Sexual assault incident reported

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating the alleged sexual assault of a 19 year old Pierce, Nebraska woman.

According to information released from the Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen, the incident occurred at about 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 22.

The woman, whose name is not being released, experienced car trouble west of Wayne and stopped on a county road along Highway 35. Three males had stopped to offer assistance.

Janssen, in a news release, said the three males then allegedly forced the woman into their vehicle where she was sexually abused. After the ordeal, the woman was released at her car by the three assailants.

The three men are being sought for questioning at this time and charges will be pending for the offenders at the Wayne County Attorney's Office, Janssen reported.

In South Dakota

Ashker to appear for motion hearing

Lewis Ashker of Wayne will appear on Monday (today) before Circuit Judge Paul Kern at Lake Andes, South Dakota for a motion hearing.

Asher was extradited Jan. 10 from the Wayne County Jail to the jail facility in Lake Andes. He has been indicted by a South Dakota grand jury on charges of first degree murder, first degree manslaughter in the stabbing death of Jerold Pflaig of Delmont, South Dakota.

A motion hearing is defined as Ashker's application, made to the judge, to obtain an order ruling and direction in favor of Ashker. This could involve entering into the evidence of the case to prove, or disprove, that Ashker was the individual that should have been indicted on the aforementioned charges.

This is Ashker's second appearance before Judge Kern. His first appearance was on the day he arrived at Lake Andes (Jan. 10), when his bail was established at $350,000. However, Douglas County (South Dakota) Sheriff Ron Morrow said on Friday that Ashker remains in the Lake Andes jail facility.

Asher was also provided with a court appointed attorney.

WORK CREWS sawed the remaining tree stumps to ground level in the final phase of removing 11 diseased trees from the west portion of the campus at Wayne State College. College officials point out that the trees will be replaced. For now, there is an openness looking toward the Hahn Administration Building.

Diseased trees hauled from campus

A clearing project of diseased trees on the west end of the Wayne State College campus has given the facility a different look.

Eleven trees, plus two old stumps, were removed recently from the campus grounds. Charles Maier, a professor working within the Math and Science Division at Wayne State and a member of the Tree Committee, told the Wayne Herald that the 11 Siberian Elm trees suffered from slime flux -- a disease that causes discoloration on the bark.

"The same trees were topped six or seven years ago. Ever since 1977, when we worked out our long range plans, the trees were scheduled to come out," Maier said.

Actually replacement of the trees is currently under discussion by the tree committee, composed of people from the community and the faculty. "We would want something that looks decent and isn't subject to diseases," he said.

"The replacement trees will likely be planted whenever the money comes in for the project.

Some of the trees under consideration include the Little Leaf Linden and the Hardrock Maple.

Region IV recognizes Stroman, Gleason

The Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities Government Board started their annual meeting off in the customary way last Thursday by recognizing the Region IV Employees of the Year.

Wayne area individuals who received recognition included Marilyn Stroman, assistant area director at Wayne; and Lanny Gleason, Director of Special Services with the Region IV Central Office in Wayne.

Others noted as the Employees of the Year included Barb Friedrichsen, area resident assistant employed at Bloomfield; Jess Rojas, van driver employed at Columbus; Phyllis Hultquist, resident assistant and Lyons employee; Cathy Cornish, social service work with Region IV Services in Norfolk; Jeanie Miller, ADC instructor with the O'Neill program; and Brenda Twyford, residential assistant from South Sioux City.

Also a part of the meeting was the election of officers. Three board members were re-elected to the posts they held last year. Don Jamison, Rock County Commissioner, was re-elected Chairman; Dixon County Commissioner, Dorothy Mattes, was re-elected board secretary; and Herman Ortmeier from Cuming County was elected treasurer.

Gretchen Hirschbach, Commissioner from Dakota County, took the place of Madison County Commissioner Louis Barry as vice-chairman.

Also on Thursday, the Board received information on three proposals from the Department of Public Instructions, any of which would radically change the way mental retardation services are delivered. The board voted unanimously to oppose all three options of the plan.

The Governing Board also heard from several people from Lyons. They came to the Board meeting to express their concerns on a proposed plan which could affect present services in the Lyons program.

Toys for Tots exceeds goal

Over 2,200 area residents benefited from the efforts of the northeast Nebraska "Toys for Tots" and Elderly Food Basket drive for 1985. This program was coordinated for the fifth straight year by Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council of northeast Nebraska.

A total of 2,001 children from less-fortunate families received toys for the Christmas holiday and 207 elderly households were recipients of food baskets. These numbers are more than double the figures for the previous year, according to "Toys for Tots" Project Director Virgene Dunklau of Wayne.

"In 1984, this program served 840 children and 100 elderly households," said Dunklau. "Our initial projections for 1985 were well below the 2000 actual total. It is thanks to many concerned and caring area residents that we were able to reach so many persons this year."

The participant totals for each of the area counties served by Goldenrod Hills are: Wayne, 82 children and 16 elderly households; Dixon, 35 children and six elderly households; and Cedar County, 90 children and 16 elderly households.

Brashear: first priority is jobs

Saying it is time to put Nebraska back on the track to growth and prosperity, Kermit Brashear, the immediate past chairman of the Nebraska Republican Party, announced he will seek the Republican nomination for Governor of the State of Nebraska.

Brashear made the announcement in his hometown, Crawford, from the same stage he walked across 24 years ago to receive his high school diploma.

Brashear told a high school auditorium full of supporters, "Like you, I have an increasing sense of concern and frustration about where our state is headed in many areas. To put it bluntly, I believe that if something isn't done and done soon, Nebraska's finest hour may have passed. And we cannot permit that to happen."

I believe that what this state needs - right now - is new leadership and a vision about where we are headed for the future," said Brashear. "The issue in 1986 is who best understands where we are and why, where we must go and how, and who has the leadership qualities and abilities to do the job. I think we need a brand new commitment to work together to GROW NEBRASKA again, to prosper and to become one of America's great locations for agriculture, for enterprise, for education," said Brashear.

Brashear predicted a "long and difficult" campaign but said he is confident. "We will win because the people of Nebraska do not want the same old tired political leadership. We will win because the people of Nebraska want jobs and growth - and action. We will win because the people of Nebraska want to make this state great again."

Brashear said if elected Governor, he "will be a force for the creation of new jobs in this state and an economic opportunity for everyone." Brashear said, "I believe our number one priority ought to be jobs - jobs for the farm people who need them to stay on the farm and for the farm people who must leave the farm, jobs for homemakers who supplement family income, jobs for our young people who want to stay here. Jobs, jobs, jobs!"

