Wayne chamber reviving old-time Saturday night

Remember the old-fashioned Saturday nights in Wayne?

The ice cream socials, the flea markets, and the long visits with friends and neighbors in from the country.

It will be a Saturday night revival of sorts next week when the Wayne Chamber of Commerce turns back the clock with Country Store Day.

Highlighting the Saturday, June 14 event will be a free bratwurst supper served by volunteers from the ag council division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Many Wayne businesses also will feature "old-time" specials throughout the day.

PHYLIS SPETHMAN, interim executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, said Third Street, between Main and Pearl, will be blocked off throughout the day and many activities will take place at that location, including the free bratwurst supper.

In addition to homemade bratwurst, grilled outdoors, there will be chips and a drink. Serving will be from 6 to 8 p.m.

Spethman stressed that although the supper is free, tickets for the event must be picked up from sponsoring Wayne businesses by Thursday, June 12. For those who forget, tickets will be on sale at the feed.

In the event of rain, the supper will be served inside Wayne city auditorium.

OTHER ACTIVITIES scheduled to take place inside the auditorium include a flower show and ice cream social.

Outside, there will be a Town and Country Flea Market, a beer garden and horseshoe pitching, a square dance, free popcorn, antique autos, clowns, a bicycle rodeo for youngsters, and a Chicken Show preview and balloon lift.

The communities of Carroll, Beemer, Randolph and Plainview also will be in Wayne that day to promote their upcoming centennial celebrations.

THE FLOWER SHOW is being coordinated by Gail Korn of Garden Perennials, with assistance by members of the Roving Gardeners Club, and will include judging of entries.

Korn said all interested persons are invited to display (at no cost) any type of flower. The display may be a potted plant, a single specimen, a bouquet, or other type of arrangement.

Because the show falls on Flag Day, in addition to Country Store Day, there will be two categories — one with a patriotic theme and the other associated with the Country Store Day theme.

Korn said three individuals will judge the entries, with ribbons to be given away. In addition, the winning entry in each of the themes will receive $10 in Chamber bucks.

Entrants may bring their flowers to the city auditorium from 8:30 to 10 a.m. on June 14, with judging beginning at 10 a.m.

Flower entries will be open for public viewing from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

ALSO SCHEDULED to take place at the city auditorium is an ice cream social sponsored by members of Wayne Chapter 194 Order of the Eastern Star.

President Trixie Newman said serving will begin at 4 p.m. and continue throughout the evening in the Woman's Club room located inside the auditorium.

Ice cream, pie, cake, coffee and tea will be served, and tickets can be purchased at the door.

TAKING PLACE outside all day Saturday will be a Town and Country Flea Market.

Spethman said the flea market, including such things as crafts and baked goods, is open to all interested persons. Exhibitors will begin setting up at 8:30 a.m. and must provide their own tables and other supplies.

There is a $10 reservation fee, and persons interested in exhibiting at the flea market are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce office.

ACTIVITIES EXPECTED to attract the younger generation include a bicycle rodeo in the morning and a Chicken Show balloon lift in the evening.

In charge of the bicycle rodeo is Melvin (Lefty) Lamb of the Wayne Police Department.

The balloon release for the 1986 Chicken Show is scheduled at approximately 7:30 p.m. in the alley by The Diamond Center.

As in previous years, balloons will be on sale for $1. Each purchaser of a balloon will have his name sent aloft with instructions for the finder to return the balloon by mail.

A $100 prize in Chamber bucks will be awarded to the owner of the balloon that travels the greatest distance from Wayne before the day of the Chicken Show.

This year's Chicken Show, with the theme "Legendary Chickens," will be held on July 12.

A "chicken coop" featuring t-shirts and other chicken paraphernalia to advertise the upcoming event, also will be featured during Country Store Day.

OTHER EVENTS during the Country Store Day celebration include a beer garden and horseshoe pitching, beginning at 4 p.m., at Godfather's Pizza.

