"Elizabethan Christmasse Feaste" as the 1986 program scheduled for this holiday season celebrates its 15th anniversary.
This year's performances, featuring the Madrigal Singers, will be Dec. 12, 13 and 14 at the Wayne State College Student Center, beginning each night at "Seven Houres by Ye Clocke."

"Cornett Runestad, professor of music_and_the_choral director at Wayne State College since 1970, had carried the idea of the Elizabethan Christmas Feast when he arrived here from the University of Illinois.

The first performance was in 1972. "It was the first in Nebraska and we have been at it ever since." Runestad sald. "This is a tradition that Wayne State College can truly lay claim to—to have begun the Elizabethan Christmas Feast! In this state."

Since Wayne State College introduced the holiday event, other colleges — and high schools — have followed sult with their own Elizabethan Christmas Feast. Some of those colleges include the University of Nebraska-Omaha and Chadron. One of the high schools includes Tilden, headed by a former Wayne State College program participant.

OVER 120 individuals have participated in some way or another with the holiday feast over the past 15 years. Many of them will be returning: for the Saturday-night-performance (Dec. 13), where the former. Madrigal Singers and Jesters will join the current performers for a musical piece sometime during the program.

Historic survey underway

Should the Wayne County house you live in, or the farm buildings that you own, be over 50 years old — consider confacting the Nebraska State Historical Society.

The structures could be eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historical Places.

The Nebraska' State Historical Society is continuing to conduct fieldwork in Wayne County during the winter months in an effort to complete an on-going Nebraska Historic Buildings Survey.

John Lindahl, curator of the John G. Nelhardt Center in Bancroft (a branch museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society), is conducting the survey in Wayne County.

TINDAHL SAID he began the survey in March of this year and has covered some of the farm buildings or houses in the county. But as summer came, Lindahl said the John G. Neihardt Center got into the busy season, not allowing him to continue with the survey:

More of the survey work in Wayne County can now be accomplished in the off-season, he said.

The goal is to complete the Wayne County survey by April 1, 1987, Lindahl mentioned. "It is a very time "cansuming thing," he said.

Sites recorded in the survey are photographed and mapped, with preliminary research being conducted in local repositories.

"Almost all of the counties in the state have been surveyed. Wayne County is one of the few that is left," Lindahl mentioned. "When the leaves are off the trees, it is easier to see the buildings," he said.

Adoption program volunteers needed

Christmas comes but once a year. But for some of the children and elderly of Wayne County, Christmas may not come at all. Goldenrod Hills Community Action

Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council and coordinators of the agen-cy's Toys for Tots program are work-ing to do something to spread some holiday cheer to about 73 youngsters, age 12 and under, that reside in Wayne County.

And at Jeast 10 adults in Wayne County who have reached 60 years of age or older would benefit greatly from fruit basket offerings, according to Goldenrod Hills officials. However, to satisfy all of these Individuals, generous assistance is needed of others if the job is to be completed by Christmas, 1986.

The Toys for Tots program is now operating out of a building that has been provided by owner Wayne Marsh, -located just-north of the Daylight Donuts business.

According to the Outreach Worker in this area, Gene Dunklau, the doors to the festively decorated Toys for Tots headquarters in Wayne will be open (as a convenience to the public) on Thursday, Dec. 4 from 6 to 9 p.m.;

Salurday, Dec. 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Thursday, Dec. 11 from 69 p.m.. These hours will allow people to come in and adopt one of the children on the Wayne County referral list supplied to the Toys for Tots coordinators, Dunklau mentioned.

dinators, Dunklau mentioned.

IF ANYONE IS interested in adopting a child for this Christmas, the person is required to register their name, address and telephone number before a Toys for Tots official at the Wayne headquarters.

An ornament from a Christmas tree at the headquarters, which will tell about Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council's various services, will be removed. The Toys for Tots official will then supply the volunteer with a "first name only" and the age of a child on the referral list that is supplied through Goldenrod Hills services and other agencies that offer services in the area.

