Debt/asset ratio high Farm survey not encouraging

Preliminary results of a nine-state Farm Finance Survey were released recently, providing more evidence that Nebraska's ag economy is still unhealthy.

The survey should be of interest to a broad spectrum of Nebraskans, said Chuck Schroeder, director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

What is revealed is that about 6.4 percent of those farm and ranch operators responding to the survey (34 percent of 2,000 operators that were mailed questionnaires) were not planning to continue operating their farm or ranch operation in 1986.

Some operators expressed concern about obtaining adequate financing before spring operations arrive.

About 15.8 percent of the current survey respondents did not expect to be operating their farm in 1987, if conditions did not improve.

"We have the highest percentage in the Midwest of those farmers and ranchers who don't expect to be operating in 1986, and I hope this survey alerts those who have considered this problem as overstated," explained Schroeder.

"This level of displacement is, in my opinion, unacceptable and has consequences that will reach far beyond the farm gate," he added.

INITIAL SURVEY results appear to confirm many of the farm debt relationships which UNL ag economists and Nebraska Department of Agriculture staff members have been estimating for several months.

The survey also shows farm operators in central and southeastern areas of Nebraska reported the highest debt/asset ratios, and south central and northeast the lowest, with a range of 30.2 to 41.4 percent.

Nebraska's debt/asset ratio was the third highest among the nine states surveyed, which also included Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, North Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Only Iowa and North Dakota were higher.

Also, Nebraska's survey respondents reported nearly 25 percent of their total net income as being received from off-farm sources. Available off-farm employment was felt to be inadequate in their community by 80 percent of Nebraska's respondents.

"This survey is the most current, scientifically-gathered data describing its condition, and should be an important tool for planning and decision-making in both business and government," said Schroeder.

NEBRASKA'S SURVEY was made possible through efforts by the Nebraska Department of Agriculture and the Greater Nebraska Job Training Program.

The Midwest Association of State Departments of Agriculture coordinated the survey through individual state statisticians in order to provide sampling and tabulation comparability.

A publication summarizing the nine-state data will be available April 3, while a more detailed Nebraska summary will be available March 3.

Scholarship named for Alexis Rohrberg

A new scholarship has been established at Wayne State College for students studying biology or pre-forestry. The Alexis Ann Rohrberg Scholarship has been created by Jack and Marci (Rethwisch) Rohrberg of Wayne in memory of their daughter Alexis. The scholarship was established with a commitment of $15,000 over a three-year period, according to Kirk Hutton, executive director of the Wayne State Foundation.

Alexis died in April of 1976 while a freshman studying pre-forestry at Wayne State. Funds for the scholarship have come from the Rohrbergs and memorials in their daughter's name from friends, relatives, organizations and area schools where Jack has worked.

The endowed scholarship proceeds will go to biology students at WSC with first consideration going to students studying pre-forestry.

Jack and Marci said the scholarship was established to serve as a living and perpetual memorial to their daughter.

"The Wayne State Foundation is very pleased to accept this scholarship from Jack and Marci," Hutton said. "It not only memorializes their daughter Alexis, it will also assist students to receive an education at Wayne State College."

Jack received his undergraduate degree from WSC in 1954 and his master's in 1959. He taught school in Nebraska and Iowa and was a high school principal for many years at different locales in Nebraska. Since 1978 he has been a district representative for Aid Association for Lutherans in Wayne, but will transfer to Omaha in March.

Marci received her teaching certificate from WSC in 1951 and later earned her baccalaureate degree from Wayne State.

The Rohrbergs have one other daughter, Greta, a 1978 WSC graduate, who lives in Omaha.

Emry files for re-election

As of Saturday morning, two more incumbents have entered the race in their respected political subdivisions.

Arnold Emry has filed for a position on the Wayne-Carroll School Board and Don Bauer has filed for a Board of Trustees position in Sholes.

None of the offices are contested and several positions remain open for fillings.

The deadline for incumbents to file for elected office is Feb. 27. Non-incumbents have until March 12 to file the proper election papers with the Wayne County Clerk.

news briefs

Wayne County Farm Bureau meets

The Wayne County Farm Bureau held its monthly meeting on Feb. 17 at the office in Wayne. The meeting was conducted by President Don Liedman. Minutes were read by Norman Wichman. Stan McAfee, agency manager, reported on items of interest at the office, and Mrs. Don Liedman and Mrs. Milton Owens reported on the mid-winter women's conference they attended with Mrs. Clarke Kal on Feb. 10-11 in Kearney. Mrs. Owens also announced that she is contacting schools in Wayne County concerning the Farm Bureau's "Ag in the Classroom" project. Members of the women's committee selected two high school students to represent Wayne County at the citizenship seminar to be held in March. Board members will be selling tickets to a pancake feed scheduled Sunday, March 16.

Review tillage plots

The results from the 16 conservation tillage plots in Wayne in 1985 will be reviewed at a meeting of the ASCS Meeting room today (Monday), Feb. 24 at 1 p.m., sponsored by the Wayne County Extension Service. Results will be reviewed by Extension Engineers and Agronomists and Soil Conservation Service, and suggestions made on how to improve production, cut costs and limit soil erosion using conservation tillage.

Accepted at Augustana

Sheila Rae Cowgill, daughter of Bernard and Janice Cowgill of Wayne has been accepted for admission to Augustana College for the fall semester.

Farm program meeting

The Wayne County ASCS, SCS, Extension Service, and FMHA offices will hold a public informational meeting at the Wayne City Auditorium on Wednesday, Feb. 26 at 1:15 p.m. Ray Butts, Director of the Wayne County ASCS Office said, "The meeting will be to explain farm programs affecting producers at this time." "We have now received most of the details of the Feed Grain Program and 10 Year Conservation Reserve Program," Butts said. Late passage of the Farm Bill has resulted in information on program provisions being received later than usual. Producers will be afforded an opportunity to have their questions answered at the informational meeting.

Johar on speech team

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln speech team won eight of 12 events enroute to winning its fifth Nebraska Intercollegiate Forensic Association championship in six years last Saturday at UNL. Among members of that team is Jassi Johar, who finished fifth in impromptu and sixth in extemporaneous and due interpretation.

Area students on Dean's List

Rebecca Schmidt of Wayne and Jonathan A. Stelling of Wakefield have been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester of the 1986-87 academic year at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln at the College of Arts and Sciences.

Membership drive

The Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association officers and directors are planning a membership drive in Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Thurston Counties on Wednesday, Feb. 26. A strong membership base is essential for effective representation and promotion of the livestock industry. During these trying times producers as well as agri-businessmen need the benefits of commodity organizations. Your support of the livestock industry by placing membership in the association will be appreciated. For more information contact Roger Tremayne, Watthill, NE. (846-5355).

Freshman orientation set at WHS

Wayne-Carroll High School will hold its annual freshman orientation on Thursday, March 13 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. On that evening, students who will attend Wayne High during the 1988-89 school year, along with their parents, are invited to visit the school, tour the facilities, and visit with teachers regarding student class schedules. Evening activities will begin with a general session in the lecture hall at 7 p.m. Parents and students will then be allowed to visit with teachers in various classrooms. Refreshments will be served at 8:30 p.m. Final registration for all Wayne ninth graders will take place during the week of March 17-21. Rural students are encouraged to register during the evening of freshman orientation.

Thursday Nighters' featured

Conference to showcase Wayne, others

A conference to be held in Lincoln featuring lessons for community survival will showcase seven "entrepreneurial communities" as examples of what local leaders can do to help ensure positive futures for their farms, towns and cities. The City of Wayne is included in this program.

The conference, called "1990 and Beyond: Celebrating the Future of Nebraska and Its Communities," is a program of Visions from the Heartland, a grassroots-organized leadership development project. The project was started last summer as a means to respond to the farm crisis and the negative mentality associated with it.

The project's subtitle, "Nebraska as Leader," emphasizes that Nebraska has leadership capabilities that can work to the economic benefit of the state.

What citizens can do at the grassroots level is the focus of the seven "Entrepreneurial Community Showcases" scheduled as part of the one-day conference at the Cornhusker Hotel on today (Monday). "These seven communities, ranging from a farm family to a statewide membership organization, demonstrate the enormous impact of local leaders on economic development potential," said Milan Wall, coordinator of the Visions project and a Lincoln-based strategic planning specialist.

"These case studies show above all else that the leadership of single individuals or small groups of people can make a tremendous difference on attitudes and, eventually, the chances for community survival," said Wall, a former member of the Lincoln School Board.

WALL SAID THE seven projects include:

- * Communications Era Farming, featuring the Circle Lazy 8 Ranch near Holbrook, and presented by Owner Roger Schroeder.
- * Community Development (Homestyle), demonstrating the potential of local community development in the small town of Grant. Presented by Myron Graybill, project director.
- * Custer County Project 1990, a countywide futures-oriented program, focusing on the county's economic needs in the next decade. Presented by Corinne Pedersen, executive vice president of the Broken Bow Chamber of Commerce.

The "Thursday Nighters" Discussion Group in Wayne, an informal network of area residents who get together weekly to trade ideas about economic development. Presented by John Vokoc, a Wayne home builder and newly elected president of the Nebraska State Homebuilders Association.

Panhandle Visions, a new leadership development organization for the western part of the state. Presented by Mary Lou Strauh, executive director of the Panhandle Area Development District in Scottsbluff.

Peru State's Regional Economic Development Program, featuring a four-county area of southeast Nebraska and their coordinated approach to community development. Presented by Jerry Gallentine, president of Peru State College.

Planning for the Future through a Voluntary Organization, a program of the Nebraska Conference, United Methodist Church. Presented by Bob Folkers of the Conference office in Lincoln.

THE CONFERENCE will also feature a videotaped message by

Donor list given for blood bank

Seventy-three people donated blood at the Providence Medical Center on Feb. 18.

