supported a provision which would trigger regional banking but would not trigger interstate banking at any point. That provision was rejected.

Last week, I pointed out to the full Banking Committee that Congressional action to permit regional banking is no longer necessary. The Supreme Court decision announced the beginning of the end of the right of the States to form regional banking systems without any further Congressional action. I told my colleagues that, if the Committee were to remove the trigger provision from the bill, then the States could create regional banking systems if they wish, but nothing would force them to accept nationwide interstate banking with a few years.

With the trigger in the bill, all states that now permit regional banking and those states that pass laws to permit regional banking in the future will be forced into interstate banking.

Job outlook. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has prepared a publication entitled, The Job Outlook in Brief, that highlights their projections of job prospects in the next decade. These projections can help a young person deciding what to study in school or an older person contemplating a career change.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics sees the highest growth rates for high-tech jobs: mechanical and electrical engineers, computer programmers, systems analysts, and electrical and electronic technicians. Interestingly, some occupations that do not have very high growth rates will actually need the greatest total of workers, according to these projections. These occupations include building custodians, retail sales workers, secretaries, teachers (for the first time in a number of years), and truck drivers.

Some professions are expected to have part-time opportunities due to a large number of openings and high turnover. These include bank tellers, bookkeepers, secretaries, and shipping and receiving clerks.

Individuals who want a copy of The Job Outlook in Brief should send $1.50 to the Consumer Information Center, Department 124N, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Pharmacy School

I have lived in Northeast Nebraska for over 10 years. I have competed for Wakefield against many of the schools in this area in basketball, drama, and vocal music. You have always been very supportive of your teams. Now I would like to ask you to support YOUR university system. I believe Nebraska has many things to offer to its citizens and I also feel threatened that we may soon lose something that our state is known for, a College of Pharmacy which graduates some of the top pharmacists in the nation.

On Saturday, June 8, Chancellor Charles Andrews of the University of Nebraska Medical Center made a recommendation to the Board of Regents to eliminate the College of Pharmacy and the Lincoln Division of the College of Nursing.

I am a firm believer in education and believe that education is important to the well being of this state. It makes me sad to see educational opportunities for the citizens of this state no longer offered.

I am proud of this state and the fact that it has such an excellent and strong program for pharmacy. We were recognized around the country as one of the leaders in pharmacy education. Pharmacy is important to the education that goes on at the Medical Center. My final year will be spent on clinical clerkship which will give me a chance to work with physicians, medical students, nurses, nursing students and a number of other people who are involved in the care of the patients. We have an active role in the medical treatment of these patients when it comes to their drug therapy.

We recommend which drugs may be more useful in patients with different diseases, inform both the patient and the medical staff about possible complications which may result from the use of certain agents and watch for adverse effects or problems that may be related to drug therapy. In this way we are vital to the Medical Center. These are the situations that take place in a hospital setting more than in a community but we also go out into the rural communities for educational experience in community and hospital pharmacy. We have a unique opportunity to experience all aspects of pharmacy.

The question I would like to ask you is "What is going to happen to rural Nebraska in 10 years?" I cannot answer that question. I hope to be practicing in the rural areas of the state but a shortage of pharmacists already exists in this state as well as across the nation. Closing the College of Pharmacy will only make matters worse!

I am not writing this because I am afraid I will not graduate. I will be writing this because I hope that other citizens of Nebraska will have the opportunities that I have had. The College of Pharmacy is an outstanding institution which any Nebraskan should be proud to send their sons or daughters to. When you have a good program such as this, why let it go? I urge you to write the regent of this area, Margaret Robinson, your State Senator, the Governor (who graduated from the College of Pharmacy) and the Chancellor of the Medical Center, Charles Andrews.

Please express your concerns about eliminating quality educational programs such as the College of Pharmacy. Your opinion does count because you are the people that own and support the University of Nebraska.

Following are the addresses: Regent Margaret Robinson, P.O. Box 1129, Norfolk, NE 68701. Elroy M. Heffner, Box 36, Coleridge, NE 68727. The Honorable Robert E. Kerrey, Governor, State of Nebraska, State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509. Chancellor Charles Andrews, UNMC, 42nd and Dewey, Omaha, NE 68105. Gerald Conway, 1115 Lawndale Dr., Wayne, NE 68787.

