Westwood plat is put on hold

by Chuck Hackenmiller

A final plat for the Westwood Second Addition — west of the present Westwood Subdivision in the northwest sector of the city of Wayne — was up for Wayne City Council approval Tuesday night.

But the final plat approval never came. Instead, discussion centered around engineering fees assessed to the developer of the property; concern about water drainage on nearby properties; and the fairness of the park fee.

The property in question covers approximately 17.89 acres which was purchased in 1978 by Robert Carhart of Carhart Lumber in Wayne. Carhart is also the developer for the proposed subdivision. Lots within the subdivision will contain single family housing, duplexes and townhouses. Marci Pankaskie, city planning and zoning administrator, told the city council Tuesday evening that the planning and zoning board had approved the final plat of the proposed Westwood subdivision on March 17.

HOWEVER, THE commission

decided that the question of the water run-off would be presented to the city council for the council's determination.

A landowner who has property north of the current and proposed Westwood subdivisions, Carl Johnson, told the city council Tuesday night that he has concerns with additional water run-off from the proposed addition.

Pankaskie mentioned a plan to build two retention ponds to catch the excess water run-off from the Westwood and Fair Acres Street additions in the proposed subdivision. Several pipes will draw off water from the retention ponds as the level builds up.

Johnson, after showing the city council some photographs of drainage problems in the 1960's when the first Westwood subdivision was constructed, told the council he still has concerns about the drainage.

"It will be slowed up. But it still causes problems and erosion," he said, adding that water can still collect after leaving the detention ponds and concentrate elsewhere.

WATER CAN STILL flow back to the northeast and come down Meadow Lane (in the present Westwood Subdivision), he mentioned.

"I hope there can be a solution, or there should be no development," Johnson said.

"I'm not against growth if it is done right," he added.

Another landowner who has property near the proposed subdivision site, Carl Haas, told the city council he also has concerns about the water drainage causing erosion and other problems on his property. He too said he wasn't against expansion.

"But if this is going to create a problem for the man that farms my ground that he can't farm it, then the ground is no value to me or to him," Haas said.

"You can't change nature's way. If you do, you will have a big problem," he told the city council.

If a four inch rain falls, it still could cause run-off problems despite the detention ponds, according to Dennis Hirschbrunner of Bruce Gilmore and Associates, the engineering firm representing the city of Wayne.

Water run-off, he said, will still concentrate somewhere. "The concern we all have to take into consideration is water concentration," Hirschbrunner mentioned.

CARHART'S LEGAL representative, attorney Duane Schroeder, later pointed out a cost item which was billed to Carhart from Bruce Gilmore and Associates — an amount of nearly $585.

The engineering firm's billing was for reviewing sanitary sewer, water lines, street grades and the water drainage. "This is a fairly large development that will be attached to a present section of the city," Hirschbrunner told the council.

However, he said the obligation by Carhart to pay for testing should come only after the actual installation of improvements. "They should not have to pay for the engineer's cost at the plat review stage," Schroeder said.

"This is something we think the ordinance does not require us to do. What type of message are we sending to other people in Wayne?" he asked.

Schroeder said Carhart has already complied with payment of the required preliminary plat and final plat fees.

City Administrator Phil Kloster said that Carhart has always made an effort to comply with the city in correcting problems. He said he agreed with Schroeder a hundred percent.

"This ended up with a cost that we haven't had on other subdivisions," Kloster said.

The cost would be a general fund expenditure if paid by the city, he added.

Kloster said the answer in the Glaser campaigns here

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Bernie Glaser, Nebraska attorney general candidate who appeared in Wayne last Wednesday and Friday during his campaign swing of northeast Nebraska, doesn't like the way the current attorney's general is operating.

"It's truly a mess," Glaser, a Republican, said.

The former Greeley, Nebraska resident and past federal and state prosecutor who now resides in Lincoln says it will take "experience and attitude to fix it."

The current Nebraska Attorney General is Robert Spire, who has filed for re-election to the post.

Glaser said that like a private attorney, the attorney general should be acting on behalf of the clients. The legislature passes the laws and it is up to the attorney general to do the enforcing, he says.

He said the current attorney general lacks experience and diligence; although he believes that Spire is "a very nice man."

"We need someone that will get out, roll up the sleeves, get the shovel and start digging," Glaser said.

HE CITED the current problems which Initiative 300 is undergoing in regards to legislation and implementation. "Right now, businesses and farmers don't know what the statute is," he said.

What he would do, he said, would be to conduct a full scale investigation on the legal impact of Initiative 300, giving violators 30 days to "get their act together" and if they don't, then prosecute them.

The attorney general, he said, should not be involved in the political process of public policy making. "I would do what the client [in this case, who the attorney general represents] wants to do, so that other functions of state government can do their jobs," he mentioned.

However, one area which he would like to approach the legislature about concerns the reorganization of the attorney general's office.

HIS REORGANIZATIONAL plans would call for establishing six assistant attorney generals under the attorney general, each as a head of a certain division within the government offices.

Executive assistant attorney generals would be available to county attorneys across Nebraska, Glaser commented.

Bernie Glaser

Glaser pledges to continue support of the Drug Task Force. The Task Force has been responsible for the investigation and conviction of over 100 upper level drug dealers.

In addition, to plans to take the leading role in getting similar cooperative efforts organized in other areas of law enforcement to thwart the rise of violent and white collar criminal activity.

Stenberg at forum

Don Stenberg, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, will be one of several candidates in Wayne on Tuesday, April 1 to meet with Wayne area voters and to participate in a candidate's forum.

The candidate's forum for Republican candidates, particularly those filing for governor and Lt. governor of Nebraska, is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Wayne State College North Dining Room in the Student Center.

The forum is being sponsored by the WSC Republicans, the Wayne County Young Republicans and the Northeast Nebraska Young Republicans.

CINDY BERG has made a variety of toys for the Toys for Tots program.

Berg enjoys latest project

Cindy Berg, a junior at Winside High School, is taking something on as a 4-H project that is fun, provides an opportunity to be creative and is part of her community involvement program.

But most importantly, it gives her a happy feeling that she is contributing her efforts to a special cause — supplying gifts for needy youngsters or elderly people this Christmas.

Cindy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Berg, has been busy making (or repairing) toys for the Toys for Tots program, sponsored in part by the Goldenrod Hills agency.

Dolls, puppies, stuffed animals and other items which young children would enjoy have been manufactured through the talents of Cindy. She has also worked on repairing broken dolls.

Her efforts and ideas have rubbed off on other members of the Helping Hands 4-H Club — of which she herself is a member.

The girls in her 4-H club have each adopted a doll to sew outfits for, just to make a girls Christmas happy. All the dolls received for this project have so far been donated — another group fixes the hair or repairs the bodies of the dolls.

The boys in the 4-H Club have taken on the task of constructing (or repairing wood toys).

The Toys for Tots program, last year, provided toys to 2,000 children, from those that are babies on up to 16 years old. In addition up to 250 elderly people received food baskets. This Christmas, Goldenrod Hills is expecting an even greater need.

The agency serves Antelope, Burt, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne Counties.

Cindy asked that as people do their spring cleaning, to look for toys that could be re-used. These can be cuddle toys, nap pillows, puppets, stuffed animals, dolls and decorator pillows. Put the donations in a box, with your name and address, Cindy said.

Wood products donated to the 4-H group, or to Toys for Tots program should not be coated with lead paints.

If you have any questions such as where to drop off the donations, Cindy said to please contact her at R. T. Box 99, Winside or call 402-284-4489. Another person to contact would be Virgene Dunklau of Wayne, who is the Wayne area outreach worker for Goldenrod Hills. Her phone number is 375-1808.

Chamber sponsors expo

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce is finalizing plans for their upcoming product show, Wayne Expo '86. This event will be held on April 11-13 at the City Auditorium. Plans include display booths from over 30 Chamber of Commerce members, as well as a free omelet feed, daily prize giveaways, and a grand prize giveaway of a trip to Kansas City.

Several different community organizations will provide a huge craft and bake sale on Saturday during the Expo. Local Girl Scouts will be selling cookies to Expo visitors, and balloons will be sold by the Chamber. If your organization is interested in reserving a table, please contact the Chamber office, 375-2240.

There will be many different businesses represented at the Expo, each offering a glimpse of the services and products available in Wayne. Timpte manufacturing will have a trailer parked outside of the auditorium, and there will be a spectacular display of strength utilizing fine china and an automobile that will be provided by Mine's Jewelers and Arnie's Ford-Mercury.

Other businesses participating in the Expo are Wayne Veterinary Clinic, Koplin Auto Supply, The Country Nursery, The Wayne Herald, Doerschner Appliance, The Office Connection, Coast to Coast, Lindsay Soft Water, The Diamond Center, Trio Travel, Wayne Monument Works, Sav-Mor Pharmacy, Vakoc Building and Home Center, Jammer Photography, Wayne State College,

Tootsie Roll drive set

The 1986 Knights of Columbus Tootsie Roll Fund Drive is set for April 4, 5 and 6 in Wayne.

Knights, Squires, Boy Scouts and local Associations for Retarded Citizens will provide volunteers to receive donations in over 80 of Nebraska's communities.

The 1986 drive will be the 11th annual drive to be conducted in Nebraska. The monies have been directed to support programs such as Nebraska Special Olympics, Youth Care incorporated, the Madonna School in Omaha and the Association for Retarded Citizens.

University of Nebraska football Coach Dr. Tom Osborne will serve as this year's Honorary Chairman.

