Special tax will be levied County to issue bond

by Chuck Hackenmiller

The Wayne County Commissioners have accepted a recommendation to issue a short-term bond anticipation note to help finance the construction of a rural road leading to Timpfe, Inc.

Phil Lorenzen of First Mid America/Paine Webber Inc., recommended to the commissioners in a meeting conducted last Tuesday to issue approximately $170,000 of bond anticipation notes to meet the estimated $321,063 in total financial requirements to complete the road project.

The construction bid for the rural road to Timpfe, $294,775, was awarded by the commissioners several weeks ago to Castle Construction Company of Columbus. Other costs contributing to the $321,063 estimated total financial requirements to complete the road project included engineering costs, interest reserve, legal and publications, and fiscal, marketing, printing and registration records.

Lorenzen's recommendation took into the availability of grant funds and other cash funds available from the county. Approximately $150,000 of block grant funds will be available to reduce the anticipated cost of the road construction, which is how Lorenzen arrived at the amount of $170,000 for bond issuance.

ACCORDING TO Lorenzen, the note would be dated on Aug. 15, 1985 and would mature "at the fall end of August, 1988."

The interest on the bond would be payable Jan. 15, 1986 and semi-annually thereafter and the interest rates are estimated at 7.5 percent. The paying agent for the bonds will be the Wayne County treasurer.

A special tax would be levied to Wayne County taxpayers until the $170,000 bond is retired.

The tax would be levied in 1985 and would be paid in the calendar year of 1986, according to Lorenzen.

Assuming that the tax base of Wayne County is $250 million and there is 100 percent tax collections or no increase of tax base during the three years running, the levy would amount to 27 1/2 cents per $1,000 valuation, Lorenzen said. On a $50,000 property valuation, that would increase property taxes approximately $13.75 annually.

Lorenzen had originally presented the commissioners' with different figures — reflecting a 32 1/2 cent per $1,000 valuation in the special tax levy and a recommendation for a $200,000 bond anticipation note.

However, those figures were changed and Lorenzen will submit the new information with the new figures, as he reported, to the county commissioners to be taken up in resolution form.

Elliott looks back on WSC

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Ed Elliott classifies himself as a battler.

The former president of Wayne State College, who begins his full-time duties Monday (today) at Central Missouri State University, sets another challenge ahead in his new president's position at the Warrensburg, Missouri college.

He can renew some of his energetic efforts exerted on ideas and philosophies at Wayne State College and put them in place at Central Missouri State University "starting from the ground and building up."

"The college is so large. There are a number of opportunities that exist," he said.

One battle he will have to confront upon stepping into the president's position is how to solve a declining enrollment problem at the Missouri college.

"Having a steady and rising enrollment at Wayne State College was "something I feel really good about," he said in recalling some of the successful accomplishments during his term as Wayne State president.

"The enrollment (at Wayne State) has gone up steadily each year," he said, adding that many other colleges are experiencing enrollment declines.

"The pool of students that aren't out there — well, we're getting them," he said.

"We've successfully made the transition from typical students (high school graduates) to a cross section and mix of non-traditional students. I feel good about that," he added.

ANOTHER ACCOMPLISHMENT at Wayne State College is the pulling together of the Foundation and the development of the Foundation's goals and objectives. "Alumni and friends of Wayne State College have been responding well," he said.

And finally, the merits of the institution itself has created positive results. "There is a strong sense of ownership between the college, institution and the community," he said. The people feel they are part of both the college and the community and that is important to the college's quality programs.

Elliott said that the college has a reputation for retaining a very good faculty.

He said there are also the physical facilities at Wayne State College that he will miss, particularly one that is currently on the list for future construction — the Rice-Carlson Addition.

"It was a lot of work on that, but it was so much fun. I'll leave with sadness, because it was something I put a lot of effort in and now must walk away from it. But I'll come back and see it, and I'll still feel good about it," he said.

One more accomplishment he cited

St. Mary's up for grant

Governor Bob Kerrey has recommended to the U.S. Department of Energy that an energy-efficiency grant for $700 be awarded to St. Mary's School of Wayne under the federally-funded Institutional Conservation Program. If funded, the grant will be used to finance a technical analysis of energy systems and energy use at the school. Under the Institutional Conservation Program, schools and hospitals may apply for federal matching grants for up to 50 percent of the cost of performing technical analyses or implementing energy conservation measures. These measures may include lighting replacement, insulation, window modification, the installation of energy management systems or other heating and ventilation system modification. Created by Congress, the program is administered at the federal level by the U.S. Department of Energy and at the state level by the Nebraska Energy Office.

Three-wheel pull for Bonnie

People will be pulling for Bonnie (Bonnie) Smith during a special event scheduled Saturday, July 27 at the Dixon County Fairgrounds.

There will be a three-wheel pull and drag contest at the fairgrounds in Concord, beginning at 1 p.m. Smith, granddaughter of Floyd and Clara Sullivan of Wayne and Mrs. Luella Smith of Carroll, is a Lincoln diabetic who is trying to raise $70,000 for a pancreas transplant. She suffers from several diabetic complications including retinopathy — an irreversible eye condition that can lead to blindness.

She must have $35,000 on deposit at the University of Minnesota before she can even be put on a donor list for a new pancreas. So far, over $9,000 has been contributed to the Bonnie Smith Fund.

The three-wheel pull and drag is sponsored by the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) branches from Wayne, Laurel and Wakefield. AAL will match the funds contributed at the three-wheel pull and drag. Trophies will be awarded. Registration time for the pull is 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the entry fee is $5. Admission to the pull is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The rules dictate that all machines must have a hitch. The hitch height is not to be any higher than the top of the axle and not to exceed 12 inches from the ground. The hitch must also be at least three inches behind the center line of the rear axle.

