Area farms enter reserve program

by Chuck Hackenmilller

Thirteen farms in Wayne County have been accepted into the 1986 and 1987 Conservation Reserve Program, according to Ray Butts of the Wayne County ASCS Office in Wayne.

Across the nation, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has accepted over 3 million acres of highly erodible cropland on nearly 22,900 farms into the reserve program for 1986, according to Acting Secretary of Agriculture Daniel Amstutz.

There were actually 34,157 farms that had submitted bids consisting of over 4.6 million acres.

Bids accepted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture ranged up to $90 per acre nationwide, with an average of $44.23.

Here is how the program works: Annual rental payments will compensate farmers for retiring highly erodible land from crop production. That payment is determined by the bid per acre and the number of accepted acres.

Participants also receive conservation payments of up to 50 percent of eligible costs of establishing trees and grass on the acreage placed in the reserve. The conservation payments will partially reimburse farmers for the one-time costs of establishing required conservation practices on the cropland.

LAND WHICH is entered into the conservation reserve, mandated by the Food Security Act of 1985, will be ineligible for farming "for 10 years and must be planted with permanent vegetative cover," Amstutz said.

In Wayne County and across the nation, two sign-up periods were available — the first from March 3-14 and the second from May 5-16.

In that first sign-up, 67 bids were submitted, with four farms accepted in Wayne County, totaling 283 acres.

During the second round, 28 bids from Wayne County were submitted. The highest accepted bid was $70 an acre. Nine farms were accepted (1,307 acres) with four farms eligible for 1986 and another five farms eligible for 1987.

In Nebraska alone, there were 1,440 total number of farms bidding, consisting of 172,813 acres. The total farms with acceptable bids numbered 842, at 96,055 acres. The total cost for the program is $4.9 million.

Nationwide, the total cost of the program is $132.2 million.

"With this level of participation, we are well on our way to our goal of taking up to 45 million acres of highly erodible land out of production within the next five years," said Amstutz.

HE SAID THE program will bring many benefits, including the enhancement of wildlife habitat, since the enrolled acres are in the program for a 10-year period.

The USDA will announce a third Conservation Reserve Program sign-up later this year, according to Amstutz.

Butts said the pace of the activity has slowed enough to allow the ASCS to wind up its work on distributing advance deficiency payments for the 1986 feed grain program.

"Almost all the payments are out, with the exception of those we're waiting on because we need more information," Butts said.

Area extension services proposed for reorganization

Don Spitz, current extension agent for Wayne County and a representative of the Extension Board, has informed the Wayne County Board of Commissioners of a proposal to reorganize the extension service.

"The extension service director in Lincoln felt there was a need to reorganize the extension service for two different purposes — to save money and to make the extension service more effective," said Spitz.

Each of the five extension service districts across Nebraska were directed to incorporate an experimental unit, comprising of three or four counties, to try to meet the objectives of saving money and making the extension service more effective.

It has been proposed that Wayne, Dixon, Thurston and Dakota Counties will be involved in the combined plan.

According to the reorganization plans, the agricultural agent's positions in Dixon County and Thurston County will be eliminated. Spitz, the present Wayne County agricultural agent, will be the administrator for the counties of Wayne and Dixon.

The present Dakota County agricultural agent will operate the Thurston and Dakota county service.

These ag agents will become more specialized in order to make the extension service more effective.

Spitz told the commissioners that two 4-H individuals will be hired at a lower pay wage than the ag agents. One 4-H person will be hired for Wayne and Dakota counties and one person will be hired for Dakota and Thurston counties. "The offices, the Extension Board and the budget will remain the same," Spitz said.

Currently, the counties pay one quarter of the professional salaries and travel expenses, and the state and federal government pay the remainder.

"The State estimated that they will save $150,000 when this plan is implemented in the five districts," Spitz said. The actual savings to Wayne County has been estimated at $700.

Cost to the specific counties has been determined by the number of farmers; number of households, number of 4-H children, geographic size and the tax base. According to Spitz, the proposed cost will be divided between the four counties as such: Dakota, 32 percent; Dixon, 22½ percent; Thurston, 19 percent; and Wayne, 26½ percent.

Dixon County's Extension Board must approve the plan before it can be implemented. "We hope the program will be implemented by early next fall," Spitz said.

In other action Tuesday, the county commissioners approved a resolution to continue with the original County Medical Assistance and General Assistance Program.

Library to have 'talk session'

The Wayne Public Library is one of nine libraries in the Northeast Library System selected to take part in a lecture book discussion series, "Let's Talk About It" this fall.

According to Project Director Elaine Norron, the Northeast Library System has received a $10,000 grant from the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities. This grant will be supplemented by a $1,350 Nebraska Library Association grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The program is based on a concept developed by Pat Pates, program director of the Rutland, Vermont Public Library, inviting local scholars to come to the library and discuss books in their areas of expertise with townspeople.

The book discussion series this fall will use the theme: "Let's Talk About It, Nebraska — A Sense of Place: The American Plains", developed by faculty members of the University of Nebraska English Department.

Participants will read five books and meet every two weeks.

Details of the library program and an established schedule will be announced by the Wayne Public Library at a later date.

In trouble? Seek McGruff!

by Chuck Hackenmilller

McGruff's welcome face will appear in nearly 40 homes around Wayne sometime soon.

School children know McGruff as a symbol of safety and protection. Their parents may come to know McGruff as an assurance that someone else is looking out for their children.

Actually, McGruff is part of a program that allows designated homes or businesses to become a shelter for children being harassed by strangers or bullies, or who have become injured while away from their home.

Posters of McGruff will be displayed on the windows and doors of up to 40 homes in Wayne as a reference to frightened children — letting the young people know that the home is a shelter, an offering of a place for protection.

Wayne Police Officer Robert Treacle said the cost for the posters have been absorbed by the Wayne Eagles Club.

Homeowners with the McGruff poster would take the injured, harassed or troubled child in their home, administer some first aid if needed (or if they know how) and then call a police officer who will handle the situation, according to Treacle.

HE SAID THE posters will be displayed in homes "scattered throughout the city." However, he said more property owners are encouraged to become a "McGruff home."

Of particular concern now, during the summer months, are getting enough homes surrounding the city parks, he said. If the youngsters fall off a swing and get hurt while in the park, they would have someone to go for help.

"We would like to accept more volunteers so that we can get the whole town covered if we can. Individuals can get ahold of the Wayne Police Department for applications," Treacle said.

He mentioned that all applicants for the "McGruff home" undergo a background check for any possible type of criminal record through a thorough investigation by the police department.

Toward the close of the school year, law enforcement officials met with students at the Wayne schools to discuss the McGruff program and also demonstrated various warnings to be observed by students concerning safety and protection from strangers.

The goal, according to Treacle, is to have a McGruff house in every city block.

Sponsoring homes need not be owned specifically by those parents with young children a home. It can be sponsored by the senior citizens or college students, too.

Organization reps invited

Betterment Program meeting set

A Wayne community-wide session dealing with participation and setting goals in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program has been planned for June 17.

The meeting will take place at 7 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Over 50 area groups will be represented, with the expectations to have at least one representative from the organizations.

At the meeting, each organization's current activities will be listed under one or more of the following categories: Environmental Improvement; Business Programs; Health and Human Services; Main Street Revitalization; Public Facilities and Government Services; Recreation/Arts/Humanities; Rural Development; Tourism; Youth Involvement; Recycling; Community Recruitment and others.

At the meeting, other areas will be studied where needs are not being met.

The Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) was created to encourage working together to accomplish projects aimed at improving the quality of life in each of the respected participating communities.

Another point in the program is that it allows the community to be recognized in the autumn with awards in various categories. The time frame this year, when communities will be judged, is from Sept.

1, 1985 to Aug. 1, 1986.

