THE WAYNE HERALD

As they live and breathe

The following is a first person article, written by Chuck Hackenmiller, about his experiences during Sunday's fire-fighting drill conducted by the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department.

The house is located five miles south and less than a mile east of Wayne. It was nearly noon and about seven Wayne firemen were there already, some carrying wood (used to fuel the burning) inside this old, dilapidated two-story structure.

Temperature outside was reaching close to the lower eighties. It was getting hot. The sun was out, but the air was humid enough that it could have just as well been raining.

Several hundred feet from the house, a Wayne fire department member opens up the valve on the tanker vehicle and water flows into a portable water-holding unit. Preparation for the fire drill is nearly complete.

WAYNE VOLUNTEER fireman Harold Fleer emerges from the burning house after his mission of finding the 'live' victim on the second floor.

In about two hours, my participation in the drill would go beyond the duties of a reporter-photographer.

My usual duties entail standing along the sidelines, photographing the dramatic moments when firemen work diligently to extinguish a fire from the outside; or when the firemen, wearing a breathing apparatus, exit from a burning building after searching for valuables, a cause of a fire or most importantly, a human life.

On this day (Sunday) I would shrug off my newspaper image role and, for a period of about 30 minutes, become a fireman. I would be wearing the proper fire-fighting attire — the boots, coat, hood, gloves, hood and helmet.

And two other items, an air tank and breathing apparatus, were needed for this exercise. After all, one doesn't enter a burning building without the breathing apparatus. A person couldn't survive without one.

Several months ago, Wayne Fire Chief Dale Preston asked if I would be interested in participating in this exercise — and then wrote about my experiences. He wanted to get the message across about the dangers involved with firemen going into burning buildings.

Yes, I told him. At the time, the request created in me a spirit of adventure, overcoming the thoughts of how dangerous it could be. Back then, I reasoned with the fact that firemen do this sort of thing constantly, so it can't be too dangerous.

But I became more apprehensive after my only lesson on how to operate the breathing apparatus, conducted prior to Sunday by Preston and another experienced fireman, Ron Wriedt.

First they fitted me with a coat. Then on came the air tank. It was heavy. Wriedt cautioned me that the air tank, if punctured, has enough explosive impact to cause physical damage to me. It was also explained that contrary to some people's belief, the tanks contain only air — the same stuff you are breathing right now.

Built on the straps, supporting the air tank, is a device that controls the flow of the air from the tank.

Then the breathing apparatus comes on. The mask slips over the head. Preston and Wriedt explain how to seal the mask tightly around the head so that no smoke can enter. The unit doesn't work so good with people who have beards.

Then they place an attachment of the breathing apparatus to the flow control valve.

I'm now breathing off of the air tank. My gasping breaths can be heard distinctly — sounds of snorts or heavy snoring. It seems: Wriedt says that's normal.

Somehow I feel limited in the air I'm getting. They show me a switch that allows the air to come more freely. Then I am shown a knob that will provide a blast of fresh air, if needed, to clear the mask when it fogs up.

Conclusion of being closed in or worry about not getting enough air — those thoughts enter my mind. Preston and Wriedt talk to me, and I shout in a high pitch so that they can hear what I'm saying.

After more instructions, they fit me with the rest of my gear so that I'll be ready to enter the burning building on Sunday.

It's Sunday now — and I really don't know if I'm ready.

Two firemen instructors in charge of the drill, Walt Ebeler of Madison and Dutch Sitzman of Wayne, give instructions and explain in detail what will transpire in the fire drill.

Walt says he is going into an upstairs room and that the firemen participating in the drill were suppose to find him and bring him back down the stairway to safety. He had a ladder planted near an upstairs window to be used as an escape route if he could not be found. And he also had on a breathing apparatus.

The first group of firemen succeeded, fighting the smoke and heat to Walt in a corner of the top floor. The second group also found him easily.

It wasn't long after that when the fire chief directed his voice towards me. "Your turn to go in, Chuck!" said Preston.

My heart jumped almost into my throat. I put my camera down and had some help putting on the rest of my fire-fighting attire and the breathing apparatus gear. I was too nervous to do it myself.

With my camera in hands (wearing rubber gloves which Walt said he wouldn't wear to a dog fight), I ventured toward the burning house.

Inside the smokey, burning house, I could feel the intense heat television — and radio media. Moderating the debate was J. Alan Cramer, publisher of The Wayne Herald.

Agriculture was the first issue confronted by Orr and Boosalis.

Orr said problems need to be resolved in two areas — for those farmers who are surviving and secondly, for those who no longer can live off of the farm. The surviving farmer needs better marketing prices and a program for debt restructuring.

Those farmers who cannot survive on the farm need assistance in economic development areas to provide more job opportunities so that "they have a place to go" once they move from the farm, Orr mentioned. In her upcoming visit with President Reagan, Orr said she would convince the President there is more need for fusion of money into the agriculture credit system.

BOOSALIS stressed establishing a regional coalition for agriculture. She would like to see a universal

The wide range of issues did bring forth some staunch differences, and also similarities, between Orr and Boosalis in the Nebraska Press Association (NPA) sponsored debate at North Platte. Questions on the issues were asked by a four-member panel representing newspaper.

Hunger walk slated

Church representatives in the Wayne area are inviting young and "older" people to join them in a walk this Sunday, Sept. 28.

The walking is part of the fourth annual CROP (Christian Rural Overseas Program) Walk in Wayne. The walk is designed to raise funds for world hunger.

Registration for the walk begins at 12:30 p.m. at the Wayne city auditorium. The rain date is set for the following Sunday, Oct. 5.

At 1 p.m., the 10-mile walk will begin at the auditorium. The route of the walk will be explained in detail.

Chairman of this year's CROP Walk event, Rev. Daniel Monson of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne, stressed that the participants may walk the amount of miles they choose. Individuals can still pick up pledge envelopes at their local churches which are participating in the annual event. The participants are asked to solicit pledges for each mile the individual walks.

Those not contacted by a walking participant, but who still wish to contribute toward the event, can contact their local church.

The goal this year is to raise $3,000 and start out at the auditorium with 150 walkers.

Last year, about 130 individuals participated in the CROP Walk and raised nearly $2,700.

Co-chairman of this year's CROP Walk is the Rev. Gordon Granberg of the First Baptist Church in Wayne.

Board accepts apology from Sellon

by Chuck Hackenmiller

The Laurel-Concord School Board issued a statement Tuesday night in support of Superintendent Paul Sellon concerning a matter regarding Sellon's status with his candidacy for a Ph.D. degree.

Sellon has not yet obtained his Ph.D. (Doctor of Philosophy) in Administration, but he expects to receive it in May of 1987.

However, several individuals from within the Laurel-Concord school district have concerns that Sellon was hired in July, 1985 by the school board on the presumption that Sellon had already received his Ph.D.

In an earlier interview (Sept. 8) with The Wayne Herald, Sellon said there was no fraud whatsoever during the interviewing process for the superintendent's position. He said he has never demanded to be called "Doctor."

Sellon said then that he had finished his residency and internship for the Ph. D. several years ago at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kansas. All that remains is his dissertation.

ON TUESDAY night, the Laurel-Concord School Board heard comments from about 200 people in the audience. None of them spoke vehemently about Sellon's use of the term "Doctor." However, one individual said she would prefer the students in the school be informed of what has transpired concerning the Ph.D. issue with Sellon.

Another person said the questions asked about Sellon's use of the Ph.D. terminology is certainly valid. However, the questions fall in the areas of how one obtains a Ph.D. degree. People might not understand, she said, the "mumbo-jumbo" of the education world and cannot understand how this incident can happen.

School Board member Rich Erwin told the audience that sometimes people get caught up in controversy and that they "forget about the number one reason we're here."

"We're here all for one cause. And that is for the good of the kids," Erwin said.

ERWIN ADDED that people should think in terms of what is best for the kids instead of looking at the problems or negative side of things.

After the discussion with the public, the school board went into closed session to discuss the Sellon-Ph.D. issue.

When the meeting was again open to the public, a statement (put into the form of a motion), was read aloud and approved unanimously by the board members.

The motion says that the "Laurel-Concord Board of Education would make a statement in support of Paul Sellon as the superintendent of the Laurel-Concord Public Schools."

The motion goes on: "To those who have concerns regarding Sellon's doctorate, we would state that the doctorate did not enter into the final decision of hiring Sellon as superintendent."

The board went on to say that Sellon was hired because they thought he would do the best job. "We continue to feel that way," the motion states.

The second part of the motion states that the school board will "accept Sellon's apology in regard to the matter of his Ph.D."

And thirdly, the motion mentions: "having this matter behind us, we have instructed Sellon to direct his energies in matters that concern the education of the youth of this district."

wayne stress prevention center

by Doug Porter

The final installment of this four part series deals with the last variable in the wellness equation; specifically emotional equilibrium or balance. The last two variables discussed in the last two articles, physical fitness and nutritious eating, have had a tremendous amount of research done on them and the literature is out there for you to read. However, I firmly believe that the emotional balance part of the equation is by far the most neglected and has only in recent time been researched.

Basically, this is the major void we try to fill for people at the Wayne Stress Prevention Center. We try to give people techniques which they can practice to help manage their stress better and maintain emotional balance. We achieve this goal through the use of communication, understanding, various relaxation exercises and use of mental imagery or useful daydreaming.

The term stress is a very misunderstood and misused term these days. A certain amount of stress is necessary for everyday life and personal growth. It is when we fall outside our "Comfort Zone" that stress becomes a problem. I believe that through the use of relaxation training and mental imagery a person can broaden his or her comfort zone within its limits. That is the reason why relaxation and imagery is so important to help alleviate stress. Yes, the other two variables of the equation help maintain stress better, but an individual really needs all three to get the full effect on stress.

I believe there are five major steps to emotional equilibrium. The first is goal setting. It is important to know which direction you are headed and then to formulate a plan of action to get to that goal. Also, you need three types of goals in life: short-range, middle range and long-range. By setting goals and being accountable for them it gives your life more meaning and direction. It is important to make your goals both realistic and attainable so that you get some degree of satisfaction. Although remember the success is a journey and not a destination meaning that once one goal is met a new one should be set.

THE SECOND STEP is positive self-talk. It is important to keep a positive outlook on life because you are then programming your brain for success. If you always downgrade yourself, you are programming yourself for failure. And just as success breeds success, failure breeds failure. Therefore, you need to tell yourself that you can do it and have confidence in your own ability. That will help pave your way to future success.

The third step is relaxation training. Most people don't understand that to learn to relax your muscles takes practice just like any other learned physical trait. There are several forms of relaxation therapy and much like physical exercise, you need to find the one that works best for you. At the Center we deal mostly with progressive relaxation and some breathing exercises. This is a peaceful art to learn and easily mastered with practice.

The fourth step is the mental imagery or creative visualization. What it actually is, is useful daydreaming. It entails imagining a peaceful scene or some type of setting that relaxes you and making it as real as possible in your mind by drawing in the use of all five senses. The more vividly imagined the picture is the more real it is because the body can't tell the difference between what is actually real and what is vividly imagined by the mind. If there is a tremendous calming effect on the body.

The final step is that of mental logging and that entails evaluating your procedures and methods which you are employing to combat excess stress. This is often times overlooked, but it is important to decide if your system is working for you and to constantly evaluate it so it continues to evolve.

FOR THIS PROGRAM of emotional equilibrium to work for you I believe there are three guidelines for you to follow. The first is that you must have faith in the program you choose and you have to believe that it will work for you. The second is that it has to be a personal choice as to what procedures or methods will be used in the program. The last guideline, and probably the most important, is that you have to practice the five steps daily so that they become second nature to you. If these three guidelines are followed you can truly benefit from an emotional balanced program.

If you would like to learn more about emotional equilibrium in specific or about other areas of stress in general, please join us at the Wayne Stress Prevention Center any Thursday night at 7 p.m. at the Wayne-Carroll High School in Room 202. Furthermore, if you would like us to give a presentation to your group on any topic related to stress please contact Jeff Berger at 375-5289 or Doug Porter at 375-2320. The Wayne Stress Prevention Center is sponsored by the Providence Medical Center Foundation.

Agencies seek increases in budget

CAPITOL NEWS
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Dannie Trautwein wants the Legislature to give her agency, the Accountability and Disclosure Commission, a 28 percent budget increase.

That's $55,913, a pittance when compared to the $836.7 million total general fund budget this year.

But to Trautwein that money will mean her staff can do the work the law requires—monitor money donated to elected officials for campaigns and paid to lobbyists to influence lawmaking and keep track of financial statements and conflict of interest statements filed by more than 2,400 public officials and employees.

The Sunshine Commission staff has not grown since it began a decade ago. Yet the workload has mushroomed. For example, four years ago the candidates for governor spent about $2.1 million in the primary and general election. This year they spent $1.8 million in the primary alone. Trautwein's staff monitors those donations and spending.

Last year the commission had 6,000 requests for photocopies of information, quadruple the requests of the previous year.

"I've got people who can't afford (time) to take a vacation. If anyone gets sick, it's chaos. The backlog is ridiculous," Trautwein says.

The long and tedious process of the budget has begun. Last week the state's 84 agencies handed in budget requests for the next fiscal year which begins July 1, 1987.

AND STATE agencies are apparently a little more optimistic than they were one year ago.

Last September the news stories from the farm belt were full of dismal economic news and the Nebraska Legislature was gearing up for a special session to cut state budgets midway.

Last year state agencies asked for an average 7 percent increase in state sales and income tax money. They received an average 3.4 percent increase.

This year the poor agricultural economy persists, but it is no longer new. State government does not appear to be facing a fiscal crisis. And this year there will be a new govern-nor at the helm. No one knows for sure what her favorite projects will be.

This year state agencies are seeking an average 10 percent increase in state funding. That increase does not include state employee raises.

A 10 percent increase would require about $920.4 million in state tax dollars.

Reasons for the requests are as many as the agencies involved: Money to feed and clothe the growing number of inmates at the state pen; Aid to Dependent Children and Medicaid (health care for the poor) payments for the growing number of poor; money for rising cost of vaccines to immunize children in low income families; money to hire additional professors at Kearney State where enrollment is rising.

MORE THAN half the state tax dollars returns to local communities in the form of aid—state aid to public schools, aid to county and city governments, grants for water projects, aid to individuals through the homestead exemption program, aid to low income families, the blind and the disabled. Many of these programs are seeking increases.

Less than half the state budget pays for the operation of state government and salaries of state employees. After several lean budget years some state agencies, like the Sunshine Commission, are hoping for some help.