Protective clothing must be worn and everyone must wear a helmet, boots, pants (no shorts) and a shirt. Participants under 18 must have parents written permission to participate.

Classes are as follows:
Drag — Stocks, 0-125 cc; 126-199 cc; 200-250 cc; 200-249 clutch; 250-349; and 350 open. Modified, 0-125 cc; 126-199 cc; 200-250 auto; 200-249 clutch; 250-349; and 350 open.

Pulls — 0-125 under 150 pounds; 0-125 over 150 pounds; 126-199 under 150 pounds; 126-199 over 150 pounds; 200-249 under 150 pounds; 200-249 over 150 pounds; 250-350 pound, modified open; and 200-250 four-wheel pull.

Missing sister found in Tempe

By La Von Anderson

A telephone call this past Wednesday afternoon brought a happy ending to a story The Wayne Herald ran earlier this month of brothers and sisters who were re-united following a 37-year separation.

Bob Behlers of rural Wisner had just stepped inside his house early Wednesday afternoon when the telephone rang.

Calling was a case worker from the Nebraska Children's Home in Omaha with the address and telephone number of Bob's missing sister Lucille.

BOB AND HIS seven brothers and sisters were separated in 1948 when they were taken from their home in Omaha and placed for adoption by the Nebraska Children's Home.

The brothers and sisters never saw each other again until, after years of searching, five of them were reunited last month at the Behlers farm home west of Wisner.

Meeting for the first time in nearly 40 years were Bob, his brother, Hank Marten of Seattle, Wash., and sisters Marketa Miller and Clara Vlad, both of Omaha, and Bette Penick of Lakin, Kan.

NOT PRESENT for the reunion were brothers Fred, who was killed in a car accident in Arizona in 1966; and Jerry, or Allen as he was named at birth, who resides in Willcox, Ariz. and was unable to return to Nebraska to meet his brothers and sisters.

Also absent from the reunion was sister Lucille, the only child in the family who had not yet been located.

"I JUST COULDN'T believe it," says Bob of Wednesday afternoon's call which brought him the address and telephone number of missing sister Lucille.

"I've got good news," the case worker told Bob. "Your sister Lucille would like to get in touch with you." Bob learned that "Lucille, 46, resides in Tempe, Ariz. with her husband and their 13-year-old daughter.

Late Wednesday night, Bob telephoned Lucille.

"She was excited and wants us to send photos, addresses and anything else we can possibly think of," smiles Bob. "She said she had often wondered about the rest of us."

Bob added that the Nebraska Children's Home case worker, who had been helping the brothers and sisters search for Lucille, was put in touch with her through her adopted brother.

ALTHOUGH HE has not yet been able to reach Hank, Bob said he has called all of the other brothers and sisters to tell them of Lucille's whereabouts.

And although she has no immediate plans to return to Nebraska, Lucille told Bob that she does plan to contact brother Jerry after learning that he too resides in Arizona.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION machinery on Hwy. 35 in Wakefield moves some dirt around. Work on the road will eventually lead to a detour.

Traffic detoured around Wakefield

Traffic will once again be detoured from Highway 35 in Wakefield. Last year traffic was detoured for several months around Wakefield while work was being completed on a bridge.

Thomas McCarthy, District Highway Engineer for the Nebraska Department of Roads, has announced that highway construction work on Highway 35 in Wakefield will require detouring traffic over four miles of gravelled roads, beginning approximately July 23.

The time period for the detour, he said, is expected to be limited to 10 working days or approximately until Aug. 8, dependent on weather or other conditions beyond the control of the contractor.

"Through traffic on Highway 35 may wish to utilize other routes during this period. A suggested route between Wayne and South Sioux City would utilize Highways 15, 116 and 20," McCarthy said.

Elliott

was the building of a "good, solid reputation with the Nebraska legislature in Lincoln. The legislature has kept in touch with the goals and objectives of Wayne State — not kept in the dark about the situation," he said.

ASSOCIATION with the Nebraska legislature, he said, was straightforward and effective. It was the legislature, however, that led to several of the disappointments during Elliott's presidential term at Wayne State. The Masters in Business Administration (MBA) program was approved for offering at Wayne State by the legislature. "But they voted not to fund it. That was a real disappointment to me," Elliott said.

Another disappointment he mentioned was not being able to obtain funding for the Nebraska Scholars Program. The funding will come, Elliott said, now that the concept is in place.

The Scholars Program was designed to recruit top notch graduates of area high schools and place them on a specialized academic track program at the college.

"Academically, Wayne State is very solid. We can sense and feel that in talking with the community," he said. His wife, Sandra, was involved in the community and was instrumental in learning the community's atmosphere about Wayne State.

What he was offered as president of Central Missouri State was also a decisive factor. "The most significant economic gain for us was the house provided that is partially furnished and completely taken care of," he said.

His salary will jump from the $63,000 annually here at Wayne State College to $69,400 at the college in Warrensburg. His first official act was to sign contracts of employees at the college, which numbers 2,100 people. There are over 400 faculty members, compared to 88 for Wayne State College.

WITHIN HIS office will be an assistant to the president; full-time legal officer; full-time administrative assistant and a full-time secretary.

There are also four vice-presidents under Elliott.

The strong suit of Central Missouri State University is the physical plant and "the diversity of the college as a university." The college has its own farm, own air field and golf course.