Sept. 15, 1986 is the approximate deadline to get a report book (on the community improvements) to the judges for this year's program evaluation.

DURING OCTOBER, the judges will visit the community for further evaluation.

Recognition day for the winning communities is scheduled for Nov. 14 in North Platte.

Special awards will be presented for community recruitment; existing industry/new industry business programs; health and human services; main street revitalization; public

Preventing stress

This week's offerings of the Wayne Stress Prevention Center are Stress Evaluation at 10 a.m. and Fitness and Nutrition at noon. The Wayne Stress Prevention Center is held weekly in Room 202 at Wayne High School.

Stress Evaluation
by Jeff Berger

Are you under stress now? Do you know what causes the stress in your life? While many people admit to having stress in their lives, very few realize what is causing that stress.

This week's first session of the Wayne Stress Prevention Center will attempt to help you identify areas of your life that might be causing stress. Sometimes simply knowing where the stress in your life is coming from is enough to help you get a handle on those feelings.

We will present several simple handouts that will allow you to evaluate the level of stress you have and where that stress is occurring. One handout, designed by Holms and Rahe, deals with stress-causing life events, called stressors, that are assigned various point values. The higher the number of life events experienced in the last year, the higher the total points and the higher the stress level you are experiencing. The following items are samples of items off of this handout:

- Divorce — 75 points
- Marriage — 50 points
- Employment change — 39 points
- Loss of foreclosure — 29 points
- Trouble with in-laws — 28 points
- Vacation — 13 points

This handout, with others, will be presented and will hopefully help to identify stressors in your life and will allow us to discuss ways of easing those feelings.

We will also discuss coping techniques that can be used after these stressors are identified.

Nutrition and Exercise
by Doug Porter

Nutrition and exercise are very important factors to take into account when dealing with stress. They are tremendous stress "filters" in dealing with every day stress. These two areas, if managed properly, can help deal with stress and make your adjustment to it much more healthy. It helps keep your immune system strong so that the body can ward off any incoming germs or bacteria. Furthermore, it allows for that extra reserve of energy which one needs for extra stressful experiences. Finally, your fitness and eating habits need to become a way of life and not just a temporary approach to the problem.

Nutrition is an area that has been emphasized a great deal in the last few years with our societies view of "thin is in." However, I do not feel you can accomplish this goal with the so-called "fad" diets which are constantly being introduced to the public. There is only two ways to lose weight and maintain a healthy body and that is by cutting down your food intake and burning more calories through exercise. We need to re-educate our eating habits to cut down on sugar and salt and emphasize getting enough of four major food groups. Variety is the key to a balanced diet.

Exercise is the second area which needs to be dealt with in maintaining good fitness. A person first needs to be motivated to do it. Therefore, you need to pick an activity that you enjoy so that you will set aside time each week in order to take part in it. Next, it is important to work yourself into condition. It probably took you a long time to get out of shape so it will take some time to get back into shape. Don't get discouraged and try to do too much, too fast. It is important to train and not strain the body.

If you would like to learn more about these three areas (stress evaluation, nutrition and exercise) please attend the Wayne Stress Prevention Center meeting held this Saturday at Wayne High School in Room 202.

ROTC students commissioned

Two area students were among the 17 ROTC students at Kearney State College who were recently commissioned into military service at a ceremony on campus.

Those from the area commissioned was 2nd Lieutenant Scott Benjamin, son of Pearl Benjamin of Wayne; and 2nd Lieutenant Lisa Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jensen of Winside.

Benjamin was commissioned to infantry and was assigned to the 1-134th Infantry of the Nebraska National Guard of O'Neill. He will graduate in May, 1987.

Jensen, was commissioned to field artillery in the U.S. Army Reserves. She graduated in May as a distinguished military graduate and will attend the officer basic course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

facilities and government services; recreation, arts and humanities; rural development; tourism promotion/development; youth involvement; energy conservation/environmental improvement; and the Otto G. Golberg Recycling Award.

The Nebraska Community Improvement Program has been in existence for nearly 24 years — one of the oldest community improvement state programs in the nation and one that most states model after.

Another advantage of the program is that it provides the opportunity for community leaders to learn what activity is going on in communities of similar size and stature.

All interested individuals interested in attending the June 17 community wide planning session are encouraged to call the Wayne Chamber of Commerce office for reservations.

The Principals Office
By Donald Zeiss

The American family as an institution may not be in as much trouble as the headlines indicate.

According to Peter L. Benson, recent studies indicate that the American family is not in danger of immediate extinction.

Writing in Common Focus (volume 6, number 1, 1985), published by the Center for Early Adolescence, Benson cites several of these studies, including:

The Search Institute in Minneapolis' 1983 national study of 8,000 young adolescents and 10,000 parents revealed that most youngsters received high levels of parental affection. That in no grade between fifth and ninth grades does the influence of peers outweigh the influence of parents; and that adults care about being good parents.

NASSP's Mood of American Youth (1984) survey indicated that adolescents have positive feelings about family life and report a great deal of respect for their parents.

Students Attend German Convention
On May 3, nine students from the Wayne High School German Club attended the tenth annual convention of the Nebraska Association of students of German. This year's convention was held at Millard North High School in Omaha. Students could compete in both individual and team contests. They were also offered short workshops in German cooking, folk dancing, and singing, or could spend time meeting exchange students, or playing games, such as Monopoly in German.

The students from Wayne competed in several events. They won second places with two of their Knowledge Bowl teams: Shane Geiger (Level I) and Vini Johar and David Zahniser (Level IV). The Wayne High students won another second place in the play contest with their version of the fairytale, The Hare and the Hedgehog, done by Crystal Green, Monica Metz, Vini Johar and David Zahniser. For the first time, Wayne students also entered the Spelling Bee. David Zahniser won first place on Level IV with the deciding word GRIECHISCH (Greek).

Wayne students attending the convention were Shane Geiger, Seth Andersen, Kim Backstrom, Nora Froeschle, Bethany Keldel, Crystal Green, Monica Metz, Vini Johar, David Zahniser. German Club sponsor is Edith E. Zahniser.

Green is Outstanding German Student
On April 12, the Nebraska chapter of the American Association of Teachers of German honored Nebraska's outstanding German students, their parents and teachers at an awards reception in Omaha. Crystal Green, a Junior at Wayne High School, was one of 20 students to be honored with a plaque and a certificate of achievement.

A total of five hundred Nebraska students — more than twenty thousand students, nationwide — had taken a German language tests in January of this year. Miss Green was among the top students considered for the grand prize, a four-week long, all-expenses-paid trip to West Germany, offered by the Bonn government. Miss Green was mentioned especially for her telephone interview, held in Germany.

During the reception, last year's winner, Jolene Holter of Millard North High School, gave a talk about her experiences in Germany, and Mrs. Zahniser, last year's chaperone, showed slides of the trip. This year's winner is Susan Hirt, daughter of former Wayne residents B. J. and Donna Hirt.

Plans for moving SCS office from Lincoln is suspended

Overheard in Washington. As I reported in this column last week, the Department of Agriculture has notified me that it has suspended its plans to transfer the Soil Conservation Service's Technical Service Office from Lincoln to Fort Worth. That decision was made on May 20 and announced on May 21. On May 20, one of my staff members overheard the following conversation between Pete Meyers, U.S. Department of Agriculture Deputy Secretary, and David Bockorny, White House Congressional Liaison staff:

MEYERS: Well, David, we lost the battle today. But, thanks for hanging tough for me.

BOCKORNY: I tried to help you, but the political situation put the plan on hold.

MEYERS: That dang Bereuter wouldn't quit. And then he brought in those Republican National Committee people. It's hard to justify a mediocre savings to those big contributors.

American Legion Oratorical Finals in Lincoln

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln has been selected as the site for the 1989 final round of the American Legion's National High School Oratorical Contest. The contest will begin on April 14 of that year. I was very pleased to be able to provide some assistance to the Nebraska Department of the American Legion in its efforts to bring the contest finals to the state.