The Knights of Columbus of Wayne was able to donate $500 to the Ashley Meyer family to help with some of the medical expenses. This money also comes from the Tootsie Roll Fund Drive. The funds encompass all faiths.

Budget discussion forges ahead

Choice is many

This past week, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee presented the budget recommendations that were crafted over the past eleven weeks. The Appropriations Committee annually goes through a process of public hearings of all state agencies and their budget requests as well as any other requests for state level appropriations. Then, after careful consideration of projected revenue, appropriations bills are drafted and the nine member committee votes to advance bills to the floor for full debate by the entire body.

many citizens and is not accepted, or rejected, lightly.

At the same time the other half of the budget equation, the state's projected tax revenues, are scrutinized with equal intensity. Updated receipt predictions will be available before a final decision on the size of the state budget is made next month. As most of you know, the Nebraska Constitution does not allow deficit balances, therefore there must be more revenue (which is based on predictions) than allowable expenditures. We'll be able to tell more as deliberations continue and the Legislature heads into the final three weeks of its session. I predict the maximum income tax rate acceptable to the legislature will be 20% of our federal obligation just as it was in 1985.

A major area of controversy this past week centered on the conflict between the Governor and the Legislature regarding the homestead exemption. Currently, counties are allowed to give a partial property tax exemption to low-income elderly and the disabled, and the state reimburses the counties for the lost revenue. The controversy started when the Governor recommended that the counties not be reimbursed for the full amount presented to the state and the legislature passed a bill that provided full funding. At that point the Governor said he would veto the measure and require us to override his veto. My personal opinion, and that held by the majority of the body, is that if the counties are expecting the reimbursement, and are legally entitled to it, it should be paid.

After the initial controversy, the Governor proposed a package of changes in the administration of the homestead program that will save over $5 million in this next year. A key point in his proposal suggests that maximum income restrictions for disabled applicants be applied as they are for the elderly, citing his own case where he would be eligible due to his disability. He proposed income restrictions to keep the exemption directed to the truly needy. His changes are being well received, now that he is talking about delaying implementation until next year to allow time for a smooth transition to the new guidelines and give counties the opportunity to adjust.

Relief to ag banks

Senate Banking Bills are Political Smokescreen

There is an effort in the United States Senate to freeze recent changes in Federal banking regulations permanently into law, and I am not very happy about that. This legislation will most likely be used as a substitute for more useful action in the Senate. I hope that Nebraska's two Senators will not be taken in by this political smokescreen.

The recent regulatory changes are a first step toward providing some relief to agricultural banks and the agricultural sector, but we must do more. To simply write these changes into law is to take the easy way out. I was pleased to see Federal banking regulators finally take some action, but this is not the place to stop. Furthermore, there is no need to legislate something that has already been accomplished by regulatory change. Instead, farm state legislators should focus on changes still needed to make lending institutions more responsive to the needs of besieged agricultural customers.

I have introduced a package of bills that can provide some additional relief to agricultural banks and their farm and business borrowers. My bill has already had the effect of pushing the Federal banking regulators to take some action. Until the very real possibility of some changes in law appeared, the regulatory agencies took a very cavalier attitude — an attitude of neglect, and certainly not benign neglect — in the face of disaster among agricultural banks.

WE HAD NO REAL help at all from the regulators until they had to come down to the house of Representatives to react to these bills. Finally we have had some response from them. Now is the time to continue our push for some legislative changes that can make a real difference.

The legislative package that I introduced has been called for by the Farm Bureau, the Nebraska Bankers Association and the Independent Bankers. My bills are designed to help agricultural banks maintain the acceptable levels of capital required by regulatory agencies. The bills would do this by allowing the banks to amortize their loan losses over a multiyear period and by allowing them to receive a modified form of "net worth" or capital assistance certificates from the FDIC. That approach is already used by savings and loan institutions.

If we can help our banks meet capital reserve requirements, then they don't have to put as much pressure on the farm borrowers. There is great tension between farm borrowers and banks, and between farm banks and their regulators. My farm/bank credit proposals are an effort to get the monkey off everyone's back — to get the banks off the backs of the borrowers and to get the regulators off the backs of the banks.

In addition, the large loan losses that these banks have experienced have necessarily caused them to be much more conservative in their lending policies. If banks have to be more conservative, struggling to maintain their required reserves of capital, they can't be as innovative as necessary to diversify our state's economy, create jobs, and stimulate full economic recovery.

The other farmer

I would like to thank Senator John DeCamp for exposing the "other farmer" in the March 24 issue.

Senator DeCamp's description of the "other farmer" is very accurate, however, a few more facts are essential to better understand the identity of this "other farmer."

This group of "other farmers" display unsurpassed efficiency, with gross average sales of $20,000, or less, they report combined income of nine and one-half billion.

It is true, the "other farmer" has very little debt against his land, and he is able to purchase an unlimited quantity of land at fire-sale prices. He is also a good businessman, financially structured for the future.

This "other farmer" Mr. DeCamp so creatively describes, is known as the hobby or part-time farmer. The hobby farmer accounts for sixty percent of the volume of farmers and, although not directly involved in food production, through inheritance or investment, he has acquired land. As little as one percent of his total income may be farm related, however, statistically the hobby farmer is averaged together with the moderate family sized farm.

This is the basis for U.S.D.A. reports. In 1984, the U.S.D.A. Economic Indicators reported this hobby farmer had business and professional income of nine and a half billion dollars. By combining the incomes, farm related, and off farm, the average farm showed an inflated income of over $35,000 in 1984.

Yes, this "other farmer" will be able to survive the ag depression, and sell his products at market clearing prices. Mr. DeCamp is also correct, this "other farmer" will be diversified. He will have a variety of corporate stocks in his portfolio.

Although this "other farmer" is "technically" the most efficient, his farm income has very little impact on his total income.

Care Centre party

Our Easter Party at the Care Center.

Today is Palm Sunday and a beautiful day. As I was on my way to the dining room to wrap the silverware after dinner, I was greeted by Dr. Bobby Lupack. She informed me that the residents here were to have their Easter party this afternoon. Also the Wesleyan Methodist minister and choir were here to hold church services, but they agreed to have the College students go on with their party preparation and they would have church services afterwards. That worked out perfectly. All the gift baskets had been packed and ready to hand out to the residents seated around the tables. All the residents were seated in their places so there was no time wasted as the students were very good help. There was a larger box of freshly popped popcorn on each table for the residents to enjoy.

There were all useful articles in the baskets, such as 2 tooth brushes, a comb, small bottle of shampoo, small package of regular size Kleenex, small writing pad, hand lotion, a pencil, a tube of Aqua Fresh. Also, there were several pieces of hard candies, and a package of Kit Kat crisp wafers in chocolate. Also, there were brightly painted Easter eggs for each basket.

The church service was held with music by the choir and then a short sermon.

I am sure that everyone enjoyed this party and I wish to say "Thank You" to all those folks who were responsible for all the work that they did to make a happy day for all.

Combine agencies

Are local property taxes too high? The truth is... I don't know. What I do know is that what I pay is very hard to come by and I'd like to know that it's being used wisely and prudently. Also, I'd like to think that those we elect to oversee the spending of our tax dollars are watchful for areas where savings can be achieved and still provide the level of service the community desires. I'd like to believe that those we elect maintain the taxpayer perspective they had when we first elected them. I'd prefer to believe that they base decisions, concerning the stewardship of our tax funds, on a sincere blend of constituency rapport, investigative study and personal judgement. And, most of all, I'd like them to be open-minded to new ideas conforming with these changing times.

Does the following idea have merit?

Wayne County is a community of less than 10,000 people. Why must a community of such size maintain so many separate and distinct agencies for law enforcement? How much is being spent to maintain those separate agencies by towns, county and state (college) officials that might be saved if a cooperative effort were to be undertaken?

If nothing more than centralized administration were accomplished, wouldn't there be a savings? How many less typewriters, telephones, radios, offices, desks, etc. might the taxpayers have to provide if such consolidation were to occur?

Is it conceivable that more efficient service might even result if the arbitrary boundaries of authority were removed?

I offer no judgement as to the feasibility of such a proposal. I simply suggest that it is worthy of public consideration. What do you think?

Consider the idea,
not the perpetrator.

Beginning March 24, a decision was made to hold on to any of the governor candidate campaign literature received by this office — just to see who is ahead in the news release department when the primary rolls around.

There have been many so far.

From Kermit Brashear — urging the passage of a bill that would produce a billion dollar ethanol industry in Nebraska — saying the bill may be the "vanguard of a frontal assault on the farm crisis in Nebraska and the region; calling for legislation to create new tax incentives for Nebraska to create new jobs and retain and attract new business in Nebraska.

From Kay Orr — promising to use highway user fees only for roads; to lead and observe an annual Nebraska Industry Appreciation Week; to schedule a "Phone the Governor" program; to limit court awards for "pain and suffering" to three times actual damages.

From Helen Boosalis — a detailed list of her 12 point economic development plan.

From Chris Beutler — strongly criticizing the recommendations of a special task force appointed to study Initiative 300, saying that the committee should have deferred major recommendations pending a real study.

These are only about half of the news releases that have been flowing into this office.

Even entering our news desk is a news release from an individual who says he is not a governor candidate, but if he was "this would be what he would promise to the voters if he were elected governor."

Then the guy has the nerve to say that real candidates for governor don't ever take position on issues — they simply talk about having the first name the same as a frog; promise pie-in-the-sky without any idea of how they are going to provide the pie; and spend a lot of advertising money on "television" (while the non-daily newspapers get the news releases) showing the people how charismatic they are.