At Homer

Wayne's 18 and under win league tourney

Wayne's 18 and under girls softball team defeated Pender twice — a team that beat them earlier in the year — as they went on to capture the Ralph Bishop League Tournament, played during the past weekend at Homer.

After beating Dakota City 16-4 in their first game of the four-day tournament, Wayne played Pender and won by a 6-2 score. In the semi-finals, Wayne handled Newcastle easily, 10-0, and then shut-out Pender (coming out of the loser's bracket) by a 9-0 score to win the tournament.

Pender (first game)

Five errors committed by Pender plus the two-hit pitching by Roni Johnson aided Wayne in its second win of the Ralph Bishop League Tournament.

First baseman Lisa Jacobsen pounded out three of Wayne's total seven hits in the game — all singles. Shortstop Karen Longe had two singles against Pender.

Getting one hit each were rightfielder Sarah Lebsack and third baseman Laura Keating.

Wayne scored one run in the first inning after Jacobsen bunted a single, advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Paula Koplin and later scored on a single by Longe.

Pender came back with two runs on two hits in the bottom half of the first inning. Those were the only runs Pender could muster in the next six innings of action.

The 2-1 Pender lead was overcome by Wayne in the third inning. Keating and Jacobsen both smacked singles and scored the Wayne runs following an error by the Pender third baseball and Longe's second single of the game.

Lisa Jacobsen's third hit in as many times at bat produced a run in the fourth inning, scoring second baseman Cathy Mohfeld who reached base on an error.

Wayne's final two runs came in the top of the fifth, after Longe reached on an error, Lebsack walked and a ball hit by Roni Johnson was misplayed by the Pender shortstop. Johnson went the distance for Wayne, allowing just two singles the first inning. She struck out six and walked none.

Against Newcastle

Wayne's 18 and under girls advanced to the finals of the tournament as they coasted to a 10-0 win over Newcastle.

Roni Johnson again picked up the win — this time allowing only one hit in a seven inning stretch. She struck out nine and walked six in the win.

Wayne's hitters could only muster three hits, but capitalized on eight Newcastle errors and eight walks issued by the opposing pitcher.

Lisa Jacobsen, Paula Koplin and Lori Jacobsen each drew consecutive walks and Jacobsen scored on a miscue by the Newcastle third baseman to account for Wayne's first run.

After scoring a single run in the third inning, Wayne scored four more in the fourth after Laura Keating reached first on a fielders choice, advanced to second and third base following wild pitches and later scored on a passed ball.

Lisa Jacobsen walked, Koplin got to first after an error by the Newcas-

the pitcher, Lori Jacobsen was safe at first on an error and Lebsack and Johnson both drew walks.

Wayne tallied their final four runs of the game in the seventh after Lebsack singled, Johnson walked, Mohfeld reached on an error and Kolefte Frevert walked and Shelly Janke and Paula Koplin singled.

Getting Wayne's three hits were Janke, Koplin and Lebsack.

Beat Pender again

Roni Johnson fired another one-hitter as Wayne blanked Pender to win the Ralph Bishop League Tournament championship Sunday evening. Wayne had seven hits in the game, four of those by the Jacobsens — two singles each by Lisa and Lori Jacobsen.

Lisa Jacobsen scored Wayne's first run in the first inning after she singled, stole second, advanced to third on an error and later scored on a single hit by Lori Jacobsen.

Two more runs were added by Wayne in the fourth inning when Sarah Lebsack got on base after a rightfielder's error and Roni Johnson, Kolefte Frevert and Lisa Jacobsen all singled.

Johnson allowed one hit the whole seven innings, striking out five and walking one Pender batter.

Each getting one hit for Wayne were Paula Koplin, Johnson and Frevert.

Wayne Midgets win games against Pender, Emerson

Wayne's Midgets got back on the winning track, upping their record to 5-1, with a come from behind 8-5 victory Friday evening over Pender.

