Tylenol removed from pharmacy shelves here

by Chuck Hackenmilller

Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules have been temporarily taken off the shelves of at least two Wayne businesses.

The action came after two bottles of the painkiller, found in the New York City area, were found to contain cyanide-contaminated capsules. Contamination of one of these bottles resulted in the death of a woman who resided in a New York suburb.

As of Friday, the states of New York, Massachusetts, Indiana, Rhode Island, California and Illinois have banned the sale of Extra-Strength Tylenol, while other health officials in various states have requested retailers to remove the medication from shelves.

Seven people died in 1982, in Illinois, after taking Tylenol capsules contaminated with cyanide. It was reported that no charges in those deaths have ever been filed.

Sav-Mor Pharmacy in Wayne took precautions Friday from selling the Tylenol capsules.

"We have already moved them from the shelves — about a half dozen of each size bottle," said Will Davis.

Davis said there has been no official word from the manufacturer to remove the capsules. However, the pharmacy adhered to the advice of not allowing consumers to purchase the medication.

Phil Griess of Griess Rexall in Wayne said he, too, removed the Extra-Strength Tylenol bottles (about 30 in all) from his shelves "till we find out what happened."

Jazz Festival event set

Twenty-seven bands from 22 schools will compose Wayne State College's Jazz Festival on Saturday, Feb. 22 in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Wayne State Band Director Gary Davis said Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota are represented in the event that lasts from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Some 600 musicians are expected, Davis said. "This festival is an educational experience," said Davis. "It's early in the year and it's a chance for the bands to perform and be evaluated by a panel of judges."

"It's not a competition. However, various awards will be presented and an outstanding band will be chosen. Everyone is a winner."

The Jazz Band Festival area participating schools and directors include: Emerson-Hubbard High School, Brad Weber; and Laurel-Concord High School, Kathy Horan.

To help with medical expenses

By LaVon Anderson

It's been a year and a half since Cleo Reuter began kidney dialysis treatments at her home in Wayne.

Today, Cleo is still undergoing the treatment — three times a week, four hours each time.

"It's been tough going for the Reuters," said Wayne resident Nell Sandahl. "Their medical bills are just horrendous."

Sandahl is planning to help the Reuters with medical expenses incurred since Cleo's kidneys stopped functioning over two years ago.

The supper, sponsored by the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) Branch 1470 of Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne, will be held Saturday, Feb. 22 from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Wayne Woman's Club room, located inside the city auditorium.

The public is encouraged to attend. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for youngsters 12 years of age and younger.

Sandahl said tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance at the State National by First National Bank in Wayne, at Grace Lutheran Church, or from any AAL Branch 1470 member.

Admirals called to duty

Calling all Admirals!

All those Admirals who have been selected from this area to the mythical Great Navy of Nebraska, that is.

It is now time to go to work and help promote Nebraska.

A new organization called the Society of Nebraska Navy Admirals, Inc. will be formally chartered in an April 1 meeting on the U.S.S. Hazard, a well-preserved minesweeper from World War II, sitting on dry land in Freedom Park in Omaha.

Those who have been commissioned by governors as admirals will be invited to join.

Roberta Welte of Wayne, an admiral herself in the Great Navy of Nebraska, has asked all other commissioned admirals of this area to contact her when possible, to join the call of duty in "helping people know of Nebraska's good life, promote the good things of Nebraska and tell the world of the great things we offer."

CLEO BEGAN treatment for her kidney ailments in December 1983 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. Later, she was transferred to Marian Health Center in Sioux City where she began kidney dialysis treatment.

In July 1984, Cleo returned to Wayne and began to undergo the process of hemodialysis in the confines of her own home.

The treatments are supervised by Krls Giese of Wayne, an assisting partner with the home hemodialysis machine program at Marian Health Center.

"IT TOOK CLEO a while to get used to the machine," said Giese. "Initially she lost 20 pounds due to a loss of appetite."

Later, it was discovered that Cleo was being over dialyzed, then under dialyzed. "We got that straightened out," said Giese, "and then she developed ulcers."

To complicate matters, Cleo, age 75, developed shingles in March 1984. She has been in and out of the hospital since that time.