Nebraska Students Visit Washington in Large Numbers

Each year a large number of Nebraska high school students participate in programs like CloseUp that give them an opportunity to visit Washington and learn about the Federal Government from first hand observation. This year alone, more than 536 students and teachers representing 68 schools participated in the CloseUp citizenship education program. In the past four years, 1500 Nebraska students have participated.

I have enjoyed working with this program and with the others, including Presidential Classrooms and 4-H, that bring these young people to Washington. Those Eligible for Food Stamps are Finding Assistance. Access to the Food Stamp Program is much broader today than it has been in the past. According to U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics, the percentage of those Americans eligible to receive food stamps who now actually receive them has grown from 45% in 1978 to 63% in 1985.

Support for Rights of Child Abuse Victims

I am cosponsoring the Child Abuse Victims Rights Act of 1986. That bill should provide ways to better protect children from sexual exploitation by allowing investigators and prosecutors to begin using wire-taps, special grand juries and expanded subpoena authority for arrest and conviction of child molesters.

It also provides for a mandatory life sentence for the murder of a kidnapped child. And, it requires that the mandatory minimum sentence for a person with a prior conviction of sexual exploitation of children be raised from two years to five years. The repeat offender would not be eligible for probation, suspended sentence or parole until five years had been served.

Tax reform discussed by Senate

The Tax Reform Rocket by U.S. Senator Jim Exon

Tax reform is taking off like a rocket here in the Senate. The Senate Finance Committee, in sending the tax reform bill to the Senate floor with a unanimous vote, has taken the first bold step to modernize the tax system in 30 years.

The bill contains significant reductions in tax rates for both individuals and businesses. It simplifies the individual tax rate structure by reducing from 14 to 2 the number of tax brackets. The two new brackets for individuals would be 15% and 27%, nearly cutting in one-half the current top tax bracket of 50%. The top corporate tax rate would be reduced from 46% to 33%.

The measure eliminates most of the unfair tax shelters used by nonfarmer ranchers to unfairly compete against our family farm interests. This will discourage nonfarmers from entering agriculture to operate it as a loss simply so they can escape paying taxes on other income.

The tax reform package includes a minimum tax on large corporations which have been escaping their federal tax liabilities. This is a major step toward tax equity which I have advocated for many years.

One area which hopefully can be further reviewed by the full Senate is the total elimination of deductibility of Individual Retirement Account (IRA) contributions. We are reviewing options to at least partially restore the deductibility of IRAs. IRAs were created in 1981 to stimulate individuals to better plan for their retirement. IRAs were also viewed as an incentive to increase savings in the United States and to improve capital formation. Among industrialized nations we are the worst "savers".

THE SENATE tax reform bill includes some provisions which would particularly benefit farmers. The Senate bill would permit farmers to deduct up to one-half the cost of their health insurance premiums. We are asking farmers, ranchers and small business owners to advise us of any concerns they find with the bill as all review its details.

The Senate tax reform bill is vastly superior to the version approved by the House of Representatives last fall. I am confident that the Senate bill will serve as the framework upon which the final tax reform bill will be approved by Congress.

A consensus has developed that the Senate tax reform proposal appears, on the whole, to be a good bill with many advantages. Despite some of the drawbacks to the bill, I am enthusiastic about the opportunity to improve our current complicated and confusing tax system.

A struggle is beginning to emerge as to whether tax reform should proceed ahead of the 1987 budget bill. With the staggering deficit problem and the Gramm-Rudman law of blind across-the-board cuts threatening programs, it seems obvious to me that the budget should be the first priority followed immediately by tax reform. Yet, the Senate Republican leadership, who schedules action, has failed to abide by the Gramm-Rudman requirement that the federal budget be finished by April 15th.

There is no reason not to put both of these important measures on the fast track. The taxpayers are ready for the Senate to act. The county is waiting. Let's not delay.

More to agriculture than people think

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation by Cheryl Stubbendieck, vice president/information. Cows, plows and sows. That's what many people think of when you mention agriculture, particularly those in urban areas. Certainly you still find cattle, hogs, and machinery on today's farms, but there's also plenty of high technology — sophisticated computers, robotics, even big-genetic engineering.

Unfortunately, the high tech side of today's agriculture is one of the best-kept secrets around. So it is not surprising that many parents are discouraging their children from pursuing agricultural careers. If "agriculture" evokes only the image of hard work, long hours and a heavy debt load, it's no wonder that parents would rather their kids studied something else.

One consequence of this image of agriculture is that ag education programs in many high schools are hurting. Enrollments are down, and budget cutters see a likely target.

But parents, and everyone else, should understand that approximately 2 percent of the U.S. population is involved in production agriculture while 18 percent is involved in agribusiness. That means there are nine other jobs in agriculture for every one farmer. And this trend is expected to continue, with the number of farmers shrinking while demand for food rises.

AS A RESULT, high school ag programs are no longer concerned only with educating students to be farmers. Instead, they're getting them ready for careers in agribusiness — as consultants of many kinds, specialists in ag finance, operators of small businesses, providers of custom services...

The situation in higher education parallels the high school experience. At the University of Nebraska, College of Agriculture enrollments are down, but ag economics/agribusiness is the big major.

Any industry that goes through tough times suffers from an image problem. No doubt Texas parents are discouraging oil industry careers these days. But agriculture is going to be around in its many facets as long as people keep eating food.

It would be short-sighted to cut funding for high school ag programs now, because we're going to need the business leaders those students become five years from now. At the same time, parents and others who influence young people's career choices should recognize the opportunity agriculture and agribusiness present — a high-tech career in an industry that will never become obsolete.

Daylight Savings issue should be left as in past

U.S. Senator Jim Exon (D-NEB) said daylight savings time should be kept as it is and not be extended for an additional three weeks.

"Leave well enough alone," Exon said in opposing the proposed extension. The Nebraska Senator expressed concern that extending daylight savings time would jeopardize the safety of school children in the mornings. The Nebraska Senator said parents would disagree with claims that extending daylight savings time would not increase the number of accidents or crimes involving children.

The proposal would extend daylight savings time by three weeks by changing the starting date from the fourth to the first Sunday in April.

Exon emphasized that farmers would not benefit by extending daylight savings. "Extending daylight savings time would only make it harder for the growing number of farmers now holding second jobs to support their farms. Extending daylight savings would reduce the morning daylight time those farmers would have to do chores before they go to their other job," Exon said.

"Extending daylight savings would be another bad blow to farmers. The farm workday is determined by when the sun rises and sets not by a clock," Exon said. He pointed out that farmers active in their communities in the evenings would lose working hours if daylight savings were extended since they would have to quit before sundown.

Exon used as a main argument against the proposed extension, a letter he received from the American Farm Bureau which opposes any extension of daylight savings time.

Candlelight ceremony unites Deborah Miller-Robert Raatz

Sheridan Lutheran Church in Lincoln was the setting for a candlelight ceremony May 24 uniting in marriage Deborah Lee Miller and Robert Alan Raatz.

Decorations for the 7 o'clock, double ring rites included brass pew candelabras accented with greenery and fuschia bows, frontal candelabras with matching bows, and a fan-shaped altar arrangement of gladiolus, hot pink carnations, lilies and baby's breath.

The Rev. David Anderson of Lincoln officiated.

THE BRIDE, daughter of Darrell and LaQuetta Miller of Wayne, graduated from Wayne-Carroll High School in 1981 and from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1985.

She is employed as an advertising assistant at Security Mutual Life, Lincoln.

The bridegroom is the son of Albert and Loetha Raatz of Hebron and is employed as a loan administration officer at Gateway Bank, Lincoln.

He graduated from Hebron High School in 1978 and from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1983.

