Festival set for Saturday

Students picked for honor band

One hundred and eighty musicians from 30 high schools in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota will be at Wayne State College on Saturday, Feb. 15 for the 11th annual Honor Band Festival.

The all-day event in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center includes two honor bands which will perform for the public at a 7:30 p.m. concert in Ramsey Theatre.

The guest director for the 96-member Gold Band (juniors and seniors) is Wayne Bailey, director of the University of Colorado Marching Band in Boulder. Bailey is a former band director at Hastings College.

Gary Davis, director of bands at WSC, will direct the 86-member Black Band (freshman and sophomores).

"The bands truly are honor bands," said Davis, "because the musicians must submit audition tapes and not all students are accepted. We also have more schools this year, but fewer musicians, so they are all very talented."

Musicians begin registering at 8 a.m. and have two rehearsals in the morning and afternoon. The high school bands will be entertained at 1 p.m. by the Wayne State Concert Band.

The 7:30 p.m. concert will last from one hour to one hour and 15 minutes, Davis said. The public is welcome to attend.

Plan to attend '86 Homemaker School

After an absence of two years, the Homemaker School will again return to Wayne.

The event is being sponsored by The Wayne Herald and area merchants, who will be listed in future stories to come on the Homemaker School.

The home economist who will appear at the Homemaker School, scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne City Auditorium, is Lori Samson. Samson works as home economist for Homemakers Schools, Inc. of Madison, Wisconsin, a part of Rural Gravure Service, Inc.

She resides in Billings, Montana and travels to schools in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The 2 1/2 to 3-hour program will allow individuals to learn more about such features as both large and small appliances available locally, or learn about a rapid rising yeast. The program will provide insight into ideas for meal planning, chocolatey recipes and many other cooking ideas.

Everyone will receive a free gift bag at the door containing coupons, brochures and the 1986 TODAY'S HOME Living Ideas Homemakers School cookbook.

Over 30 door prizes and 20 bags of groceries will be given away, along with the food prepared on-stage during the show.

There is no admission charge to the show.

County adopts road plans

The final draft of the one and six year Road Improvement Plan was approved last Tuesday by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Projects included in the one and six year plan for the remainder of 1985-86 include:

•Grading, culverts and gravel three miles south and two miles west of Wayne, one mile south Sec. 34-35 in Strahan Precinct.

•Grading, culverts and gravel one mile north of Sholes, west one mile, north line of Section 3 in Sherman Precinct.

•Grading, culverts and gravel two miles west of Carroll, west three miles Section 30-31 in Deer Creek Precinct, Section 7, 36, 26-35 in Sherman Precinct.

•Remove bridge three miles north and 2 1/4 miles east of Carroll and build a dam, east-west road Section 12-13 in Deer Creek Precinct.

•Grading, culverts, gravel, six miles north and one mile west of Wayne, 1 1/2 miles west Section 11-14, 10-15 in Wilber Precinct.

•Grading, culverts, gravel, 1/2 mile north and 2 1/4 miles east of Hoskins, north one mile Section 24 in Hoskins Precinct, Section 19 in Hancock Precinct.

•Grading, culverts, gravel two miles east and two miles south of Winside, 3/4 miles south Section 13 of Hancock Precinct, Section 18 of Brenna Precinct north 3/4 of the mile.

•Grading, culverts, gravel one mile east and one mile north of Winside, one mile north Section 25-26, Chapin Precinct.

•Grading, culverts, gravel one mile north and 3 1/2 miles west of Winside, 1/2 mile west Section 30-31, west 1/2 of the mile Chapin Precinct.

•Grading, culverts and gravel one mile north and one mile west of Winside, west one mile Section 28-33, Chapin Precinct.

ALSO DURING the regular meeting, the commissioners approved a resolution applying for federal aid to improve a portion of road in Wayne County.

That portion of road is located 0.1 mile north of the southwest corner of Section 35 in Hancock Precinct and ending about 0.3 mile north of the southwest corner of Section 35.

The improvements include grading and culverts, estimated at a cost of $6,000; bridge replacement estimated at $150,000; and gravel surfacing estimated at $3,000.

Total estimated cost for the project is $157,000 of which 80 percent will be paid by the federal government if the application for aid is approved. The state would then pay 5 percent of the cost of the project and Wayne County would participate in 15 percent of the costs.

Also during the meeting, the commissioners approved a resolution which increases payment for pauper burials from $300 to $500.

A reason cited for the $200 increase was because of the recent implementation of a $200 fee by the cemetery board of directors for opening a burial plot at the cemetery.

Vakoc builds housing units in Sunnyview

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Within the Sunnyview Subdivision in Wayne, a 12-plex building is being constructed by Vakoc Construction.

Once the building is completed, there will be eight two-bedroom units and four one bedroom units — one of those single bedroom units designed for the physically disabled.

Each unit will be furnished with appliances, carpeting and air conditioning — with a laundry facility in the building. There is also paved parking and a small play area for children.

Brick veneer will appear on the outside of the multi-level building, constructed with energy efficiency in mind.

John Vakoc, current owner of the building under construction, says the project has benefited from the financial opportunity provided by the Federal Housing Program.

"More specific rental information will be out later as the construction progresses. Rents will be adjusted according to income," Vakoc said.

THE IDEA FOR the 12-unit complex goes back to the intentions of when Sunnyview was originally planned.

"Our motivation for the project goes along with our original intention of planning and platting Sunnyview — to provide affordable housing," Vakoc said.

And while construction is in progress now on the 12 unit complex, a 15 unit project is also being planned just adjacent to the current building site.

"We will be involved, to some extent, with that project," Vakoc said.

Witkowski named interim director

John Witkowski has been appointed Interim Director of the University of Nebraska Northeast Research and Extension Center effective Feb. 1.

Witkowski, entomologist at the Northeast Center since 1975, is a native of Beatrice, has his BS and MS from the University of Nebraska and his PhD from Iowa State University. He worked for a private agricultural chemical company prior to his university appointment.

Witkowski, his wife, Ann and their three children live in Wayne.

Priorities stepped up on Timppte announcement

Now that the news has been announced of Timppte, Inc.'s plans to move its corporate headquarters to its flagship manufacturing plant in Wayne, some areas need to be reviewed in the areas of the downtown retail district and expansion of the airport.

One of the top priorities for the city of Wayne right now, according to City Administrator Phil Kloster, is "as a community, we need to address our downtown retail district."

With the prospect of additional payroll dollars circulating into the community as a result of the new jobs offered by Timppte, Inc., Kloster said more people will spend in a retail area if retailers have the service and products to take care of their needs.

Opportunity will be coming "if we can get expanding and new businesses to invest in the store fronts to help revitalize the retail district."

Kloster will be attending a seminar in Washington — the topic being to serious look at options and what's there in the areas of community revitalization.

