THE WAYNE HERALD

Races for elected positions develop

A race has developed for the three positions open for election to the Winside School Board of Education. The most recent to file at the Wayne County Clerk's office for the school board position are Harlin J. Brugger and Richard W. Jenkins. That brings the total to five individuals who have filed for the three positions — the others including Ray Roberts, Melvin Meierhenry and Dale Topp. As the deadline nears for candidates to file, one more filing has been reported for the city of Wayne's Fourth Ward. There are three candidates who have filed for that position. They include incumbent Larry Johnson, William Paysen and Jon Haase. The city council Fourth Ward position and the Winside Board of Education have the only contested races thus far. One elected office, to the city of Wayne's Third Ward councilman position (four-year term), has yet to receive any filings. The deadline for the non-incumbent filing date is Friday, March 14. In previous issues, the deadline had been reported on Wednesday, March 12, which was an error.

THE HUGE outdoor movie screen, formerly the Dude Ranch Drive-in north of Wayne, is now in the midst of being torn down by property owners clearing the area.

Carroll events set for 100th

Activities continue to fill the calendar during Carroll's centennial year. A pancake-omelet feed was scheduled Sunday, March 9 from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Carroll auditorium. The pancake-omelet feed included a cake walk beginning at noon, followed with an auction of donated items. All proceeds were designated for the centennial fund. Also scheduled this month is a centennial box supper on Sunday, March 16 at 6 p.m. in the Carroll auditorium. Persons attending are asked to wear centennial attire. Prizes will be given to the woman with the most original box, and for the box with the best centennial theme. Organizations and/or individuals planning to make a float for the centennial are invited to attend a meeting of the Carroll Centennial Committee on Thursday, March 13 at 7 p.m. at the Carroll Lounge and Steakhouse. Don Kvam of Sioux City will be present to discuss how to make a float. The community's grand centennial celebration is scheduled to take place July 18-20.

At Wayne State

High school choirs appear at festival

The singers will easily outnumber the audience at the 15th annual Choral Festival at Wayne State College on Wednesday, March 12. The all-day event in Ramsey Theatre will include some 600 singers from 11 high school choirs and the Wayne State concert choir and Madrigal Singers, said Dr. Cornell Runestad, professor of music at WSC. All 13 choirs will join for three numbers, under the direction of Runestad, at the end of the program in the afternoon. "We'll sing for each other," said Runestad. That's because the 600-plus singers will take most of the 466 seats in Ramsey Theatre. This year's Honor Choir is from Omaha Central High School. Directed by Robert McKean, the Central choir will perform a solo concert at 11:15 a.m. The festival begins at 9 a.m. with a mass choir rehearsal followed by the Honor Choir concert. Another mass rehearsal is at 1:30 p.m. prior to the 2:30 p.m. Parade of Choirs, when all 13 choirs will perform individually on stage. An award for outstanding choir will be presented to one of the high schools at the conclusion of the festival. The public is invited to the festival free of charge. "We'll fit them in somewhere," Runestad said. Ten of the high school choirs attending the WSC festival are from Nebraska and the other one is from Iowa. They include: Albion High School, Holdrege High School, Norfolk Catholic High School, Omaha Central High School, Pender High School, Seward High School, Silver Creek High School, Stuart High School, West Point High School, Wayne High School and Schleswig High School in Iowa.

Reduction in staff, programs

Board to hold hearing on cuts

Two teachers from the Winside School District have requested hearings on a board of education resolution calling for a reduction in staff and program in three high school subject areas. During a regular meeting on Feb. 6, the Winside board of education had unanimously approved a motion to reduce to half time the positions of guidance counselor and the home economics positions — and combine them into one position. It was also approved to reduce the high school business education program down to a half-time teaching position. During that same meeting, a proposal was presented by the Winside Education Association that offered to freeze the base salary at $12,800 for the 1986-87 school year. Approving that proposal were board members Bill Burris, Dean Mann and Ray Roberts. Voting against it was Gene Jorgensen, Lynn Lessmann and Melvin Meierhenry and the motion failed. A special meeting concerning the passed resolution of staff and program reduction took place on Feb. 26, in which Superintendent Don Leighton provided the board of education and others with additional information. Also at the special meeting, the Winside Education Association reissued its proposal in offering to freeze the base salary for the 1986-87 year if the board of education would rescind its motion concerning the reduction in staffs and programs in the areas of home economics, business education and guidance counseling. During the special meeting, a motion was made by Mann and seconded by Burris to rescind the original motion of the staff and program reductions and accept the Winside Education Association's offer for the freeze on base salary. AFTER DISCUSSION and more thought, a motion was made and unanimously approved to table the vote until March 3. At that March 3 meeting, the vote to rescind the original motion made on Feb. 6 took place. Voting for the rescinding were Ray Roberts, Bill Burris and Dean Mann. Recording nay votes were Jorgensen, Lessmann and Meierhenry and the motion to rescind the original resolution failed. Lee Johnson, guidance counselor at Winside High School, and Dallas

Puls, business education instructor, have filed the requests for hearings on the reduction in staff and programs. Those hearings will take place on Wednesday, March 26 at 7 p.m. in the Winside School multi-purpose room. A representative from the Nebraska State Education Association will be representing Johnson and Puls. Representing the school administration will be Jim Gessford from Lincoln and the board of education representative will be John Gerard, an attorney from Norfolk. The regular meeting of the Winside School Board of Education will take place Monday (tonight) at 8 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room.

