Process paper, cans Region IV recycling business grows

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Region IV is stretching $23,500 and its recycled paper and aluminum can project a long way toward reaching its goals of attaining competitive fulltime or part-time employment for its clients.

Twenty-eight clients at the Region IV facility on South Main Street in Wayne put in a full day of work, sorting the recyclable from the non-recyclable carbon paper.

The paper is then separated into its proper grade — form stock, computer print-out paper, white or colored ledger paper. Acid is used to test the paper's grade quality.

After the paper is sorted and graded, all but the form paper (received from Omaha Paper Stock) is shredded. From there, the paper is compressed into bales that weigh up to a half ton. Each bale is targeted to a specific paper mill that can re-use the recycled paper.

Region IV clients (persons with disabilities) began "taking in aluminum cans" about the same time as the recycled paper project began. Workers buy the cans, sort out the foreign material inside the cans, separate the steel from the aluminum and compress to load on a semi-trailer.

BUSINESS HAS been good, according to Ken Daniels, ADC coordinator at Region IV. Approximately 24,000 pounds of aluminum cans have been transported out of Region IV.

The clients sort and grade about a ton a week of form stock paper. For other types of recyclable paper grades, workers process about a half-ton every two weeks.

Shredding slows down the process of other paper," Daniels said.

Already, he said Region IV is looking toward future expansion of the recycling business, possibly obtaining a "bursting" machine (client-operated) designed to tear out the carbon paper. Cities even beyond northeast Nebraska, including Omaha, have requested a tour of the Wayne Region IV recycling operation and its facilities.

Yes, the venture is looked upon by Region IV officials as profitable — but not in dollars and cents. It is successful because it is providing much needed full-time work for the clients.

Wages are only incentives to the clients. "Ninety-five percent of everything we make goes back to the clients. The rest goes basically for overhead costs to the machines," Daniels mentioned. Piece work rate determines the wages the client will receive, based on the pounds of cans, or paper, the worker produces.

BUT MORE importantly, the recycling work is instilling some positive work ethics and good work habits into the client's busy work schedule. These tools are essential when seeking fulltime employment once away from Region IV.

The operation, which began in March of this year, is set up like a regular business day. The work day begins at 8:15 a.m. and concludes at 4:45 p.m., and the clients get a half-hour off for lunch.

"It [the recycling] really teaches the clients work ethics and production speed," Daniels said. The clients learn quality control and how to work efficiently under supervision of Region IV staff members.

"Before, there was not enough work to keep them [the clients] going," Daniels said. "Behavioral problems resulted because of boredom. Now that the clients work all day, there is not a problem with that," he said.

He said the clients take pride in filling their barrels [with cans or paper] knowing they did a good job. "It trains the people to have a skill, to obtain and hold a job," he added.

"It teaches them to know the difference between a job done properly and one not done properly.

And once the client is ready to seek outside fulltime employment, Region IV doesn't turn its back. The support of Region IV is there if the client needs it.

REGION IV GOT into the recycling program through efforts of the staff and administration and with the aid of a grant and loan.

Last August, Daniels requested some grant money from the Department of Environmental Control to be used in a recycling program. That request was approved, for $23,500, in December.

What the grant money purchased was a baler (to make the paper bales) for $7,500; a paper shredder for $2,000; a skid loader for $5,000; construction of a storage shed at $1,800; and the purchase of the older senior citizen van at $4,500. Region IV also built a loading dock outside the facility, financing the dock with remaining funds.

"We bought used equipment with a full warranty, which resulted in savings," Daniels said.

"In mid-March [1988], we opened up. At the same time, we had the opportunity to get into aluminum can recycling," Daniels said.

To obtain funds and initiate the can recycling project, a $4,000 loan was taken out to pay for the client labor and paying the public for the aluminum cans, he said.

Omaha Paper Stock donates the "form stock" paper to the Region IV recycling center. In return, Region IV turns around and sells the paper back to them.

"They [Omaha Paper Stock] provided a lot of tips, such as going out and setting up the tables [at Region IV for the sorting and grading of paper]," he said.

Competition is growing for recycled products such as paper and cans, but not in the immediate area according to Daniels. "There is a recycling operation in Sioux City and others in Lincoln and Omaha," he said.

West Point, Nebraska has also looked at the operation of Wayne's Region IV facility and appears interested in attempting to do a similar sort of recycling.

The Region IV recycling facility is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Friday and there is pick up scheduled during these times. The operation is also open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, but no pick up services will be available.

Groundbreaking set for WSC addition

Ground will be broken Wednesday (June 26) for the $3.14 million physical education, recreation and intramural addition onto Rice Auditorium-Carlson Natatorium at Wayne State College.

The official ceremony will take place at 3 p.m. at the building site north of Rice Auditorium in the northeast part of the college campus.

Along with Wayne State officials, representatives from the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges, other state officers and the project architect, Barr Vermeer & Haecker of Omaha, will be on hand for the groundbreaking.

The public is also invited to attend.

The addition will provide some 50,000 square feet of space for the college and residents of northeast Nebraska.

Nearly 75 percent of the square footage in the proposed recreational facility addition will be taken up by the multi-purpose gymnasium — a fieldhouse, type of space. What has been proposed inside the multi-purpose gymnasium is an indoor track, three to five basketball courts, tennis and badminton courts, handball and racquetball courts, gymnastics wrestling room, dance and aerobics area, meeting rooms, weight rooms for general use, a sauna and a control office. It will also be a place where football and baseball players can practice inside.

IT WAS EMPHASIZED, at the time the state college board of trustees approved the Rice/Carlson expansion project last November, that the recreational facility addition would not be used for college varsity sporting events and that it could be used by the community as well as intramural sports and student activities.

The project will be constructed on the site of the present old tennis courts north of Rice Auditorium. The date of completion is scheduled for the fall of 1987.

New tennis courts will be constructed in the northeast section of campus during the maintenance building and the varsity softball diamonds.

Summer musical scheduled June 28-29

Love and laughter are the ingredients in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," a summer musical being staged by the Wayne State College theatre department.

