Meet the candidates

PARTICIPATING in a forum are six of seven candidates seeking three spots on the Winside School District Board of Education. From left are Harlin Brugger, Jane Witt, moderator Ron Leapley, Dale Topp, Ken Kollath, Richard Jenkins and Melvin Meierhenry. Missing is Ray Roberts.

Area candidates voice viewpoints

This final article in a series features the questionnaire answers submitted by Winside school board, Wayne city council and Wayne County superintendent candidates.

City Council

The third ward council seat race is between Bob Lohrberg and Sheryl Lindau. The fourth ward councilman race is between Jon Haase and Larry Johnson.

Johnson decided not to answer the questionnaire.

Can you give a brief summary about yourself (age, occupation, years in Wayne, family members)?

Lohrberg: I am 55 years old with 17 years experience as a public school teacher and nine years as school administrator. At the present time I am serving as the Director of Housing at Wayne State College. We have lived in Wayne for five years.

Prior to this we have lived in the Nebraska communities of Lincoln, Sidney and Auburn. One of our sons is a third year medical student at Tulane University and our other son is a senior at Wayne High School. Marilyn is a medical technologist working part time at the Wayne Family Clinic.

Lindau: My occupation is homemaker and part-time student. My family includes husband Jim, a Wayne physician and two children (Elizabeth, age 7, and Michael, age 5). We have lived in Wayne for seven years.

I have a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and I am currently studying French and Spanish at Wayne State College.

Service to boards and appointments include: Nebraska Statewide Health Coordination Council; Wayne City Planning Commission; and Wayne Board of Adjustment.

Haase: I'm 41 years old, self-employed in construction of all kinds and have half interest in the Rain Tree Drive-In Liquor Store. I have resided in Wayne for 14 years. My wife, Sherry and I have three children: Jeannie, Rachel and Ryan.

What do you consider as the city of Wayne's weaknesses? It's strengths?

Lohrberg: In my view there are no apparent major weaknesses in Wayne. However, every city must continue to assess and identify goals in the pursuit of self improvement and growth.

Wayne is a clean progressive community. The people are dedicated to the ideal of maintaining it as a good place to live. It provides a strong public school system with the benefits of a college setting. It projects a friendly welcome atmosphere.

Lindau: In my opinion, here are what I see as Wayne's major strengths: 1. Presence of Wayne State College 2. Active business community committed to promoting economic growth 3. Excellent school system 4. Excellent health care facilities 5. Quality of life in Wayne.

Haase: I believe Wayne has one outstanding strength with the College. The students of Wayne State add culture to Wayne, which I consider to be a good addition to a town of only 5,000. Weakness, that can be summed up with one word: taxes.

How, as an elected official of the city, would you work toward bringing economic prosperity in Wayne?

Lindau: My view of Wayne is basically positive. Most of Wayne's current problems are economic, stemming from the hard times faced by the agricultural community. As an elected official, I would cooperate in any way possible with efforts to improve the economic climate in our area.

Lohrberg: If we assume the opportunity for major industrial development will be rather limited or slow to occur and it appears that much of our economy is dependent on goods or services we provide for each other, then our efforts in supporting local business and services must continue.

At the same time, we need to encourage the continued development and expansion of new or diverse small business enterprises that will not duplicate existing operations.

For that reason I feel we need to exercise caution as financial assistance programs are developed to encourage the location of new business in Wayne. We need a commitment to economic growth but we also need to provide maintenance and support to current business endeavors.

It would be ideal if financial assistance could come from the private sector and if we could rely on volunteer programs to supplement the formal public initiatives.

Haase: On how to bring prosperity to Wayne, I think this could be done in about the same way Timple came to Wayne. There should be a staff of individuals interested in finding personnel with talent in different fields of business and expanding that line in Wayne.

Would you like to adopt a city sales tax for Wayne? If so, why, or if not, why not?

Lindau: I would not favor a city sales tax at this time. I don't believe the city should do anything that might place Wayne merchants at a disadvantage.

A city sales tax would hinder efforts to keep consumers buying in Wayne rather than going out of town for the things they need.

Lohrberg: At this time I would not favor the adoption of a city sales tax. However, if circumstances should dictate the need to seek additional revenue sources then I would favor a city sales tax over locally operated lotteries or special assessments.

If a city sales tax was presented as an option, I feel it should be earmarked for specifically approved projects or used exclusively as property tax relief.

Haase: I'm for sales tax. There are many ideas that could be put to good use. For example: lowering taxes, improving downtown and seeking new industry.

If it came down to making budget cuts, what priorities would you establish?

Haase: In the budget cuts, there

Attorney General candidates

Glaser and Spire answer questions

This third in a series of articles features the questionnaire answers submitted by Bernie Glaser, Democrat and Robert Spire, Republican, both opposing each other in the Attorney General race. Candidate Spire chose to answer all the questions with one summarized response. Glaser answered each of the questionnaire questions.

What do you consider as the primary obligation to the people of Nebraska which the state's attorney general should fulfill?

Glaser: The attorney general's primary obligation is that of being a lawyer for the Governor, the Legislature and the people of Nebraska. Like any lawyer, the attorney general should represent the views and interests of his clients, and he has the responsibility to give legal counsel to his clients. Equally important, though, is the responsibility of the attorney general to get out from behind his desk and aggressively enforce the laws, with respect to the conduct of the government officials as well as the conduct of private citizens.

The attorney general should not inject his own personal philosophy into the policy-making process. Should an attorney general choose to inject his personal philosophy into the advocacy position he takes when representing his client, it would seriously undermine the confidence the people of Nebraska should have in the objectivity of the attorney general's office and the diligence and vigor with which he represents the view of his clients. In addition, it would also undermine the Constitution of the state of Nebraska, which states that policy-making belongs in the Legislature and the Governor's office.

The attorney general's obligation, therefore, is to vigorously enforce the laws mandated by the citizens of Nebraska, enacted by the Legislature, and signed by the Governor — no matter who is on the other side of the issue and regardless of the social, economic or ethnic character or power of the other side.

The only time the attorney general's obligation involves proposing a law to the Legislature is in an instance when a law or clarification of the law is needed in order to allow the attorney general's office to carry out the full intent and scope of the law as previously passed by the Legislature.

Would you like to see any changes in the state's judicial system (regarding tougher sentencing or other areas of the courts within the jurisdiction of the attorney general's office)?

Glaser: At the present time, Nebraska has tough sentencing laws. I believe that courts in Nebraska have the ability to meet our sentences which fit the crime. What is needed is an aggressive attorney general who will strongly advocate the state of Nebraska's interest in insuring that the punishment fits the crime.

In the Hunt case in Norfolk, for example, I would have aggressively sought to overturn the supreme court's ridiculous determination that the murder was not heinous enough under Nebraska law to justify giving the death penalty. In that pursuit, I would have been representing the true interests and values of the client; to do otherwise might be representing personal values, not the client's.

My suggested course of action for the Hunt case would have been a productive use of office resources

Variety of issues await area voters

All the campaigning on the Issues—Initiative 400 (LB662) and the seat belt law, which woman is the best candidate for Nebraska governor, who would do a better job as congressman in Washington, and others—will end with the push of a lever or mark of a pencil as Election Day, 1986 approaches.

