Robbery suspects arrested

Two Norfolk individuals and a Lincoln man were arrested Friday afternoon for the alleged connection with a series of armed robberies in recent months across eastern Nebraska — including the June 18 Pizza Hut robbery in Wayne.

Arrested were Colin D. Allen, age 25 of Lincoln; James L. Wichman, age 24, and Teresa M. Uribe, age 21, both of Norfolk. They were arrested near Gibson's Discount Center in Norfolk.

The suspects were arrested in connection with the armed robberies of the Wayne Pizza Hut and two others — one Pizza Hut in Neligh and another Pizza Hut in Wahoo around Aug. 17. Nearly $900 was taken in those two robberies. However, the amount taken from the Wayne Pizza Hut was not disclosed.

A tip came Friday afternoon by an individual who told of the suspects location near the Norfolk department store. The informant had known what law enforcement officials were searching for the suspects.

Making the arrest were the Nebraska State Patrol, Norfolk Police Division and the Madison County Sheriff's Office. It was reported that the suspects had firearms but did not resist the arrest.

The arrests were result of cooperative investigation by the state patrol; Norfolk, Neligh, Wayne and Wahoo police departments; sheriff's officers and South Dakota authorities.

In-aiding telethon

Thomas breaks record

by Chuck Hackenmiller

"This whole thing was not done for me but for those kids with muscular dystrophy. The record happened to be there and it just happened to fall."

That's the point Tim Thomas of South Sioux City stresses after he recently broke the world's record in "board breaking" during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon activities going on this past Labor Day weekend at the Southern Hills Mall in Sioux City.

Thomas, son of Jim and Marci Thomas of Wayne and a graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School and Wayne State College, broke the record of breaking 10,065 boards (one inch thick) by a substantial margin. He began breaking boards at 4 p.m. on Sunday and less than 24 hours later, when 1:30 p.m. Monday rolled around, 12,000 boards had fallen to the power of Thomas' hands and feet.

Holding the boards for the record 10,065 break were three children who have forms of muscular dystrophy. On the 12,000th break, another child with a form of muscular dystrophy was there to hold the board.

Although the board breaking was a test of physical and mental endurance, it was the emotional aspect which drew the inspiration for Thomas' accomplishment — for children with muscular dystrophy.

"I thought that if I could make it through the first 12 hours, then the next 12 hours I can make it on heart," said Thomas, who has a black belt and is co-owner of Center for Sports Medicine in Sioux City. He is also the respiratory therapist at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center in Sioux City.

HE BEGAN planning for the board breaking about six months prior to this Labor Day weekend. More intense preparations for the board breaking event, he said, began about a month and a half ago.

One preparation tactic he used was doing "pinky curls," a technique necessary to isolate the muscles on the side of his hands. To do this, he took a 16 ounce pop bottle and with his pinky finger began curling the bottle, constantly adding sand to the bottle to build more muscle.

Thomas also soaked his hands in brine (salt and water solution) to make his skin tough. But he also rubbed in hand lotion to maintain the softness in his hands.

"That is so that when the swelling begins, the softness will allow some expansion and not let the hands split," Thomas mentioned.

When he was not working at the hospital as respiratory therapist, he spent 12 hours working out in order to prepare for the Telethon.

TO BREAK the boards, Thomas said the technique was "80 percent mental and 20 percent physical."

"You know that if it is going to hurt. And you know that it is dangerous. You have to put it in the back of your mind and worry about the pain when it is over with," Thomas said.

Thomas was assisted in his efforts by individuals who held the boards, including Bill Swinney, Christine Swinney, Jack Swinney, Brian Foote, Byron Wacker, Jeremy Jensen, Tony Elsbury, Jimmy Thomas and David Garlick, all of Wayne. Help also came from the West Point and Osmond Tae Kwon Do students, nurses and doctors from St. Luke's Medical Center and many others who offered physical or vocal support.

"At one time we were so far ahead of the record pace that we could have broken the record at 7:30 a.m. on Monday. But we decided to take three hours off in the morning. That caused me to get stiff and sore," Thomas said.

At about 3 a.m. Monday, Thomas said a crisis had developed. He had been breaking boards with his right hand up to that time. He noticed his right hand beginning to "balloon up" and it began to split.

"I went to lie in bed and people came up and wanted to see how bad it looked. They got me thinking about the pain and that's when it really started to hurt," Thomas said.

Thomas escaped the crowd and turned his concentration elsewhere. He broke boards with his feet for a couple hours and then broke boards with his left hand. Towards the end, I was using both [right and left] hands," Thomas said.

BUT FORGET that the record was broken, Thomas said, because that wasn't important to him. "The main thing was the Muscular Dystrophy Association and helping with the telethon. The record just happened to be there. It's not a big deal to me," he said.

People would call the telethon number to support the effort by Thomas. Being able to help with the telethon and raising money for the kids was important to me," he said.

Thomas sorely misses work, through his occupation, with children that have a form of muscular dystrophy. "So, I really took it to heart," he said.

The greatest feeling on earth for Tim Thomas came not from breaking the first 12,000th board during the lengthy telethon. It came from another source that makes all efforts seem worthwhile.

That source, full of inspiration, came from a young child, stricken with muscular dystrophy, who wrapped his arms around the muscular framed body of Thomas and hugged him.

As emotion crept in, Thomas knew he reached a personal high satisfaction that could never be matched or broken.

Wayne-Carroll enrollment rises

Enrollment in the Wayne-Carroll School District has increased 2.6 percent over the previous school year, according to recent statistics provided by Superintendent Francis Haun.

School District enrollment has jumped from 801 in 1985-86 to 822 this school year. The district enrollment during the 1984-85 school year was at 816 students.

The largest increase is in the number of 10th graders at Wayne-Carroll High School. That figure went up from 47 last year to 85 this school year, an increase of 38 students.

Enrollment was also increased in kindergarten grades at both Carroll Elementary and Wayne Elementary. The number of students enrolled for kindergarten at Carroll is listed at 12, eight more than the previous year. At Wayne Elementary, the kindergarten enrollment jumped from 48 the previous year to 63 this school year.

Combined, there are 23 more students enrolled this year in the district at the kindergarten level when compared to last year.

Eighth grade student numbers jumped from 43 to 63 students and the senior class increased 15 students, from 70 to 85.

Greatest losses in enrollment over the previous school year were recorded at the following grade levels: 11th grade, down 37 students; 9th grade, decrease of 30 students; fifth grade, down 16 students; and first grade numbers dipped 12 students.

Total enrollment figures are depicted in the chart below.

Area youths earn state fair honors

Marc Rahn of Wayne was one of three trophy winners who improved their skills in identifying insects since last year's Nebraska State Fair.

Rahn, age 17 and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Rahn, won the contest at this year's state fair, moving up from winning second last year. He scored 100 of a total possible 110 points in what he called a "tough contest."

Contestants identified 50 insects by order and common name and answered questions about the insects and their environment.

The Nebraska State Pest Control Association provided the three trophies and special ribbons to the 10 contestants entered.

Michael Rethwisch of the Department of Entomology at the University of Hawaii in Honolulu, a former 4-H member and leader from Wayne County, provided $110 in cash premiums to the top ten 4-H'ers in the insect identification competition.

Rethwisch received his master's degree in entomology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Wayne County has been strong in entomology identification, mainly due to Michael's coaching and workshops," said Don Spitze, Wayne County Extension Agent.

Other area contestants that fared well in the competition were Tim Sievers of Wayne, who tied for fourth and fifth place; Matt Stoffel of Wayne, a seventh place finisher; Mike Backstrom of Wayne, who ended up ninth in the competition; and Becky Baler, Wayne, who finished in 10th place.

ANOTHER LOCAL 4-H'er garnered success in state fair competition, capturing a first in the Small Engines Contest.

Darin Gruenke of Winside reached a personal goal with his top finish, after four years of competing in the 4-H Small Engines Contest at the Nebraska State Fair. The Wayne County 4-H'er topped a field of five contestants Aug. 30 at the Ag Engineering Annex on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus.

Gruenke, 17 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gruenke, will compete in the Western Regional 4-H Small Engine Contest Sept. 16-18 in Omaha.

"This year was the easiest because I knew what to expect," Gruenke

business notes

Douglas E. Peters, President and Chief Executive Officer of Occidental Nebraska Federal Savings Bank, reported an operating loss of $7,945,354 for the Bank for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 1986. The loss was due entirely to increases in the loan provision for the year of $9,350,000.

Peters stated, "The reserve for loan loss was a necessary and prudent step in protecting the Bank from current economic difficulties in some of the commercial real estate markets we serve." He continued, "Without the reserves, the Bank's operations for the twelve-month period would have been profitable. The loan loss reserves overshadowed a positive growth in assets and deposits during the year."

The bank also reported significant growth in consumer and commercial (non-real estate) loan activity.

Peters continued, "The Bank has presently shifted its lending emphasis from commercial real estate to single family mortgages within the State of Nebraska." During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1986, the Bank originated over $75,000,000 in single family loans in Nebraska.

Test affects donors

Two new tests are now being performed on blood donated to the Siouxland Blood Bank as part of a nationwide effort to eliminate cases of hepatitis in blood recipients.

Hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver which may be caused by a virus. There are several varieties of the disease, including the more common hepatitis A and hepatitis B.

The tests are mandated by the American Association of Blood Banks, an organization which inspects and accredits blood banks and transfusion services.

Ken Lawson, director of the Siouxland Blood Bank, said that a form of hepatitis known as non-A, non-B post-transfusion hepatitis has occurred in up to ten percent of blood recipients as long as six months after receiving a blood transfusion.

"The non-A, non-B hepatitis, which the new tests will help prevent was previously thought to be fairly insignificant," said Dr. Gene Herbeck, a pathologist at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center and member of the Siouxland Blood Bank medical advisory board. "But now scientists believe the disease may lead to severe forms of liver damage. Research has indicated the post-transfusion hepatitis we're concerned about may actually be a group of diseases," Herbeck said.