Performance dates are Friday and Saturday, June 28-29, at 8 p.m. nightly in Ramsey Theater on the Wayne State College campus.

Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for students. Wayne State College students and faculty will be admitted free with identification.

"A FUNNY THING Happened on the Way to the Forum" tells the story of Pseudolus, a Roman slave wanting to be free.

In order to be freed from his master, Hero, Pseudolus must bring together Hero and the girl he loves, Philia.

Philia, however, is a courtesan in the House of Lycus and has been sold to the great Captain Miles Gloriosus, who is coming to take her away very soon.

Pseudolus plans and plots ways to keep Hero and Philia together, and in the process gets himself into trouble.

DIRECTING THE summer musical is Janet Rowley. Musical director is James Zanker, and choreographer is Tom Fletcher.

The cast includes Trevor Teeters, Walihill, as Pseudolus; Tom Fletcher, Wayne, as Senex; Jodi Benton, Norfolk, as Domina; Eric Selk, Schiewig, Iowa, as Hero; Tim Renner, Howells, as Hysterium; Mitch Schulte, Emerson, as Eronius and Lycus; Jeff Moore, Wayne, as Miles; and Cindy Prouty, O'Neill, as Philia.

Other cast members are Annette Grenier of O'Neill, Gail Hummel of Woodbine, Iowa, Mary Nelson of Arthur, Iowa and Kris Zynke of Wolbach as the courtesans, and Don Wisenhunt of Wayne as Protean.

Chamber schedules promotions

Wayne's Chamber of Commerce has scheduled several events within the next week which will concern general membership, small business development, meeting of retailers and the upcoming Business-After-Hours promotion.

The general membership meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, June 25 at the Nebraska Room of the Wayne State College Student Center, from 5:45 to 6:30 p.m. Discussion is expected to center on Saturday store hours and the Wayne Herald's Bonus Bucks promotion. The retailers meeting is slated for Wednesday, June 26 at 7:30 a.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office, where upcoming promotions will be discussed.

The Business-After-Hours promotion will take place on Monday, June 24 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Black Knight in Wayne. The cost is $2 per person or $3.50 at the door and reservations are requested.

Sponsoring the event are Farm Bureau Insurance, First National Agency, Keith Jech Agency, Willis Johnson, State Farm Insurance, Lutheran Brotherhood, Northeast Nebraska Insurance and State National Insurance.

Tickets for the event are available at the Chamber office.

A NEW CHAMBER council, called Small Business Development, has been established which will be promoting expansion of Wayne's economic base. Goals for the new group, as set by the Chamber Board, will be:

•To determine the needs/opportunities for new businesses in Wayne. A Private Industry Council grant of $500 was recently awarded to the Chamber to develop a survey to assist in this assessment.

•To encourage, assist existing businesses to expand to meet consumer needs.

•To assist new/expanding businesses in areas such as financing, marketing, product/services development.

•To conduct and participate in seminars that promote and educate in new business start-ups.

•And to contact prospective new business and encourage them to consider Wayne.

The Small Business Development Council will meet Tuesday, July 2 at 7:30 a.m. in the Chamber offices and those interested in serving on the council are invited to attend.

Chamber members are invited again this year to enter the Chicken Show Window Decorating Contest. Chicken oriented items should be in the windows and display areas prior to the Chicken Show, scheduled for July 12, 13 and 14.

The theme of this year's show is "The 101 Year-Old Chicken" and it can be used in the displays, which may feature art/craft items featuring chickens, eggs or collection of related items.

Several experimental soybean herbicides are also being evaluated. These are Command, Sceptor, Verdict and Cobra.

This should give growers a chance to compare older combinations with the new ones. Carryover potential of the soybean herbicide to injure corn the next year will also be discussed.

Evaluate herbicides

Ag tour slated Monday

A weed control research at the Northeast Research and Extension Center will be discussed during a twilight tour on Monday, June 24.

The tour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and with a lunch provided by co-sponsoring commercial companies.

Performance of herbicides in corn, soybeans and small grains will be featured on the tour, according to Agronomist Russell Moomaw.

Weed control in no-till crop production will also be observed. One newer concept in no-till is to preplant apply the herbicide several weeks before crop planting. That idea has worked well this year on no-till soybeans, according to Moomaw.

Several experimental soybean herbicides are also being evaluated. These are Command, Sceptor, Verdict and Cobra.

This should give growers a chance to compare older combinations with the new ones. Carryover potential of the soybean herbicide to injure corn the next year will also be discussed.

School reorganization committee named

A statewide citizens committee to advise the State Board of Education in the reorganization of school districts was announced on Wednesday, June 12, by Bill Ramsey, President of the Nebraska State Board of Education.

EB 662, enacted in the 1985 Legislature, provides for more equity of local property taxation through the merger or affiliation of school districts which offer a kindergarten through eighth grade program with districts which offer programs through the 12th grade.

Members of the LB 662 Implementation Advisory Committee are: James Beltzer, Chair, Grand Island; De Tonack, Kearney; Jim Merigan, Scottsbluff; Jane Graf, Seward; Douglas Jensen, Madison; Bob Broomfield, McCook; John Green, Omaha; Dale Siefkes, Lincoln; Arlene Hart, Sargent; Boyd Stuhr, Bradshaw; John J. Hodges, Julian; Ken Wortman, Aurora; Fern Shamburg, Fairbury; Pat Monroe, Sparks; Larry Vontz, (Ex Officio), Executive Secretary, Lincoln; and Stan Sibley, (Ex Officio), Lincoln.

The first meeting of the Committee will be held on Friday, June 21 at 10 a.m. in the State Department of Education, Lincoln. This initial meeting will be used for general organizational purposes such as discussing the charge and purpose for the Committee, establishing work priorities and reviewing background information.

The general purpose of the LB 662 Implementation Committee will be to advise the State Board of Education regarding problems, to identify the problems, special needs and unique situations, and to suggest corrective legislation associated with the implementation of LB 662 (1985 Nebraska Legislation) at both the state and local levels of government. The committee will function as a fact-finding, public relations, public information, and advisory committee to the State Board of Education, and will report its findings and recommendations to the State Board of Education and the Governor at least twice each year. The first report will be made at the August 1985 State Board of Education meeting. The Committee appointments will expire August 1986 unless extended.

