Budget gets board approval

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Most city and school boards have been busy the past weeks trying to finalize their 1985-86 budgets.

However, the Board of Trustees of Nebraska State Colleges have already passed their 1985-86 budget and now have until Sept. 16 to submit a budget to the governor and state lawmakers for the 1986-87 year.

On Thursday, Aug. 1, the board of Trustees took a first step toward that process by approving the general fund budget requests made by the four Nebraska state colleges (Wayne State, Kearney State, Chadron State and Peru State).

The total general fund requested in the state college system is $30.41 million, which represents a 14.5 percent increase over the general funds that were received in fiscal 1985-86.

Wayne State College's share of that total is $5.7 million, which signifies a 11.3 percent increase over what was received in 1985-86, according to Donna Nelson of the state college board office.

Not included in the state college system's total 14.1 percent is state college employee salaries. Nelson said the board of trustees are waiting to hear what type of wage increase the state will be providing to its state employees before taking any action on the state college salaries.

Included in the general fund increase, however, is an increase in the salary improvement fund. This fund is designed to bring teaching and non-teaching state college personnel into parity with their counterparts within their reference groups, Nelson said.

Comparisons were made through studies of colleges in neighboring states such as Colorado and South Dakota, she said.

Faculty improvements budgeted by the board of trustees totaled $758,334 — over $114,000 to be allocated to Wayne State College. In the "mid-management group improvement", which would include the non-teaching levels from dean level to librarian, the total amount budgeted for all school systems is $326,498.

Of that amount, $89,447 is earmarked for Wayne State College.

Combined total of faculty and mid-management group improvements comprises 4.1 percent of the total 14.5 percent increase in the 1985-86 general fund budget.

WSC also put in a request in the 1986-87 general fund budget for expanded service of $255,419 and $168,173 for special needs. Of that special needs request, $71,000 was sought for the addition of three faculty positions and another $82,000 was requested to initiate the Masters in Business Administration program.

The next step for the board of trustees is to collectively prepare the budget document where it will go to the governor and legislator. The governor will then review and present his proposal to the legislature, and then the legislature decides whether to pass the governor's proposal.

Also Thursday, the Board of Trustees approved the salaries of the college presidents. William Nester, Kearney State, will be paid $71,070, interim President of Wayne State, Don Whisenhunt will receive $44,890, Edwin Nelson, president of Chadron State, will receive $62,830 and Jerry Gallentine, president of Peru State College, will receive the same salary as Nelson. Nelson, Whisenhunt and Nester all receive a housing allowance of $6,000.

A resolution calling for the four Nebraska State Colleges to redouble their existing effort at economic revitalization and to explore new avenues of service to the establishment of economic incubation programs was announced by Board of Trustees Chairman Alan Cramer.

CRAMER NOTED that the four colleges are well-placed in separate regions of the state and can respond to the economic needs of these regions with expertise in a quick and personal way.

Board member Carroll Thompson of Lincoln concurred with these efforts. "It is not secret that Nebraska is in the midst of economic crisis. The state colleges have worked previously through cooperative efforts in attracting new businesses to the state and providing help to those already in the state," Thompson said.

"However, business as usual is not sufficient during this crisis," he added.

The colleges need to continue establishing actual partnerships with their regions, state board member Tom Morrissey. "Sticky pamphlets and long distance advice just won't do in rural Nebraska," said Morrissey.

"We need to realize we will all succeed and fail together and that means we have to form a real cooperative partnership," he said.

Gretchen Reeder of Omaha told of an effort in Omaha to establish a "guardian angel relationship" with small businesses.

Thompson summarized the resolution as a means to provide incubation for new ideas and to provide the resources necessary for them to make a go of it on their own. "We need to act and to act now," said Thompson. The future of the state and the quality of life of its citizens depends on the utilization of college abilities to use their expertise to form a cooperative partnership that will enhance the economic situation in Nebraska, he said.

Steady as she goes

IT WAS ALMOST LIKE A balancing act Thursday afternoon as Clyde Cook of Belden moved a grain bin from one farm to another south of Laurel. The bin could be seen gently rocking back and forth as Cook slowly made his way down the stretch of road. The 12,000 bushel bin is owned by Willard Malchow.

Graduation Aug. 7 in Willow Bowl

Seventy-three Wayne State College students will be honored at summer commencement exercises Wednesday, Aug. 7 in the WSC Willow Bowl, according to WSC Registrar Virginia Wright.

The ceremony is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the event of inclement weather, the exercises will take place in Rice Auditorium.

Dr. Donald Whisenhunt, WSC interim president, will confer the degrees to the 47 students earning bachelor's degrees; 23 students completing work on a Master's program; and three students who earned Education Specialist degrees.

Magna cum Laude honors go to Vera M. Hummel of Wayne, Cum Virginia Wright will present the Baccalaureate candidates and Dr. Joseph Fleck, dean of Graduate Studies, will present the Master's candidates to Interim President Whisenhunt, who will confer the degrees.

Graduation is contingent upon successful completion of the current semester.

WSC faculty member Professor Anthony Garlick will provide the music. The invocation and benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Robert H. Haas of the Presbyterian Church-United.

The public is invited to attend the graduation ceremony.

Area graduates include: Stanley D. Canner, Wayne, Bachelor of Science, major in Business; Jodi Lynn Greve, Wakefield, Bachelor of Science, major in Medical Technology; Vera M. Hummel, Wayne, Bachelor of Science, major in Business; Joyce Reeg, Wayne, Bachelor of Science, majoring in Biology and minor in Physical Education; Keith A. Zimner, Wayne, Bachelor of Science, major in Human Service Counseling, minor in Sociology and Recreation.

Clarification on salary increase

Wayne City Administrator Phil Kloster told The Wayne Herald Friday there is a clarification needed on a comment he made last Tuesday evening concerning the passage of the 1985-86 fiscal year budget.

He had said the city employees would be receiving a 2 percent raise, across the board. However, he said he neglected to mention that the police department's wages would be frozen.

Instead, the police department will be firing another police officer later this year.

At an earlier city council budget work session, it was mentioned that an additional officer is needed, particularly to work the hours between 10 p.m. and 1 a.m.

County's oldest resident dies

Mary Morris, Wayne County's oldest resident at 107 years old, died last Wednesday at the Osmond General Hospital.

She was born Dec. 17, 1877 near Blair, was the oldest of 11 children and moved with her family to a Carroll farm in 1891. She attended Wayne Normal School and had taught before marrying Craddock Morris July 6, 1904 at Randolph. They continued to farm in Carroll.