Oh well, over a month before the primary elections. The news releases will continue to add up, we're sure of that.

That's not saying we won't grant a candidate coverage at least once — that is if they stop in Wayne. We would rather see the candidates visit this area and talk on issues face to face than be bombarded with "news releases."

Q. Are there any circumstances under which a parent can automatically stop paying child support? For example, if a child gets married or goes into the military or moves away from home, can the non-custodial parent stop paying if the child has not yet turned 19? Or, is some court action required? It doesn't make sense to continue sending checks to the child's mother if the child no longer lives at home and is self-supporting.

A. A parent who makes child support payments cannot stop making the payments until the child reaches the age of majority, unless other arrangements are built into the child support order. Only a court can modify a child support order. The court will consider this upon a request from the paying parent demonstrating that circumstances have sufficiently changed from the time the support order was entered to warrant the modification of the support obligation. Situations that might serve as grounds for such modification include the child's marriage, enlistment in the military, or his/her moving away from home, but the court is the only body with discretion to declare such factors to be a sufficient change in circumstances to justify modification or termination of the support order.

Grace Lutheran Church

"How can you be a Christian and still a Jew?"

That question was asked of Jhan Moskowitz, staff evangelist with Jew for Jesus, during a program, "Christ in the Passover," held March 18 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

"The same way you can be a Nebraskan or an Indian and a Christian," replied Moskowitz.

Moskowitz added that he was an embarrassment to his family and that his mother cannot understand his giving up a law career for which he had been trained.

She believed he was wasting his life because he was doing mission work for Christ.

Moskowitz is the first generation of his family born in America. His parents were victims of the holocaust.

IN HIS "CHRIST in the Passover" presentation, Moskowitz explained that the Passover meal begins with the lighting of two candles by the woman of the house.

This is her part of the meal and signifies that it would be a woman who would bring forth the Messiah, or the light of the world.

The Old Testament meal was not only a memorial of redemption from Egyptian slavery and salvation from physical death through sacrifice of the Passover Lamb, but was also a prediction of the Lamb of God and how he would redeem believers from sin and spiritual death.

FOODS SERVED during the Passover meal are symbolic. Leavening, which stood for sin, is omitted.

The unleavened bread not only is a reminder that the Israelites left Egypt in such a hurry that there was no time for the bread dough to rise, but the stripes pierced into the wafers also point to the scourging of Jesus and the nail marks when he was put to the cross.

Three wafers are put in one silk case with three compartments as a reminder of the Trinity. One wafer is removed, wrapped in linen, and hid as Christ was wrapped in linen and laid in the tomb.

The shankbone of the lamb is in remembrance of the lamb slain at the first Passover when God passed over the houses of the Jews who had marked their doors in the shape of a cross, but took the first born of the Egyptians in the last of the plagues used by God to bring about the release of the Jews.

OTHER FOODS IN the Seder meal are the baked egg to a brown color which takes the place of the lamb since there is no longer a temple where the sacrificial slaughter of the lamb can take place. The egg also is symbolic of the resurrection. Parsley, horseradish root or onion, and horseradish relish are bitter herbs symbolic of the bitter root of life, also of mourning and death. Saltwater reflects the tears shed by God's people before they were redeemed.

Also on the table are four cups of red sweet wine to signify God's promise — "I will bring you out of Egypt, I will deliver you, I will release you, and I will take you to be my chosen people."

Christians today are reminded of sanctification, justification, resurrection and redemption.

OTHER ITEMS ON the table are the Seder plate with divisions for the six foods.

The Haggadah, the rare book which tells what, when, how and why of things to do at the meal, is at the place of the head of the house.

During the meal, the children of the house are sent to the door to see if Elijah has come. A place is set at the table for him and a glass of wine awaits him.

The meal is taken in ease with several pillows as the people are now free and do not have to eat on the run.

APPROXIMATELY 40 persons attended the "Christ in the Passover" program and were led in songs by Sandy Sunderman, Gamma Delta song leader, who accompanied on her guitar.

Dana Johnson and Todd Noll, also of Gamma Delta, ushered and collected the offering.

Other Gamma Delta members, including Linda Fox, Cindy Holton and Kim Weender, distributed registration cards and served lunch following the service.

Grace is one of 12 churches in the midwest to sponsor the Passover program.

The purpose of the "Christ in the Passover" presentation is to enhance the Christian understanding of the New Testament by showing a Jewish background for the communion celebration.

Kindergarten roundup at Wayne and Carroll

Kindergarten roundup has been scheduled at the Carroll Elementary School and at West Elementary School in Wayne.

Elementary Principal David Lutt said kindergarten roundup at Carroll will take place on Wednesday, April 9 from 9 to 11 a.m.

Kindergarten roundup in Wayne is set for Friday, April 4. Parents with children whose last names begin with A through L are asked to register from 9 to 11 a.m., and children with last names beginning with M through Z are to register from 1 to 3 p.m.

DURING KINDERGARTEN roundup, Lutt said teachers will be working with the children with the assistance of Educational Service Unit One. The school nurse also will make a presentation.

Parents are required by law to show proof of birth before their child may attend school, and are asked to bring a copy of their child's birth certificate to registration where copies will be made.

Parents with prospective kindergarteners must also fill out immunization records.

Parents with questions regarding kindergarten roundup are asked to call West Elementary School, 375-3854.

Babysitting basics

ducted in four weekly sessions and ended last Monday afternoon at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Topics included first aid safety, the feeding and care of infants, activities for preschoolers, toy collections, parent-babysitter relationships, and handling money earned from babysitting. Mrs. Temme said girls completing the course can have their names placed on a list which will be made available to parents looking for babysitters. Parents wishing to obtain a copy of the list can contact the Wayne County Extension Office, 375-3310.

Piano students perform

Several piano students of Mrs. Emil Uken of Wayne took part in the National Federation Music Festival held March 22 in Sioux City.

Students taking part in the piano solo division, receiving superior ratings, were Ann Swerczek, primary; Crystal Bauermeister, Amy Cowgill and Tina Lutt, primary I; Matt Blomkamp, Andrew Rise and Melissa Struve, primary II; Laura Bauermeister and Kathy Dalton, primary III; Lana Casey, elementary III; David Zahniser, musically advanced I; and Brett Fuelberth, musically advanced II.

Sheila Cowgill and David Zahniser received a superior rating for a piano duet, very difficult class II.

elementary II; Emily McClelland, elementary III; and Amy Wredt, elementary IV.

SHEILA COWGILL, Brett Fuelberth and David Zahniser will be awarded trophies. The award is derived from a point system based on ratings earned in festivals.

Cowgill, Fuelberth and Zahniser will also receive gold superior certificates, an award given entrants who have received superior ratings for three consecutive years.

Fuelberth has received three consecutive superiors in the piano solo division, and Cowgill and Zahniser have received three consecutive superiors in the piano duet division.

Who will reach the final four?

Holy cow Harry, it's almost baseball season! And since every sportswriter in the country is making their preseason predictions, I thought I'd jump on the bandwagon and pick my final four, as well.

Speaking of the final four, half the remaining teams in the NCAA Basketball Tournament were predicted as final four teams in this column a few weeks ago, and Louisville was listed as a strong candidate to reach Dallas. Hopefully the following baseball predictions will be as accurate.

Might as well start with the weakest division first, the American League West. I know the Royals, the defending World Series champions, are an American League West team, but it's still the weakest division. After all, the Royals only had the sixth best record in baseball last year.

And although they'll probably only be as successful again this year, the Royals should once again be good enough to win the American League Worst...er I mean West.

I don't like selecting repeaters, because very few teams capture back-to-back titles. But Kansas City has one of the best, if not the best, pitching staff in baseball. And as Yogi Berra says, "Pitching is 90 percent of baseball, and the other half is hitting."

Speaking of teams not repeating to win their division, the American League East has had five different divisional champions in as many years, and the last team to repeat as champs... were the 1977-78 Yankees. Also, during the last five seasons, each team that finished second the preceding year won the crown the following season.

Last year, the Yanks finished in second place, so it's their turn, right? But when Britt Burns went down with a hip injury, the Yankees' title hopes might have as well.

But New York still looks pretty good without Burns. True, they have a number of question marks, especially with their starting pitching. But if it goes with the law of averages, and take New York in the East.

The easiest division is the National League East. Sorry Cub fans, sorry Card fans, but New York's taking it all in the NL East this year.

The Mets possess too many assets to not win. Great pitching, solid defense and consistent hitting point to a Met title in '86.

The National League West, I think, is the most difficult to predict. The Dodgers, Reds, Braves and Padres are all evenly matched. But the Dodgers have the same quality the Royals have, outstanding pitching.

Unfortunately for the Dodgers, they also have weak hitting. But you don't have to score too many runs with a pitching staff of Hershiser, Valenzuela, Welch, Reuss and Honeycutt.

The Dodgers appear to be the team to beat in the NL West. So here you have it, New York and Kansas City in the American League and New York and Los Angeles in the National League.

The World Series? Hard to say, but since there was an "Interstate Series" last year, how 'bout a "Subway Series" this season?

Speaking of baseball, there's a local boy that's caught on to the college game quite well.

This fall, Steve Overin enrolled at baseball-rich Indian Hills Junior College. But the program was victimized by a number of inside problems and Overin transferred to Iowa Western in Clarinda, Iowa. And the transfer proved to be a great move, not only for Overin, but also for Iowa Western.

Nau captures three firsts Laurel, Winside split in dual Laurel's boys ran away with a 77-38 dual victory at Memorial Stadium in Wayne Tuesday afternoon, but Winside's Brent Nau turned in the most impressive performance.