The Committee will include citizens who have the confidence of the Governor and the State Board of Education, are representative of all geographic regions of the state, are fair-minded and willing to work for the smooth and expeditious implementation of the law, and are able to relate well with citizens throughout the state who will be affected by the law. Technical and legal assistance as requested by the Committee will be provided by the Department of Education.

An LB 662 telephone number in the Department of Education will be established in the very near future, as a service to citizens seeking answers to questions and technical assistance, or offering suggestions for the smooth implementation of the law. Department of Education staff with the expertise and background to offer advice and assistance to local citizens and groups will be available to work with persons who are calling at the request of the LB 662 Implementation Advisory Committee.

3,600 attend kickoff for June Dairy Month

"Kones For Kids" was the theme for the activities and excitement which officially started June Dairy Month. The presentation of the June Dairy Month proclamation by Lieutenant Governor Donald McGintley took place at the Centrum Shopping Plaza on Wednesday, June 5, at 11:30 a.m.

Midland United Dairy Industry Association sponsored the event in which 3,600 people attended. Ice cream cones were given away to kids of all ages and a photographer took pictures of people milking a special dairy cow. In addition, the Lincoln Police Department and the Lincoln Jaycees were on hand to fingerprint children for concerned parents. Activities concluded at 1:30 p.m.

Donations were accepted for the ice cream cones and the photographs, with the proceeds of $500 donated to Project Missing Children of Nebraska.

Midland United Dairy Industry Association is an advertising and promotion organization funded and directed by dairy farmers in and around Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas. Its goal is to increase the consumption of real dairy products through non-brand advertising and promotion.

Protest deadline July 12

Individuals have until July 12 to file protest to a proposal by Northwestern Bell Telephone Company of Omaha to increase the rates and charges for telephone service.

Northwestern Bell is seeking to increase its rates and charges to produce additional annual revenue of $14.5 million.

For the communities of Allen, Laurel, Wakefield and Winslow, the following class of service will increase in basic local exchange line rates, only urban rates given: 1 party residence flat rate, up $3.66; 1 party residence measured (RWS), up $1; 1 party residence (RIM), up $1; 2 party flat rate, up $3.76; 1 party business flat rate, up $8.66; 1 party business measured (LME), no increase; 1 party business measured (BIM), up 15 cents; 1 party business measured (LAB), up 15 cents; business incoming trunk, up $10.45; business two-way trunk, up $8.02; and business rotary hunting, up $1.23.

The class of service proposed rate changes for Wayne include: 1 party residence, up $2.71; 2 party residence, $2.36; 1 party business, up $10; business incoming trunk, up $11.34; business two-way trunk, up $8.22; business rotary hunting, up 78 cents.

Coin phones would be raised to 25 cents and directory call for residence and business would be a 30 cent charge. There would also be increases in service order/contract of line charges, operator assistance/busy line verify/inter-rpt./hotel/motel dial 9 trunks; and local service.

Donald Adams, executive secretary of the Nebraska Public Service Commission, said if a formal hearing is necessary to dispose of the proposal, interested persons will be notified later of the time and place of such a hearing.

Protest applications can be filed with the Nebraska Public Service Commission at P.O. Box 9427, 301 Centennial Mall South, Lincoln, NE, 68509.

WSC offering workshop

The Division of Business at Wayne State College will be offering a course, "Workshop in Business Education/Office Management," from July 22-Aug. 2 in Wayne.

Dr. Mark Langemo, professor of business and vocational education at the University of North Dakota, will conduct the course. Dr. Langemo was recently named in a survey by the Association of Record Managers and Administrators as one of the 10 most influential leaders in records management in the world.

He recently was awarded the University of North Dakota Foundation/Lydia and Arthur Sakis Prize for Undergraduate Teaching Excellence.

As an office and records management consultant and speaker, he has worked in more than 40 states, Canada and Austria. He has been on the faculty at University of North Dakota since 1972.

The workshop will emphasize the effects of technology in the modern office. Topics covered will include office management, records management; data processing and word processing. The course is geared toward office and management personnel, as well as secondary business teachers.

To register for this course, contact the Registrar's Office at Wayne State College, (402) 375 2200, ext. 239.

Positions of news editor and sports editor at The Wayne Herald do not mix — particularly when writing copy to fill the pages.

Sports terminology can blend in with news terms which can make a story hard to follow.

Take for example news copy from Thursday's edition. The original lead for a June dry spell story was — Rain came from the bullpen in the late innings of the planting game last Tuesday and relieved the drought, just as drought had the bases loaded and brought on a critical situation for the home team.

The actual lead was: Rain that fell late Tuesday afternoon and early evening might have been a yield saver to some Wayne County farmers as the critical stages of plant growth are now arriving.

Here is another — Timple was signed to the largest contract ever, a $1.4 million bonus, offered by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development, in a team effort to bring Wayne an industrial heavy-hitter that generates promising seasons ahead.

Actually, it was rewritten Nebraska's Department of Economic Development Monday awarded its largest grant in dollars ever — $1.4 million — for a new Timple, the refrigerated semi-trailer manufacturing plant in Wayne.

Thank heavens I haven't had to write weddings or engagements. Imagine this: Pastor Lefty Leaps performed a double-header wedding (or is that double ring) at a packed standing room only church. The groom, as described in the special program, wore a black and white uniform with racing stripes down the side of his pants. The bride's uniform was completely white, matching her running slippers as they dodged the photographers on the sidelines and scooted to the front of the altar.

With 20 minutes elapsing into the ceremony, both the clergyman and the wedding party huddled together and made sure each knew the proper signals before executing the vows. This was no time for an incomplete pass.

The groom tipped the ring to the bride-to-be and she grabbed the ring from the bridesmaid and popped the ring on his finger to complete a double play.

In the final round, both were cheered on by the crowd and were occasionally called out to tip their veil and hat as fanfare.

Afterwards, a team picture of the entire wedding party was taken and sent to the local newspaper for publication.

Statistics that evening of where the couple spent their honeymoon were unavailable for the next morning's paper.