Recognition was given to Joseph Dorcey of Wayne, who over the years has given an accumulated total of six gallons in blood; Gary West and Dorothy Nelson of Wayne, three gallon donors; Patrick Nicholson of Emerson, Rick Robins and LeRoy Spahr of Wayne, two gallon donors; and Milton Owens of Carroll and Theodore Reeg, Jr. of Wayne, one gallon donors.

Other donors who registered included Barbara Junk, Lorna Loberg of Carroll; Richard Hanson, Suzie Johnson of Concord; Elizabeth A. Mohr of Laurel; Daniel J. Brosnahan of Logan, Iowa; Michael D. Lyons of Oakdale, Nebraska; Debbie Bargholz of Wayne; Mylet Bargholz of Wakefield; Gary Boehle, Jeffrey Brady, Janice Brown, Ronald Brown, Vernon Gene Casey, Kenton Cleveland, Robert Enz, Paul Fairbanks, Harold Fleer, all of Wayne; and John Geewe of Wakefield.

Also, Esther Hansen, Larry Hansen, Sister Kevin Hermesen, Kirk Hochstein, Donald Hypse, Miron Jenness, Brad Jones, Kimberly Jones, Kenneth Jorgensen, Don Koenig, Dennis Lipp, Ken Loberg, Richard Lund, Susan A. McManigal, Leon Meyer, Ronald Milliken, Harry Neiman, Marjan Nelseb, Judith Nemeck, Suzanne Olson, George Phelps, Beverly Ruwe, Vern Schulz, Keith Schuttler, Marlin Schuttler, Lois Shelton, Allen Shufelt, Nickolas Sieler, Vicky Skokan, Onar Spahr, Nancy Lynn Sutton, Anne Svoboda, Geraldine Swinney, Doug Temme, Frederick Temme, Ronald Temme, Gertrude Thomas, Patricia Thompson, John Thomsen, Ruth Victor, Elda Warne, Brooks Widner and Ron Wriedt, all of Wayne.

Governor Bob Kerrey, who is attending the National Governors Conference next week; a speech on the "Importance of citizen participation" by State Senator Sandra Scofield of Chadron; a luncheon address on "the community of future" by Assistant Dean Joseph Luther of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Architecture; and a presentation on "strategic planning for community survival" by Project Coordinator Milan Wall.

Two afternoon sessions will provide participants with the opportunity to meet with state agency and university specialists whose offices provide assistance for community development in 11 different topic areas, ranging from agriculture to telecommunications.

A "Community Resource Fair," featuring exhibits of community development resources from a variety of agencies, will fill the hotel's Convention Center atrium.

British futurist Robert Theobald, who makes his home in Arizona, will close the conference with remarks on how to "create a positive future for Nebraska and the Heartland." Theobald has served as senior advisor to the project.

'hacken' away

The cavern of Nomad Place had gathered. A letter arrived from their leader that said all earnings must now be reported.

Og the Caveman was confused.

"Ug, what is income tax," Og asked.

"Don't know for sure," said Zeg, friend of Og. "Must be another way for group leader to get more richer to get out of hole."

"Why not just climb out of hole like we do when we fall in?" asked Og.

"Not that kind of hole I mean, Og. They call it deficit. It's like hunting for small game and running into big dinosaur," explained Zeg. "You bite off more than you can chew. That's what leaders did."

Og and Zeg began reading the directions on the tax forms etched in rock.

"Says here that we can file various choices, like head of cave-hold, single and jointly," Og said. "I single yet. Hard for man to find partner when he has broncosaur as pet."

"Wife Zelga is head of my cave-hold. Wife Zelga does cleaning and cooking. I go hunting and put food on the table, fight trespassers and defend my family," said Zeg.

"Then why are you not the cave-hold head?" asked Og. "Wife Zelga is only one that can balance the books," answered Zeg.

Zeg and Og continued reading the tax forms.

"Instructions say that we must report all our earnings," Og said. "Got a sharp stone. Let's start filling this in."

"Let me see. We have no earnings. How do you report trade of skins? No records made," said Og.

"WHAT ABOUT all that we earned when we invented that round thing called the wheel?" Zeg asked.

"Oh, but that was nothing. We gave away the patent rights to that thing. The guy who wanted it said the thing would never sell or amount to anything spectacular. A worthless invention, he said," mentioned Og.

"Poor guy got stuck, I think, with that wheel," added Zeg. "Guess he just didn't have a mind for business like we did."

"Guess not," Og replied.

"Look here. It says that we can itemize our deductions, like medical expenses and contributions. Maybe we should try that," Zeg said. "Put down the time I got injured hunting wild jackrabbit. Cost me lots of money, cut my hand," said Og.

"How'd that happen?" asked Zeg.

"Grabbed wrong end of spear," answered Og.

"Says also that we can deduct our interest on the paying of real estate mortgages. Can't put nothing in that spot. Have not one bit of interest about paying real estate mortgages. Do you have an interest, Zeg? My cave's all paid for," added Og.

"Mine is too, but I added on a patio for cookouts and stuff. I'm reading on and it says that's not deductible either," mentioned Zeg.

THE CAVEMEN flipped the rock over to the other side. They realized there were no taxes taken from their earnings, since they were self-employed.

"Hey, it says here that we can get a refund on our income tax form. What do you say, Og? Think maybe we should put that we want $300 refunded to us?" asked Zeg.

"Ya, that sounds about right. How about that part there that says if we want to make any type of contribution for the "save the caveman from extinction" campaign? It says it is deductible for next year's taxes," said Og.

"Now, there's no need to make some silly donation like that. We aren't going anywhere. Economic forecasts say the cavemen will be around for a long, long time," remarked Zeg.

They read on. And then they put their signatures on the dotted line.

"All that's left is to date our signature and send it in," Og said.

"There's just one problem," said Zeg.

"What's that? We filled out all the necessary information. And we double checked our figures, put the right address and everything else," Og mentioned.

"With postage the way it is, how the heck can we afford mailing this rock tablet? It's going to cost a fortune," answered Zeg.

When the form was mailed, it became the very first federal income tax form that was filled out — and audited next year.

Seems Zeg and Og neglected to report their lottery winnings.

Farm talk

The following piece of material was found in the Newport (Tennessee) Plain Talk, under "For Miles Around" by Murray Miles, Tennessee Farm Bureau. He got it from Tom Bryant of WSM Radio in Nashville, who got it from Shirley Springer's column in the McLean County Independent of Garrison, North Dakota.

We received it from our cartoonist that you see on our opinion pages each week — sometimes he sends us a bit more than just editorial cartoons.

It goes like this:

So God Made A Farmer

Surveying the world He had made, God looked down one day, and said, "I need somebody down there to be a caretaker of my kingdom."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who will sit up all night with a newborn calf, watch it die and say, 'Maybe we'll get an even better one next year.'"

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can eat dirt, smell manure, listen for thundercaps, taste bugs in his teeth and still feel good all over."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can get up before dawn, milk cows, work in the field all day, milk cows again, eat supper and then go into town and stay there 'til 2 a.m. at a school board meeting."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody with arms strong enough to wrestle a big calf to give him shots but a heart gentle enough to cry when his first grandchild is born."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can call hogs, cuss at ornery, cantankerous old machinery, bark orders to the hired man and then come home and whisper to his wife that she's the same pretty girl he married 15 years ago."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can wait patiently for his afternoon lunch until his wife is done feeding all the ladies at her cosmetics party, and then tell them all to come back soon."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who waits all year to harvest a crop, but will stop in mid-field and run to help when he sees smoke coming up from the neighbor's place."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who will smile, then laugh and then cry when his son says he wants to spend the rest of his life doing just what Dad does."

So God made a farmer.

Income credit proposed

by Elroy M. Hefner

I was pleased to see the state revenues for the month of January were up by more than six and one-half million dollars.

This means that the state is now only $1.2 million below projection for the first seven months of the current fiscal year which ends June 30. This certainly takes the pressure off the Legislature in reducing the budget or increasing the state income tax from 19 percent to 20 this year. Quite a relief, but at this time I remain cautiously optimistic.

Realizing the need for injecting new ideas to help in enticing new businesses into Nebraska, an urban legislator introduced a bill (LB 1124), modeled from a Kansas law, which would give new businesses locating in Nebraska an income tax credit of $100 for each newly created job and another $100 credit for each $100,000 of capital investment made in the state. To be eligible for these two tax incentives, a company would have to create a minimum of two jobs and make a capital investment of no less than $100,000. Other stipulations set out in the bill (which had no opposition at the committee hearing) are, tax incentives would be allowed as deductions for up to ten years, but could not go beyond 50 percent of a company's state income tax liability. Supporters of the bill agreed that Nebraska's lack of tax incentives were causing a negative reaction to businesses seeking to relocate and pointed out that the existence of the Kansas Law, which became effective in 1977, has caused 14,569 new jobs to develop and resulted in a capital investment of $851 million — not to bad a record for only nine years of tax incentives for new businesses in Kansas!

A heated debate resulted this week from a lawmaker's attempt to reconsider LB 524, a carry-over bill from last session, which seeks to require all riders of motorcycles to wear helmets as some protection against serious injury in case of accident. The introduction of LB 524 indicated as many as ten motorcycleists' lives could be saved each year; not to mention the added cost-savings to the state for those individuals who are injured but carry no type of insurance coverage. Opponents resent government interference in what they feel should be a motorcycleist's personal choice.

Approximately 50 leather-jacketed members of a motorcycle group watched from the balcony as the vote and debate on LB 524 took place. The bill was defeated by a vote of 23-14, two votes short of the 25 votes needed to pull the bill out of the Public Works Committee which had taken no action on the bill. Two other senators elected to place another reconsideration motion before the Legislative body concerning this issue, thus LB 524 will very likely be debated some time during the week of Feb. 17.

Survey: safety belts favorable

Nebraska residents strongly support the state's five-month-old safety belt use law, and 68 percent favor strict enforcement of the law, according to a statewide survey released today.