GRADING is in full swing north of Rice Auditorium.

Grading on WSC expansion begins

Bids for six new tennis courts as part of Wayne State College's Rice Carlson Addition project are being sought, according to Dr. Donald Whisenhunt, interim WSC president.

"The bids that came in were considerably over the budgeted amount," said Whisenhunt, in announcing the decision to seek a second set of bids.

As a result, all bids were rejected and some specifications on the courts changed.

The new specifications call for a concrete surface for the new courts as opposed to asphalt as previously planned. The same green, red and white coloring as was placed on the original courts behind Rice Auditorium will be used on the new tennis facility.

The new courts will be located in the northeast section of the WSC campus, between the maintenance building and the varsity softball diamonds.

"The high cost of asphalt and the additional expense of transporting the materials from other areas were the main factors in changing to concrete surface," said Whisenhunt.

The concrete surface will not detract from the overall quality of the courts and is expected to stand up better in harsh winter weather, he added.

THE NEW BIDS will be opened on Aug. 9, said WSC Dean of Finance John Struve. The contractor awarded the project will have 90 days to complete the new tennis courts.

Bids for the grading of the land on the previous tennis courts site have been authorized with work scheduled to begin after a pre-construction conference between WSC officials, the contractor, and Bahr, Vermeier and Haacker, architects for the project.

That conference is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 5.

Grading on the existing tennis courts site will involve relocating storm and sanitary sewers as well as water lines. The dirt will be removed, dried and packed back into the hole.

That process is scheduled to be completed in 40 working days, said Struve.

The site will then be ready for construction on the actual building in the spring of 1986.

The Rice Auditorium Expansion Project will add 50,000 square feet on to the WSC physical education building. The $3.14 million project will include an indoor track, basketball, tennis and volleyball courts, space for handball, racquetball, weightlifting, gymnastics, wrestling and aerobics.

The project is being financed through revenue bonds and a fall, 1987, completion date has been set.

Cancer Society plans special booth

The Wayne County division of the American Cancer Society is planning a special feature at the 1985 Wayne County Fair, slated Aug. 8-11. Persons visiting the fair are invited to sign a greeting card for President Reagan to express best wishes for his continued speedy recovery from cancer surgery.

Those signing the card also will be pledging to take a pamphlet and read it as a tribute to Reagan's courage and strength. A spokesman for the Cancer Society said all ages may sign the card which was designed by Meg Lodes.

The booth will be open in the agricultural building every evening during the fair and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Immunization clinics

A free immunization clinic will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wisner on Friday, Aug. 16. A registered nurse will administer the children's series DTP, polio and MMR immunizations from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The clinic is sponsored by Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council and is free of charge to any child upward from age two months, regardless of family income.

This clinic is offered in Wisner the third Friday of each month, allowing the inoculation series to be completed at a later date. Goldenrod Hills sponsors four similar clinics at other locations within its 12-county service area. Parents or legal guardians must accompany the children and bring that child's immunization record. Serum and training for the program was provided by the Nebraska Department of Health.

For more information concerning this clinic, contact Virgene Dunklau at Goldenrod Hills CAC, Box 10, Walthill, Neb. 68087, or call 846-5493.

business notes

Gloryann Koester of Allen was recently honored for being one of the top saleswomen in the 150,000 member Mary Kay Cosmetics sales organization.

Koester received her award on stage before nearly 6,000 Mary Kay beauty consultants and sales directors during the company's annual seminar last month in Dallas.

Company founder and Chairman of the Board, Mary Kay Ash named Koester recipient of the annual Miss Go-Give award, presented to the independent sales director who best exhibits the company's philosophy of "unselfish dedication to helping others achieve success."

FELLOW SALES directors nominated Koester for the coveted award, citing many occasions when she went "beyond the call of duty" to share her time and expertise with other Mary Kay independent beauty consultants.

The Allen woman also was personally congratulated by Mary Kay for leading her sales unit of independent beauty consultants to annual retail sales exceeding $350,000 last year.

KOESTER JOINED Mary Kay Cosmetics as a beauty consultant in February 1974, earning the title of sales director in December 1976. She was among the charter group of Mary Kay sales directors who

Region IV board notes

The Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities Governing Board took action Thursday, July 25, on the 1985-86 Operational Budget. Following a recommendation from Region IV Fiscal Director, Craig Tiedtke, the Board voted unanimously to reallocate $107,000 to be used to retire a number of mortgages throughout the Region. This action will allow increased flexibility of revenue by eliminating several mortgage payments and interest payments.

With the freeing of these resources, the Board was able to consider staff salaries for the coming year. After looking at a number of options, the Board, in an eight to three vote, decided to give a three percent salary increase to staff. They also decided to increase the Region's contribution to the family group health from $63 to $87 a month.

In other action, the Board approved a Sexual Harassment Policy as part of Region IV's Affirmative Action Plan. The Board also heard a report from Executive Director, John Concoran, on the status of the plan. He reported that Region IV was in line with or ahead of the Northeast Nebraska figures in the employment of women and minorities. A work force analysis of the Region showed that Region IV was trailing in only one area, that being the employment of Native Americans.

CORCORAN SAID THAT the Department of Public Institutions (DPI) recommended to those contracting with them to do what ever they can to change any inequities. Earlier this year, DPI required anyone contracting with them for more than $75,000 to have an Affirmative Action Plan.

In other action, the Board approved a contract with Educational Service Unit No. 1 (ESU 1) for the sharing of the Wayne Area's Children's Facility. ESU 1 in Wakefield provides for the developmental needs while Region IV currently provides the residential service.

Region IV is a multi-county agency which provides services to developmentally disabled adults and children through seven area programs. The Region IV Governing Board is made up of one county commissioner or supervisor from each of the 20 counties in the Region.

'hacken' away

by chuck hackenmillar

viewpoint

While on the farm, I hated this time of year.

The harvesting of the bright yellow field of ripened oats had to be done. Oats was a major ingredient for livestock feed on our 140-plus acre Iowa farm.

Oat straw performed many useful purposes as bedding for the cows and pigs. Every now and then the straw was bunched together and placed in to the laying nest of chickens.

More importantly, oats was a key element in the crop rotation phase. The following year, the oat field would be yielding hay. Next year, the ground would be converted to corn or beans.

Now, I realize that even 20 years ago farmers had it better harvesting oats than those preceding them. Threshing bees were non-existent. Still, equipment used today for oat harvesting seems faster and more efficient than 20 years ago — and more expensive.