Godfather's Manager Ken Kwapiowski said all interested persons are invited to pitch horseshoes just for fun. There will be no official competition.

Saturday's events also will include a square dance exhibition, sponsored by the Leather and Lace Square Dance Club, from 7 to 8 p.m. in the parking lot of Occidental/Nebraska Federal Savings Bank.

IN KEEPING WITH the Country Store theme, Spethman said the Chamber is "trying to line up" individuals with antique autos who would be interested in giving rides.

Interested antique auto owners are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce office.

Spethman said all persons attending Country Store Day are encouraged to wear centennial garb or other old-time clothing.

The work goes on

TRACTORS, PLANTERS, harrows and discs have been a familiar sight on area roads and highways during the past few weeks as farmers rush to get their crops in. Several farmers, such as the one pictured above alongside Highway 15 north of Wayne, have also started chopping hay for forage. Weather conditions have allowed farmers to get most of their crops in this past week. The weatherman is calling for a chance of rain today (Monday) and Tuesday.

Farmers invited to run for FmHA county committee

Eligible farmers in Wayne and Stanton counties are invited to become nominees for the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) county committee, according to an announcement by FmHA County Supervisor LaVern Ostendorf.

As a result of the 1985 Farm Bill, two of the three members of FmHA county committees must be elected. The third member is designated by FmHA.

The Wayne and Stanton County committee assists the FmHA county office in determining the eligibility of applicants for certain types of FmHA loans.

Generally, farmers who are residents of the county but not FmHA borrowers are eligible to become nominees for the FmHA county committee.

"FARMERS IN THIS county, serving on the committee, play an important role by assisting in the process of loan application and reviews," said Ostendorf.

Ostendorf added that for this first election only, two members will be elected at the same time. One member will be elected for a term of one year, and one member will be elected for a two-year term.

In the future, all terms of service will be for three years each on a staggered basis.

NOMINATING petitions must be returned to the FmHA Wayne County office by Monday, June 16.

Additional information and application forms for those interested in becoming a nominee for the county committee are available at the FmHA county office, 120 Logan St., Wayne, or by calling 375-2360.

Former resident reflects on Wayne

Editor's Note: The author of this column which appeared in the Monday, May 5 edition of The Albuquerque Tribune is David Nordstrand, a former resident of Wayne and a 1969 graduate of Wayne State College. Upon his graduation here, he went to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and then went on to the University of Missouri at Columbia.

David is a columnist for the Tribune. He is the son of the late Norman Nordstrand, a former professor at Wayne State College. His mother, Lillian, still resides in Wayne.

Avoid terrorism, they said. Vacation stateside. See America!

Well, I was planning on it. By car, too. My confidence in flying in an airplane is about as high as my confidence in flying without an airplane.

Besides, you don't absorb the same feel for your country flying over it as driving across it.

No, take Interstate 40 through Santa Rosa. Turn left in Tucumcari. Have a hamburger in Dalhart, Texas. Watch the antelope herd across the highway near Meade, Kansas. Breathe the deeply that fragrance of freshly turned earth.

You're right. San Francisco and Las Vegas are the other way.

No mistake though. My destination was Wayne, America, a rolling farm town with red cobblestone streets, newly mowed lawns and elm trees stretching into cottony clouds. Wayne is 1,000 miles northeast of Albuquerque in the Midwest or "Heartland."

Actually, it's Wayne, Nebraska. Someone dubbed it Wayne, America during the Centennial and the name stuck.

I believe I am the only tourist from anywhere ever to visit Wayne, at least on a regular basis. That's partly because it's my home town.

But here's an attraction that never fails to rejuvenate me. It's not quite Mayberry R.F.D. You're not going to see Goober tending the gas stations. But like Mayberry and many other smaller American communities, Wayne is partially fixed in a pleasant time warp.

Many old American community virtues are still intact. There's that marvelous sense of security, for example.

You can still leave your house and car doors unlocked when you go shopping, and you don't need to tote the Mace can for the after-dinner walk.

