THE WAYNE HERALD

Drive-in movie era comes to an end in Wayne

by Chuck Hackenmiller

A 33-year institution that has supplied thousands of hours of evening outdoor entertainment under the stars will be torn down in the near future, joining others that have met with the same type of destruction.

Some are lucky and can be revitalized into a trailer court. Others are vacated and some are turned to the sod of which the business was built on.

The Dude Ranch Drive-in, located across the Wayne Country Club north of Wayne, ceased operations in July of this year. Effective soon, the nine acres of land that was purchased by Phillip March in 1952 for construction of the drive-in will be turned over to another owner.

Metal poles used to hold the movie speakers are being dismantled. The refreshment stand, where many years ago one could buy a bag of 15 cent butter popcorn, or bottled coke for a dime, is now being torn down.

American Graffiti had drawn capacity numbers to the drive-in years ago. So did today's hits, Rambo and Beverly Hills Cop. The last movies to show at the Wayne drive-in were Life Force and Heaven Help Us.

The first movie was probably "A Place in the Sun", according to past drive-in co-owner Jack March, currently the owner of the Gay Theater and Hollywood Video in Wayne. He, his father, Phillip, and his brother, Terry, both have a vested interest in the drive-in theater business. At one time they had six in operation — one in Spirit Lake, another in Iowa Falls, in Wayne, Millford (Iowa), Lehigh (Iowa) and Vermillion (South Dakota).

The Iowa Falls drive-in was sold and the outdoor theater in Spirit Lake was blown down by the wind. Wayne's Dude Ranch Drive-in is the next to go.

Phillip March purchased the Gay Theater in 1933. He also established a movie theater across the street from the Wayne Herald office which showed western flicks featuring Roy Rogers, Gene Autry and other famous cowpokes.

The pivotal point in the popularity of going to the drive-in movies, according to Jack March, came when it was decided by the government to begin daylight savings time. Jack said he joined others in opposing the new time standard.

"I think the fact that cable came into existence was the final touch toward moving to the home entertainment trend," Jack said.

"But we didn't see that [problems in attendance at the drive-in because of cable] till a couple of years ago.

"Another big item right now is VCR tapes. They are going to stay strong in sales for a long time," said Jack.

THE GAY THEATRE currently sells movie video tapes and also VCR's in an effort to keep in step with the trends in the movie and home entertainment industry.

"We thought we might as well get into it rather than a drug store or grocery store, probably since we're a movie theater and get the films people would like to see," Jack said.

Jack speaks sentimentally about many of the Dude Ranch Drive-in promotions over the years, such as Buck Night or Car Night, triple feature nights or dusk to dawn

State projects reviewed at public hearing

by Chuck Hackenmiller

There is a possibility that the Highway 35 and Highway 15 North road reconstruction project in Wayne will not be entirely completed in 1985.

A progress report on area state highway road construction was presented to about 40 or more individuals by District 3 Engineer Thomas McCarthy during a Department of Roads public hearing Tuesday evening in Columbus.

"In Wayne on Highway 35 we are in the process of removing brick resurfacing and replacing it with the asphalt or concrete. That project is going slower than we anticipated," said McCarthy.

"We will probably not completely finish that project this year but again we expect to have Highway 35 and Highway 15 suitable for winter travel," he said.

That prognosis could change depending on the weather, according to project officials in Wayne.

Also present at Tuesday's hearing was Wayne Superintendent of Public Works Vern Schulz, who voiced an urgency in completing the resurfacing of Highway 15 in Wayne south of the Hwy. 35 intersection.

Schulz said the road is "deteriorating rapidly."

The Main Street South (Hwy. 15 project) and 8.2 miles of Wayne south on Highway 15 is one of several area projects which have been placed in the District 3 five year program.

NEBRASKA STATE Engineer Louis Lamberty said the public hearing at Columbus fulfilled two primary purposes. "First of all, for us to tell you what our plans are for the highways in your area, very specifically for next year and more generally for the five years following."

"Secondly, we want to hear from you. It is very important for us to know what you are thinking about our highway program, what you perceive as problems to our highways, what your complaints are so we can take that information back and incorporate it into our future plans," Lamberty said.

McCarthy said the 10 mile stretch of roadwork resurfacing is done on Highway 57 north and south of Carroll — which he said was not a fiscal year 1986 project list.

"The condition of the road demanded that something be done quickly. So that project is completed," said McCarthy.

Highway 9 north of Wakefield and halfway to Allen was regraded and surfaced this year. That highway "is now open to traffic and we're getting the use out of our highway money," McCarthy said.

Also in the District 3 fiscal year plans (from July 1, 1985 to June 30, 1986) is Highway 116 north of Concord. Mile length of the resurfacing project is 9.2 miles at a cost of $941,000.

McCarthy also said during the public hearing that illuminating lights at the train crossing near Dixon will be installed in the immediate future.

"I must say that in 30 years of working with the department and with you the people, and by driving our highways, I would say we have the best group of Nebraska engineers that I know of anywhere," mentioned Merle Kingsbury of Ponca who is this area's representative on the Department of Roads State Highway Commission.

"We've laid to rest our last gravel highway...we did it the hard way... You did it, it was 40 thousand miles a year," Kingsbury told those attending the public hearing.

THE ROAD PROGRAM in Nebraska has been a partnership between the engineers and the public, he said.

"And if our highway commission has accomplished anything at all it has been to counsel and advise, for the highway department, the skilled engineers that know how to build a road and try to talk to them about the public interest which comes from you," he added.

"And with the combination of this, we have skilled engineering with a high degree of recognition of the public interest. I think that is what we have."

Home for Christmas special section planned

Everyone is likely to have one special Christmas memory — one that stands out over all the other memories.

Perhaps the memory occurred during a war, on the farm, in the city, away from home. Maybe it was a certain person that made Christmas so happy, or so sad.

The Wayne Herald would like to capture all these Christmas memories from our subscribers and other interested individuals and publish them in a Christmas keepsake special section called "Home for Christmas."

"The Christmas memories can be a three-paragraph story or it can be a longer story of up to two pages," said Chuck Hackenmiller, managing editor of the Wayne Herald.

The "Home for Christmas" special section will emphasize a warm feeling that customerly is generated on a special holiday such as Christmas. Advertisers in the special section will be promoting their products and the significance of shopping at home — out to prove that they have the best Christmas gifts around.

The section will also feature advertisements of specialty shops and craftsmen who sell their products at Christmas — be it homemade, home-grown or baking goods.

THE "HOME FOR CHRISTMAS" special section will center around support of home town businesses, mixed with the memories, cherished of Christmas celebrations at home, according to Hackenmiller.

Inside the special section will also be a children's story entitled "Hector the Clumsy Elf" which will be illustrated by area artists.

"Home for Christmas" will be in the mail on Nov. 7 — which will allow readers to enjoy the Christmas memories and take part in the advertised specials before the Christmas shopping rush arrives.

The deadline for submitting "Christmas Memories" stories is Monday, Oct. 28 — which will allow individuals almost 3 1/2 weeks to write their cherished memories.

"We'll be anxious to hear from you," Hackenmiller said.

Those interested in writing a "Christmas Memory" or would like to advertise in this special section should contact: The Wayne Herald, c/o Christmas Memories, Box 71, Wayne, NE 68787, phone 402/375-2600.