Nau finished the day with three individual championships as the captured victories in the triple jump, 100-meter dash, and the 100-meter hurdles. Nau's winning effort in the triple jump was 35.2, while he captured the two other titles with a 12.5 and 17.2 clocking, respectively.

Winside evened things out by claiming an 89-15 victory in the girls division, and three Lady Wildcats were double winners.

Kay Meierhenry won the shot put and discus for Winside, while teammate Lisa Greene won the 100 and 200 meter dash, and Kathy Leighton captured the 800 and 1600 meter run.

Meierhenry tossed the shot 31-2 and flipped the disc 100-9. Greene finished the 100 and 200 with 13.6 and 29.2 clockings, respectively, and Leighton won the 800 with a 3:04.3 and the 1600 with a 6:51.

Greene and Leighton were also members of Winside's winning 400 and 3200 meter relay teams. Winside also won the 3200 meter relay.

Randy Sherry and Scott Marquardt were double winners for Laurel's boys. Sherry won the shot put with a 36-11 toss and captured the discus with a 104-3 effort. Marquardt captured the long jump and 800 meter championship with 16-6 and 2:21.0 efforts, respectively.

Sherry was also on Laurel's winning 400 meter relay team, while Marquardt also participated in the Bears' winning 1600 and 3200 meter relay teams.

The 300 intermediate hurdles and 3200 meter run were not held.

Winside's next meet is a triangular Tuesday, April 1, at Memorial Stadium. Laurel competes in the same meet, as does Colesridge.

Keating and Johnson receive honors

KEARNEY - Wayne's Roni Johnson and Laura Keating might have helped implant Northeast Nebraska on the minds of members of the Nebraska Amateur Softball Association.

Northeast Nebraska, it seems, is often overshadowed by the rest of the state when it comes to softball prestige, but Johnson and Keating helped change that this year when they were presented two very honorable awards at the Nebraska Amateur Softball Association's Annual Awards Banquet here Saturday.

Johnson was named Miss Nebraska Softball for 1986 by the Nebraska Softball Selection Committee, and Keating was one of 31 recipients of a $500 scholarship to the Nebraska college of her choice. Keating is planning to attend Wayne State College.

Although Keating and Johnson are softball players, the association took into consideration the athletes' grade point average, extracurricular activities and several other factors before honoring them with the awards.

WINSIDE'S BRENT NAU flies over the hurdles enroute to one of his three championships.

Wakefield's girls usher in track season with bang, capture triangular

LYONS - Wakefield's girls began the 1986 track season with a bang by capturing a triangular here Monday.

Wakefield totaled 61 1/2 points, while Northeast finished second with 49 1/2 and Beemer placed third with 43.

Northeast won the boys' competition with 106 markers, while Beemer tallied 55 and Wakefield scored 17.

Wakefield totaled seven championships at the meet, including six in the girls' competition.

Susie McQuistan had a perfect day for the Trojans as she captured four first-place ribbons, including two individual titles.

McQuistan won the 100 meter dash and the 200 meter dash with 13.2 and 27.7 times, respectively.

McQuistan was also a member of Wakefield's winning 400 meter and 1600 meter relay teams. Joining McQuistan on the 400 relay were Kristi Miller, Kaye Hansen and Kristal Clay.

On the 1600 relay, Leigh Johnson and Stacey Kuhl were the other members on the 1600 relay.

Karen Witt and Debbi Peterson were other winners for Wakefield's girls. Witt captured the high jump with a 4-6 leap, while Miller's 15:09.7 clocking in the 3200 meter run was good enough for first place.

Perhaps the most impressive Wakefield performance of the day was John Halverson's 52.8 in the 400 meter dash. Merlan Lahm, head coach of Wakefield's boys, said he was impressed with Halverson's effort.

"That's a pretty good time, especially for it being so early in the year," Lahm said. "And his 100 and 200 times weren't too bad, either."

Table with 2 columns: Team, Score. Wakefield: 61.5, Northeast: 49.5, Beemer: 43.

Halverson placed second in the 200 meter dash with a 25.2 effort, and his 11:8 in the 100 meter dash was good enough for third place.

Dennis Wilbur, head coach of Wakefield's girls, said he was pleased with his team's performance, and added that he expects the Trojans to be even better as the season progresses because a number of girls are currently out with injuries.

"We didn't do too bad, considering it was one of the first times we've been outside," he said. "We have several girls out with injuries right now, but I'm sure they'll bounce back later in the year and when they do, we should be better."

Suzanne Stelling, one of the areas better triathletes, did not participate in Monday's meet. Stelling is recuperating from back surgery she underwent nearly three weeks ago. She started stretching earlier this week.

Wakefield competes again at the Plainview Invitational. The Trojan girls participate Friday, April 4, while the Trojan boys compete Saturday, April 5. Area teams joining Wakefield at the Plainview Invitational will be Winside and Laurel.

Table with 2 columns: Team, Score. Wakefield: 106, Beemer: 55, Northeast: 43.

Wakefield's Girls Results: HIGH JUMP - 1. Karen Witt, 4-6; 2. Kristi Miller, 4-7 1/2.

100 METERS - 1. Susie McQuistan, 13.2; 2. Kaye Hansen, 13.3; 3. Tracy Topp, 13.4.

200 METERS - 1. Susie McQuistan, 27.7; 2. Karen Witt, 29.9; 3. Tracy Topp, 30.1.

400 METERS - 2. Leigh Johnson, 1:27.8; 3. Michelle Orlie, 1:28.2.

800 METERS - 1. Kristi Miller, Kaye Hansen, Kristal Clay, Susie McQuistan, 5:09.

Wildcats slip to 3-13 with 8-3 loss to Creighton

OMAHA - Creighton University overcame a two run lead by Wayne State and downed the Wildcats 8-3 here Tuesday.

Kurt Brosamie provided Wayne State with the game's first run when he stroked a solo home run in the top of the fourth inning.

The Wildcats then pulled ahead 2-0 in the fifth when Randy Raabe singled, was sacrificed to second by Gale Bretschneider and scored on a single by Pauj Calvert. The Blue Jays lost Calvert's hit in the sun, allowing Raabe to score.

Creighton tallied three runs in the bottom of the fifth on a three-run homer, and added two in the sixth, two in the seventh frame and one in the eighth.

Wayne State tied the game at three in the top of the sixth when Mike Hartford and Raabe blasted back-to-back doubles. Raabe's double was also lost in the sun.

Steve Roberts, a freshman, was Wayne State's starting pitcher and hurled four innings of shutout ball and yielded just one hit before giving way to Jose Ruiz in the fifth. Mark Priegnitz, now 1-2 on the year, was the losing pitcher.

The loss dropped Wayne State to 3-13 on the year. The Wildcats played a double-header at Sioux City against Morningside College. The Chiefs are currently 2-1 on the year and have played all six of their games under the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrolome in Minneapolis, Minn.

Larsen named to Herald's all-state second team

Wayne High's Don Larsen heads the list of area players selected to the Omaha World-Herald's and Lincoln Journal Star's All-State Basketball teams.

Larsen, a 6-6 senior, was selected to the Omaha World-Herald's Class B second team and the Journal Star's Class B honorable mention team.

The four year starter was a major factor in Wayne's two consecutive appearances at the State Basketball Tournament and led the Blue Devils in scoring this year with a 16.3 scoring-average.

Larsen's teammate, Brent Pick, was selected to the World-Herald's honorable mention team.

Brent Halsch of Laurel was the only area player other than Larsen to be recognized by both papers. Halsch was named to the Class C-1 honorable mention team in both papers.

Wayne Nicholson of Wakefield joined Halsch on the World-Herald's Class C-1 honorable mention team, while Allen's Craig Noe was selected to the Herald's Class C-2 honorable mention squad.

Two area girl players were recognized by the Omaha World-Herald. Gail Twiford of Laurel and Allen's Denise Magnuson were selected to the respective Class C-1 and Class C-2 honorable mention teams.

Umpires needed in women's league

The Women's Softball Association of Wayne needs reliable umpires for the upcoming 1986 season. Umpires will be paid and they do not have to be sanctioned. Anyone interested should contact Dawn Creamer during the evening at 375-4262.

Feedback on Co-ed League requested

Since there are only six teams in this year's Women's Softball Association, the forming of a Co-ed League is a possibility. Anyone interested in playing in a co-ed league should contact Dawn Creamer during the evening at 375-4262.

Schnitzler, Nygren CSIC honorable mention

Wayne State's Linda Schnitzler and Deb Nygren were both honorable mention selections for the 1985-86 Women's CSIC All-Conference Basketball Team, which was announced Thursday.

Schnitzler, only a freshman, averaged 14.7 points this year and canned 61-of-89 free throws for .685 percent. Nygren, a senior, averaged 11.2 points a game for the Lady Wildcats this season.

Conference co-champion Missouri Southern placed three players on the All-CSIC team. Senior forward Suzanne Sutton and sophomore center Anifa Rank were among 10 players selected to the first team by eight conference coaches.

Other members of the first team were junior forward Carolyn Richard of Emporia State, senior center Cheryl Baker of Fort Hays State, Kearney State junior guard LaNeil Cox, senior forward LaTonya McGee of Pittsburg State and sophomore guard LaTisha Yarnell of Washburn.

Missouri Southern's Sutton and Womack and Missouri Western's Amos received first team honors for the third year in a row, while Richard of Emporia State and Baker of Fort-Hays State were named for the second straight year.

