Council purchases telephones

by Chuck Hackenmiller

It will cost the city of Wayne between $5,000 and $5,200 to break out of a nearly $305 a month phone lease arrangement and purchase their own telephone system at city hall.

The Wayne City Council approved Administrator Phil Kloster's proposal to purchase the telephones. "The rental rate [for telephones] for our usage has gone out of sight and it continues to be rapidly increasing," he told the council Tuesday during the regular meeting.

During the past three to four months, he said the city administrative staff has been looking at ways to hold down the telephone costs. "We currently lease all [the telephone equipment] that the city has," he said.

The telephone boxes, he said, have been in place even before the present building, formerly a hospital, had been selected as city hall.

And although the telephones have not presented critical problems, Kloster said the currently leased telephones are out of touch with the electronic systems used today.

PAYBACK for the purchased phones would be from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 years, Kloster said. The time period of the payback is longer, he said, because of the city's 911 phone system, the number of lines coming in and what the attributes as a "completely different set-up." "We would be buying the buying [the telephone system] when the payback is in 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 years. It would be wise to buy and discontinue the leasing system," he said.

Kloster said that, in looking to the future, all outside phone calls would likely come into city hall and these calls would then be transferred to various offices within the city's departments. He said that the transition would work without additional staffing.

The probable set-up (12 months down the road), he said, is that the individual would call the city of Wayne at one number (unless it is the police emergency number at 911). Messages will be received to the proper authority more consistently with this method, he mentioned.

Also, Tuesday evening, the city council took action on five resolutions concerning Timpfe, Inc. matters.

The first resolution dealt with reaffirming the city's commitments to Timpfe, Inc. an agreement that was signed and executed on June 18 in Lincoln.

Those commitments include: lending assistance in the aiding in the issuance of an Industrial Development Bond to Timpfe; partially paying for the site preparation; allowing Timpfe to receive $500,000 community development grant loan and a $480,000 job training grant through the city; lease of real estate property; assist in the expedition of the Wayne Municipal Airport Improvement Master Plan; negotiate on the electrical rates; and provide linking infrastructure improvements to Timpfe, which would include installation of city utilities and placement of storm sewer around the building.

THE SECOND resolution concerned an agreement between the city of Wayne and Chief Construction Company concerning the site preparation and dirt moving. A third resolution, calling for the approval of the city-county interim agreement of agreement, was passed by the council.

The city will be reimbursed for 50 percent of its cost in installation of a rural road to the Timpfe site. The city will receive 50 percent of reimbursement for the cost of its projects. And the fourth resolution approved by the council was to consider establishing a 14th Street street improvement district, from where the road ends eastward out to the new road ends eastward out to the Timpfe manufacturing plant site.

The public hearing on the 14th Street street improvement district is scheduled for July 9.

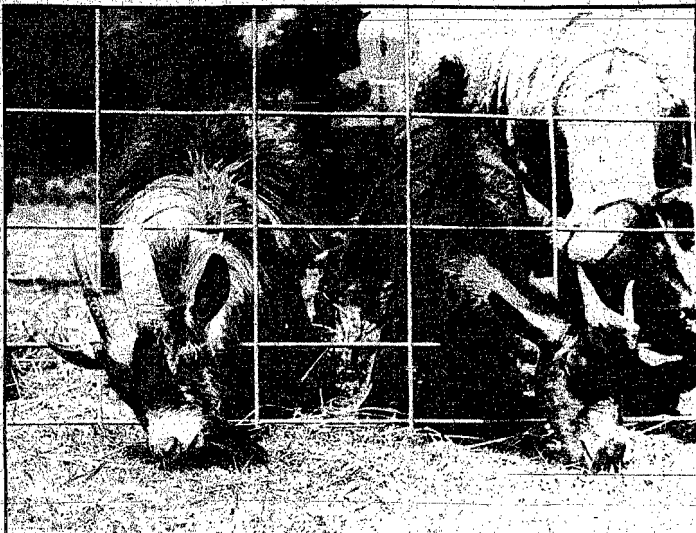

In other action Tuesday, the city council:

- Accepted the resignation of Wayne Vessel from the Wayne City Recreation Board.
- Approved the plans and specifications for the 1985 Asphalt Overlay Street Improvements, with the bid letting date set for July 30 at 7:45 p.m.
- Approved the closing of an alley on the north-south alley in Block 7 of original Town of Wayne which was presented by Steve Schumacher. The alley is directly west of the Hiscos-Schumacher Funeral Home.
- Schumacher said the alley hasn't been serviced by the city for the past 13 years and is currently being used as a parking area to a nearby house.
- Took no action on a request by the Wayne County Jaycees for a fireworks display permit. The fireworks permit will be obtained from the state fire marshal and not the city.
- Conducted a public hearing on the proposal to do preliminary work to create a street improvement district in the north-south alley between 7th and 8th Street and Main and Pearl Street.

Some individuals had contacted council members about objections to the proposal. However, the statements for or against the proposal cannot be made by proxy, so it showed in the records that nobody opposed the road project.

Phasing out pharmacy college 'wrong decision'

"This is a health care issue, not a budget issue."

University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) College of Pharmacy faculty member for seven years, Warren Narducci, said the above statement to the Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday afternoon. Narducci was speaking about the latest proposal to phase out the College of Pharmacy and College of Nursing.

With him were College of Pharmacy students Barry Jones of Wakefield, in his fourth and final year, and Julie Stohler of Concord, who has a year of classroom study and another year of "interning" remaining at UNL.

If the pharmacy college is phased out, Narducci said it would only be a matter of time before the accreditation would be lost.

The college, he said, is in its best year, winning state and national awards. He is convinced the chancellor has "made the wrong decision" in suggesting the pharmacy college and Lincoln's nursing college be eliminated.

He said those proposing the elimination should "be an advocate for the health care program."

Narducci said $1.1 million of the pharmacy college is state supported, which amounts to under $2 per individual on-tax payments or tax returns. The UNL pharmacy college graduates 40 to 60 placements. "60 little [in dollars] does so much for the state," he said.

ALTHOUGH NOT against athletics, he said he questions the priority of the state legislators who rally to refund what is reduced from the college's athletic program. "It is the priority to educate athletes or to provide students and athletes with education," he asked.

"We no longer can afford so much government. Less government doesn't mean less education," he added.

The closing of the pharmacy college, he said, would likely bring on higher prescription costs which would add up to increased health care costs.

"More see a pharmacist every day than they do doctors and dentists combined," he said.

The demand for pharmacists in the state of Nebraska could reach 55 new openings a year during the next five years. Of the average who graduated from the UNL pharmacy college, 40 stay in the state, compared to 15 or 20 in the nearest private college which graduates pharmacists, Narducci pointed out.

Currently the tuition rate per student at the pharmacy college is approximately $1,600 per year — the lowest tuition within the surrounding states with the exception of South Dakota, he said.

Investigating break-ins

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is investigating two break-ins which took place over the weekend in Winside and Carroll.

Sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning, unknown parties entered the H. McClain Oil Company in Carroll and the Tri-County Co-op in Winside. Fourteen car tires and $1,500 in cash were taken.

No arrests have been made in the incidents.

Wade excelled in earlier era of professional wrestling

One of the greatest professional wrestlers and sellers of all time, Glenn Wade, will be inducted into the Professional Wrestling Hall of Fame on Saturday, July 27, at the Wayne State College.

Lee Koch, of Wayne, who for the past 10 years has been the promoter of the Old Saller's celebration, found it appropriate to write about this area's greatest professional wrestler, and the two other wrestling brothers.

THE professional wrestler, The Duke of Omaha, Glenn Wade, was born in Wayne, Nebraska, on June 12, 1908. He was the youngest of five children. He was a professional wrestler for 25 years. He was a professional wrestler for 25 years. He was a professional wrestler for 25 years.

