STEVE OLTMANS (center) discusses the proposed groundwater management plan with the audience attending the public hearing Tuesday morning at city hall. To the right is consulting engineer James Condon.

Area groundwater plans studied

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Talk about drought and the scarcity of water, or pollution of chemicals in drinking water and peoples' attention focuses immediately on what the next frantic step will be.

But the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District (LENRD) and the 23 other Natural Resource Districts across Nebraska are investigating how to get peoples' attention before these specific catastrophes happen.

Establishing a groundwater management plan by Jan. 1, 1986, as mandated by the Nebraska legislature in 1984 and currently being studied by LENRD, is one method to assure protection of this area's ground water.

LENRD covers an area that includes all of Wayne County and portions of Cedar and Dixon Counties.

The groundwater management plan and its objectives was presented to the public during a public hearing Tuesday morning in Wayne. Three engineers from Olsson Associates of Lincoln, contracted in February of 1985 to compile the plan, explained the proposal to those at the hearing.

Chairman of the LENRD Board of Directors, Tom Anderson of Wakefield, pointed out that the plan is only, at this stage, a draft.

Steve Oltmans, general manager of the LENRD, said the goal of the ground water plan is basically to maintain the status quo of the ground water "from here to eternity."

"The present quantity and quality of the ground water would be maintained," he said.

OLSSON ASSOCIATES Engineer Jim Condon told the audience at the Wayne public hearing that "there is a significant lack of data in terms of ground water quality."

"We have a good handle on quantity, but not much has been done on quality testing," he said.

One of the objectives of the plan was to establish a survey of data and to monitor trends in ground water quality and quantity, according to Condon.

Several programs within this objective category would be to examine the existing program of groundwater data collection; compile valuable geologic data from all future well logs of well drillers; identify current data collection programs of other agencies and share the data; and most urgently, establish and maintain a groundwater quality sampling program.

Eighty monitored wells within the LENRD would be checked every three to five years, with about 30 monitored wells looked at more intensely the first year, according to Condon.

The district, he said, would need a sample tester which could require one of two things: either building a laboratory at an estimated cost of $600,000 plus another $80,000 or more

Ashker, Novaock file notices, refuse to waive extradition

Attorneys representing Lewis Ashker and Kurt Novaock have filed notices in county court on Dec. 10 for refusals to waive extradition.

Extradition procedures must now be accomplished through the governor's offices in South Dakota and Nebraska and then down to the level of the county judicial system, according to Wayne County attorney Bob Enz.

Had both men waived extradition, both men could have been moved immediately from the Wayne County jail to Armour, South Dakota, where they would stand trial for the indictments that were charged against them.

Ashker and Novaock, both of Wayne, were indicted Dec. 3 by a South Dakota grand jury, each being charged on counts of first degree murder and first degree manslaughter in the death of a South Dakota man on June 16 of this year.

The charges against Novaock and Ashker came following a grand jury investigation into the stabbing death of Jerald Pilhal, a resident of Delmont, South Dakota. Both men were arrested in Wayne by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and Wayne Police Department on the same day (Dec. 3) the grand jury indictments were handed down.

Enz said that because Novaock and Ashker had refused to waive the extradition proceedings, both could have been released from the county jail. However, Enz said he has filed a criminal complaint in county court against both men (complaint for fleeing of justice in the state of South Dakota).

THE HEARING ON this complaint will be either Friday or next Wednesday, Enz said.

Enz said he must prove, in his complaint, that Ashker and Novaock are the two individuals being charged by the South Dakota grand jury with the death of Pilhal.

Meanwhile, the extradition procedure will begin at the levels of the governor's offices in South Dakota and Nebraska. The Nebraska governor's office will perform an investigation on the basis of the extradition request.

If the governor agrees that both men should be extradited to South Dakota, a warrant shall be issued and sent to Wayne County, where an extradition hearing will take place.

"It will ultimately become a county court proceeding to determine if the right guys have been charged with the crime," Enz said.

Ashker has been a Wayne resident for nearly 10 years. Novaock, 47, had been working for an auto supply firm from Columbus since Nov. 8, 1985, had been a neighbor to Pilhal in Delmont at one time.

Ronald Albin, an attorney from Norfolk, is representing Ashker in the Wayne County hearings. Representing Novaock is David Uher, also an attorney from Norfolk.

ESU to replace resigning Jacobs

By LaVon Anderson

The board of directors of Educational Service Unit 1 is in the process of finding a replacement for at-large board member Bob Jacobs who has announced his resignation.

Jacobs, who has served on the ESU 1 board since January 1983, resigned due to a conflict in meeting dates with the board of education of Santee Public Schools where he serves as principal.

The Santee board of education meets the same night as the ESU 1 board of directors.

board members voted unanimously to declare Jacobs' position on the board to be open as per board policy 1.14.

ESU 1 Board President Deryl Lawrence of Wayne, along with board member Marvin Borg of Concord, will serve on a committee to work with ESU 1 Administrator Harry Mills on seeking out candidates to replace Jacobs.

Lawrence also asked that the administrator, on behalf of the board, draft a letter to Jacobs expressing the board's appreciation for his years of service to ESU 1.

during a meeting which lasted less than an hour.

The board did vote unanimously to secure a $1 million umbrella liability policy through the Hartford Insurance Co. In the past, there was no umbrella policy.

The umbrella policy, which costs $650 annually, will be prorated from the present time through April of 1986.

Cut in driver ed funding causes problems

By LaVon Anderson

The Wayne-Carroll board of education is wrestling with a problem facing many school districts across the state following an announcement that state funding for driver education has been eliminated to the tune of $1.2 million.

The elimination of state funding means that districts will have to come up with local tax money, charge parents for the program, or drop their driver education courses altogether.

Haun said the 85 percent of the students who opted to take the course during the summer months were charged a fee of $20.

With the loss of state aid, that fee could raise substantially.

WHILE HAUN expressed concern regarding community attitudes about absorbing the loss of the state funds, he told board of education members Tuesday that he feels the most popular route for schools to take is a fee basis.

He added that there is a possibility that the $15 per pupil cost for driver education could be trimmed if the course were modified to include less hours.

While the state required 30 hours of classroom study and six hours behind the wheel driving to be certified as completing the course, Haun said those requirements are no longer applicable with the loss of funding.

Board members delayed any action on the matter of driver education Tuesday pending further information.

Haun said he will visit with other schools to see how they are handling the situation. He also plans to visit with Wayne-Carroll driver education instructors for their suggestions regarding the amount of classroom and behind the wheel time they feel is needed.

HAUN ALSO reported to board members Tuesday of a reduction in State Aid of $10,500 (.0042 of the total budget).

"We'll just have to take that out of our general budget. The money will have to come out of maintenance, supplies, etc."

"I don't have any magic wand to wave there either."

IN OTHER BUSINESS Tuesday, board of education members unanimously adopted a calendar for the 1986-87 school year.

The school year will begin on Wednesday, Aug. 27, 1986, with the last day scheduled Thursday, May

Creation of alley district approved

by Chuck Hackenmiller

An approval came Tuesday evening from the Wayne City Council for the creation of a street improvement district designated for the alley between Main Street and Pearl Street and 7th and 8th Street in Wayne.

At a public hearing on Nov. 12 concerning the creation of the improvement district, which calls for paving of the designated alley, a petition had been presented which was signed by several individuals who had opposed the paving.

A letter from Rudy Froeschle of Wayne, who was also on the petition opposing the paving, had been read during the public hearing that said the benefits of paving the alley were not worth the cost.

Weeks before the public hearing, a petition had been presented by Jack Middendorf of Wayne with enough signatures to have the city of Wayne consider establishing the alley as an improvement district for the paving. Middendorf said at the Nov. 12 hearing that the alley is a detriment to his property (the Dalry Queen) because water running through the alley brings stones, sand and other rubbish — making it hard for him to keep his property clean.

Middendorf thought that all of the landowners in that alley should consider helping to pay for the paving because they were contributing to the run-off problem.

IT WAS DECIDED at that Nov. 12 meeting to have the Wayne city attorney, Kem Swarts, study the petitions for and against the paving of the alley and report back his findings to the city council.

Swarts came back with his report Tuesday night at the regular city meeting. He said both the plat and survey conducted (taking into consideration the property owners and their front footage to the alley in question) had revealed 50 percent for the paving and 50 percent against.

