THE WAYNE HERALD

Ryan Creamer (with microphone) auctioneered with Oscar Kooster during a consignment sale and slave auction sponsored last Sunday afternoon by the Future Farmers of America Chapter at Allen High School.

Creamer sings the auctioneer's song

by Chuck Hackenmiller
Call him Ryan Creamer, the auctioneer.
And when he is not selling items off the auction block, call him Ryan Creamer — the 17 year old senior at Allen High School who is current president of the school's student council.
Only a few people have a goal equal to what Creamer yearns to achieve.
"Some day he wants to be the world's champion livestock auctioneer. A lot of people have set that as a goal. Some have made it. I'm going to give it my all," said Creamer.
"I've wanted to do this [auctioneering] all my life. I've always been fascinated by the auctioneers I had listened to," he said.
"And I've had an interest in livestock markets and marketing, too," he added.

Creamer is also vice-president of the Allen FFA chapter and is president of the Wranglers 4-H Club. His other school activities include band, jazz band and swing choir.
He is the youngest of five children born to LeRoy (a mallman) and Marilyn Creamer, who reside on a farm about two miles east of Concord.
"I went with my father to all the sales and I always listened to market reports. They [the markets] look pretty gum right now," Creamer said.
During June and July of last year, Creamer and a 1985 Allen High School graduate, Toby Lund, entered Reichs World Wide College of Auctioneering, Inc. at Mason City, Iowa. Creamer graduated in the top 10 of his class at the renowned auctioneering college.

FOR 15 DAYS the 29 instructors from "all over the country" had drilled Creamer on the fundamentals, techniques and other skills of auctioneering.
"We stayed right on the college's grounds during those 15 days," he said, "and classes were from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m."
The closest instructor [from this area] was from Creighton, Nebraska — Keith Saalhoff. There was an instructor from Texas who taught us about consignment auctioneering," he said.
"We learned all phases of auctioneering, from advertising and clerking to actual selling," he noted.

There was also a class on [livestock diseases], he said.
Twice while attending the school, Creamer and his classmates at the auctioneering college were required to sell consigned goods to actual buyers.
"The first sale, I thought I did good. But I needed some improvements made. The next sale I made, I had improved myself," he said.
"Our first class was in voice — how to save your voice. We had rooms where we could practice chanting daily for the 15 days. The tables and stool in the room were sold many times," he said.

CREAMER RECOMMENDS attending Reichs World Wide College of Auctioneering to those interested in getting into the auctioneering field.
"If you don't pick up anything on auctioneering, you can at least get over stage fright because you are up before people every day," he said.
"We can go back there anytime, just pay room and board. I plan to go back in eight to ten years [just for a refresher [of auctioneering skills]]," he commented.
He performed his first "official" auctioneering job at a consignment sale in July, 1984 for a church in Laurel, working with Lamont Sohler, a former Laurel auctioneer.

He's had at least nine other auctioneering jobs since then, ranging from farm auctions, household auctions to his most recent opportunity — the Allen FFA consignment auction.
"I do all kinds of auctions," he said.
What qualities does Creamer believe an auctioneer should possess?

"You have to know the value of the stuff you are selling," he answered.
"And you need a clear voice so that people can understand you. We were told at the college to sell with our normal tone of voice and that the microphone used should do all the work for you," he added.
"You have to be able to talk a lot."

CREAMER SAID the auctioneer should practice his chanting every day. He practices his chanting while driving down the road.
"You have to practice every day or you could lose your chant," he said.
The auctioneers should be prepared to help the owner if requested on the day of the sale. "They [auctioneers] should review and look over auction sale items an hour before the sale, to decide where to start with the bidding," he mentioned.

Miscellaneous items which nobody bids for at auctions sometimes are purchased by the auctioneer. Creamer said he has a collection of miscellaneous items consisting of things such as birdhouses, pitchfork handles or "other stuff that doesn't sell."
The objective, he said, "is to get the top dollar for each item."
For the time being, Creamer doesn't look at auctioneering as a profession. "I would like to be a professional in livestock marketing. But I don't think that will happen the way the economy is right now," he said.
Creamer said he plans to attend college and enter into business administration.
This way, he will have a main business profession to fall back on, he said.

STILL, HE has ambitions and goals to achieve in the auctioneering field.
"Some day I hope to have my own company — clerk it and everything," he said.
He would like to have a pick-up box where auctioneering could be done from inside the box. He would also like a trailer where the auction clerk can work. "We would handle everything," he said.
"And looking ahead, I'm talking way down the road some 30 to 40 years from now and if I had a son or daughter, I would have them go to auctioneer school and we would have a family business," he mentioned.
His father, LeRoy, thinks his son does a good job at auctioneering and that he is "all for it."
"But to develop it into a business might take years. He is going to have to help along the way," LeRoy said.
Not everything in auctioneering has its pleasantries.
"I don't like all the farm sales that are coming up. I hate to see farmers go out of business," he said.
Still, as one of the area's youngest auctioneers, he is determined to face each auction with the attitude of doing the best he can.
"I had set a goal a long time ago to do this [auctioneering], and now I have realized it."

There will also be a children's Christmas story entitled "Hector the Clumsy Elf" written by Chuck Hackenmiller which will be illustrated by area artists.

Area Farmers Market plans announced

There apparently is a strong need for a Farmers Market in Wayne. People from Wayne, Wisner, Creighton and rural areas attended a Farmers Market Information meeting Tuesday, Oct. 1 at the Lumber Company in Wayne and there was much enthusiasm, according to Kathleen Grone.
Dob Wragge of Bloomfield was the guest speaker.
Wragge related to those in attendance that the Farmers Market in Knox County has been a great success. Customers get to know sellers and a demand is created. People begin to depend on you to be there for them," Wragge said.
Home-grown, homemade or even puppets could be sold at Farmers Markets, she said.
A formal committee will be established at the next meeting — tentatively set for March 4, 1986. "I hope and feel strongly that we will have greater support as spring approaches. People become excited about gardening around February and begin to plan," said Grone.
A three percent commission was tentatively agreed upon as the sitting fee at the proposed location. Monday mornings and Tuesday evenings are the two days tentatively agreed upon as the times for the Farmers Market.

Also discussed during the informational meeting was gardening plans for spring of 1986.
Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Farmers Market, please contact Larry or Kathleen Grone at 375-1650. Any ideas or suggestions will be appreciated.