HE appeared in several states on the sports pages of such major newspapers as the Chicago Tribune, the Philadelphia Record, New York Times and the Washington Post, among others, during the 1930's.

Wade, who wrestled all over the Midwest and spent two winters in Florida, was recognized as the Nebraska and midwestern light heavyweight champion for over a year. Both he and Harold made appearances in Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas while working on the family farm during the crop season and in the winter months wrestled in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Missouri.

HAROLD in an interview, said, "My first match was at the Civic Auditorium in Omaha. There were 4,500 people out there and the large crowd wanted me back out of me. Joe Duxas was out for the first time on the same card."

"I have been making me think back a long time — almost 30 years," Harold said.

The Wade brothers wrestled from about 1920 to 1960. According to Harold, this was real wrestling, and not confused with the All Star "Rasputin" angle.

The gruff man popular on TV would have resulted in immediate disqualification and suspension by the Nebraska State Wrestling Commission, and a fine from the National Boxing Association who were governing the sport.

The best wrestler Harold ever met was Tigerman John Pease from Ravenna. Tigerman went on to become the world heavyweight champion.

The vast majority of this area's professional wrestlers were from Nebraska with the Duke of Omaha. The Durash brothers of Dodge-Park City of Omaha, the Pease of Ravenna, the Alexander Dodge and Pease brothers of Omaha, all being from great wrestling families.

Glenn Wade was ranked his way in the professional wrestling ladder after his first match in Tekamah, Nebraska, he had a quarter title in Cincinnati around 1932. He won 33 consecutive bouts before losing to this same Tigerman Pease in a challenge match to determine which grappler would proceed through elimination matches to wrestle for the "then undisputed" world heavyweight title.

During the 1930's he has been the light heavyweight crown by defeating the champion, the Duke of Omaha, a prize of Glenn on the state history of the National Hotel, just off Broadway, New York City, before he was the world heavyweight champion of the world.

He wrestled for the heavyweight crown on several occasions but apparently was unable to overcome the weight difference. The press depicted the day consistently as a defeat for Glenn as a professional wrestler.

Wade and Harold were professional wrestlers for nearly 20 years with 100 wins and a number of losses. Wade and Harold were professional wrestlers for nearly 20 years with 100 wins and a number of losses.

Council purchases telephones

by Chuck Hackenmitter

It will cost the city of Wayne between $5,000 and $5,200 to break out of a nearly $385 a month phone lease arrangement and purchase their own telephone system at city hall.

The Wayne City Council approved Administrator Phil Kloster's proposal to purchase the telephones. "The rental rate (for telephones) for our usage has gone out of sight and it continues to be rapidly increasing," he told the council Tuesday during the regular meeting.

During the past three to four months, he said the city administrative staff has been looking at ways to hold down the telephone costs. "We currently lease all the (telephone equipment) that the city has," he said.

The telephone boxes, he said, have been in place even before the present building, formerly a hospital, had been selected as city hall.

And although the telephones have not presented critical problems, Kloster said the currently leased telephones are out of touch with the electronic systems used today.

PAYBACK FOR the purchased phones would be from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 years, Kloster said. The time period of the payback is longer, he said, because of the city's 911 phone system, the number of lines coming in and what he attributes as a "completely different set-up."

"We would be present in buying the (telephone system) when the payback is in 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 years. It would be wise to buy and discontinue the leasing system," he said.

Kloster said that, in looking to the future, all outside phone calls would likely come into city hall and these calls would then be transferred to various offices within the city's departments. He said that the transition would work without additional staffing.

The probable set-up (12 months down the road), he said, is that the individual would call the city of Wayne at one number (unless it is the police emergency number — 911). Messages will be received to the proper authority more consistently with this method, he mentioned.

Also Tuesday evening, the city council took action on five resolutions concerning Timpte, Inc. matters.

The first resolution dealt with reaffirming the city's commitments to Timpte, Inc. an agreement that was signed and executed on June 18 in Lincoln.

Those commitments include: lending assistance in the aiding in the issuance of an Industrial Development Bond to Timpte; partially paying for the site preparation; allowing Timpte to receive $500,000 community development grant loan and a $400,000 job training grant through the city; lease of real estate property; assist in the expedition of the Wayne Municipal Airport Improvement Master Plan; negotiate on the electrical rate; and provide in-kind infrastructure improvements to Timpte, which would include installation of city utilities and placement of storm sewer around the building.

THE SECOND resolution concerned an agreement between the city of Wayne and Chief Construction Company concerning the site preparation and dirt moving. A third resolution, calling for the approval of the city-county memorandum of agreement, was passed by the council.

The county will be reimbursed for 50 percent of its cost in installation of a rural road to the Timpte site. The city will receive 50 percent of reimbursement for the cost of its projects.

And the fourth resolution approved by the council was to consider establishing a 14th Street street improvement district, from where the road ends eastward out to the new Timpte manufacturing plant site.

The public hearing on the 14th Street street improvement district is scheduled for July 9.

In other action Tuesday, the city council:

• Accepted the resignation of Wayne Wessel from the Wayne City Recreation Board.

• Approved the plans and specifications for the 1985 Asphalt Overlay Street Improvements, with the bid letting date set for July 30 at 7:35 p.m.

• Approved the closing of an alley on the "north-south alley in Block 7 of original Town of Wayne" which was presented by Steve Schumacher. The alley is directly west of the Hiscox-Schumacher Funeral Home.

Schumacher said the alley hasn't been serviced by the city for the past 13 years and is currently being used as a parking area to a nearby house.

Took no action on a request by the Wayne County Jaycees for a fireworks display permit. The fireworks permit will be obtained from the state fire marshal and not the city.

• Conducted a public hearing on the proposal to do preliminary work to create a street improvement district in the north-south alley between 7th and 8th Street and Main and Pearl Street.

Some individuals had contacted council members about objections to the proposal. However, the statements for or against the proposal cannot be made by proxy, so it showed in the records that nobody opposed the road project.

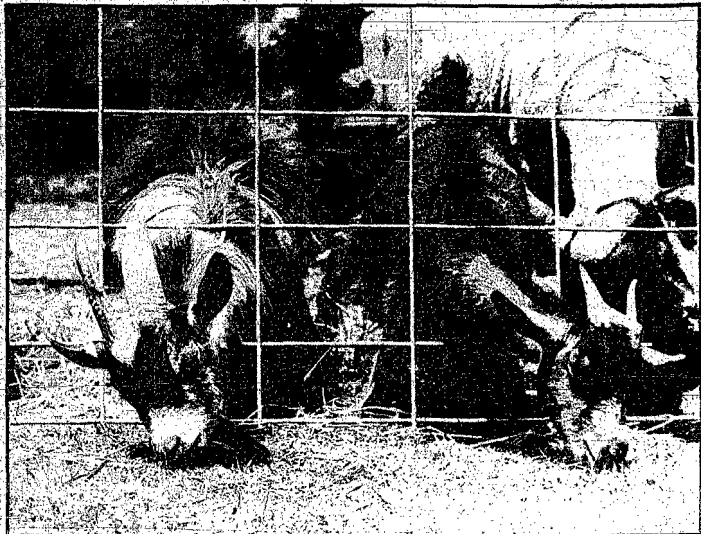

Phasing out pharmacy college 'wrong decision'

"This is a health care issue, not a budget issue."

University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UN-L) College of Pharmacy faculty member for seven years, Warren Narducci, said the above statement to the Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday afternoon. Narducci was speaking about the latest proposal to phase out the College of Pharmacy and College of Nursing.

With him were College of Pharmacy students Barry Jones of Wakefield, in his fourth and final year, and Julie Stohler of Concord, who has a year of classroom study and another year of "interning" remaining at UN-L.

out, Narducci said it would only be a matter of time before the accreditation would be lost.

The college, he said, is in its best year, winning state and national awards. He is convinced the chancellor has "made the wrong decision" in suggesting the pharmacy college and Lincoln's nursing college be eliminated.