"The very real possibility exists for the election of a Republican governor. I have believed for a long time in that possibility without regard to Governor Kerrey," Brashear said. "The primary election to select a Republican nominee will be contested and that is good. Qualified candidates will compete for the approval of Republican voters."

Sharing info to combat terrorism

U.N. member nations - must help combat terrorism

Last week a Congressional delegation of four traveled to New York City to meet with the United States Mission to the United Nations and the Secretary General, and with representatives of 26 nations to talk about the problems of terrorism. As a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee I was a part of that delegation.

It is vital that we have combined action among nations to combat the kinds of terrorism that we are seeing with such tragic frequency. This meeting came on the heels of the Egyptian jetliner tragedy in Malta and the bomb explosion outside a PX in Germany. The meeting was planned before the bloody tragedy in Malta, in which 60 innocent people, including women and children, were killed. That incident merely provided new urgency for prompt and coordinated action among civilized nations to stamp out such barbarism once and for all.

At that meeting we discussed the great need to improve international maritime security measures, and the need to establish promptly an international coordinating committee on terrorism, perhaps under the auspices of the U.N. Americans must be particularly motivated to stimulate international cooperation. American citizens are increasingly the primary target of terrorists. Innocent American vacationers are being selected first for brutal shootings and murders. We have a duty to try to bring the international community of civilized nations to common action.

I used the opportunity to call on the member nations to demonstrate greater cooperation with regard to the sharing of information of international terrorists. I also asked that the United Nations condemn violations of the Vienna Convention, which addresses the sanctity of diplomatic missions and the protection of diplomats. I urged that it should be the responsibility of member nations of the United Nations to adopt internationally recognized sanctions against violators of the Vienna Convention.

SOME RECENT violations of the Convention include Libya's use of diplomatic pouches to mail letter bombs; Libyans firing from their Embassy in London, killing a British police officer; Libyan hit men in Europe, who have been known to carry diplomatic passports and enjoy diplomatic immunity; Qaddafi's order to Libyan officials and students to attack and burn the American Embassy in Libya in 1979; and the Iranian attack on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran in 1979 and the holding of U.S. diplomats as hostages.

It is the responsibility of Congress to insure that the Administration has the necessary tools to combat international terrorism — funds, personnel, and authorities to carry out certain action. Earlier this year the Committee on Foreign Affairs established a staff task force on international terrorism and diplomatic security. That task force is to conduct investigations both here and abroad regarding the adequacy of the security of American facilities abroad. In addition, the task force is to evaluate the extent of host government cooperation in protecting our people and our embassies, and in combating international terrorism.

The Committee and the Congress have provided an anti-terrorism training assistance program which provides training and equipment for airport security to friendly countries. We have provided emergency funding to enhance embassy security at all levels, and we have initiated a State Department reorganization of its security management program. In addition, we have passed legislation to implement international treaties on aircraft sabotage and hostage taking, and legislation giving the Secretary of State and the Attorney General authority to make requests for information leading to the arrest of international terrorists.

Appointment to farm bill conference committee

I am very pleased to be among the ten members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee designated to serve on the House/Senate Conference Committee on the 1985 Farm Bill. That Conference Committee will be made up of fifteen members of the House Agriculture Committee, nine members of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and ten members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

I will be participating in all negotiations involving the Trade Title, including use of surplus commodities, international agricultural research, foreign soybeans, concessional sales agreements, agricultural export bonus and promotional payments, and cargo preference.

Daughter of Union Veterans Win Charter

Nebraska members of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War have worked long and hard with their members around the nation, under the leadership of Mrs. Leah Way of Lincoln, to win a national charter for their organization. I have been extremely happy to work with this fine group of women on the bill that provides for a charter for one of the oldest and patriotic societies in the country. The bill was sent to President Reagan for signature on December 3.

Kerrey talks on failures of Reagan

by Melvin Paul

President Ronald Reagan needs to acknowledge that many of his policies have helped the nation's economy in general but have hurt the farm sector, Gov. Bob Kerrey said last week after the U.S. Senate passed legislation to help prop up the Farm Credit System. The House of Representatives was working on similar legislation.

"I agree it's about all the Senate could do, I suppose," Kerrey said about the bill that gives the Farm Credit Administration more regulatory authority, requires the system to pool its capital and allows the secretary of the treasury to recommend giving the system a federal line of credit if necessary.

Kerrey charged that Reagan has failed to take a leadership role on farm credit problems leaving Congress to try to address the problem with emergency legislation to bail out the system.

"The (Reagan) administration takes no responsibility at all in the current credit crisis," Kerrey said.

The best approach would be for Reagan to acknowledge that the farm sector has been hurt by the federal budget deficit and by attempts to control inflation by tightening the money supply, he said. "That deficit has pounded agriculture," he said.

KERREY SAID the United States needs to collectively find a way to "work down" the debt in agriculture, which totals $212 billion across the nation and $10 billion in Nebraska. "We can only support about half of that," he said.

Noting that it might take up to 10 years to "work it down," he called for a long-term program to accomplish that but he did not specify any details.

The executive branch of the federal government took the lead in explaining why it was in the best interests of the nation to bail out the Chrysler Corp. and the Continental of Illinois bank, he said, and the same sort of explanation is now due for agriculture.

Meanwhile, Kerrey and University of Nebraska officials were touting a television and outreach project designed to help Nebraskans understand the changes that are happening in agriculture and to identify resources and assistance available to people in rural communities.

THE NEBRASKA Educational Television Network and the Cooperative Extension Service are conducting AgReach '86. One purpose, said NETV General Manager Jack McBride, is to shift away from a "gloom and doom" attitude about troubles in the farm economy that are affecting rural areas. Instead, the project will emphasize a positive approach.

During February, ETV will broadcast programs examining the state of agriculture, its future and the ways in which Nebraskans are coping with economic stress. A town hall meeting conducted over the airways is part of the plan. The Cooperative Extension Service will work to identify resources for farm and ranch families and promote viewing of the ETV series and local participation in the project.

Would reduce economic growth

Flaws in tax reform package

by Richard Leshner, President of Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Last spring, the prospects for genuine tax reform looked bright. Along with the fragrance of the capital's cherry blossoms, talk filled the air of a program that would promote "simplicity," "fairness," "efficiency" and "economic growth."

But in autumn, spring's blossoms wither — and with the passage this fall of a "tax reform" package by the House Ways and Means Committee, it seems the prospects for genuine tax reform have died on the vine, too.

To hear Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D. Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, tell it, this tax reform plan is a masterpiece. In a letter to his colleagues, Rostenkowski crowed that the bill "measures up to our goals of fairness and economic balance. It provides tax cuts for everyone, with special emphasis on the needs of middle-income working families. The Committee's most important accomplishment is this bias."

Translation: To buy support from low-and-middle-income earners, soak the rich and corporations.

Rostenkowski admits, "The corporate community should pay more." But wait — only the bad guys would get socked. "We've made a series of changes to guarantee that profitable corporations pay taxes... This has allowed us to lower the corporate tax rate and respond to the special needs of small businesses."

TRANSLATION: To blunt business criticism, we'll divide and conquer. We'll offer special incentives to small businesses that have a more popular political profile. This will allow us to raise taxes $140 billion on corporations as a whole by taking away the pro-growth incentives that produced economic recovery.

There are two flaws in Rostenkowski's reasoning: 1) "Working families" can only benefit from lower taxes if they are indeed working and 2) The most important "special need of small businesses" is to stay in business.

According to an analysis of the Ways and Means plan by the consulting firm of Laurence H. Meyers and Associates, the plan leaves the fulfillment of both those conditions in doubt. The firm's findings can be summarized in one word: "Ouch."

By 1991, the bill would reduce economic growth by 2.7 percent and business investment by 19 percent. The budget deficit would be $26 billion higher — and unemployment 1.3 percent higher.

And even if the plan doesn't pass right away, it will hang like a black cloud over millions of decisions by businesses and consumers alike. What's more, it will distract Congress from addressing the truly crying economic need to reduce federal spending.

Unfortunately for those of us who harbored high hopes, in the hands of Chairman Rostenkowski, tax reform has become like a wayward teenager. You want to give the kid every chance — but sooner or later, you have to take away the car keys before someone gets hurt.

