THE WAYNE HERALD

Orr, Boosalis claim victories in primary

by Chuck Hackenmillar District, Steve Burns.

Two primary-winning candidates for governor of Nebraska, Kay Orr and Helen Boosalis, will go down in the nation's history books as the first woman Democrat and Republican to square off in a November general gubernatorial election.

And it is likely that one of these candidates will go on to be the first female governor of the state of Nebraska.

Tuesday's primary election across the state gained national exposure, because of the history that was being recorded.

On the local level, although not as "historic" as the race for governor, there was wide interest among area races for city, county or school board positions.

Statewide totals on the primary have not been officially tabulated as of press time Wednesday. However, with a large majority of the precincts turned in, it is known that Helen Boosalis has won the Democratic nod over David Domina and Chris Beutler, the closest contenders. The Republican governor race was more closely contested, with Kay Orr pulling in more votes than top contenders Kermit Brashear and Nancy Hoch.

In the other races, Democrat Donald McGinley will face Republican Bill Nichol in the November general election. Bernie Glaser, a Democrat, will go up against incumbent Republican Robert Spire, who had a primary win over Don Stenberg.

WAKEFIELD'S OLGA Sanchez Tappe gathered in 21,422 votes, but it wasn't enough to beat Democrat Harold Stein in the primary election for Secretary of State. Stein will face Republican Allen Beerman in the November election.

Frank Marsh, a Republican, will be running against Democrat Diana Schimek in the race for state treasurer. And for state auditor, the race is between Republican Ray Johnson and Democrat David Wilken.

Incumbent Republican Doug Bereuter overwhelmingly defeated his primary opponent, Jim Lessman, in the primary and will go on to face the winner of the Democratic primary for the Congressional 1st

Wayne County Results
Democrats in Wayne County and northeast Nebraska did not follow the pattern of state-wide party voting as they recorded more votes for David Domina as governor than the other candidates.

Domina recorded 257 votes, followed by 140 votes for Boosalls and 25 votes for Chris Beutler. Robert Prokop had 16 votes, Marge Higgins had five votes, Barton Chandler two votes and Mina Dillingham had one vote.

In the Democratic race for 1st District Congressman, Steve Burns collected 143 votes to outdistance challengers Duane Dufek with 107 votes and Marlin Pals with 73 votes.

IN THE balloting for office of Lt. Governor, Democrat McGinley got 221 votes compared to 80 votes for Rachel Hepburn and 70 votes for Ken Michaelis.

Olga Sanchez Tappe got more votes (214) than candidate Stein (184) for secretary of state.

On the Republican ticket, Bereuter had more votes than Lessman by a 713-113 margin in the Congressional Race.

Voting numbers for Republican gubernatorial candidates showed Orr winning with 434 votes, followed by Hoch with 260 votes, Brashear with 179 votes, Paul Rosberg with 48 votes, Everett Sileven with 26 votes, Monte Taylor with 22 votes, Everett Sileven with six votes and Chuck Loos with four votes.

The Republican race for Lt. Governor ended with Bill Nichol getting 374 votes, Richard Mathews gaining 219 votes and Randy Moody receiving 209 votes.

Looking at the Republican tally for state treasurer, Frank Marsh gained 699 votes while his opponent, Lucille Jensen, recorded 242 votes.

Republican Attorney General Candidate Stenberg edged incumbent Spire in the balloting, 433 votes to 419 votes.

On the local level, the County Commissioner District 3 Incumbent Jerry Pospisil defeated Russell Prince in county-wide totals by a 259 to 177 count. Other Republican county candidates running unopposed include Doris Stipp, county assessor, 919 votes; Orretta Morris, county clerk, 938 votes; Joann Ostrander, clerk of district court, 934 votes; Leon Meyer, county treasurer, 970 votes; LeRoy Janssen, county sheriff, 952 votes; Merlin Belermann, County Commissioner District 1, 212 votes; and Clyde Flowers, county surveyor, 850 votes.

County attorney Bob Ensz is unopposed on the Democratic ticket and received 327 primary votes.

IN THE CITY of Wayne 4th Ward Councilman primary election, Larry Johnson received 122 votes, followed by Jon Haase with 66 votes and William Payson with 29 votes. Johnson and Haase will face each other in the upcoming November general election.

Several Wayne County villages conducted board of trustees elections.

For three seats on the Winslow Board of Trustees, the top vote-getters were Warren Gallop with 143 votes, Harold Ritze with 97 votes and Marvin Cherry with 84 votes. Both Aric Magwire and Jay Morse received 77 votes.

At Hoskins, the top three vote-getters for three seats on the board of trustees were John Scheurich with 53 votes, Russell L. Doffin with 44 votes and Darrell Maier with 43 votes. Robert Straub, Jr. collected 36 votes.

Non-contested races at Carroll for board of trustees showed Gary Braden with 37 votes and Ed Simpson with 35 votes. In the village election at Sholes for two positions on the board of trustees, Don Bauer and John Hansen each received seven votes.

Robert Sheckler, unopposed for county superintendent, received 1,177 votes while Mike Karel and Herman Opler received 1,230 votes and 1,047 votes respectively for the two positions on the Nottous Weed Board.

DIXON COUNTY RESULTS
The following total results were obtained Wednesday morning from the county clerk's office in Dixon County.

City to make plans for elevated storage tank

by Chuck Hackenmillar

The Wayne City Council began initial proceedings toward relieving its water supply and storage problems Tuesday evening.

In a unanimous decision, the council approved obtaining plans and specifications for the construction of a new elevated water storage tank to be located near the industrial site east of Wayne.

It is the council's intention to get bids on the project in August or September so that construction can begin by this fall before the winter weather arrives.

Ralph Russell, a professional engineer with the Howard R. Green Company (contracted by the city of Wayne as consulting engineers for the water projects), appeared before the city council Tuesday evening and provided background to the recent studies that had been completed concerning Wayne's water supply, storage, treatment, distribution systems and location of a new well field.

The first study was completed in 1980, with a more in-depth study that followed in 1983.

Russell said that Wayne currently has five wells servicing the city. Four of the wells, although containing hard water, are considered as excellent in quality and need no treatment. A fifth city well, he said, is high in manganese.

HE SAID THAT Wayne's current well field is declining in static water level (pumping level) and that during the past 50 years, the aquifer has experienced a 38 foot decline. In the long term, the level of water in the well field will "continue to decline," he said.

"Considering the life of the wells, the rate of decline and the projected usage, at best the present well field will have another 10 years of life," Russell told the council.

He said the next step for the council is to look for another source as close as possible to the city of Wayne. After expanding the search outside of Wayne, a potential well field was located approximately six miles from the city.

The final report by Howard R. Green Company reveals a study on the water resource and rate analysis.

However, Russell recommended the council begin looking at an elevated water storage tank now because there is "more of an immediate need than a well field."

The highest priority now, he said, is construction of the elevated water storage tank, followed by the securing of a well field, and then working to distribute the water system.

The State of Nebraska informed city officials recently that Wayne is considered "being short of water storage."

"And since last year, we have also had some industrial expansion," said City Administrator Phil Kloster.

IN THE INDUSTRIAL park area, the city currently is leasing some property which would be the location being considered for the water tower.

A elevated tower there, he said, would be beneficial for providing fire protection in the industrial park area. Another water tower would also affect the city's fire insurance rating.

Kloster said the city had attempted to gain some state and federal funding for the water tower project, but was turned down. "They do not have any funds available for water storage," he told the council.

"He asked the city council to consider moving ahead with the plans and specifications for the elevated water storage tank, which he said could be prepared for late August or early September bidding.

"That will allow us to get the footings in the ground," Kloster said. If there is a mild winter, the tank

ESU approves cost sharing for legislative consultant

By LaVon Anderson

By a vote of six to one, members of the Educational Service Unit One board of directors voted Tuesday night to approve payment for a legislative consultant at $1,435.

Board members also voted six to one on an amendment to the original motion which states that Educational Service Unit One approve $1,435 for the services of a consultant on legislation if the service is supported by an adequate number of service units in Nebraska.

Voting in favor of the motions were board members Ervin DeBor, Randy Shaw, Marvin Borg, Ken Lahrs, Deryl Lawrence and Paul Steffen. The dissenting vote was cast by Jim Martindale.

Members absent from the meeting were Leo Krampfer, Claire Hansen and John Post.

IN HIS MONTHLY report to the board, ESU 1 Administrator Harry Mills said that under a proposal made up by a committee of two members of the Educational Service Unit Administrators Association (ESUAA) and two members of the Nebraska Educational Service Unit Boards Association (NESUBA), each ESU would pay a flat base of $885 toward the cost of a legislative consultant.

Also, each ESU would pay a percentage of the total valuation of all 17 ESUs. Mills pointed out that ESU 18 and ESU 19 are not included as they have their own lobbyist.

If all ESUs accept the proposal, Mills said the cost to ESU 1 for the consultant would be $1,435.

IN DISCUSSING the retention of a legislative consultant, board member Randy Shaw of Wayne questioned the need for ESUs to become involved in the politics of education.

"We are a service arm of the public schools," said Shaw. "What turf do we really have to protect? We're a service organization."

"Many legislators don't even know what the ESUs do," answered board member Ken Lahrs of Ponca. "I think we have to be concerned enough to protect the services we provide."

"I think it's sad," added Lahrs, "but I don't see any other way."

Chairman Marvin Borg of Concord. "You have to justify your existence in everything these days," said Borg. "It shouldn't have to be that way, but it is."

IN OTHER ACTION Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members set the 1986-87 salaries for classified staff members and the office manager.

The only change in the salary schedule for the classified staff involves a beginning salary increase from $4.13 to $4.15 per hour, and a step increase of 15 cents per hour per years of experience.

The new salary package represents a 2 percent increase in the ESU 1 budget with the present staff.

The classified staff includes teacher aides, secretaries and media personnel.

Board members also voted to offer ESU 1 Office Manager Lisa Smith, who holds a degree in office administration, full family insurance during 1986-87.

The 1985-86 salaries for classified staff members and the office manager were set at the March ESU

Slide presentation on Nebraska capitol

"The Making of a Monument," a slide presentation focusing on the history, art and architecture of the Nebraska State Capitol, will be shown Monday, May 19 at 2 p.m. in Lay Theater on the Wayne State College campus.

The program is open to the public free of charge. Major funding is provided by the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, a state program of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Persons who would like additional information are asked to call Kathleen Tooker, 375-3135.

Jensen gets ROTC Award

Lisa Jensen of Winside was awarded the American Legion Award for Military Excellence during a recent awards ceremony for military science students at Kearney State College.

The award is presented to the outstanding junior and senior cadets.

Host families needed

Host families are being sought in the Wayne and surrounding area for English speaking French boys and girls between 13 and 18 years of age for four weeks in July or August. The exact dates are July 5 to August 1 or July 21 to August 27. (A total of 173 French host families are needed all together.) A small number of boys and girls from Germany and Spain need host family placements during these dates.

The interests and requests of the host families are matched with those of the foreign student. Host families are needed in towns and cities and in rural, farm and ranch settings. Families without teenagers and single parent families are eligible to host. A host family must have three positive references.

The host family is responsible for providing room and board. The student is to become a member of the family. Students come from throughout France and have been recommended by their English teachers. Each one is covered by comprehensive liability and medical insurance.

The July charter flight will arrive in Lincoln, Nebraska with students distributed to pick-up points into western Nebraska along the interstate. August students will be distributed to pick-up points by charter buses.

Griesch to be honored

Jeff Griesch, son of Mark and Carol Griesch of Wayne and a seventh grader at Wayne-Carroll Middle School, recently took the Scholastic Aptitude Test, which is part of the Duke University Talent Identification Program.

His marks, based on what other seventh graders do, was high enough to achieve state recognition at a Recognition Ceremony to be conducted at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln on June 3.

Certificates of Distinction and other prizes will be awarded.

Completes ROTC program

Kevin Anderson of Allen is one of the cadets and midshipment who has completed Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) programs at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and commissioned as an officer in the armed forces of the United States on Saturday, May 10 in the Nebraska Union.

He was commissioned as Second Lieutenant in the United States Army.

Voices needed for Carroll pageant

A centennial pageant is being planned to commemorate Carroll's 100th birthday.

Carroll area residents interested in singing in the choir for the pageant are asked to contact Mrs. Lynn Roberts, 585-4647, or Mrs. Wayne Kerstine, 585-4744.

Interested persons may also attend the first practice on Sunday, May 25 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Carroll auditorium.

Schafer to receive scholarship

Beth Schafer of Wayne will receive the Alice E. Patne Scholarship, one of 28 endowed scholarships, for the 1986-87 school year of Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln. The announcement was made on May 12 by the Woman's Wesleyan Educational Council of Nebraska.

Art Show at Nelhardt Center

An area art show will be held in the Memorial Room of the Nelhardt Center, May 17-June 1. Paintings will be exhibited by members of the Lyons and West Point Art Clubs. This is the ninth area art show to be held at the Nelhardt Center. Visitors to the museum will once again have an opportunity to see paintings of scenery, buildings, animals, and still life.

As a special feature of the show artists will give paintings demonstrations on Sunday afternoons, May 18, 25, and June 1. The paintings on display may be viewed during the Center's hours of 8-12 noon, 1-5 p.m., Monday-Saturday; and 1:30-5 p.m. Sunday. The standard admission fee to the museum will be in effect during the show.

The Nelhardt Center is a branch museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Cramer to address PSC grads

J. Alan Cramer of Wayne, noted newspaper publisher and currently the chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges, will deliver the commencement address at Peru State College, according to PSC President Jerry Gallentine.

Cramer publishes the Wayne Herald, and serves as co-publisher of newspapers in Auburn and Seward in Nebraska; Denison, Iowa; Park Rapids, Minn.; and Woodland Park and Estes Park in Colorado.

He was the seventh recipient of the Nebraska Press Association's "Master Editor-Publisher" award in 1980. He is active in both the state and the National Newspaper Association.

Cramer is the only member of the state college Board of Trustees to serve two successive years as its chairman. He is also past-president of the Board of Governors of the Northeast Nebraska Technical College, and has been named "Outstanding Trustee" by the Association of Governing Boards of Colleges and Universities.