He said those proposing the elimination should "be an advocate for the health care program."

Narducci said $1.1 million of the pharmacy college is state supported, which amounts to under $2 per individual on tax payments or tax returns. The UN-L pharmacy college graduates 40 to 60 placements. "So little [in dollars] does so much for the state," he said.

ALTHOUGH NOT against athletics, he said he questions the priority of the state legislators who rally to refund what is reduced from the college's athletic program. "Is the priority to educate athletes or to provide students and athletes with education," he asked.

"We no longer can afford so much government. Less government doesn't mean less education," he added.

The closing of the pharmacy college, he said, would likely bring on higher prescription costs, which would add up to increased health care costs.

"More see a pharmacist every day than they do doctors and dentists combined," he said.

The demand for pharmacists in the state of Nebraska could reach 55 new openings a year during the next five years. Of the average who graduated from the UN-L pharmacy college, 40 stay in the state, compared to 15 or so in the nearest private college which graduates pharmacists, Narducci pointed out.

Currently the tuition rate per student at the pharmacy college is approximately $1,000 per year — the lowest tuition within the surrounding states with the exception of South Dakota, he said.

Investigating break-ins

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is investigating two break-ins which took place over the weekend in Winslow and Carroll.

Sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning, unknown parties entered the H. McClain Oil Company in Carroll and the Tri-County Co-op in Winslow. Fourteen car tires and $1,600 in cash were taken.

No arrests have been made in the incidents.

Agricultural legislation modest

Economy, federal farm policy debated

Perhaps never has the Nebraska Legislature devoted so much time to discussing the problems of agriculture as it did in the 90-day session that adjourned June 5.

Lawmakers took a five day break in February for a lobbying trip to Washington, D.C., and returned to Lincoln to debate a seemingly endless series of resolutions dealing with the economy and federal farm policy.

At the end of the session, though, their output of agricultural legislation was modest.

Lawmakers agreed this year to authorize the wheat and corn check-off boards to use part of their budget for lobbying at the federal level. They increased penalties for violation of the grain warehousing act, and clarified where Public Service Commission protection of farmers dealing with elevators begins and ends.

Initiative 300, the constitutional limitation on corporate ownership of farmland approved by voters in 1982, survived the 1985 session. A statutory circumvention of the amendment that authorizes creation of business trusts awaits first round debate next session. Lawmakers will also debate at first round an outright repeal of Initiative 300, which would have to be submitted for the approval of voters in November 1986.

GASOHOL WAS THE subject of many bills, including one introduced by Senators Jerome Warner of Waverly and Lorán Schmitl of Bellwood, to phase out its 5-cent-a-gallon exemption from the state fuel tax. The Warner-Schmitl bill passed, and the exemption is scheduled to drop to 3 cents on July 1. In January 1993, the exemption will be eliminated under terms of the new law.

An amendment offered by Senator Ernest Chambers of Omaha requires that gasohol pumps be clearly labeled to inform motorists whether the fuel contains ethanol, methanol or a combination of the gasoline additives.

A bill left in committee would partially reimburse school districts with money for burning gasohol in their buses. Lawmakers killed a bill to provide $10 million in financing for construction of an ethanol plant.

Following the adoption of a constitutional amendment last November, lawmakers enacted a new method for valuing farmland and ranchland for property taxes. The system abandons the old market formula in favor of a system that relies exclusively on the income-producing potential of the land. Statewide, the new formula is expected to result in an average 3 percent decrease in valuation. The formula, which will take effect for tax year 1986, is expected to create a wide range of increases and decreases for specific parcels of land, however.

CLINGING TO LIFE at the end of the 1985 session was the proposed college of veterinary medicine at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Lawmakers cut $140,000 in planning funds for the project, and refused to commit any state funding to the construction costs of the $16 million project. Lawmakers, however, did authorize NU to continue its pursuit of a cooperative arrangement with an existing veterinary school under which students would perform their four-year clinical work in Nebraska.

Responding to the severe problems in the agricultural economy, state lawmakers this session considered, but failed to adopt, some extreme solutions.

Among the proposals introduced in the 1985 legislative session were a constitutional amendment for creation of a state agricultural bank, a bill to create an agricultural export board financed with $10 million of state money, and a measure to grant authority to the director of the state Department of Agriculture to establish minimum commodity prices at 90 percent of parity.

Each of the proposals remains alive for debate in committee or on the floor in 1986.

Dead when the annual session adjourned was a measure authorizing the state to purchase and re-sell agriculture land with proceeds from bond sales. Also dead were bills to define judges the authority to delay indefinitely farm foreclosures, to impose a 9 percent general usury rate and to divert check-off board funds to needy farmers.

Good example

Initiative enacted by staff officials at Wayne's Region IV has resulted in jobs for 28 individuals and has presented an outstanding example to similar agencies and organizations in an effort to prepare their clients for future employment and independence.

Its paper recycling program has captured the attention of other communities and hopefully the success will spread to the job markets outside of Region IV.

What will happen now is that the clients at the facility will be able to earn a wage through piece rate work, by shredding paper or by tearing out carbons.

In this instance, wages are not the important phase of this program. More critical is how the clients perform with a day to day fulltime job opportunity and their reaction to the longer than before working hours.

The recycling work is instilling good work habits, work ethics and producing more confidence into the hearts of the clients (those with disabilities) so that they have the brassness to approach an employer and let him or her know that they can do the job better than anyone else.

These recent actions by Region IV staff members, plus Omaha Paper Stock's efforts to bring its paper to Wayne for recycling, should be commended for providing this sort of opportunity to the clients.

Computers vital to American education

Computers are fast becoming a fact of everyday life for all Americans. They are changing the way we work, the way we live, and the way we learn.

The last few years have seen much criticism of American education, and important beginnings in its revitalization. But concern remains. I believe that we must make greater strides toward strengthening American education. Computer education will be part of that process.

I have introduced the Computer Education Assistance Act of 1985 to establish a program of Federal assistance for schools to develop and improve computer education programs for elementary and secondary schools. The bill authorizes assistance for teacher training institutes for elementary and secondary school teachers.

It also provides for evaluation of computer hardware and software and the development of model instructional programs.

This investment is particularly important in schools with concentrations of poverty-level children who should not be deprived of the benefits of a modernized curriculum.

Computer education is no substitute for the three R's. Putting computers into the classroom is not a cure-all for the problems of American education. But, carefully designed computer education programs can truly help.

Computers can be crucial in the transition from traditional education, with its relative emphasis on rote learning, to a new emphasis on assimilating information and solving problems. The benefits of the growth in computers in schools are not evenly distributed among schools serving different socioeconomic groups. A study conducted in the fall of 1984 found that 92 percent of affluent schools had at least one computer, while only 74 percent of poor schools were so equipped.

The Computer Education Assistance Act of 1985 will establish a program to assist States and local school districts in developing the ambitious computer education program that is needed. School districts will be required to do some fairly extensive planning. This will include:

- Setting goals for computer education in the schools and relating these goals to the overall educational objectives of the district.
- Identifying priorities for the use of computers in the elementary and secondary schools.
- Criteria for selection of the hardware and software.
- Planned revisions in the basic curricula of the schools designed to incorporate the use of computers.
- And afterschool availability of the computers for use by parents and students.

The funds from this act will be used in all schools, but at least half the funds will be targeted on schools with poverty-level children. Priority also is to be given to schools with the greatest need for computers. By establishing the targeting requirement and the priority for underserved schools, the bill aims to concentrate its resources in a way that benefits schools and children that are falling behind in computer usage.

The program of planning and grant assistance for the purchase of equipment, training, and research authorized by this bill will provide Federal seed money for computer education programs. A great deal of flexibility is allowed and the result should be a better education for all children. This result is important for the growth and success of our children and our country.