The name is written on the back of the ornament.

The person would then buy giffs this Christmas for the orbits.

the ornament.

The person would then buy gifts this Christmas for the child (or children) that had been adopted by him or her, according to Dunklau.

Dunklau said the number of child referrals have increased from Christmas a year ago. There were 62 referrals last year. 11 fewer than this year. Last year the number of food baskets distributed was 16.

This Saturday, Dec. 6, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., a drop box will be available at Casey's in Wayne for Individuals interested in contributing new or good used toys to the Toys for Tots program.

DUNKLAU EXPRESSED her gralitude to the Individuals and 4:H organizations that have greatly helped the Toys for Tots program in her econstruction of old toys or making of new toys for distribution.

She also expressed appreciation to the Jaycees who provided the Christmas tree for the headquarters. The tree will later be donated to a family that cannot afford a holiday tree this season. More grafitude was expressed to Cindy Brown, Missy Jones and Sandy Blenderman for the painting of windows at the Toys for Tots headquarters in Wayne; and to Carhart's for the shelves in the building.

Carhart's for the shelves in the building.
Various businesses have been contacted for donalions and among those that have responded thus far are Pamida. Lögan Valley Implement, Sav-Mor. Wayne Shoe Company, Kuhn's, Wayne Spoorting Goods and Kid's Closet, according to Dunklau. Anybody interested in adopting a child for the Toys for Tots program and would like further information can call Gene Dunklau at 375-1808 or Kim Chapman of Carroll at 585-4566.

WAYNE CHAMBER of Commerce Executive Vice President Linda Brown was the first to sign WAYNE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EXECUTIVE VICE TO THE Goldenrod Hills Toys for Tots program in Wayne County. Mayor Wayne Marsh also adopted a child. Each will supply the child, who was referred to them, with Christmas gifts this holiday season.

Another riew wrinkle to the 1987 membership is that of lowering the age limit of those attending the shows to 12. Previously, it was age 16. Yet another innovation for 1987 is the addition of a Friday matinee performance for the three indoor shows. The Ak-Sar-Ben Membership Drive will run from Dec. 1 through. Feb. 10. Over 700 volunteers will be selling memberships as part of the 16-team drive.

Historical Society election draws protests

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
The election of five board members for the Nebraska Historical Society has been the most effective membership campaign drive in years.
In the past three months the society membership has risen by 700 to Lost under 5.200. 14 hasn'd been that high since the nation's bicentennial year, 1976.

Much of the Impetus for the membership increase comes from a controversial and contested election that could-determine the balance or power on the 16-member board. Twelve of the board members are 'elected. Four others serve by virtue of their positions— the governor, the president of the University of Nebraska, the Supreme Court chief justice and president of the Nebraska Press Association.

The board members will be elected this year by a mail ballot sent to every pald-up society member. At the heart of the storm is James Hanson, who has been executive director of the society for the past 17 months. The election results may determine his tenure as director.

Board members and society members who have been unsuccessful in trying to fire Hanson are working for election of one state of candidates, candidates, who will be more tikely to vote to can the director.

Hanson supporters are pushing for a second state.

And Hanson is apparently receiving extra support from an old buddy from Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Forrest Fenn, who owns a Santa Fe art gallery, purchased 11h historical society memberships in the names of business clients, friends, and employees this tall. The memberships, which sell for 88 each, entitle the member to vote in the current election.

ALL THE membership informa-tion and the 111 ballots went to one address — Fenn's gallery.

Fenn says he is giving the memberships as Christmas. gifts. He says he is not using the ballots to vote for the pro-Hanson slate.

However, a Fenn employee in Santa Fe says the gallery owner has been mailing ballots (marked for the pro-Hanson - candidates). back—to Nebraska. About eight to ten ballots have been mailed every day for more than a week, the employee told a Nebraska newspaper reporter.

There is apparently nothing illegal in Fenn's $888 ballot maneuver. The society's constitution is silent on the issue of who can mark and return the official ballots.

But several board members, even Hanson supporters, have said the practice is unethical.