There are no dope dealers in the city park, no hookers propping Main Street, no chain link fences, no XXX porno palaces.

It's civilized in the way America was meant to be. Of course, 100 miles to the south, in Omaha, one can find all the vices one wants — or so I've been told.

My wife and I went to pick up some groceries in Wayne.

"A strange custom," she said. "They're just smiling at us." I explained.

"I know, but we're perfect strangers."

I heard a tourism expert on the national news. He said Nebraska was one of four or five states with no major tourist attractions. He's probably right. It can get boring in Wayne. Going down to the new Dairy Queen or the one theater is about it.

So it's not Disneyland. Still being able to go shopping and leave your house unlocked ought to be worth something in this troubled world.

First Boys State held in 1938

By Betty Loudon
Nebraska State
Historical Society

In June, 1938, 254 boys from all over Nebraska headed for Lincoln and the opening day of Cornhusker Boys' State. This was the first session of what has become an annual event. (This year's Boys' State opens June 8.)

Cornhusker Boys' State is organized and promoted by the state's American Legion. The first session was so successful that at its close the Legion's department commander, Ted Metcalfe of Omaha, announced Boys' State would be a permanent organization.

Now in its 48th year, an average of 400 boys have attended each session. Boys' State counterpart, Girls' State, was organized by the American Legion Auxiliary a year later, and 101 girls attended the 1939 session. Today, about 400 girls are at each session, also.

Both Boys' State and Girls' State were set aside during the war years. "Rosy-cheeked" William A. Datoe of Tecumseh, the Nationalist candidate, was first governor of Boys' State. His opponent was Robert Schwartz of Broken Bow, the Federalist candidate.

Since spies have infiltrated party caucuses and conventions, the platforms of the two parties were almost identical. The highlight of the pre-election campaign, according to newspapers, was the debate between Datoe and Schwartz as each tried to outwit the other on "hydros, coordinated law agencies, taxation, liquor sales, conservation, irrigation and crop control."

Nebraska then was the "white spot of the nation," because it had no sales or state income tax. Discussion about whether to inaugurate a sales tax to provide salaries for the "underpaid teachers" occupied the Nationalists whereas the Federalists vehemently opposed a sales tax as a violation of the "white-spot principle."

Dale Newsham of Ashland, a disabled WWII veteran now living in Lincoln, was appointed State Athletic Director by Gov. Datoe. Newsham, who later became one of the "three horsemen" on the Midland College football team at Fremont, recently explored boxes of memorabilia that had been stored for forty-plus years.

"In my box of memories," said Newsham, "was a 1938 Boys' State pin from the first Boys' State ever held...that was my first trip away from home, which in itself was quite an event."

"Since Girls' State had not yet been started, this session was all business. No time out for dances and such."

Uni. of Nebraska football coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones was the President of Boys' State and many of his football players were counselors.

"My counselor was Roy 'Cowboy' Petsch of Torrington, Wyo., Nebraska's quarterback. We became good friends. He invited me to the National Guard encampment at Ashland to watch him box for the heavyweight championship. Roy weighed 175 pounds and fought a man 250 pounds. Roy made quite an impression on me as he won by a knockout.

"My mother had saved the pictures of all the boys at Boys' State, as well as the roster and other items. In browsing through the pictures I found Dr. Lauren Spangler a dentist from Arlington. We later played guards for Midland on the same team. Gen. Russel Pierce of the U.S. Air Force, then from Fremont, was there. He, too, went to Midland."

"There was other names that were familiar, names of those who have given their best to Nebraska and to their country."

"The Legion can certainly be commended for this opportunity to instill in young people their need for diligent protection of their country's government and fellow citizens."

And, observed Kevin Luce of Arlington who attended Boys' State in 1985, "Boys' State is a good learning experience — about how the government operates and what people have to go through during elections." Luce served as director of the State Game and Parks Commission.