Financial impact of Reagan's tax reform proposal questioned

In the weeks since President Reagan presented his tax reform package to Congress, Beneficial's Tax Center offices have received a steady flow of inquiries from their tax preparation customers about the impact that various reform proposals might have on their financial situations. The pages that follow contain the most frequently asked questions, together with Beneficial's responses.

These questions and answers are based on our current understanding of the President's package, as it was presented to Congress on May 25, 1985. President Reagan's proposals are not law. They will be debated for some time in Congress, and some of the provisions could be changed before they are brought to a vote.

General questions
Q. When does President Reagan's tax plan take effect?

A. Most of the provisions would be effective Jan. 1, 1986, while others would be phased in later in 1986 or in later years. None of the provisions would take effect in 1985.

Q. How will the tax rates change? Can you give me an example?

A. The President's proposal would replace the current 14-rate system with 3 rates: 15%, 25% and 35%. The new rates would become effective on July 1, 1986. A married couple filing a joint return would be taxed at 15% on taxable income (income after deducting contributions to IRAs, itemized deductions and personal exemptions), up to $29,000; the excess, between $29,000 and $70,000 would be taxed at 25%, and any amount over $70,000 would be taxed at the maximum rate of 35%. A single individual would be taxed at 15% up to taxable income of $18,000; the excess between $18,000 and $42,000 would be taxed at 25%, and any amount over $42,000 would be taxed at 35%.

Interest deductions
Q. Can I deduct interest on my home mortgage?

A. Yes. The way the proposal is currently written, interest paid on your home would be fully deductible as long as the amount of any loans secured by the home do not exceed its fair market value.

Q. What about the interest I pay on my second mortgage?
A. Interest paid on a second mortgage you have on your home would also be fully deductible, again, as long as the total amount of loans secured by the home do not exceed its fair market value.

Q. Please explain how interest on other than my principal residence would be limited to $10,000 plus an amount equal to the individual's passive investment earnings. I thought you said interest on all except principal residence mortgage interest was not deductible. Please show me an example.

A. There are three basic parts to the President's proposal:

- (a) Interest on your home would be fully deductible.
- (b) Interest on rental property would be fully deductible as long as you do not have any personal use of the property during the year. If you do have personal use (say, two weeks a year for vacation), the portion of the interest attributable to such personal use would be subject to the new limitation, while the remaining interest would continue to be fully deductible as a business expense.
- (c) The deductibility of consumer interest (i.e., personal loans, credit cards, car loans, student loans and interest on a vacation home or interest on rental property attributable to personal use of such property would be limited. The limitation would operate as follows:

For 1986 and 1987, the limitation would be $10,000 plus net investment income. This amount would be reduced to $5,000 plus net investment income for years 1988 and beyond;

Consumer interest subject to the limitation would be phased in over 10 years at 10 percent per year.

As an example, assume that in 1986 you have $1,000 of interest income and $4,000 of consumer interest expense. The limitation on the amount of consumer interest that you could deduct for the year would be $1,000 ($10,000 plus $1,000 of interest income). The amount of interest expense subject to the limitation would be $400 ($4,000 x 10). The remaining $3,600 ($4,000 - $400) would be fully deductible with no limitation. The end result is that the entire $4,000 of interest would be deductible by you for the year. Further, assume that you continue to have $4,000 of consumer interest expense in subsequent years. The amount subject to the limitation would continue to increase each year in 10 percent increments until all the interest became subject to the limitation. Also, assuming that you continue to have $1,000 of interest income every year, your limitation would be $6,000 ($5,000 - $1,000 of interest income), and you would continue to fully deduct your $4,000 of interest since this amount would be less than the limitation.

Point of Encouragement - Unless you have very high amounts of consumer debt (say, over $50,000), you would not be affected by the new interest limitation. While this certainly is something to monitor, you should not postpone your normal borrowing needs solely on the possibility that the proposal may be enacted into law next year without making a determination of whether you would be affected by the new law. Finally, if you determine that you would not be affected by this proposal, it would be favorable to you (assuming the President's proposals are enacted into law next year) to go ahead with any planned borrowing this year in order to obtain a higher tax benefit on interest paid in 1985, since your tax rate would presumably be higher this year than in 1986.

Q. Can I deduct interest paid on my charge account (used to finance my washer and dryer)? How about the interest on my personal loan?

A. Under the proposal, the deduction for all consumer interest (charge, accounts and personal loans) would generally be limited to $10,000 plus net investment income for 1986 and 1987 (i.e., interest and dividends). This amount would be reduced to $5,000 plus net investment income for years 1988 and beyond.

Q. If I take out a second mortgage to pay off other non-deductible loans, can I deduct that interest?

A. Yes. The current proposal would allow you to deduct such interest. However, the limitation for interest expense appears to be quite liberal, and you may not have to assume a second mortgage on your home in order to obtain the benefit of the interest deductions for these types of loans (see example in Question 31).

In Monday's edition, state and local taxes, exemptions, contributions and other benefits will be reviewed.

FUN Camp held at Wayne State Northeast Nebraska youngsters share creative arts experiences

By LaVon Anderson

There were tears of happiness — and sadness — last Friday night as youngsters participating in this year's FUN Camp at Wayne State College presented their closing program and bid farewell to new friends — until next year.

"The Rainbow Connection" was the theme for this year's second annual event, which brought together 84 youngsters from 30 towns in Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri for a week-long camp focusing on the creative arts.

Cyndi Swartz, language arts instructor at Wayne Middle School, organized the camp last year for youngsters in fifth through eighth grades. This year, camp attendance nearly doubled as many of the students participating last year returned with friends.

FUN stands for "Fine Arts and Unique Experiences in Northeast Nebraska."

DURING THE week-long program, June 16-21, the youngsters participated in a variety of classes focusing on the creative arts — including a visual arts class, creative movement, American sign language, creative writing, problem solving, creative theatre and creative music.

Instructor for the visual arts class was Nigel Buss of Norfolk, an employee of Educational Service Unit 6.

During the class, youngsters were taught to create through visual arts — focusing on textures and colors. Activities included nature walks, where the students identified different textures and colors, and the creation of a mural in which the youngsters used their bodies to form the design.

TEACHING THE students to use their bodies as instruments for creative expression in film, space and motion was former Wayne resident Mary Halverstadt of Topeka, Kan.

Halverstadt returned to Wayne for the week-long camp and was instructor of the creative movement class.

In the American sign language class, under the direction of Eleanor Jones, a teacher in the Nebraska School for the Deaf at Omaha, the students used a combination of creative dramatics, mind and sign language in an effort to gain better understanding of language through visual presentation.

Wayne Middle School English teacher Joyce Mitchell was the instructor for the "creative writing" class, in which the students let their imaginations roam in the writing of stories, poems, myths and songs.

A POTPOURRI of critical thinking exercises emphasizing logic, puzzles and mental challenges was the focus of the problem solving class.

Instructor was Mary Ann DeNaeyer, math teacher at Wayne Middle School.

In the creative theatre class, students were taught by Wayne Middle School art and drama teacher Ted Blenderman how to use their bodies to create pictures. Assisting Blenderman was Chris Hillier of Wayne.

Activities included the emphasis of physical and vocal-creative expression aimed at developing self-confidence in the communication skills.

The creative music class was under the direction of Leann Johnson, elementary music teacher from Norfolk.

There, the students created their own rhythm instruments and participated in rhythmic activities designed to increase self-expression in their own music.

SWARTS SAID FUN Camp was organized last year as an outlet for youngsters to express themselves creatively.

She added that the idea for FUN camp came about because of her concern that youngsters today are rarely given the opportunity to express their creativity.

"I've worked with youngsters this age for 18 years," said Swartz, "and we're so tied down to curriculum that rarely do we let kids be kids — and be creative."

"The adolescent years are so difficult," added Swartz, "and perhaps through FUN Camp youngsters will have one good experience which will, in turn, increase their enthusiasm for learning."