And board member Nellie Yost of North Platte, an outspoken Hanson or titc, accused Hanson of buying votes.

"I feel frankly that Jim Hanson is desperate to keep his job." Mrs. Yost said.

HANSON SAID he has purchased one membership — for his brother. "I didn't buy any votes," Hanson said. "I'm really suprised that anybody would intimate that we should not be selling more memberships in the society."

Hanson says he told Fenn, a friend of 20 years, about the controversy in the society but did not ask him to buy the memberships and vote for the the memberships and vote-for the pro-Hanson state.

Mrs. Yost sald she is hoping that the controversy over out-of-state votes. will convince more Nebraska members to return ballots. By late November about 2,200 ballots had been mailed back.

The ballots, mailed to members, in early November, will be counted December 5 and the results announced at the December 13 annual meeting in Lincoln. That meeting, where members will vote on constitution by law changes, promises to be as stormy as the election.

Well field potential

Why does the city of Wayne need a new well field?
In summary and according to a study done by Howard R. Green Company, consulting engineers, the aquifer that the city presently draws water from has been experiencing a phenomenon called mining. The water table has dropped 38 feet in the past 50 years and if this condition is allowed to continue, it is estimated that water shortages may begin to occur in 8 to 10 years.

To reduce the mining of the aquifer under Wayne, the City must develop a new well field in another aquifer and reduce withdrawl from the existing municipal wells, according to the engineers.

withdrawl from the existing municipal webs, according to the engineers.

In Wayne County's Wilbur Township, where the future well site was recommended by the consulting engineers to be, there are 17 documented irrigation wells. Because of the number of irrigation wells, the consulting engineers came to the conclusion that there may be a higher producing aquifer in Wilbur Township.

the conclusion that there may be a higher producing aquifer in Wilbur Township.

Also, the consulting engineers were also encouraged by the alluvial sand and gravel deposits, water quality and possibilities of a high capacity well in Wilbur Township.

On Tuesday of last week, the city council and one of the property owners with land in the proposed well field (in Wilbur Township) agreed on the water rights price that was figured by an appraiser.

Using March, 1985 figures, the Howard R. Green Company had anticipated the cost of constructing a water transmission main from the proposed well field to the city of Wayne, and the cost of developing the well field, at $2.6 million.

That figure is flexible, since the cost estimate does not attempt to forecast future price increases.

No doubt we will be hearing a lot more about the project as the months and years progress. The final well, according to the engineers' recommendations, will not be completed until

Farmers don't need more restrictions

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
by Chery Stubbendieck
Vice president/information
One of the last acts of the 99th Congress was passage of "The Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986." If this-is news to you, it's not surprising — the act was in the form of an amendment tacked on to comprehensive drug legislation passed just prior to adjournment.
From the title of the safety act, you'd think few people would have any problems with it. But it's another example of a law that doesn't mention agriculture but which could have is significant impact on farmers and ranchers.

The safety act is a response to increasing public feeling that some drivers of big trucks are a threat on the highways. There is statistical support for this viewpoint from 1983 to 1985, interstate truck accidents increased nearly 26 percent, from 31,000 to 39,000. Lost year, these accidents resulted in nearly 2,700 deaths and 29,000 injuries. The act requires the U.S. Department of Transportation to etablish a national licensing standard for all commercial truckers and bus drivers. No arguement so far, but—as defined by the law, farmers who haul their crops to maket in heavy trucks are commercial drivers, subject to the same restrictions as those whose occupation is full-time driving.

whose occupation is rull-time.

The Transportation Department is to have federal standards in place by July 15, 1988, which are to require all commercial drivers to demonstrate both written and over-the-road competence. If you've ever found yourself sandwiched between two semis on the Interstate, this requirement makes good sense. The penalty standard Transportation Department punishment: loss of federal highway ald — 5 percent in 1993, more in subsequent years.