With an election year approaching — when congressional joy riding is even more pronounced — it's time for the president and Congress to put tax reform back into the garage for the foreseeable future. That seems to be the only way to avoid a hit-and-run job on economic recovery.

Different ad

A decision last week by the Wayne Herald staff to accept an advertisement concerning the Lewis Ashker family's plea for donations (to offset his legal defense expense for his indictment on charges of first degree murder and first degree manslaughter) has gathered considerable attention, not only among our subscribers but also other large daily publications and television.

The nature of the advertisement is certainly uncommon. We are aware of that. There may be some skepticism as to why the advertisement was accepted in the first place.

What first should be said is just because the ad was published on our pages, the Wayne Herald staff "does not endorse" and is not backing this type of action being conducted by Ashker's family. When the request for publication of the legal fee donations was brought in by a member of Ashker, we decided to approach it with an open mind.

This writer's feelings are this: there are individuals who advertise or write news releases about fundraisers that are dedicated to someone who is ill or injured; one who has lost a home to fire; or in essence, one who is in need.

We are not the jury to decide whether or not Ashker is guilty of the charges that have been presented against him. Are we to say he does not have a need and discriminate against him?

People have a realization of what Ashker has been charged with — through past news stories — and it was placed on the bottom of the advertisement that it was paid by the Lew Ashker family.

We feel people can decide for themselves and make their own conclusions as to whether or not they wish to contribute to the Ashker family's request.

But like all fundraisers, it is wise to investigate the cause thoroughly before making a commitment for contribution.

Block grants ahead?

Many governmental entities place a high priority on the receiving of community development block grant funds.

The block grant funds are made possible by federal funds available to Nebraska through the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

This year 102 applications were received by the Department of Economic Development Community Affairs Division, according to Rod Bates who is director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

Requests for areas of comprehensive revitalization, municipal water and public works/service has reached $23,598,019.

However, the available community development block grant funds only reaches $5,643,000.

Last year there were 145 applications requesting $27,892,260 in the community development program. There were 34 grants awarded in this category for the $7.7 million available.

The announcement of grant awards in the Community Development Block Grant program is scheduled for Dec. 20.

Wayne is one of those communities which has a stake in the block grant program for this year. The city has requested $360,000 of block grant funding to go toward a $650,000 project of constructing a water storage tank.

Allen is also another city competing for community development funds this year. So competition for the block grant dollars, as evidenced by the number of governmental entities vying for the federal funds, is as keen as the last year.

We will find out Dec. 20 who will be the lucky ones to receive the grants.

December ceremony in Concord unites Johnson and Anderson

The marriage of Pam Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marten Johnson of Concord, and Dwight Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Anderson of Laurel, was solemnized in 6 o'clock rites Dec. 7 at Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord.

Decorations for the double ring ceremony included aisle lamps with amethyst candles and evergreen, candelabras with amethyst and white carnations, mums and evergreen.

The Rev. David Newman of Concord officiated.

The bride's brother, Layne Johnson of Wayne, sang "God, a Woman and a Man," "Walk With Them Lord" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Flutist Mrs. Dennis Anderson of Lincoln played "Love." Organist was Mrs. Winton Wallin of Wayne.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father and appeared in a white chiffon re-embroidered chancel gown designed with a high jewel neckline and full bishop shadow sleeves. A drop shoulder ruffle yoke trimmed the bodice.

The bouffant skirt was edged with ruffle lace and bridal satin. Venice cameo tiars dramatized the back skirt and attached train.

A petit bridal hat trimmed with illusion veiling and beautified with face motifs and waterfall pearls completed her ensemble.

The bride made all of the silk flowers, including her own bouquet of silk and satin roses, ivy and seed pearls.

MÁID OF HONOR was Joan Gentrop of Lincoln, and bridesmaids were Trudy Bennett of Lincoln and Terri Johnson of Columbia, Mo.

Good thing pheasants weren't shot with gun

A couple of weeks ago I achieved a personal first. While hunting for pheasants, I got three in one shot. Eat your heart out hunters.

Strange thing about it, though, is I shot them with my camera. (See front page of Nov. 18 Wayne Herald.)

And it's a good thing they were shot with my camera and not a gun because the bird on the far left was a hen.

The Wayne Herald announced in its Nov. 7 issue that a Lute-Olsen couple were engaged.

Hmmm, I wonder if they're Iowa Hawkeye or Arizona basketball fans?

Last Sunday, my father flipped on the Chicago/Indianapolis football game and shouted, "the refrigerator's on!"

My mother, not being a football fan and not realizing my dad was talking about the Bears' William Perry, answered from the kitchen, "I know it is. I'm looking in the freezer right now."

I saw a very strange sight earlier in the week while watching the Boston Celtics play the 76ers.

Late in the first half, Boston had McHate, Bird, Ainge, Walton and Wedman all on the court at the same time.

The catch? They're all white. When's the last time you saw five white guys playing the same team on the same team in the NBA?

A couple of weeks ago, Winside's Kerri Leighton was selected by the Wayne Herald as an all-area volleyball player. The negative of that particular photograph was accidentally scratched just below Leighton's mouth during the printing process.

So contrary to what you saw (on what you thought you saw), Leighton doesn't smoke cigarettes. She does smoke on the court, however, as she's one of the best setters in the area.

Ernie Wingert was ripped off.

During halftime of the Wayne State/Doane basketball game last week, there was a slam dunk contest with the contestants using small rubber balls.

Darin Blackburn was crowned the champion of contest, but Wingert should've been named the winner.

Blackburn's a fine football player and he did have two excellent dunks, one being a reverse and the other a squeak off the bankboard. But Wingert's 360 and gorilla jams should have been good enough for the title.

Wayne State student Mike Bullard set a new state record in the bench press Nov. 23.

I've seen Bullard on the streets a couple of times and he's the biggest little guy I've ever seen. I know that statement contradicts itself, but it's also an accurate description of a guy 5 feet 6 inches tall that can bench press 465 pounds. Congratulations Mike.

Here's a tricky one.

On the season, this football team had 30 more first downs than its opposition, averaged 50 more total yards per game, and even had better averages on kickoff returns, punts and punt returns. Can you name the team?

Amazingly, the answer is Wayne-Carroll. The Blue Devils dominated their opposition on paper, but finished with a 2-7 record.

Wayne head coach Lonnie Ehrhardt summed up the situation by saying mistakes at critical situations resulted in the 2-7 mark.

Turnovers and penalties at key moments during this season cost a lot of games this year. The Bears

Cole and Lutt capture pins

Wayne grapplers claim 39-24 win

Wayne-Carroll used four forfeits and pins by Jason Cole and Chris Lutt to claim its first victory of the season, a 39-24 triumph over Randolph at the Wayne Gymnasium Tuesday night.

Although the Blue Devils opened an 18-0 lead after the first four weights, Randolph came storming back and pulled to within three, 27-24, entering the 185-pound division. But Lutt pinned Jeremy Kilburn in 2:30 to supply Wayne with a 33-24 advantage.

Wayne's heavyweight, Steve Cowgill, followed by receiving Randolph's fourth forfeit to round out the scoring at 39-24.

Perhaps the biggest story for Wayne was Cole's victory. Cole was inserted into the lineup after Jamie Fredrickson failed to make weight. And the 145-pounder responded by pinning John Gubbels in 3:32.

Both Cole's and Lutt's efforts drew praise from head coach John Murtaugh.

"Jason and Chris both wrestled fantastic for us. They came through when they had to and for only being freshmen, it was quite an effort," he said.

Wayne's other victor on the night was Mark Janke, a 132-pounder, who claimed a 6-5 victory over Randolph's Mike Schmitt.

In addition to Cowgill, Adam Mrsny (98), Chris Corbit (112) and Tom Etter (119) also won by forfeit for Wayne.

Randolph's Mark Bloomquist and John Keifer won the 126 and 138-pound weight classes by technical fall. A technical fall results when a wrestler leads by 15 points or more. The team is awarded six points for technical fall victories. Steve Loberg and Loren Isom won by pins for Randolph at 155 and 167-pounds, respectively.

Fredrickson and Stuart Rethwisch claimed pins in junior varsity action for Wayne. Rethwisch stuck his opponent in 2:48, while Fredrickson won by pin in 1:49.