A high voter turn-out is anticipated, because of the variety of offices and issues before the public that affects both rural and urban segments of the state when the polls open on Tuesday, Nov. 4 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Probably the political race which will get the most nationwide attention (perhaps more so than the congressional races) will be the contest between Republican Kay Orr and Democrat Helen Boosalis for Nebraska governor. Immediately after Orr and Boosalis won in the May primary elections, the situation of two women seeking the gubernatorial office as a Republican and Democrat, the first time this has happened in this country, has drawn the attention of the national news media.

On the same Democratic ticket with Boosalis is Donald F. McGinley for Lieutenant Governor. On the Republican ticket with Orr is Bill Nichol, Lieutenant Governor candidate.

OTHER STATE races in Nebraska include:

- Secretary of State — Republican Allen Beerman against Harold S. Stein, Democrat.
- Auditor of Public Accounts — Republican Ray A.C. Johnson against Democrat David A. Wilken.
- State Treasurer — Democrat Diana R. Schimiek against Republican Frank Marsh.
- Attorney General — Democrat Bernie Glaser against Republican Robert M. Spire.

Incumbent First District Congressman Doug Bereuter is opposed in the Nov. 4 general election by Democrat Steve Burns — which is another race that will draw national interest.

In Wayne County

Some of the key offices contested within Wayne County includes the non-political race for county superintendent; a third ward four-year term and a fourth ward four-year term for councilman in the city of Wayne; and three positions on the School District 95R board of education.

The candidates in the above mentioned races are as follows:
•County Superintendent — Glenn Wiseman of Wayne running against incumbent Robert Sheckler.
•Wayne City Council, Third Ward — Sheryl A. Lindau running against Robert H. Lohrberg.
•Wayne City Council, Fourth Ward — incumbent Larry Johnson running against Jon Haase of Wayne.
•School District 95R (3 openings) — Ken Kollath, Ray Roberts, Melvin Meierhenry, Dale Topp and Richard W. Jenkins and Harlin Brugger. Jane Witt is a write-in candidate.

Those individuals running for offices in county government unopposed include the following: County Commissioner First District — Republican Merlin Beiermann; County Commissioner Third District — Republican Jerry Pospisil; County Clerk — Republican Oregretta C. Morris; Clerk of District Court — Republican Joann M. Ostrander; County Treasurer — Republican Leon F. Meyer; County Sheriff — Republican LeRoy Janssen; County Attorney — Democrat Bob Ensz; County Assessor — Doris Stipp;

Contest open for students

The bicentennial celebration of the American Constitution will provide countless opportunities to explore the 1987 National History Day theme, "Liberty: Rights and Responsibilities in History," according to Nebraska State Coordinator Ronald C. Naugle, Department of History, Nebraska Wesleyan University.

District contest will take place April 4 at Wayne State College. Finalist from the seven district contests will be eligible to participate in the state contest hosted by Nebraska Wesleyan University on April 25.

Students may participate in the Junior Division (grades 6-8) or the Senior Division (grades 9-12). Categories in each division include: historical papers, individual or group projects, individual or group performances, individual or groups media presentations.

Doug Taber is the Wayne State District Coordinator. Counties in the district are Antelope, Boone, Boyd, Burt, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne.

Extension title changes

Changes in the area county extension departments have taken place this past month resulting in title changes of the local agents.

Don Spitzke, formerly called the Wayne County Extension Agent, now is officially titled as the Quad County Extension Agent.

Spitzke now has administrative authority in Wayne County and Dixon County. The administrative authority in Thurston County and Dakota County will be handled by Frank Morris.

Program responsibilities are divided by Spitzke and Morris throughout the four-county area. Spitzke will specialize in agriculture, economics and Morris will specialize in agronomy and horticulture. Both will share program responsibilities in livestock and water resources and will continue offering advice as usual in all areas.

The extension offices in each of the four counties will be open for business as usual, according to Spitzke, providing the same service and operation.

A 4-H assistant has been hired for Wayne and Dixon counties. She will begin her new position on Jan. 5, 1987. Her name is Maureen Jensen of Battle Creek.

Ann Adams of Lexington has been hired as 4-H assistant for the counties of Dakota and Thurston.

WEIBLE was presented his award by Paula Pflueger and Jo Herian.

Weible honored with Heart of Gold award

Paula Pflueger, Registered Representative of the Edward D. Jones & Co. office in Wayne, revealed the name of the 1986 recipient of the "Heart of Gold" service award.

"We've been asking for, and receiving, nominations over the last six weeks. Competition was strong, but a decision has been reached by our panel of judges," explained Pflueger.

"This year's winner is Norris Weible from Wayne."

Weible is retired, but keeps busy being a friend and handyman in his neighborhood. He does seasonal odd jobs; and watches over homes and pets of vacationing neighbors. He is also active in various church organizations.

For his effort and dedication, Weible will receive an engraved plaque and $50 donated in his name to his chosen charity from the Wayne office of Edward D. Jones & Co.

As the Wayne-area winner, Weible will now be placed in competition with other local winners across the country. The national winner will have $5,000 donated in his/her name to their favorite charity. In addition, the national award winner and a guest will spend an all-expense paid week at the luxurious Ritz-Carlton hotel in Naples, Fla. The national winner will be announced on Valentine's Day of next year. There are also 10 runner-up positions available — each with $1,000 being donated to their favorite charity.

The "Heart of Gold" award was instituted last year as a tribute to Edward D. Jones, Sr. who believed community involvement is very important. "This is the first year my office has given out such an award," said Pflueger, "and because of the response, I am planning on this becoming an annual event. There are many people deserving of such an award; but until next September, Norris Weible will receive our thanks and represent all the people in the Wayne area who have — a Heart of Gold."

Hobart Hunter

Hobart Hunter, 90, of Hartington died Tuesday, Oct. 28, 1986 at his home in Hartington.

Services were held Friday, Oct. 31 at the First Congregational United Church of Christ at Hartington. The Rev. Paul Bendit officiated.

Howard H. Hunter, the son of Jerome and Emma Foltz Hunter, was born July 14, 1896 at Wakefield and graduated from Wakefield High School. He married Vida Beck on Aug. 11, 1937 at Wayne. The couple farmed in the Coleridge-Hartington area until 1970 when they retired and moved to Hartington. He was a member of the First Congregational United Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, seven nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; one sister, Mary Hunter; and one brother, Loren.

Palbearers were Arnold Anderson, Alfred Kast, William Roeder, Duane Arns, Louis Forinash and Don Miller.

Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne with the Wintz Funeral Home in Hartington in charge of arrangements.

Otte gets Booster award

Paul Otte received an award Friday night from the Wayne Booster Club, honoring him as someone in the community that has accomplished a great deal for the community.

The award has been given for the last several years by the Booster Club.

