THE WAYNE HERALD

For walk-ins, Class A haulers

Transfer station fees up

by Chuck Hackenmillar

An ordinance proposing a rate increase for garbage disposal fees at the city of Wayne transfer station was approved Tuesday evening by the Wayne City Council.

The basic rates will be from 60 to 65 cents per bag for the "walk in with bag" rate and from $3.30 to $4.00 per cubic yard of garbage for Class "A" collector trucks — which takes into account the three garbage hauling companies (Wayne Refuse Company, Mrsny Sanitary Service and C-D) who collect garbage from businesses and residences in Wayne.

City Administrator Phil Kloster, in briefing the city council members on the transfer station rate increase proposal, pointed out that an operating loss has been sustained at the transfer station for four of the past five years.

Figures compiled by the city administrative staff shows the transfer station had an operating loss for nine straight months (from November, 1984 to July, 1985).

Operation at the transfer station the last five years has resulted in an income loss of $13,095.59. This loss, Kloster said, is picked up through taxpayer expense.

"We're providing a service that quite frankly the taxpayer of Wayne should not be paying the bill for," Kloster said. "It should be something that should pay for itself for the use that the general public make of it," Kloster told the council members.

"If they make a big use of it, they should pay a big bill; if they make little use of it they should pay a smaller bill," he said.

GARBAGE from the transfer station is contracted to be transferred to a landfill near Norfolk. Landfill rates, Kloster said, have increased from 1980's amount of $2.26 per cubic yard to 1985's total of $2.74 per cubic yard (up 30.1 percent).

"Frankly, we're getting a steal. We know that because we've checked with other landfills. I can't believe we're getting it picked up, delivered and deposited for $2.74 per cubic yard," he said.

Kloster said the proposed rate for Class "A" garbage haulers to the transfer station of $4 would be 36.1 percent of what the current landfill rate cost is to the city.

In his briefing with the council,

Over 12 years as councilman

Mosley resigns from council

Keith Mosley of Wayne submitted his resignation as Wayne city councilman during Tuesday's regular city council meeting.

Mosley, a territory supervisor for Peoples Natural Gas and a Wayne resident for nearly 18 years, has served nearly 13 years on the city council. He had been manager of the Wayne area Peoples Natural Gas before being transferred in September of last year to management of the Ashland territory.

He was re-elected to the Third Ward Councilman position last November (1984).

"It has been my pleasure to serve as an elected official of the City of Wayne for many years, but due to a change in employment location I feel some other interested person can better serve the Third Ward more effectively than I," Mosley wrote in his resignation letter to the city council.

"To that end, I tender my resignation effective as of Sept. 30, 1985," he noted.

"I would also like to take this opportunity to thank my constituents for allowing me to represent them. Hopefully my small contribution has had a positive impact on the growth, viability and quality of life of our outstanding community," he added.

"Last but not least, I commend our Mayor, fellow councilpersons, city administrator [Phil], and all of our employees for doing a top job for the people in Wayne, Nebraska."

The Wayne city council accepted Mosley's resignation and expressed gratitude for his service to the community.

Wayne's Third Ward will be represented (after Sept. 30) by an appointee of Wayne Mayor Wayne Marsh. That appointee will continue as councilperson until after the November, 1986 general election.

The candidate elected to fill the Third Ward position in November of 1986 will then finish out the remaining two years of Mosley's four year term.

Also discussed at this meeting will be the procedure to follow when preparing a garden producing for a Farmer's Market.

Grono said the Farmer's Market would be for those who wish to sell "home grown" or homemade products. Homemade products must be sold under FDA guidelines, she said.

"For example, jam and preserves must be in waxed jars. No other canned goods may be sold," Grono mentioned.

Items to sell, she noted, were garden produce, fruits and vegetables, cream, butter, homemade breads, baked goods or crafts such as woodworking, sewing ceramics, macrame and other works.

The Farmer's Market would begin around April of 1986. However, Grono said if there is enough interest to sell fall harvest and pumpkins, gourds, Indian corn, squash and other produce, then the market could start immediately.

The marketplace, to be in operation once or twice a week, will tentatively be located in the Pamela parking lot on the east edge of Wayne, along Highway 35.

Wayne Refuse Co.) who wrote a letter in protest to the transfer station fee increase.

Russell, in his letter, said figures used by Kloster were incorrect and that Kloster was attempting to get his business and Mrsny Sanitation Service out of business.

Another hauler, C-D, wrote and said they are disappointed that the rates at the transfer station will increase the company's overhead. The letter mentioned that C-D, although it does not like the rate increase, has no intentions of raising its own rates in the future and does not object to the city raising rates to cover the costs for the transfer station.

Kloster said the city has had more than one company interested in coming into Wayne as a refuse pick up hauler. An alternative is "maybe we should take the whole community and put it out for bid," Kloster said, with one hauler taking all the residential area.

"A very common practice, it's happening all over the country," he said.

Set by Equalization Board

Tax rates gain for city, county

The city of Wayne and Wayne County joined most of the other political subdivisions in recording an increase in tax rates over the previous year's levies.

Tax rates were compiled by the Wayne County Board of Equalization members on Friday, Sept. 13. The Board of Equalization members (County Commissioners Merltn Beiermann, Gerald Pospishil and Robert Nilsen) calculate the tax rate to meet what each governmental subdivision had submitted for its budget.

A more detailed breakdown of the tax rates can be seen in the legal notices on page 8b.

Wayne's city tax alone increased approximately six cents, as tax rates were calculated on general fund, special assessment fund and airport fund to total .779 cents per $100 valuation.

The city budget submitted to the board of equalization had an approximately 5 percent tax asking increase — a budget that included repair of the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool deck, roof repairs to the city auditorium and possibly city hall, an increase in the water department fund for a new well field and land acquisition; and increases for the upgrading of the city's distributor system for the Carhart and possibly the Coryell Subdivision.

Wayne County's total tax rate also increased approximately six cents over the past year, from .4084 in 1984 to .4646 per $100 of actual valuation. Included in that total are tax rates for the general fund, road/bridge/relief/medical fund, veteran's aid, unemployment compensation, noxious weed control fund, Wayne County Improvement Fund, institutions and a new item — taxing of nearly 2.6 cents per $100 actual valuation for Rural Road Improvement District No. 85-1 (a rural paved road leading to the Timphe, Inc. manufacturing site).

Without the Timphe project and the state of Nebraska requiring the county to locate survey corners on a road project between Winside and Carroll, the tax levy would have nearly remained the same, according to a county official.

TAX RATES from other Wayne County cities, as compiled from city budgets, show a 5.5 cent tax rate increase in Winside; 3.1 cent hike for Carroll; 2.7 cent increase for Hoskins; a slight decrease in tax rates for Sholes; and a 1.7 cent reduction in tax rates for Wakefield.

The combined Wayne County city tax rates (which include county, city, school districts and bond tax rates) are: Wayne, $2.7684; Winside, $2.6244; Carroll, $2.4046; Hoskins (includes free high), $2.3414; Sholes (includes free high), $1.8226; and Wakefield, (portion in Wayne County), $3.064.

School district tax rates stayed in the vicinity of last year's rates in the Wayne-Carroll and Winside school districts. The 1985 tax rate for Wayne-Carroll is $1.3977, and Winside's rate is $1.4577.

School District 60DR (Wakefield district) will have a tax rate of $1.6685.

FIVE OF the remaining 11 school districts in Wayne County recorded increases in tax rates, including districts 5, 25, 33, 47 (up about 18 cents) and 57.

Substantial decreases in tax rates were recorded in districts 77 (about 12 cents) and 51 (about 9 cents) and declines over the previous year were also recorded in districts 9, 15, 68, and 76.

The tax rate for non resident utility, exempting Wayne-Carroll, Winside, Wakefield and districts 45 Cedar, 54 Cedar, 30WP, and 2P, is $594 per $100 of actual valuation.

Educational Service Unit No. 1, headquartered in Wakefield, sets its own tax levy which is around 3.5 cents per $100 valuation. The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District also sets its own tax levy rate — this year approved at $0.32735 per $100 valuation.

Wayne County's valuation dropped from $263.27 million in 1984 to $261.6 million in 1985, according to figures from the county assessor's office.

Farmers Market plans grow

Area individuals will be given the opportunity to sell their garden produce and homemade crafts if enough interest is shown to establish a Farmer's Market in Wayne.

A meeting to discuss the establishment of a Farmer's Market in Wayne will take place at the Lumber Company Board room on Tuesday, Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m. Those interested in establishing and participating in a Farmer's Market are welcome to attend this meeting.

Deb Wraage, founder of the Bloomfield, Nebraska Farmer's Market, will be the guest speaker, according to organizer Mrs. Larry Grono.

Also discussed at this meeting will be the procedure to follow when preparing a garden producing for a Farmer's Market.