Senators and the governor will make those budget decisions over the next eight months in a well-defined process.

Agencies hand in proposals in mid-September. These are reviewed by two offices—the governor's budget office and Legislature's fiscal analyst office.

The governor proposes a specific budget to early February. The Legislature's Appropriation Committee carefully scrutinizes that proposal and holds hearings on every agency.

In late spring the Legislature makes final decisions on agency budgets and on the future tax rates needed to pay for those expenses. The governor can veto items but the Legislature, by a three-fifths vote, can override those vetoes.

The outcome of that process will certainly be far less than a 10 percent increase in state spending.

Name claim

So the issue is over: The Laurel-Concord School Board has taken a stand and has apparently been satisfied with Superintendent Paul Sellon's apology for use of the "doctorate" term to his name, although he actually has not "officially" received the degree.

Now it is time to direct the administration's energies toward matters concerning the education and welfare of the youth in the school district.

At the school board meeting Tuesday evening, most of those who spoke have said they believe Sellon is a good administrator.

We agree on the school board's actions Tuesday night. A harsh reprimand would not be in order at this time. And most certainly it is time to get on with the educating of youths in the school district.

But putting "behind" what has transpired might be difficult for some individuals to do.

Sellon has candidly explained his situation to the faculty and the school district (through his newspaper column in the Laurel Advocate).

He has apologized to the school board, which is a public body representing people in the school district. He said he has never demanded to be called "Doctor."

And the school board has gone on record saying that the doctorate title did not enter into the final decision of hiring Sellon as the school district principal. The board had hired the person they felt would do the best job and they continue to feel, in judgment of his performance as Laurel superintendent, that they have made the best decision possible.

That person is Sellon, with or without the doctorate title. So nothing more needs to be said but to let it ride—with one exception.

Sellon should not be allowed to use the doctorate title again until he actually receives the coveted honor.

It is only fair to those who have finished their residencies, completed their dissertations and "officially" attained the Ph.D. status.

Cut at the top

You know it's too bad that the Wayne-Carroll School system can't afford to pay their janitors and housekeepers a decent wage; one that they can live on!

I have a little suggestion for the school board. Maybe next time your budget starts to squeak and you have to look for places to cut back, why not start at the top for a change. Instead of always at the bottom where the poor hourly-wage-earner is. You know a raise year after year after year is almost obscene in these days of hardships.

It's been many years since my husband has had a raise and he's been with his company for more years than either our superintendent or principal has been with the Wayne School System.

It's just a suggestion but it's one that a lot of us have been talking about lately. Maybe you should too.

County Enforcement

It has come to this writer's thinking what has become of the county law enforcement of Wayne County? I sincerely and wholeheartedly believe in law enforcement, but frankly and honestly of what I've seen of some weeks back it is impossible to have respect for the enforcement to what happened in this town of Carroll. But to this writer it gives great pride and gratefulness we do have law enforcing officers that prefer their duties as officers of the laws of the State of Nebraska, and thank God I'm referring to our Nebraska State patrolmen and women, for they work their butts off day and night to lessen drunk driving but am sorry to say our county officials just look the other way and personally have seen this done. Sincerely and respectfully an interested citizen and taxpayer, P.S. Praise God, hats off to our men and women of our Nebraska State Patrol.

Protect drinking water

Groundwater Safeguards

Included in FIFRA
The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), passed by the House of Representatives last week, provides important protections for the nation's drinking water.

FIFRA contains a groundwater protection program that would require the Environmental Protection Agency to establish groundwater residue guidance levels for individual pesticides. These levels would be set at guidance levels for individual pesticides. These levels would be set at maximum contaminant levels established under the Safe Drinking Water Act. After hearing from the public or from a pesticide producer that a pesticide has been detected in groundwater, the EPA could require the producers to conduct groundwater monitoring.

In cases where a drinking water well is found to be contaminated with a pesticide at levels above the groundwater residue guidance level, the state involved would have 90 days to either bring the concentration of the pesticide in the well down to or below the limit, or to prevent consumption of the contaminated water.

This action at the Federal level to protect drinking water is the result of the failure of many states to provide the necessary protection. It represents an amazing consensus between farm groups and environmental groups.

Because the problem of contaminated groundwater has interstate implications and because some states have refused to take action, the Federal government has become the logical place to set standards. Polluted groundwater and contaminated drinking water threaten lives. We must attack this problem in a comprehensive way.

House Passed Indian Youth Alcoholism Prevention Act
The House of Representatives struck one more blow against drug and alcohol abuse last week when it passed my Indian Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention Act by a voice vote. The bill would require Bureau of Indian Affairs schools and Bureau contract schools to offer programs of instruction in alcohol and drug abuse prevention from kindergarten through 12th grades. It would encourage public schools that serve Indian children to do the same thing.

This legislation, first introduced by Representative Tom Daschle of South Dakota and me in both the 98th and 99th Congresses, reflects three years of work and consultation with Indian tribes. While the bill certainly will not address all of the problems associated with alcohol and drug abuse among Indian young people, it is an important and much-needed first step. It provides a firm foundation on which to build.

Our findings about the human and financial costs of alcohol and drug abuse among Indian people are staggering. On many reservations, alcohol plays a role in 95 percent of automobile fatalities. A young Indian constituent testified that at her high school 98 percent of the students surveyed admitted to the use of an illegal drug; 80 percent admitted to drinking, and 52 percent of the 80 percent who drank did so to pass out.

On some reservations, Fetal Alcohol Syndrome, or the milder Fetal Alcohol Effect, may occur as frequently as one in 100 births, whereas its occurrence in non-Indian populations is approximately 1 in 700 births. An Indian Health Service physician told one tribe that if the present trend continues, virtually all of the next generation of children on that reservation will suffer from Fetal Alcohol Syndrome or Fetal Alcohol Effect. It was my visit several years ago to a special tribal school where as many as 25 percent of the handicapped children were affected by these alcohol syndromes that generated my interest in this problem.

The bill passed last week provides for the training of counselors in alcohol and drug abuse for Bureau of Indian Affairs schools, BIA contract schools, public schools on or near reservations, and public schools in urban areas that have programs for their Indian students under Title IV of the Indian Education Act. It also provides for a coordination of efforts between the Indian Health Service, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and the U.S. Department of Education.

While an expanded version of the bill is contained in the Omnibus Drug Bill passed two weeks ago by the House, that bill may get bogged down in negotiations with the Senate because of its high cost. This bill would require no new authorization of funds, but would rely on reallocation of existing funds.

Earlier Congressman Daschle and I worked with Senator Mark Andrews of North Dakota to have a version of our bill introduced in the Senate. The Senate has already passed its version, and after the House passed my bill last week, I inserted the language from my bill into the Senate bill. The Senate will now have an opportunity to iron out any differences, between its language and our language.

briefly speaking

Wesleyan Church showing 'Joni'

"Joni," the story of a young woman's struggle to find a useful life following an accident which left her handicapped, will be shown this Saturday and Sunday at the Wayne Wesleyan Church.

The Rev. Jeff Switzer said the public is invited to view the film on either night at 7:30 p.m. A free will offering will be taken.

Joni, an avid sportsman, suffered a broken neck in a diving accident just one month following her high school graduation. The film follows her progress from the moment she became a quadriplegic.

Her road to recovery was an obstacle she refused to face until, drawing on her faith in God, she saw a purpose to her existence and began the long, hard fight toward rehabilitation.

In the film, Joni plays herself and shares the agonies, achievements, joys and hopes of her experience.

Ambassador Quartet in Allen

The public is invited to attend a performance by the Ambassador Quartet on Sunday, Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Springbank Friends Church in Allen.

Fellowship and lunch will follow the concert.

Pie social at senior center

The public is invited to attend a pie social, bazaar and bake sale today (Thursday) at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center.

The event will be held from 2 to 7 p.m.

Women of Today Membership Month

Women of Today are celebrating Membership Month during September. In observance of the event, Wayne Women of Today are holding a membership potluck dinner on Saturday, Sept. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Jaycee Hall.

There will be reduced membership fees throughout September, and persons who would like additional information are asked to call 375-4239 or 375-1192.

Women of Today is a leadership training and community service organization comprised of young volunteers between the ages of 18 and 40.

New Allen, Concord pastor

The Rev. Duane Marburger of Chicago, Ill. has accepted a call to become pastor of First Lutheran Church in Allen and Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord.

Marburger plans to move into the Concord parsonage and deliver his first sermon at both churches on Nov. 9.

He and his wife Bonnie are the parents of three sons, including Phillip, age nine, Jonathan, seven, and Jeremy, five.

Mens Fellowship meeting

The Northeast Nebraska Christian Mens Fellowship will meet tonight (Thursday) at the First Baptist Church in Wayne.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., and all interested persons are welcome.

Wakefield reception for 80th

Mela Jorgensen celebrated her 80th birthday on Sept. 13 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wakefield. Hosts were her daughter, Neva Kraemer, and granddaughter Melva Elton.

Decorations were carried out in a chicken theme, and the program included poems by Imogene Samuelson, and singing by Neva Kraemer and Lila Barner, accompanied by Imogene Samuelson. Mike and Andy Elton sang "Dear Great Grandma Had a Farm."

Darla Ekberg baked and decorated the birthday cake, and a salad bar luncheon was served.

Wayne women host NAEYC meeting

Diane Ehrhardt, Ardath Otte and Marla McCue hosted a meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) on Sept. 20.

Approximately 24 pre-school, kindergarten and first grade teachers from several area towns attended the meeting at Stepping Stones Pre-School.

Plans were made for the Northeast Nebraska chapter of NAEYC to host the 1987 state convention.

Following the meeting, Alice Johnson of Wakefield presented a program on "Puppetry and Poetry." She displayed several types of simple puppet theaters, puppets, and means of presentation in an enjoyable and entertaining format.

Following Johnson's presentation, the group toured Mrs. Otte's ABC Nursery School and Mrs. McCue's Wee Discover Pre-School.

Square dancers plan Fall Festival

The Town Twirlers Square Dance Club will hold its annual Fall Festival dance on Sunday, Oct. 5 in the Laurel city auditorium.

Callers will be Jerry Junck of Carroll and Duane Nelson of Norfolk, and serving will be past and present officers, including Mr. and Mrs. Earl Potter of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Courland Roberts of Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Junck and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fork, all of Carroll.

Mike Normile of Crofton was caller when square dancers met Sept. 21 in the Laurel auditorium. There were seven squares of dancing, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Junck were elected to serve as vice presidents during 1986-87.

Square dancing lessons are being held each Monday evening in the Laurel auditorium with Duane Nelson of Norfolk as the instructor. The class is now full, and no new dancers are being accepted.

Guest day at Immanuel

The Ladies Aid of Immanuel Lutheran Church, rural Wakefield, hosted a guest day meeting on Sept. 18.

Mrs. Elray Hank welcomed the guests, including women from Hope Lutheran Church, South Sioux City; St. John's, Newcastle; Trinity Lutheran, Martinsburg; St. Paul's, Wakefield; St. Paul's, Concord; St. Paul's, Carroll; and First Trinity, Altona.

The Rev. Paul Jentz, returning missionary from Papua, New Guinea, showed slides and told about his three years in the mission field. He also displayed many artifacts.

Officers of Immanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid will visit the care center during October. Other committees for October are Helen Echtenkamp and Mrs. Albert Echtenkamp, serving; Mrs. Merle Roeber and Mrs. Elmer Schreiber, visitation; and Lois Lessmann, Diane Roeber, Barb Holtorf and Deb Rewinkel, cleaning.

Bourek-O'Brien wed

Laurel church is setting for Milliken-Knudsen ceremony

The United Methodist Church in Laurel was the setting for the Sept. 13 ceremony uniting in marriage Colleen Rae Milliken and John Eric Knudsen.

The bride, daughter of Ralph and LaVera Milliken of Laurel, graduated from Laurel-Concord High School in 1986 and is attending Joseph's College of Beauty in Norfolk.

The bridegroom is the son of Harry Knudsen of Laurel. He graduated from Laurel-Concord High School in 1981 and is employed at Knudsen's Service.

The newlyweds traveled to Lake Okoboji following their marriage, and are making their home at 204 Oak St., in Laurel.

THE COUPLE'S 2 o'clock, double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fred Andersen and the Rev. Thomas Robson of Laurel.

Decorations included altar bouquets of pink gladiolas, pink and white carnations, baby's breath and greenery. Candelabras were adorned with greenery, pink carnations and baby's breath.

Guests were registered by Monica Nelson of Dixon, and ushered to their seats by Donald Burns of Akron, Colo., Jerry Kastrop of Laurel, and Troy Heitman and Robert Fairchild, both of Wayne.

Claudia Dvorak of Laurel sang "Wedding Song," "It Seems I've Always Loved You" and "The Lord's Prayer." The congregation sang "O Lord, My Church and Home Combine."

Organist was the bridegroom's sister, Carolyn Burns of Akron, Colo.

CANDACE MILLIKEN of Wayne served her sister as maid of honor, and best man was the bridegroom's brother, Keith Knudsen of Laurel.

Bridesmaids were Amy Morris and Paula Selbert, both of Laurel, and groomsman were Todd Heitman of Sioux City and Roby Bowman of Laurel.

Lighting candles were Christina Schmitz and Julie Milliken, both of Wayne. Rice boys were Brandon Burns of Akron, Colo. and Corey Schmitz of Wayne.

The bride's personal attendant was Jaylene Urwiler. Karen Knudsen pinned flowers.

THE BRIDE WAS given in marriage by her father and appeared in a long, white satin gown with a cathedral train.

The dress was fashioned with a scoop neckline and puffed sleeves. Soft folded bows trimmed the shoulders.

The basque bodice was defined with English organza cutouts and held a bouffant skirt accented with lace teardrop cutouts.

She wore a bridal illusion satin picture hat with string pearls and tulle netting, touched with lace motifs.

Her cascade consisted of pink roses, baby's breath and white stephanotis.

THE MAID OF honor and bridesmaids wore pink satin frocks in floor length, designed with puffed sleeves, lace overlays on the bodice and peplums, and sweetheart necklines accented with beaded pearl trim. Each carried a multicolored nosegay.

The bridegroom was attired in a black tuxedo with a white shirt, cummerbund and bow tie. He wore a single pink rose with white stephanotis.

The groomsman wore silver gray tuxedos with white shirts, pin cummerbunds and bow ties.