Coach of the year honors went to Kearney State's Dan Wurtz, whose team shared the title with a 10-4 record after averaging 24.2 points and 6.4 rebounds per game, and Lady Lion teammate guard Kim Bowen received freshman of the year honors. Bowen averaged 4.0 assists per game. Missouri Western's Holland earned newcomer of the year recognition after averaging 10.6 points and 7.1 rebounds per game. Womack's 24.2 scoring average was the best in the league, as was McGee's 9.4 rebounding average. Rank led the field goal percentage chart with a .572 mark, and Amos led the free throw percentage list with an .869 total. The CSIC assist leader was Emporia State's Deanna Hubern who averaged 5.2 per game.

Missouri Southern's Sutton and Womack and Missouri Western's Amos received first team honors for the third year in a row, while Richard of Emporia State and Baker of Fort-Hays State were named for the second straight year.

Entry permits are required in Nebraska parks

LINCOLN — Nebraska Park Entry Permits, the key that opens the door to all state parks, state historical parks and state recreation areas, are required year-round for entrance to those areas.

The annual permit is just $10; the duplicate annual permit is $5. Those two permits are purchased by folks who intend to visit and use the area on a continuing basis. There is a $2 daily permit available for folks who rarely visit the areas.

When a person buys a Park Entry Permit he is helping the Game and Parks Commission pay the costs of area maintenance, helping to fund improved camping areas and dump situations, and a variety of other park facilities. And, some of the Park Entry Permit money is used to acquire more land for public use.

The Park Entry Permit is required for all motor vehicles operated within the boundaries of the designated fee areas, unless otherwise exempted by state park regulations. The annual sticker must be permanently affixed to the inside lower right-hand corner of the passenger's side of the windshield.

WAYNE STATE'S Kurt Brosamle (No. 21) pulls into third base after doubling and advancing on a fielder's choice against Concordia College.

Late rally leads to Wildcat sweep

"It's never over. Till it's over." That statement brought Yankee Hall of Famer Yogi Berra acclaim as a unique philosopher, but Saturday afternoon the Wayne State Wildcats proved that the saying does have meaning.

Wayne State trailed Concordia 9-3 with two outs in the last inning, but the Wildcats rallied for seven runs to post an incredible come-from-behind 10-9 victory.

After Pat Salerno flew out to start the inning, Dale Clayton, Randy Raabe and Gale Bretschneider all drew consecutive walks to load the bases.

Monte Schultz popped up for Wayne State's second out, but the dramatics began when Jeff Strain drew a walk to force Clayton home.

Paul Calvert followed with a three-run double to left-center to make the score 9-7. Calvert then scored on Kurt Brosamle's single, making the score 9-8. Brosamle then stole second and third before Mark Hoffart walked and Pat Salerno was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

Concordia then made a pitching change, but the move cost the visitors as two consecutive wild pitches allowed Brosamle to score the tying run and pinch runner Dean Heying jolly the winning run.

Concordia's big inning was the third when the Bulldogs scored six runs on three Wildcat errors, two walks and two hits.

But Wayne State scored once in the second and twice in the fifth before erupting in the seventh.

Wayne State's first run came after Clayton singled, stole second and Bretschneider doubled.

Calvert doubled home Calvert and Brosamle for Wayne State's second, and third runs in the fifth inning. Calvert singled and Brosamle walked before scoring on Clayton's blast. Mark Priegnitz picked up the win for the hosts in the second game.

The Wildcats rode the five hit pitching of Kevin Hoffart to claim an 8-2 victory in the first game. Hoffart, who improved to 2-2, struckout five, walked two and did not yield an earned run.

Clayton led the Wildcat attack with four runs, three hits, three RBI and three walks in the two games.

Clayton added seven stolen bases in seven attempts and Bretschneider was also perfect on the baspaths, stealing four. As a team, the Wildcats were 16-16 in base stealing.

The victory improved Wayne State's record to 3-13 on the year.

Friday's game against the Bulldogs was postponed until May 1. The nine-inning Mayday contest will be played at Hank Overin Park, beginning at 7 p.m.

Soccer Club falls, 10-4

Morningside overcame a quick lead by the Wayne State Soccer Club to claim a 10-4 victory at the Wayne High School Gymnasium Saturday.

Wayne State took a 2-0 lead on two goals by Jason Lund, Travis Mackay and Jerry Krebsbach were credited with the first two assists, respectively.

But Morningside came storming back by scoring three unanswered goals to take a one point lead. However, Wayne State tied the score at three when Chris Hayden fed Krebsbach with a nice pass for a goal.

But Morningside tallied the first half's final three points and scored the last half's first three goals to open a commanding 9-3 lead.

Wayne State's final goal was beauty by Lund. He bounced the ball off the wall to himself and followed by booting the ball through the goal to cut the lead to five. But Morningside scored the final goal to round out the game's scoring.

Wayne State team spokesperson Sharon Anderson said all of the players enjoyed playing indoors and added that Wayne State could have a solid team if just a few more people participated. Anyone interested in joining the team should call Anderson at 375-9917.

Wayne State's next match is April 19 when Nebraska Wesleyan travels to Wayne for an outdoor match.

Commission receives $803,431 in contributions

KEARNEY — Nebraska Game and Parks Foundation directors at their annual meeting here heard a report that the foundation had received $803,431 in contributions during 1985.

Contributions in excess of $10,000 came from the Peter Kiewit Foundation, $586,000; The Omaha World Herald Foundation, $44,435; The Owen Foundation, $30,859; B. (Bing) Grunwald, $25,000; Michael B. Yanney, $18,400, and the Omaha National Bank, $13,585.

Most of the contributions were spent in connection with restoration of Fort Atkinson, acquisition of land for Eugene T. Mahoney State Park, the Year of the Tree program which the Game and Parks Commission co-sponsored with the Omaha World Herald and funding of the foundation's new Conservation and Recreation Award program. The first recipient of an award was State Game and Parks Director Eugene T. Mahoney, who received $100,000 "in recognition of his achievements in the development of the state parks system in Nebraska."

Awards Committee members said that Mahoney has built a record of achievement that will benefit Nebraskans for generations to come and that this made him the logical recipient of a substantial award.

Dr. Bruce Cowgill of Silver Creek, Executive Director of the Game and Parks Foundation, summarized completed projects over the last year and ongoing projects and activities that the foundation is involved with, which included:

- 1985 Year of the Tree Program
- Root Plow Program
- Camp Owen at Platte River State Park
- Pheasant and Goose Restoration Project at Sacramento-Wilcox Wildlife Management Area
- Weather Warning System at Indian Cave State Park
- Union Pacific Caboose Park at Two Rivers State Recreation Area
- Horse Purchase Program for State Parks
- Shelter House at Fort Robinson State Park
- Keller Park State Recreation Area in Brown County

Major Ongoing Projects

- Development of Visitors Center at Fort Atkinson State Park and Reconstruction of the Fort
- Continued Development of the Arthur Bowring Sandhills Ranch State Historical Park
- Continued Development of Eugene T. Mahoney State Park
- Continued Support for Hunter Safety Education Program

Cancer series runs through April

A Cancer Update Series will take place April 7, 14, 21 and 28, sponsored by the Wayne County Unit of the American Cancer Society in cooperation with the Wayne State College and Northeast Community College.

The series will take place at Wayne State College, Rodgers Warner Lecture Hall in the Benthack Hall of Applied Science. Times are 7-8 p.m. or 8-9 p.m. The early sessions are designed especially for the general public and the later sessions are designed for health care professionals such as nurses and others.

Cost for the sessions is $2 per person for the four one-hour sessions. If a person wishes to attend both classes each night, the cost will be $4.

On Monday, April 7 the topic will be breast cancer and the speaker will be James Maillard, M.D., Oncology, Hematologist, Associate Professor of Internal Medicine at Creighton University School of Medicine in Omaha. Objectives will be to teach importance of early detection, discuss new techniques in treatment and their effectiveness, and to develop an understanding of who is at risk of developing breast cancer.

The April 14 topic will be oral cancer, with speaker William Sprague, D.D.S., Associate Professor at the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry in Lincoln. He will discuss the incidence, signs and symptoms of oral cancer; develop an understanding of the risk factors and what can be done to prevent it; and discuss the treatment and how effective it is.

On April 21, the topic will be skin cancer and speaker will be John R. Luckasen, M.D., Midwest Dermatology Clinic of Omaha. Objectives will be to develop an understanding of who is at risk and what can be done to prevent skin cancer; discuss different types of skin cancer and their response to treatment; and discuss diagnostic procedures used to detect skin cancer.

The final seminar will feature the topic of nutrition and research, with speaker Phillip Issenberg, Ph.D., Chairman of the American Cancer Society's Public Education Committee, Researcher at Eppley Institute in Omaha.

Objectives discussed will be the correlation between diet and cancer; research being done concerning advances in detection and treatment of cancer; and to develop an understanding of what the future holds.

For more information on these seminars, please contact Jean Wubben, R.N., Allied Health Coordinator, 801 East Benjamin Avenue, P.O. Box 469, Norfolk, Nebraska (402)644-0440.

Pre-registering is required by Thursday, April 3 by mentioning if they wish to attend the 7-8 p.m. or 8-9 p.m. or both sessions; along with name, address, home and work phone number, employer, social security number and who to bill for the sessions. Return this information to Jean Wubben, NTCC, Box 469, Norfolk, NE 68701 and make the checks payable to NTCC.

Certificates of Completion for four hours Continuing Education will be given to all participants (four hours of Nursing Continuing Education applied for).