Government taxing and spending must be controlled according to Brashear, "I know what it is to earn a living, pay taxes and meet a payroll. I know what overhead is how to cut it. If we want to prosper as individuals and attract new business to our state, we simply have got to hold the line on taxes and state government spending. I want to do that - and, with your help - we are going to do it."

Brashear has lived in all three of the state's congressional districts. From Crawford in the Third District, he went to college at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln and graduated from the University's Law School in the First District. Brashear now lives in Omaha in the Second District, where he is the managing partner of one of the state's largest law firms.

Brashear asked his supporters to leave his announcement rally with a message: "Nebraska needs new leadership. We can't afford more of the same. Help me carry the banner for change and growth, and I promise you in return a Governor who will listen, respond and get things done."

Drive away

I was reading an article from Mechanics Illustrated in the waiting room. Two other individuals were there with me.

One person had his only love operated on at 9 a.m. after it passed out on the city street. The other found his priceless possession looking pretty sick after the long trip back home. Both men showed signs of excessive worry. They looked like they were crying all night.

The chief in charge, Mr. Greaser, stroled into the waiting room and all of us sat on the edge of our chair. He wasn't smiling.

"Mr. Hackenmiller," said Greaser.

"That's me!" I said, stumbling forward and fumbling with my car keys. The keys belonged to my 1975 Plymouth Duster — a vehicle which my brother sold to me when this same situation happened to the car I previously owned.

On Friday afternoon after work at this office, I went to pick up my son at the babysitters' house. Just as I pulled into the drive, my car suffered a severe malfunction to the battery. Its engine stopped.

It took four minutes with the defibrillator cables to bring my car back to life. From there, the vehicle was rushed to the nearest car garage.

Greaser was talking to me.

"You've got a sick car in there son."

At first we didn't think it would pull through. But now she's off and running again. Things will be fine," Greaser said. "We were able to catch it in time before the symptoms spread."

I broke down and sighed with relief after all that tension and I emphatically shook Greaser's hand after he had removed his oil-stained gloves.

"Not so fast, young man. Just because your car pulled through doesn't mean things will be back to normal again," warned Greaser. "You've got to take some precautions just to keep Duster alive for a few more years."

"Anything doc? Just tell me what I should do!" I exclaimed.

The miracle worker pulled out a list and handed some handwritten notes for me. "This is what I prescribe for your car," he said.

His comments were as follows: "Change the oil every three days or every 100 miles, whichever comes first. Greaser said the car will have an insatiable thirst for oil and gasoline from here on in.

"Don't drive over 20 miles per hour because you will never know when the brakes will fail or the power steering will falter.

"Lumps were found on the bald area of the tires. We managed to cut those off and patch them up again. It would be better to not jake your Duster on long trips — six miles a day is plenty.

"The outside of Duster is deteriorating to near epidemic proportions. The age spots (most commonly referred to as rust areas) make your car look like it is over 100 years old. I would like to see the entire car painted rust, since that's the color of half of the vehicle already.

"Show some affection to the Duster every once in a while. Stop cussing at it when it neglects to start. Quit pounding the steering wheel and pay attention to the road. After all, your car is very sick and should be dealt with appropriately.

"And, finally, if you find a part of the car is missing or not operating, get ahold of us promptly and we will schedule a transplant — just as soon as another car passes on to another life in the junkyard.

Greaser then handed me a pink slip explaining the costs for the work on Duster. I was shocked and appalled.

"Why, you charged just as much as the medical profession! This charge is outrageous for this old beater!"

"Now, now, don't start blowing your gasket. Just get this vehicle out of here. I've got more cases to work on," Greaser said.

"Here's the crank. Start'er up in the front!" he added.

I could have sworn that when I came to this place, my car had electronic ignition.

On commodities

Exon: a loan is a loan

U.S. Senator Jim Exon (D-Neb.) has asked the Secretary of Agriculture to reconsider the Department's announcement to reduce commodity loan rates by 4.3 percent due to Gramm-Rudman. The USDA announced earlier this week it would further reduce the corn loan rate from $1.92 to $1.84 per bushel.

Exon, a staunch opponent of the Gramm-Rudman legislation, said in a letter to the Agriculture Secretary "a loan is a loan and should not be affected by Gramm-Rudman." A loan is not a direct payment since the government will either be repaid or collect the commodity put up as collateral.

The Nebraska Senator said deducting the 4.3 percent for the Gramm-Rudman sequester order from the already rock bottom loan rate is "false arithmetic" because it presupposes that commodities will sell at less than the loan rate. He noted that in the event a farmer defaults on a loan, the government retains the grain which has value, whereas the USDA calculations to arrive at the reduction assume it would be worth nothing.

Exon urged the Ag Secretary to announce the sign-up dates for the various commodities and asked the Agriculture Secretary to explain how Gramm-Rudman will impact the entire farm program.

"Farmers need to know how Gramm-Rudman will affect them if they have signed up for the program and have a contract before the sequester order takes effect," Exon said. "Will farmers be exempted from Gramm-Rudman payment cuts if they have a signed contract or what other factors might affect their payments?" he added.

Other questions Exon asked the Department to answer include:

- How reductions in payments would be implemented?
- The timing of deficiency payments?
- Whether 1986 crop payments will be reduced beyond the March sequester order?

viewpoint

Write to us

During 1985, there were 104 letters to the editor which were published on our viewpoint pages of the Wayne Herald. That figures to about one letter to the editor per issue.

Types of letters have ranged from the subjects of the state's economy and city council policy on up to disagreements with content in this newspaper or public thanks for fundraising functions.

All that is good. But we certainly would like to hear a lot more from our readers.

What we use on the editorial page, such as columns from our elected congressmen and state senators or other opinion-minded articles, can be interpreted as something which we feel will or already has affected our readers.

Our "Viewpoint" segment of this editorial page takes into consideration the writer's personal opinion. That writer's viewpoint, however, is not the final word.

People have their own approach to solving a controversy or being able to derive some sort of solution to a difficult problem that crops up from time to time. We encourage fresh new ideas and want people to speak out when they find something we publish doesn't settle with their own principles and ideals.

Writing "letters to the editor" is one means to relate those ideas, attitudes or a way to vent a frustration. The editorial page is your page as well.

All we ask is that the letters you submit are not considered libelous or of a malicious, offensive nature.

Our policy has been to allow letters to be published with a pseudonym or with the author's name omitted upon request. But remember that even if the name is not used, the letter still must be signed by the original author.