For community theatre production

Courthouse to become center stage

Something of a rarity will take place this spring at the Wayne County Courthouse. There's going to be a murder trial tentatively scheduled for the first part of May. Karen Andre has been accused of murder, shooting Bjorn Faulkner and then throwing the victim off the top floor of a penthouse. Now, a 12-member jury needs to decide if Karen is guilty or acquitted. "Murder in Wayne? A penthouse in Wayne?" Yes, it is all possible in the upcoming Wayne Community Theatre three act comedy-drama called "Night of January 16." Wayne County's Board of Commissioners have given their permission for the community theatre to use the county courthouse as a stage for the production of the 1935 three-act play, according to Gil Haase, Wayne Care Centre administrator who is also the director of the "Night of January 16." Defending his choice of using the county courthouse courtroom for the play, which will require no modifications, Haase said "the courthouse has such a history and it in itself is just beautiful." Auditions for the 19 parts in the cast will begin on Sunday, March 17 at 7 p.m., both days at the Ley Theatre on the Wayne State College campus. Characters will include 11 witnesses and one defendant, a clerk of court, judge, district attorney, defense attorney, stenographer, reporter, prison matron and bailiff. NOT ALL PARTS will be auditioned though. The audience attending the performance will be part of the courtroom scene. "You will hear the witnesses. You decide and they decide [if the defendant is guilty]," said Haase. "They" of which Haase is referring to is the jury. "As people [attending the performance] come into the theatre [courtroom], they put their names in a box," explains Haase. "When the play opens, the cast just drifts into the courtroom like they would in any other courtroom," he said. After the court is called to convene and everyone stands as the judge enters, then "12 names are taken out of the box and they take a seat in the jury," commented Haase. HE SAID THAT at the end, the jury members from the audience are remanded to a jury room, they vote and when they have a decision they come out. "But we can't have a hung jury," Haase remarked with humor. The defendant is either guilty or not guilty and the cast has to perform an ending based on what the jurors select. "It blows your mind. The audience seems to switch loyalties back and forth as the witnesses testify. You're never sure that the right decision has been made," Haase said. This is Haase's first attempt at directing a Wayne Community Theatre production. He has been involved in theatrical productions in other communities as an actor and director. "I want to make this production exciting to the cast and to the people who attend," he said.

He said it is very interesting that in the cast selection "it is almost imperative that I have a black woman, a Swedish female (male and female parts) and an Irish cop." "The lines go with these types of background," he said. "This play provides a chance for people to have a lot of fun with a very small role." The play was first performed in New York City over 50 years ago, when men played the stereotype of judges and defense attorneys. Today, women can be cast as judges or attorneys, and Haase said he would like to adapt the script to more modern times. Most of the witness roles will require practice only once or twice a week, he said. The first performance is tentatively scheduled for Thursday, May 1. But that may have been rescheduled. It seems that a real trial will be scheduled on that day. However, that doesn't pose as a serious problem to Haase. "We can be flexible," he said.

Panel of Speakers appearing

Student group to sponsor 'Living With Disabilities'

The Disabled Student Group at Wayne State College will be sponsoring and hosting a panel of speakers on Wednesday, March 19 at 3 p.m. in the Nebraska Room of the Student Center. Topic for discussion will be "Living With Disabilities." The panel, coordinated by the Rehabilitation Center at Immanuel Lutheran Hospital, is composed of people who have been rehabilitated and are presently leading successful and fulfilling lives. The panel members are funny, informal and refreshingly direct and they speak about "every" aspect of their disabilities. Among the panel members are:

William "Dutch" Thuman — who suffered a spinal cord injury resulting from a motorcycle accident; Dan Shaul — a quadriplegic who was injured in an automobile accident; and Helen and Dwight Wiers. Dwight is a senior citizen stroke patient and Helen is his wife. The panel is open to all interested persons, including students, faculty, staff and the community. Large groups of interested people (college and community) are welcome and faculty are encouraged to bring their classes. For more information, contact the Wayne State College Teaching Learning Center, the Library Basement No. 12, phone 375-2200, ext. 496.

Chickens away
by Chuck Hackenmiller

While farmers are determining what and where to plant on their hundreds of acres (that is, if they can get the financing), we are contemplating what to grow in our 10 foot by about 15 foot garden.

Undoubtedly, our decision making isn't as monumental to what farmers face.

Spring is not that far off, you know, and recent warm trends gets me itching to get my hands soiled working in the backyard.

The seed catalogues for those "best-ever" garden produce have arrived and I do look at them — those mouth-watering tomatoes, big onions and county fair prize-winning cucumbers.

But I get put back in my place when I think of our blight invested tomatoes, cucumbers that are plentiful but are fat and only the size of my thumb, carrots that wouldn't even satisfy the hunger of intruding rabbits and a row of lettuce which when harvested would be enough to fill the sandwich of one cheeseburger.

It's usually my run of luck that if we had planted beets last year, of which I despise they would have produced superbly.

Those seed catalogues can paint a pretty picture. But let's be realistic.

In the years we have planted a garden, our seed source has been the "garden seed sales" you see in displays at convenience or discount stores — the kind where you can get so many different varieties for under a dollar.

Save a dollar here, save a dollar there! Realistically, you probably get what you pay for.

THESE PACKAGES, TOO, have nice graphics about what the seed is supposed to look like when fully mature. Most of the time, the seed packages can yield a success story, as long as you follow directions completely.

But if your gardening skills are like mine, then you pay little heed to directions and go with your instincts. That's where I get into trouble.

Take into consideration the carrot seed.

One would think something so tiny, like the carrot seed, would require more seeds per area. So I'm led to believe that when the thickly planted carrots come out of the ground and the tops grow tall, that naturally underneath the soil are bunches of carrots ready to be picked.

What actually comes up is a skinny, two-inch, distorted miniature model of what a carrot is to look like.

So you learn that next time, pull out the thick tops and give some room for other carrots to grow.