Another emphasis will be on airport expansion.

The Master plan was drawn up for the municipal airport several years ago to point out future airport projects when federal grants become available. One of the projects proposed in the master plan is the construction of a north-south runway at the airport.

"Instead of a two year project [completion of the airport master plan], which would put it at 1987-88, we need to accelerate it into the 1986-87 time frame," Kloster said.

Concerning the move of the Timppte corporate officials to Wayne, Kloster said the city contains lots available "as far as building a home" is concerned.

Why Timppte, Inc. selected Wayne as its corporate headquarters can be of various reasons. Kloster said he feels it was the way work was handled (on the manufacturing plant earlier in the year), putting together the paperwork and building the roads to the manufacturing site which had impressed the Timppte officials.

"We showed them that Wayne had a sincere interest in them being here," Kloster said.

"You will see more things happening in Wayne as a result of them [Timppte, Inc.] being here," he added.

At WSC

Seven schools participate in FHA SEARCH event

The Home Economics department at Wayne State College hosted 80 Future Homemakers (FHA) students from seven schools during the FHA District V SEARCH event on Jan. 29. Students whose presentations received superior ratings advanced to the state SEARCH (Student Events for Achievement and Recognition in Consumer Homemaking) level in Lincoln in April. The students presented projects in four main categories: National Star, General Chapter, National Project and Consumer Homemaking. Project evaluators were community and staff members and junior and senior home economics majors at Wayne State College. The FHA SEARCH program is designed to provide students with an atmosphere for strengthening the family, learning life skills and developing youth leadership, said Dr. LaVera Roemhildt, associate professor of home economics. She said the element that makes FHA unique is that it is the only youth organization with the family as its central focus. This year is the fifth anniversary for the District V FHA SEARCH program. The Home Economics department at WSC has hosted the SEARCH program for the past four years. The following area students and teams received superior ratings and will advance to state competition: National Star Events: Karl Jensen, Emerson-Hubbard, Job Applications and Interview, JH division. She also scored a superior rating in Illustrated Talk. Lisa Jepsen, Emerson-Hubbard, Job Application and Interview, SH division. General Chapter: Lisa Jepsen, Emerson-Hubbard, Creed Speaking and Interpretation, SH division. ## Went away

by Chuck Hackenmiller

It was time to get the meeting underway.

The president of the organization rapped his gavel and pronounced: "Please be seated. The annual meeting of the OFVDA (pronounced off-da) is now underway. OFVDA stands for Oh, Forget Valentine's Day Again!"

"First thing on the agenda is roll call. Let us answer this question when called upon by our secretary—name our wife's favorite flower which we forgot to get her for this year's Valentine's Day."

The 20 or so members responded. Many wives missed out on receiving dozens and dozens of roses. One wife would have received mums.

"Now, let's take care of some old business." One of our members (Oliver) is on the way to recovery. Last Valentine's Day, he remembered to buy his wife a card and candy, but the stores had closed before he could get there. That's progress, Oliver," the president said.

The rest of the membership cheered.

"But there's another side to the coin," said the president, looking at Harry and shaking his head.

HARRY WAS cured at one time. But last Valentine's Day, habit forced him to slip up again. Poor Harry came home from a late night at work to find his wife had changed the lock on the door and she wrote a note saying: "You can sleep in the doghouse tonight. Fido didn't get a valentine lately from you either and he's a bit more understanding than I am."

"People just don't realize that once you forget one Valentine's Day, it can lead to others. You become an addict at forgetting to buy something for your loved ones. Thank heavens we have OFVDA, which also accepts people who forget about birthdays and anniversaries," mentioned the OFVDA head honcho.

DURING a recess of the meeting, one of the OFVDA officers spoke to me about his habit.

"It started when I was in junior high school. Everybody in the whole school got valentines but me. My mother said it was because I never gave any out myself," the OFVDA member related.

"There was this girl I really liked, so I bought her this cute valentine with a picture of an elephant on it and signed it: To my Cindy, the elephant."

"She never talked to me again."

"That's how come I became reluctant to celebrate Valentine's Day while in high school and on through college. When I got married, the awful habit of forgetting that day just carried over."

"Oh yes, my wife tried her best to get me on the right track again. She would drop subtle hints like cutting a gigantic heart-shaped hole in the sports section of the daily newspaper, or draw a heart with shaving cream on the windshield of my car. One time she carved a heart shape and some words on a tree trunk out on our lawn.

"It may have looked better if she had used a carving knife instead of my chain saw."

"That's why I came here. I realized I needed help when I started making excuses, like: She won't mind because she knows that I love her! Sorry dear but they ran out of candy at the drugstore! Oh my gosh, I thought Feb. 21 was Valentine's Day! You are right dear. It is Valentine's Day. And I thought rather than buy all those material things that I'd just say 'I love you' in person!"

"Those excuses will get you thrown right out of the house. And now I'm working hard to remember Valentine's Day," he said in concluding his story.

RECESS WAS over and it was back to the regular meeting.

"I move that we adjourn this meeting," yelled the OFVDA president. "But first let us recite our motto."

Roses are red and violets are blue another heart broken because I forgot you.

All of the OFVDA members were supposed to stay after the meeting for lunch. However, they all had to go home.

Evidently, the president of the club forgot to order the food.

That's how things operate in the OFVDA circle.

FmHA rule a bad idea

A tragic loss for entire nation

Like all Nebraskans and all Americans, I was shocked and deeply saddened by the space shuttle tragedy last week. Our hearts go out to the families and friends of those dauntless astronauts.

FmHA loan restriction proposal a bad idea

The Farmers Home Administration has proposed a rule that would allow the FmHA Administrator to restrict both operating and farm ownership loans for production of surplus agricultural commodities. This rule is a bad idea, and I have written to FmHA officials to express my disapproval.

doug bereuter

I recognize that surplus agricultural commodities are a serious problem for both farmers and the Federal government, but pulling the plug on the farmers who depend on the FmHA isn't rational, and it isn't an effective way to control overproduction.

I have pointed out to FmHA officials that the unintended effect of their proposed rule could be the displacement, dislocation and bankruptcy of thousands of farmers and ranchers. And, the secondary impact on rural communities, agricultural suppliers, state and local governments, and the others who either service, or economically depend on agriculture could be equally devastating.

The FmHA has long been a major lender of agricultural credit in Nebraska, assisting those farmers and ranchers who are unable to obtain capital from either the Farm Credit System, or commercial banks. During 1985, the FmHA made nearly $296 million in insured and guaranteed operating loans and almost $36 million in farm ownership loans in Nebraska. This represents a dramatic increase over recent years and is a measure of the economic and financial crisis we are trying to cope with in the Midwest.

If the FmHA abandons its borrowers at a time when it is needed the most, it will only contribute to the seriousness of the agricultural crisis for all who are involved in farming today. While no one in Congress would deny the seriousness of the default and delinquency problems of farmers with FmHA loans, it was the intention of Congress that even financially distressed farmers be given the hope and opportunity of succeeding.