Alumni fun set for WSC Homecoming

Seven alumni classes will be honored at Wayne State College during its Diamond Anniversary and homecoming festivities, Oct. 11 and 12, according to Kirk Hutton, executive director of the Wayne State Foundation.
Hutton said the honored alumni will represent the classes of 1925, 1930, 1935, 1945, 1955, 1965 and 1975. The alumni are invited to attend many reunion activities as well as the college's 75th anniversary celebration.
Alumni registration for the banquet, Oct. 11, and the breakfast, Oct. 12, will take place Friday, Oct. 11, 3-5 p.m. in the foyer of the Student Center on campus. Hutton said the cost of both events will be $12.50 per person. Student Ambassadors will offer campus tours to reacquaint returning WSC graduates with the college.
A SOCIAL TIME will kick-off the Friday festivities from 5-6:30 p.m. in the Wayne Country Club, said Hutton. A banquet honoring WSC alumni will follow at 7 p.m. in the North Dining Room of the Student Center. Wayne State graduates attending the reunion from the class of 1935 and before will be recognized and honored as members of the Half-Century Club.
The Bobby Layne Orchestra will cap-off Friday's activities with a big band dance from 9 p.m.-midnight in the Rince Auditorium. Hutton said the general public is invited to attend free of charge. Refreshments will be served by Wayne Regional Chapter of WSC Alumni Association.
Saturday's activities will begin with an alumni continental breakfast at 8:30 a.m. From there, Hutton said WSC will furnish transportation for alumni to the Diamond Anniversary homecoming parade.
"We've invited back former homecoming queens," said Hutton. Several will be riding in the parade, including Betty (Blom) Towns, the 1937 queen.
At 2 p.m. Saturday, the Wayne State Wildcats will meet the Fort Hays State Tigers in a football game at Memorial Stadium. The game will be televised for Half-Century Club members in the Walnut Room of the Student Center, said Hutton.
A post-game gathering at the country club will be served for $150.

Wind causes outage

Friday's strong wind was the culprit blamed in a power outage throughout the northeast section of Wayne during the late morning hours.
A tree limb knocked down by the wind had fallen on wires near the Wayne Country Club at approximately 11 p.m.
A spokesman from the city's light plant said power was out for about an hour from near 7th Street North and on the East Side of Main Street in Wayne.

Second one this year
Special session possible

by Melvin Paul

Even before adjourning their special session shortly before noon last Wednesday, state lawmakers were discussing the possibility of a second special session this year to deal with growing state budget problems.

State lawmakers went home after giving 34-0 final approval to the corrective legislation needed to disburse the $8.5-million settlement between state government and Commonwealth Savings Co. depositors.

Although Gov. Bob Kerrey had called lawmakers into session only to correct the state's Commonwealth bill, they spent much of the final day debating budget matters.

Sens. John DeCamp and Neigh and Rod Johnson of Sutton introduced a resolution calling on Kerrey to convene another special legislative session to reduce state spending for the current fiscal year to match lagging tax collections.

Lawmakers defeated a procedural motion that would have allowed a vote on the resolution.

Appropriations Committee Chairman Jerome Warner of Waverly said he has no doubt that ultimately such a budget session will be needed.

He said budget cuts will probably have to be accompanied by a tax rate increase if the Legislature is to adequately address the problem.

WARNER SAID revised revenue projections, which are due to be issued on Friday, will indicate that the state faces a $10 million to $15 million general fund shortage by next June 30, the final day of the fiscal year.

Although lawmakers didn't adopt the resolution, expectations around the Capitol were widespread that lawmakers would be back in session to deal with state finances before the regular 1986 session convenes in January.

"It's my hope, but not my prediction, that we won't come back together again before the regular session," Kerrey told the lawmakers in a brief farewell speech.

In mid-September, Kerrey had announced that he is seeking voluntary budget cuts by state agencies in an effort to trim state spending by $12 million... Kerrey said at that time he may ask the Legislature to return to session to mandate the cuts.

Speaker William Nichol of Scottsbluff also hinted that lawmakers might have to convene on budget matters before the regular 1986 session in January.

"See you next special session," Nichol said to colleagues in last-day floor remarks.

IN ADDITION to leaving the budget issue hanging, lawmakers adjourned last week without taking a vote on a proposed investigation of state liability in connection with the failure of two financial institutions.

Lawmakers took no action on Legislative Resolution 1, a proposal to investigate circumstances surrounding the financial difficulties of State Security Savings Co. of Lincoln and American Savings Co. of Omaha.

After last-day debate on the resolution in committee and on the floor, two legislative chairmen said they intend to pursue the investigation independently.

Sen. Chris Beutler of Lincoln, chairman of the Legislative Council Executive Board, said his panel will pursue the possible creation of an investigating committee through general assembly and composition of the executive board during periods when the Legislature is out of session.

DeCamp said he intends to have his Banking Committee pursue the investigation regardless of what the executive board does.

An issue being debated on LRI was the leadership and composition of the investigating committee.

As introduced by Warner and others, LRI called for DeCamp, Republican, to chair the investigating committee.

Beutler and others proposed that Sen. Ward of Omaha, a Democrat, lead the investigation. Beutler said lawmakers need to give "thoughtful consideration to whom would really do the legislative credit in chairing this particular committee."

Chicken' away

by Chuck Hackenmiller

In an article written by Robert J. Ward in the Spring, 1985 edition of The Nebraska Humanist, there is a depiction of James Schell Hearst...

Hearst was a farmer, a university teacher, and a poet and he has published more than 600 poems. He has been recognized as one of the authentic poetic voices of the American Midwest, according to Ward.

After reading some of his poetry, one can sense that Hearst was deeply rooted into the agricultural existence of this country.

Here is one of his poems entitled "To Build a Fence." We stretched a barbed wire from corner post to corner post, 160 rods, half a mile. It's a line to go by, even so we step back...

A few rods and sight over the tops of the posts already set to line up the new post. Who wants a crooked fence and wouldn't the neighbors chuckle. We turn the auger and dig a hole two and a half feet deep and hope...

For no rocks or free roots to block the twisting blades (tree roots are the devil you need an ax for them). We sweat and place a post in the hole (creosoted post that won't rot — we hope), line it up and tamp the dirt as we planted it. The corner post takes the most care, it has to stand the strain of the tight stretched wire all the way. We set it in concrete, brace it against another post...

That each year charges interest for its use. That life's a mortgage no one can renew. I've found I traded even, farm for sweat To justify the boast I'm master yet.

tie them together with strands of wire twisted so tight it sings. One post has my initials and the date scratched in the cement. We hung a gate on that one too. We staple to the posts a thirty six inch woven wire with three barbed wires on top. That's what holds the outside out and the inside in. Simple, as if the farm insists on order.

In an attempt to underline the irony of the outcome of one farmer's gamble, Hearst had written the following poem entitled "Success."