See why they don't allow me to write weddings at The Wayne Herald?

Likewise, news terminology can also sneak into the sports pages.

For instance, this could happen: Wayne's 18 and under softball team blasted its way toward a 20-0 win over an opposing team. There were no injuries reported in the incident. However, it has been outlawed in the future to blast, conquer, annihilate, destroy, overcome, demolish, overpower, crush, crumch, sock or to oblivate any team, or else strict penalties will be assessed.

A Wayne Midget player was caught stealing second base during a baseball game last evening. The case of the base is still under investigation by the local police department.

A local golfer shot an eagle on the first hole at the Wayne Country Club. Because eagles are protected against hunters, a search party has been organized to find the local golfer who shot the birdie so he can be fined appropriately.

The touchdown was called back after the opposing team player was called for clipping. The coach became so angry at the player he was booted off the team and now works as a barber, clipping hair.

You see, that's what happens when sports and other types of front page or social news get mixed up. It just happens.

And it is par for the course, if you know what I mean.

Combating terrorism

Most Americans, as they have watched the unfolding drama involving the hostage victims of TWA Flight 847 have felt anger, concern and frustration. Since the State Department began keeping statistics in 1968, there have been many thousands of international terrorist incidents. And, unfortunately, American citizens and U.S. interests remain a primary target of many of these violent attacks.

Congressman Doug Bereuter is cosponsoring two bills that are intended to help protect Americans traveling abroad. One of them, H.R. 2781, is designed to maximize and strengthen Federal capabilities to combat international terrorism without over-reacting or denying to the Executive Branch the necessary flexibility which it must have in conducting foreign policy.

The bill requires the President to impose sanctions, including the cutoff of foreign assistance, against states which actively support international terrorism. The bill also requires the Secretary of Transportation to assess security measures at foreign airports and to revoke the operating authority of U.S. and foreign air carriers which use an inadequately secured airport to serve the United States.

The other bill directs the Secretary of State to identify international airports that are serviced by United States air carriers or are frequently used by U.S. citizens and to determine which of those do not comply with minimum international airport security standards. These airports would be subject to a travel advisory and would be given 120 days to upgrade their security standards. If they fail to meet the deadline, the airport would be off-limits to all U.S. air carriers.

In addition, all air carriers of that country would be prohibited from landing in the U.S. and no air carriers from any country could make a direct flight, with or without intermediate stops, to the United States.

Furthermore, if the country with the inadequately secured airport is receiving any assistance from the United States, either through the Foreign Assistance Act or the Arms Export Control Act, the President is directed to suspend the assistance. The requirements could be waived only in cases of national security or humanitarian emergency.

Levies increase as Legislature ends

Capitol News

By Melvin Paul

End-of-session budget cutting forestalled an increase in the state's sales and income tax rates, but that doesn't mean state lawmakers didn't find other levies to increase during the 90-day session that ended June 5.

Among the items enacted from the lawmakers' heavy agenda of tax issues were increases in the taxes on gasoline and diesel fuel, aircraft fuel, alcoholic beverages and real estate transactions.

The sales taxes paid by many businesses may also increase due to base-broadening legislation approved by the lawmakers. The most significant addition to the state's sales tax base came with the enactment of a bill repealing the exemption for business utilities.

Retailers and other commercial establishments will soon be paying a sales tax on their gas and electric bill, just the same as Nebraska homeowners have been doing for years. Energy for manufacturing, processing and irrigation will continue to be exempt from the sales tax. Lincoln shoppers will be paying an additional .05 percentage point in sales taxes as a result of an authorization by the Legislature this session to increase the local option sales tax. Approved by Lincoln voters in the May election, the additional tax will establish a combined state-local sales tax rate of 5 percent, the same as the combined rate in Omaha.

LAWMAKERS ALSO approved conditionally an eight-cent-a-package increase in cigarette tax. The state tax increase will take effect on Oct. 1 only if the federal government allows its tax decrease of a like amount to take effect on schedule.

Among other tax issues dealt with this year, the Legislature gave horse racing tracks in the state favorable tax status to help meet competition in other states and reduced what has traditionally been one of the nation's most generous shrinkage allowance for gasoline distributors.

Gov. Bob Kerrey vetoed two revenue bills. One would have required out-of-state vendors who sell to Nebraskans via mail to provide a list of their sales in the state. Another would have altered the current system of taxing the income of financial institutions.

Authorized by a 1984 constitutional amendment, lawmakers created a separate, lower classification for agricultural and horticultural property. They abandoned the traditional market value system in favor of an income-producing system.

Early in the session, lawmakers debated at three methods of delivering $100 million in property tax relief: a direct rebate to taxpayers, an increase in the general homestead exemption and an increase in state aid to schools. In the end, they rejected all three alternatives.

LAWMAKERS RENEGED on their 1984 commitment to finance a general homestead exemption program this year. The $18.3 million program would have exempted the first $3,000 of the actual value of a home from property taxes, and provided an estimated $75 in annual property tax relief.

Faced with a steep decline in anticipated state revenues, lawmakers decided to delay for another year the implementation of the general homestead exemption program.

In another action that could aggravate the local property tax burden, the Legislature reduced aid to government programs by 2 percent across-the-board.

In the long run, senators did commit themselves to local property tax reduction by enacting a 45 percent limit on the amount of school support that can be provided by property taxes. The deficiency must be made up by state aid, and to help fund the shift in school support, lawmakers have set in law a one percentage point sales tax increase to take effect in 1987.

The sales tax increase and the shift in school support from the local property tax base to the state sales and income tax base could be nullified by the Legislature during a planned special session in August on education and budget issues, or during the regular 1988 session. The proposal is also in jeopardy from an ongoing referendum drive which, if it succeeds, would prevent enforcement of the new law.

Food bill gets more attention

by Doug Gibson

Concerns about world hunger and the 1985 farm bill have focused attention on P.L. 480, the Food for Peace Program.

Ross Korves, of the American Farm Bureau's Economic Research Division prepared an analysis of the program recently examining past and present levels of activity. Korves also analyzed what a doubling of funding might mean for the cost of the program and movement of U.S. ag products.