Wayne State College has bestowed its highest honor, the Distinguished Service Award, upon him, while he has been recognized by Chadron State College with its Outstanding Service Award.

Hoskins schools announce closings

Hoskins Public School will close its doors for the summer on Friday, May 23. All area residents are invited to attend a community potluck picnic, sponsored by the Concerned Parents Organization, on Friday evening, May 16 at 6:30 p.m.

The last day of classes at Trinity Lutheran School will also be Friday, May 23. The congregational school picnic is scheduled Sunday, May 25 at noon.

Darwin Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Roberts of Allen, was honored for his participation in football during the annual Athletic Awards Banquet at Dana College. The event was to honor lettermen and outstanding athletes.

Area health profession grads

Nearly 600 degrees were granted Sunday to health profession students at the University of Nebraska Medical Center during the campus' 1986 commencement exercises in the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Area recipients of degrees and certificates include: Barry R. Jones, Wakefield, Doctor of Pharmacy; Patricia S. Fuchs Schulte, Belden, Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology; Joan M. Loberg, Carroll, Bachelor of Science in Nursing (Lincoln), with distinction.

Rahn awarded AAL scholarship

Valerie Rahn, daughter of Darrel and Phyllis Rahn of Wayne, has won an Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) All-College Scholarship. She is one of 400 graduating high school seniors to receive the scholarship.

AAL's 1986 scholarship recipients were chosen from almost 4,400 applicants. Evaluations were done by qualified persons in the field of education based on academic records, involvement in extracurricular and leadership activities, church and community involvement, and the student's own statements.

Bowers receives regents scholarship

Brian Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bowers of Winside, has received a regents scholarship for one full year's tuition to the University of Nebraska.

Bowers, a 1983 graduate of Winside High School, is majoring in animal science and business. He will graduate from Northeast Technical Community College, Norfolk, on May 17 with an associate degree in applied science.

Legislation would set standards

Ridding schools of asbestos hazards

Addressing asbestos hazards in schools

Hazardous asbestos, a known cause of cancer and other fatal diseases, is present in 31,000 schools nationwide. Approximately 15 million children are enrolled in those schools. The Environmental Protection Agency has provided some technical assistance to such schools and has required that schools inspect for hazardous asbestos and notify parents and employees. If any is found, Congress has provided some financial assistance to schools through the Asbestos School Hazard Abatement Act of 1984. These actions, however, have not resulted in the abatement of all school asbestos hazards.

I am cosponsoring the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act of 1986, which is intended to bridge the gap between the efforts of the EPA and Congress and the effort actually needed to protect the nation's school children from asbestos.

Many schools that have inspected for and found asbestos are uncertain as to whether it is actually hazardous. In some cases, schools that have hazardous asbestos are not required to abate it. And, many schools' attempts to abate asbestos have actually made the problem

Worse because of untrained abatement contractors.

The bill that I am cosponsoring, H.R. 4311, would require that the EPA issue regulations setting standards for determining when asbestos is hazardous. It would mandate the abatement of hazardous asbestos through removal, enclosure or encapsulation. And, it prescribes proper asbestos inspection, abatement and disposal procedures. The bill also would require that states adopt certification and abatement work would be performed by fully trained personnel. Finally, the bill would require schools to perform periodic reinspection of any asbestos that has not been removed, so that any future asbestos hazards would be identified and abated immediately.

Enactment of this legislation would be a critical step towards ridding our schools of all present and future asbestos hazards.

Continuing childhood immunization programs

In the past few decades, we have all but eradicated such deadly childhood diseases as polio, whooping cough and diphtheria through nationwide immunizations. Unfortunately, the companies which manufacture and the health providers who administer these crucial vaccines to our children are faced with a terrible dilemma. They are being forced out of business because of liability for the very few children who have adverse reactions to vaccinations has made affordable liability insurance unobtainable.

The United States has only one supplier of the measles, mumps, rubella vaccine. There is only one supplier of oral-polio vaccine. There are two suppliers of the diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus vaccine, and the one which supplies two-thirds of the U.S. market lost its insurance on April 1 and is not self-insuring. If that company loses one or two significant lawsuits, it probably will go out of business. In that situation, a new whooping cough epidemic could be a national health disaster.

I am cosponsoring the National Childhood Vaccine Injury Compensation Act, which is intended to ensure the continuity of our childhood immunization program. This bill would establish a minimal government expense a fast, reliable, no-fault compensation system for those injured by vaccines. It would establish liability ceilings which enable insurers to predict the potential liability associated with manufacturing and administering a vaccine. And, it would encourage the development of safer vaccines by keeping existing companies in the business, bringing old companies back into business, and establishing an Advisory Commission on Childhood Vaccines and a program to provide incentives for safer vaccines.

This bill, H.R. 1780, should provide some certainty of potential liability for vaccine manufacturers and health providers, thereby assuring the availability of insurance. It is an effort to keep our crucial childhood immunization program alive, while at the same time guaranteeing just compensation to those very few children who have severe, adverse effects to childhood vaccines.

Close up week

I recently had the opportunity to work with more than 540 students from across Nebraska who participated in the Close Up Foundation's week-long government studies program in Washington, D.C. These young people were outstanding representatives of their schools and Nebraska.

The students and their teachers joined with participants from other areas of the country to see their government in action. They questioned members of Congress, government officials, lobbyists, journalists and political experts. They experienced the democratic process through workshops and study visits on Capitol Hill.

Participation was open to any student regardless of grade point average, extracurricular activities or physical handicap. With the rich diversity among the students, they were able not only to voice opinions but to share perspectives with their peers from across the country.

Fellowships were provided to assure a mix of students from all income levels as well. Sponsors for these fellowships include Burlington Northern Foundation, Bankers Life Nebraska, Control Data Corporation, The Cooper Foundation, Omaha World-Herald Company, Union Pacific Foundation, Peter Kiewit Foundation, and RJR Nabisco, Inc.

As the Close Up Foundation's coordinator for the participating Nebraska schools, I was impressed with the positive spirit and enthusiasm for learning shown by these young people.

Dear Editor:

In May we observe Memorial Day. In the American Legion Auxiliary we also observe Poppy Day in May.

Poppy Day is a memorial to American war dead and a tribute to disabled servicemen originated after World War I. Soldiers returning from Europe in 1918 were familiar with the wild poppies which bloomed in the battlefields of France and Flanders. The American Legion Auxiliary adopted the poppy as its memorial flower at the organization's first convention in Kansas City in 1921. Wearing a poppy on Poppy Day will honor the more than million wounded during both World Wars, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War.

These red crepe paper poppies are handmade by disabled veterans in government hospitals and special convalescent workshops maintained by the Auxiliary. Making these poppies aids the veteran both financially and psychologically. They are paid for the work they do and the job itself is a relief from long hours spent in a hospital.

Poppy Day in Wayne is Thursday, May 15. So when you are asked to wear a poppy, wear it proudly; all contributions raised on this day go for rehabilitation of the veterans and child welfare work.

Thoughts on 'Mom'

Your last paragraph in 'happen away' of May 8 is the finest thought a child can relate to a mother's happiness. Your mother's philosophy is one to cherish, honor and be thankful.

A thought for Mothers is by John W. Halland - If you want to make your mother happy, make good; answer her thousand prayers for you by acquiring a Christian character.

Mothers pay when her children get snarled up with evil, walking in the wrong paths, bringing shame upon the name she has tried to keep out of the dust. Once in an American city, a young man found himself in a crowd which was hitting a fast clip in a night club. He kept his head, and finally arose to go saying, "What we're doing would break my mother's heart. I'm going."

As a mother - I, too, have no greater joy or gift than to hear that my children walk in truth. Even though a child may not walk in truth, it is comforting to know that we have done our best. A child that strays from its mother's good ways is to be pitied. A Mother that strays from her Christian duty is a sorrowful fate.

My solemn belief is a partnership with God is Motherhood. What a rich heritage to have a good mother - kind, affectionate, patient, long suffering and interested in all that we accomplished. No one knows how much this means to them until she has been taken from them. Her words of wisdom and counsel are as a benediction to us and give us courage and hope as we go out to meet the many problems of this life here on earth.

Longfellow describes beautifully the last hour of the Son of the world's most glorious mother. "EVEN IN THE WHO DIED FOR US UPON THE CROSS, IN THE UNUTTERABLE AGONY OF DEATH, WAS MINDFUL OF HIS MOTHER. AS IF TO TEACH US THAT THIS HOLY LOVE SHOULD BE OUR LAST WORLDLY THOUGHT - THE LAST POINT OF EARTH FROM WHICH THE SOUL SHOULD TAKE ITS FLIGHT FOR HEAVEN."

Closing with these words - Though they (our children) be grown and far from home, love opens wide a door - And through the halls of memory, the children come once more!

An Enriched child, Mom, Grandma and Mother-in-law.

Q. I am 64 years old and was injured in a factory accident. I had severe trauma to my right hand, which left me permanently partially disabled. On my doctor's advice, I was moved for a while to a different job, but now I am back in the plant area. My hand is giving me problems. Do I have any options? Would I be eligible for disability?

A. Without knowing the specific facts of your accident and subsequent compensation, it is difficult to give you a complete answer. However, some general statements apply to your situation.

If more than two years have not elapsed since either the date of your accident or the date of the last medical or wage loss payment made due to your injury, and if your claim has not previously been closed by a court-approved lump sum settlement, you may be entitled to further benefits.

If you need additional medical treatment, or if your doctor has indicated you are presently not able to work because of the continued problems with your hand, you should notify your employer or the employer's worker's compensation insurance carrier so payment can be initiated. You may also be entitled to an increase in the amount of your permanent partial disability.

If after speaking with your employer or the insurance company you are unable to obtain the benefits to which you feel you are entitled, you may want to consult an attorney or file a petition with the Nebraska Workers Compensation Court, State Capitol, Lincoln 68509, for a hearing on the matter.

Q. In going through some old financial records, I found a check written on my account but which I do not believe was signed by me. It has been a couple of years, so perhaps I have no recourse. But what should a person do if he finds a check which has been forged, or where the amount has been altered? Is the bank responsible for reimbursing your account for the amount?

A. At the heart of the relationship between a bank and its customer is the bank's agreement to make payments against the customer's account only on the customer's authorization, which is usually provided by the customer's signature. A bank is held legally responsible to know the signatures of its customers, and the payment of a forged check cannot be debited against the customer's account if he is free from fault.

If the customer does discover through examination of documents sent to him regarding his business with the bank that the bank has authorized payment on a transaction that the customer did not authorize, the customer may bring an action against the bank to recover the lost funds.

However, the customer does have the duty to exercise reasonable care as a promisee in examining the documents for unauthorized signatures or alterations. If the bank can show the customer did not act reasonably and promptly upon receiving such documents, the customer may not be able to bring legal action against the bank with regard to that account.

There is also a statute that provides that if a customer did not discover and report an unauthorized signature or any alteration on the face or back of an item (i.e., a cancelled check) within a year after he received the bank statement and the item, he is precluded from bringing an action against the bank on that item. The same holds true if he does not discover and report an unauthorized endorsement within three years. Thus, examining documents from your bank promptly and promptly reporting errors to the bank is the best action you can take toward protecting your legal rights regarding your bank account.

Information lacking on abuse of drugs

by Senator Denis DeConcini

The problem of alcohol and chemical abuse in our teenage population has reached epidemic proportions. Recent studies indicate that one out of every 18 high school seniors uses marijuana daily and one out of ten students have used cocaine. In addition, about three million young people between the ages of 14 and 17 are problem drinkers. States have tried to combat the problem, but a lack of funds has diminished the effort. The time has come for the federal government to act and provide badly needed programs and funding.

I believe many of the young people in our country are getting into trouble with alcohol and other drugs because they simply don't have the information. We need to educate our children. I think this needs to start in the home. The reality we deal with, however, is that children spend countless hours in a school environment. It is necessary, therefore, that we bring the school into this process.

There are a number of federal agencies working on drug abuse prevention and treatment but there is not enough being done in the schools where the students are a captive audience. The Department of Education received less than $2.9 million last year to maintain five regional training centers to serve all 50 states. These training centers assist school officials and parents in the establishment of alcohol and drug abuse programs in their schools. They have been able to serve 4,500 communities throughout the United States.

Last fall I introduced the Student Chemical Substance Abuse Prevention Act of 1985. I expect to hold hearings in the Senate Subcommittee on Children, Family, Drugs and Alcoholism sometime this summer. The legislation would provide $5 million during each of the next four years to State educational agencies. The agencies would have the task of establishing demonstration projects for the purpose of developing and expanding drug abuse prevention programs by local school districts.

This legislation is intended to offer a way to integrate into the public schools ongoing drug abuse prevention education programs. The program would include the participation of parents, teachers and administrators, civic groups, local officials, business and industry, health care professionals, law enforcement personnel and the students themselves.

There is no better time than the present to make a commitment to educating our children on drug and alcohol abuse. In the past, this country has made drug interdiction and combating the drug smuggler top priorities. But we must remember drug and alcohol abuse education is an effective and necessary step. Until we can limit supply and demand we will never be able to effectively combat the growing drug abuse problem in this country.

Veterans Memorial to be constructed

In January of 1986 Senator James Pappas of North Platte called together interested Veterans across the state to build a Memorial honoring all Nebraska Veterans.

The Nebraska Veterans Memorial Committee was formed. Representatives from V.F.W., American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, Veteran's of World War I and II, Korean War Veterans, National Forget Me Not Assoc., P.O.W. M.I.A.'s Inc., and all of the veteran agencies participated with assistance from the Nebraska Veterans Council.

No place in the state honors all of Nebraska Veterans' living and dead. This project has a grass roots membership of dedicated people who have donated their time to form the initial committees necessary to build the monument.

A site near I-80 and Hwy 77 rest area was selected. Located at the top of the hill the view is tremendous and the skyline of Lincoln is visible with an open farmland valley surrounding the rest area for miles. The Department of Roads has agreed to donate the needed property, landscape, and maintain the area.