Sixty-three percent of Nebraska residents said they favor the law, which requires drivers and front seat passengers to wear their safety belts. The law took effect September 6th, 1985.

"This survey shows the people believe in the Nebraska law and in safety belts. They also want the law to be enforced. We find that 68 percent favor strict enforcement," said Dr. Dale Kemmerer, chairman of Nebraska Traffic Safety Now, a Statewide Coalition promoting Traffic Safety through safety belt use.

"The people of Nebraska firmly believe that safety belt use laws are working," said Kemmerer, whose coalition commissioned the survey project by Selection Research, Inc. (SRI) of Lincoln. Seventy-five percent of respondents believe the safety belt law in Nebraska is saving lives, and 62 percent favor continuation of the law."

The figures from the Nebraska survey parallel the strong public support for belt use laws revealed in a national public opinion poll conducted in December by Nordhaus Research, Inc. That survey showed 71 percent of Americans favored safety belt use laws in their state.

The Nebraska survey indicated that 61 percent of residents "always wear their safety belts, or wear them 'most of the time.'"

A February, 1985 survey indicated that only 31 percent of those surveyed "always wore safety belts, or wore them 'most of the time.'"

"We are pleased to know that the public supports our commitment to saving lives and reducing injuries on our highways," Kemmerer said. "The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration predicts 70,000 road-related fatalities by 1990. It's good to know that Nebraska residents stand behind us in our efforts to minimize their state's contribution to that man-made disaster."

Seventeen states and the District of Columbia have enacted safety belt use legislation since December 1, 1984.

"The figures are extremely encouraging," said Kemmerer. "Our task now is to develop the safety belt habit among an even greater number of Nebraskans, so that usage levels will become proportionate to the support demonstrated by these survey results."

The public opinion poll of 751 randomly selected Nebraska residents was conducted by telephone this January.

Now that we have had a brief period to deal with our grief over the tragedy that befell the courageous crew of the space shuttle Challenger, I would like to call on my five years as an assistant administrator at NASA to put a few issues into perspective.

We have heard much about how the seven heroes died — and rightly so. But we should keep in mind their great legacy — and the legacy of all the astronauts — the thousands of lives saved as a result of the knowledge they uncovered.

The micro-miniaturization that spawned a whole new generation of medical technology was spurred by the space program, as were revolutions in computer technology, in communications and in protective fabrics. Weather satellites warn of hurricanes, droughts and other potentially devastating conditions. And as the space program teaches us about other worlds, we learn more about our own — hastening the day when we can reliably predict earthquakes, volcanoes and other natural disasters.

Without heroes willing to accept the risks, there would have been no space program — and perhaps none of these benefits to mankind. And NASA veterans remember when the risks were even greater than today.

I RECALL listening in the NASA auditorium in 1964 to the "beep, beep, beep" of the telemetry signal from a Ranger space vehicle. A sudden silence sent the room into raucous celebration — because that was the sign that we had finally hit the moon with an unmanned rocket on the seventh attempt.

If we had that much trouble with an unmanned rocket, just think of the dangers to the astronauts on the live missions of the early 1960s. But just five incredible years later, we sent three men to the moon and brought them home.

The explosion on Challenger proves that whenever one challenges an inhospitable environment, such risks will be present. But we've still lost more astronauts here on earth — in training, jet crashes and car accidents — than we lost in the shuttle program after millions of miles flown.

This strong safety record stems from a NASA procurement system that represents one of the proudest achievements of government and private industry. Tens of thousands of contractors and hundreds of thousands of workers help build a single launch system. Over the period of 25 years in 36 manned missions, the NASA system produced basically zero defects. Their record has certainly proved itself worthy of the world's admiration — accident or no.

The procurement system and the entire space program are always candidates for review and improvement — but certainly not for termination, as some voices already are demanding. Twenty-five years ago, the risks of space flight were even greater. If they were worth taking then, they are still worth taking now.

President Reagan has pledged that there will be more shuttle flights — and there should be. To honor properly these courageous American pioneers, and for the sake of generations to come who will benefit from their sacrifice, we should find the problem that felled the Challenger and her noble crew — fix it — and get on with man's unending quest to unlock the secrets of the universe.

Q. What is the statute of limitations for filing a medical malpractice lawsuit?
A. A medical malpractice lawsuit must be commenced within two years of the alleged act or omission in rendering or failing to render professional services. However, if the alleged malpractice is not discovered and could not reasonably be discovered within the two-year period, then the action may be started within one year from the date of discovery, or from the date of discovery of facts which would reasonably lead to such discovery, whichever is earlier. Under Nebraska law, in no event can such a lawsuit be brought more than ten years after the malpractice occurred.

As is the case with many rules, there are exceptions to the above that are too numerous and complex to be covered in this response. One exception which should be mentioned, however, is that in the case of a minor, the statute of limitations does not begin to run until the child reaches the age of 19. If you believe that you may have a valid claim, you should obtain legal advice without delay to avoid having your claim barred by the passage of time. No person should simply assume that a claim can no longer be filed, without first consulting a lawyer and obtaining an informed opinion.

If you have a legal question, write "Ask a Lawyer," P.O. Box 2529, Lincoln 68502. This column is intended to provide general legal information, not specific legal advice. "Ask a Lawyer" is a public service of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

Wayne County Farm Bureau meets

The Wayne County Farm Bureau held its monthly meeting on Feb. 17 at the office in Wayne. The meeting was conducted by President Don Liedman. Minutes were read by Norman Wichman. Stan McAfee, agency manager, reported on items of interest at the office, and Mrs. Don Liedman and Mrs. Milton Owens reported on the mid-winter women's conference they attended with Mrs. Clarke Kai on Feb. 10-11 in Kearney. Mrs. Owens also announced that she is contacting schools in Wayne County concerning the Farm Bureau's "Ag in the Classroom" project. Members of the women's committee selected two high school students to represent Wayne County at the citizenship seminar to be held in March. Board members will be selling tickets to a pancake feed scheduled Sunday, March 16.

Review tillage plots

The results from the 16 conservation tillage plots in Wayne in 1985 will be reviewed at a meeting at the ASCS Meeting room today (Monday), Feb. 24 at 1 p.m. sponsored by the Wayne County Extension Service. Results will be reviewed by Extension Engineers and Agronomists and Soil Conservation Service, and suggestions made on how to improve production, cut costs and limit soil erosion using conservation tillage.

Accepted at Augustana

Shella Rae Cowgill, daughter of Bernard and Janice Cowgill of Wayne has been accepted for admission to Augustana College for the fall semester.

Farm program meeting

The Wayne County ASCS, SCS, Extension Service, and FMHA offices will hold a public informational meeting at the Wayne City Auditorium on Wednesday, Feb. 26 at 1:15 p.m. Ray Butts, Director of the Wayne County ASCS Office said, "The meeting will be to explain farm programs affecting producers at this time." "We have now received most of the details of the Feed Grain Program and 10 Year Conservation Reserve Program," Butts said. Late passage of the Farm Bill has resulted in information on program provisions being received later than usual. Producers will be afforded an opportunity to have their questions answered at the informational meeting.

Johar on speech team

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln speech team won eight of 12 events enroute to winning its fifth Nebraska Intercollegiate Forensic Association championship in six years last Saturday at UNL. Among members of that team is Jassi Johar, who finished fifth in impromptu and sixth in extemporaneous and due interpretation.

Area students on Dean's List

Rebecca Schmidt of Wayne and Jonathan A. Stelling of Wakefield have been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester of the 1985-86 academic year at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln at the College of Arts and Sciences.

Membership drive

The Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association officers and directors are planning a membership drive in Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Thurston Counties on Wednesday, Feb. 26. A strong membership base is essential for effective representation and promotion of the livestock industry. During these trying times producers as well as agri-businessmen need the benefits of commodity organizations. Your support of the livestock industry by placing membership in the association will be appreciated. For more information contact Roger Tremayne, Walthill, NE. (846-5355).

Freshman orientation set at WHS

Wayne-Carroll High School will hold its annual freshman orientation on Thursday, March 13 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. On that evening, students who will attend Wayne High during the 1986-87 school year, along with their parents, are invited to visit the school, tour the facilities, and visit with teachers regarding student class schedules. Evening activities will begin with a general session in the lecture hall at 7 p.m. Parents and students will then be allowed to visit with teachers in various classrooms. Refreshments will be served at 8:30 p.m. Final registration for all Wayne ninth graders will take place during the week of March 17-21. Rural students are encouraged to register during the evening of freshman orientation.

Conference to showcase Wayne, others

A conference to be held in Lincoln featuring lessons for community survival will showcase seven "entrepreneurial communities" as examples of what local leaders can do to help ensure positive futures for their farms, towns and cities. The City of Wayne is included in this program.

The conference, called "1990 and Beyond: Celebrating the Future of Nebraska and Its Communities," is a program of Visions from the Heartland, a grassroots-organized leadership development project. The project was started last summer as a means to respond to the farm crisis and the negative mentality associated with it.

The project's subtitle, "Nebraska as Leader," emphasizes that Nebraska has leadership capabilities that can work to the economic benefit of the state.

What citizens can do at the grassroots level is the focus of the seven "Entrepreneurial Community Showcases" scheduled as part of the one-day conference at the Cornhusker Hotel on today (Monday). "These seven communities, ranging from a farm family to a statewide membership organization, demonstrate the enormous impact of local leaders on economic development potential," said Milan Wall, coordinator of the Visions project and a Lincoln-based strategic planning specialist.

"These case studies show above all else that the leadership of single individuals or small groups of people can make a tremendous difference on attitudes and, eventually, the chances for community survival," said Wall, a former member of the Lincoln School Board.