Gas tax for roads

by the Nebraska Department of Roads

In answer to the question, "Why is Nebraska's gas tax so high?" the Nebraska Department of Roads has analyzed data from the six surrounding states (Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Iowa and Missouri), according to Director State Engineer Ray Hogrefe.

A comparison of the seven states' populations with their state highway receipts determined the contribution made by each citizen to that state's highway system. Also studied and compared were the percentages of their respective per capita income that such a contribution represented, the relative conditions of each state's highway systems, the relative importance that motor fuel taxes play in each state and how these funds are shared.

Based on these comparisons, Nebraskans contributed $87.16 per capita to our state highway system in fiscal year 1985, or 70 percent of their per capita income. This puts Nebraska in the middle, compared to Wyoming's high of $194.34 or 1.59 percent of their per capita income and Colorado's low contribution of $56.70 per person or 40 percent of their per capita income. When comparing the number of all roads in cities and counties, Nebraska's "middle ranking" is maintained.

Based on a review of a national highway systems study completed in 1984, the condition of Nebraska's paved highways ranked number 1 and number 3 compared to surrounding states, for urban and rural highways, respectively, in the four functional classifications considered.

Nebraska maintains a heavy reliance on motor fuel taxes to finance its highway systems (55.65 percent of four major funding sources); a reliance shared by Kansas (62.77 percent), Colorado (55.29 percent) and South Dakota (53.24 percent). Nebraska, unlike some of its neighbors, more willingly shares these receipts with its political subdivisions. Kansas, for example, only shares motor fuel tax receipts, keeping all funds generated from motor vehicle registrations, motor vehicle sales tax and other miscellaneous sources for state highways only.

While Nebraska's motor fuel tax rate is the highest of the seven state comparison, Nebraska finds itself in the middle, when comparing all highway user revenue taxes per capita. Nebraska relies more heavily on its motor fuel tax and less on other sources of revenue such as motor vehicle registrations and sales tax. With this middle of the road tax ranking, Nebraska has provided a highway condition that places us in the top three of the surrounding states.

The study also showed that while Nebraska has the highest gas tax rate of the surrounding states, the price paid at the pump by its citizens was one of the lowest; with only Missouri and Kansas ranking lower than Nebraska.

Congress spends taxes on political interests

by Cesar V. Conda
Economist

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Once again, the members of Congress are showing that they will go to any lengths — even bending the law of the land — to spend the American taxpayer's money in order to appease a politically powerful special interest.

There is strong movement among both Democrats and Republicans in Congress to give a cost-of-living adjustment increase under Social Security and other federal transfer programs despite the fact that current law does not call for any increase. This politically motivated act would cost the federal government about $4 billion in 1987 and billions of dollars more in future years.

The law mandates COLA's for Social Security and other transfer programs only if inflation rises 3 percent or more between the third quarter of the previous year and the third quarter of the current year. This trigger mechanism was agreed to by Congress for two reasons: first, it reduces the strain on the Social Security system and second, COLA adjustments below 3 percent just are not cost effective.

Recent figures on inflation have cast doubts on whether the automatic COLA will be triggered. The Labor Department recently reported that inflation fell 0.3 percent in April and the February through April three-month drop was the steepest in 37 years. As a consequence, most economic forecasters expect only 2 percent inflation.

Automatic cost-of-living adjustments have been a major source of budget uncontrollability. As ridiculous as it sounds today, when Social Security was first automatically indexed for inflation in 1975, experts believed it would reduce pressure on Congress to grant generous raises and lead to greater benefit increases than past ad hoc adjustments. That was before double digit inflation led to increases in Social Security benefits of 9.9 percent in 1979, 14.3 percent in 1980 and 11.2 percent in 1981. Over the past six years, automatic COLA's have cost the American taxpayer about $110 billion.

During periods of high inflation, cost-of-living adjustments are necessary to maintain the real value of the benefits received by senior citizens. However, people on Social Security have been able to keep up with the cost of living better than the average American worker. From 1970 to 1985, Social Security benefits increased 254 percent — substantially more than the 160 percent increase in private sector average weekly earnings over that same period. In fact, senior citizens have received benefit increases considerably in excess of inflation which rose only 187 percent during that period.