"Blood donors should not be alarmed if they are notified that their blood tests positive for the enzyme or antibody. The information may be helpful to their physician and the Blood Bank can forward the test results to the donor's doctor."

"These new tests cannot determine whether the donor has hepatitis, will get it or whether he or she can infect another person," Herbeck said. "The tests simply detect the enzyme elevation or antibody to hepatitis B, both of which have been linked statistically with the occurrence of post-transfusion hepatitis in blood recipients."

NRD board approves '87 fiscal year budget

Lower Elkhorn NRD Board of Directors approved a fiscal year 1987 budget of $2,320,183 at their August 21 meeting. The budget includes a property tax levy of 3.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for $952,156.

The 1987 budget is up from $1,928,418.64 budget for fiscal year 1986, primarily because of the large demand for conservation cost sharing. Lower Elkhorn NRD funds will cost share an estimated $1 million with landowners to install necessary soil and water conservation practices on their land.

Conservation cost sharing has increased steadily from $257,087 in fiscal year 1984 to $1.1 million proposed for fiscal 1987.

Directors approved borrowing up to $750,000 from the Clarkston Bank under a three year loan to fund the cost share contracts.

Other expenditures in the approved budget include: Salaries, $207,000; Project land rights, $110,000; Private Lands Wildlife Habitat Program, $103,000; and Intergovernmental Cost Sharing (road structures to replace bridges), $60,000.

Where to turn

Time for Action on Soybean Program

Last week Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng announced a preliminary loan rate of $4.77 per bushel for the 1986 soybean crop. Secretary Lyng does have the discretion to cut the basic loan rate by 5% to keep the crop competitive in world markets. Since the Secretary must announce the final loan rate before Oct. 1, 1986; there is still time to convince him to keep the $5.02 loan rate.

Earlier I told Secretary Lyng that, as a member of the Congressional Soybean Caucus, I request that he retain the 1986 soybean price support rate at $5.02 per bushel in the upcoming soybean program announcement authorized by the 1985 Farm Bill. In addition, I favor a soybean program that avoids soybean stock build-up and maintains market prices for U.S. soybeans at competitive levels.

while avoiding costly government takeovers of soybeans. This program could be implemented under the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act and other authorities.

The second option would involve the announcement of a $5.02 marketing loan as authorized by the 1985 Farm Bill. Under this program, farmers would repay price support loans at the world market or the loan rate, whichever is less. The second option also would address the nation's current shortage of grain storage.

I believe it is important to maintain the soybean loan rate at $5.02. Consequently, I and several other farm-state lawmakers plan to introduce a bill mandating the Secretary of Agriculture to implement one of the options mentioned above while maintaining the $5.02 loan rate. The absence of a target price for soybeans means that, in times of low prices, the only income protection afforded to soybean producers is the loan rate. In light of the financial problems that exist throughout the agricultural sector, I believe that there is ample justification for retaining the soybean support level at $5.02. A $5.02 support program for soybeans could maintain market competitiveness and avoid excessive stocks.

Tax Overhaul Bill Would Help Commonwealth Depositors
The tax overhaul bill (H.R. 3838) approved by the joint House-Senate conference committee Aug. 16 contains a provision that would enable depositors of Commonwealth Savings Company to write off some of their worst deposits as a casualty loss tax deduction. This measure should provide badly needed tax relief for the Commonwealth depositors.

The current tax code allows individuals to deduct only a maximum of $3000 per year for their lost deposits. However, businesses were permitted to write off nearly all of their lost deposits in one year.

Although Federal assistance for Commonwealth depositors is somewhat limited, changing the tax code to relieve depositors' tax burden is one significant measure that could be implemented on the Federal level. Consequently, I worked with Representative Hal Daub, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, to attach a provision to the House version of the Tax Reform legislation that would allow some depositors to write off their losses as a result of the Commonwealth Savings Co. collapse. Under this provision, depositors have the option of writing off a deposit lost as a casualty loss. Amounts written off would be limited to 10% of adjusted gross income. The House and Senate conferees agreed to retain this measure in their final tax overhaul conference report.

This final version of the Tax Reform Bill should be approved by the House and Senate sometime in September. I will continue to do my best to keep this provision in the final tax legislation sent to the President.

One man says the LB 662 (the school consolidation bill) is a bit of lousy legislation and should not be retained. Another says that accurate information about the glaring inequities which exist between school districts will persuade the most reluctant voter that this issue is important for every Nebraskan and that it should be retained.

Those favoring the retaining of LB 662 (which will appear as Referendum Measure 400 in the November election) say that there will be tax fairness; all Nebraska property owners will share in paying for public kindergarten through 12th grade education; all Nebraskans will benefit from a better balance of taxation by reducing the reliance on local property taxes for the support of public education; and all Nebraskans should have the same educational opportunities no matter where they live.

The bill also places a 45 percent spending limit on property tax support of school districts and will raise the state sales tax rate as a percentage point to finance more state aid to education.

Opposition to the retaining of LB 662 say that some districts would be paying higher — others lower — property taxes. Rural taxpayers, the opposition states, will be holding up that 45 percent average statewide.

Some facts about Nebraska school districts in 1985-86 — there are 955 total school districts in Nebraska. Of that amount of K-12 districts, there are 66 in Class II, 220 in Class III, 1 in Class IV, 1 in Class V, 23 in Class VI and 186 K-12 in Class I — totaling 497 K-12 school districts.

Those 497 total K-12 districts represent 95.2 percent of total student population, 90 percent of total state valuation and 77 percent of total ag-land acres.

The remaining 458 school districts are Class I that will be affected by LB 662. These Class I districts represent 4.8 percent of the total student population, 10 percent of total state valuation and 23 percent of total ag-land acres.

Proponents of retaining LB 662 say merging will reduce and eliminate unneeded duplication of government services and make the remaining system more efficient.

Opponents say that the merger of Class I schools to larger school districts will eventually become a "shotgun wedding." Proponents say Nebraska citizens will participate in local governance of their schools through board of education representation at the high school, as well as the elementary level.

The issue of providing better educational qualities or equal education opportunities has never been defined in the LB 662 legislation, opponents say.

Separating what is fact from false information is what voters should do before going to the polls in November. Be informed and know when you go to the polls how you will vote on the LB 662 matter.

LB 662 provides that "On or before Sept. 1, 1989, all Class I school districts of the state that are not within a Class VI school district on Sept. 1, 1985 or affiliated with another school district prior to March 1, 1989, shall be merged with an existing Class II, III, IV, or V school district or become part of an existing Class VI school district."

Both sides in opposition to or favoring the retention seem to have valid points which deserve your attention and further study.

Kerrey says drug testing not the answer

Capitol News by Melvin Paul Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Governor Bob Kerrey doesn't have a very high opinion of President Ronald Reagan's new war on drugs. Particularly the new emphasis on drug testing.

It's band aid approach to a serious problem, Kerrey said this summer. "I don't think the problem of drug abuse is going to be solved by grandstanding statements about testing employees," Kerrey said during a discussion with reporters on drug testing.

Unless government or employers provide help to drug using employees, the testing program will fail, Kerrey said.

President Reagan's statements that those users who are identified as drug users through tests will be helped are naive, according to Kerrey. "Those statements are made without much awareness of what happens inside bureaucracy. Those people may be helped. But I suspect a lot of them will be helped out the door once they've been identified positively as using drugs."

"We don't have the mechanisms in place to help people like they're going to need to be helped," Kerrey said.

The Governor also believes that drug testing does not touch the heart of the problem. It is a problem that goes beyond the youth and beyond the illegal drug abusers, he said.

AMERICANS HAVE a history of tolerating uncontrolled manufacturing and distributions of dangerous drugs. And Americans have the attitude "that we're going to make ourselves better by taking medicinal agents."

Kerrey, a pharmacist by college training who grew up in the drug laden 60's, pointed out a bit of recent history.

"In 1965-66 if you wanted 500 amphetamine capsules, no problem. There was almost no restriction on them. There were free samples lying around in stores," he said.

And that applied to phenobarbital, Valium, Quaaludes. They were manufactured without control and were easily available. Drug manufacturers, not concerned consumer groups, dominated the mood of the country, he said.

But Kerrey's criticism of the much publicized drug testing doesn't mean he would refuse to allow testing of state employees.

If the professionals, particularly in the law enforcement field, brought him a recommendation to test a reliable test, Kerrey said he would likely allow testing.

"Testing can be a useful tool if we're prepared to manage the problem once it's identified; if we're prepared to reach out and help people once we've identified the problem."

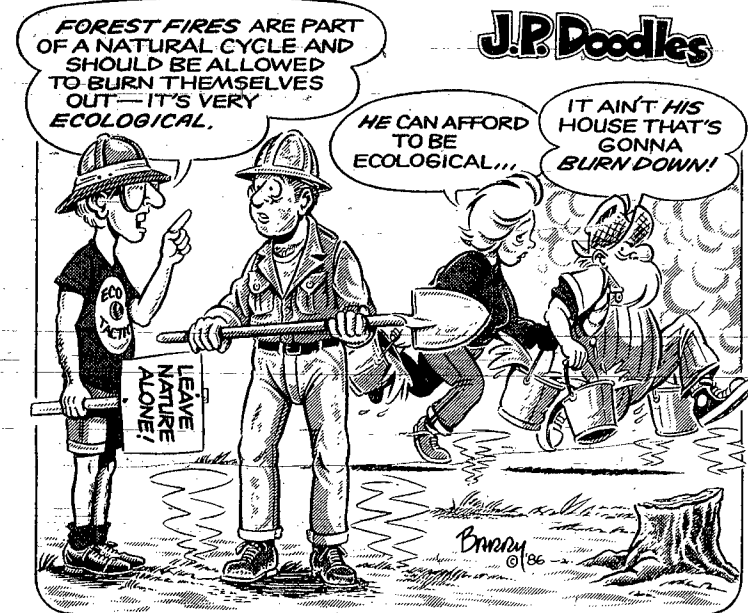

But it's not the end-all; it's not the cure, for substance abuse, Kerrey said.