Although no farm bill can save every farmer or insure success, these new FmHA rules could guarantee the failure of all farmers who currently hold FmHA loans.

Improve grain standards without hurting farmers

The Commodity Credit Corporation has proposed to reduce the maximum acceptable level for moisture in warehouse-stored corn, sorghum and soybeans pledged as collateral under the price support loan and purchase programs.

I am concerned about this proposal. While it is imperative to maintain our quality of grain for storage and overseas exports, we also must realize that this proposed rule could, unfortunately, put an additional burden on grain farmers who are financially suffering from the distressed agricultural economy. It is obvious to me that if the moisture content requirement is reduced, the additional cost associated with drying would fall back on the grain farmer. Elevators and cooperatives will always maintain their profit margin on every bushel of grain no matter how much shrinkage occurs due to drying.

I am convinced that there is a need for improved grain quality. In addition to the need to improve our grain standards, moisture levels in grain might be refined in several ways. First, grain handlers might improve their blending operations to avoid high moisture grain pockets in their facilities. Second, a program could be implemented to provide incentives for drier grain. For example, buyers of grain could pay a higher price or a premium for grain that is in a drier state; also, other actions might be taken to solve grain moisture problems.

I have told the Director of the Cotton, Grain and Rice Price Division in the Agriculture, Stabilization and Conservation Service of my strong feelings about this matter, and I have asked him to find ways to improve grain standards without placing further financial distress on farmers.

Housecleaning in order

Every once in a while, it pays to look back in the city code book and weed out all the ordinances which are old and do not apply to today's lifestyles.

So over the past few months the Wayne City Council has been updating these ordinances which also must concur with whatever new legislation had taken place over the previous years. Each time they are changed, they appear in the legal section of this newspaper.

You will see one this week on page 11 which refers to an amended ordinance relating to minors on premises where alcoholic liquors are sold and consumed, another relating to volunteer fire department membership and witness fees.

What harm can an outdated ordinance do? Here is an example of how ordinances can be outdated.

Melodee Lanes in Wayne might be relieved in knowing that they are "no longer" in violation for allowing 16 year olds to bowl in their establishment and for permitting the bowling alley to be open on Sunday.

At one time, that was illegal. The bowling alley has been allowing 16 year old individuals to bowl for some time now. And open bowling is common on Sunday.

During a regular city council meeting recently, the Wayne City Council made some changes — or as referred to by City Attorney Kem Swarts as "housecleaning" — to several items in the city's code that related to minors at bowling alley or pool and billiard halls or areas.

It is no longer unlawful for the owner of any bowling alley to allow any minor under the age of 16 to play any game of bowling or to loiter on the premise if any alcoholic beverages are served on said premise. Now, it is not against the law for the bowling alley to be open or made available for public use between midnight and 6 a.m. on any day of the week except on Sunday, when said bowling alley shall not be open or available to the public.

The same rules had applied to places where billiards or pool was played.

At a December meeting, Wayne Police Chief had asked that the codes for bowling alleys and pool or billiard establishments be brought up to date — just in case the ordinance had to be brought up in regard to a court of law or to protect the liability of both the police department and bowling alley.

The council's action on amending the ordinance did just that.

Thanks to media

The Women of Today are celebrating National Women of Today Week this week, Feb. 9-15. We have been active in the Wayne community since 1954.

It's during this week that we would like to stop and say "thank you" to the members of our community for their support during these years. We would especially like to thank the members of the local media — The Wayne Herald and KTCH Radio. We attribute much of our success to the terrific cooperation and support these two news sources give our organization, for without them word of our activities would have difficulty traveling beyond our own group.

We realize that these two groups rely on teamwork to get their jobs done, but these teams contain some key people who have made our job of publicizing our organization so much easier. That is why we would like to extend extra special thanks to LaVon Anderson and Chuck Hackenmiller of The Wayne Herald and Mike Mascoe and Dan Baddorf of KTCH Radio. These four people work patiently with us in every way.

They are always willing to try and work in a last minute news item. Their dedication to their jobs and community is evident.

So, thank you Wayne media. We hope to have your continued support in the many years to come. Keep up the great work.

Says Nebraska State Senator

Initiative 300 destructive to economy

by State Senator John W. DeCamp

I believe the future of Nebraska's economy is more directly being affected in Initiative 300 than by any other law on the books or anything else that could be done by government or anybody else in this state. And I believe Initiative 300, if it remains as it is, will help destroy Nebraska's economy.

We all know that agriculture is Nebraska's number one industry. What we don't all know is that one element of agriculture, livestock production and cattle feeding, is the single largest part of the agricultural economy. It involves four billion dollars per year here in Nebraska. The cattle feeding industry in Nebraska, in which Nebraska rose to be the number one cattle feeding state in the United States a few years ago before Initiative 300, is also the economic driving force that makes the rest of the agricultural system in Nebraska function somewhat efficiently.

For example, the single biggest consumer of corn produced in the state, is the cattle industry. Of course, the livestock processing industry in the state, from Iowa Beef Packers to the other processing plants across the state, provides thousands of jobs that complete the food production cycle of livestock.

Now, you have to understand this fundamental fact: When people voted for Initiative 300, they thought they were voting strictly to outlaw big corporations purchasing agricultural land. Even the official wording on the ballot that people saw when they voted an Initiative 300 spoke strictly of stopping or restricting the purchase of agricultural land.

IN FACT, Initiative 300 had many other things in it. For example, prohibitions against the ownership, feeding and raising of livestock and the production of grain.

But the people voting never knew this because the official wording from the Attorney General and the official story put out by those supporting Initiative 300 did not inform the people that they were outlawing the raising and owning of livestock and other farming activities.

These parts of Initiative 300 which outlaw ownership and feeding of livestock have rarely if ever been enforced.

If they are strictly enforced, I think it fair to say Initiative 300 will eliminate somewhere between thirty and fifty percent of the livestock feeding in the State of Nebraska. And without question, it will cast a freeze over any new developments in agricultural livestock feeding in this state and those yards of any size.

If you destroy through Initiative 300 the cattle feeding industry, you also destroy, just like dominoes falling, the crop production industry in this state. You destroy the livestock production operations—the cow calf operation—because you have destroyed the nearby markets for those products.

Initiative 300, in simple and straight talk has in it the seeds of destruction for the entire agricultural economy of Nebraska. And for that reason, I will continue to try, for eliminate it or alter it into a nondestructive form.

YOU CANNOT MAKE good stew using only potatoes and water. You need other vegetables and the meat and the spices. An agricultural economy cannot function efficiently if it is not allowed to have all of the pieces that make up a complete economy—the big and the small, the family farmer and the corporate farmers, the livestock processing plants and the cow calf operations, the successful and the unsuccessful, the wise and the unwise, the complete competitive system.