Grono said the Farmer's Market would be for those who wish to sell "home grown" or homemade products. Homemade products must be sold under FDA guidelines, she said.

"For example, jam and preserves must be in waxed jars. No other canned goods may be sold," Grono mentioned.

Items to sell, she noted, were garden produce, fruits and vegetables, cream, butter, homemade breads, baked goods or crafts such as woodworking, sewing ceramics, macrame and other works.

The Farmer's Market would begin around April of 1986. However, Grono said if there is enough interest to sell fall harvest and pumpkins, gourds, Indian corn, squash and other produce, then the market could start immediately.

The marketplace, to be in operation once or twice a week, will tentatively be located in the Pamela parking lot on the east edge of Wayne, along Highway 35.

Peoples company sold

UHG/InterNorth and UHHC Corp. United, Inc. have signed a definitive agreement under which UHHC Corp. will purchase Peoples Natural Gas.

According to Tim Connealy, district manager for Peoples for the Wayne area, the sale is expected to be completed by the end of this year. The purchase price has been estimated at $200 million.

"Our customers will not be affected by the sale, Connealy emphasized.

"The sale will not affect rates. Our priorities will be to continue providing safe, efficient, dependable natural gas service to our communities. The rates will remain moderate in the near future," he noted.

UHHC Corp. has indicated that they plan to keep Peoples management and employees and will operate the company as an independent division. The Peoples Natural Gas name will also be retained. From the transaction, Peoples will see less restrictions concerning service, marketing and acquiring customers, Connealy mentioned.

UHHC Corp. United, Inc., headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri, currently provides electricity and natural gas to more than 220,000 customers in Kansas City, west central and north central Missouri and in Lawrence, Kansas.

Lawmakers conclude special session

by Melvin Peck
 State lawmakers were scheduled to conclude their 1985 special legislative session Wednesday, (Sept. 25).
 Gov. Bob Kerrey last week called them into session on two days' notice to correct a technical flaw in the 1985 law that was intended to appropriate $8.5 million in tax funds for the benefit of Commonwealth Savings Company depositors. The sum represents a negotiated settlement of potential state liability for possible regulatory failures in the 1983 insolvency of the Lincoln financial institution.
 Kerrey called the session following issuance of an opinion by Attorney General Robert Spire stating that the Commonwealth bill, which passed 37-9 on June 5, failed to follow the proper form for appropriations bills. State law requires appropriations to include the words "there is hereby appropriated." LB 715 failed to include the required wording, so lawmakers had to return to Lincoln to amend the law.

 The special session, which had to last at least seven days to meet constitutional requirements, is expected to cost $30,000 to $35,000, state officials estimate.
 Nebraska financial institutions would pay more than $4.5 million in state taxes each year under a proposal by a task force of state officials and industry representatives.
 State Sen. Vard Johnson of Omaha, chairman of the Legislature's Revenue Committee, said the 13-member task force unanimously agreed at a recent meeting to support a new state franchise tax based on an institution's deposits.
 The proposal will be introduced as a bill in the 1986 legislative session, Johnson said.
 Under the proposal, deposits in banks and thrift institutions would pay a franchise tax of 40 cents per $1,000 of deposits up to a maximum of 3.25 percent of an institution's annual profit. Mutual funds would be exempt from the tax, Johnson said.

 The new tax would replace the state's current income tax on financial institutions, which has failed to produce any appreciable revenue from the industry in recent years.
 The 3.25 percent cap on the new franchise tax approximates the effective tax rate paid by non-bank corporations in the state, Johnson said. The cap protects institutions that are on the verge of failure, he said, because an institution that isn't profitable pays no franchise tax.
 Estimates of potential revenue from the proposed franchise tax range from about $4.5 million in lean economic years to about $7.5 million in good years, Johnson said. The task force included legislators, a Kerry administration representative, and representatives of the major segments of the financial industry.

 State and county governments collected $2.96 million in lodging taxes during fiscal year 1984-85, the most since the Legislature authorized the tax five years ago, according to a report issued recently by the state Department of Economic Development (DED).
 Collections for the fiscal year ending June 30 represented a 5.3 percent increase over the preceding year.
 Counties have the option of levying an additional tax of up to 2 percent for support of their tourism development efforts under the act.
 Twenty-one counties, including Lancaster, levy a 2 percent tax. Two counties — Kimball and Red Willow — levy a 1 percent tax. Total tax collections by county governments for the fiscal year were $1.86 million, a 5.1 percent increase over the preceding fiscal year.

Shoulder the blame

Published in this edition of The Wayne Herald is a legal notice revealing the tax rates established for this year by the Wayne County Board of Equalization.
 Many of the rates have risen. But in fairness to the Equalization Board members, they should not be the governmental agency that gets the entire flack for the tax rate hikes.
 True, the three members of the Equalization Board are also the three members of the Wayne County Commissioners governmental subdivision — the same group of individuals who approved an increase in the county's 1985-86 budget.
 However, the Equalization Board must set the tax rates for all governmental subdivisions — which include the city of Wayne (which also had a budget hike) and other school districts throughout Wayne County.
 And the legal resolution concerning the responsibilities of the Equalization Board is spelled out as such: "It is the legal duty and obligation of said County Board of Equalization of Wayne County to make all tax levies required, requested and certified by various taxing and governmental subdivisions for the current tax and assessment year of 1985; as provided by law."
 One remedy to relieve the county commissioners of the flack they receive (in acting as members of the tax rate setting board) is to have the Board of Equalization appointed, excluding any members who serve in the governmental subdivisions.
 Or another alternative might be to have one member from each of the governmental subdivisions — one member representing cities, another Wayne County and another the school districts — to serve on the Equalization Board.
 Either way, the direction of protest should not be aimed at the Equalization Board. The arguments of the increase should have been voiced when the separate governmental subdivisions of Wayne County were going through the motions of certifying their 1985-1986 budget.
 It is the budgets established by these governmental subdivisions that decides whether your taxes will go up or down from the previous year.

Loss on transfer station

From what we have been led to believe through audited figures provided by the Wayne City Council, city taxpayers have been footing the bill for operating losses incurred at the city's garbage transfer station.
 In light of these calculations, the city council has taken steps to allow the transfer station to "pay for itself" by approving a fee increase on refuse brought to the site.
 Those walking in with a single trash can garbage bag will pay an additional nickel to deposit the garbage.
 Class A garbage haulers in Wayne, the three firms which collect garbage from city residents, will be paying an additional 70 cents a cubic yard to deposit their collections.
 Two Class A haulers have protested against the increase: Another hauler said he didn't like the increase, but would not object to it, nor would he increase his rates.
 Based on the city's figures we have received, we feel taxpayers should not have to subsidize the losses with tax money. Over the past five years, the transfer station operation has suffered an accumulative loss of nearly $13,000.
 Apparently the city finds itself in a rut which they feel the only way out is to increase the fees.
 For now, this fee increase seems to be a positive step in halting the negative operating balance of the transfer station.

Magazine explanation

As the representative serving the magazine and music sales sponsored by the Music Boosters this last year, I regret the problems with delivery of records and tapes.
 The Wayne Music Boosters and myself have been assured that all fulfillment of orders have been processed. The delivery problems were caused by a breakdown in service procedures by company management.

 Customers may be assured that such problems will not happen this coming year.

Beware of protectionist legislation

Trade enhancement, not protectionism
 We are seeing great concern across the country and in the Congress about the trade deficit. And, certainly there is overwhelming reason for that concern. The trade deficit is growing and out of control.
 One response to this problem has been a rising tide of protectionist sentiment. Over 300 bills have been introduced in both the House and Senate designed to stop the influx of foreign goods into the United States. The intention of this legislation is to save this country's industries.
 We must beware of protectionist legislation, however. It is the agriculture community that will bear the brunt of any retaliation, as we saw when the Administration attempted to protect our textile industry from competition with the Peoples Republic of China. As a result, the PRC cancelled over $500 million of wheat purchases it had previously agreed to.
 While we sympathize with industries that are hurt by the flood of imports and agriculture is in that situation now with Canadian hog and pork products we must not overlook the necessity of forcing our trading partners to tear down their protectionist barriers. I am supporting a number of actions on trade that are aimed at improving the accessibility of foreign markets for American producers and toughening the U.S. position against illegal trade barriers.

FOR TOO LONG we have been tolerant of intervention by foreign nations in the flow of goods and services worldwide. We have permitted foreign government subsidies and foreign trade restrictions that undermine American competitiveness here and abroad.
 In addition, we must do all that we can to enhance our exports and to minimize export disincentives. Current U.S. law imposes higher duties on Soviet and East Bloc goods coming into the United States than are placed on most other countries' products, and also prohibits the Russians and some East European countries from receiving U.S. export credits. These restrictions on access to our markets also tend to limit our access to their markets.