Pender had built a 5-0 lead as Wayne came to bat in the bottom half of the sixth inning. The bats came alive for Wayne as they tallied eight runs in the bottom of the sixth, on six hits.

Rob Rabe, who relieved Jason Jorgensen in the top of the fourth inning, gave up a single in Pender's seventh inning. After a Pender pop-up to the second baseman, Wayne ended the game with a double play combination from Rabe to shortstop Ted Lueders, who tossed to first baseman Steve Lutt.

Pender scored one run in the first inning, a single run in the third, two runs in the fourth and another run in the sixth inning. Pender pitcher Hinrich had one hit — the Wayne Midgets until the sixth inning.

Each getting a hit in the sixth inning eight run rally for Wayne were Lueders, a triple; Russ Longe (a double), Scott Nichols, Rob Gamble (a triple) and Bill Landanger.

Lueders had two hits to pace Wayne's hitting attack. Landanger, Longe, Nichols, Gamble and Jorgensen each had one hit.

Against Emerson

In a shortened game because of the 10 run rule, the Wayne Midgets came away from Emerson with a 11-0 win.

Ted Lueders went the distance on the mound and picked up the win, allowing only three Emerson hits, striking out 12 while walking three.

Wayne managed eight hits, three of those coming from Ted McCright who blasted two doubles and a single. Rob Gamble was also perfect from the plate, going two for two hitting a single and a double.

Wayne tallied three runs on two errors and singles hit by Gamble and McCright. They rang up two more runs in the fifth inning after Russ Longe was hit by a pitch. Steve Lutt singled, Gamble walked and McCright doubled.

They capped the scoring in the top of the sixth with five runs. Bill Liske and Bill Sperry led off by reaching base on an error. Scott Pokett also got on after an error. Three consecutive doubles by Jason Jorgensen, Baier and McCright followed and brought in all the runs Wayne needed to end the ballgame early.

The win put the Wayne Midget record at 6-1.

Wayne Juniors greet Mankato with win

The Mankato Junior Legion found the Wayne Junior Legion team opportunistic last Saturday as the locals defeated the Minnesota travelers by a 4-2 margin.

It was a pitcher's duel, as Wayne's Jeff Sherer, the winner, and reliever Jeff Hausmann combined to allowed Mankato three hits, five walks, two hit batsmen and seven strikeouts. Mankato's Bastian held Wayne to just two hits, one each by Steve Overlin and Jeff Hausmann. In striking out 10 and walking six.

Wayne went up 1-0 in the third inning after Shannon Dorcey walked, stole second and third base and later scored on a passed ball.

After loading the bases and failing to score in the fourth inning, Wayne put together three runs in the fifth inning. Kevin Maly, who reached base on a fielder's choice, stole second, advanced to third after a wild pitch and later scored on a balk by the Mankato pitcher.

Dan Gross, who had drawn a walk, advanced to second base on a balk. A ball hit by Scott Baker went through the Mankato second basemen, allowing another run to score.

Both Mankato runs, scored in the sixth inning, came with no hits. After Jeff Sherer walked a batter and the Wayne infield committed an error, Jeff Hausmann came on to pitch. Hausmann hit two Mankato batters, but then settled down to allow two hits and no walks while striking out four in completing the game.

Against Emerson

The Wayne Juniors bombarded Emerson with 19 runs on 12 hits in five innings of play in coasting to a 19-0 shut-out Monday evening at Emerson.

Wayne got on the scoreboard in the first inning after Kevin Maly advanced to second on an error, moved to third base and later scored on passed balls thrown by the Emerson pitcher.

Dan Gross walked and Steve Overlin followed with a strong single, scoring Gross.

In the second inning, Emerson pitching gave up consecutive walks to Dan Larsen, Shannon Dorcey, Jeff Sherer and Maly before Dan Gross unleashed a double to drive in two of Wayne's 12 runs. A hit by Overlin drove in two more runs.

After a walk to Chris Wieselser and an error by Emerson, three more Wayne players were walked. Gross then followed with his second double of the inning, bringing in two more runs. Wieselser punched out one more single before the 12-run inning was over.