The facility also has a multi-purpose center that can seat up to 10,000 people and is equipped with several racquetball courts and a running track which was paid for in student fees.

What sound advice would he provide to the new president of Wayne State College?

"Be prepared to listen a lot. Work very very hard in the sense of making sure the institution is well known. Know and understand what the institution's programs are about and be prepared to take the knocks," Elliott answered.

"I assure that the president of the college continues to be the spokesperson for the college," he said, which would bring on a sense of cohesiveness among the administrative staff.

Farm tour and discussion day slated for Friday

The Small Farm Resources Project in Hartington, Neb., is sponsoring a tour of three area family farms using alternative dryland farming practices on Friday, July 26.

A panel of area farmers who are part of the Small Farm Resources Project will respond to Strange's address by describing their experiences with moisture-conserving innovations. Panelists include Gary Young of Magnet, John Fleming of Hartington, and Jim Tikalsky of Niobrara.

The farm tour will leave the VFW Hall at 1:00 p.m. to visit nearby farm families who are experimenting with practices such as time-controlled rotational grazing, alternative legume crops, and manure composting.

Registration for the farm tour begins at 9:00 a.m. at the Hartington VFW Hall. Registration is $8 at the door, and $4 for those registered before July 17.

School consolidation to be discussed at West Point

A panel discussion of how school consolidation bills LB 462 will affect rural education will be featured at the Center For Rural Affairs' day-long annual meeting Saturday, July 27 at the West Point Fairgrounds.

Another discussion topic slated for the meeting is the importance of Initiative 300, Nebraska's amendment which bars corporations from buying farmland. Those panelists include Frankie Charipar, a farmer-feeder from Leigh; Ron Keller, Monroe, president of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association; and Everett Holstein, Blair, chair of Friends of the Constitution, an informal coalition of farm and rural groups instrumental in Initiative 300's recent court victory. The panel begins at 3:30 p.m.

Strengthen family farming. Workshops begin at 10 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. A potluck supper line will open at 5:00 p.m. and guests are asked to bring a dessert or other side dish. Meat will be available for $1 per person.

Ticken away

Those lazy crazy hazy days of summer. That's what the song indicates and what we've dreamed about during those mid-winter days when the wind chill "dipped" to sub-zero temperatures.

Somewhere out there are people like me who want summer to go away and bring on the fall because they are sick of the humidity and heat exhaustion temperatures.

There's been enough of summer. Too bad we're only in the middle of it. One can sense it on the hopeless face of a golfer who had hopes of breaking 50 on the golf course and ended up the summer shooting an average of 65 (that's nine holes).

Summer is in mid-season form when you notice your lawn looks like it's dying of old age, and after careful pruning and fertilizing of the grass this spring, you just don't care anymore; the locust are buzzing away loudly each night in the trees, particularly not appreciated when the tree is located near your bedroom window; the admissions lines at the swimming pool stretch longer and longer.

It is mid-season when farm fields are colorful with the golden tone of corn; or we notice the bats fly around in the backyard, swooping down on the bugs and mosquitoes which happened to avoid our attempts at spraying them, swatting them or cursing them.

Summer is halfway through when you notice the sand in your son's new sandpile, filled to the brim across the entire back yard; the farmers flare up even at greater temperatures than what the weather has to offer; you fall behind on work you said you would do when the weather was cold and said: "Let's wait until it warms up." It warms up, but it gets too hot to do anything but fan yourself in front of the air conditioning; so the projects slide by.

SUMMER IS AT ITS midpoint when you start wondering what made you want to keep your beard grown last winter, or held over from the Wayne Centennial; or when you are no longer selective about what beverage you drink as long as it's cold.

What else is mid-summer? It's cars that overheat; outdoor ther-момeters that show the mercury about ready to explode at the top; worrying about the crops — whether there will be enough rain to pull the corn and soybeans through for another year; it's hard to locate softball players to get together and play a league game because they are either gone on vacation, got something else better to do or are simply burned out of softball.

If people who have sweat dripping from their eyebrows and dripping down their chins, with sweat-soaked shirts — all this just from living in non-air conditioned houses.

BUT PEOPLE don't have to suffer from the mid-summer blues. There are ways to combat the hot and humid temperatures.

Get a cow tank, fill it with water and take a dip in it. Just don't listen to your city neighbors. They're probably jealous because they don't have a cow tank to jump into.

Stay in the house where the air conditioning is. Chores outside will get done sooner or later. In my case, if it was a chore that was suppose to be done two months ago — what's another month going to hurt?

If people can move to Phoenix,

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Florida or California for the winter, why not move to Alaska, Antarctica or other cold-temperature regions in this world for the summer?

Lock yourself in a meat locker freezer; eat a carton of ice cream; stand in the waters of Logan Creek and let your feet soak up the cool water.

Play with your children in the shade. Put a cab and air conditioning in your golf cart.

There are ways to beat the heat. But if you're like me, you'll continue to bask in the sunshine of summer, play sports activities in 90 plus degree temperatures and get spotted in the summer's eve watching the twinkling stars.

And as the temperatures become cooler and the summer day grows shorter, you know summer is almost over and fall is ready to make a grand stratch of wrong-way government.

We can think of raking leaves, fall garage sales, footballs flying in the air and getting the snow blower ready for the first snowfall.

Won't be long and we'll be dreaming again about those lazy crazy hazy days of summer.

Special levy

It did happen. There will be some property tax involved in the location of Timpte, Inc. to Wayne.

The Wayne County Commissioners, in order to come up with funding to build a rural road to the Timpte plant site, have found out that the $150,000 in grant money they are to receive won't be enough financially to complete the entire project.