Just last week, Cleo returned to Marian Health Center for further treatment for the shingles. She is expected to remain in the hospital for at least another week.

In addition to Cleo's problems, her husband George was diagnosed late last summer as having throat cancer. For six weeks, he underwent daily radiation treatments at Marian Health Center.

"George goes back for checkups once every three months," said Giese, "and so far he's gotten real good reports."

In U.S. House of Representatives

Bereuter to seek fifth term

Citing his experience, his record of legislative accomplishment and his ability to work with both Republicans and Democrats to get the job done, Representative Doug Bereuter will announce today (Monday) that he will seek a fifth term in the United States House of Representatives.

Bereuter acknowledged economic problems in the state, saying: "Our economy, lacking diversification and an emphasis on processing its agricultural commodities, is in painful transition at a time when the role of the federal government is also being dramatically redefined. Simple, immediate solutions to economic problems springing from a complex set of factors and conditions do not exist."

"We have much to do," he went on to say, "but I am confident that together we will have the strength, creativity and the will to overcome the problems that face us. This is a time for proven leadership. And I seek re-election with the firm conviction that I have the experience, and knowledge of this district, and the legislative skill to lead us through this challenging time."

BEREUTER pointed out that in the

More candidates file for office

by Chuck Hackenmilller

Three more individuals have filed election papers with the Wayne County Clerk's office on Friday, each seeking separate public offices.

All of the candidates are incumbents.

Joyce Reeg announced she will be running for her second term as a member of the six member Wayne-Carroll School Board. Two other positions remain open with the school board — one now occupied by Arnold Emry and the other by Cap Peterson.

Also on Friday, it was announced that Robert Enz has filed for a second term as Wayne County county attorney and that incumbent Robert Sheckler has filed the papers for a return to the county superintendent post.

As of Friday evening, the following individuals have declared their candidacy for the respected public offices:

Wayne County offices
County Commissioners — Gerald Pospishil has filed for re-election. One more position remains open.

County Clerk — Oregretta Morris.
County Treasurer — Leon Meyer.
County Assessor — Doris Stipp.

Homemaker School approaching

Today's Home 1986 — A Program of Cooking and Living Ideas from Homemakers Schools.

That's the theme of the 1986 Homemaker Show which The Wayne Herald and area merchants will be sponsoring on Thursday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne City Auditorium.

The Homemaker School returns to Wayne after a two year absence.

Lori Samson, home economist, will appear at the Homemaker School. She works as home economist for Homemakers Schools, Inc., of Madison, Wisconsin, which is a part of Rural Gravure Service, Inc.

She presently travels Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska and North and South Dakota. She graduated from Montana State University in Bozeman, Montana with a degree in Home Economics Education and she has experience as a seamstress performing alterations on men's and women's clothing.

Samson presently resides in Billings, Montana.

Everyone who attends the Homemaker School in Wayne will receive a free gift bag at the door containing coupons, brochures and the 1986 TODAY'S HOME Living Ideas Homemakers School cookbook.

Over 30 door prizes and 20 bags of groceries will be given away. Also given away will be the food prepared on-site during the school.

There is no admission charge to the school.

"Cleo needs a morale booster right now."

Hacken' away

by chuck hackenmiller

You got an apron that's pretty crazy and would like to see it displayed in public?

Let me explain to you what I'd like to do.

On Thursday, Feb. 21, the Wayne Homemakers School takes place at the Wayne City Auditorium. Jim Marsh has been doing some delegating of duties at the Wayne Herald office — you know, either do it or join the unemployment line next week — and his task for me is to be the master of ceremonies.

Apparently, many of the managing editors of this newspaper were responsible for the MC'ing of the homemakers school, or so I have been told.

That doesn't really bother me. I'm not afraid to speak before a large group of people, and all that is required, I guess, is to make some introductions and announce the winners of door prizes.

What bothers me is that I myself could never live up to the potential of even being considered an able homemaker. But I have been assured, and everyone should be thankful, that I will not be called upon to show some form of homemaking skill.

AFTER ALL, this is the same fellow who while employed elsewhere, decided to make coffee for other members of the staff. Upon filling the coffee maker — with grounds, I plugged in the pot — forgetting one ingredient. Water.

Without it is one sure way to ruin a coffee maker.

