Smokeout Day set for Thursday

Join the Great American. Smokeout Take a day off from smoking on Thursday, Nov. 21.

That's the message which Roger Metson, owner of the Rusty Nail and chairman of the Wayne Business Activities for National Smokeout Day, wants to spread across the nation. Nelson, who gave up smoking cigarettes almost 10 years ago, will start at the local level with several scheduled activities which will increase the awareness of smoking hazards—with the major emphasis on getting smokers to go beyond the Great American Smokeout date and accomplish the ultimate, to stop smoking altogether.

American Smokeout On Nov. 20 and 21 a display will be established at the WSC student cafeteria. "There will be a lot of fun things happening", Nelson said. Available will be litems such as Irononsbadges, buttons, stickers, headless matches and special adoption, certificates that will allow an individual to "adopt a smoker" for a 'day,—helping the smoker to a path of smokelessness. #### Broken Main

A WATER main broke Wednesday evening, just south of Carhart Lumber, leaving some businesses without water till it was repaired Thursday morning. The Lumber Company was one business that didn't have water. But the restraurant managed to continue with "Business as usual" as water was obtained from other sources for washing the dishes.

Rec facility design plans approved

Design Development plans for the Rice-Carlson expansion project were approved last Tuesday morning — with a few changes from the Augustapproved schematic design — by the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska

Board of Trustees of the Nebraska' State Colleges.

"The major changes would be additional remodeling in the Carlson Building locker rooms and an addition of an elevator," said WSC dean of finance John Struve. The elevator, he said, will make it easier for handicapped individuals to enter both levels of the expanded recreational facility.

Flag returned to Woehlers Just when Robert and Mary Woehler of Wayne were about to lose faith in the American citizens — something happened which changed their minds.

The Wayne Herald reported on its front page in Thursday's edition about how an American flag was stolen from the Weehler property on the evening of Veteran's Day. They had placed advertising in other publications requesting that the flag concerning grain embargo compen-sation.

Concerned Citizens of Nebraska, which is led by Paul Rosberg, a can-didate for Nebraska governor, says the ASCS has a claim form available to-help farmers gain government reimbursement due them because of the 1980 Russian grain embargo ex-ecuted during, the presidential term of Jimmy Carter.
In an advertisement in the Satur-day, Nov. 9 edition of. the Midwest Messenger, published in Tekamah, it says that the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture is "deliberately attempting to withold the facts from the farmers.

the farmers.

THE AD SAID producers qualify for 30 cents per bushel on grain and 75 cents per bushel on soybeans that were raised during 1980 to 1984. The lawentifies farmers to compensation because the embarge caused a deckine in U.S. grain imports and also resulted in farm financial losses, Rosberg mentioned in a recent news article published in the Omaha World-Herald.

Informational meetings on the government reimbursement have been set up across Nebraska — the closest in this area being in Norfolk on Nov. 22 at the Kings Ballroom at 1 a.m.

Ray Butts, executive director of the Wayne County ASCS office, and other ASCS officials have said the claim form, which the advertIsement said must be made out by Dec. 3 of this year, has no relationship to embargo claims. "It was a completely different form, used for other purposes," Butts said.

Over the past few days, inquiries about the reimbursement have beencoming into the Wayne ASCS office at ed, with no questions asked, said.

On-Wednesday, after the Wayne Herald had been delivered to city, residents, the Woehlers returned to their home later in the evening and found a box on the doorstep.

Inside the box was the stoten flag.

Harvest slows down as wet weather hits

Snowfall and sleet which began to fall Friday morning has put a tem-orary halt to the area farmers' efforts to harvest what appears to be ecord-breaking yields in this area.

Corn harvesting in the state of Nebraska is already behind schedule, according to the most recent figures released by the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Lincoln. The harvesting update, through the week of Nov. 12, reveals that only go percent of the corn harvest is completed across the state of Nebraska. That percentage is lagging behind the figure of 82 percent completion registered at this time last year, and still below the five year of 79 percent.