The Blue Devils, now 1-1 in duals, wrestle again Saturday at the West Point Invitational.

North stops Blue Devils

SIoux CITY — When one first analyzes Sioux City North, its overall size is usually the most intimidating. But Saturday night, it was North's shortest-player who lifted the Stars past Wayne.

North's 5-9 point guard Mike Johnson canned eight straight free throws in the game's final 100 seconds to propel the hosts to a misleading 40-31 triumph.

The game was much closer than the final score indicates as the two teams were tied at 27 when Wayne's Ted Lueders canned a bucket at the 4:27 mark.

But the Johnson-led Stars outscored the Blue Devils 13-4 down the stretch for the hard fought victory.

In addition to Johnson's hot free throw shooting, turnovers hindered Wayne's chances of victory. The Blue Devils were guilty of four miscues in the final 29 seconds and North capitalized on every Wayne mistake.

"We didn't have as many opportunities to score because turnovers cost us possession of the ball throughout the game," Blue Devil head coach Bob Uhing said.

Turnovers did indeed affect Wayne's offense as the Blue Devils released just 32 shots on the night, making nine. North finished 12 for 40 from the floor.

Although Wayne made only 28 percent of its field goals, Uhing said he was pleased with his club's shot selection.

"We didn't take bad shots. They played good defense and we wanted to set the tempo slow because North likes to run," he said.

Uhing and the Blue Devils were successful at slowing the game's tempo as the score was tied at nine with 5:31 remaining in the first half before North led 17-13 at intermission.

Wayne's most productive quarter was the third when the Blue Devils outscored the hosts 12-6.

The key to Wayne's third stanza was excellent free throw shooting and a swarming defense. After Dan Gross opened the second half with a 15-foot jumper, the rest of Wayne's points in the third quarter came from the free throw line as Wayne hit 10-of-12 gifters, including 6-of-6 in the final 36 seconds, to open a 25-23 lead.

But North rebounded in the final period by pulling ahead 29-27 at the 4:08 mark and led the rest of the game.

Although Wayne made 10-of-12 free throws in the third stanza, the Blue Devils made only 3-of-10 during the other three quarters and finished 13-for-22. North canned 16-of-24 free throws on the night.

Johnson added a field goal to his eight free throws to claim the game's scoring honors with 10 points. Jeff Hausmann, who made 6-of-8 gifters, and Gross led the Blue Devils with eight points apiece.

The shorter Blue Devils outscored North 26-22. Hausmann, a burly 6-3 senior, pulled down a team high 10 boards and Dan Larsen added seven corners despite fouling out with 3:15 remaining in the contest.

Although Wayne lost, Uhing said he is pleased with the Blue Devils' efforts so far this season.

"All of the kids are working hard and right now I'm happy with the kids' efforts," he said.

The 1-1 Blue Devils host Albion Friday night before traveling to Columbus for a game with Lakeview Saturday.

Uhing said both opponents are good clubs and added his players will have to be prepared for both games.

"Albion isn't real big, but they play hard and our scouting reports on Lakeview indicate they're a better team than they were last year so we'll have to be ready to play both games," he said.

Eagles top Ponca in overtime

Allen escapes with 37-35 triumph

ALLEN — Things probably looked pretty rosy for Ponca's girls Tuesday night after the Indians owned an eight point lead in the fourth quarter. But Allen refused to quit and tied the game at 32 after regulation and went on to post a thrilling 37-35 triumph in overtime.

The victory didn't come without numerous exciting moments for the host Eagles. Allen fell behind 34-32 before Denise Magnuson's bucket put the Eagles ahead for good, 36-34, with just seconds remaining in the game.

Although Allen owned the two point lead and had ball possession, Ponca came up with a steal at the :04 mark. An Indian was fouled and had a chance to tie the game but made only one-of-two gifters.

Allen's Barb Hansen then iced the game with a free throw to round out the scoring, 37-35.

Magnuson's basket with 26 seconds left in regulation tied the game at 32 and forced overtime.

Magnuson claimed the game's scoring honors with 18 points hitting 9-of-17 field goals. But Allen head coach Gary Troth was more impressed with Magnuson's defense.

"Denise played a good all-around game, but her defense was probably the biggest key for us," he said. "She guarded Amy Armstrong and held her to 16 points and only four in the first half. I think Armstrong is the best guard in the area and Denise made her work for everything she got and didn't let her score off their offense."

Troth also praised several of his players' defensive efforts.

"Lana Erwin, Kris Blohm, Diane Magnuson, Tiffany Harder, Barb Hansen, Kristi Chase all joined Denise in playing well defensively. We won the game with our defense," he said.

The Eagles made 15-of-49 field goals and 7-of-16 free throws, Ponca finished 16-for-47 from the floor and 3-of-9 from the line.

Although total rebounds were not available, Troth said his club held a slight edge on the boards. Blohm, Harder and Diane Magnuson led Allen with five rebounds apiece.

The junior varsity game was also close as the Eagles pulled out a 29-27 decision. Allen trailed by nine at intermission, but outplayed the Eagles in the second half for the triumph.

Liz Hansen and Chase led Allen in scoring with eight and six points, respectively. Troth said Amy Noe also played a good game for the Eagles.

Allen is now 2-1 on the season. The Eagles travel to Laurel to play the 2-0 Bears Thursday night.

WAYNE'S MARK Janke has his arm raised for his 6-5 win in the 132-pound weight class.

Wayne places seventh

BLAIR — Mark Janke and Chris Corbit both placed and Wayne-Carroll finished seventh out of eight teams at the Blair Invitational here Saturday.

Janke, the Blue Devils' 132-pounder, captured two close victories in his first two matches before dropping a 6-4 decision in the championship round.

Wayne head coach John Murtaugh was pleased with Janke's ability to pull out the two tight victories.

"Mark did a nice job in the tournament. He won the close matches when he had to and wrestled well," he said.

Corbit placed fourth in the 112-pound division. After dropping his first match, Corbit received a bye and captured a 6-1 victory. The 112-pounder was then pinned and placed fourth.

Although Janke and Corbit were the only Blue Devils to place at the tournament, several others did claim match victories.

Corey Frye, a 119-pounder, 145-pounder Jamie Fredrickson and heavyweight Steve Cowgill all captured wins for Wayne at the invite.

Fredrickson experienced some bad luck at the tournament. The 145-pounder was 1-1 after the first two rounds and was then forced to default because of a neck injury.

"I honestly think Jamie would've won his next match, but I had to default him because of the injury," Murtaugh said. "If (wrestling) wasn't worth the risk of him being injured worse."

Murtaugh added that he was pleased with Wayne's overall effort adding the Blue Devil grapplers gained valuable experience they will be able to use to their advantage the rest of the season.

"We would've liked to have finish higher, but the overall effort was really good and we gained experience that will help us this season," he said.

Blair won the meet with 199 1/2 points. The Blue Devils totaled 26 markers.

Adkins and Dempster lead Laurel to 40-25 victory over Winside

LAUREL — Going into Tuesday's game with Laurel-Concord, Winside probably had his sights set on stopping the Bears' 5-11 junior Gall Twiford. After all, Twiford was just coming off a 20 point, 25 rebound performance in Laurel's season opening victory over Celeridge last Thursday.

And for all purposes, the Wildcats succeeded in stopping Twiford. But the Bears proved they're more than a one-player team by claiming a 40-25 victory.

Twiford finished with six points, but Sara Adkins and Penny Dempster picked up the scoring slack for Laurel by scoring 16 and 12 points, respectively.

The first half was closely played as Laurel held a slim 12-10 advantage at intermission. But the Bears pulled away in the second half by using a full court press and freeing Adkins and Dempster more offensively.

"We used a full court press in the second half and we came up with a lot of steals and easy baskets," Laurel head coach Gale Hamilton said.

"And we also changed our offense so Sara and Penny could get into a scoring position to take some of the pressure off Twiford."

The strategy worked as Laurel outscored Winside 12-4 in the third quarter and 16-11 over the final eight minutes.

In addition to Adkins' and Dempster's second half scoring, the Bears used numerous steals to fuel its fastbreak and totaled 17 thefts on the night. Adkins and Michelle Joslin led Laurel with seven and five steals, respectively.