Farm Bureau was a primary backer of the program, enacted in 1954, and has been a staunch supporter ever since. Farm Bureau's 1985 Farm Bill (H.R. 3965 and S. 908) seeks expansion of P.L. 480 funding as a way to meet the food needs of less developed countries and to move excess stocks of U.S. food supplies that have accumulated in recent years, he points out.

P.L. 480 provides food to low and middle income countries through donations and low-cost loans. Korves reports that during fiscal year (FY) 1984, 75 countries were P.L. 480 shipment recipients. During the program's 31 years nearly every low and middle income country friendly to the United States has participated in it.

DURING ITS PEAK use in the mid-1960s, shipments were about 18 million metric tons per year. However, by 1974 shipments dropped to 3.2 million metric tons. From 1978 through 1984 shipments were five-six million metric tons per year. Korves said that funding for FY 1985 means about eight million metric tons will be shipped.

Korves expects the FY 1985 program to cost $2.1 billion. If per unit costs for commodities and shipping remain the same, he said, a doubling of shipments would cost an additional $2.1 billion. Of course, this would be offset by a $280-million reduction in Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) storage costs. If the commodities would have been in CCC storage programs rather than exported in the P.L. 480 program.

Shipments during FY 1985, which began Oct. 1, 1984 — are expected to be 41.7 million bushels of corn and products, 21.6 million bushels of wheat and products, 9.3 million hundred-weights of milled rice, 53 thousand bales of cotton, 20.8 million bushels of grain sorghum and 643.7 million pounds of vegetable oil and the oil from 36 million bushels of soybeans. Korves projects that if the proportions remain the same with a doubling of funding, these quantities shipped would also double.

He stresses that a doubling of shipments would put them at about 16 million metric tons per year. While that's a substantial increase, it's still less than the peak volumes of the 1960s.

THE FEASIBILITY OF program expansion must be based on the ability of the U.S. to supply additional food and the need for additional food supplies by low and middle income countries, according to Korves. The AFBF economist emphasizes that based on excess stocks and recent acreage reduction programs, there's no doubt that the U.S. has the ability to supply an additional six-eight million metric tons of food to double the P.L. 480 program.

The United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization estimated that low-income nations need more than 30 million metric tons of food annually while donor countries have committed about 10 million metric tons, he reported. The need is there. The real issue is how to supply this aid without destroying the incentive for continuing to develop internal food production capabilities, Korves cautions.

Farm Bureau recognizes that there is risk involved in expanded food aid under P.L. 480, but thinks the potential benefits to the world's hunger and American farmers are worth taking the chance.

Gibson is National Farm Bureau's chief administrator.

ask a lawyer

a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. I have a child whose father is married to someone else. (He and I have never been married, and he was married to his current wife at the time I got pregnant.) He pays the rent on my apartment and pays me a small amount each week for the baby's expenses. Is there some way I can legally get this support on a permanent basis? I don't want to embarrass the man or his family, but I believe he has an obligation to support the baby. Is there a way to get a court to order him to pay support without having it be public?

A. Since nearly all court actions in Nebraska are a matter of public record, it is unlikely that you will be able to get a court order compelling support without the usual attention surrounding court procedures. However, one common method used to establish such support outside of the court is for you and the child's father to reach a settlement (with the help of both your lawyers) whereby the father acknowledges paternity and agrees to pay a specific amount for the support of the child. Such settlements can call for monthly child support payments or may provide for a lump sum award of money rather than periodic payments. Such settlements are binding on all parties, if approved by the court.

This process can be accomplished with a minimum of fanfare, although once filed with the district court, the settlement agreement will be a part of its public records. Further, if the settlement calls for monthly installments, the child support agreement may create an automatic lien on any real property owned by the father, and will show up if he would attempt to sell the real estate.

If you and the child's father are unable to reach an amicable agreement, or if the father fails to pay the support he agreed to pay under the settlement, then you will probably be forced to bring a paternity suit in court. A paternity lawsuit arises when an unmarried pregnant woman (or an unmarried woman who has given birth) sues a man and alleges that he is the father of her child and therefore is legally obligated to support the child. If the court determines that the man is the father of the child, he may be ordered to contribute to the support of the child until he or she reaches majority (19 in Nebraska). The amount of support payments is based on the child's needs and on the father's ability to pay, much as child support payments are structured when married parents are divorced.

Donation to library

Contests scheduled for Dixon County 4-H'ers

The Demonstration and Illustrated Talk Contest for Dixon County 4-H'ers will be held at the Northeast Center near Concord on Tuesday, July 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Anna Marie White, Dixon County extension agent-home economics, said that through demonstrations 4-H members have an opportunity to show and tell the audience about facts, information and skills they have learned through their 4-H projects.

Ribbon placings and winners will be announced after the contest.

The public is welcome to attend the Demonstration Contest.

WHITE SAID another learning activity scheduled for Dixon County 4-H members is the 4-H Home Economics Contest scheduled Tuesday, July 9 at 9 a.m. at the Northeast Center.

All 4-H members, regardless of project enrollment, are eligible to compete in this contest.

The Home Economics Contest is designed to both test the 4-H members' knowledge and to teach new information. The contest questions are based on real life situations which youths may encounter.

Questions will be answered in both written form and oral presentation.

THIS YEAR, contest questions will pertain to subject matter areas such as advertising and its influence on teenagers, selecting toys for children, seam finishes on fabrics, cooking vegetables, design elements related to furniture arrangements and wall groupings, and pattern selection for various figure types.

Participants in the contest will complete in the junior division (under age 12 as of Jan. 1) and in the senior division (age 12 and over as of Jan. 1).

Results will be announced a week after the contest to allow time for scoring.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutting underwritten picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Club-of-the-month

Wakefield Happy Homemakers devoted to family, community

The following is the ninth article prepared by home extension clubs in Dixon County as part of a club-of-the-month series. Each month, a different extension club in Dixon County reports a brief history of the club, its membership and major activities. Extension clubs are a part of the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service. The extension homemakers program in Dixon County is directed by Anna Marie White.