Want to hear more?

Perhaps it was the dare in me deciding to surprise my wife and young son with breakfast, a menu comprised of eggs and pancakes (from scratch, mind you).

Not all the necessary ingredients were there, so I substituted something like baking soda instead of baking powder — and had some nice looking pancake. My starving son took two bites and cried, "Mom, I can't eat any more." They were indeed awful tasting, almost like eating a fire. And you could probably use them as flying saucers. They would hit the wall and still not break in two.

In the areas of meal planning, I'm rather weak too. Nobody in their right mind would serve breaded meatballs and spaghetti with a rich potato salad — except me.

AN EASY three-course meal to make, in my opinion, is hot dogs, chip, and dip; or hamburger, mustard and ketchup.

Sometimes breakfast cereal tastes better for lunch, and leftovers taste so delicious for breakfast.

Other times one can come out ahead just by buying those frozen dinners or by just eating a container of yogurt.

Planning? Would you settle for pizza every other night? I would.

Those attending the homemaker school will likely learn many innovative techniques and bold cooking ideas. Count me out of that also.

MY IDEA OF bold when it comes to eating is: daring to put pickles on your peanut butter sandwich; throwing some garlic salt on buttered popcorn; mixing one brand of cereal with another brand; eating raw tomatoes right off the vine; eating Chinese food with chopsticks; eating tuna for two meals in a row; putting bananas in jello; smashing potato chips in vanilla ice cream; pouring peanuts in Pepsi; having a peanut butter, banana and honey sandwich; or eating Rocky Mountain Oysters.

You'll see a lot of successful recipes at this Homemakers School. Myself, I enjoy hearing stories about cooking failures.

I won't mention any names, but my favorite was about the cook (who now is the best there is) who had tried to make some homemade bread. Somehow the dough just didn't turn out like she wanted it to.

Rather than telling her husband, she decided to bury the dough in the farmyard. Later that day, the chickens were scratching away at something. A closer look showed that they were digging around the bread dough.

Indeed, bread dough does rise — even when it isn't suppose to. Some things a person just can't hide.

COOKBOOKS ARE written about successful recipes. I would like to start a trend. Readers, send in your worst cooking fiasco (the recipe, please, not the food) by Feb. 22 and we'll publish them in Wayne Herald future editions. Write down your name with your worst cooking experience (if you don't want the name with the story, we won't embarrass you and we will use an alias). Keep it under five short paragraphs if possible.

Now, getting back to the apron idea.

If you have an apron that you feel is funny, and you would like to wear it while I am announcing at the upcoming Homemakers School — bring it to The Wayne Herald office by Feb. 20.

All I ask is that the aprons are suitable for the public to view — even though the person wearing the apron certainly is not.

In closing, let me tell you of another cooking fiasco of mine.

You have to remember that this guy is one who throws a spaghetti noodle against the wall and if it doesn't stick — then the noodles are ready to eat.

It involves putting a frozen pizza in the oven at 350 degrees, falling asleep on the couch and waking up to the smell of food that was burning in the house.

The pizza was burned to a rich black texture.

One learns by their mistakes, I'm told. And from what I've been told, I've still got a whole lot to learn.

Postal hike again

When is enough, enough?

We in the newspaper industry think it is now! We have just experienced a 40 to 60 percent raise in postal costs in January and have just learned that a new postal hike of more than 100 percent may well be on the horizon.

According to figures compiled by Robert Brinkmann, general counsel of the National Newspaper Association, industry rates for newspapers have increased by more than 1100 percent during the last 15 years while inflation has increased by 288 percent.

What does it mean to a subscriber?

This means that a publisher's alternative would be his own local delivery system with a high subscription costs for people who subscribe both in our trade area and outside the area.

This could make it impossible for many readers to afford to subscribe to their local newspaper. Both the subscriber and the post office would lose.

How could post office costs be cut?

One way is to do away with the "franking privilege."

Franking privilege is the right to free use of mail.

Doug Harlan, a San Antonio attorney, points out that technically the "frank" is a perk designed to help members of Congress pay for legitimate business correspondence. Unfortunately, its most common use is for mass mailings to constituents.

Harlan cites figures which show that he Congress will spend $240,841,546 on junk mail. That's equal to the combined income tax payments of 1,815,000 people assuming a family of four with a $20,000 income.