The bride's mother selected a sheer, mauve polyester jacket dress with gray accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

THE 175 GUESTS attending a reception in the Laurel city

Mr. and Mrs. John Knudsen auditorium following the ceremony were greeted by Tom and Cindy Schmitz of Wayne, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, and Knud and Lynne Knudsen of Beresford, S. D.

Terrill Lee and Pat Campbell of Laurel arranged gifts.

Mary Ann Urwiler of Laurel baked and decorated the cake, which she helped cut and serve along with Lorraine Hovde of Sioux City.

Maxine Kardell poured coffee, Karen Knudsen poured iced tea, and Tim and Lois Urwiler served punch. All are of Laurel.

Waitresses were Michelle Joslin, Donna Sherry, Shelly Buss, Marni Berteloth and Heidi Pehrson, all of Laurel.

Bridal finery modeled at Wayne Care Centre

Wayne Care Centre Administrator Gil Haase called it "a milestone in social events" last Sunday evening when the centre hosted a style show of bridal finery dating from 1895 to 1984.

Coordinating the event, which was attended by over 100 women, were Peggy Wheeler, social director, and June Baier, assistant activity coordinator.

They were assisted by Connie Spahr, food service supervisor, and her staff, and Deb Hammer, housekeeping supervisor.

Theme was "Memories Are Made to Be Shared."

MISTRESS OF ceremonies was Jo Herlan, and models included Mary Gambie, Pauline Merchant, Jackie Nicholson, Peggy Wheeler, Tracy Baier, Ann Nichols, members of Wayne Girl Scout Cadet Troop 145, and others.

Members of Cadet Troop 145 not only served as models but as servers for the supper as well, including chicken salad on a lettuce leaf, individually decorated wedding cakes, made by June Baier, mixed nuts, mints, made by Jane Harrison, coffee and punch.

Mrs. Grace Auker was seated at the guest book, and Katie Gillespie served punch.

Entertainment, both traditional and comedy, was provided by Administrator Haase, accompanied by Dorothy Beckenhauer.

GOWNS ON DISPLAY during the evening included Louise Hoeman's (1915), Mrs. Clara Johnson's (1917), Mrs. Lois Hall's (1950), and Dorothy Brubek's (1928).

Other wedding gowns on the program were those of Mrs. John Collins (1895), Hanna Gambie (1915), Dorothy Beckenhauer's mother (1915), Meta Ruser (1918), Donna Johnson (1949), Marlene Nissen (1958), June Baier (1962), Dee Schultz (1963), Jude Milliken (1964), Mary Nichols (1967), Connie Thompson (1967), Carrol Baier (1968), Peggy Wheeler (1972), Joan Merchant (1976), Sandy Witt (1978), and Melia Tullberg (1982).

Bridesmaids' dresses were modeled by Pamela Matthes and Lori Sperry. Mari Haase modeled mother of the bride and mother of the bridegroom dresses.

Serving as flower girls were Jessica Stevers, and Beth and Sarah Sperry.

Wakefield Ministerial Association sponsoring new Dobson film series

"Turn Your Heart Toward Home," a new film series by Dr. James Dobson, will be presented during the next several weeks in various Wakefield churches.

Sponsored by the Wakefield Ministerial Association, the film series portrays the pressures today's parents are susceptible to.

Dobson reminds viewers of society's slide toward humanism and cites the protection and strengthening of family relationships as society's most pressing challenge.

Dobson urges individuals to get involved and return to the traditional Christian values upon which families are best created and nurtured.

THE FIRST FILM in the six-part series is entitled "A Father Looks Back" and will be shown on Sunday, Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church.

The remaining five films also will be shown on Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m. at other churches in the Wakefield community.

The schedule is Oct. 5 at the United Presbyterian Church; Oct. 12 at the Christian Church; Oct. 19 at Salem Lutheran Church; Oct. 26 at the Evangelical Covenant Church; and Nov. 2 at St. John's Lutheran Church, sponsored by St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend the showings, and a free will offering will be taken to help defer the cost of film rental.

THE WAKEFIELD Ministerial Association is sponsoring the film series because of its major concern of the protection and strengthening of family relationships.

The Ministerial Association is made up of all the ministers from the various churches in the Wakefield area.

The ministers meet together on a voluntary basis to discuss the importance of the church in today's society and how the church can help meet the needs of community residents.

Wayne County hosts Convention Go-ers Friendship dinner

The annual Convention Go-ers Friendship Dinner was hosted by the Wayne County Home Extension Council on Sept. 16 at the Black Knight in Wayne.

Seventy-eight women from Cedar, Cumby, Dixon, Knox, Pleasanton, Thurston and Wayne counties attended.

Committee members for the friendship dinner from Wayne County were Veryl Jackson of Winslow, Lolamaye Langenberg of Hoskins, and Virginia Leonard of Wakefield.

MRS. LANGENBERG welcomed the group, followed with the dinner prayer sung to the tune of "Edelweiss."

A Teen Home Extension Club was in charge of the program. The "Mopping Up Ladies at the Theater" presented a skit set to music, entitled "State is Great," which reminiscenced of the 1960 state convention in McCook. Joann Hokamp provided organ music for the skit and Iva Robinson narrated.

A second skit, "Shed a Little Tear," was also presented and tied in with the citizenship speaker at the 1960 McCook convention and with the 1986 state citizenship thrust.

ANNA MARIE White, Dixon County extension agent-home economics, summarized predictions of the 1960's that were given at the McCook meeting.

The evening concluded with singing of "God Bless America" and the presentation of door prizes by the committee.

Lobergs mark 30th year

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Loberg of Carroll were honored for their 30th wedding anniversary when their children hosted a surprise party at the Loberg home on Sept. 19.

Eighty guests attended from Sioux City, Yankton, Hartington, Bloomfield, Randolph, Norfolk, Belden, Laurel, Wayne, Lincoln and Carroll. A cooperative lunch was served.

Norma Jueden of Hartington and Glenn Loberg of Carroll were married Sept. 18, 1956 at Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Hartington.

They have lived on the same farm northeast of Carroll since their marriage.

They are the parents of four sons, Dan, Jim and Ken of Carroll, and Kevin of Belden, and two daughters, Joan and Ruth, both of Lincoln.

There are two grandchildren, Beth and Ashley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Loberg.

Wayne's grid teams have big games this week

This week is, perhaps, the biggest football week the city of Wayne has experienced in quite some time.

Not only do Wayne's two grid squads play their arch rivals — Wayne High against West Point and Wayne State against Kearney State — but both games are home and the Blue Devils contest is homecoming.

But most importantly, both games could be the deciding factor in each team's '86 season.

Granted, both teams enter this week with 2-1 records. So if they should lose...the worst...they'll be 2-2 with over half the season remaining.

But 3-1 looks a lot better than 2-2, especially when you have a schedule like the Blue Devils and the Wildcats have?

After Friday night's game, the Blue Devils travel to North Bend. Then they battle last year's playoff qualifiers LeMars and Fremont Bergan before traveling to Cedar. Wayne then concludes the regular season with O'Neill.

Needless to say, that's a tough schedule. And to say that Friday's game is a must-win situation for the Blue Devils' playoff chances is an understatement.

Should Wayne lose Friday's game, the Blue Devils would almost have to ace out the remainder of the season to qualify for post-season play. And even then, they might not make it.

But when it comes to tough schedules, Wayne State has few superiors. Not only is Wayne State one of the smaller schools in the always powerful CSIC, but Wildcat head coach Pete Chapman believes in playing tough games outside the conference, so he schedules teams like Morningside and Augustana right off the bat and closes with the Metrodome Classic in Minneapolis.

But in addition to those games, the Wildcats play Fort Hays State, Washburn and all the other nationally-ranked CSIC teams. And of course, they play Kearney State, too.

What a boost it would be for the entire Wayne State football program if the Wildcats should beat Kearney State this Saturday.

Not only would the young Wayne State squad improve to 3-1 overall, but it will mark the first time since '71 that Wayne State has beaten an Antelope football team.

A Wayne State basketball team hadn't beaten a Kearney State team in almost as many years, but when the Wildcats downed Kearney this year, Wayne State head coach Steve Aggers said the victory had a tremendous positive effect on the basketball program. A win over Kearney State this Saturday could have the same kind of effect on the football program.

After the Wildcats play Kearney State, four of their next six conference games are on the road and then they end with the Metrodome Classic in the "Homer Dome."

Needless to say, these games are big ones for Wayne State and Wayne High. But one thing has already been proven after the first three weeks of the season — both teams have more than respectable programs — and both have proven all pessimistic preseason analysts wrong.

If you were like me, you didn't see Green Bay offensive lineman and former Wayne State All-American Ruben Mendoza on television during the Packers' 25-12 loss to Chicago on Monday Night Football.

But several friends said they saw big Ruben on the sidelines after one of Green Bay's four field goals by Al Del Greco.

I honestly don't know if Ruben has been playing much. But if I were a betting man, I'd wager he'll be in their more often as the season progresses. For a person with his size and ability, it would almost be foolish to think differently.

Defense guides Wayne State past Southwest

MARSHALL, MINN. — Wayne State showed again the luxury of having one of the best defenses in the nation here Saturday afternoon against Southwest State University.

Although the Wildcat offense mustered just 10 points, the Cat defense allowed only a field goal allowing Wayne State a 10-3 victory.

Wayne State has permitted only 10 points after three games for one of the best scoring defensive averages in the NAIA. Pete Chapman, Wayne State's head coach, said the keys to this year's Wildcat defense are some minor adjustments in the defensive philosophy and the players' attitudes.

"We changed our philosophy a little this year to fit our kids. For example, in the past we've had big physical defensive ends but this year we're smaller and quicker so we changed our philosophy so we'll be able to do exactly what fits our kids best," he said. "And I think success breeds success — especially in defense. The defense keeps playing well, and because of that they want to play well the next time out."

And Wayne State did precisely that as the Wildcat defender allowed only 72 rushing and 88 passing yards.

But more importantly, Southwest State's only score came on a 33-yard field goal by Earl Rich with 13:41 remaining in the third stanza.

Wayne State opened a 7-0 lead on its third possession of the game. After the Wildcats took over on their own 16 yard line, Wayne drove 84 yards in nine plays — climaxing with a 20-yard touchdown shovel-pass from John Lawrence to Bill Minarik at the :17 mark of the first period. Tony Wiese added the PAT boot to make the score 7-0.

There were several key plays in Wayne's opening scoring drive, including a 39-yard swing pass to Chuck McGinnis on a third and seven situation from Wayne State's own 19 and a face masking call against Southwest State on a third and one on the host's 33 yard line.

Southwest State threatened to tie the game in the second quarter when the Pintos took over on the Wildcat 18 yard line because of a fumbled snap.

Southwest State then drove to the nine yard line, but was held on a fourth and two situation, allowing Wayne State possession of the ball.

Southwest State finally got on the scoreboard at the 13:41 mark of the third stanza, but Wayne State piced together a 64-yard drive setting up Wiese for a 36-yard field goal with 8:37 remaining in the third stanza.

"For the past couple of seasons, Herve Roussel handled Wayne State's kicking chores. But Chapman said he always knew Wiese was a capable kicker.

"Tony's a good kicker. He kicked good while he went to high school at Dodge and last year he booted a 43-yarder in a junior varsity game, so I wasn't surprised by his kick. I have a lot of confidence in his kicking," the Wildcat skipper said.

Wayne State's defense was simply superb the rest of the game. All the deeper Southwest State could penetrate Wildcat territory was to the 44 yard line in the third stanza.

Greg Cavill led the Wildcat defense with 13 tackles, including 10 solos. He also picked off a pass and had one quarterback sack.

Randy Hupp finished with 12 stops and one sack, while Dave Uhlers added six tackles.

Lamont Lewis etched his name in the Wayne State record books when he grabbed his 15th career interception with 7:35 remaining in the final quarter.

The 15 interceptions fled Charlie

Wendy's school record. Wendy played at Wayne State from 1969-71.

Wayne State totaled 77 rushing and 109 passing yards. Such numbers might indicate a so-so offensive performance, but Chapman said he wasn't disappointed in the club's offensive output.

"I'm not disappointed with the offense. I think we did what we set out to do," he said. "I thought I was going to be more concerned than I am, but after watching the game film I now know how much we've improved offensively."

Chapman added, however, that although he is pleased with the offense's improvement, offensive inconsistency remains a problem.

"We've got six or seven kids that are inconsistent on offense, and what I mean by inconsistent is they don't properly execute their assignment once every four or five plays," he said. "You can get away with one or two kids not going where they're supposed to, but six or seven's too many and we're going to have to correct that."

Lawrence completed 11-of-31 passes. Todd Buchanan rushed for 87 yards on 26 totes, while Glenn Mathews gained 17 yards on two carries. The Wildcats will attempt to improve its record to 3-1 this Saturday when they host their unofficial arch-rival, Kearney State.

The Antelopes enter Saturday's clash with a 0-2 mark, losing to UNO 3-0 and Moorehead State 27-17.

But UNO and Moorehead State have solid programs, and Chapman said his club will have to be at its best to perform well Saturday.

"We're going to have to play well in every phase of the game," he said. "We're going to have to be more consistent on offense, play our best defensively and in the three years I've been here, the special teams have played an important part in each Kearney State game so we'll have to play well in that phase, too."

Wayne State lost to the Antelopes 35-7 last year. Kearney State leads the series 39-14-5 and have won the last 14 meetings. The last time the Wildcats won was in 1971, in which Wayne State claimed a 28-0 victory.

Chapman concluded by predicting an interesting game. "Along with it being Band Day and with the two schools playing, I think it should be an interesting game," he chuckled.

Blue Devils shine in home-opener

It's been a long wait for Wayne volleyball fans to see the home-town Blue Devils in action on their own court, as Tuesday night's match against Norfolk was the Lady Blue Devils' first-home appearance of the year.

But the Blue Devils were worth waiting for — as they did very little wrong in a 15-4, 15-6 thrashing.

Martene Uhing, Wayne's head coach, said she was impressed with her club's performance, and credited much of their success to playing at home.

"The kids really played well, and a lot of that had to do with playing in front of a nice-sized crowd and the band," she said.

Wayne jumped out to quick command in the opening set by reeling off the first 10 points. After a Norfolk timeout, Wayne increased its lead to 12-1 before claiming the 11 point triumph.

The second set was much like the first. Wayne led 4-1 before blowing the set wide open by outscoring Norfolk 8-1 to a 12-2 advantage.

Norfolk mildly bounced back, however, by scoring four unanswered points. The short Blue Devil letdown drew Uhing's only criticism on the night.