Listed as Otte's achievements were: construction of an athletic award display for the high school, college and city recreation in Wayne; assembling the new bleachers and installing the scoreboard by the high school track-football field; serving as a member of the sports task force at the high school; serving as a member of the Wayne Baseball Association for several years; and having the chairman role for the 1986 State Baseball Tournament that took place in Wayne this past summer.

He does much of the maintenance work for Hank Overin Field and he is also a treasurer of the Second Guessers Club. As a member of Grace Lutheran Church he does much of the maintenance work such as snow removal, yard work and repair for the church.

A reception honoring Otte took place after the football game in the basement of the Wayne State College Student Center.

PAUL OTTE accepts the award from Booster representative Dean Bruggeman.

Use energy-smart home lighting

As our daylight hours dwindle, here are some thoughts about getting the most out of your home lighting. In the average household, lighting accounts for 10 percent of the total electric bill. There are considerable savings opportunities once you know the basic facts about bulbs.

Light bulbs are rated by several factors, two of which are watts and lumens. Watts are units of measurement for the amount of electricity needed to power a bulb. A 200-watt bulb uses twice as much electricity as a 100-watt bulb. The more watts used, the higher your electric bill.

The lumen is a measure of the amount of light given off by a bulb. A bulb that gives off 2,000 lumens is twice as bright as one that produces 1,000 lumens.

WHEN YOU APPLY the concept of "miles per gallon" to lighting you can begin saving energy. Compare one 100-watt, 1,750 lumen bulb to two 60-watt, 870 lumen bulbs. Together, the two 60-watt bulbs consume 20 percent more electricity than the 100-watt bulb, but produce slightly less light (10 fewer lumens). The 100-watt bulb is more energy efficient by providing more lumens per watt.

Keep these facts in mind next time you purchase bulbs. The least expensive bulb may not be the most economical.

Manufacturers are required to print lumen output, wattage and bulb life on their packaging. Take time to figure the mpg equivalent of lumens per watt. Back to our two bulbs for an example. The 100-watt bulb with 1,750 lumens has 17.5 lumens per watt; the 60-watt bulb with 870 lumens has 14.5 lumens per watt. What's your best buy?

The bulb that gives you the most lumens per watt has the longest life and will cost the least over its life.

For more lighting information, ask for a copy of the Nebguide "On the Light Side—Incandescent and Fluorescent" (HEG 63-174) at your local Cooperative Extension Service office.

EVER WONDER WHERE your pennies go for electricity used in the home. It depends on your size of household, type of equipment and how they are used. Based on an average cost of five cents per KWH, here are some estimates of electricity costs in your home.

- 15 cents per shower with an electric water heat.
- 6 cents per load of laundry in an electric dryer.
- 31 cents per day for a 17.5-cubic-foot-refrigerator with automatic defrost.
- 16 cents per day for a 16 cubic foot freezer.
- 26 cents to use the self cleaning cycle of an electric range.
- 19 cents per hour for a typical size (2 1/2 ton) central air conditioner.
- 1 cent per hour for a window fan.
- 6 cents per hour for an electric space heater.

Residence reviews are being conducted

The reviewing of residences in Wayne County urban and rural areas continues, according to County Assessor Doris Stipp.

Two employees from Stipp's office have been doing the work in compliance with a directive issued by the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

"It has been eight to nine years since we have viewed most of the residences in the county. I have a reviewer working in the farm areas," Stipp mentioned.

Stipp said that the reviewing does not necessarily mean that the value of the property is going up. "If something has been added and not reported, naturally we are going to add the addition. Many times it is to the taxpayers advantage to let us view the interior of the home," she said.

There appears to be some confusion, in some areas, in differentiating between reviewing and reappraisal. "This is a review and not a reappraisal. We will not have a new reappraisal until 1990," Stipp said.

STIPP SAID nearly all of the Wayne County residents have been cooperative in welcoming the reviewers. "We have many calls asking questions, concerning the reviewing, that they have heard in their back yards or over the coffee table. We do appreciate these calls, so that they know what is going on," she remarked.

Currently, Anne Nolte and Joyce Reeg are reviewing the town residences. James Bush is doing the rural review in Wayne County.

Stipp added that she appreciates the cooperation of the residents. "We have a job to do and their assistance makes it much easier. If an interior inspection is refused, it will become necessary to estimate the interior (which in most instances does not benefit the taxpayer)."

If the resident is not home when the reviewers come calling, the reviewers will leave a green tag on the door knob. "We appreciate the residents calling my office (375-1979), so that we can set up an appointment with them."

"We are happy to go over the appraisals with the residents anytime. Stop in any time if there is a question," she said.

Bad habits die hard

Congress gets criticized

by Richard L. Leshar, President
Chamber of Commerce of the United States

People who are unable to cope with serious problems will sometimes ignore them altogether, focusing their attention on extraneous issues that appear more amenable to solution.

Such escapism, subconscious or otherwise, appears to be the prime motivation of Congress lately. With great fanfare, our representatives have enacted dramatic reform of our tax system and overridden President Reagan's veto of economic sanctions against South Africa.

Such "progress" tends to divert attention from the almost total breakdown of the legislative process and the inability of our representatives to meet their most basic responsibility — managing the public purse.

Funding for the federal government is supposed to be provided through 13 appropriations bills, each of which covers specific government agencies and activities. When the 99th Congress quit Washington to hit the reelection campaign trail, it had completed action on precisely none of them.

THE RESULTS of this political malpractice are plain for all to see — soaring deficits that grow bigger each year, distorting our economy and saddling future generations with an incredible national debt.

To be sure, reining in the budget will require some tough decisions. There are many contentious issues at stake. But Congress is paid to resolve such issues, and it is not earning its pay.

Many factors contribute to this legislative logjam, but the main one is the predominant mindset of our legislators that they must buy votes. The destructive urge to expand entitlement programs and bring federal pork to constituents is a common affliction among Democrats and Republicans, liberals and conservatives.

The irony is that few votes are influenced by such things. Two recent studies, based on independent analyses of voting trends, suggest strongly that voters are neither inclined to reward politicians who bring home the pork, nor punish those who do not.

But bad habits die hard, and few of our representatives have the courage to say no to extravagant spending. That being the case, there are other ways to resolve the impasse — such as a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget; the line-item veto; restoring the President's impoundment authority; across-the-board percentage reductions in spending; and elimination of cost-of-living increases in entitlement programs.

There is a rising tide of frustration among voters about continuing deficits and the inability of Congress to deal with them. In the final analysis, the best solution of all may be to unelect the worst offenders in Congress and chasten the rest to start earning their pay.

ask a lawyer

a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. I work in a 8-person office in which one person smokes. The air gets very stale and smoky during the day, but our boss has told us this person has a right to smoke. Some of us have medical problems with the smoke. Does an employer have any legal responsibility to provide a smoke-free environment for employees? What legal recourse do other employees have?

A. Nebraska has adopted a group of statutes that address your problem. Called the Nebraska Clean Indoor Air Act, the statutes support to protect the public health, comfort and environment by prohibiting smoking in public places, except in designated smoking areas. The term "public places" does encompass offices and commercial establishments.