Laurel finished 16-for-48 from the field and 8-for-20 from the free throw line. Winside hit 5-of-11 gifters to go along with its 10 field goals.

The Bears grabbed 20 rebounds on the night. Twiford led the hosts with 12.

Four Wildcats make all-state

OMAHA — Four members of the Wayne State football team have been selected to the Omaha World-Herald All-State College Football team.

Wildcats named to the first team were: offensive guard Ruben Mendoza, a senior from Milwaukee, Wis.; kicker Herve Roussel, a senior from LeMans, France; linebacker Tony Shaw, a senior from O'Neill; and defensive back Lamont Lewis, a junior from Milwaukee, Wis.

Mendoza, Roussel and Lewis are all repeat selections from last year's first team. Shaw received honorable mention last season.

Named to the second team for the Wildcats were: wide receiver Darin Blackburn, a junior from Malvern, Iowa; and defensive lineman Randy Hupp, a junior from Norfolk. Blackburn was a selection for both the tight end and punter's positions.

Named to the honorable mention list for the Wildcats were: running back Carl Calvert, a senior from Omaha; wide receiver Matt Hoffmann, a senior from Pine Island, Minn.; quarterback Ed Jochum, a senior from Norfolk; wide receiver Tom Lietschuck, a senior from South Sioux City; and defensive end Keith Turner, a senior from Aurora.

This year's all-state team featured players from eight of the 10 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 11 teams. Chadron State placed six players on the first team, Kearney State five, while Wayne State and Midland had four each.

Seventeen of the 26 players selected to the first team are seniors, seven are juniors and two are sophomores. The players were selected based on coaches' nominations.

Northwestern stops Wayne State

Lady Wildcats drop heartbreaker

Wayne State dropped a heart-breaking 63-62 decision to Northwestern at Rice Auditorium Saturday afternoon.

Wayne State owned a 57-56 advantage with 5:12 remaining in the game, but Northwestern's Ann Walker hit a bucket to give the visitors a 58-57 lead.

Northwestern opened a 62-58 lead at the 1:29 mark on two free throws by Wendy Stonehocker. But the Lady Wildcats refused to give up and sandwiched baskets by Kelly Rich and Linda Schnitzler around a Northwestern free throw to cut the lead to one, 63-62, with 16 seconds remaining in the contest.

The Lady Wildcats received ball possession on a missed free throw by Northwestern. Wayne State pushed the ball up court but its attempted game-winning shot missed and Northwestern hung on for the victory.

Wayne led the entire game until Northwestern's Walker hit a bucket with 14:27 remaining in the second half to give the visitors a 41-40 edge.

Carmen Woelber's basket approximately one minute later increased the visitors' lead to five, 45-40. But Wayne State used baskets by Shari Krohn and Michele Blomberg and a three point play by Nygren to open a 47-45 advantage at the 11:59 mark.

The lead then seeped away until Walker's hoop at the 5:12 mark gave Northwestern the lead for good.

Both teams struggled in the early going, but the Lady Wildcats broke loose and opened its biggest lead of the game, 32-18, with 1:08 remaining in the first half.

Nygren keyed the Wayne State surge with several nifty passes and Shelle Tomaszewicz and Schnitzler added two buckets apiece to increase a 20-15 advantage to the 14 point lead.

Northwestern did, however, outscore Wayne State 4-1 during the first half's final minute to make the score 32-22 at the half.

Three Lady Wildcats cracked the double figure barrier. Nygren led Wayne State in scoring with 20 points, while Schnitzler and Rich added 13 and 10 points, respectively. Stonehocker led Northwestern with 15 markers.

Both teams shot 42 percent from the floor and Wayne State made 75 percent of its free throws going 12-for-16. Northwestern finished 9-for-16 from the line for 56 percent.

The Lady Wildcats were outrebounded 36-30. Krohn led Wayne State with 12 rebounds and teammate Mary Beth Ehrhorn added six rebounds.

Schnitzler dished out a team high four assists for Wayne State, three of which came in the first half.

The Lady Wildcats were guilty of 24 turnovers, while Northwestern committed 15 mistakes.

Fouls cost Wayne State

74-54 loss to Saint Mary

OMAHA — The College of Saint Mary took advantage of 31 fouls by Wayne State and downed the Lady Wildcats 74-54 here Tuesday night.

Wayne State was called for 31 personal fouls, while Saint Mary's was whittled for only 14. Lady Wildcat head coach Lenny Klaver said such lopsided figures indicate his team was the victim of questionable officiating.

"I don't like to whine, but when a team shoots 20 more free throws than the other team it's obvious something's wrong," he said. "We never shot a one-and-one all night and they were in the bonus the last half of both halves."

Free throw shooting was the difference of the game as Saint Mary's finished 24-for-32 from the line and the Lady Wildcats went 8-for-12.

The game was tied at 30 at the half and Wayne State opened a 43-42 advantage with approximately 10 minutes remaining in the contest. But Saint Mary's used its free throw shooting advantage to outscore the Lady Wildcats 32-11 down the stretch for the 20 point triumph.

"It just doesn't make sense. We play good defense, lead with 10 minutes left and get beat by 20 points. It's obvious something was wrong," Klaver said.

Wayne State had balanced scoring as Linda Schnitzler led the Lady Wildcats with 11 points, while Shelle Tomaszewicz and Shari Krohn both added seven and Mary Beth Ehrhorn and Kris Smith totaled six apiece.

Diane Foll led Saint Mary's with 24 markers and teammate Janell Stevens added 19.

The Lady Wildcats hit 23-of-65 field goals for 35 percent, while Saint Mary's finished 25-for-70 from the floor for 36 percent.

Saint Mary's outrebounded Wayne State 43-32. Krohn led the Lady Wildcats with eight boards.

Despite the loss, Klaver said the Lady Wildcats played fairly well and are improving as the season progresses.

"We're playing better and other than a few silly mistakes against their press, we played pretty good Tuesday," he said.

The game was originally scheduled for Monday but poor weather postponed the contest to Tuesday night.

Laurel

nine boards and Joslin totaled seven rebounds. Kay Melehenry led Winside with 13 rebounds and Tracy Topp added 12.

Julie Brockman led Winside in scoring with seven points, hitting two field goals and 3-of-4 free throws. Kay Melehenry tallied six markers on two fielders and 2-of-4 free throw shooting.

Winside captured a 24-19 victory in the junior varsity game.

The win improved Laurel to 2-0. The Bears will try to remain perfect Thursday night when 2-1 Allen invades the Laurel gymnasium.

Winside slipped to 0-2 on the year. The Wildcats' next game is Thursday at Newcastle.

Wayne's JVs fall to 1-1

SIoux CITY — Wayne's junior varsity basketball team dropped a 54-42 decision to Sioux City North's JVs here Saturday night.

Jon Stoltenberg led Wayne in scoring with 11 points and teammate Ted McCright added eight markers.

Wayne coach Ron Carnes said poor defense and a lack of team play cost his club the loss.

"We didn't play well defensively and we didn't play well together as a team," he said. "I hope a lesson the kids learn from the game is if you don't play well together you won't do well. If (Saturday's loss) was a complete contrast from the night before."

Friday night Wayne's JVs downed Blair 37-30. Stoltenberg was also the leading scorer in Friday's contest with 14 markers.

Wynot downs Allen

WYNOT — Wynot's consistent outside shooting and Allen's poor performance from the free throw line led to a 44-32 Wynot victory here Saturday night.

Defensively, Allen head coach Gary Troth said his club did a fine job of stopping Wynot's inside game. But the Eagle mentor added that Wynot beat his club with outside shooting.

"They shot very well from the outside. For the most part, we stopped them from the inside and half their shots were taken from the outside, but they hit them," he said.

Wynot's best quarter was the second frame. After leading 9-5 in the first quarter, the Blue Devils outscored Allen 15-6 in the second stanza and opened a 24-12 halftime advantage.

The Eagles rebounded in the third quarter by outscoring the hosts 14-8 to make the score 32-26 with eight minutes remaining in the contest. But Allen suffered another scoring drought in the fourth period and Wynot outscored the Eagles 12-6 for the 12 point triumph.

Allen made just 2-of-14 free throws on the night, while Wynot canned 12-of-21 gifts.