How can a challenger to an incumbent get a fair shake when taxpayers are unwittingly subsidizing what amounts to the incumbents campaign mail?

What can be done to keep second class postal rates down?

Contact your Congressmen about postal rates to help keep your community newspaper.

Child support enforcement program revised, taxpayers, children and parents benefit

Director of the State Department of Social Services, Gina C. Dunning, recently provided details of LB-7, a major revision of Nebraska's Child Support Enforcement laws to be implemented effective April 1, 1986.

Director Dunning indicated the new revisions will aid all families with children owed child or spousal support, whether receiving Aid to Dependent Children benefits or not.

A major component of LB-7, passed during Nebraska's 89th Legislature, 1985 Second Special Session, is the Income-Withholding for Child Support Act. Enacted to enhance the enforcement of support obligations, "automatic income withholding" is a means of establishing a system for quick, efficient collection of support obligations through the use of an administrative process. This law also expands income withholding to provide services on an interstate basis.

Clients who reside in the State of Nebraska can request income withholding on an absent parent in another state. In return Nebraska will, upon request, establish income withholding orders for custodial parents in other states with absent parents who earn income in the State of Nebraska.

In cooperation with county attorneys, authorized child support attorneys, and the clerks of the district court, and with input from the private sector from employers, the Department of Social Services will promulgate rules and regulations to be implemented April 1, 1986.

AFTER APRIL 1, 1986, income withholding will expedite income deductions for child support. Prior to the Income Withholding Act, the attachment of income for child support payments was a lengthy process that often required time-consuming court procedures. After April 1, once payments become past due in an amount equal to one month's payment, the custodial parent can request assistance from the county, authorized attorney or the Department of Social Services to implement income withholding.

The new law also extends income withholding to persons with alimony (spousal) orders when the decree includes an order or judgment for child support. Additionally, the new law provides that employers who fail to participate in this program can be fined by the Court up to $500 for each violation of the Act.

Director Dunning noted additional provisions enacted by the passage of LB-7 are: the establishment of an expedited process to handle matters relating to visitation, paternity and the support of children as quickly as possible through the use of child support referees in counties of 60,000 inhabitants or more and county judges or referees in less populated counties; the establishment of child and spousal support liens upon real or registered personal property; the posting of sufficient security or bonds upon application or motion of the court, to insure payment of current and delinquent support amounts; and the extension of time allowed to establish the paternity of a child to 18 years after its birth.

Director Dunning indicated that with the implementation of income withholding and the other provisions of LB-7, child support enforcement could improve significantly in Nebraska. Income withholding, in conjunction with some of the administrative programs presently offered to all individuals by the State Department of Social Services, Child Support Enforcement Unit, such as the State and Federal tax offset and unemployment compensation intercept programs, will increase the amount of support paid to custodial parents.

DIRECTOR DUNNING was pleased to note that total statewide collections for ADC cases in 1984, though the utilization of all methods of enforcement employed by both state and local enforcement staff, amounted to over $4.5 million, an increase of 16 percent over the previous year. In 1985, IRS intercept collections for Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) cases in 1985 were in excess of $1 million, a 47 percent increase over 1984. State Revenue (tax refund) intercept collections for both ADC and non-ADC cases were in excess of $150,000 a 416 percent increase over 1984.

The new legislation will enable county attorneys, authorized state child support attorneys and the Department of Social Services to improve on this record. The taxpayer, children and custodial parents, will benefit from the new legislation; as support payments are secured for custodial parents and dependent children the need to depend on public assistance programs will decrease.

Director Dunning indicated that child support services are available to any parent or legal guardian who needs help in establishing or collecting child support. Services provided include locating absent parents, establishing a paternity and/or a support order, enforcement and collection. Anyone needing assistance or information about child support should contact their local county attorney, authorized child support attorney, or call the Department of Social Services, Child Support Enforcement "hotline", 1-800-831-4573.

Go Wildcats, go!

Kearney State is, perhaps, Wayne State's No. 1 rival. And that should be incentive enough for plenty of Wildcat supporters to get out and cheer for WSC Saturday night.