ASSEMBLING oat harvesting equipment, including the oat binder and the combine (which I will talk about a little later in this column) sometimes took days. Canvases for the binder had to be assembled, stretched to the maximum for effectiveness. Sickles on the binder needed sharpening, because dullness meant lost yields.

I'd go out with dad the first few cutting rounds in the 20 or so acre field. My riding seat was made of iron and "cushion-less", located among the gears and levers on the back of the binder. I could feel every bump — every blasted pocket gopher hole.

I watched the cut straw and oats fall into the rolling canvas, pushed forward by a revolving windmill (back then we called it a ferris wheel), move upward into another canvas and then out the binder side in a straight windrow.

After starting of this for so long, I began dreaming and soon the sound of the binder would become a drifting melody. And the melody could be attached to a familiar beat, and then a song.

I swear I could hear "Stars and Stripes Forever" coming from the machine. I suppose when dad saw me singing, bobbing my head and snapping my fingers on the back of the binder perch, he decided it was time to take me off.

Probably thought the sun was getting to me.

ONCE THE OAT cutting was completed, the combine was taken from its webs in the far corner of the machinery shed. That too came un assembled, and required strong bodies to put it together.

Twenty years ago, many farmers were using power-take-off (PTO) mounted combines, possibly some self-propelled. Ours was different.

There was a tractor engine mounted to the combine, which in turn would revolve the long belts and activate other mechanisms on the machine.

Problem was, this machine could only be started with a hand crank. Getting the engine started, after a year lay-off, was tiring and produced an entirely new (not for publication) vocabulary.

Dad would have about 10 cranks at it, then I would have 10, brothers would have 10, and then dad would work with the choke and crank some more.

Once the engine did start, it was awesome to see the pulleys and the entire machine work as one. I was sure happy when dad pitched that combine, and bought a DTC-driven combine.

And all the many hard-to-reach places, we had to grease with the grease gun, just to slim the chances for breakdown in the field once we began oat harvesting.

Out into the field we'd go. The old combine gobbled up the rows of oats, separating the grain from the straw as the tractor engine on the machine roared. The oats would slide down a chute into a hopper and the straw would fall out of the back of the combine.

A wagon, equipped with hydraulic hoist, was attached to the combine on a home-made hitch designed by dad. From the hopper the oats were augered into the wagon. I would ride in the wagon and scoop the grain from the center of the wagon, distributing the oats proportionately,

I ALWAYS HAD company in the wagon, which moved along with what seemed to be a snail's pace. Grasshoppers.

The varmints would leap under the shirt sleeves or go down your collar. They would crawl into the shoes, already filled to the brim with oats.

Soon as one grasshopper would jump out of the wagon, it seemed that 15 more would take its place.

Another element we had to deal with, when loading and unloading the oats into the grain bin, was the oat chaff.

Down the neck, in the hair, on the back — the chaff really itched.

The dictionary has chaff labeled as the husks of grains and grasses that are usually separated during threshing. I prefer the second definition — worthless matter, refuse and rubbish.

I itch just thinking about oat harvesting.

There was once consolation. The straw usually baled much lighter than the hay crop did.

You could really toss those straw bales, sometimes seven to eight high on haywagons. Problem was, sometimes a parson would get to carried away and toss the bales right over the pile and over the wagon.

I guess I just looked on oat harvesting experiences as part of growing up. Nowadays, farmers have a lot more to "put up with" — and chaff from oat harvesting has to be the least of their worries.

Permitting therapeutic use of heroin

Statistics show that one out every four Americans and one out of every three families will be affected by cancer. This country's leading cause of death, this year more than 400,000 people will die from this disease.

It is inhumane that nearly 8,000 of these victims will face constant and excruciating pain, because their agony cannot be alleviated with legally prescribed drugs. In many cases, only the therapeutic use of heroin can make the last months, weeks or days for these patients more bearable and give them the opportunity to die with dignity. These people will otherwise suffer pain so intense and unremitting that they cannot sleep, eat or have any sort of normal existence.

Although heroin is generally recognized as one of the most effective and potent sources for pain relief, it is, by law, currently unavailable for medical use. In the United States, heroin is regrettably available to any addict on the street. Should it be kept from a tortured, terminally ill patient? Heroin for therapeutic use has been obtainable for years as treatment in countries such as Great Britain and Australia, but understandable fear of heroin in our country has prevented us from making clear and rational decisions regarding the limited use of this long-proven and already available substance.

I have cosponsored legislation that would permit therapeutic use of heroin for terminal cancer patients.

Under this bill, use of heroin would not only have to be recommended by the attending physician but also approved by the medical review board of the dispensing hospital. Storage of the heroin would be strictly regulated.

Many distinguished American physicians recognize the unique effectiveness of heroin and advocate its use for terminally ill cancer patients who cannot obtain relief from currently available painkillers. In addition, there is a growing and diverse list of people ranging across different philosophies and partisan lines who support its use for cancer patients whose bodies are wracked with unrelieved pain.

As a former prosecutor and co-chairman of the Senate Drug Caucus, one of my greatest concerns has always been preventing the sale and misuse of illegal drugs. I have made it clear in the Senate that I will endorse a proposal which might have a favorable impact on illegal drug dealings. This bill has adequate safeguards to protect against abuse, and it should be remembered that this bill does not endorse the use of heroin as a general pain killer. The availability of heroin, under careful medical control, will provide hope to thousands of men, women and children who must now face their final days of life with only the prospect of agony. Legalizing heroin for this select and very small group of people will not provide a cure, but it will restore a much needed and deserved measure of comfort and dignity.

Small business makes no great strides

Nebraska's leading business group said small-business issues were put on the "back burner" in the final days of the session, while legislators focused on the state budget.

"Debate on everything else came to a standstill," said Ron Sedlacek, director of governmental relations for the National Federation of Independent Business. Plagued by a stagnant farm economy, state lawmakers reduced the state budget by $18.4 million by curtailing some state agency programs and several state colleges and university programs.

They refrained from raising sales, income or corporate taxes but did expand the sales-tax base to include utilities used by businesses. Residential users already pay sales tax on their utility bills. However, small business did score a minor victory when legislators defeated a bill that would have placed a sales tax on all services.

In spite of the overwhelming concerns about the budget, lawmakers were able to make progress on other issues. Some lawmakers felt this was the year to make substantial hikes in payroll taxes to raise unemployment and workers' compensation benefit levels.