If the people are not allowed to vote again on Initiative 300—remember, all I am asking is that issue be put before the people again so that the people can vote one more time, fully informed, as to whether they want to keep or repeal Initiative 300—then it will be three years almost before the people will have a chance to speak on Initiative 300 again. Why?

Because it is almost three full years before the next general election in November of 1988. And that will be the first realistic chance Nebraskans would have to look at the issue of Initiative 300 again if they do not do it now.

That is three full agricultural seasons Nebraska would have to go through with the destruction Initiative 300 will cause. For that reason, I am trying to force action now and I am willing to accept any reasonable compromise so long as it gets rid of the most damaging things about Initiative 300.

And, yes, when I decided to try to repeal Initiative 300, I crossed the Rubicon and I full well know it. And, wise or unwise, I will live with the consequences.

At WSC

Seven schools participate in FHA SEARCH event

The Home Economics department at Wayne State College hosted 30 Future Homemaker (FHA) students from seven schools during the FHA District V SEARCH event on Jan. 29. Students whose presentations received superior ratings advance to the state SEARCH (Student Events for Achievement and Recognition in Consumer Homemaking) level in Lincoln in April.

The students presented projects in four main categories: National Star, General Chapter, National Project and Consumer Homemaking.

Project evaluators were community and staff members and junior and senior home economics majors at Wayne State College.

The FHA SEARCH program is designed to provide students with an atmosphere for strengthening the family, learning life skills and developing youth leadership, said Dr. LaVera Roemhildt, associate professor of home economics. She said the element that makes FHA unique is that it is the only youth organization with the family as its central focus.

This year is the fifth anniversary for the District V FHA SEARCH program. The Home Economics department at WSC has hosted the SEARCH program for the past four years.

The following area students and teams received superior ratings and will advance to state competition:

National Star Events: Kari Jensen, Emerson-Hubbard, Job Applications and Interview, JH division. She also scored a superior rating in Illustrated Talk.

Lisa Jepsen, Emerson-Hubbard, Job Application and Interview, SH division.

General Chapter: Lisa Jepsen, Emerson-Hubbard, Creed Speaking and Interpretation, SH division.

National Project events: Emerson-Hubbard Junior High, Student Body category, team members include Jill Howard, Angie Matfison and Marleen Hingsi.

Consumer Homemaking events: Wakefield Junior High, Family Living and Parenthood Education, team members include Kelli Thies, Debra Turauer and Tysha Nixon.

Theresa Pallas, Emerson-Hubbard, solo presentation in Family Living and Parenthood Education, SH division.

Searching for history

House Memorial Library in Pender is starting a genealogy and local history section. A few books are now available and more will be purchased from time to time. The library would like to solicit help in this endeavor. They would like to acquire a complete collection of Pender high yearbooks, old atlas, maps, telephone and church directories, church histories, family histories in book or booklet form, special edition papers and cemetery records.

These books would be kept in this special section. Plans are being made to put together the Pender 100 year celebration scrapbook. None of these materials could be checked out but would be kept safely in the library.

The library is planning to provide helps for genealogy research other than the local level by providing research references that can be used at larger libraries.

All contributions will be greatly appreciated and will become more valuable as years go by. All articles should be brought to the library.

Men' away

It was time to get the meeting underway.

The president of the organization rapped his gavel and pronounced, "Please be seated. The annual meeting of the OFVDA (pronounced off-da) is now underway. OFVDA stands for Oh, Forget Valentines Day Again!"

"First thing on the agenda is roll call. Let us answer this question when called upon by our secretary — name our wife's favorite flower which we forgot to get her for this year's Valentine's Day."

The 20 or so members responded. Many wives missed out on receiving dozens and dozens of roses. One wife would have received mums.

"Now, let's take care of some old business. One of our members (Oliver) is on the way to recovery. Last Valentine's Day he remembered to buy his wife a card and candy, but the stores had closed before he could get there. That's progress, Oliver," the president said.

"The rest of the membership cheered. 'But there's another side to the coin,'" said the president, looking at Harry and shaking his head.

HARRY WAS cured at one time. But last Valentine's Day, habit forced him to slip up again. Poor Harry came home from a late night at work to find his wife had changed the lock on the door and she wrote a note saying: "You can sleep in the doghouse tonight. Fido didn't get a valentine today from you either and he's a bit more understanding than I am."

"People just don't realize that once you forget one Valentine's Day, it can lead to others. You become an addict of forgetting to buy something for your loved ones. Thank heavens we have OFVDA, which also accepts people who forget about birthdays and anniversaries," mentioned the OFVDA head honcho.

DURING a recess of the meeting, one of the OFVDA officers spoke to me about his habit.

"It starts when I was in junior high school. Everybody in the whole school got valentines but me. My mother said it was because I never gave any out myself," the OFVDA member related.

"There was this girl I really liked, so I bought her this cute valentine with a picture of an elephant on it and signed it: To my Cindy, the elephant."

"She never talked to me again. 'That's how come I became reluctant to celebrate Valentine's Day while in high school and on through college. When I got married, the awful habit of forgetting that day just carried over."

"Oh yes, my wife tried her best to get me on the right track again. She would drop subtle hints like cutting a gigantic heart-shaped hole in the sports section of the daily newspaper, or draw a heart with shaving cream on the windshield of my car. One time she carved a heart shape and some words on a tree trunk out on our lawn.

"It may have looked better if she had used a carving knife instead of my chain saw."

"That's why I came here. I realized I needed help when I started making excuses like: 'She won't mind because she knows that I love her!' Sorry dear but they ran out of candy at the drugstore! Oh my gosh, I thought Feb. 21 was Valentine's Day! You are right dear. It is Valentine's Day. And I thought rather than buy all those material things that I'd just say 'I love you' in person!"

"Those excuses will get you thrown right out of the house. And now I'm working hard to remember Valentine's Day," he said in concluding his story.

RECESS WAS over and it was back to the regular meeting.

"I move that we adjourn this meeting," yelled the OFVDA president. "But first let us recite our motto."

Roses are red and violets are blue another heart broken because I forgot you.

All of the OFVDA members were suppose to stay after the meeting for lunch. However, they all had to go home.

Evidently, the president of the club forgot to order the food.

That's how things operate in the OFVDA circle.

FmHA rule a bad idea

A tragic loss for entire nation. Like all Nebraskans and all Americans, I was shocked and deeply saddened by the space shuttle tragedy last week. Our hearts go out to the families and friends of those dauntless astronauts.

FmHA loan restriction proposal a bad idea. The Farmers Home Administration has proposed a rule that would allow the FmHA Administrator to restrict both operating and farm ownership loans for production of surplus agricultural commodities. This rule is a bad idea, and I have written to FmHA officials to express my disapproval.