GUESTS ATTENDING the couple's ceremony were registered by Dianna Steigh of Lincoln, and ushered to their seats by Mark Hummel of Lincoln and Greg Bodtke of Hebron.

Wedding music included "With You," "Hear Us Now, Our God and Father," and "Let It Be Me."

Soloist was Carri Greenfield, and organist was Karen Van Ornam, both of Lincoln. Ann Baumgartel of Lincoln played a flute solo, "Adagio Religioso."

The processional was "Trumpet Voluntary," and the recessional was "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Zuehlsdorf of Waverly. Lighting candles were Lisa Peters of Omaha and Rhonda Lutt of Wayne.

ON HER WEDDING day, the bride was given in marriage by her father and appeared in a long, white gown of shimmering satin. Imported Milano and silk venice lace, accented with sequins and pearls, sculptured her Sabrina neckline and Renaissance sleeves.

The fitted bodice highlighted a dropped waistline which flowed into an A-line skirt. The border of the skirt was edged with Milano lace and held the extended cathedral train.

Shimmering satin adorned the bridal pillow cap edged in pearls. Sequins showered the re-embroidered Atonen lace which held a pouf of both Russian and English illusion. The bride carried a loose teardrop-shaped cascade featuring lilies surrounded with stephanotis, hot pink roses, baby's breath and fern.

THE MAID OF HONOR wore a fuschia colored tea-length gown of matte taffeta. Shirred three-quarter length sleeves framed the Sabrina neckline and basque waistline, with a shirred fitted bodice.

The bridesmaids wore matching ensembles.

Each carried a teardrop cascade of lilies, baby's breath and greenery.

The bridegroom was attired in a black tuxedo. His boutonniere included hot pink roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

The groomsmen wore black formal tuxedos, and their boutonnieres were of hot pink roses with baby's breath.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Miller selected a floor-length dress of dusty blue matte georgette with long sleeves. Appliqued satin flowers trimmed with seed pearls decorated the bodice.

The bridegroom's mother chose an ivory matte georgette dress in floor length, designed with long sleeves and a dyed-to-match venice lace yoke on the bodice.

Both mothers wore wrist corsages of soft pink cymbidium orchids and greenery.

FOLLOWING THE ceremony, a

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raatz reception for 200 guests was held at the NBC Center in Lincoln. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hoch of Omaha and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hergott of Hebron.

Take it easy on young players

Ah yes, it's that favorite time of year again — baseball season! I'm not sure what it is about baseball, but it seems to be every sports fan's favorite sport. And for some reason, every little boy (and now-a-days every little girl, too) dreams about playing in the Major Leagues some day.

And I'm not sure if it's because baseball is America's favorite pastime or if it's the sport's romance, but parents often have those same dreams about their children — they want their child to be the best at the sport they love.

It's okay for parents to have those desires, but sometimes those desires become too demanding.

Wayne's Midget and Junior Legion baseball seasons have already started, but there usually isn't too much of a problem with parents when their children are at that age. The problems, if there are any, seem to occur when the child is playing Little League or Pony League.

I can honestly say that during the 11 months I've lived in Wayne, I haven't seen any parent "pushing" his child during any sports contest. But I have seen that type of behavior in other places.

A baseball director in a town I used to live in told me that he often sees parents chewing out their children at the baseball park because of mistakes the kid made while playing.

That's bad enough, but one can only wonder what goes on behind closed doors if a parent is that hard on his child in public.

But parents pushing their children isn't the only thing that can disturb young minds. Heckling a participant also affects children negatively.

My parents have a poem they keep on their refrigerator which concerns a fan yelling at a child during a baseball game.

I'm not sure why my folks have it there. Perhaps it's because my nephew will begin organized baseball in a few years and they want to use it as a reminder to keep their cool once he begins playing.

At any rate, it's titled "Just a Little Boy (Or Girl)," and I thought there might be several others in the area that would appreciate its message.

Just A Little Boy (Or Girl)

He stands at the plate with his heart pounding fast.
The bases are loaded. The die has been cast.
Mom and Dad cannot help him. He stands all alone.
A hit at this moment would send his team home.
The ball nears the plate. He swings and misses.
There's a groan from the crowd with some boos and hisses.

A thoughtless voice cries: "Strike out the bum."
Tears fill his eyes. The game's no longer fun.
Remember, he's just a little boy who stands all alone.
So open your heart and give him a break.
For it's moments like this a man you can make.
Keep this in mind when you hear someone forget.
He's JUST A LITTLE BOY AND NOT A MAN YET.

Marchese wins Open Golf Tournament

Tim Marchese might be from Omaha, but the way he plays golf at the Wayne Country Club, one would think it's his home course.

Marchese captured the Amateur Open Golf Tournament Sunday by firing a 107. It was Marchese's second straight tournament championship at Wayne and he has placed first twice and second once in the last three tournaments he has played at Wayne.

Marchese won the championship flight of the Chicken Days Golf Tournament in July with a 103 and last June placed second in the Amateur Open Golf Tournament.

The Omaha native trimmed Jim Lowe and Lee Tate, both of Omaha, by two strokes Sunday.

Ken Zarling and Troy Eneadahl both fired a 74 to win the first and second flights, respectively, while Roger Lorsch claimed the third flight title with a 77.

Morris Sandahl was the only area golfer to finish the day with a championship. Sandahl captured the seventh flight with an 83.

Other flight winners and their scores were: 4th flight — Mark Harrison, 75; 5th flight — Jack Best, 82; 6th flight — Dan Belling, 79; 8th flight — Dan Turnik, 86; 9th flight — Joe Schaefer, 84; 10th flight — Dick Spanehelmer, 85; 11th flight — Joe Prinz, 85; 12th flight — Harold Nellor, 93.

Larry Berres, Wayne's Country Club pro, said that although 194 golfers competed the tourney ran smoothly.

Third championship in four years for Wayne Wayne captures Chuck Ellis title

WAKEFIELD — During the past few years, Wayne's Juniors have dominated the Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament. And Saturday night Wayne won its second consecutive title and third in the last four years with a convincing 11-1 victory over Fremont.

Jeff Hausmann's strong pitching effort and steady hitting lifted Wayne past Fremont in the title game.

Hausmann, who finished with 19 strikeouts in an opening round 7-0 victory over Coleridge, fanned 15 Fremont batters in six innings Saturday night.

Hausmann struck out the first six men he faced, and struck out the side in the first four innings.

The 1986 high school graduate allowed seven walks and one hit. He has yielded only two hits in 13 innings this year and was named the tournament's most valuable player for the second straight season.

Shannon Dorsey supplied Wayne with a 1-0 lead in the top of the first when he singled, advanced to second and scored on a log single by Hausmann to right-center.

Wayne then pushed across four runs in the third. Dorsey started the inning by reaching on an error and two outs later scored on Don Larsen's towering home run to dead-center.

Russ Longe followed by drawing a walk and moved to third on Scott Baker's double. Brent Pick then drove home both base runners with a scorching line-drive just beyond Fremont's diving first baseman.

Wayne stacked on two more markers in the fourth when Ted Lueders singled and Hausmann walked. Both runners scored on a Fremont error.

Tim Fleming scored a run for Wayne in the fifth when he walked, advanced to second and crossed the plate on a Lueders single. Lueders also scored in the fifth.

Wayne closed out its scoring in the sixth when Larsen was hit by a pitch and moved to second when Fremont booted pinch-hitter Jason Jorgensen's grounder. Baker then plated Larsen with a single and Jorgenson scored on Pick's third hit of the game.

Fremont's only run was unearned. Fremont's leadoff hitter of the fourth drew a walk, stole second and third before scoring on an error.

Lueders and Baker both finished 2-for-4, while Pick went 3-for-3. Pick added three RBI, while Lueders and Baker both drove home two runs apiece.