Three of the original 10 members who continue to hold membership are Mrs. Verle Holm, Mrs. Derwood Wriedt and Mrs. Willis Kahl.

The club meets in members' homes on the first Wednesday afternoon of each month, except in July.

THROUGH THE Dixon County Extension Service, club members gain knowledge from lessons which originate from the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The club's very first lesson in 1961 was entitled, "How to Buy a Dress." It was presented by Mrs. Jim Hallstrom and Mrs. Glenn Longe. "A Quick and Easy Meal," "Clothes for Travel" and "Selecting Pain" were some of the lessons that followed.

Members develop leadership abilities as they take turns in presenting the lessons to the other club members.

THE WAKEFIELD Happy Homemakers are devoted to family and community betterment through education, leadership, and caring about others.

In 1973, the club judged the "Year of the Month" contest, a summer community project of the Wakefield Lions Club.

Some other club activities have included playing bingo and serving treats at the Wakefield Health Care Center, sponsoring the cake walk at the Wakefield Hospital Bazaar, making two quilts for the Wakefield Hospital Fall Festival, helping serve lunch following Wakefield's Easter Cantata, making a float for Wakefield's centennial parade, and sponsoring a "Get It Together" seat belt safety poster contest for third graders in the Wakefield and Emerson Schools.

Families of club members enjoy an annual club picnic each June, and in September club members organize a club tour.

The club also takes pride in being part of the Dixon County Fair. They participate by hosting the Exhibit Hall and taking articles to be exhibited.

In past years they have made booths and taken part in domestic art demonstrations at the fair.

PRESENT MEMBERS of the club are Mrs. Willis Kahl, president; Mrs. LeRoy Lutz, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Turney, secretary; Mrs. William Domsch, treasurer; Mrs. Francis Fischer, Mrs. Walter Hale, Mrs. Verle Holm, Mrs. Randy Kahl, Mrs. William Matles, Mrs. Lowell

news and notes

Mary Tamme, extension agent-home ec.

Sibling battles develop valuable skills. Summer vacation is only a month old and many parents may be wishing the children were still in school.

Sibling squabbles may irritate mom and dad but they do help children learn how to deal with anger constructively.

Competition is inevitable between siblings. If isn't the result of poor parenting or family dysfunction as was once thought. Parents do not always need to play referee to their children's disagreements.

ALL CHILDREN experience jealousy to some degree. Individual temperament, position in the family and parental handling of new arrivals to the family can affect sibling rivalry.

Jealousies exist no matter what combinations of factors exist in the family. One reason for fighting is to draw parents in to the argument. Each child wants to get mom or dad on his side, to prove he is right, he is best.

Sometimes the child only wants attention, and being scolded is better than being ignored.

If children play quietly until parents arrive, and then arguments start, parents may unknowingly reward the children by breaking up the fight.

A better method, which may not be easy, is to reward good behavior and ignore the bad.

SIBLING FIGHTS can also be caused by displaced anger. Parents behave the same way when frustrations outside the home cause them to lash out at family members.

Recognizing that children may be acting out anger that comes from a school situation or other change helps parents to understand sibling fights.

The best solution to this situation is to help your child work through the conflict on his own. The child needs to find a solution to the problem before the fights will stop.

There are some relationship skills that cannot be taught. Children must learn through experience how to interact. This method of trial and error eventually leads to skills and attitudes that last a lifetime.

A child who learns to deal with sibling disagreements will be better equipped to handle arguments in a school setting, the work place or marriage.

THE HARDEST part about parenting is that children generally do not resolve conflict well in the beginning.

It can be nerve racking to allow your children to "fight their own battles," but the end result is worth the headaches.

Children who develop the ability to deal with anger, stand up for their rights, listen to someone else's views, express complaints constructively, share compromise and work in groups, are a reflection on their parents.

Wakefield ceremony

Wakefield beats Sleepy Eye

In the first game of their Minnesota Road Trip, the Wakefield Juniors got by on six hits and managed to trip Sleepy Eye, Minnesota by a 4-2 score. Kipp Utemark got the win. Mark Kubik had a big hit — a two-out two-run double in the fifth inning that broke the tie. Brian Soderberg also had two hits in the contest.

Juniors beat Wakefield

The Wayne Juniors overcame a 2-1 deficit by scoring 13 runs in three innings as they defeated the Wakefield Juniors at Overlin Field Wednesday night by a 14-3 score.

Starter Jeff Hausmann, who got out of the first inning without Wakefield, scoring after walking Brian Soderberg, Mark Kubik and Larry Ballinger, to load the bases, picked up the win. He struck out seven and walked six while giving up only two Wakefield hits.

Wayne scored their first run in the first after Kevin Maly drew a walk, stole second base and then scored on a double socked by Dan Gross.

Wakefield scored two runs in the top of the second inning after Kipp Utemark was hit by a Hausmann pitch, John Halverson sacrificed Utemark to second, Kirt Roberts and Jason Erb walked and a single by Soderberg brought in Utemark and Roberts.

The go-ahead runs for Wayne were scored in the bottom of the third when Maly led off the inning with a single and Gross reached base on an error. Maly was thrown out at the plate trying to score from third on a ground-out by Steve Overlin.

With two out, Chris Wieseler cracked a triple to knock In Gross. Wieseler then scored on an RBI double by Scott Baker and Wayne led 3-2.

In the fourth inning, Wayne erupted for four runs. Maly, safe on a fielder's choice, scored the first run after Gross tripled him home. After Overlin drew a walk, Wieseler hit his second triple of the game to drive In Gross and Overlin. Wieseler later scored on a passed ball.

Wakefield got a run back in the fifth inning when Darwin Synder walked, stole second and scored on a double by Larry Ballinger.

But Wayne came right back with seven runs in the fifth. It began when Hausmann, Shannon Dorcey and Jeff Sherer both walked. A double by Maly drove In Hausmann and Dorcey. Gross then singled to score Sherer and Maly.

After Overlin drew his second walk of the game, Wieseler belted a double to drive In Gross and Baker followed with a two-run single that ended the game because of the 10-run rule.

Mike Nelson started the game for Wakefield, but was relieved by Utemark. After Utemark got in trouble, Soderberg pitched to one batter and struck him out. Synder came in to pitch the rest of the game.