 I have introduced the Major Export Market Trade Equity Act, which offers lower import duties to the USSR and other East Bloc countries which are major markets for U.S. exports. In effect, this would create a new trade status, which I call Major Export Market (MEM) status. MEM status would not make the Russians or other East European countries which do not have Most Favored Nation status eligible for export credits. It only offers them the same import duties that we offer most of our major customers.
 This legislation should increase U.S. non-strategic agricultural exports, improve trade relations between U.S. and Eastern European countries and give U.S. farmers an opportunity to expand their overseas markets.
I HAVE INTRODUCED cargo preference legislation that would exempt all agricultural commodities, including food aid, from cargo preference. Cargo preference requires that one-half of all food shipments that are subsidized by the United States government be loaded on U.S.-flag vessels. On the surface this may seem like a patriotic gesture on the part of the Federal government to support the U.S. maritime fleet. In reality it has guaranteed the U.S. maritime industry a captive shipping market and permitted flagrant price gouging on the part of U.S. shippers. Cargo preference has ripped off millions of dollars from the Federal government, stolen food from the mouths of thousands of starving people, and caused the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars of commercial grain sales overseas.

 I am cosponsoring a bill to give teeth to our own defensive mixed credit program. Our trading partners have used mixed credits extensively to subsidize exports by mixing regular financing with foreign aid grants. They sweeten loans with foreign aid to lower the cost to the buyer. They use these loans to win export contracts by subsidizing lower interest rates than are allowed under the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development agreement.
 The bill I am cosponsoring authorizes $500 million for the defensive mixed credits program. This enables us to fight fire with fire and to level the playing field for U.S. exporters until we can negotiate an end to mixed credit abuse.
 In my next column I will discuss some other bills I am cosponsoring.

Dominican friar

Wayne native finds work in Nigeria gratifying

By LaVon Anderson

It's the people of Nigeria, and the church, that lead Father Tom McDermott to believe he'll continue serving there for the next several years.

McDermott, a native of Wayne, returned to his hometown in July for a three-month vacation after spending the past two years in Nigeria at a Catholic mission near Lagos.

Seated in the den of his parents' home in Wayne last week, McDermott said he returned to the United States on July 14 for two reasons — to spend time with his family and friends, and to raise money for the African missions.

Since July 16, McDermott has made his appeal for funds to Catholic congregations in Sioux City, Iowa, Kenosha, Wis., St. Louis, Mo. and Kansas City.

He also plans to speak at Preston, Iowa this week, and will visit friends in Minneapolis, Minn. and Washington, D. C. before returning to Nigeria on Oct. 18.

AT AGE 32, Father McDermott says he has no regrets about going to Nigeria, and is anxious to return there next month.

It will be another two years before he is once again given time off to visit his family.

The son of Charles and Evelyn McDermott, Father McDermott graduated from Wayne-Carroll High School in 1971 and attended St. John's University, a Catholic college in Minnesota.

In 1977, he entered the Dominican Order, one of the oldest religious orders in the Catholic church founded in 1221 by St. Dominic.

McDermott explains that the Dominican Order is an order of friars. A friar, he adds, is a brother who lives in a community of other brothers.

"In the Catholic church there are two different ways to live out the priesthood," says McDermott. "As a diocesan priest, who is usually a parish priest, or as a member of a religious order."

McDermott adds that the Dominican Order is an order of preachers, teachers and missionaries.

AS A MEMBER OF the Dominican Order, McDermott studied in Dubuque, Iowa and St. Louis, Mo. before being ordained in St. Louis in May of 1983 at age 30.

About two months before his ordination, McDermott received a call from his Provincial in Chicago saying that he would be going to tropical Africa as a missionary.

"I was happy," smiles McDermott. "I had gotten what I wanted, but I also spent some sleepless nights thinking about what I had gotten myself into."

In the summer of 1983, McDermott was sent to St. Dominic's Mission in Yaba, which is a part of a village in the Lagos area.

American missionaries have worked continuously in Yaba since 1951. There, McDermott would be working and living with two other American priests and one African priest.

Together, they care for about 35,000 persons.

"IT'S A HUGE mission," says McDermott, adding that an estimated 15,000 persons attend six services each Sunday morning.

On the Sunday that McDermott left Nigeria to return to the United States, he baptized a total of 108 persons that day.

The following weekend, the Archbishop of Lagos presided at a service for 920 confirmations.

Within the mission, McDermott said the church itself is an open air structure, very long, with a corrugated metal roof and benches inside.

"The church can seat 2,000 people, and another 1,000 stand outside with loud speakers to accommodate them."

The mission compound also includes a school where an estimated 3,000 children attend classes.

In addition, there is a library, study hall, and a domestic arts school where women are taught skills so they can become financially independent.

AT A MEDICAL clinic also located on the mission compound, McDermott said inexpensive or free medical services are offered to the poor regardless of their tribe or religion.

McDermott says common diseases in Nigeria include malaria and dysentery, both of which he has suffered, cholera and typhoid.

"I've seen a lot of people die in the past year, and I've buried a lot of babies."

McDERMOTT EXPLAINS that the mission itself is located within Lagos, the capital of Nigeria.

Since 1963, the population of Lagos has risen from approximately 430,000 to between 5 and 7 million. An estimated 5,000 more persons arrive in the city each day from the bush country.

"People are leaving the country and coming to Lagos to find a better standard of living," says McDermott. "Unfortunately, very few do. There is a lot of unemployment."

"Lagos is a very troubled city, growing so rapidly that there is no sewage system or constant flow of electricity, and not enough paved roads."

"The city is so congested that those fortunate enough to have cars can only drive them every other day."

McDERMOTT SAID that living constantly in a crowd of people was the thing he found most difficult about Lagos, not to mention the temperature which averages 100 degrees with 98 percent humidity.

The only relief comes around Christmas time during Harmattan, a season when the dust comes down from the Sahara Desert and makes the otherwise sunny days appear cloudy.

The rainy season comes during the summer when it usually rains at least once each day.

Despite the difficulties, McDermott is quick to point out that it is because of the Nigerian people and their interest in the church that he is returning next month to continue his work there.

"African hospitality is known throughout the world," he smiles.

NIGERIA, WITH A population estimated at 100 million, is about the size of two Californias put together.

Although it is a predominantly Muslim country, McDermott said 20 to 30 percent of the population may be Christian.

There are an estimated 250 tribes, each with their own language and distinct cultures. The three major tribal groups are the Ibo, the Hausas and the Yorubas.

Within the St. Dominic Mission compound, McDermott said he works with about 15 different tribes. Most of his work is done in English, which is the official language for Nigeria.

"IT'S DIFFICULT to describe just how friendly and welcoming the Nigerian people are," said McDermott, adding that it was because of that hospitality he found it so easy to adjust once he arrived in Nigeria.

"The people made me feel very welcome. Most of them live in single room dwellings. Entire families in one room."

"I was struck by their hospitality when I would visit them. They would treat me almost royally, serving me food and drink even though they wouldn't eat because there was not enough to go around."

"It's because of the goodness of the Nigerians that I'm going back. It makes putting up with the hardships of Nigeria possible."

FATHER TOM McDERMOTT is pictured with several Nigerian residents of Makoko, an out station he often visits as part of his work as a Catholic missionary in Nigeria.

McDermott said his day at the mission usually begins at 6 a.m. when he rises to celebrate Mass in the church. "We have services every day, and people of all ages come," McDermott adds that in Nigeria there is no stigma about men or young persons going to church.

"All of the churches in Africa are growing rapidly," he adds. "Africans seem to be instinctive believers in God."

Following Mass, McDermott said he returns to the house for breakfast, and then for community prayers with his fellow Dominican brothers from 8 to 8:30 a.m.

From then until noon, his duties may include counseling persons who want advice or prayers, who have questions about the Christian faith, or who want to get married or have a child baptized.

He may also teach a religion class at the school, or visit the market.

Following lunch, McDermott said everything closes down until about 4 p.m. because of the intense heat. "It's siesta time and people usually stay off the street."

Community prayers are held again at 4 p.m., and from 4:15 to 6:30 p.m. McDermott spends with the people.

"Most of the people I serve are poor people, and we get so many requests for financial help which we really can't do much about."

McDermott added that part of his day also is spent with the catechists (religious teachers) helping them teach the approximate 1,000 children and adults in the classes.

He also visits the out station of Makoko, an area some distance from the mission itself. "It's easier for me to go there than it is for them to come to me."

DESPITE SOME OF the inconveniences, McDermott said he has never once thought he made a wrong decision going to Nigeria, and he considers his work there a long-term commitment.

"You'd be surprised how far we human beings can be stretched."

"I have no second thoughts. No regrets."

Holmes doesn't deserve respect

Throughout Larry Holmes' illustrious career, he always complained that he never received the respect he deserved.

And Holmes presented a good argument. During the last seven years, the brawler from east Pennsylvania accumulated 38 knockouts, successfully defended his title 21 times and had an impressive 48-0 record, second only to the legendary Rocky Marciano.