State economic conditions appear worse as shortfall of $32 million expected

Last week I traveled to Lincoln to participate in the Special Legislative Session called by Governor Kerrey to correct a bill formerly passed by the Legislature. The bill, LB 713, was designed to appropriate funds to settle Nebraska's legal liability following the collapse of Commonwealth Savings Company, but it was missing required language for it to be implemented. The language making it a legal appropriation was added this week, but not until an amendment, which I supported, was attached that very specifically limited the State's legal liability to this action. The acceptance of this appropriation constitutes a release of legal liability; the State will not recognize further claims. I was pleased that this stipulation was made part of the legislation, since without it the intent of the legislature would continue to be challenged. The legislature is now adjourned until the Unicameral convenes in January. However, with the worsening financial picture there is talk of the need to be brought back into session prior to January, to keep the State's budget balanced. Thank goodness, Nebraska is quite unlike the Federal Government in that the Nebraska Constitution requires a balanced budget. In other words, in Nebraska, if revenue does not meet expectations after the budget is set something has to be changed. Adjustments can come in the form of budget cuts to conform to the shortfall (a technique used extensively this last session), increases in tax rates to enhance revenue, a broadening of the tax base, or a combination of these techniques. Economic conditions are even worse than forecasted last spring. State revenue (sales and income tax) for the first two months of the new year (July and August) was down $5 million from the basis upon which the budget was cast. And at the Revenue Forecasting Board meeting that just concluded, the revised estimated shortfall was set at almost $32 million by the end of the year. With this information, the probability of the legislature convening prior to our regular schedule has greatly increased. Prior to the release of this information, the Governor asked all state agencies under his control to cut 1 1/2 percent of their state appropriations. For those institutions and subdivisions not under his control, he has asked that they voluntarily do the same. However, since some of the largest agencies of state government (including the University) are not under the Governor's control, this voluntary reduction on top of the budget cuts we made last spring may not come to pass. But, if this approach were successful, it would save $12 million which might stave off further action until the legislature meets in regular session in January. More comprehensive budget action would then be possible.

Road work ahead

It doesn't hurt any chances by going to the Nebraska State Department of Roads public hearings on their highway programs — they can hear over and over again the demands voiced by governmental subdivisions and private industry. Efforts of attending these meetings have certainly paid off for Wayne — with the highway reconstruction awarding of Hwy. 35 and part of Hwy. 15 which passes through the city. These hearings are also very informative. For instance, during Tuesday night's public hearing in Columbus, we heard that the project of Hwy. 35 and 15 in Wayne might not be completed this year — that is the latest from District 3 Engineer Thomas McCarthy. But even that prediction could change if the weather provides complete cooperation. Right now it is still too early to tell and progress can be judged solely on a day by day basis. The project has already exceeded the expected completion date of 40 days (it began on Aug. 12). Apparently there was more work than anticipated and the rainy spell certainly didn't help matters. Also at the public hearing, we learned that Dixon will soon be getting its railroad crossing lighting that was requested some time ago by Dixon city officials. Some other findings and comments from the Department of Roads were presented at the hearing.

- The Nebraska Department of Roads does not anticipate adding miles or building new roads in the future.
 - Because of high geometric standards on Nebraska highways (primarily for safety purposes) there has been a 24 percent decline in injuries and a nearly 40 percent reduction of fatal accidents occurring in recent years.
 - Two-thirds of the interstate miles through Nebraska will need major work. In the Omaha area, lanes have to be added to accommodate high traffic volumes, plus there must be modifications to intersections.
 - Of the 9,500 non-interstate miles in Nebraska, about 24 percent are not meeting standards of design. About 200 miles need additional lanes and another 400 miles need vertical and horizontal alignment. Seventeen hundred miles are deficient in their cross sections.
 - Nebraska's State Highway Construction and Improvement Program for fiscal 1986 calls for the expenditure of $159.8 million on the state system.
- Those are just a few of the things one learns while attending these public hearings. If one has a gripe on state highway road plans or maintenance, these public hearings are a place to make those thoughts heard.

Exon cracks down on pornography

U.S. Senator Jim Exon (D-Neb.) is cosponsoring legislation to crackdown on child pornographers by allowing the victims to sue for damages, permit government confiscation of profits and ban the interstate computer transmissions of obscene materials.

"The law cannot be too tough on persons who earn a living from child pornography," Exon said. "Child pornography is the worst type of pornography."

The legislation (S.625) would amend federal law to allow law enforcement agencies to confiscate profits from the sale of child pornography and merchandise purchased with those profits. It would also allow victims of child pornographers to sue for damages.

"I want to beef up the laws to make child pornography an undesirable, unprofitable venture to deter anybody from abusing children and scarring them for life just because they think they can make a dollar," Exon said. "All children are threatened until we can dissuade por-nographers from feeding off the sexual abuse of children," he added.

Other legislation, Exon is supporting (S.544), would expand federal law to include all persons connected with the production of child pornography under the federal child pornography act.

The bill would also prohibit the interstate transfer of male prostitutes. This change, according to Exon, would be a useful tool in arresting pornographers involved specifically in male child prostitution.

A third piece of legislation Exon is supporting (S.1305) would extend the existing prohibition on the interstate transportation of obscene material to include interstate computer transmissions. Penalties would be imposed for the distribution of material and information related to child molestation and pornography.

The Nebraska Senator has been an active supporter of anti-child pornography legislation. "Passage of these bills will help crush this disgusting and immoral enterprise," Exon said.

Holiday gifts:

"Each holiday season many kinds of agricultural products from other states are given as gifts. This year I'm urging people to give 'Husker Holiday Gifts' as presents for the holiday season. Husker Holiday Gifts is a project designed to promote Nebraska agricultural products and to aid the farm economy.

Many businesses give their friends and customers gifts during the holidays. Instead of giving products from other states, urge people to give Nebraska products. The products, such as beef, lamb, pork, popcorn, and apples, are the best quality available anywhere.

Hundreds of thousands of pounds of these products would be used, adding millions of dollars to the agricultural economy, thereby raising agricultural prices. It would also help to stimulate the agricultural economy, which is very vital to Nebraska's economy.

Nebraska businesses and associations need to promote our agricultural products for holiday gifts to help our farmers curtail their financial losses.

This can be done by writing editorials in business publications, endorsing the purchase of Nebraska products and giving Nebraska products as gifts.

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture is working on a list of all businesses that can provide 'Husker Holiday Gifts'. Anyone desiring more information can contact me at 302/471-2624.

More on "Rock"

The news article in the Wayne paper concerning the Peto's Brothers Rock seminar was very well done. However, the letter to the editor on Sept. 23 was grossly unfair. An accurate critique of the rock seminar cannot be made simply by reading a news article.

Syndicated columnist, George Will, in an editorial titled "Porn Rock Fight is Worth Fighting", talks about the campaign against "porn rock" — vulgar and obscene lyrics in rock music. He says, "Rock music has become a plague of messages about sexual promiscuity, bi-sexuality, incest, sadomasochism, Satanism, drugs, alcohol abuse and constantly misogynist."

The weekly column of the Orthodox Presbyterian Church in Norfolk says the following: "A casual review of the jackets on the popular albums at your local record store reveals two things. Sex and Satan are two of the main dishes on the menu. Concern has been voiced in the media and by government officials over explicit sex in the lyrics of popular rock songs. More concern should be registered over this 'pop porn.' Pitifully few voices are raised in protest over the propagation of Satanism. I'll meet you in Hell!" is scrawled over a record album cover. The videos are filled with Satanic symbolism and rituals. Those who are on the road to outer darkness want your company."

Evangelist Lowell Lundstrom says, "Much of the current music encourages violence and promotes sexual promiscuity. Sexually explicit and vulgar lyrics of what is termed

'porn rock' are sweeping the music charts. A mother writing to Ann Landers recently protested the lyrics of 'The Police' song, 'Murder by Numbers.' The writer said, 'My husband and I are aware that much of today's music is trash, but this number is frightening. It suggests that murder need not be messy, and the way to keep it neat is to slip a pill into someone's coffee. Here are a few lines: 'Now if you have a taste for this experience, and you're flushed with your very first success, then you must try a twoosome or a threesome and you'll find your conscience bothers you much less. Because murder is like anything you take to it's a habit forming need for more and more. You can bump off every member of your family and anybody else you find a bore...'

The reference to suicide in the letter was totally misunderstood. The real concern is over the number of teenagers committing suicide while listening to suicidal lyrics. "Take a gun, point it to your head, pull the trigger, shoot to thrill!" doesn't sound like uplifting music to me!

There is nothing absurd about backmasking. Anyone who doesn't believe it exists is showing total ignorance. It has been outlawed in several European countries. How can something be against the law if it doesn't exist? Some of the rock stars themselves have admitted backmasking is on their albums. Hidden messages can easily be accomplished through multiple recording.