"We allowed them to serve four times in a row and two of those were aces," she said. "I've said it before, but volleyball is a funny game and ace serves can really turn the momentum around. That's the only thing that I can think of that disturbed me, though."

Although the Lady Panthers did cut Wayne's lead in half, 12-6, the Blue Devils tallied the set's final three points to claim the two-set sweep.

Wayne's offense functioned almost perfectly. And Uhing credited it to a total team effort.

"Volleyball is the ultimate team game," she said. "And everybody has to perform well for the team to do well, and I thought we did just that against Norfolk."

Shelly Pick and Keel Corbit "stole the show" with outstanding spikes and well-placed dinks. Pick finished 13-for-13 with eight kills, while Corbit went 9-for-9 with six aces.

Immediately after Norfolk's timeout in the first set, Pick dinked a lob to a vacant area on the court and then pointed to Uhing. The Blue Devil skipper discussed the play.

"We talked about mixing up our hits, because everybody knows we hit out of the middle so much," she said.

"During the timeout, I just reminded them to mix it up, and when Shelly got the dink she signaled to me. She did a good job of listening," Uhing chuckled.

Marnie Bruggeman turned in another flawless setting performance, finishing 32-for-32 with 18 assists.

Dana Nelson led Wayne's servers going 9-for-10 with a team-high three aces and eight points. Sarah Peterson followed Nelson going 7-for-8 with seven points and two aces.

"Uhing cited several other girls' play that are often forgotten during the course of a game.

"I thought our back row players like Amy Schiuns, Jennifer Wessel and Dana Nelson did a very good job," Uhing said. "These girls aren't always noticed, but without them nothing would be possible. They start it all by getting the ball to Marnie in good shape."

Wayne made it a clean sweep by also winning the 'B' and 'C' matches. The Blue Devil junior varsity claimed a 15-12, 11-15, 15-11 victory, while Wayne's 'C' team bounced back from a 12-15 opening set loss to claim the last two frames, 15-4, 15-6.

Sund captures Seniors Golf Tournament title

Don Sund won the Senior's Golf Tournament overall championship at the Wayne Country Club on Sunday.

Sund, who was playing in the 65-69 age bracket, carded a 40 over the first nine and closed with a 41 for an 81 total. His net score was 73.

There were four flights, beginning with the 55-59 age bracket. Lee Tietgen trimmed Chuck Surber 86-89 to capture the youngest group's title, while Ken Whorlow won the 60-64 age group with an 82.

Don Benson placed second behind Sund in the 65-69 age bracket with an 83, while Gordon Nurenberger captured the 70-and-over division with a 92, trimming Floyd Burt who closed with a 93.

Each age bracket also had a low net champion. Chuck Surber won the 55-59 age bracket with a 76, while Ray Murray won the 60-64 age division with a 73.

Charles McDermott and Burt both closed with a 70 — the lowest net scores of the tourney — to win the low net titles of the 65-69 and 70-and-over divisions, respectively.

Hausmann makes NU's baseball team

By John Prather
Sports Editor

LINCOLN — During the summer, Jeff Hausmann — Wayne's standout Junior Legion baseball player — was uncertain about his chances of making the University of Nebraska-Lincoln baseball team.

"I don't know what my chances are of making the team," he frequently said during the Legion season. "I'll just go down and give it my best shot."

Hausmann's best shot turned out to be nothing short of outstanding as he fanned all three batters he faced during the final day of tryouts and became the only tryout participant to make the Cornhusker squad.

According to Hausmann, approximately 40 people tried out for the team in early September, and the players that were fortunate enough to make the team had to prove themselves in a hurry.

"The first day of tryouts, they just had everybody run the 60-yard dash and run from home to first," Hausmann said. "Then the next day, they had batting practice, so the other pitchers and I didn't even really even do anything yet."

But on the third and final day, Hausmann shined and impressed the Cornhusker brass.

"The third day they invited about 15 hitters and the six pitchers back for batting practice again," he said. "Each pitcher threw to three batters, and I struck all of my guys out."

Hausmann didn't even fall behind in the count, and a few days later — on Sept. 10 — he was called into head coach John Sanders' office.

"Coach Sanders called me and I went to see him in his office. He told me that I made the team; that I would be red shirted, and to go talk to pitching coach Tom Pratt."

As it turns out, Hausmann was the only player who tried out that made the team. The Cornhuskers currently have 38 players, including red shirts, but will have 22 players when the season begins.

Although Hausmann led Wayne's Juniors in hitting the past season with an average above .400, he said Nebraska will use him strictly as a pitcher.

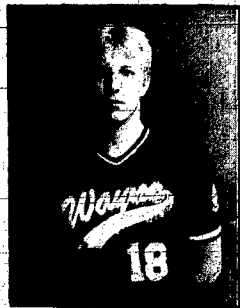

"I took some batting practice during tryouts, but apparently didn't show them much," he snickered. "It looks like I'll strictly be pitching."

Although the burly right-hander over-matched most opponents during his impressive Midget and Junior Legion career, he said Pratt has changed his pitching motion almost entirely.

"They (Pratt and Sanders) told me they liked my fastball, but that they were going to try and get me to throw even harder," he said. "And they've changed everything — my leg kick, arm position, delivery — everything."

Hausmann, who is taking 12 hours during his first semester, including calculus, chemistry and a political science course, said he works out with the Cornhuskers after classes conclude each day.

"I've been working out with the team. Coach Pratt mainly has me working on the fundamentals like pick-offs and that kind of thing."

WAYNE'S TOM BAIER blocks a Pierce field goal attempt.

Blue Devil junior varsity falls to Pierce, 7-6

Wayne's junior varsity dropped its second straight tough-luck loss Monday afternoon, losing to Pierce 7-6. Wayne lost its opener to South Sioux City last week when the Cardinals completed a desperation touchdown pass as time ran out in regulation play. South Sioux added the PAT kick to claim a 13-12 victory. But despite the two losses, Wayne coach Ron Carnes is optimistic about the remainder of the season.

"We've lost a couple of tough ones, but I really don't think the kids will lose any more games," he said. "That's just the kind of kids they are, they don't like to lose and I don't think they will again."

Wayne opened a 6-0 lead in the first quarter when quarterback Jess Zeiss found Elliott Salmon for an 18-yard touchdown pass.

The Blue Devils missed the extra point, however, and it later came back to haunt them.

"We obviously need to start converting our extra points," Carnes said. "The Blue Devils also failed to score a PAT in two attempts in their one point loss to South Sioux."

Pierce tied the game in the second quarter on a 10-yard touchdown pass. The Bluejays then added the deciding PAT boot.

Wayne did have one other opportunity to increase its lead early in the second quarter. The Blue Devils pushed the ball down inside the Pierce 10 yard line. But a fumble ruined the scoring opportunity.

Neither team made a serious scoring threat in the second half, according to Carnes.

Scott Pokett led Wayne's offense by gaining 59 yards on nine carries.

The Blue Devils had several defensive standouts, but Chris Luft turned in the most impressive performance finishing with a season-high 21 tackles.

Eric Liska and Tom Baier both totaled 14 tackles for Wayne, while Chad Davis finished with 11 stops and Daryl Lindsay and Salmon both totaled nine.

Jason Cole and Brad Bush both finished with eight tackles apiece for Wayne, while Baier blocked a punt.

"It was a hard-fought game," Eric Liska said. "Both teams played hard, we just came out little short."

The Blue Devils play again Monday at Hartington Cedar Catholic.

A WAYNE defensive back picks off a Pierce aerial.

Wayne's junior high trims Pierce

The way things started Tuesday afternoon, it looked like Wayne's seventh and eighth grade football team was in for a long day. But the Blue Devils bounced back in the second half, and a Rusty Hamer touchdown with 30 seconds remaining allowed the hosts a 16-12 victory.

Pierce jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first quarter. After receiving the opening kickoff, the Bluejays drove the length of the field with ease and scored the game's first touchdown.

Wayne coach Al Hansen said Pierce was extremely physical, which allowed the Bluejays to dominate the early going.

"Pierce fielded a big team with big running backs," he said. "It took about four Wayne tacklers to bring them down."

Pierce continued to dominate in the second quarter and opened a 12-0 advantage with a long touchdown pass. And after the first quarter and half of the second, the Bluejays had outrushed Wayne 200-10 and appeared to be headed for a blow out.

But the Blue Devils got back into the game and pieced together a scoring drive that was climaxed by a Cory Wieseler five-yard touchdown run. Wieseler then hit Jeff Struve with a two point PAT.

And although the Blue Devils were out-manned in the first half, they still only trailed by four at intermission.

The second half was a complete turn around. Wayne, rather than Pierce, controlled the rest of the game, according to Hansen.

"We told the kids at the half to toughen-up and start hitting lower. They listened, and we turned the game around," he said.

Pierce was held to no first downs in the second half and the Blue Devils capitalized when Hamer scored the game-winner at the :30 mark.

Wieseler then combined with Struve for another two-point PAT. Hansen said he was pleased with the way the Blue Devils bounced back from the rough first half.

"It was a hard-hitting game," he said. "The boys really came back they just played a great game."

Wieseler also turned in a fine defensive effort, leading the team in tackles with 15. Hamer followed with 12, while Dan Wiseman and Cory Wheeler both totaled eight stops and Matt Brugeman and David Hewitt added seven and five tackles, respectively.

Hamer finished with 52 yards on 14 carries. Jim Hoffman totaled 36 yards on four carries, while Wieseler gained 24 yards on six totes and Chris Janke gained seven yards on four carries.

Wayne plays again Tuesday at Hartington.

Wayne's golfers place seventh at Norfolk

NORFOLK — Going into the Norfolk Invitational Golf Tournament here Saturday, Wayne coach Dick Metteer knew his club had its hands full since most of the teams participating were from Class A schools.

But Wayne held its own, and with Missy Jones leading the way, placed a very respectable seventh at the turney.

Lincoln Southeast won the title with a 367, edging Omaha Marian's 368. The Lady Blue Devils finished with a 404.

Some of the teams Wayne defeated include Columbus, Fremont, Grand Island and Millard South. Defeating such teams drew expected praise from Metteer.

"We played well. The girls did a good job and I think the results tell the story," he said.

Wayne just missed placing sixth as Millard North's 402 trimmed the Lady Blue Devils by two strokes.

Jones once again led Wayne with an 87. After firing a 46 over the first nine, she turned in a 41 on the second round and placed seventh overall.

Wayne's harriers improve at O'Neill Invite

O'Neill Invite

O'NEILL — Wayne's cross country team just keeps getting better and better as the season progresses, and that trend didn't change at the O'Neill Invitational here Friday afternoon, according to the Wayne coach Doug Donnelson.

"Most of our guys ran 40 seconds to a minute faster than they had last time," he said.

The Blue Devils also turned in a respectable fourth place finish at the nine-team tournament with 74 points. O'Neill won the invite with 22 points, while West Holt claimed second with 25 markers and Bloomfield placed third with 64 points.

Matt Hillier received medalist honors by placing 15th overall with a 19:27 clocking. Teammate Jeff Simpson wasn't far behind, crossing the 5,000 meter course (approximately 3.1 miles) in 19:57 for 17th place.

Other Wayne varsity placings and times include: 20. Tim Grless, 20:18; 23. Ted Lohrberg, 20:25; 28. Gregg Engel, 21:52.

Scott Allred, a Blue Devil junior varsity harrier, placed 35th overall with a 26:54 clocking.

Donnelson said the Blue Devils turned in faster times because of the course's flat features.

"The course was really flat, and our guys like flat courses so that's why the times were faster," he said. "Jeff really likes flat courses, and he ran a very good race."

O'Neill's Matt Schmitz won the event with a 17:04 time.

McQuistan is lost for season

Lady Trojans survive

HARTINGTON — Wakefield survived its worst performance of the season by trimming Hartington 15-7, 13-15, 15-10 here Tuesday night.

The Lady Trojans pounded Hartington in the opening set and held a seemingly comfortable 8-0 lead in the second frame.

But then Wakefield went bad, and head coach Paul Eaton they played their worst volleyball of the year during the remainder of the second set and half-way through the third stanza.

"We had an easy time in the first set and continued to play well in the second set," he said. "But from the 8-0 lead in the second set to the middle of the third set we played our worst volleyball this year."

Hartington outscored Wakefield 15-5 the rest of the second frame and opened a 7-3 advantage in the rubber set — meaning Wakefield was outscored 22-8 during that span.

But the Lady Trojans finally regrouped and got their act back together to stage a rally, and claim the third set, 15-10.

"We played real well at the end of the third set," Eaton said. "When they outscored us 22-8, the main problem was our poor passing. But we finally got that corrected at the end of the third set."

Wakefield outscored Hartington 12-3 to claim the third set triumph. Because of the poor passing, Wakefield's setters turned in their worst performance of the year as Desiree Salmon finished 31-for-36 and Steph Torczon went 9-for-43.

"The setters had a tough time because they had to do a lot of running to get the passes," Eaton said. "Most of the passes were way short."

Despite the poor passing game, Wakefield still had several steady hitting efforts as Kodi Nelson went 18-for-19 with 10 kills, Stacey Kuhl finished 21-for-24 with nine aces and Marci Greve went 12-for-15 with three aces.

Torczon led Wakefield's servers with 12 points on a 14-for-15 performance. Other leading servers for the Lady Trojans were Salmon who went 15-for-17 with 111 points, and Malli Greve who finished 12-for-12 with six markers.

Wakefield lost the 'B' match 15-2, 12-15, 13-15 and the 'C' match 11-8, 6-11, 3-11.

Brenda Boechenhauer led Wakefield's 'B' team with nine points on 14-of-14 serving, while Julie Greve claimed the Lady Trojans' 'C' team scoring honors with six points on 14-of-15 serving.

Wakefield is now 6-1 overall and 3-0 in the Lewis and Clark Conference. But Eaton said he received some bad news earlier in the week.

"We found out Susie McQuistan will be out for the rest of the season," he said. "She has ligament damage.

Her injury is similar to the one (University of Nebraska running back) Doug Dubose has."

McQuistan started for the state-qualifying Lady Trojans last year, and Eaton discussed what her absence will mean to his squad.

"It's terrible when something like that happens, because she's such a nice girl and a hard worker," he said. "It will really hurt our team, too. I thought she was one of our top three players last year along with Julie Oswald and Kristal Clay, so her being gone will obviously affect us."

Although McQuistan will miss the remainder of the volleyball season, Eaton said doctors expect her to be able to compete in track this spring. McQuistan is one of the better sprinters and middle distance runners in Class C.

