Council considers two alley closings

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Two city alleys proposed to be vacated brought on some protests from property owners along one of the alleys during Tuesday night's regular city council meeting.

Property owners Mr. and Mrs. Sayre Andersen, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dowling and a representative of a property owner, Bill Kugler, appeared before the city council, asking that the east-west alley immediately south of the Wayne Family Practice Group PC building not be vacated.

Councilmember Carolyn Filter told the property owners that she had received an inquiry as to how the alley was being treated, either as an alley or as a private drive. Her concerns, she said, was what it had cost the city to maintain the alley — snow plowing it at times — and also of the inquiry about the alley use.

City Administrator Phil Kloster said one bad point about not vacating representatives from eight communities comparable to Wayne. All eight of the communities allow burning only under special circumstances and five had allowed general burning. In all cases, a burning permit was required from the fire department.

IT WAS DISCUSSED and a consensus of the council agreed on a proposal by Councilman Hefer that perhaps a copy of the burning permit should also be distributed to law enforcement officials so that the open burning statute is enforced.

The city council awarded the work on the sanitary sewer main extension and water main extension for Providence Road to Castle Construction of Columbus.

The low bid of Castle Construction came in at $25,210.34.

The city received an annual in-lieu-of-tax payment from the Housing Authority (Villa Wayne) for

wayne stress prevention center

by dr. doreh psarr
assistant professor of psychology at wayne state college

This Saturday in Room 202 at the Wayne High School, two new workshops will be presented. At 10 a.m. a seminar on anxiety will be offered, and at noon a seminar on tension reduction will be given.

Feelings of anxiety are extremely common and at times somewhat useful. We all probably get at least a little bit anxious when we have to talk in front of a large group. And, we all probably get anxious when we have to perform some task that could have an impact on our lives (such as taking a test, going to court).

However, when this feeling of tension and worry starts to change the way you live, some real trouble can pile up.

It has been estimated that from 2 to 4 percent of our population, or roughly four to eight million Americans, have at one time or other had enough trouble with anxiety that they could be classified as having an Anxiety Disorder. Clearly then, if you have had such feelings, you are not alone.

One of the common problems that people can have with anxiety is called a "panic attack."

In a panic attack a person feels assaulted by the sudden onset of intense apprehension, fear or terror, and a feeling of impending doom. Some of the common symptoms are palpitations, chest pains, choking, dizziness, feelings of unreality, hot and cold flashes, sweating, faintness and trembling or shaking.

The most frightening part of a panic attack is the overwhelming fear that you will die, go crazy or do something utterly out of control during the attack. The horrible part of this is that while there is really nothing to be afraid of, the fear that one of these attacks may suddenly descend from out of nowhere seems to bring them on. (The worry you will have a panic attack keeps you having panic attacks.)

It is a little like saying to yourself, "I must not think of a pink elephant." I must not think of a pink elephant... Before you know it you are thinking about that dreaded pink elephant.

This Saturday at 10 we will talk more about panic attacks and phobias and what to do about them.

Therefore, by knowing when stress is creeping into your tension center, a person can use his relaxation techniques in order to combat the by-products of too much stress.

Some of the more common by-products of stress are: headaches, backaches, upset stomach, stiff neck, and breathing difficulties. By scanning the body periodically throughout the day, stress can hopefully be stopped before it becomes a problem and shows up as a physical discomfort.

Before partaking in an exercise to help relieve stress, it is important to evaluate your potential for high level stress. There are several good surveys which help you evaluate your stress level. These various indicators can be found in almost any book dealing with stress. We will discuss some of the more popular tests at this week's workshop.

After evaluating your stress level it is time to spring into action with some type of remedy. Progressive relaxation is probably the most popular form used today. It is a simple process of moving from head to toe in which you tense and relax your major muscle groups. It is often the first technique used because it gives the person a frame of reference as to what true muscular relaxation is.

Another technique that is used quite often is breathing. We all use this to some extent in our everyday life in the form of the sigh of relief or as when taking a deep breath to relieve tension. This can be practiced so the process becomes more efficient at releasing stress. It is a matter of focusing on your breathing as you slow down the process. It works well with most people because breathing is a natural process.

The last form which is used a great deal with relaxation is imagination. Once again, we all use this to some degree with daydreaming. It is just a matter of bringing the process under our control by guiding our imagination. Generally, a person picks out a peaceful, relaxed situation which they are familiar with. They close their eyes and imagine it.

This will immediately slow down a person's body functions and allows them to relax.

When combined with some breathing exercises, it can be highly effective in relieving stress.

To learn more about these techniques and others, come to Wayne High, Room 202, this Saturday for the Wayne Stress Prevention Center.

Wakefield Class of '36 returns 50 years later

The "1936 B.C." (Before Computers) graduating class of Wakefield High School returned for a 50-year reunion last weekend.

Classmates met for a buffet dinner Saturday evening at The Wakefield Hotel. Dr. Dale Lund gave the prayer.

Dwaine and Ruth Scott served as emcees for the evening program. There were brief introductions and reminiscing by all the classmates and by former teacher and coach Dr. Rudy Fredstrom of Lincoln, who along with his wife Marvane were guests.

Ione Anderson gave a humorous reading, entitled, "We Were Before..."

IT WAS REPORTED that five classmates are deceased. Letters were received from all but one of the class members unable to attend the event.

Twenty-one of the 26 surviving classmates attended with their spouses, including: Ruth and Dwaine Scott of Hayward, Calif.; Helen and Lowell Scott of Castro Valley, Calif.; Alvin Dutton of Los Altos, Calif.; Genevieve Koenes of Seattle, Wash.; Norman and Lois Miner of Sequim, Wash.; Lena Dean and Frank Theall of Liberty, Utah; Marie and Kenneth Wenstrand of Longville, Minn.; Marlon and Dean Frye of Buckner, Mo.; and Arlene and Don Belth of Sioux City.

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Pippitt

Pippitts home near Laurel following May wedding rites

Karla Milander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Milander of Coleridge, became the bride of Greg Pippitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pippitt of Laurel, on May 16 at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Laurel.