WALL SAID THE SEVEN PROJECTS INCLUDE:

- * Communications Era Farming, featuring the Circle Lazy 8 Ranch near Hobbrook, and presented by Owner Roger Schroeder.
- * Community Development (Homestyle), demonstrating the potential of local community development in the small town of Grant. Presented by Myron Graybill, project director.
- * Custer County Project 1990, a countywide futures-oriented program, focusing on the county's economic needs in the next decade. Presented by Corrinne Pedersen, executive vice president of the Broken Bow Chamber of Commerce.

The "Thursday Nighters" Discussion Group in Wayne, an Informal Network of area residents who get together weekly to trade ideas about economic development. Presented by John Vakoc, a Wayne home builder and newly elected president of the Nebraska State Homebuilders Association.

Panhandle Visions, a new leadership development organization for the western part of the state. Presented by Mary Lou Strauh, executive director of the Panhandle Area's Development District in Scottsbluff.

Peru State's Regional Economic Development Program, featuring a four-county area of southeast Nebraska and their coordinated approach to community development. Presented by Jerry Gallentine, president of Peru State College.

Planning for the Future through a Voluntary Organization, a program of the Nebraska Conference, United Methodist Church. Presented by Bob Folkers of the Conference office in Lincoln.

THE CONFERENCE will also feature a videotaped message by

Donor list given for blood bank

Seventy-three people donated blood at the Providence Medical Center on Feb. 18.

Recognition was given to Joseph Dorcay of Wayne, who over the years has given an accumulated total of six gallons in blood; Gary West and Dorothy Nelson of Wayne, three gallon donors; Patrick Nicholson of Emperson, Rick Robins and LeRoy Spahr of Wayne, two gallon donors; and Milton Owens of Carroll and Theodore Reeg, Jr. of Wayne, one gallon donors.

Other donors who registered included Barbara Junck, Lorna Loberg of Carroll; Richard Hanson, Suzie Johnson of Concord; Elizabeth A. Mohr of Laurel; Daniel J. Brosnahan of Logan, Iowa; Michael D. Lyons of Oakdale, Nebraska; Debbie Bargholz of Wayne; Mylet Bargholz of Wakefield; Gary Boehle, Jeffrey Brady, Janice Brown, Ronald Brown, Vernon Gene Casey, Kenton Cleveland, Robert Ensz, Paul Fairbanks, Harold Fleer, all of Wayne; and John Geewe of Wakefield.

Also, Esther Hansen, Larry Hansen, Sister Kevin Hermsen, Kirk Hochstein, Donald Hypse, Miron Jenness, Brad Jones, Kimberly Jones, Kenneth Jorgensen, Don Koenig, Dennis Lipp, Ken Loberg, Richard Lund, Susan A. McManigal, Leon Meyer, Ronald Milliken, Harry Melman, Marian Nelsen, Judith Nemeec, Suzanne Olson, George Phelps, Beverly Ruwe, Vern Schulz, Keith Schuttler, Marlin Schuttler, Lois Shelton, Allen Shufelt, Nickolas Sieler, Vicky Skokan, Onar Spahr, Nancy Lynn Sulton, Anne Svoboda, Geraldine Swinney, Doug Temme, Frederick Temme, Ronald Temme, Gertrude Thomas, Patricia Thompson, John Thomsen, Ruth Victor, Elda Warne, Brooks Widner and Ron Wriedt, all of Wayne.

Governor Bob Kerrey, who is attending the National Governors Conference next week; a speech on the "Importance of citizen participation" by State Senator Sandra Scofield of Chadron; a luncheon address on "the community of future" by Assistant Dean Joseph Luther of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Architecture; and a presentation on "strategic planning for community survival" by Project Coordinator Milan Wall.

Two afternoon sessions will provide participants with the opportunity to meet with state agency and university specialists whose offices provide assistance for community development in 11 different topic areas, ranging from agriculture to telecommunications.

A "Community Resource Fair," featuring exhibits of community development resources from a variety of agencies, will fill the hotel's Convention Center atrium.

British futurist Robert Theobald, who makes his home in Arizona, will close the conference with remarks on how to "create a positive future for Nebraska and the Heartland." Theobald has served as senior advisor to the project.

'hacken' away

The cavemen of Nomad Place had gathered. A letter arrived from their leader that said all earnings must now be reported.

Og, the Caveman was confused. "Ug, what is income tax," Og asked.

"Don't know for sure," said Zeg, friend of Og. "Must be another way for group leader to get more richer to get out of hole."

"Why not just climb out of hole like we do when we fall in?" asked Og.

"Not that kind of hole I mean, Og. They call it deficit. It's like hunting for small game and running into big dinosaur," explained Zeg.

"You bite off more than you can chew. That's what leaders did."

Og and Zeg began reading the directions on the tax forms etched in rock.

"Says here that we can file various choices, like head of cave-hold, single and jointly," Og said. "I single yet. Hard for man to find partner when he has brotosauro as pet."

"Wife Zelga is head of my cave-hold. Wife Zelga does cleaning and cooking. I go hunting and put food on the table, fight trespassers and defend my family," said Zeg.

"Then why are you not the cave-hold head?" asked Og. "Wife Zelga is only one that can balance the books," answered Zeg.

Zeg and Og continued reading the tax forms.

"Instructions say that we must report all our earnings, Og," Zeg said. "Got a sharp stone. Let's start filling this in."

"Let me see. We have no earnings. How do you report trade of skins? No records made," said Og.

"WHAT ABOUT all that we earned when we invented that round thing called the wheel?" Zeg asked.

"Oh, but that was nothing. We gave away the patent rights to that thing. The guy who wanted it said the thing would never sell or amount to anything spectacular. A worthless invention, he said," mentioned Og.

"Poor guy got stuck. I think, with that wheel," added Zeg. "Guess he just didn't have a mind for business like we did."

"Guess not," Og replied. "Look here. It says that we can itemize our deductions, like medical expenses and contributions. Maybe we should try that," Zeg said. "Put down the time I got injured hunting wild jackrabbit. Cost me lots of money, cut my hand," said Og.

"How'd that happen?" asked Zeg.

"Grabbed wrong end of spear," answered Og. "Says also that we can deduct our interest on the paying of real-estate mortgages. Can't put nothing in that spot. Have not one bit of interest about paying real-estate mortgages. Do you have an interest, Zeg? My cave's all paid for," added Og.

"Mine is too, but I added on a patio for cookouts and stuff. I'm reading on it and says that's not deductible either," mentioned Zeg.

THE CAVEMEN flipped the rock over to the other side. They realized there were no taxes taken from their earnings, since they were self-employed.

"Hey, it says here that we can get a refund on our income tax form. What do you say, Og? Think maybe we should put that we want $300 refunded to us?" asked Zeg.

"Ya, that sounds about right. How about that part there that says if we want to make any type of contribution for the "save the caveman from extinction" campaign? It says it is deductible for next year's taxes," said Og.

"Now, there's no need to make some silly donation like that. We aren't going anywhere. Economic forecasts say the cavemen will be around for a long, long time," remarked Zeg.

They read on. And then they put their signatures on the dotted line.

"All that's left is to date our signature and send it in," Og said.

"There's just one problem," said Zeg. "What's that? We filled out all the necessary information. And we double checked our figures, put the right address and everything else," Og mentioned.

"With postage the way it is, how the heck can we afford mailing this rock tablet? It's going to cost a fortune," answered Zeg.

When the form was mailed, it became the very first federal income tax form that was filled out — and audited next year.

Seems Zeg and Og neglected to report their lottery winnings.

Farm talk

The following piece of material was found in the Newport (Tennessee) Plain Talk, under "For Miles Around" by Murray Miles, Tennessee Farm Bureau. He got it from Tom Bryant of WSM Radio in Nashville, who got it from Shirley Springer's column in the McLean County Independent of Garrison, North Dakota.

We received it from our cartoonist that you see on our opinion pages each week — sometimes he sends us a bit more than just editorial cartoons.

It goes like this:

So God Made A Farmer

Surveying the world He had made, God looked down one day, and said, "I need somebody down there to be a caretaker of my kingdom."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who will sit up all night with a newborn calf, watch it die and say, 'Maybe we'll get an even better one next year.'"

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can eat dirt, smell manure, listen for thundercaps, taste bugs in his teeth and still feel good all over."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can get up before dawn, milk cows, work in the field all day, milk cows again, eat supper and then go into town and stay there 'til 2 a.m. at a school board meeting."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody with arms strong enough to wrestle a big calf to give him shots but a heart gentle enough to cry when his first grandchild is born."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can call hogs, cuss at ornery, cantankerous old machinery, bark orders to the hired man and then come home and whisper to his wife that she's the same pretty girl he married 15 years ago."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who can wait patiently for his afternoon lunch until his wife is done feeding all the ladies at her cosmetics party, and then tell them all to come back soon."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who waits all year to harvest a crop, but will stop in mid-field and run to help when he sees smoke coming up from the neighbor's place."

So God made a farmer.

"I need somebody who will smile, then laugh and then cry when his son says he wants to spend the rest of his life doing just what Dad does."

So God made a farmer.

Income credit proposed

by Elroy M. Heimer

I was pleased to see the state revenues for the month of January were up by more than six and one-half million dollars.

This means that the state is now only $1.2 million below projection for the first seven months of the current fiscal year which ends June 30. This certainly takes the pressure off the Legislature in reducing the budget or increasing the state income tax from 19 percent to 20 this year. Quite a relief, but at this time I remain cautiously optimistic.

Realizing the need for injecting new ideas to help in enticing new businesses into Nebraska, an urban legislator introduced a bill (LB 1124), modeled from a Kansas law, which would give new businesses locating in Nebraska an income tax credit of $100 for each newly created job and another $100 credit for each $100,000 of capital investment made in the state. To be eligible for these two tax incentives, a company would have to create a minimum of two jobs and make a capital investment of no less than $100,000. Other stipulations set out in the bill (which had no opposition at the committee hearings) are, tax incentives would be allowed as deductions for up to ten years, but could not go beyond 50 percent of a company's state income tax liability. Supporters of the bill agreed that Nebraska's lack of tax incentives were causing a negative reaction to businesses seeking to relocate and pointed out that the existence of the Kansas Law, which became effective in 1977, has caused 14,569 new jobs to develop and resulted in a capital investment of $851 million — not to bad a record for only nine years of tax incentives for new businesses in Kansas!