AND THE Governor questioned whether Nebraskans would be keen on testing and treatment programs if a testing program indicated the problem drug in government and business and alcohol.

What if we identify that the number one substance problem in the state is alcohol? Kerrey asked.

"Are we prepared to move forthrightly to help those individuals or are we going to say alcohol really isn't a drug?"

"Or will we say we're not really concerned about that because we've got beer, whiskey and alcohol manufacturers out there and we don't want to interfere with their business?"

Preserving American pride

Richard L. Leshner, President
Chamber of Commerce of the United States

"The best minds are not in government," Ronald Reagan said in 1976. "If any were, business would hire them away."

The passage of years has not diminished his bias against bureaucracy. When President Reagan wants something important done, such as restoration of the Statue of Liberty, he turns to the private sector.

"We are fortunate that he does. Many have complained about the so-called commercialization of Miss Liberty, but private initiative did a marvelous job on the grand old lady, and got her ready in time for her 100th birthday party. Does anyone really believe a government agency could have done that?"

Come on now. You and I know full well that if the bureaucrats were in charge, it wouldn't be done by next Christmas. And I shudder to think what the cost would have been.

Now President Reagan is turning to the private sector again to help preserve and protect our heritage. Our nation's public lands afford us irreplaceable opportunities to enjoy nature and savor America's natural beauty. But with more than 700 million acres to supervise, Uncle Sam simply cannot watch over everything.

Over the years, too many of our priceless resources have been littered, vandalized, looted, burned and otherwise misused. Many natural, historical and archeological resources have been lost forever, and others are in danger.

In his "Take Pride In America" program, the President is calling on private businesses and volunteer groups to assume responsibility for preserving our heritage, as happened with the Statue of Liberty, the response is enthusiastic. Major corporations—such as Exxon, Kodak, Goodyear, Mobil and Monsanto—are donating money, resources and time to clean up our public parks, protect endangered species, and educate the public about our heritage and the need to protect it. Private associations and clubs are donating their time and energy for similar worthy projects.

Of course, some will say the government should do all these things. But there could never be enough bureaucrats to protect our natural resources from the capriciousness of those who are indifferent and careless. "Take Pride In America" will not only produce tangible results at minimal cost, it will foster the notion that public lands belong to all citizens, and that we all share responsibility for preserving them.

That will be the grandest achievement of all.

Should state have superfund?

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Vice President/Information
Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation

Nebraska is one of only a few states that has not yet established a special fund to finance clean up activities at major sites of groundwater contamination. A growing number of people believe Nebraska should make a special fund to establish such a fund — called a Superfund — to protect the state from financial disaster in case a major clean up is needed.

The cost of cleaning up a contaminated site can run from a few hundred dollars to several million bucks. It's hard to predict because there's no way to know when a clean up may be needed.

State officials have identified more than 150 incidents of groundwater contamination and five of these have made the national list compiled by the Environmental Protection Agency, which administers the federal Superfund. Many of the Nebraska incidents resulted from agricultural and industrial activities and municipal waste disposal.

A 1984 State Department of Environmental Control report recommended establishment of a Superfund, to allow clean up of current problems and those that may or will occur in the future. The lack of a state Superfund makes clean up difficult, and it severely restricts the assistance Nebraska can receive from the federal fund. To be eligible for federal Superfund dollars, states must provide cost-share assistance and insure that enough financial resources are available for future maintenance of a site after the initial clean-up.

BECAUSE OF these concerns, the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control is working closely with a legislative study committee and a task force of industry, environmental and farm groups, discussing possible Superfund legislation for 1987.

One of the first Superfund concerns is where would the funds come from. According to Gale Hutton, chief of the environmental control agency's Water Quality Division, the plan is to make the funding base very broad. This would avoid picking on a particular group and spread the burden of clean up costs to all those who have been involved with a contaminant or potential contaminant. Hutton says a state general fund appropriation would be justified in getting the Superfund going, because there is general public benefit to be gained by protecting groundwater quality.

In addition, Hutton says he believes in what he calls "The Polluter Pay Principle." That is, the clean up fund and part of the cost of maintaining groundwater quality protection programs should be paid by potential polluters.

THIS SUGGESTS a couple of revenue sources. Facility fees could be charged for waste and solid waste disposal facilities, hazardous waste generators and industrial plants. And, an excise tax or fee could be charged on ag chemicals at the wholesale level. This fee would be passed on to purchasers, of course, and buyers would pay the fee according to the amount of chemicals they use.

Very likely, pesticides would be targeted for a greater fee, particularly those products which have the largest potential for groundwater contamination.

Other means of funding a Superfund are possible, and the environmental control department plans to keep "looking at" ways to make the costs of clean up equitable and broad-based.

Inequity

People born between 1917 and 1921, do you know that you are receiving up to 24% less Social Security than those with identical work histories born before 1917. There are over 10 million of us in this age bracket and if we all complain, surely we will be heard. Let's do our part in this area and write to our congressmen J. J. Exton and Doug Bereuter urging them to pass HR1917/51060 before another session goes by. This passage will correct the inequity of the "notch problem" which discriminates against us because of our age.

She presently serves as a trustee of the Winside Public Library board. In addition, Barb manages the concession stand for all ball games as a money maker for the Federated Woman's Club. Woman's Club funds are used to support the community's summer recreation program. Library, Old Settlers celebration, annual Easter egg hunt and Halloween party for youngsters of Winside, and in sponsoring a German dinner held each fall.

BARB'S MANY volunteer activities include maintaining the ball park area by assuring that litter does not accumulate and that the restroom facilities are kept clean.

She also tends the flower bed around the bandstand in the city park by weeding and watering the flowers which are donated by the Women's Club.

As part of the library's summer reading program, she helps set up 10 weeks of reading and fun for Winside's youth.

Barb also has sponsored an annual Arts and Crafts Show for the past six years which is held during the Old Settlers celebration.

IN ADDITION to all her volunteer work, Barb is employed part time at the Winside Animal Clinic.

Her husband, in addition to his high school duties, also is an avid Winside booster and is also involved in many volunteer projects.

Son Randy, a high school senior, has many mowing jobs around town which his mom helps with when he is busy.

Sports guide

cover is 'Topp's'

How about that cover on the Wayne Herald Fall Sports Guide? Pretty neat, huh?

The Herald's very own Judi Topp deserves credit for creating the caricatures. I'll take credit for title. Pretty clever, wasn't it?

While I was sports editor for the Keith County News in Ogalala, I used a cover depicting all the area high school's mascots that was designed by an artist. After seeing that cover, Judi got a few ideas for the Herald's coverage area mascots and walls—the finished product is this year's cover.

Judi's job title is composition foreman (or composition person, whatever you prefer), and it isn't by coincidence that the Herald usually wins a couple of composition awards during the annual Nebraska Press Association Better Newspaper Awards contest.

Too bad there isn't an award for the best use of creativity, because if there was, I'm sure Judi's cover would win.

High school coaches really are incredible when it comes time to discuss their teams and players in preseason interviews.

Even if it appears their team is headed for a great season, coaches very seldom praise their teams for fear of conceitedness. And they don't hype certain individuals because they don't want the other players to become jealous.

On the same hand, coaches seldom offer negative comments about their team or individuals because they don't want to reduce morale.

This can sometimes make it difficult for readers to determine which teams will have good seasons. But by using an interesting technique, I'll make some predictions.

This year's fall sports guide is the fourth time I've created a special tab for high school football and volleyball teams.

After I completed the first guide, a fellow employee that served as a sports editor for numerous years told me that he used to be able to tell which teams would be successful by how quickly they lined up for team pictures. I've always remembered that, and after four years of careful observation, I've determined that he made a valid point.

I don't know if it reveals organization, team unity, discipline or what, but the same squads that organize themselves quickly for team pictures are usually the same squads that turn in winning seasons.

At any rate, the area teams that were able to assemble quickly for pictures this year were: Wayne football and volleyball, Wakefield football and volleyball, Allen volleyball, Winslow volleyball and Laurel football.

This year's quickest assembling team award goes to Wayne's volleyball players. They even assembled themselves without head coach Marlene Uhing raising her voice once! Past experience tells me that the Blue Devils are in store for a very good year.

One of the bigger surprises was Laurel's football team. The Bears finished only 17 last year, but head coach Gene Hamilton had them crack'n on picture day which should mean 1986 should be a bit different for Laurel's gridgers.

Please keep in mind that this system doesn't guarantee quick assembling teams a successful season and slow assembling teams an unsuccessful campaign. One year, I went to Big Springs to take a team picture of the basketball team and it took half an hour, but Big Springs won the conference title later that year.

On the other hand, Grant's football, basketball and volleyball players have to be the quickest picture assemblers in Nebraska. And we all know how successful Grant's athletic program is.

Lawrence will start at QB

WSC Wildcats prepare for season opener

By Jean Berger
WSC Sports Information Director
The Game
Wayne State vs. Morningside, Saturday, Sept. 6, 7:30 p.m., Memorial Field in Wayne.

The Coaches
Wayne State — Pete Chapman, 4th year, 13-18. Morningside — Erv Mondt, 4th year, 14-18-1.

The Series
Morningside leads the series, which began in 1916, 17-2-1.

Last Year
Morningside defeated the Wildcats 34-10 behind three touchdown passes by Jim Gibson. Wayne State scored on a 43-yard field goal and a one-yard run by Carl Calvert.