Our policy states that unsigned letters will not be published. We would like to see the author's name printed with the letter as it appears on the viewpoint pages.

We will also edit letters for clarity and catch the grammar or spelling errors. But we will not intentionally alter the point or the meaning which the author tries to get across.

So if readers have some comments to make about the legislature, a council or county decision, the way the newspaper handles an issue — write to us.

We'd be happy to get your message across.

Ad Bad

I am writing in regard to an ad in your Want-ads section of the January 13 edition. This ad promised good earnings by working at home "evaluating work reports," etc.

As I, like so many other Wayne area people, am out of work and in DIRE need of a job, I responded to this ad by sending a self-addressed envelope to the address as requested.

Yesterday I received a reply from them — Associated Writers Guild of America — plus a list of questions and answers about their company, and an application form for me to complete and return. Sounds pretty good so far, right?

The questionnaire, directed at "people with average or high intelligence" leads you to believe that you could make a fair amount of money without spending a dime — just by working carefully and keeping track of their "field agents" (also hired by this company).

Not until the last paragraph is there any mention of your spending any money. This states that in order to qualify for this job, you must pass a "Motivation and Aptitude Test" — provided for them by a company named only as NADVTS for a nominal fee of $25.00. Supposedly, you can return the test unfinished and get a refund of your money, if you decide it is too difficult. OR you will be reimbursed for your $25.00 if you are hired by AWGA at a rate of 10 percent of your salary each pay period. You only have to have a score of 70 or above to be hired.

Well, I called the Better Business Bureau in Omaha and asked them about this company. The woman said that they had had so many complaints — which have all been unanswered by this company — that they suggested to anyone asking that AWGA is not in the best public interest.

My point in all this is that during these hard economic times — when people are DESPERATE for a job or ANY chance to increase their income, an ad like this in a local newspaper is going to be jumped at.

I believe that your newspaper should act more responsibly in checking out this type of ad BEFORE printing it and giving false hope to so many unemployed people — perhaps even to the point of them putting up the $25.00, which they would probably never see again, and which would buy a good-sized bag of groceries instead.

The BBB has a toll-free number so it would cost you only a little time to be sure an ad is legitimate before printing it.

Shoot-out

There's a saying that goes, "he who can do" he who cannot, teaches." I'd like to change that to "he who cannot, gives." I urge everyone who can to join the upcoming Cystic Fibrosis Shoot-out at Wayne High School on Sunday, Feb. 16 and shoot your heart out. Every basket you make means more money for scientists to work on a cure or control for this inherited and fatal disease.

Fortunately Wayne has a lot of energetic and willing "athletes." During the next several weeks these volunteers will ask friends, relatives and neighbors to pledge money for their efforts for cystic fibrosis. Please give what you can.

Although some of us are not athletically inclined, we can still help by giving generously to support participants in the Basketball Shoot-out. Our goal is $500. Proceeds will help fund clinics which specialize in diagnosis and treatment as well as basic biomedical research. Until a cure is found, top quality care is essential to help provide a better quality of life for kids born with cystic fibrosis.

These kids are doing the best they can — let's do the best we can! See you at the upcoming Basketball Shoot-out.

Ag transition not going anywhere

by Cheryl Stubbenieck
Agriculture is frequently described as being "in transition" these days, and much thought is being given to managing this transition. Since transition means a movement to something else, a logical question is: a transition to what?

But first, a transition from what? American Farm Bureau economist Ross Korves, in describing the current situation, explains that since 1980, the U.S. has shifted away from the inflationary monetary, credit and economic policies that characterized the mid-1960s to the late '70s. Following President Reagan's election in 1980, economic and tax policies continued this trend.

As is well-known, farmers and ranchers who made management decisions based on a continuation of the policies of the late '70s were caught in a bind.

Korves says there is nothing particularly unique about this current transition from an economic viewpoint. Economists have known for a long time that inflation distorts economic signals, price increases caused by an inflationary monetary policy are seen as real and permanent increases. Increases in sales of products to consumers who are given cheap credit are considered to be permanent increases in markets, and current price and production trends are viewed as permanent, and investment decisions are made based on projecting those trends into the future.

IN ADDITION, Korves says, the only way to protect wealth against the ravages of inflation is to invest in assets that are going to increase in value. As inflation continues, more people invest to take advantage of the situation and this becomes normal operating procedure. This explains why the price of Iowa farmland increased by five times in the years between 1970 to 1981.

In short, that's a pretty good description of the "what" we're transitioning from.

Again as is well-known, this can't go on forever, and it didn't. Higher and higher rates of inflation were needed to cover decisions based on continuing inflation. Those with assets demand higher prices in order to part with them, savers demand higher inflation premiums to guarantee that the amount repaid will exceed the amount originally loaned.

The merry-go-round came to a halt when the Reagan Administration began to enact its policies. But those who make decisions about agricultural production do not have the luxury or ability to make changes as quickly as government.

Congress also had a part in this direction, through the higher loan and target prices in the 1981 farm bill.

AFTER FIVE YEARS of this "new" disinflationary direction, Korves says several points are clear: First, prices of agricultural products and farmland will return to their traditional relationship with other prices, that existed before the inflationary '70s. Commodity and land prices in many areas of the country already have returned to about 2.5 times the average of their 1969-71 levels.

Second, and this is no surprise, anybody who made decisions on agricultural investments based on higher, inflation-distorted price expectations is in deep financial trouble. This is why, he says, that although incomes are down all across U.S. agriculture, the people with the greatest difficulties are the one-third of farmer-operators who are carrying two-thirds of the debt.

Third, credit problems for these folks will not be solved by one or two good income years or by spreading principal and interest payments over a longer period. Fourth, Korves says, farm policy must recognize that a transition has occurred, and investment decisions must be based on productive potential rather than inflationary speculation.

Korves believes this transition process has another three or four years to go, and if it's allowed to run its course, agriculture will not be sharply different than what it would have been without this period of inflation and disinflation.

So, what is agriculture in transition to? According to Korves, it's moving toward what it was before.

Got a favorite teacher?

Nearly everyone has had a teacher who they consider very special. But, unfortunately, many people don't realize the positive influence that teachers had on their lives until years later, and then it's too late to say thank you... or is it?

For the fourth consecutive year, the Omaha World-Herald and the Teacher Recognition Day Committee are sponsoring a contest to provide Nebraska teachers with some long-overdue recognition and appreciation.