But if that isn't a good enough reason to draw fans to Rice Auditorium, Saturday's matchup is a very important game for the Wildcats' playoff chances.

Wayne State is currently 3-3 in the Nebraska Athletic Conference (NAC), just a half game behind Peru State. Kearney State is in first place with a 6-0 mark. The top two teams in the conference qualify for the District 11 Playoffs.

Should Wayne State beat Kearney State and then defeat Chadron State on Wednesday, Feb. 19, the Wildcats would force a mini-playoff against Peru State. There would also be a mini-playoff if Wayne State splits its final two NAC battles and Peru State loses to Bellevue.

Steve Aggers, Wayne State's head coach, said Thursday during the weekly Second Guesser's luncheon that he hopes to "hear" from Wildcat fans Saturday night.

"It's a big game for us, and for our basketball program. Our main goal is the playoffs right now and I'm hoping to see an enthusiastic crowd Saturday night," he said.

Aggers has been on a personal campaign this season for fan support. The sixth man is so very important to a young basketball team like Wayne State, especially when it's playing in such a big game like Saturday night's.

So get out and support your Wildcats against Kearney State, and make your presence "heard."

Is withholding taking too much from your pay? Do you always get a good-sized refund when you file your income taxes? If so, you may want to think about making some adjustments in the amount withheld by your employer so what is held back more accurately reflects your true tax obligation.

Getting a large refund is not good tax management. You not only miss out on having the money to use as you wish, but you also give the government an interest-free loan.

A smarter way to manage your taxes is to increase the number of withholding allowances on the W-4 form filled with employers. If you qualify for a higher number. Check with your employer for a new W-4 form. It has instructions to help you determine more accurately the number of allowances you can claim.

The payoff will be that you, not the government, will have use of the extra money during the coming year. With a little will power and self discipline, you still can have your forced savings program, and your money will be working all year, instead of only after you receive your tax refund.

CONSIDER STARTING some type of forced savings plan to use the "extra income" in your paycheck. Check with your bank to see if you can make an automatic deposit to your savings from your checking account.

YOU ARE ENTITLED to one allowance for every exemption you claim on your tax return, including extra exemptions if you are age 65 or older and if you are blind.

Osmond class too much for Winside

WINSIDE — "Osmond is a class team with a class coach and if they ever lose it'll be an upset," Winside head coach Mark Freburg said after his Wildcats dropped a 63-32 decision to the Tigers here Thursday night. "Those are pretty big words expressed by Freburg, but the Tigers are the Lewis and Clark Conference champions and one of the better Class C schools in Nebraska. Osmond opened a 12-4 lead in the first quarter before blowing the game open in the second frame by outscoring the hosts 18-4 for a 30-8 lead at intermission. Freburg said the key to Osmond's second quarter dominance was missed shots by Winside. "We started slow in the second quarter. We must've missed seven really good shots and you can't do that against a team like Osmond," he said. "We got them going by missing the easy shots. And you can't make those type of mistakes because when Osmond gets the ball they score." The Tigers did plenty of scoring in the last half, as well. After outscoring Winside 18-11 in the third frame, Osmond won the last quarter 15-13 for the 31-point triumph. Winside canned 13 field goals and 6-of-12 free throws, while Osmond finished with 25 fielders and a 13-for-18 free throw performance. The Wildcats totaled 34 rebounds on the night. Mike Thies and Kevin Jaeger led Winside with nine boards apiece.

Thies was also Winside's leading scorer and finished with 11 points. Tim Jacobsen added six markers to the Wildcat cause. "Jacobsen's main contribution of the night came in the junior varsity game when he tallied 25 points in just two quarters and the overtime. Winside claimed a thrilling 40-34 victory in the JV contest. Winside's varsity is now 0-15 on the year. The Wildcats end the regular season Friday when Newcastle, another Class C power, invades the Winside gymnasium. Before finishing, Freburg said he was pleased with the fan support his club has received this season. "I've been very pleased with the fan support we get," he said. "No matter where the game is and how the team is doing we've always had great fan support and I think that's just fantastic."