With respect to places of work not frequented by the general public, the Department of Health and Department of Labor are authorized to establish rules to restrict or prohibit smoking in areas where smoke pollution is detrimental to the health and comfort of the employees who do not smoke. The Department of Health can even bring an action on the employees' behalf to enjoin the smokers from smoking.

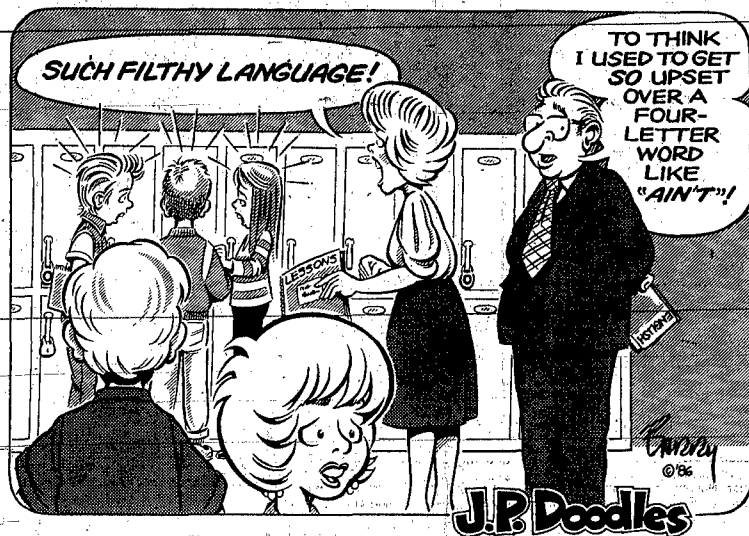

Another possible solution is to ask your employer to designate smoking and non-smoking areas in your office. The proprietor of a public place has a duty to make reasonable efforts to control smoking. These efforts can run the gamut from posting appropriate signs to asking employees who smoke to refrain from smoking when in the presence of non-smoking employees. Approach your boss again and ask him or her to take some measures to make your office comfortable for all of you.

Q. Is a man required to pay alimony and child support during a time of incarceration, and if not, is he required to make up the payments later?

A. The court that issued the alimony and child support orders has continuing jurisdiction to modify them. Amounts of alimony and child support are set at the time the divorce decree is handed down based on the circumstances of both parties at that time, but a payor spouse can petition the court for a change in alimony payments "for good cause," and for a reduction of child support due to a "material change in circumstances."

Basically, these standards mean that some change has occurred since the support order was issued by the court that justifies a reduction in the amount paid to support the ex-wife and children, such as the ex-husband's loss of job, or a showing that the support payments place an unreasonable burden on the ex-husband.

In a 1985 case, the Nebraska Supreme Court stated that even though incarceration undeniably constitutes a "material change in circumstances," it is not sufficient grounds to terminate one's child support obligation. The Court said, "incarceration is certainly a foreseeable result of criminal activity; we find no sound reason to relieve one of a child support obligation by virtue of the fact that he or she engaged in a criminal conduct. There is no reason those who have had to step in and assume the applicant's obligation should not be reimbursed by the applicant should his future position enable him to do so."

Good job, John

In the past two years, The Wayne Herald coverage area has been covered by one of the finest and most exact writers that one can hope for. His name — John Prather.

I do not know how many area fans and readers realize the extent of work that John has done, but one must realize that sports coverage does not just include taking pictures and receiving free admission to athletic events.

It takes many hours of phone calls, travel, editing, writing and any other needs done by a sports writer. It is an occupation just as farming, teaching or managing. It takes much concern, care, hours of toil, a love for, and the ability to do a good job from start to finish and John has displayed this ability.

John has shown a loyalty to our area by giving equal as well as outstanding coverage to all schools. Never once did I read a misquoted word or phrase, and that is just "super" for carrying on interviews over the phone!

So I close with this thought in mind. Everyone should remember sometime in the future that no matter what the job in life is, remember that there are people who are really trying to give a good effort. Compliment them for their work and encourage them to strive for bigger, better and higher goals. Best wishes from the Allen Consolidated Schools, and especially a very good friend. Thanks for the great work, and best of luck in your future. Please keep in touch.

Referendum 400

Tuesday, Nov. 4 voters have an opportunity to stop one state tax increase and reduce chances for additional increase.

The bill when enacted by Legislature was numbered LB662. On your ballot it becomes Referendum 400. The bill does guarantee a sales tax increase of 43 percent above the current rate. It does not guarantee property tax relief. Property tax rates are already set for 1987.

To be against LB662 tax increase is to be against Referendum 400 tax increase on your ballot.

Kerrey's proposal

Nebraska has long been at the leading edge of efforts to design and implement projects and programs which reduce our dependence on imported energy sources. Since we import 80-90 percent of our energy needs each year, we have a particularly acute interest in reducing energy imports and the resulting export of our dollars. Limiting the leakage of energy dollars through greater resource efficiency is one of our best tools for building local economies.

This year, our efforts after greater energy efficiency have been bolstered by the receipt of approximately $12.1 million from two oil overcharge cases, including $15.5 million under United States v. Exxon Corporation and the first payment under the Stripper Well settlement. Although the courts have attached different restrictions to each case, the basic purpose of the settlements is to provide restitution to consumers injured by the misconduct of all producers. I therefore committed my administration to correcting the injustice of oil overcharges by investing these funds in ways that benefit as many Nebraskans as possible.

For this reason, I instructed the staff of the Nebraska Energy Office to find out how Nebraskans felt the money should be invested. Marsha Beaman, Director of the Energy Office, convened public meetings in Omaha, Scottsbluff, North Platte, Lincoln, Kearney and Norfolk to hear Nebraskans' views. Public service announcements were printed and aired by the state's media to inform Nebraskans of this great opportunity. Thousands of booklets seeking public suggestions as to how the funds could be used were distributed.

You, the people of Nebraska, responded magnificently. Over 500 ideas for use of the overcharge funds flooded the Energy Office. You ideas refined my vision for the funds and form the foundation of my plan.

My plan has three components. First, I am allocating $5 million to the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc., a private, non-profit corporation whose mission is to provide revolving loans to Nebraskans for energy efficiency improvements.

Second, I am allocating $5 million for grants to the following sectors of the state: residential, commercial, industrial, agriculture, education, research and demonstration, and transportation. Grants are investments with non-monetary returns, including, for example, research proposals and educational programs to stimulate public awareness of the need for energy efficiency. Requests for proposals will be sent to everyone who has expressed an interest in competing for the funds. Contact the Nebraska Energy Office in the Capitol if you want more information about the grant proposals. Grant proposals are to be submitted to and reviewed by the Nebraska Energy Office. They should be submitted by Nov. 30, 1986 so that I can make final selections of awards by the end of the year.

Third, I am reserving the remaining $11.2 million as an investment opportunity for the next Governor of Nebraska. I am confident she will agree that the Nebraska Energy Fund is one of the best energy efficiency investments that the state can make and provides restitution to many more Nebraskans accordingly. In addition to satisfying the requirements of the court orders and federal officials involved, I believe this plan reflects the wishes of Nebraskans. It boosts our economy, provides restitution to the people, and preserves capital for the benefit of future generations.