Held in conjunction with the state's Teacher Recognition Day on Tuesday, March 4, the "Nebraska Outstanding Teacher Contest" allows both past and present students to pay tribute to a teacher whose efforts may have gone beyond the basic transfer of information normally associated with the profession.

ANY LIVING, PRESENT or former public, parochial, or private school teacher of any grade from kindergarten through 12th grade may be nominated for the honor.

To enter the contest, write about why you feel your favorite teacher is outstanding in 200 words or less and mail it, with an entry form, to: Nebraska Outstanding Teacher Contest, World-Herald, World Herald Square, Omaha, NE 68102.

Entry forms can be obtained either through this publication or in the February 2nd, 4th, or 9th editions of the Omaha World-Herald. Entries must be received no later than Friday, Feb. 14.

WINNING ENTRIES from both an adult and student category will be selected from each of the state's three congressional districts. Each of the six teachers selected will receive an engraved plaque from the World-Herald. Additionally, each teacher nominated for the honor will receive a certificate of appreciation.

Winners will be announced on Sunday, March 2nd, and persons submitting the winning entries will receive dinner for two at a restaurant of their choice with the teacher they nominated. The Nebraska Association of School Boards will pick up the dinner tab.

According to Bill Preston, chairman of the Teacher Recognition Day Committee, the old cliché about the nomination being the most important thing still holds true.

news and notes

What to eat before you compete

Eating special foods before an athletic competition won't improve performance. But choosing some foods instead of others may help prevent a poor performance.

Eating before competition is different from eating any other meal because the athlete is likely to be nervous. It's a good idea to choose favorite foods that are easily digested.

A sample menu might include spaghetti with non-spicy tomato sauce, vegetable or salad, bread with jam, fruit, and a cup of skim milk. Those foods are high in carbohydrate and low in fat.

Carbohydrates are more quickly digested than fats or proteins. Before competition try to avoid frankfurters, luncheon-type meats, peanut butter, yellow cheeses, gravies, rich sauces, fried foods and ice cream.

Foods that are easily digested include cereals, bread, spaghetti, rice, potatoes and fruits. Toast or day-old bread is more easily digested than fresh bread, rolls or pancakes. Use only small amounts of butter or margarine and salad dressings.

The pre-competition meal should be eaten about three hours before the scheduled contest. This allows the body time to complete the digestion process before working leg and arm muscles demand oxygen and nutrients.

FLUID SUPPLIES should also be built up. To help maintain the fluid balance, the pre-game meal should contain two or three glasses of water or other beverages. Some of this may be taken within 30 minutes of competition. Frequent drinks of water during competition are recommended.

Water is the principal means of transporting heat in and out of the body. Physical exercise increases the amount of heat produced. But feeling thirsty is not an adequate indication that the body needs water. By the time an athlete feels thirsty, he or she already may be behind in replacing body water. Monitor your fluid loss by weighing before and after exercise. For every two pounds lost, four cups of water are needed.

Water is the preferred beverage. There is no evidence that commercial sport beverages or salt solutions improve performance or replace body fluids better than water.

Beverages containing caffeine, such as cola, coffee or tea, can increase nervous tension. They also act as a diuretic. Alcohol beverages should also be avoided because they too dehydrate the body.

THE REAL KEY to top performance, as far as food is concerned, is not what's eaten or drunk right before or during the competition, but what's consumed during the previous weeks and months.

The body needs more than 40 different nutrients. If one is missing or is in short supply, it handicaps the others.

All the needed nutrients are available in ordinary foods. With a proper diet, special supplements or pills are unnecessary, costly and may even be dangerous. Vitamins as such contain no usable energy. Nor is there any evidence that large losses of vitamins and minerals occur in perspiration.

And, no evidence exists that additions to the diet such as wheat germ, wheat germ oil, lecithin, bee pollen, gelatin, honey, kelp, brewer's yeast, pangamic acid, salts of aspartic acid, ginseng or sunflower seeds have any unique properties or improve athletic performance.

The biggest difference between food needs of athletes and non-athletes is extra calories required for energy.

The more vigorous the exercise, the more food energy that's needed. Foods high in carbohydrate, such as fruits and whole grain breads and cereals, are especially good energy sources.

Blue Devils improve to 8-4 with 48-46 victory over Hartington Cedar Catholic Whew!

That was the reaction Wayne basketball fans had when Hartington Cedar Catholic's Steve Miller desperation 35-footer missed at the buzzer and the Blue Devils claimed a thrilling 48-46 victory Friday night.

It seems Hartington CC/Wayne games are always close, and Friday night was no exception. The Blue Devils did, however, have several opportunities to put the Trojans away, but never did.

"That's one of our biggest problems this year," Wayne head coach Bob Uhing said. "When we get a rebound on the ropes, we let them back in instead of putting them away. We're lacking that killer instinct."

Mediocre free throw shooting by the Blue Devils allowed the Trojans to stay close in the late going. Wayne had two one-and-one opportunities in the final 35 seconds, but on both occasions made only one gifter.

Cedar Catholic's Jeff Kinney pulled the visitors within two, 46-44, with 35 seconds to go after a missed free throw by the Blue Devils.

Wayne then opened a 46-47 lead when Ted Lueders, was fouled at the .08 mark. Lueders is a 71 percent free throw shooter and canned his first gifter to insure at least overtime for the Blue Devils.

Lueders' second gifter missed, but Wayne grabbed the offensive rebound. The Blue Devils' shot failed, but so did Miller's desperation shot and Wayne claimed the triumph.

"We shouldn't have taken the shot off the missed free throw," Wayne head coach Bob Uhing said. "We should've just hung on to the ball because Hartington got one last chance to tie it."

Wayne had several opportunities to blow the game open in the first half. With Don Larsen leading the way, the Blue Devils opened 20-13 lead midway through the second quarter. However, Cedar Catholic came storming back and pulled within one, 20-19, on a Brian Steffen layup with 2:06 remaining before intermission.

Scott Baker drilled a free throw and Larsen added two more gifters to supply Wayne with a 23-19 advantage at the break.

The four point lead was one of Wayne's largest the rest of the night as the second half was closely played.

Larsen was a force on the inside for the Blue Devils. Cedar Catholic shut out the 6-5 senior in the first quarter, but he finished with a game high 25 points on seven field goals and an 11-for-13 effort from the free throw line.

Brent Pick picked up the slack in the first quarter for Wayne. The rough 6-4 senior hit six of his eight points in the initial stanza to supply the Blue Devils with a 10-7 advantage.

Jeff Hausmann, Baker and Lueders rounded out Wayne's scoring with seven, five and three points, respectively. Kinney led Cedar Catholic with 13 markers.