The denial of an inflation COLA for 1986 will not noticeably affect the finances of the elderly. The elderly have a higher per capita income and a lower poverty rate than those under 65.

In this era of growing fiscal restraint and the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act, Congress should behave in a fiscally responsible manner. Let's not bend the law to accommodate political pressures. An annual COLA adjustment would add to the deficit and increase the call for higher taxes. Higher spending and higher taxes would jeopardize the non-inflationary economic expansion that benefits all Americans — young and old.

Nebraska motorists urged to slow down on highways

Nebraska Transportation officials are urging Nebraska motorists to slow down while traveling Nebraska highways. If they do not, Federal construction funds are in jeopardy.

"It's a time when construction dollars are limited. Drivers must realize that a reduction in funds may result in a deterioration of their highways," according to Ray Hogrefe Director-State Engineer.

Information released by the United States Department of Transportation indicates that at least two states, Vermont and Arizona will lose a portion of their Federal funds used for highway construction.

According to Hogrefe, this is reason for state transportation officials and drivers to be concerned about the speeds on Nebraska highways. According to federal guidelines, 10% (ten percent) of certain funds can be withheld from states who cannot show at least a 50% (fifty percent) compliance with the 55 mph speed limit.

COMPLIANCE IN Nebraska is shown, in part, by quarterly speed monitoring, performed by the Traffic Engineering Division of the Nebraska Department of Roads. Figures released by the Department show that the compliance rate for the first quarter of the current federal fiscal year (October, November & December of 1985) stood at slightly less than 50%.

"Because we were awaiting the arrival of new monitoring equipment to replace obsolete units, no monitoring for compliance with the 55 mph speed limit has been performed since the first of the year," according to Hogrefe.

As a result of this, the level of monitoring during the third quarter will be increased. Hogrefe added that while this modification of monitoring was accomplished with Federal approval, if speeds on our highways are not decreased significantly and third quarter monitoring information shows us to be out of compliance, Nebraska will have very little time to achieve a 50% compliance rate.

While there were many people who doubted that the Federal government would ever penalize states who were not in compliance, Hogrefe stated, the recent action against Vermont and Arizona, and pending action against Maryland indicate that the USDOT not only has the authority to impose sanctions, but is willing to exercise that authority.

"In light of this fact, I am asking for drivers to obey the posted speed limits on Nebraska roads, streets and highways," continued Hogrefe. He concluded that if we are to maintain our roadway system, we can not afford to lose any Federal funds and obeying the speed laws in Nebraska seems a small price to pay.

Bereuter wants protein report method changed

by Doug Bereuter

Representative Doug Bereuter is encouraging the Federal Grain Inspection Service to proceed with a proposal to change the method used to report dockage and protein in wheat.

The Federal Grain Inspection Service proposal would require grain destined for export to meet more exact standards of content. Under the proposal, dockage, or foreign material, will be certified to the nearest 0.1 percent, instead of being rounded down to the nearest 0.5 percent. In addition, the proposal will change the method of reporting the protein content of wheat. The procedure for reporting the protein in wheat will be based on a constant 12 percent moisture, rather than "as is" moisture. This will make grain quality more uniform.

Bereuter, who has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives that would revise the method of reporting dockage, has written to the Federal Grain Inspection Service in support of the changes.

"Our present method of reporting dockage is in need of revision," Bereuter said. "I view it as fundamentally immoral to deliberately and knowingly overstate the quality of grain by reporting the dockage rounded to the nearest 0.5 percent. Foreign grain customers are buying our grain certified at a specific dockage. Under our present system, these grain buyers do not always get what they expect. Many times the grain is certified for dockage of 1.5 percent and actually has dockage of 1.9 percent. In those situations, they are getting less grain for their money."