Wakefield plays, perhaps, its toughest match of the season Thursday, Oct. 2, against undefeated Wynot.

Eaton said that he hopes to see his club gradually continue to improve as the season progresses.

"We've got a long way to go before we'll become a good team, but I think we have the type of players to eventually be good," he said. "If we can just keep getting a little better each time out, we should be in pretty good shape by the end of the season."

WAYNE'S SHELLY PICK looks like she's practicing her hook shot for the coming basketball season. Pick is actually following through on a spike against Norfolk.

Wayne

Jennifer Salmon led Wayne's 'B' team in scoring with 12 points, while Heidi Reeg captured the 'C' team's scoring honors with 11 markers.

Both the 'B' and 'C' matches took much longer than expected, and as a result, the varsity match did not get started until a few minutes before 9 p.m. But Uhlng said she wasn't overly concerned about the long wait.

"The girls had to sit around a long time and wait, and normally you don't like that," she said. "But since it was the first home game and the band was there, I expected them to be able to get fired up quickly, and they did."

With Tuesday night's awesome performance and their 7-1 record, the Blue Devils are obviously playing exceptional volleyball. But Uhlng said she doesn't pay much concern to rankings.

"I don't pay any attention to that kind of stuff. All that is is someone's opinion who has never seen you play before so that doesn't mean anything to me. I never even tell the girls if we're rated," she said.

The Omaha World Herald currently has Wayne ranked eighth in Class B.

The Blue Devils will go after their eighth win Tuesday night at West Point.

Lady Eagles stumble in Beemer match

BEEMER — Although Allen lost to Emerson-Hubbard 15-12, 15-12 last Thursday, Lady Eagle head coach Gary Troth said he was expecting a good match against Beemer.

And Troth had plenty to base his optimism on. True, the Eagles lost to Emerson, but in the process, possibly turned in their best performance in two years.

But things didn't go as planned against Beemer, as Allen played, according to Troth, its worst match in three years in a 15-5, 15-0 set back.

"I really don't know what the problem was," a disgruntled Troth said after the loss. "We were just totally nonfunctional from the very beginning to the very end."

The first set started evenly, but the Lady Bobcats took complete control when Allen couldn't return their serves.

Troth said his club also had trouble serving.

"The first set started out close, but then we couldn't return their serves or spikes," he said. "And when we were fortunate to get ball possession, we couldn't serve."

Statistics reinforce Troth's criticism as the Lady Eagles finished just 13-for-18 in serving on the night.

Nikki Olesen led the Lady Eagles' servers going 3-for-3 with a pair of aces, while Barb Hansen went 4-for-4.

Allen failed to score in the second set, the first time a Troth-coached squad has done so in several years.

"Three years ago, we lost to Homer 15-3, 15-1 in the Pender Tournament. That was probably the worst a team I coached ever played — but we ended up going to state that year," Troth reflected.

Allen's Tuesday night problems certainly weren't settling, as Olesen turned in an 18-for-19 effort, while Amy Noe and Lana Erwin both went 2-for-2.

Kristi Chase led Allen's hitters with a 4-for-7 performance, while Chris Blohm went 2-for-3.

Allen's 'B' team claimed a 15-8, 15-8 triumph. Troth mentioned Noe and Lisa Boyle as serving well in the junior varsity match.

The Lady Eagles played especially well in the 'C' match, according to Troth, capturing an 11-5, 11-6 victory.

"The girls looked good in the 'C' match," Troth said. "They really play hard during their games."

Troth added that Brenda Fiscus and Pam Kennedy played especially well in the 'C' match.

The Lady Eagle varsity squad returns to action Monday and Tuesday at the Newcastle Tournament. Allen faces Walthill, a team that has defeated Beemer already this year, in the opening round.

Troth said he hopes his club can return to its usual steady self in the tourney.

"It was surprising to see the way we played against Beemer, especially since we were coming off the Emerson-Hubbard match in which we played so well," he said. "I'm hoping we'll regain that form in the tournament."

WINSIDE'S TRACY TOPP skies for a spike against Wausa as teammate Cher Olson looks on.

Wausa trims Lady Wildcats 17-15, 15-12

WINSIDE — "I don't know what the problem was — it looked like we were just a step behind all night," Winside head coach Jill Stenwall said after the Lady Wildcats dropped a 15-17, 12-15 decision to Wausa here Tuesday night.

Winside was coming off its best performance of the year — a well-played loss to Wakefield in the championship game of the Winside Invitational held Sept. 16.

But Tuesday night, it looked like a different Winside team took the floor against Wausa, according to Stenwall.

"We sure didn't play like we did against Wakefield," she said. "Our passing was bad, our communication was bad — almost everything we did was bad."

The first set was close most of the way as the biggest lead Wausa had was never more than three points.

The second set was similar to the first, but Stenwall said a major problem in both frames was her club's serve receive.

"We had trouble receiving their serves, and when we did get one received we set it up right at the net — and Wausa has a tall team. Most of Wausa's spikes were set up by us," she said.

Another problem in the second set, according to Stenwall, was complacency.

"We opened a little lead in the second set, and then the girls relaxed. You can't do that in sports, especially volleyball because the other team will take advantage," she said.

Tracy Topp led Winside's hitters with a 10-for-12 effort, including five kills. Tricia Hartman followed Topp with a 10-for-13 performance and four aces.

Cher Olson led the Lady Wildcat setters with a 44-for-47 effort, and Ann Meierhenry claimed the team's scoring honors with eight points.

Wausa made it a clean sweep by winning the 'B' match 15-12, 15-10, and the 'C' match 11-9, 5-11, 11-3.

Kristy Miller led Winside's 'B' squad with six points and added two ace spikes on 6-of-7 hitting.

Carman Reeg added a 5-for-8 hitting effort in the junior varsity game and totaled three kills, while Dawn Book was 30-for-33 in setting.

Lady Wildcats place third at Wesleyan

LINCOLN — Wayne State's volleyball team placed third in the 12-team Nebraska Wesleyan Invitational here Friday and Saturday. In pool play, the Lady Wildcats lost to Sterling College 9-15, 11-15 and to Peru State 5-15, 3-15 before downing South Dakota 15-8, 15-8. McPherson College 16-14, 10-15, 16-14 and Concordia 15-11, 15-7.

After advancing to the single elimination tournament, Wayne State thumped Tarkenton College 15-5, 15-9 before losing to eventual champion Morningside College 10-15, 11-15. Leading the way for the Lady Wildcats at the Invita were Shelle Tomaszklewicz and Diana Asay. Tomaszklewicz had 42 kills, while Asay added 35. Meg Hurley and Nate Fontenelle led Wayne State in blocks with 14, while Jeanelle Mohne claimed the team's assist honors with 63.

Asay has had trouble with her ankle most of the season and reinjured it at the tourney. Her status for this week's matches is unknown.

The Lady Wildcats played host to Peru State and Nebraska Wesleyan Tuesday night, and play again Thursday, Sept. 25, against St. Mary and Bellevue College at Bellevue.

Wayne State is then idle next week before traveling to Topeka, Kan. for the first round of CSIC competition on Oct. 3 and Oct. 4. Wayne State then travels to Sioux City to play Morningside and Briar Cliff on Oct. 9.

Two Wildcats nominated

Todd Buchanan, who gained 84 yards in Wayne State's 10-3 victory over Southwest State on Saturday, and Greg Cavilli, who totaled 13 tackles and intercepted a pass for the Wildcats, were both nominated for District 11 offensive and defensive players of the week, respectively.

Allen Pogue of Dana won the offensive award. Pogue was 21 of 38 for 330 yards and ran for two touchdowns and passed for another in the Vikings' 33-30 victory over Westmar.

It was the second straight week Pogue won the award. He was also named the NAIA offensive player of the week last week.

Other players nominated for the offensive award include: Mark Voss, Kearney State; Mitch Rasnow, Peru State; Gerald Mason, Midland Lutheran; and Steve McCallister of Doane.

James Turner of Midland was named the defensive player of the week. Turner finished with 15 tackles, including six solos, in Midland's 14-12 victory over Sioux Falls College.

Turner also picked off a pass in the end zone to save a Sioux Falls TD.

Other players nominated for the defensive award include: Larry Hill, Concordia; Mike Lincoln, Peru State; and Steve Fatum, Doane.

Last Week's Scores
 Concordia (2-1) 21 — Graceland 10; Dana (2-1) 33 — Westmar 30; Midland (2-1) 14 — Sioux Falls 12; Wayne State (2-1) 10 — Southwest Minn. 3; Tarkenton 27 — Peru State (2-3) 19; Colorado Mines 28 — Doane (1-2) 22; Moorhead State 27 — Kearney State (0-2) 17; Carroll Mont. 49 — Chadron State (2-2) 0.

Wayne's golfers nip Stanton

STANTON — Missy Jones fired a 46 and led Wayne's golfers past Stanton 213-216 here Tuesday afternoon.

Ann Perry followed Jones with 51, while Holly Paige carded a 52 and Jill Jordan closed with a 64.

Tammy Raetz of Stanton claimed medalist honors with a 45. Teammate Shari Hansen followed with a 50, while Julie Kament and Brenda Kament finished with a 58 and 63, respectively.

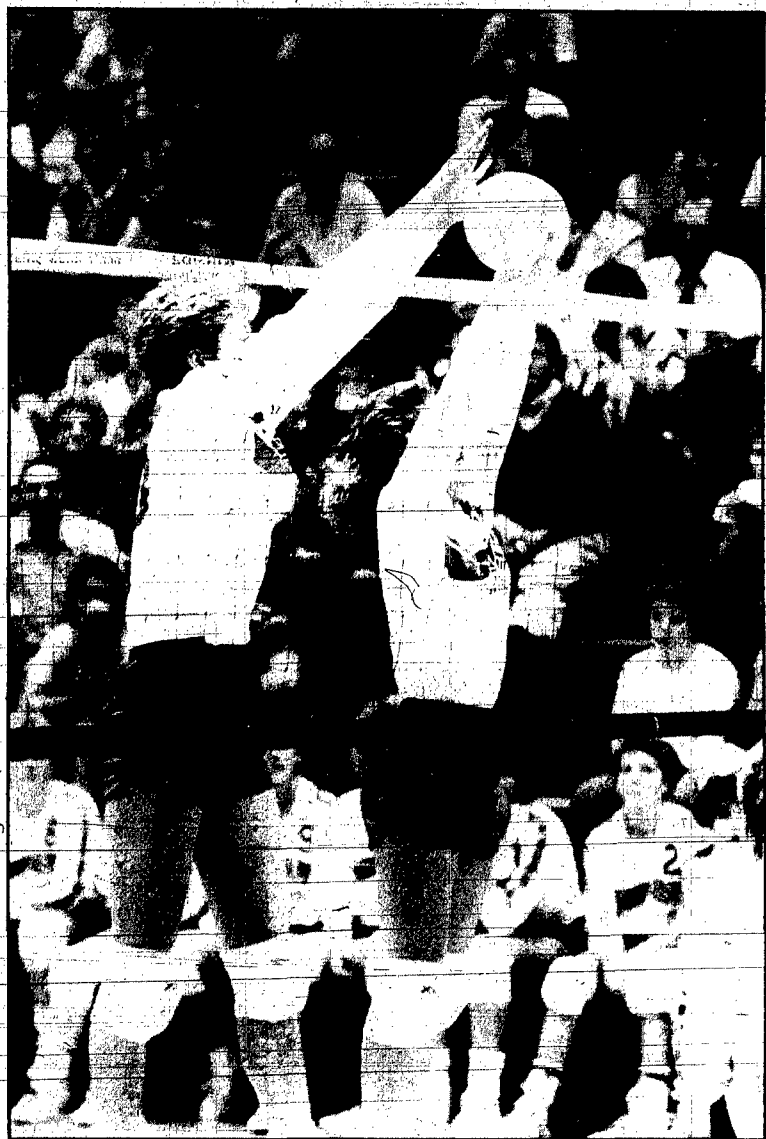

Wayne doesn't golf again until Monday, Oct. 6.

Wayne

Tina Hartman led Winside's 'C' team in scoring with seven points, while teammate Jenni Topp added five markers.

The loss dropped the Lady Wildcats to 2-3 on the year. Winside will attempt to rebound and top the .500 mark Thursday night when the Lady Wildcats host Stanton.

Wayne State hosts 0-2 Kearney

By Jean Berger
 WSC Sports Information Director

The Game
 Wayne State vs. Kearney State, Saturday, Sept. 27, 1:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium in Wayne.

The Coaches
 Wayne State — Pete Chapman, 4th year, 15-19. Kearney State — Claire Boroff, 15th year, 93-40-3.

The Series
 Kearney State leads the series, which began in 1924, 39-14-5. Kearney State has won the last 14 meetings. The last time Wayne State defeated the Antelopes was in 1971, 28-0, prior to that, the Wildcats had defeated Kearney in 1966, 10-6 and in 1970, 24-0.

Kearney State defeated the Wildcats 35-7 in Kearney last season. Darren Duncan scored on a three-yard run to put Kearney ahead 6-0. A field goal and three touchdown passes by Brett Kuhn put the Lopers ahead 35-0. Wayne State's only score was a two-yard run by Eros Sanchez. Wayne State completed only five of 32 passes on the day and was intercepted five times by Kearney defenders. Offensively, the Wildcats were limited to only 153 yards while Kearney gathered 362 yards.

Band Day
 Saturday's game is the annual Band Day celebration at Wayne State. Fifteen high school bands, as well as the Wayne State and Kearney State marching bands, will perform during halftime. A Band Day parade begins at 10:30 a.m. through downtown Wayne. Scholarships worth $300 for the two highest scoring bands will be awarded.

The Wildcats
 Wayne State is now 2-1 on the season after defeating Southwest State of Minnesota 10-3 in Marshall. The Wayne State defense limited Southwest State to 72 yards rushing and 88 yards passing on the day. Leading the way was junior linebacker Greg Cavilli with 13 tackles, 10 of which were solo, a quarterback sack and one interception. Randy Hupp added 10 tackles. Offensively, Todd Buchanan rushed for 87 yards on 26 carries. John Lawrence was 11-of-31 for 109 yards, including his first touchdown pass of the year, a 20-yard toss to Bill Minarik. Tony Wiese added a 36-yard field goal to round out the Wildcats' scoring.

Carrer Record
 Senior defensive back Lamont Lewis tied the Wayne State record for career interceptions against Southwest State. Lewis' first interception of 1986 gave him 15, good for a tie with Charlie Wendt, who played in 1969-71.