But despite his impressive credentials, Holmes' ego constantly haunted him. It wasn't the fact that he was too old or too young, but simply the time span he was fighting in.

Holmes burst on to the boxing scene after Joe Frazier, Kenny Norton, George Foreman, Muhammad Ali and several other great fighters were on their way out. And critics charged that Holmes was fighting during an era when there weren't any serious contenders.

But Holmes always took the criticism in stride. He always showed he was a true champion by never retaliating to the critics' attributes.

But after Holmes' bid to equal Marciano's 49-0 record failed Saturday night, he wasn't only stripped of his heavyweight title, but he also lost the reputation he once had as the champion with class. Because after Michael Spinks made boxing history by scoring a unanimous 15-round decision over Holmes, the former champ showed that he could throw jabs just as hard outside the ring as he could inside.

Immediately after the fight, Holmes remained humble by simply saying "I had my time." But during the press conference following the fight, Holmes' attitude turned a complete 180 degrees.

Holmes stated that it was in the cards for him to lose and that the three judges gave Spinks the last round to force a rematch.

The former champ then added that although he didn't want to make excuses for himself, he had been bothered by a pinched nerve in his neck.

Holmes followed by saying that as long as there were black fighters around, there would never again be a white champion.

But Holmes was only warming up when he made the excuse about the sore neck and knocked the judges and white boxers, because he saved the biggest cheap shot of all for the late Marciano.

Holmes leveled perhaps, the greatest heavyweight champion ever by saying "Rocky Marciano couldn't carry my jockstrap." He then shouted profanities at Marciano's brother, Peter, while calling him a free loader living off Rocky's name.

To say the statements were shocking is an understatement. But what's even more amazing is the fact they came from Holmes.

Fans who follow the fight game figured that if Holmes would ever lose one day, he'd go in style, a gracious loser exemplifying the same class he'd shown throughout his incredible career.

Holmes was always ahead of the game. Too often one hears about boxers and other athletes that become financially burdened or involved with drugs. But Holmes never fell into that category. In addition to being the heavyweight champion of the world, Holmes was a successful, and yes, even respected businessman.

But when Holmes lost, the once-great champion turned ugly making excuses about his performance and knocking the boxer whose record he chased, but couldn't equal.

Larry Holmes always said he didn't get the respect he deserved, and he was probably right. But now, any respect he receives isn't deserved.

Records fall in victory

Wildcats crack win column

Ed Jochum's 98-yard touchdown pass to Sonny Jones and 24 tackles by senior linebacker Tony Shaw, led Wayne State to a 37-13 victory over Midland at Memorial Stadium here Saturday.

It was the first victory for the Wildcats, 1-2, who open the Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) next week at Kearney State.

Jochum connected with Jones in the middle of the third quarter after Mark Will recovered a Midland fumble on the Wayne State eight yard line. The Wildcats were called for two consecutive penalties to push the ball back to the two yard line, but after a Wayne State timeout, Jones got behind the secondary, and raced 98 yards untouched into the end zone.

The 98-yard pass set a new school record, breaking the old one of 89 yards from Steve Gunther to Sam Singleton in 1967.

Wayne State jumped out to a 21-0 lead. The Wildcats' first score, a one-yard run by Jochum, was set up by two passes to Jones for over 60 yards. After that touchdown, it took only eight seconds for the Wildcats to score again. Darin Blackburn recovered the ball in the end zone after a mishandle by Midland on the kick off to give Wayne State a 14-0 lead.

Jochum then hit Tom Leitschuck on a nine yard touchdown pass for Wayne State's third touchdown.

Midland's only score in the first quarter came with just nine seconds remaining. Bob Kingston returned Herve Rousset's kickoff 54 yards before being knocked out of bounds by the Wildcat kicker, saving a touchdown. Midland needed 10 plays to score on a one yard run by Gerald Mason.

Midland scored again right before the half when reserve quarterback Chris Sanders passed 11 yards to Kingston.

In the second half, the Wildcats scored on Jones' breakaway and again on an 11 yard pass from Jochum to Matt Hoffmann. Jochum finished the day with 275 yards passing and three touchdown passes. His 249 yards in total offense broke the school's career total offense mark held by Rick Lade. Jochum now has 4,329 yards in total offense.

Defensively, Tony Shaw, a senior from O'Neill, had an outstanding day. Shaw had 24 tackles, 16 of which were solo shots. He also recovered two fumbles and intercepted one Midland pass, returning it 18 yards.

Shaw's efforts helped the Wildcat defense to hold Midland to just 126 yards rushing on 64 attempts. The Warriors could only muster 79 yards in the air.

Both teams had trouble hanging onto the ball during the rain-soaked contest. Midland fumbled 14 times, losing nine. The Wildcats fumbled nine times, losing five.

Next week's game with Kearney State, 0-2, opens the conference race and gives both teams a chance to get back on the winning track. Wayne State has not defeated Kearney State since 1971.

Sonny shines

WILDCAT SONNY Jones (left) hauls in an Ed Jochum pass in the second quarter of the Midland game. Jones scored a 98-yard touchdown on a pass from Jochum in the third quarter. The 98-yard score is a new school record. Wayne State went on to post a 37-13 victory.

Jones nominated

Shaw player of week

Tony Shaw was named the NAIA District 11 defensive player of the week.

Shaw, a 6-2, 235 pound senior linebacker from O'Neill, finished with 16 solo and eight assisted tackles in Wayne State's 37-13 victory over Midland College Saturday afternoon.

In addition to the 24 tackles, Shaw also recovered two Midland fumbles and picked off a pass and returned it 18 yards.

Sonny Jones, Wayne State's returner and receiver, was nominated for offensive player of the week.

Duane Smith of Chadron State won the offensive player of the week award.

Norfolk rallies past Wayne

NORFOLK Wayne Carroll's volleyball team came within an whisker of upsetting Class A Norfolk here Tuesday night, but the Panthers' quickness allowed them to rally from a 7-15 loss and pull out a thrilling 7-15, 15-12, 15-11 victory.

After cruising through the opener, Wayne battled Norfolk for every point of the Blue Devils scored. But according to Wayne head coach Mavis Dalton, the Panthers' also had to battle for each marker they tallied.

"We had a fairly easy time of it in the first set, but the second and third sets were close all the way and either team could've won. Both of the last two sets were really up for grabs," she said.

Had Wayne pulled out a victory, it might not have been an upset as Dalton said she felt her girls outplayed Norfolk on offense, but added the Panthers' quickness allowed them the triumph.

"We played very well tonight. You have to play a big Class A school this close," she said. "We hated to lose because we honestly felt like we were the better team on offense, but Norfolk had more quickness and that was the difference."

Lori Jacobsen and Keicia Corbit led the Blue Devils in scoring with 11 and seven points, respectively.

Marni Bruggeman finished with a team high 54 sets and most of her assists went to Shelly Pick, who closed with 20 spikes, including eight kills.

Wayne had one of its best nights defensively as the Blue Devils totaled 12 blocks.

Wayne did pull out the "B" and "C" matches. The Blue Devils won the "B" game 15-10, 15-4, while the "C" squad claimed a 15-8, 15-2 triumph.

Jennifer Salmon had a big night for the Blue Devil "B" team closing with a team high eight points and 21 sets. Sarah Peterson sparked Wayne with seven spikes.

Kristy Hansen led the Blue Devils' "C" squad with 14 markers. The loss drops Wayne to 4-3 on the year. The Blue Devils play again Tuesday, Oct. 1, when West Point travels to town.

Koenig makes switch from Blue Devil to Cornhusker

LINCOLN For a lot of athletes, making the transition from high school to major college football can be difficult. But for Kevin Koenig of Wayne, the switch has been smooth.

Koenig is in his freshman year at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and although the past two months have been hectic, he's doing quite well.

"Things are really going pretty good. I'm taking 15 hours of classes plus football so I'm very busy. Sometimes I leave my room at 7:30 a.m. and don't get back until 7 p.m. because of classes, studying and football practice. I just grab a sack lunch and eat it on the run. But I can't complain, so far I'd have to say things have been going pretty good," he said.

Despite walking on, Koenig tied three others for the best bench press (355 pounds) among incoming freshmen during fall conditioning drills and he has earned a starting fullback position on the Cornhuskers' freshman team.

In Nebraska's opening freshman game against Iowa State, Koenig carried the ball twice for nine yards. But yardage isn't as important to the muscular 225-pounder as blocking is.

"Fullbacks are used primarily as a blocker at Nebraska, so that's what I concentrate on the most," he said.

Although his first few weeks at Lincoln have gone well, Koenig admits that there have been major adjustments.

"The toughest adjustment as far as football is concerned is the extreme intensity that's involved. In high school you could coast now and then. But here the practices are just as intense as high school games. To sum it up best, I guess you could say you have to be at your best both mentally and physically at all times because if you aren't, you could get your head torn off," he explained.