When I come home from work at close of day Blind with the sunset, faced with the evening chores, The hungry pigs, the unmilked cows, the hens Restless for my attention, with feed and hay To measure and lift, it seems the whole outdoors Would let its need for order rest on me. I hear the windmill's voice as I clean pens But never the meadowlark's, a warning sign. I've meant to heed some day but never do. Now I am old and stopped I've come to see That each year charges interest for its use.

That life's a mortgage no one can renew. I've found I traded even, farm for sweat To justify the boast I'm master yet.

How the devil do I know If there are rocks in your field, plow it and find out. If the plow strikes something harder than earth, the point shatters at a sudden blow and the tractor jerks sidewise and must be respected. No single issue between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. can be wholly isolated from all the others; there needs to be progress across the board, although not necessarily always at the same rate.

As the Senate delegation pointed out, it was the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan that led to the withdrawal of the SALT II Treaty from Senate consideration.

U.S.-Soviet differences over arms control, regional questions, human rights and many other issues remain acute. But it would be a mistake to dismiss out of hand the opportunity which Gorbachev may represent.

This is a period of probing and exploration, for discovering where some new flexibility may exist and how it might best be developed. Whether such probing will produce results will depend on the substantive positions which the Soviets ultimately take on specific issues. Unless the effort is made, however, we will never know.

Developments in the U.S. Soviet relationship in the next few months are likely to determine the framework within which the two nations will operate for years to come. It makes more sense for both sides to seek a positive and constructive path now than to risk a deterioration in relations which will be very difficult to reverse later.

Gorbachev opens door to probe specific issues

by Senator Paul Sarbanes of Maryland

Observers commenting on U.S. Soviet relations invariably see them at a critical point. Commonplace as that observation may be, I returned recently from a trip to the U.S.S.R., and a three and one-half hour meeting with Mikhail Gorbachev convinced that it is certainly true today.

The meeting, which took place between Gorbachev and the eight members of a bipartisan Senate delegation led by Senators Robert Byrd (D-WV) and Strom Thurmond (R-SC), provided a sharp contrast to the meeting just two years earlier with then-Soviet leader Yuri Andropov. Unlike his predecessors Chernenko, Andropov and even Brezhnev in his later years — Gorbachev is healthy and vigorous, and there is every expectation that he will be the Soviet leader for years to come. He is well-informed, confident and articulate, and draws heavily on his legal training in presenting his case. He appears to be a person of some ability.

This is not to contribute to the wave of publicity in the West giving the misimpression that the new Soviet leader is ten feet tall, or to suggest that we have turned a corner in our relations with the Soviets. The differences between our two nations remain profound and long-standing. It is to suggest, however, that now is the time for the U.S. to proceed carefully and with skill to see whether improvements in the relationship are possible. The Soviets have, in effect, a new administration, and we need to probe for opportunities to put U.S.-Soviet relations on a steadier track. It is not necessary to conclude, as British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said, that Gorbachev is a man with whom we can do business; instead we need to find out if that is the case.

It is especially important that each side listen closely to what the other has to say; Gorbachev made clear that he attaches enormous importance to the November summit. He considers it an important opportunity to engage in serious and business-like discussions, and asserted that he wished to see the U.S.-Soviet relationship shift to a more constructive path. He expressed deep concern about elements in this country who, in his view, want to undercut any chance for success at the summit.

GORBACHEV ALSO emphasized the importance of responsibility and reciprocity in the relationship between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. He stressed the seriousness of the issues between us, and particularly the heavy responsibility which falls on both sides where arms control questions are concerned. By reciprocity Gorbachev indicated that he means an equality of attitude and perception on the part of the United States in its dealings with the Soviet Union.

In making these general points about the conduct of U.S.-Soviet relations, Gorbachev returned again and again to the question of arms control and particularly the strategic defense initiative, which he sees as altering the nuclear equation governing U.S.-Soviet nuclear relations. The Soviet Union, he told us, is prepared to come forward with "radical" proposals on offensive nuclear weapons after the U.S. agrees to restrict SDI. Clearly this is not an acceptable negotiating position, as it would require the U.S. to agree to forego SDI as a condition to hearing the Soviet proposals on offensive weapons. To move to serious discussion and negotiations it is necessary for both sides to place on the table the full range of proposals on offensive and defensive nuclear weapons.

There was one subject that Gorbachev did not want to discuss — human rights — and his attitude here appeared to differ not at all from his predecessors'. We sought to impress on the new Soviet leader that American convictions about the dignity and worth of the individual, and the rule of law, run very deep

Bill introduced to promote trade

Much of the concern about this country's trade deficit has been focused on demands for protectionist actions. There are, however, other actions that we can take to promote trade. One thing is to take aim at unreasonable trade restrictions. I have introduced a bill to force the President to take action against quotas and other unfair trade barriers imposed against United States agricultural products.

My bill would require the President to impose trade restrictions on the importation of all products of those countries which unfairly restrict importation of agricultural products from the United States. The legislation would require the equivalent treatment of imports to the United States from those countries which unfairly restricts access to their own markets.

This bill is designed to send a message to our trading partners that the unreasonable level of artificial restrictions which they maintain on the importation of United States farm products will no longer be tolerated. In addition, it will serve as a reminder to the Administration, American trade representatives, and the leadership in the Congress of the importance of agricultural trade issues and of the need to continue our efforts to have these restrictions lifted.

Three other bills that I am cosponsoring are intended to promote American exports through improved productivity, better incentives to produce, and more long-range planning in tax and fiscal policy.

One is designed to protect patent owners from importation into the United States of goods made by overseas by use of a United States patented process. The bill would make it illegal to sell, use, or import without authority any goods produced by a patented process. It would place the burden of proof on the accused party. If the evidence of a patent or trademark violation is strong and the claimant has exhausted all means of discovery. In addition, it would increase penalties for patent violations and streamline the approval process for exclusion orders, which often take a year to obtain.

ANOTHER BILL would improve the transfer of technology from government laboratories to private industry. It would allow federal agency laboratories to enter into cooperative research and development arrangements with state and local governments, industrial organizations, and universities. Any royalties resulting from the arrangement would be divided among the inventor, the laboratory involved and the United States Treasury.

The purpose of the third bill is to help make the tax code more competitive. Q. I am thinking about having a will made, and I don't know what to do about a personal representative. I have two sons, and I want to know if there are any guidelines as to which son should be my personal representative, or could I have both of them handle this? Does the personal representative have to live in Nebraska?