Another tip you pick up from experience is not to plant string beans so close to the peas. Vines from both plants like to wrap around each other and get tangled.

It almost looks like a cloning science experiment. I wonder if this is how the seed corn companies improve the yields of their products.

MY METHOD OF planting is simple. It's called spot planting and the practice is easier than row planting.

What you do is this: take a long look at the garden, pick a spot and say "that looks like a good spot for tomatoes" and drop it in. This method saves time on garden planning.

The disadvantage of spot planting over row planting is that sometimes, you can't tell if what you are pulling out is a weed or a newly sprouted onion.

That situation can be remedied by putting your nose to the ground and smelling whatever you are going to be pulling out. If it smells like an onion, don't yank it!

There is a saying that you can judge a person by the way he or she plants their garden.

If that's the case, things certainly don't look good for this old boy.

Is it worth the 'weight'?

by Cheryl Stubbendieck, vice president/information officer of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation

Have you ever wondered if that box of Cheerios you bought at the grocery store really has 18 ounces of product in it? Or if that cubed steak labeled .89 pounds really contains .89 pounds? Or if you're getting all the gas you paid for when you filled your tank?

Chances are good that you are getting what you paid for in all of these situations. Most manufacturers and merchants who sell products to consumers realize that it's in everyone's best interest for products to be labeled accurately. But to safeguard the interests of consumers, the Nebraska Department of Agriculture's Division of Weights and Measures Check scales and products for accurate weights.

In anticipation of National Weights and Measures Week coming up March 1, I recently spent a morning with one of the division's inspectors. Rick Lock is one of six small scales inspectors. He checks scales with capacity up to 2,000 pounds for accuracy, makes sure products sold in food stores are labeled with the correct weight, and determines that gas pumps are dispensing the correct amount.

During our unannounced visit to a Lincoln grocery, Rick checked 30 items from the meat case, products from the store's deli and bakery, and sour cream suspected of being short weight. He also checked and certified three new scales for commercial use.

By law, consumers can't be charged for the materials used to package a product. Those materials are called the tare weight. So when a product is packaged and labeled, the tare is not a part of the net weight.

THE LAW ALSO requires that weights be accurate at the time of sale, not the time of packaging. So if a roast is in the meat case for three days before it's bought, the store must take this into account in labeling. On our visit, Rick found whole chickens which were slightly underweight because of moisture loss while sitting in the case. He declared them "off sale" and they were reweighed and relabeled — and checked again — before being returned to the case.

Also according to law, products must be labeled with the weight or number of items, if there are more than six, or if the number can't be easily seen. Thus a see-through package of six cookies is okay. But any greater quantity must be labeled with the weight or number of items. Rick pulled some unlabeled packages of a dozen cookies and unmarked zipper bags of carrot sticks and other vegetables.

Earlier in the week, Rick had found some underweight containers of sour cream from a Nebraska manufacturer. He checked 10 packages, found them to be right on or slightly overweight. Had there been an underweight problem, he would have sent them back to the manufacturer. The division has been known to send train cars and truckloads of products back for mislabeling.

COMPUTER PRINTOUTS provide the tare weights for virtually all products you'd find in a grocery and inspectors such as Rick save the tare from any products they use in their homes, as well as those they must open in the store. Inspectors try to avoid opening packages, since they can't then be sold and would be a loss to the store.

Scales are checked on an annual basis, and stores are visited every several months. But if a consumer complains of an underweight product, it's checked out as soon as possible. A store where a problem is found might get two unannounced visits a week until the problem is solved.

Rick is one of the six small scales inspectors. Five other inspectors check propane and large scales. Their territory is the state of Nebraska outside of Omaha, since Omaha has its own inspection program.

It's good to know that the Division of Weights and Measures is protecting our interests. A hundredth of a pound here or there might not seem like much, but when you're paying $9.99 a pound for a fancy deli product, the packaging weight could cost you as much as an extra 60 cents.

Accomplishment good for community spirit

Normally, what is said at Wayne Second Guesser meetings you will find on the sports pages, not the editorial page. But there was something said by Wayne State Athletic Director Ron Jones that bears repeating and it concerns the recent successes experienced by two men's athletic basketball programs.

Those programs include the Wayne-Carroll Blue Devils, who after defeating the West Point Cadets are going to be playing Thursday in the Nebraska State Boys Basketball Tournament for the second consecutive year; and the WSC Wildcats who were expected to be in a rebuilding year yet played hard enough to be only one game away from competing in the nationals in Kansas City.

Over the past week, the negativness in the Wayne community and surrounding area is giving way to excitement which has been generated by these two schools. The wins and solid performances have given people something else to talk about other than the economy, like farm bankruptcies, store or business closings.

They are rallying around a hope or a dream which may help, not to totally erase the problems but perhaps ease them over the rough spots that are ahead.

That is not verbatim to what Jones had said, but it carries the gist of his statement.

Good luck to the Blue Devils at State.

It goes to show that school activities are not only important to the student, but can be of measured importance to the community of which the institution serves.

Newspapers in trouble

Anticipated additional increases in postage may be "a final and fatal financial blow" for some newspapers in Nebraska.

That was the opinion voiced (in Norfolk) by George A. Peterson, president of the Nebraska Press Association (NPA). Peterson made his remarks at a meeting of 75 northeast Nebraska publishers and editors Feb. 22.

"The United States Postal Service (USPS) has increased our second class mail charges by 30 percent since the first of the year," Peterson said, "and we anticipate still another increase of 20 percent to 25 percent in March."

Weekly newspapers, he said, rely chiefly on the mail to deliver publications to subscribers. There are some 185 weekly newspapers in Nebraska.