The writer defends Prince who sings a song dealing with incest and another with oral sex. Rolling Stone magazine said, "Nothing could have prepared us for the lewdness of his album... positively filthy."

That letter writer also made the appeal to "Leave our music alone!" Christians cannot stand back and watch evil run rampant in our land. Jesus said, "He that is not with Me is against Me." Matthew 12:30.

I would like to close this letter with a quote from a Lutheran pastor in Minnesota: "If God doesn't punish America for her open sinning, He will have to apologize to Sodom and Gomorrah on the day of judgment."

Flea control

I read the article that Dr. Liska wrote about fleas in the paper, so I decided to write what my brother, Ivan Anderson in California, wrote to me. He wrote a lovely six page letter and I will copy part of it. He writes: "Oh I've got to tell you about my trapping fleas. We had fleas so bad here from Sonia's cats that we were spraying all the time. Then I read in a magazine how to get rid of fleas without spray or very little cost. I hung a little Christmas tree light (red) over a pan of soapy water. The soap made the water soft and the fleas jumped toward the light at night and fell in the soapy water and sunk and died. They can swim in clear water.

In 30 days, I got 1,165 fleas and am still getting them. The cats are happy now and the fleas don't bother us any more.

I use Joy (dishwashing detergent) so the fleas jump for joy."

We had a good laugh, and hope this will help others get rid of fleas. Try it Dr. Ken Liska — try it!

Q. If I give cash gifts to my relatives at a rate of $3,000 per year, after my death can they go back three years and include those gifts in the value of my estate?

A. Under current federal law, an individual may give "present gifts" of up to $10,000 per person, per year, tax free. The limit was $3,000 at one time, but has since been raised. There is no Nebraska state gift tax at this time.

A "present gift" is an outright gift of cash, real property or personal property in which the giver has absolutely no further legal interest. In other words, it's a gift with no strings attached.

Although present gifts are not taxed as part of the estate upon death, gifts which are made within three years of death which are not outright gifts are treated as having been made "in contemplation of death" and are taxable as part of the estate. An example of such a taxable gift would be almost any kind of trust account, or a gift in which the recipient has only a future interest (a gift which comes to fruition only in the future).

Allen's netters place third at Newcastle Tournament

NEWCASTLE—Allen's netters played their most consistent ball of the season and as a result, placed a respectable third at the Newcastle Volleyball Tournament here Monday and Tuesday.

Allen head coach Gary Troth said his squad's consistency allowed them to place as high as they did.

"We're a little disappointed we didn't make it to the championship round. But we played the most consistent volleyball we've played this year and finishing third isn't too bad because there were some pretty good teams in the tournament," he said.

vs. Walthill
After defeating Homer and losing to Newcastle Monday night, the Eagles pounded Walthill 15-1, 15-10 Tuesday night for third place.

"We weren't overpowering against Walthill, we were just consistent. They (Walthill) really struggled though, every time we touched the ball things went right and every time they lunched it things went bad and they're a much better team than that," Troth explained.

Tiffany Harder led Allen in serving going 14-for-15 with five aces, while LeAnn McDonald finished 7-for-7.

The Eagles had a balanced hitting attack. Kristin Hansen closed 11-for-11 with three aces, while Diane Magnuson finished 10-for-10 with a team high seven kills. Denise Magnuson, Kristin Chase and Harder also spiked well.

McDonald and Denise Magnuson led Allen in setting going 19-for-20 and 15-for-15, respectively.

vs. Homer
The Eagles struggled in their first set of the tournament, but after falling to Homer 13-15 Allen bounced back with commanding 15-2, 15-7 victories to advance to the second round.

"We played consistent during the entire tournament, but the Homer game was probably the most consistent three sets we've played, all year," Troth said.

The Eagles were especially consistent and well balanced at hitting. Chase led the club with four kills, while Diane Magnuson and Harder both added three aces, and Hansen and Denise Magnuson both totaled two. Hansen led the club in spiking percentage closing 11-for-11.

Denise Magnuson scored a team high 15 points serving 17-for-17 with nine aces. The 5-6 senior also added a perfect 15-for-15 setting performance.

Chase was 14-for-16 in serving with nine aces and McDonald led the club in setting going 25-for-25.

vs. Newcastle
The Homer match started at 6:30 p.m. Monday and the Eagles didn't finish their second round until approximately five-hours later. Troth said the long wait naturally affected his squad.

"We didn't get done until about 11 p.m. and that affected us. All the matches in between ours lasted three sets and there isn't anything we could do but sit around and wait, and that gets tiring," he said.

Newcastle took advantage of the fatigued Eagles by handing them a 10-0, 11-15, 15-5 loss.

Troth said that although his club was tired, they still played with intensity.

"I have to give our girls credit. If they were as tired as I was they were in pretty bad shape, but they went out played Newcastle tough," he said.

Diane Magnuson led the club with 13 points finishing 14-for-17 in serving. Harder added a 7-for-7 serving performance.

Troth said poor serving cost his club the Newcastle match.

"I think that if we would've served better we would've made it to the championship. We missed nine serves and that's too many against a team the caliber of Newcastle," he said.

McDonald and Denise Magnuson led the club in setting going 23-for-25 and 19-for-20, respectively.

The Magnuson sisters were also the club's leading hitters combining for a 12-for-12 effort with six kills. Chase went 9-for-12 with four aces.

Reflecting back over the tournament, Troth said he was pleased with his club's effort and added that he thought the Eagles were as good as any of the six participating teams.

"We played consistently well and I think we're just getting better and better as the year moves along," he said. "I really didn't see a team that was a better team than us. I felt we could've beaten all of the teams there and it's because we're still getting better," he said.

Newcastle won the tourney by defeating Ponca in the championship game.

Allen is now 5-5 on the year. The Eagles will attempt to top the .500 mark when they travel to Walthill for a Thursday night match. Allen has beaten Walthill two times already this year.

Plan on long game

Wayne State's game with Missouri Western on Saturday could be one long contest.

Everyone knows the Wildcats "make-or-break" with the passing game, but Missouri Western throws a lot, too.

After four games, the Griffins are averaging 83.5 rushing yards and 284.3 passing yards per outing.

Missouri Western has adopted our offense, they found out they can move the ball by doing what we do," Wayne State head coach Pete Chapman said Thursday at the weekly Second Guesser's Club luncheon.

When asked what Chapman's longest game ever was, he couldn't say for sure, but added, "next week's game with Western could break the record."

Chapman humor

Although the Wildcats haven't lived up to preseason expectations (a No. 15 ranking in the nation and picked second in the CSCIC), Chapman hasn't lost his sense of humor.

When discussing his weekly radio talk show, he said there're frequently dry spells while on the air when nobody calls in for long periods of time.

"And my daughter has threatened to call in and ask if it's all right to have a pop before supper," he said.

Wayne golf

Wayne Golf and Country Club. Wayne Golf and Country Club. Wayne Golf and Country Club. Wayne Golf and Country Club.

While learning how to spell different words in grade school, I often practiced by spelling the words over and over. Well, recently I've gotten into the bad habit of accidentally typing Ogallala instead of Wayne when locating where the Wayne-Carroll girls golf team has been playing their meets. I'm hoping the method I used to learn to spell will correct my newest problem.

No excuses here, my head was simply somewhere else. I sure hope no one was confused by my error, but common sense should've told you that the golf meets were held in Wayne and not Ogallala. After all, 400 miles is quite a trip for a dual golf meet.

Valuable money

The 1985 most valuable players of the American and National Leagues might also have the most "valuable" salaries next year.

Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees and Dwight Gooden of the Mets are considered by many to be the front-runners of the MVP voting for their respective league. Mattingly is hitting over .320, has over 30 homers and leads the league RBI, doubles and game winning RBI. Gooden is the league leader in wins, ERA and strikeouts.