Decorations for the 7 o'clock, double ring ceremony were in lilac and white. The Rev. Mark Miller of Laurel officiated.

Music included "Time for Joy," "One Hand, One Heart," and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Claudia Dvorak and accompanied by Marion Mallatt, both of Laurel.

Guests were registered by Carol and Kristin Milander of Coleridge, and ushered to their seats by Kevin Goering of Platte Center and Jon Milander of Coleridge.

Flower girl was April Pippitt of Wayne.

FOR HER WEDDING day, the bride chose a floor-length Victorian style gown of white organza. Cluny lace adorned the stand-up collar, V-shaped yoke and sleeves.

Her bridal hat featured a puff in back which floated into a cloud of fingertip veiling. She carried white roses and gardenias with lilacs.

The bride's attendant, Pam Goering of Platte Center, wore a floor-length organza gown in lilac. She carried gardenias and lilacs.

The bridegroom and his attendant, Alan Pippitt of Wayne, were attired in white tuxedos.

The bride's mother chose a lilac dress, and the bridegroom's mother wore pink.

A RECEPTION was held at the church following the ceremony. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Don Kellogg of Norfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Don Pippitt of Laurel.

Rita Moseman of Wausa and Marilyn Puppe of Coleridge cut and served the cake.

Lynn Milander of Norfolk and Frances Hansen of Wayne poured, and Lisa Laville of Morris, Ill. and Michelle Milander of Norfolk served punch.

THE NEWLYWEDS are residing near Laurel, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

The bride, a 1980 graduate of Coleridge High School and a 1983 graduate of Wayne State College, is employed at Laurel Elementary School.

The bridegroom graduated from Laurel High School in 1976 and attended the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Area athletes place in seven events

Kwankin bounces back to win 300

OMAHA — For Jyoti Kwankin, capturing the Class D 300 meter intermediate hurdle title had to taste extra sweet.

Just moments before Kwankin blew past the rest of the field to claim his title, he scratched out of the 110 meter high hurdles.

Kwankin was naturally disappointed by his error, but instead of pouting he took his frustrations out on the rest of the 300 meter intermediate field.

Kwankin, a 5-7 junior, got off to his usual slow start but half way through the event he was edging towards the front of the pack. Then he turned on the jets over the final 100 meters and blew away the rest of the field for the title.

Dave Uldrich, Allen's head coach, said he thought Kwankin won the race with his performance over the middle hurdles.

"He went over the middle hurdles a lot quicker than he usually does," Uldrich said. "He just attacked the middle hurdles and I think that's where he won the race."

Uldrich gave Kwankin a mild pep talk after his prized pupil scratched out of the 110 highs.

"He said he really didn't know what he did wrong, except that he might've started to roll into a start," Uldrich said. "He was naturally disappointed, but I just told him to shake it off and come back in the other race. And he did."

Uldrich added that Kwankin will get at least one more chance to prove himself in the 110 highs this spring.

"We're going to the Junior Olympics in South Sioux City on Thursday and he'll run the highs there. And if he qualifies, he'll advance to regionals either in Des Moines (Iowa) or Columbus."

Scott Drierow of Bradshaw was the only thincid who challenged the Allen native, but Kwankin crossed the finish line in 40.91 compared to Drierow's 41.05.

Kwankin's first place finish earned Allen's boys 10 team points which was good enough for 18th place.

Kwankin wasn't the only Allen athlete to fare well at state, however, as Denise Magnuson claimed a second place finish in the Class D 1600 meters.

Like Kwankin, Magnuson started relatively slow but moved towards the middle of the pack after 800 meters.

She then exploded past the rest of the field and held the lead until she gave way to Sylvia Veit of Polk at the 1300 meter mark.

Veit's winning time was 5:26.98, while Magnuson closed with a 5:29.76.

Allen's girls tallied nine points on the day for 20th place. Deb Uehling placed sixth in the 3200 meter run for Allen's other point.

Uehling entered the State Track Meet with the second fastest clocking in the Class D in the 3200 and after 2400 meters was bunched-up with the top four runners.

But the other three competitors pulled away during the final lap and Uehling battled Tina Ramos of Brule and Baylett Wiegeler of Central City for fourth place.

Wheeler placed fourth with a 12:22.11 clocking, while Ramos claimed a 12:22.46 for fifth. Uehling closed with a 12:22.51. Becki Parr of Roseland won the event with a 12:03.40 effort.

Susie McQuistan of Wakefield missed winning the Class C 400 meter dash by five one-hundredths of a second.

McQuistan started quickly and led almost the entire way. But at the 390 meter mark, Doniphon's Rita Goc started to gain on McQuistan and turned the event into a two person race.

Both runners battled each other during the final 10 meters, but Goc outkicked McQuistan at the finish for the championship.

McQuistan lunged and then collapsed as she crossed the finish line. And although she did scrape her elbows and knees, she was only concerned with the race and immediately signaled toward head coach Dennis Wilbur to find out whether or not she won.

McQuistan, a junior, closed with a 58.37 timing, compared to Goc's 58.32.

Wakefield's head coach Dennis Wilbur said he expected McQuistan to perform well at state, but not as well as she did.

"I thought she'd go under 60, but I was pleasantly surprised with her 58.4 in the preliminaries," he said. "She really did a good job down there, but that's the type of kid she is — she always does her best."

Wakefield's girls also placed sixth in the 1600 meter dash. McQuistan teamed with Suzanne Stelling, Leigh Johnson and Stacey Kuhl for a 4:12.47 clocking. Burwell placed fifth with a 4:12.41 effort, while Howells claimed the title with a 4:08.48.

Winside's Brent Nau placed second in the Class C 110 meter hurdles. All eight finalists were bunched-up at the midway point, but Nau and Jeff Ryan of Friend pulled away from the rest of the field over the final 30 meters.

Ryan then edged Nau at the finish line and closed with a 15.73 clocking, compared to Nau's 15.79.

Nau's second place finish allowed the Wildcats eight team points and a 25th place finish.