The Wildcats
The season opener for Wayne State will see several new faces in starting roles for the Wildcats, particularly on offense. Mike Anderson is the lone remaining starter from the offensive line, but center Rich Ruffcorn and Ben Lehr both saw extensive playing time in 1985. John Lawrence, a transfer from Drake, has won the starting quarterback job. Look for four newcomers in the backfield: Todd Buchanan, Damon Ross, Craig Hilgendorf or Tony Caniglia. Last year's four starting receivers return in Darin Blackburn, Sonny Jones, Glenn Mathews and Chuck McGinnis, but look for Pat Wordekemper and Bill Minarik to also see action.

The Defense
Defensively, Wayne State will rely on the strength of their linebacking corps. Randy Hupp was moved to outside linebacker this season and will join Greg Cavill, Scott Wightman and Jud Meenley. Up front, Dave Unfers and freshman Robert Donelson are the team leaders. The backfield is built around NAIA All-American Lamont Lewis, a four-year starter at Wayne State. Joining Lewis are Rob Hofstra and Mark Wolf at safeties and freshman Eric Anderson at the other corner spot.

The Chiefs

Like Wayne State, Morningside lost several key starters from their offense a year ago. A whole new line as well as quarterback and receivers will start the year for the Chiefs. Back are the top running backs Darren Belk and Jason Dannenberg. Defensively, the Chiefs are in better shape with only one starter to replace. Brice Farmer, a 6-0 senior linebacker, led the team in tackles last season with 119. Tim McCabe, a defensive end last season, will join Farmer at linebacker in 1986.

Next Up

Wayne State will host Augustana College Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Field. That game is the annual Hall of Fame Game when Larry Michelson, Connie Kunzmann and Dick Manley will be inducted into the Wayne State College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Caps equal free tickets

Anyone wearing an agricultural related cap to Saturday's Wayne State/Morningside football game will be admitted free as part of recognition during Wayne State College's annual Ag Day celebration, according to Wayne State student activities director Frank Teach.

"Ag Day honors agriculture in the area and in the entire state," Teach said.

In addition, to Ag Days ceremonies, sky divers will be part of the pregame activities.

Devils open against Cards

South Sioux City has 'bulky' team, again

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written by Henry Trysla of the South Sioux City Star newspaper. Wayne plays South Sioux Friday night at the Cardinal Field.

By Henry Trysla
SOUTH SIOUX CITY — Coach Jack Sell said prior to the beginning of football practice at South Sioux High School that finding a quarterback might be considered his number one project.

Sell, entering his first year as head coach after two as an assistant here, may have found one.

He's Danny Marsh, a 5-11, 150-pound senior. Marsh saw only a few days of varsity action last year in situations when the Cardinals were usually out of the contest. But he paid his dues on the junior varsity.

"He's been looking real well," Sell said. "He's a real good athlete." Sell said the coaches were attempting to build Marsh's confidence, especially in the areas that he does well.

The Cardinals will operate from the wishbone for the first time and will throw in a double slot formation on occasions.

Four other players are getting a look at quarterback positions. They are: Chad Stoltz, a 6-1, 160-pound junior; Shawn Watson, a 6-0, 150-pound senior; Sam Blakley, a 5-9, 140-pound senior; Matt Mallory, a 6-2, 180-pound senior.

Sell said the Cardinals will start out two-platooning almost totally. The leading candidates offensively are as follows:

— tight end: Kelly O'Neill, a 6-1, 175-pound senior and Troy Glasser, a 5-11, 170-pound junior.

— split end: Frank Peck, a 6-0, 150-pound senior; Jerry Langseth, 6-0, 145-pound senior; Brad Hoch, 5-9, 140-pound junior; Chad Hartnett, 5-8, 150-pound junior and John Millikan, 5-7, 140-pound junior.

— tackles: Brian Leitling, 6-0, 195-pound senior and Robert Rapp, 6-0, 210-pound junior.

— guards: Gary Frey, 6-0, 195-pound senior and Mike Rich, 5-10, 215-pound junior.

— center: Bruce Combs, a 5-10, 215-pound senior who, along with Frey, are the only returning starters.

— fullbacks: Todd McDonald, 6-0, 185-pound senior and Brian Walcek, 5-9, 160-pound junior.

— running backs: David Schmeidt, 5-10, 140-pound junior; Scott Prenger, 5-7, 130-pound junior; Jeff Peterson, 6-1, 170-pound junior and Steve Palmersheim, 5-8, 140-pound senior.

"We have good quickness in our skill positions but we don't have much size," Sell stated.

However, the Redbirds do have some size on the defensive platoon.

The defense:

— noseguard: Joe Kvidera, 5-9, 230-pound junior.

— tackle: Tim Saltzman, 6-2, 265-pound senior; Duane Johnson, 6-2, 290-pound junior. "They're pretty quick for big kids," Sell said.

— ends: Ed Lofland, 6-3, 215-pound senior and Jeff Peterson, 6-1, 170-pound junior.

— linebackers: Troy Glasser and Jim Varvais, a 5-8, 160-pound senior.

— cornerbacks: Millikan and Karl Johanson, 5-9, 160, senior.

— safety: Stoltz; Joe Peppitsch, 5-7, 130-pound junior; Hartnett and Hoch.

Sell said the defense looked good in a Saturday scrimmage.

"Offensively, we have the personnel to be very explosive. If I would characterize our team I think you'd say we could be a big play type team," the coach said.

"We may have trouble grinding out the yards from what I have observed. On the other hand we have backs that can break a big play."

Asked about a strong point, Sell said the size and strength of the defensive line is a plus.

"We should be a pretty good team up front defensively," he said.

He listed a weakness as the absence of a strong ball carrier who can grind out the yards.

The defensive secondary may be suspect, also. "Although I think we have some talented kids, they are really untested," Sell said.

"We have to wait until the first game to see how we respond in some of those positions," he said.

Sell said the offensive execution has been good for early in the season. "I think we're in good shape. We're in very good condition. That's one of the areas we really stressed in two days," he said.

Relating to quarterback again, he said: "Danny (Marsh) has done a good job. He's a lot more relaxed and confident in his ability."

The Cards started with 83 players and still have 79.

"We have run very hard during practices. I think one thing the kids are committed to is to overcome the stigma that we can't score within the 10 yard line," Sell said. That has been a problem for the South Sioux teams in the past three years.

South Sioux opens at home against Wayne Sept. 5.

Lady Cats begin '86 campaign at Washburn

By Jean Berger
WSC Sports Information Director
The Match

Wayne State in Washburn Invitational, Sept. 5-6, in Topeka, Kan. Pool play begins Sept. 5 at 12:30 p.m.

The Washburn Tournament features two pools of six teams each. Each team will play the other five teams in pool play on Friday with a single elimination tournament on Saturday. Teams will be seeded for the Saturday matches based on results from Friday's pool play.

The Pools
Concordia, Doane, Midland, Rockhurst, Washburn and Wayne State make up one pool. Benedictine, Bethel, Dana, Fort Hays, Peru and Nebraska Wesleyan make up the other pool.

Pool Play
Wayne State's matches in pool play are: Wayne State vs. Concordia, 12:30 p.m.; Wayne State vs. Rockhurst, 3 p.m.; Wayne State vs. Doane, 5:30 p.m.; Wayne State vs. Washburn, 6:45 p.m.; Wayne State vs. Midland, 8 p.m. Saturday's tournament play begins at 10:30 a.m.

The Lady Wildcats
Wayne State opens the 1986 season with slight injuries to three starters. Missy Stoltenberg, a senior hitter, began practice only this week after being ill with a virus. Nate Fontenelle and Diana Asay, two other senior starters, both have back injuries which will affect their playing time. Fourth-year head coach Marilyn Strate expects this year's team to be a strong hitting one, but is concerned about the loss of all three hitters off last year's squad. Senior Jeanette Moline is the leading candidate to fill that spot, but three sophomores, Bev Moeller, Kollette Frevert and Tanya Gappa, have looked good in preseason drills. Other starters back from last year are Meg Hurley, Kristi Bateman and Shelle Tomaszkievicz.

Next Up
Wayne State plays in the Dorci Invitational Sept. 13 and travels to Yankton, S.D., to play Mount Marty College Monday, Sept. 15.

Tom's and Sporting Goods win tourney titles

Wayne Sporting Goods and Tom's Body Shop, the No. 1 seeded teams in the Men's A League and B League, won respective softball tournament championships last week.

Tom's Body Shop destroyed R&W Beiermann's 17-4 for the B League title, while Wayne Sporting Goods downed Waldbaum's 13-11 for the A League championship.

After a scoreless first inning, Tom's Body Shop scored at least four runs in each of the next four frames and rolled past Beiermann's.

Doug Rose and Bryan Parks got the ball rolling for Tom's in the second inning when they stroked a single and double, respectively.

Two outs later, Les Keenan reached on an error, Neal Greenwald singled and Jim Sperry reached on an error. John Melena then followed with a two-run single to supply Tom's with a 4-0 lead.

Beiermann's answered with one run in the bottom of the second, but Tom's stacked four more runs on to its lead in the top of the third.

Russ Stracke led off the third with a double and scored one out later on a single by Parks. Parks then scored on a Mark Klein double and Don Doescher drove Klein in with a triple. Keenan then singled Doescher in with a single to provide Tom's with an 8-1 advantage.

Beiermann's pulled within four by scoring three runs in the bottom of the third. But Tom's once again retaliated with five runs in the fourth and four more markers in the fifth to claim a 10-run rule victory after five innings.

Pat Garvin reached on a fielder's choice to start Tom's fourth inning off before Stracke, Rose and Parks followed with consecutive singles to plate Garvin.

Klein then cleaned the bases with a homer to supply Tom's with a 13-4 advantage.

After Beiermann's went down in order in the bottom of the fourth, Tom's rounded out its scoring with four markers in the fifth.

Sperry started Tom's fifth inning off by singling and John Melena reached on a fielder's choice. Sperry was also safe on the play.

Garvin then loaded the bases by coaxing a walk and Stracke followed with a grand slam homer to dead center field to account for Tom's four final runs.