The county will be approximately $170,000 short. So the commissioners must now accept the recommendation of a Paine-Webber consultant to issue a bond of $170,000. To retire the bond will require the county taxpayers to pay a special levy of 27 1/2 cents per $1,000 valuation.

For a $50,000 home, that special property tax levy assessment will amount to nearly $14.

Some people are probably reading this, saying "Wait a minute. Didn't I read somewhere that no tax dollars would be involved with the city and county's incentive packages to Timpte?"

It was reported in this newspaper there would not be additional tax levies to support the incentive packages. Somewhere along the way, available money thinned out as commitments changed. That can happen when so many dollars are committed to a particular project.

The county should not shoulder the blame. They have been doing their best in keeping the cost of the rural road to Timpte from becoming overly expensive. In one instance, where the commissioners did some investigating on culvert placement, their decision resulted in a savings on the rural road project of $38,000.

Removing $170,000 from the county road's budget, in that particular district, would not leave much for the remainder of the county roads that need maintenance. The commissioners anticipate revenue sharing will be cut back from what was received in previous years.

One source for a partial but sizeable financing could have been the county's inheritance fund, financed through estates that have been settled. But as one commissioner stated, this money is used as a cushion to subsidize other county departments when the delinquent tax monies do not come in.

Inheritance fund money could be used for the rural road, but there is no cushion to cover other areas within the county government system.

So the route chosen by the commissioners was the acceptance of the recommendation for the sale of the short term revenue bond.

Even with the special levy, the county will likely be getting more back over a period of years than what they invested, through tax dollars generated by Timpte.

And a paved road is a good investment, because there will be less maintenance costs than if the road were gravelled. Can you imagine a gravel road to Timpte, with all the traffic going to and from the manufacturing site on a daily basis? It would be a maintenance nightmare.

To do the job right, the county needed a paved road. And to get the financing to build the road, the commissioners needed a bond issuance.

I guess the hardest thing to accept is that it was a tax levy we didn't expect. Some people will likely protest, and that's understandable.

But when it comes right down to it, we need that paved rural road to Timpte and our investment in the special levy should pay off as Timpte generates a most needed economical shot in the arm for Wayne County.

Can 1 million Americans be wrong?

By Richard Leshner
Chamber of Commerce

The late Omar Bradley — as America's last five-star general — certainly knew how to run an Army. He once counseled Americans, "If you will help run our government in the American way, then there will never be danger of our government running America in the wrong way."

Today seems a rather preptitious time to take up his advice — after a sorry stretch of wrong-way government in fiscal affairs. Five straight seasons of budget-wringing haven't prevented spending from rising 42 percent from 1981 to the end of this year. Each of those years has seen the budget process essentially abandoned at the close of the fiscal year, with Congress sleeping together "anything goes" stopgap funding legislation so that it can pay its bills on time. (President Reagan once observed this was no way to run a railroad, not to mention a government.)

Again this summer we have seen Congress tied in knots over the budget. The Senate did its part, all right, with a $56 billion spending reduction plan that pulled the plug on 13 programs, held the line on defense and trace benefits for Social Security and other pension programs. The House? Well, they saved $5 billion too — in their dreams. Their proposed savings came from accounting tricks — and other — sleight-of-hand devices — most of them assuming events that could never come to pass.

THEN, WHEN TIME came to sit down with the Senate and settle on a plan, House negotiators refused to abandon their now-you-see-them, now-you-don't savings for the more real — and painful — cuts proposed by their more responsible counterparts. Now a compromise has been offered — take the difference out of the hide of American taxpayers with a $60 billion tax boost. Sound familiar? That was the platform for the losing side in the biggest electoral landslide in history last fall. (How soon they forget.)

Enter Reader's Digest and the Business Roundtable, which decided to give Digest readers a chance to heed General Bradley's counsel. Their advertisement in the May Digest included a business reply postcard informing members of Congress and the president that the respondent wanted action to reduce budget deficits. The cards came trickling in just days after the issue was mailed — but a trickle soon became a flood of more than one million responses.

Americans know, as Reader's Digest Chairman and U.S. Chamber board member George Grune put it, that "no single issue of our time has greater potential to influence the quality of our lives and the lives of future generations than the soaring, stubborn, staggering federal deficit." They want their government run the right way: with fiscal responsibility and stability, but without tax hikes that would stunt growth.

Now the question is whether Congress will run the government in the American way — in accordance with the people's wishes. One way to make sure is to follow the lead of one million Americans and write your member of Congress and the House negotiators demanding that they accept the Senate's cuts.

Slow down on lead gas phase out

"Get the lead out" is another way to tell someone to work harder or faster. Farmers have good reason to hope the EPA goes slow in its drive to get the last drop of lead out of gasoline.

An Environmental Protection Agency regulation required that lead in gas be reduced by 55 percent to 0.5 grams per gallon by the first of July. It is to be further reduced to 0.1 grams per gallon by next Jan. 1 and a total ban is planned for Jan. 1, 1990.

It's generally accepted that excessive levels of lead pose a health concern. However, there seems little reason to believe that a total ban would yield a much greater benefit than stopping at the 0.1 level.

Farmers are concerned because a great many gas engines on the farm require leaded gas. Just how many? Don't ask the EPA. It didn't bother finding out before issuing its regulation.

LEAD IN GAS boosts its octane or performance level and also lubricates engine parts. This lubricating ability is important because it helps reduce valve seat wear, especially at high engine rpms and under heavy loads — which pretty much describes on-farm operating conditions.