I want to thank those Nebraskans who participated in the planning process. We are all anxious to watch the potential for this opportunity unfold.

Chapter 12 helps fill bankruptcy gap

In mid-October, President Reagan signed into law a new chapter of bankruptcy law designed specifically for family farmers. Called Chapter 12, it is designed to help family farmers keep their farms and pay creditors out of future earnings.

Chapter 12 fills a gap between the well-known Chapter 11 bankruptcy and the lesser known Chapter 13, designed for use by small businesses and sole proprietorships. Family bankruptcies have been falling through the slats, because farmers generally have too much debt to qualify under Chapter 13 and they're not well-equipped to cope with the complicated, time consuming and expensive requirements of Chapter 11.

Chapter 12 contains restrictions to limit its use to family farmers: the farmer must receive at least 50 percent of his income from farming, at least 80 percent of the debt must be from farming, and total allowable debt cannot exceed $1.5 million.

A farmer would have 90 days after a court order for relief in which to file a reorganization plan. This comparatively brief period ensures that a farmer would not allow his assets to deteriorate during the time between the court order and the valuing of the assets when the plan is filed.

As with other bankruptcy filings, the court will determine if a farmer has a reasonable chance to return to financial soundness.

ESSENTIALLY Chapter 12 extends to farmers the same kind of protections provided for small business under Chapter 13, but there will be some who will view this new law as special, preferential treatment.

In fact, farmers have faced special circumstances during the past several years which have caused many of them to reluctantly consider the use of bankruptcy. Congress recognized this during its debate on the proposal.

First, the low profitability of farmers has curtailed normal borrowing sources. Second, seeking to offset this, the federal government instituted programs which encouraged over-borrowing.

Third, the federal government's domestic and foreign policies have encouraged over-production and low crop prices. And fourth, many farmers have lost crops during the past several years to adverse weather.

In writing Chapter 12, Congress recognized the special circumstances of the past several years. And hoping that the problems now facing agriculture are finite, it limited the life of Chapter 12 to seven years.

Like most of society, few farmers really want to declare bankruptcy. But in Chapter 12 they have a tool to help them return to financial soundness and remain in their chosen occupation.

Iris Society meets for annual harvest dinner

The Elkhorn Valley Iris Society held its annual fall harvest dinner in Norfolk recently to celebrate the accomplishments of the past season. American Iris Society awards were presented to area hybridizers. Gene Gaddie of Stanton received four honorable mention awards. The honorable mention award is received through national votes by accredited judges. An Iris is eligible after its second year of introduction. Gaddie's winners included Little Snow Lemon, Royal Sparks, Happy Easter and Bronze Sculpture. HIGH COMMENDATION awards were received by Roger Nelson and Jim Hummel, both of Wayne, Larry Harder of Ponca, and Gene Gaddie of Stanton. This award goes to seedlings based on their garden performance. Katherine Tulin and Gene Gaddie, both of Stanton, received exhibition certificates. These were won by seedlings with votes by accredited judges at AIS affiliated shows. National certificates also were given for awards received at a local Iris show held in May. ELKHORN VALLEY Iris Society officers for 1987 are Marian Burleigh, Norfolk, president; Ardis Ann Whalen, Stanton, vice president; Mary Peterson, Columbus, treasurer; and Orval Roach, Tekamah, secretary. Next year's monthly meetings will resume on the fourth Friday in March.

Gamble served as a committee member for the Golden Eagle Fund, along with Doris Gilliland and Jackie Grimm.

Campos-Hallstrom

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Campos of Lincoln announce the engagement of their daughter, Veronica Ann, to Scott Vernell Hallstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernell Hallstrom of Wayne. A Nov. 29 wedding is planned on the Creighton University campus. The bride-elect is a student at the College of Saint Mary, Omaha. Her fiancé is employed at Cathedral of the Risen Elementary School in Lincoln.

Polsley-Krajcick

Making plans for a Nov. 22 wedding at St. Philip Neri Church in Omaha are Theresa Marie Polsley of Omaha and James Joseph Krajcick of Cape Girardeau, Mo. The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Polsley of Omaha, graduated from Omaha North High School in 1981 and from Peru State College in 1985. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krajcick of Hopkins. He graduated from Winside High School in 1982 and from Peru State College in 1986. He is a graduate assistant at Southeast Missouri State University.

St. Paul's Churchwomen meet

St. Paul's Lutheran Churchwomen met in the church social room on Oct. 22 with President Dorothy Aurich opening the meeting with prayer. The Sewing Group has packed 10 boxes to be delivered to Immanuel by Nov. 1. They have three more boxes of articles for Bethpage. All clothing and quilts for Lutheran World Relief should be left at the church. There will be an in-gathering for the Wayne Food Pantry at the group's November meeting. All cancelled stamps will be collected by Ardyce Reeg. It was announced that World Community Day will be observed on Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Theme is "Look to the Mountains." Delegate Dorothy Aurich reported on the 25th annual LCW Unit Convention held Oct. 6-7 at First Lutheran Church, Kearney. Leone Jager also attended the convention. President Aurich closed the meeting with a poem, "Nobody Walks Alone." LEONE JAGER was in charge of the program and led in devotions, followed with two readings, "I've Got Something New" and "The Price of the Living Prize." Members viewed a film on World Hunger, entitled "What Do You See?" The program closed with a special offering for World Hunger and the singing of the hymn "Jesus Loves the Little Children." As part of the program, the hostesses served a lunch that cost 12½ cents per person. Next general meeting will be Nov. 12 at 2 p.m. Nadine Thompson and Ruth Fler will be the hostesses, and the executive committee will conduct the thank offering program. NAOMI CIRCLE of St. Paul's Lutheran Church met in the home of Alice Lennart on Oct. 16. Ruth Fler was Bible study leader.

Vera Peterson will be the hostess and Ida Myers will lead the Bible study for the Nov. 20 meeting at 2 p.m. Ruth Baier was hostess to Esther Circle on Oct. 3, and Bible study leader was Leone Jager. Hazel James will be the Nov. 3 hostess at 2 p.m. and Ruth Baier will lead the Bible study. Evening Circle met at the church on Oct. 27. Mary Arlene Schulz was hostess and Arlene Ostendorf was Bible study leader. The Nov. 24 meeting of Evening Circle will be a holiday supper. Cleve Willers will have devotions, and hostesses will be Lillian Surber and Evelyn McDermott.

Lunch 'N Learn lesson to focus on decorating

A Lunch 'N Learn lesson, entitled "Low Cost Home Decorating Ideas," will be offered at Bartels Country Cafe in Laurel today, (Monday) from 12:10 to 12:50 p.m. The lesson is free and open to the public. Booklets will be available for a small fee. Presenter will be Carol Schwarz of Hartington. Cedar County extension agent-home economist. THE LESSON will offer ideas for decorating in a low cost and easy manner. Ideas will include how to stencil carpet mats, make-over of old lamps, making braided wreaths, making pillow tops, and more. The lesson will be repeated on Tuesday, Nov. 4 at the Senior Citizens Center in Randolph, on Wednesday, Nov. 5 at Pop's Cafe in Hartington, and on Thursday, Nov. 6 at the Coleridge community building.