Tom's finished with 17 hits in the victory. Stracke and Parks led the way with three hits apiece, while Sperry, Rose, Klein and Doescher all added two hits apiece and Greenwald, Keenan and Melena all stroked one single each.

Wayne Sporting Goods used productive fifth and seventh innings to claim a 13-11 victory over Waldbaum's for the A League title.

Sporting Goods pushed across five runs in the fifth and added six more markers in the top of the seventh to claim the victory.

Ron Ahrens scored Sporting Goods' first run after he led the game off with a triple and crossed the plate on a Mick Daehnke single.

Kim Baker tallied Sporting Goods' second marker in the third inning after he stroked a two-out single, moved to second on a Steve Mayer single and then crossed the plate when Jay Jackson singled.

Ahrens ignited the Sporting Goods' uprising in the fifth when he led off with a single. Daehnke and Baker followed with consecutive singles to plate Ahrens.

Jackson and Dion ripped a pair of one-basers after an out to score Daehnke and Baker, and both base runners eventually scored when Tod Heier's grounder was misplayed.

Sporting Goods then scored six runs in its last at-bat to round out its scoring.

Jackson, Dion and Heier all ripped consecutive one-out singles to start the uprising and one out later, Chuck Hackenmiller delivered a bases-loaded triple to plate all three base runners.

Hackenmiller then scored on Jake Munter's single and Ahrens followed with a base hit and both base runners eventually scored to conclude Sporting Goods' scoring.

Waldbaum's made a run at Sporting Goods in the bottom of the seventh, but came up two runs short and was forced to settle for second place.

Sporting Goods collected 19 hits in the victory. Jackson led the way going 4 for 4, while Ahrens finished 4 for 5.

Daehnke, Baker and Dion all totaled two hits apiece for the victors, while Munter, Hackenmiller, Mark Miller, Heier and Mayer all finished with one hit apiece.

Sporting Goods also defeated Waldbaum's in the championship round of the winner's bracket when Sporting Goods claimed an exciting 1-0 victory in eight innings.

Waldbaum's then defeated Hardees for the right to face Sporting Goods for the title.

Beiermann's reached the B League finals by downing Lindner's 21-13 in the semifinals.

Both Tom's Body Shop and Wayne Sporting Goods won their respective regular season league titles and as a result, both were seeded first in the tourney. Wayne Sporting Goods also placed second in this year's Class C State Softball Tournament.

Contestants identify various engine parts, repair and inspect engines and take a written exam during the competition, he said. He said he applies what he has learned on his father's farm.

In other state fair results, Stuart Rethwisch placed second individually and Wayne County placed second in team competition in the Grass and Weed Identification Contest. The Dodge County team captured first place.

Rethwisch of Wayne helped his team's cause by winning the second place silver medal with 92 points out of a possible 120 points.

Other members of this year's second place Wayne County team were Tim Sievers, Mike Backstrom and alternate Becky Baier, all of Wayne.

THE LAUREL AREA can boast of two 4-H'ers who had top exhibits in the 4-H Market Lamb competition at the Nebraska State Fair.

Amy Adkins of Laurel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Adkins, showed the champion market lamb in Division IV, a 100-pound crossbred wether named Johnny.

Her sister, Sara, had exhibited a 124-pound crossbred wether named Chuggers which took reserve champion honors in Division II of the market lamb competition.

Ambassadors named

The Ambassadors, a group of 36 students who will assist with various college functions throughout the year, have been announced by Curt Frye, associate dean of students at Wayne State College of Nebraska.

Selected last spring from a pool of applicants, the Ambassadors will assist the college's admissions office, work at presidential functions and help with other college activities.

The Ambassadors' first job was to serve as orientation leaders during the college's orientation activities Aug. 23-25. The Ambassadors each had a group of new students and guided them through most of the orientation procedures.

In previous years, the Ambassadors numbered about six and were separate from the orientation leaders. But due to the need of mature, knowledgeable upperclassmen to assist with the college events and programs, the Ambassador group was increased and combined with the orientation leaders, Frye said.

The Ambassadors come from four states:

Marjorie Arens, Crofton; Sue Barlow, Schaller, Iowa; Cheryl Rice, Omaha; Byron Bonsall, Burwell; Tom Carsey, Fremont; Christine Crook, Papillion; Rochelle Escue, Des Moines, Iowa; Jean Graves, South Sioux City; Chris Gray, Valentine; Nancy Grimm, Couer D'Alene, Idaho; Michelle Hansen, Omaha; Christopher Hanzel, Dodge; Kim Hargens, Papillion; Troy Heitman, Laurel; Susan Heulinck, Lawton, Iowa; Diane Hoppner, Hampton; Gail Hummel, Woodbine, Iowa; and Dana Hungerford, Arnold's Park, Iowa.

Wayne stress prevention center

by Doug Porter

This week's article will be the first installment of a four part series dealing with stress filters. Basically, I feel that the term stress is very misunderstood. We all need certain types of stress in our life in order to remain healthy and active. However, when we fall outside of our "Comfort Zone" that is when we begin to experience difficulties and harmful side effects from stress.

Essentially there are two types of stress. What we label as negative stress is actually distress. Therefore, when you are feeling "burned out" or "stressed out" it is because you are experiencing too much distress in your life.

On the other hand, when you are feeling real good and things seem to be working just right it is because you are feeling positive stress. This is referred to as eustress.

People can get overloaded with too much eustress just as they can with distress. However, it doesn't carry the harmful side effects.

In our society, since stress usually carries a negative connotation, most everyone has heard of the term distress, but very few people have heard of the term eustress. That is because we always look at stress as a negative emotion, and this just doesn't have to be so.

Each and everyone of us has a different tolerance level to stress, distress and eustress. Thus, some people's comfort zones are narrow while other people's comfort zones are quite broad. That is why you may have noticed that for some people the least little problem will upset them. While for other people, it takes a great deal of distress before they begin to show the effects of it. Each of us can help broaden our comfort zone within limits with the use of the three stress filters which I will be discussing over the next three articles. Basically, the formula for physical, mental and emotional well-being goes like this: physical fitness program (plus) nutritious eating plan (plus) emotional balance exercises (equal) well-being.

If you as a person can incorporate all three of these components in your daily life style, you will be amazed at how it will help you combat distress and broaden your comfort zone so that the everyday obstacles in life don't seem quite as difficult to overcome.

Over the next three weeks I will be taking one variable from the wellness equation and breaking it down to give you some ideas on how to get started on a positive wellness program. Furthermore, I will suggest other literature and authors which you can read to learn more about each aspect of the equation. Finally, I will include some of my own opinions and biases toward each of the three topics.

If you would like to learn more about any one of these three areas discussed in this article as well as other problems related to stress, please stop in and see us at the Wayne Stress Prevention Center. We meet weekly at Wayne-Carroll High School on Thursday nights in Room 202. We would like to help you in any way we can.

Moreover, we are available to speak for any group which is interested in learning more about stress and its affects.

If you would like us to come and put on a presentation for your group, please call Doug Porter at 375-2420 or Jeff Berger at 375-5289 for further information. The Wayne Stress Prevention Center is sponsored by the Providence Medical Center Foundation.

Dates announced for ACT assessments

As a new school year begins, Wayne High School juniors and seniors should give some thought to taking the ACT Assessment.

The ACT Assessment, which consists of four academic tests that measure educational development and a detailed questionnaire that collects information relevant to educational and career planning, is recommended or required by more than 2,700 postsecondary institutions and scholarship programs.

Most students take the ACT Assessment during junior year or early in the senior year, so their results will be available in time for use in planning for postsecondary education and careers.

The guidance office has the information and forms students need to register for the ACT Assessment. ACT also provides free copies of the booklet, Preparing for the ACT Assessment, which contains information about getting ready for the examination, plus a complete practice test.

THE BASIC registration fee for the Assessment is $10.50. Late registration will be accepted for an additional $10 late handling fee. For 1986-87, ACT has established this test date schedule:

Test dates, Oct. 25, 1986; Dec. 13, 1986; Feb. 7, 1987; April 11, 1987; and June 13, 1987. Registration deadlines, Sept. 26, 1986; Nov. 14, 1986; Jan. 9, 1987; March 13, 1987; and May 15, 1987. Late registration deadlines, Oct. 14, 1986; Dec. 2, 1986; Jan. 27, 1987; March 31, 1987; June 2, 1987.

If takes about three hours to complete the four ACT examinations in English, math, social studies and natural science. The Assessment also includes a two-part questionnaire that students complete at home when they register. It focuses on interests, academic and nonacademic accomplishments, and vocational and educational plans and needs.

Colleges use information from the ACT Assessment for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. ACT Assessment reports are sent to students, their high school counselors and the institutions and agencies the student specifies.

The ACT Assessment is a major service of The American College Testing Program, which has national headquarters in Iowa City, Iowa.

For more information about the ACT Assessment, see Mr. Munson in the guidance office at Wayne High School.

PAWS program enriches college library system

Persons in a 20-county area of Northeast Nebraska now have easy access to reference articles in 185 periodicals through a program with the Northeast Library System and Wayne State College of Nebraska.

PAWS (Periodical Access Wayne State) enables librarians in the Northeast Library System to obtain the general public copies of any article indexed in the Readers' Guide To Periodical Literature from Wayne State's U.S. Conn Library, said Dr. Jack L. Middendorf, director of information services at Wayne State.

Through a one-year grant, Wayne State will offer this service to librarians and media specialists from 9-11 a.m.-Monday through Friday. Librarians may order the articles for individuals by calling the Wayne State Library using a toll-free telephone number. Wayne State personnel copy and mail the articles to the requesting individuals the same day as the request.

Middendorf said PAWS is not a reference service; individuals must have the magazine name, article title, and date of publication for Wayne State to copy the article.

Participating public libraries and school media centers will pay 75 cents and the Northeast Library System $1.25 to Wayne State for each article ordered. Middendorf said each library will have its own policy as to whether the requestor or the library will pay the 75 cents.