BUTITODES not make good sense to lump farmers haulling their production to the local elevator in with professional commercial drivers. Most farm truck operators drive only short distances, mostly around harvest time and usually only during daylight hours. They do not present the same kind of safety hazards as do the pros — a commercial operator probably does as much driving in two weeks as a typical farmer would in a year.

Any farmer will tell you that what he doesn't need right now is another requirement or another restriction on how he does business. The act gives the Secretary of Transportation authority to exempt a certain class of persons or commercial motor vehicles if it's in the the public interest to do so. Farm Bureau is working to convince Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole that the public's interest would be served by waiving the Ilcensing requirement for farmers who use their vehicles for 15,000 or fewer miles a year hauing their produce to market.

Ing their produce to market.

There is a recent precedent for this request, since the Tax Reform Act of 1984 exempted agricultural vehicles from the heavy truck use tax. Beyond this, it makes good sense not to regulating. The people who enforce regulating. The people who enforce regulations never work for free, and it farmers are to be included, the number of enforcers will need to go up dramatically. That means more costs for government and probably licensing fees, another cost farmers don't need.

As some articulate soul has put it, if it ain't broke, don't fix it.

M ask a lawyer a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. I have a question concerning minimum speed limits on rural Nebraska roads and U.S. highways. We have a man in our county who drives anywhere from 10 to 25 miles per hour on a state highway. He has been hit more than once from behind, once by a semi coming over a hill going 55 miles per hour while he was toftering along at 25. Shouldn't he be required to have a "slow moving vehicle" sign to warn the motorists approaching from behind?

A. It is lilegal in Nebraska for anyone to drive at such a slow speed that he or she impedes the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when a reduced speed is necessary for safety or is done in compliance with law enforcement officials' request.

30 a freeway, a driver may not operate a motor vehicle at a speed of less than 40 miles per hour, except when a reduced speed is safer or mandated by law.

aw. It is within the jurisdiction of the Department of Roads or a similar local

It is within the jurisdiction of the Department of Roads or a similar local authority to determine whether low speeds on any part of a highway consistently hinder the flow of traffic. If they find that slow speeds do present an impediment to traffic, they may declare a minimum speed limit below which drivers may not operate their vehicles. If you think the driver you describe has consistently obstructed travel over the highway, contact your local Department of Roads or other appropriate authority to get minimum speed limit signs posted along the highway. It also is useful to alert county law enforcement of ficials when a driver is endangering the safety of himself or other drivers. Slow-moving vewhicle emblems are designed to be affixed to various types of machinery, such as farm implements, that must be driven on public highways. Non-commercial vehicles are not eligible to display the emblems.

Trade disputes must be settled

by Representative Doug Bereuter At the Farm and Rural American Conference in Des Moines last week Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, Iowa Governor Terry Branstad and I launched a four-point plan to address the problems of rural America. The Rural Economic Task Force-agreed to spend the next month exploring policy initiatives in the following four areas; improving current farm programs, farm credit, rural development and trade. I intend to take the lead on farm credit and frade matters.

ment and flace. The second and frade matters.

I went to the Des Moines meeting with a package of proposals on farm credit and improving agricultural trade which were the focus of that meeting. One of my proposals adressed the credit crisis facing farmers and agricultural lending institutions. It would allow commercial agricultural enders, such as banks and insurance companies, to market local agricultural lenders, such as banks and insurance companies, to market local agricultural lenders, such as banks and insurance companies, to market local agricultural loans through a new secondary market entity, a quasi-private corporation "Farmer Mac."

Another of my proposals was that the United States take strong, determined action to persuade the Japanese to eliminate their import quotas on American beef. Bereuter also recommended that the U.S.

Trade Representative take a clear message to the European Community that actions restricting Spain's and Portugal's ability to Import U.S. agricultural products will not be tolerated.

We will meet again on December 15 to develop a more specific plan of action to address the four areas of concern.

The "Third Country Red Meat Directive"
The United States and the European Community are rapidly coming to a deadline for settling some major agricultural trade disputes, Our exports of meat, soybeans, corn, and corn gluten feed are at risk when we reach the December 31 deadline.