In addition to Wayne's 7-0 opening round victory over Coleridge, the '86 champions came from behind to down O'Neill 14-8 in the semifinals.

Wayne players that joined Hausmann on the All-Tournament Team were Lueders, Pick, Baker and Larsen. Rounding out the team were: Greg Appleby, O'Neill; Don Graham, Coleridge; Brian Graunke, Fremont; and Al Winterstein, Fremont.

The victory improved Wayne's record to 3-0 on the year.

Wayne's Don Larsen (right) and head coach Hank Overin share a handshake and a laugh after Larsen homered in the championship game of the Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament.

Tournament named after ballplayer

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was taken from the 1986 Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament program.

Charles "Chuck" Ellis was an outstanding young baseball player who helped lead Wakefield's Junior Legion Team to the Ralph Bishop League, the District 3 and Area A Championships in 1968. The team also won the runner-up trophy at the Nebraska State Tournament and finished the season with 31 wins and nine losses.

A one car accident early on Sunday, April 19, 1970, claimed the life of Chuck Ellis, 17, and seriously injured two of his Wakefield High School friends. Born on Nov. 13, 1952, he was the son of Eileen and Ronald Bishop.

Members of the 1969 team will remember the stolen bases, great plays and home runs, but above all they will remember Chuck as a friend and teammate.

For the past 15 years, Wakefield has held the Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament on Memorial Day weekend. The tournament has brought together outstanding high school and Legion teams from the Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska region.

Most of the teams have experienced recent championships of one kind or another, and many of them travel a great distance in order to compete against the region's best in the tourney. For example, Aberdeen, S.D. traveled 700 miles to participate in 1977 and 1978.

Beginning with four teams in 1972, the tournament has grown in popularity until there is now a waiting list of teams seeking an invitation to join the tourney field.

The tournament has attracted a number of outstanding ball players. Ken Cvejdik of Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson's championship team pitched for the Class AAA American American Association Omaha Royals. Many others have started with college nines throughout the Midwest.

One of the best teams to play in the tournament was the 1981 Nebraska Federal team from Omaha Creighton Prep. They went on to repeat as Nebraska Class A champions, won the Midwest Regional Tournament and finished the season in the National American Legion World Series at Sumner, South Carolina. Nebraska Federal posted a record of 91 wins and nine losses (27-1 high school, 64-7 Legion).

Wayne splits Wakefield doubleheader

WAKEFIELD — To say that Wayne's 15-and-under softball opened the 1986 softball season with a bang is an understatement. Wayne belted 12 hits and routed Wakefield 26-4 here Tuesday night.

Wayne's 18-and-under squad dropped a 15-5 decision to Wakefield.

Wayne's 15-and-under squad scored in every inning except the first and tallied 16 markers in the second frame. The visitors then added 10 runs in the third before the game was called.

Wakefield scored once in the first, once in the second and twice in the third.

Robin Luff and Traci Gamble led Wayne's offensive attack with three hits apiece, while Lisa Hansen finished 2-for-4 and Tonya Erxleben slugged a home run.

Kelli Elsberry, Dana Nelson and Karmyn Koenig totaled one hit apiece for Wayne.

Nelson yielded just two hits over four innings to pick up the win for Wayne.

In the 18-and-under contest, the game was evenly played during the first four innings as Wakefield held a slim 6-5 advantage heading into the fifth. However, Wakefield erupted for four runs in the fifth and five more in the sixth to blow the game wide open.

Wayne's most productive inning was the third when the visitors scored four times to tie the game at four.

Sioux City West sweeps Wayne's Juniors

Sioux City West traveled to Wayne Tuesday night and swept a doubleheader from the Junior Legion squad at Overin Park. West claimed a 7-3 victory in the opener and breezed to an 11-3 triumph in the nightcap.

The first game was evenly played over the first three innings as West held a slim 3-2 advantage. But West pushed across four runs in the top of the fifth and went on to post the four-run victory.

Scott Baker scored Wayne's first run when he doubled to lead off the second and crossed the plate on Tim Fleming's RBI single.

Wayne's second run came in the third when Jeff Hausmann singled, moved to third on Brent Pick's single and scored on Jason Jorgensen's single.

Wayne's final run came in the fifth. Ted Lueders reached base on a West error, advanced to second and scored on Hausmann's third straight single.

In addition to Hausmann's three hits, Pick, Jorgensen and Baker all collected one safety piece.

Pick was Wayne's starting pitcher before Lueders relieved him in the fifth.

West opened a 5-0 lead in the third inning of the nightcap and added six more markers over the final two frames in a lopsided 11-3 win.

Wayne's first two runs came in the fourth. Hausmann led off the inning with a double to right-center and one out later Scott Nichols poked a 340-foot two-run homer over the left-field fence.

Wayne's final run came in the seventh. Casey Nichols reached on a fielder's choice and Shannon Dorcey plated him with a double over the leftfielder's head.

Hausmann was Wayne's starting pitcher for Wayne but hurtled just one inning (46 pitches) before giving way to Don Larsen.

Larsen has had control problems so far this year and although he did walk seven batters over the final six innings, he turned in a steady performance.

Hank Overin, Wayne's head coach, said he cut Larsen's stride down and changed his delivery to more of a three-quarters style.

"He isn't striding out as far as he was, and he was throwing the ball to straight over so we have him throwing at three-quarters now," Overin said.

Dan Gross joined Hausmann, Nichols and Dorcey by collecting a hit in the nightcap.

Wayne plays again Friday when Sioux City Heelan travels to town. The first game is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

O'Neill and Norfolk down Wayne's Juniors

O'Neill erupted for six runs in the fourth inning and dealt Wayne's Junior Legion 'B' team an 8-2 loss in the 4th annual Wayne Junior Legion Baseball Tournament at Overin Park Sunday.

The first three innings featured a pitching duel between Wayne's Brent Pick and O'Neill's Greg Appleby. However, O'Neill slugged out four hits in the fourth and capitalized on two Wayne errors and a walk for its six-run eruption.

The visitors opened a 1-0 lead in the third on a single, stolen base and a force play. But Wayne answered that with a run of its own in the third.

Ted McCrigh opened Wayne's third with a walk, moved to second on a force play, advanced to third on a sacrifice by Bill Landanger and scored on a sacrifice fly by Russ Longe.

Wayne added another run in the sixth when Cody Nichols singled, advanced to third and crossed the plate on a sacrifice fly by Jason Jorgensen.

But O'Neill answered with another run in the top of the seventh and Appleby recorded the final three outs to supply O'Neill with the victory and the journey's title.

Wayne totaled just three hits in the game. In addition to Nichols' sixth inning single, Jorgensen singled in the first and Dan Gross singled in the seventh.

Most of Wayne's regulars from its 'A' team did not play or were used in reserve roles.

Norfolk's Juniors tallied five runs in the first inning, added four more in the fifth and one more in the sixth for a 10-4 victory over Wayne's Juniors in the 4th annual Wayne Junior Legion Baseball Tournament at Overin Park Sunday.

Wayne opened a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Shannon Dorcey started the first by walking and Ted Lueders followed with a single. After an out, Don Larsen singled to load the bases and Scott Baker clubbed a two-run single.

Larsen advanced to third on Baker's hit and scored on a Dan Gross grounder.

Norfolk came right back, however, by scoring five runs in its first at bat. Norfolk collected only one hit in the first, but took advantage of six walks. Two passed balls and a hit batsman.

Wayne was shut out over the next four innings and Norfolk exploded for four more markers in the fifth and one more in the sixth.

Norfolk collected three hits in the fifth and capitalized on three walks and a Wayne error.

Wayne scored once in the sixth when Gross reached on a fielder's choice, advanced to second and scored on a Tim Fleming single.

Wayne totaled five hits in the loss, including a 2-for-2 performance by Baker, Lueders, Larsen and Fleming collected the other Wayne hits.