The design committee has drafted competition rules and guidelines for the design of the Memorial. The contest will award prizes of $2,500 for first prize, $1,000 for second prize, and $500 for third prize. The design should carry out the theme of recognizing all Nebraska's Veterans from all Wars, and those who served in peacetime. Interested parties, artists or companies should contact the committee who will provide a packet of information concerning the contest.

Private donations, gifts, and pledges are necessary and encouraged. May 1, 1986 is the Official Kick-Off Day. The committee encourages organizations and all Nebraskans to sponsor events and contribute to the Memorial drive. Questions and contributions can be sent to the Nebraska Veterans Memorial Committee, Box 42, State Capitol Building, Lincoln, NE 68509.

bridal showers

Mary Milander

Approximately 35 guests attended a bridal shower honoring Mary Milander at Trinity Lutheran Church in Winside on May 4. The honoree was presented a corsage in her chosen color of pink. The program included games and a reading by Dorothy Jo Andersen. Assisting Miss Milander with her gifts were Mrs. Roger Deck and Mrs. Bill Milander. Mrs. Cliff Milander of Coleridge poured tea for the dessert luncheon, and Mrs. Marvin Andersen of Hoskins served coffee. Hostesses were Bev Voss, Dorothy Jo Andersen, Lorraine Denkiau and Loretta Voss, all of Winside, Margaret Kay of Wakefield, and Betty Deck of Stanton. Miss Milander and Kevin Andersen will be married May 24 at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Coleridge. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Andersen of Hoskins and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Milander of Coleridge.

Tammy Jaeger

The Neighboring Circle of Winside hosted a miscellaneous bridal shower for newlywed Mrs. Dirk (Tammy) Jaeger on May 8 in the home of Mrs. Henry Langenberg. Other members of the planning committee were Mrs. Ernie Muehleier, Mrs. Robert Koll and Loretta Voss. Seven club members and 11 guests attended the fête. Guests included Mrs. Dave Jaeger, Danika and Jeremy, Mrs. Doug Jaeger and Jared, Mrs. Dan Jaeger, Shannon and Shane, Mrs. Dirk Jaeger and Jennifer, all of Winside, and Mrs. Fern Kramer of Wayne. The guest of honor was presented a corsage. A pencil game was played, with Mrs. Dan Jaeger receiving the prize and forwarding it to the honoree. A balloon game also was played and won by the honoree. Mrs. Doug Jaeger assisted the new bride in opening her gifts.

baptisms

Cassie Lee Bohlsen

Cassie Lee Bohlsen, infant daughter of Les and Adel Bohlsen of Concordia, was baptized May 11 during worship services at Concordia Lutheran Church, Concord. Vice Pastor Wallace Wolff officiated, and sponsors were Ron and Marilyn Harder of Concord. Bohlsens entertained at dinner following the service. Guests included the Rev. and Mrs. Wallace Wolff of Lincoln; Elaine Wolf of San Francisco, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Harder, Bret, Elly and Kate; Mrs. Doyle Kessinger, Matt and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bohlsen and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bohlsen and Steve, all of Laurel; and Jodi Kessinger of Omaha.

American Legion Auxiliary Poppy Day May 15 in Wayne

Members of the Irwin L. Sears American Legion Auxiliary Unit 43 will be selling poppies in downtown Wayne today (Thursday).

A spokesman for the auxiliary said volunteers are welcome to assist with the project. Auxiliary members also will be meeting that day to make tray favors for Providence Medical Center.

All residents are encouraged to purchase a red crepe paper poppy as a reminder of the sacrifices of thousands of servicemen in four wars.

Funds collected on Poppy Day are used to assist needy veterans and their families.

The poppies are handmade in poppy shops run by auxiliary volunteers. In these shops, disabled and hospitalized veterans make the flowers by hand as part of a physical and psychological therapy program. The poppies are purchased from the shop by the auxiliary and offered to the public for a contribution.

FIFTH AND SIXTH graders of St. Mary's School in Wayne recently made poppy posters in conjunction with Poppy Day.

Posters were judged, and receiving first place and $3 was Jami Kaup. Second place and $2 went to Theresa Prokop.

Jessica Wilson and Kim Imdieke received third and fourth place respectively, and each received $1.

The posters are on display at Wall to Wall Decorating in downtown Wayne.

PLANS FOR POPPY Day were discussed when the auxiliary met May 5 in the Wayne Vet's Club room. Seventeen members attended.

The meeting included a Gold Star program and the draping of the charter for deceased member Emma Soules.

The Gold Star program, entitled "Light a Candle," was presented by Faunell Hoffman, Chaplain Ethel Johnson, Marie Brugger, Betty Legsmann, Mabel Sommerfeld and Shirley Tietgen.

Flowers were presented to Gold Star members Lily Swinney, Helen Hupp and Eveline Thompson.

Participating in the memorial service for Emma Soules were Chaplain Johnson, President Mary Kruger and Faunell Hoffman.

THE BUSINESS meeting was opened by President Kruger, with the AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY Poppy Chairman Helen Siefken, at right, and Auxiliary President Mary Kruger present Mayor Wayne Marsh with a poppy and a poppy poster signifying his support of Poppy Day. Mayor Marsh has proclaimed today (Thursday) as Poppy Day in Wayne. All residents are encouraged to purchase a poppy as a reminder of the sacrifices of servicemen. Serving with Mrs. Siefken as poppy co-chairman is Theresa Samuelson.

advancing of the colors by Sergeants at Arms Faunell Hoffman and Amy Lindsay, pro tem.

Chaplain Johnson read a prayer for Gold Star members, followed with the flag salute, and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

A LETTER WAS read from Billie Cosler, department president, announcing that the 66th annual department convention will be held June 27-29 at the Ramada Inn, Kearney.

Letters also were read from Irene Mueller, department national security chairman; Arlyce Smith, department membership chairman; Wilma Halvorsen, department education chairman; and Jan Auer, department children and youth chairman.

Members voted to send $5 to the Nebraska Childrens Society and $5 to the Paralyzed Veterans of America.

The group also voted to purchase three dozen poppy cards and to order sympathy cards.

Members also voted to rescind a motion made last month which stated that auxiliary members capable of serving should pay a donation in lieu of serving.

A COUNTY government report was given by Eveline Thompson. Mrs. Thompson and Amy Lindsay also reported on the District III Convention, held in Pender. A report on the District III orientation for Girls and Boys State delegates, held April 27 in Wakefield, was presented by Helen Siefken. Members donated $1.50 to help cover the cost of lunch for the orientation.

Marie Brugger read the serving committee for next month, and the meeting closed with a prayer for peace by Chaplain Johnson and group singing of "America."

Serving were Shirley Tietgen, Mabel Sommerfeld and Phannel Lynch.

Next meeting will be June 2 at 8 p.m.

Carroll Centennial Committee sponsors mother-daughter event

Mrs. Sue Gilmore, president of the Carroll centennial committee, welcomed a group of 225 persons who attended a mother-daughter banquet last Friday evening in the Carroll auditorium.

The event was sponsored by the centennial committee, with all proceeds earmarked for the Carroll Centennial Fund.

Food was donated by women of the area.

MRS. GILMORE read an article, "Mother's Day," and conducted a "mother trivia" game which was won by Kristen Rohde.

The program also included readings by Mrs. Bev Hitchcock, entitled "No Other Love Like Mother's Love" and "What's a Mother?" Receiving special recognition during the evening were Mrs. T. P.

Roberts of Wayne, oldest mother present; Mrs. Peggy Letting of Hooper, youngest mother; Julie Longnecker of Winside, youngest daughter; Mrs. Arthur Cook of Carroll, most children; Mrs. Louise Brader of Wayne, most grandchildren; Mrs. Don Leiting of Colorado Springs, Colo., attending from the furthest distance; Mrs. Wayne Ulrich of Carroll, youngest grandmother; Mrs. Lloyd Morris of Carroll, most sisters; Mrs. Jay Drake, married the longest (59 years); and Mrs. Linda Utte of South Sioux City, most recently married.

Nichole Newman of Wayne also received a prize for having the name of her Cabbage Patch doll drawn.

FOUR GENERATION groups also were honored during the evening and included Mrs. Jay Drake of Carroll, daughter Mrs. Don Frink of Carroll, granddaughter Mrs. Sandra Atkins of Wayne, and great-granddaughters Dana and Danielle Nelson of Wayne.

Also honored for having four generations represented at the banquet were Mrs. Eveline Sedlachak of Yankton, S. D., Mrs. Delmar Eddle of Carroll, and Mrs. Valerie Gubbels and daughter Ashley of Randolph.

THE PROGRAM closed with an original poem written by Mrs. Bev Hitchcock and Mrs. Sue Gilmore. The poem, entitled "Dear Daughter," was read by Mrs. Hitchcock.

Mrs. Gilmore thanked those attending and those who donated food and recognition gifts.

Plans are being made for a father-son barbecue to be held June 13.

Roving Gardeners Club plans several projects

A prayer opened the May 8 meeting of the Roving Gardeners Club in the home of Esther Heinemann. Ten members answered roll call with a Mother's Day remembrance.

Plans were made for a workday in the Hollis Freese home to make table decorations for the Federated Garden Clubs of Nebraska Convention scheduled June 15-17 at the Villa Inn, Norfolk.

The club has been asked to participate in a Chamber of Commerce flower show, entitled "A Country Living Project."

PLANS ALSO were made to plant flowers at the Wisner Manor, at the Henry Victor Park, and petunias at the curb on the south entrance to Wayne.

Clearing has begun on a plot next to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce office as part of the community's beautification project. Plans include planting flowers and plants, and constructing a brick walkway to a table and bench.

ELSIE ECHTENKAMP and Loreene Gildersleeve read poems and articles, and Mrs. Harry Heinemann gave the lesson on medium height ornaments. The hostess served lunch and took members on a tour of her flower gardens.

Next meeting will be June 12 in the Loreene Gildersleeve home.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 30 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cartouche underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Buckle-up!

Of course I trust you dear; it's the other drivers that concern me...

Mendoza and Hoffmann flirting with the big time

For Matt Hoffmann and Ruben Mendoza, a life-long dream could become reality later this year.

Hoffmann, a wide-receiver and punt returner for the Wildcat football team for the past two seasons, signed a free agent contract with the New England Patriots earlier this week, while Mendoza, an All-American offensive lineman, has been contacted by the Green Bay Packers.

Hoffmann began work Wednesday at a Patriot mini-camp, while Mendoza was flown to Green Bay Tuesday for testing.

Most of the teams in the National Football League, 17 to be exact, have contacted Mendoza in one way or another during the past year. But when the NFL draft rolled around, his name didn't come up.

However, Forest Gregg, head coach of the Packers, called Mendoza personally during the 10th round of the draft and told him that if Green Bay would've had a pick in the 11th or 12th rounds, they would've selected the 305-pounder.

Gregg also told him that although they didn't draft him, that Green Bay is very interested in him and would like to test him.

Pete Chapman, head coach of the Wildcats, said that offensive line coaches in the NFL usually determine which linemen make the team, and that Green Bay's offensive line coach has been ill the past week.

"The line coaches in the pros decide which linemen get to try out and make the team, but Green Bay's line coach has been in the hospital and couldn't come to Wayne to test Ruben. And that's why they flew him out to Green Bay," he said.

Chapman added that several teams in the United States Football League have also expressed an interest in Mendoza.

"There are two teams in the USFL that have also expressed an interest in Ruben, and if things don't work out in Green Bay, he'll probably try out with Tampa Bay or Jacksonville."

Speaking of Wayne State football, the Wildcats conclude the 1986 season with a game in the Metrodome against Morris College Nov. 15.

In addition to the game, Wayne State band director Gary Davis has gotten the okay for the Wildcat band to perform during halftime of the Wayne State game and during halftime of the Minnesota Viking and New York Giant game the next day.

Also, Wayne State athletic director Jean Berger is in the planning stages of creating a bus tour to the game.

So Wildcat fans might want to keep that date open for a "road trip" to the twin cities.

In case you haven't heard of Teresa Stelling yet, you'd better get used to the name because it will probably become a household word in the area by the end of the decade.

Stelling is only an eighth grader at Wakefield, but she already owns the fifth fastest time in Class C in the 1600 meter run.

Her 5:35 at last week's Wayne Kiwanis Junior High Track Meet is also the 10th fastest time in all classes and leads Class D.

Stelling can't compete in the State Track Meet this year because of her eighth grade status, but something tells me she'll leave her mark in Omaha over the next four seasons.

Eight Wayne State thinclads will compete at National Track Meet

Many of the thinclads on the Wayne State track teams used the District 11 Track Meet at Memorial Stadium Saturday as a tune-up for nationals.

Wayne will be well represented at nationals this year. In addition to the women's sprint medley and 1600 meter relay teams, Diana Asay and Randy Ditter will both compete in the shot put, while Mark Vollmer might qualify for the long jump.

Linda Schnitzler, Ann Eisenmenger, Missy Stoffenberg and Cindy Heesacker turned in an impressive 1:46.86 in the sprint medley relay and claimed first place.

Heesacker and Eisenmenger also joined Fran Gross and Jodi Allen for a 5:57.86 in the 1600 meter relay and a second place finish. Doane won the event with a 3:56.14 clocking.

Heesacker was Wayne's only individual winner in the women's division as she crossed the 400 meter dash finish line in 57.13 for first place.

Asay tossed the shot 42.24 for a third place finish, while Ditter finished with a 52-2 for first place.

Vollmer was an All-American long jumper two years ago, but has been injured most of this season. However, Wildcat head coach LeRoy Simpson said Vollmer has gradually been getting better and will have one more chance to qualify for nationals at the Last Chance Meet in Doane Friday.

"Mark has been hurt most of this year, but he's been getting better so we'll have him jump Friday in Doane and see how long he goes and then make a decision on whether to take him to nationals or not," he said.

Wayne will defend golf title

ELKHORN — Wayne's golf team will try to defend its Class B state golf championship on its home course later this month as the Blue Devils claimed the B-1 District Golf Tournament title here Tuesday by firing a 314.

The top three teams and top eight individuals from each district qualify for the State Tournament, which will be held at the Wayne Golf and Country Club May 22.