The Northeast Library System serves 20 counties in Northeast Nebraska, including Cedar, Dixon, and Wayne Counties.

Commission plans temporary storage

By Melvin Paul, Statehouse Correspondent. The Nebraska Public Service Commission is licensing temporary grain storage cranes this fall.

By early August the commission had licensed almost 4.5 million bushels of temporary storage and given the tentative green light for another 15.8 million bushels, according to Mike Gauthier, warehouse supervisor for the commission. More than 30 warehouses have either been licensed or are in the process of getting licensing for temporary facilities. "They're scattered throughout the state," Gauthier said. In years past the commission has licensed only a few temporary storage facilities. And then only with great reluctance. Commissioners prefer that grain stored under their seal of approval be housed only in the best of conditions. But the predicted grain glut has changed their attitude. Some estimates have put Nebraska's potential grain storage shortage as high as 94 million bushels. "We need a terrific amount of extra storage this year," said Commissioner Harold Simpson of Lincoln. "Temporary licensing is much better than putting it on the ground and then attempting to find storage later. This gives a chance to keep the grain in good shape," he said. And licensing semi-permanent facilities is not automatic. Companies must submit detailed plans describing the proposed construction. PSC staff reviews those plans, looks at the financial stability of the warehouse and its operational history, and makes a recommendation to the commission.

THE FIVE commissioners then personally review the plans, and on a case-by-case basis, decide whether the proposed temporary facility meets state requirements. The commission then gives tentative approval. However, PSC staff inspect the facility after it is built and before a license is issued. The PSC requires that the walls of semi-permanent facilities be steel or wood. The structures must have aeration systems and temperature cables to keep track of the grain temperature. They must be covered with a thick vinyl-type material. In addition, the company must meet financial licensing and bonding requirements for the additional storage. None of the newly constructed facilities have failed that last inspection. Semi-permanent storage is a national problem, according to Gauthier. Nebraska is strict in comparison to some other states which have licensed rail cars and barges for temporary storage. The temporary facilities will continue to be licensed as long as stored grain meets quality regulations and there is need for additional storage, according to Gauthier. "I think the industry sees these (temporary facilities) as just a temporary answer to get us through the fall harvest and into next year," he said. And the commission is trying to reach a balance—serving the needs yet not jeopardizing the warehouses of the producers, he said.

Problems with Surface Roots of Trees

How many times have you run your lawn mower over surface roots of a large tree growing in your yard? The mower may scalp and scar or damage a root, not to mention causing possible damage to the machine.

What can be done? In many cases the trouble stems from a decision made years earlier. The wrong tree was selected. The problem is commonly associated with maples, poplars and willows. But that doesn't let other trees off the hook. Actually, any old tree or any tree large enough to shade your house can produce surface roots.

Sometimes years of heavy foot traffic or constant raking removes vegetation, exposing the area beneath the tree to erosion. The deeper the erosion, the greater the root exposure.

To solve surface root problems, some people are tempted to remove the roots. This is an acceptable solution if the root is disturbing a driveway or sidewalk, but solving one problem through root removal may create another. Removing a large root will damage the tree.

If a root must go, remove not more than a third of the portion lying beneath the drip line. Always make a clean, neat cut.

If you do not disturb the exposed root, a couple of other things can be done. One is to "top dress" the root area with good topsoil (possibly mixed with meat moss) and sow grass seed. The layer of new soil should be only one or two inches thick.

Another solution, the preferable one, is to plant a ground cover instead of grass to hide the roots. Ask your nurseryman for plants that grow under limited light conditions.

The most drastic step of all would be to remove the tree. If you remove it and decide to replace it with a new tree, or if you should decide to add other shade trees consider oak, honeylocust, Ginko, Kentucky coffee tree or other species that normally cause only minimal surface root problem.

State Fair Winners

AFTER placing second and third, respectively, in identifying insects at last year's Nebraska State Fair, Marc Rahn of Wayne (left) and D.A. Toalson of Lyons won first and second place trophies at this year's 4-H contest held Aug. 30. Marc placed first with a score of 100 points of a total possible 110. D.A. placed second scoring 95 points. Both 4-H'ers received trophies from the Nebraska State Pest Control Association and cash premiums from Michael Rethwisch, University of Hawaii, former 4-H member and leader from Wayne County. Marc is the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Rahn. D.A., 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Toalson.

New to Nebraska

Alfalfa producer should watch for new diseases

The first documented cases of verticillium wilt and stem nematode in alfalfa showed up last year in Nebraska and producers should be watching for symptoms of these diseases in their forage now, said University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension plant pathologist, John Watkins.

One case of each disease showed up in July of last year in routine surveys of two separate fields in the panhandle, Watkins said.

"We don't think we have a major problem with either one right now," he said, "but we want to alert growers to what the symptoms are."

Verticillium wilt shows up in patches, with the leaves of the plant taking on a "pinkish-red cast," Watkins said. In the heat of the day, the plants may look wilted, and then seem to recover at night.

Stem nematode shows itself by turning the plant's stems almost perfectly white. Only about 10 percent of the infected plants actually will show the symptom, but it is easily recognizable because the ones that do show it will be "almost as white as a piece of paper," he said.

Watkins said if producers suspect either of these diseases in their fields, they should dig an entire plant showing the symptom and send it to their local extension office for testing.

THERE'S "NO need to panic" if either disease shows up in a producer's field, he said. Producers should continue to cut off the field as long as possible. Both diseases eventually will take the field out of production, but it may take two or more years, Watkins said. A field infected with verticillium should be cut last, because the disease can be easily spread by windrowers or cutter bars, he said.

No fungicides are available to combat either of these diseases, said Dave Wysong, extension plant pathologist at UNL. Once an alfalfa field has been taken out by these diseases, the field must be planted in another crop. After four or five years, the field may be seeded with alfalfa again.

Though less serious and far more common, rust is another problem that producers need to watch for in their forage as fall approaches, Watkins said.

Alfalfa is susceptible to rust when the weather is intermittently cool and wet, with heavy dews, particularly if the last cutting is delayed, he said. Fields should be cut before they go to full bloom to reduce their vulnerability to rust, he said.

Again, there is no effective fungicide available and producers who get rust in their alfalfa fields will have to "ride it out," Watkins said.

the farmer's wife

by pat meierhenry

A month ago, I announced to the Big Farmer, "I'm not on call Labor Day weekend; I'm taking a three-day vacation and you can come along if you want." At that point, it looked as if he would get done with the second cutting of hay just in time to start on the third and would not be taking a break.

The Big Farmer has an unbelievable capacity for working without a break. If you can get him 100 miles from home, he has a good time; but you can't get him to leave. Any vacation longer than three days makes him nervous.

So Ann and I started making plans. We would head west to the Calamus Dam, stay at the Grand Island Holiday Inn, go to Hastings to see our new great-niece, and shop, and sit in a hot tub.

About two weeks later, our father was showing signs of missing the kids and wondering what their present living quarters looked like. We decided he must be going along, and it looked as if we were going to Lincoln. So much for the Stuh Museum.

Kay called to tell us she needed lumber for loft beds. There were bunk beds in her room, but she and Jenni decided that these took up too much space.

So the old dining-room table and some pre-cut lumber went into the trunk, two chairs in the back seat, and we headed for Grandma's house.

JON BUILT the loft while Mike and Sue and Ann took in the State Fair. Denny loaned Kay a refrigerator. The track guys had acquired a long couch at a garage sale, so she has also inherited a small couch from their house.

Jon had to work on Sunday morning, so we went to Arby's just so I could have him serve me breakfast.

We attended the University Chapel, and were joined there by Tammy and Teresa Brudigan, Blaine Johs and Jon Stelling were ushers. I hardly recognized Jon, he's so much broader.

After stuffing ourselves at Grandma's, we said good-bye to Jon and Kay and headed for Omaha.

Mike and Ann played "Auto Alphabet" on the way. There were lots more signs on Mike's side of the road, so he won easily.

We delivered the table and chairs to Sue's "town house," which is darling. Ann and the Beattie kids stayed all night there, and she fixed them pancakes this morning. Uncle Don cooked chicken in his Coleman smoker for dinner today.

We spent two hours at Immanuel Hospital with my friend Yvonne and her husband Allen. She's had problems with blood clots and now there is calcification in her hip, but she's still hoping to walk again.

Her cheerful attitude reminds me to be grateful for two legs that move when I want them to. She says there are so many young quadriplegics there. With the help of social workers, nurses, and therapists, there are many miracles of the human spirit at this rehab center.

Then a drive home into the Nebraska sunset, ready to get back to work. A three-day vacation is better than none at all.

WINSIDE HIGH SCHOOL Principal Ron Leapley places a plaque on the school's woodshop building which notes that the building was originally two separate school districts located in the early communities of Northside and Apex. The plaque also tells when the school buildings were constructed. Pictured with Leapley are Winside ninth graders who, as seventh graders two years ago, investigated the history of the building as a class project.

Historical landmark recognized at Winside school

By Dianne Jaeger

As a class project two years ago, Mrs. Nancy Powers, Winside High School English teacher and librarian, had her seventh grade class investigate the history of the old school building now used as the school's woodshop.

In their investigations, students discovered that the building was originally two school houses —

District 16 at the site where Northside community was to be located, and District 21 located in the Apex community area.

Winside was formed however, and the communities of Northside and Apex never developed.

STUDENTS ALSO discovered that District 16 was built in 1881 and was a small building measuring 16 x 20 feet. Forty-seven years later, in 1928, a new school house was built measuring 30 x 32 feet. This is now the south end of the present woodshop.

District 21 was originally built in 1883. Forty-six years later, in 1929, a new school house was built to measure 30 x 36 feet. This is now the north end of the woodshop building.