A. One of the advantages of having a valid will is the opportunity it gives you to designate who should serve as personal representative ("p.r.") of your estate. In choosing a p.r., you should consider which of your sons would best be able to handle the details of closing your estate; whether one would have more time than the other to devote to the matter; whether one is more responsible or reliable than the other; whether serving as p.r. would involve more travel or other expenses for one than for the other; and your personal preference.

If you wish, you could appoint both sons as co-personal representatives. Or, you could designate one as p.r., with the other named as a "successor personal representative" in the event that the first son was unable to serve.

It is not necessary that either son live in Nebraska. The law requires that a personal representative be at least 19 years of age, and the court handling the probate of your estate must agree that the designated person is suitable to serve as p.r., but there is no residency requirement.

The duties of a personal representative include giving notice of his or her appointment to interested persons; preparing an inventory of property owned by the deceased person; taking possession and control of the property; paying taxes, claims and expenses; and distributing the property according to the will. Talk to your lawyer about what is required of the p.r. and how the settlement of an estate is handled. He or she can give you guidance in determining whether to appoint one of your sons, or both, as personal representative.

Home decorating to conserve energy

Can you turn down your thermostat and still think you feel warmer? It's possible.

Using interior design concepts, color and materials, you may be able to feel "psychologically" and "physiologically" comfortable.

Psychological comfort refers to how a person feels based on a response to such things as colors, texture and room furnishings. Physiological comfort can be measured by the body's response to thermal elements such as air temperature, humidity and air velocity.

Both physiological and psychological comfort can be influenced by the furnishings and room design.

DESIGN ELEMENTS that increase a feeling of warmth include wood paneling, warm colors, carpeted floor, fabric window treatments, plush fabrics, patterns and incandescent lighting.

Spare decorating creates a cooling effect. White walls, neutral or cool colors, a minimum of pattern or accessories, and bare floors are among those items creating this cooling effect.

Uncovered glass and non-upholstered furniture such as wood, metal or glass also provide a cooling effect.

SUGGESTIONS for achieving a feeling of warmth include use of warm colors, hooked, heavily tufted or fabric wall coverings and soft-textured fabrics. Wing-back chairs reduce drafts. Sofas and chairs with enclosed styling such as high backs and arms are suggested.

Plush or napped upholstery fabrics are warmer than leather or vinyl for sitting, as they trap air which acts as an insulator.

Slip covers and throws can be changed with the season. Smooth non-textured lighter weight fabrics in cotton and cotton blends provide cooling comfort in warm seasons. Metal and wood furniture also remain cool to the touch in the summer months.

Furnishings also may be used to insulate a room. Bookcases and storage units on outside walls add insulating properties.

CARPETING ALSO can be an effective insulator against heat loss in winter, or heat gain in the summer.

According to test results, the density of fibers and the thickness of the carpet and padding affect insulative value. The thicker the carpet padding and the more dense the fiber, the greater the insulating effect.

However, fiber content and yarn type have little effect on the insulation value.

On display at Care Centre

Quilt is project of cooperation

Several women from Wayne Care Centre, with the assistance of other Wayne residents, recently completed a full size quilt which they are planning to display at several upcoming events.

Peg Wheeler, social services director at the care centre, helped organize the project with the assistance of Wayne resident Esther Hansen.

Wheeler said the majority of the blocks were sewn by women from the care centre, most being in their 80's and 90's.

"Some of these people had not done this in years and years," said Wheeler, "and it renewed memories as well as provided them a time to socialize with one another."

"That was our main aim."

WHEELER SAID residents began sewing the blocks in June. Several women of the community began quilting on Sept. 26, and by last week the project was completed.

Care centre residents sewing blocks included Emma Wyckoff, Mable Sorensen, Grace Millie, Meta Ruser, Alvina Turran, Elsie McCaw, Edna Tietgen, Anna Meier, Rachel Bull and Emma Hicks.

Other blocks were sewn by Wheeler, Mary Doeschler and Esther Hansen.

Gathering at the care centre last week to begin quilting were Ella Luff, Lois Krueger, Sophie Reeg, Frances Koch, Esther Hansen, Frances Nichols, Doris Luff, Leona Hammer, Leona Magnuson, Emma Wyckoff, Edna Tietgen, Mable Sorensen, Grace Millie and Peg Wheeler.

WHEELER SAID residents are planning to display the quilt during the Jaycee Craft Fair in Wayne on Nov. 16.

The quilt also will be on display at the care centre, with tentative plans to take it to the Wayne County Fair in 1986.

Eve Schoeck opened the September meeting with prayer, followed with reports.

AN INVITATION was read to attend church at Trinity Lutheran Church, Winside, on Wednesday, Oct. 9 at 2 p.m.

The group also was invited to attend a program, entitled "Falling Apart or Coming Together," sponsored by Morningside Lutheran Churchwomen on Oct. 5.

Women who would like to assist with a quilt to be given to Bethpage are asked to contact Margaret Luff.

DOROTHY AURICH presented a program on stress, and hostesses were Joye Magnuson and Marcille Draghu.

St. Paul's Churchwomen will hold their guest day meeting on Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. Presenting the program will be the Good Life Singers from Morningside Lutheran Church.

Trojans now 2-2

Wakefield, Lund run past Allen for wild 52-30 victory

Allen at 5-9 and 155 pounds, Wakefield's Brad Lund might not appear very threatening. But Allen's Eagles found out that big things come in small packages sometimes as Lund guided the Trojans to a wild 52-30 homecoming victory over Allen here Friday night.

On the night, Lund scored four touchdowns and rushed for a whopping 166 yards on 16 carries, including an incredible 113 yards in the third quarter alone.

Dave Ulrich, Allen's head coach, summed up Lund's performance in three simple words.

"He was unstoppable," Ulrich said. And then the Eagle mentor elaborated. "Whenever they needed a big play, he came through. The biggest problem was our defense got sucked into their counter plays when he was running and instead of holding him to 10 yards, it seemed like he gained 40 or 50 on every carry."

Wakefield opened a seemingly comfortable 24-0 lead after Wade Nicholson scored from one yard out, Jason Erb and Nicholson hooked up for a 63-yard TD pass and Lund crossed the goal line from one yard.

However, the three Trojan touchdowns and three PATs weren't enough to make the fleshy Eagles quit as Allen rallied back to cut Wakefield's lead to eight at the half.

Jyoti Kwankin put Allen on the scoreboard when he galloped 60 yards to pay dirt and after Max Oswald hit Craig Noe with a two-point PAT, Oswald found Jeff Gotch open from 10 yards out to make the score 24-14. Oswald then tallied the Eagles' second PAT to make the count 24-16 at the half.

"We had a let down late in the third quarter and Allen did a good job of capitalizing. We can't afford to have those kind of let downs," Wakefield head coach Dennis Wilbur explained.