While it didn't count numbers, EPA did do some tests using unleaded gas in engines designed for leaded fuel — primarily passenger automobiles. It did not test agricultural engines under typical farm conditions, but nonetheless concluded that lead-free fuel could be used in such engines without adverse effects. It should be noted that engine modifications and more frequent overhauls would be needed to do this, however, and some farmers have reported increased fuel consumption when substituting unleaded for leaded gas.

Again without recourse to data, EPA concluded that older, leaded-fuel-burning equipment would be out of service by the time the ban would take effect.

WRONG. The American Farm Bureau did count numbers, through a nationwide survey distributed to members. On the average, each of the 3,166 respondents had 10 engines needing leaded fuel. These ranged from irrigation units, combines and trucks to smaller engines such as chain saws that run at high rpms.

More than half of those engines, 52 percent, were made before 1972. Eighty-eight percent of the respondents said they expected to keep on using them for another five years if they can get the proper fuel. Nearly half said they'd run them indefinitely if they can.

If these farmers had to replace these engines with ones using unleaded fuel, it would cost each one $98,000 on the average. And if leaded gas were totally eliminated, it's doubtful that any of that old equipment would have any resale value. Who'd buy it?

Two possible solutions to the problem have been mentioned frequently. First, exempt farm equipment from the ban. According to industry sources, this wouldn't work because agriculture by itself would not be a big enough market for refiners to continue making leaded gas.

SECOND, REPLACE lead with ethanol. But while ethanol boosts octane, it doesn't have lead's lubricating ability. It's a solvent, not a lubricant.

A better approach is to go slow on implementing the regulation and take a good look at limiting lead content at the 0.1 level rather than eliminating it entirely.

Legislation supported by Farm Bureau and introduced by both the Democratic and Republican leaders of the House Ag Committee would require EPA to assess the impact a total ban would have on agriculture. And in cooperation with USDA, EPA would be required to conduct tests on farm equipment, under actual operating conditions, before going ahead with the total ban. This is a much better, more reasonable approach to the issue.

Open letter

For the last 14 years Wayne has been the home to the Elliott family. When we first associated with Wayne State College we were uncertain about what our experiences in Wayne would bring. We know now that we have spent 14 of the best years of our lives here in Wayne.

On behalf of the Elliott family, thank you for making this community so great and for accepting Wayne State College as such an important part of the community. Our hope is that we will leave you with some memory that will help to enrich your life, today — and tomorrow. We will miss our friends, the college and the community.

We are particularly appreciative of the strong support the Wayne community has given to Wayne State College. Continue to support Wayne

State College, the Wayne community and northeast Nebraska, working together to ensure that the area will remain one of the finest places in the Midwest to call home.

Water management

Last fall a large group of concerned residents of the two mile radius from Wayne attended a meeting of the City Council.

The meeting was about water management. The city was concerned about the ground water level and, therefore, they did not want any well drilling done. They proposed charging a fee to drill a well to discourage anyone from drilling an irrigation well.

At that meeting, it was mentioned that if the water supply was truly in jeopardy, why was the golf course allowed to use so much water? Mr. Closter (the city administrator) said that would be monitored. Apparently they aren't concerned about the water supply this year because every day or night in July the water is being pumped on the golf course.

I don't understand the thinking of our city officials to discourage a farmer from using water when his goal is to feed people while they pour the water on the golf course that benefits no one except for looking nice.

At the same meeting, it was pointed out that a well the city drilled east of town could not be used because of high manganese. Why couldn't that water be piped to use on the golf course? Certainly that should be feasible if the city considers drilling their next well in the area of 5 or 6 miles north of Wayne and piping it in.

Just observing

Dixon County results

4-H music groups selected for state

Approximately 70 Dixon County 4-H club members participated in the annual 4-H Music Contest held July 15 at St. Peter's Parish Hall in Newcastle.

Three groups performed in the junior division (under age 12), and four groups competed in the senior division (age 12 and over).

Three senior groups were selected to represent Dixon County at the State Fair on Aug. 31.

Receiving a purple ribbon was the Country Chaps 4-H Club of Newcastle, accompanied by Janet Manz. They sang "We Want to Sing" and "So Many Bright Tomorrows."

The Wranglers 4-H Club senior group of Allen received a blue ribbon. They sang "On Eagle's Wings" and "Anything You Can Do," accompanied by Lisa Chase.

The third group selected for state competition was the Lucky Lads and Lassies senior group of Allen, which also received a blue ribbon. Accompanied by Lisa Chase, they sang "Take a Little Time" and "Cripple Creek."

NAMED STATE FAIR alternate was the Country Partners senior group of the Wakefield area, which received a blue.

They sang "For All We Know" and "Song Foolery," accompanied by Shari Pearson.

Junior division groups competing in the contest were Country Partners 4-H Club, receiving a purple; Lucky Lads and Lassies 4-H Club, a blue; and Wranglers 4-H Club, a red.

THE GRAND FINALE of this year's contest was the rendition of "This Land is Your Land," sung by all 4-H members competing in the contest.

The audience joined in singing "America the Beautiful."

Director for the grand finale was Vicki Hingst of Allen, and accompanied by Angela Jones of Allen, a member of Lucky Lads and Lassies 4-H Club.

ELIZABETH HANSEN and Donna Rahn, 4-H junior leaders with the Lucky Lads and Lassies Club of Allen, assisted with program announcements, and ribbon distribution.

Judge for the contest was Jack Lyons, music instructor at Mount Mary College, Yankton, S. D.