Allen's upset bid against Beemer falls short

BEEMER — With a 2-12 record, it's safe to say that Allen has struggled this season. But the Eagles came within an eyelash Friday night of making the 1985-86 season more memorable. Allen traveled to Beemer to take on the 13-3 Bobcats. And Beemer just escaped by trimming the Eagles 50-45. With Steve Jones and Craig Noe leading the way, Allen jumped out to an 11-10 lead after the first quarter and a 24-18 advantage at intermission. But Beemer came back strong in the second half and outscored the Eagles 16-8 in the third frame for a 34-32 advantage.

The game remained close the next five minutes and the contest was tied at 42 with just over two minutes remaining. But Beemer outscored Allen 8-3 down the stretch for the triumph. Jones tallied nine of Allen's 11 first quarter points and finished with 16 markers on the night. His all-around play drew praise from Eagle head coach Dave Uldrich. "Jones got us going in the first quarter. He just played one hell of a game," Uldrich said. Noe also played brilliantly for Allen, but in a different manner than he is most noted for. Noe is one of the best offensive players in the Wayne Herald area, but Friday night it was his defense and rebounding that made an impact on the game. Noe held Tim Schulz to just six points, which is 16 below his season average: On top of that Noe grabbed a team high 10 rebounds and scored 10 points. "We ran a box-and-one against Schulz and Noe shut him out in the first half and held him to only six points all game," Uldrich said. The Eagles canned 21-of-46 field goals and 3-of-7 free throws. Beemer finished 2-for-5 from the line and 24-for-49 from the floor. Allen also lost the junior varsity game. Uldrich mentioned Jyoti Kwankin and Jeff Gotch as playing well in the junior varsity contest. Allen's varsity rounds out the regular season Friday night when Wynot invades the Eagle gymnasium.

Fort Hays State ambushes Wildcats, 72-37

Fort Hays State ambushed Wayne State in the second half at Rice Auditorium and handed the Wildcats a 72-37 setback. The Tigers held a modest 28-17 lead at halftime, but outscored Wayne State 13-4 in the first five minutes of the second half and opened a 41-21 ad-vanage with 14:41 remaining in the game. Fort Hays State meant business from the very beginning and opened a quick 10-2 lead. Wayne State battled back, however, and made the score 12-10 at the 12:15 mark. But two points, was all the closer the Wildcats could get and Fort Hays State cruised to the lopsided triumph. Russ Rosenquist and Mike McNamara led Wayne State in scoring with eight points apiece. Raymone Lee and Thomas Harflett led the balanced Tigers with 11 points each. The Wildcats had a tough night shooting, finishing 15-for-49 for 31 percent. The hosts canned 7-of-9 gifters for 78 percent.

The loss dropped Winside State to 9-17 overall and 1-10 in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. The Wildcats are, however, 3-3 in the Nebraska Athletic Conference, (NAC) and play Kearney State Saturday night in a major NAC contest at Rice Auditorium.

Wausa downs Laurel

WAUSA — A slow start and Wausa's Sandi Fink cost Laurel a 49-30 loss to the Vikings here Thursday night. Laurel was outscored 23-10 in the first half and only 26-20 in the final two frames. And Fink was Wausa's mainstay throughout the entire contest. Fink tallied a game high 20 points, and drew praise from Bear head coach Gale Hamilton: "She's a very good shot and she does a nice job on the inside," he said. "She's just a good player. She had 20 points the last time we played them, too."

Gail Twiford led Laurel in scoring with 12 points, while Penny Dempster, Michelle Joslin and Angie Newton all added four markers to the Laurel cause. The Bears hit 13 field goals and went 4-for-13 from the line. Wausa finished 7-for-17 from the stripe and canned 21 fielders, including 10 by Fink. Laurel grabbed 28 rebounds in the game. Twiford and Becky Christensen led the Bears with nine and six boards, respectively. Twiford also led Laurel with five steals. Laurel turned the ball over 16 times and totaled 10 team steals.

Hamilton said the Bears made a run at Wausa in the third stanza, but the Vikings eventually pulled away. "In the third quarter, we cut their lead to 11 and we started gaining some momentum," he said. "But they hit a couple of quick baskets and pulled away." Laurel's junior varsity dropped a 32-23 decision to Wausa. Tam Riefenrath led the Bear JVs with 10 points. Laurel's varsity is now 6-9 on the year. The Bears play again Tuesday in the opening round of subdistricts at Norfolk against Stanton.