The Antelopes
 Kearney State is 0-2 after losing to UNO 3-0 in the season opener and to Moorhead State 27-17 last Saturday in Minnesota. The 0-2 start is one game short of Kearney's 0-3 start last year. Against Moorhead, the Lopers rushed for only 74 yards. Darren Duncan, a 6-3, 239-pound junior fullback caught a seven-yard pass from Mark Voss for one score, while sophomore tailback Steve Hessler ran for a 13-yard touchdown. The Lopers completed 20-of-32 passes against Moorhead. Against UNO, the Lopers rushed for 75 yards and passed for another 58. Defensively, they allowed only 157 yards in total offense against UNO.

CSIC Standings
 Standings entering the first week of conference action in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) are:

1. Emporia State ..... 3-0
2. Washburn ..... 2-1
3. Pittsburg State ..... 2-1
4. Wayne State ..... 2-1
5. Fort Hays State ..... 2-1
6. Missouri Western ..... 1-2
7. Kearney State ..... 0-2
8. Missouri Southern ..... 0-2

Up Next
 Wayne State travels to St. Joseph, Mo., to take on the Missouri Western Grifflons Oct. 4 in a 1:30 p.m. contest.

CONTEST RULES

One football game has been placed in each of the ads on this page. Indicate the winner by writing in the name of the winning team on the proper line on the entry blank. No scores. Just pick the winners, or ties. In case of tie, write "tie." Use the entry blank below or a copy of equal size.

Write in your guess of the total number of yards gained by both teams in the game of the week. This will only be used in case of a tie. The person that comes closest to the total number of yards without going over will be the winner.

One entry only to each contestant, but members of a family may each submit an entry. Entries should be brought or mailed to The Wayne Herald office not later than 5 p.m. Friday, or if mailed, should not be postmarked later than 5 p.m. Friday. You need not be a subscriber of the Herald to be eligible for prizes.

The Winners will be announced weekly on the Thursday sports page of The Wayne Herald. Employees of the Herald and their immediate families are ineligible. Judges' decisions will be final in every case.

Burning house

generated from the fire that was set in the first floor living room. If I had touched my helmet with bare hands, I'm sure my fingers would have been burned to some extent.

One can easily see why one does not enter a burning building, just for the sake of just being there. Glory hounds they aren't. It's not fun, believe me.

"Get down on the floor!" somebody said. Rules are to stay close to the floor and avoid unnecessary conversation. I have to know who and how many men are on the "attack line" with me.

I have to move slowly and deliberately through the building, feeling with the hands and feet as I move.

Earlier, I remembered Wriedt informing me that the smoke usually rises toward the ceiling, so staying low to the ground will ease the amount of smoke inhalation.

I got on my hands and knees and then made my way to the bottom of the stairways. Fireman Brooks Widner, who has gone into many a burning building, is ahead of me. Ron Wriedt, my instructor, is behind me. A camera was in one of my hands, a hose (to be taken up the stairs with us) was in my other hand.

It is getting extremely hot inside the building and the smoke is getting heavy. Wait, the firelog, calls for help from upstairs.

"Let's go!" yells Widner. "Crawl and keep low!" yells Wriedt. We make our way up the first three steps slowly. It becomes pitch dark and I cannot see Brooks ahead of me. My only contact with him is the hose that I'm grasping (ever so lightly).

I know that if I become separated from the hose or attack line, and cannot relocate it or communicate with the crew near me, I should move to a wall and follow it to a window or other opening to safety. One rule to remember, however: Don't panic.

A filled air tank can supply air for at least 20 to 25 minutes. My breathing is becoming heavier. One is supposed to keep physical exertion to a minimum. That is hard to do. And it is still very dark.

We reach the top stair and I see Brooks now, but he is only a silhouette in a wall of smoke. We have got to find Wait.

We crawl on the upstairs floor and I see Brooks and another figure. It is Wait. He was "hiding" in a closet in one of the upstairs bedrooms.

"Grab the hose and back down," Wriedt said. He didn't know that I hadn't let go of the hose yet, except to snap a picture (which didn't turn out because of all the smoke). I wasn't about to let go of the only thing that would lead me out of the inferno.

We slowly backed down the stairways, again in total darkness, my grip tightening even more on the hose. Occasionally, my boots would hit Wriedt. I wanted to move faster, but you just can't do that because it is not safe.

As we stepped off onto the first floor, we could see the light of day again.

I stepped outside and walked away from the burning building. My legs felt like noodles. It was an exhausting experience.

I hastily threw off my helmet and, after gaining some assistance in shutting off the air supply of the air tank, ripped off my mask. Sweat dripped from my forehead. Had I just been in a shower? The shirt and the blue jeans I wore were drenched in perspiration.

My throat was dry. I quenched my thirst with a glass of water.

They wanted me to go inside again. I was geared up and was ready to go. But they had trouble starting the fire because of the humid outside conditions. The equipment and the fire-fighting suit (which had a combined weight of 100 pounds) was beginning to tire me.

Reluctantly, I said I had enough.

They continued several other drills before deciding to let the entire building burn to the ground.

After reflecting on my adventure, thoughts were this: a fireman can never say "I've had enough" like I did when it comes to a real fire, when it is a matter of life and death.

They can't walk away from it. I have the utmost respect for firemen who endanger their own lives in trying to save others.

They can wear full protective clothing, but the characteristics of a fire changes and can turn against a fireman quickly and his shield from smoke and heat can be gone at any time.

My venture into a burning house was an ultimate, but humbling experience.

I've learned many, but not all things, about survival in a house fire. Stay low to the floor or ways to escape a burning room. One never stops learning, the experienced firemen say.

From this small humbling experience, I have learned something that will not be easy to forget.

ABOVE left, a photo inside the burning house shows the importance of keeping low to the ground to avoid the smoke; at right, the flames pour out of one room inside the house; and below, when all the drills were complete, the old house was allowed to burn to the ground.

market price, better international trade relations, protection of grain quality, a plan developed to reduce agriculture debt, have more university research into alternate crops, develop new markets, and promote rural economic development "to help the sagging economies in our towns."

"We want a fair price, not subsidies," she said. She said her opponent (Orr) had served on Reagan's agricultural policy advisory committee and asked why Orr's leadership there did not result in a change of farm policy. And Boosalls said Orr had wanted to repeal Initiative 300. "How will that increase our corn prices?" Boosalls asked.

Orr replied by saying Boosalls had "distorted the facts." "I was not on the ag policy commission and I did not call for the repeal of Initiative 300," Orr said. She served on the USDA research and extension users' advisory board, she said. What Orr would like to see is Initiative 300 modified, but not repealed.

ORR LABELED herself as a fiscal conservative after Boosalls had said the budget had grown from a surplus to a deficit during Charles Thone's years as governor, during which Orr had served two years as chief of staff for the executive branch.

Boosalls had "conveniently" failed to mention that during the Thone era, the income tax rate was reduced from 18 to 15 percent of federal liability, Orr said.

"I was there for two years and I learned valuable things. I'm proud of the things that I have done while serving with Charlie Thone," Orr said.

When a question was asked pertaining to building economic development in Nebraska, Orr's philosophy was that the private sector, not state government, is critical to the state's economic development.

The government doesn't create jobs, but it should provide an opportunity for free enterprise to work, Orr said.

Boosalls answered by saying: "I don't talk economic development. I've done it."

Orr then put the question to the audience in attendance at the North

Platte debate: "How many non-government jobs did she [Boosalls] create during her 10 years as [Lincoln] mayor?"

Orr said there was not any real job creation.

BOOSALLS replied that from 1975 to 1983, during three recessions, "over 3,100 jobs in manufacturing were indeed created."

The candidates were confronted on the issue of LB 999, the Farm Foreclosure legislation and whether they would call a special session, if governor, to make any changes to it. Boosalls said compromise on the bill can be arranged so that a special session would not be necessary. Orr said the bill had flaws apparently from the beginning and she would not have signed the bill into law so that people would not be questioning it now.

The flaw should have been recognized to save the legislature "from the trouble of deliberation right now."

On education, Orr said she would make certain to supply the needed funding in support of education.

When it is time to set the budget, Orr said she will use the "zero base budget" approach and "look at every way to take a scalpel to the budget."

Boosalls mentioned the importance of establishing research grants and working with industry in achieving quality education among learning institutions.

THE CANDIDATES were asked for stands on the water pollution issues. Boosalls said the state needs a hazardous waste policy. She said those who pollute the water should "bear the greatest cost for the clean-up."

"Water quality will be a high priority in the Orr administration," said Orr. She said her administration would take a look at the domestic supply of good drinking water for Nebraska and regions where there are problems.

Concerning LB 662, the school consolidation bill which calls for the consolidation of school districts combined with a 1 cent sales tax increase, Orr said there will be "no property tax decrease with LB 662." She said a tax increase is a tax increase.

Orr said LB 662 is a political firestorm and that the 1 cent property tax increase is "just a down payment on another tax increase."

A 1½ cent or two cent sales tax increase is needed to pay for LB 662, she said.

Boosalls said that if voters retain 662, property tax relief will be available and that Orr is ignoring property tax relief. LB 662, she said, is not a constitutional amendment and it can be changed.

Boosalls and Orr both agreed that they would not like to see a sales tax on services.

Regarding the high cost of insurance to cities, business and industry, Orr said she the issue is complex but would like to look into tort reform and how insurance companies set their rates.

On the question of how they would have handled the Commonwealth Bank issue, Boosalls said she believes the "state has a moral obligation to the Commonwealth depositors."

"The legislature has dealt with the issue too long. It has taken the energies of the administration and the legislature for too long," Boosalls mentioned.

SHE SAID CONFIDENCE "has eroded in the state government since the Commonwealth."

Orr said that in all "political reality" nothing more can be done.

When asked how the candidates differ on economic development issues, Orr again stressed that government doesn't create jobs. She said she would be first to recommend a change in the tax system and that she would be creative in economic development.

Boosalls said the state's tax system "is not stable, adequate and fair."

She would emphasize the revitalization of agriculture and proposed an "economic development cabinet on the state level."

Both candidates supported telephone deregulation.

Those asking questions on the issues were Elna Johnson of the Imperial Republican; Maxine Moul of the Syracuse Journal-Democrat; Eric Brown of KRVN in Lexington; and Gary Kerr of WOWT, Omaha.

Welch elected to membership

C K Welch, Hoskins, NE, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with over 30,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 11 million registered Angus.

Delegates set checkoff rate

The National Pork Producers Delegate Body, established under provisions of the 1985 Pork Act, met in Kansas City September 17 and 18 to establish official rates for the 100% national pork producer checkoff, and nominate producers and importers for consideration as members of a new National Pork Board that will have the duty of collecting and disbursing the new checkoff funds. The checkoff will go into effect November 1, and is mandatory for all producers and importers of hogs and pork products.

The delegates established .25 of one percent of value (.0025) as the initial rate of the checkoff, beginning November 1. They also adopted a funding distribution chart as the basis for determining checkoff funds returned to state associations. Under the law, no state can receive less than 16 2/3 percent of the checkoff funds collected within its state.

One of the biggest responsibilities facing delegates at their first meeting was the election of 23 producers and importers as nominees for appointment to the new National Pork Board. That is the board that will have the responsibility of collecting the new producer checkoff funds and determining how the money will be spent. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng will appoint to the board 15 of the 23 nominees selected by the National Pork Producers Delegate Body.

One area nominee selected and appointed by the National Pork Producers Delegate Body was Richard Sorensen of Wayne.

Trees benefit from tax system

The new Nebraska Agricultural Land Valuation Manual, amended and approved by the State Tax Commissioner this spring, contains a new method of assessing land value for property tax purposes that could provide the most significant incentive yet to plant and manage trees in Nebraska.

The new manual will be applied by county assessors beginning with the 1986 assessment year. Prior to 1986, agricultural land that contained trees was not recognized as a distinct land use. Natural woodlands were classified as a sub-group of "Pasture" or "Rangeland" and taxed accordingly. Windbreaks and shelterbelts were taxed at the same rate as adjacent agricultural land. New tree plantings, such as those for wildlife habitat, erosion control, or wood lots, often continued to be taxed the same as the previous land use.

Now, many owners of lands containing trees may benefit from the new assessment method.

Not all land containing trees will qualify for the new "Forestland and Shelterbelt" classification. Specific qualifications have to be met. General qualifications include:

1. Domestic livestock grazing is not allowed. Grazed woodlands will continue to be taxed as a subgroup of Pasture or Rangeland.
2. Natural forests and planted forests (e.g. windbreaks, shelterbelts, wildlife habitat, and woodlots) must be a minimum of two acres in size. Note: A windbreak system composed of segments that total two or more acres will qualify.
3. Natural forests must have either 26 percent tree cover or 100 live trees per acre.
4. Planted forests must have either 76 percent tree cover or 100 live trees per acre and have been in place for at least three growing seasons.

SEVERAL TYPES of forestland are excluded from the "Forestland and Shelterbelt" classification. These include:

1. Forests within the corporate limits of a village, town or city.
2. Christmas tree plantations, orchards and other horticultural tree crops.
3. Nurseries.
4. The area within 100 yards of structures inhabited or intended to be inhabited by humans or livestock.
5. Campgrounds, picnic areas or similar developed recreational sites and the area within 100 yards of the same area.
6. Forestland that is receiving an annual payment from cooperative agreements with a government agency.

The change in classification for qualifying "Forestland and Shelterbelts" is not automatic. The old method of assessment for land containing trees will continue until the landowner applies and certifies compliance with the local county assessor's office.

According to Steve Rasmussen, Northeast Nebraska District Extension Forester, this should encourage and add an important incentive to properly manage the windbreak system or woodland on the farm. It will also hopefully reduce one of the obstacles of free planting, since these acreages will in the future be taxed at a far less valuation than previously. This fall check with your county assessor to see if you have land that qualifies or for more information contact your local county assessor's office or Steve Rasmussen at the University of Nebraska Northeast Center at Concord, NE, phone (402) 584-2261.

Profit returning in cattle industry

In spite of low slaughter cattle prices in the second quarter of 1986 and the adverse effect this spring of the national dairy herd termination program, profitability may soon return to the cattle feeding sector and shortly to the cow-calf sector.

Al Wellman, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension livestock marketing specialist, said this optimistic profit picture is based on two important fundamental economic factors—current supply/demand situation and low-cost feed grains.

First, he said, supply/demand factors seem to be in place to support quarterly average slaughter cattle prices at least in the high $50s or low $60s for the rest of 1986 and at least in the low $60s for all of 1987. Second, low feed grain prices should allow low costs of gain over the next 2-3 years.