Wayne hammered out nine hits. Gross and Wieseler each had three while Maly and Baker both had two hits.

were "mental errors", the Wayne Juniors found themselves on the losing end to the Norfolk Junior team by a 16-5 score.

The game was stopped after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Wayne was up 1-0 after the first inning when Kevin Maly, who reached base on a Norfolk error, scored on a single hit by Steve Overlin. Chris Wieseler followed with a single but the inning ended as Scott Baker grounded out.

Norfolk tagged Wayne pitchers for seven runs in the second inning on just one hit — that hit being a three-run homer.

Two runs were scored by Wayne in the third after Gross and Wieseler walked and Baker socked a two-run double. However, Norfolk scored four runs in the third inning and five runs in the fourth-inning on just four hits, capitalizing on four Wayne errors, to run away with the game.

The local Junior team produced a run in the fourth inning after Shannon Dorcey walked and later scored on a single by Kevin Maly.

Wayne mustered only four hits in the game while Norfolk finished with five. The starter for Wayne was Jeff Sherer, who was relieved by Overlin in the second inning and Brent Pick in the third.

Town team rolls over Wisner

Wayne's Town Team exploded for eight runs in the first inning, sparking them on their way in route to a 17-3 hammering of Wisner in an exhibition game played Wednesday night.

The game ended in the sixth inning because there was a mutual agreement before play began that if the game was out of hand either way the game would be stopped at 10 p.m.

In the first inning, lead-off hitter Mike Breske led off with a walk, stole second and later scored when Todd Pfeiffer rapped a double to leftfield.

With two outs in the first, Dennis Danielson singled to leftfield which scored Pfeiffer. Joel Ankeny then walked and both Danielson and Ankeny moved up one base on a passed ball. A single to left scored both runners.

After walks were issued by the Wisner pitchers to Jerry Morris and Todd Dorcey to load the bases, Breske, followed with a grand slam home run over the leftfield fence, giving Wayne an 8-0 lead.

Two more runs were scored by Wayne in the third inning after Ankeny drew his second walk of the game and Baker rocketed a home run over the leftfield fence.

Wisner scored two runs in the bottom of the third inning on hits by Raabe and Schroeder, and three walks given up by starter Doug Carroll.

Wayne scored three runs in the fourth inning when Danielson and Ankeny each drew walks. A single to left by Jerry Morris drove In Danielson and rightfielder Todd Dorcey slashed a double to left centerfield, scoring both Ankeny and Morris.

In the sixth inning, Wayne scored four runs after Morris rapped a single, Dorcey and Breske each walked and a bad hop single by Pfeiffer scored Morris. Leftfielder Jeff Dion then socked a three-run double to centerfield.

Each getting two hits for Wayne were Pfeiffer, Baker and Morris. Wisner pitchers gave up a total 11 walks while striking out five.

Wayne pitcher Mark Starzl relieved Carroll in the fourth inning, striking out six and walking one.

Midgets win two more games

Wakefield pitching gave up nine walks and committed five costly errors which proved to be their downfall as they were defeated Wednesday night by the Wayne Midgets by a 11-1 score.

Wayne scored two runs in the first inning, four in the second and six runs in the bottom of the fifth inning — all on six hits.

Rob Rabe pitched the entire game for Wayne, giving up just four hits and three walks while striking out three Wakefield players. He lost his shut-out in the top of the fifth inning when Wakefield's Stuart Clark walked and later scored on a single by Todd Kroatke.

TED LUEDERS (12) comes in to score Wayne's final run in the Midgets' win over Wakefield.

Wayne's two runs in the first inning were driven in on singles by Russ Longe and Steve Lutt.

Four more runs were scored by Wayne in the fourth after Rabe drew a walk and Lueders tripled. Longe then walked and Ted McCright got on base after an infield error. Walks were issued to Scott Nichols and Rob Gamble before the inning ended.

The final blow for Wakefield was in the fifth inning as Wayne came through with five runs. It began when pinch-hitters Mark Creighton and Bill Melena, Bill Liska and Rabe each drew walks.

Ted Lueders then singled into right field and Russ Longe and pinch-hitter Scott Hammer blasted consecutive doubles, ending the game early because of the 10-run rule.

Shorstop Lueders and leftfielder Longe ended the game each with two hits.

Roll over Norfolk

The Wayne Midgets slugged out seven extra base hits as they defeated Norfolk Thursday night by a 17-6 score.

Ted Lueders had a perfect night at the plate, going four for four including a double, two singles and a home run. He also relieved starter Jason Jorgensen in the bottom of the fourth inning and allowed five hits while striking out seven and walking two. Jorgensen gave up three hits, walked seven and struck out three Norfolk batters. He also had two hits in the game, a double and a single.

Norfolk got an early 1-0 lead in the first inning. Wayne came back with four runs on two hits in the second. Rob Gamble started the rally off with a walk. After Ted McCright reached on an error, Mark Creighton lofted a sacrifice fly to score Gamble. A double by Jorgensen scored McCright and Landanger poked a triple to score Jorgensen. Landanger later scored on an error and Wayne held a 4-1 lead.

Two more runs were added to Wayne's total output in the fourth after Lueders led off with a home run. Russ Longe doubled and Scott Nichols rapped a single.

Norfolk came back with two runs, capitalizing on two Wayne errors. In the bottom of the fourth, narrowing Wayne's lead to 6-3.

Wayne ran away from Norfolk with four runs in the top of the sixth and seven runs in the seventh inning.

In the sixth, Lueders led off with a double followed by sacrifice bunt by Longe and a single by Steve Lutt. Nichols got on base after an error and Gamble rapped a single. Bill Sperry walked and Jorgensen singled to drive in two runs.

Then in the seventh inning, Lueders again led off with a hit — this time a double. Bill Liska was hit by a pitch and one gut later, a single by Scott Nichols brought in Lueders. Rob Gamble socked a double and Rob Rabe singled to bring in more runs. Sperry drew a walk and Jorgensen was safe at first on an error. After Bill Landanger walked, Lueders had his second hit of the inning.