This was due in part to an increase in unemployment in rural areas. But efforts to raise benefits met with strong resistance. Consequently, UC was increased by only 5 percent—from $120 to $126 a week—and workers' comp was raised by 12.5 percent—a $15 a week hike in benefits. The original proposal called for an increase in the minimum WC levels by 70 percent and the maximum level by 17 percent.

Sedlacek said a poll of NFIB/Nebraska's more than 6,500 members earlier this year revealed several "top priority issues." Unfortunately, those issues received little debate and ultimately were tabled: A prompt-pay bill to make state agencies pay their bills on time made it out of committee, but was shelved until next year. Also proposals to amend bad-check laws were considered, but were not passed.

In addition, a regulatory reform bill was set aside and has been sent to a study committee. Despite concerted efforts to reduce spending and curtail services, these cutbacks may still leave coffers short. The governor is considering calling a special session "focusing on education and educational funding issues."

"Those issues of prime concern for NFIB are unlikely to be raised," Sedlacek said. "Should a special session be called, we'll be vigilant, while targeting our efforts for passage of a prompt-pay bill and regulatory reform next year."

Priorities first

In the last legislative session, LB 723 was passed. That bill was a Capital Construction appropriation bill to make fire safety, life safety and miscellaneous improvements at all facilities on all campuses during the 1985-86 fiscal year.

There was $75,000 appropriated for this bill. The state colleges have provided listings of their needs in the area of miscellaneous renovation along with detailed descriptions of those projects.

Projects need to meet fire and life safety requirements; have direct impact on student educational activities; enhance the classroom/laboratory environment; or correct deficiencies in general areas of the campus.

In the area of fire and life safety requirements, Wayne State College has requested funding for a Ramsey Theatre fire door and catwalk; exhaust air hood for Benthack Air-Brush Stations and Drum Storage cabinets for metals and graphic arts labs in Benthack Hall.

With direct impact on student educational activities, it includes requests for acoustical improvement of Rice classrooms, installation of gas line inside stadium, access ramp to radio/television control booths, Connell office/classroom modifications, repair leaks in Benthack make-up air unit; risers for Fine Arts building.

Enhancing the classroom/laboratory's environment, WSC officials listed: Rice Gym floor refurbishing; practice room doors in Fine Arts; room dividers for Fine Arts room; storage at Benthack Hall laboratories; draperies for food lab in Benthack; and carpet at Ramsey Theatre.

The appropriation money requested by Wayne State College for correcting deficiencies in general areas included the following areas: projection booth, replace Rice bleachers, drive/walkway north side of Benthack and Connell water coolers.

The problem with these request is that the dollar amount for all these projects totals over $96,000.

It's a difficult choice as to who gets the funding, because each college has specific needs. The board of trustees make their decision based on the financial picture of the state college system.

Beef rip-offs

Congressional hearings called for by Bereuter

"Cattle feeders and beef consumers are both getting ripped off," Nebraska First District Congressman Doug Bereuter said, "one in the market place and the other in the supermarket."

Bereuter called Thursday for Congressional hearings to determine whether there is evidence of price fixing by either distributors or retailers to keep beef prices unrealistically low for the producers and artificially high for the consumer.

In letters to the chairmen and ranking minority members of the House Agriculture Committee's Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy and Poultry, and the Subcommittee on Domestic Marketing and Consumer Relations, Bereuter asked that field hearings be scheduled either in Omaha or Sioux City.

"One of the greatest misperceptions that consumers often have about agriculture is that producers are in some way prosperous for the price of food in the grocery store," he said. "While nothing is further from the truth, this misperception is being perpetuated whenever someone visits the meat counter of his local supermarket."

BEREUTER POINTED out that prices received by cattle feeders and hog producers during the past six months have declined dramatically. The current prices received by cattle feeders in Nebraska virtually assures a loss of at least $150 per head.

"While the price received by the producer has dropped nearly 20 percent in the last year, the price paid by the consumer had not," he said. "Some recent calculations that have come to my attention show that retailers are earning from $300 to $350 per carcass of beef sold at the retail level."

"While I certainly do not have conclusive evidence of price fixing by distributors or retailers," he concluded, "that is one logical conclusion in explaining the current market discrepancy between the prices received by the producer and those paid by the consumer."

briefly speaking

Jaycee Women attend LOTS

Three members of the Wayne County Jaycee Women attended Local Officers Training School (LOTS) on July 12-13 in Grand Island. Attending were Debbie Bargholz, Mindy Luit and Annette Rasmussen. The school is sponsored by Nebraska Jaycee Women. LOTS is held each year to train local officers in their respective duties. Members also attended seminars on Jaycee Women programming. Due to the dissolution of the U.S. Jaycee Women, an open forum was held concerning a merge with Jaycees or the possibility of forming a separate organization. Local chapters will be voting on this issue at the August convention of Nebraska Jaycee Women.

Country Club bridge winner

Clara Sullivan was overall bridge winner last Tuesday at Wayne Country Club. Hostesses this week, Aug. 6, will be Minnie Rice and Lee Moller.

engagements

Austin-Wimmer

Making plans for a Sept. 28 wedding at Trinity Lutheran Church in Sioux City are Jane Austin and Rob Wimmer. Miss Austin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Austin of Wayne. She is a registered nurse at Marian Health Center, Sioux City. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wimmer of Sedalia, Mo., is in real estate in Kansas City, Mo.

Area Iris Society hosting regional meeting

The Elkhorn Valley Iris Society (EVIS) of northeast Nebraska is hosting the Region 21 fall meeting and auction on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 10 and 11. Roger Nelson of Wayne, a member of EVIS, said the meeting will be headquartered at the Norfolk Villa Inn.

Region 21 is comprised of Nebraska, Iowa, North and South Dakota.

PHIL WILLIAMS of Eagleville, Tenn. will be present to conduct a judges training session.

Williams is a member of the board of directors of the American Iris Society (AIS) and editor of the new AIS judges handbook just released this past May.

Weekend events will culminate with a plant auction on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. The general public is invited.

NELSON ALSO announced last week that the American Iris Society board has accepted an invitation by Region 21 to host the group's national convention in 1990.

The convention will be headquartered in Omaha, and tentative plans call for gardens to be toured in the Omaha, Lincoln, Wayne and Ponca areas.

Nelson said tentative plans also call for feeding the group at Wayne State College during the garden tour in this area.

NELSON ADDED that the midwest has not hosted the national convention since 1950 when it was headquartered in Sioux City.

Although current attendance at national conventions ranges from 750 to 850 persons, Nelson said that a central location such as Nebraska may attract as many as 1,000 convention goers.