Costs of gain (excluding labor, management and facility costs) for yearling steers coming off grass this fall are projected at 40 cents or less a pound. If cattle producers take advantage of locally available low-cost feed grains, backgrounding costs of gain may be even lower. "These costs of gain lead to projected profits for retained ownership of calves and yearlings off grass this fall," Wellman said.

One major factor—the collective action of consumers—seems to be placing a lid on cattle prices, Wellman analyzed. Consumers at the retail meat counter appear to be placing a maximum level on retail beef prices. Above this price level, consumers cut back on beef consumption and substitute other meats for beef, the specialist said.

SOME ANALYSTS are suggesting that the associated cutoff wholesale price level is in the $90s per hundredweight for carcass beef. A ceiling of $90-$95 carcass price is in the $60-$65 range for slaughter steers. Yearling steers this fall should command at least a $5 premium over finished steers.

Calf prices for the next 18 months are much more difficult to project. They are determined by the perceived future profits from finishing calves. Current budgets for cattle feeding project profitable returns to labor, management and facilities for growing and finishing 450-pound steer calves to 1,100-pound steers. With improved profit potential, the seeds are sown for a run-up in calf prices, Wellman said. "Fall '86 calf prices could move rapidly to the upper $70s per hundredweight and possibly above $80 per hundredweight."

"One factor that would favor selling calves and yearlings off grass this fall would be that we have had a large run of cattle in July and August, which might force price run-ups this fall," Wellman said. "Economic signals hint that instead of normal decreasing fall prices, we could have increasing fall prices," he added.

If all prices do increase, Wellman said, Nebraska cow-calf producers may want to re-evaluate their fall '86 marketing strategies. Astute managers should have a fully developed fall marketing plan available for quick implementation should fall calf prices increase rapidly. Nevertheless, given current market conditions, retained ownership of calves and yearlings into next spring still looks good, Wellman said.

"Since the market signals are not clear at this time, the economic reward for being an astute market watcher may be high this fall," he added.

"Whether the yearling and calf price run-ups will materialize this fall or in 1987 is still uncertain," Wellman conceded. But, he stressed, "In either case, it appears that profits should start returning to the cow-calf sector in 1987."

INDIAN MEAL MOTHS IN STORED GRAIN

From mid-summer until grain cools, Indian meal moth infestations will increase in stored grains. This is a surface infesting insect. The larvae spin webs that are quite visible on the surface. Adults are easily identified by wing color. The forward portion of the top wings are cream color, the back portions bronze to copper color.

If grain is to be fed within a few weeks, skim off the webbing and larvae from the surface. If grain is to be stored for a month or longer, the insects should be controlled.

Dichlorvos (vapona) 20% resin strips can be suspended in the air space over grain, using one strip for each 1000 cubic feet of space. Vapors from strips will kill adults, but will not control larvae. If air circulation removes vapors, the strips will not be effective. Vapona strips are best for long term storage, and should be in place early in the season.

Surface treatments of the bacterial insecticides Bacillus thuringiensis will reduce larvae. The larvae must ingest the spores, and kill will be slow. It is a safe treatment so far as feeding at any time is concerned. Bacillus thuringiensis is available under trade names Dipel, SOK-BI, and probably others, as dust or liquid suspensions. They are mixed with the upper 4 inches of grain. Rates will be provided on labels, it is important to follow the label directions.

NOW IS TIME TO COOL GRAIN FOR WINTER STORAGE

Because warm temperatures initiate insect growth and grain spoilage, now is the time to start cooling it, especially if the grain is going to be stored over the winter.

For properly handled grain storage, the bulk of the grain mass now should be at 60 degrees at the top and the sides should be in the 70 to 80 degree range. These temperatures are high enough to initiate insect development and grain spoilage.

If grain was not aerated in late spring or early summer, the entire mass may be at 70 to 80 degrees. It may be a good idea to start running fans one or two nights a week.

Some re-wetting may occur because of high humidity, but during the cooling process moisture will be removed for winter storage.

SPARROWS CAN BE NUISANCE

The common sparrow is often a nuisance. Sparrows are fond of making nests in buildings such as barns and machine sheds, since they need to be near people, who are the source of the birds' food supply.

A number of methods are available to control sparrows.

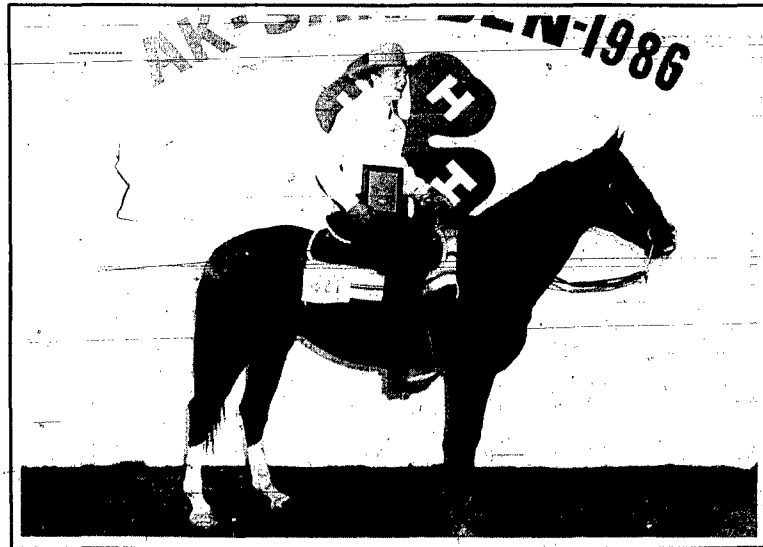

• Exclude them from the building. A three-quarter inch hole or crack in a building can be an entrance for sparrows.

• If the building has ledges, erect a board at a 45 degree angle to prevent perching and nest making.

• Trap them, using bread crumbs or finely cracked corn for bait.

• Use a pole to destroy their nests. Destroy nests every two weeks to keep their reproduction in check.

• Shooting birds with bird shot or a .22 caliber rifle is a quick method, but can be used only where shooting is permitted and safe surroundings.

CHRIS LUTT of Wayne was named reserve champion in senior western riding at the 59th annual Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Exposition 4-H horse show at Omaha on Sept. 18. It was the first year of Ak-Sar-Ben competition for the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lutt. Chris rode his five-year-old quarter horse gelding, Powders Jelly Bean, to the reserve title.

Ak-Sar-Ben winners listed

A Wayne County 4-H'er shared top honors in senior western riding competition in the 4-H Horse Show conducted during the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Exposition in Omaha on Sept. 18.

Chris, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lutt of Wayne, rode his 5-year-old quarter horse gelding, Powders Jelly Bean, in his first try at Ak-Sar-Ben laurels.

He received a plaque and a purple ribbon for his efforts.

The Dixon County 4-H dairy exhibitors broke the 9-year skin of Osceola County by winning the championship plaque and purple ribbon for dairy herdmanship at the Livestock Exhibition Dairy Show.

Other area 4-H'ers received purple and blue ribbons, after participating in various Ak-Sar-Ben 4-H Livestock Exposition events.

They include:

PCA annual meeting held

The financial condition of the Production Credit Association Of The Midlands (PCA/M) was discussed with member stockholders at regional annual meetings held on September 11th, 17th and 18th in Norfolk, O'Neill and Columbus.

PCA/M Regional President, Richard L. Herink, briefed member stockholders of the association on the condition of their lending institution and their many developments which have occurred over the past year. He noted that it is not surprising that economic stress throughout the agricultural economy is mirrored in the condition of the PCA/M which lends only to agriculture. The first half of 1986 has brought a continuation of depressed commodity prices and a further decline in land values, both of which have had negative effects on farmers' and ranchers' financial positions, and have in turn impacted the financial condition of the PCA/M, he said.

IN SPITE of the stress in agriculture, however, Herink also pointed out some positive developments in the association designed to help farmers and ranchers, including:

• A new interest rate program effective July 1, 1986 for PCA/M member stockholders, which resulted in a reduction in interest rates for 83% of its borrowers.

• Stabilization of PCA/M capital through merging of the former 37 PCAs into the PCA Of The Midlands on December 31, 1985.

• Reorganization of operations during 1985, which is improving the effectiveness of the organization and gaining maximum efficiency from human resources.

• A continuing trend of lower interest rates on the nation's money markets which may lead to further rate reductions for borrowers. Loan funds are obtained through the sale of Farm Credit System bonds on the nation's money markets.

• Member stockholders elected representatives to serve on the PCA regional board and PCA/M board of directors.

Re-elected to the PCA regional board for the Norfolk region was Raymond Bakenhus of Leigh. Other board members already serving on the PCA/M regional board include William Potter of Rising City, Ronald Hofmann of Norfolk, Norman Blunk of Osmond and Samuel Hellbusch of Creston. The Norfolk region serves farmers and ranchers in the counties of Antelope, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Wayne, Garfield, Holt, Wheeler, Boyd, Cumming, Butler, Colfax, Platte, Polk, Boone and Nance.

Don Werkmeister of Brunswick was re-elected to serve on the districtwide PCA/M board of directors, representing PCA members in the Norfolk region.

UP WITH AGRICULTURE

Farmers have long been known for helping their neighbors in times of need. But recently, Midwestern farmers demonstrated their compassion to "neighbors" half-way across the country.

The Southeast experienced severe heat and drought this past spring and summer, creating extremely short feed supplies in some areas. In response, Midwestern farmers, in traditional farm fashion, put aside their own problems and banded together to donate valuable hay to help stretch the Southeast's supply.

Response was so overwhelming that the USDA had to set up an office to coordinate necessary transportation. Fortunately, local businesses, trucking companies and railroads also lent a hand. And in the end, tons of donated hay did make its way to the Southeast.

Of course, these contributions didn't even begin to resolve the overall problem. The drought in the Southeast has been the worst in 100 years. Agricultural losses alone have been estimated as high as $1.9 billion.

But that doesn't diminish the sincerity of effort or the earnest desire of Midwestern farmers to help their "neighbors."

"Said one South Carolina farmer, "We're overwhelmed with the generosity of farmers in the Midwest. I wish I could do something for those up north who helped us." To which a Midwestern farmer replied, "We offered to help because we could be in the same position someday."

Hard times always seem to bring out the best in people. And farmers know about hard times. This effort on the part of Midwestern farmers is a true example of the values of rural America. It just goes to show that good neighbors aren't necessarily separated by state boundaries — or the Mason-Dixon line.

I know you are all waiting with bated breath to see if I'm driving legally now. Well, it wasn't easy! We had a funeral at 1 o'clock on Wednesday in Norfolk, so it was 3:15 when we headed for Wayne. I had glanced at the manual on Tuesday evening after the second volleyball game, and I finished reading it while the Big Farmer drove to Wayne. I didn't miss one question on the test. But it was 4 p.m. when I finished, and there were others ahead of me, who needed to drive. Since my license was more than three months expired, I had to take one of the examiners for a ride. We knew from past experience that they never stay overtime, so I was out of luck on Wednesday. I had a speaking commitment in Omaha on Thursday. Fortunately, the Big Farmer had planned to go with me, so I had a driver. (He had renewed his license, too.) On Friday afternoon, he drove me to Madison and I gave Mr. Rotherham a short tour of his city.

He signed my slip of paper, then we raced back to Wayne. I got to Leon Meyer's office at 4:20, he took my picture, I paid the ten bucks. I'm legal again. WHEN THEY told me in Madison that I would still have to buy the thing in the county in which I resided, I asked if I could send my husband with the paper. They laughed and said that might be difficult, since they needed my picture on the license (I am so dumb.) I asked Mr. Rotherham if his job wasn't hard on nerves. "I've been at it for 26 years," he chuckled, "I've had good days and bad." He did say it was easier now, because cars are easier to drive, people have better vision correction, and kids have had driver's ed. Licenses were issued for a lifetime, originally. He recalled one old coddler with a life license who came reluctantly to take a vision test. He flunked it. Then he put on his new glasses. Hesteds specials, marked $1.98!

Speaking of driver's ed, one parent waiting at the courthouse on Wednesday reminded us that the cost of the license had gone up from $8 to $10, with the $2 designated for driver's ed. Now they have taken away the reimbursement to schools, what happens to the $2? ANOTHER INTERESTING item: just this year, a bill was passed by our legislature that provides that drivers below the legal age of 21 be photographed in front of blue background instead of the usual red. How will this help the bar tender? Every teenager before the bill will have red, and those who turn 21 after their last picture will have blue. Seems a bit redundant to me. I'm baking chocolate chip cookies with lots of chips to send back to Lincoln with Brian today. Last night (Saturday) was one night without rain and thunder. But this humidity and moisture are something. Tons of hay waiting to be put up; pray for Sun Shine!

Museum pledges increase

Five members of the Winside museum committee traveled to Wayne on Sept. 16 to attend a meeting of the Wayne County Historical Society and to meet with the society's attorney, Kenneth Olds.

Legal details of the Winside museum were discussed, and it was decided the committee will work independently on the Winside museum project.

All funds for the project, however, will be under the authority of Wayne County Historical Society officers.

Mrs. Rod Tompkins, president of the Wayne County Historical Society, will appoint individuals from the Winside committee to be in charge of specific tasks. Ordinances will be written to cover the committee's functions.

ALL PERSONS WHO have paid a $5 membership fee to the Winside museum committee are also members of the Wayne County Historical Society and are welcome to participate in all society activities.

The Wayne County Historical Society meets the third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the museum in Wayne.

THE WINSIDE museum committee to date has received a total $4,400 in pledges and donations.

Persons who would like to contribute to the preservation of the Theophilus Church as a museum in Winside should send their donations to Bill Burris, Winside, Neb., 68790. Checks should be made payable to the Wayne County Historical Society Winside Project.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

There are 20 junior and senior candidates for the Wakefield chapter of the National Honor Society. The society will tap eight new members in ceremonies to be held today (Thursday) at 2:45 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Stacey Kuhl will serve as master of ceremonies. Other current members of NHS are Valorie Krusemark, Susie McQuistan, Kaye Hansen, Cam Thies, Randy Kinney and Brad Lund. Entertainment during the tapping will include a piano solo by Kaye Hansen and the girls group will sing "Touch a Hand, Make a Friend."

The eight senior candidates are Kraty Anderson, Brian Bartels, Bruce Barfels, Dawn Boatman, Kelly Boeckenhauer, Bobby Greve, Desiree Salmon and Tim Schwartz. Junior candidates are Mike Anderson, Sheila Anderson, Lana Ekberg, Dwight Fischer, Kelly Fredrickson, Mollie Greve, Raquel Lueth, Brenda Meier, Sean Neal, Kodi Nelson, Christy Oswald and Tricia Schwartz.