Peterson, publisher of the Sherman County Times in Loup City, said the expected increase might cause some weekly newspapers to fold. If that happens, he said, it will "mark the end of effective communication between public bodies and the taxpayers who support them."

He said "There is no substitute for the hometown newspaper when it comes to telling the public about what's going on inside its various governing bodies."

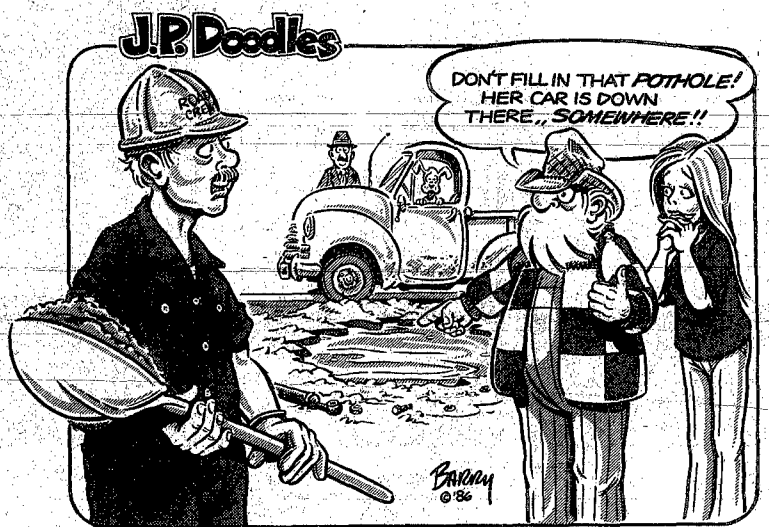

Higher subscription prices have resulted from the Jan. 1 USPS increase in many instances, he said, and more will follow. But in difficult economic times, he added, that often could reduce subscription numbers.

Subscription prices, he said, always have been subsidized by advertising. Peterson said that subscriptions, on an average, contribute "around 25 percent of the total cost of publication."

"We can only charge so much for advertising before it becomes unaffordable," he said.

Newspapers, magazines and non-profit organizations have, Peterson said, received special postal rate consideration from USPS and Congress to make communication affordable to the people. "Unless Congress continues to support some form of foregone revenue," he said, "fewer newspapers will be published and those which continue will be forced to increase subscription prices."

On strip show

Guess somebody thought there wasn't enough sex exposure about us — so they staged a male strip show. This is the first for Carroll and does nothing for honoring the town nor their centennial year. Christians see it as an inroad to evil.

I just read in the paper, a small town, Tifton, Georgia, where Church leaders were offended by the gyrations of "lewd dancers." It is threatening their small community and so ministers feel they have a charge from God and responsibility to maintain morality there.

Maybe some think they can handle these shows but there are many who don't. Proof lies with all the sexual abuse and, especially, of innocent children. Why contribute to it?

Where is our knowledge and seriousness toward Christianity? God does not sit on a pedestal to be admired and sing praises to — He is to be obeyed by our loving hearts. When one sees no danger or wrong in attending — there is a sure sign of ignorance. The lust of the flesh is often the worm on the devil's hook. His best catch is the Christian fish.

Keep the bus

The Arrow & Black Hills Stage Lines is about to go out of business because of a lack of patronage leaving a large section of Nebraska with no vital public transportation system.

I would like to start a fund drive where occasional users or their families to set up a voluntary subsidy system to keep the buses in operation. The monthly contributions to be set up in one account at a local bank and the annual contributions in an interest bearing acct. 90% of the monthly amt. and 8% of the annual to be paid to the bus co.

In-exchange for the subsidy the bus company should restore 6 days service. The bus company hauls blood to a lab in Lincoln and could make connections to haul blood to Sioux City and then by Greyhound to Sioux Falls, S.D. to a lab there.

Contact Ruth Younger at 1-402-379-4862. You might call Doyle Busskohl at the bus co., 371-3850.

briefly speaking

Laurel musicians performing

March is "Music in Our School Month," and in honor of the occasion the instrumental music department at Laurel-Concord High School will present a concert on Tuesday, March 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the old gymnasium.

Featured during the concert will be the fifth grade band appearing for the first time, as well as the newly formed jazz band.

The sixth grade, junior high and senior high concert bands also will perform a variety of music ranging from standard marches to old popular tunes.

The public is invited to attend the program free of charge. Instrumental instructor is Kathy Homan.

Beef cook-off deadline near Area cooks are reminded that March 15 is the deadline to enter recipes in the 1986 Eastern Nebraska Feeder's Auxiliary Beef Cook-Off.

The cook-off date is set for April 3 in Lincoln. Entry blanks and details are available from "Millie Hors," cook-off chairman, Rt. 2-Box 131, Waverly, Neb. 68791, or phone (402) 529-6100.

Four auxiliary winners will go to the Nebraska State Beef Cook-Off, sponsored by the Nebraska Cow-Bellevue, at North Platte on June 12.

The National Beef Cook-Off, sponsored by the American National Cow-Bellevue, in cooperation with the Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board, will be held Sept. 14-16 in Dearborn, Mich.

Music concert at Winside

Junior and senior high music students at Winside High School will present their annual pops concert on Tuesday, March 11.

The concert will include selections by the concert band, junior band, stage band, choir, girls glee, boys glee, and swing choir.

The public is invited and admission is free. The program begins at 7:30 p.m. in the elementary multi-purpose room.

Compassionate Friends meeting

The Northeast Nebraska Chapter of The Compassionate Friends will hold its monthly meeting on March 13 at 7:30 p.m. in cafeteria room A of Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk.