Lady Wildcats fall, 89-79

A quick second half spurt and incredible free throw shooting by Fort Hays State lifted the Tigers to an 89-79 victory over Wayne State at Rice Auditorium Friday night.

The Lady Wildcats held a 35-34 halftime lead. But Fort Hays State ushered in the second half by scoring the first six points and opened a 40-35 advantage. The visitors led the rest of the way until the Lady Wildcats tied the game at 57 with 10:49 remaining. But Fort Hays State outscored Wayne State 32-22 down the stretch for the victory. The Tigers finished 35-for-41 from the line for an impressive 85 percent. Wayne State also shot well from the line, but only finished 13-for-18. The Lady Wildcats hit 33-of-65 field goals for 51 percent, while Fort Hays State went 27-for-64 from the floor for 42 percent. Mary Beth Ehrhorn of Wayne State claimed the game's scoring honors with 18 markers. Other Lady Wildcats who reached double figures were: Deb Nygren, 16; Michele Blomberg, 14; and Linda Schnitzler, 12. Schnitzler is the Lady Wildcats' leading scorer this year and it was her first game back since injuring her ankle last Friday night. Lori Reeves, Marilyn Smith and Cheryl Baker all led the Tigers in scoring with 17 points apiece. Wayne State outrebounded the visitors 38-35. Kris Smith and Shelle Tomaszewicz led the Lady Wildcats with eight and seven boards, respectively. Blomberg led the Lady Wildcats with eight assists, while Tomaszewicz totaled a team high four steals. The loss dropped Wayne State to 3-21 overall and 0-11 in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference.

Wieseler tallies 1,000th point in 57-42 win over Winside

WYNOT — Joslin Wieseler tallied her 1,000th prep career point and Wynot downed Winside 57-42 here Tuesday night. Wieseler ran a box-and-one defense to try and stop Wieseler. But she scored a game high 27 points and led the hosts to the easy triumph. Jill Stenwall, Winside's head coach, said she was disappointed in her squad's defensive effort. "Our defense didn't stop her," Stenwall said. "The box-and-one has worked before, but it didn't stop Wieseler. She's a very good ball player, but I wasn't very pleased with our defense." Wieseler stayed close to Wynot through the first three quarters. After trailing 12-8 at the end of the first period, the Wildcats only fell behind by six, 25-19, at the half. Wynot then led 37-27 after three stanzas, but the Blue Devils outscored Winside 20-15 in the final stanza for the 15 point win. The Wildcats hit 14 field goals and 14-of-21 free throws. Wynot canned 18 fielders and finished 21-for-30 from the stripe. Julie Brockman led the Wildcats in scoring with 13 points, while teammates Kerri Leighton scored 13 and Kristi Miller tallied eight. Brockman also led Winside in rebounding with 13 boards. Wynot outrebounded the Wildcats 42-30. Winside captured the junior varsity game, 22-18. Miller sparked the Wildcat JVs with eight points. The loss dropped Winside to 3-11 on the year. The Wildcats play again Monday at Laurel in the first round of subdistricts. Winside will battle these same Blue Devils in the first round.

Wausa drills Laurel-Concord, 73-48

WAUSA - Wausa's one-two punch of Ken Claussen and Dan Kumm guided the Vikings to a 73-48 victory over Laurel here Friday night.

An 8-2 lead midway through the initial frame. But Wausa gradually worked its way to an 18-13 lead after the first quarter.

The Vikings then outscored Laurel 17-7 in the second period for a comfortable 35-20 lead at intermission.

We have a young team this year and things like that are going to happen. Laurel dropped a 43-40 decision to Coleridge Monday night.

special notice

FARM TILING WANTED

Last year we tilled out a lot of wet areas that will be real productive this year. But this only scratches the surface of wet areas that need tiling. A few strings of tile will make this area as productive as the rest.

We are lining up our tiling areas that we'll be working on this spring and summer. If you are planning on tiling, we would like to know so we can look it over and give you your estimate before spring work starts.

Free estimates, references furnished, 40 years in the farm drainage business. Phone now giving county, township and section number.

Tiling doesn't cost, it pays! Roscoe Brown, phone 402-721-8300 or 515-333-4156.