Despite their incredible statistics, both make small money compared to others in pro baseball. But after this year both are up for arbitration, and considering their last two years, I think it's safe to be most valuable.

Pitching and 'D'

Yogi Berra's infamous (and rather strange) statement that "Pitching is 90 percent of baseball and defense is the other half" is especially true this year in the American League West.

California and Kansas City are last and second to last in hitting in the entire American League. But although Cleveland, Seattle, Minnesota, Texas and all the others in the league have higher team batting averages, the Angies and Royals have strong pitching and defense. And as a result, are battling each other for the division title.

Wildcat spikers split

Wayne State's volleyball team split with Chadron State and Dordt College during High School Day at Rice Auditorium on Saturday. The Wildcats stopped Chadron 13-15, 15-7 and then dropped a 7-15, 4-15 decision to Dordt.

The Wildcats played their best ball in the final two frames of Chadron match after falling in the first set 13-15.

Marilyn Strate, Wayne State's head coach, said her club didn't play up to its potential in the Dordt match and added that the visitors were well prepared for the Wildcats.

Dordt played a solid two matches and we just couldn't get on track. Also, they taped the matches we played against them earlier in the year when we played at Dordt and they knew our every move. That's the advantage of playing at home," Strate explained.

The Wildcats had a balanced day on defense and offense. Linda Bode sparked Wayne State with a team high 18 serving points; while Sue Waller and Missy Stoltenberg added 16 and 15 markers, respectively.

Shelle Tomasziewicz was the Wildcats' leading spiker finishing with 19 kills; Diana Asay closed with 18, while Kristi Bateman and Deb Prenger both added 10.

Asay and Tomasziewicz both closed with 10 blocks. Asay totaled four solos and Tomasziewicz finished with two unassisted.

Stoltenberg and Waller totaled 25 and 21 digs, respectively.

Players from 15 area high schools were present at Saturday's games. Strate said the college hosts High School Day for various reasons.

"It gives high school girls the chance to see volleyball being played at the college level. It also helps with recruiting and it's good publicity for the college," she said.

The Wildcats are now 10-8 on the year. Wayne State plays again Wednesday, Oct. 2, in Lincoln against Nebraska Wesleyan and Peru State. Strate said the matches should be very competitive.

"Wesleyan has played some tough teams pretty well so we'll expect some tough matches from both Wesleyan and Peru," she said.

Wayne downs Cadets

"A common phrase in sports is 'good teams win even when they don't play their best.'" Wayne-Carroll's spikers might've proved that they fall into this category as the Blue Devils struggled to an 8-15, 16-14, 15-6 victory.

"We just struggled all night. I think the long lay off and it being homecoming hurt us. But the biggest problem was the girls just didn't get up and weren't ready to play," Blue Devil head coach Mavis Dalton said.

Wayne's poorest set was the opener. After falling behind 5-1, the Blue Devils trailed 12-3. Wayne then took advantage of West Point's poor serving by tallying five unanswered points. But the Cadets hung on for the seven point triumph.

Wayne again trailed 5-1 in the second stanza and Dalton consistently shuffled in different players to find the right chemistry.

"I kept substituting trying to find someone that would get us going. But we struggled all night and unfortunately, we never found that person," she said.

The Blue Devils did stage a late rally, however, and pulled out a thrilling 16-14 victory.

The third stanza was close in the early going, but Wayne's Sonja Skokan reeled off eight straight points to fuel the Blue Devils to their seventh victory in 10 outings.

The eight markers in the final frame allowed Skokan to finish with the team's scoring honors with 13 points. Lori Jacobsen followed Skokan with 10 markers.

Shelly Pick sparked the Blue Devils in spiking with 13 good hits, including five kills. Kecia Cobble closed with nine good spikes and one ace.

Marni Bruggeman led Wayne in setting with 31.

WSC falls to Antelopes

KEARNEY—The lack of an offensive punch hurt the Wayne State Wildcats in their conference opener against Kearney State, as the Antelopes opened a commanding 22-0 lead and won 35-7.

Wayne State managed only 35 yards passing on five completions in 32 attempts. The Wildcats' first completion came midway through the second quarter when Ed Jochum hit Tom Leitschuck. Up to that point, Jochum was 0-for-6 with one interception. Things didn't improve much all day for the Wildcats, as turnovers kept the defense on the field, and led to several Kearney State scoring opportunities.

The Wildcats actually got the first break when Antelope running back Emmett Cox fumbled and Rusty Ruhl recovered for the Wildcats on the Wayne State 45 early in the first quarter. But on the very next play, Jochum was intercepted.

But the Wildcat defense held and forced a Kearney punt. But Jochum fumbled on the 10 yard line and Kearney State needed only two plays to score.

On the next series, the Wildcat defense again held Kearney and with the punter back to kick, he bobbled the ball on Kearney's 29 yard line. The Wildcat offense could move the ball only to the 24, however, and a 34-yard field goal by Herve Roussel was blocked.

Kearney scored again in the second quarter on a 30-yard field goal. On Wayne State's next possession, Jochum fumbled, however, a 43-yard field goal attempt by Kearney's Jay Pilkington was wide.

Kearney turned two more Wildcat interceptions into touchdowns just before the end of the first half. Greg Auen intercepted the first pass and Kearney needed only six plays to score. Brett Kott connected with Ted Murray for a 33-yard touchdown. Three plays later, Jochum was intercepted by Jeff Norblade and Kearney scored in three plays with Kuhn hitting Dave White on a 17-yard TD pass.

Jochum was intercepted once again with just four seconds left in the half, but a Pilkington field goal was blocked by Lamont Lewis. Kearney State led 22-0 at the half with all four scores coming after Wayne State turnovers.

Kearney scored again in the third quarter on a six-yard pass from Kuhn to Murray. Wayne State managed to move the ball to the Kearney 27 on the strength of Carl Calvert's 43-yard run, but stalled there. Roussel came in to try a field goal, but slipped on the wet field and missed on a 30-yard attempt.

The Wildcats scored for the only time late in the fourth quarter when freshman quarterback Eros Sanchez ran 66 yards on a quarterback draw to the two yard line. Sanchez carried it over from there, but only a minute and a half remained.

For the day, the Wildcats netted 118 yards rushing on 27 attempts, while Kearney State had 160 yards in 58 attempts. The Antelopes added 202 yards passing and had 17 first downs, to Wayne State's seven.

Defensive tackle Randy Hupp led the defensive effort for the Wayne State athletes. Bob Cunningham, Linebacker Tony Shaw added 13 solo tackles and eight assists.

Next up for the Wildcats is an Oct. 5 meeting with Missouri Western. The Griffons are also 1-3 and lost last week to Fort Hayes 17-7.

Saturday's home game is the Hall of Fame Game. Three former Wayne State athletes, Bob Cunningham, Sam Singleton and Julie Brinkman Mintz will be honored at halftime.

Osmond sweeps Lady Bears

Laurel rally falls short

OSMOND-Laurel-Concord's late rally fell short and Osmond hung on for a 15-9, 16-14 victory here Tuesday night in area volleyball action.

After dropping the first set, Laurel trailed 8-3 in the second stanza. But the Lady Bears cut the lead to two, 10-8, before taking a 14-13 lead. However, Osmond tallied the game's final two markers and claimed the two set sweep.

Laurel head coach Carol Mangano said Osmond's quickness and the Bears' poor serve receive cost the visitors the match.

"They were quick and returned everything we put at them. And our serve receive had trouble again. When we had momentum we'd mess up on serve receive, and lose the momentum we built," she said.

Laurel built a slim 6-5 lead in the opening frame, but Osmond outscored the Lady Bears 10-3 down the stretch for the win.

Michelle Joslin was Laurel's leading scorer with seven points.

Sara Adkins and Donna Sherry were the squad's leading setters going 21-for-24 and 21-for-23, respectively.

Laurel had a balanced spiking attack. Gail Twiford led the Lady Bears with seven kills, while Joslin and Stacy Strawn both totaled three. Also, Tami Schmitt finished with a 6-for-7 spiking performance for Laurel.