There are four District Golf Tournaments in Class B, hence 12 teams will qualify for state. An undetermined amount of individuals will qualify for state. For example, only one linksman from Tuesday's B-1 District Tournament (Chad Kurlmel of West Point) qualified as an individual because the seven other top scores belonged to golfers from Wayne, Blair or Mount Michael, which finished first through third in team scores.

Tom Perry and Jed Reag sparked Wayne to the title with a 75 and 78, respectively. Perry tied Brock Mc-Cellan of Mount Michael for the best score, but McCellan won the playoff for medalist honors.

Reag's score is even more impressive because he was forced to rebound from a triple bogie eight on one hole.

"Jed's score is even more incredible when one considers that he shot a triple bogie on one hole," Wayne's head coach Terry Munson said. "But he did a good job of bouncing back." Dave Ellis and Eric Runestad, both of Wayne, also placed in the top 10. Ellis closed with a 79, while Runestad shot an 82.

Rodd Reag, Wayne's fifth golfer, just missed finishing in the top 10 as he closed with an 83.

The Blue Devils end the regular season with just two second place finishes and championships from every other meet. The only team to defeat Wayne this season is Class C powerhouse Oakland-Craig, who trimmed the Blue Devils twice. However, Wayne also defeated the Knights twice this year.

Munson said he was pleased with his club's performance on Tuesday. "The guys really played good golf. And it was another team effort," he said.

Wildcats can't overcome Kearney in title game

Wayne State dug a hole too deep to crawl out of and dropped a 10-7 loss to Kearney State in the District 11 Baseball Tournament at Overn Field Saturday.

The Wildcats yielded nine runs in the first three innings and could not quite rebound from the huge deficit — but did they ever try.

Despite falling behind by such a large margin, Wayne never quit, and with "iron man" Randy Raabe leading the way, the Wildcats baffled back.

Wayne tallied six markers in the third inning to pull within three. Paul Calvert, Kurt Brosamle, Mike Hoffart, Gale Bretschneider, Jeff Strain and Craig Koehler all scored in the Wayne third, with Clayton, Hoffart, Bretschneider and Koehler all collecting hits in the uprising.

Kearney pulled ahead 10-6 in the fifth when Raabe gave up a home run. But it was practically the only

Klaver hunts for recruits

Wayne State's baseball team will lose five key players to graduation, but head coach Lenny Klaver has been working hard to find replacements for next year.

Klaver is close to signing four high school prep to letters of intent, and said that Tim Wobken, who will attend Wayne State on a basketball scholarship, will also play baseball for the Wildcats.

Wobken is an all-state center from Scribner, but the name Wobken is usually associated with baseball as his older brother Bruce played shortstop for the University of Nebraska. Tim is also a shortstop.

Don Graham of Coleridge and Kevin Perry of Bloomington, Ind., also appear to be heading to Wayne State.

Both Graham and Perry are pitchers. As a matter of fact, Perry fanned 15 batters in his last outing and is hitting .430 with three homers.

Klaver said that he is also close to signing two recruits from western Iowa to attend Wayne State.

Allen will send four to state

MADISON — Allen qualified four athletes for the State Track Meet here Tuesday in district action.

Denise Magnuson captured the 1600 meter run title with a 5:40 while her teammate Deb Uehling won the 3200 meter run with a very impressive 12:26 effort.

In the boys division, Jyoti Kwankin won the 110 meter high hurdles with a 15.3 time and his 41.9 in the 300 intermediate hurdles was good enough for second place. Also, Steve Jones of Allen qualified in the 400 meter dash.

The top two placers in individual events qualify for state outright, while the first place relay teams also qualify.

Uehling, Magnuson, Diane Magnuson and Sheri Moore improved their personal record in the 3200 meter relay by seven seconds, but still, See ALLEN, page 8a

WAYNE STATE'S Tony Selby extends himself during the long jump at the District 11 track meet Saturday.

State Games July 18-20

LINCOLN — The second annual Cornhusker State Games will be held July 18-20. Over 3,000 athletes will compete in 28 different sports at more than 40 different sites here and in Lancaster County.

Last year, the games drew more than 4,000 participants from 67 Nebraska counties and offered competition in 19 sports.

"At a news conference in both Lincoln and Kearney, Games President O.W. (Bill) Smith explained expansion of this year's event."

"Last year's Games proved a success so we expanded the line-up of events to include additional sports that Nebraskans indicated an interest in," Smith said.

Registration handbooks are available at outlets in 69 Nebraska towns and cities. Occidental/Nebraska Federal Savings Bank in Wayne have registration forms for the Games.

Most sports have a July 10 deadline, but a few sports have earlier deadlines. Participants are encouraged to register as early as possible.

This amateur sports festival was created in 1985 for Nebraskans of all ages and skill levels. Last year's participants ranged in age from a three-month-old infant who accompanied her parents on the volkswalk to a 95-year-old bowler from Fremont.

Sports included in the 1986 Games are: archery, basketball, bowling, boxing, chess, cycling, diving, equestrian, golf, gymnastics, horseshoe pitching, judo, open water swimming, pocket billiards, road race, roller skating, sailing, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, table tennis, tennis, track and field, triathlon, volkswalk, volleyball and wrestling.

Competition is open to any Nebraskan who has been a resident for at least 30 days and who holds amateur status in the sport entered, Smith said. In encouraging participants of all ages and skill levels to compete, Smith said Special Olympic divisions will be included in seven of the sports.

Governor Bob Kerrey said that the Cornhusker State Games will become one of the top amateur athletic events in the state.

"We've already seen how the 1985 Games brought Nebraskans from all walks of life together to participate in the spirit and ideals of the Olympics," Kerrey said. "These Games exemplify Nebraskans' commitment to amateur athletics and pursuit of excellence."

Senator James McFarland of Lincoln also presented a resolution passed this session by the legislature that recognizes the Cornhusker State Games as Nebraska's amateur sports festival.

Although local and state government recognize the Games, no tax funds are used to support it. Instead, funding for the Games' $240,000 budget relies mainly upon corporate sponsorship and individual contributions in addition to sources such as nominal athlete entry fees, ticket and concession sales.

Shopko Stores is this year's overall sponsor of the Games along with two major sponsors — the Lincoln Telephone Company and FirstTier Banks — as well as 22 corporate sponsors of individual sporting events. Eighty percent of the corporate contributions budget has already been raised, Smith reported.

Other areas of expansion for the 1986 Games will include a torch run, Smith said. Similar to the one that precedes the Olympics, the torch run will pass through many Nebraska cities and towns.

"The torch run will allow even more Nebraskans to become involved and be a part of the 1986 Games," he said.

Another addition to the three-day festival is a workshop/seminar on sports injuries and steroids in

Allen thinclads place at track meet

ALLEN — Allen placed several girls in various events at the Winslow Junior High Invitational at Memorial Stadium Friday.

In the girls competition, Leslie Isom placed second in the shot put and Tabitha Moore placed fourth, while Annetta Noe finished fourth in the discus and Moore placed sixth in the event.

Other placers for Allen's girls were: Robin Schroeder, fifth in the hurdles; Stephanie Carlson, sixth in the hurdles; Jenny Lee, sixth in the 100 meter dash; Melinda Peritt, fourth in the 1200 meter run; Heidi Lund, fifth in the 1200 meter run; Bonnie Greenleaf, sixth in the 1200 meter run; Brenda Johnson, Sandy Noe, Heather Hindricksen and Lesa Sullivan, sixth in the 1600 meter relay.

Columbus softball tournament May 24-25

COLUMBUS — The Coor's Memorial Day Double Elimination Softball Tournament will be held here May 24-25 at Gerrard Park.

There will be two divisions (A and B) and the entry fee is $65 and two red stitch or two blue dot softballs.

Swim lesson registration May 12, 14, 16

Registration for summer swim lessons will be held at City Hall from 8 a.m. to noon May 12, 14 and 16.

The first session will run from June 9-27, while the second session will run from June 30-July 18 and the third through July until Aug. 8. Each session will be three weeks long with lessons lasting 30 minutes each.

Wayne's golfers win again

The Wayne golf team won another invitational. So what's new?

The Blue Devil linksmen have captured every meet and invitational they have competed in this year except two and Friday claimed the Stanton Invitational by trimming the Mustangs 333-340 for first place.

The only meets the Blue Devils didn't win were the Oakland-Craig Invitational in which Wayne placed second and a triangular against the Knights. But the Blue Devils avenged those losses by downing Oakland at the Harold Maciejewski Invitational last week and by beating them in a triangular.

Almost as consistent as Wayne winning is Tom Perry's play. Perry shot an 82 at Stanton, which is one of the few times he's been over 80 this season, but he still led the Blue Devils.

Eric Runestad also finished with an 82, while Robb Reeg shot an 83 and Dave Ellis closed with an 86.

Wreidt captures three firsts

Wayne's girls win Wisner Invite

WISNER — Wayne's Amy Wreidt claimed three firsts and the Blue Devils girls breezed to the Wisner-Pilger Junior High Invitational here Saturday.

Wreidt won the long jump with a 13-8½ effort, and claimed the 100 and 200 titles with 13.58 and 29.38 clockings.

Kelli Davis was a double winner for the Blue Devils. Davis captured the seventh grade shot put title with a 27.9 toss, and her 76-1 in the discus was also good enough for first place.

Teresa Ellis and Heidi Reeg were other individual winners for Wayne's girls. Ellis won the high jump with a 4-5 leap, while Reeg won the eighth grade shot put title with a 30-2½ effort.

Wayne's seventh grade 400 and 1600 meter relay teams also placed first.

Wayne's boys placed third at the meet and Greg DeNaeyer and Neil Carnes placed first for the Blue Devils.

DeNaeyer won the 800 with a 2:23.60 time and Carnes' 37-11½ was good enough to claim the eighth grade shot put title.

Wisner-Pilger won the boys team title with 213 markers, while West Point placed second.

Total dejection

WAYNE STATE'S Randy Raabe was dejected after the Wildcats lost to Kearney State in the District 11 championship game. Raabe threw 202 pitches in under 48 hours during the journey.

athletes. According to Smith, this workshop/seminar will cover many topics of interest to those people both directly and indirectly involved in health and fitness. Details concerning the torch run and workshop/seminar will be announced later this spring.

The Nebraska Sports Council, a not-for-profit corporation dedicated to fostering the growth and interests of amateur athletics in the state, sanctions and operates the Cornhusker State Games. The organization is comprised of representatives from state government, various sports governing bodies and other Nebraska sports leaders.

Allen

placed second behind Humphrey St. Francis with a 10:23 time. Humphrey closed with a 10:19.

Several second place relay teams still qualify for State, but Allen's quartet will not if they qualify for state until all district meets have been concluded.

Going into the meet, Uehling was one of the favorites to qualify for state in the 1600, but she placed fourth.

Gary Troth, Allen's head coach, said Uehling simply ran out of gas in the 1600.

"I was hoping we'd finish one-two in the 1600 with Denise and Deb, but Deb ran a 2:26 split in the 3200 relay and then finished with a 12:26 in the open 3200. Her time in the open 3200 was 20 seconds better than her personal record and I think all that just caught up with her in the 1600 and she just ran out of gas," he said.

Craig Noe appeared to be heading for state in the discus, but Jeff Oswald of Beemer nudged Noe out of second place on his last attempt with a 122-foot toss. Noe's best effort was 115 feet.

It was the first time this year that Jones ran the 400 and he placed second with a 53.5 clocking.

To qualify for the pole vault outright in Class D, athletes had to top 11-8 or place in the top two at districts. Kwankin cleared 11-6 earlier in the year, but Tuesday didn't make opening height.

Allen's girls placed third overall with 57 points, while the Eagle boys placed fifth with 45 markers.

The State Track Meet will be held at Omaha Burke High School May 23-24.

Johnson inks with Wayne State

WAYNE'S RONI JOHNSON signed a letter of intent to attend Wayne State College next year. Johnson will play softball for the Lady Wildcats. Last year, Johnson guided the Blue Devils to the State Softball Tournament and this past winter was crowned Miss Nebraska Softball by the Nebraska Softball Association. Johnson will join Mary Lingebach, Heidi Anderson and Ronda Peck on the pitching staff next year, and this summer will pitch for Ralston, Neb.

ESU requests survey

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Educational Service Unit 1 (ESU 1) has asked the Wayne-Carroll School District Board of Education to complete a survey concerning its provision of nursing services to the school district.

The cover letter to the survey, from ESU Administrator Harry Mills, says that the Unit has a very high quality nursing service and the service has been very popular with the schools.

"Unfortunately, the service is consuming approximately 38 percent of our tax levy," he wrote in the letter. "The unit tax generated money has a lid of 3.5 cents per hundred of valuation. Presently, the Unit faces a declining tax base, due to reassessment, and the same delinquent tax rate as area schools," he mentioned.

Mills wrote that to contain Unit costs, the nursing budget was reduced approximately 10 percent for the 1985-86 year, and during 1986-87 the excess costs above $205,000 are being charged back to served schools.

"It was most unfortunate that time lines for notification of unit employees did not allow schools the choice of reduced service or accepting charge backs for 1986-87," he wrote.

IN THE LETTER, he said it is not presently known if the Unit will be able to maintain the present level of financial commitment to nursing and maintain other ongoing programs, as well as those services that will be probably mandated by either the State Department of Education or the Unicameral in the near future.

The Wayne-Carroll school board members were asked to rate the most to the least desired of four proposals.

The first proposal was to eliminate the nursing program (should the unit supply equipment for vision testing, blood pressure and etc. for a school owned nurse. Yes or No)

Second, would the school board accept a proposal to reduce the amount of nursing service until no charges to schools are required.

Thirdly, should ESU only provide mandated service on physical screening and immunization records.

And the fourth survey question asked whether ESU should maintain its present level of service and charge excess above Unit support to receiving school districts.

"I would really like to see some examples of what we receive from ESU as far as service distribution. I know we pay $39,000 in tax support alone from this school district, in addition to what we contract for," said Board member Sid Hillier.

THE CONSENSUS appeared to be that the board members felt none of the survey questions fell into the category of "most desired."

In other action Tuesday evening, the school board:

Accepted the bid of Beiermann Electric of Wayne for a wiring project at the Wayne Middle School. Cost for the two phases of the project was bid at $12,560. Ellis Electric Company was the only other bidder, submitting a cost of $19,100 for the wiring project.