CORN YIELDS across the state have been bin busters. The service reports the following:

•Corn production in Nebraska, on Nov. 1, is forecast at a record 913.5 million bushels, 14 percent above last year's crop. Yield is estimated at a record 126 bushels per acre, 11 bushels above the previous record set in 1984, 1981 and 1979.

elrrigated corn production is estimated at a record of 679 million bushels, with yield forecasted at 140 bushels per acre — seven bushels above the previous record set last year.

• Dryland corn production is indicated at 234.5 million-bushels, 35 percent above last year. Estimated yield is estimated at 97.7 bushels, 10.1 bushels above the previous record set in 1979.

SOYBEAN harvesting is approximately 95 percent completed throughout Nebraska, compared to 90 percent last year and equal to the five year average. Southeastern counties in Nebraska are slightly behind, according to the crop reporting service.

Production of the soybeans, at record 85 million bushels, is up 28 percent over last year and eight percent higher than the previous record set in 1982.

n 1982. The yield per acre was 36, compared to 26 in 1984 and the record of 38 ushels set in 1981.

No matter how hard you try to conceal a stomach growl, it happens and they will, always know it is you because you have the redest face among the people that surround you. Those magical diet pills do not appeal to me. I wouldn't consider those you order through mail. Think of all the calories you are consuming when you lick the sweetened glue on the back of the stamp — unless you get a stamp with a sugar substitute.

My feethig on this is that the only pills it feel safe taking are aspirins — not the kind of diet pills that could cause me headaches to start with.

Cities in trouble?

In an article reprinted from the Nebraska Municipal Review of Oct. 1985, written by Executive Director of the National League of Cities Alan Beals, there is enough grounds to show reasonable concern as to what problems urban areas will be facing in the future.

will be facing in the future.

Tri-County Council of Governments (TRI-COG) published the article in their newsletter. It menfions that the Senate budget resolution calls for the elimination of more than a dozen national urban programs either this year or next year (fiscal year 1986-87). TRI-COG officials commented that the proposed cuts were brought up a couple of months ago and may have changed. But if does give TRI-COG urban members an indication as to how some of their funding programs are in jeopardy. grams are in jeopardy.

Whole or part programs proposed for cuts include: elimination of the general revenue sharing program for fiscal 1986-87; urban development action grants, down 20 percent in fiscal 1985-86 and eliminated next year; elimination of the community services block grants for 1986-87; Small Būsiness Administration, cut 50 percent; and highway funding, cut 1.7 billion dollars over the next three years. And in medicare and medicaid, there is a proposal to cut $17.5 billion over the next three years. It looks like the shortage of urban programs at the national level, and what will come out of the state legislature as far as cuts this year and next year, could gang up on the cities. And soon there will be both an urban crisis to join up with the rural crisis, if this hasn't already happened.

Limits on suit collections

Insurance vs liabilities

Nearly forgotten in the special session clashes over how much to cut the state-budget and whether. To raise cigarette and income taxes was a major bill that would put a limit on how much a city or county or public power district could be sued in case of an accident.

Sen. Ray Lundy of Kearney, a former city manager, said some communities in the state were finding it impossible to get bids on their insurance needs because Nebraskasels. no. limit on the legal tiability of local governmental units when they are successfully sued.

Other communities have been wrestling with big insurance premium increases. For instance, Lundy said Seward faced a 413 percent increase, Tecumseh was quoted a 196 percent increase and Norfolk had to deal with an 833 percent hike in premiums.

in premiums.

In its final reading form, LB 14 would allow a person who successfully sued a local subdivision of government to collect no more than $1 million. If the incident that prompted ment to collect no more than $1 million. If the incident that prompted the suit involved more than one person, no more than $5 million could be recovered from the local government for all the awards granted.

for all the awards granted.

That means, for example, that if one child were seriously injured or killed in a school bus accident for which the district was liable, a court could order the school district to pay up to $1 million to the parents of that child. But if $0 children were seriously injured or killed, the $0 sets of parents could collect no more than $5 million altogether or $100,000 pach. if the awards were equally divided.