Both teams struggled from the field. Wayne finished 14-for-47 for 35 percent, while the Trojans went 20-for-60 for 33 percent.

A key to the Blue Devil victory was free throw shooting. Wayne outscored Cedar Catholic by 14 points at the stripe finishing 20-for-31, compared to the Trojans' 6-for-17 effort.

Uhing said he was happy his club got to play Cedar Catholic because the Trojans are different than most Blue Devil opponents.

"I thought the game was good for us because Hartington has a lot of good ball handlers and good shooters, while most of the teams we play rely on a more physical style," he said.

Although the Trojans are, indeed, a finesse team, they did become physical at different times during the game.

In the first quarter, Lueders and Cedar Catholic's Steve Miller became involved in a mild shoving affair and both teams responded with pushing and shoving during play for several minutes thereafter. However, both squads settled down and got back to business, the rest of the way.

Uhing coached at Cedar Catholic for five seasons before taking over the head job at Wayne. He is now 4-0 against the Trojans and admits that beating his former school always satisfies him.

"It seems like they always get up for us and act like they really want to beat us," he said. "It's always nice to win, but yea, it feels good to beat them."

Wayne's junior varsity improved its record to 6-3 on the year as the Blue Devils crushed the Trojans 56-39. Scott Hammer and Jason Jorgensen led Wayne's JVs with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Wayne is now 8-4 on the year. The Blue Devils play again Friday at West Point. The loss dropped Cedar Catholic to 8-3.

Wakefield peaks, but torrid shooting lifts Wynot past the Trojans, 53-45

WAKEFIELD — Sometimes your best just isn't good enough. And such was the case Friday night for Wakefield's boys as the Trojans dropped a 53-45 decision to Wynot.

"We really played a good game," Wakefield head coach Paul Eaton said. "We played very good defense and it was our best all-around game of the year, we just didn't win."

A key to Wynot's victory was its shooting. The Blue Devils canned an incredible 18-of-29 field goals for 62 percent, and hit 73 percent of their free throws going 17-for-23.

"We played the best we could," Eaton said. "But Wynot deserved the win. When you shoot that good, you deserve to win."

The final score is misleading as Wakefield trailed by only five points with just over one minute remaining. However, because they were behind, the Trojans were forced to foul Wynot and the Blue Devils responded with outstanding efforts from the line and claimed the eight point victory.

Wynot led 13-8 after the first quarter and maintained the five point advantage at the half, 25-20. The Blue Devils then led 36-29 heading into the fourth quarter before Wakefield's late surge fell short.

Wynot's Mike Eskens claimed the game's scoring honors with 18 points, hitting five field goals and 8-of-10 free throws.

Wakefield only had three players score until Ray Ferguson drilled a bucket at the buzzer. Leading the Trojans offensively were Kevin Greve, Wade Nicholson and Brad Lund who finished with 16, 14 and 13 points, respectively.

Although only four Trojans cracked the scoring column, Eaton praised the two other players for their defensive efforts.

"Jeff Rose and John Halverson played great defensive games," he said. "Rose guarded Eskens and really made him work for every point he got, and John played just as tough."

Wakefield finished 20-for-46 from the floor and hit 5-of-8 free throws.

The Trojans outrebounded Wynot 25-21. Nicholson, Rose and Greve led Wakefield with six boards apiece.

"That isn't very many rebounds, but when a team makes its shots, there just isn't many opportunities for rebounds," Eaton said.

Eaton said he was still pleased with his club's efforts, despite losing.

"I can't fault our kids," he said. "They work hard and do what they are told, tonight they just came up a little short."

Wakefield's junior varsity claimed a 30-25 victory. The game lasted only two quarters. Mike Nelson led the Trojan JVs with eight points.

The loss dropped Wakefield's varsity to 5-7 on the year. The Trojans play again Monday when they host Ponca.

WAYNE'S SCOTT Baker (No. 24) drives in for the first basket of Friday's Hartington Cedar Catholic/Blue Devil Game. Wayne claimed a 48-46 victory.

Stingy defense boosts Laurel, 44-31

LAUREL — A halting defense by Laurel during the two middle quarters lifted the Bears to a 44-31 victory over Hartington here Friday night.

Both teams were tied at 10 after the first stanza, but Laurel outscored the Wildcats 12-3 in the second frame to open a 22-13 advantage.

The Bears didn't let up in the third quarter as they answered the second half bell by outscoring Hartington, 14-6 for a commanding 36-19 lead.

Laurel head coach Mark Hrabik said it was his club's defense that keyed the productive middle quarters.

"The key was our defense. We played really good 'D' in the second and third quarters and that got us going and let us pull away," he said.

After the game was out of reach, Hartington did make the final score respectable by outscoring the Bears 12-8 in the last quarter.

Brent Hasick once again had a good all-around game for the Bears. The 6-1 junior scored 20 points, grabbed nine rebounds and totaled four steals. All were team highs.

"Brent is really playing good ball," Hrabik said. "He's really starting to come around."

Joedy Cunningham followed Haisch with 10 points, while Scott Marquardt added eight markers to the Bear triumph.

Hartington did rebound Laurel 31-24. The Wildcats added a 7-for-14 performance from the line and hit 12 field goals.

Laurel continued to shoot well from the line hitting 4-of-8 gifters to go along with its 19 fielders.

Hrabik said another key to the win was the Bears' execution against Hartington's man-to-man defense.

"Hartington played a man against us and we did a good job of taking the ball to the hole and getting good shots," he said.

The victory improved the Bears' record to 3-6 on the year. Laurel's next game is Friday when the 5-7 Wakefield Trojans invade the Bear gymnasium.

Lutt guides Wayne to 40-21 win

A gutsy performance by Wayne's 155-pounder Chris Lutt guided the Blue Devil grapplers to a 40-21 victory over Wisner-Pilger Thursday night.

According to Wayne head coach John Murtaugh, Lutt was ill during most of the week and had a fever all day Wednesday. But despite being sick, Lutt claimed a second period pin Thursday night.

"Chris had a cold and wasn't breathing very well and he had a fever the day before," Murtaugh said. "But he still went out there and got the job done. It was a gutsy effort on his part."

After forfeiting the 105 pound slot, the Blue Devils trailed 12-6. However, Wayne dominated the rest of the dual capturing match victories at seven of the remaining 10 weights.

Jamie Fredrickson, Wayne's 145-pounder, also won by pin and drew praise from Murtaugh.