It is estimated that between 25 and 40 buses will be used to transport the group from Omaha to area gardens.

Coming to Wayne stage

'They're Playing Our Song' one of many Neil Simon hits

The summer musical that Wayne Community Theatre will stage this month may not have as much name recognition as some of the all-time favorites such as "South Pacific" and "My Fair Lady," however, the playwright, composer and lyricist of "They're Playing Our Song" has received many honors over the years. Playwright Neil Simon has been associated with more Broadway successes — mostly comedies — than any other playwright in the past two decades. His Hollywood film credits rank high as well.

SIMON'S CAREER began in the 1950's when he wrote the hilarious television shows, Sergeant Bilko and Caesar's Hour. He turned to the stage in 1960 with "Come Blow Your Horn," and has written 17 Broadway shows since then.

His "Barefoot in the Park" rocketed him to fame. During its long run on Broadway he had three other plays in New York simultaneously — the Tony Award-winning "The Odd Couple," "Sweet Charity," and "The Star Spangled Girl."

Other Simon hits include "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" and "California Suite" — both performed by Wayne Community Theatre — and "The Sunshine Boys," "Promises, Promises," "I Ought to Be in Pictures," and "The Good Doctor." Simon went on to convert several plays into film, and added others of renown such as "The Heartbreak Kid," "Murder by Death," "The Goodbye Girl," "Chapter Two" and "Seems Like Old Times."

COMPOSER MARVIN Hamlisch won three Academy Awards in 1974 — for best song and best score in the movie "The Way We Were," and for best adaptation of music in "The Sting." Hamlisch composed the music for "Chorus Line," which set Broadway performance records and won him a Tony Award.

Lyricist Carole Bayer Sager has written the words for songs performed by almost every big name singer, including Straisand, Sinatra, Diamond, Mathis, Parton, Simon, Manchester, Midler, Minnelli, Sedaka and others. The Hamlisch-Sager combo collaborated on music for "The Spy Who Loved Me," and received an Oscar nomination for its theme song, "Nobody Does It Better."

"THEY'RE PLAYING Our Song" will be performed in Wayne on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 16-17 at 8 p.m. nightly in Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College campus. Director Ted Blenderman has a cast of eight rehearsing the comedy musical, which mixes a lot of singing and dancing with lively lines.

Advance tickets are on sale at Sav-Mor Pharmacy and Griess Rexall Pharmacy in Wayne. Tickets also will be available at the theatre on play nights.

STATE FAIR REPRESENTATIVES were selected during the Wayne County 4-H Home Economics Demonstration Contest held July 30 in Wayne. Chosen to present their demonstrations at State Fair were, from left, Marita and Margo Sandahl, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sandahl; Christy Heinemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heinemann; and Susan Nuernberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nuernberger. All are from Wakefield.

4-H contest held in Wayne

Three Wayne County 4-H'ers were chosen to attend 4-H camps next summer during the 4-H Home Economics Demonstration Contest held July 30 in the Wayne Woman's Club room. Tina Schindler, daughter of Roger Schindler of Wayne, was chosen top junior demonstrator for her "Facts About Fabrics" presentation. Tina is a member of the Modern Misses 4-H Club. Top senior demonstrators were Margo and Marita Sandahl, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sandahl of Wakefield and members of the Gingham Gals 4-H Club. Their team demonstration was entitled "Cooking for Two is Easy to Do."

STATE FAIR representatives also were chosen at the contest.

Along with Margo and Marita Sandahl, Susan Nuernberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nuernberger of Wakefield, and Christy Heinemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heinemann, also of Wakefield, will give their demonstrations at State Fair.

Top demonstrators receive scholarships

Susan is a member of the Leslie Lads and Lassies 4-H Club. Her demonstration was entitled "SOS — Simply Wonderful Sandwiches." Christy, a member of Gingham Gals, presented a demonstration entitled "Fancy Folds." All received purple ribbons.

IN THE SENIOR division, Julie Dangberg and Tammy Schindler of Wayne, and Dorree Brogren of Winside, received blue ribbons. Tammy was selected State Fair alternate.

Receiving red ribbons in the junior division were Steven Svatos, Jean Severson, Jennifer Severson, Marci Svatos and Jenny Mueller. Judge for the contest was Dolores Morrison of Howells.

4-h news

RAINBOW KIDS
The Rainbow Kids 4-H Club met at the fire hall in Hoskins on July 26. Jean Severson and Janet Christiansen led the 4-H pledge, and Tracy Gubbels had the safety flip.

Rosemary Severson, leader, handed out fair books and entry tags. Seven members of the club announced plans to attend the demonstration contest in Wayne on July 30.

Jason Gillespie and Jamie Painter gave a demonstration on "A Meal in a Pot" for outdoor cooking. Jason Bruss gave a demonstration on the correct way to start a charcoal fire.

A demonstration on raising hamsters was presented by Michelle Schuuricht.

Other demonstrators were given by Marci Svatos and Jenny Mueller on "Different Kinds of Wheat," and Steven Svatos, Tina Austin, Nina Hank and Janet Christiansen on "The Four Food Groups." Janet Christiansen was in charge of games, and Tina Austin furnished treats.

The club will not meet during August because of the Wayne County Fair. A hayride is planned Sept. 21. Shelly Henzler, news reporter.

LESLIE LADS AND LASSIES
Leslie Lads and Lassies 4-H Club met recently in the home of Pam Svoboda. President Susan Nuernberger called the meeting to order and opened with the 4-H pledge.

All six members answered roll call by reporting on the projects they are taking to the fair.

Old business included a report on Computer Day which was attended by Amy Oswald and Susan Nuernberger.

Final plans were made for the fair theme booth, and it was announced that Susan Nuernberger planned to present a demonstration at the county contest in Wayne on July 30.

Fair cleanup is scheduled Aug. 5. The group also discussed working at the fair food stand. Each family is asked to furnish a pie.

All record books are to be completed and turned in to Ellen Svoboda by Aug. 20.

The club's final meeting will be the achievement meeting on Sept. 30 in the home of Susan Nuernberger. Kathy Svoboda, news reporter.

SPRING BRANCH
Members of the Spring Branch 4-H Club met in the Dennis Puls home on July 28 to complete entry tags and stall reservations for the Wayne County Fair.

Three club members, Erin Marotz, April Marotz and Russel Puls, received purple ribbons on their dairy animals at the District Dairy Show held July 29 at the Norfolk Livestock Sales Co.

Russel Puls placed fifth, and April Marotz placed sixth in their division.