December 31 will be the lasf day that the United States can export meat to the European Community, unless a settlement can be reached. After that date, the European Community will implement new meat inspection standards that will effectively bar imports of American meat—which is at a level of about $130 million per year.

These new standards, the "third country red meat directive," require that plants which export meat to the European Community comply with European Community comply with certain processing requirements. When European Community officials made their initial inspections, they found that no U.S. plant was in compliance with the new standards. Few plants are expected to receive approval, and many may not even attempt to gain approval, as in many cases it would require redesign of the plant.

ANOTHER European Community proposal that could hit U.S. meat exports hard is also on the horizon. Last year the European Community decided to ban the use of all hormones in meat production starting in 1988. Foreign governments will have to certify that meat exports did not mones.

The most serious blow to U.S. agricultural exports relates to the entry of Spain and Portugal into the European community, however. When Spain and Portugal iolned the European Community earlier this year a condition was new restrictions on U.S. grain shipments to Spain this year and to Portugal next year. Durning the summer, after the United States threatened retallatory measures a temporary truce was arranged, in order to prevent U.S. loss of grain exports to the European Community this year.

This dispute over-grain shipments affects a very large share of U.S. trade — potentally $3 billion worth annually. European Community grain exports have grown by 14 million metric tons since 1977, while imports to the European Community crain exports to the European Community grain exports have grown by 14 million metric tons since 1977, while imports to the European Community the tribute of the European Community creative few tool living Staten have million metric tons since 1977, while imports to the European Community (mostly from the United States) have decreased by 25 million metric tons.

As a member of the United States-European Community Parliamen-tary Exchange. I will continue to work closely with our officials to help to settle these disputes. We must work out solutions that are in the best interest of American agriculture...

I have to hand it to Tubbs for not taking the easy way out with this year's schedule. They have one of the tougher schedules around.

They play the likes of top-ranked 'UNIV.' LSU, North Carolina State. Kentucky and Creightion, not to mention their Big Eight schedule.

My favorite part of the book is the section with the player profiles. In it they have an "Off the Floor" section which tells a little about the students away from basketball.

I may be a little out of touch but Isn't Transformers a cartoon? Three Sooners. David Johnson, "Choo" Kepnedy and Stacey King list that as either their favorite television show or their favorite movie. Kennedy list basketball theory as his favorite class; least favorite class at OU is human-sexuality. When asked where Cony Martin's stavorite place-to-play in the Big Eight was he said Kansas. His reason was "we get radical."

Credit should go to sophomore Stacey King. After starting 14 games last year he was forced to sit out the second semester because of bad grades.

Bargholz wins contest

It was a tough week for armchair footbatt prognosticators. The winner of this week's Wayne Herald Footbatt Contest, Mylet Bargholz of Wakefield, missed seven games. The runner-up was Mrs. Alvin Meyer of Wayne. Mrs. Meyer missed eight games along with several other contestants but she was the closest on the diebreaker question, the total yards of the USC vs. Notre Dame game.

team was the best club the Wildcats have faced this year.

Everybody had a tough time shooting with the exception of the most unlikely Cat. Reserve Russ Rosenquist led Wayne State with 15 points. That isn't so odd unless you consider that Rosey came down with the Taiwan Tlu hours before the game, according to Aggers. He said the junior from Sloux City, towacould only, play for two or three minutes at a time.

Besides Rosenquist the only other Wildcat to hit double figures was Scott Hurley who finished with 10 points. The junior was 3-12 from the field, including 1-7 from the three-point line. Hurley was also 3-4 from the free-throw line. As a team Wayne State hit 20-57 shots from the field for 35 percent.

Against the Eagles Wayne State again got off to a slow start. As a result they trailed by 13 points at halftime, 35-22.

In the consolation game the Wildcats shot 35 percent from the

Trappers asked to help river otters

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission is in the midst of a program to reestablish the river other in the state, and is asking the help of rappers in the South Loup area to make the program a success.