Approved the staff appointments of Katherine Ley to instruct vocal music (part-time) and Kathy Manske, part-time to teach Spanish at the high school level.

Acknowledge the resignation of Bernie Cowgill as school custodian and the upcoming retiring of Clarence Morris, middle school custodian and Mrs. Dean Schramm, in the school kitchen.

The board reappointed Rodella Wacker to her library position for one semester. Wacker asked that her retirement be postponed until the end of the semester in January of 1987.

And learned that the Learning Disabilities Summer School will take place the last two weeks of June.

City

could be completed by the middle or latter part of 1987, he said.

"If the water storage tower is constructed in 1987 as proposed, there will be enough water for fire protection water and human consumption — a stop-gap for when the well field development begins," he mentioned.

Kloster said the old water tower along north Main Street has an only function of holding water in emergencies. It had been proposed in earlier budget decisions to improve the water tower, but spending for this was always cut out, he said.

In the contract for the construction of the new elevated water storage tank, it could be stipulated to "put the new one up and remove the old tower," Kloster remarked.

A proposed new half million gallon size water tower, he mentioned, would give the city of Wayne "quite a number of years of satisfactory storage."

AFTER THE COUNCIL approved the making of designs and specifications for the proposed water storage tank, an executive session followed.

Purpose of the executive session was to discuss property and develop strategy in acquiring of the water rights in the proposed new well field.

In other action Tuesday night, a bid of $63,179 was received for a new city street sweeper.

The voting was not unanimous. Councilman Darrel Heier questioned whether purchasing a new street sweeper was economical at this time.

"I want to be really shown that if [purchase of the sweeper] is really necessary at this time," he mentioned.

"What are we going to save as far as keeping the old one [a 1979 street sweeper] and making do for a year?" he asked.

"Have we got money for this?" asked Councilman Freeman Decker. Kloster said that the cost of a sweeper has been budgeted for this fiscal year and that the money is available.

Heier and Councilman Darrel Fuesler both voted, but were outvoted by the remaining councilmen.

THE COUNCIL ALSO:

Accepted bids for the sanitary sewer district and water extension district of Providence Road.

Bids were received from nine companies, including B & D Construction of Columbus, Castle Construction of Columbus, Lessard Construction of Sargeant Bluffs, Northeast Sand and Gravel of Norfolk, Penro Construction Company of Pender, Risor and Barney, Inc. of Wisner, Ruitjens Construction of Tilden and Sirand Construction Company, Inc. of Glenwood, Iowa.

Castle Construction submitted the lowest bid on the two projects, with a bid of $7,578.00 for the sanitary sewer district and $17,637.74 for the water main extension district.

Tabled discussion on a request for closing of the East 1/2 of an East-West alley in the 400 Block of Windom Street, requesting by petition from Gene Fletcher, Dorothy Thun and Merleund Lessman.

A closing of an East-West Alley on the west side, within the 200 Block of Lincoln Street, was also discussed but no action was taken.

Authorized the issuance of General Obligation Refunding Bonds, which in effect will provide the city of Wayne with a net savings of approximately $7,700.

Passed a resolution accepting work and confirming the ordering of plats and schedules of assessments for the South Douglas Street project and approved another resolution ordering publications and setting the board of equalization date for the South Douglas project for June 10 at 7:40 p.m. in the city chambers.

The plats and assessments will be on file with the city clerk.

Approved the application of Bryan Reinhardt to membership to the Wayne Fire Department.

Heard a complaint from Curly McDonald concerning weeds that are growing on city property. McDonald proposed that the city utilize the city property north of his property (which is 208 North Nebraska) as a children's park, since there are a lot of little children in the neighborhood.

And heard another complaint that was relayed to Councilman Darrel Heier concerning recent burnings at a junkyard within the city limits. He asked if the fire chief is the only person to contact if a burning permit is needed.

"Do we as a city council have anything to say about it?" he asked.

Heier said that because there are individuals who burn and produce smoke in areas where people live, which is an inconvenience to these people, it would be nice to have some authority by the council (concerning the burning permit).

board meeting. The 1985-86 salary package was retroactive Sept. 1, 1985.

IN ANOTHER VOTE Tuesday night, board members unanimously accepted all returned staff contracts for the 1986-87 school year.

Special Education Director Duane Tappe reported to the board on staff resignations.

Cathy Schroeder has resigned to work full-time as speech pathologist at Laurel-Concord Public Schools. Prior to her resignation, Schroeder was employed full-time with ESU 1 as a speech pathologist serving the Laurel and Allen schools.

Louise Torkelson, 3 1/2 time resource teacher at Hoskins, has resigned to stay at home with her family.

Also resigning were Dr. Michael Nesbit, behavioral psychologist, who plans to work full-time at Laurel-Concord Public Schools, and Ron Lorenzen, 3 1/2 time psychologist in Knox County, who is seeking full-time employment in Wyoming.

Tappe said their positions will be filled by reassigning and extending contracts on some part-time staff members presently employed with ESU 1.

CONTRACT NEGOTIATIONS with ESU 1 staffers have not been settled for the 1985-86 school year, and board members met in executive session Tuesday night to discuss the matter.

Last month, ESU 1 board members voted to retain the legal services of the Nelson and Harding law firm in Lincoln to work in affiliation with the board's present attorneys, Domina and Gerrard of Norfolk, in the event that contract negotiations between the ESU 1 board and ESU 1 Education Association are not settled and are taken before the Commission of Industrial Relations (CIR).

After reconvening from executive session Tuesday night, the board reported it is waiting for results of similar cases before the CIR involving two other Educational Service Units.

Rodney Garwood, ESU 1 Assistant Administrator, told The Wayne Herald Wednesday morning that to his knowledge neither the ESU 1 board or ESU 1 Education Association had yet filed a petition with the CIR.

IN OTHER BUSINESS Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members:

Approved the verification of successful teaching for Pauline Kirsch, school nurse, who has been employed with ESU 1 since 1979; Tom Ketterling, psychologist, who has been with ESU 1 since 1974; and Lynette Joslin, school nurse, an employee of ESU 1 since 1982.

Approved a CONESU (Consortium of Nebraska Educational Service Units) film contract with Educational Service Unit Five.

Heard a report on special education contracts with schools by Duane Tappe.

NEXT MEETING of Educational Service Unit One board of directors will be June 30 at 8 p.m. at headquarters in Wakefield.

Senior Citizens

BINGO PLAYED
Bingo was played May 8 at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center. Winning prizes of fresh fruit were Larry Osower, Mary Hansen, Pearl Magnuson, Alma Spittiger, Anna Jensen and Rose Heithold.

MOTHER'S DAY PROGRAM

A special Mother's Day program was held May 9 at the senior center. Dorothy Beckenmeier was pianist for a sing-a-long of favorite songs, including "Mother". The group discussed famous mothers in history. A poem, entitled "Mothers," was read to the 30 women attending the program.

Point games were played, with Dorothy Beckenmeier and Mary Hammer as winners.

All those attending were asked to relate an amusing tale from their child rearing days. Alice Dorman and Dorothy Ruback won potted plants for their amazing stories.

Cake and ice cream were served for the afternoon lunch.

BIBLE STUDY

Bressler receives honorary degree

Dr. Richard M. Bressler, a native of Wayne, received one of the six honorary degrees that were awarded to distinguished Americans during Commencement Exercises Saturday at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Bressler was awarded the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

He is president and chief executive officer of Burlington Northern, Inc., holding a bachelor's degree from Dartmouth College. He was with General Electric Company from 1952 to 1968 and with American Airlines from 1968 to 1972 before joining Atlantic Richfield Company.

Bressler was elected executive vice president with responsibility for ARCO Petroleum Products, ARCO Chemical Company and ARCO

Transportation Company before assuming his current post in 1980.

He serves on the board of directors of Honeywell, Inc.; SeaFirst Corporation; General Mills Inc.; and Baker International. In addition, he also serves as a trustee of Dartmouth College and the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The citation reads as follows: In recognition of his rise to preeminence in the world of financial and corporation administration within some of our nation's most important and vital industries, in acknowledgement of the outstanding business leadership he has provided throughout his career, and in appreciation of his commitment and support for higher education, the Board of Regents is pleased to confer upon Richard M. Bressler, the Honorary Degree, Doctor of Humane Letters.

Off and running - or walking

A TWO MILE "Run, Walk for Fitness" event was staged Saturday morning at Providence Medical Center to kick-off National Hospital Week. Winning the running event was Sid Hillier (third from left). The first woman to cross the finish line was Sister Kevin (far right). The event drew a good crowd on a cloudy, cool morning.

WHS awarding diplomas Sunday

Seventy seniors from Wayne-Carroll High School will be honored during commencement ceremonies scheduled this Sunday, May 18 at the Willow Bowl on the Wayne State College campus starting at 2 p.m.

In case of inclement weather, the commencement ceremony will take place in Rice Auditorium, also on the Wayne State College campus.

This is the 100th anniversary of the first graduating class of Wayne-Carroll High School.

The 100th anniversary speaker will be the Honorable Chief Justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court, Norman Krivosha.

Krivosha, age 51, was appointed Chief Justice in October, 1978. His list of professional positions include general practice of law from 1958 to 1978, Lincoln City Attorney from 1968-70; General Counsel for Lincoln General Hospital from 1968-78; General Counsel of Lincoln Electric System from 1969-78; and Adjunct Professor for the University of Nebraska College of Law.

He received his Bachelor of Science in Law at the University of Nebraska in 1956; his Juris Doctor from the University of Nebraska College of Law in 1958; Awarded Doctor of Laws from Central Michigan University in 1983; and awarded Doctor of Laws at Creighton University in 1985.

Some of his listed organizations.

and affiliations include membership to the Board of Governors of Nebraska Wesleyan University; Executive Council with the American Bar Association; National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws; Board of Directors of the Lincoln Community Center; Board of Overseers, Jewish Theological Seminary of America; Board of Ramah; Commission for Camp Ramah; and Nebraska State and American Bar Association.

HE HAS chaired the Conference of Chief Justices Coordinating Council on Lawyer Competency; Conference of Chief Justices Task Force on Lawyer Competency; the Lincoln Foundation Task Force on Youth and Youth Offenders; Legal Section of the American Public Power Association; Nebraska State Bar Association Committee on Procedure; Catholic Social Services; Board of Directors, Chamber of Commerce for the City of Lincoln; and the Jewish Welfare Federation Drive.

Krivosha has received numerous awards relating to education and justice and has written articles dealing with lawyer competence, the death penalty, relevancy, improving the image of the judiciary and bar examinations.

Words of wisdom

DR. DARWIN TURNER, University of Iowa Foundation distinguished professor of English, was the guest speaker (at podium) during Saturday afternoon's Wayne State College commencement ceremonies at the Willow Bowl. Over 220 WSC seniors received degrees. J. Alan Cramer, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges, also presented Cliff Ginn with a coveted 1986 State College Teaching Excellence Award.

Laurel, Wakefield, Winside

Graduation Sunday at area schools

Laurel-Concord, Wakefield and Winside High Schools have all scheduled graduation ceremonies for Sunday, May 18.

Following is an outline of each school's program.

Laurel

The 86th annual commencement exercises at Laurel-Concord Public School will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 18 in the high school auditorium.

Twenty-six seniors will receive their diplomas, including Duane Anderson, Terry Anderson, Chad Blatchford, Vaughn Brewer, Shelly Buss, Marcle Campbell, Scott Carr, Erick Christensen, Nancy Christensen, Jeff Curry, Nancy Dempster, Andy Fredricksen, Jim Hubbell, Dean Jones, Michelle Joslin, Joe Karnes, Colleen Milliken, Amy Morris, Monica Nelson, Paul Pearson, Randy Prescott, Steve Schutte, Donna Sherry, Dana Twiford, Shona Van Buskirk and Dan

White. The seniors will march in to "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the concert band. Band members also will play "America the Beautiful."

Other special music will include "Walk a Little Slower, My Friend" and "Spread Your Wings and Fly," sung by the Expressions.

The Rev. Norman Hunke of St. Mary's Catholic Church will deliver the invocation and benediction.

SUNDAY'S CEREMONIES will include addresses by Valedictorian Paul Pearson and Salutatorian Michelle Joslin.

Presenting Legion Awards will be Wayne Vogle and Gerald Cunningham. Keith Knudsen will present Laurel-Concord Alumni Association Awards, and Don Helgren will present scholarships.

Presentation of other awards will be by Principal Thomas Haller, with the presentation of the Dorothy Garvin Rath Award by Superintendent Paul Sellon.

Sellon also will present the Class of 1986, with the awarding of diplomas by Mary Ann Christensen and Tom Fredricksen, members of the board of education.

Other members of the board of education are Richard Erwin, Richard Hanson, Gene Quist and William Norvell.

Representing the junior class at graduation ceremonies will be Sara Adkins and Scott Erickson.

THE SENIOR CLASS motto is "There Is Only One Success—To Be Able to Live Your Life in Your Own Way."

Class colors are burgundy and silver, and the class flower is the rose.

BACCALAUREATE services will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker will be the Rev. Kenneth Marquardt of the United Lutheran Church.

The invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. John Moyer of the Evangelical Church, and scripture reader will be Paul Pearson.

The mixed chorus will sing "Encore."

Wakefield

Thirty-six seniors at Wakefield Community School will be awarded their high school diplomas during graduation ceremonies on Sunday, May 18 at 2:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Presenting the graduation address, "Now What?," will be the Rev. Joe Marek of Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield. Pastor Marek also will deliver the invocation and benediction.

20 seniors receive diplomas

Allen Class of 1986 bids farewell

By LaVon Anderson

"Life is a game. Learn the rules and use them for setting goals, handling stress, meeting adversity and accepting failure. Be a 'pro' — not a spectator."

That was one of eight rules in the "game of life" that Allen High School Valedictorian Denise Magnuson delivered to her fellow classmates, parents and other relatives during graduation ceremonies last Sunday afternoon.

Magnuson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Magnuson, told the audience that although most of what she and her fellow students had learned came from their studies and homework, they also learned from the people that surrounded them and the activities they were involved in.