The program will be a movie, entitled "The Stone Boy." The movie is the story of a young boy who accidentally shoots and kills his older brother. How he and his family deal with the crisis is presented in the film.

The Compassionate Friends is a self-help organization offering friendship and understanding to bereaved parents. Its purposes are to promote and aid parents in the positive resolution of the grief experience upon the death of a child, and to foster the physical and emotional health of bereaved parents and siblings.

Anyone dealing with the death of a child is welcome to attend any of the meetings. Persons who would like additional information are asked to call Nancy Rich, Norfolk, 371-4331.

Lutes mark 52nd year

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lute of Laurel celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on March 3.

Sunday afternoon luncheon guests in their home included Mr. and Mrs. Gene Burns of Wausa, and Mr. and Mrs. Borge Kastrop and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lute and Mark, all of Laurel.

Genetic counseling offered

Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk, in cooperation with the Nebraska Department of Health, will provide genetic counseling on Wednesday, April 9.

Genetic counseling clinics are held quarterly in Norfolk and are conducted by professionals from the University of Nebraska Medical Center's Center for Human Genetics, Children's Memorial Hospital's Clinical Genetics Center, and Lutheran Community Hospital's Home Health Care Department.

Genetic counseling deals with problems associated with an inherited condition or birth defect in a family. Professionals attempt to answer questions about diagnosis, cause, and probable expectations in affected individuals.

There is no charge for attending the clinic, however a referral from the patient's physician is required. Anyone interested may contact the Home Health Care Department at Lutheran Community Hospital.

Mable Sorensen presented a program on one room schools at the March 3 meeting of Acme Club. Hostess was Betty Wittig.

Shirley Fletcher will be the March 17 hostess at 2 p.m.

Local gymnast places first

Jessica Sievers, eight-year-old daughter of Rod and Theresa Sievers of Wayne, was among nine contestants participating in the Southern Hills Mall talent contest on March 1 in Sioux City.

Jessica performed a gymnastics dance and floor routine in the division for five to 10 year olds. She received a first place trophy and a gift certificate from Southern Hills Mall.

Theophilus Ladies Aid

Members of Theophilus Ladies Aid met Feb. 27 in the home of Clara Frevert. Guests were Mrs. Fred Vahlkamp and Mrs. Herman Vahlkamp.

The meeting opened with prayer and singing of "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul." The group read Psalm 51 in unison, followed with another reading, entitled "Time."

The business meeting included roll call, the collection of dues, the reading of thank you notes, and the singing of the birthday song for Mrs. Ruby Ritze and Mathilde Reeg. Flowers were sent to Harold Ritze in the Omaha Veterans Hospital.

Mathilde Reeg presented the lesson on Lent, and the meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer, singing of the doxology, and a carry-in luncheon.

Next meeting will be March 20 in the home of Mathilde Reeg. Ruth Reeg will give the lesson.

Cuzins' meet in Dunklau home

June Baier was a guest at the March 6 meeting of Cuzins' Club in the home of Faye Dunklau. Pinocle prizes went to Ardath Habrock of Emerson, and Doris Luff and Frances Nichols of Wayne.

Donna Luff will be hostess on April 3 at 1:30 p.m.

Clubwomen wear green

Hillside Club met in the home of Dorothy Grone on March 4. Nine members answered roll call by wearing something green.

Pitch was played with prizes going to Irene Temme, Elma Gilliland, Janet Reeg and Kathleen Grone.

Next meeting will be April 1 at 2 p.m. with Agnes Gilliland.

Holly Franzen February bride to Danny Watts

Kountz Memorial Church in Omaha was the setting for the Feb. 22 ceremony uniting in marriage Holly Franzen, daughter of Loyal Franzen of Wayne, and Danny Watts, son of Marie Hagemann of Reno, Nev.

Decorations for the 2 o'clock double ring rites included pink and white carnations with pink roses and baby's breath.

Kevin Whitehill sang "This is the Day," "With This Ring" and "The Wedding Song," accompanied by Beverlee McCallum of Sioux City.

THE BRIDE WAS given in marriage by her uncle, Duane Longe, and appeared in a long white gown of lace trimmed with white pearls. The dress was fashioned with a high neckline and long sleeves.

Her veil was a circle of lace with pearls and a bow on each side, and she carried pink roses with pink and white carnations.

The bride's honor attendant was Karen Kaup, and bridesmaids were Amy Rogalski of Omaha and Janine Baier of Tucson, Ariz.

They wore pink off-the-shoulder gowns of lace over taffeta, in tea length. Each carried a pink rose with white carnations.

Mrs. Franzen wore a mauve chiffon street-length dress for her daughter's wedding.

BEST MAN was David Watts of Norfolk, and groomsmen were Danny Frevert of Wayne and John Distefano of Omaha.

They were attired in gray tuxedos with pink cummerbunds and white ruffled shirts.

Guests were ushered into the church by Dave Rogalski and Kevin Whitehill, both of Omaha.

THE BRIDEGROOM graduated from Wayne Carroll High School in 1982 and attended Northeast Technical Community College, Norfolk. He is employed at Pro Mow Land and Lawn Service in Omaha.

THE BRIDE graduated from Wayne Carroll High School in 1984 and from Metro Tech College, Omaha, in August 1985 as a surgical technician. She is employed at Immanuel Hospital, Omaha.

Resigning the kitchen Can a thoughtful redesign transform your humdrum kitchen into a gourmet chef's paradise? Well, maybe, but it can also be one of the most trying times of your life without careful planning.

Before you tear out countertops, ask yourself three questions. First, what do you already have in your kitchen? What would you like to have? And how are you going to make it all fit?

Write down the answers. Paper costs less than plywood, and a good plan on paper eases the work of kitchen improvements.