A heated debate resulted this week from a lawmaker's attempt to reconsider LB 524, a carry-over bill from last session, which seeks to require all riders of motorcycles to wear helmets as some protection against serious injury in case of accident. The introducer of LB 524 indicated as many as ten motorcyclists' lives could be saved each year, not to mention the added cost-savings to the state for those individuals who are injured but carry no type of insurance coverage. Opponents' recent government interference in what they feel should be a motorcyclist's personal choice.

Approximately 50 leather-jacketed members of a motorcycle group watched from the balcony as the vote and debate on LB 524 took place. The bill was defeated by a vote of 23-14, two votes short of the 25 votes needed to pull the bill out of the Public Works Committee which had taken no action on the bill. Two other senators elected to place another reconsideration motion before the Legislative body concerning this issue, thus LB 524 will very likely be debated sometime during the week of Feb. 17.

Survey: safety belts favorable

Nebraska residents strongly support the state's five-month-old safety belt use law, and 68 percent favor strict enforcement of the law, according to a statewide survey released today.

Sixty-three percent of Nebraska residents said they favor the law, which requires drivers and front seat passengers to wear their safety belts. The law took effect September 6th, 1985.

"This survey shows the people believe in the Nebraska law and in safety belts. They also want the law to be enforced. We find that 68 percent favor strict enforcement," said Dr. Dale Kemmerer, chairman of Nebraska Traffic Safety Now, a Statewide Coalition promoting Traffic Safety through safety belt use.

"The people of Nebraska firmly believe that safety belt use laws are working," said Kemmerer, whose coalition commissioned the survey project by Selection Research, Inc. (SRI) of Lincoln. Seventy-five percent of respondents believe the safety belt law in Nebraska is saving lives, and 62 percent favor continuation of the law.

The figures from the Nebraska survey parallel the strong public support for belt use laws revealed in a national public opinion poll conducted in December by Nordhaus Research, Inc. That survey showed 71 percent of Americans favored safety belt use laws in their state.

The Nebraska survey indicated that 61 percent of residents "always wear their safety belts, or wear them most of the time."

A February, 1985 survey indicated that only 31 percent of those surveyed "always wore safety belts, or wore them most of the time."

"We are pleased to know that the public supports our commitment to saving lives and reducing injuries on our highways," Kemmerer said. "The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration predicts 70,000 road-related fatalities by 1990. It's good to know that Nebraska residents stand behind us in our efforts to minimize their state's contribution to that man-made disaster."

Seventeen states and the District of Columbia have enacted safety belt use legislation since December 1, 1984.

"The figures are extremely encouraging," said Kemmerer. "Our task now is to develop the safety belt habit among an even greater number of Nebraskans, so that usage levels will become proportionate to the support demonstrated by these survey results."

The public opinion poll of 751 randomly selected Nebraska residents was conducted by telephone this January.

Space program should continue

by Richard Leshar
President of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Now that we have had a brief period to deal with our grief over the tragedy that befell the courageous crew of the space shuttle Challenger, I would like to call on my five years as an assistant administrator at NASA to put a few issues into perspective.

We have heard much about how the seven heroes died — and rightly so. But we should keep in mind the great legacy — and the legacy of all the astronauts — the thousands of lives saved as a result of the knowledge they uncovered.

The micro-miniaturization that spawned a whole new generation of medical technology was spurred by the space program, as were revolutions in computer technology, in communications and in protective fabrics. Weather satellites warn of hurricanes, droughts, and other potentially devastating conditions. And as the space program teaches us about other worlds, we learn more about our own — hastening the day when we can reliably predict earthquakes, volcanoes and other natural disasters.

Without heroes willing to accept the risks, there would have been no space program — and perhaps none of these benefits to mankind. And NASA veterans remember when the risks were even greater than today.

I RECALL listening in the NASA auditorium in 1964 to the "beep, beep, beep" of the telemetry signal from a Ranger space vehicle. A sudden silence sent the room into raucous celebration — because that was the sign that we had finally hit the moon with an unmanned rocket on the seventh attempt.

If we had that much trouble with an unmanned rocket, just think of the dangers to the astronauts on the live missions of the early 1960s. But just five incredible years later, we sent three men to the moon and brought them home.

The explosion on Challenger proves that whenever one challenges an inhospitable environment, such risks will be present. But we've still lost more astronauts here on earth — in training, jet crashes and car accidents — than we lost in the shuttle program after millions of miles flown.

This strong safety record stems from a NASA procurement system

that represents one of the proudest achievements of government and private industry. Tens of thousands of contractors and hundreds of thousands of workers help build a single launch system. Over the period of 25 years in 56 manned missions, the NASA system produced basically zero defects. Their record has certainly proved itself worthy of the world's admiration — accident or no.

The procurement system and the entire space program are always candidates for review and improvement — but certainly not for termination, as some voices already are demanding. Twenty-five years ago, the risks of space flight were even greater. If they were worth taking then, they are still worth taking now.

President Reagan has pledged that there will be more shuttle flights — and there should be. To honor properly these courageous American pioneers, and for the sake of generations to come who will benefit from their sacrifice, we should find the problem that felled the Challenger and her noble crew — fix it — and get on with man's unending quest to unlock the secrets of the universe.

ask a lawyer

a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. What is the statute of limitations for filing a medical malpractice lawsuit?

A. A medical malpractice lawsuit must be commenced within two years of the alleged act or omission in rendering or failing to render professional services. However, if the alleged malpractice is not discovered and could not reasonably be discovered within the two-year period, then the action may be started within one year from the date of discovery, or from the date of discovery of facts which would reasonably lead to such discovery, whichever is earlier. Under Nebraska law, in no event can such a lawsuit be brought more than ten years after the malpractice occurred.

As is the case with many rules, there are exceptions to the above that are too numerous and complex to be covered in this response. One exception which should be mentioned, however, is that in the case of a minor, the statute of limitations does not begin to run until the child reaches the age of 19.

If you believe that you may have a valid claim, you should obtain legal advice without delay to avoid having your claim barred by the passage of time. No person should simply assume that a claim can no longer be filed, without first consulting a lawyer and obtaining an informed opinion.

Crowd attends homemakers school

HUNDREDS OF HOMEMAKERS from throughout the area filled Wayne city auditorium Thursday night for the 1986 TODAY'S HOME Homemakers School sponsored by The Wayne Herald and area merchants. Master of ceremonies for the evening program was Wayne Herald news editor Chuck Hackenmiller, top left photo, who was more than happy to assist home economist Lori Samson — even if it meant donning a blue bonnet and leading the audience in singing the Blue Bonnet jingle. In the top right photo, Hackenmiller draws a name for one of the more than 80 door prizes given away during the evening. Samson, a home economist for Homemakers Schools, Inc. of Madison, Wis., prepared 11 different dishes during her cooking demonstration, including Coconut Cheesecake Cups (bottom right photo).

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a column underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Wide variety of materials used in today's furniture

Consumers in the market for wood furniture are confronted with a variety of choices of materials. Wood furniture can be made of solid wood, plywood, hardboard, particle board, veneer, "Sem," and occasionally paper.

Each of these materials has specific uses and can indicate the quality of the furniture piece. Following are explanations of their uses and advantages.

SOLID WOOD — Usually used for legs, frames, rails and corner posts. Solid wood is strongest when cut with the grain. Extreme changes in humidity may cause splitting and/or shrinking. Wide pieces of solid wood are rare and normally several pieces are jointed and glued together. The advantages of solid wood include — carving can be done to a greater degree of fineness, chips and scratches can be more easily repaired, and refinishing a solid wood item presents fewer problems than veneers.

Plywood — More than 90 percent of furniture made today contains some plywood. Because plywood is made by gluing several thin layers of wood together with their grains at right angles, it is often stronger than solid wood. Large, flat surfaces and curved wood pieces are often made of plywood because it can be bent and molded. Plywood is very strong and resists splitting, checking and warping. It is available in a wide range of sizes and thicknesses and is usually faced with a thin veneer.

Veneer — These were developed to make maximum use of rare, valuable woods. Veneers are layers of wood sliced from a log. Most veneer sheets are small and must be pieced together to cover large surfaces. Veneers require some skill to repair chips and deep scratches or refinish.

Hardboard — This is made of refined wood fibers that are locked together with adhesives, steam and pressure. Hardboard may be smooth on both sides or just one. Three types of hardboard are used. Standard is strong, has good wear resistance, and is often used in furniture construction. Tempered hardboard has been chemically and heat treated to increase stiffness, hardness and finishing properties. It is used in floors, drawer or cabinet dividers, and in back panels for cabinets, bookcases and mirrors. Service quality is not used for furniture construction.

Particle board — This is made of wood particles and adhesives. Densities, thicknesses and panel sizes vary. Particle board has no grain and is free of splitting, checking and shrinking problems. Most often particle board is used in place of plywood and covered with veneers or laminates. It can also be painted or enameled and is popular for shelving.

"Sem" wood — "Sem" is short for serpentine and matching and made by gluing together small pieces of hardwood. "Sem" wood is used for exposed furniture parts. Joints are computer cut and glued, making them virtually invisible to the human eye. This technique allows the use of smaller trees that previously were not desirable for furniture production.

Paper — Cardboard and paper are possibilities for low cost furnishings. Today's furniture features two extremes — very simple cardboard storage units and tables, or the designer styled, modern chairs and tables.

Wayne will face Cedar in opening round

Blue Devils close with big 61-34 win

The Wayne Blue Devils couldn't have tuned up for the rugged B-4 District Basketball Tournament any better way than the way they did Friday night.

Wayne, who closes the regular season with a 12-5 record, blew away 12-5 Pierce with a very convincing 61-34 victory.