As a team, Laurel finished 88 percent in spiking and 89 percent in serving. But Mangano said the serving percentage is somewhat misleading.

"We served 89 percent and that's a good percentage, but all five of the serves we missed came at crucial points," she said.

Osmond also won the "B" and "C" games. The hosts claimed a 15-4, 15-9 triumph in the junior varsity bout, and won 8-11, 11-0, 11-3 in the freshmen competition.

June Heydon led the Lady Bears in the JV contest with eight markers, while Nicola Barriels sparked Laurel's frosh with seven points.

The loss dropped Laurel to 3-4 on the year. The Lady Bears play again Tuesday, Oct. 8, when Hartington travels to town.

WAYNE-CARROLL'S Jon Stoltenberg (No. 19) prepares to pitch to teammate Jason Liska (No. 30) during the Blue Devils' 43-0 win over Hartington Cedar Catholic Monday afternoon.

Blue Devil JVs stomp Hartington CC

Wayne-Carroll's junior varsity football team blew away Hartington Cedar Catholic 43-0 Monday afternoon at the Wayne-Carroll practice field.

Wayne's biggest asset was "the big play" as the Blue Devils scored three of their six touchdowns from 30 yards or more.

Jon Stoltenberg ushered in the Blue Devils' scoring on Wayne's longest TD when he rambled 60 yards to pay dirt early in the first quarter.

After Russ Longe plunged in from three yards out for Wayne's second six-pointer, Stoltenberg galloped 57 yards for Wayne's third TD.

Longe added the Blue Devils' fourth touchdown in the second frame when he crossed the goal line from nine yards out to supply Wayne with a 28-0 halftime lead.

Joel Pederson caught a 13-yard touchdown pass from Stoltenberg to open the second half scoring and Alan Foote capped the Blue Devils' roust with a 33-yard scamper for a TD.

Jason Jorgensen had a perfect kicking day as he closed 5-for-5 in PAT boots. Ted Lueters hit Scott Hammer for the other PAT points.

Stoltenberg closed with a whopping 159 rushing yards on 16 totes. Stoltenberg also completed 3-of-6 aeriels.

Longe led the Blue Devils with eight jacksies, while Ted McCright picked off two Hartington passes and Mark Creighton closed with five tackles.

The victory improved the Blue Devils' record to 2-0. Wayne's next game is Monday, Oct. 7, at Schuyler.

Wayne State Soccer Club trips Kearney State 4-3

KEARNEY-Jerry Krebsbach led the Wayne State Soccer Club to a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over Kearney State here on Saturday.

Jason Lund scored on a Krebsbach assist to make the score 2-1 at the half. But Kearney scored again after Krebsbach scored on a Chris Hayden feed to make the score 3-2 Antelopes.

Hayden tied the score at three on a Brian Soukup assist and Soukup followed with the game-winner on a feed from Krebsbach.

The victory improved the Wildcats' record to 2-5. Wayne State plays again Saturday at Nebraska Wesleyan and Sunday when Westmark College travels to town.

The Series

The series record between the Wildcats and the Griffons is tied at 4-4. Wayne State won the first two meetings in 1977 and '78, but then Western won the next four. In 1983, Wayne's only victory was over Western, 13-9. Pete Chapman is 2-0 against Missouri Western.

Last Year

Wayne State led 21-7 in the first half before Ed Jochum touchdown passes-one to Matt Hoffmann and two to Sonny Jones. Western came back to trail 21-14 in the third quarter, but then Herve Roussel added a 37-yard field goal and Almit Schmiedl scored on a 10-yard run to up Wayne's lead to 31-14. Jochum was 19-for-46 for a school record 527 yards against Western last year. 193 of those years to Jones, Lamont Lewis and Tony Shaw both had 14 tackles last year against the Griffons.

The Griffons

Missouri Western is now 1-3 on the year after defeating Missouri's Rola 24-15, but losing to Northeast Missouri State 21-38 and Northwest Missouri State 24-18. The Griffons lost to Ft. Hays 17-7 in their CSJC opener last week in Hays, Kan. The Griffons are averaging 83.5 yards rushing and 284.3 through the air, but have had trouble scoring. Last week against Ft. Hays, the Griffon offense turned the ball over twice inside the 10 yard line. Defensively, the Griffons are led by strong side linebacker Andy Fenlon who has 48 tackles and strong safeties Chris Ball, 38 tackles, and Jewell Stephenson with 36 tackles and two interceptions.

The Wildcats

The Wildcats are also 1-3 on the year after losing their conference opener 35-7 to Kearney State. Wayne State's offense did not get untracked in the Kearney game as the Wildcats only had 35 yards passing on five completions in 22 attempts. Five interceptions and three fumbles led to four Kearney scores. The Wildcats rushed for 118 yards and 27 attempts. Carl Calvert led the Wildcats with 82 yards. Freshman quarterback Eros Sanchez scored Wayne's only touchdown late in the fourth quarter on a 66-yard quarterback draw. Defensively, tackle Randy Hupp had 14 solo tackles and three assists, while senior linebacker Tony Shaw recorded 20 plus tackles for the second week in a row. Shaw had 24 tackles against Midland and recorded 21 against Kearney, 13 of those solo.

Wayne Junior High rolls to lopsided 26-8 victory

Wayne-Carroll's seventh and eighth grade football team opened a quick lead and went on to post a 26-8 victory over Hartington Cedar Catholic at the Wayne practice field Tuesday afternoon.

Wayne received the opening kick and marched 60 yards before Greg DeNaeyer capped the drive by crossing the goal line from nine yards out. Mike Hillier provided the Blue Devils with a 14-0 lead when he scored the hosts second TD in the opening frame from six yards out.

In the second stanza, Hartington drove down to the Wayne two yard line before the Blue Devil defense held the Trojans on downs.

Willy Gross then gained 98 yards and scored Wayne's third TD on just two plays. After rushing 17 yards on his first carry, Gross rambled 80 yards to pay dirt for a 20-0 Blue Devil advantage.

In the third frame, Chris Fredrickson scored Wayne's final TD from 12 yards out.

Hartington avoided a shutout by scoring with 1:04 remaining in the contest against Wayne's reserves. Gross totaled 135 yards on just six carries for a remarkable 22.5 yard average. Rusty Haemer picked up 43 yards on three tries and Hillier gained 40 yards on four totes.

Corey Wieseler sparked Wayne's offense with a team high 11 tackles. Brian Lutz finished with seven, while Kip Mann, Gross and Neal Carnes all totaled five.

Wayne plays again Tuesday, Oct. 8, when the Blue Devils host Schuyler for a 4 p.m. contest.

Pitching and defense emphasized

Wildcat baseball team talented

By Todd Hilder

WSC Sports Information

The 1985-86 Wayne State baseball team may lack the power of last year's squad, but it's not without talent, according to head coach Lenny Klaver.

Klaver has just completed fall tryouts and has his team set for the 1986 regular season. "We're going to be a different type of team than we were last year," Klaver said. "We're going to emphasize pitching and defense this year."

Power was the mainstay of last year's team, largely supplied by first baseman Gregg Crulickshank, catcher Jeff Scharn, and outfielders Pete Miller and Fele Sacccone. The four combined for 30 home runs and 213 runs batted in during last season. However, all four names are missing from this year's roster.

Despite the loss of power, the Wildcats will have plenty of punch in Dale Clayton, Mike Hoffart, Kurt Brosamle, Pat Salerno, Jeff Strain and Paul Calvert. All six finished last season with a batting average of no lower than .333.

"We have better speed also," Klaver said. Clayton and Strain are the team's main base stealing threats. Both combined for 57 stolen bases last season. Clayton's 31 steals set a Wayne State school record.

Pitching should also be solid, according to Klaver. "We return quite a few performers from last year and we're bolstered by a number of new freshmen," Mark Priegnitz and Jeff Rothrock should lead the hurlers in the spring. "They are the mainstays of our (pitching) staff," Klaver said.

Dennis Vollmer, Jose Ruiz, Kevin Hoffart and Bob Day will also find plenty of action on the mound this spring.