City shopping studied

The Division of Business at Wayne State College will be conducting a study concerning outshopping in the city of Wayne. According to Dr. Vaughn L. Benson, head of the division of business, outshopping deals with consumers who leave their immediate trade area to purchase goods and services in other trade areas.

Within the next week, a questionnaire will be sent to each household in Wayne. The questionnaire is to be completed by the major purchaser and returned by April 11. The outshopping study will try to answer why Wayne consumers outshop, what products they purchase, where they go for these products and to determine the behavioral/psychological characteristics of these outshoppers.

With the cooperation of the Wayne residents in completing this survey, the Division of Business hopes to be able to provide the Wayne merchants with information that will be of assistance to them in better serving their retail market.

future may be to up the plat fee schedule.

Councilman Freeman Decker made a motion, seconded by Darrel Fielberth, to have the city assume the $585 costs and it was approved by a 4-1 vote. Yes votes were filed by Stan Hansen, Decker, Fielberth and Larry Johnson. Randy Pedersen cast the lone no vote. Absent at the council meeting were Carolyn Filler, Darrel Heier and Leo Hansen.

Pedersen, after the meeting, said he saw the $585 cost as an expenditure that should go to the developer rather than the city taxpayers.

DISCUSSION CARRIED into another area concerning the Westwood Second Addition — the topic of park fees.

Carhart told the council that the park fee-as was decided over a year ago by the city council would be $600 per acre, which amounted to $10,700. He would like a re-hearing on the park fee because he says the land value has dropped considerably from when he purchased the land.

There are three options available, according to the ordinance. In setting park fees. The first option is to have the city council set it; second, to have the developer obtain an appraiser that is approved by the city council; and the city council must approve the appraiser's findings; or the city council and subdivider may agree to a fee together.

Carhart said he prefers the third option and threw out a $4,000 figure for what the land is now worth which is several thousand less than what he actually paid for the parcel.

"I am entitled to a re-hearing on the valuation of this ground," he said, even if it delays the receiving of the subdivision into the city of Wayne. "But, I feel this is necessary."

"You got a point there. This is something that we need to discuss," said Mayor Wayne Marsh.

THE CITY COUNCIL will review the plat and other comments concerning the proposed subdivision and will make a decision on the final plat at the next city council meeting.

Waiting in the wings for the approval of the plat is an agenda item requesting the rezoning of parts of the proposed Westwood Second Addition from R-1 to R-4.

In other action Tuesday evening, the city council:

*Gave permission for the city attorney take the necessary action to get property located at 221 E. 3rd Street and 214 Nebraska cleared up.

Kloster told the council that the property came before the council before and that action had been taken — but now the property has fallen back into disarray.

*Accepted the recommendation to take the $7,505.30 bid for the alley paving project between 7th and 8th and Main and Pearl Streets from Wragge's Construction of Norfolk.

*Approved an ordinance of creation of a water extension district and sanitary extension district covering an area running along the proposed Providence Road site, to be done prior to the proposed street construction.

The starting date for the Providence Road project has been moved back to Oct. 1, according to Kloster. However, legislative officials are working to move up the starting date when the funds become available.

*And approved the appointment of Kloster to the Wayne Airport Authority Board, replacing the resigning Dean Craun.

THE WAYNE Municipal Airport was the site this past weekend of the state-wide disaster relief exercise of the Nebraska Wing Civil Air Patrol. Pilots and passengers participating in the "exercises" had missions of searching certain areas to find isolated individuals, make damage assessments, routing traffic, doing radio monitoring and working with ground related crews. The Civil Air Patrol Unit from Sidney-Scottsbluff came the furthest distance to attend the exercises. Up to 15 planes were used in the drills each day, along with up to 19 ground vehicles. On Saturday, 68 seniors participated along with 43 cadets. Sunday, there were 43 cadet participants and 46 seniors. Twenty-three missions were performed on Saturday and about 10 on Sunday. Farms should practice options

Animal control damage program in jeopardy

The Animal Damage Control program, a cooperative effort supported by federal, state and private funds, may be abolished if a bill proposed by Sen. Rod Johnson of Sutton and Sen. Tom Vickers of Farnam is not passed in this legislative session.

The bill was introduced because the appropriations committee did not include the Animal Damage Control program in next year's proposal. Bob Kelley, state director of the Animal Damage Control program, said LB176 must pass if the program is to stay in existence because the USDA will not fund it alone. If passed, the bill would allow the State Department of Agriculture to set fees.

Bob Timm, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension vertebrate pest specialist, said the program would support the Federal Trapper program in Nebraska that is used to protect livestock from predators.

He said the past 10 years, livestock predator problems have been controlled by the federal trappers. Timm said it is a service that is free of charge to Nebraska farmers and ranchers. Timm is speaking to sheep producers on the Federal Trapper Program subject at a series of area Sheep Day meetings which include Pierce on March 27.

Coyotes were responsible for at least $86,000 worth of livestock killed in 1985 in Nebraska. It was reported that 507 sheep and 536 calves were killed by coyotes. Timm said the numbers represent only those reported to the Federal Trapping program.

"THE REPORT IS of an unknown portion of damage to the state. Coyote predation might be the cause of 50 percent of the total loss. It's hard to tell," Timm said.

"When a farmer or rancher has predator problems, the trappers examine the damage and then take the appropriate steps to stop recurrence," Timm said. "The federal trapping program is the most effective and cost-efficient way to handle the predation problem."

He said if the program is lost, farmers and ranchers will have few effective options to control predators.

"If we lose the federal trappers we probably will see an increased level of damage caused by coyotes and other predators. Ranchers will not have any good solutions without the trappers and some may leave the livestock business."

"It's not only the money loss that bothers farmers and ranchers, but also the psychological effect of checking the herd every morning and finding dead animals. It can become very discouraging," Timm said.

OPTIONS FARMERS and ranchers could take include:

- Manage livestock to prevent predators from reaching them. Bring livestock into a barn or pen every night closer to human activity.
 - Install lights in pens.
 - Improve fences around property. Electric fences, if designed properly, may help prevent predators from entering.
 - Set coyote traps. However, amateurs usually are not successful right away and lose great numbers of livestock before a predator is caught. "Many times these options are not feasible," Timm said.
- Timm said Kansas has used guard dogs. Certain breeds of dogs raised with the herd or flock will develop a desire to protect the herd from danger. He said the dogs sometimes are successful and other times they are not.

Research has proven that a 20 percent to 30 percent loss of ewes and lambs can occur annually if prevention measures are not taken.

Nationally, five percent to seven percent of all lambs are lost to coyotes.

Timm said Cooperative Extension Service offices can provide additional educational information on predator prevention. Ask for the handbook titled, "Prevention and Control of Wildlife Damage." One chapter covers coyote control.

As you should have figured out by now, I read a lot. Just this morning, I finished a book called Code Blue, which confronts the reader with the hard reality that there are many things worse than death. To be resuscitated, with no return of brain function, is worse. But medical people feel obligated to try. And we can't always know what the outcome will be.

One thing we do know, when the patient dies, the survivors will experience definite stages in their grief. These stages were described in a book called "On Death and Dying," by Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, in 1969. And although Kubler-Ross has traveled some interesting paths since then, and psychologists have argued about the validity of her work, those of us involved with dying patients see these stages, over and over.

They are: shock and denial, anger, bargaining, depression and acceptance. The more aware I am of these emotions, the more I see them expressed; after death, divorce, loss of a job, a limb, a farm. And I've experienced them myself, many times. Whenever we are confronted with a change that we did not want or expect, we experience these stages.

Deanna Edwards is a music therapist. Obviously, my other love is music. She uses music to express these emotions; and she does it effectively by writing her own songs. She accompanies herself on guitar, and travels around the country giving workshops on subjects like "creative grief."

THE WORKSHOPS are attended by funeral directors, nursing home administrators, social workers, clergy, nurses and people who are brave enough to come and talk about death.

My friend Linda Miller and I traveled to Lincoln in a snow storm eight years ago to hear this beautiful lady. We were so uplifted, we went back last Friday.

First, she told us that the word stage implies "passing through," and since it is a state of mind, we should probably call them steps.

Second, she defined creative grief as the work we must do to deal with sadness or bad news. Helping people to deal with emotional pain is helping them to acknowledge it, accept it as part of life, assuring them that they can bear it, and "being there."

The title of the workshop is "Music, Laughter, and Tears," and that describes it, totally, for every sad story she told, she countered with something funny to lessen the tension.

MY FAVORITE was the one about the priest who was trying to help his congregation face their own mortality (actually, very important for all of us.) He announced from the pulpit one Sunday morning, "Every man, woman, and child in this parish will die." One person chuckled and responded, "I'm not from this parish."

Another was the oldie about the drunk who was taking a short cut home through a cemetery and fell into a freshly-dug grave. His cries for help attracted some kids, who fearfully walked to where they heard the death.

The drunk hollered, "It's freezing down here!" And one little boy answered, "No wonder, you kicked off all your dirt!"

Deanna reiterated that we do not need tranquilization so much as strength to bear the pain. And that that strength is available, if we but learn to look for it.

Deanna has written songs like "Walk in the World for Me," "Teach Me to Die" and "Folks Don't Kiss Old People Anymore." I wish I had them all on a computer chip that would play them for you when you open this newspaper.

She affirmed my belief that music is important in our lives. It helps us to express our feelings, helps us to remember, or makes us forget. Some beautiful music has been created from deep pain.

During this Easter season, cherish the music that speaks to us of crucifixion and resurrection, of grief that becomes joy, of death and rebirth. Music is universal. Enjoy it, participate in it, be comforted by it.