Although the Trojans fizzled late in the first half, Wilbur had the perfect remedy to add new life to Wakefield in the second half — Lund.

Lund scored on touchdown runs of two, seven and 49 yards in the third stanza and gained 113 yards in the frame to supply the Trojans with a commanding 42-16 lead. Nicholson and Erb combined for a PAT to supply the Trojans with a 44-16 lead, a lead Wakefield never again relinquished.

Oswald had the game's biggest play when he scored from 65 yards and followed with a PAT to slice the Trojan lead to 44-24. But Craig Anderson iced the Wakefield victory with a TD from 11 yards and Todd Kratke added a PAT to give the Trojans a 52-24 lead.

Oswald and Tyler Harder capped the game's scoring with an eight yard TD in the final stanza.

Ulrich said that his club didn't take advantage of several opportunities they had during the game, and added that they were hurt on Wakefield's counter plays throughout the contest.

"We had three other chances to score and didn't. Also, we got faked out too easily when Lund carried on counter plays. But I guess if both teams would've scored when they were supposed to it would've been 70-70. And I'm not taking anything away from Lund, he's a very good player and did an outstanding job against us," he said.

Lund's outstanding effort overshadowed an impressive performance by Kwankin who finished with 130 yards on 19 carries. Oswald also had a big night for the Eagles rushing for 88 yards on 15 totes and completing 10 of 21 aeriels for 54 yards.

John Halverson gained 77 yards on 19 carries for Wakefield, while Nicholson completed 4-of-10 passes for 77 yards. All of Nicholson's passes were caught by Erb.

Brian Malcom was Allen's defensive leader finishing with 13 tackles, while Joe and Jim Kroll both totaled nine. Also, Dave Isom recovered a fumble for the Eagles.

Nicholson had a tremendous night for Wakefield on defense totaling 10 tackles, intercepting a pass and recovering two fumbles.

"Wade was all over the place. He had a big game on both sides of the ball," Wilbur said.

John Wriedt added nine tackles for the Trojans.

Although Wakefield won by 22 points, the game was much closer on paper as Wakefield finished with 367 total yards and Allen closed with 302. Wakefield rushed for 285 yards on 56 carries and Allen finished with 248 rushing yards on 45 totes.

Ulrich said that although his squad lost, he was pleased with their efforts.

"It would've been easy for us to quit when we were down by 24 in the first quarter, but we hung tough and played pretty darn good in the last three quarters," he said.

Allen is still winless in five outings.

Wakefield is now 2-2 on the season. Wilbur said Friday's victory was very important.

"It was a big win for us because we needed to get back on track. And now we got a shot at getting back in the conference hunt," he said.

Allen travels to Bancroft Friday night, while Wakefield plays at Beemer.

Although Friday's game was Wakefield's homecoming, it was played at Allen because of construction taking place at Wakefield's football field. All of the Trojans' games this year are on the road.

Fumbles cost Blue Devils 26-6 loss to Aquinas

Wayne-Carroll's football team gave David City Aquinas several early Christmas presents Friday night, and the gifts came in the form of turnovers that cost the Blue Devils a 26-6 loss at Memorial Field.

"We fumbled the ball over too many times in the first quarter and dug a hole too deep to get out of," Blue Devil head coach Lonnie Erhardt said.

Wayne received the opening kickoff and after two plays up the middle, Wayne lost the ball on an option play and David City recovered on the Blue Devil 21 yard line.

The Monarchs then capitalized on the Wayne blunder when Mark Kirby scored on a dive play at the 9:28 mark.

Wayne received the ensuing kickoff and after two successful running plays around the right end, the Blue Devils coughed up their second fumble in six plays.

David City recovered on the Wayne 40 yard line and scored its second TD when Marty Kobza crossed the goal line from two yards at the 6:48 mark.

The Monarchs built a 20-0 lead after holding the Blue Devils on downs and received the ball on the Wayne 40 yard line.

After two Monarch running plays failed to net any yards, Kevin Hilger found an open Kirby and hit him with a 37-yard scoring strike.

The Blue Devils knocked on David City Aquinas' door when Tim Thomas recovered a fumble on a punt at the Monarch eight yard line. But the Blue Devils couldn't punch it in on four running plays and David City Aquinas claimed possession.

After the disastrous first quarter,

Wayne settled down and although the Blue Devils didn't generate much offense, they played a solid defensive game over the remaining three periods.

"You can't fault the kids for the entire game. They played a pretty solid game over the last three periods, but the first quarter just killed us," Erhardt said.

Wayne's Jon Stollenberg, who started at quarterback for the first time this year, scored the Blue Devils' only touchdown with 38 seconds remaining in the contest from five yards out.

But when it rains, it pours, and David City Aquinas added a freak touchdown in the game's final seconds.

Faced with a second and 25 situation, a Monarch ball carrier fumbled but teammate Charlie Medinger was trailing the play and the 145-pound sophomore gathered in the loose ball and rambled 65 yards for the game's final score.

Stollenberg was Wayne's leading rusher gaining 38 yards on five carries. Tom Perry picked up 34 yards on nine totes, while Gross picked up 32 yards on nine tries and Ted Luaders finished with 23 yards on five carries.

Luaders finished 9-for-26 in passing with 91 yards. The 160-pound junior's favorite receiver was Brent Pick who caught three aeriels for 54 yards. Gross hauled in two passes for 25 yards.

Hausmann and Steve Cowgill led the Blue Devils in defense with 12 tackles apiece. Jon McCright and David City Aquinas claimed possession.

Osmond holds off Bears

Laurel drops overtime decision

OSMOND: "The kids feel like they're winning, but they're not coming out on top on the scoreboard. They're concerned that people will look at their record and think of them as a losing team, but I feel like they're winning," a somber Gale Hamilton said after his Laurel-Concord Bears dropped a frustrating 22-21 overtime decision to Osmond here Friday night.

With the game tied at 15 at the end of regulation, the contest advanced into overtime. During high school overtimes, both teams receive the ball on the 10 yard line and have four downs to try to score.

Osmond succeeded by crossing the goal line and adding a very important two-point PAT.

The Osmond score put pressure on Laurel's players, but the Bears responded perfectly and Brent Haisch scored from three yards out. However, Laurel's PAT sweep fell short and Osmond was awarded the thrilling triumph.

"I honestly couldn't tell from where I was standing, but the kids thought we got the PAT. But it doesn't matter because it's the referee's decision that counts," Hamilton said.

Although the missed PAT cost the Bears the game, Laurel might have lost the contest late during regulation play.

Haisch scored from one yard out and Scott Marquardt added a two-point PAT to tie the contest at 15 with 3:30 remaining in the game.