Following the tapping there will be a reception for the new members in the multi-purpose room. Everyone in the community is invited to attend.

In the evening, the new members of the honor society will be honored at a dinner at the hotel. All honorary members will also be invited to attend.

NHS sponsors are Mrs. Mary Ellen Sundell and Joe Coble.

EASTERN STAR MEETS

Goldenrod Chapter No. 106 Order of Eastern Star met for its regular session on Sept. 2.

Worthy Matron Kathleen Potter welcomed guests Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hocking and Edna Cobop of the Hooper Chapter.

Grand Representative of Texas in Nebraska, Freida L. Hocking was presented to the chapter.

Edith Hanson and Kathleen Potter reported on the luncheon honoring the Grand Officers held at Coleridge on Aug. 22.

Next regular meeting will be Oct. 7. All members are urged to attend as exemplification of initiatory work will be given. Pender ladies, with Marilou Reeger, will host the October meeting.

BAND BOOSTERS

The Wakefield Trojan Band Boosters have decided on two fundraising projects for the coming year to make money for the next band trip. The group met at the Wakefield school on Sept. 8.

The first project of the Boosters will be the sale of household knives. The knives are on display in the Republican window and also during some home volleyball games.

Those who wish to support the band's project can place orders by contacting Boosters president Joyce Kuhl. At the present time, no door-to-door campaign is planned.

Boosters also decided to have a soup and pie supper during the post holiday boys and girls basketball tournament which will be held in Wakefield on Jan. 8-10.

Several other projects and ideas were also discussed including the possibility of a carnival in the spring.

The officers of the group would like to see more parents of band members attend the meetings and receive more input on what types of activities the boosters should have to raise funds for the band trips.

Next meeting of the group is set for Monday, Oct. 20.

NFO COLLECTION POINT

Organizers and contributors of the Wakefield NFO Collection Point, Inc. recently met to elect directors and officers. They are:

Ervin Fuscher, a director from Emerson; Albert L. Nelson, Wakefield, president; Larry Nichols, a director from Wayne; Russ Stansberry, a director from Walthill; Jim Stout, Wakefield, secretary; Lyle Brown, Wakefield, vice president; Gaylen Fischer, Wakefield, treasurer; and Steve Smith, a director from Concord.

Alternate directors are Harvey Relitz, John Smith, Jim Youngmeyer and Bud Boeckenhauer.

Building renovation began at the NFO site two weeks ago. The facility will be located on a plot of land north of Wakefield that the corporation purchased from Ben Lienemann.

The main facility will handle hogs on a daily basis. Slaughter cows, fat cattle and feeder cattle will also be handled through the collection point once it is in operation.

Organizers say funds are still needed to buy and install a scale, complete the unloading area, office and remodel pens inside the building.

To date, 55 farmers and six businesses have contributed to the acquisition and building of the facility.

ADDITIONS AT SALEM

There are two new faces working around Salem Lutheran Church and with the congregation. Salem currently has an intern pastor, Mrs. Betty Lou Hadley, and Joan Stegner is the director of music at the church.

Mrs. Hadley is from Lyons. Her internship at Salem is her third year of school requirements to becoming an ordained minister.

Mrs. Hadley is married and the mother of six grown children. Her husband, Dr. Clifford Hadley, is a medical doctor with a general practice in Burt County. He is also an ordained minister.

Director of music Joan Stegner comes to Wakefield from North Bend where she directed an area community choir which included people from both the North Bend and Scribner areas.

Joan grew up on a farm between Hartington and Coleridge and is a graduate of Coleridge High School. She received her musical training at Wayne State College.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

The Wakefield Board of Education met Sept. 8. Arnold Cerny and Dennis Wilbur, coaches, answered questions from the school board about the high school boys and girls weight program.

Mr. Hartman reported that the State School Board Convention will be held in Omaha Nov. 19-21.

New District 60R school valuations are out and the total valuation of district dropped from 55.9 million to 52.6 million.

The school board granted a waiver of tuition for the Harlan Thompson children until they move to Wakefield around Oct. 1.

The board approved special education contracts with the Marlin Luther Home and the Laurel Public School for the 1988-89 school year.

As the last item of business, the board discussed teacher negotiations for the 1987-88 school year.

FBLA NAMES OFFICERS

The Wakefield Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) held its first meeting Sept. 4. President Cameron Thies called the meeting to order. The following officers were elected: Desiree Salmon, vice president; Stacey Kuhl, secretary; Brian Bartels, treasurer; Dawn Boatman, parliamentarian; Tammy Nicholson, historian; and Tom Crossdale, news reporter.

The officers voted in favor of having a business meeting. They also decided to sell plastic mugs and pins bearing the school logo and shakers containing the school colors.

W-CLUB REORGANIZES

The Wakefield High School W-Club has reorganized for the coming year. An election of officers was held on Sept. 2. Desiree Salmon was elected president; Marci Greve, vice president; Stacey Kuhl, secretary; treasurer; and Brad Lund, sergeant-at-arms.

The W-Club discussed a record book for track and the study of the group's constitution by the executive committee.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Graves Public Library has some new publications to add those with houseplants. The booklets are Instructional Guides to Healthy Foliage Houseplants Vol. I and II and Healthy Flowering Houseplants Vol. I and II.

Also new on the shelves at the library are books entitled "Love and Glory" by Jeanne Wester, "Death in Cyprus" and "Death in the Andamans" both by Jude Deveraux and "Love and Fury" by Patricia Hagen.

"Tenting Tonight/Soldiers Life," dealing with the Civil War and "Aristotle from Everybody/Difficult Thought Made Easy" by Mortimer J. Adler are now available at the library.

Walter and Dorothy Hale returned Sept. 17 from a month's vacation on the east coast.

Then went to Doan and Irene Switzky's home in Mr. Horeb, Wis. While there they attended the annual Hale reunion at Ft. Atkinson, Wis.

Then they went to Peru, Ind. where they visited Walter's cousin Bill and Lois (Hale) Nelson. While there they spent one day with Walter's Army buddy, Keith and Mareta Stout.

They stopped at Niagara Falls and then on to Virgil and Mildred Isom's summer home in North Waterboro, Maine. Then they and the Isoms went to the Isom's home in Beverly, Mass. for a few days of sightseeing.

On their way to Massachusetts, they visited the Seabrook Nuclear Plant where the Isom's son Richard works. They all visited Salem, Mass. and took a boat ride at Portland, Maine. Virgil and Walter are cousins.

From there they went to Virgil's daughter Susan and Larry McGinley in Willingboro, N.J. They visited in Philadelphia one day. They took a bus to New York City where they took a four-and-one-half hour tour of the city. They also took the ferry out to the Statue of Liberty.

They continued on to Washington, D.C. where they took an evening tour and a one-day tour of Washington, D.C., Mt. Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, etc.

Then they went to Nashville where they attended the Grand Old Opry on Saturday afternoon. On Sunday then went to Conway Twitty's Twitty City.

Then they stopped at Lebanon, Mo. where they visited Gene and Mabel Beard. They are the parents of Mrs. Tom Turney of Wakefield.

STUDENTS AND COMMUNITY residents alike got into the act last Friday afternoon during the annual homecoming parade and pep rally in Wakefield. There were over 50 entries in the parade, including Trojan Ray Lund, top photo, and his Trojan Horse. The pep rally, second from top, included a skit by the Wakefield Ministerial Association. Standing in the background are the Rev. David Rusk, at left, and the Rev. Richard Kargard. In front, left to right, are the Rev. Bruce Schut, Mrs. Betty Lou Hadley, intern pastor, the Rev. Neil Peterson and the Rev. Joe Marek. In the second photo from bottom, Wakefield school students display their homecoming enthusiasm during the parade. The parade also included the Wakefield Trojan Band, at left, under the direction of Mrs. Diane Trullinger. The Wakefield Trojan football team went on that evening to defeat the Scribner Trojans by a score of 62-29.

For Heritage Planters Program Rahn to get award

Allen Senior Citizens Center Director Joann Rahn recently received word that the center is among award recipients in the 1986 Heritage Planters program. The award, in the amount of $400, is funded by money made available by First Federal, Lincoln, and is based on the involvement of older citizens in the planning, planting and caring of trees and/or shrubs. Award recipients will be recognized during the statewide Aboretum Awards dinner scheduled March 13, 1987 in Lincoln. The dinner is held in conjunction with the annual Trees for Nebraska Conference.

Allen Community Development Club. Steve Rasmussen from the Northeast Center, Concord, assisted the seniors with the scale model.

IN CONSIDERING the application, the Heritage Planters Program steering committee stated that the final evaluation for the award was based on the involvement of older citizens in the planning, planting and caring of the trees and/or shrubs.

Considered also was a sketch of the plantings, list of materials needed, benefit of the project to the community, extent of local sources of expertise and support, including the involvement of youth and other adult groups, energy conservation, and the imagination used to develop the project.

It is hoped by the committee that planting of new trees in the park will take place this fall although, if necessary, plantings may be next spring prior to June 1, 1987.

The Allen Senior Center's application for funds included a map of the Allen park showing the old trees, new trees which have been planted, and old trees that need to be replaced. Support for the project also came from the Allen Village Board and the

The Principals Office
By Donald V. Zeiss
PREVENTION BEGINS AT HOME—PART I
Prevention begins at home. Parents are the single greatest influence upon their children and have a major role in determining whether or not their kids will experience alcohol or drug problems. The first step in helping kids is learning what to do.

START TALKING TO KIDS EARLY
Attitudes about alcohol and drugs are formed early in life, so get your two cents' worth in while you can. Look for triggers—times when an alcohol or drug related happening has caught your kids' interest—and use the opportunity to give them your views and accurate information. For example, if your kids are watching a show that portrays drug use as funny or grown-up, you might say something like, "This program doesn't show the other side of drugs. Some of the bad things that could happen are..."

When an alcohol commercial catches your kids' interest you might ask, "Why do you suppose that beer ads use football players? Do you think drinking helps in sports?" Get them thinking about what the ads are implying.

SET RULES AND CONSEQUENCES
Kids are less likely to use alcohol and drugs if their parents disapprove of such use and have told them so—clearly and firmly. This means telling kids what you expect of them and imposing consequences if they don't honor those expectations. Here is a simple four-step process:

1. Have in mind exactly what you expect. Come to agreement with your child's other parent.
2. Sit down with your kids and tell them exactly what you expect and why. Make sure they understand. Let them know you are serious.
3. Tell them what will happen if they don't honor your expectations. Choose consequences that are immediate and important to your child.
4. Be prepared to follow through. Be realistic about consequences—if you make them too severe, you may be reluctant to impose them. Certainty consistency is more than severity.

HELP KIDS LEARN TO SAY "NO"
Help your kids practice ahead of time so they will know what to say when someone puts pressure on them to use alcohol or drugs. Let them know that saying "no" is hard for everybody, including adults. Let them know this isn't a trust issue, it's a matter of being prepared. Ask your child questions like, "What would you do if some older kids came up to you at the park and offered you some marijuana?" What would you say to them?" "What could you say if you've finished babysitting and Mr. Jones wants to bring you home, but he's drunk?" "What would you say if your best friends offered you some beer? What would you say if they called you a chicken?" Help them to come up with responses to use, like "No thanks, not tonight," or "My dad would kill me," or just plain "NO." If kids practice saying the words ahead of time, chances are they'll actually use them when the situation comes up. This works, for kids and adults.

NBDC helpful with business development, market research work

The Nebraska Business Development Center (NBDC) at Wayne State College of Nebraska will answer the businessperson's questions by combining resources from education, government and private organizations.

Consultations and workshops are two of many services provided free of charge to the small business owner, said Jeryl Nelson, coordinator of the NBDC-Wayne.

The business owner may meet with faculty members and graduate and senior business students of Wayne State to discuss and attempt to solve business problems or issues facing the particular business, Nelson said. These meetings are informal, confidential and very informative.

Market research by the NBDC-Wayne also aids the business owner. Questions concerning new products, relocating, advertising, expanding and improvements are asked by many business owners. The NBDC-Wayne personnel can conduct studies to assist the business owner in deciding the worthiness of an idea or expanding or changing a business operation.

Workshops and seminars are designed to improve business skills, and they are offered on the community level," Nelson said. "The NBDC-Wayne encourages the local chambers of commerce to sponsor these programs."

Workshops are conducted on a very informal basis in a classroom-type structure. They deal with a variety of subjects including problem solving and decision making, loss prevention, effective supervision, personnel management and inventory management.

NBDC-Wayne also houses many small business publications which, combined with the resources of the college's U.S. Conn Library, provide an abundance of information that might otherwise be unavailable to the businessperson.

For further information concerning the NBDC, contact NBDC coordinator Jeryl Nelson, NBDC-Division of Business, Box 126, Wayne State College, Wayne, NE 68787. The phone is (402) 375-2004.

Twenty-two counties are served by the NBDC-Wayne: Antelope, Cedar, Keya-Paha, Rock, Boone, Colfax, Knox, Stanton, Boyd, Cuming, Madison, Thurston, Brown, Dakota, Pierce, Wayne, Burt, Dixon, Platte, Butler, Holt, and Polk.

Chest Pain Relief

Nitroglycerin is among the most popular medicines used to relieve pain from angina pectoris - chest pain related to the narrowing of the blood vessels in the heart. For almost one hundred years, this amazing medicine has proven itself capable of both preventing and relieving the pain associated with angina attacks. Nitroglycerin is thought to work by dilating the heart's blood vessels, thus increasing blood flow and the supply of oxygen to the heart muscle.

Although available in numerous dosage forms including ointments, oral tablets, capsules, and skin patches, nitroglycerin in the sublingual tablet dosage form is the drug of choice in relief of acute anginal attacks. The drug quickly dissolves and is rapidly absorbed into the blood stream through the numerous blood vessels that are present under the tongue. Typically, chest pain is relieved in approximately two minutes. It has been suggested that a nitroglycerin tablet be taken every five minutes until pain is relieved, but no more than three tablets, used during any one episode. Pain not relieved in 20 minutes deserves a physician's immediate evaluation.

Why I Save at Occidental Nebraska

"Because they make my money work harder."
 "They don't fool around with frills and gimmicks, so they're able to pay consistently higher rates on certificates of deposit - week in and week out."
 "As far as I'm concerned, that's just good common sense."