Wakefield ends hitting slump

Wakefield town team whips Wisner

WISNER — Wakefield's town team snapped out of its hitting slump and whipped Wisner 6-2 here Sunday afternoon.

Wakefield totaled just four hits in each of its first three games, but Sunday matched its season output with 12 safeties.

"We finished with 12 hits and that's very encouraging," Wakefield coach Joe Coble said. "We only had a total of 12 hits in our first three games but the guys look like they're starting to come together."

Wakefield scored as many runs as they needed in the first inning. Brian Soderberg started the ball rolling with a one-out single and then stole second.

Rob Eaton, Mike Clay and Troy Greve then followed with two-out RBI singles to supply the visitors with a 3-0 advantage.

Wisner tallied one run in its half of the first, but Wakefield countered with one run in second, third and fourth frames.

In Wakefield's second, Wayne Guy reached first on an error and was sacrificed to second by Mark Kubik. Paul Calvert then delivered an RBI single.

Eaton accounted for Wakefield's fifth run with a 380-foot solo home run to left-center field in the third.

Wakefield rounded out its scoring in the fourth when Guy doubled and scored on Calvert's second RBI single.

Wisner scored its other run in the third.

Mike Starzl pitched the first 5 1/2 innings for Wakefield to earn his first win of the year. He is now 1-1.

Starzl was forced to leave in the sixth because of a back injury. Bob Utemark came in and hurled the final 3 1/2 for the save.

Starzl isn't the only Wakefield player with back problems. Mike Meyer has missed the last two games because of a back injury.

"Starzl injured his back while pitching in Sunday's game, but he's had trouble with his back for several years now," Coble said. "And Meyer has missed the last two games because of a sore back."

Longe guides Wayne

WAKEFIELD — When Russ Longe had to bear down, he did just that. Longe bounced back from a rough fifth inning by pitching brilliantly in the last two frames in Wayne's Junior Legion 'B' baseball team's 4-3 victory over Wakefield here Monday night.

Wakefield staged a mild comeback in the fifth inning by scoring two runs and cutting Wayne's lead to a slim 4-3 advantage.

Todd Kralick singled to start the Wakefield fifth and one-out later Stuart Clark and Jason Erb clubbed back-to-back triples. But that's when the fun stopped for Wakefield, and Longe went to work.

Longe retired seven of the last eight batters he faced over the final 2 1/2 innings and three of the final six outs came on strikeouts.

John Halverson was the only Wakefield batter to reach Longe in the final 2 1/2 innings when he stroked a harmless two-out double in the sixth.

Wayne opened a 2-0 lead in the first. Bill Landanger started the game by walking and after advancing to third, he scored on a Wakefield miscue. Longe also scored in the first after walking, advancing to second on a balk and crossing the plate on a Jason Jorgensen grounder.

Wakefield's Kirt Roberts scored his team's first run in the bottom of the first when he singled, advanced on an error and crossed the plate on a force play.

Wayne scored its other two markers in the third. Longe led off the inning with a home run and Jorgensen also scored on a series of passed balls and errors. Other than the first and fifth innings, Longe pitched almost flawlessly. He retired the side in order in the third, fourth and seventh frames and finished with eight strikeouts compared to one walk.

Wayne totaled just four hits, compared to six by Wakefield.

Wakefield almost didn't have a Junior Legion team this year, but coach Paul Eaton combined players from Allen and Laurel and several of his Midget players to form a squad.

Wayne downs Wakefield

WAKEFIELD — Wayne's Midgets held off a late Wakefield rally and claimed a 6-3 victory here Monday night.

Wayne held a comfortable 6-1 advantage heading into the sixth inning before Wakefield struck for two runs in the sixth to cut the lead in half. However, Wayne pitcher Scott Hammer eventually got out of trouble and the visitors hung on for the win.

Wayne opened a 3-0 lead in the second inning when Jarrod Wood and Tom Baler both walked and eventually crossed the plate on Scott Pokett's double. Pokett later scored on a Greg Schmidt single.

Wakefield bounced back with a run in bottom second. Doug Roberts led the inning off by reaching base before advancing on an error and scoring on two consecutive sacrifices.

Wayne added three more runs in the fourth. Baler started the inning by drawing a walk, and Brian Sherman followed with a single.

Schmidt plated Baler with a single and Sherman and Schmidt both scored on a series of force plays.

Andy McAndrew and Roberts started the Wakefield sixth by singling and walking, respectively, before scoring on Stuart Clark's clutch two-out single. But Hammer eventually recorded the final out and Wayne escaped with its first win in two outings.

Wayne collected just four hits in the game, including two by Schmidt and one each by Sherman and Pokett.

Wakefield finished with five safeties. Jason Lund, McAndrews, Roberts, Clark and Mark Johnson all collected hits for the hosts. Roberts' hit was a lead off triple in the fourth inning.

Washburn also has a two week European tour planned for the spring of 1987.

Wayne Booster meeting June 5

The Blue Devil Booster Club will have a general meeting Thursday, June 5, at 8 p.m. at the commons area in the high school.

Election of board members will be held at the meeting.

Tennis registration June 5

Registration for the Wayne Summer Tennis Program will be held Thursday, June 5 from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the shelter by the swimming pool.

Tennis will be offered to juniors (ages 9 through 19), adults and intermediate adults. Those adults registering for intermediate classes must be able to correctly execute a forehand, backhand, volley and serve.

Classes will be held June 9 through July 3 during the mornings on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. Lessons are free to Wayne natives who have paid their fee to the Wayne Recreation Fund. There will be a small charge to those not living in Wayne.

During the four week period, juniors will once again use the United States Tennis Association skill drills and test.

It is very important, for schedule purposes, that participants pre-register. After registration, a summer schedule will be revealed.

Economic conditions a factor

What causes cattle cycles?

Backyard mosquito control
Mosquitos not only cause discomfort as a result of their bites, but they are also potential transmitters of diseases such as encephalitis and dog heartworm.

Mosquitos are most abundant during the spring and summer in areas where there is a lot of standing water. Most early season mosquito problems are caused by flood water mosquitos which emerge from low lying areas that were flooded by melting snow and rain. Later in the season, permanent water and artificial container mosquitos become more of a problem.

Any area that contains standing water can serve as a breeding site for several mosquito species. These areas include leaf-clogging house guttering, bird baths, rain pools, drainage ditches, sewage lagoons, old tires, cans, bottles and any other rain-catching receptacles.

Since mosquitos do not recognize boundaries, effective mosquito control is best achieved on a community-wide or regional basis.

Effective community-wide mosquito control involves 1.) source reduction (elimination of breeding sites through drainage and/or filling-in of low-lying areas), 2.) eliminating the immatures and 3.) eliminating the adults.

CONTROL PROCEDURES that can be implemented by homeowners to reduce the problems include the following:

1. Eliminate standing water in low lying areas, drainage ditches, and house guttering by clearing water drainage routes.
2. Remove all rain-catching receptacles and rinse out bird baths on a weekly basis.
3. Shrubbery (which often serves as a mosquito resting site) can be sprayed with methoxychlor or malathion.
4. Aerosol space sprays containing pyrethrins and piperonal butoxide effectively control mosquitos that enter the home, garage, and/or animal premises. They can also be used in the yard, but will require repeated treatments since they rapidly dissipate.
5. Physical barriers such as screens and netting effectively include mosquitos from homes and outdoor patios.
6. Insect repellents containing DEET are available, which deter mosquitos from biting. These can be purchased as sprays or lotions and are usually effective for 4-6 hours.
7. Mosquitos are more readily attracted to dark colors than to lighter colors, so wearing tightly woven, light-colored clothing reduces one's attractiveness to mosquitos.
8. Mosquitos are also attracted to light; therefore any reduction in unnecessary lighting will decrease the number of mosquitos in the vicinity. Make sure window screens are in place in lighted rooms during the evening and turn off porch and flood lights when not in use. If it is necessary to operate outdoor lighting throughout the night, use yellow lights which are generally less attractive to insects. Finally, it should be noted that electrified bug zappers have been shown to be ineffective at controlling mosquitos in an outdoor setting.