Laurel followed by kicking off and Osmond fumbled on the 40 yard line. The Bears recovered and started moving for a winning TD.

Laurel advanced to the one foot line but a dive play fell inches short. With six seconds showing on the game clock, the Bears tried another plunge, but again the TD bid fell short and the contest was forced to overtime.

Laurel took a 7-0 lead when Jeff Curry crossed the goal line from 24 yards out. Haisch followed with a PAT boot.

But Osmond answered with a touchdown in the second and third quarters. The Tigers added a one point and two point PAT, respectively.

Laurel tied the game in the final stanza but came up short in the overtime session.

The Bears gained an impressive 305 rushing yards on the night and added 10 passing yards, completing 2 of 10 aeriels.

Haisch led Laurel in rushing picking up 173 yards. Curry followed with 79, while Marquardt gained 39 and Randy Prescott totaled 14.

Brad Prescott had a big night for the Laurel defense finishing with 17 tackles and one fumble recovery.

"Brad was all over the place on defense. Actually, we had several kids that had a big game on defense," Hamilton said.

Other defensive leaders for the Bears were Randy Sherry with 16 tackles, Haisch with 12 hits and Curry with the big fumble recovery in the fourth quarter.

The Bears are a misleading 1-4 on the season, with every loss being close.

"We've had a real frustrating season so far. We've been in every game we've played, but only have one win to show for it. But we can't dwell on our record, we just have to snap out of it and continue to play hard and if we do, something might fall our way," Hamilton said.

Laurel's next game is Friday when Howells travels to town. Howells is ranked No. 3 in Class C-2.

Winside can't stop Wausa's option game, lose 54-8

WAUSA: Wausa's impressive running game allowed the Vikings a dominating 54-8 victory over Winside here Friday night.

Although the hosts claimed the 46 point triumph, Winside gave the Vikings all they wanted in the game's first minute.

Wausa took an 8-0 lead in the first stanza, but according to Winside assistant coach Bill Dalton, the Wildcats consistently moved the ball against the Wausa defense in the opening stanza.

"We started out pretty even. We moved the ball real well in the first quarter against them and got inside the 10 yard line, but then we fumbled the ball away on a broken play," he said.

But the turnover didn't phase the Wildcats as Winside's Mike Thies scored from three yards out to make the score 8-0 early in the second quarter. Thies then followed his TD with a two-point PAT to even the score at eight.

But Thies' PAT was the Wildcats' last, hooray as Wausa scored 24 markers in the second quarter to open a commanding 32-8 halftime lead.

"We were doing pretty well, but after Thies scored his touchdown the game got away from us," Dalton said. "They (the Vikings) have an outstanding running game. They just killed us on the outside with their option," the assistant Wildcat mentor added.

Wausa didn't let up after the first half as the Vikings led 40-8 heading into the final period and stacked on an additional 14 points in the game's final stanza.

Thies gained 53 yards on 20 carries, while teammate Doug Wylie added 58 yards on 17 totes. The Wildcats totaled 133 rushing yards on 45 tries.

Wausa finished with 289 rushing yards on 12 passing yards for a total of 301.

The Wildcats gained 147 total yards, adding 14 yards to their 133 rushing total.

Both teams threw an interception, but Winside lost three fumbles and Wausa lost just one loose ball. Randy Leapy was the Wildcats' defensive leader totaling eight unassisted tackles. Daryl Mundell added six tackles for Winside, including four solos. Teammate Doug Paulsen recovered Wausa's only fumble on the night.

The loss dropped Winside to 1-4 on the year. The Wildcats will go after their second win Friday night when Newcastle travels to town.

Wildcat blockers

WAYNE STATE'S Deb Prenger and Missy Stoltenberg (No. 10) block a spike during volleyball action against Nebraska Wesleyan and Peru State Wednesday night. The Wildcats dropped a 15-9, 10-15, 13-15 decision to Wesleyan and lost to Peru

State 9-15, 15-11, 10-15. Wayne State competed in CSIC Tournament over the weekend. Check Thursday's Wayne Herald for the tourney's results.

Trojan win streak snapped at eight by Wynot

WYNOT-Although Wakefield entered Thursday's match just days after being ranked No. 3 in Class C I, don't think the Trojans' overconfidence cost them their first loss of the season. Because according to head coach Paul Eaton, a lack of confidence was the Trojans' biggest problem against the Blue Devils.

"The girls were proud to be ranked so high, but that didn't affect their play. As a matter of fact, I think our biggest problem was the girls didn't believe in themselves in the second and third sets," Eaton said after his club dropped a 15-9, 8-15, 9-15 decision to Wynot here Thursday night.

After playing a well balanced set in the opener, Wakefield opened a quick 2-0 lead in the second stanza. But Eaton said the rest of the night the Trojans played scared.

"We got that lead in the second set, and then Wynot scored a couple of quick points and we acted like we didn't believe in ourselves. We played without any confidence," he said.

Wynot's victory supplied the Blue Devils momentum in the third set and allowed the hosts to build a commanding 11-3 lead.

Wakefield battled back, however, and cut the deficit to four when the score was 13-9. But Wynot tallied the game's last two markers and pulled off the upset.

Eaton added that Wynot's Joselyn Wieseler was unstoppable.

"Wieseler is quite a setter and she set her teammates up with beautiful assists and we couldn't stop their spiking," he said.

The Wynot match was Wakefield's first game since Sept. 24 when the Trojans defeated Hartington to run their record to an impressive 8-0. But Eaton said the long break didn't have a negative affect on his club.

"It will be easy to say the long break hurt us, but we played too well in the first set to use that as an excuse. We just lost confidence in the middle set and cost us," he said.

Sleph Torczon and Julie Oswald were the Trojans' leading setters going 25-for-26 and 21-for-22, respectively. Both players also had six assists.

Suzanne Stelling led Wakefield in spiking going 7 for 8 with three aces. Kristal Clay led the visitors in spiking with a 14-for-15 effort, while Oswald finished 11-for-13 and Kristi Miller went 9-for-11. Clay totaled a team high 10 points, while Oswald tallied eight and Miller scored six.

Wakefield won the "B" match 15-8, 3-15, 15-8, but dropped the "C" bout 11-5, 8-11, 10-12.

Mollie Greve led Wakefield in scoring in the "B" contest with 14 points, while Michelle Ote sparked the Trojans' "C" team with 16 markers.

Wakefield will attempt to get back to its winning ways Tuesday night when the Trojans host Osmond.

Wakefield ranked No. 3

Wakefield's volleyball team was ranked third in Class C I by the Omaha World Herald.