"In the past few years, complaints from foreign purchasers about the quality of U.S. grain have increased. Most of those complaints have focused on the lack of uniform quality and the high levels of dockage, foreign material or moisture in exported grain. Most producers and purchasers believe that the current standards used by the Federal government to determine grain quality have not kept pace with technology or with the standards used by our foreign competitors. Changes like these are badly needed," he said.

Q. I am past 70 and have moved into an apartment. I planned to sell my house, but now am thinking about renting it out. If I do, would I have to pay capital gains on it? I will have to spend some money to fix it up before I could rent it out.

A. The potential for categorizing income as capital gains arises when a capital asset that the taxpayer has held longer than six months becomes the subject of a sale or exchange. Your home is a capital asset and if you have owned it for more than six months at the time you sell it, the resulting income is eligible to be taxed at the more favorable rate given to capital gains.

There is also a provision in the Internal Revenue Code that allows a taxpayer who has reached the age of 55 to take a one-time exclusion of gain from the sale of his or her principal residence, if he or she has lived in the house for periods totaling three years or more in the five-year period preceding the sale. If you meet these qualifications, up to $125,000 of the amount you get from the sale of your home is not included in your gross income.

If, on the other hand, you use your home as rental property; any ordinary or necessary expenses you incur in connection with the management, conservation, or maintenance of the property are deductible from your income, while the money you receive in rent is ordinary income.

Before you decide whether to dispose of your home, see a lawyer to discuss the consequences of such an action.

Clean and store your wedding gown properly
June has arrived and the traditional time for weddings. After the festivities of the wedding, many brides think about how to preserve their gown. Clean the gown as soon as possible. Soils and stains become more difficult to remove as they age. Gowns should be dry-cleaned when the fabric is silk, acetate, wool or rayon, if the trims are not washable, and when needing to remove greasy stains from food, make-up or body oils. Shop around when selecting your dry cleaner. Ask others' opinions, compare prices and services, and try to determine how to date the cleaner is that you are considering.

Be sure to advise the dry cleaner of any stained areas on your gown. Check for trims that may be attached with an adhesive. Glues may be soluble in or weakened by the solvent.

Finally, specify that the dry cleaning solvent be clean before cleaning a white or off-white gown. Remove any buttons and beads that could be damaged by solvents, especially polystyrene ones.

ONCE THE GARMENT has been cleaned, it must be stored properly to insure safe storage. You may package the gown yourself or use a dry cleaner's services. If your gown is packaged by the cleaner, check it for wrinkles, stains or damage before storing.

Avoid the following things in storing your gown.
—Do not use plastic bags. Plastics are chemically unstable and trap moisture, allowing mold and mildew to grow.
—Do not store the gown in the basement or attic. Select an area with little fluctuation in temperature and humidity. An inside closet in the living area of the home is best.

Avoid boxes with cellophane windows. Molds and mildew grow more easily when moisture condenses on the plastic.

Choose horizontal storage for gowns with sheer bodices, heavily beaded areas, knitted or bias cut sections, and heavy skirts or trains. Vertical storage minimizes wrinkling and is often more readily available in the home.

FOR HORIZONTAL storage, select a sturdy box large enough so the gown will require few folds and deep enough to prevent crushing.

Avoid brown cardboard boxes as they give off acids which may be harmful to cotton, linen and rayon.

Ideally, acid-free tissue paper and storage boxes should be used. If regular tissue is used it should be replaced yearly. Blue-tissue paper has no special ability to prevent aging.

Traditionally, blue paper has been used and may be used if it will not bleed or transfer dye to the garment.

To store your garment vertically, use a padded hanger covered with cotton fabric. To relieve stress on the bodice, make a sleeveless shell to fit inside the bodice and attach to the skirt at the waistline.

Make a white cotton dust cover to protect the gown. It should be washed yearly.

WHETHER YOU were a bride in 1986 or 1966 check your gown yearly. Many colorless soils will darken as they age. Check for folds or wrinkles that may become permanent creases. Carefully repack the gown with fresh tissue paper.