Wayne was held scoreless during the third and fourth innings, but added five more runs in the fifth inning when Baker was walked and pitcher Don Larsen clubbed a home run. The local Juniors then got a single from Casey Nichols, a double by Sherer and a triple by Maly. Overlin also came through with a base hit in that inning.

Larsen struck out 10 Emerson batters in five innings of play and allowed just one hit, that being off the bat of second basemen Daum.

Uhing-Dahl involved with All-Star game

At NTCC in Norfolk

Unlike past years when the hard-court season drew out to early June with the conclusion of the NBA playoffs, the roundball junkies get new life in 1985 just as they did in '84 as the kickoff of the 2nd annual Northeast Nebraska All-Star basketball classic is scheduled for Saturday, June 22 with a 7:30 start.

This event, like the Nebraska Coaches' Association contest played in August, includes outstanding graduated seniors making up a North versus South class divided by Highway 275.

Gary Chvala head basketball coach at Spencer High School, assisted by Bob Uhing of Wayne, will be the North head coach. Rick Hesse of Clearwater, assisted by Jim Morrison of Howells will tutor the South all-stars.

Tickets will cost $2 for everyone and no advance tickets will be sold this year. The North beat the South squad 85-80 before an excellent crowd of 1500 in the '84 all-star game.

Hesse, who led his Clearwater Cardinals to their second straight Class D-2 basketball title, will bring along sparkling Rick Kerkman in hopes of gaining a bit of revenge after last year's setback. Chvala, after another successful campaign at the Pirate school, will accompany Mark Thompson, a 6-3 center at Spencer this past winter.

Other South members include: Kevin Asher, O'Neill, St. Mary's; Brent Bauer, Newman Grove; Ross Determan, Norfolk, Catholic; Dan Cully, Leigh; Kelly Hoffman, West Point; Keith Janata, Howells; Todd Johnson, Howells; Thad Livingston, Atkinson West Hof; Jay Scheel, Battle Creek; Tom Warth, Madison; Pat Wordtekemper, West Point.

Sioux City, Wisner fall victim to Wakefield

Wakefield's Junior Legion won two games and lost two during baseball action played last weekend.

In two games played last Friday, Wakefield was on the losing end of a doubleheader against visiting Mankato by scores of 14-13 and 18-2. Wade Nicholson's three-run homer helped Wakefield to an early 10-2 lead. However, Mankato capitalized on 13 hits and nine Wakefield errors to gain the win.

Both teams were guilty of sloppy play, according to Coach Paul Eaton. Nicholson, Larry Ballinger and Mike Nelson each gathered two hits for Wakefield in the opening loss. In the second game, Mankato rapped out 20 hits to score 18 runs on their way to an easy win. Kirt Roberts, Mike Nelson, Doug Roberts and John Halverson delivered Wakefield's only hits.

Against Sioux City, Sioux City Post 44B came into Wakefield on Sunday and were soundly defeated by the host Junior Legion team by a 10-0 score. In a game shortened by the 10 run rule, Wakefield's first run came in the first inning when Jason Erb socked a double and later crossed home plate. In the second inning, Mike Nelson reached base on an error and scored Wakefield's second run following singles by Brian Soderberg and John Halverson.

Then in the bottom of the fifth inning, Wakefield scored seven runs

Darwin Synder opened the inning with a walk, Mark Kubik cracked a double, Larry Ballinger blasted a triple, Kipp Utemark walked, Kirt Roberts singled, Mike Nelson walked, Jason Erb singled and Soderberg walked.

Wakefield rapped off total seven hits in the game, led by Erb's two hits. The winning pitcher for Wakefield was Kipp Utemark; who struck out four and walked two while giving up just three hits.

Win at Wisner Darwin Synder hit a two-run homer and three Wakefield Juniors got two hits each as they defeated Wisner Monday evening by a 8-2 score. Wakefield lead-off centerfielder Jason Erb and Synder teamed together to score Wakefield's first two runs of the game in the first inning. Erb singled and with one out, Synder powdered a home run.