I recognize that surplus agricultural commodities are a serious problem for both farmers and the Federal government, but pulling the plug on the farmers who depend on the FmHA isn't rational, and it isn't an effective way to control overproduction.

I have pointed out to FmHA officials that the unintended effect of their proposed rule could be the displacement, dislocation and bankruptcy of thousands of farmers and ranchers. And, the secondary impact on rural communities, agricultural suppliers, state and local governments, and the others who either service, or economically depend on agriculture could be equally devastating.

The FmHA has long been a major lender of agricultural credit in Nebraska, assisting those farmers and ranchers who are unable to obtain capital from either the Farm Credit System or commercial banks. During 1985, the FmHA made nearly $294 million in insured and guaranteed operating loans and almost $36 million in farm ownership loans in Nebraska. This represents a dramatic increase over recent years and is a measure of the economic and financial crisis we are trying to cope with in the Midwest.

If the FmHA abandons its borrowers at a time when it is needed the most, it will only contribute to the seriousness of the agricultural crisis for all who are involved in farming today. While no one in Congress would deny the seriousness of the default and delinquency problems of farmers with FmHA loans, it was the intention of Congress that even financially distressed farmers be given the hope and opportunity of succeeding.

Although no farm bill can save every farmer or insure success, these new FmHA rules could guarantee the failure of all farmers who currently hold FmHA loans.

Improve grain standards without hurting farmers. The Commodity Credit Corporation has proposed to reduce the maximum acceptable level for moisture in warehouse-stored corn, sorghum and soybeans pledged as collateral under the price support loan and purchase programs.

I am concerned about this proposal. While it is imperative to maintain our quality of grain for storage and overseas exports, we also must realize that this proposed rule could, unfortunately, put an additional burden on grain farmers who are financially suffering from the distressed agricultural economy. It is obvious to me that if the moisture content requirement is reduced, the additional cost associated with drying would fall back on the grain farmer. Elevators and cooperatives will always maintain their profit margin on every bushel of grain no matter how much shrinkage occurs due to drying.

I am convinced that there is a need for improved grain quality. In addition to the need to improve other grain standards, moisture levels in grain might be refined in several ways. First, grain handlers might improve their blending operations to avoid high moisture grain pockets in their facilities. Second, a program could be implemented to provide incentives for drier grain. For example, buyers of grain could pay a higher price or a premium for grain that is in a drier state; also, other actions might be taken to solve grain moisture problems.

I have told the Director of the Cotton, Grain and Rice Price Division in the Agriculture, Stabilization and Conservation Service of my strong feelings about this matter, and I have asked him to find ways to improve grain standards without placing further financial distress on farmers.

Housecleaning in order

Every once in a while, it pays to look back in the city code book and weed out all the ordinances which are old and do not apply to today's lifestyles.

So over the past few months the Wayne City Council has been updating these ordinances which also must concur with whatever new legislation had taken place over the previous years. Each time they are changed, they appear in the legal section of this newspaper.

You will see one this week on page 11 which refers to an amended ordinance relating to minors on premises where alcoholic liquors are sold and consumed, another relating to volunteer fire department membership and witness fees.

What harm can an outdated ordinance do? Here is an example of how ordinances can be outdated.

Melodee Lanes in Wayne might be relieved in knowing that they are "no longer" in violation for allowing 16 year olds to bowl in their establishment and for permitting the bowling alley to be open on Sunday.

At one time, that was illegal. The bowling alley has been allowing 16 year old individuals to bowl for some time now. And open bowling is common on Sunday.

During a regular city council meeting recently, the Wayne City Council made some changes — or as referred to by City Attorney Kem Swartz as "housecleaning" — to several items in the city's code that related to minors at bowling alley or pool and billiard halls or areas.

It is no longer unlawful for the owner of any bowling alley to allow any minor under the age of 16 to play any game of bowling or to loiter on the premise if any alcoholic beverages are served on said premise. Now, it is not against the law for the bowling alley to be open or made available for public use between midnight and 6 a.m. on any day of the week except on Sunday, when said bowling alley shall not be open or available to the public.

The same rules had applied to places where billiards or pool was played.

At a December meeting, Wayne Police Chief had asked that the codes for bowling alleys and pool or billiard establishments be brought up to date — just in case the ordinance had to be brought up in regard to a court of law or to protect the liability of both the police department and bowling alley.

The council's action on amending the ordinance did just that.

Thanks to media. The Women of Today are celebrating National Women of Today Week this week, Feb. 9-15. We have been active in the Wayne community since 1954.

It's during this week that we would like to stop and say "thank you" to the members of our community for their support during these years. We would especially like to thank the members of the local media — The Wayne Herald and KTCH Radio. We attribute much of our success to the terrific cooperation and support these two news sources give our organization, for without them word of our activities would have difficulty traveling beyond our own group. We realize that these two groups

rely on teamwork to get their jobs done, but these teams contain some key people who have made our job of publicizing our organization so much easier. ## Says Nebraska State Senator Initiative 300 destructive to economy

by State Senator John W. DeCamp

I believe the future of Nebraska's economy is more directly being affected in Initiative 300 than by any other law on the books or anything else that could be done by government or anybody else in this state. And I believe Initiative 300, if it remains as it is, will help destroy Nebraska's economy.

We all know that agriculture is Nebraska's number one industry. What we don't all know is that one element of agriculture, livestock production and cattle feeding, is the single largest part of the agricultural economy. It involves four billion dollars per year here in Nebraska. The cattle feeding industry in Nebraska, in which Nebraska rose to be the number one cattle feeding state in the United States a few years ago before Initiative 300, is also the economic driving force that makes the rest of the agricultural system in Nebraska function somewhat efficiently.

For example, the single biggest consumer of corn produced in the state is the cattle industry. Of course, the livestock processing industry in the state, from Iowa Beef Packers to the other processing plants across the state, provides thousands of jobs that complete the food production cycle of livestock.

Now, you have to understand this fundamental fact. When people voted for Initiative 300, they thought they were voting strictly to outlaw big corporations purchasing agricultural land. Even the official wording on the ballot that people saw when they voted on Initiative 300 spoke strictly of stopping or restricting the purchase of agricultural land.

IN FACT, Initiative 300 had many other things in it. For example, prohibitions against the ownership, feeding and raising of livestock and the production of grain.

But the people voting never knew this because the official wording from the Attorney General and the official story put out by those supporting Initiative 300 did not inform the people that they were outlawing the raising and owning of livestock and other farming activities.

These parts of Initiative 300 which outlaw ownership and feeding of livestock have rarely if ever been enforced.

If they are strictly enforced, I think it fair to say Initiative 300 will eliminate somewhere between thirty and fifty percent of the livestock feeding in the State of Nebraska. And without question, it will cast a freeze over any new developments in agricultural livestock feeding in this state and those yards of any size.