Following is information taken from the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Newsletter written by Mike Brumm and Terry Mader, Extension Swine and Beef Specialists respectively.

This section is written by Mike Brumm.

Preventing Downer Sows

I continue to receive reports from producers and veterinarians of downer sows after weaning. In many instances, these are the result of calcium-phosphorus imbalances or deficiencies.

Bone acts as a reservoir for minerals, particularly calcium and phosphorus. Lactating sows rely heavily on their skeleton to supply calcium and phosphorus for milk synthesis. As a result, their skeleton becomes weak and susceptible to fractures during or immediately following lactation, resulting in the "downer-sow."

In an effort to reduce downer-sow problems the University of Nebraska recommends that females be fed a total of 16 grams calcium and 14.5 grams phosphorus daily during lactation. These levels translate to .9 percent calcium and .8 percent phosphorus on a daily 4 pound intake of feed. It is further recommended that replacement gilts begin receiving these elevated intakes when selected at 180-200 pounds.

The objective of this nutrition program is to supply sufficient calcium and phosphorus to insure adequate bone mineral reserves, before the first farrowing and to replace reserves lost during subsequent lactation periods.

Management improvement still needed

DHI results show overall increase

This past year has brought rapid change in overall Nebraska Dairy Herd statistics.

During 1985, the herds on test in Nebraska increased dramatically in production, said Jeff Keown, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension dairyman. The overall average for milk production increased by 1,208 pounds — from 13,527 pounds to 14,735 pounds and the butterfat average increased 40 pounds, going from 502 pounds to 542 pounds. This rapid production increase is the greatest one year increase in recent memory, Keown said.

Keown attributes this increase to a number of factors. The excellent weather in 1985, coupled with an almost ideal growing season, played a large part. A reduction in the average price for both forage and grain last year led to an increase of $151 in the average value of product above feed costs. The feed cost per hundredweight of milk was $4.69, the lowest figure since 1980.

THE NEBRASKA State Dairyman's Association board of directors has increased the award levels for the bronze, silver and gold awards. Since the state average fat production continues to increase, a revision of the standards was in order, Keown said. The new level for all three awards has been increased by 25 pounds of fat. The new awards' levels are: Bronze, 500 - 549; Silver, 550 - 599 and Gold, 600 and above.

The five-year rolling-herd average awards for plaques and silver bars have also been increased by 25 pounds from 460 to 485 pounds. These awards will be increased for each of the next two years by an additional 25 pounds of fat. Even with the increase, more awards will be presented this year than in previous years, Keown said.

"During 1985, we saw a decrease in cow numbers on tests of 691 cows," Keown said. The herd size however continued to increase, rising from an average of 65 cows per herd in 1984 to 69 cows this past year. This trend in increasing herd size is consistent with the national trend.

The rapid changes occurring in the industry, both nationally and regionally, point out the need for continued improvement in all aspects of dairy herd management, Keown said.

With ever-increasing herd sizes, the dairy industry is becoming much more specialized and intensive. The key to the future of Nebraska's dairy industry, Keown said, is to dramatically increase the level of awareness and acceptance of LOGAN CREEK bends its way to and fro across farm ground outside of Wayne. The photo was taken during a Civil Air Patrol weekend — the pilot of the plane being Dick Manley of Wayne.

"OUR EFFORT FOR the next year will be to increase the use of top A-1 proven sires along with measures to decrease the cost of rations so that maximum production can be obtained from minimum cost inputs," he said. The area of reproductive management also will be stressed so that income to the dairy industry can be increased by proper reproductive herd management.

The 1985 Nebraska DHI Annual Summary and Awards Recognition Booklet will be available after March 31, Keown said. The booklet will contain a listing of all awards to be presented at the Nebraska State Dairyman's Association meeting to be held March 31 at the Camelot Inn in York.

Does conservation tillage mean more chemicals?

One of the most hotly debated topics in agriculture over the past few years has been the use of pesticides in conservation tillage.

According to remarks made by Richard Fawcett, Consulting Weed Scientist on leave from Iowa State University, at the Great Lakes States Conservation Tillage Expo two assumptions about pesticides and conservation tillage have been made that are not necessarily true.

"The first assumption is that the adoption of conservation tillage means the automatic and large increase in the amount of pesticides used," Fawcett said.

"The second assumption is that if there is this increase, there will be a problem in the environment."

Fawcett said that studies conducted in Iowa indicate that in some cases herbicide usage will decrease in conservation tillage through the use of cultivation and banding the herbicides.

"The point is, that weed problems are not necessarily worse, just different and we may have to change what (herbicide) we use rather than simply increasing the amount," Fawcett added.

"And when you look at the total amount of herbicides used now that conservation tillage is being adopted, average it across the number of acres, and compare it to a few years ago when there wasn't much conservation tillage, there hasn't been much change."

Fawcett added, "There is no denying that pesticide traces have been found in groundwater. If there is more infiltration from conservation tillage, there may be more movement of pesticides through leaching. However, there may also be a way for those same macro pores to be used to allow water infiltration without taking the pesticides, etc., with it."

TREE SEEDLING ORDERS

Lower Elkhorn NRD is still accepting tree seedling orders, but time is getting short.

A good variety of the Clarke-McNary tree seedlings is still available through the NRD. However, the nursery inventory of some species is exhausted, so when our supply runs out, we can't get more.

The seedlings may be ordered in lots of 25 trees per species at a cost of $8.25 per 25 trees. You can arrange to have the NRD plant your trees or you can pick them up at Norfolk or West Point and plant them yourself. The following species are available: Evergreens: Redcedar; Ponderosa Pine, Austrian Pine, Scotch Pine (Tur), Jack Pine; Hardwoods: Hackberry, Honeylocust, Cottonwood, Silver Maple, Black Walnut, Green Ash, Russian Olive, Red Oak; Shrubs: Cotoneaster, Honeyuckle, Chokecherry, Nanking Cherry, American Plum, Autumn Olive, Skunkbush Sumac.

For more information or help in planning or ordering, contact your local Soil Conservation Service, Extension or NRD office.

Serving up a storm

THE WAYNE Kiwanis Club sponsored its annual pancake supper, along with a bake sale, last Thursday evening in the Wayne City Auditorium. A good crowd attended the event. Along with the event was a booth display put on by several Wayne County 4-H Clubs (at left). In the right photo, this year's pancake supper chairman, Jack Hausmann, prepares to flip a cake on the griddle. Money raised from the supper will go toward youth activities.

METHODIST WOMEN

The Laurel United Methodist Women met on March 19 with the business meeting convening at 11 a.m. by Mrs. LaVonne Madsen, president. She opened with prayer. A special guest was the Northeast District Secretary of United Methodist Women, Mrs. Jan Kohl of Wayne. She reminded members of the spring event to be held on Tuesday, April 22 at the Neigh United Methodist Church beginning at 9:30 a.m. The speaker will be Rev. Sharee Kelly of the Loup City-Litchfield United Methodist Church. Members are to bring their bibles. The offering will be a package of garden seeds. The minutes were read and the treasurers report was given.

The Laurel Unit is invited to guest night at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Thursday, April 17 at 7:30 p.m. A monetary gift was sent for the offering of the Assembly Meeting that will be held in Anaheim, Calif. The Prayer Calendar was read by Mrs. Roberta Lute. She also reported on the Church World Service Hotline.

The task groups reporting were the "Crafts" who met the first Wednesday of each month in the home of Sandy Chace at 7 p.m. and the "New Life" group that will continue to meet on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. Anyone interested in an evening group and studying the Zig Zilgar Book may contact LaVonne Madsen. The "Life Ends In Christ" session is held Thursdays at 7:30, led by Rev. Fred Andersen.

The Charity Circle will meet on Thursday, April 3 in the home of Mrs. Ruby Smith. The Hope Circle will meet with Mrs. Mary Pehrson as hostess and Mrs. Lois Preston as co-hostess on April 3 at 2 p.m. A "Corsage for Missions" was presented to Mrs. Pat Andersen who became a new member by the membership chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Ward.

An all-church dinner will be held at the Laurel city auditorium on Sunday, April 13 beginning at 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. The menu will include roast beef or ham, mashed potatoes and gravy, corn, salad bar and dessert. The public is invited to attend. The Laurel Methodist Church services will be held at 9 a.m. instead of 10:45 that day.

The spring activity of the Laurel Unit will be a donation of $5 per member given to the treasurer of each member's circle.

The Laurel Unit will visit Hillcrest Care Center at 6:45 a.m. on Thursday, April 17. Mrs. Diann Lake will be in charge of the program.

The Northeast District Fall meeting will be held in Laurel on Tuesday, Sept. 16. Units from throughout Northeast District are to bring a quilt for Epworth Village at York. It is to fit a twin bed and be approximately 60 by 80 inches.

A tea towel shower will be held for the Laurel church kitchen during the month of June. Members are to mark the towel property of the church.

A silent denial dinner was held at noon with scripture by Rev. Fred Andersen. Luncheon hostesses were Jane Cochran, Diann Lake, Pat Andersen, Myrtle White and Florence Tuttle.

An inspirational Easter lesson was given by Mrs. Mary Ann Urwiler, Mrs. Joyce Karnes and Mrs. Angie Stanley. It was entitled "United in Telling the Story." Mrs. Urwiler presented Mrs. Susie Wacker and Colleen Millken a "Corsage for Missions" for assisting with the music.

LUTHERAN WOMEN

The American Lutheran Women from the Laurel church met on Thursday for their general meeting. There were 25 in attendance. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Cherry Urwiler, president. The film "The Vine and the Branches" was presented by Mrs. Mildred Christensen and Mrs. Urwiler, program committee.