Koenig credits his intensity for staying injury free.

"I haven't had my bell rung yet, but some of the others have and I think the ones that do are afraid of getting hurt and might not be intense enough," he said.

Kevin Koenig

Koenig says there have been several major adjustments both academically and socially as well as athletically.

"You have to be a lot more dedicated to your school work, and everything is on your own. There's always something to do every night, but you just have to set your priorities straight and get things done," the agronomy (crop science) major said.

One area Koenig hasn't adjusted to is the cold environment often found at larger universities and bigger cities.

"I loved growing up in Wayne because when you said hi to someone or smiled at them, you always got a response back. But here, the people really aren't as warm. Sometimes when you say hi or wave, they don't say anything back and that kind of bugs me. But there are people down here from all over the world and I guess that has something to do with it," he said.

The Nebraska weight room and weight training program is known as one of the best facilities of its kind in the nation, but Koenig said he hasn't had a true taste of Cornhusker conditioning yet.

"So far, the toughest part has been the mental part. We practice about 2 1/2 hours a day, but we only lift four times a week before practice to maintain the strength we already have," he said. "But I'm sure that will all change in the off season when we don't have to worry as much about technique and playing the game itself. Things will get much more demanding physically once we get into the weight room more often."

Despite all the attention athletes and major college football receives, Koenig admits that his main goal is to perform well in the classroom, not the stadium.

"My main goal is to do well academically. Now don't get me wrong, football is great. I love playing it and when I was looking at different colleges and Nebraska asked me to walk on, I dropped everything and decided to come here," he said. "I think this is the greatest place in the nation to play football and I'm going to try my hardest to do well. But if I only make second or third team, I'm not going to be crushed as long as I know I tried my hardest. I'm at the university mainly for my education, because in the long run it's how well I do academically that counts."

Eagles hang on for third win

Allen slips past Beemer

ALLEN-Inconsistency almost cost Allen's volleyball team Tuesday night but the Eagles hung on to record a 16-14, 9-15, 15-9 triumph over Beemer.

After rallying from a 9-14 deficit to win the opener, Allen played one of its poorer sets in the second frame, according to head coach Gary Troth. "We opened up a 3-0 lead and after that we really let' down. We played one of our poorer sets of the year," he said.

But the Eagles ushered in the third stanza by opening a 7-0 advantage and extending its lead to 13-2. However, Beemer took advantage of Allen's poor serving to cut the margin to 13-9 over Allen finally ended the contest.

"We missed 10 serves and most of them were in the last set. Missing 10 serves on your home court is too many," Troth said.

Kristi Chase and LeAnn McDonald fueled the Eagles' offense with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Denise Magnuson finished 10-for-10 in setting and McDonald closed with a 30-for-31 performance.

"LeAnn really had a good solid game, especially setting. I was very pleased with her setting," Troth said.

The Magnuson twins were Allen's leading spikers as Denise closed with a 12-for-14 effort and seven kills, while Diane went 11-for-12 with five aces.

Troth said that although he felt his squad playing inconsistently, he was pleased with their overall performance and added the Eagles needed a victory.

"We had consistency troubles and could be confused a lot, but I saw a lot of good things too. We needed a win and I think we'll keep getting better. We're not used to losing up here," he said.

Allen's "B" team claimed a 15-8, 15-1 triumph. Troth mentioned Barb Hansen as having a solid serving performance for the Eagles.

Allen's "C" team dropped a close 12-10, 9-11, 10-12 decision. Troth said Amy Noe played well for the Eagles.

The victory improved, Allen's record to 3-4 on the year. The Eagles play again Monday at the Newcastle Tournament. Allen's first opponent is Homer at 6:30 p.m. If the Eagles win, they play Newcastle at 8:30. The tournament is single elimination in the first round.

Trojans down Hartington

WAKEFIELD-Wakefield's Trojans ran their volleyball record to a perfect 8-0 with a 15-9, 15-8 triumph over Hartington here Tuesday night.

The Trojans built an early lead in the opener and were able to maintain a comfortable edge throughout the remainder of the first set. However, Wakefield relied on Steph Torczon's serving to win the second frame.

Hartington built a quick 4-0 lead in the second set before Torczon took over the serving chores. Torczon then reeled off nine unanswered points to rally her squad to a 9-4 lead.

The Trojans never looked back after building the comfortable margin and went on to post the seven point victory.

Torczon finished the night with a team high 11 points, while Julie Oswald scored seven markers.

Oswald led the Trojans in setting going 18-for-19 with four aces, while Torczon finished 11-for-11 with four aces.

Kristal Clay finished 11-for-12 in spiking with seven kills for Wakefield, while teammate Marci Greve added a 7-for-9 effort.

The Trojans had a good night of passing, according to assistant coach Arnie CBrny. Suzanne Stelling led Wakefield with an 11-for-12 passing performance.

Hartington claimed both the "B" and "C" matches 15-7, 16-14 and 11-3, 4-11, 11-5, respectively.

Stacey Kuhl and Val Krusemark led the Trojans with six points apiece in the "B" contest, while Deb Peterson tallied a team high 10 markers for Wakefield in the "C" game.

Gerry mentioned Kuhl and Tricia Schwarden as having good floor games in the "B" contest, and added that Brenda Boeckenhauer had a big night at the net for the Trojans' "C" squad.

Wakefield doesn't play again until Thursday, Oct. 3, at Wynot.

Wayne frosh 2-2 at Norfolk

NORFOLK-Wayne-Carroll's freshman volleyball team won and lost in its two games at the Freshman Tournament here on Saturday at Norfolk High School.

Wayne downed Norfolk Catholic in the first round 3-15, 15-6, 15-4 then dropped a 5-15, 5-15 decision to Randolph in the second round.

Kristy Hansen and Robin Luff led the Blue Devils in serving with 12 and nine, respectively.

Holly Paige and Dana Nelson were Wayne's setting leaders closing with 24 and 17, while Luff and Karmyn Koenig sparked the squad in spiking with eight and five, respectively.

Maavis Daulton, Wayne's head coach, said the Blue Devils played well in the tourney.

"As a whole, I thought the girls played well during the tournament. There weren't enough teams so although it was called a freshman tournament, there were teams that had sophomores and I think we did a good job against those older girls," she said.

Winside spikers improve record to 2-3

WAUSA-Winside's volleyball team improved its record to 2-3 with a 17-15, 15-8 victory over Wausa here Tuesday night.

According to Winside head coach Jill Stenwall, the Wausa match was important because the Wildcats realized they can come back.

"In the first set, we were down 8-4 and tied it at 14. In the past, usually I fell apart in situations like this but the girls found out they can come back. The girls aren't quitters and they found out they can come back and that part of it might have been more important than the win," she said.

The second frame was all Winside as the Wildcats maintained a comfortable lead throughout.

Julie Bruggeman led Winside with 10 points, while Kerri Leighton sparked the Wildcats with a 39-for-42 setting performance.

Winside had a balanced spiking attack as five of the six starters closed with impressive statistics. Hitting leaders for the Wildcats were Teresa Brudigan (17-for-20, six aces), Tracy Topp (14-for-22, five aces) and Bruggeman (8-for-9, three aces).

Stenwall said other than her girls' serve receive, she was pleased with their overall performance.

"Our serve receive wasn't up to par, but other than that I was pleased with their game and again, I was really happy to see them battle back," she said.

Wausa captured the "B" game 16-14, 16-14. Carman Reeg led Winside with 10 points.

The Wildcats also dropped the "C" game 9-11, 8-11. Christina Bloomfield sparked the Wildcats in scoring with six markers, and was also Winside's leading hitter and setter, according to Stenwall.

"Christina had quite a game in the 'C' match. She led the team in everything," she said.

The Wildcats' next game is Thursday when Winside travels to Stanton.

against Dordt last year and defeated them earlier this season in five games.

Bellevue College has five starters back from its 19-19-1 team of a year ago. Top Lady Bruins include sophomore Robin Wheeler, a hitter who made second team all-conference last year, and Denise Brawner, the team's most valuable player last year.

Chadron State had to replace all six starters from last year, including two-time all district choice Carolyn Williams. First year coach Mike Maguire is rebuilding with freshmen and transfers.

The Dordt Defenders rely on senior setter Donna DeRuyter, an all conference selection last year, and junior hitter Shirley Notebook.

Saturday's home match is High School Day. The Lady Wildcats will be hosting high school volleyball teams from the area. Over 15 high schools are expected at the matches.

Blue Devil JVs down Pierce 14-6

PIERCE-Wayne-Carroll's junior varsity football team downed Pierce 14-6 in the Blue Devils' season opener here Monday.

Wayne took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter when Ted McCright rambled 46 yards to pay dirt and Jason Jorgensen booted a PAT.

Pierce closed the deficit to one with a 15-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter. The Bluejays PAT attempt failed, however, and Wayne led 7-6 at the half.