Jamie also did a super job for us," he said. "He wrestled well and pinned his guy in the first period."

Mark Janke claimed a lopsided 13-2 victory at the 132-pound slot, while Chris Corbit, Robb Gamble, Stuart Rathwisch and Steve Cowgill all claimed forfeit triumphs for the Blue Devils.

The win was Wayne's first since Dec. 10 when the Blue Devils thumped Randolph. Murtaugh said his club needed the Thursday night triumph for confidence purposes.

"We needed a win. It's been a long time since the Randolph meet and winning should boost the boys' confidence."

The Blue Devils complete again Tuesday at West Point.

McNamara hoop lifts Wildcats, 71-70

WSC upsets Southern

A lot of people might have written the 1985-86 Wayne State basketball team off this year. After 16 games this season, the Wildcats were a disappointing 5-11 and appeared to be going no where.

But Friday night at Rice Auditorium, the Wildcats proved they are not just playing the rest of the season out as they pulled off, perhaps, the nation's biggest upset in the National Association of Inter-collegiate Athletics (NAIA) by nipping 12th ranked Missouri Southern 71-70.

Mike McNamara proved to be Wayne State's hero Friday night as the 6-5 freshman canned a layup at the .05 mark to give the Wildcats the one point triumph.

Missouri Southern pulled ahead 70-69 and Wayne State called a timeout with 11 seconds remaining. The Wildcats' Vincent White inbounded the ball from mid-court and hit McNamara who freed himself off a pick and hit the game-winner.

Mike McNamara

The game was close throughout as Wayne State owned a 37-35 advantage at halftime before falling behind 57-55 with 10 minutes to go. Southern then held the one point lead before McNamara's final hoop.

Russ Rosenquist played another solid offensive game for the Wildcats finishing with a game high 23 points. Calvin Willoughby and Mark Gracy added 12 and 10 points, respectively, to the victory.

Missouri Southern was led in scoring by Chris Tuggle who tallied 17 points. Greg Garton and Marvin Townsend added 16 points apiece for the visitors.

Both teams shot well from the floor as the Wildcats canned 32-of-62 field goals for 52 percent and Southern went 27-for-57 for 47 percent. Southern's impressive shooting carried over to the free throw line as they hit 16-of-21 gifters for 76 percent. Wayne State made 34 percent of its free throws going 7-for-13 from the line.

White played a good floor game for the Wildcats dishing out 10 assists and totaling three steals. Both were team highs.

The Wildcats outrebounded Southern 31-26. Markus Wilson led Wayne State with nine boards.

The victory improved the Wildcats to 6-11 on the year. Missouri Southern is now 14-4.

Wayne State plays again Saturday night when Pittsburg State invades Rice Auditorium.

Poor second quarter costs Allen, 62-52

WALTHILL — A sluggish second quarter cost Allen's boys a 62-52 loss to Walthill here Friday night.

Walthill outscored the Eagles 22-11 in the second frame. Allen held a 10-8 advantage after the first quarter and was only outscored by one, 32-32, in the second half.

Eagle head coach Dave Uldrich said turnovers were the main reason for the poor play in the second frame.

"Walthill used a jump-and-run defense against us," he said. "We turned the ball over five straight times and were outscored 16-0 in the second quarter's last three minutes."

The Eagles held a 21-16 advantage in the second period before Walthill made its move.

Uldrich said that another factor in Allen's poor second period was its leading scorer, Craig Noe, was forced to the bench because of foul trouble.

"Craig picked up his third foul in the second quarter and went to the bench. That didn't help things either," he said.

Noe, who came into the game averaging 15.3 points an outing, finished with just two markers Friday night before fouling out.

Steve Jones and Max Oswald picked up the scoring slack for the Eagles, however. Jones finished with 21 points, while Oswald tallied 20 markers.

The Eagles dominated the boards, outrebounding the hosts 42-22. Oswald speared 18 rebounds for Allen, while Jones and Noe totaled 11 and eight boards, respectively.

Oswald also dished out a team high four assists for Allen.

Allen canned 22-of-54 field goals and 8-of-17 free throws, while Walthill finished 23-for-65 from the field and 16-for-25 from the line.

The loss dropped Allen to 2-9 on the year. The Eagles play again Friday at Emerson-Hubbard.

Wausa's first half explosion sinks Winside, 82-46

WAUSA — A first half explosion allowed Wausa an 82-46 victory over Winside here Friday night.

Initially, the game was evenly played as both teams battled to a 12-12 tie midway through the first quarter. Wausa then outscored the Wildcats 32-5 over the next 12 minutes to open a commanding 44-17 lead at intermission.

Mark Freburg, Winside's head coach, said turnovers led to Wausa's uprising.

"Some of our more experienced players started turning the ball over," he said. "We were playing them close, and then the next thing I knew we started making some turnovers and they outscored us 32-5."

Terry Nelson, Wausa's 6-6 scoring leader, finished with a game high 29 points for the Vikings. Nelson's teammate, Dan Kumm, added 18 markers to the victory.

Mike Thies and Tim Voss led Winside in scoring with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Tim Jacobsen and Kevin Jaeger added eight and seven points, respectively, to the Wildcat cause.

Winside totaled 27 rebounds on the night. Jaeger led the Wildcats with 10 boards, while Brent Nau and Thies added seven and six rebounds, respectively.

Voss, Ryan Prince and Doug Mundil all handed out two assists apiece for the Wildcats.

Freburg praised Wausa after the game.

"Wausa lost a couple of games early in the year, but they're a big squad and they have a very good team," he said.

The loss was Winside's 11th this season. The Wildcats play again Friday at Hartington.

Emerson-Hubbard trips Wakefield, 55-46

EMERSON — A poor third quarter by Wakefield's boys resulted in a 55-46 victory by Emerson-Hubbard here Tuesday night.

Emerson held a slim 23-21 victory at intermission, but Wakefield experienced its worst quarter of the 1985-86 season, according to Trojan head coach Paul Eaton.

"The first half was close, but we couldn't do anything right in the third quarter," he said. "They pressed us, but that wasn't why we played so poorly. We just made bad passes that were our own fault. It was the worst quarter for us this year."

Emerson outscored Wakefield 12-6 in the third stanza to open a 35-27 advantage and maintained its comfortable lead during most of the last frame.

Wakefield tallied 19 markers in the fourth period, but Emerson totaled 20 points and claimed the nine point victory.

Eaton said that none of his players had a good game.

"We really struggled," he said. "Usually, you'll have one or two guys play well and kind of pick up the slack if the rest of the kids are having bad games, but Tuesday night we didn't have any player that was on."