The catching staff will be the least experienced of the positions, according to Klaver. "Catching is all young. There's good competition between the catchers as far as playing time. Monte Schultz has emerged as number one right now, particularly because of his defensive abilities."

The infield should be solid with three starters returning. Mike Hoffart will switch over from third to first base. Strain will continue to work second base and Clayton will continue at short stop. Jumping in at third base will be Salerno or Dean Heying, who are expected to share time at the position.

Brosamle, this year's team captain, will anchor the outfield and is the only returning starter. "Randy Raabe and Paul Calvert will be our other outfielders," Klaver said. Gale Bretschneider is pushing for playing time as well in the outfield, according to Klaver. "They all have good arms and a lot of speed."

In preparation for the spring season, the team is currently going through fall workouts. Weather conditions, however, have slowed down the team's progress. "We've gotten some things done, but not as much as we'd like because of the weather," Klaver said.

The purpose of the fall season, Klaver said, is to simply get a look at all the players. In addition to a scrimmage with Morningside this fall, the team is scheduled to host scrimmages with Briar Cliff, Bellevue and Kearney State.

DeSoto's fall season opens

DeSoto-The summer recreational season at DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge closed Monday, Sept. 30. Beginning on Oct. 1, access to the refuge will be limited. Visitors may drive to the DeSoto Visitor Center, as well as the Bertrand Excavation Site. The remainder of refuge roads will be closed. DeSoto Refuge's popular, self-guided Fall Auto Tour will be open this year from Oct. 19 through Nov. 11. The tour offers visitors an excellent opportunity to view a variety of wildlife along refuge roads and from the DeSoto Visitor Center's viewing galleries. In past years, peak numbers of over 400,000 migrating ducks and geese have been present during the last week of the auto tour season. Other wildlife often observed during this time include bald eagles, pheasants, coyotes and white-tailed deer. Visitor centers hours will be extended from 9 a.m. through 5:30 p.m. daily, during the auto tour. The refuge will close at 6 p.m.

Hupp defensive player of week

Randy Hupp of Wayne State College was named the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District 11 defensive player of the week. Hupp, a 6-2, 235-pound junior, had 15 unassisted and three assisted tackles in the Wildcats' 35-7 loss to Kearney State Saturday afternoon.

Operation Game Thief begins fourth year

LINCOLN-Nebraska's Operation Game Thief program is beginning its fourth year of helping put poachers out of business, and thanks for the program's success belongs to Nebraskans who have volunteered information about game law violations and those who have contributed money to fund Operation Game Thief.

Since the program began in September of 1982, a total of 119 poaching arrests have been made in cases developed with information obtained through Operation Game Thief. During that time, the courts have assessed fines and court costs of more than $10,720 and $17,000 in illegal damages to parks, fields, gullies of game law violations in those cases.

Many investigations centered on illegally taken deer, but there were also cases involving pheasants, quail, geese, turkeys, grouse, ducks, fish, muskrats, raccoons, mink and an eagle.

During its first four years, the program has paid a total of $6,525 in reward money for information obtained in some of the cases, but the majority of the people who gave information declined a reward payment, saying they were only interested in helping stopping game violations.

Anyone who sees or has knowledge of a game violation should contact their nearest conservation officer immediately or phone Operation Game Thief's toll-free hotline 1-800-742-7627 Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. People volunteering information don't have to give their name, they don't have to appear in court, and they may be eligible for a cash reward.

Operation Game Thief is supported entirely by contributions. Donations may be sent to Operation Game Thief, Box 424, Broken Bow, Neb. 68822.

movies — showing spaghetti westerns (westerns made in Italy) or horror show flicks.

"We would have dusk to dawn movies on Memorial Day, 4th of July and Labor Day, serving a free breakfast after the third or fourth movie," March said.

"On the 4th of July we also had a fireworks display," he added.

Approximately 40 percent of the profit earned at the drive-in was from the concession stand — from hot dogs and hamburgers, frozen chocolate bananas and "Chilly Dilly" pickles to nachos.

"Attendance had been good at the drive-in up until three or four years ago. Three hundred people here was usually a good night," March said.

"I think the main selling point of the drive-in was that children under 12 years old were always admitted free," he said.

LIKE ALL drive-ins, there were people who had tried to sneak in without paying the price of admission — some individuals hid inside the trunk of a car or were hidden by blankets. March had planted poplar trees to block off the view of individuals who parked on nearby roads to watch the movies.

The drive-in constructed in Wayne came after the real craze was thriving for drive-ins in California during the 1940's.

"I think the drive-ins were more for westerns and adventure action. Suspense and horror shows were great in drive-ins," March said.

But then, some shows worked better indoors than at the drive-in, such as ET and On Golden Pond, he said.

NOT ONLY WAS the Dude Ranch Drive-in used for display of movies, but it also served as a location for drive-in church services. The Presbyterian Church had conducted drive-in church services at the Dude Ranch Drive-in.

People had more movies to see in the earlier years — sometimes five or six movies a week. At the end of the era, the number of films shown at the drive-in during the week dwindled down to one or two movies a week.

At the start, admission into the drive-in was 50 cents per person.

That figure, when it closed this July, was up to $3.25 per person.

Attendance began to slim considerably during the past two years. "Production of movies had changed from family to the more exploitation type of pictures," March said.

"And it was just too short of a season. There was just too much maintenance, too high overhead," he said.

He said the drive-in, sometimes known as the "passion pit" could only operate during 15 prime weeks (between Memorial Day and Labor Day). "Out of those 15, eight to ten weeks were considered as peak weeks," he said.

"Film companies today would rather not play at drive-ins."

Over the past few years, vandalism and malicious mischief at the drive-

THE DUDE RANCH Drive-In, not in operation since July, has been sold and is in the process of being torn down, according to Jack March, owner (at left). The original drive-in screen, in background, was 48 feet wide. Two 16 foot wings were added to the screen, making it 80 feet wide. In photo above, is a view of the Dude Ranch Drive-In looking to the west from the Wayne Country Club road. Poplar trees were planted around the outdoor drive-in property in later years. Three hundred people at the drive-in was a common occurrence when the drive-in craze was at its peak in Wayne.

in has been a costly problem encountered by the Marches.

THE NATIONAL trend in movie drive-in numbers reflect the difficulties in operation of the once-popular form of entertainment. In 1954 there were 3,775 drive-ins in the nation. In 1984, that number has dropped to 2,840 — a majority of the drive-ins closing in the midwest, according to March.

The Dude Ranch Drive-in is a Wayne entertainment institution that has been a memory for thousands of people who pulled into the drive-in, rolled down their windows, put in the nearby speakers and watched a movie from the comfort of their automobile.

"The next trend will probably be that they will be beaming in the movies and a print won't even be needed," March said.

Highways

There are 20 projects in District Three that they say will cost $17.3 million to get done, according to Kingsbury. District Three includes the counties of Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Knox, Pierce, Antelope, Boone, Platte, Colfax, Stanton, Madison, Cuming, Burt, Thurston and Dakota.

There are 43 projects scheduled in the five year program in District Three, totaling over $93.5 million in estimated construction costs.

"So in this district they [the road projects] identify with you and me. We have about $110 million of identified needs in this district," Kingsbury said.

ADDITIONAL five year road projects besides Hwy. 15 in Wayne and south of Wayne include:

Hwy. S-26E — Dixon County, Ponca Spur, 2.2 miles of resurfacing; Hwy. 9 — Thurston and Dixon

Counties, in Emerson, urban improvements; Dixon County, 7.0 mile stretch between Wakefield and Emerson; Dixon County, 6.8 miles of improvements north and south of Allen.

Hwy. 15 — Cedar County, 4.5 miles from Laurel to Concord Junction.

Hwy. 35 — Wayne County, 7.4 miles of Hoskins East; Wayne County, 7.3 miles Winside north and south; Wayne County, 7.5 miles of Wayne east.

And Hwy. 57 — Cedar County, 4.2 miles of Belden north.