Blue Devil skipper Bob Uhing didn't say whether or not Friday's performance was Wayne's best of the year, but he did say he was pleased with his club's effort.

"We played very well, we really did. We especially did a nice job of filling the passing lanes, rebounding and on defense. I was very happy with the kids' overall performance," he said.

Wayne only led 10-6 after the first quarter, but controlled the tempo during the final three frames.

Don Larsen's rousing slam dunk midway through the second period brought down the house and supplied Wayne with an 18-8 lead, and the Blue Devils were in command the rest of the way.

After opening a 26-14 lead at intermission, Wayne pierced Pierce in the second half by outscoring the Bluejays 14-9 in the third frame and 21-11 over the final eight minutes.

Uhing said he was also happy with the way the Blue Devils kept adding to their lead, rather than allowing Pierce back into the contest.

"We've had trouble this year putting the knife into teams when we've got them on the ropes. But we finally put somebody away," he said.

Nine Blue Devils scored in the game. Larsen led Wayne with 17 points, while Jeff Hausmann and Scott Baker both added eight. Todd Kramer paced Pierce with nine points.

Wayne grabbed 31 rebounds. Larsen led the Blue Devils with 10 boards, while Hausmann and Bill Liska added eight and six caroms, respectively.

Wayne's junior varsity closed the season out at 9-5 with a 63-30 victory Friday night. Jason Jorgenson led the Blue Devil JVs with 10 points, while Troy Wood grabbed a team high eight rebounds.

Wayne's varsity will now play Hartington Cedar Catholic in the opening round of the B-4 tourney Saturday night at Northeast Tech. The game is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.

Wayne has beaten Cedar Catholic both times this year. The Blue Devils claimed a 48-46 victory on Jan. 24, and captured a 48-44 overtime triumph on Feb. 8. The second contest was the only time this year Cedar Catholic was beaten at home.

Uhing, the former head coach at Cedar Catholic, said he is looking forward to Saturday's game.

"I don't think it's a bad draw for us at all. We're the only team that has beaten Cedar at home this year and regardless of who you are in this district, you have to beat three good teams to get to state anyway," he said.

Uhing added that in both of the previous two games this year, the Blue Devils experienced one bad quarter. But he added that if Wayne can correct that, they'll be alright.

"We had a bad quarter in both the other games this year, but we seem to be getting over that lately and if we take care of that Saturday we should be okay," he said.

The Blue Devils have beaten Cedar Catholic five straight times in the two years since Uhing has taken over the head job at Wayne.

Wayne's gals rally for 36-33 victory over Schuyler

SCHUYLER — Wayne head coach Marlene Uhing has constantly praised her Blue Devils during the season for never giving up. And Thursday night, Wayne once again refused to quit and overcame a six point deficit late in the game to claim a 36-33 triumph here over Schuyler.

With just over four minutes remaining in the game, Schuyler held a six point lead and had possession of the ball. But the quick Blue Devil back-court duo of Dana Nelson and Jodi Diltman fueled Wayne to a thrilling comeback.

Nelson and Diltman keyed Wayne's press with several steals down the stretch and the Blue Devils converted the thefts into easy baskets.

"The girls did a really good job this year, and I'm proud of them...the girls never give up. They always play hard and never quit."

— Marlene Uhing

Wayne also received two big hoops by Kecia Corbit in the final minutes, and the 5-11 senior hit Shelly Pick with a nice inside pass for an easy layup to preserve the victory.

The Blue Devils opened an 8-4 lead after the first quarter and held an 18-17 halftime advantage. But Schuyler outscored Wayne 10-6 in the third stanza for a 27-24 lead and then increased its lead to six before the Blue Devils came rallying back.

Corbit led Wayne in scoring with 12 points, while Diltman totaled eight and Laura Keating added six.

The Blue Devils outrebounded Schuyler 35-26. Corbit and Pick paced Wayne's rebounding effort with eight and seven boards, respectively.

Nelson finished with a game high six assists, while Diltman totaled as many steals to lead the Blue Devils.

The victory improves Wayne to 11-6 on the year. Uhing, in her first season as the Blue Devil mentor, discussed what turned Wayne's program into a winner this season.

"The girls really did a good job this year, and I'm proud of them," she said. "There were several factors that allowed us to win as many biggest key might be the girls never give up. They always play hard and never quit."

The Schuyler contest was Wayne's final regular season game. The Blue Devils now play 17-2 Hartington Cedar Catholic in the opening round of the B-4 District Tournament Tuesday night at Northeast Tech, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

The Blue Devils also won the junior varsity game, 48-35. Andrea Marsh scored a season high 15 points for Wayne's JVs, while Marnie Bruggeman totaled a team high 11 rebounds for the Blue Devils.

Winside's Paulsen fulfilling wrestler's dream

Doug Paulsen

LINCOLN — Winside's Doug Paulsen fulfilled a dream every high school wrestler in Nebraska fantasizes about when he walked through the Parade of Champions Saturday afternoon before the Class D championship round.

Paulsen, Winside's 112-pounder, reached the championship round after stopping Bernie Howard of Scribner, 15-7, in the semifinals.

Paulsen will grapple Donny Selfried of Sargent in the championship match. Selfried is 25-3 on the year, while Paulsen will enter the title bout with a 32-3 mark.

Mace Kant, Paulsen's 105-pound teammate, was trimmed 2-0 in the semifinals by Anstey's Terence Burns. But Kant came back and pinned Humboldt's Lee Gufemeier for the right to battle in Saturday's Class D consolation round.

Both Paulsen and Kant plied their first two opponents on Thursday. Randy Leapley and Steve Jorgensen, Winside's 155-pounder and 185-pounder, respectively, both lost their first round matches by pin and were eventually knocked out of the tourney.

For photographs and a complete run down of all four grapplers at the state tourney, check Thursday's Wayne Herald.

Wayne State's Arnie Hayes (No. 20) floats in for two against Chadron State.

Wayne State qualifies

Last Saturday's 73-64 victory over arch rival Kearney State was Wayne State's biggest win of the year. But Wednesday's 73-66 triumph over Chadron State was certainly the Wildcats' most important triumph of the 1985-86 campaign.

Wednesday's victory boosted Wayne State into second place in the Nebraska Athletic Conference (NAC), and insured the Wildcats of an NAIA District 11 playoff berth.

Wednesday's win tied the Cats with Peru State, but Bellevue upset Peru 79-77 Friday night which allowed Wayne State to qualify for the playoffs outright.

Wayne State head coach Steve Aggers and the rest of the Wildcats have been focusing on a District 11 playoff spot for the past month, but it didn't come without a scare from the Eagles.

The hosts appeared to have the win and a playoff spot locked up with a 71-62 advantage and only 52 ticks left on the clock.

But Chadron battled back and cut the lead to five just 34 seconds later. However, Wildcat Vincent White iced the victory with two free throws at the :08 mark.

The game was an up-and-down affair for the Wildcats. At different points in the first half they held seemingly comfortable leads, but could never put the Eagles away and trailed 34-32 at intermission.

But Wayne State outscored Chadron 17-4 over a five minute stretch midway through the last half to open a 57-44 lead and hung on for the victory.

Allen's girls one victory away from State Tournament

WAKEFIELD — At one point during the 1985-86 season, Allen was 3-2 and had just dropped a discouraging loss to Wynot. Now, almost two months later, the Eagles are just one game away from the State Tournament after they defeated Walthill 46-43 in the C-27 Subdistrict basketball championship game here Thursday night.

There were several factors that led to Allen's victory, including exceptional defense and balanced scoring. But free throw shooting was, perhaps, the biggest key.

The Eagles made a modest 14-of-27 giffers, but scored at least one point on every giff opportunity except one.

"Every time we were at the line, we scored at least one point except once," Allen head coach Gary Troth said. "And that's mentally uplifting for the girls."

Allen also outscored Walthill by nine at the stripe, as the Bluejays finished 5-for-11.

The game was evenly played from the start. Allen posted a 9-8 lead at the end of the first quarter, before opening a 19-16 halftime advantage.

The Eagles then held a 33-29 lead early in the fourth quarter, but Walthill tied the game midway through the final stanza. However, Tiffany Harder drilled three important free throws in the game's closing seconds to secure the Eagle triumph.

Allen played superb defense and held three of Walthill's starters to just two combined points. The Bluejays also only made 19-of-63 field goals, compared to Allen's 16-of-37 floor performance.

When one thinks of Allen, the talented back court duo of Denise and Diane Magnuson immediately come to mind. However, during the final month of the season, the Magnuson twins have had a strong supporting cast. Troth discussed his team concept of winning.

"We don't specifically look for one person to win games for us, and we think our top six or seven girls are each capable of carrying the team," he said. "All the girls are unselfish, so there isn't any problem about

Inconsistency costs Allen 65-54 loss

ALLEN — Allen went from one extreme to the other in three quarters and dropped a 65-54 loss to Wynot here Friday night.

The Eagles played one of their worst quarters of the year in the opening frame Friday night and fell behind 21-6. However, Allen bounced back with its best stanza of the 1985-86 campaign and opened a 34-31 lead at halftime.

Allen then held a 42-42 lead after the third quarter, but the Eagles suffered yet another letdown in the fourth period and were outscored 24-12 to round out the game's scoring.

Dave Uldrich, Allen's head coach, said his club's inconsistent play was a mystery to him.

"I can't explain it. We just played a worthless first quarter and came back with our best period of the year in the second quarter," he said.

A key to Allen's slow start, according to Uldrich, was the Eagles' numerous turnovers in the first few minutes.

"We were down 9-0 before we even set up in our offense," he said. "We just threw the ball away too many times at the start of the game."

The Eagles finally settled down, however, and outscored Winside 26-4 at one stretch during the second period and totaled 28 markers in the second frame.

Both teams experienced good shooting nights. Allen made 22-of-43 field goals and 10-of-12 free throws, while Wynot finished 25-for-48 from the floor and 15-for-25 from the stripe.