As a team, Wayne collected 15 hits in scoring their 17 total runs. Each getting two hits were Landanger, Nichols, Gamble and Jorgensen.

The Norfolk pitchers allowed eight walks and struck out seven Wayne batters in the contest.

18 and under girls lose to Pierce

Wayne's 18 and under girls won a game and lost two during action last week.

On Thursday, Wayne traveled to Emerson and emerged with a 12-2 win.

Roni Johnson picked up the win, allowing four hits, two walks and she struck out three.

Wayne had only five hits in the game, but capitalized on seven Emerson errors and seven free passes issued by the Emerson pitcher to escape with a 10 run rule win.

The game ended after six innings.

Paula Koplin scored Wayne's first run in the first inning after she walked and scored on a double hit by Lori Jacobsen.

In the second inning, Wayne added three more runs when Wendy Erickson singled and came home after Lisa Jacobsen poked a home run. Koplin came to the plate and socked a single and later, scored on errors of hits by Lori Jacobsen and Karen Lange.

Another run was scored by Wayne in the third inning by Roni Johnson, who reached base on an error by the Emerson third baseman.

Emerson's Martin took advantage of several Wayne errors to score a run in the bottom of the third inning, making the score 5-1 in Wayne's favor.

Wayne's Laura Keating, who single-ed in the top of the fifth inning, scored a run to make it 6-1 and in the sixth inning, the local girls exploded for six runs — scored by Lisa Jacobsen, Cheri Milligan, Sarah Lebscock, Amy Jordan, Keating and Jodi Allen. The six runs were scored on no hits as Emerson allowed four walks, hit a Wayne batter and committed three critical errors.

Each getting a hit for, Wayne were Lisa Jacobsen, (the home run), Koplin, Lori Jacobsen (a double), Keating and Erickson.

Lose to Pierce

Pierce handed the Wayne 18 and under girls softball team a double loss Friday by scores of 9-5 and 5-4, bringing Wayne's season record at 11-3.

In the first game, Pierce rocked Wayne pitcher Roni Johnson for nine hits and took advantage of four Wayne errors to get the win. Johnson walked six and struck out five during the six innings she pitched.

Wayne jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning after Lori Jacobsen led off with a solo home run. A double by Kathy Mohfeldt drove in Karen Lange, who reached base on a fielder's choice and Sarah Lebscock who singled.

Pierce came back with a run in the first and a run in the second inning, making the score 3-2 still in Wayne's favor.

Wayne added to their lead by scoring two runs in the third inning after Roni Johnson walked. Longe singled and Mohfeldt drove home Johnson with a single.

An error on a ball hit by Kolette Frevert allowed Longe to score and Wayne led by a 5-2 margin.

But Pierce, came roaring back and took over the lead with four runs in the fourth inning and one run each in the fifth and sixth inning to take the win.

Longe, Lebscock and Mohfeldt each had two hits of Wayne's total eight hits in the game. Others getting hits were Lori Jacobsen (a home run) and Wendy Erickson.

In the second game, Pierce was able to score five runs on three hits to squeak past Wayne, 5-4.

Laura Keating took the loss as she walked eight and struck out three in six innings.

Wayne had just two hits in the game, one by Lori Jacobsen and another by Laura Keating.

How an annuity can double your dollars faster.
Patrick H. Murphy
Just getting a high rate of interest on your money is not enough. With most investments, you can lose up to half your earnings each year in taxes.
A better answer is a New York Life Single Premium Retirement Annuity. * It pays a very attractive rate of interest. Equally important, the interest is free from current federal income tax. So your dollars can grow up to twice as fast as they would in a currently taxable plan.

MARKET PLACE 29 A.D.
Market place 29 A.D. was the theme when the United Methodist Bible School was held June 10-14 with 31 pupils attending.

The event recreated an atmosphere typical to the days of Christ on earth, the program was based on experimental learning.

The classes, nursery through eighth grades were grouped into three family clusters with a mother figure to head each household. Children ages 6-13 lived in groups with all ages together within a family. Each family had an Old Testament name and members were in costume. The tribal leaders were Mrs. Wayne Hankins, Mrs. Terry Roberts, Mrs. Ed Simpson, Andrea Blithemmer, Mindy Janssen and Deanna Schmidt.

The families carried out Jewish religious customs and some typically non-Jewish customs of the early Christian days.

The school, tribal family enjoyed building and living in a miniature village of Nazareth. The older children in tribal families visited a market place each day which included shopkeepers, such as musical instrument maker, rope maker, metal worker, baker, jeweler, potter, scribe, kilnmaker, and a carpenter; a story teller each day visited the market place.

Hosts in the market place were Mrs. Delbert Claussen, Mrs. Gene Reithwisch, Mrs. Gene Barg, Mrs. Merlin Kenny, Mrs. Lowell Olson, Mrs. Wayne Kerstine, and Mrs. Rick Davis all of Carroll and Bob Sutherland of Wayne. Those who made costumes were Mrs. Esther Hansen, Mrs. Wayne Kerstine and Mrs. Robert Hall.

Highlights of the Market Place included visits by a tax collector and a beggar portrayed by Mrs. Lynn Roberts and Pastor Gail Axen of Stanton.

The shopkeepers assisted the children making Bible items with an explanation of the importance of that object to life in those days. The children also learned to dance the "Hore."

The church sanctuary was turned into a Jewish synagogue and "Rabbi" for the week, giving instruction on Jewish customs, was Pastor Keith Johnson.

Co-ordinator for the Bible School was Mrs. Ed Simpson.

Assisting with break time refreshments was Mrs. Kenneth Hall.

Sunday June 16, the morning worship service was held in the church basement with the pupils and teachers explaining the "Market Place" and children wore their costumes and work of the week was on display.

HAPPY WORKERS SOCIAL CLUB
Marie Bring hosted the Happy Workers Social Club on Wednesday, June 19 and prizes in ten point pitch went to Mrs. Harry Nelson, Mrs. Edward Fork and Mrs. Cliff Rohde.

Members are asked to contribute ideas for the commemoration of the 50th year of the club when they meet July 17 at the Cliff Rohde home.