NOW FRESHMEN at Winside High School, the students who originally worked on the investigation project two years ago included Doree Brogren, Shannon Bargstadt, Angie Thompson, Shawnette Janke, Tina Hartmann, Jenni Topp, Randy Prince, Joel Carlson and Max Kant.

Other students who helped work on the project as seventh graders but have since moved from the district were Paula Hayer, Nick Jones, Michele Kittleman, Jennifer Monk and Brett Serven.

As a class project two years ago, Mrs. Nancy Powers, Winside High School English teacher and librarian, had her seventh grade class investigate the history of the old school building now used as the school's woodshop.

In their investigations, students discovered that the building was originally two school houses —

District 16 at the site where Northside community was to be located, and District 21 located in the Apex community area.

Winside was formed however, and the communities of Northside and Apex never developed.

STUDENTS ALSO discovered that District 16 was built in 1881 and was a small building measuring 16 x 20 feet. Forty-seven years later, in 1928, a new school house was built measuring 30 x 32 feet. This is now the south end of the present woodshop.

District 21 was originally built in 1883. Forty-six years later, in 1929, a new school house was built to measure 30 x 36 feet. This is now the north end of the woodshop building.

NOW FRESHMEN at Winside High School, the students who originally worked on the investigation project two years ago included Doree Brogren, Shannon Bargstadt, Angie Thompson, Shawnette Janke, Tina Hartmann, Jenni Topp, Randy Prince, Joel Carlson and Max Kant.

Other students who helped work on the project as seventh graders but have since moved from the district were Paula Hayer, Nick Jones, Michele Kittleman, Jennifer Monk and Brett Serven.

Vaccines and Toxoids
Many of the viral infections that killed thousands in the early part of this century are controlled today through the routine use of vaccines and toxoids. Parents are somewhat familiar with these biological products since they are required by most school systems prior to children beginning school. Immunization of children at various ages starting at age two months is necessary to provide protection against conditions such as pertussis, diphtheria, tetanus, polio, red measles, German measles, and mumps — the so called "childhood diseases."
— Vaccines contain small amounts of bacteria, viruses, or other organisms that have been killed or rendered noninfectious. The administration of vaccine provides the body with the ability to withstand subsequent exposures to corresponding infections.
Toxoids provide the same type of immunity as do vaccines but they do not contain organisms. Rather, toxoids are composed of small amounts of the poisons called toxins that are produced by various organisms. Tetanus and diphtheria are two bacterial infections that may be prevented through the use of toxoids.

FALL SPORTS GUIDE

Allen bases success on a speedy backfield

ALLEN -- Speed. Perhaps the most important quality in football is speed. And Allen has speed to burn this year, according to head coach Dave Uldrich.

"Our secondary will have a lot of speed and our backfield is speedy, too. Actually, our backfield speed could be our salvation. I think we'll have one of the fastest backfields in the conference," Uldrich said.

Jyoti Kwankin (one of Nebraska's best hurdlers in Class D) Jeff Gotch and Max Oswald are returning starters in Allen's back field. Oswald will quarterback the club.

But a major factor that will affect Allen is its inexperienced and small offensive line, according to Uldrich.

"Our line isn't big and it doesn't have much experience, either," he said. "But we have some quality freshmen, and by mid-season several of these freshmen should be seeing a lot of playing time."

Uldrich mentioned Rusty Dickens, Max Hingst, Ben Jackson and Kent Chase as freshmen that have looked good in practice. "But there are nine freshmen in all and all of them have shown me something," the Eagle skipper added.

Returning lettermen other than Kwankin, Gotch and Oswald include: Dave Isom, Mark Isom, Robb Sullivan, Curtliss Blohm, Travis Schroeder, Kurt Lund and Jason Fahrenholz. That's only 10 returning lettermen, and only 21 players reported to camp and the low numbers naturally have Uldrich concerned. "Our depth, or lack of it, is one of my major concerns. I'm big on the freshmen, and with only 21 guys out they're going to have to do the job," he said.

Beemer, Bancroft-Rosalie and Newcastle were listed by Uldrich as being the toughest teams on the Eagle schedule this year. "But I think Beemer will be the toughest team. They're loaded again this year," he said.

Allen begins the season Sept. 5 when Wynot travels to town.

Experience should guide Eagles in 1986

ALLEN — Allen lost several talented athletes to graduation last year, but a predominately experienced lineup could make the Eagles one of the better volleyball teams in the Lewis and Clark Conference this fall.

Allen returns six players with starting experience, and head coach Gary Troth said that's an obvious strength.

"All of our top players have starting experience and that's naturally going to help," Troth said.

Those that figure into Troth's plans are Lana Erwin, Kristi Chase, Nikki Olesen, Christin Hansen, Tiffany Harder and Barb Hansen. But Troth warns that just because they have experience does not guarantee them a starting position.

"We have some good younger players that will be pushing the upperclassmen to start," he said. "The girls that are back aren't that quick, but the younger girls are. So if our lack of quickness starts to hurt us, I'll go with some younger kids."

Troth has not decided what formation he'll use this year. But said that if the Eagles run a 5-1 style, Olesen would be the lone setter, and if they go with a 4-2 formation, Erwin would become a setter-hitter.

Troth added that Amy Noe, only a sophomore, would be able to help with the setting chores.

"We have a decent front line, with pretty good size and leaping ability. As far as setting goes, we have Olesen and Erwin, and Noe has the potential to be a good setter, too."

Troth mentioned Emerson, Ponca and Homer as being Allen's tougher opponents this year, and added that the Eagles have a decent shot at winning their district.

"Emerson and Ponca look like our two toughest opponents this year, and Homer might be good, too. Wakefield will be good, but the only way we'll face them is if we meet them in the conference tourney," he said. "Our district appears to be wide open. Some of the traditionally tough teams are down this year so it should be pretty even."

Allen begins the season Thursday, Sept. 4, in the Pender Tournament.

"I like opening with the Pender Tournament because you're assured two games, and sometimes three," Troth said.

Laurel hopes to 'turn the corner' in '86

LAUREL — Last year, Laurel was a much better team than its 1-7 record indicated. But head coach Gale Hamilton said he hopes to turn the corner to a winning season this year. "We lost five games by 10 points or less last year," Hamilton said. "It was frustrating, but we're hoping to turn the corner this season."

Hamilton will have plenty of experience back this year as eight gridgers return with starting experience on both defense and offense.

"Our biggest strength might be our experience. We have eight starters back on both sides of the ball, and that can only help us," the Bear skipper said.

In addition to so many starters returning, Laurel returns its entire backfield. Brent Haisch has gained nearly 2,000 yards during the past two seasons. Scott Marquardt is the returning quarterback and Steve Schmitt also returns in the backfield.

"We have a lot of quality players back. And our backfield should provide us with some thrills," Hamilton said.

Other returning lettermen include: Randy Sherry, Rick Kruid, Paul Roeder, Joedy Cunningham, Kyle Nixon, Jay Lake, Mark

Bathke, David Keifer and Jason Klusen.

Hamilton said a weakness that he's noticed in practices that the Bears will have to overcome is a lack of confidence.

"We still need to believe in ourselves. The kids are working hard, and we're pushing them hard because we're expecting a lot out of them this year," he said.

Hamilton mentioned Homer as the team to beat this year, but added that every team on the Bear schedule will be good.

"Homer looks pretty good, but all the teams are good. They all appear to be on the same level," he said.

Next year, Laurel will jump from the Lewis and Clark Conference to the Northeast

Nebraska Athletic Conference.

Hamilton said he's ready for the season to begin.

"I think we're ready to play. I'm ready to get the season going because I'm anxious to see how we do," he said.

Laurel begins the season Friday, Sept. 5 at Randolph.

Missing is Kathy Pierce.

New offense is the key to Bears' season

LAUREL — A successful 1986 volleyball season for Laurel depends on how well the Bears execute a new offense, according to head coach Carroll Manganaro.

"We're going to run an offense that's different than anybody around here has seen. It's difficult to explain, but I guess you could say it's a 5-1 with a swing—a variation of a 5-1," she said. "If we can handle the offense, we should be in good shape because the offense caters to each player's strengths."

Another key to the season will be Sarah Adkins. Adkins is one of the better setters in the Lewis and Clark Conference, and will be a major factor to Laurel's success in '86.

"As I said, it's a 5-1 and Sarah will be the setter. Sarah will also be a key to our passing game, and as far as I'm concerned, if you don't have a solid passing game, you don't have anything."

In addition to Adkins, June Heydon, Tami Schmitt and Stacy Strawn are returning senior letter winners and figure into Manganaro's plans in '86. Dana Anderson and Shelly Wattier, both junior letter winners, also figure into Manganaro's plans.

Becky Christensen, a 6-0 junior, a transfer student from Coleridge and several freshmen should also see plenty of action, according to the Laurel skipper.

"Becky's a fall girl and we're hoping she develops into a good hitter and defender at the net," Manganaro said. "Dawn Addison played at Coleridge but her parents moved to Laurel in the summer and she's looking good, and I'm really pleased with several of our freshmen. We have 14 freshmen out and several of them are good enough to start and I think that's a tribute to our junior high program.

Manganaro listed serving and the ability to focus on specializing each girl's talents as strengths this year.

"We're a good serving team, we hit the ball hard," she said. "And I've been with this group of seniors four years now, and that allows us to advance onto more special training and not spend so much time on the fundamentals, and that helps."

Laurel begins the season Thursday, Sept. 4, in the Pender Tournament against Emerson-Hubbard.

Skill players are the key to Trojans' season

WAKEFIELD — Although Wakefield head football coach Dennis Wilbur is excited about his 1986 Trojans, he knows that this season will be a difficult one.

"Every team we play this year will be better than they were last year," he said. "It's going to be tough. Beemer, Bancroft-Rosalie and Coleridge could be state champs, and Newcastle and Winside will be tough games, too."