DAV Auxiliary

in Hartington

Seven members of Wayne's DAV Auxiliary Unit 28 met in Hartington on Oct. 15. Commander Ruth Wacker opened the meeting. Chaplain Carl Norby had prayer, followed with the flag salute and treasurer's report by Irma Baier. The auxiliary received a letter from the national hospital chairman asking that each unit make a special donation to the Gillis W. Long Hansen Disease Center. Other correspondence included a letter from the national Americanism chairman asking that members remember Election Day on Nov. 4 and Veterans Day on Nov. 11. The national legislative chairman's letter asked that members continue to work to preserve the rights of veterans.

ATTENDING: A bingo party on Sept. 30 at the Norfolk Veterans Home were Chris and Verona Bargholz, August and Neva Lorenzen, Ruth Wacker, Irma Baier, Duane Dolph, Wayne Denkiau, and Eveline and Harold Thompson. Eveline Thompson reported that 75 persons were served at the Wayne Vet's Club during a supper for residents of the Norfolk Veterans Home in September. The meal was served by American Legion, VFW and DAV Auxiliaries, and special music was provided by Ralph Olson and Ray Peterson. The DAV Auxiliary crocheted pumpkins for the Norfolk Veterans Home and delivered them on Sept. 30. CAROL NORBY served lunch following the meeting. Next DAV Auxiliary meeting will be Nov. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Vet's Club room.

The program, held at Wayne's First United Methodist Church, also included recognition of the 1986 Wayne County Home Extension Council, installation of the 1987 council, membership recognition, presentation of the Silver Tray County Fair Award, and a report on county achievement.

briefly speaking

AAUW meeting tonight

The November meeting of Wayne's American Association of University Women (AAUW) has been moved up one week to take advantage of Jane Dadey's visit to the Wayne State College campus.

The group will meet tonight (Monday) for dinner at 6 p.m. in the Student Center on the college campus. Afterward, members will travel to Ley Theatre for Dadey's program at 7 p.m.

Dadey is a fabric artist who worked on Judy Chicago's "Birth Project." Samples of her work will be in the lounge of the humanities building.

Following Dadey's presentation, the AAUW will sponsor a reception for her in the lounge of the humanities building.

Compassionate Friends meeting

The November meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of Compassionate Friends will be a sharing session at which time parents can tell ways they have found to memorialize their children.

Those attending are encouraged to bring pictures, scrapbooks or simply tell the group ways they have found to remember their child and ease the pain.

The meeting date is Thursday, Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Cafeteria Room A of Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk. All interested persons are wanted to attend.

Persons wishing additional information about the organization are asked to call Rachael Nelson of Norfolk, 371-7525.

LWML Fall Rally held at Laurel

The Wayne Zone LWML Fall Rally was held Oct. 21 at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Laurel, with 108 attending.

A hymn sing and opening devotions were led by the Rev. Mark Miller of Laurel. Zone President Mrs. Marlin Schuttler of Wayne presided at the business meeting.

New zone officers were elected and include Mrs. Marlin Schuttler, president; Mrs. Sally Anderson, Martinsburg, vice president; Mrs. Clara Heinemann, Wayne, secretary; Mrs. Lois Schilnes, Wakefield, treasurer; and the Rev. Mark Miller, Wakefield, pastoral counselor.

THE DISTRICT report was given by Mrs. Dennis Von Seggern of Orchard, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Gerhard Broekemeler of West Point, historian.

A Christian growth presentation was given by Mrs. Louise Johnson, Martinsburg.

Afternoon devotions, "Do All to the Glory of God," were led by the Rev. Jon Vogel of Wayne, zone counselor. Guest speaker was Dorothy Prybylski, a deaconess with Lutheran Medical Center, Omaha.

AN INVITATION to host the 1987 spring workshop was received from Hope Lutheran Church, South Sioux City. The 1987 Fall Rally will be held at Trinity Lutheran Church, Martinsburg.

Installation of newly elected officers, singing of the LWML Song, and prayer closed the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hallstrom

Hallstroms observing 40th anniversary in Sioux City

Maurice and Wilma Hallstrom, 500 E. 19th St., South Sioux City, will observe their 40th wedding anniversary with an open house reception on Saturday, Nov. 8.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the event from 4 to 8 p.m. in the First Covenant Church fellowship hall, 1315 Indian Hills Dr., Sioux City, Iowa.

The reception will include a program at 5 p.m., and a luncheon from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Hosting the event are the couple's children, Cheryl and Scott Martin of South Sioux City, Larry and Julie Hallstrom of Sioux City, and Gary Hallstrom of South Sioux City. There also are three grandchildren, Trish and Justin Martin, and Jerrad Hallstrom.

MAURICE HALLSTROM of Wakefield and Wilma Noe of Allen were married Nov. 8, 1946 at the Methodist Church in South Sioux City.

Maurice is semi-retired and is still affiliated with Big A Auto Parts, South-Sioux City. He also is active in American Legion Post 376, Dakota City.

Wilma is employed as a cook for South Sioux City Community Schools.

Both are active in the First Covenant Church, where Maurice serves as a deacon and Wilma manages the nursery.

Working for the best

Everybody likes belonging to a winner — at least I've never met anybody who likes losing or belonging to a losing organization — and I've been involved in covering athletics for the past five years.

But desiring to belong to a winning organization isn't only reserved for coaches and athletes — it's desired by laborers and professionals in all walks of life — and that's why the past 15 months have been more than fulfilling, as far as my journalism and professional career is concerned.

The Wayne Herald is one of the best semi-weekly newspapers in Nebraska — and if you don't believe me — check out the east wall in the Herald.

In just two years, the Herald has captured 15 awards from the Nebraska Press Association's Better Newspaper Contest. The awards are hanging in front of the Herald's front desk.

Nebraska's papers are criticized every year by editors and publishers from different states, so there aren't any traditional factors that can sway a judge's decision. So winning 15 awards is impressive.

But like any other contest in which the winners are determined on a person's judgment, the contest isn't perfect. Legitimate arguments can be raised that just because a handful of editors think a certain section of a certain paper is good doesn't necessarily mean it's better than others.

But the Wayne Herald isn't one of Nebraska's best papers only because of its success in newspaper contests — it's one of the best because of its staff.

It's difficult imagining nearly two dozen people under the same roof striving to create the best possible paper every single edition, but that's the case at the Herald.

The editorial staff, particularly Chuck Hackenmiller and LaVon Anderson, supply readers with a load of immediate news, informative features and splendid photographs.

And although Chuck's and LaVon's contributions are significant, the remainder of the staff also give their absolute best effort every day so the ensuing edition is the best it can possibly be.

That doesn't always mean the paper is flawless — mistakes do happen. And when mistakes do occur, there isn't anybody that feels worse than the person responsible for the error.

Being responsible for an inaccuracy, that thousands of people will read is a difficult feeling to describe, but I'd compare it to the feeling one experiences when he slams the car door shut and realizes he locked his keys inside. But if it's even worse than that — it hurts more than that.