Troth said that in addition to his club's poor shooting from the line, its poor performance from the field also hindered its chances of winning.

"We got good shots all night, but they just wouldn't drop," he said.

"Out of 47 field goals, only 14 were out of the paint, but we just couldn't hit," he said. The Eagles finished 15-for-47 from the floor.

Denise Magnuson led Allen with 15 points and her sister Diane contributed eight markers to the Eagle cause. The game's scoring honors went to Joslin Wieseler who tallied 20 points.

"Wieseler is a good outside shot. Actually, she's a good all-around player and one of the best players in the area," Troth said.

Allen totaled 30 rebounds on the night. Kris Blohm led the Eagles with nine boards and teammate Tiffany Harder added six rebounds.

Allen's junior varsity squad captured a 30-10 victory. Kristin Hansen and Kristi Chase led the Eagles in scoring with 10 and eight points, respectively.

The loss dropped Allen to 1-1 on the year. The Eagles' next game is Thursday at Laurel.

Winside's grapplers place fourth at Randolph

RANDOLPH — With Mace Kant, Doug Paulson and Chris Olson leading the way, Winside's wrestlers claimed a fourth place finish at the Randolph Tournament here Saturday.

Kant and Paulson breezed through the 105 and 112-pound divisions, respectively, by totaling three pins apiece and capturing first place.

Olson, a 132-pounder, pinned his first two opponents and downed two-time state placer Mark Bloomquist 4-1 in the championship round.

Olson's three-point victory over Bloomquist drew praise from Winside head coach Paul Sok.

"Chris really did a good job Saturday. In the championship round he wrestled a controlled match and his strength and conditioning were the deciding factors," he said.

Sok also praised Kant and Paulson saying the two grapplers were the best wrestlers in their respective weights.

"Mace and Doug just dominated their weights. They were, by far, the best 105 and 112-pounders down here," he said.

Winside's 138-pounder, Darin Schellenberg, and 145-pounder Rod Diedrichsen also placed at the invite. Schellenberg finished 3-1 and placed third, while Diedrichsen went 2-2 and placed fourth.

"Darin and Rodney just kept going all day. They won several close decisions and a lot of that was due to their determination," Sok said.

Randy Leapey, the Wildcats' 155-pounder, missed placing by one point. Sok said a bad move by Leapey in the first round of the consolation match cost Leapey.

"Randy got beat 6-5 in the consolation match. He made a bad move and got in a headlock in the first round and fell behind 5-0. But after that he outwrestled the kid and outscored him 5-1 in the last two periods. But the early bad move was the difference," he said.

The Winside mentor concluded that he was pleased with his grapplers' overall performance.

"Eight of our nine wrestlers won matches and we placed five kids so overall, it was a pretty good day for us," he said.

Other Wildcats that won matches Saturday were Darin Grunke at 126-pounds and 185-pounder Steve Jorgensen.

Winside totaled 101½ points. Norfolk Catholic edged Norfolk's reserves 131-130 for the championship. Creighton's 110 markers was good enough for third place.

Groundwater

to operate the laboratory, or obtain a private laboratory that processes samples of other NRD's or governmental entities at an estimated cost of $50,000, with $17,000 or more for intensive monitoring of the samples.

Another objective in the proposed plan is to improve groundwater conservation programs. Programs listed for this objective include improving conservation management of municipal industrial and irrigation systems; employing the best management practices in utilizing soil and groundwater resources; and to develop and maintain a drought management education program, according to Hal Schroeder, engineer with Olsson Associates.

SCHROEDER said urban residents should be equally as conscious about damaging groundwater as the rural areas because of the use of lawn pesticides. Schroeder said most industries do an excellent job in controlling run-off. "But I'm sure improvements can be made," he said.

A third objective of the groundwater plan, according to Condon, is to maintain and improve groundwater quality through programs to determine the best management practice for use of crop nutrients and pesticides; monitor pesticide pollution; monitor animal pollution; monitor urban pollution; monitor industrial and transportation pollution; maintain lists of treatment methods for groundwater quality and determine the impact on quality of groundwater recharge injection wells.

Programs for the fourth objective, Schroeder mentioned, include initiating feasibility studies for providing supplemental groundwater supplies to municipalities, industries and rural water users and to initiate feasibility studies for providing supplemental stream flows for instream use.

THE FIFTH objective, as explained by engineer Bob Wolf, is to develop and provide educational programs to promote public support and participation in management of groundwater resources.

Wolf said one of the programs in this objective area is to develop a "youth oriented awareness presentation, demonstrating ways groundwater can be contaminated and to increase the youth's awareness on the value of groundwater."

Technical information can also be passed on to adults through various agencies on groundwater pollution and other forms of contamination.

He said managing the groundwater is going to take additional funding. Among the funding alternatives considered in the proposed groundwater management plan included:

•Increasing the Natural Resource District tax/levy, to the maximum authorized for general purpose tax at 3 1/2 cents per $100 of actual value, assessed annually. "This would raise approximately $1 million per year in the district.

•If quantity or quality are involved and groundwater management areas or control areas need to be established, then an additional 1.8 cents per $100 of taxable valuation can be levied in designated areas for groundwater management purposes.

•And to levy up to an additional .9 cents per $100 of taxable valuation on all property which lies within groundwater control areas which are established to control both groundwater quantity and quality.

WOLF SAID funding could also be obtained through cooperation from the state legislature to provide matching funds for these programs outlined in the objectives of the proposed groundwater management plan.

Other funding sources Wolf listed included possible cost-share funding from other governmental agencies and to seek funding from private sources.

Olfmans said groundwater quality and quantity is important to every citizen of Nebraska and the groundwater funding should not come strictly from property tax — but in areas such as cost-sharing from state agencies or from the legislature.

The remaining objectives in the proposed groundwater management plan include minimizing pumping conflicts; and protection of municipal and domestic groundwater supplies.

All of the programs introduced in the draft plan would be implemented by 1990.

Input on the proposed groundwater management plan was significant because of the those that served on the Citizens Advisory Subcommittee from the LENRD, according to Olfmans.

"It was significant because of the cross-section of people that had significant public input into the plan already," he said.

Serving on the subcommittee from this area were Vern Schulz, superintendent of public works in Wayne and Michael Salmon of Salmon Well Co. in Wakefield.

However, he said in order to repeal the petition requesting the creation of an improvement to the paving of the alley to be repealed, there had to be "more than" 50 percent of those objecting to the alley improvements.

Since there was a petition signed by property owners requesting the establishment of an improvement district, and no more than 50 percent of property owners with their front footage abutting the alley oppose the improvement district, the city council is legally responsible to approve the establishment of the improvement district, according to Swarts' opinion.

THE CITY COUNCIL passed a resolution allowing Bruce Gilmore and Associates of Columbus to prepare plans and specifications for the alley paving. All but Councilman Freeman Decker voted in favor of the resolution.

"The reason I object is because I think some of those people can't afford it [the assessment for the alley paving]."

In other action, a special medalion was presented to Wayne-Carroll 4th Grader Kelly Gehner for her winning entry in a contest at the elementary school to name a street that was recently decided to the city of Wayne.

The street is directly east of the elementary school and was given a name Tuesday, using Kelly's entry — School View Drive — by Mayor Wayne Marsh. Dave Luff, principal at Wayne-Carroll Elementary School, said there were 230 entries in the "name that street" contest.

City Administrator Phil Kloster said the new School View Drive name was appropriate because "one can see all three schools from the street."

THE COUNCIL also:

•Discussed the electric rates of the city. Kloster said NPPD increased its wholesale cost to the city of Wayne by 7.7 percent.

Despite the increase, Kloster said "it looks like we will be able to hold them [electric rates to Wayne users] for another year. I think we can get by another year without having to touch it [the electric rates]. At this point, we're planning on that."

•Conducted a public hearing on the water and sewer extension project in improvement district 85-1. "This is the water and sewer work for Providence Road. We want to have it in before paving over it," Kloster said.

There were no communications either for or against the extension project.

•Passed a resolution confirming the work and order plat of a street improvement project involving the alley between Main Street and Logan Street and 7th and 8th Streets.

•Delayed any action of an ordinance relating to minors on premises where alcoholic liquor is sold and consumed.