Bill Lisika of Wayne was the area's only other qualifier as he tied Tim Brichack of Schuyler for fifth place in the Class B high jump with a 6-2 effort.

Before the event began, Lisika said that although he enjoyed jumping under cloudy conditions he wished he would have had different spikes.

"I wish I had different spikes. This track is hard and my feet are killing me," Lisika said after a few warm-up jumps. "But I'm loose and this is my type of day. I like to jump in overcast days."

Lisika's effort allowed Wayne to get on the scoreboard with 1 1/2 markers.

The area should be well-represented at state again next year as five of the six individual placers from the area at this year's state meet were underclassmen. Magnuson was the only senior that placed from the area.

Wayne's 'voice' packs his bags

The "voice of Wayne sports" for the past 3 1/2 years has packed his bags and taken his show on the road.

Derald Johnson, the former sports director at KTCH in Wayne, is currently the morning air personality at KSYZ-FM in Grand Island.

Johnson, a native of Oscoda, has been affiliated with KTCH for 6 1/2 years. During the first half of his career he was a morning air personality and switched to sports director the last half.

Johnson said the new job has a few areas that will take some adjusting — particularly concerning his sleeping habits.

"My shift will be from 5 a.m. until 9 a.m. I don't like having to go to bed early but it looks like I'll have to retire at around 10 p.m. because I'll be getting up at 4 a.m.," he said Wednesday morning from KSYZ. "And I'll probably need an early afternoon nap, but that's going to be tough with a three-year-old," he chuckled referring to his son Luke.

Johnson said that he'll miss being a sportscaster and added that he was a finalist for a sportscasting job at CNN.

"Sportscasting is something I really enjoyed. I was able to call my own shots and it was just a lot of fun dealing with all the different people every day," he said. "I did get close to being hired in several other sports jobs, and I know this sounds farfetched, but I was one of 12 finalists for an opening at CNN in January."

Johnson said he has many special memories about his career in Wayne and discussed several occurrences in detail.

"Wayne's six overtime victory over Columbus Lakeview in districts this year stands out as one of my play-by-play highlights, and Hartington Cedar Catholic's come-from-behind victory over Elkhorn Mount Michael for the Class B basketball championship in 1984 was another highlight," he said.

"But my biggest thrill was Wayne State's win over Kearney State in basketball this past season. That was great. It was the first time Wayne State beat Kearney State in anything I ever covered and it was sort of like a personal victory," the Wayne State graduate said.

Johnson said that although he has several fond memories of Wayne, he added that he thinks he accomplished most of his goals at KTCH and was ready to move along.

"I'll really miss a lot about Wayne and my former job. I really had some good times there," he said. "But there comes a time when you have to do what's best for you and your family and this job was too attractive to turn down."

"I feel good about what I tried to do at Wayne, and I know I left the sports in better shape than the way I found it."

"And I think that although Paul Hughes is young, he'll do a good job at KTCH. I guess you could say that I feel good about who I left the job to."

It didn't take much to get Derald excited while broadcasting, and frequent listeners will miss his spirited delivery and quick-paced play-by-play.

Grand Island has itself a good broadcaster in Derald Johnson, and the Wayne Herald wishes Derald, his wife, Julia and their son Luke good luck with their new endeavors.

Just a quick note about Wayne's uncharacteristic performance at the State Golf Tournament.

True, the Blue Devils did not play well. As a matter of fact, Thursday's state meet was Wayne's poorest effort of the year.

But the Blue Devils will be back. Did you know that of Wayne's top six players, only one (Tom Perry) graduated this year?

Beware Class B golf teams, the Blue Devils will have something to prove in the years to come.

Gering captures golf title

Chuck Barr and Jeff Anderson both fired a 78 and led Gering to the Class B State Golf Tournament title at the Wayne Golf and Country Club Thursday.

"Gering finished with a 324, edging Crete and Blair for the team championship. Host Wayne closed with a 335 and a seventh place finish."

John Richman of Lexington fired a 74 to claim medalist honors. Three players finished with a 76 and six others shot a 78 to round out the top 10 placers.

Despite placing seventh, it was a disappointing day for the Blue Devils. Wayne entered the state tourney with the second best qualifying score, but most of the Blue Devils experienced an off day and shot over their season average.

Tom Perry, who finished in 80s only once during the regular season, finished with an 85. Teammates Dave Ellis and Jed Reeg also closed with an 85, while Eric Runestad shot an 83 and Rob Reeg finished with an 82.

In most cases, the Blue Devils turned in one satisfactory nine-hole score, but played above their average on the other nine. For example, Ellis, Runestad and both Reegs all shot a 40 over half the course, but finished two-to-five strokes higher on the other half.

Terry Munson, Wayne's golf coach, blamed those poor nine-hole scores on one hole.

"Everyone of the guys played fairly well, except for one hole. All the guys had at least one triple bogey and if you replace those eights with a par we're right in contention," he said. "But that's part of the game."

Munson added that it was tough to lose considering the winning score was a 324.

"It would've been easier to swallow if the winning score would've been in the low 300s. But Gering won it with a 324 and in our own invitational we shot a 317 and we shot a 314 on a tougher course at districts."

Richman, who will walk on at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln to play football, fired a pair of 37s for his final 74.

Tim Hourigan of York closed with a 40-36 for second place, while Brock McClellan of Elkhorn Mount Michael shot a pair of 38s for third place.

During the regular season, Wayne placed first in every meet except two. The two times the Blue Devils didn't win they placed second to Oakland-Craig. Wayne avenged both those losses, however, by defeating the Knights in a triangular and an invitational.

Oakland-Craig won its eighth straight Class C state golf title last week.

Munson said he was pleased with the way the tournament was conducted and added that several coaches praised the course and the hospitality they received during the two-day affair.

"Everything went smooth and we received a lot of thank yous. Minden sent us a thank you note, and a lot of others said they enjoyed themselves," he said. "There were also many thank yous concerning the free meal which was sponsored by the Wayne Booster Club the golf course deserves a lot of thanks for allowing the kids to have a free practice round and playing for free in the tournament."