The Wakefield Juniors added to their run total in the fourth inning after a walk to Erb, a single by Soderberg, sacrifice by Synder and consecutive singles by Mark Kubik and Larry Ballinger.

They scored three runs in the sixth inning when Erb led off with a walk. Soderberg hit his second single of the game, Synder's hit was erased by the Wisner rightfielder, Kubik executed a sacrifice, Ballinger doubled and Mike Nelson's hit got by the Wisner first baseman. Hits were recorded by Doug Roberts, Colby Meyer and Mark one seventh inning and scored two runs on a double, single and two walks.

Winning pitcher was Larry Ballinger who gave up four hits, struck out three and walked four.

Wakefield players each getting two hits were Soderberg, Kubik and Ballinger.

This Wednesday evening the Wakefield Midgets and Juniors are scheduled to play two games at Overlin Field. Midgets loss Wakefield's Midget baseball team lost a 7-4 decision to Wisner Monday evening. Hits were recorded by Doug Roberts, Colby Meyer and Mark Johnson. The losing pitcher was Todd Kratke; who walked four, and struck out eight and gave up five hits.

On to Minnesota From Thursday, June 20 to Sunday, June 23, the Wakefield Junior Legion team will take their trip to Minnesota. They are leaving on Thursday and will play Sleepy Eye at 5 p.m.

On Friday, they travel to Minneapolis to play Lennox at 10 a.m. In the Wednesday and later will win the Minnesota Twins battle the Texas Rangers. On Saturday, they will play St. James at 3 p.m. and Worthington at 7 p.m.

Going back in time

Bibletime marketplace

By LaVon Anderson

Members of the First United Methodist Church in Wayne were invited to take a trip last week — back to a small village in Palestine during Jesus' lifetime.

The excursion into the past was part of a unique vacation Bible school experience and involved nursery age youngsters through adults. Classes were held nightly, June 10-14, and centered around a "Marketplace — 29 A.D."

Participants were divided into several tribes common in Jesus' lifetime and throughout the week visited and apprenticed at various shops in a re-created village complete with a basket weaver, brick maker, stone cutter, carpenter, bake shop, sweet shop, symbol shop, scribe, kite shop and pottery shop. There also was music appreciation, drama and storytelling.

COORDINATOR DENNIS LIPP said this year's Bible school event was designed so that participants could experience what life was like when Jesus was on earth.

At the closing program on Friday, Lipp said participants danced the traditional Israeli hora and shared what the week's experiences meant to them personally.

"It was a lot of work, but absolutely the greatest experience," said Lipp, adding that attendance each night of Bible school averaged 120 persons.

Lipp also credited the nearly 65 persons who had a part in putting on the week's events. "Everyone did a super, super job," said Lipp, adding that any church could organize a similar event and he would be more than happy to offer any advice or suggestions.

UP WITH AGRICULTURE

By David Garst

Read carefully the words of Mike "Black Elk" Stuart, an American Indian living in Omaha, Nebraska, and a state winner in the UP WITH AGRICULTURE.

Writing Contest we sponsored for FFA kids this year:

"As I sat by the pond watching the sun and listening to the leaves rustling through the trees, I felt myself slipping into the past. I saw the summer prairie grass and the never-ending herds of buffalo that my forefathers saw. I felt the sorrow my people felt when the first white man came to the white man. I looked at my reflection and ran my fingers through the water. I felt the tears my people cried. Enough tears to fill this pond. I love this land, too."

"We in America are indebted to the American Indian. He was the first to till the soil of North America, and the first to understand the richness locked within it. He was the first to harvest golden ears of maize that he fed to feed the value of this crop, which is our nation's greatest. Just think! These small patches of Indian corn are ancestors to the tall, high-yielding hybrid corn that boasts millions of acres today. There's no more fascinating tale of genealogy to be told.

The American Indian made efficient use of the huge herds of buffalo that grazed the Great Plains. And he knew the importance of using every piece of meat, every inch of hide.