Change the position of the folds as you pack the gown. Check the storage area for any signs of insects, moisture, mold or mildew.

Take these precautions and your wedding gown can become a family keepsake to treasure by future generations.

Wayne's Juniors capture emotional 6-3 victory

"That's sweet." That phrase was echoed throughout the Wayne dugout after Wayne trimmed Sioux City Heelan 6-3 in an emotional and temper-flared Junior Legion baseball game at Overin Park Friday night.

Emotions reached their peak in the bottom of the fifth inning when Wayne's Bill Landanger was tagged as the stole second base. Landanger was tagged hard, and base umpire Rob Jacobsen warned Heelan's shortstop that if he continued to display poor sportsmanship he would be ejected from the game. Danneberg and Heelan's head coach were both ejected from the game moments later.

"The shortstop elbowed Landanger in the head when he stole second and I warned him that if he continued to show poor sportsmanship I'd kick him out," Jacobsen said. "Then he and the head coach started cursing at me so I booted them both out of the park."

During the break in action, Wayne held a 6-2 lead. But the ejections stirred a mild Heelan rally in the sixth. After holding a brief team meeting, the fired-up Crusaders touched Wayne for a run in the sixth, but Wayne second baseman Tim Fleming ended the game with an unassisted double play.

Wayne opened a quick 3-0 lead in the first on Jeff Hausmann's towering three-run homer to dead center field.

Dan Gross started Wayne's first by reaching on an error and Shannon Dorcay followed by drawing a walk.

Hausmann was then hit by a pitch but the plate umpire didn't notice. No harm was done, however, because Hausmann followed by ripping the next pitch over the fence.

"The pitch kicked me in the back of the helmet," Hausmann said. "But I didn't say anything because it barely hit me."

Heelan touched Wayne pitcher

Brent Pick for a run in the second to make the score 3-1, but the hosts falled three markers in the fourth to open a five run advantage.

Casey Nichols started Wayne's fourth by reaching on an error with one out. Jason Jorgensen then drew a walk and after Nichols advanced to third on a pass ball, scored on a balk. Gross then followed with an exciting triple and scored on an error. The speedy Gross ripped a pitch down the rightfield line and probably would have had an inside-the-park home run, but Heelan's relay throw was booted and Gross was awarded only a triple.

After Jacobsen ejected Heelan's shortstop and coach, the Crusaders became inspired an almost pieced together a rally in the sixth.

Heelan scored once in the sixth and had the bases loaded. However, Pick batted back from a 3-1 count and got the batter to bounce out to end the threat.

Pick showed good character out on the mound Friday. He is one of the few Wayne players that isn't experiencing arm problems this summer but Hank Overin, Wayne's head coach, feared several times during the game that he would have to take Pick out. But the strong right-hander always managed to pull himself together and escape serious damage.

Pick hurled a three-hitter, finished with five strikeouts and allowed five walks.

Hausmann's homer and Gross' triple were Wayne's only hits on the night.

Wayne plays again Sunday when Elkhorn travels to town for a doubleheader. The first game is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

Heelan downs 'B' team 11-0

Sioux City Heelan downed Wayne's Junior Legion 'B' team 11-0 at Overin Park Friday night.

Heelan scored once in the first, four times in the second, once in the third and five times in the fifth for the easy victory.

Wayne did not have its first base runner until the fourth inning when Bill Landanger broke up Heelan's perfect game with a sharp single to rightfield. Russ Longe followed with a walk but Wayne couldn't plate either base runner. Second base was the farthest any Wayne base runner advanced in the game.

The only other base runners for Wayne were Jason Jorgensen who reached on a fielder's choice and a walk, and Steve Luft who also walked.

Wayne's 'B' played again Saturday at Benkelman.

WAYNE'S JEFF Hausmann (No. 18) is greeted at home plate by teammates after he belted a three-run homer against Sioux City Heelan Friday night. Wayne claimed an emotional 6-3 victory.