Craig Noe led the Eagles in scoring with 23 points on nine field goals and a 5-for-6 performance from the free throw line.

Max Oswald and Steve Jones followed Noe with 18 and 11 markers, respectively, for Allen.

The Eagles outrebounded Wynot 39-32. Noe speared a team high 14 boards for Allen, while Oswald and Jones added 11 caroms apiece.

Noe also played a fine floor game totaling four steals and handing out three assists. Oswald added four thefts for Allen.

The Eagles were trimmed 28-27 in the junior varsity game. Jeff Gotch and Jyoti Kwankin led Allen's JVs with 11 and eight points, respectively.

The game was Allen's final regular season contest of the season. The Eagles now 2-13 on the year, play again Thursday at Wakefield against Winnebago in the opening round of the C-27 Subdistrict Basketball Tournament. Thursday's game is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Newcastle runs past Winside

WINSIDE — Newcastle installed a new dimension to its game plan and the experiment passed with flying colors as the Raiders stomped Winside 72-38 here Friday night.

Newcastle has been playing at a slower pace in recent weeks, but Raider head coach Tom Surprenant decided to run against Winside, according to Wildcat head coach Mark Freburg.

"They're a very good team. And they ran more tonight than they have been lately," he said. "Tom told me after the game that they wanted to speed the game up more because they've been playing slower lately and they haven't been playing too well. But they looked good tonight."

Newcastle rushed out to an 18-4 lead in the first quarter before opening a 35-14 halftime advantage.

The Raiders never let up as they outscored Winside 15-10 in the fourth period and 22-14 in the last stanza to round out the game's scoring.

Mike Thies led Winside in scoring with 10 points, while teammates Tim Jacobson tallied eight, and Ryan Prince and Kevin Jaeger both added six.

Freburg was naturally disappointed with losing, but he did say he was pleased with several of his players' consistent play.

"Thies and Jaeger have both been very consistent this year, and they turned in another good game against Newcastle," he said. "And Prince played one of his better defensive games."

The Wildcats hit 16 field goals and finished 6-for-10 from the line. Newcastle canned 27 field goals and finished an impressive 18-for-25 from the stripe.

Winside totaled 25 rebounds on the night. Jaeger and Thies led the Wildcats with nine and seven boards, respectively.

Prince totaled three steals for Winside, while Doug Mundell, Tim Voss and Jaeger all dished out three assists.

Newcastle also won the junior varsity game, 49-23. Chris Nau and Jacobson led the Wildcat JVs with eight points apiece.

Winside's varsity concludes the regular season with a 0-15 mark. The Wildcats play again Tuesday at Laurel against Hartington in the opening round of the C-28 Subdistrict Basketball Tournament. Tuesday's contest is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Asay sets school record

DOANE — It might be early in the track season, but Wayne State's Diana Asay had a performance that one would expect to come towards the end of the season.

Asay, a junior from Columbus, tossed the shot 44-4 at the District 11 Track Meet.

The distance is a new Wayne State record, breaking her old mark of 43-1 1/2.

Cindy Heesacker captured the 600-yard dash with a 1:28.83 clocking. Randy Ditter led the WSC men in the shot with a 50-5 1/2 effort.

The men and women finished eighth and sixth, respectively, at the meet. The Wildcats competed at nationals this weekend in Kansas City.

Nebraska has 462 bald eagles

LINCOLN — There are 462 bald eagles wintering in Nebraska this year, according to the 8th annual National Wildlife Federation Mid-winter Eagle Survey, conducted Jan. 2-16.

Greg Wingfield, a nongame biologist in the Game and Parks Commission's North Platte office, says 316 of the eagles are adults, 131 are immature birds, and the age of 15 other birds was not determined. Since 1980 when the survey coverage was standardized, Nebraska's total has ranged from a low of 388 eagles in 1984 to a high of 746 in 1985.

Nationwide results of the 1985 survey indicate a wintering population of 10,985 bald eagles in the 38 reporting states. This figure is very similar to most years since 1980, indicating a stable number of wintering eagles in the lower 48 states.

Major eagle concentration areas within Nebraska include the Platte River Valley in Dawson, Buffalo and Lincoln counties, Harlan County Reservoir, the Lake McConaughy area, the North Platte River in Scottsbluff County, and the Missouri River upstream of Ponca. However, small numbers of eagles can be found almost anywhere in the state where open water conditions attract waterfowl or offer opportunities for the eagles to fish.

State and federal conservation agencies, local Audubon Chapters, bird clubs, and many other organizations and individuals participate in the NWF survey.

Wildcats lose game at line

Robertson lifts Emporia past WSC

EMPORIA, KAN. — All-American Brian Robertson lifted Emporia State to an 83-72 victory over Wayne State here Friday night.

Robertson scored a game-high 31 points in the victory, including six markers during a key Emporia run in the last half.

Wayne State trailed by 13 at intermission, but battled back and pulled within three, 62-57, with 12 minutes remaining in the game.

But three was all the closer the Wildcats could get as they missed two consecutive scoring opportunities. And Robertson made the most of Wayne State's misses by hitting six straight points during that time span.

The Wildcats never again seriously threatened the rest of the way and Emporia went on to post its 25th victory of the year.

A major factor in the game was free throws. Wayne State canned 6-of-8 giffers for 75 percent, but Emporia finished 21-for-30 for 70 percent. The Wildcats were whistled for 24 fouls, while the hosts were only called for 11.

Mike McNamara and Russ Rosenquist led Wayne State in scoring with 18 and 12 points, respectively.

Terrance Hall, a 6-2 junior from Chicago, Ill., added 13 points to the Wildcat cause and set a Wayne State record of consecutive free throws made.

Hall canned his 26th giffer in a row during the game. The streak was initiated Jan. 17 in the Kearney State game.

Wayne State made half of its 66 field goals, while Emporia finished 31-for-54 from the floor for 57 percent.

The Wildcats claimed a 34-31 rebounding advantage. Markus Wilson and McNamara led the Cats with seven and six boards, respectively.

Vincent White, Wayne State's play-making point guard, led the Cats with seven assists and five steals.

Emporia State ranked 11th in the latest NAIA national top 20 poll. It proved to 25-4 on the year and 10-3 in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC). Emporia hosts Missouri Western Saturday night to determine who the 1985-86 CSIC champion will be.

The Wildcats slipped to 11-18 overall and 2-11 in the CSIC. But despite losing, Wayne State did receive some great news Friday night.

Belleuve College upset Peru State 79-77, which allowed the Wildcats to finish second in the Nebraska Athletic Conference (NAC). The top two teams in the NAC qualify for the NAIA District 11 Playoffs.

Wayne State will now play either Doane or Dana in the opening round of playoffs. The Wildcats will be the visiting team in the opening round.

Wayne State plays Saturday night at Washburn and ends the regular season Tuesday night by hosting Westmar.

Bears bow out at 7-10

Lack of offense ends Laurel's season

NORFOLK — Throughout the 1985-86 season, Laurel's girls have had trouble generating much offense. And Tuesday night, it cost the Bears the CI-10 Subdistrict championship.

Laurel made only 6-of-38 field goals and finished 8-for-18 from the line in a 25-20 loss here to Pierce.

Bear head coach Gale Hamilton blamed the loss on his club's poor offensive performance and Pierce's Mickey Andrew's offensive uprising.

"We just couldn't get on track offensively. We didn't have anybody that could take the ball to the hoop and my top three shooters only made 3-of-29 field goals," he said. "And Andrew got things going for them in the second half. She hit a couple of big buckets at the end of the third quarter and really came to life in the last half."

Andrew finished with a game high 14 points, but didn't become much of a factor until Laurel switched to a man-to-man defense in the third quarter.

"We were having our problems on offense and hadn't even scored in the third quarter, so I decided to go to a man-to-man defense to see if we could generate some offense from our defense," Hamilton said. "And once we went man, Andrew started scoring."

Both teams only tallied two first quarter points and Pierce held an 8-7 halftime advantage. The Bluejays then outscored Laurel 6-0 in the third frame to open a 14-7 lead. The Bears won the last quarter, 13-11, but it wasn't enough and Pierce gained the right to advance to districts.

Becky Christensen and Gail Twiford led Laurel in scoring with six points apiece, while Sara Adkins tallied four, and Penny Dempster and Michelle Joslin both added two.

The Bears totaled 36 rebounds in the game. Twiford and Christensen grabbed the majority of Laurel's boards finishing with 16 and 13, respectively.

The loss ended Laurel's season at 7-10. Hamilton said the 1985-86 campaign was a learning experience and added that he is looking forward to future Bear squads.

"This year was a learning experience, but we did improve as the year moved along," he said. "We just never got on track offensively, but it takes a couple years to develop good offensive abilities.

"The girls will have to work on improving their basketball skills in the offseason, and I'm sure they'll do that and I'm looking forward to the next couple of years."

'Dry spell' costs Laurel 64-52 loss to Randolph

LAUREL — An offensive "dry spell" in the second quarter cost Laurel a 64-52 loss to Randolph here Friday night.

Most of the game was evenly played, and the Bears only trailed 16-13 after the first quarter.

But then Laurel went cold and Randolph outscored the Bears 15-4 for a 31-17 lead. Laurel bounced back, however, and cut the Cardinal lead to nine, 34-25, at intermission.

Laurel then outscored Randolph 12-10 in the third stanza, but was outscored 20-15 in the last frame.

Bear head coach Mark Hrabik said the second quarter drought was one of two keys to the Cardinal victory.

"We just went bad in the second quarter and it hurt us," he said. "And Mark (Strathman) scored 13 points for them in the first half and a lot that was because (Erick) Christensen was called for three fouls."

Strathman, Randolph's main threat underneath, tallied a game high 23 markers.