ALTHOUGH THE Wayne teacher had thought a long time about organizing such a camp, the program got off the ground last year when other teachers with similar frustrations volunteered to undertake the "adventure" with Swartz.

Swartz also credits the willingness of Wayne State College to sponsor and support such a program.

"They made it happen," she adds.

AS ANOTHER FUN Camp drew to a close last week, Swartz expressed her appreciation to the teachers — and to the youngsters participating in the event.

"These are very special teachers who are exemplary in their love of teaching and children," said Swartz.

"Through them I found my 'color of the rainbow' when they agreed to share their love and caring with these youngsters."

SWARTS ADDED that FUN Camp is an intense week of learning where youngsters must also give of themselves.

"The kids are fantastic, really super," smiled Swartz, "and I think even the teachers are amazed at how much knowledge they learn in just five days."

"I think everyone of the kids goes away feeling a little more a part of the world — like they belong."

"And that's what it's all about."

Other youngsters included Jami Dostal, Christy Voster and Pamela Zimmerman, all of Ashland; Mikki La Rocca of Burwell; Chad Meyensburg of David City; Christopher Doty of Elkhorn; Becky Wages of Emerson; Shawn Pobley and Jennifer Raabe, both of Fremont; Jennifer Helgren of Grand Island; Brian Boye, Tracy Kramer and Lesley Riddell, all of Gresham; Amy Adkins and Jessica Monson, both of Laurel; Julie Janke of Lincoln; Candy Faith of Lynch; David Wanek and Joel Wanek, both of Neligh; Janet Olson and Rachelle Korous, both of Niobrara; Dawn Hupp, Mandy Jedicke, Mike Stover and Wendy Stover, all of Norfolk.

Also: Jacque Duvall, Laura Maloney, Leslee Reeves and Jenni Richter, all of Omaha; Monica Hollenbeck and Dana Mueller, both of O'Neill; Allyson Hodsdon, Wendy Inness and Krystal Lewis, all of Papillion; Julia Karlen of Pender; Tara Weller and Carey Lowe, both of Palmer; Ann Johnson and Julie Rogers, both of Randolph; Robert Baldacci of Stanton; Dawn Ostigle of Tilden; Chrystal DeNaeyer, Missy DeNaeyer and Tara DeNaeyer, all of Valentine; Gregory Bass of Winnebago; Heather Witte of West Point; Valerie Simcox of Wolbach; Heather Varitek and Heidi Varitek, both of DeWitt; Iowa; Mitchell Johnson of Sioux City, Iowa; and Mike Johnson of Springfield, Mo.

Jenni Richter of Omaha, center photo at left, sheds tears as the week comes to a close and campers say their good-bys. Friday night's closing program was entitled "Finding the Rainbow," and was the story of Mr. Rainbow looking for his colors. Town Team rips Neligh in Conference play

Wayne's Town Team snatched Sunday night as they registered a Tri-County League Conference thrashing over Neligh by a 16-2 score.

The game ended in seven innings because of the 10-run rule.

Centerfielder John Reed led Wayne's hitting attack with three of the town team's total nine hits. Dennis Danielson and third baseman Mark Starzl each poked two hits.

Shortstop Mike Breske scored five runs for Wayne and was credited with four stolen bases.

Doug Carroll got the win, pitching the first five innings, allowing four hits and two runs, striking out four and walking one Neligh batter. Starzl came on in relief in the bottom of the sixth inning, allowing no runs on two hits. He walked two and struck out five in the two innings he pitched.

Wayne scored three runs in the first inning when Breske got his first of three walks in the game. Schwartz reached on an error and Danielson drew another free pass. Mike Meyer drove in Danielson when he was safe on a fielder's choice.

Starzl then singled in Schwartz and Danielson and Wayne led 3-0.

Neligh scored two runs on three hits in the bottom half of the inning and the score stood at 7-2.

Wayne expanded their lead to 12-2, coming up with a five-run third inning. Morris led off with a walk and Breske cracked a double. Schwartz drove in Morris and Breske with a triple.

Danielson then walked and an infield out by catcher Meyer drove in Schwartz. After Starzl walked and later stole second, Reed laced a single to score Danielson and Starzl.

Breske scored the first of Wayne's two runs in the fourth inning when he reached on a walk, stole second and third base and scored on an errant Neligh catcher's throw. Leftfielder Schwartz walked, advanced to second and third on wild pitches by the Neligh pitcher, and then scored on a single by Starzl.

Breske scored his fifth run of the game in the sixth, leading off with a walk, advancing to second on a wild pitch and later scoring on a single by Danielson.

Rob Rabe picked up the win, limiting Bancroft to just three hits in five innings and recording eight strikeouts while walking three.

Wayne collected five hits, two each by Bill Landanger and Jason Jorgensen.

Russ Longe and Ted McCright scored Wayne's first runs in the second inning, both reaching first base on walks. Jorgensen drove home Longe with a ground rule double.

Landanger then brought McCright and Jorgensen home with a triple. A sacrifice fly by Rabe scored Landanger and Wayne led Bancroft by a 4-1 score.

Bancroft's two runs came in the second inning on a walk followed by a double by Busselman, and in the fourth inning after a Wayne infield error and double hit by Slaughter.

Wayne scored a run in the fourth inning after Jorgensen got on via a Bancroft infield error, stole second and scored on a single by Rabe.

The clincher inning for Wayne came in the fifth as they scored seven runs on two outs. It began when Longe and McCright drew walks.

Jorgensen then up his second extra base hit of the game—a triple—to score both Longe and McCright.

A single by Wisner's Jerry Rabe in the top of the seventh inning drove in Jay Held as the winning run.

Held had singled, was sacrificed to second base by Troy Schilling, advanced on an infield error and then scored on the single by Rabe.

Wayne had an opportunity to score a run in the second inning after Jason Jorgensen hit a one-out double, but he was left standing at third base.

In the fourth inning, Wayne loaded the bases with one out after three walks were issued to Russ Longe, Steve Luff and Jorgensen by Wisner's Martin.

Martin got out of the jam by forcing a play out Longe at home after a grounder hit by Scott Nichols. He then struck out Gamble to end the inning.

David Ellis of Wayne captured a second place finish in the Nebraska State Junior Golf Championship that was scheduled on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Wayne Golf and Country Club.

The tournament was cut short to the first round played on Tuesday because of Wednesday's heavy rain-fall.

In the B-Division, ages 15 and under, Scott Hoffman of Omaha and Ellis finished tied for the lead after 18 holes with an even par 72. It took three holes of sudden death play-offs to determine the first place finisher. Hoffman won on the third extra hole.

There was also a sudden death play-off for third place in the B-Division.

Ellis finished tied for the lead after 18 holes with an even par 72. It took three holes of sudden death play-offs to determine the first place finisher. Hoffman won on the third extra hole.

Other Wayne golfers who qualified and competed in the B-Division tournament were Jed Reeg who finished Tuesday's round with an 88 and Eric Runestad who shot a 92.

Remain unbeaten

Juniors rock Bancroft, Wisner

It took only four innings out of a scheduled seven for the Wayne Juniors to rock Bancroft last Friday night by a 18-4 margin.

And they did it by scoring all those runs on five hits.

Two of those hits were gathered by third baseman Steve Overin, who socked one hit and cllobbered a home run, driving in four runs.

Things weren't so rosy for Wayne in the first-inning as visiting Bancroft scored five runs off one hit. Starter Don Larsen struck out the first Bancroft batter, but then yielded three walks. At the same time, the Wayne defense committed two errors which led to Bancroft's five runs. The lone hit in that inning was a two-rbi single by Trefz.

Overin came in to relieve Larsen and finished the game.

Wayne came back with four runs in the first inning. Lead-off hitter Kevin Maly was hit by a pitch from Slaughter and Overin drew a walk. Catcher Chris Wieseler then uncorcked a three-run homer.