"IN SPORTS We learned how to work together as a team, and we learned how to take defeat along with the glory of winning."

"From our friends, we were shown how to care for one another and how important it is to always have someone to rely on and lift our spirits."

"And, of course, we had our teachers who along with the homework also taught us standards and rules to help improve who we really are."

"With yesterday's knowledge we challenge tomorrow — and that tomorrow is our life," added Magnuson.

"I feel that our life can be looked at as a game. We will have both winners and losers."

"If all depends on how we play the game of life that determines our future. Fill your mind with information about the rules."

In closing, Magnuson read a poem entitled "School Day Memories."

She also presented a gift, on behalf of the Class of 1986, to Allen Superintendent Robert Heckathorn, who is resigning this year to accept a superintendency at Humphrey Public Schools.

MAGNUSON, WHO WAS one of 20 Allen High School seniors to receive their diplomas Sunday, is planning to attend Wayne State College.

During high school, she was involved in all athletics, lettering in volleyball, basketball and track. She received "all-conference" recognition in volleyball and basketball.

A member of National Honor Society and A Club, Magnuson also was active in both vocal and instrumental music.

She was the Girls State representative at the end of her junior year, and was named 1986 sweetheart queen.

SELECTED AS THE 1986 Salutatorian from Allen High School was Donna Rahn, daughter of Mrs. Joanne Rahn and the late Paul Rahn. Rahn, who also addressed Sunday's audience, compared school to a baseball game.

"As elementary students we were on first base," said Rahn. "We advanced to second base in our junior high years."

Although she and her fellow classmates moved to third base during their high school years, Rahn noted that "we weren't quite home yet."

"Our teachers and administrators pointed us toward home plate," noted Rahn, "and today we're finally there."

"But the game isn't over yet," cautioned Rahn. "There may be a few strike-outs, and we hope a lot more home runs. But we can't do it without the support of our family and friends."

RAHN, WHO PLANS to attend Briar Cliff College in Sioux City, was active in both instrumental and vocal music during her years at Allen High School, winning numerous awards in both.

She was a student manager in volleyball, basketball and track, served as a class officer, and was a member of the senior play cast.

In addition, she was a member of National Honor Society and is active in 4-H and Junior Leaders.

SUNDAY'S GRADUATION ceremonies also included a baccalaureate message by the Rev. Roger Green of Wayne, a graduate of Allen High School now serving as supply pastor at the Springbank Friends Church east of Allen.

Green congratulated the seniors for choosing their class motto — "With Yesterday's Knowledge We Challenge Tomorrow."

He challenged the seniors to live up to their motto and to remember the one real source of knowledge eternal — the Lord God creator of heaven and earth.

Green asked the graduates to live with the knowledge of their faith and to never give up.

"This life is the only hell a believer will ever face," said Green, "yet for the unbeliever it is the only heaven."

100 years ago First graduation in 1886

by Chuck Hackenmiller

The class of 1886 is the 100th class to graduate from the Wayne Public School District, according to Superintendent Francis Haun.

In an article written in the 1886 Wayne Gazette, the first commencement exercise was at the Presbyterian church on a Friday night "notwithstanding the counter attractions on the other side of the railroad."

There was singing, an opening address by Nathan Chance and "a spirited debate on the Chinese question between Master Samuel Alexander and Miss Helen Lodge, in which both contestants acquitted themselves well."

Miss Juetta Miller performed an instrumental solo and the three graduates (Minnie Gamble, Minnie Smith and Eva Myers) "all tastefully arrayed in white, like 'sweet girl graduates' as they were and are."

County superintendent at the time, A.A. Welch, presented the three diplomas.

The article reads that: "the graduates held a sort of an informal reception, and received the 'gradulations of their young friends at the residence of W.O. Gamble, after which strawberries and cream were discussed by all."

"A pleasing feature of the exercise (though not a public one) was the presentation to each young lady by her parents of a handsome gold watch. And so ended the commencement exercise of the 'Class of '86, whose motto — No Excellence Without Toil' should be the primal thought of their successors, the 'Class of '87.'"

With the exception of 1891, records indicate that there has been a graduating class every year since that time in the Wayne-Carroll Public School District.

ALLEN HIGH SCHOOL senior Craig Noe was in line for hugs following baccalaureate and commencement exercises Sunday.

Pilger's Alexander promotes LEAD program

by Chuck Hackenmiller
J.D. Alexander of rural Pilger had nothing but good things to say about the LEAD program.

LEAD, which stands for Leadership Education/Action Development, is designed to enhance agriculture and rural life in Nebraska by developing more effective decision-makers, spokesmen and leaders for Nebraska and agriculture.

Alexander is a farmer-cattle feeder in operation with his father in a partnership at J.D.R. Farms near Pilger.

He found out about LEAD, a program that is offered in approximately 22 other states, while living in Wisconsin. Certain events brought him back to Pilger, and he continued his investigation into the LEAD program.

Allen G. Blezek, Nebraska's LEAD Program executive director, told The Wayne Herald on Monday that the sixth group of up to 30 men and women from production agriculture and agribusiness will be selected to begin the program in October of 1986.

The application deadline for the LEAD program is June 12. Men and women selected through application and interview for participation in the LEAD program will be attending seminars and "study travel" seminars scheduled in a two-year period.

Alexander is in the midst of his two-year participation in the program and gives it high marks. "If [LEAD] hasn't let me down the first year and I'm looking forward to more in the second year," he said.

The first year deals with national problems and the second year of the program focus on problem issues of international status, according to Blezek.

DURING THE first year, Alexander said he attended seven seminars across the state of Nebraska in conjunction with the state colleges and universities. Those seminars dealt with energy, economics, social and environmental issues plus emphasis on potentiality enhancement and leadership.

It also included the first of two study travel seminars to Washington, D.C., Kansas City, Detroit and Chicago.

For the second year of the LEAD program, the study travel will take the 30 participants to Russia and possibly West Germany and Romania.

One area which Alexander toured this past year was a nuclear power plant. Information gained from this visit has provided him a better understanding and perspective of the nuclear mishap in Russia.

Both Blezek and Alexander agree that the program broadens individual leadership areas in addition to agriculture. Still, the LEAD program is described by Blezek as "one bright star in agriculture."

SOLVING problem issues requires a cooperative effort and not the atitude of "not taking into consideration anybody else's opinions."

"Any decisions we make have to be made considering all elements of the world," Blezek said.

Alexander said a big part of the LEAD program are the participants themselves. "If [LEAD] brings together 30 diversified people who are really in a class by themselves," he said.

"Different viewpoints by these individuals on certain issues gets you thinking and acting. And all of the viewpoints are valid," Alexander said.

Alexander said the program will be broadening his own perspective of agriculture in the community, county, state, nation and the world. "Not only will it benefit myself but also agriculture in general," he mentioned.

"On a personal note, one develops a great camaraderie for other people in the organization that will last a lifetime," he added.

The mood during the LEAD program is very positive, despite the negative attitude in these agricultural times.

When individuals join with LEAD, the "non-pessimistic" discussion is based on the reality of "what is going on now."

"We're looking down the road to bigger and better things, to look positive toward the future," Alexander said.

The bottom line, according to Blezek, is that the LEAD Program is looking for some top quality people who can demonstrate leadership potential.

Applicants are selected on a district basis. There are five districts across the state and the allotment of people accepted into the program is per district.

Alexander said the time spent with LEAD can be demanding. "I figure, over a two year period, to put in 80 days with the LEAD Program," he said.

"If it all works in for you, you'll more than get your return from the time and investment in the program," he added.

COST TO participants, in addition to their time, will be for transportation to and from the 3-day seminar sites and a contribution of $800 for each of the program's two years. This money can be provided on an individual basis, but LEAD officials emphasize that contribution could be obtained by local and area sponsors or organizations.

Total cost for the program is $10,000 per individual and most of that cost is absorbed by contributions of individuals, businesses and industries, corporations and foundations.

For more information or to obtain an application, contact Alexander at 402/396-3147 or Blezek with the LEAD Program, 302 Agricultural Hall, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, NE 68583-0709 (402/472-6810).

Fertilizing soybeans
Fertilizer needs for soybeans in northeast Nebraska are not complicated. Phosphate is the major nutrient that needs to be added in a fertilizer program. The amount of phosphate needed varies with the phosphorus level of the soil. For fields with a very low level of phosphorus (0 to 5 ppm). A rate of 40# P₂O₅ (phosphate) per acre is suggested. The rate can be reduced to 20 lb. P₂O₅ per acre for soils having a low level of phosphorus (6 to 15 ppm). No phosphate fertilizer will be needed for soils having a higher level of phosphorus. The best method of application of phosphate is in a starter fertilizer.

Weeds a risk in drilled soybeans
Weeds are one of the major points to consider when deciding on drilling versus row planting of soybeans.

New growers or persons farming an unfamiliar field — should think twice. An unanticipated weed problem can spell disaster. A few weeds can easily "eat up" a several bushels per acre advantage which may be possible from narrow rows. Be sure the weed pressure isn't severe and that the herbicide treatment will handle the kinds of weeds present.

The first four weeks after planting are critical for weed control. After that period, the soybeans will begin shading the soil and the crop will compete well with many common weeds. This means the herbicide treatment must perform. Most situations will require herbicide combination overlay treatments. Use a grass control and a broadleaved herbicide for the weed present.

These treatments will give good control of weeds like foxtail, pigweed, kochia, lambquarters and mustard. Cocklebur, velvetleaf and sunflowers require special treatments. If these weeds are severe, better think again.

Perennials like field bindweed or common milkweed are nearly impossible to handle if they're widespread. Cultivation in row-planted soybeans will help some. Also, volunteer can be extra; the entire field will have to be rogued.

If you're going to solid beans, be sure and till just before planting, don't give the weed a head start on the soybeans and the herbicide. Preemergence herbicides requires rain for incorporation — rotary hoeing or harrowing before emergence will help. Use the full rates for your soil to have a chance for the highest degree of control.

Be sure the added risk of weed problems doesn't outweigh the increased yield you're shooting for.

Zorinsky and Exon seek more money for weather information service

Senators Edward Zorinsky and J. James Exon have urged appropriation of $250,000 annually to support a Lincoln-based weather information service aiding farmers in Nebraska and four adjacent states.

The two Nebraska Democrats wrote the Senate Appropriations Commerce Subcommittee May 8 seeking a $210,000 increase over current funding to expand and improve the High Plains Regional Climate Center at the University of Nebraska.

The four-year-old weather information service, supported by the Commerce Department's National Climate Program Office, uses a network of 46 small weather sensing units in Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Kansas to collect detailed climate information. The data is distributed to farmers, ranchers, irrigators and others by telephone and through radio broadcasts.

Zorinsky and Exon said the weather information service fosters "cost-effective agricultural practices" and conservation of land, energy and water resources.

"Such a result is particularly critical to a region facing the dual threat of agricultural crisis and water shortages," they said.

A $250,000 federal appropriation, the senators said, would fund additional weather sensors in four of the system's five states as well as a newly developed soil moisture monitoring system. In addition, they said, Iowa has expressed an interest in participating in the system.

A similar funding increase is being sought in the House of Representatives by Nebraska Congresswoman Virginia Smith.

Some stored grain is deteriorating

"We are having some problems with deterioration of stored grain this spring," says Don C. Spitzer, Wayne County Extension Agent. "and the problem is compounded by the fact that some formerly available stored grain fumigants are no longer available."

Liquid fumigants containing carbon tetrachloride, carbon disulfide, and ethylene dichloride have been used for many years as grain fumigants. The sale and distribution of fumigants containing these materials was prohibited after Dec.

31, 1985 by EPA. Existing stocks of these products may continue to be used through June 30, 1986. After July 1, only those fumigants containing aluminum phosphide, chloropicrin, or methyl bromide will be legal for use.

All of these products are classified restricted use pesticides and applicators must be EPA certified to purchase and apply them. Fumigants are highly toxic to warm-blooded animals including humans as well as to insects and other pests. They should only be applied by individuals that have been trained in their use. It is generally safer, less expensive, and more effective for farmers to have their stored grain fumigated by a professional fumigator.

Chloropicrin (tear gas) can be used to fumigate bins after they have been emptied and cleaned. Chloropicrin is effective in controlling insects present beneath perforated floors in bins. Methyl bromide may require specialized equipment for application. Special recirculation procedures and other techniques are needed for uniform distribution. Because of the hazards and distribution problems, methyl bromide should only be used by trained professional fumigators.

Aluminum phosphide tablets are the most suitable for farmer's application to bulk grain. Producers who choose to apply the fumigants themselves should observe a number of specific precautions. Detailed instructions on the use of aluminum phosphide are provided in a NebGuide 686-790. Fumigating Farm-Stored Grain with aluminum phosphide, which is available at the local Extension Office.

The telephone got us up early. It was a neighbor to tell us there were cows out. Those girls seem to know when we've been up late or that it's Sunday and plan their attempted escapes accordingly.

There are wilted corsages in the refrigerator, silver stars and blue napkins on the kitchen table. After the ball is over! There is even a young man asleep on the living room couch, too tired to try to drive home.

It's the morning after Prom. The money making projects, the planning, the decorating, hunting for the perfect dress, hoping for the perfect date are all over for another year.

The high school gym has undergone its annual transformation into a South Sea tropical paradise. Daisy Janke's fancy white lawn chairs serve as thrones for Prom king and queen. Jim Hallerty has engineered another architectural masterpiece. Junior class mothers have catered a delicious meal which is not properly appreciated because of nerves and excitement.

Cars are washed and polished, tuxedos rented, cameras readied, all for the magical few hours known as the dance of the year; the night the kids don't go to bed.

THESE DAYS, thanks to a recent innovation known as post-prom party, parents stay up all night, too. But it's for playing games and serving food, not worrying about car accidents, which is a distinct improvement.

Growing up at Waco, Ne., had one disadvantage. It kind of reminds me of the movie Footloose. People didn't dance. We were the first class to have a prom after the banquet, and there was a sermon about it the following Sunday.

I had never been to a wedding dance until I moved to Northeast Nebraska. Whether dancing suits one's scruples or not, I found the ballroom style of the people who had been dancing together for years a beautiful sight.