Millions saved by proper silage management

Applying six management practices to the process of ensiling corn could result in cutting losses and subsequently save millions of dollars for farmers in Nebraska, a University of Nebraska extension dairy specialist said.

Foster Owen said making corn silage is big business in Nebraska — about 6 million tons of silage are put up each year. "If valued at $25 a ton, we have a $150 million crop," he said. "And all of the critical decisions on harvesting and preserving this feed occur within September and October."

Owen said losses during storage, stemming from ineffective preservation methods, cause a large drain on the agricultural economy. "It is estimated that losses are about 20 percent to 25 percent of the silage stored, amounting to $34 million," Owen said. Applying current research through proper management could reduce losses to about one-half the current level, saving about $17 million, he said. Savings would come in both quantity and quality, Owen pointed out. Poorly-preserved silage often contains mold, has high levels of "bound protein" unavailable to the animal, and likely has a lower energy value. All these characteristics reduce volume and efficiency of production.

He listed six management procedures which can cut the loss during the ensiling from 20 percent to 25 percent down to about 10 percent. The 10 percent loss is considered unavoidable in the process of fermentation.

Check the silo for needed maintenance to improve airtightness before harvesting corn. Fill cracks in upright silos, replace or repair doors for a tight fit.

Harvest corn at the correct time. This means about 65 percent moisture content for upright silos. Corn at this stage will have corn kernels fully denting and dried. This stage of maturity assures maximum acreage yields and is ideal for packing, without leaching. When filling bunkers or trench silos, or storing silage in stacks 12 feet high or less, corn should contain more moisture. About 70 percent moisture is needed to assure good packing. This moisture level is reached at about the dough stage.

Chop corn to about 3/8- to 1/2-inch lengths. This aids in packing and also will provide the required coarseness for maintaining good rumen function in cattle. Silo filling should be rapid and uninterrupted. If an interruption occurs, cover forage with a plastic as tightly as is practical until refilling is resumed.

Thoroughly pack forage in whatever silo structure is used. This can be accomplished in bunkers and trenches by traveling back and forth across the forage with a wide-tire tractor. Upright silos will tend to pack themselves effectively if a distributor is used to level the silage as it is blown into the silo. If a distributor is not used, level the silage by hand-forking of the forage after each three feet of silage is added.

Cover the exposed surface of the silage with a plastic of about six-mil thickness. This should be applied in a manner to obtain airtightness.

Cover the plastic with a weighting material. This may be limestone, dirt, additional chopped forage, possibly chopped weeds or semi-dry manure. This material must completely cover every square inch of the plastic. The amount used should be enough that it will not blow off during the storage period. This will amount to about 3 inches of dirt or manure or 6 inches of chopped forage. Since this material will slide off steep slopes, it is necessary to form stacks of silage with moderate side slopes to assure effectiveness of this final step. Old tires will help prevent the plastic from blowing off the stack, but without the continuous covering material, they offer only minimal effectiveness in assuring an airtight seal.

"Of all the procedures required for obtaining maximum preservation of silage, this final step is the most neglected," Owen stressed.

For example, he said, a farm putting up 500 tons of corn silage should save almost $2,500 in reduced losses by using recommended procedures, compared to the usual methods.

Weather patterns promote stalk rot

Weather patterns this growing season may cause stalk rot problems in corn this fall, says Dr. Leroy Svec, the manager of Agronomic Technical Services for Agrisow Seed Company. "Predictions about the severity of stalk rot in any one season are difficult, but this crop year has had many of the elements necessary for stalk rot to occur."

The University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service lists the following factors this season as favorable to stalk rot development in some areas:

Moderate daytime temperatures and cool nights;

Intermittent rains and wet weather following tasselling. These conditions, coupled with expected good yields and high planting densities, are all conducive to increased stalk rot potential.

Svec adds that stress on corn plants during the grain fill period can accentuate the potential for stalk rot.

"A number of days during the grain fill period have been cloudy and cool. This reduces the potential for photosynthesis, which can increase the likelihood of stalk rot. It is very possible stalk rot will occur this fall, and that in some situations it may develop rapidly and become serious."

To minimize harvest losses, Svec advises that farmers watch fields for signs of premature stalk death or lodging as corn matures. A soft, spongy feel in the base of the corn plant indicates the presence of stalk rot. Fields which have this condition should be harvested on a timely basis, possibly for silage if feasible.

"When severe lodging problems are imminent, it pays to harvest as soon as grain moisture falls into the high twenties," Svec reports. "Additional drying costs will be more than offset by reduced field losses."

Stalk rot is strongly related to weather factors that cannot be controlled, but Svec attests that management practices also play a role. "Crop rotation, adequate and balanced fertility — especially the balance of nitrogen and potassium, proper plant population and the selection of hybrids with strong roots and stalks — are key practices that can minimize stalk rot damage."

Certificates of application needed

Precaution needed in fumigant use

Farmers planning to use fumigants to control insects in on-farm storage bins should take precautions, according to Emery Nelson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension specialist — pesticide training.

Only small quantities of commonly used liquid grain fumigants are available since the Environmental Protection Agency issued new regulations earlier this year prohibiting their sale and distribution by manufacturers after Dec. 31. The application of the once-common fumigants is prohibited after June 30, 1986, Nelson said.

The suspended products contain carbon disulfide, carbon tetrachloride or ethylene dichloride.

Products remaining on the registered list of grain fumigants all have a restricted use classification, meaning an applicator must be certified in order to use them. Farmers can apply these fumigants to their own grain if they hold a valid private applicator certificate.

They include several trade names of aluminum phosphide, which is available in pellet or tablet form. Another is the extremely toxic and dangerous methyl bromide, which should only be applied by certified commercial fumigation personnel. A third is chloropicrin, a liquid that is highly irritating to the eyes. Personal protective equipment is required when using this dangerous fumigant, Nelson said.

Farmers who are certified applicators need to take precautions when using these fumigants, he said. Bins should be tightly sealed and posted. "Fumigants should work in teams, with at least one man on the outside of the bin," Nelson said. "Fumigation should not be attempted on grain that has a temperature below 60 degrees."

Also, bins of over 5,000 bushel capacity should be left to professional fumigators, he said.

Part 3

Managing for tomorrow

This is the third article in a series of four about the Managing for Tomorrow program. The program is being offered to farmers by the Cooperative Extension Service and being run by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Agricultural Economics. This is the same program that 20 Wayne County farm couples enrolled in earlier this year.

Doug Duey, Southeast Extension Farm Management Specialist, answers the question: I want to bring my son into the operation. How can the program help me decide on the changes that need to be made?

Many farm families dream of passing their farms on to their children. A question that has to be answered before a child is brought into the operation is — How do we know that such a combination will be profitable and satisfying to both parent and child?

The Managing for Tomorrow workshops are designed to help all family members to find out more about the true goals and aspirations of each other. With this knowledge, they will better know how compatible their objectives are and how they will have to personally adjust to each other to have a successful farming operation. Through the workshops both parents and the child will learn of the resources that each other have to bring into the farming operation. In most cases the parents will have more land and equipment while the child will provide more labor.

If the younger family member is or soon will be married, very definite consideration must be given to the potential net income from the farm to support at least two families. The standard of living to which both families is accustomed to may have to be altered, but neither will accept a lower level for very long.

From the data developed from the family and with the aid of the computer, the managing for Tomorrow staff will quickly learn if the farm business is of sufficient size, efficient and provides the necessary cash flow to meet the goals and objectives of both families.

The Managing for Tomorrow staff with the utilization of the computer can evaluate the adjustments that are needed to bring another family member into the business. From the base unit of operation we can start looking for alternatives, the "what ifs". Such as — can we stand to borrow more capital? What affect will shifting or expanding livestock or rented crop acres do to our net income? Will some family members have to work off the farm? What will happen financially if we suffer a 10% loss in yields or prices?

At the conclusion of the analysis the families will likely come to some decisions about the changes that need to be made. They will each feel better knowing they are in tune with one another and that all the family members have a share in making the management decisions.