Viewpoint

Breaking training

In an editorial in the Nebraska Journal-Leader, one of several weekly newspapers published at The Wayne Herald each Wednesday, Ponca High School Principal and Athletic Director Bruce Karpen was criticized for his decision to suspend a certain youth from participating in the state track meet because of an infringement of training rules.

Details in the editorial mentioned that Karpen observed the training rule being violated in the student athlete's home under the parent's supervision.

Karpen had been an invited guest to the student athlete's home, the editorial points out.

The editorial points out that the issue is not of a student breaking a training rule. Rather, it is one of "a person's right to privacy in the sanctity of one's home."

Karpen, in this writer's opinion, is unjustly being scrutinized for his actions in this unfortunate incident. He saw the training rule being violated and took action on it — a decision he must live with, as should the student athlete.

One of the primary reasons which training rules exist is to build a sense of responsibility for the student athlete — both on and off the field of competition.

Parents of the student athlete should realize this, and appreciate what training rules accomplish.

Does it make it right to break training rules in the sanctity of the student athlete's private home?

Explain that to a student athlete suspended from his/her sport for breaking training rules outside of private property. Where is the fairness here?

Training rules apply to all individuals going out for each particular sport. The consequences for breaking, or bending the rules are spelled out at the start of the season.

Pressure should not fall on the coaches, but the student athletes to follow up on the training rules and adhere to them.

Certainly, some school regulations may stop at the threshold of private homes. But a training rule is not a school district regulation. It's more of an understanding between a coach and an athlete.

The coach or athletic director, to get the maximum performance from the individual athlete and at the same time be fair to all sport participants, is encouraged to create training rules.

The student athlete, in essence when volunteering to participate in a particular sport, accepts the responsibility of following the training rules.

Instead of the criticism Karpen is facing, he should be commended for boldly doing what a good administrator should do — develop the athlete's abilities while at the same time building inwardly a strong sense of responsibility and obligation.

To separate these ideals from high school or any other division of athletics would be an injustice to the school's athletic program.

And to the students themselves.

WAYNE'S TOM PERRY sinks a putt on the ninth hole during the Class B State Golf Tournament last Thursday.

Bauermeister honored at Special Olympics

Rodney Bauermeister of Wayne was nominated for the Nebraska Special Olympics Hall of Fame.

The Nebraska Special Olympics inducted five female and five male Olympians and one male and one female coach into the Hall of Fame during closing ceremonies of the Chapter Games. Inductees' names were inscribed on plates on the trophy along with prior inductees.

A selection committee was chosen by the chapter director with all names remaining anonymous. A checklist was provided to each committee member along with the nominations. Committee members rated nominees on a grading system to include the following areas of measurement: Olympic concept, participation, courage, love, devotion, effort, behavior, cooperation, sportsmanship, integrity, personality, joy, spirit, confidence and enthusiasm.

Rodney is the son of Vernon and Carol Bauermeister and represented Wayne Middle School in the Special Olympics.

Bauermeister participated in the 50 meter dash and the softball throw at the Chapter Games. At the Special Olympic State Games in Omaha last week he placed second in the softball throw, third in the frisbee® toss and fourth in the 50 meter dash.

'Howey' powers juniors past Coleridge, 7-0

WAKEFIELD — Coleridge's Junior Legion baseball team might have had a sigh of relief when they found out that Wayne's ace pitcher Don Larsen was not going to pitch the opening round of the 15th annual Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament. But after a couple of innings, the Bulldogs were probably wishing Larsen would have gotten the starting nod because Jeff Hausmann was nearly untouchable.

Hausmann, a burly right-hander, was simply awesome as he fanned 19 Bulldogs in Wayne's 7-0 opening round and opening season victory here Sunday.

Only 23 batters came to plate against Hausmann and he struck out the side in the first three innings and again in the fifth and seventh frames.

The only hit he surrendered was a harmless one-out triple in the fourth and he answered that by fanning the last two batters of the inning.

The other two outs were recorded on a fly ball to center fielder Shannon Dorcey and a ground out to Hausmann.

While Hausmann was stifling the Coleridge bats, Bulldog Don Graham was doing the same to the Blue Devils as he recorded five strike outs in the first two frames. However, Larsen greeted Graham with a solo home run to lead off the second inning.

Wayne made it 2-0 in the third when Robbie Gamble walked, moved to second on a force play, advanced to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch.

Wayne added another marker in the fourth on a Hausmann homer before exploding for three runs in the fifth.

Jeff Hausmann

Casey Nichols stroked a one-out double to get the Blue Devils rolling in the fifth and scored one out later on a Dorcey double. Scott Baker then reached on an error and Dorcey and Baker eventually scored on consecutive singles by Hausmann and Larsen.

Tim Fleming added an insurance run in the sixth for Wayne when he reached on a fielder's choice and scored on three passed balls.

In addition to his outstanding pitching performance, Hausmann finished 2-for-3 at the plate. Larsen also collected two hits in three tries. Dorcey and Nichols both totaled one hit for Wayne and Jason Jorgensen collected a pinch-hit in the sixth.

The victory propelled Wayne into the semifinals against traditionally tough O'Neill.

Corbit, the daughter of Bill and Sharon Corbit, won her division in the frisbee® toss. She also placed third in the 50 meter dash and softball throw.

Corbit's brother, Heath, also placed in three events. In addition to placing second in both the frisbee® toss and the 50 meter dash, Heath finished fourth in the softball throw.

ball throw, third in the frisbee® toss and fourth in the 50 meter dash.

Bauermeister has also been nominated for the Special Olympics Hall of Fame.

Over 1,500 athletes and 2,097 volunteers attended the meet. Coaches, guests and chaperones from the area that attended were: Gertrude Vahlkamp, coach; Kecta Corbit, chaperone; Vernon Bauermeister, chaperone; Carol and Jeramey Bauermeister, guests; Rob and Judy Papsstein, chaperone; Diane, Kathy and Brian Larson, guests.

Bauermeister and the Corbits are from Wayne, while Volwiler is from Carroll and Larson is from Wakefield.