If you destroy through Initiative 300 the cattle feeding industry, you also destroy, just like dominoes falling, the crop production industry in this state. You destroy the livestock production operations — the cow calf operation — because you have destroyed the nearby markets for these products.

Initiative 300, in simple and straight talk has in it the seeds of destruction for the entire agricultural economy of Nebraska. And for that reason, I will continue to try to eliminate it or alter it into a nondestructive form.

YOU CANNOT MAKE good stew using only potatoes and water. You need other vegetables and the meat and the spices. An agricultural economy cannot function efficiently if it is not allowed to have all of the pieces that make up a complete economy — the big and the small, the family farmer and the corporate farmer, the livestock processing plants and the cow calf operations, the successful and the unsuccessful, the wise and the unwise, the complete competitive system.

If the people are not allowed to vote again on Initiative 300 — remember, all I am asking is that issue be put before the people again so that the people can vote one more time, fully informed, as to whether they want to keep or repeal Initiative 300 — then it will be three years almost before the people will have a chance to speak on Initiative 300 again. Why?

Because it is almost three full years before the next general election in November of 1988. And that will be the first realistic chance Nebraskans would have to look at the issue of Initiative 300 again if they do not do now.

That is three full agricultural seasons Nebraska would have to go through with the destruction Initiative 300 will cause. For that reason, I am trying to force action now and I am willing to accept any reasonable compromise so long as it gets rid of the most damaging things about Initiative 300.

And, yes, when I decided to try to repeal Initiative 300, I crossed the Rubicon and I full well know it. And, wise or unwise, I will live with the consequences.

news and notes

Your child's behavior probably normal
 It's amazing how often we treat children as if they were merely smaller versions of ourselves. We expect them to be polite when company comes, not to spit out food they hate, and always to tell the truth. We expect them never to be selfish with their toys and not to hit the neighbor boy even when he is mean. But we sometimes forget that it takes many years of watching, copying and making their own mistakes before children really can start acting like adults. Almost all child behavior, at certain stages, is normal and even necessary. This includes crying, making messes, fighting, thumbsucking, saying "no" all the time, and refusing to be toilet trained.

THIS KIND OF normal behavior shouldn't be punished, but rather redirected by firm, loving discipline. Normal behavior should not be punished any more than a plant should be punished for needing to be watered.

Indeed, children can be compared to plants, with specific growth stages and special requirements at each stage. But raising children requires more understanding, watchfulness, patience and judgment than growing the most magnificent plant ever did.

Knowing about the stages of child development is important for you as a parent. It will free you from needless worry about whether your child is "normal." It will help you allow your child to grow at the pace nature intended. Understanding child development will enable you to be a calmer, more effective parent, and will help reassure you that a particularly difficult stage won't last forever.

HERE ARE SOME hints for coping with your growing, changing child:
 —Be ready to change right along with your child. Make rules and guidelines the same as you buy clothes — with the idea your child will outgrow them.

—Be realistic about what your child can do at each stage. Avoid difficult situations. For instance, if Johnny is in the "obstinate two's" — rebellious and getting into everything — don't tempt fate by taking him shopping.

—Realize that no stage lasts forever. The day will come when the baby will stop crying, or when you won't have to wash diapers anymore.

—Realize that growing up isn't a race. Don't try to rush things. And don't expect your child to be just like other children of the same age. Like nature, each child has a season and a pattern.

—Look at situations from your child's point of view. Think how frustrating it must be to almost, but not quite, know how to talk or walk or ride a bike. Think of how hard it can be to make friends, stick to a project until it's done, or make sense of "unfamiliar territory." Parents must make every effort to sustain their children's self-esteem and to restore their confidence when they are discouraged and think they have failed.

—Remember that children learn by doing and experiencing more than by listening. That's why it takes them a long time to learn mature behavior and why they will make some mistakes over and over again. Provide them with lots and lots of learning experiences. Don't expect perfection.

—Learn all you can about child development. There is plenty of interesting information available that can help you understand your child's behavior and developmental stages. Check with your doctor, public health nurse, or library. In many communities, pre and post-natal courses, child care or parenting classes, or parent help groups are offered at hospitals, vocational and high schools, or the Cooperative Extension Service office. If you are facing a particularly difficult situation, check with a social service agency or other counselor.

Foul trouble dooms Bears

Wausa knocks Laurel out of tourney

WAUSA — Wausa, one of the favorites to win the Lewis and Clark Basketball Tournament, knocked Laurel out of the tourney with a 59-28 decision here Thursday night.

Wausa lost its first two games of the season but has been perfect ever since. And Friday night the Lady Vikings capitalized on Laurel's foul trouble to claim the second round victory.

Laurel was whistled for 26 fouls in the game, twice as many as Wausa. But Bear head coach Gale Hamilton wouldn't use the numerous fouls as an excuse for the loss.

"We weren't cheated or anything like that. The refs just called a very close game and it forced a couple of our starters to the bench in the first half and that took us out of our game. But they have a very good team and I'm not saying our foul trouble cost us the game," he said.

Wausa opened a 14-6 lead after the first quarter and held a 29-17 advantage at intermission. But the Bears battled back in the third quarter and cut the lead to eight and had the ball. However, Hamilton said Wausa ran off a string of several unanswered points and controlled the rest of the game.

"We got within eight and had the ball, but our shot went in-and-out," he said. "Then Wausa had a spurt and opened up a bigger lead and controlled the rest of the way."

Sammi Fink and free throw shooting were other keys to the Lady Vikings' spurt. Fink tallied 12 of her game high 25 points in the third frame and Wausa earned 4-of-6 gifters from the stripe in the same eight minute time span. Hamilton said Fink was practically unstoppable and a main reason several Bears got in foul trouble.

"Fink's a taller girl and she cut across the lane and we couldn't stop her," he said. "Becky Christensen got in foul trouble trying to stop her and once she (Christensen) went out, Fink did a lot of damage."

Laurel's foul trouble only hurt the Bears in the sense that several key players missed a lot of action because Wausa only finished 13-for-30 from the line.

Both Christensen and teammate Sara Adkins sat out a lot of the first half with foul trouble. The two eventually fouled out of the game and Gail Twiford and Hollie Helgren both picked up four fouls in the game.

Laurel made 11-of-41 field goals and finished 6-for-12 from the line. Twiford led the Bears in scoring and rebounding with 15 and 10, respectively. Laurel totaled 28 rebounds on the night.

Helgren, a sophomore, started in place of the injured Michelle Joslin and she drew praise from Hamilton.

"Helgren did a good job of filling in," he said. "We turned the ball over 23 times and that hurt us, but she only made four turnovers and she did most of the ball handling so she did a good job."

The loss dropped Laurel to 6-8 on the year. The Bears end the regular season Thursday against these same Lady Vikings at Wausa.