"Perhaps most importantly," the American Indian was the first to nurture the special symbiotic relationship between man and the land, the first to realize that whatever we take from the land must be replaced. He was our first conservationist, environmentalist, and guardian of the land."

To the American Indian, the land was everything. He drew his strength from it. And his blood fell like rain on the land he fought to protect.

We in American agriculture cannot share the sorrow of the American Indian. But we can share his love of the land. And we can promise to protect the legacy for which he wept.

Enough tears to fill a pond.

Corn borers and stalk rot

Producers should be aware there is a close relationship between corn borer activity and stalk rot, according to Dave Wyson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Nebraska.

"Stalk rot is a disease of stressed plants," Wyson said. "Anytime plants are stressed, either through drought or insect deficiencies or heavy plant population, we see increased stalk rot. We needed to find out if corn borers were causing the stress."

"Research was done by spraying on insecticide through a center-pivot over a pie shaped plot. The object was to try to gain control of either the first or second brood of corn borer, and then score the plants for the amount of insect damage, the incidents of stalk rot and grain yields."

"It was discovered that control of both the first and second broods resulted in the lowest level of corn borer activity, suppressed stalk rot and obtained the highest corn yields."

The research showed the application of the insecticide took care of the insects and made the plant healthier, more vigorous, and less stressful, Wyson said. If there is less stress, there will be fewer corn borer cavities and less opportunity for stalk rot.

"The most exciting thing was the close correlation we found between corn borer activity and stalk rot," Wyson said. "We determined that if corn borer activity could be controlled, then we would have less stalk rot and consequently, higher yields."

Fertilizer for Sudan Grass

Sudan Grass or hybrid Sudan usually require fertilizer for good forage yields. During years when drought stress is heavy, excessive amounts of nitrogen fertilizer should be avoided since more varieties of Sudan grass are nitrate accumulators when growth is restricted. Providing adequate levels of phosphorus may reduce nitrate accumulation, but will not eliminate it if stress is severe. It is best to base the fertilizer recommendation on a soil test. If the soil is known to be low or very low in available phosphorus, use 30 to 40 pounds of phosphate per acre.

Use caution when applying herbicides

Trees are susceptible to weed sprays. Wind-carried herbicides can travel long distances to cause dieback of foliage and, in extreme cases, death of the tree.

Damage to walnuts from 2,4-D drift has been noted several miles away from the spray location. Even though recovery from herbicide damage may be noted later in the summer, the tree can be seriously weakened. Trees in a weakened condition are easy prey for insects and disease.

To avoid the danger of drift, exercise judgment when spraying. Don't make field application when wind velocity exceeds eight m.p.h. Wind causes poor coverage and excessive drift. Be sure spraying equipment is in good condition and properly calibrated. Use extreme care when spraying 2,4-D, Dicamba, or similar herbicides near vegetables, flowers, trees, and broadleaf crops.

Significant numbers favor checkoff

A national 100% pork producer checkoff could become a reality as early as January, 1986, if pork producers approve a plan they'll be considering in the next month and a half.

As a result of action taken at a board meeting of the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), pork producers in the 38 states which constitute the national organization will have the opportunity to consider the concept of a national, legislated checkoff. The results of local and state discussions will be considered at a Special Session of NPPC delegates July 23-25 at the Airport Hyatt Hotel in Des Moines.

"The members of the NPPC Board of Directors are taking the checkoff concept and enabling legislation back to their states to discuss with local pork producers," said Ron Kahle, NPPC president. "We plan to get significant input from producers into all facets of the plan before the special delegate meeting in July. At that meeting, the 150 NPPC delegates will review the concept and enabling legislation with any revisions necessary so it can be presented to Congress."

A just completed poll of the 110,000 members of the NPPC with regard to the 100% checkoff showed a significant response in favor of the national checkoff. Of the 10,266 producers who had responded by June 3, NPPC officials report 81% were in favor of the national checkoff.

A special Task Force with participants from all 38 member states is being formed to review delegate representation and to assist in explaining the checkoff plan to local producers.