Wade Nicholson led Wakefield in scoring with 15 points, while teammate Kevin Greve tallied 13. Emerson's Marty Habrock claimed the game's scoring honors with 17 points.

Rebounding totals were similar as Wakefield grabbed 38 boards and Emerson totaled 40. Greve led the Trojans with nine rebounds.

Emerson also won the junior varsity game, 33-20. Boyce Barfels led Wakefield's JVs with eight points.

The loss dropped the Trojans to 5-6 on the year. Wakefield played Wynot Friday night and plays again Monday night when Ponca invades the Trojan gymnasium.

Poor rebounding effort tames Laurel's Bears, 39-28

LAUREL — A poor rebounding effort cost Laurel's girls a 39-28 loss to Hartington here Friday night.

Although the final rebounding statistics were not available, Laurel head coach Gale Hamilton said his club's poor board work cost his team the loss.

"They outrebounded us pretty bad. We didn't have a player with over five rebounds and that was definitely the key to the game," he said.

A key to Hartington rebounding supremacy was their leaping ability, according to Hamilton.

"Hartington isn't a real tall team, but they averaged around 5-8 or 5-10 and they have good leapers," he said.

A big second quarter by Hartington lifted the Wildcats to an 18-8 lead at the half. Hartington held a slim 6-4 advantage after the first quarter, but outscored the Bears 12-4 in the second frame to open the 10 point cushion.

The last half was relatively evenly played. Both teams tallied 10 points in the third quarter and Hartington outscored the hosts 11-10 in the last period.

Hartington finished with 13 field goals, while Laurel canned 12 fielders on 39 attempts. However, the Wildcats finished 9-for-22 from the line and Laurel went 4-for-9. Laurel was called for 19 fouls and Hartington was whistled for 11.

Gail Twiford and Sara Adkins led the Bears in scoring with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Hartington's Tiffany Jensen claimed the game's scoring honors by tallying 14 points from the low post position.

Laurel totaled 10 steals on the night and turned the ball over 12 times. Twiford led the Bears with three thefts.

Hamilton said the loss was a discouraging one because he felt that his Bears did not play to their potential.

Scrappy cagers

HARTINGTON CEDAR Catholic's Steve Miller (No. 25) and Wayne's Ted Lueders scrap during the first quarter of Friday's game. Lueders drilled a free throw with eight seconds to go to insure at least an overtime for the Blue Devils. Miller fired a 35-footer just before the buzzer to try and force an extra session, but his shot missed.

Winside pins Plainview, 47-21

WINSIDE — Winside's grapplers used four pins, two forfeits and two additional lopsided victories to down Plainview 47-21 here Thursday night.

After forfeiting the 98-pound slot, Mace Kant and Doug Paulsen got the Wildcats going with a technical fall and a pin at the 105 and 112-pound weight classes, respectively.

Winside then won six of the next seven weight classes to open a commanding 47-9 advantage before forfeiting the final two matches.

Chris Olson, Darin Schellenb and Steve Jorgensen joined Paulsen with pins for the Wildcats, while Randy Leapey claimed a 12-0 win and Darin Greinke and Rodney Dierichsen both won by forfeit.

Paul Sok, Winside's head coach, said his club's experience and determination were keys to the victory. "It's always nice to beat Plainview because they're one of the larger Class C schools," he said. "But the kids were ready to wrestle and we were about a year older at most of the weights and I think that extra year of experience helped us."

Winside wrestles again Saturday at the Oakland-Craig Invitational.

Wayne schedules released

The 1986 Wayne-Carroll High School track and golf schedules have been released.

The Class B State Golf Meet will be held at the Wayne Golf and Country Club this year. Wayne was chosen as the host town because of its facilities and expected community support, according to Conde Sargent, assistant executive director of the Nebraska School Activities Association.

Over 100 Nebraska preps are expected to compete in the state meet. The Blue Devils usher in the '86 golf season with a triangular at West Point against the Cadets and Oakland-Craig.

The Dan Lennon Invitational track meet is a new event on the Wayne High roster. Since the invite is scheduled at the University of South Dakota's domed stadium in Vermillion, S.D., the event will guarantee the Blue Devils of an early meet, according to Wayne Athletic Director Ron Carnes.

"This is the first time ever a Wayne track team has competed at this invite," Carnes said. "Since it's inside, it will guarantee us of having an early track meet when so many others during that time of the year are rained or snowed out."

Both college and high school teams compete at the April 4 invite.

Southern sinks 18-of-21 gifters

Missouri Southern stops Wayne State

Missouri Southern overcame an impressive offensive performance by Wayne State's Linda Schmitzler and downed the Lady Wildcats 74-56 at Rice Auditorium Friday night.

Schmitzler, Wayne State's leading scorer averaging 14.5 points an outing, earned 9-of-12 field goals, grabbed six rebounds and totaled two steals before fouling out.

The 5-6 "freshman sensation" from Battle Creek scored a team high 19 points in the losing cause. Most of the first half was dominated by Wayne State. The Lady Wildcats charged to a 12-2 advantage and held an 8-to-10 point lead during most of the first 20 minutes.

Wayne State even led by as many as 13 in the first half, but a late Southern surge allowed the visitors to tie the game at 28 at intermission.

The lady Wildcats opened a lead early in the second half and the game was tied at 42 with just over 11 minutes remaining.

Southern then became more productive on the offensive end and opened comfortable leads the rest of the way. The Lady Wildcats did make one final run and cut the Southern lead to five with 3:30 to go. But the visitors went on to post the 18-point victory.

A key to the victory was Southern's outstanding free throw shooting as the visitors canned 18-of-21 gifters for 85 percent.

Kris Smith and Michelle Blomberg followed Schmitzler with 12 points apiece. Margaret Womack and Anita Rank led Southern in scoring with 15 and 14 points, respectively.

Blomberg, last week's NAIA Division 11 player of the week, played another solid game for the Wildcats. In addition to her 12 points, the 5-4 sophomore dished out a team high five assists and totaled two steals.

Shari Krohn joined Schmitzler with six rebounds for Wayne State.

Wayne State was out rebounded 43-27 and finished 24-for-55 from the floor and 8-for-17 from the line. Missouri Southern made 28-of-78 fielders. The lady Wildcats totaled 21 turnovers, while Missouri Southern finished with 13 miscues. Both squads handed out 13 assists. Wayne State's next game is Saturday night when the Lady Wildcats host Pittsburg State.