Other arrangements for the event were made by the Country Chaps 4-H Club and their leader, Mrs. Marge Wilbur of Dixon, and by Anna Marie White, Dixon County extension agent-home economics.

news and notes

Protecting against poison ivy

You may remember the old saying, "Leaves of three, let it be." It's a reminder that poison ivy and its cousin poison oak consistently have three leaves.

But beyond that, these plants can vary tremendously — which is why many people don't recognize them until it's too late.

Poison oak and ivy can grow as woody vines or as shrubs. The leaves can be dull or glossy, from one to five inches long and have edges that are saw-toothed, lobed or smooth.

Though usually green, in autumn they can turn yellow or pink. In spring they often bear small green or white flowers that mature into berries in late summer.

LEON ROTTMANN, extension specialist, reports that many people may think they are immune to these plants. However, four out of five Americans, after several exposures, will be sensitive to the chemical contained in the oils secreted by these plants.

Even the most resistant person is likely to have a reaction if exposed often enough.

Urushiol, the chemical, is extremely hardy. Brushing a contaminated object from long ago can still cause the rash. Cats and dogs that have brushed against the leaves carry the irritating oils on their fur.

The combination of a hardy chemical, delayed reactions and varying tolerances make it very difficult to pin down where or when you came into contact with the poison ivy or oak.

THE FIRST SYMPTOMS of poison ivy or oak are burning and itching, followed by a rash, slight swelling and tiny blisters.

Usually, the rash begins a few hours after exposure but it may not appear for several days.

Don't wait for symptoms to appear if you think you have been exposed. Wash your skin thoroughly as soon as possible, using strong soap and large amounts of water.

If a rash develops, don't scratch it. Contrary to popular belief, scratching will not spread the rash, but it may lead to infection.

For milder cases, you can gain relief from cool compresses, calamine lotion and baking soda.

A more severe case of poison ivy or oak merits a visit to your doctor. Early treatment may help make the itching more bearable and prevent complications.

IF YOU WALK OR hike in areas where these plants grow, wear clothing that protects your legs and arms. Always wash the clothing afterward and sponge or clean your shoes too.

Be careful in handling contaminated clothing. Remember, the chemical is very hardy.

If you find poison ivy on your property, don't burn it. Burning allows the urushiol to become airborne and can cause severe allergic reactions all over your body.

Dispose of plants in sealed plastic bags or kill them with a herbicide and bury them.

Dixon County women named Extension council elects 1986 officers

The Dixon County Home Extension Council elected officers for 1986 during its regular summer meeting held July 10.

Elected were Ardye Johnson of Wakefield, chairman; Evonne Magnuson of Laurel, chairman-elect; Janet Manz of Newcastle, secretary; Muriel Kardell of Dixon, treasurer; and Eva Armstrong of Ponca, Impact '86 citizenship leader.

Janice Hartman of Dixon, 1985 council chairman, conducted the business meeting.

Special reports were given by Ardye Johnson and Janice Hartman, who attended the annual meeting of the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs, and by Irene Magnuson of Concord, Dixon County honoree at Homemakers Recognition Day in Omaha.

GRAYCE LUUD of Allen, family well-being leader, reported on the importance of remembering and visiting older family members.

She also read "How to Give a Job to Others," a review of the technique of delegating responsibilities.

Evelyn Kahl of Wakefield, citizenship leader, reviewed the recently passed seal bill which will go into effect on Sept. 5.

County fair details were discussed and clubs volunteered for exhibit hostess duties.

THE COUNCIL voted to sponsor the 4-H Family Life Award for 1985. First place awards in both the junior and senior divisions will be $5 each.

Tour committee chairman Evelyn Trube of Allen has requested tour information from several locations. Tour details will be announced.

A brief mini-lesson, entitled "Be Safe — Avoiding Foodborne Illnesses," was given by Ann Marie White, extension agent-home economics.

The regular fall meeting of the Home Extension Council is scheduled Oct. 9.

Convention report given at meeting of VFW Auxiliary

The Lewellyn B. Whitmore VFW Post 5291 Ladies Auxiliary met in the Wayne Vet's Club room on July 8 with President Darlene Draghu. Thirteen members attended.

Correspondence included General Orders 1, minutes from the department convention, and minutes from the July school of instruction.

President Draghu reported on the new look for the buddy poppy, and Eveline Thompson announced that new cancer pins will be available with arrangements by the Ashland Auxiliary.

THE BINGO party at the Norfolk Veterans Home will be July 31. Members planning to attend include Helen Siefken, Faunell Hoffman, Eveline Thompson, Faunell Lynch and Darlene Draghu.

Plans also were made for a bake sale in September.

The auxiliary float was assembled and entered in the Pender centennial parade and Wayne Chicken Show parade.

EVELINE THOMPSON reported on the department convention held June 13-16 at Grand Island, and on the school of instruction held July 6-7 in Lincoln.

At the department convention, the auxiliary received official recognition in the following programs: Americanism, buddy poppy, cancer aid and research, chaplain and gold star; community service, cookbook, hospital, legislative, national home, publicity, rehabilitation, safety, Voice of Democracy and youth activities.

NEXT MEETING will be Aug. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Vet's Club room.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area. We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication. Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a column underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

STEVE IFFT (LEFT) and his brother Dan are riding across the United States this summer. Thursday the two brothers stopped in Laurel for a rest break. Both bikers said the best part of the trip has been the nice people they have met along the way.

California bikers 'brake' in Laurel

LAUREL—When most people pack for a camping excursion that will take them across the country, they usually load tents, sleeping bags and other accessories into four-wheel drives or spacious station wagons. However, Steve and Dan Ifft are what one might call light travelers; and they pack their gear on to ten-speed bicycles.