The Blue Devils added an insurance touchdown in the third quarter when Jon Stollenberg hit Bill Landanger with a TD pass. Jorgensen added another PAT to supply Wayne with a 14-6 lead.

The Blue Devils gained 295 total yards; while Pierce gained a 110 total.

Ron Carnes, Wayne's coach, said the Blue Devils played well considering it was the first game of the season.

"For it being the first game, we looked pretty good. We did have problems with handling the ball and penalties, but that sort of thing is common with a team's first game," he said. "But both teams played hard and it was an enjoyable game to watch."

Wayne plays its second game of the season Monday when the Blue Devils host Harrington Cedar Catholic for a 5 p.m. contest.

Wayne Junior High wins 18-0

Blue Devil harriers set records at Columbus

COLUMBUS-Wayne-Carroll's harriers turned in their best performance of the 1985 season Friday afternoon here at the Columbus Scotus Invitational.

Three Wayne runners finished the 5,000 meter (approximately three miles) course with times under 20 minutes. Blue Devil head coach Doug Donnellson said breaking the 19 minute barrier was the goal for most of the Wayne runners.

"We really had some incredible times. Our goal was for everyone to break the 20 minute mark and three of them did," he said.

Matt Hillier almost broke the 19 minute barrier as he led the Blue Devil harriers with a 19:04 clocking and a 19th place finish.

Jeff Simpson finished 23rd with a 19:40 effort, while Tim Griess placed 28th with a 19:58 clocking and Ted Lohberg crossed the finish line 30th with a 20:21 time.

Donnellson credited his club's hill technique and their ability to accelerate on flat ground as the biggest reasons for the improved times.

"We've been working on running hills more lately. We've been concentrating on varying their strides on hills. Also, our kids run pretty well on flat ground and since the Scotus course is both hilly and flat, we improved drastically," he said.

Donnellson added that Simpson's time was, perhaps, the most impressive.

"Simpson's time was the most impressive. That by far was his best personal time and he really didn't think he would finish under 20 minutes, but he went out, worked hard and did it," Donnellson said.

Wayne finished with a total of 100 points. The top four placers are figured into team scores. Wayne's other runner, John Howze, placed 31st with a 22:05 effort.

Columbus Scotus won the invite with 22 markers.

Wayne's next meet is Friday at the Crofton Invitational.

How an annuity can double your dollars faster.

Just getting a high rate of interest on your money is not enough. With most investments, you can lose up to half your earnings each year in taxes.

A better answer is a New York Life Single Premium Retirement Annuity.* It pays a very attractive rate of interest. Equally important, the interest is free from current federal income tax. So your dollars can grow up to twice as fast as they would in a currently taxable plan.

Junior high spikers win

Wayne-Carroll's seventh and eighth grade "A" squad downed Winsor-Pilger 14-16, 15-10, 15-11, while the Blue Devils' "B" team dropped a 7-15, 15-11, 9-15 decision in volleyball action at Wayne's Auditorium Monday afternoon.

Jennifer Isom led Wayne's "A" squad with a 19-for-19 serving effort, while Teresa Ellis and Heidi Reeg both turned in a 32-for-38 setting performance for the Blue Devils.

Kelly Davis led Wayne's "B" team with an 18-for-19 (95 percent) serving performance, including 15 unanswered points in the second set.

Sue Koch, Wayne's coach, said she was pleased with most aspects of her squad's game.

"Overall, the girls did a good job. The 'B' team served 83 percent as a team and the 'A' team finished 82 percent. I'd like for us to be around 90 percent, but the low 80s isn't bad. Also, we did a good job of passing so I was pretty pleased with our play," she said.

Wayne's next match is Tuesday, Oct. 8, when the Blue Devils host Schuyler.

Wayne State/Kearney State game profile

The Game
Wayne State vs. Kearney State at Kearney. Game time is 1:30 p.m. at Foster Field.

The Coaches
Wayne State-Pete Chapman, third year, 10-14 at WSC. Kearney State-Claire Boroff, 90-24 in 14 years at Kearney.

The Series
Kearney leads the series 38-14-5. The teams first met in 1924 when the Antelopes won 7-6. The Wildcats have not won since 1971 when the Del Stollenberg-coached team won 28-0. Chapman is 0-2 against Kearney, losing 27-7 in 1983 and 24-13 last year.

Last Year
Wayne led 6-0 after the first quarter behind two Herve Roussel field goals. Kearney then scored 10 second quarter points to lead 10-6 at the half. Both teams scored in the third quarter, but Kearney added a touchdown in the final quarter for the final 24-13 margin. Jochum was 8 of 19 against Kearney last year and threw five interceptions. Kearney had 192 yards rushing for the day with senior Roger Suelter leading the way with 122.

The Antelopes
Kearney is now 9-2 after losing to South Dakota 20-3 and UNO 10-4. The Antelopes were idle last week. The Antelopes are averaging only 120 yards-per-game on the ground and have yet to score a touchdown this season. The lack of sustained offense has caused concern for Boroff, but defensively, Kearney is still strong. Wally Dalrymple, a senior linebacker, led the defensive effort against UNO with 13 tackles. Safety Dave Thompson had eight tackles for Kearney. Senior running back Emmett Cox leads the Antelopes in rushing with an average of 4.4 yards per carry. Cox has 164 yards in two games, far out distancing any other Kearney runner.

The Wildcats
Wayne State picked up a much needed win last Saturday against Midland, 37-13. The game was played in rain most of the second half and both teams had trouble holding onto the ball. WSC fumbled nine times, losing five, while Midland lost nine fumbles out of 14. Sonny Jones caught three passes against Midland for 165 yards, including a 98 yard reception in the third quarter. Jones also had 77 yards in kickoff returns. Senior quarterback Ed Jochum was 14-for-42 on the day for 275 yards. Senior linebacker Tony Shaw led the defensive effort against Midland, tallying 24 tackles, 16 of which were solo shots. Shaw also recovered two fumbles and intercepted a Midland pass, returning it 18 yards.

Wildcat Notes
Shaw was selected NAIA District 11 defensive player of the week for his performance against Midland. Jones' 98 yard pass reception broke the school record of 89 yards set back in 1967 from Steve Gunther to Sam Singleton. Ed Jochum now is WSC's career total offense leader with 4,329 yards, breaking Rick Lade's record of 4,099. Wayne State leads District 11 teams in team passing and is sixth in the nation in passing offense. Matt Hoffmann is third in the nation in punt returns with an average of 24 yards per return.

Wayne State Soccer Club downs Atoms

The Wayne State Soccer Club entered the win column Sunday with a thrilling double overtime 4-3 victory over Atoms, a soccer club from Sioux City.

Wayne trailed 3-2 when Chris Haden scored an unassisted Wildcat goal in the final stanza to force the game into overtime.

Both teams failed to score in the first 15 minute extra session, but Tim Dungan ended the game with an unassisted goal in the second overtime period.

Dungan scored Wayne's first goal on a Haden assist, and Haden tallied the Wildcats' second marker on a feed from Jerry Krebsbach.

Wayne dropped all three of its matches at a tournament in Sioux City two weekends ago. Guatemala dined the Wildcats 11-2, Sioux City United claimed an 8-1 triumph and E.L. National came out on top 8-1. All three opponents are clubs from Sioux City.

Matt Gafley scored both of Wayne's goals in the Guatemala loss, while Haden and Travis McKay scored against Sioux City United and E.L. National, respectively.

The tournament was a costly one for Wildcats as one of its best players, Mike McMarrow, broke his right leg and will probably be lost for the rest of the season.

Wayne plays again Saturday at Kearney State. The game begins at 11 a.m., and is in conjunction with the football game.

From R2 to R3

City rezones land

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Two lots, split from a lot in Block 10 of the Sunnyview Subdivision two weeks ago by the Wayne City Council, were rezoned by the council Tuesday evening from R2 to R3 property.

The request for the rezoning came from John Vakoc of Wayne, who appeared before the city council and explained the purpose of why he wanted the property rezoned.

Originally, rezoning was not requested. However, when Vakoc found out that a R2 zoning designation would not permit a building of more than six units and his proposed project was a 12 unit apartment building, he decided to seek a variance.

"But I now do feel that we are taking a proper course in asking for rezoning," he said.

"Vakoc also discussed with the city council his reasoning for construction of the proposed apartment units.

"It's apparent on housing in Wayne—we do have an affordability problem here," Vakoc said. "One major factor that I as a developer encounter constantly that sets the cost of housing more than anything else is the density that we can put on the land. The lower density that we deal with, the less affordable the house is," he said.

VAKOC said the closest existing home to the project site is the home that he lives in. The area, he said, is very well buffered.

Vakoc said there is a companion project proposed on the other lot. A firm from out of state is putting together a package for the financing of an elderly housing project.