THE PLAN LOCAL producers will be considering is the culmination of over a year of consideration and study by the National Pork Producers Council. Discussion on the concept of a legislated checkoff began in 1984 with delegates giving policy approval for an in-depth study and evaluation by the Executive Committee of the current plan at their annual meeting in March 1985.

According to Kahle, delegates will decide if the 100% checkoff should be introduced to Congress as part of the 1985 Farm Bill in early August or as separate legislation.

"At present we believe the checkoff will have the best chance of passage if it is introduced as part of the Farm Bill," Kahle said, "since the current climate in Washington is toward more self-help by farmers. We are hopeful of passage by November 1 with implementation as early as January 1, 1986."

Under the new checkoff proposal importers of hogs and pork products from foreign nations would be required to participate in the funding program.

As a federal act, the new checkoff would be administered by the USDA. However, operators of the program and decisions on the use of checkoff funds would be delegated to the producer delegate body, national board and executive committee of NPPC.

The funds generated by the new checkoff would increase the amount of money available for pork promotion, research and education activities, Kahle reports. The additional money would come at a time when the nation's pork producers face major challenges.

"There are growing consumer diet/health concerns regarding red meat," said Kahle. "In addition, the U.S. is an importer of pork rather than an exporter and that is another reason for concern. These are just two of the issues facing the nation's pork producers which we can effectively address on a national basis with an increase in promotional funding."

"We see this proposal as a chance for the federal government to help farmers help themselves at no cost to the nation's taxpayers," the NPPC president said.

By now, you know that I like potluck and reunions, and I attend every one that comes along. Nothing's easier than making a pan of lasagna and putting it on a table full of salads, casseroles and desserts: instant smorgasbord!

Tonight I went to a get-together of old Lutheran Hospital employees. As a 25-year veteran, I'm one of the old timers. Besides, I worked five years in the old building, and lots of people working there today don't even know where the old building is.

At one time, it was a training school for nurses; and there were several of its graduates still around until the last five years. They could tell some tales about escapades in the dorm, long work days and cleaning and sterilizing all the equipment.

Even in my day, we each rotated to central supply, and washed, nemas, cleaned and sharpened needles and washed, dried and powdered gloves.

In the nursery, diapers were cloth, and formula was prepared on the premises each morning.

I'm proud of modern-day health care, but I miss the camaraderie we shared in the smaller facility. I know I wouldn't want to go back to the station days that were rescue units.

MEDICAL PEOPLE have a macabre sense of humor; just ask the Big Farmer. One fellow told of an undrained wooden leg that was placed in the back seats of autos driven by salesman and appeared periodically in the office.

A friend on second floor related how a pink lady came up to get a patient for x-ray. There was an IV going. It was placed on a portable stand and the patient got into a wheelchair. At the elevator, the patient was wheeled on, the doors closed, first floor button was pushed, and the IV stand and the IV were left on second. Once, the contents of a room in which a patient had been in isolation were sent for sterilizing. The odor became unbearable while the autoclave heated up. The source of the smell became apparent when it cooled down and the bedpan was removed. Someone had neglected to empty it before sending it! Of course, the guilty party was never found, so there was no use getting mad about it.

Tales of snow storms when people could not leave or arrive, so whoever was there just stayed or slept in shifts and even prepared meals, were recounted. Hospitals do not close down for weather.

"Anyway, we ate a lot, and talked a lot, and laughed a lot. Which is what goes on at reunions, of course, army buddies or people who have worked together. And, as is proper, time makes the memories funnier, the friendships dearer, the shared experiences more special.

AS THE OLD saying goes, "If you don't like the weather in Nebraska, wait awhile." There was record breaking heat on the 8th and record cool the following week. Today the wind was awful. Last week there were numerous scattered showers."

I was alone in the church on Friday afternoon, practicing the organ. I was working on an arrangement of "How Great Thou Art," and as I came to the conclusion, I "let out the stops." As I raised my hands from the keys, the rain came! And the "rolling thunder." Guess I should have played a few more verses, we only got 30."

All those 13thies with the big purple blooms are showing up. How persistent they are. I don't know of any other green growing thing that proliferates like they do. If only they were edible.