The Iffts are traveling across America this summer on bikes. Both travelers are headed for Southern California. Steve started pedaling June 15 in Philadelphia, while Dan joined his brother on July 3 in Cleveland.

For the most part, Steve said the trip really wasn't planned, but instead said it is an inspiration that is being fulfilled.

"We really didn't sit down and plan the trip, we didn't train for it or anything. One day we just decided to make this summer adventurous and here we are," he said here on Thursday during a rest period.

Both agreed that the best part of the trip has been meeting different people along the way.

"The people have been great. They're always offering us food, letting us camp in their yards and letting us use their showers. So far, the people we've met have been the best thing about the trip," Steve said.

But the older brother added that they have encountered a few difficulties along the way.

"For the most part, the trip has been going along pretty smooth so far. But we have had a few flat tires and Dan's cable broke turning his 18-speed into a three-speed."

Dan, a 17-year-old, couldn't join his 22-year-old brother until he reached Cleveland because he qualified for California's Boys' State which didn't conclude until after Steve began his journey. Steve started in Philadelphia after he completed his last semester of college.

The two hope to reach their parents' home, located in southern California, by Aug. 19. "I have to be there by then, that's when graduate school starts," Steve quipped.

Wayne's Juniors pound Wisner 10-0

WISNER—Wayne's Juniors rode Steve Overin's and Chris Wieseler's strong hitting and Jeff Hausmann's impressive pitching performance in thumping Wisner 10-0 here Friday night.

Overin just missed hitting for the cycle. The Nebraska all-star tripped in the fourth, homered in the fifth and cracked a double in the sixth. He had a chance to hit for the cycle but walked in the seventh inning.

Wieseler finished 2-for-5 at the plate, including a single in the fourth and a solo home run in the fifth. Wieseler's homer followed Overin's.

Hausmann kept Wisner's offense in check by throwing a two-hitter, walking only one and striking out 11. Also, he struck out seven consecutive batters over a three inning stretch.

Hausmann was working on a no-hit shutout through the first six innings before the Wisner Juniors finally reached him for two singles in their last at bat but Hausmann pitched out of the minor jam to keep his shutout.

Despite winning by 10 runs, Wayne started slow and was held to one hit and no runs through the first three frames.

The visitors finally scored in the fourth when Overin tripled and Wieseler singled him home.

Overin's two-run shot and Wieseler's solo clout accounted for three Wayne runs in the fifth and in the sixth, Wayne used doubles by Scott Baker and Overin to take an 8-0 lead. Shannon Dorsey and Kevin Maty both scored in the sixth after drawing walks and Brent Pick also crossed the plate during the sixth after singling.

Midgets use two big innings for 9-5 win

Wayne's Midgets tallied four runs in both the fourth and fifth innings to overcome a 4-1 deficit and down Lyons-Decatur 9-5 at Overin Field on Wednesday.

After Decatur opened a 1-0 lead, Wayne tied the game in the third when Bill Landanger walked, was sacrificed to second by Rob Rabe and scored on a Decatur fielding error.

Decatur immediately retook the lead by pushing across three unearned runs in the top of the fourth for a 4-1 lead. Two costly errors by Wayne opened the gate in the Decatur fourth.

However, Wayne made up for its defensive blunders in its half of the inning by scoring four runs and opening a 5-4 advantage.

Mark Creighton and Rob Gamble started Wayne's fourth by drawing consecutive walks. Landanger followed with a single to plate Creighton and advance Gamble to third.

Gamble then scored on a passed ball and Landanger moved to second. Rabe followed by plating Landanger with a single.

Two outs later, Russ Longe walked, advanced to second, stole third and scored Wayne's fourth run of the frame on a Decatur error.

Although Wayne claimed the lead in the fourth, the hosts didn't let up and blew the contest open in the next inning by stacking on four insurance markers.

The big blow in the Wayne fifth was a two-run triple by Landanger. Bill Lisika and Scott Nichols scored on Landanger's shot after they reached base by singling and walking, respectively.

Jason Jorgensen scored Wayne's first run in the fifth by walking, advancing to second on a wild pitch and crossing the plate on Lisika's single.

Decatur threatened in the top of the seventh. Three runners reached base, however, only one scored and Wayne held on for the triumph.

In addition to his single and triple, Landanger also drew two walks and scored three runs. Rabe finished one-for-one at the plate as did Lisika.

Rabe struck out six, walked four and yielded five hits.

Wayne made seven errors and left seven runners on base. Decatur totaled five miscues and stranded nine runners. Decatur left at least one runner on base in every frame except the fifth when Rabe faced the minimum three batters.

The victory improved Wayne's record to 15-4. The Midgets' next game is scheduled for Tuesday when they host Norfolk at 5:45 p.m.

Wayne trips Hartington 5-1

Wayne's town team tripped East Division champion Hartington 5-1 at Overin Field Thursday night.

Wayne rode the strong pitching of Mark Starzl. Starzl struck out seven, walked three and when Hartington scored in the ninth inning, it ended his scoreless streak at 24 1/3 innings.

Wayne took the lead in the fourth inning when Joel Ankeny, Dennis Danielson and Mike Meyer stroked three straight singles to begin the frame.

One run was all Wayne could manage in the fourth, but the hosts erupted for four more markers in the bottom of the eighth to blow the game open.

Danielson ushered in the Wayne eighth with his second single of the contest and advanced to third when he and Mike Meyer perfectly executed a hit-and-run play. Danielson then scored on a sacrifice fly by Kim Baker.