Construction on this project could possibly take place this spring on the project. Number of units have ranged in discussion from 12 to 15 units.

Vakoc said he and the out of state group had conducted a survey to substantiate the need, with a positive survey, that people would rent the units before the financing was available to them.

Howard Schmitt spoke on the rezoning request during Tuesday evening's meeting, saying he had no objections to the 12 units in either of the lots.

"Once the lot is zoned R3, my concern will be that down the line a way, if this is not developed on this lot, someone comes in and applies for a building permit on lot 2 that exceeds what John is talking about right now, and there is no grounds to stand on to refuse a building permit on that lot."

"So that is my objection to zoning something with a blank check. Otherwise I have no problem with 12-units on either one of the lots.

"I would like, if this is rezoned R3, that I have a similar request, that I could have the same consideration," Schmitt said.

Walking for CROP

IT IS HOPED that up to $3,000 will be raised from this year's CROP Walk around Wayne last Sunday. Pictured are walkers in the early stages of the long 10 mile walk.

Old concrete used to resurface

"Out with the old and in with the new" is great for New Year's Eve, but it doesn't always apply in the highway construction business.

When rebuilding a stretch of highway, the Nebraska Department of Roads usually uses all new materials, but not always.

Long familiar with the recycling of asphalt in highway construction, the Department is now recycling old concrete which was removed from parts of I-80 that had to be rebuilt. It is used as aggregate in asphalt concrete resurfacing.

Currently the Department is constructing an experimental section on about three miles of I-80, in the west-bound lanes east and west of Aurora. The total project is six miles, but the remaining three miles is a "control," to see which section holds up the best.

The resurfacing will be about five inches thick. On the part of I-80 using the recycled concrete, the bottom three inches will use the recycled mixture. The top two inches will be conventional asphalt concrete.

ACCORDING TO Jan Sienieks, Flexible Pavement Engineer in the Materials and Tests Division, the mix being used to resurface the experimental section will be about 40 percent crushed concrete used as an aggregate, 47 percent asphalt concrete taken from the shoulders that were rebuilt, 10 percent new aggregate and three percent new asphalt.

"We tried using this mix last year on a small section of I-80 west of Kearney," Sienieks said, "but it was only a very small area. It seems to be holding up well, so we decided to try it on a larger section of highway."

Don Swing, Materials and Tests Division Engineer, says the dollar savings will be "significant" in using recycled concrete and asphaltic concrete.

"I would think we could save as much as $50,000 to $75,000 on this small three-mile section alone," Swing says.

He said that crushed concrete is being stockpiled up and down I-80 where it has to be removed for complete construction of the highway.

"But if I-80 does not need complete reconstruction at this time," Swing explained, "so this stockpiled concrete could come in handy to use in resurfacing on I-80 or any other high traffic volume highway."

"We think now that crushed concrete will work as well as new aggregate, perhaps better," he went on to say, "and we know it's a heck of a lot cheaper."

Lifestyle program set

Dr. Ralph Barclay, professor of physical education at Wayne State College, has announced that a lifestyle improvement program for older adults, including men and women, will once again be offered at the college beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

The program is a repeat of a similar one offered last spring.

Barclay said the fitness type program includes exercise flexibility, aerobics, walking, games, and water aerobics.

He stressed that participants can choose the activities they feel best fit them.

The first meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 30 at 9 a.m. in the east gymnasium of Rice Auditorium on the college campus.

Classes will continue through the end of March on each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 to 10 a.m.

There is no charge for the program, and Barclay stressed that new participants, as well as those who took part in the program last spring, are welcome.

Garbage

of the transfer station, he said.

The ordinance on the fee increase was introduced by council member Carolyn Filter and was motioned for approval by Darrel Heier and was passed unanimously. Councilman Freeman Decker was not present at the meeting.

The ordinance will take effect and be in full force upon publication of the procedure, as required by law.

Highway 35 East closed in Wayne

The east portion of Highway 35 through Wayne was closed on Wednesday (Sept. 25) because of highway construction, according to a spokesman from the Nebraska Department of Roads.

Thru traffic will be re-routed through the city streets of Wayne.

Scheduled completion of the overall street reconstruction project of Highway 35-Highway 15 North in Wayne is now scheduled for October.

No specific date for the completion was announced by the Department of Transportation.

New regulations on milk

Dairymen should be aware that regulations which reduce the permissible somatic cell count of raw milk from 1.5 to 1.0 million per hundred-weight will become effective July 1, 1986.

Even though that's nearly a year away, it may take almost that much time to significantly lower a high somatic cell count. In some cases it will take even more time than that. Corrective steps should be taken now because of the long time it takes to lower the somatic count.

Somatic cells are an indication of udder infection. Producers should work closely with veterinarians to establish a mastitis control program to reduce udder infection and somatic cell levels.

A series of information and training sessions are scheduled for this winter to assist Nebraska dairy producers in carrying out an effective mastitis control program. Dates and locations will be announced soon.

While the new regulations require a herd's somatic cell count to be lower than 1 million, mastitis control herds already established in Nebraska are running well below 300,000 with many at 100,000 or less. In addition, production losses due to subclinical mastitis can be reduced and profits increased with a good program.

Milking equipment should also be checked. Milking equipment servicemen should check equipment and correct anything that isn't up to specifications. A milking machine service call may be one of the producers' best investments. Milking routines should be reviewed. While incorrect habits may seem to have only a minor effect, that may be causing elevated somatic cell counts.

Now is time to cool grain

for winter storage

Because warm temperatures start insect growth and grain spoilage, now is the time to start cooling it, especially if the grain is going to be stored over the winter.

For properly handled grain storage, the bulk of the grain mass now should be at 60 degrees at the top and the bottom be in the 70 to 80 degree range. These temperatures are high enough to initiate insect development and grain spoilage. If grain was not aerated in late spring or early summer, the entire mass may be at 70 to 80 degrees. It may be a good idea to start running fans one or two nights a week.

Some re-wetting may occur because of high humidity, but during the cooling process moisture will be removed for winter storage.

Cooperative sales set record

The Business volume of the National Farmer cooperatives in 1984 increased 7.5 percent, but net margins declined 3.2 percent.

Randall E. Torgerson, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Cooperative Service (ACS), reported record high combined sales of $73.1 billion, compared with $66.8 billion in 1983. Volume surpassed the previous record of $71.5 billion in 1981.

Net margins were $1.02 billion, compared with $1.06 billion in 1983 and $854 million in 1982.

The rise in business volume was attributed mostly to larger quantities of grain marketed and fertilizer sold by cooperatives. Total cooperative business volume includes marketing—value of products sold; farm supplies—sales of fertilizer, chemicals, fuels, feed, and other supplies to members and patrons; and receipts from related services such as trucking, storage, ginning, and drying.

TORGERSON SAID the drop in the number of cooperatives—from 5,989 to 5,767—resulted from restructuring of cooperatives through mergers, consolidations, acquisitions, and in some cases going out of business. Memberships of 4.8 million were down 2.3 percent from 4.95 million in 1983. Memberships were higher than farm numbers, because many farmers belonged to more than one cooperative. Membership per association averaged 838, compared with 827 for 1983. Marketing volume of $54.6 billion was up 10.7 percent from the $49.3 billion in 1983.

Grain, the leading farm product handled by cooperatives, increased 27.1 percent to $20.6 billion. But dairy, the second biggest product, decreased to $17.7 billion or less than 1 percent.

Several other farm products also showed large increases: fruits and vegetables at $5.1 billion were up 19.3 percent; cotton at $2.5 billion was up 43.6 percent; dry beans and peas were up 54.8 percent; and tobacco was up 36.5 percent.

Livestock and livestock products showed the largest decrease—with sales of $3.7 billion down 22.6 percent from 1983.

Farm supply volume was nearly $17 billion, up 6.4 percent from 1983.

OF THE MAJOR farm supplies, seed was up 21.5 percent, fertilizer up 21.1 percent, and farm chemicals up 16.3 percent. Feed showed a slight increase—up 1.3 percent. Although petroleum products continued to account for the largest volume among farm supplies, $5.5 billion, it increased less than 1 percent from 1983.

Declines occurred for other farm supply commodities: farm machinery down 10.6 percent and other supplies down less than 1 percent.

Value of other services related to farm business rose to $1.5 billion, up 3.6 percent from $1.47 billion in 1983.

Farmer cooperative assets totaled $29.2 billion, up 1.3 percent from $28.8 billion in 1983.

Total liabilities dropped from $17.3 billion to $17 billion, down 1.6 percent.

Net worth, or member and patron equity, increased 5.6 percent from $11.5 billion to $12.2 billion. The proportion of total assets financed by equity increased from 40 to 41.7 percent.

Part 2

Managing for tomorrow

Dr. Doug Jose, Extension Farm Management Specialist and project leader for the Managing for Tomorrow program, writes the second article in a four-part series about the program. Managing for Tomorrow is a program offered by the Cooperative Extension Service and being run by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Agricultural Economics. This is the same program that twenty Wayne County couples enrolled in earlier this year.