TO KNOW WHAT you have and don't have in the kitchen, draw a sketch. Measure the dimensions of objects in the room and the walls and floor space. Choose a convenient scale for your floor plan — say 4 feet of floor space equal one inch on the drawing.

Gather the information you need to design the kitchen. Dream a little but include some practical questions. How many and what kinds of meals do you prepare? How many cooks are there in the household? Do you want to have a breakfast nook for the family? What appliances will stay or be replaced? How much of the redesigning work can you do yourself?

When you have an idea of what you want, start designing your new kitchen on paper. This is the fun part.

ARRANGE the room with work centers in mind. Think in terms of a food preparation center, a cooking center, and a clean-up center. Each center should occupy a different countertop or corner of the room.

You'll want your refrigerator, and other things like a can opener, chopping boards, mixer or blender where you prepare food.

The oven, cooktops and cookware should be situated in the cooking center. And this area needs a spot to set foods hot from the oven.

Plan the cleaning center around the sink and dishwasher.

Some storage space will be needed at each work center. Consider what you want stored at each center and how much space is needed.

AS YOU REFINE your plan, consider where the traffic patterns are. Will somebody bump you while you stand at the sink? Try to keep traffic patterns away from work centers.

Finally, consider the plumbing, electrical and ventilation requirements of your plan. What about other fixed architecture features?

Try a number of different arrangements of your kitchen, on paper. A new way to look at your kitchen can give you new, creative ideas.

The bridegroom graduated from Belden High School in 1966 and attended Garden City Community College. He is employed at Belden Farm and Auto.

Valentine report

By John Prahrer
Sports Editor

Both coaches from Wayne and Valentine have done their homework before Thursday's opening round game of the Class B State Basketball Tournament at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln.

Valentine's head coach, Lynn Moeller, described the Blue Devils to a tee over a telephone conversation with him Friday afternoon. "From what I hear, Wayne is a good rebounding team. They're strong, and pretty conservative on offense," he said. "And they must play pretty good defense, too."

Valentine heads into the state tourney with a 19-2 mark, and the Badgers were just a couple of breaks away from an undefeated campaign.

One of Valentine's losses came against unbeaten Bayard. The other loss was another close decision to Winner, S.D.

Moeller listed those two opponents, along with Mission S.D., as Valentine's toughest opponents this year.

The Badgers won the Rangeland Conference title this year, finishing league play undefeated, and beat St. Paul for the B-6 District Tournament championship.

Valentine qualified for the State Tournament last season. After downing Gering and Auburn in the first two rounds, the Badgers lost to Mount Michael in the title bout. Mount Michael also beat Wayne at state, defeating the Blue Devils in triple overtime in the opening round.

Moeller said he hopes to offset Wayne's patient offense and rebounding power with his club's quickness.

"They'll (the Blue Devils) be tough on the boards. We'll try and balance that out with our quickness. I look at our quickness as our biggest strength," he said.

But the Badgers also have a couple of strong rebounders. Richard Lutter is 6-3, 215-pounds and Justin Hammond is 6-3, 200-pounds.

Bob Uhing, Wayne's head coach, said he is most concerned about Valentine's guards and Lutter.

"They have two real good guards and Lutter is pretty tough underneath," he said. "Their forwards are shakey, they don't score much other than on offensive rebounds."

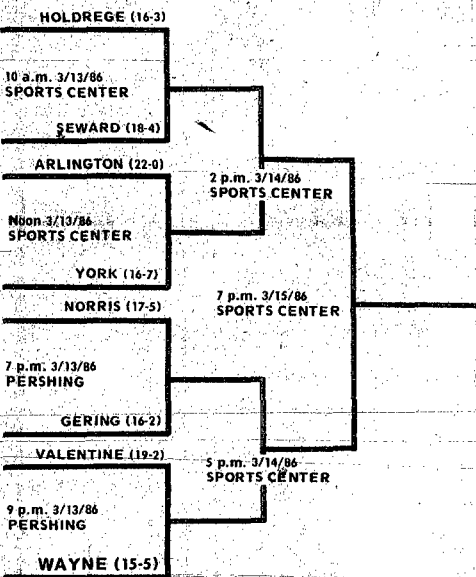

Uhing also discussed what the Badgers' play on defense and their offensive strategy.

"They always play zone defense, and they use a 2-2-1 press or a 1-3-1 half court trap," he said. "They like to run on offense. And their two guards and Lutter are their main threats on offense."

Uhing said he doesn't intend to make any drastic switches for the Valentine game, but did say that he would like to get Lutter in foul trouble.

"We won't make any changes against them. We'll just try and shut down their scorers and try and stop their running game," he said. "I would like to see Lutter get in foul trouble, though. He's their main rebounder and a good ball player."

CLASS B STATE TOURNAMENT PAIRINGS

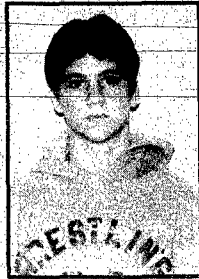

Paulsen has shot at three State titles

By John Prahrer
Sports Editor

When Winside's Doug Paulsen stuck Donny Seifried's Sargent for the Class D 112-pound championship at this year's State Wrestling Tournament, he created a possibility only experienced by a handful of wrestlers — becoming a three-time state champion.

athlete of the month

Doug Paulsen

Paulsen, only a sophomore, finished the year with a 33-3-0 record and seven tournament championships, including the state title. But Paul Sok, Winside's head coach, warns that winning two more state championships will be no easy task for Paulsen.