The purpose of the ordinance was to bring it in accordance with what was passed through the state legislature, raising the drinking age from 20 to 21. However, Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild questioned Tuesday night how the ordinance would affect bowling alleys that sell beer or liquor on the premises.

The city council will review all the ordinances pertaining to the selling of alcoholic beverages in bowling alleys at an upcoming city council meeting. "We have a couple ordinances regarding bowling alleys that should really be looked at," Fairchild said.

ALSO AT TUESDAY'S meeting, board of education members:

- Heard a report on the middle school seventh and eighth grade math program from Mrs. Mary Ann DeNaeyer.

- Learned that Becky Keidel, board president, presented a program to the Wayne Kiwanis Club on Nov. 18;

—Gave unanimous second and final approval of a policy dealing with religious programs in the school. The policy focuses on the recognition of religious beliefs and customs, the observance of religious holidays, religion in the curriculum, and the use of prayers at dedications and commencement;

—Approved a report by the Athletic Task Force until the January board meeting;

—Discussed the school district's liability coverage. The school presently has a general liability policy of $1 million, with an umbrella liability of $1 million. No changes were made;

—Discussed evaluation of the superintendent. The evaluation will be completed in January at which time board members will discuss the possibility of improvements in the evaluation form;

—Discussed long and short-range goals for the school district;

—Gave unanimous approval for transfer of the Wilbur and Phyllis Nolte property from Dixon County

District 59 to Wayne. The land is resided upon by Kenneth and Anne Nolte who have school age children. Board members also approved the transfer of the Kent and Carol Wilke property from District 57 to Wayne. Approval on both petitions must also be received from the county superintendent, county treasurer and county clerk;

—Voted unanimously to go ahead with a proposed change in the school's telephone system as outlined by Superintendent Haun. Presently, the school pays $243.35 per month for the telephone system and $285 for the circuits between schools. The change, as approved by the board, would cost the district $237.73 per month for the telephone system and $53.60 per month for the circuits between schools. The system will be a finance purchase for 60 months at a cost of $237.73 per month, after which time the school district will own the telephones. Although the school will lose some of its intercom capabilities, Haun said the change is expected to save the district approximately $58 per month;

—Unanimously approved a request by the city for plat approval of the Gardner Subdivision and the Sunnyside Subdivision;

—Learned that election of the school reorganization county committee will take place on Monday, Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m. at Wayne County Courthouse;

—Gave Superintendent Haun the go-ahead to receive bids for a new 12-passenger van for the school. The van will be used for transportation to and from activities.

NEXT MEETING of the board of education is scheduled Jan. 14 at 3 p.m.

FOOD AWARENESS By Ann Crowley R.D., Ph.D.
DELICIOUS, DELIGHTFUL DRIED FRUITS
QUESTION: Each year I give some of my friends fruit baskets for Christmas. Last year I read in your column the idea of adding cheeses, nuts and fruit breads to the baskets. Do you have any other suggestions for me to use this year?
ANSWER: A fruit or food basket is always appreciated and at Christmas time it's a nice change from Christmas candies.
This year I would like to suggest you make up your Christmas baskets with emphasis on dried fruits. They are colorful, tasty and highly nutritious. The figs, dates, apricots, apples and prunes provide a nice variety. It is also fun to add some of the sugar glazed fruits such as pineapple slices and mango slices, with dried pears and peaches available in some areas.
A Christmas fruit basket made up of dried fruits will be a delightful surprise for your friends and relatives.

Which Way Should My Grain Bin Aeration Fan Run

Aeration, to control grain temperatures, can be accomplished by moving the air either up or down through the grain. The fan will deliver the same amount of air either way.

It is easier to tell when an aeration cycle has been completed with upward air movement, because if it is simpler to check the grain at the surface of the bin than it is to check the bottom. Checking exhaust temperatures from the fan only gives an indication of average conditions and not temperature extremes. Positive, or upward, airflow systems also provide better airflow distribution with shallow grain depths. Therefore, this system is preferred when aerating grain in buildings.

A disadvantage of upward airflow is that moisture may condense when warm exhaust air hits a cold bin roof. This problem can be minimized by starting early and cooling grain gradually, in several steps, rather than waiting until late in the fall to cool warm grain. Condensation also can be a problem with downward airflow because the grain next to aeration ducts may be much colder than the bulk of the grain. Moisture condensing on this grain can cause mold and caking of the grain which restricts airflow to the duct. Again, the grain at the bottom is difficult to check and this problem may not be discovered until a serious problem has developed.

Upward airflow is generally preferred for in-storage cooling of grain from a dryer. Fan operation is minimized because you can cool grain as it is added without warming previously cooled grain. It also is easier to tell when cooling has been completed, and there is less chance of incomplete cooling and rapid spoilage of high-temperature grain.

No-Till Corn in Alfalfa

It's a long time until corn planting time in 1986. But you should be making plans for next year's crop. These plans could involve looking at this year's alfalfa field as a candidate for next year's corn planting.

Nebraska produces about 1.74 million acres of alfalfa annually. Corn or grain sorghum usually follows alfalfa in the crop rotation and may be planted in alfalfa sod with no tillage.

Nebraska research has been used to develop a system in which the alfalfa is killed with herbicides and corn is planted directly into the sod without tillage. Plowing is eliminated and energy requirements can be reduced to about one-fourth that used in the conventional plow systems.

NebGuide G74-131, "No-Till Corn in Alfalfa Sod," discusses vegetation control, planting equipment, fertilizer application, variety selection and insect and rodent control hints when planting no-till corn in alfalfa sod.

This and other NebGuides are available through the local Extension Office.

3-state conference program completed

Topics and speakers for "Adapting to the Changing Cattle Industry" Conference have been announced. This event will be held on December 17 and 18 at the Marina Inn in South Sioux City, Nebraska.

"The program will be sponsored by the University Extension Services of Nebraska, South Dakota State and Iowa State," reports Don C. Spitzer, Wayne County Extension Agent.

The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. on December 17 with a presentation entitled "A Decade of Economic Dislocation" by Dr. Harlan Ritchie, Michigan State University. The second part of the morning program will be Dr. Mike Boehlje, University of Minnesota, discussing the "The Capital Structure of the Cattle Industry."

leaders. Dr. Larry Corah, Kansas State University, will talk about "Adapting to Change in the Cow-Calf Business." "Adapting to Change in the Feedlot Business," led by Dr. Don Gill, Oklahoma State University, will follow. Then attention will be focused on the subject of "Attracting Capital for Retained Ownership or Custom Feeding." Dr. Bob deBacca, Huxley, Iowa, will talk about cow-calf phase, and Ed Smith, Guyman, Oklahoma, will cover the feedlot segment.

In the afternoon of December 18, "Marketing the Beef Product - Now and the Future" will be featured. "Who are our Beef Customers and Why?" will be addressed by Dr. Burdette Breidenshein, National Livestock and Meat Board. Then Mike Witt, Director of Meat Operations, Hy-Vee Food Stores, will discuss "Merchandising Beef to Meet Changing Consumer Preferences." The concluding presentation will be "Where Do We Go From Here?" by Dr. Harlan Ritchie.

Approximately thirty five commercial exhibits will also be a part of the two day conference.

"Pre-registration is requested by December 10 for the conference planning" concludes Spitzer.

National 4-H winner named

A 17-year-old Nebraska student, who built a robot and a sound-activated switch, has been named one of six national winners in the 4-H electric energy program.

Brian Schmidt of Wayne received a $1,000 scholarship from Westinghouse Electric Corporation, the program sponsor.

Selected by the Cooperative Extension Service, winners were presented with their awards during the 64th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5. Awards are arranged by National 4-H Council.

Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schmidt, is a high school junior and plans a career in electronics and computer science.

The Wayne County youth constructed the robot, which can be programmed, for an exhibit at the county fair and displayed it at a school science fair.

The seven-year 4-H'er said his sound-activated switch will "turn anything that can be plugged into a wall socket on or off with a clap of the hands."

He also constructed "a phaser device which makes a noise like Star Trek's phasers" and a color organ that flashes lights in time to music.

Schmidt then moved into the interesting field of computers and said he now has good experience in constructing printed circuit boards.