Allen and Winside girls lose

Allen's and Winside's girls both lost games Friday night. Allen dropped a 43-32 decision at Walthill. The victory-improved Walthill's record to 10-1 on the year, while Allen slipped to 6-4.

Wausa thumped Winside 61-46. Winside dropped to 3-9 on the season. Further details about each game were not available, and the respective coaches could not be reached by Saturday's press deadline.

Wynot thumps

Wakefield, 47-32

WAKEFIELD — Rebounding is a major factor in most games. Whoever wins the battle of the boards, usually wins the game. However, that wasn't the case Friday night in Wynot's 47-32 victory over Wakefield.

Wakefield out rebounded the Blue Devils 38-37, but according to Trojan head coach Arnie Cerny, his club's poor board work was the main reason they lost.

"We out rebounded them, but rebounding is probably the main reason why we lost," he said. "We didn't block out on the defensive end. Wynot got 14 offensive rebounds against us and scored around 10-to-15 points on those rebounds and that was the difference."

Wynot's man-to-man defense was ineffective in the early going as Wakefield jumped out to a 6-1 lead. But the Blue Devils outscored the Trojans 22-8 the rest of the first half to take a 23-14 lead at intermission.

Wakefield came back, however, and cut Wynot's lead to five midway through the third quarter. However, the Trojans' ineffective rebounding cost them the rest of the way.

Stacey Kuhl led Wakefield in scoring with 16 points on eight field goals. Kristal Clay followed with eight markers, while Desirée Salmon and Tricia Schwarzen, both added four points to the Wakefield cause.

Salmon led Wakefield with eight rebounds, while Marcel Greve and Clay both added seven boards.

Greve had a good floor game for the Trojans, finishing with four assists and two steals. Both were team highs.

Wakefield won the junior varsity game, 12-10. Steph Torczon and Karen Hallstrom led the Trojan JVs with eight and four points, respectively.

The loss dropped Wakefield's varsity to 0-11 on the year. The junior varsity triumph was the first victory of the season for Wakefield's girls' basketball program.

The Trojans play again Thursday at Laurel.

"We didn't play near to our potential at all," he said. "There wasn't one or two players that cost us, it was a team effort. We just didn't play well."

Friday's game was a makeup contest. The two teams were scheduled to play Tuesday night but the game was postponed because of inclement weather.

Laurel's next game is Tuesday when the Bears travel to Randolph.

Gamble's investments pay off

A senior business administration student at Wayne State College placed 23rd in the National Stock Market Trading Championship.

Roger Gamble, a senior from Seward, placed in the stock and option division of the trading championship, said Dr. Vaughn Benson, business division head at WSC, by turning a 93.84 percent profit — of "play money." The competition was sponsored by the Portfolio Management Association of Bowling Green, Ky. Benson said Gamble started Sept. 24, 1985 with a $50,000 portfolio. Two months later, Nov. 29, he had amassed a portfolio of $96,920. He competed against some 150 students in his division from colleges and universities throughout the nation.

"This profit was accomplished through a well-planned market strategy program," Benson said.

Gamble is a 1982 graduate of Seward High School. He is the son of Lyle and Joyce Gamble of Seward.

Lecturer West at Wayne State

Kathlene West, a Fulbright lecturer from 1983-85, will be in residence Feb. 3-7 as part of the Plains Writers' Series at Wayne State College.

West, a native Nebraskan, is the second in a series of five writers in residence at WSC for the 1985-86 academic year. She will give a reading Thursday, Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Humanities Building lounge. It is free and open to the public.

Jim Brummels, assistant professor of English at Wayne State, said West's latest work Plainswoman examines the early experiences of pioneer women.

Another work entitled Land Bound relates West's childhood while growing up around Genoa.

West, who teaches and is completing her Ph.D. at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been published in numerous anthologies and is the author of five books of poetry and fiction.

"She's more of a poet, though," said Brummels. "Her writing comes from experiences around home, but not with the 'Well, what happened to me today that I can write about' attitude."

Brummels said, Plainswoman is a group of poems dealing with the immigrant experience and the early pioneers and how it carries into the 20th century.

A Fulbright fellowship award in 1983 allowed West to travel to Iceland to learn more about her Scandinavian heritage.

"In part, I believe it helped her to discover more about her background and also aided her in writing Plainswoman," said Brummels.

Diisher, Alex to present recitals

Nancy Diisher and Kim Alex, two Wayne State College music students, are busily preparing for their senior recitals.

merschmidt. Also performing at the Diisher recital will be Sherwin Langholdt. Langholdt will feature a piece by Jacob on the euphonium. Another student, James Zanker will accompany him on flugelhorn.

Diisher has been active in Tau Beta Sigma, honorary sorority for band, Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary scholastic fraternity for freshmen, and the Music Educators National Conference.

Alex, from Ralston, will present her recital Feb. 4 in Ley Theatre. She will present selections of both classical and French contemporary nature in her alto saxophone performance. Sharyn Whipple will accompany her on clarinet.

Alex has also been active in Tau

Beta Sigma and Music Educators National Conference along with Nebraska Band Masters and the American Choral Directors Association. She is also an undergraduate assistant for the WSC band.

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District Board of Directors Ask You To

"THINK TWICE"

Before Signing An Initiative Petition To Protect Ground Water.

CONSIDER:

- Simply passing a water petition will not keep Nebraska's water clean by itself.
- Clean water acts will only be effective if they balance conflicting views or needs, are reasonable compromises and achieve voluntary compliance.
- The Nebraska Legislature is currently considering several bills which will ensure the proper and safe use of our groundwater.
- Legislation can be changed easier than can a constitutional amendment.
- The Lower Elkhorn NRD Directors would always defend the right of the people to amend their State Constitution, however we strongly advise against this proposed amendment. It is vague, confusing, and inconsistent, however worthy its intent. In the District's opinion the citizens of Nebraska would do themselves a legal disservice were they to amend the constitution in this manner. The Lower Elkhorn NRD Directors sincerely ask each of you to "think twice" before signing the Initiative Petition to protect groundwater.

I WISH TO say thank you to relatives and friends for their visits, flowers, cards and calls while I was in the Lutheran Community Hospital. Thanks so much to Dr. Dahlheim, Dr. David and to all nurses for your wonderful care; and to my Pastor John David and Pastor George Heusinger for their many visits and prayers. May God bless you all. George Langenberg. J27

WE WOULD like to thank our relatives and friends for so many lovely cards, gifts and flowers that we received on our 60th anniversary. We appreciated that so much. God bless all of you. Lou and Tillie Baier. J27