WSC sprint team places sixth

RUSSELLVILLE, ARK. — Wayne State's sprint medley relay team of Linda Schnitzler, Ann Eisenmenger, Missy Stollenberg and Cindy Heesacker placed sixth in the NAIA National Track Championships here over the weekend.

The sixth place finish earned the Lady Wildcat quartet All-American status. The relay team closed with a personal best 1:46.4. Their previous best was a 1:46.86 at the District 11 Track Meet May 10.

Schnitzler failed to place in the long jump, while Diana Asay did not place in the discus and Missy Stollenberg failed to place in the 100 or 100 hurdles. Check Monday's Wayne Herald for further details.

Wayne's Juniors rally past O'Neill

WAKEFIELD — Things didn't look too promising for Wayne's Juniors as they headed into the top of the seventh inning here Monday night. The Blue Devils were losing 8-6 and were down to their final three outs.

But Wayne erupted for eight runs on four hits and took advantage of three O'Neill errors to down the Eagles 14-8 in the semifinals of the 15th annual Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament.

Brent Pick started the fireworks for Wayne in the seventh by leading off with a triple. Casey Nichols followed by singling him home and scored the tying run after Shannon Dorcey drew a one out walk and Ted Lueders doubled.

Dorcey scored the go-ahead run on an error by the right fielder and Lueders also crossed the plate on an error.

Jeff Hausmann and Russ Longe then sandwiched walks around an error on Bill Landanger's grounder to load the bases. Scott Baker then greeted a relief pitcher with a three-run triple to blow the game wide open.

Baker tallied Wayne's final run on a wild pitch.

Ted Lueders, who entered the game in the sixth inning in relief of starting pitcher Don Larsen, slammed the door shut in the seventh by striking out the side to preserve the Blue Devil victory.

Wayne opened a 3-0 lead in the first when Dorcey, Hausmann and Larsen all crossed the plate. Hausmann stroked a double in the opening frame and Longe ripped a two-run triple.

O'Neill pulled ahead by scoring once in both the first two innings and twice in the third. But Wayne tallied two more markers in the fifth to open a 5-4 advantage.

Hausmann started Wayne's fifth by drawing a lead-off walk and one out later advanced to second on a wild pitch.

Longe and Baker then loaded the bases by walking and singling, respectively, and Pick followed by clubbing a two-run single.

O'Neill never quit, however, and went ahead 6-5 with two runs in the fifth before opening an 8-5 lead with two more markers in the sixth.

But Hausmann made it a two-run game with his second homer in as many nights in the sixth and Wayne erupted for the eight markers in the seventh to blow the game open.

Wayne collected 15 hits in the win, including three by Lueders and two each by Hausmann, Longe, Baker, Pick and Nichols.

Larsen and Lueders combined for 13 strikeouts. Larsen fanned 10 over 5 1/2 innings, while Lueders recorded his three in the final 1 1/2.

Wayne improved to 2-0 and advanced to the fifth game against the winner of the Fremont/Neligh game. The championship was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, weather permitting.

Hank Overin, Wayne's head baseball coach, told The Wayne Herald early Wednesday afternoon that the championship game was not postponed.

McQuistan placed second, just five one-hundredths of a second behind the first-place finisher.

Nonplacers still perform well at State Track Meet

OMAHA — Although they didn't capture any medals or finish in the top six, there were several impressive efforts turned in by area thinclads at the State Track Meet here Friday and Saturday.

Susie McQuistan of Wakefield placed second in Class C in the 400 meter dash and her 13.01 almost earned her finish in the top six in the 100 meter dash, however she placed seventh.

McQuistan also finished with a 26.38 in the 200 meter dash preliminaries, but failed to qualify for the finals.

Last year, Suzanne Stelling of Wakefield placed second in the Class C high jump with a 5-4 leap, but only cleared 5-0 at the state meet Saturday.

Stelling also closed with a 13.24 in the 100 meter dash preliminaries and a 27.01 in the 200 meter dash prelims. However, she did not qualify for the finals in either event.

Stelling's teammate, Karen Witt, also qualified for state in the high jump but did not make it past the 4-10 opening height.

Val Krusemark and Jon Halverson, both of Wakefield, finished with a 90-7 in the discus and a 53.46 in the 400 meter dash, respectively, but failed to place at state.

Allen's Steve Jones closed with a 54.5 in the preliminaries of the Class C 400 meter dash, which is a full second slower than he ran at districts. Dave Uldrich, Allen's head coach, blamed the slower time on Jones' lane placement.

"Steve got stuck in lane eight and that really hurt him," he said. "He just couldn't see anybody else and since he's pretty new at this race he didn't pace himself correctly and got stuck on it."

Jones competed in the 400 for the first time at districts last week. Winside's Christi Thies cleared 5-0 in the high jump, but like Stelling and Witt, failed to place in the top six.

Wayne's Lori Anderson also failed to place, but her 2:28.2 clocking in the Class B 800 meter run was a personal record for the hard-working senior. Wayne's head coach Mavis Dalton said she was pleased to see Anderson break at state.

"She gradually got better and she did her best when it counted, most — state," Dalton said. Times for Wayne's Kurt Runestad in the 800, Dan Gross in the 400 and Blue Devils' 1600 meter relay team of Gross, Runestad, Tim Fleming and Matt Hillier were not available.

State action

THE AREA was well represented at the State Track Meet Friday and Saturday in Omaha. Some action from the meet includes: (clockwise) Winside's Brent Nau (far right) placed second in the Class C 110 highs; Allen's Deb Uehling placed sixth in the Class D 3200; Wayne's Kurt Runestad prepares to pass competitors in the Class B 1600; Winside's Christi Thies clears 5-0 in the Class C high jump; Wayne's Dan Gross heads into the home stretch of the Class B 400; meet officials check their stopwatches; and Wakefield's Suzanne Stelling clears 5-0 in the Class C high jump.

New Dairy Growth Hormone

The new Bovine Growth Hormone can be a good management tool, "if producers will give it to their dairy cows, then cull the herd to keep the same amount of production as before," according to University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension dairy specialist Jeff Keown.