LESLIE LIVEWIRES
The seventh meeting of the Leslie Livewires 4-H Club began with a tour July 15 at the Art Grove farm.

The tour ended with a picnic at the Howard Grove farm. Adults and club members played a water balloon game.

The club voted to sponsor a booth at the Wayne County Fair. Fair tags were filled in. Matt Krusemark, news reporter.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication. Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a outline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Women's Equality Day 1985 slated Aug. 24 at Wayne State

Women's Equality Day 1985, a celebration of American women winning the right to vote, will be held at Wayne State College on Saturday, Aug. 24.

Sponsored by the Nebraska Coalition for Women, Wayne State College and the Wayne Regional Arts Council, the event will provide an opportunity for women to meet and discuss women's issues.

SPECIAL FEATURES of the event include a theatrical production of "A Voice of My Own" by Elinor Jones from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

The play will be presented by an all-female cast of the Washington Street Players from Lincoln.

Jones wrote the play in response to a request by John Houseman's Acting Company to show the talents of the women in the company.

EILEEN MILLER, York County Cooperative Extension Service Agent in home economics, will share her experiences from the recently concluded "United Nations Decade for Women Forum" in Nairobi, Kenya. Miller will conduct two workshop sessions.

The current situation in agriculture will be addressed by a panel of farm wives, Kathleen

Severens, associated with the Farm Crisis Hotline in Walthill, will address "Rural Women as Advocates, Articulate Voices."

MUSIC COMPOSED by women will be performed at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 23 by Janet Danielson, a piano instructor at Union College in Lincoln.

Danielson, a native of Lincoln, is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music where she received her bachelor's and master's degrees.

Other workshops will cover such topics as comparable worth, women's spirituality, women from Third World countries, and family and health-related issues.

PERSONS WHO would like more information about Women's Equality Day are asked to contact Sheryl Lindau, Equality Day coordinator, P. O. Box 32, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

Pre-registrations are due by Aug. 19. The fee of $15 includes lunch. Late registrations are $18.

Equality Day planners stress that no one will be turned away because of inability to pay. Donations to cover someone else are welcome.

Undergraduate or graduate credit will be offered in conjunction with Equality Day 1985. Interested persons should contact Dr. Jean C. Karlen, P. O. Box 523, Pender, Neb., 68047, or telephone (402) 385-2657.

Pickle making

When making pickles, what are the best types of ingredients to use? Fruit and vegetables — Select tender vegetables and firm fruit. Peas and peaches may be slightly under-ripe for pickling. Unwaxed cucumbers are better for pickling whole because the brine cannot penetrate a heavy waxed coating.

Salt — Use pure pickling granulated salt if available. Free-flowing table salt has an added ingredient to keep it from caking which may make the brine cloudy. Iodized table salt may darken pickles.

Vinegar — Use a high-grade vinegar of four percent to six percent acidity. Cider vinegar has a good flavor and aroma, but may discolor white or light-colored fruits and vegetables. White, distilled vinegar has a sharp, pungent acetic acid taste and is used with pickled peas, onions and cauliflower to keep the natural color.

Do not dilute the vinegar unless the recipe so specifies. If a less sour product is preferred, add sugar rather than decrease the vinegar.

Sugar — Use either white granulated or brown sugar. White sugar gives a lighter color, but brown sugar may be preferred.

Spices — Use fresh, whole spices for best flavor in pickles. Powdered spices tend to darken pickles and relishes. Tie whole spices in a clean white cloth and remove them before pickles are packed.

IS IT NECESSARY to process pickles in a water bath canner?

Yes. Pickle products require heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage and to inactivate enzymes that may affect flavor, color and texture.

Adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars in a boiling water bath. Open kettle canning is not recommended because spoilage organisms may enter the food when it is transferred from kettle to jar.

Use only pickle canning recipes which include water bath processing directions.

PROCESSING TIME for fermented pickles, fresh pack dills and sauerkraut is counted differently from the usual boiling water bath procedures.

For these products, start to count the time as soon as the filled jars are placed in the actively boiling water. This prevents development of a cooked flavor and a loss of crispness.

WAYNE'S JEFF Hausmann prepares for a possible grounder during the Class B Area 3 Tournament. Hausmann's pitching performance was instrumental in Wayne's 6-1 win over Schuyler Friday night.

Wayne advances in area tourney

WEST POINT-Everyone knew Friday night's Wayne/Schuyler game was important. And with Jeff Hausmann and Chris Wieseler leading the way, Wayne rose to the occasion and claimed a 6-1 victory here in the Class B Area 3 Baseball Tournament.

Hausmann pitched brilliantly. The hard-throwing right hander hurled a three-hitter, striking out 12 and walking only three.

Hausmann had a two-hit shutout after six frames. But Schuyler finally reached him for its only run when two Wayne errors and a Schuyler double ruined Hausmann's shutout bid.

Hausmann received all the offensive support he needed in the first inning when Wieseler delivered a three run triple.

Kevin Maly started the game by singling and Dan Gross followed by reaching on a Schuyler fielding error. After a strike out, Don Larsen drew a walk to load the bases for the hard hitting Wieseler.

The muscular Wieseler then ripped a pitch to left-center to score all three base runners. Wieseler reached third on his blast, but Schuyler got out of the inning without further damage when Wayne's next two batters flew out. However, as it turned out, Wayne already had the game in the bag because of Hausmann's strong mound performance.

Although Hausmann allowed just one hit through the first six frames, there was little no-hitter suspense because Schuyler's second batter singled. And the single came after the lead off hitter drew a walk. But after the first two batters, Hausmann was in total control.

Hausmann struck out at least one batter in every inning except the sixth. And he fanned the side in both the fifth and seventh frames.

Although Wayne provided Hausmann with the three run cushion in the first inning, the visitors didn't sit on the lead and blew the contest open in the fifth by pushing across three more markers.

As he did in the first inning, Maly triggered Wayne's rally in the fifth by leading off with a triple to left. After a strike out, Steve Overin plated Maly with a single to lift Wayne's lead to 4-0.

Overin was forced out on a Larsen grounder, but Wayne made the most of its last out by adding two more runs before being retired.

Larsen reached second and scored when Wieseler drove him home for his fourth RBI of the game. Wieseler then scored when lefty Scott Baker grounded Wayne's third triple of the game.

Schuyler finally got out of the inning when Hausmann bounced out. But Hausmann and Wayne owned a very comfortable 6-0 advantage.

After striking out the side in the fifth, Hausmann allowed a two-out single in the sixth before retiring the side.