Ross Lock, the Commision's nongame wildlife specialish, says four adult river others have recently been reteased on the South Loup River south of Broken Bow, and additional animals are expected to be released this fall, if they are received from Montana, Idaho and Ontario, Canada.

Lock is recommending that trappers trapping on the South Loup or list tributaries between Callaway and the Custer/Butfalo County line take a few precautions to avoid accidentally capturing the otters. This will give the otter a chance to become established in the state.

Lock asks that trappers:

— avoid all beaver trapping within 50 feet of beaver lodges, bank dens or dams:

— avoid entirely the use of slide-

So feet of beaver lodges, bank dens or dams;
— avoid entirely the use of slide-wire drowning sels for taking raccons. He recommends using tangle stakes to capture the animals;
— avoid all trapping in an area where ofter sign is found. The best recognized ofter sign is the scat that is generally about one-half, inch in diameter and often contains fish scales. Ofter tracks are similar to mink tracks, but are larger.

By taking threse precautions, a trapper may continue to harvest other furbearers and at the same time help bring the river ofter back to Nebraska. Any sightings of released animals or signs of their prescence should be reported to the Game and Parks, Commission.

Lock says the river ofter reintroduction program is being funded through the Nongame Wildlife Income Tax Checkoff.

TRANSPORT PLANTS CAREFULLY IN COLD WEATHER

It's the season for colorful holiday plants. It's also the season for frozen holiday plants. When buying a plant the challenge is to get it from the store to your home without getting nipped.

Most holiday giff plants and houseplants are natives of the steamy tropics.

One quick breath of our wintry air is enough to send them into permanent shock.

posure to cold air can cause drooping and injure leaves to plants that t accustomed to cool temperatures, so it usually lish't good enough to grab lant and run for the car. Those few minutes are all it takes for plant in-

HERE'S HOW to cover the plant in the bag—blow in warm air and secure the top with a twistem or rubber band. This creates a bubble of warm air around the plant and will insulate the plant during its ride home. Paper sacks are not as effective, although they will do in a pinch. Set the plant inside one sack, then invert another sack and cover the top opening. On the journey home let the plant set in the passenger area. Never put a plant in an unheated trunk. At home, allow the plant to remain under its covering for a few minutes so it becomes adjusted to room temperatures, then remove the covering. Keep the plant away from drafts and heat sources.

Pork profitability meeting scheduled

Plans for a series of seven workshops on Increasing Pork Production Profitability—four in January and three in March,—1987—have been announced by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Cooperative Extension Service.

The workshops will feature presentations by UNL extension specialists, but extension agents in host countles will be handling arrangements for conducting the workshops, according to Donald G. Levis, extension swine coordinator.

A sampling of topics at the various sites includes setting and measuring performance goals, lowering feed costs; home-raised and super Interested producers can check with their local extension agents for specific program details, Levis said. A users fee may be charged at some locations, he said. A feature of most workshops will be a problem-solving clinic. Pro-ducers are encouraged to bring pertinent information concerning a par-ticular production, management, or swine health problem to the workshop for a session with one or more specialists. Each workshop will have morning and afternoon programs, with lunch available at the meeting site. Pro-ducers' should check locally for workshop starting and ending times.

could narray shove introgn, the crowd. I had an interesting conversation with a friend from Randolph while pushing up to the check-out stand. She had bought a pitch fork and a shovel. She said they were so darned as the could not lind either one. "I just got to thinking that I't we would get a filler show, we won't be cleaning out the feed bunks, with a spatual from the kitchen!" She laughed.

next day set records. I'd much rather set records for high temperatures than lows.

'I'm embarrassed to say that I fell asleep after our dinner, and didn't wake up until 3:30.

Naps are wonderful things, and I don't usually have the opportunity to take one. I believe we'all should nap more often. Some days, I get so sleepy after lunch, my eyes just beg to shut.

One night, at a basketball game. I was feeling so tired; it had been such a long day. The gai next to me yawned and remarked. "I dind't get my nap today," as If she had one every day, and I had a jealous urge to strike her!