The hormone is being used in cattle to increase milk production. It is speculated, Keown said, that use of the naturally-occurring hormone may increase production by about 30 percent.

The protein-based hormone must be injected in the same way that insulin is. Keown said. It can't be given orally because it would not get into the system but would be digested in the stomach.

The Food and Drug Administration feels there is no issue of human safety, Keown explained, and that it is safe for people. Milk produced from the ongoing research with the hormone can be sold and distributed through the regular chain, he said.

The biggest drawback with the hormone is the fact that it has to be administered every day. If it can be made into an implant, he said, it will probably be much more widely accepted.

Keown said another drawback is that "some dairymen will get very good benefits from it and others may get absolutely no results whatsoever."

There is still a need for more research, he said. "It will probably be five to seven years down the road before we see any widespread use of this particular hormone."

Selecting Swine Female Replacements

A new NebGuide designed to help pork producers select replacement females has been released. The fact sheet is entitled "Guidelines for Choosing Replacement Females."

Since production of the replacement gilts in the specialized maternal crosses is more expensive, there are fewer opportunities for gilt selection. More emphasis is placed on the selection of the boars and sows which produce the replacement gilts.

Since gilts replace culled sows, sow culling and gilt selection need to be integrated. The number of replacement gilts needed depends upon the number of sows culled. These two aspects of breeding herd management have to work together. The NebGuide recommends basic identification and sow culling systems.

A new area of concern, also related to the change in crossbreeding systems being used by commercial producers, is the purchase of replacement gilts.

A section of the NebGuide is devoted to guidelines for the purchase of replacement gilts. Concerns about health risks, breed composition and cost of purchased gilts are addressed.

A final feature of the NebGuide is a calendar of the activities involved in the section of replacement gilts and sow culling.

When 'buy-out' of dairy herd occurs

Replacing with hogs requires caution

Dairy farmers who have sold out their herds as part of the 1985 Farm Program may be tempted to initiate another livestock enterprise to use facilities, feed and labor. Bill Ahlswede, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension swine specialist, suggest that a cautious approach be used in considering pork production. "If you are prepared to be a least-cost producer, forge ahead," he said.

Ahlswede indicated that his suggestion of caution is not based on lack of optimism in pork production, but rather on a belief that pork production has changed in the last five to 10 years.

These changes include fewer farms with hogs in Nebraska but an increase in production, the entry of large scale custom feeders into the feeder pig market and improved efficiency of production.

These changes mean that the industry is operating on a tighter budget and with more management control. "You can't just buy some pigs to feed and expect an automatic profit," Ahlswede said.

THE MOVE TO fewer and larger farms producing pigs in Nebraska has brought more intense management and specialization to pork production. Costs of production are more tightly controlled. Production is more uniformly distributed during the year. Larger feeder pig producers are likely to have continuing arrangements for the sale of pigs. Ahlswede said.

The development of custom feeding means increased competition for feeder pigs and stiff cost and production control during the feedout period, he said. Feeder pig supply has been tight. Increased demand for pigs will force the price of pigs to a level that feedout profits become unacceptable.

Custom feeding operations also have good performance records. Gains, feed efficiencies and death losses have been good for these operators. The health programs, management procedures and feeding programs have been improved.

Dairy farms have facilities and equipment which can be used for raising pigs. But Ahlswede suggested that these facilities cannot be used without cost.

"Dairy facilities will have to be adapted for feeding pigs," he said, "and that will take some money." Expenditures for things like feeders, fencing and watering equipment are short term costs which must be paid for with the first few groups of pigs.

"I'm concerned that people will try their hand at raising pigs and end up with fewer resources than when they started," he said.

In addition, he said, pigs will not provide opportunities to use forage. Forage production and harvesting equipment and storage structures are usually important parts of the resource base on dairy farms.

Newer milk quality regulations to be enforced

On July 1, Nebraska dairy producers, along with others across the country, will be forced to meet new regulations for milk production. In Nebraska, the last legislative session passed a regulation dropping the maximum somatic cell count level for marketable milk to 1 million.

This, according to University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension ag engineer Jerry Bodman, puts Nebraska dairymen in compliance for interstate shipment of milk.

There are producers in the state who routinely maintain a somatic cell count (SCC) of 100,000 or less, according to Bodman.

It is to the producer's advantage to market milk with a low SCC because milk production decreases as the count increases, according to Jeff Keown, UNL extension dairy specialist.

On the other hand, this new regulation will pose a considerable problem for many of the state's milk producers, Bodman said, especially the ones who are not on a "conscientious and complete mastitis control program."

Since mastitis, an udder disease usually caused by infection, is usually responsible for elevated SCC, dairymen should become interested in controlling it, Keown said.

SOME DAIRYMEN IN the state believe they can handle mastitis infections by controlling symptoms. But that by itself, Bodman said, will not be enough to keep the SCC under control, because there are usually no visible signs of the infection when the count reaches the million level.

"Cows with high infection levels are like humans running around all year long with the flu," Bodman said, "and we know how that makes us feel."

The first step, according to Keown, is to determine which cows in the herd are causing the problem. This can be done by conducting a "cowside" screening test such as the California Mastitis Test (CMT), which only takes 10 to 15 seconds.

Dairymen who are close to the million count, Bodman said, should be using the CMT to identify those cows that need to be culled.

Individual cow treatment based on the SCC is usually not economical, since poor milking procedures are often involved in mastitis cases.

Good hygiene, good sanitation, and good milking procedures can help prevent the outbreak of new infections.

"These practices could increase milk production by 3 percent to 15 percent from the same cows," Keown said.

FCIC deadline

June 5 is the final planting date for insured corn in Nebraska according to Leo B. Holthaus, Director, for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), Lincoln Field Operations Office.

Insured corn planted by the above date must be reported by June 30, in order to receive full crop insurance coverage. The acreage report reflects the actual acreage planted and reported by the farmer.

"During the growing season, if damage occurs, notice should be given promptly," Holthaus said.