'Spirited' attack boosts Blue Devils past Omaha Roncalli, 47-37

The home court advantage is often over rated. But when the home team plays in front of hysterical fans like Wayne did Friday night, it's most definitely an advantage. And the Blue Devils made the most of their "home cooking" by downing Omaha Roncalli 47-37.

Friday night was spirit night at the Blue Devil gymnasium. The loudest section receives a free party by a local eating establishment, Bob Uhing, Wayne's head coach, said he wishes all games were spirit nights.

"No doubt about it, the crowd helps the kids. I was really really happy with the fantastic fan support," he said. "It's great for the players and the fans and I'd just like to thank our student body and the sponsors for their support."

Despite the hysterical setting, it took both teams a while to get going as the game was scoreless three minutes into the contest.

But Don Larson got the Blue Devils headed in the right direction with a bucket just inside the five minute mark and Wayne never relinquished the lead.

The Blue Devils opened a 9-6 advantage after the first quarter and held a 22-13 lead at the half. Roncalli pulled within five midway through the third stanza, but trailed 32-26 with eight minutes remaining.

Wayne's best spurt, perhaps, was the first three minutes of the last frame when the Blue Devils opened their biggest lead of the game, 39-26.

The Blue Devils have experienced trouble blowing teams away when they have them on the ropes, and Roncalli battled back and made the score 39-34 with 4:03 to go.

But the Wayne lapse only lasted a couple of minutes and Wayne opened a 10 point advantage just minutes later.

"We're getting better at putting teams away," Uhing said. "We did let up a bit in the fourth quarter, but it only lasted a minute or so and we took control again very quickly."

The key to Wayne's victory, according to Uhing, was its hawking defense and aggressive offense.

At times, Blue Devil players were on the floor more than they were standing up, and that type of all-out play keeps their head coach in smiles.

"We finally attacked people. We pressed well and recovered well from the press because we were aggressive," he said. "The key for us is being aggressive. When we're aggressive and hustle like that we can do a lot of things."

During the first half, Uhing reminded his varsity that if they do not hustle and play aggressively, he will find somebody that will.

Jon Stoltenberg and Jason Jorgenson are two of the more aggressive junior varsity players and both entered the game in the second quarter.

"We need aggressive people. Jon and Jason both played that way in the junior varsity game so we thought they deserved a shot in the varsity game, too," Uhing said. "And I think it made the varsity players realize that if they don't play aggressively, somebody else will come in and do it."

The two players made the most of their time by forcing several Roncalli turnovers and scoring two points on two Jorgenson free throws.

Larson once again led Wayne in scoring with 18 points. Despite being one of the taller players on the court, the 6-5 senior often moves like a guard and scored most of his 18 markers on acrobatic drives and twisting layups in the lane.

Brent Pick followed Larson with 12 markers and Dan Gross tallied eight points. Pat Dotzler led Roncalli with 12 markers.

Wayne won the battle of the boards, 23-16. Pick led the Blue Devils with eight rebounds.

Wayne's junior varsity captured a 69-35 victory. Corey Dahl led the Blue Devil JVs with 12 points, while Nick Engelson and Stollenberg both scored 10.

Wayne's JVs are now 8-3 on the year. Their Friday performance drew praise from their head coach, Ron Carnes.

"The kids are really playing well together. They work well together and they're having fun," he said.

Wayne's varsity is 9-5 on the season. The Blue Devils play again Saturday in "the snafu" at Harrington Cedar Catholic.

Uhing said he hopes his players continue to play aggressively.

"The key for us is to play aggressively," he said. "All I just hope the kids keep it up because when they are (aggressive) it's fun to coach and it's fun for them."

Roncalli entered Friday's game with a misleading 6-4 mark. The Crimson Pride play many Class A powerhouses and beat Omaha Gross earlier in the year. Gross in turn, has beaten Omaha Burke, the No. 1 ranked team in Class A, this season.

Dual has eight forfeited weights

Winside downs Central Catholic

WEST POINT — "I thought we could've won all four matches. The kids weren't up enough, but it's hard to get up for a dual when all you need is one match to win," Winside head coach Paul Sok said after his Wildcats downed West Point Central Catholic 39-21 here Thursday night.

After both teams forfeited the 98-pound weight class, Winside received five consecutive forfeits to open a 30 point lead.

The Wildcats then won two of the next four weight classes before forfeiting the final two slots to round out the scoring.

Winside's Darin Schellenberg initiated the wrestling action by defeating Rick Schmader 9-2 at 136-pounds.

After dropping the 145-pound weight class, Randy Leapley claimed the Wildcats' other victory by pinning Brian Gunther in 5:35 at 155-pounds.

Winside then lost the 167-pound weight class and forfeited the final two weights.

"I thought we should've won all four matches," Sok said. "It was an uneventful dual, but we weren't as up for it as we should've been."

Wildcats who claimed forfeits were: Mace Kant, 105; Doug Paulsen, 112; Jeff Bolch, 119; Darin Schellenberg, 126; and Chris Olson, 132. The victory closes out Winside's dual season with a 4-2 mark. The Wildcats end the regular season with an invitational Saturday at Clearwater.

Sok said he is optimistic about Saturday's invite.

"We have a shot at winning five championships and an excellent shot of at least finishing towards the top in five weights," he said.

Wood's 29 points keys Blue Devil freshmen to ninth victory of year

Wayne freshmen boys basketball team split two games the past week. Last Friday, the Blue Devils dropped a 60-52 decision to West Point, but rebounded with a 60-40 triumph over Norfolk on Tuesday.

Jarrod Wood, Wayne's 6-3 center, tallied 29 markers in the Norfolk victory. Duane Blomenkamp, Wayne's coach, praised Wood's and the rest of the Blue Devils' effort against Norfolk.

"We outscored them 17-2 in the second quarter and really had a good game," he said. "The kids did a good job of getting the ball to Jarrod, and he knew what to do once he got it."

Doug Larson and Sean Baker followed Wood with nine and seven points, respectively. Other Blue Devils who scored were Eric Runestad, 4; Jed Reeg, 4; Kevin Huasmann, 3; Eric Liska, 2; Greg Schmidt, 1; and Elliot Salmon, 1.

Jess Zeiss led Wayne with eight points against West Point, while Wood tallied six and Larson and Baker both scored four. Somditt followed with three against West Point, while Reeg and Liska tallied two and one, respectively.

Wayne is now 9-2 on the year. The Blue Devils play again Saturday before the junior varsity game at Harrington Cedar Catholic.

sports briefs

McNamara player of week

Mike McNamara, a freshman forward for Wayne State College, was recently honored as the District 11 Player of the Week for his play from Jan. 27-Feb. 1.

McNamara had 26 points, 16 rebounds, seven assists and a blocked shot in the Wildcats' win over Chadron State and in games against top-ranked Washburn the third-ranked Emporia State. Just one week earlier, McNamara hit the winning basket with just three seconds left as Wayne State defeated 12th-ranked Missouri Southern, 71-70.