SEN. JOHN DeCamp of Neligh pro-posed to protect the insurers of local governments even more by setting a

DeCamp tries to stop tax hike

by Senator John DeCamp
By the Itime you read this, I vyill have either won, lost, created a stalemate or still be in the final throes of the special session battle.
The final battle will be whether there is an income fax increase retroactive for all of 1985.
Thus far, I feel satisfied that about 90, percent of. the goals I set out for myself-have been accomplished.
For example, there is locked in place and ready for the final vote some $17 million of government cuts and spending both this year and next year for a total of more than $34 million in spending cuts. Three months ago when I first proposed this, it sounded impossible to most people.
Today. It is almost a reality.
And the five new tax increases and new taxes that the Governor was proposing for the special session have in almost every case been able to be beaten or stopped.
And up until Wednesday, lace and ready for the final vote on the ST million of government cuts and spending both this year and next ear for a total of more than $34 million in spending cuts. Three mons ago when I first proposed this, it ounded impossible to most people.

And the five new tax increases and every taxes that the Governor was provising for the special session have into the special session have in the special session have in the support of the Governor, but I am going to make a final determined better to stop them through technical maneuvers.

Why did the Governor make this switch and become an advocate of a major tax increase? Only God knows for sure, and I can only speculate. My speculation is that pressure from the University of Nebraska which is primarily based in Lincoln and his Chief of Staff, Don Nelson, who works

November 6, 1985, I felf the battle to stop; any income tax increases was also won.

THEN DISASTER hit. The Government of the control of the THEN DISASTER hit. The Governor, in, another incredible flip flop, jumped on board the tax increasers, ordered the Legislature to take up his proposal for increasing taxes, and organized almost all of the Democrats in the Legislature to try to shove through an income tax increase.

this one of those cases where they for the University in ainice high paid position and other reasons known only to God and the Governor, motivated the Governor to make this final flip flop on his position. It is interesting that as shortly as one hour before he made the switch, the Governor was absolutely saying that he would not.

that he would not:

However, that is a scene we are all very familiar with now: It has simply been repealed one more time.

MY METHOD TO attempt to stop the income-tax-increase-will be as-follows and there is about a 20 to 40 percent chance it can succeed:

• I will attempt to force the budget bills cutting the budget to be passed before the income tax bill is passed and then attempt to get the tegislature to adjourn before they give the final vote on the income tax increase. Obvlously, the Governor and others will be trying to stop me from getting this accomplished. And those who want the additional money to spend, will be doing the same.

If this fails I will try to prevent the income tax increase from getting enough votes to put the emergency clause on so it can go into effect. I personally believe the emergency clause is required because if the emergency clause is not on the bill, then the bill does not go into effect for 100-days-after-we-adjourn-sine-die-from this session. That would mean, the 1985 income tax increase would rom this session. That would mean, the 1985 income tax increase would not go into effect until sometime in February. of 1986 and L. question whether this is legally allowed. At the minimum, it would put the matter into the courts.

The best chance to stop the thing is to prevent—it from getting 33 votes because I suspect they will not allow me to succeed in getting the Legislature adjourned before they pass the income tax increase. It should all be happening about the time you read this article.

DES SLAMON concentrates on the ball before firing a serve in the second set. Salmon scored Wakefield's first point in the second frame but the Trojans dropped a 15-8 decision.

SUZANNE STELLING (No. 10) tips an ace during the first set while feammate Steph Torczon (No. 12) looks on. Stelling sparked the Trojans to a 10-7 lead in the initial frame but Waltefield dropped a 15-11 loss.

Wakefield bows out in opening

After blowing a 10-7 lead and drop-ing a 15-7 decision in the first set, ie Trojans dug themselves a deep ole by falling behind 10-0 in the se-ond frame.

Like the second set, Wakefield was behind early in the Initial frame. After Clay fired an ace serve to the the game at one, the Trojans quickly fell behind, 6-1.

The reason they rely on their passing so much, according to Eaton, is because it allows the Wakefield setters to assist the Trojan hitters more often.