Losing King's Ballroom was a tragedy. The autographed photos on the walls were a historical treasure. The worn-wooden booths can't ever be replaced. I've heard countless people say "They met their sweethearts there; those are special memories."

The people at Waco have since taken up dancing too. They go to the Flying V at Utica, which adjoins an airstrip.

THERE IS ANOTHER small school tradition that takes place in the Spring. It's called Sneak Day. It used to be an organized thing, with sponsors, to Omaha or Sioux City. But it has become an unofficial event.

Our class was also the first one at Waco to make the sneak trip a weekend affair. After much begging and convincing, we got permission to go to Denver on a school bus. This was considered a very big deal.

Only problem for me was that my Dad went along as the spare bus driver. I managed to have a good time anyway.

It's the time of year when the plows and planters go night and day. One farmer told me the other day, though, that the anticipation is gone and he doesn't care if he gets to the field or not. I pray that the clouds of gloom will lift.

It's a month of Mother-Daddy tears, bridal showers and weddings, graduation announcements and track meets.

We are going to be honored by the presence of Nebraska Wesleyan's track team for supper following the meet at WSC on the 10th. Food for 25 guys is going to take a little preparation.

Kay is writing graduation announcements tonight. Every school in the area has picked the 19th for its commencement. She's also into "North and South, Part II," and this has her glued to the TV set, which makes for slow going on the announcements. So if you haven't received your invitation yet, the punch and sandwiches will be served after the ceremony. If it rains, bring your pickup, or a boat.

More FmHA money available

The Farmers Home Administration notified Representative Doug Bereuter on Monday that the state of Nebraska will receive an additional $500,000 in operating loan money and $1,500,400 in guaranteed operating loan money.

To date Nebraska has received a total of $43.1 million for direct operation loans and $41.9 million for guaranteed operation loans. Bereuter met with Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng at the end of April to emphasize the need for these additional funds in Nebraska. Since that meeting, the state has received $6.5 million in additional operating loan money and $11,645,140 in guaranteed operating loan money.

District III speech contest

Twenty 4-H'ers from the Northeast District participated in the District III Speech Contest in Norfolk on May 3. Representing Wayne County were Kaye Hansen and Cindy Berg. They both received blue ribbons.

Kaye's speech was entitled "Searching for a Four-Leaf Clover." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Hansen of Wakefield. Cindy's speech was entitled "Topic: A 4-H Terror." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Berg of Winslow. They were chosen eligible for district competition by placing top in the senior division of the Wayne County 4-H Speech Contest held April 21.

Representing District III at the Speech Contest in June will be Wendy Boldt from Pierce County and Stacie Traump from Knox County.

Nominations for Nebraska pork producers due May 19

Nominations by petition for election of Nebraska pork producers to the National Pork Producer Delegate Body will be accepted through May 19, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture election procedures.

Bill Ahlschwede, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension swine specialist, said Nebraska's six delegates will be elected during the week of July 7 through July 11 at extension offices in counties throughout the state. Ahlschwede, who is coordinator of the election in Nebraska, said that the Nebraska Pork Producers Association has already nominated six pork producers who will appear on the ballot.

"Additional nominations can be made only by petition, with each petition carrying the signatures of 100 pork producers," Ahlschwede emphasized.

The election of state representatives to the national delegate body is the first step in implementing the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act of 1985, a part of the 1985 Farm Bill.

The Act provides for a mandatory checkoff on all hogs marketed in the United States, including imported hogs and pork products. Funds collected will be used for pork promotion, research and education. The 165-member National Delegate Body will oversee administration of the program, Ahlschwede said.

All Nebraska pork producers will be eligible to vote in the July election, he said. An eligible individual is "a producer of swine raised for feeder pigs, seedstock or slaughter and for sale in commerce."

The Cooperative Extension Service

is conducting the election nationwide. Producers must be a resident of the state in which they vote, and will register at the voting site before casting their ballot.

Exact times and locations for voting will be publicized locally and on a county basis by extension agents in the weeks before the election, Ahlschwede said.

Producers desiring to obtain a copy of the official nomination forms and instructions as a requirement to place additional names on the ballot can write or call: Chief, Marketing Programs and Procurement Branch, Livestock and Seed Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 14th & Independence Ave., S.W., Room 2610-S, Washington, D.C. 20250; or call (202) 447-2065.

LOYAL LASSIES AND LADS

The Loyal Lassies and Lads 4-H Club met last month in the home of Wendy Heidi and Amy Wriedl. The business meeting was conducted by President Amy Wriedl, and community projects were discussed.

Wendy Wriedl gave a demonstration on sewing notions.

The sewing groups discussed fabric selection, and the quick meals group planned a brunch for their mothers. The brunch was prepared and served by Amy Wriedl, Brenda Agenbroad, Emily McClelland and Matthew Metz on April 19 in the Wriedl home.

Lunch following the April meeting was served by Wendy, Heidi and Amy Wriedl.
Matthew Metz, news reporter.

PLEASANT VALLEY

President Tim Sievers called to order the May 5 meeting of Pleasant Valley 4-H Club in the Ron Sebade home. Ten members answered roll call with their summer plans.

Chad Sebade led the group in the 4-H pledge, and Melissa Johnson read minutes of the last meeting.

The club made plans for a float in the Carroll centennial parade. Special summer 4-H events and contests also were discussed.

A demonstration and discussion on first aid was given by Melissa, Sheila and Chris Johnson, Tim, Tammy and Tina Sievers, and Lee Jones.

Next meeting will be June 2 in the Bill Lubbers' home. Project lessons will be on home environment and the cow/calf project.
Yolanda Sievers, news reporter.

BEEF BOOSTERS

The Beef Boosters 4-H Club met May 5 at the city hall. President Jack Beeson told of upcoming 4-H events during May.

Members discussed the five-county sneak preview show. Tagging of calves also was discussed.

Lunch was served by the Hellemanns.

Next meeting will be June 2 with Jack Beeson as host.
Christy Heinemann, news reporter.

RAINBOW KIDS

The Rainbow Kids 4-H Club met at the Hoskins fire hall on May 5. Robert Neitzke, junior president, called the meeting to order.

Jeremy Bruggeman led in the flag salute, and the 4-H pledge. Michelle Scheurich took roll call, with 17 members present. She also read minutes of the last meeting. Tony Schwede, junior treasurer, gave the treasurer's report.

Plans were discussed for Hoskins cleanup day on May 17. Members are to bring a four-pack of marigolds to the fire hall at 9 a.m. on May 17.

Adam Decker furnished refreshments following the meeting.
Next meeting will be June 2 at 10 a.m. at the fire hall.
Jason Gillespie, junior news reporter.

Look out for leafy spurge

Leafy spurge is an aggressive weed and continues to spread in Nebraska, according to John Furrer, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension weed specialist.

"The ideal time to treat leafy spurge in much of Nebraska is from mid-May to early June," he said.

Control of the grazing land weed pest is costly and difficult on a large area but small patches should be treated before they spread and become a more costly problem.

"Leafy spurge is easily spotted at this time," Furrer said, "since the tops of plants are bright yellow."

Herbicides for leafy spurge control are 2,4-D ester at 2 pounds per acre, 1 pound of 2,4-D plus 1 pint of Banvel or Tordon 22K at 2 to 4 quarts per acre.

TREATMENTS WITH 2,4-D and Banvel should be made in the spring just before the leafy spurge flowers.

"Don't expect to get rid of leafy spurge in one or two years with 2,4-D and Banvel," Furrer said. "It will take several years to make progress."

UNL extension weed specialist Alex Martin reminds producers that grazing restrictions on sprayed pastures vary with the type of herbicide and the type of livestock.

"The only restriction with 2,4-D is that lactating dairy animals not be grazed on treated areas for seven days after application. There are no 2,4-D restrictions on meat animal grazing," he said.

Grazing restrictions when using Banvel vary with the application rate and the type of livestock. Meat animals should be removed from treated areas 30 days before slaughter. The grazing restriction for dairy animals is seven days when 1 pint per acre of Banvel has been applied and 21 days for a 1 quart per acre application.

Hay should not be harvested for dairy animals for 31 days after a 1 pint-per-acre application of Banvel or within 51 days of a 1 quart-per-acre application. There is no restriction on hay fed to meat animals.

"Liquid fertilizers used as carriers for herbicide application should not cause additional hazards to livestock," Martin said. "Grazing limitations would remain the same."

Leafy Spurge, flower cluster and seeds

Hoskins farmer prefers ridge-till planting method

by Wayne County Extension Agent Don Spitze and Lisa Brown

UNL Editorial Assistant

Harold Wittler of rural Hoskins started using ridge-till planting almost 20 years ago when his brother jokingly suggested that it could solve all his planting problems. Now he wouldn't use anything else. He even uses the conservation tillage system for custom corn planting.

"My brother had purchased a new Buffalo planter and was listening to me complain about the poor seed bed I was getting with a conventional moldboard, disk, harrow system. My brother joked that his new corn planter would solve all of my problems. I took up the challenge and planted a few acres of corn with it. I liked the results so well that I've been a ridge till system advocate ever since."

Ridge-till planting is an annual ridge system in which planting is done into a ridge formed during cultivation of the previous crop. The ridges tend to warm up and dry out more quickly in the spring than fields without ridges.

Wittler farms 640 acres of rolling silt loam northeast of Hoskins. He has corn, alfalfa and pasture with most of his crops used to feed a beef cow herd and dairy herd.

"I start out the season by knifing in 100 pounds of anhydrous ammonia as early in the season as possible, he said. At planting time he shreds the stalks, if necessary, and adds 125 pounds of 10-34-0.

"Weeds can be a problem if not properly managed. My weed problem is much less than when I started, with the exception of a velvetleaf problem. I vary my herbicide program from year to year depending on conditions."

WITTLER FEELS most of what he produces to cattle and often pastures the corn stalks. He hasn't found that cattle cause problems by breaking down the ridges, although manure spreading can cause a problem.

Over the last 19 years, his dryland corn yields have averaged from 80 to 100 bushels per acre and have been as high as 140 bushels per acre.

"I don't feel that ridge planting has either an advantage or disadvantage in yield compared to other systems of tillage. But I believe that all of the other advantages make ridge till planting well worth the effort."

With almost 20 years experience behind his planter, Wittler advises first-time users to do things on time and give the new method a fair chance to succeed.

"You can't make a major change in your farming operations and expect it to succeed right away. It takes a couple of years to make it work."

AFTER THAT however, expect improvements. In one field in which he has been using ridge till for corn since 1969, his organic matter has increased and the pH has dropped with fewer weeds and no buildup in either insects or diseases.

Wittler cited several advantages of ridge-till, such as improving erosion control, saving time and reducing trips over the field. Here are some other advantages he noted:

1. Yields increase over a period of years and will equal or exceed those from conventionally planted corn.

2. Tractor power requirements are much less because disking and plowing are not required; often a 65 horsepower tractor would be adequate.

3. On the average, total cost per acre for ridge-till planting is $12 less per acre than for neighboring farmers using the moldboard plow.

4. Excluding harvest, it takes only about 1 1/2 hours per acre to produce the corn crop.

Farmers need quick payments

"It is absolutely essential to get advance deficiency payments to farmers who have yet to obtain their operating credit for this crop year," Representative Doug Bereuter told State ASCS Executive Director Mickey Stewart on Friday.

Under the 1986 farm program, farmers will receive 40 percent of their deficiency payments in advance. From that 40 percent, 25 percent will be issued in PIK certificates and 75 percent will be made in cash. Payments made in cash have to be cleared by the Commodity Credit Corporation in Kansas City and then have to be signed by the county ASCS director.

"I realize that implementation of the Farm Bill has put a heavy workload on ASCS offices this spring," Bereuter said, "but many farmers are in need of those advance deficiency checks. Since farmers were assured by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that they would receive their cash deficiency payments during or right after sign-up, the ASCS should do everything it can to get those checks out. Spring planting is well underway and many farmers planned to use those payments to purchase seed and other supplies."

Bereuter and Stewart also discussed the new farm program participation figures and the sodbuster rules. Bereuter urged that ASCS offices clarify that farmers who break up sod or alfalfa fields planted before 1981 must have a conservation plan on those fields in 1987 to be eligible for farm program benefits.

LADIES AID

St. Paul's Ladies Aid met May 7 with 25 members. Pastor Fale and one guest, Mrs. Dan Jaeger.

Marguerite Janke, president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Albert Jaeger led devotions and read an article "Mothers and Daughters."

The hymn "Beautiful Savior" was sung by the ladies. Pastor Fale led the Bible study "I am Responsible" taken from the LWML quarterly.

The secretary and treasurers reports were given and approved.

Thank yous were read from the Arnold Janke family, Emma Koll family, Mrs. Dan Radenz, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller and the Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid.

A letter of resignation was read from Mrs. Don Langenberg.

Articles for the kitchen have been purchased from memorial funds for Bertha Janke.

Ladies of the congregation have voted to sale food and pop from a pop truck and make a float for Old Settlers.

There will be a noon congregational pot luck dinner May 25. Three ladies from the Sarah group and three ladies from the congregation will be asked to serve.

Hostesses were Mrs. Herb Jaeger and Mrs. Marguerite Janke.

The next meeting will be June 11 at 1:30 p.m. Hostesses will be Mrs. Terry Janke and Mrs. Byron Janke. The birthday table will be observed.

OLD SETTLERS MEETING

May 7 was the date for a Wayne County Old Settlers meeting of 8 members.

Discussion included this weekends softball tournament and entertainment.

There will be a melodrama Friday July 25 in the park at 8 p.m. Lon Atwood of Norfolk will be the director. Try outs will be held at the end of June. More information on this will be published later. Practice will be the first 3 weeks of July.

The next meeting will be May 27 at 8:30 p.m. Anyone interested in helping or making a donation can call Rose Janke 286-4856.

ADVISORY COUNCIL

Windside School Advisory Council will meet Tuesday, May 20 at the high school library at 8 p.m. Featured speakers will be special education instructors Mrs. Marie Dougherty, speaking on general information regarding the K-12 resource program available for students who have learning disabilities or need specific help. Mrs. Art Grono will be speaking on the Title I Reading Program.