Scott Baker was also hit by a pitch, advanced to second base on a passed ball, stole third base and scored on a passed ball.

Bancroft stretched their lead to 6-4 in the second inning after a walk and an outfield error.

Wayne erupted for five runs in the second inning on one hit. Shannon Dorcey led off with a walk, stole second and advanced to third on an error by the second baseman. Jeff Sherer and Maly both drew walks. Dan Gross scored Dorcey on a fielder's choice as Maly was forced out at second base.

Overin then lifted a home run, bringing home Sherer and Gross.

Wieseler reached base on an error and advanced to second on a steal, moved to third on an error by the pitcher and scored on a Bancroft infield error on a ball hit by Larsen.

The final blow for Bancroft came in the bottom of the third inning as Wayne scored nine runs.

Sherer, who got three walks in the game, was issued a pass and Maly got on base after an infield error. With two out, Overin rapped a single to drive in Sherer.

Other runs were scored by Wieseler, Baker, who singled in the (inning), Larsen, Hausmann, Dorcey and Sherer (his second run of the inning).

Overin picked up the win, pitching three and two-thirds of no-hit ball, walking four and striking out six Bancroft batters.

The Wayne Juniors remain unbeaten in Ralph Bishop League play at 6-0.

Beat Wisner

The Wayne Juniors remain unbeaten in Ralph Bishop League play as they soundly defeated Wisner Monday evening by a 10-1 margin.

Jeff Hausmann picked up the win, allowing only three Wisner hits while striking out 10 and walking two.

Wayne got on the scoreboard in the second inning with two runs. With one out, walks were issued to Hausmann, Don Larsen and Shannon Dorcey. Kevin Maly then got a walk to score Hausmann and another walk to Dan Gross scored Larsen.

Wisner scored six runs in the top of the third on a walk and error.

Wayne answered back with two runs in the third when they scored two runs on two singles poked by Dorcey and Maly and an error by the Wisner infield.

Then, in the bottom of the fifth, Wayne scored six runs. Larsen led off the inning with a double, and was singled home on a single by Jeff Sherer. After Maly drew a walk, Steve Overin hammered a triple to score both Larsen and Sherer.

WAYNE JUNIOR Jeff Hausmann pitched a three-hitter against Wisner Monday night.

Chris Wieseler then drew a walk, and Tim Fleming followed with a double that drove in both Overin and Wieseler. Hausmann then cracked a double to score Fleming.

Wayne banged out nine hits in the game, none of the players having more than two hits.

Play Columbus Sunday

Teams combine forces

Wakefield and Wayne Junior Legion teams will combine forces to play an exhibition game this Sunday (June 30) against the Columbus Junior Legion team at Overin Field, starting at 3 p.m. weather permitting.

All passes and season tickets will not be accepted at this game in order that the Wakefield-Wayne team can make enough money for motel and gas expense when they travel to Lincoln.

Those who will participate on the Wakefield-Wayne Junior Legion team will be Brian Soderberg, Mark Kubik, Wade Nicholson, Darwin Synder, Larry Ballinger and Jason Erb from Wakefield; and Steve Overin, Kevin Maly, Jeff Sherer, Chris Wieseler, Jeff Hausmann and Don Larsen from Wayne.

The team's first tournament game is scheduled for 9 a.m. on July 4 against Jerry's of Lincoln at the UN-L's Beltzer Field. If they lose, the Wayne-Wakefield team will play at 6 p.m. Thursday on Sherman Field. If they win, they will play at 11:15 a.m. July 5 on Sherman Field.

All teams are guaranteed to play four games in the tournament, which ends on Saturday, July 6.

THE CARNIVAL The circus international appeared for two nights in town. The circus group brought an elephant, bears, llamas and the shows featured jugglers, clowns, trapeze artists, trained dogs, ponies and bounding rope performers.

When the circus comes to town

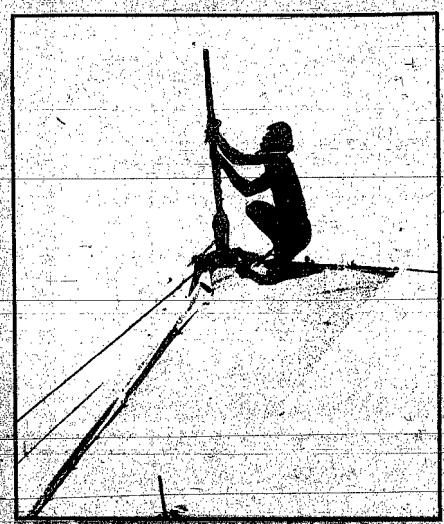

All the kids are restless. Excitement is in the air. 'Cause over on the schoolhouse block a tent is going up there.

Oh, there has to be an elephant, some bears, maybe lions and a clown. Could there be ponies, dogs with tricks? Or muscled men with sledges, pounding stakes down?

Will there be some magicians there and acts of skill and dare, like a tight-rope walker, treading lightly or one who balances on chairs?

Why is it that, despite being older, the circus sights and sounds bring out the "kid" in many of us as we re-visit the circus grounds?

I guess that as the tent flap opens and there's more than enough to see, the "kid" in everyone returns for the price of a circus admission fee.

W's gain insight into farm economic crisis

By Mary Emanuel
Editorial Assistant
UNL Dept of Ag Communications

At the June 17 "Leadership in Agriculture" seminar at the Nebraska East Union, 45 W's from across the state met to enhance their understanding of the current agricultural economic situation and the leadership resources necessary for positive growth and the development of the quality of life in Nebraska.

They asked difficult questions of the six panelists who represented farmers, small communities, consumer groups, ag lenders and the state legislature.

Mike Turner, UNL extension marketing specialist, opened the afternoon session with a brief overview of the agricultural economic situation. "There are two important problems facing agriculture today. There is too much debt and too much capacity to produce," he said.

"There has been a phenomenal change in land values in Nebraska," Turner said. "In the early '70s land prices exploded and since the early '80s they have plummeted. Another problem cited by Turner is the return on assets. "To a large extent, agricultural income has been paper income," he said. "If I own land but choose not to sell it, I don't realize income. Agricultural wealth is measured in terms of paper gains. A lot of the prosperity that we saw in production agriculture during the '70s was directly related to increasing land values. It was not income we were generating through the sale of crops and livestock."

"The INCREASE of paper wealth correspondingly increased farmers' ability to borrow against the rising value of the land," Turner said. "But since land values have gone down, the paper wealth disappears."

"Not all farmers in Nebraska have outstanding debt loads. In 1984, 34 percent of Nebraska farmers had no debt load. But 19 percent had outstanding debt. And 8 percent of farmers had a 71 percent or higher debt load," Turner said. "In five years or less, 20 percent of Nebraska farmers will not likely be in business."

Following Turner's introduction, the youths formed into small groups to discuss how the ag economy has changed. What kind of help agriculture needs from the government, other institutions and local communities; and possible long-term benefits and community strengths.

Panelists who served as resource people for this discussion were: Bill Beebe of Sromsburg, representing farmers in economic stress; Larry Hudkins of Malcolm, representing farmers not economically stressed; Kathy Sheldon of Nebraska City, representing rural community business; Roger Johnson of Lincoln, representing ag lenders; Bobbi McGinn, representing urban consumers; and Senator Rob Johnson, representing state legislators.

After the group discussion, questions on the various issues raised were directed at the panelists. Many of the questions indicated frustration with governmental and economic policies and with the apparent lack of knowledge concerning the agricultural situation among non-farm populations.

McGinn advised that farmers need to be creative in devising methods to convince urbanites that they do not exist in an economic vacuum, that we are all in this together. "The task of the farmer is to make urbanites feel that we are directly affected," she said.