Steve Schmitt led Laurel with 15 markers, while Joedy Cunningham and Christensen finished with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Bears canned 20 field goals and finished 12-for-21 from the line. Randolph countered with 24 fielders and went 16-for-26 from the stripe.

Randolph claimed a slim 25-24 rebounding advantage. Cunningham paced the Bears with six boards.

Schmitt and Scott Marquardt led Laurel with three steals apiece.

The Bears' junior varsity dropped a 40-26 decision in the JV game. Rick Lage led Laurel with seven markers.

The loss ended Laurel's varsity season with a 5-10 record. The Bears play again Thursday at Norfolk against Stanton in the opening round of the CI-10 Subdistrict Basketball Tournament. Thursday's game is scheduled to tip-off at 6:15 p.m.

WAYNE STATE'S Keith Berg (No. 50) battles Chadron State players for a rebound.

Wildcats

Mike McNamara played, perhaps, his best game of his young college career. The 6-5 freshman hit 8-of-11 field goals, 7-of-11 free throws, grabbed eight rebounds and scored a game high 23 points.

One of McNamara's baskets was a slam dunk off a beautiful alley-oop pass from Russ Rosenquist which made the score 20-16, Wayne State, with 9:09 to go in the first half.

Vincent White and Markus Wilson followed McNamara with 14 and 10 points, respectively, for Wayne State.

Scott Blachly led Chadron State with 17 points, while teammates Ted Niemann, Randy Woods and Mark Carlisle tallied 14, 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Wildcats canned 23-of-29 free throws, including 13-of-14 in the last half. The Cats struggled from the floor in the first half making only 11-of-29 shots, but finished 25-for-61 for a respectable 41 percent.

Wilson spearheaded a team high 10 rebounds for Wayne State, and White led the Cats with seven assists.

Wayne State is now 11-17 overall and 5-3 in the NAC. A date and site for the first playoff game has not been determined yet, but the Cats will probably play either Doane or Dana, and will be the visiting team.

Possible 12 point swing cages Lady Wildcats

EMPORIA, KAN. — A possible 12 point swing midway through the second half ended a Wayne State comeback and lifted Emporia State to a 96-75 victory over the Lady Wildcats here Friday night.

Wayne State trailed 59-34 at intermission but cut the Emporia lead to 15 with eight minutes remaining.

But the Lady Wildcats turned the ball over three straight times and the hosts capitalized on all three errors with buckets and cruised on to the triumph.

Linda Schnitzler led Wayne State with 18 points, while Kris Smith tallied 12, and Deb Nygren and Shelle Tomasziewicz both added 10 apiece for the Lady Cats.

The game's scoring honors belonged to Carolyn Richard who tallied 35 markers on the night. Richard also broke the Emporia State career scoring record of 675 points. She currently has 687 markers in her career.

The Lady Wildcats rebounded Emporia 58-51. Smith led Wayne State with 13 boards.

The Lady Cats finished 30-for-75 from the floor for 40 percent and hit 15-of-28 giffers for 54 percent. Emporia State canned 36-of-80 field goals and went 15-for-28 from the line.

The loss dropped Wayne State to 3-23 overall, and 0-13 in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. The Lady Cats will attempt to close out the season with a bang Saturday night at Washburn.

SPRING BRANCH

The Spring Branch 4-H Club met at Hoskins Public School on Feb. 16 with 30 members, seven leaders and several guests present.

Vice President Jennifer Puls opened the meeting with the 4-H motto. For roll call, members were asked to name an instance when first aid was needed.

April Marotz, acting secretary, reported on the previous meeting and Tad Behmer gave the treasurer's report.

Members enrolled in "Adventure in Clothing" exhibited laundry bags which they had made with the assistance of April Marotz, junior leader.

John Stoffel, leader, suggested as a community service project the presentation of a lesson on pesticide and poison safety in March.

It was announced that the beef weigh-in will be held March 15 in Wayne and the leadership officers training session will be held Feb. 27 at Wayne.

Katie Spidel and Amy Strate presented a project talk on "Fit It All Together." They demonstrated making nutritious snacks, which were later served to members.

Leader Mrs. Dallas Puls presented the introduction to the 4-H first aid and safety project, and refreshments were served by Tad, Matthew and Joshua Behmer.

Next meeting will be March 16 at Hoskins Public School.

CARROLLINERS

The Carrolliners 4-H Club met Feb. 10 at the Carroll school.

Members painted quilt blocks which will be tied at the next meeting on March 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Mrs. Cyril Hansen will put the quilt together.

Misty Junck conducted the business meeting. Mindy Janssen reported on the last meeting and Christina Bloomfield read the treasurer's report. Roll call was answered with a favorite flower.

The group will sing at the Carroll Craft Club style show slated April 13 in the Carroll auditorium.

Plans also were made for a bake sale on March 29 with Trevor Hall in charge of arranging a site for the sale.

It was announced a 4-H club of officers training meeting will be held Feb. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the north dining room of the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus. A 4-H club leaders training meeting is scheduled March 4 at the Winside fire hall.

Before the meeting adjourned, members were asked to have their projects for the year chosen by the next meeting.

Pam Junck presented a demonstration on how to paint blocks.

Carrlie Junck, news reporter.

WRANGLERS

Wranglers 4-H Club held a meeting Feb. 13 at the Northeast Station, Concord. New bylaws were written and project leaders were discussed. A decision will be made at the next meeting.

Members will be contacted as to the date of the next meeting.

Mark Isom, news reporter.

The Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club met Feb. 11 with 19 members present. President Shannon Holdorf called the meeting to order.

Members discussed a float for Carroll's centennial celebration this summer. Also discussed was a tractor safety driving class in Concord.

Following the business meeting, the group viewed a film on selecting 4-H calves and hogs. Lunch followed with Topps and Janssens as hosts.

Next meeting will be March 11 with Williams and Frenches hosting.

Cory Miller, news reporter.

HI-RATERS

"Making the Best Better" is the 4-H motto which was practiced by the HI-Raters 4-H Club at its meeting on Feb. 13.

Teresa Witkowski and her mother Ann showed the 13 members and six guests how to make hospital favors using an Easter theme.

Mrs. Rahn, leader, handed out project books. Four-H members volunteered to give demonstrations at the March meeting.

Serving snacks following the February meeting was the Jerry Dorsey family.

SELECTED TO WSC HONOR BAND

Three members of the Allen High School band, under the direction of Frank Purcell, recently participated in the 11th annual High School Honor Band Festival at Wayne State College.

Senior band member Sandy Greenleaf was selected as a section leader in the clarinet division, and Donna Rahn played trombone. Freshman Noelle Hinrickson played clarinet in the ninth and 10th grade band.

Students participating in the event were from 30 schools in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota.

Guest conductor for the senior band was Wayne Bailey of the University of Colorado, and guest conductor for the ninth and 10th grade band was Gary Davis of Wayne State College.

The Gaylen Jacksons returned home last week from an extended vacation in the Texas area.

The Ken Linafelters returned home recently from a trip to the southwestern states.

They visited the John Ralphs of Remona, Calif., the Doug Folsoms of Prescott, Ariz., and the Glenn Lockwoods of Prescott Valley, Ariz. The Virgil Isoms joined them in Arizona and are visiting in Allen for several days before returning to their home in Beverly, Mass.

Plant Our Seed
And You Won't Have To Dig So Deep.

Nobody likes to dig cash out of their pocket. That's why a lot of farmers are planting Cargill seeds.
During Seed Week 24th through the 28th—you can get $2 off every bag of seed corn, $5 off alfalfa, $1 off grain sorghum and $10 off every bag of sunflower seed. Plus a 3% discount on the whole order if you pay for it by February 28th. That adds up to about 6% per bag.
See your Cargill dealer during Seed Week. And save the digging for later.

SEED WEEK
February 24-28.

help wanted

TIMPTE, INC.

Applications for trainee slots in pre-employment training for production positions at TIMPTE, INC. of Wayne are now available at the Job Service Office, 119 Norfolk Avenue, Norfolk, and at Timpte, Inc., 112 West 3rd Street, Wayne. All persons interested in production positions in fabrication, welding, urethane, or assembly must complete one of the pre-employment training programs to be eligible to apply for employment.

The 30 to 35-hour pre-employment training program is provided at no cost to trainees by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development in cooperation with Northeast Technical Community College and Timpte, Inc. Classes will be conducted on evenings and Saturdays in Wayne. The next training program for approximately 30 trainees is scheduled for April with others scheduled as needed this summer and fall. Upon successful completion of the pre-employment training program, trainees may apply for employment as production openings arise in the new Timpte plant.

Training applications may be picked up at either of the above locations between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Application materials should be returned in person to the Job Service Office in Norfolk between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday. Applications may also be returned in person to the Women's Club Room at the City Auditorium in Wayne between 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on February 25 and 26.

cards of thanks

CERTAIN PEOPLE are a joy to know... People who know how to brighten a day with heart-warming smiles and with kind words they say. People who know how to gently impart the comfort it takes to cheer someone's heart. People who know how to always come through when there is anything they can possibly do. People who know how to willingly by share, who know how to give and who know how to care, who know how to let all their warm feelings show... Are people that others feel lucky to know. Wayne Care Centre would like to thank all the wonderful people who helped in any way to make our Valentine's Party a delight. A special thanks to the Lad and Lassies, Gingham Gals, the St. Mary's students and all the children who participated in the poster contest. Your kindness and friendship is OUR TREASURE! Where Caring Makes the Difference, Peg Wheeler, Social Service Director. F24

THANKS TO our family and friends for helping get Ernest to the hospital and back home after being there ten days. Thanks for good hospital care. Thanks for rides to hospital and back home, and to all who sent get well cards, birthday cards and Valentines. Thanks for the many prayers prayed at our church and everywhere. God bless you. We love you all. Ernest and Emma Anderson. F24

I WOULD like to thank my children and grandchildren for the surprise party they gave me, and to all my friends who came. It will always be remembered. God bless you all. Clara Echtenkamp. F24