The Trojans were undefeated after eight contests when the ratings came out in the Herald's Wednesday edition. Thursday night, Wakefield dropped its first match of the season losing to Wynot 15-9, 8-15, 9-15.

Wynot Pilger was 6-0 and ranked first, while Battle Creek, also 6-0, was ranked second.

Third time isn't charm for Allen, lose to Walthill

WALTHILL-Although Allen had beaten Walthill two previous times in the season, Eagle head coach Gary Troth expected a tough match. And a tough match is exactly what Allen got as Walthill pulled off a 15-13, 9-15, 15-12 victory.

"It's hard to beat a team three times and I knew Walthill was better than how they've been playing," Troth said.

All three sets were close and the Eagles had several opportunities to win the rubber frame.

After coming back from the first set loss and winning the second stanza by six points, Allen opened a 3-0 lead in the last set.

But Walthill came storming back and the lead seasawed back and forth before the Eagles pulled ahead by two, 11-9. However, the two point cushion quickly dwindled as Walthill outscored the visitors 6-1 down the stretch for the three point win.

Troth said that although his girls lost, he was still pleased with their efforts.

"We played hard and knew we'd have to because Walthill is a pretty good team. We just didn't come out on top," he said.

Denise Magnuson had a fine game for the Eagles. The 5-7 senior finished 16-for-17 in setting, 13-for-13 with five ace serves and 10 for 12 in spiking, including two kills.

The Eagles had a balanced spiking attack as Diane Magnuson closed with a 10-for-12 performance, including five aces. Kristi Chase went 9-for-11 with two aces and Kristin Hansen was a perfect 11-for-11 with five kills.

LeAnn McDonald led Allen in setting going 20-for-20, while Nikki Olesen was 10-for-11 in serving with one ace.

the Wildcats' second set win.

"She got elbowed in the leg in the first set and we iced it to keep the swelling down. And in the second set she was one of our leading servers and had a powerful spike that got the rest of the team rolling," she said.

The second stanza was all Winside as the Wildcats built an early lead and cruised to the 13 point triumph.

Topp finished with seven good serves on the night, but the serving leader was Teresa Brudigan who closed with nine.

Kerri Leighton led the Wildcats in setting going 17-for-19, while Brudigan closed with a 5-for-6 spiking performance with three aces and Kristi Thies went 4-for-4 with three kills.

Winside dropped a 3-15, 15-9, 10-15 decision in the "B" match and lost 1-11, 5-11 in the "C" match.

Kristi Sarven led the Wildcats' junior varsity with 10 points and five ace serves, while Kathy Leighton sparked the Winside frosh with a team high three markers.

Winside is now 4-3 on the year. The Wildcats will attempt to run its win streak to five when they host Wynot Tuesday night.

Wayne experiences highs and lows at South Sioux City

SOUTH SIOUX CITY-Wayne Carroll's cross-country team experienced some highs and lows at the South Sioux City Invitational here Friday afternoon.

According to Wayne head coach Doug Donnellson, certain Blue Devils turned in impressive performances, while certain others experienced an off day.

"We had some kids break out of slumps, and others slip into slumps," he said.

Matt Hillier led the Blue Devils with a 16:58 clocking and a 17th place finish over the 2.6 mile course.

Tim Griess followed by placing 28th with a 17:32 time, while Jeff Simpson closed with a 17:35 and placed 30th and Ted Lohrberg came in 31st with a 17:38 effort. John Howze came in 34th crossing the finish line in 17:47.

"Tim had been in a little slump, but he broke out of it today," Donnellson said. "And Jeff just had a bad day. He's a better runner than that and he'll bounce back next week."

Official team placings were not available because of a rain storm that immediately followed the meet.

"There weren't any team records because the ink officials used to record where the teams placed just streaked away when the rains came pouring down," Donnellson said.

Wayne's next meet is Friday at the Bloomfield Invitational.

Chapman discusses Western

By Todd Hillier
WSC Sport Information

Despite losing three of their first four games, not everything is bad for the Wayne State Wildcats, head coach Pete Chapman said.

These kids are still working hard in practice. A lot of them don't understand what the problem is yet, they still work just as hard," Chapman said.

Chapman hopes that persistence pays off as the Wildcats take on the Missouri Western Griffons in Saturday's Hall of Fame Game.

The Griffons, 1-3 on the season, lost their CSIC opener last week to Ft. Hays, 17-7. Western's offense twice turned the ball over inside the 10-yard line during the loss.

Earlier in the season, Western defeated Missouri Rolla 24-15, but lost to Northeast Missouri State, 31-30 and Northwest Missouri State, 24-18.

"They've played some good competition," Chapman said.

"Northwest is really good. There's a big rivalry between those two schools."

Offensively, the Griffons are averaging 83.5 yards rushing and 284 through the air, but have had trouble scoring.

Jeff Heland, a 6-0, 197-pound senior running back and Eric Hoskins, a 6-0, 164-pound sophomore wide receiver, lead Western's offensive attack, Chapman said. They're a threat to score any time they touch the ball."

Defensively, the Griffons are led by strong side linebacker Andy Felton who has 48 tackles. Safety Chris Ball and defensive back Jewell Stephenson have accounted for 38 and 36 tackles, respectively. Stephenson also has two interceptions to his credit.

In addition to speed, the Griffons are also blessed with experience, ac-

LINCOLN-Nebraska's duck hunters get their first taste of action within the next couple of weeks, and though this year they will have a shorter season and higher duck point values to contend with, they are still looking forward to exciting hunting.

The low plains early season opens one-half hour before sunrise Saturday morning, Oct. 12, and will continue through Nov. 30. Hunters in the late season and high plains area have to wait until the next Saturday to start hunting ducks. The season in the low plains late zone will be open that first weekend, Oct. 19-20, then close until Oct. 29 when it reopens until Dec. 15. The High Plains area also has a split season this year, Oct. 19 through Dec. 7, and Dec. 22 through Jan. 5.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's fall flight forecast indicated the best breeding population for all ducks was down about 31 million birds, a reduction of about 19 percent from 1984. The 1985 breeding population of mallards was estimated at about 5.5 million birds and the breeding population of pintails was estimated at about 2.9 million; the lowest on record for both species.

The decline in duck numbers was shown in this year's shorter seasons and in increased point values for various duck species. The daily bag limit will be 100 plus points. The limit will be reached when the point value of the last bird taken, when added to the sum of the point values of other birds already taken during the day, equals or exceeds 100 points. The possession limit is the maximum number of birds which could have legally been taken in two days.

This year the hen mallard will be a 100 point duck, rather than 70 points as it was in 1984. The mallard drake point value was raised to 35 points, which will give hunters the opportunity to take three per day. The pintail point value will be 35 points this year rather than last year's 10 points.