We had one last Thanksgiving din-ner on Sun. at Aunt Dora's. Aunt Dora lives on the outskirts of Norfolk. She never had children of her own, so all her nieces and nephews are hers, and there are a bunch of us. She loves to put the extra leaves in the dining room fable, and feed vs all.

On this day, our table grace was by Ann Scheurich; at 88, the senior participant. And she didn't fall asleep after the meal either.

Jessie brought pies, and one was mince meat. I didn't try it, but some at the table thought it was a treat. My "complete pie cookbook" has several recipes for mincemeat; each calls for cooked ground beef, apples, raisins, cinnamon, allspice, and nutmeg.

This is National Home Care Week. In my lifetime, we've gone full circle from taking care of tilness in the home, to hospitalizing everything, to taking care of people in the home. When I was in school, a patient who had had a cataract removed lay flat on his back for five days. We even fed him. One who had a disc removed from his back "rolled like wife" for days. Now the cateract goes home the same day, and the laminectomy in three.

days. Now the cateract goes home the same day, and the laminectomy in three.

Of course, a lot of the push for home care is economical. But most of us do better at home. Home is "when you have to go there, they have to take you in." One speaker at the Wellness Conference paraphrased with "Home is when you want to go there, they want to take you in." Fitting, then, that Home Care Week should follow National Family Week because they fit together. Families can, and want, to take care of each other. When you see a Home Care nurse this week, give her an extra pat on the back. She'll be wearing blue, and carrying a brief case. You're sure to recognize her.

Dr. Michael Fred man; director of geriatrics and gerontology, at New York University Hospital, is concerned about how older people take. drugs. By mixing prescription drugs with alcohol or over-the-counter products like aspirin, he says, many elderly people are inducing strokes, kidney disease and dementia. He estimates that there are as many as 300,000 elderly persons in the United. States suffering from what appears to be Alzheimer's disease when "the only thing that's wrong with them is that they're taking drugs—they shouldn't be." Other dangerous combinations the doctor warms about are blood-thinners being taken with products containing aspirin, which can cause a patient to bieed to death, and certain drugs for high blood pressure or heart disease mixed with tranquilizers or sleeping pills, which can produce a condition that resembles severe mental retardation.

Winter Itch

Each winter persons from all age groups complain of dry, tough skin that takes on the apperance of "fish skin." The elderly are especially prone to have this skin-problem, with the legs commonly affected. Itching is a frequent complaint and causes many persons to visit pharmacists and physicians.

Skin specialists call the condition icthyosis vulgaris; most people call it. "winter itch." Cold winds "pull" water from the skin. Low humidity due to household heat also causes the skin to lose water. Repeated exposure to soaps and detergents can increase water loss up to 75 times normal loss.

crease water loss up to 75 times normal loss.

Care for winter itch involves preventing water from leaving the skin and replacing lost water. Keep room temperature as low as is consistent with comfort and use household humidifiers. Avoid exposure to soaps and detergents. Use a therapeutic bath oil or cover the body in an emollient cream immediately after bathing to "trap" water in the skin. Petroleum jelly is sometimes a satisfactory alternative to more costly products. products.

Lady Blue Devils return four starters

In Coach Marlene Uhing's first year at Wayne the Lady Blue Devils posted an 11-7 record, improving from 217 the year before. If Wayne can improve again this year Lady Blue Devil lans could be in for a pleasant campaign.

The Lady Blue Devils will return four starters from last year's team. Wayne's strength will be in the middle with 5-11 Kecia Corbit, 6-0 Shelly Pick and, 5-10 Lisa Engelson Corbit may not be in the starting lineup for the first several games after being down with mono. Others who may be in the starting lineup on opening day are Dana Nelson and Jody Ditman and Robin Lutt.

--Uhing said a key to the season is how several of the younger players adjust to game situations. Wayne has just three seniors and two juniors on the squad, the rest are sophomores.

"Right now it's open, whoever wants to play well will see some action off of the bench," she said. "It may take awhile before the team jells because of the inexperienced sophomores."