Dr. Jose addresses the question: "I'm in a position to expand in to other farming enterprises. Will the program give me some direction as to which enterprise I should choose?"

"When you go into an ice cream store to buy a cone, how do you decide which flavor to select? You probably pick the one you 'like the best' or one flavor that sounds 'interesting and exciting.' In short, you select the one which will give you the most satisfaction. Selecting farm alternatives is a little more complicated but the objective is the same—to select the set of alternatives which provides you and your family the most satisfaction. Other than the personal satisfaction of farming we need to look at satisfaction in the terms of new income, net worth, ability to meet cash flow and return on investment.

THE QUESTION of alternative enterprises really raises two questions. First, is the alternative economically and physically feasible and second which alternative or set of alternatives is the best, given the set resources you have? "Best" is defined in terms of an alternative plan which maximizes the cash flow surplus in a typical operating year or the plan which will maximize the net worth over time.

In the Managing for Tomorrow program, we will work out the details of the possible alternative plans such as the costs, capital requirements and the expected output. If the analyst and the family need assistance to work out some of these input-output relationships, other extension specialists will be consulted. The goals and preferences the family has previously specified will be reviewed to determine if they are consistent with the alternatives being considered. For example, there is no point in considering adding a hog enterprise if other members of the family dislike dogs.

THE OBJECTIVE of the individual consultation phase of the project is to help the family find the best alternative for their situation. Looking at other farming enterprises will not only be considered but, in fact, will be encouraged. The computer analysis will allow us to compare, in a comprehensive manner, a number of different alternatives. For further information on the Managing for Tomorrow program, please contact Don C. Spitz, Wayne County Extension Agent. The Extension Service phone number is 375-3310. A brochure explaining the program in more detail will be sent to you upon request. If you prefer you can call directly to the Farm Financial Information Line, a toll free number 800-535-2456, for more information and to enroll.

The enrollment deadline for the November workshop is October 14 and the deadline for the February workshop is January 13. Location of the workshop is dependent on farm location of the enrollees.

the farmer's wife by pat meierhenry

The first time I laid eyes on the Big Farmer was at a fraternity dance. I was there with a "brother", I asked him about the guy with the good-looking gal who had a peculiar dance style. He had his right arm around his partner and his left hand in his pocket.

Darrel explained that this guy had had polio and could not use that left arm. Then he went on to explain that this fellow was farming on weekends while attending school, and I could tell he had tremendous admiration for him.

We doubled a few times after that, and I learned to admire him, too. He was quiet, patient, and determined. When spring came, we didn't see much of him. He drove home on weekends to plant corn.

Later, when I replaced that good-looking blond, I didn't always appreciate the weekend disappearances. That was twenty eight years ago, and I still admire him.

A woman told me once about a one-armed man who bowled the same night they did. When kids would stare, he'd buy them pop and tell them, "One-armed men are special." I've come to believe that.

ONE-ARMED MEN, and there are a lot of them around, have learned to use their teeth, their legs, and whatever else is necessary to get the job done.

The Big Farmer went to college because rehab counselors told him he would never farm. He proved them wrong while still attending school. So are a lot of other one-armed men still farming.

I dread this time of year at the hospital because in the hurry of harvest, PTO's, pickers, and slage cutters get vicious. I've cared for my share of one armed men. And I've encouraged them with word about the one-armed man at our house. I've followed their progress with silent cheers and prayers.

I saw one in the grocery store this summer, standing straight and tall with that empty sleeve.

ANOTHER GUY his pilot's license this year. Still another plays his chord organ for relaxation.

Our cousin's son, born without an arm, plays football and wrestles for his high school. I applaud them all. I bring this up because we've just observed Farm Safety Week. And because we had a visitor this week from Purdue University, and some of you might like to know about her.

In 1979, a handicapped farmer contacted Bill Field, extension safety specialist, for advice on adapting his equipment. Field found there was nothing available. He set out to change that.

He founded the Breaking New Ground project and set out to identify handicapped farmers and to help them with ideas. They now have one full-time staff person, Terri Wilkonn, a vocational rehab graduate. Terri grew up on a farm in Wisconsin. In working in an Independent Living Center, she also found little for farmers. She contacted Bill Field for help; and last year, he hired her.

THEY NOW publish a quarterly newsletter, and are working on a 500-page manual of devices and hints (she has taken 1500 photos and made 55 on-farm visits), developing a slide set on arthritis and farming, and training rehab people to help rural folks with physical handicaps.

By the way, the term today is "physically challenged." I kind of like that.

You can get on the mailing list for Breaking New Ground by writing to the Dept. of Ag. Engineering, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN 47907. It's free, funded by grants from Implement dealers, chemical companies, etc.

Terri has bright brown eyes, and loads of enthusiasm, and we thoroughly enjoyed her visit. Watching Mike pose for her photos, I realized again that "one-armed men—and all physically challenged persons—are indeed special."

winside public schools

HAVELAAR and his scaled-down threshing rig.

Gerrit Havelaar and his son, Charles, both of Hudson, South Dakota, came to the Winside School on Sept. 17. They were displaying and operating their one-half scale version of a threshing rig for the elementary students.

Mr. Gerrit Havelaar made all the equipment. The "rig" consists of one-half scale models of a 28x48 Avery Thresher; a McCormick Deering 15-30, a wagon and Hayrack. According to Gerrit, "approximately 6,000 hours have been put into the creation within sixteen years." When he couldn't locate the proper parts in hardware stores or implement shops, he simply handmade them. For example, all the wheels on the equipment were handmade by Gerrit and his son.

The thresher weight 890 pounds and is fourteen feet long, forty-four inches wide, and stands five feet high. It took over 800 bolts, 6 pounds of rivets, 16 inches of roller chain, 54 feet of steel chain, 9 1/2 inch diameter cylinder, 90 cylinder teeth, 2 sets of concaves, 6 belts total 52 feet, drive belt 75 feet long.

Gerrit and Charles built the one-half scale 15-30 McCormick Deering that weighs 900 pounds. It has a water cooler four cylinder Kohler engine. The tractor has three speeds forward, a reverse, 12 horsepower on the belt, and a single disk clutch.

The Havelaar's transport the rig in a large red trailer that is pulled behind their pickup. When asked why he was inspired to build the incredible one-half scale set, Gerrit replied, with a wide smile, "When I helped my uncle with his threshing, I always dreamed that I would have a rig like his. Twenty years later, I decided to build one. It was a boyhood dream come true."

CAPTAIN James T. Bush, U.S. Navy (retired), visited the freshman history class on Sept. 12. The discussion was about nuclear power, the nuclear military and the need to come to some sort of consensus as to controlling them. The retired captain said that he would like to see negotiated control.

He pointed out that Americans have always depended on the military to tell them when they had enough weapons. He feels it should not be left to the military; instead, it should be a diplomatic decision. Captain Bush said we need a deterrent—how much is enough and how much is too much. Before the 20th century, wars were fought between armies so the civilians population hasn't been concerned and maybe now they should be.

Captain Bush also stated the fact that we are in an arms race, and that every arms race in history has ended in a war.

Following Captain Bush's presentation, the class was allowed 20 minutes for a question and answer session. Questions ranged from weapons and nuclear submarines to the modern navy.

James T. Bush entered the Navy in 1952. During the next 25 years, he served on several submarines, both nuclear and diesel electric. He received many letters of commendation in addition to the Navy Commendation Medal in 1970 and the Navy Achievement Medal in 1977.

After retiring he served for a short period on the staff on Senator Lloyd Benetsen of Texas, then he was a stockbroker with Merrill Lynch for 3 years. In the fall of 1982, he left the financial world to join the Center for Defense Information where he is currently an Association Director.

I kept gaining and losing the same 20 pounds. Then I said, this time it's going to be different.

I tried every pill, every gimmick to lose weight. Only to feel miserable when I gained it all back. Finally I said, no, never again—this time I'm going to Diet Center. I lost the weight, without hunger. And I'm keeping it off.

My only regret? Not going sooner!

The bands play on

DESPITE THE drizzle and rain, 22 bands from area high schools and the WSC marching band paraded down Wayne's Main Street on Saturday as part of Wayne State College's Band Day event. Capturing first place, winning a trophy and $300 scholarship, was Wakarusa. Second place and $300 scholarship went to Bancroft-Rosalie. Third place was awarded to Homer and Emerson-Hubbard captured fourth place. Grand marshal for the band parade was Ray Kelton. Above, Wayne State's band brings the parade to a stirring close; center left, a Wakarusa tuba player; top center, WSC's band was one of the first to march down Main Street; lower center, the Allen musicians parade on by; lower left, the beat of the Laurel drummers keep the band in step; lower right, a quick turn of the head accents the performance of the Wakarusa band members.