ONE YOUNG WOMAN asked Senator Johnson why the government is ignoring the agricultural issue. He responded that the legislature was working very hard on this issue and that during the last legislative session several laws helping farmers were passed. "But the real problem goes back to Washington in making them aware of the problems. I don't think the Nebraska Legislature is ignoring this problem," he said.

"Hopefully the '85 Farm Bill will pass in the fall and it will start to turn things around," Johnson said. "It's easy to identify symptoms, but coming up with a cure will not make everybody happy. There are competing interests among agricultural interests. Higher grain prices will not make livestock feeders happy. We need to reach a balanced compromise."

In answering a question about ag-lending practices, Hudkins said, "Bankers are taking a lot of heat now, but there are a lot of good bankers. Most bankers are caught in the squeeze, too. And it's hard to operate a farm without borrowing money."

Hudkins told the youths that there are good opportunities now for young farmers and that "it's not all gloom and doom."

There have been bad times before,

Hudkins said, but that now falling land and equipment prices will afford young farmers a chance to establish themselves. "I predict that the next 12 to 18 months will be the best time in the past 20 years for young people to start farming. And it's going to take some bankers with a lot of courage to take a shot on young people," he said.

NOTWITHSTANDING good advice and reassurances that the economic crisis will eventually stabilize, the youths still seemed skeptical. Their sentiments were perhaps best embodied by Barb Meister of West Point, a UNL student and one of the 4-H conference coordinators, had the entire room on its feet, clapping and cheering wildly.

"I agree with comments made by Senator Ernie Chambers when many of the Nebraska legislators went to Washington in February. He said he would not go to Washington because Nebraska senators needed to do more for the farmers in their own state," she said.

"Our conference this week has been about leadership and the theme is 'Challenge to Strive in '85.' I'm sorry, but I criticize the Nebraska Legislature for not taking a leadership position on Nebraska's No. 1 problem...the farm crisis," Meister said. "Today we are telling these young people to take the challenge to strive. Well, Senator Rod Johnson, I would like to see you take the challenge to strive and I would like to see more innovation from the other legislators who have been elected to represent us and our problems."

There have not been a lot of farm rallies lately, Meister said, because farmers that I'd receive credit to plant their crop have done so and are now working to ensure a good harvest. "But the problem has not gone away just because the media has quieted down about it," she said.

Urging everyone to attend a June 29 rally in Fremont, Meister said she doesn't think "we can label this crisis just as a farm crisis anymore. This crisis has extended outside the barbed wire fences of the cornfield. It has hit middle America and small businesses. And it's going to hit the consumer, the labor unions, the Vietnam veterans and the students. It's not a farm crisis anymore. It's a midwestern economic crisis. I would like to see more leadership out of the legislature, and as well from everyone here this week...the future agriculturalists of Nebraska."

component of the ration. Alfalfa is low in energy and therefore should not be overfed.

"A typical growing ration to gain 2 pounds of gain per day for a 600 pound steer should contain 4 to 5 pounds of alfalfa, 3 to 6 pounds of corn and 16 to 18 pounds of corn silage," Mader said. "Also, one-half pound of commercial supplement should be fed daily to provide some additional protein and needed minerals."

Mader said a feed additive such as Rumensin or Bovatec could also be included in the supplement.

"Feeding Rumensin or Bovatec is almost always cost effective," Mader said. "However, the price of the supplement should not exceed $200 per ton when fed at 1 pound per day."

Mader said feeding enough energy to guarantee good gains is a key part of any ration. Also important is utilizing alfalfa to cheapen protein cost, but to overfeed alfalfa or a commercial protein supplement could be expensive and not cost effective.

Key is to provide energetic rations

Cattlemen should know their feeds

Munch-munch, the cattle eat away. Are they gaining away also?

Today's cattle feeders should be knowledgeable of the protein requirements for the type of cattle they are feeding to prevent overfeeding of protein and minimize cost, according to Terry Mader, beef cattle specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Northeast Research and Extension Center, Concord.

"With the cost of feeding cattle increasing, producers should be aware of which nutrients are required so they can receive maximum gains," Mader said.

In feedlot rations protein is usually the most expensive ingredient. If alfalfa hay is available, cheaper cost of gains can be obtained since alfalfa is high in protein.

In general, the cost per unit of protein from alfalfa is about one-half the cost per unit of protein of most supplements," Mader said. "Alfalfa should be fed where possible to meet the protein needs of growing cattle."

ENERGY IS ALSO an expensive and a lot of my miles wouldn't even cover, I'd probably find something else to run to.

We are into the time of year when some of the cows are being artificially bred, so we're having our daily roundups.

We had a near tragedy this weekend. One feisty critter got over the manger and kicked the semen tank over. They are charged with nitrous oxide periodically to maintain very cold temperatures. And the contents have cost us money. But we had it checked, and it seems to be okay. So we may have lucked out. Life was simpler when we did things pasture's way.

THIS YEAR is the 50th anniversary year for AA (Alcoholics Anonymous). It was the original support group, and probably has the best success rate.

Three-wheelers pose safety concerns.

From a safety standpoint, they are one of the biggest concerns today. Nationwide, there were more than 20,000 injuries in 1983 and 60,000 in 1984. In addition, there were 104 fatalities last year. Of these fatalities 46 or 44 percent, were persons under 16 years of age, and some were between the ages of four and seven.

Some lawsuits have been filed against the manufacturers as a result of the accidents. Some of these lawsuits have been extensive, running into the millions of dollars.

Three-wheeling has been called the Jekyll and Hyde philosophy. Many people experience a feeling of power as they ride a three-wheeler. This power makes them want to open the throttle all the way, but the center of gravity is totally different than a motorcycle. The vehicle doesn't operate like a motorcycle and this misconception is a cause of many accidents.

If you buy a three-wheeler, it's important to have the proper training to know how to operate the vehicle. Wearing a helmet is also important. In studies done on accidents, it was found that while the rest of the body often can take a fall without being seriously injured, the head cannot.

Heartworm in dogs

Heartworm disease is evident in many parts of the United States and has become the concern of dog owners across the country. This parasitic disease, caused by a nematode (a type of worm) that inhabits the heart of the dog.

The infected larvae from this nematode are transmitted to the dog by a bite from an infected mosquito. The larvae develop under the dog's skin for 2 to 4 months, and then enter the blood stream and migrate to the heart. They develop into adults in about 3 to 4 months. The adults may be 10 to 10 inches long when mature.

The adult parasite is capable of producing active live embryos that circulate in the blood stream for a year or more. The embryos develop further only if a mosquito injects infected blood from the host. Then, the embryos develop into infective larvae within the mosquito and are transmitted to a new host by that mosquito.

The disease causes partial blockage of the heart and arteries and advanced stages can cause serious secondary problems. Severe infections cause coughing, labored breathing, fatigue and circulatory failure, which may cause death.

Visible signs do not occur until the worms have developed into the adult form and even then evidence of problems may be obscure.

For diagnosis a sample must be taken from your dog and examined under a microscope by a veterinarian. Several medications are effective in removing the parasites, but technique is critical and therefore it is necessary for your veterinarian to administer and advise about treatment.

To minimize exposure to infected mosquitoes, an effort to protect pets may be centered around screening, repellents, and active mosquito control.

Consult with your veterinarian about periodic blood tests for this disease.

the farmer's wife

We still need rain. Three times it clouded up on Sunday, and three times the clouds disappeared. Lincoln got three inches. Sue and Jon were in the basement of Arby's, waiting out tornado warnings. There was half two inches in diameter in the area. Guess we don't need that kind.

Our last kid finished driver's ed last week. That teacher deserves a medal for heroism. I cannot imagine teaching a bunch of freshmen to drive every summer.

I taught my friend from Chicago to drive, and that was scary enough. Before that, my Mom taught me. My Dad did not have the patience. He saw me turn into the ditch instead of the driveway one day and sent me to a hay field to practice.