The ALCW Northeast Nebraska Conference Convention will be held at the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Cotteridge on Monday, April 7. Delegates will be Mrs. Urwiler and Mrs. Gustie Loeb.

The Lutheran Women are invited to the Spring Tea at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Thursday, April 17 at 7:30 p.m.

The stewardship chairman reported that the traveling apron is making its rounds.

Sixty seven quilts and two blankets were made for Lutheran World Relief by the quilting committee.

Hostesses were Mrs. Wilma Paulson, Mrs. Mary Ann Christensen, Mrs. Marian Ellyson, Mrs. Darlene Burns and Mrs. Carolyn Peterson.

PINEWOOD DERBY

The Pinewood Derby, sponsored by the Cub Scouts and Webelos from Troop 176 in Laurel, was held on Friday at the Laurel city auditorium. Twenty scouts participated in the double elimination contest. Winners in the pinewood derby race were first place, gold medal, Jeremy Reinehl; second place, silver medal, Matt Ebmeier; and third place, bronze medal, Mark Lute.

The judges were Gerry Reynoldson and Gene Jussel.

Participation certificates were presented to each boy who raced his homemade car. They were constructed with the scout's picture, weight of car, color and their own statistics. They were made by Mrs.

Kaylene Dahl and Mrs. Ellie McBride.

The next meeting will be the April Advancement on Sunday, April 27 at the Laurel city auditorium. It will be a fund raising meeting. The scouts and their dads are to bake and decorate a cake that will be judged and auctioned off.

EASTER COMMUNITY SERVICES

Ecumenical Good Friday services will be held at the Laurel United Methodist Church tomorrow (Friday) at 7:30 p.m. The sermon will be "The Funeral Service for Jesus of Nazareth." It will be given by Rev. Thomas Robson of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Fred Andersen of the United Methodist Church and Rev. Kenneth Marquardt of the United Lutheran Church. The Laurel Methodist adult choir will be singing a special number.

An ecumenical sunrise service will be held in the Presbyterian Church in Laurel at 6 a.m. on Sunday, March 30. A light breakfast will follow the service.

ELT CLUB

The ELT Club from Laurel will be meeting in the home of Mrs. Mildred Christensen today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. Mrs. Verjean Heydon will be the co-hostess.

many happy returns with a high interest tax deferred I.R.A.

With an I.R.A., your hard-earned dollars will come right back to you at retirement time, along with a tidy sum of interest to boot. Because it's tax-deferred, you won't have to pay on the cash you contribute each year, or on the interest that continually builds up... you'll only be taxed for the money you withdraw at retirement time. Sound good? There's more. Open your I.R.A. before April 15, 1986, and get a break on your 1985 income tax return.

LEGION AUXILIARY
American Legion Auxiliary Anton Bokemper Post Unit 81 met March 10 at the Legion Hall. Six officers and 10 members were present.

President Lois Schlines presided at the meeting. Arlen Benson, chaplain, led in prayer, the pledge of allegiance and the preamble. Famy Johnson led the group in singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Weavin' of the Green."

A thank you was read from the Wakefield Care Center for the sing-along they provided for the residents on Feb. 25. Famy Johnson, Mary Jane Van Cleave, Helen Anderson and Margaret Cisney helped with this project.

Arlen Benson of the child/youth committee read an article on concerns about the use of marijuana among young people. Emily Gustafson of the legislation and national security committee gave a report on the effects of the Gramm-Rudman Bill on the VA hospitals and care of veterans. Phyllis Swanson of the scholarship committee reported there are some students at the high school applying for available scholarships.

Members voted to contribute to District President Dixie Prokop's project of buying a stereo for the third floor of Veteran's Home in Norfolk.

Delegates to the District III convention at Pender on March 15 were selected and include Nancy Schulz, Mary Jane Van Cleave, Lois Schlines, Carol Ulrich, Phyllis Swanson and Marie Bellows. Alternates were Margaret Cisney, LaVonne Slagle, Alice Johnson, Linda Anderson, Helen Anderson and Edythe Bressler.

Helen Anderson of the community service committee gave the program. Some of the service projects, this past year have been planting flowers at the local library, helping the Legion with the baseball program, assisting with the Easter sunrise service, cleanup of the community in general and keeping in touch with elderly members by phone calls and cards. These projects will be continued this year.

Americianism chairman Alice Johnson reminded members that Nebraska was taken in as a State on March 1, 1967.

Lunch was served by Virginia Johnson, Marie Bellows and Helen Anderson.

Next meeting will be April 14 at 8 p.m. at the Legion Hall.

STATE SPEECH CONTEST
Susie McQuistan will be representing the Wakefield High School Drama Club at the state competition by receiving a superior and second place on her informative speech at the district contest held at Wayne State College on March 18.

The top two of each division at the district contest qualify for the state contest. Brenda Meier, also in informative speaking, finished third and received a superior rating.

Several other Wakefield students just missed qualifying for state, finishing third in the divisions. These included Dwight Fischer, who received an excellent rating on his original public address and entertainment speaking.

A third place finish and excellent rating also went to the duet acting team of Randy Kinney and Brenda Meier. Randy and Brenda's selection was entitled "A Case of Belonging."

"The Little Foxes," presented by Dawn Boatman, Mollie Greve, Brian Bartels, Lana Ekberg and Christy Oswald, received an excellent rating.

In the poetry division, Brian Bartels received a superior and Bobbey Greve and excellent. In serious prose, Lana Ekberg received an excellent rating and in the humorous prose division, Christy Oswald was also awarded an excellent rating.

The students are coached by Mrs. Val Bard.

PEO PROGRAM
PEO Chapter CZ met at the home of Deborah Lundahl on March 17. Janelle Eaton served as co-hostess. Kathleen Potter conducted the business meeting in the absence of president, Doris Linafelter.

Program for the evening was "The Greatest of Those Is Knowing Your Authors," given by Mary Ellen Sundell.

One of the major programs of the PEO Sisterhood is Cottey College. Cottey is a liberal arts two-year college for women, located in Nevada, Mo. Founded in 1984, it has been owned and supported by PEO since 1927.

It is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and by the National Association of Schools of Music for Junior Colleges.

Junior or Senior girls who would like more information can contact their high school counselor or Helen Gustafson of the PEO Sisterhood in Wakefield.

Next meeting will be at the Vivian Muller home on Monday, April 7. Assisting her will be Lois Nuernberger. Brenda Gustafson has charge of the program.

YOUNG FARMER PROGRAM
Steve and Sherry Oswald recently participated in the Land O' Lakes annual meeting and young farmers program held in Minneapolis, Minn.

Young farmers were selected to attend on the basis of their farming operation and their interest in community and cooperative affairs. This program is jointly sponsored by local cooperative members of Land O' Lakes and by Land O' Lakes district associations.

The special four-day program included information on cooperatives: how they are organized and controlled, inspirational presentations, and opportunities for young farmers to visit with cooperative employees, managers and directors.

The young farmers were able to participate in all Land O' Lakes annual meeting activities, as well as the young farmers program.

EASTER SERVICES
A community Good Friday service will be held at the United Presbyterian Church Friday evening, March 28 at 8 p.m. It will be a dramatic presentation "The Challenge Of The Cross."

The Community Sunrise service will be held at the Wakefield Christian Church at 6:30 a.m. Pastor Joe Marek of the Salem Lutheran Church will be the speaker.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend both services.

COFFEEHOLD
Eighty-four attended the school staff appreciation coffee sponsored by the Wakefield Community Club the morning of March 18. Forty-seven school staff and 37 Community Club members.

Mrs. Betty Heier, Wakefield Education Association President, introduced the teachers.

Flower centerpieces were placed in the high school teachers lounge and the elementary teachers lounge. A drawing was held for an Easter wreath and it was worn by Gertrude Utecht.

BALLOON FOUND
Kelly Turney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Turney found a Weekly Reader Writing Pals Balloon Friday, about five miles north of Wakefield. It was in the fence line of the Melvin Kraemer farm.

The balloon was sent up March 17 by Brandon Buker of Norfolk.

He is in the third grade and is nine years old.

AMERICAN LEGION
During the month of March, the American Legion celebrates its 67th anniversary. A joint potluck supper was held March 8 with 44 Legion and American Legion Auxiliary members and spouses in attendance.

Recognized were three charter members of these organizations, Clifford Busby, Luther Hyspe and Marie Bellows. They were commended for their contributions to the organization throughout the years.

Berneal and Edna Gustafson showed slides of Alaska, Sweden and Africa and birthday cake and ice cream was served at the close of the evening.

Surveying the damage

THE WAYNE
 Volunteer Fire Department was called to Morey Hall on the Wayne State College campus about 5 p.m.

Saturday afternoon. The origin of a fire that ignited some styrofoam and insulation material outside Morey Hall is under investigation at this time. The outside of the building received some damage as well as window casings and the styrofoam. A dollar estimate of the damage has not been determined. On March 16, the firemen were called in the early morning to extinguish a smoldering fire in a trash chute at Bowen Hall. Above, Fire Chief Dale Preston inspects the damage.

Buckle-up!

LET'S CONSIDER THIS A LESSON IN WHY WE SHOULD ALWAYS WEAR OUR SEATBELTS!

If you think being a Christian is inconvenient today, just look back 1500 years.

If you're ready to make the time and commitment that being a Christian sometimes requires the Episcopal Church invites you to come and join us in the worship and fellowship of Jesus Christ. The Episcopal Church.