For more information about the Managing for Tomorrow program please contact Don C. Spitzke, Wayne County Extension Agent, at the Courthouse in Wayne. The telephone number is 375-3310. A free brochure explaining the program will be sent to you on request. If you prefer you can call directly to the Farm Financial Line, a toll-free number 800-535-3456, for more information and to enroll.

Farmers Succeed

Side by side tillage comparisons made by Nebraska farmers last year clearly demonstrate the advantage of using no-till in today's depressed farm economy. At a majority of test sites, no-till has the largest yield and the lowest production cost.

In cooperation with the University of Nebraska's Agricultural Conservation Project, 15 farmers used no-till in plots adjacent to ones where they used conventional tillage or another method of reduced tillage. No-till produced a yield more than five bushels per acre higher than the other tillage systems at eight sites and had about the same yield at four sites. In addition, the no-till system was at least $5 less expensive per acre at 11 of the sites when comparing herbicide and field operation costs.

The implications of these results are significant and should be carefully considered when producers plan their farm management strategy. Especially in today's farm economy, any tillage method which maintains yield while reducing or maintaining cost must be reviewed and compared with existing systems.

No-till is just one of several accepted conservation tillage operations which can save fuel, labor and herbicide costs while reducing erosion. In addition to no-till, other systems, such as the chisel and disk, are considered conservation tillage methods provided 20 to 30 percent of the soil surface remains covered with residue.

Indian Meal Moths

From mid-summer until grain cools, Indian meal moth infestations will increase in stored grains. This is a surface infesting insect. The larvae spin webs that are quite visible on the surface. Adults are easily identified by wing color. The forward portion of the top wings are cream color, the back portions bronze to copper color.

If grain is to be fed within a few weeks, skim off the webbing and larvae from the surface. If grain is to be stored for a month or longer, the insects should be controlled.

Vapona 20% resin strips can be suspended in the air space over grain, using one strip for 1000 cubic feet of space. Vapors from strips will kill adults, but will not control larvae. If air circulation removes vapors, the strips will not be effective. Vapona strips are best for long-term storage, and should be in place early in the season.

Surface treatment of the bacterially insecticide "Bacillus thuringiensis" will reduce larvae. The larvae must ingest the spores, and will be slow. It is a safe treatment so far as feeding at any times is concerned. "B. thuringiensis" is available under such trade names as Dipel, as dusts or liquid suspensions. They are mixed with the upper 4 inches of grain. Rates will be provided on labels.

PTO study: an eye opener

A study recently conducted by Purdue University shows that more than half of nearly 850 tractors examined on mid-western farms and dealer lots had their master shields removed. Master shields are the protective cover over the tractor's power take-off shaft (PTO).

The study, undertaken to determine tractor operator exposure to unguarded PTO driveline components, also showed that many of the shields still on tractors were damaged or inoperative, providing little or no protection from the danger of entanglement.

To prevent accidents, the National Safety Council urges tractor operators to keep the master shield and other PTO shields in place.

If a PTO shield is damaged, lost or inadequate, repair or replace it before operating the tractor. Maintain the shields by replacing worn or broken components such as retainer clips and bolts.

Keep flip-up type shields clean and free from obstructions so they can be raised and lowered by hand.

Do not rely on a shield as a step or a place to stand.

Stay away from unguarded moving parts. Wear well-fitting clothing which can't be caught in rotating parts.

Keep children and non-workers away from farm equipment.

WAKEFIELD TROJAN Band supporters turned out in full force Saturday night, despite cold, rainy weather, to attend a fund-raising carnival sponsored by band members along with the Wakefield School Band Boosters organization. The carnival, complete with cotton candy and hot dogs, also featured games for all ages. A youngster in the top left photo tries her luck at picking out a specially marked lollipop, while two others, top right, wait glumly for someone — anyone — to bail them out of jail. A redemption booth also was set up, bottom photo, where carnival winners could redeem their tickets for prizes. Trojan Band Director Diane Trullinger said as of Wednesday morning no figures were available on how much money was raised at the event.

Homecoming
 "Forever" was the theme of 1985 Homecoming coronation ceremonies at Allen Public School.

Crowned king and queen during ceremonies Friday afternoon in the school gymnasium were LeAnn McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald, and Craig Noe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noe.

Crowning the new king and queen were Jay Jones and Amy Gotch, 1984-85 royalty.

First attendants with parents' names in parenthesis, were Denise Magnuson (Darrel) and Clarke McGrath (James). Second attendants were Diane Magnuson (Darrel) and Brian Malcom (Mrs. Jean).

Serving as master and mistress of ceremonies were Steve Jones (Wayne) and Sandy Greenleaf (Mrs. Sharon).

Crown bearers and flower girls were kindergarten's Tiffany McAfee (Stan) and Phillip Morgan (Scott), and first graders Amanda Mitchell (Duane) and Joey Swanson (Kenneth).

Escorts included Kristi Chase (Wayne), Barbara Hansen (Kenneth), Kristin Hansen (Mrs. Darlene Bennet) and Robert Hansen (David) (Mike), Jody Kwankin (Pastor and Mrs. Kwankin), and Max Oswald (Marvin).

The program during coronation included special music by the swing choir and girls sextet. Jean Carlson was accompanist for the professional and recessional.

The traditional parade and pep rally followed coronation.

Friday night's football game saw Allen facing Walthill, followed with the annual homecoming dance. Theme for the dance was "Rock and Roll."

FFA AUCTION, SLAVE SALE

Approximately $2,300 was raised Sunday afternoon during a consignment sale and slave auction sponsored by the Future Farmers of America (FFA) chapter at Allen High School.

The event got underway at noon in the Allen school gymnasium with a free pork barbecue. The consignment sale began at 1 p.m., followed with the slave auction.

Auctioneers were Ryan Creamer, an Allen High School senior, and Oscar Koester. Refreshments and bars were sold by members of the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) chapter.

Bringing the top prices during the slave sale were FFA members Angela Jones, Brian Malcom, Greg Stapleton, Elizabeth Hansen and Travis Schroeder, along with FFA advisor Tom Wilmes.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER EVENT

The Joy Circle of the Allen United Methodist Church hosted their third annual Mother-Daughter Event on Saturday evening with a salad buffet in the church parlors at 6:30 p.m. Following the dinner, those attending were ushered to the sanctuary where it was decorated in a wedding setting to keep with the theme of Brides through the Years. Sandy Chase sang a wedding song, accompanied by Angie Jones. Carol Jean Stapleton was narrator for the styles of brides through the years as models of dressed entered down the aisle.

Dresses and models for their own dresses were Evelyn Trube, Elizabeth Kwankin, Irene Armour, Joan Jorgensen and Doris Linafelter. Other dresses were Dorothy Brownell by Shelly Harder, Daisy Berg by daughter Donna Wood, Mary Lou Koester by Jeanette Hohenstein (this dress had been worn by Mary Lou exactly 35 years ago to the day at the United Methodist Church), Creek Chase by her daughter Kristi Chase, Lula Koester by Angie Jones, Phyllis Swanson by Gail Hill, Carol Jackson by daughter Kathy Boswell, Carol Jean Stapleton by daughter Carla Stapleton, Jane Malcom Argoisinger by Sandy Greenleaf, Karen Blohm by daughter Kris Blohm and Ella Isom by Carol Chase.

Remarks and comments were made on the weddings of those whose dresses were modeled and other weddings were remembered by those present during this time. A musical selection, "Matchmakers," "Matchmaker" was sung by Sandy Chase, Kristi Chase and Sandy Greenleaf.

Following the program, a reception was held at the back of the church serving wedding cake, coffee and punch. On display during the evening was wedding memorabilia which was being brought by those attending along with newsclippings of brides through the years.

Special awards were presented to Wanda Van Cleave for the most unusual hat, as those attending were asked to wear hats for the wedding; to Linda Wood Carlson, the newest bride; to Mary Wood, the oldest bride in number of years married; and to Carol Jackson, the most daughters present. Special recognition was given to the family of Rhonda Warner with four generations present.