That was a good place for practice. I still tend to take corners too short. I've logged thousands of miles since then, and I do not like to drive.

The thought of another teenage driver in the family doesn't exactly turn me on either. Although it is nice when they can take themselves to ball games, jobs and movies. I spend a lot of time in prayer when I know my kids are on the road.

LATELY, THE State Patrol has been harassing me. One stopped me on Memorial Day to warn me I was speeding. I know I was under 40 miles an hour. He wouldn't tell me how fast he clocked me.

A few days later, I was tickled for a stop-sign violation. I've been warned before about my "California stops," but this guy was in a bad mood. It was at the end of a long hard day at work, and my mood wasn't so great either. It was even worse when I paid the fine.

A week later, another fellow in uniform claimed I was speeding and I received another warning. I didn't have a seat belt on for any of these times, and in light of the new law, I'd better start paying more attention to these things. Wish I could afford a chauffeur. Of course, if I could hire a chauffeur, I wouldn't need to work, and a lot of my miles wouldn't even cover, I'd probably find something else to run to.

We are into the time of year when some of the cows are being artificially bred, so we're having our daily roundups.

We had a near tragedy this weekend. One feisty critter got over the manger and kicked the semen tank over. They are charged with nitrous oxide periodically to maintain very cold temperatures. And the contents have cost us money. But we had it checked, and it seems to be okay. So we may have lucked out. Life was simpler when we did things pasture's way.

THIS YEAR is the 50th anniversary year for AA (Alcoholics Anonymous). It was the original support group, and probably has the best success rate.

Since their beginning, the value of group support has come to be greatly appreciated. There is something about being with people who have experienced similar problems that are therapeutic.

A widower friend has confided that a group of single people, widowed or divorced, has been helpful to him.

Many weight loss groups have been successful. There has been Gamblers Anonymous, Parents Anonymous, Emotions Anonymous.

There is Compassionate Friends for those who have lost children, and Alzheimer's for those families dealing with this awful loss. There is an Arthritis group, and a CP group. A post-polio group is in the works.

I highly endorse this kind of activity. I know it is helpful. And if there isn't already one for your particular need, you can get busy and organize one.

Ethel Big Farmer and Judy Jacobson decided at the rehearsal dinner last week that they were going to start one for people whose spouses are always "getting involved." What are they trying to tell us, Ray?

Hog inventory up 4 %

Nebraska pork producers had an estimated 3.75 million hogs and pigs on hand June 1, 1985, according to the Nebraska-Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This inventory was up four percent from last year but was seven percent below two years earlier. Breeding hog inventory, at 450,000 head, was down three percent while market hog inventory, at 3.3 million head, was up five percent. The weight breakdown of market hogs was as follows:

Under 60 pounds — 1,370,000, up five percent; 60 - 119 pounds — 800,000, down one percent; 120 - 179 pounds — 600,000, up seven percent; 180 pounds and over — 530,000, up 13 percent.

Cattle on feed up 14 %

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1.58 million cattle on feed on June 1, according to the Nebraska-Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This inventory was up 14 percent from last year, but down one percent from 1983.

Feed cattle marketings for the month of May totaled 390,000, an increase of three percent from a year earlier but two percent below May 1983.

Placements of cattle into feedlots during May totaled 350,000 head. This was up six percent from last year but was 22 percent below two years ago.

Brand Inspection

Effective July 1, 1985 brand inspection will be removed from the open markets of Omaha and Norfolk, Neb. The Nebraska Brand Committee has taken this action in order to reduce operational expenses. After July 1, 1985 all cattle shipped from within the brand inspection area to these markets will first have to be inspected for ownership at point of origin by an authorized Nebraska brand inspector. The cost to the shipper will remain the same.

The Brand Committee will continue to provide brand inspection at the Elgin Livestock Market under the new law that allows inspection markets in counties adjacent to the brand area to request the service.

Anyone having questions regarding this forthcoming change is urged to contact Art Thomsen, Director, Nebraska Brand Committee, P.O. Drawer 1, Alliance, Neb., 68101 or telephone (308) 762-2496.

Farm leaders give recommendations to the nation's 1985 Farm Bill

The leaders of three Nebraska farm organizations today sent letters to state representatives in Washington urging them to "take steps to halt the termination of our present system of farming and the make-up of our rural communities in Nebraska and the nation."

Marge Borcher, Gurney, Nebraska W.I.F.E. president; Chuck Van Boening, Bladen, Nebraska N.F.O. president; and Neil Oxton, Nebraska Farmers Union president, asked for support of a 1985 bill that would:

- Increase, rather than lower, loan rates and prices of major commodities that are now selling for less than the average cost of production;
- Insist that the Secretary of Agriculture operate the farm program specifically to manage production at levels in keeping with our actual supply requirements (cross compliance features);
- Utilize the market loan concept in which a producer may repay his loan at the going market price, thus making the commodities available for export or domestic markets without forcing the producer to subsidize the other segments of the food industry and the export trade;
- Reinforce our commitment to soil and water conservation;
- And assure adequate food support systems for the elderly, the unemployed and the underemployed through our school-related feeding programs.

Dairy payments announced

Through May 31, 1985, dairy diversion payments to U.S. producers totaled about $995 million, while collections under the 1983 Act totaled $875 million.

- Approximately 20 percent of all commercial producers signed up for the diversion plan;
- 75 percent of all payees received $25,000 or less;
- About 36 percent of all payments went to payees in the $5,000-$25,000 range;
- 18 percent of the payees received nearly 37 percent of all payments;
- Under the dairy diversion program approximately the same total payment as the 75 percent of payees in the lowest category.

Wayne County had 24 payees of which $471,798 was distributed. There were two payees that received payments of $50,000 or more.

UP WITH AGRICULTURE

By David Garst

What's the best crop this nation produces? Corn, of course.

According to Barbara Van Zomeren of Alexandria, Minnesota, our national winner in the UP WITH AGRICULTURE Writing Contest, sponsored by the Garst Seed Company, it's kids. Barbara's winning entry reads:

"No children get a better picture of the world than farm children do. They view the birth and death of livestock, the exciting miracle of tiny seeds growing into crops, and the disappointment of crops flattened in minutes by a hailstorm. Yet through it all, they remain children, looking forward to summer vacation, or to driving the tractor, picking up, or the family car. They find pleasure in simple things. In fresh country air. Eating lunch in the field. Raising a lamb or chick. Or playing with a dozen cats. Farm children. They're one of the best crops this country produces."

What's absolutely right. There's no better training for life than growing up on a farm. Kids learn the meaning of hard work early. At first, they learn only the joys of country life. But soon, they're taking along, helping with chores in the early light, riding with dad in the tractor at day's end. And, before long, they've served their time detasseling corn or baling hay.

By the time they're teenagers, farm kids have learned how to do the toughest job in the world. They've learned about hard work, and they're not afraid of it. And they understand that the best things in life — like food on the table — don't come easy.

Farm kids learn early the meaning of responsibility. The consequence of neglecting a 4-H project or forgetting to tackle a chore for dad make a lasting impression on farm kids. They soon realize that farming is a team effort, and every player must pull their weight. They learn one of life's toughest lessons: to think of others.

But, through it all, as Barbara points out, they remain kids, always finding time to build a treehouse or play ball. Turning the farmstead into a giant playground.

It's this healthy mix of hard work and fun that helps farm kids become not just responsible adults, but responsible citizens. Citizens capable of running the nation's largest industry.

Food for our nation. Citizens to lead it. Could the farm produce anything better?

How an annuity can double your dollars faster.

Just getting a high rate of interest on your money is not enough. With most investments, you can lose up to half your earnings each year in taxes.

A better answer is a New York Life Single Premium Retirement Annuity.* It pays a very attractive rate of interest. Equally important, the interest is free from current federal income tax. So your dollars can grow up to twice as fast as they would in a currently taxable plan.

Ask me, your New York Life Agent, for all the details.