Meanwhile, Wayne's offense cooled off as five of its last six batters struck out. But Schuyler totaled only one run in the seventh before bowing out.

There were many keys in the triumph. But in addition to Hausmann's and Wieseler's brilliant performance, clutch hitting by the entire Wayne outfit was a major factor in the win.

As Hausmann escaped trouble and Schuyler stranded seven base runners, Wayne always received the big hit and left only four men on base.

The best example of Wayne's timely hitting is the sixth inning when three different players (Overin, Wieseler and Baker) all plated runners with hits. Another example of a clutch hitting performance is Wieseler's bases loaded triple in the first frame.

Maly finished 2-for-4 with two runs scored. Wieseler was the only player to collect more than one hit for Wayne as he turned in a 2-for-3 performance, including one run scored and four big RBIs.

Wayne totaled seven hits in the game. Overin, Baker and Sherer, who singled in the second with one out but failed to advance, joined Maly and Wieseler in the hit parade.

Wayne made five errors in the game, but the only time poor fielding hurt the visitors was the seventh inning when Schuyler scored its only run. Schuyler totaled two fielding miscues.

Wayne will now face host West Point in the tourney's third round. Wayne head coach Hank Overin said Saturday morning that he had not heard whether or not the tourney was going to be postponed because of Friday's rain.

Hartington slows Wayne town team with rout

HARTINGTON-Wayne's town team had one of those games players like to forget about as Hartington pounded Wayne 26-4 here Friday night in the opening game of the second round of the playoffs.

Hartington entered the Wayne series on a roll as they disposed of Creighton in two games in the opening series by creaming their opponents 11-0 and 34-1, respectively.

But despite Hartington's mastery of Creighton, Wayne felt optimistic about the Hartington series because of a 5-1 victory Wayne claimed during the regular season.

However, Hartington continued to roll and pounded out a whopping 29 hits in Friday's six inning triumph.

Wayne started quickly. Mike Breske ushered in the game with a double and scored on a force play. Then, in the bottom of the first, Wayne pitcher Mark Starzl walked two batters but didn't allow a run.

Wayne went down in order in the second, and then Hartington's offense started getting on track.

Hartington scored three runs in the second before erupting for eight more markers in the third.

Hartington received nine hits in the second and third innings, including a three-run homer by Don Hage.

During Hartington's upping, Wayne went down in order in the third before scoring just one marker in the fourth.

Joel Ankeny scored in the Wayne fourth when he reached on an error, advanced to second when Todd Dorsey walked and scored on another fielding miscue by Hartington.

But Hartington just wouldn't let up. Although they failed to score in the fifth inning, the hosts scored five times in the fourth and 10 more markers in the sixth.

Hartington used four hits in the fourth and 13 hits in the sixth. In the sixth, seven consecutive Hartington hitters reached base on a hit and the big blow of the frame was Dan Schaefer's grand slam.

Wayne's most productive inning was the seventh when they pushed across two runs. Breske started the seventh by singling and scored when Starzl doubled him home. Ankeny then followed with another double to plate Starzl. However, the two runs wasn't nearly enough to stay alive and the game was called because of the lopsided score.

Wayne did have several players with impressive plate performances.

Wayne's Juniors have easy time with Ashland

WEST POINT-Wayne's Junior Legion baseball team began its quest of qualifying for the state tournament the correct way by pounding Ashland 15-0 here Thursday night in the opening round of the Class B Area

3 District Baseball Tournament.

Wayne totally outclassed its first round opponents and scored in every inning except the second. The game was called after five frames because of the lopsided score.

Steve Overin led Wayne's offense by scoring three runs and collecting three hits in four plate appearances. The husky shortstop also drove in three runs and ripped a triple in the first inning.

Dan Gross, Don Larsen and Jeff Hausmann also had big nights at the plate for Wayne as each player finished with two hits. The biggest blow of the night was Larsen's two-run homer over left-center in the fourth inning.

Wayne started slow as the first two batters began the game by striking out. However, Overin got the ball rolling by tripling to right-center and scored when Ashland's center fielder misjudged a Larsen fly ball.

After Larsen stole second, Chris Wieseler drew a walk and Scott Baker stroked a single to score Larsen. Wieseler reached third on the single and scored Wayne's fourth run when Hausmann singled.

The only inning Wayne pitcher Jeff Sherer struggled was the first when he allowed two singles and a walk to load the bases. However, Sherer worked his way out of the jam by striking out the side.

With one out in the second, Wayne's Kevin Maly beat out a bunt single but was stranded after he stole second and advanced to third on an error. However, Larsen scored in the Wayne third on a Hausmann force play. Larsen reached base in the third by walking.

Ashland had two base runners in the bottom of the third but Sherer pitched through the inning without any damage. Wayne then blew the contest open by scoring four runs in the fourth and six more in the fifth.

In the Wayne fourth, Overin singled home. Maly and Gross after they walked and singled, respectively.

Overin then stole second and moved to third when the pick-off throw sailed into center field. Larsen followed by drilling a fast ball over the fence to supply Wayne with a 9-0 lead.

In the Wayne fifth, Gross, Overin, Larsen and Wieseler all stroked consecutive RBI singles. Hausmann scored in the fifth after he singled, while Shannon Dorsey and Maly also crossed the plate after reaching on an error and walk, respectively.

Wayne ripped 12 hits in the game, while Sherer limited Ashland to just three singles.

Sherer fanned nine, walked only three and in addition to striking out the side in the first, he struck out two batters in both the second and fourth frames and finished with nine strike outs on the night. Also, he pitched to only 16 batters in the five frames, just one over the maximum.

Wayne played errorless ball and left only four runners on base. Ashland made eight fielding miscues and stranded six players on base.

The triumph improved Wayne's record to 10 games over .500 at 22-12.

Midgets begin tourney Saturday

WEST POINT-Wayne begins play in the Class B Area 3 Midget Baseball Tournament here on Saturday against Schuyler. The game is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

The Midget Tournament was originally scheduled to begin Tuesday, July 30. However, rain postponed opening round games until later dates.

Junior Wildcats announce plans

Youth aged 6-14 year-olds are invited to join the Junior Wildcats, a club designed to promote sportsmanship, teamwork and athletic participation.

Members of the Junior Wildcats will be entitled to a special club T-shirt, a membership card for free admission to all home athletic events and a monthly newsletter. "Cat-Talk." Members will be seated in special sections at each home game and will be called upon to volunteer for special game-day duties for the Wildcat teams.