Requires good range management Intensity on grazing grows

In the past 10 years, range management has changed a great deal. According to George Pfeiffer, assistant professor of agricultural economics at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, today's managers are moving away from the old cattlemen's adage that proper management of pasture land takes one-half of the grass and leaves the other half.

Instead of this type of management, they are intensifying their operations—using the rangeland in a fashion consistent with good range management and holding productivity of the pasture over time, while also harvesting more forage.

Pfeiffer said there are difficulties in increased use of pasture. While intensifying crop production involves adding more inputs every year, intensifying range resources involves substantial capital costs.

HE SAID THESE costs include additional cross fences and water developments and trying to bunch cattle closer together in a more confined area and then moving them more quickly to another location. The aim of intensive grazing is to remove a larger amount of forage during a shorter interval. This type of operation requires pastures that are smaller than typical for extensive range production.

"Proper range management requires extremely diligent and competent management," he said. "Getting cattle on and off the pasture land at the proper point in time is very important. On an intensively grazed area, keeping cattle on it a day or two too long can do serious damage to the pasture stand."

PEIFFER SAID the manager has to be on top of his operation at all times. It's vital for the manager to know what's going on and how things have to be run in order to maximize the removal of forage and at the same time leave the pasture.

Pfeiffer sees future expansion of the intensive pasture management system. "The system is not right for everyone and it won't necessarily work in all circumstances, but for those producers with the proper resources, it offers them an opportunity to increase their net income and do a better job of managing their grass property."

Weed science tour scheduled

Weed control research at the Northeast Research and Extension Center will be discussed during a twilight tour on Monday, June 24, 1985. The tour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and end with a lunch provided by co-sponsoring commercial companies.

Performance of herbicides in corn, soybeans, and small grains will be featured on the tour, according to Agronomist Russell Moomaw. Weed control in no-till crop production will also be discussed. One new concept in no-till is to preplant apply the herbicide several weeks before crop planting. That idea has worked well this year on no-till soybeans, according to Moomaw.

Several experimental soybean herbicides are also being evaluated. These are Command, Scepter, Verdict, and Cobra. This should give growers a chance to compare older compounds with the new ones, says Moomaw. Carryover potential of soybean herbicide to injure corn the next year will also be discussed, concludes Moomaw.

WAYNE COUNTY OLD SETTLERS

The 60's, 70's to 1984
Trivia Question: When was the last time a town baseball game was played on Old Settlers Day? The boys of summer no longer let like spending the hours of practice reeling in developing a good baseball team. Those hard hours of workouts were better spent boating, fishing or water skiing and it was a lot easier to show up at the ball part 10 minutes before game time for a slow pitch softball game, called kitten ball by it's detractors, that was over in an hour. Thus went an Old Settlers tradition.
Horse pulls were not exciting to a young generation of farmers who had never driven a team and would rather argue the merits of green, red or orange. The tractor pull was with another more and old adobe called the wire-corn derby. Not only could they impress the ladies but it was possible to vent frustration against man and machine alike.
Go Kart races made a single appearance at the picnic but were dropped due to the time and effort required to build and maintain the track needed to race. This high powered machine.
The Kids games hadn't changed overly much during the preceding years. Still going strong were 3-legged races, sack races, pike swinging, bicyclic races and others, some of which probably dated back to the 20's and 30's. The traditional adult entertainment such as tug-of-war, horseshoes, arm wrestling and water fights were still evident. A recent addition had been anything goes which lasted about as long as the TV show, around 3 years.
The local version probably had better ratings but was somehow unexplainably dropped from the program. Miss Nebraska selected the winner of the beard contest for the 75th anniversary of Old Settlers. The Pled Pipers provided wholesome entertainment for old and alike called the cowboy week-end singers from Nashville, street dances and soda pop along with mud runs, baton twirlers, polka bands and three wheeler pulls have all been used in an attempt to return the Wayne County Old Settlers Picnic at Winside to the glorious days of yesteryear.
Clayton Moore got his mask back so hopefully the Lone Ranger may ride again in Old Settlers' Parade.