The 4-H'er has been busy writing computer programs, including one for his high school wrestling coach, which includes wrestling statistics. He wrote another program for his father, an industrial education teacher, which times small cars made out of wood and powered by CO2 cartridges. The youth landed a part-time job working with computers as a result of his 4-H experience.

He organized a two-hour computer workshop, teaching students from fifth to eighth grades about computers in two evening sessions. Most of the 4-H'ers had never used a computer before.

Of Cedar County

Adkins named outstanding 4-H'er

Sara Adkins of Laurel was named the outstanding 4-H member at the 1985 Cedar County recognition program held Nov. 16. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Adkins, Sara has been a 4-H member for nine years and completed 100 projects.

She has participated in demonstrations, public speaking, judging, 4-H revue, leadership, district 4-H camp, leadership and environment camps, Nebraska 4-H Conferences and state and national livestock shows.

Sara has received special recognition in the safety area: State Fire Prevention Award winner, and received a trip to National Safety Congress in Chicago; State and National Safety award winner and received a trip to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago and a $1,000 scholarship; and was selected the 1985 National 4-H Youth Representative to the National Safety Congress in New Orleans.

Active in two 4-H clubs, the Magic Fingers and Laurel Cornhuskers, Sara has held various offices and served as a Junior Leader. Sara is an honor student at Laurel-Concord High School where she is active in sports, music and drama activities.

Farm managing programs renewed

Two programs aimed at providing financial management help to Nebraska farmers are again available, according to Larry Bitney, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension farm management specialist.

A short-range counseling service and long-range management program are being offered to farmers and ranchers across the state.

The short-range Farm and Ranch Financial Counseling Program will aid farmers and ranchers who need to assess their situation objectively and develop an immediate plan of action, Bitney said.

The UNL Cooperative Extension

Service employs 14 trained financial counselors who are available for short-term consultation in all areas of the state.

The Financial Counseling Program is a free service, Bitney said. Farm families desiring assistance need only call the toll-free UNL Farm Financial Information Line, 800-535-3456. A counselor in the caller's area will then be assigned to contact the caller, Bitney said.

IN ITS INITIAL operation last spring, the counseling program served 450 families with preparation of balance sheets, loan applications, cash flow plans and other financial-related efforts.

The counseling program is funded by a grant from the University of Nebraska Foundation.

The long-range program, Managing for Tomorrow, is a comprehensive financial management service offered to aid farm families improve their financial management skills.

Managing for Tomorrow includes a combination of small group workshops, individual consultations by UNL farm management specialists, computer analysis of financial records and periodic financial reviews.

Farm families receive instruction in goal setting and financial planning analysis during a series of four, one-day group workshops. Individual consultations, usually on the farm or ranch, follow.

The major funding for Managing for Tomorrow is provided by the State Department of Agriculture, Extension Service USDA and the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service. There is a one-time $200 charge per family for the program, Bitney said.

Further information is available from local extension offices or by calling the toll-free information line, 800-535-3456.

One frosty morning

LAST FRIDAY morning, trees in the area were frosted with a heavy glaze of white that was deposited by foggy conditions Thursday evening. This photo was taken about two miles south and a mile east of Wayne.

the farmer's wife by pat melerhenry

"It's not my fault!" is a commonly heard cry at our house. Somehow, it's difficult for humans to admit responsibility for things that don't happen according to schedule. I don't like to admit that it was my carelessness that led to the bank overdraft, the smashed fender, the broken glass.

Similarly, with kids and spilled milk, cars in ditches, gates that didn't get shut, and people home after curfews, we hear again, "It wasn't my fault."

Dr. Lingren informed us at the stress workshop that blame is a by-product of rapid change. In agriculture these days, there has been a lot of blaming going on. And he showed us a videotape that exemplified this.

Two older retired farmers having coffee at the local cafe go on about the younger guys who bought big equipment and put up fancy buildings.

A husband scolds his wife for spending so much on groceries and kids' clothes. She tells him he shouldn't have borrowed to buy that last piece of land.

Bankers say their clients have been poor managers. Their clients say the lenders were eager to loan money. The President and Congress appear not to understand.

I was personally offended by a recent column by Andy Rooney in which he pictures the economy as rosy. Obviously, he hasn't been in the Midwest.

For me, he added insult to injury the next week when he wrote about coaches and football, and did not even mention Nebraska. He was one of my favorites, up to now.

ANYWAY, AN Extension Service publication called Dealing With Blame was handed out. It assures us that it is natural and human to look for someone or something to blame when things are not going well or when we are hurt or threatened.

The act of blaming may stem from a need to understand a difficult situation. It seems worse to feel the world has gone out of kilter for no reason.

We look for someone to blame so we may have some control over the outcome and our feelings.

Then there is self-blame, which may be the most destructive if it persists. While blame may be a natural human emotion, it doesn't help to solve things. It stands in the way of taking action.

The hand-out suggests these steps:

1. Let people know how you are feeling.

2. If you are the loved one of someone feeling guilt or sadness, don't be silent. Tell them you don't blame them.

3. Remind everyone about factors beyond personal control that helped create these difficulties.

4. Talk to others in similar situations.

5. "To err is human." Wrong decisions don't make us bad or stupid. (The other part of that is "to forgive, divine.")

6. Most importantly, keep in mind that the future of the farm is separate from the future of the family. Bad as loss of a farm may be, loss of family is worse.

DR. LINGREN offered some help for productive worrying. He suggested making lists of things we worry about, sort them into two groups, those over which we have some control and those over which we have no control; and rank them greatest to least. Then attack the problems one at a time, beginning with the easiest.

Using these steps, I have reset two mouse traps and purchased more DeCon. Next I'm going to bake my cookies for the annual exchange, finish my cards and buy my tree.

I'm going to continue to feed the guys working at the corn picking, pray the predicted storm fizzles out again, and do very little shopping. That should make it easier to postpone worrying some more about our finances until after Jan. 1. Along with the overweight, need to exercise, and overdue visits to shut-ins that are perennial on my resolution list. Thank you, Dr. Lingren!

Livestock Feeders oppose sales tax

At their annual convention in Kearney this week, the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association moved to oppose any attempt to impose a sales tax on services by the Nebraska Legislature.

The organization also reaffirmed their stand to support a National Mandatory Beef Checkoff with no refunds and a delayed referendum.

Along this same line the NLFA will request that the Attorney General, County Attorneys and other responsible law enforcement agencies will enforce the Nebraska Mandatory Law and prosecute to the extent of the law those that disobey or defy the Nebraska Beef Checkoff Law.

Initiative #300 also received its share of debate during the annual meeting. The Resolution that came from the Government Affairs Committee asked for a modification of #300. Proponents wanted to know what "modification" meant. An amendment, that spelled out this modification included the language — "so that corporations, that can legally own cattle in other states, can also feed cattle in Nebraska feedlots and that farm corporations with less than 25 stockholders can own land and feed cattle in Nebraska." This amendment passed by a vote of 36 for, 29 against out of a possible 198 voting members that had cast their ballots for new officers of the Association.

In another issue, the NLFA resolved to support an attempt to repeal the sales tax recently imposed on farm auction sales.

Jack Fisher, Dawson, was elected NLFA President for 1986 replacing Roger Wehrlein of Plattsmouth who will remain on the National Cattlemen's Association (NCA) Board of Directors.

Al Svajgr, Cozad, was named President Elect, and Donovan Yoachim, Belvidere, Vice President. Larry Hudkins, Malcolm will join the other officers as the fifth NCA director from the NLFA.

The Nebraska Feeders Auxiliary officers for 1986 will be: Anita Drinnan, Columbus, President; Margaret Dicke, Madison, President Elect; Pat Mueller, Columbus, Vice President; Dolores Oppliger, Columbus, Treasurer; and Janice Kurz, Palmer, Secretary.

Traci Roth, Wisner, was crowned as the 1986 Nebraska Feeders Queen. Traci is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Lonnie Roth. Traci represented the Cumling County Livestock Feeders Assn. First runner-up was Vonda Reiner, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Johnny Reiners of Juniata. The second runner-up was Meshelle Augustin, Shelby, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Larry Augustin.

The Feeders and Auxiliary voted to meet in Omaha at the Midtown Holiday Inn for the 1986 Convention, Annual Meeting, and Trade Show. The event is scheduled for November 23 through 25, 1986.