"I hate to make bold predictions because I've seen too many kids win a state title their freshman or sophomore years, and then never win again," he said. "If Doug is to be a repeat champion, he'll have to work hard for it. I think he has just as good of chance as anybody to win the title again, but next year and the year after will be two totally new seasons, and what happened in the past won't count." Sok listed several assets that assisted Paulsen's charge to the state title, but mentioned the luxury of facing Mace Kant every day in practice as being the main key.

"Doug works hard in practices; he's strong, quick and has a lot of natural talent, but wrestling Mace all the time is probably the major reason why both are so successful," he said. Kant and Paulsen both placed fourth at state last year, and this year Kant finished third. The Wildcat 105-pounder also accumulated a 25-4-0 record this season and his only loss at state was a 2-0 decision to Terence Burns.

Sok said the two grapplers compliment each other in practice because they both work hard and have contrasting styles.

"Both work hard and they have different styles," he said. "Mace is more controlled and Doug is more aggressive, and I don't think either would have been as successful without working against the other one as often as they did."

At times, Paulsen's aggressiveness gets him into trouble. During the state title match, he trailed Seifried 7-1 and Sok joked that Paulsen has given him a few coronaries over the years. But Sok also said that although being aggressive backfires now and then, it usually pays off for Paulsen.

"He's very aggressive on the mat and at times he gets caught when he shouldn't," Sok said. "But he seems to have the ability to get out of a lot of those situations, too."

The future is bright for Paulsen. In addition to already owning a state championship, his 33 victories is a new single season record at Winside. And Sok called Paulsen, "a very nice kid. The entire group was a good bunch this year."

But one area Sok said Paulsen will have to improve in is his technique.

"It's hard to say, but Doug will probably wrestle at 119 or 126 next year," Sok said. "And he'll need to refine some of his moves. He'll need to improve from a technical standpoint."

And if he does, he can count on two more state titles.

Wayne State gets swept by ECS

Wayne State's baseball team was swept by East Central State in a baseball double-header Thursday. The Wildcats dropped the first game 13-3, and lost the second contest 11-5.

In the opener, Randy Raabe drove in two runs with a double, and Paul Calvert added a one-run single. Raabe also ripped a triple in the loss.

Wayne State tallied all five of its runs in the second inning of the second game.

Pat Salerno and Calvert both stroked RBI singles in the second frame, and Kevin Hoffart ripped a two-run single.

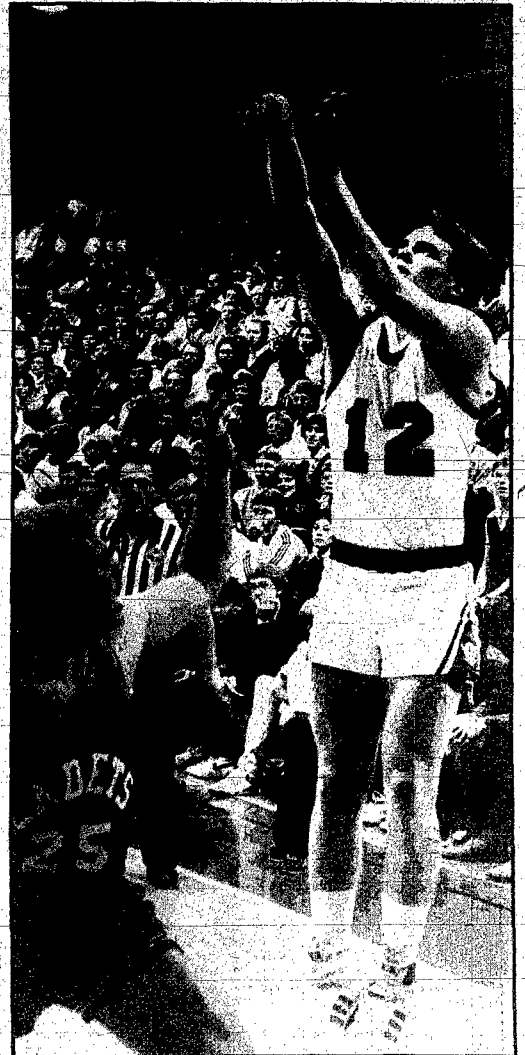

The Wildcats are now 1-7 on the year. Wayne State played two games Friday and two more Saturday. The final four contests were against Southeast Oklahoma in Durant, Okla.

Wayne fans will have a chance to warm up their vocal cords before the State Basketball Tournament Wednesday at pep rally. The rally will begin at 3:15 p.m. in the Blue Devil gymnasium.

Wayne head coach Bob Uhing will be one of several speakers at the rally.

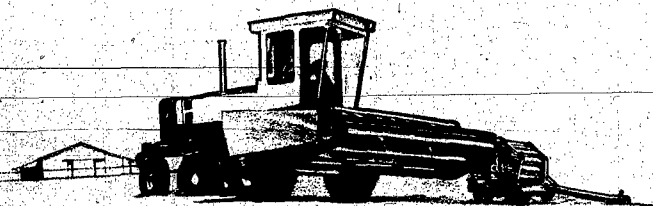

In addition to speeches, there will be skits, music by the Wayne pep band and a presentation of flowers to the Wayne players' Mothers.

"The players and parents will be honored," Wayne Athletic Director Ron Carnes said. "And the entire community is invited."

Lady Wildcats shoot for successful softball season

WAYNE—The Wayne State Lady Wildcats will be looking to win it all when they compete in the Central State Tournament in Oklahoma City, Okla. this Friday and Saturday to open the 1986 season.

Last year the Lady Cats finished second to Central Michigan, losing 5-1 in the championship game. This year, Wayne State meets Central State University in the first round of action on Friday, March 7.