Cattle cycles have been around for a long time, and their causes and effects are still of strong concern to cattle producers. A look at the "anatomy" of the cattle cycle is in order, tied to present conditions in the cattle industry, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension economist said.

Al Wellman, a livestock marketing specialist, said cattle cycles are caused by the economics of the beef cow enterprise, producers' collective production decisions in response to economic conditions and by the biological time lag between the time that producers make the decisions to build the herd and the actual time that more beef is ready for sale.

The biology of the beef cow is such that once producers receive the economic signal to expand the beef cow herd, it is two to three years before they actually market more cattle, Wellman pointed out. This time lag is the driving force behind cattle cycles.

U.S. cattle numbers reached a record peak of 132 million in 1975, and then record economic losses set in motion the end of the 1970s cattle cycle and stimulated the rapid reduction of cattle numbers in the 1975-77 period.

High profits in 1977 and 1979 set the stage for the next cycle in the early 1980s, and this cattle cycle peaked in 1982, Wellman said. Cattle number have decreased each year since then, he said.

"The period 1975 to 1985 has been boom and bust for cow-calf producers, compared to the period from 1970 to 1974 when profits within the industry appear to have exceeded losses every year," the economist said.

OVER THE LONG RUN, beef cow producers should expect to earn the fair market value or opportunity cost for all resources used in beef cow production, he said. However, short run profits can be positive or negative.

If the beef cow enterprise continues to earn short-run economic profit over all costs of production, producers will expand their cow numbers, and this expansion will continue until the increased supply overtake demand, driving short-run economic profits down. When economic profits become negative, producers will reduce the numbers, which will decrease supply.

As cow numbers go down, the possibility of profits will motivate producer to again increase cow numbers, setting the stage for the next cattle cycle. Historically, Wellman said, cattle cycles have lasted from nine to 12 years.

In about half of the last 14 years, profits have been positive for Nebraska beef cow herds, Wellman reported. But for the last nine years they were negative. "If producers study profit projections and compare them to the cattle cycle, they will see a relatively strong relationship between economic profits and national cattle number increases and decreases," he said.

IT IS IMPORTANT for Nebraska producers to note three facts about the current cattle cycle, Wellman said, and each fact should affect marketing strategies.

- This is the first cycle on record to peak at a level lower than the previous cycle.
- This was the shortest cycle on record.
- The U.S. cattle herd is being down-sized.

"Clearly, cattle marketing in the mid-80s is significantly different than cattle marketing in previous decades. Research studies have documented that a shift in beef demand has occurred," the specialist noted.

Nebraska is following the national trend and is also down-sizing its cow herd, he noted. The current replacement heifer number and the number of cull cows being sent to slaughter are sufficient reason to believe that Nebraska will continue to decrease its herd for one to three more years, he predicted.

Given this background, producers should more nearly be able to understand the impact of the rapid buildup in cattle numbers during the first half of the last decade, and why profits have been so volatile in the last 10 years, Wellman said.

"Before Nebraska's beef cow producers will again collectively increase beef cow numbers, the prospect of long-run economic profits will need to be visible to the beef cow industry. If the cattle cycle does turn around in the late 1980s, as some are suggesting, now may just be the time for an individual producer to increase his beef cow numbers," Wellman concluded.

Doubleheader?

MOTORISTS TRAVELING south on Highway 15 last Thursday might have initially thought they saw a two-headed horse. However, it was actually two horses standing side-by-side facing different directions.

the farmer's wife

by pat meierhenry

Well, now that I've offended all the bankers in the area, I'd like to offer a few words of explanation. In case some of you do not subscribe to a newspaper that carries Ann Landers, or in case you don't read Ann Landers, there was a letter in her column on Wednesday of last week signed "Mrs. M., Hoskins, NE."

Mary Pat Finn, who hails from nearby Carroll, is the editor of that column for the Norfolk Daily News. When that letter showed up, of course she noted that the town was in their circulation area. She looked at the clues in the letter, and she decided she knew Mrs. M.

Obviously, Ann Landers does not realize how small Hoskins, Nebraska is. Mary Pat was not the only one who realized that Mrs. M. was probably the one person who habitually shoots off her mouth via letters to the editor.

So Mary Pat called me, we got together and visited about the letter, and she wrote a little article about the Hoskins farm wife responding to an Omaha banker's wife. Problem was, the letter appeared about three months ago and many had forgotten it.

The original letter has asked what made bankers appear sexy; money or power, or both? Ann gave a non-committal answer, and I remember thinking I had never thought of the bankers I knew in that way. (I've since learned that sexy, as beauty, is in the eye of the beholder.)

THE NEXT LETTER, the one from Omaha, sort of resented the inference that other females might find her husband appealing. Plus, she went on to say, her husband had been under so much stress lately, because of the "mismanagement" of the farmer clients of the bank.

I'm sorry, but that got my dander up. I'd written to Ann Landers before, and she never printed them, so I fired off another missile. I told my sis about it, and then forgot all of it. This time, Ann fooled me. She printed it, complete with my initial and address.

When the World-Herald arrived on Wednesday morning, the fun began. The hospital administrator met me at the door with a grin, saying he'd had several belligerent calls from irate bankers.

A physician friend stopped me in the hall and asked if I would be doing a survey of the "sexiness" of other professions.

I couldn't figure out how to tell the Big Farmer what I'd done, so I didn't. Vernon Behmer called at noon to tell him to check his paper.

Sue's roommate came in to Arby's with the North Platte paper, saying "This is your Mom. I'm sure it is." My Mom had already alerted her to check the Lincoln paper.

THE BEST PART of the day was about 9 p.m., when our best man, who teaches at North Carolina State, and his wife, a banker, called. She said, "You wrote that letter. I know you did." That made it all worthwhile.

I've put off responding to all the letters in that column about nursing, what uniforms are appropriate, how difficult the work is, and how unappreciated we all are. But I may have to say something soon about the one who was in bed with her patient, and the one who defended this action, stating she may have only been "comforting" him. I enjoyed the one that asked how she found the time!

You know, Ann and her twin, Abby, will be in Sioux City this month for their 50-year class reunion. I think I should invite her to Hoskins to learn more about Agriculture.

I'm scribbling this on Sunday night, at a "Gospel Sing" in Winslow. This has become an annual event, a fund-raiser for Methodist Hospital Chemical Dependency Center, and we have a good time.

Master of Ceremonies is Sandy Carpenter, the minister who looks like Buffalo Bill. You should see him in his Randolph Centennial outfit.

A retired post master joins Sandy and an 80 year old semi-retired minister on trumpets. A mother of six, grandmother of seven, sings Sandi Pathi music.

Shirley Carpenter, also a grandmother, thrills us with her amazing voice. A mother and daughter sing and play duets. We clap our hands and stamp our feet and just generally have a good time. It's better therapy than anything to Ann Landers. Try it sometime.

Options discussed on what to do with PIK certificates

Editor's Note: Nebraska crop producers enrolled in the 1986 farm program are receiving, or soon will receive, PIK certificates from their county ASCS office. The certificates will go to virtually all producers, whether owner-operator, landlord or tenant, who have not already received certificates. The certificates are generally "generic"—they are negotiable instruments that can be used in dealing with the commodity of the producer's choice. The PIK certificates being issued represent 25 percent of advance deficiency payments. Having the virtual status of a cashier's check, the handsome certificates should not be treated lightly—such as left lying on the seat of a pickup. The question facing many producers is "what do I do with the certificates, when I get them?" Available options range from taking immediate action to holding the certificates until September 30. The following analysis by University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension economist-grain marketing Lynn Lutgen looks at several scenarios which might logically occur under certain circumstances. There may be variations of these scenarios and no one scenario would necessarily fit an individual farmer's own unique situation. However, producers may find it useful to place themselves in a scenario to help develop strategies on how and when to take some action with regard to the certificates.