In addition, special promotions for club members are being planned for each season. To open the football season, Junior Wildcats will be able to meet the football players and coaches on an individual basis during a special session on Sunday, Aug. 25, at the football stadium. At that time, club members will have time to talk with players, have their pictures taken or ask for autographs. Only Junior Wildcats will be allowed to meet with players at this time.

The membership fee for the Junior Wildcats is $7. For more information, or to sign up for the club, contact Jean Berger at 375-2200.

Commission hopes to save hedgerows

Rootplows available to landowners

LINCOLN—Three rootplows purchased by the Nebraska Game and Parks Foundation and donated to the Game and Parks Commission are available for free loan to landowners in the eastern portion of the state.

Root plowing, an innovative technique that uses a heavy-shanked tool to sever the lateral roots of hedge trees to eliminate their reaching out into adjacent lands to compete with cash crops for water, can mean the salvation of hedgerows in Nebraska and save a large amount of valuable wildlife habitat.

The hedge tree, or osage orange, was used extensively by early settlers to mark property lines, serve as a living livestock fence, provide fence posts, reduce wind erosion and to add some diversity to the plains landscape.

Through the years, wildlife has been the prime beneficiary of the hedgerow. Quail, in particular, have flourished where hedge plantings were made. But traveling roots from the hedgerow have reduced farm crop production within as much as 50-75 feet of the trees. That reduction in crop production has caused some landowners to remove their hedgerows, and as a result, much needed wildlife habitat was destroyed.

Now, by using the root plow, landowners can retain their hedgerows and regain production of land idled by moisture and nutrient gathering hedge tree roots, as well as keeping habitat used by quail, rabbits, songbirds and other wildlife. Treatment should last for at least 10 years and does not appear to affect the hedge trees themselves.

The commission is offering root plows for free loan to landowners. The plows will be available through Soil Conservation Service offices on a rotating basis. Interested landowners should contact their SCS office, or the Game and Parks Commission for scheduling information. The only equipment needed is a tractor of at least 50 horsepower equipped with a category one hitch.

Strange but true fish story

Darrel Hartman, assistant supervisor at the Valentine Fish Hatchery, is telling a story that's hard to believe, but is true.

Did you hear the one about two guys from Valentine that work together all week long, then go fishing at Merrill Reservoir one night and each catches a new state record channel catfish during the same trip?

That's what happened to Bill Colburn and John Cuning when they were fishing Merrill's Snake River arm during the early morning hours of July 26. Hartman says the two were fishing nightcrawlers from the bank and had collected a few small catfish, little ones in the eight-to-15 pound range, and had them tethered on a metal stringer. Somehow that stringer broke and the fish were lost, but instead of wrifing off the trip as a disaster like most guys do, these two kept on fishing.

When they did decide to call it a day, they left with only one fish each, and they decided to stop by the Valentine Fish Hatchery to have them weighed. Thinking the fish were big enough to qualify for Master Angler Awards.

burn's fish first and it was big enough to qualify for a Master Angler Award, in fact, the 39-pound channel broke the existing channel catfish state record by two pounds. They measured the fish and found it was right at 39 inches long and 28 inches in girth.

Tifen Hartman weighed Cuning's fish. It turned out to be even bigger and broke Colburn's record set only minutes before. Cuning's fish weighed 41-pounds, eight ounces, was 40 inches long and 29 inches in girth.

While Cuning walked away with the current channel catfish state record, Colburn gets credit for having broken the record too. And he set one record that will be extremely tough to break having held a state record that lasted the shortest amount of time, about three minutes.

Operation Game Thief continues to work, Wymore man nailed

LINCOLN—Several calls to Nebraska's Operation Game Thief, a program aimed at cracking down on illegal taking of game, resulted in fines of $361 for a Wymore man who was recently convicted on charges of poaching a deer.

Conservation officer Mack Webb of Beatrice, said Michael Novotny, 26, of Wymore, pleaded guilty in Gage County Court to taking a deer during closed season. He was fined $40, ordered to pay $300 in liquidation damages and $21 court costs.

Anyone who sees or has knowledge of game violations should contact their nearest conservation officer immediately, or phone Operation Game Thief's toll-free hotline, (800) 742-7627 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday to report the information. You don't have to give your name, you don't have to appear in court, but you may be eligible for a cash reward.

Player-coach Ankeny said the loss was "frustrating, but added that Wayne has not quit.

"It was a frustrating experience because no matter what we did, we couldn't get them out. But we're not going to give up and we'll just come out in the next game and do the best we can," he said.

The second game is scheduled for Sunday at Overin Field beginning at 8:15 p.m.

'Share the Care'

Pilot program tested

An innovative approach to help supplement the limited Medicaid funds was successfully tested in a pilot program by the Department of Social Services, said Gina Dunning, director.
"Share the Care" is a program which offers members who have relatives on Medicaid in long-term care facilities an opportunity to make voluntary cash contributions to the Department of Social Services on behalf of their relatives. It is, in a sense, sharing the care. Family members will be contacted by mail.
"We designed the program and then tested it in the South Central District," Dunning said, "And it proved effective. Now we are expanding the program statewide so every Nebraskan who wants to, can contribute money to assist a family member on long term Medicaid."

Of the 2,000 people contacted in the six-month pilot program 400 made contributions which ranged from $10 to $500 with the average being $50. Dunning said that experience with the "Share the Care" program has shown that family members would like to help pay the bills and have a part in caring for that individual.
The contribution may be in as many installments during the year as wished and they are tax deductible (see publication 526, "Charitable Contributions" Medicaid fund.) Checks should be made payable to Share the Care, c/o the Nebraska Department of Social Services.

cards of thanks

SO MANY kindnesses were shown to Roy and I since his illness and I am so grateful. I especially want to thank the policeman who answered the 911 call so fast and to Mern Morshorst who came in such a hurry. I also want to thank Pastor Vogel and Pastor Pennington and Sister Gertrude for their visits and prayers — also Dr. Lindau for his care and to all the nurses at the hospital. I also want to thank all the neighbors and friends and relatives for kind words, cards and phone calls. These things will not be forgotten. Rose E. Langemeier. AS

CORRECTION: A line was inadvertently omitted in a thank you which appeared in the Aug. 1 edition of The Wayne Herald from Steve, Cindy and Ashley Marie Meyer. The incorrect line read that proceeds from a benefit dance held for Ashley would be used for travel expenses from last July. The sentence should have read the benefit funds will be used for travel expenses to San Diego for follow-up treatments for Ashley and to help pay medical expenses from last July. The Wayne Herald apologizes for the error.