Through 21 games for Wayne State, McNamara is averaging 7.1 points per game and 5.5 rebounds, highest on the team. The Wildcats are currently 8-15 on the year.

McNamara is a 1985 graduate of Malita High School in Malita, Mont., where he led his team to a state basketball title and was selected Honorable Mention Converse All-American.

The State Track Meet will be held May 23-24.

Wayne State rally falls short

PITTSBURG, KAN. — A late rally by the Lady Wildcats fell short and Pittsburg State went on to claim an 81-69 victory here Friday night.

Wayne State trailed by as many as 16 in the second half but pulled within 10, 73-63, at the two minute mark. However, Pittsburg's starters retook the lead and the hosts went on to post the 12 point triumph.

The first half was fairly close as Wayne State only trailed 40-32 at intermission. But Pittsburg State rushed out to a comfortable lead at the start of the second half and hung on for the win.

Michelle Blomberg and Linda Schnitzler were the Lady Wildcats' offensive standouts with 22 and 20 points, respectively. Blomberg drilled 10-of-19 field goals and 2-of-3 free throws, while Schnitzler finished 8-for-16 from the floor and was perfect in four free throw attempts.

Scoring drought costs Wildcats

PITTSBURG, KAN. — Sometimes things will be going great and then just when you least expect it, everything collapses. Wayne State suffered one of those experiences Friday night.

The Wildcats were cruising along with a 20-16 lead with just over 11 minutes remaining in the first half. But then the visitors didn't score for almost eight minutes and Pittsburg reeled off 23 unanswered points and opened a 39-20 lead at the four minute mark and went on to claim an 89-69 victory.

Markus Wilson drilled two free throws to supply the Wildcats with the 20-16 lead. Wayne State didn't score again until Russ Rosenquist canned a jumper from the top of the key with 3:22 to go in the half. Rosenquist's hoop made the score 39-22.

Wayne State then trailed 48-28 at intermission and never seriously threatened in the second half.

Wayne State's Calvin Willoughby claimed the game's scoring honors with 18 points, while Rosenquist

But despite playing brilliantly, Schnitzler sustained an ankle injury late in the game and is doubtful for Saturday's contest against Missouri Southern.

Wayne State dominated the boards by outbounding the hosts 51-31. Shelle Tomaszewicz led the Lady Wildcats with eight rebounds.

But turnovers haunted the Lady Wildcats all night as they finished with 30 miscues. Pittsburg State totaled 15 turnovers.

Wayne State also had an off night shooting, hitting just 28-of-65 field goals and 13-of-20 free throws. Pittsburg State, on the other hand, made 32-of-63 fielders and 17-of-28 gifters.

The loss drops the Lady Wildcats to 3-19 overall and 0-9 in the conference.

Gene Grounds came off the bench to lead Pittsburg in scoring with 17 points. Five Pittsburg players topped the double digit barrier, including four starters.

Statistically the game was fairly evenly played. Wayne State hit 51 percent of its 51 field goals and finished 17-for-24 from the line. Pittsburg State claimed 68 percent of its field goals in the first half but surrendered down and finished 35-for-62 for 57 percent. The hosts did shoot an excellent 86 percent from the line hitting 19-of-22 gifters.

Pittsburg outbounded the Wildcats 33-24. Wilson led Wayne State with five boards.

Mike Daley and Arnie Hayes led the Wildcats in assists with four apiece.

The loss drops Wayne State to 8-15 on the year and 1-8 in the conference. The Wildcats play again Saturday at Missouri Southern.

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce

Works For Everyone's Business

Look What Your Chamber Has Done For 1985

In Legislative Issues . . . the Legislative Council promotes the interests of the Wayne business community to our area legislators. In 1985, the Chamber monitored 18 bills, took action on many issues and sponsored legislative forums.

In Visitor and Residents Services . . . your Chamber participated in the Chicken Show by sponsoring the great Balloon Lift, the Window Decorating Contest and free popcorn at the parade. It answered dozens of requests for information from newcomers with its new 15-page "Visitor and Residents Guide," answered over 3,000 other inquiries, provided a free map service, tourism information, Santa at Christmas time and many other things most people think "just happen."

In Retail Promotions . . . your Chamber sponsored seven major promotional events, including the popular Holiday Magic Christmas program.

In Membership Development . . . your Chamber started monthly general membership meetings and raised its membership to one of its highest points in years. The Chamber kept members up to date on issues and activities with its bi-monthly newsletter, the Chambergram, and provided members with a bad check alert system. Members also benefited from the referral service that only recommended member business to inquirers and from the Chamber Shopper Gift Certificates that were redeemable only at members businesses.

Wayne Industries, Inc.

In Improved Public Relations . . . your Chamber founded the Wayne Ambassadors, a group of 25 men and women spreading good will to new businesses and newcomers. "Business After Hours" was also established, enabling members an opportunity to do business in a social setting. The ever-popular Friday Chamber of Commerce Coffees highlighted over 50 Wayne businesses, individuals, and organizations.

In Small Business Assistance . . . your Chamber sponsored classes on "Visual Merchandising," "Business Marketing," "Loss Prevention," "Surviving the Difficult Times," and "Customer Relations," all with help from NBCD, SCORE and Northeast Tech.

In Agricultural Support . . . your Chamber of Commerce sponsored Ag Day at Wayne State College, assisted at the County Fair Barbeque, judged 4-H Hardmanship, sponsored 4-H trophies and assisted with the 4-H Bonus Auction.

In Educational Community Relations . . . your Chamber welcomed new educators at a reception, participated on the College-Community Committee, sponsored and coordinated the Wayne State College Band Day Parade for 1200 students, gave scholarships, hosted over 650 Wayne State College students at a Welcome Back Dance, participated in Wayne State's Jubilee Celebration, and assisted WSC Student Senate and Greek Council in service projects.

In Public Assistance Programs . . . your Chamber provided office space for the League of Human Dignity, Department of Labor job training reps, W.S.C. VITA programs, and the Department of Economic Development. The Chamber also is the area office for a division of the Job Service of Norfolk.

Coming in 1986...all these projects and more... increased involvement in business development, increased involvement with Wayne Industries and its efforts, increased awareness development of you community with state legislators, bigger and better retail events including "Expo '86," a product exhibition, exciting and new appreciation activities for town and country families and increased opportunities for member involvement in your Chamber of Commerce.

Who can join the Chamber of Commerce? ANYONE interested in the progress and prosperity of our Community — including business, industry, educators, public workers, farmers, retired citizens and other individuals. What does it cost? Membership investments vary, so you need to contact the Chamber of Commerce office. Phone: 375-2240. But one thing is for sure, your return on your investment is multiplied over and over through your involvement in your Chamber's many activities and services.