Todd Dorsey followed by pushing Meyer to third on a bunt single. Dorsey then scored on a fielder's choice.

Wayne's final two runs were scored by Mike Breske and Jerry Morris. Both runners reached base on force plays and scored on Starzl's key two-out single.

Hartington broke Starzl's scoreless inning streak by collecting three consecutive singles with two out in the top of the ninth inning.

Hartington threatened in the seventh inning when three players reached base. However, Starzl pitched out of the jam to push his scoreless streak to 23 innings.

Starzl also had a productive night at the plate as he finished 3-for-5 with the two RBI. Todd Schwartz and Meyer joined Danielson by collecting two hits apiece for Wayne.

Wayne slugged out 12 hits in the game and made only two fielding errors. Hartington finished with two miscues in the field.

The victory improved Wayne's record to 9-7 overall and 8-7 in league play. Hartington won the East League and finishes the regular season with a 13-3 mark.

Although not certain, player-coach Ankeny said Wayne expects to play its final game of the regular season Wednesday when Laurel travels to town. Ankeny added that he thought Wayne's first game of the playoffs would be played at O'Neill on Friday, July 26. The playoff will follow a best-of-three series format.

Last inning costs Wayne Midgets 3-2 loss

WISNER Wayne's Midgets dropped a tough 3-2 loss to Wisner here Friday night.

Wayne led 2-0 heading into the bottom of the sixth inning but Wisner collected two hits and capitalized on two Wayne errors to score three runs and pull out the victory.

Wisner's Troy Eisenhower started the Wisner sixth by reaching base on a Wayne error. One out later, Eisenhower scored on Bob Ross' single.

The following hitter popped out, however Jason Hass reached base on another Wayne miscue and Ross and Hass both scored on Danny Martin's clutch two-out single.

The game was pitcher's dual from the start and Wayne's Ted Lueders was winning the battle after his teammates provided him with a 2-0 lead in the third.

Bill Liska started Wayne's third by drawing a walk, Rob Gamble sacrificed Liska to second with a bunt. Liska then moved to third when Bill Landanger's grounder was booted by Wisner.

Landanger advanced to second and Lueders reached base on another Wisner fielding error. Russ Longe followed by singling home Liska. Landanger scored Wayne's second marker when Ted McCright drew a bases loaded walk. However, Martin struck out the next Wayne batter to escape further damage.

Although Wisner slapped out two hits in the fourth inning and had three men reach base in the fifth frame, Lueders consistently got the outs when he needed them and held Wisner scoreless until the roof caved in in the sixth.

The game was called after the sixth inning because of time.

Wayne totaled two hits in the game, made three errors and left four players on base. Wisner finished with four hits, made four fielding miscues and stranded nine base runners.

The loss dropped Wayne to 15-5. The Midgets play again when Norfolk travels to town Tuesday, July 23.

Commission sets hunting dates

LINCOLN-Nebraska's will have two extra weeks to hunt mourning doves this year under guidelines set by the state Game and Parks Commission.

The 1985 mourning dove season was one of seven (including grouse and fall turkey) established by the commission on Tuesday.

The mourning dove season will open Sept. 1, but this year the season closes Oct. 30, 15 days later than last year. The daily bag limit will be 15, an increase from 12 for the last three seasons, while the possession limit will be 30 birds.

Wildlife division chief Ken Johnson told commissioners the two extra weeks added will benefit "dedicated hunters" who will look for few doves normally left in the state during that period. Mourning doves traditionally head south with the first cool weather, and the migration is well under way and often completed by Oct. 15.

Nebraska hunters should have a good season, if cool weather holds off. Early studies indicate a population of 4.7 doves per route, about the same as last year, but well above those found in other Central Management Unit states, where overall

The fall wild turkey archery season will run from Oct. 1 through Nov. 8, while the shotgun season runs from Oct. 19 through Nov. 8 in the Central, Round Top, Southwest and Wildcat Management units. The Niobrara and Verdugo management units' early season will be from Oct. 19 through Oct. 25, while the late season in those units run from Oct. 26 through Nov. 8.

Because of continuing strong populations of turkeys in the state, shotgun hunters will receive an additional 450 authorized permits this year.

The grouse season will run from Sept. 21 through Nov. 30, with a bag limit of three and possession limit of nine.

Early spring surveys indicate grouse populations will be up seven percent from last year, but seven percent below the five-year average. The season opens six days later than last season.

Other seasons set Tuesday include: rail-Sept. 1 through Nov. 9, bag and possession limits of 10 and 20; snipe-Sept. 1 through Dec. 15, bag and possession limits of eight and 16; woodcock-Sept. 15 through Nov. 18, bag and possession limits of five and 10; jackrabbit-Sept. 1 through Feb. 28, bag and possession limits of eight and 24.

Commissioners adopted a 1985-86 operating budget of $22,775,192, up from $22,712,877 in the last fiscal year because of a $178,353 increase from the state's general fund.

The major decreases in money available to the commission came because of sagging hunting license sales, (funds declined 9.6 percent in this area) and in habitat cash funds, which have declined because of continuing falling sales of habitat stamps. As an example, in 1981-82, 177,272 of the $7.50 stamps were sold, while last year the total was 125,525.

"We do not anticipate it will drop below 125,000," said Jack Hanna, chief of the budget and fiscal division. "We think we have bottomed out."

The budget calls for a general three percent across the board pay raise for all commission employees. Commissioners will meet Aug. 29 to set hunting seasons for bobcat, pheasant, quail, Hungarian partridge, crow, ducks, geese and coot, and fur harvesting seasons for mink, muskrat, beaver, raccoon and opossum.