The advisory councils programs are open to anyone interested in learning more information about the Windside schools. There is no charge for attendance. A short business meeting will precede the speakers. This will be the last meeting until Sept. Anyone wanting more information can contact the Council chairman Dianne Jaeger, 286-4504 or Ron Leapley, 286-4465.

ST. PAUL'S YOUTH

Seven members and five new members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Youth met May 7 with sponsors Darci Frahm and Deb Lienemann and Pastor Fale.

Members discussed playing softball with the Wayne Youth Circuit. They will have practice sessions May 20 and May 27 at 7 p.m. Tournament dates are scheduled for June 1 and 8.

The Youth also discussed going to Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha May 24 for an Omaha Royals versus Nashville Sounds baseball game at 2 p.m. Tickets cost $3 and anyone in the community is welcome to go. Proceeds go for student Financial Aid at Concordia, Seward. If interested contact Darci Frahm at 286-4872 or Deb Lienemann at 565-4513 for tickets.

GIRL SCOUTS

Ten girl scouts met May 8 with leader Peg Eckert. They learned how to read an electricity meter as part of their badges "Science and Action" and

"Eco-Action". The girls made a list of all the electric items they had used in the last two days, then discussed them.

For Mothers Day the girls each made chenille butterflies and Peg gave them each a corsage for their mom.

Laurel DuBois served treats. The next meeting is May 15. It will be the last one for this season.

LWML

Members of St. Paul's Lutheran Women Missionary League met May 7 following the Ladies Aid meeting. Mrs. Vera Mann, president, presided.

Visiting committee for May will be Mrs. Cyril Hansen, Mrs. Minnie Graef, Mrs. Karl Frederick, and Mrs. Ida Fenske.

Birthdays to remember is Miss Anna Koll, June 5.

Delegates to attend the June 9 and 10 Lutheran Women Missionary League Nebraska District North Convention in Atkinson will be Mrs. George Voss and Mrs. Ron Sebade.

BUZY BEES

Nine members of the Busy Bee Club met May 8 for a trip to Wakefield. They had lunch at the Wakefield Hotel then toured the Eaton Floral and Greenhouse.

On the way home they stopped at the Wayne Greenhouses. The next meeting will be Sept. 17 for supper out.

MOTHER'S DAY PROGRAM
A Mother's Day program was presented at the Hoskins Public School Friday afternoon with kindergarten pupils through fifth grade taking part. Approximately 90 guests attended.

Tod Behmer gave the introduction. "History of Mother's Day." Kindergarten pupils presented a finger play, "For a Dear Mother," and sang "I Love My Mother."

First and second grade boys read a poem, "My Mom" and first and second grade girls sang the song, "Mulleberry Bush" and all joined in singing "Grandma Song - A Tribute."

Kindergarten, first and second grade pupils presented "Bunny Hopp." Third grade presented a skit, "Mr. Nobody." Fourth grade gave "Thank You to Our Helpers" and the fifth grade presented a choral reading, "Mother's Love."

The program closed with the song, "Mother" by the third, fourth and fifth grade, followed by recognition of room mothers, librarian and school cook.

Bars, cookies, coffee and punch were served at the close of the program.

ZION LUTHERAN LADIES AID

The Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid held a Mother's Day tea Thursday evening with each member inviting a guest. Other guests were members of St. John's Lutheran Ladies Aid and members of St. John's Joy Circle.

Mrs. Elaine Ehlers, president, gave the welcome and Pastor Damm had the opening prayer.

Mrs. Ehlers read "Salute to Mothers" and a skit "Let's Hear It for Mom," was presented.

Mrs. Herman Koepeke spoke on "Motherhood - The Mystery Tour." Another skit "Women of Faith" was also presented.

Jill Saegbarth sang a song, "Mother." Pastor Damm had the closing devotion. Gifts were presented to the eldest mother present, Mrs. Fred Bargstadt, and the youngest mother, Mrs. Ryan Saegbarth. Names were also drawn for table centerpieces.

Sports Banquet by Jason Jorgenson and Robbie Gamble

The Wayne-Carroll High School will be holding the annual Sports Banquet on May 20. Some of the awards that they will be giving out are the Outstanding Athlete of the Year Award, the Moller Award, the Terry Johnson Award and the Law Enforcement Award.

Some of the qualifications to get these awards are improvement, sportsmanship and talent. To be eligible for these awards you have to be out for a sport. Most athletes are out for more than one sport.

The guest speaker for the banquet is the head football coach for the University of Nebraska, Dr. Tom Osborne.

Industrial Art At Wayne High

by Jay Bruna and John Etter

The Wayne-Carroll High industrial arts program is very advanced for a high school program.

Some of the programs provided for students at the high school are machined woods and building construction which are under the instruction of Mike Mallette.

The machined woods class gives the students a chance to make anything useful and practical. The students have a large selection of materials to make projects from: materials such as hardwoods, softwoods and plywoods.

Projects made are built by the students and graded on the workmanship and time consumed in the completion of the project. This year two projects completed were taken to the Industrial Arts fair at Wayne State College. The projects taken were a column table made of solid oak and a mantle clock made of solid walnut. The mantle clock was chosen as the second best project at the festival which is an excellent rating.

The automechanics and metals portion of the program are under the instruction of Bill Wilson. As in the woods class the students can make anything useful and practical in the metals class and automechanics class. Some of the projects completed in the metals class this last year are engine stands, extension rollers for the table saws and many other miscellaneous projects.

The automechanics class provides the students with a chance to learn how to care for their vehicles.

Preparation for Prom by Mike Heithold and Skip Gamble. The Junior-Senior Prom took place on May 10. The preparation was completed by many juniors who had worked hard hanging wire and streamers and trying to get everything ready for Saturday. Prom started at 7 p.m. and the dance started at 10 p.m.

This year's theme was "A Touch of Class" and decorations included a mural of the New York City skyline, bills advertising plays, concerts and various other New York City attractions.

The Library

This is the fourth quarter and there is still much to be done in the library. For instance, the seniors have spent three weeks in the library working on senior term papers. Government and history classes also work on various projects and health classes also spend time in the library.

The librarian, Mrs. Hansen, also has a lot of work to do. She is now receiving many new books on various subjects, fiction and non-fiction, as well as evaluating and ordering audio-visual materials for the coming year. She is also video-taping various educational programs.

Vertical files need to be weeded and updated again, and inventory will begin shortly. Magazine subscriptions have been evaluated and renewed for the upcoming year. And finally, materials will be stored for the summer, available for usage next year.

Knee brace by David Ahlman

A new knee brace (Muller) has been developed which should reduce injuries in the sport of football. There has been a discussion about making it a requirement in the game of football.

Fifteen letterman from Wayne High School are receiving knee braces to use in the upcoming football season.

These braces will reduce the chance of knee injury.

A football meeting was held with the players, coaches and parents of the players. At the meeting, purchasing a number of the braces was discussed. A film was also shown to show the function of the braces. Coach Pete Chapman of Wayne State College also spoke on his opinion of the braces.

Take leave of absence at WSC

Gebhardt to attend Air Force College

John H. Gebhardt, audiovisual director and instructor at Wayne State College, has been selected as one of 12 Air Force Reserve officers in the country to attend the Air Command and Staff College located at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala.

Gebhardt is currently a major in the Air Force Reserves. Starting in August, he will be taking a military leave of absence for 10 months from Wayne State College.

The purpose of the school, which is for major and major selectees, is to enhance the professional knowledge, perspectives and skills of midcareer officers for increased leadership roles in command and staff positions. The goals of the course are to increase knowledge and understanding of the Air Force's mission and capabilities; to increase professional skills required to command, manage and lead aerospace forces; to increase understanding of the dimensions and roles of the military in a democratic society; and to provide for personal and professional growth. The school has a faculty of approximately 100 officers and a resident student body of 510 students which include officers from other U.S. military services, the Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve components, Department of Defense civilians and international officers.

Gebhardt is the son of Ernest and Mary Gebhardt of Argyle, Wis. Betty, his wife who will be accompanying him to Alabama, is the daughter of Alvarado Miller of Maquoketa, Iowa.

LEGION AUXILIARY

Mrs. Sondra Remer, guidance counselor of Wakefield High School, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 81 held last Monday. Remer told place and the senior Poppy Corsage received second place. A Poppy centerpiece was also entered in the competition. The poppy committee announced they had a number of young students making posters on April 5 at the Legion Hall, Arlene Lundahl of Emerson, the new district president judged the posters.

Poppy Days were held May 9 and 10 with a bake sale on Saturday. Arlene Benson and Betty Bressler were co-charmen of the food sale, and Lois Schlines was chairman of coffee and rolls.

Phyllis Swanson of the scholarship committee said they had been no applications for scholarships this year. Discussion was held on the centennial year capsule placed in the public library held by the auxiliary in 1981. A plaque will be ordered to be placed there to commemorate this.

It was announced that the auxiliary has a regular day for a sing-a-long at the care center. It will be the third Tuesday of each month, if possible. Orientation for Girls and Boys State was held April 27 at the Wakefield Legion Hall.

Emily Gustafson, legislation chairman, told the group of several bills before Congress at this time. Chairman of Memorial Day will be Betty Bressler.

PANCAKE BREAKFAST

Anton Bokemper Post 81 of the American Legion will hold a pancake breakfast at the Legion Hall on Sunday, May 25. Plans for the event were made at the executive meeting on April 19 conducted by Commander Tom Eaton.

The menu will include scrambled eggs, pancakes, French toast, sausage, juice and coffee. Adult tickets are $2.50, and $1.50 for children under 12. Serving will be from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Proceeds from the event will go towards the baseball program. At the Legion's regular meeting April 9, the baseball committee of Don Rouse and Jim Clark discussed the baseball program. Season tickets will be sold in the near future.

It was announced that there are 80 flags for the avenue of flags. Anyone having a flag that they want to donate to the project may leave it with Eugene Swanson.

To date there are five uniforms from the various wars and conflicts enclosed in cases in the main room at the hall. The uniforms of Mildred Lundahl and Steve Wilkerson are yet to be enclosed.

HAPPY HOMEMAKERS

The Wakefield Happy Homemakers Extension Club met May 6 with Mrs. LeRoy Lunz. Nine members were present. Roll call was, "Tell About the Last Letter You Wrote to a Senator, Congressman, etc." The meeting opening with the reading of the collect in unison.

Club members walked to a total of 4 1/2 miles last month. Lynda Turney and Dorothy Hale participated in the Cultural Arts contest at the Northeast station in April. Lynda placed first in her division and it will go to the state convention in June. Dorothy placed third in her division.

Suggestions were given for a fall event to take place at the Northeast Station. Helen Domsch gave a book report on "Spring Came On Forever."

Lynda Turney gave the lesson "Til Death Do Us Part - From the Minute After."

Next meeting will be a family picnic with Mrs. Francis Fischer in charge. She will let each member know the date and time.

PIZZA LUNCH

Wakefield elementary students participated in a reading program, entitled "Book It." As a reward for reaching their reading goals, the students were treated to a free pizza party by Pizza Hut, which sponsored the program.

On May 2, the first, second and third graders went to the park for their pizza lunch.

Students in the fourth and fifth grade held their parties on April 24 at the school.

To qualify the classes had to have every student in the grade meet their goal four out of five months of the program. All of the classes except the sixth grade reached their goals.

Teachers are Mrs. Sharpe, first; Mrs. Shaw, second; Mrs. Eaton, third; Mrs. Kathy Johnson, fourth and Mrs. Samuelson, fifth.

FIFTH GRADE TOUR

The fifth grade class of Wakefield elementary school recently toured Wakefield businesses; the Wakefield National Bank and the Wakefield Republican.

PASS THIS TEST & GRADUATE WITH HONORS

MULTIPLE CHOICE

1. An Omaha couple recently purchased our best diamond engagement set because:

- A. Omaha people will buy anything.
- B. They were on their way to the Westwoods and got lost.
- C. After taking time to shop around, the Omaha couple found the best buy for both money and quality in Wayne at Mines.

ANSWER: C. Incidentally, they saved about 20% on a 1/2 carat diamond.

2. The majority of wedding sets purchased at Mines Jewelers in Wayne are 16:

- A. Couples in Wayne.
- B. Couples around Wayne.
- C. Couples who take the time to shop around carefully and compare both quality and price.

ANSWER: C. Stop to visit with us first and we'll show you what to look for in a diamond and mounting, how to compare and what to expect to pay.

3. Many couples who buy their wedding sets out of town:

- A. Assume it's more expensive in Wayne without actually looking first.
- B. Didn't know there were over 100 styles in stock to select from at Mines Jewelers.

C. Don't want anyone else to know what they're doing.

ANSWER: All of the above. However, don't assume anything — check for yourself, come see the selection and phone for an evening or weekend appointment. Your visit and purchase will be your business only.

4. Mines Jewelers sells:

- A. Mounted wedding sets.
- B. Unmounted sets that you can select a diamond for.
- C. The most current styles by Keepsake® and Orange Blossom®.
- D. Your choice of any size diamond to suit your budget in nearly every mounting at no extra setting charge with your choice of four or six prong hold.

ANSWER: All of the above, plus just about anything you'll see in another store except lesser quality (heavier weight) sets.

5. When you come in for a comparison at Mines Jewelers you get:

- A. Tips on what to look for when shopping for a diamond and mounting.
- B. A simple copy of our warranty to compare to others elsewhere.
- C. A "gemprint" of your diamond choice that you have viewed under our gemscope to aid your sensible comparison of quality and price.
- D. A firm quote, good for 30 days, giving you plenty of time to shop around.

E. Two look-alike with over 150 of our best setting mountings nationwide with our compliments and invitation to stop back again soon.

ANSWER: Of course, you guessed it; all of the above. Should you settle for anything less?

SCORING ANALYSIS:

1 to 4 correct answers — You need some help. Come see us. We won't let you make a mistake.

5 correct answers — Perfect! And for more correct answers come see us. With a new diamond engagement ring from Mines Jewelers, you're going to be so proud!

Stop in and help us celebrate our 95th anniversary sale. Large savings on gifts for everyone including the graduate.