But the amazing thing about working at this paper is that I can honestly say that a Herald employee has never felt responsible for an error because he or she was negligent.

I've never heard a "Heraldite" take the easy way out by using the excuse that an error occurred because he was "too busy" or "too tired" to offer his absolute best effort, even though hectic days and long hours are usually the cause for most mistakes.

The Wayne Herald is a class paper with an ace staff, and I'm proud I've been a member of this organization the past 15 months. And area residents should be proud to be represented by such a fine-winning organization.

Several employees of the Wayne Herald have faithfully played Trivial Pursuit every lunch hour for the past six months, and last week the Wayne Herald Trivial Pursuit World Series was held.

The series was a best-of-seven format, with The Master Game-Genus Edition and Baby Boomer Edition alternating each game.

The team of Judi Topp, Alyce Henschke and yours truly trimmed Chuck Hackenmiller, LaVon Anderson, Linda Grassfield and alternates Jim Marsh and Jacki Nolan in six games.

Wayne downs O'Neill for NAC title

Blue Devils earn class B playoff spot

After nearly four weeks of wondering whether Wayne would qualify for the Class B Playoffs, the suspense finally ended Friday night as the Blue Devils manhandled O'Neill to claim a 21-6 victory and qualify for the playoffs with an at large berth.

Lonnie Ehrhardt, Wayne's head coach, said late Friday night that he still didn't know who Wayne would play in the opening round of the playoffs, but guessed it would be Schuyler this Wednesday.

"I've called the Omaha World Herald, but they still aren't sure yet who we'll play," he said. "If I had to guess, I'd say it would either be Schuyler or Bennington; and probably Schuyler. The game will be Wednesday, and we'd probably be the visiting team."

Although the final score might indicate a close game, the Blue Devils actually dominated the Eagles both offensively and defensively.

Wayne finished with 202 total yards compared to O'Neill's 87. The Blue Devils also finished 15 first downs, while the Eagles totaled only four.

Ehrhardt said earlier this week that the key to tonight's game would be the Blue Devils' ability to control the line-of-scrimmage, and the Wayne skipper said his club did exactly that.

"Our goal was to control the line of scrimmage, and we did that," he said. "O'Neill really only threatened once — the time they scored."

The Eagles' only touchdown came with 2:17 remaining when the visitors capitalized on a Wayne fumble on the six-yard line and cashed it in for a touchdown.

But the Eagle comeback came way too late as Wayne built an incontestable 21-0 lead through the game's first 45 minutes.

After Jamie Fredrickson recovered a fumble midway through the second period, Wayne quarterback Ted Lueders scored from one yard out three plays later to supply the Blue Devils with a 6-0 lead at the 5:11 mark.

Pat Coffey followed with a PAT boot, and then approximately four minutes later, Bill Landanger scored Wayne's second TD and Cory Nelson booted a PAT.

Landanger's touchdown came on a 25-yard pass from Lueders at the 1:22 mark of the second quarter and it was the sixth play of a 49-yard drive.

Both teams slugged it out defensively in the third period before Wayne's Russ Longe broke the ice with a touchdown with 4:05 remaining in the game.

The Blue Devils took over on their own 42-yard line and Longe scored eight plays later. The big play of the drive was a 22-yard pick up by Jon Stoltenberg that put the ball on the six.

O'Neill gained 39 yards on its next possession on a reverse pass. But two plays later, Wayne's Scott Pokett intercepted a pass at the six yard line.

However, after Pokett intercepted, he fumbled the ball back over to the Eagles and Doug Smith scored one play later.

O'Neill's two-point PAT attempt failed, however, and Wayne captured the 15-point victory.

The O'Neill touchdown was the only time the Eagles threatened to score the entire night, and Ehrhardt said it came on fluke play.

"That really was the only time they moved the ball on us, and it came on a strange play in which we fumbled an interception," he said. "But you can't blame Scott. He was only being aggressive and doing what he's supposed to do. He actually made a nice play."

Longe finished as Wayne's leading ground gainer, totalling 59 yards on 19 carries. Other Blue Devils who gained positive yardage on the ground include: Lueders, 11-36; Eric Liska, 4-25; Stoltenberg, 3-23; Ted McCright, 8-21; and Robbie Gamble, 4-5.

Lueders completed 2-of-8 passes for 33 yards, but also injured his neck midway through the final period.

But Ehrhardt said his senior signal caller is in fine shape and should be ready for Wednesday's game.

"He has a brace around his neck, and it will stay on until Tuesday, but only as a precautionary measure," the Blue Devil mentor said.

Landanger and Bill Liska finished with one reception apiece for 25 and eight yards, respectively.

Landanger also led Wayne's defenders with eight tackles, while Troy Wood and Fredrickson both finished with six.

Other leading tacklers for the Blue Devils include: Stoltenberg, 57; Bill Liska, 4; Steve Lutz, 4; Tom Baier, 4; and Longe, 3.

In addition to Pokett's interception and Fredrickson's fumble recovery, Lueders picked off a pass and Joel Pedersen recovered a fumble.

O'Neill was limited to only 45 yards rushing on 24 tries and 42 passing yards.

The victory not only secured a spot for postseason play for Wayne, but also made the Blue Devils the Northern Activities Conference football champions in the league's first year of existence.

The '86 Wayne squad is Ehrhardt's third Blue Devil squad he has guided to the playoffs in only seven years as head coach at Wayne. But the modest skipper didn't claim any credit for Wayne's success this year, and instead only praised his players.

"I'm so proud of these boys. They deserve all the credit because they've played a lot of good teams and they've played hard all year," Ehrhardt said.

Wayne will enter postseason play with a 6-3 record.

Sixteen teams qualify for the Class B Football Playoffs — nine wild card teams and seven conference champions. The Blue Devils are one of the nine wild card teams to qualify.

Twelve teams in Class B that had already clinched a playoff spot by Friday night were: Schuyler, York, Blair, St. Paul, Bennington, Gering, Gothenburg, Grand Island Central Catholic, Elkhorn Mt. Michael, Imperial, Kimball and Chadron.

The other teams that joined Wayne as in contention for playoff berths going into Friday night were: David City Aquinas, Aurora, Ord, Elkhorn, Broken Bow, Minden, Valley, Gibson, Auburn, Lincoln Plus X, North Bend, Omaha Roncalli, West Point, Seward, Syracuse and Cozad.

Stoltenberg all-conference

Missy Stoltenberg, a 5-8 senior hitter on the Wayne State Lady Wildcat volleyball team, was named to the Central States Intercollegiate All Conference (CSIC) team.

Stoltenberg, who finished the recent CSIC tournament with 34 kill spikes, is the first Wayne State player to ever be named to the CSIC's first team.

Surprisingly, Stoltenberg was the only Lady Wildcat selected to this year's first, second or honorable mention squads.

Meg Hurlley, who leads the conference in block points with a 2.00 average, Sheila Tomaszklewicz, who is ninth in the conference in block points with a .79 average, and Jeanelle Moline who is third in service percentage with a .979 mark and who is 11th in assists with a 3.3 average, were all overlooked.