Although Wakefield returns 16 lettermen, it appears the Trojans will have to depend on its skill players to be successful in '86 as Todd Kratke returns at quarterback and Brad Lund returns as a running back.

Wilbur is naturally optimistic about his backfield, but running backs are only as good as their offensive line and Wilbur says the offensive line is currently a mystery.

"We don't have much depth in the backfield and it is small, but it's also pretty quick," the Trojan skipper said. "But the offensive line is a mystery. The linemen are big, but they're also young so it's a question mark right now."

Defensively, Wakefield is again inexperienced. But Wilbur said he's been impressed with his defense during practices.

"Our defense is inexperienced, especially the linemen and linebackers. But they sure are hitting hard and practicing hard," he said.

Colby Meyer, all-conference and a Wayne Herald all-area selection last year, and Doug Roberts will be Wakefield's mainstays on defense.

One area that should assist Wakefield this year is playing at home on Eaton Field. Last year, Wakefield was forced to play every game on the road because of construction on Eaton Field.

"Playing at home sure won't hurt us. It got to be a drag going away all the time," Wilbur said. Other returning lettermen not previously mentioned include: seniors Kraig Anderson, Bruce Bartels, Kevin Greve, Randy Kinney and Jody Navrkal; juniors Raymond Ferguson, Jeremy Grace, Brian Larson and Mike Nelson; sophomores Tony Halverson, Scott Lund and John Wright.

Trojans should have another banner year

WAKEFIELD — After compiling a 19-2 record, winning the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament title and qualifying for the Class C-1 State Volleyball Tournament, it's going to be difficult for Wakefield to achieve more this year than it did last season.

But with a nucleus of returning letter persons, head coach Paul Eaton is optimistic about the 1986 campaign.

"We lost five players that either started or played a lot, but we return seven players that lettered and we think we have a good shot at having a good season," Eaton said.

The seven letter persons that return include Marci Greve, Des Salmon, Steph Torczon, Susie McQuistan, Stacey Kuhl, Mollie Greve and Val Krusemark.

Most of these experienced players are hitters, and Eaton admits that seeing is a major concern.

"We're lucky we got Steph back because good setters are hard to come by," he said. "But we plan to go with a 4-2, so we need another setter. We're hoping Des Salmon can convert from a hitter to a setter, and we'll need to improve our setting as the year progresses."

Two other areas that concerns Eaton is his hitters' inconsistent spiking and the team's passing.

"One of our strengths is our hitting. We have a number of girls that hit very hard, but we're going to have to become more consistent," he said. "And we need to pass the ball better. Kaye Hansen and Val will see a lot of back row action to help with our passing, and like our setting, we're going to have to improve our passing as the season moves along."

Although Wakefield was listed by most of the volleyball coaches within the Wayne Herald coverage area as the team to beat, Eaton says the conference title will be up for grabs and named several teams he expects to give his Trojans a tussle.

"A number of teams could win the conference title this year. Looking over our schedule, I expect Emerson, Winside, Wausa, Wynot and Laurel to be some of the better teams we'll play. But there are a number of other good teams as well," he said.

Wakefield ushers in the season Thursday, Sept. 4, when Winside travels to town.

Buildingsound offensive line Winside's key

WINSIDE — Rich Touney, Winside's coach for the 1986 season, has a history of turning losing programs into winners. And Touney said the key to turning the Wildcat program around is building a solid offensive line.

"My coaching philosophy is simple. If the offensive line is sound, a team usually has a successful season. I know different coaches have different beliefs, but that's what I think," the new Wildcat skipper said.

Because he hasn't seen his troops in action yet, Touney doesn't know exactly what Winside's strengths and weaknesses are. But he did say he likes his club's unity.

"It's kind of tough to say what we're going to be strong and weak at because I haven't seen us play yet. But the kids do seem to hang in there together and they're playing well together," he said.

Touney's biggest concern is the players learning his system.

"When you have a new system, you worry about the kids learning it and executing it. And you especially hope the quarterback executes well," he said.

Mace Kant, one of the better wrestlers in Class D, will probably be the signal caller for Winside this year.

Other returning lettermen joining Kant on the '86 roster include: Randy Leapley, Mike Thies, Kevin Jaeger, Bill Schmidt, Steve Jorgenson, Doug Paulsen and Daryl Mundil.

Touney has done his homework, and he knows the Lewis and Clark Conference is explosive. So another key to a successful season will be holding other teams down.

"Defensively, we have to shut people down. I looked over last year's statistics and if you didn't score 35 points a game you weren't nothing," he said. "So we're going to concentrate on stopping the big play, and hopefully we'll have a few (big plays) of our own."

Touney expected Newcastle, Beemer, Bancroft-Rosalie and Coleridge to be the tougher teams on the Wildcats schedule this year. "But it sounds like every game will be tough," he added.

Winside ushers in the '86 campaign Sept. 5 when Beemer travels to town.

Playing together is important for Winside

WINSIDE — Last year, Winside head coach Jill Stenwall said one of her primary goals was to create a winning atmosphere. And now she hopes that carries over into the 1986 campaign.

"We set out to build a winning attitude in the girls, and we finished 9-9 last year. Hopefully, that 'winning atmosphere' will carry over into this season," she said.

Winside returns only three letter persons, so if the Wildcats do have a successful season the underclassmen will have to step forward, according to Stenwall.

"We're going to have to play together because we're so young. I think we'll be all right, but our varsity inexperience is certainly a weakness," she said.

Winside is loaded as far as hitting is concerned. Christi Thies and Tracy Topp, both seniors, and junior Tricia Hartman all had quality years last season.

Anne Meierhenry, Carman Reeg and Lori Jensen, all juniors, should also provide the Wildcats with plenty of hitting power.

So a key to the season is junior setter Cher Olsen, according to Stenwall.

"We're weak at setting, and that isn't an insult to Cher, but the last two seasons we've depended on Kerri Leighton so much," the Wildcat skipper said.

Leighton was a Wayne Herald All-Area selection last year but is now attending Wayne State College, and Olsen will be counted on to step in and take over the setting chores.

"Cher can handle it. But we're going to need a team effort to have a good year," Stenwall said. "We're going to have to learn to play well with each other, because as it looks right now, I'll be shuffling a lot of players in and out during the course of the season."

Wakefield, Allen and Osmond were listed by Stenwall as some of the tougher teams on the Wildcat schedule. But she added that the entire season will be rugged.

"Wakefield, Allen and Osmond look good. But the entire conference is loaded with good teams — there isn't a break anywhere," she said.

Winside opens the season Thursday, Sept. 4, at Wakefield.

A rugged schedule awaits Devils' gridders

With a nucleus of returning lettermen, Wayne head coach Lonnie Ehrhardt plans to return to the powerful type of game the Blue Devils ran in 1984.

"I'd like to see more of a powerful running game this year," the Wayne skipper said. "We have several different guys that can move the ball, and I hope to mix it up more like we did a couple of years ago."

Ted Lueders is expected to be the signal caller for the Blue Devils this season. Returning lettermen Jon Stoltenberg, Russ Longe, Jason Liska and Ted McCright should all see plenty of action in the backfield as well.

Two other returning lettermen, Bill Liska and Bill Landanger, should also figure into plenty of offense this year, according to Ehrhardt.

"We'll try to run a lot, but I think our passing game should be potent, too, with Lueders at quarterback, Liska at tight end and Landanger the other end."

A major concern for Ehrhardt is building a powerful offensive line to lead the offensive attack.

"We lost four offensive linemen and switched two others to different positions so that's our biggest question mark going into the season," he said.

Over the past few years, Wayne has been known as a solid defensive team, and Ehrhardt says 1986 shouldn't be an exception.

"We've got a lot of good players on defense. We'll have to do some replacing, but Wayne has been known for its defense and it should be solid again this year," he said. "This is the first year Wayne will compete in the Northern Activities Conference, along with South Sioux City and O'Neill. Hartington Cedar Catholic will compete in the conference in all other activities.

Ehrhardt said this year's schedule will once again be rugged.

"We don't have an easy team on the schedule. Shuyler is ranked No. 1 in Class B. Lyons-Decatur, Fremont Bergan and LeMars all made the playoffs and all the conference schools along with West Point will be solid," he said.

Wayne opens the season Friday, Sept. 5, at South Sioux City.

Blue Devils hope to power opponents in '86

When a new coach enters the scene, new coaching philosophies also enter. And Wayne head coach Martene Uhing said most volleyball games are won at practices.

"Volleyball is such a fast-paced game, that when the momentum shifts, you have to be ready to execute to turn things around again; and you get ready by executing in practice," she said.

The main areas Uhing has her troops concentrating on in pre-season practices are serving and setting.

"We're not there yet, but I think we have the potential to be a good serving team. And we've been improving in that area," she said. "But the area I'm most concerned about is setting.

"Marnie (Bruggeman) is the only setter we have back with much experience, and I'd like to have one or two more steady setters before the season begins," the Blue Devil skipper said.

Kristy Hansen and returning senior letter person Jennifer Salmon are likely to see plenty of setting action this year.

Wayne's primary asset, according to Uhing, is it's power game.

"I think we'll be able to have a strong offensive attack and have a good blocking team," she said. "We've been looking pretty strong in those areas."

Kecia Corblif and Shelly Pick, both returning senior starters, will be called upon to lead the Blue Devil hitters and blockers.

Two other returning letter persons that will undoubtedly see plenty of playing time are senior Jennifer Wessel and junior Amy Schluns.

Although Uhing did not coach volleyball last year, she refereed the entire season and listed several of the tougher teams on the Blue Devil schedule.

"Our district has a history of being one of the strongest in the state, and with teams like Hartington Cedar Catholic, Columbus Scotus, West Point and North Bend it will be strong again," she said. "As far as our regular season goes, I would expect Norfolk High and South Sioux City to be the toughest matches."

The Blue Devils usher, in the season Thurs day, Sept. 4, when they battle North Bend in the opening round of the Beemer Invitational.