A new crop insurance plan, called actual production history (APH), is available this year to producers of soybeans, wheat, barely oats and rye in addition to corn, grain sorghum, peanuts, cotton, rice and other crops.

"Increasingly, our insured producers are discovering that with a yield guarantee which reflects production capability, crop insurance establishes a farm income floor. Thus, cash flow and the ability to repay a loan may be more accurately projected," explained Mr. Holthaus.

FmHA assistance

The Farmers Home Administration notified Representative Doug Bereuter at the end of last week that they are nearly-out of money for insured loans. To help borrowers who have had their loans approved, but who have not received funds, FmHA will institute operation "Assist."

This program will allow FmHA personnel to walk borrowers and their lenders through the application process for a 90 percent guaranteed loan program which includes a four percent interest rate buydown where appropriate. FmHA still has $800 million available in guaranteed funds that can be used for this program.

"This program should help those farmers who are still badly in need of credit and who are unable to obtain it because of circumstances beyond their control to get the loans they need," Bereuter said. "Some bankers and Production Credit Associations have been reluctant to use the 90 percent guaranteed loan program, and this should give them the additional encouragement they need to participate in the program."

Interest rates lowered again

For the second consecutive month, interest rates have been lowered for farmer programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration, according to Vance L. Clark, agency administrator. The new rates were effective May 1.

The rate for farm operating loans drops from 9.50 percent to 8.625 percent and the rate for farm ownership, soil and water and Indian land acquisition loans goes down from 10.25 percent to 9.25 percent.

These are the lowest interest rates for these programs, since 1997.

The rate for limited resource operating loans drops from 6.50 to 5.625 percent. The rate for limited resource farm ownership loans remains at 5 percent, the lowest rate permitted under the program. Clark noted that the new rates reflect a continuing decrease in the cost of money to the government — a result of lower inflation. All of these trends will be especially helpful to FmHA's farm borrowers, Clark said.

Options on set-aside available

Producers are still seeking crop or forage species to plant on set-aside or conservation reserve acres, according to Charles Francis, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension crops specialist.

"A number of viable options can be recommended depending on the planned use of the set-aside acres," he said. If there is any doubt about the acceptability of a crop, producers should check with the local ASCS office.

One of the least expensive approved options is planting bin-run sorghum from storage. "This will provide cover, but will have to be clipped again before heading to meet the requirements of the program," he said. "Since sorghum is a perennial and produces tillers from the crown, the crop will regrow and may need to be clipped again later in the season."

Francis and other UNL extension specialists are concerned with contaminants which may be planted in the field along with bin-run seed. If weedy types, especially shattercane, are introduced with the bin-run seed, the practice may turn out to be a false economy in the long run, he said.

Other alternatives include forage-type hybrids of sorghum, sudan or sorghum-sudan crosses. "They can still be planted this year," Francis said, as can oats and other spring grains, although the latter will head in fewer days and will have to meet the requirements of the program.

WINTER RYE or wheat can be planted and will not head out since they have not gone through winter dormancy. Roger Hammons of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association said there is concern about potential disease and insect problems, especially leaf spot, wheat streak mosaic and hessian fly if winter wheat is used now for a field going into wheat in the fall or in adjacent fields.

Bromegrass may be the cheapest alternative for a grass seeding, but Hammons warns that an analysis of the seed is important because weed seed is often mixed with common or pasture-harvested seed.

A late seeding of alfalfa, sweet or red clover probably will not produce a substantial crop this year, and weeds may compete in getting these legumes established. Purchase seed from a recognized dealer or company to ensure seed purity and quality, Hammons said.

"Some other options may appear attractive for their low initial costs," Francis said, "but the decision to plant wheat is least expensive could turn out to be more expensive if weeds are introduced into an otherwise clean field."

Local Cooperative Extension Service offices can supply more specific recommendations. Francis said, "and be sure to clear any crops with the local ASCS office if there is a question about your management decision."

Well, we'll start with the bad news: that is, Jon did not place in the high jump. Two months ago we were delighted with 6'8"; Saturday, that wasn't enough. And he couldn't get over the bar at 6'10".

Eight guys out of twenty-four did, and the winner jumped 6'10 1/2". The preliminaries were on Thursday, and ten fellows were eliminated then. One young man jumped to 6'10" without a miss that day, and could not repeat on Saturday. That seems to be the way it goes.

The good news is that our trusty Buick got us there and back, the truck met was great, and the Big Farmer's aunt and uncle live right across the river from LaCrosse. So we had a tasty place to eat.

This NCAA Division III, and there were 11 schools represented by 1000 athletes. The Univ. of Wisconsin at LaCrosse has a fine all weather track, and an unbelievable indoor facility.

There was a parade of participants on Friday night, and everyone joined hands and sang "God Bless America."

The other two fellows on the team placed in both their events. And the only woman from NWU got third place in the discus. Her Dad and ours were fraternity brothers, so we had some visiting and catching up to do with him.

There were wheelchair races for about fifteen men and women that brought tears to my eyes. All those muscled and conditioned bodies in jog suits and Nikes brought tears, too; while making me feel fat and flabby.

We were housed in a dorm room on campus. The beds were comfortable enough, and there were clean sheets, but no fowels. Matt did a roaring business.

The uncle across the Mississippi River in Minnesota is eighty years old; the last son of three in that family. There are three daughters of seven surviving, and we took two along, Mike's Mother and his aunt, to visit.

We also got to see three cousins who live in that area. The first, last, and only time I'd been there before was the wedding of one, and they had just celebrated their silver anniversary.

It is a beautiful part of the state, lots of bluffs and trees and lakes. On Saturday evening, we saw the cemetery where two more uncles and an aunt are buried; then took a drive on the South Ridge, the oldest road in the state.

We were back in Hoskins by 6:00 p.m. on Sunday, in time for the barbecue at the school reunion. It was a huge success, with 325 people registered; including Fred Piventzky from Japan and Harold Wagner from Anchorage, Alaska.

We read letters from people who could not attend, viewed the old class pictures, and heard many pieces of nostalgia. I had rented a video camera for the weekend, so I used it at the gathering. The zoom lens makes it easy to get close-up shots without the subject even being aware of the camera.