Conference champion Kearney State placed four players on the All-CSIC squad, selected last weekend by a vote of the eight conference coaches. Six players were named to the first team, seven gained second team recognition and six were voted to the honorable mention team.

MAYNARD D. OHL, JR., left presents the citation award for pedestrian safety to Mayor Wayne Marsh and Police Chief Vern Fairchild.

City gets traffic award for pedestrian safety

Wayne has again earned the American Automobile Association's Pedestrian Safety Citation for its achievement in prevention of pedestrian fatalities and injuries and its outstanding pedestrian safety programs, AAA of Nebraska announced.

The city was one of 54 cities with a population of less than 10,000 to earn the Special Citation for Outstanding Pedestrian Accident Record plaque. A total of 809 cities with a similar population reported in this category.

This special citation recognizes communities with outstanding pedestrian safety program activities.

Wayne had not had a pedestrian fatality for 20 consecutive years.

"The last pedestrian fatality that we have had was in April of 1965," said Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild in accepting the award from Maynard D. Ohl, Jr, sales representative for the Cornhusker Motor Club in Norfolk.

Farm Bureau adopts resolutions

Wayne County Farm Bureau held its annual meeting, Saturday, Oct. 18, including a potluck supper. Donald Liedman, Carroll, was re-elected president. Also, voted back in as Vice President was William Hansen of Wakefield; Woman at Large is Karma Magnuson of Carroll; Youth at Large is Dennis Anderson of Wayne.

Delegates to serve at the state convention in December at Kearney will be Ronald Magnuson of Carroll, William Claybaugh of Carroll, Clarke Kai of Pender and Milton Owens of Carroll.

Alternates will be Nell Sandahl of Wakefield, Dwaine Rethwisch of Wayne, William Hansen of Wakefield, Norman Wichman of Pender and Mrs. Daniel (Kris) Loberg of Carroll. New board members are William Claybaugh of Carroll, Donald Nelson of Winslow, John R. Anderson of Wayne, Jack Beeson of Wayne and re-elected was Norman Wichman of Pender.

The Wayne County Farm Bureau 1987 Resolutions are as follows:

- COUNTY
1. Be it resolved that Farm Bureau support State Aid to Schools, that is distributed on a census of school age children and leave the percentages of State aid as per Farm Bureau present policy.
 2. Be it resolved that Farm Bureau oppose all sle of surface water, ground water and water rights out of state.

3. Be it resolved that Farm Bureau support legislation requiring the State to match money collected from the grain checkoffs with State General Fund tax dollars.

NATIONAL

1. Be it resolved that Farm Bureau support Senator Orrin Hatch's Bill 665 to deregulate all types of work done in the home.
2. Be it resolved that Farm Bureau oppose the "Harkin Farm Bill."
3. Since the manner in which the Dairy Termination Program has evolved leaves some doubt as to its eventual success, we support striking line 3 thru 7 in Section 537 of the 1986

AFBF policy and substituting the following:

We favor a system continuing the present support and product purchase program. It should establish a $.55 cwt. mandatory assessment on all milk sold, refundable quarterly to those producers reducing production below a share of market needs based on production history. Program participants contracting to reduce production by 5 percent of history or more should receive deficiency payments. If participation is such in any marketing year that CCC purchase costs go over 1 billion dollars, the Secretary of Agriculture should be authorized to raise the assessment to a maximum of $1 and the target price to a maximum of $12.65 per cwt.

GILLESPIE WAS recently sworn in as the new Hoskins postmaster.

At Hoskins

Gillespie new postmaster

Georgia D. Gillespie was installed Oct. 29 as the new postmaster at Hoskins.

Conducting the ceremony was Tom Skolak of the Omaha Post Office. She graduated from Norfolk Senior High School and had graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Education from Chadron State College. Previous postal positions she has held include clerk at the Norfolk Post Office from 1974-1978; and part-time flexible clerk and postmaster relief at the Hoskins Post Office from 1978 to the present.

Among her civic and professional organizations and activities are: a member of the Hoskins Fire Department; certified EMT-A; and a member of the First United Methodist Church in Norfolk. She has volunteered her work for the Children's Bible Club and the Rainbow Kids 4-H Club. Her special interests include reading, sewing, bowling, gardening and camping. She is the daughter of George and Irene Faubel of Norfolk. Her father is a retired letter carrier and her brother, a letter carrier in Sheridan, Wyoming.

Gillespie and her husband C.A. (Colby) have two children - Jason, age 13 and Alicia, age 7. Her husband is a teacher in the Pierce Public Schools of Pierce, Nebraska.

Special guests at the induction ceremony were area postmasters, rural carriers and retired postal employees.

Russ Eggerling of the Norfolk Post Office and Deborah Schroeder of the Wayne Post Office have been officers in charge since the retirement of Postmaster Carl Mann on April 1.

The postal service awarded a contract in January to the John D. Ver-Mass Construction Company of Lincoln to build the 1,000 square foot post office in Hoskins, said Harold Asner, manager of the Postal Service Real Estate Branch in Overland, Kansas. The new building is leased to the Postal Service.

Refreshments were served after the ceremony, with Kathy Reichstein, associate office coordinator, in charge.

Four Spectacular Holiday Offers From Apple.

Never before has a holiday offer added up to more spectacular savings. We call it "Apple Pays Half." You'll call it a bargain. And here's four good reasons why:

- 1. Rebate Savings.
Buy a qualifying Apple® II or Macintosh™ Basic System* from an authorized Apple dealer, and we'll give you a special bonus. Apple will pay half of up to $500 on Apple branded peripherals and software.
- 2. Special Coupon Offers.
And there's up to $400 in special coupon offers from leading Apple developers for enhancing your system as your family's needs grow and change.
- 3. Free Gift Box.
Plus, you'll receive a collection of 3M computer accessory products—free. This value of up to $75 is our way of completing your Apple system.
- 4. The Best Products.
From the Apple II to Macintosh™, no other personal computer family offers you more. And no other computer dealer offers you more than one of our over 1,900 authorized Apple dealers.

Hurry in and see us today for the holiday offer that's worth taking advantage off—Offer expires January 10, 1987.

CONTEST RULES
 One football game has been placed in each of the ads on this page. Indicate the winner by writing in the name of the winning team on the proper line on the entry blank. No scores. Just pick the winners, or ties. In case of tie, write "tie." Use the entry blank below or a copy of equal size.
 Write in your guess of the total number of yards gained by both teams in the game of the week. This will only be used in case of a tie. The person that comes closest to the total number of yards without going over will be the winner.
 One entry only to each contestant, but members of a family may each submit an entry. Entries should be brought or mailed to The Wayne Herald office not later than 3 p.m. Friday, or if mailed, should not be postmarked later than 5 p.m. Friday. You need not be a subscriber of the Herald to be eligible for prizes.
 The Winners will be announced weekly on the Thursday sports page of The Wayne Herald. Employees of the Herald and their immediate families are ineligible. Judges' decisions will be final in every case.