"During most of the night we didn't get our passes up. A lot of people said our setters were having trouble, but most of that was because of poor passing," Eaton said.

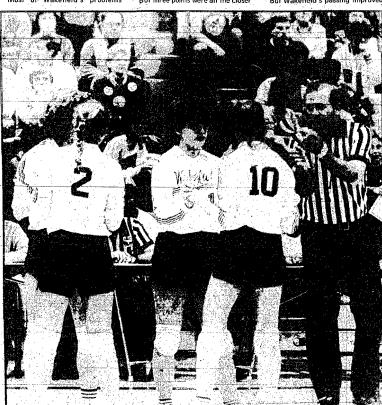

But midway through the first set, setters Julie Oswald and Torczon received several beautiful passes and set up hitters Leigh Johnson, Suzanne Stelling, Kristi Miller and Clay for numerous kills. Centennial came storming back, however, by reeling off four Boating Law administrator.

Nielson says hunters, especially waterfowlers, often use a boat, as part of their hunting, and once they set foot in the boat in hey become boaters and are subject to the same rules and regulations as summertules and regulations as summertime boaters. "They should also observe the same safety rules and learn-to protect themselves from accidental drownings.

"Many hunters use a small boat to carry their decoys and other equip-ment to their blinds or areas they want to hunt. They may pull the boat, push if or ride in it, but when they are on the water they think they are hunters, not boaters, and forget that estuation may occur in which a per-sonal / flyatation device may be necessary to seve their life."

Hunters can avoid drowning

Years ago, about the only PFD's available were the big, bulky, brightly colored models that were, from the hunter's point of view, not really suitable for use during hunting season. But it's a different story to day. There are some excellent PFD's manufactured, especially for the hunter. They are light weight, easy to slip on and off, and some even come in camouflage colors and patterns.

"We wholeheartedly recommend the use of PFD's for hunters." Nielson said. "But even if he isn't yearing one, there are still finings he can do to save his life. The first thing Nielson encourages every hunter to practice these techniques to develop-confidence by knowing what to derif an emergency, arises. "Hunters should fake a few minutes and try these techniques, in a swimming pool or take. A hunter should dress in waders, and other hunting clothing and jump into the water. He should immediately raise his knees to his chest and lay back in the water with his feet out in front of himself. By remaining relatively still he will float in the water. Slow, steady hand paddling while continuing to remain laying on his back will allow the person to move about in the water.

Public law

Public Law 96-494 had been signed into law on Dec. 3, 1980. Legislation was passed to impose the Russian embargo in Jan. 1980.

INQUIRIES ABOUT the alledged reimbursements point to the following-section of the public law as a basis for claiming refunds:
"Not withstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Agriculture may use (subject to such terms and conditions as the Secretary may deem appropriate) the funds, facilities and authorities of the Commodity Credit Corporation in purchasing and handling agricultural products "other than grain."

agricultural products "were ingrain."

Agricultural products "were intended to be exported to the Soviet Union under contracts entered into
"prior to" Jan. 5, 1980.
"But the agricultural products cannot be exported under such contracts
due to the imposition of restrictions on the export of agricultural products to the Soviet Union."

Of this, ASCS and USDA officials contradict Concerned Citizens'
arguments, saying that:

*Eirst, the section authorizes the

arguments, saying that:

«First, the section authorizes the use of Commodity Credit Corporation funds, facilities and authorities to purchase and handle agricultural products. "Other than grains."

Sources from USDA and ASCS say the section was indended products.

for purchases of poultry and meat.

Secondly, the section applies only to commodifies that were under contracts for export to the Soviet Union that were entered into "prior to Jan. 5, 1980."

And thirdly, the section being in-quired is discretionary in nature and does not require the USDA to take any action.

THE PRESIDENT had directed the Secretary of Agriculture to utilize his discretionary authority to stabilize commodities in order to alleviate adverse effects to the ag sector because of the embargo — which meant that the Secretary "purchased contracts that were con-re action was taken by the shipments were suspended by the embargo, according to the information passed on to Butts.