What to do with that PIK Certificate?
In the ballad entitled "The Gambler," Kenny Rogers sang of the wisdom of knowing "when to hold them (the cards) and when to fold them..."

Nebraska grain producers are faced with a similar challenge when they receive their PIK certificates in the mail.

Scenario #1 is the simplest to understand and may be the least desirable: a certificate owner can hold it until after Sept. 30, 1986, and then turn it over to the local ASCS office for redemption in cash. Under this "do-nothing" scenario, the certificate holder would receive a check for the face value of the certificate, minus the automatic deduction of 4.3 percent, courtesy of Gramm-Rudman.

Scenario #2 would likely apply more to landlords than to tenant/operators: a situation where the certificate holder has no grain under loan or in the reserve and thus could not turn in a certificate for an entitlement to grain in storage. The options are available to hold the certificate or to sell it to another party. A number of factors come into play immediately as to whether the producer would benefit more by holding the certificate or selling it.

At the end of May, certificates were being sold for 104 percent of face value—a premium of $4 on each $100 increment. Certificates were being purchased by other farmers, including cattle feeders, and by commercial buyers—elevators or grain dealers.

The certificates are creating a market of their own, with the same type of supply and demand dynamics as in a commodity market itself, Lutgen said. A certificate holder must make a judgement on whether the price for certificates is expected to rise or fall in coming weeks.

THERE IS A good possibility the price paid for certificates will decline as more certificates are received and are circulated, Lutgen said. Depending on a number of other considerations, including the immediate need to augment cash flow, it may pay to sell now "and get it while you can," the specialist commented.

Both grain warehouse operators and farmers wanting to clear grain out of granaries in anticipation of pressure on storage this fall, may be motivated to purchase certificates, which, when presented to the ASCS, will allow grain to be moved.

Buying certificates by some parties for speculation alone is not an unrealistic expectation, Lutgen said.

Scenario #3 would involve a farmer with grain in storage and/or under loan. Again, he can use it as an instrument to "forgive" grain under government loan, cutting off the interest on the loan before its normal maturity.

The amount of bushels "forgiven" will depend on the amount of the county posted price on the day the certificate is signed over to the ASCS. As an example, a $1,000 value PIK certificate redeemed when the county price is $2.35 would cover approximately 425 bushels of grain as compared to just turning the grain over to ASCS in fulfillment of the loan. If the county loan were $2.50 per bushel, only about 400 bushels would be forgiven.

IT IS POSSIBLE, IF the farmer can afford it "sit on the certificate," and speculate that the county-posted price, influenced by an expected dip in cash grain prices in late summer and early fall, might dip to say $2.25, Lutgen said. This would allow about 44.5 bushels to be forgiven with a $1,000 certificate. Many 1985 crop loans will mature Aug. 31 or later.

Scenario #4 might involve a grain producer who wants to enter or stay in the reserve program. In order to raise funds to build on-farm storage, for instance, he might sell his certificates early in the game.

Why would one farmer, other than a livestock feeder, want to buy certificates from his neighbors, Lutgen asked. He answered that a farmer with a large amount of grain to move out of storage can take certificates, his own and those he purchased, (the back of each certificate has several blanks for succeeding assignments to another party) to the ASCS office and get entitlements allowing him to move more grain out.

In order to generate cash flow for various purposes, some farmers may wish to consider selling certificates now, perhaps sacrificing the possibility of a little gain later on, Lutgen said.

One incentive is to pay bills on farm production inputs, such as seed, fertilizer and agricultural chemicals, he said, to save paying interest on these balances over the summer.

Landlords who have the freedom to invest proceeds from a farm operation and do not have to hold it to pay operating expenses need to consider the possible amount of interest lost on investments if they elect to hold their certificates until this fall rather than selling them now, Lutgen said.

Sorghum NOT approved

Some confusion exists on the planting of bin-run sorghum on farm program reserve acres, according to Chuck Francis, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension crops specialist. "Sorghum, soybeans and corn are not approved for the Annual Conservation Reserve Program," he said. Art Zinnell of the State ASCS office said use of those crops will be cause for non-compliance. The long-term set-aside Conservation Reserve Program does permit the use of bin-run sorghum, provided it is clipped before going to seed. "We do not recommend its use, however," Francis said, "because of the chance of infesting new areas with shattercane and other weedy type contaminants. County ASCS offices have specific recommendations for crops to plant on set aside acres."

'86 Ag Expo

"Improving the Good life" is the theme for the 1986 Ag Expo July 26 at the University of Nebraska Agricultural Research and Development Center near Mead. The free event begins at 9 a.m. July 26 with educational and commercial exhibits, demonstrations, tours and entertainment. The varied program will highlight developments in lawn and garden, alternative crops, home and family and food processing. Special features will include the Backyard Farmer television panel, safety demonstrations, energy integrated farm, farm and garden equipment, and bus tours of the 9,500-acre facility. There will be a noon program and a polka band. Lunch may be purchased on the grounds.

Tillage Day at Walthill on July 10

The Cooperative Extension Service has announced the date for the Conservation Tillage Field Day held annually in Thurston County. The event, held cooperatively with the Soil Conservation Service and the Middle Missouri Natural Resource District, will be on July 10 beginning at 3 p.m.

A special feature for this year's field day will be a display of farmers' inventions. Area farmers who have made equipment modifications or inventions are encouraged to contact the Extension Office at 846-5656. According to Extension Agent, Andy Christiansen, "we are looking for any type of invention, whether or not it is related to conservation tillage. There are a lot of guys out there with torches and no one is more inventive than a farmer."

While the theme for the field day is conservation tillage, Christiansen says "the idea of the field day is to have a good time with your friends and we'll coincidentally chat about reduced tillage sorts of things."

Other highlights of the field day will be comparison plots of conventional tillage and no-till corn in alfalfa and soybeans. A compaction plot will be trenched to look at the effects of working wet fields and the usual meal and refreshments will be served.

The site for this year's field day will be Mike and Janice Cooney's farm and fertilizer business, 1 mile north of hiway 94, two miles west of Walthill.

County Red Cross scholarships available

In the mid 1940's, Wayne resident Hatfield Jacobs left a sizeable amount of money to the Wayne County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The local Red Cross set up a program in 1949, and since then scholarships have been awarded to 84 county residents.

The scholarships are worth $500 per year and are for a maximum of three years.

A little over $22,000 has been awarded to those 84 who have benefited from Mrs. Jacobs' gift.

THREE APPLICATIONS were received for the 1986-87 school year, however only one scholarship was available.

Antacids For Calcium?

Most women now know that one of the three ways to help prevent osteoporosis is by making sure there is sufficient calcium in the diet — 1,000 mg of elemental calcium per day before menopause and 1,500 mg after menopause. The other two approaches that complement calcium are obtaining regular exercise throughout life and, for some women, taking estrogen supplements after menopause.

Recent advertisements for at least one antacid tablet suggest that the product be used because it is a source of calcium. An antacid tablet that contains only calcium carbonate would be an acceptable, although expensive, calcium supplement for long-term use.

But before taking antacid tablets instead of traditional calcium supplements, consider the following: (1) Some antacids contain no calcium and, therefore, are worthless as calcium supplements. (2) Antacids containing calcium carbonate plus other antacids (such as aluminum and magnesium salts) may stimulate stomach acid after long-term use and could cause chronic upset stomach (gastritis). (3) Antacids containing aluminum salts may be constipating and could actually drive calcium out of the body by increasing its excretion.