Softball teams lose by one run

WALTHILL — Wayne's softball teams dropped a pair of one-run losses to Walthill here Thursday night.

Wayne's 15-and-under squad dropped a 15-14 decision, while the 18-and-under team lost 14-13.

In the first game, which was called after the fourth inning because of the one hour time limit, Walthill falled three runs in the bottom of the fourth for the victory.

Tonya Erxleben collected two hits for Wayne, including a home run and a double. Teammate Kristi Hansen also totaled two hits. Traci Gamble, Betsy Lebscock and Karmyn Koenig all finished with one double apiece for Wayne.

Wayne's team and Koenig received a scare in the first inning when she collided with Walthill's shortstop. Koenig was shaken up, but head coach Marilyn Strate said Friday night that Koenig is fine.

"It was pretty scary because they collided hard, but there weren't any serious injuries," Strate said. Wayne's 18-and-under squad pushed across three runs in the top of the seventh and had the tying run, on third base before Walthill escaped further damage by recording the final out.

Amy Schluns finished 3-for-3 with a triple for Wayne, while teammates Lori Jacobsen and Wendy Erickson both collected two hits apiece.

Wayne's 15-and-under outfit is now 1-1 on the year, while the 18-and-under team is 4-6. Both teams play again Tuesday when Emerson travels to town. The first game is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Klaver signs three lefties to baseball scholarships

Wayne State baseball coach Lenny Klaver has announced the signing of three baseball players to letters of intent.

Dana Armentrout, a 6-3, 200-pound pitcher from Irwin, Iowa; Jeff Sharp, a 5-11, 160-pound pitcher from Charter Oak, Iowa; and Don Graham, a 5-10, 170-pound pitcher from Coleridge all have signed with Wayne State.

Armentrout attended Irwin-Kirkman High School, pitching 130 innings while striking out 191. Armentrout has five years of high school pitching experience.

Sharp was 8-3 last season at Charter Oak-Ute High School. In 75 innings, he struck out 115.

Graham finished 5-2 last year in Coleridge and had 55 strikeouts in 35 innings pitched.

All three pitchers are left-handed. "Our greatest loss through graduation was on our pitching staff. These kids will help fill that void. All three have good arms and have displayed good control. And their strikeout to inning-pitched ratios are equally impressive," Klaver said.

See PITCHERS page 7.

Unearned run sinks Wakefield's town team

WAKEFIELD — An unearned run in the sixth inning cost Wakefield's town team a 3-2 loss to Arlington here Thursday night.

Arlington opened a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run double and after Wakefield pulled within one, the visitors scored the eventual winning run on an unearned run in the sixth.

Two Arlington runners reached first and second in the sixth before they both advanced into scoring position on a booted grounder. Another error by Wakefield allowed Arlington to score its final run.

Wakefield falled its first marker in the fifth when Paul Calvert singled, stole second and scored on Mel Blohm's RBI single.

singles, while Blohm, Eaton and Scott Miller each singled once. The loss drops Wakefield to 2-3 on the year. Wakefield plays again Sunday when Columbus travels to town for a 7 p.m. contest.

Tennis courts almost finished

The finishing touches on Wayne State College's new tennis facility are almost completed, according to John Struve, Wayne State dean of finance.

The lighting, seeding, waterlines, rally boards and wind screens have all been completed at the six new courts. Installation of the nets and poles still remains.

"We haven't set an exact opening date as of yet for the new courts," Struve said. "At the present time we're reviewing the completed work to make sure the project meets the construction specifications."

"We'll open the courts to the public once we're sure the work has been completed to our satisfaction," he added. "The project is very close to being done."

The courts are part of the $3.14 million Rice-Carlson Recreational Facility Expansion. The new tennis courts are just east of the varsity softball fields. Construction on the addition to Rice has been underway for several weeks.

"Left-handed pitchers are a rare commodity. We're extremely pleased to sign three with their talent." The three are the first players signed by Klaver.