The technology that enables an amateur to take moving, audible photos and not even need to get the film developed is unbelievable. I can hardly wait to get the cassette on a player.

I finished the film today by going to area cemeteries, which were a beautiful sight with flowers and flags. I even got some action footage while the rest of the family sorted cattle, with Kay riding herd on the three-wheeler.

It was a wonderful Memorial Day weekend, renewing ties with family and friends, remembering those no longer with us. It's a good thing keeping up with our kids enables us to take time to do this once in a while.

Corn is up everywhere, even though there were places in Minnesota where it had been harvested immediately prior to planting. Interstate highways certainly are nice, and we appreciated the nice rest stops. Seems a shame that the one at Piller is closed. Maybe some garden and 4-H clubs could adopt it. It's fun to travel, but nice to be back home.

Bean leaf beetles invading soybeans

Bean leaf beetles (BLB), apparent in alfalfa this spring, are now invading newly-emerging soybean fields, according to Fred Baxendale, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension entomologist.

"These beetles will be present for several more weeks," he said, "and may cause significant damage to young soybean plants. A second brood will appear in mid-summer."

Treatment is usually justified if one or more cotyledons (first leaf or first whorl) per foot of row are destroyed and there are five or more beetles per foot or row, he said.

Producers are warned against using organic phosphate (OP) for bean leaf beetle control if the herbicide metribuzin (Sencor/Lexone) is used.

John Furrer, UNL extension weed specialist, said in 1985, severe soybean injury occurred when OP insecticides were used following Sencor/Lexone.

The combination increases the active ingredient in Sencor/Lexone and partially blocks the detoxification process normally present in soybeans; Furrer said.

Bean leaf beetles vary somewhat in color and markings, but can generally be identified by their reddish-brown to light tan color and four black spots on the wing covers. They are approximately 3/8 inch long.

Once the first and second trifoliate leaves have formed, soybeans can generally tolerate 25 to 30 percent loss of total leaf surface without serious yield reduction, providing growing conditions are favorable, Baxendale said.

If defoliation exceeds this level, the field should be treated. Insecticides registered for BLB control in soybeans are listed in Field Crop Insect Control Guide (EC86-1511) available at local extension offices.

For BLB control in fields where Sencor/Lexone has been used, carbaryl (Sevin 80S, Sevin Brand XLR Plus, Sevimol 4) fenvalerate (Pydrin 2.4E), permethrin (Ambush, ZE 2.4E), Pounce 3.2E, 25 WP) and thiodicarb (Larvin 3.2F) offer effective organophosphate alternatives.

Pork poll indicates future priorities in funding national retail programs

The results of a producer poll recently conducted by the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) generally confirms the direction of projects and programs already being pursued by NPPC and its state affiliate associations on behalf of the nation's pork producers. The poll, conducted in Form Report and National Hog Farmer magazines as well as various state pork producer publications, was designed to give producers, whether members or non-members of NPPC, an opportunity to outline their funding priorities when the new 100 percent national producer checkoff goes into effect later this year.

Of the 2,500 pork producers who responded to the poll, 72 percent said they were NPPC members while 25 percent indicated they were not. There weren't many surprises in the poll results. Producers generally cited consumer issues as the main priority for the years ahead, including a need to develop more convenient, case-ready pork products. NPPC's field merchandisers have been working during the past year with packer-processors and food retailers in helping introduce new case-ready pork products to the consuming public.

The obvious number one priority among the producers polled, whether NPPC members or not, was to get more pork moving through the food chain in order to combat low hog prices.

Approximately 72 percent of the producers who took part in the poll felt that the role of the new national pork board, to be established late this year, should be confined to collecting the new checkoff funds and setting basic program priorities. The same percentage of producers felt the pork board should contract out projects and programs to producer-funded organizations already in existence, such as the National Pork Producers Council and the National Live Stock and Meat Board, because those organizations already have staff and resources in place.

About 82 percent of those who responded to the poll believed the National Pork Producers Council should continue as the one organization that is exclusively devoted to representing pork producer interests through its already-established national resources as well as the resources of its affiliated state associations.

Complete results of the producer poll will be turned over to the new national pork board when it is established. NPPC president, Ron Kahle, said the poll results should give some initial direction to the board members concerning producer desires.

UP WITH AGRICULTURE
By David Garst

Agriculture is a lot like riding on a roller coaster, according to Marla Clark of Pleasantville, Iowa, the national winner in the Garst Seed Company's UP WITH AGRICULTURE® Writing Contest.

Marla's winning entry reads: "In many ways, agriculture is like riding a roller coaster. It has many emotional ups and downs. It goes uphill very slowly, but downhill extremely fast. Along the way there are many unexpected bumps and turns. It's kind of frightening at times, but it's also exciting."

"I suppose when growing up on any farm, you just have to take what bumps the roller coaster gives you and handle them the best you can. Even though there are many hardships, I wouldn't trade my role in agriculture for anything."

Now that's an interesting way to look at agriculture. And if you've ever ridden on a roller coaster, you know the feeling. It's one you'll never forget.

Farming — like a roller coaster — at first appears enormous. It goes as far as you can see. You can sense its power. Looking closer, you realize its structure is a group of finely-tuned parts working in unison. To some people, this is overwhelming, and they will choose not to ride. Others are intrigued, and pay the admission. They want the thrill, and eagerly look forward to the ride of their life.

Once in motion, you feel anxious. Perhaps even a little nervous. And as you speed over the bumps and turns, there are times when you're frightened. Your heart pounds. Your pulse quickens. You feel like screaming and want to get off. But you look around and see others with the same emotions. You realize you're not alone. Somehow, it's comforting to know someone is at your side to help you through the scary moments.

But there are times when you're on top of the world. You can see for miles. You can reach out and touch the heavens. You feel like shouting and telling everyone about your happiness.

Through it all, agriculture — like Marla points out — is exciting. Sometimes we forget just how exciting. It's an experience most of us wouldn't trade for any other in the world.