All of the ducks that were listed as 10 points last year were raised to 20 points for the 1985 season.

Point values for species and sexes of ducks for the 1985 season are: 100 Points - Canvasback, Hen Mallard; 70 Points - Wood Ducks, Hooded Merganser, Redhead, 35 Points - Drake Mallard, Pintails, Ruddy, Ringneck, Bufflehead, Goldeneye and all other species and sexes of ducks not mentioned; 20 Points - Blue-winged Teal, Cinnamon Teal, Gadwall, Scaup, Shovelers, Mergansers (others than hooded), Green-winged Teal, wigeon.

Remember that steel shot is required for all waterfowl hunting throughout the state beginning with the 1985 seasons.

More on the Griffons
ST. JOSEPH, MO.-Missouri Western, Wayne State's opponents on Saturday, owes a 1-3 record after defeating Missouri Rolla 24-15 and losing to Northeast Missouri State 31-30, Northwest Missouri State 24-18 and Fort Hays State 17-7. The Fort Hays game was the only one played on the road.

The 1984 Griffons closed the season with an overall record of 4-6-1 and tied for fourth in the CSIC with a 3-3-0 mark. Western returns nine offensive starters and five defensive starters among 34 lettermen. The Griffons use a multiple offensive set and a 4-3 defensive alignment.

Jones sixth in NAIA
Sonny Jones of Wayne State is sixth in the NAIA Division I kick returns averaging 26.6 yards per return. Jones' 347 return yardage is second in the division.

Wildcat marks top NAIA
Wayne State's 58 attempted passes and Chadron's six interceptions in the Sept. 14 game are both single game bests in the NAIA this year. Ed Jochum's 48 pass attempts in the contest is also tops in the association this year.

Winside runs streak to four in Coleridge victory

COLERIDGE-To say the Winside volleyball program has experienced more "downs" than "ups" is an understatement. But so far in 1985, that's all changed.

The Wildcats' 15-11, 15-2 victory over Coleridge allowed Winside to top the 500 mark for the first time in nearly a decade.

"I don't know for sure, but I think this is the first time we've had a winning record in eight years," Wildcat head coach Jill Stenwall said. "And the girls are naturally pretty excited," she added.

Winside has a right to be excited. In addition to owning a winning record, the Wildcats have a four game winning streak and have played, perhaps, the best volleyball in the area over the last two weeks.

The Wildcats started slow, however. In Thursday night's match and trailed 9-0 and 10-2 early in the opening frame. But Winside improved its serve receive and came storming back to post the four point victory.

"We just started receiving the ball better and capitalized on their mistakes," Stenwall said about the Wildcats' quick turn around.

One of Winside's leading hitters, Tracy Topp, injured her leg in the first set, but Stenwall said the 5-8 junior came back and was a key the Wildcats' second set win.

"She got elbowed in the leg in the first set and we iced it to keep the swelling down. And in the second set she was one of our leading servers and had a powerful spike that got the rest of the team rolling," she said.

The second stanza was all Winside as the Wildcats built an early lead and cruised to the 13 point triumph.

Topp finished with seven good serves on the night, but the serving leader was Teresa Brudigan who closed with nine.

Kerri Leighton led the Wildcats in setting going 17-for-19, while Brudigan closed with a 5-for-6 spiking performance with three aces and Kristi Thies went 4-for-4 with three kills.

Winside dropped a 3-15, 15-9, 10-15 decision in the "B" match and lost 1-11, 5-11 in the "C" match.

Kristi Sarven led the Wildcats' junior varsity with 10 points and five ace serves, while Kathy Leighton sparked the Winside frosh with a team high three markers.

Winside is now 4-3 on the year. The Wildcats will attempt to run its win streak to five when they host Wynot Tuesday night.

Gross also reached double figures in tackles with 11 and 10, respectively.

Perry recovered two fumbles for Wayne, while Gross and Thomas also picked up loose balls. Hausmann added the interception.

Despite the loss, Erhardt was pleased with various aspects of his squad's play.

"Our passing game improved drastically and we didn't have too bad of a game as far as penalties go (four penalties for 35 yards). We just lost it in the first 10 minutes," he said.

The loss dropped Wayne to 0-5 on the year. The Blue Devils play again Friday at Albion.

ording to Chapman. "They have a lot of kids coming back."

Like Chapman, Missouri Western head coach Rob Hicklin isn't satisfied with his team's play. "We're not very happy at this time," Hicklin said. "We've done well offensively, but we've just been unable to put points on the board."

Hicklin agrees with Chapman that Western's opponents so far have been above average. "But both teams are better than their record indicate," he said.

The series record between the Wildcats and the Griffons is tied at 4-4. Wayne State won the first two meetings in 1977 and '78, but then Western won the next four. In 1983, Wayne's only victory was over Western, 13-9. Last year, the Wildcats evened the series at 4-4 with a 31-22 victory.

In last year's game, Wayne State jumped out to a 21-7 lead in the first half behind three Ed Jochum touchdown passes — to Matt Hoffmann and two to Sonny Jones. Western came back to trail 21-14 in the third quarter, but Herve Rausser added a 37-yard field goal and Mike Schmiedt scored on a 10-yard run to up Wayne's lead to 31-14. Jochum was 19-of-46 for a school record 529 yards against Western last year, 195 of those yards was to Jones. Lamont Lewis and Tony Shaw both had 14 tackles last year against the Griffons.

While Western fell to 1-3 against Ft.

Hays last Saturday, Wayne State's 35-7 loss to Kearney State also dropped them to 1-3. Both teams are 0-1 in the CSIC.

Wayne State's offense couldn't get untracked in the Kearney game as the Wildcats only had 35 yards passing on five completions in 32 attempts. Five interceptions and three fumbles led to four Kearney scores. But while the offense was not sharp, Chapman was happy with the defensive effort against the Antelopes.

"I thought the defense played well, especially against the run. I thought we did a very good job."

CONTEST RULES

One football game has been placed in each of the ads on this page. Indicate the winner by writing in the name of the winning team on the proper line on the entry blank. No scores. Just pick the winners; or ties. In case of tie, write "tie." Use the entry blank below or a copy of equal size.
 Write in your guess of the total number of yards gained by both teams in the game of the week. This will only be used in case of a tie. The person that comes closest to the total number of yards without going over will be the winner.
 One entry only to each contestant, but members of a family may each submit an entry. Entries should be brought or mailed to The Wayne Herald office not later than 5 p.m. Thursday, or if mailed, should not be postmarked later than 5 p.m. Thursday.