Following the two-day tournament in Oklahoma, the Lady Cats are idle until meeting Concordia in Seward on March 26. On April 1 they play UNO in Omaha and on April 4-6 Wayne State plays in the UNI-Dome Invitational in Cedar Falls, Iowa. The home opener is April 8 against Peru State.

The 1986 version of the Lady Wildcats will feature strong defense and hitting. Gone are starters Lauri Owens, the team's leading pitcher, Suzy Todd, first base, and Carmen Doeschdt, third base, but 10 returning letterwinners, including the team's leading hitters return.

"We're stronger defensively than we've been in several years," said Head Coach Marilyn Strate. "And we've got five or six people who are going to make some noise at the plate. But how well we execute in our first few games will be a key for us early on."

Heading the list of returners are All-American Teresa Durbala and Shelle Tomaszewicz. Durbala, a junior catcher from Norwalk, Iowa, batted .322 last year and led the team in doubles with eight. Durbala also had the highest fielding percentage at .983. Tomaszewicz, a second team NAIA All-American, batted .274, but was the team's leader in home runs, triples and RBI's with 41. Tomaszewicz, a junior from Omaha, will claim her left field position again this season.

Defensively, the Lady Cats will be strong up the middle with All-District performer Mary Jean Guenther back at second base and Paula Dolesch at shortstop. The battle for third base is between Kelly Zierke, a sophomore from Pierce, and Shell Schumann, a freshman from Spencer, Iowa, who played second base in high school. At first base, Kathy Didier, a sophomore from Bellwood, and Lisa Jacobson, a freshman from Wayne, are the top contenders. Didier's experience and power at the plate (she hit .269 in 14 games last season) may give her an edge.

In the outfield, sophomore Michelle Blomberg will again play centerfield. Blomberg had almost half of the team's 36 steals last season with 14. Rightfielder Kristi Govig hit .317 with 26 hits in 31 games last season. Both are quicker and stronger this season, according to Strate.

The veteran pitching duties this year fall to Mary Lingelbach, a junior from Elkhorn. Lingelbach finished last year 13-7, giving up 119 hits in 134 innings. She'll be backed up by Heidi Anderson, a sophomore from Milford, Iowa, and Rhonda Peck, a freshman who pitched Beemer to the state title a year ago.

"Experience-wise, we're not as strong as we could be in pitching," said Strate. "But with our improved defense and the ability to score more runs, we should actually be stronger than a year ago."

Strate thinks the whole team will literally be stronger, thanks in part to a new weight-lifting program as part of the regular season training.

"The stronger they are, the more effective hitters they'll be," she said.

Last year the Lady Cats finished 30-20 and had the best record of any team in NAIA District 11, finishing the year 9-2 with losses to St. Mary's and Kearney State. At one point, the team was ranked fourth in the national district.

"Kearney State and St. Mary's will be tough again, but we've consistently beaten them in the past," said Strate. "We really should be the favorite in the district this year."

Winside will hold recreation meeting

WINSIDE—There will be a summer recreation meeting at the Winside High School gymnasium Thursday, March 13, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The meeting will focus on organizing the summer recreation program for Winside area children. The public is encouraged to attend.

David Lipscomb qualifies, again

For Wayne native Don Meyer, Kansas City is turning into a home away from home. Meyer, David Lipscomb College's head basketball coach, qualified for the NAIA National Basketball Tournament earlier this week for the third time in the last four years. David Lipscomb claimed this year's District 24 Tournament championship by thumping Lincoln Memorial of Harrogate, Tenn., 93-77. David Lipscomb will take a 31-4 record into the tourney, which begins next week in Kansas City.

UNL HEAD football coach Tom Osborne will be the guest speaker at the Wayne-Carroll Athletic Banquet May 20.

Osborne will speak

Tom Osborne, the head football coach and assistant athletic director at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will be the guest speaker at the Wayne-Carroll Athletic Banquet May 20, according to Wayne Athletic Director Ron Carnes.

Wayne-Carroll fans will have the chance to witness a rare speaking engagement by Osborne. Osborne, who owns a 127-30-2 career record in 13 seasons at Nebraska, has limited his speaking engagements since having by-pass surgery last year. But he still decided to speak at the Wayne banquet.

Osborne-coached teams have never won fewer than nine games and twice have gone 12-1. His record the past four years is 43-7, and 72-14 the past six seasons.

The Football News named Osborne the National Coach of the Year in 1983, and he has been named Big Eight Coach of the Year three times. Under Osborne's direction, Nebraska has increased its national record of consecutive bowl appearances to 17.

Only one Osborne-coached team has finished lower than second in the Big Eight, and his teams have won or shared the conference title six times.

CARNES ALSO ANNOUNCED that the annual Wayne-Carroll Winter Sports Awards Night will be held Thursday, April 3, and added that the W-Club (a new Letter's Winner's Organization), will have its first promotional selling project March 20-22.

The W-Club will be selling fruit in the vacant building next to Bill's CW and the proceeds will be used to promote Wayne-Carroll athletics.

WE ALSO PROVIDE THESE SERVICES:

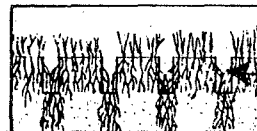

LAWN AERATION

Lawn aeration pulls cores from the turf and are left alone until they break down into the turf. Lawn aeration is recommended each year when thatch becomes 1/2 inch thick. Lawn Aeration INCREASES: thatch decomposition; water, fertilizer and pesticide penetration; deep grass root penetration. Lawn Aeration DECREASES: soil compaction; drought and disease stress; insect infestations.

Lawn aeration is as important to thatch control and the health of your lawn as is all of the other lawn care practices.

Coring device removes soil cores.

Improves depth of rooting.

POWER RAKING

Power raking is to remove the thatch in your lawn.