Uhing said her squad will play a slow down game while her starters are in. She said they have a little better speed off the bench at the guard spot. Reserve guards expected to see plenty of action are Kristy Hansen, Holly Paige, Andrea Marsh and Marnie Bruggeman.

The coach said her team will look to run when the fast break is there but they won't run just to speed up the tempo of the game.

Uhing said the Lady Blue Devils are further along defensively, this year than they were last year. They, have worked more on defense in practice. Wayne will play predominately a zone defense but they will defend man to-man more than a year ago. She said her squad will also do some pressing to make the opponents work to get the ball up the court.

Along with the height advantage, Uning feels other strengths for the Lady Blue Devils euil, be their outside shooting and rebounding. She said last year Wayne's guards shot 33 pekcent from the field, a number Uhing feels will be improved.

Uhing said if her team plays well they will blook City will be tough again this year, as they return four starters from last year's conference chanpionship team. Harlington Cedar Catholic will also return four starters from last year and can vie for the title, Uhing said.

Replacing 4 starters is job at hand for Blue Devil coach

The task at trand for Wayne Blue Devil Coach Bob Uhing is to replace the loss of four starters from last year's 15.6 state qualitying team.

The Blue Devils will have three-year starter Ted Lueders returning. Uning said he will also have the services of part-time starter Corey Dahi.

"We lost some awfully good players but we're practicing real hard and we've got some good shooters," Uhing said.

The skipper said the starting lineup is still up in the air until January. The Blue Devils are temporarily without the services of Bill Liska and Jon Stoltenberg due to injuries.

Uning said his feam will be looking to push the ball up the court every chance they get.

"We can run the floor and press well," he said, "We are balanced inside and out, We'll take what the opponent gives us. If they are weaker inside then we'll go inside."

The Blue Devils' strengths outweigh their inexperience. Wayne has good team quickness with decent height, Uhing said. He added that they are a good passing team and play well together as a team.

"The kids are capable of playing good ball but I don't know if they realize it right now." Uhing said.

The coach said the early schedule isn't in their favor. The Blue Devils will play four or five rated teams prior to Jan 1.

Uhing said South Sloux City and Hartington Cedar Catholic will be the favorites to win the Northern Activities Conference this year.

The third-year skipper said his squad has set several goals for the upcoming year.

"We want to improve every practice and every game," he said. "We know we play strong rated teams, we want to do well against those people. If we play hard and do a good job of rebounding we are capable of beating those people."

Touney eyes state if team progresses

Although three open weight classes will hurt the Winside wrestlers in duel matches, Coach Rich Touney thinks his squad will be a good tournament team.

Touney, in his first year as the Wildcat coach, has a senior-oriented squad. Five of the 12 Winside wrestlers are seniors.

Touney said the Wildcats will be strongest at 119, 126 and 132 pound classes. He said they will also be strong at 138, 145 and 155.

As it looks now Winside will forfeit at the 98, 105 and heavyweight classes. # Strong bench to aid Lady Wildcats

Depth, depth and more depth is an accurate description of the Winside Lady Wildcat basketball team

Third-year coach Jill Stenwall will be able to play about nine girls, something she hasn't been able to do since she has been at Winside.

The Lady Wildcats return five letter winners from last year's 3-12 squad. Seniors Tracy Topp and Christi Thies started as juniors. Lana Prince, Ann Meierhenry and Kristy Miller are the other letter winners.

Although Stenwall has some quick girls she said she won't be looking to run up and down the court.

"If we get_a_chance to run we won't be afraid to but we will try to play a slower game and follow our game plan," Stenwall said

The coach said she will also look to Cher Olson, Carmen Reeg, Michelle Thies, Kathy Leighton, Christinia Bloomfield and Cami Behmer for help off the bench. Reeg, 5-11, will spell Prince, 5-10, at the post position

Stenwall said the Lady Wildcat offense will consist of a lof of movement to confuse the opponents' zone defense.

On the other side of the ball Winside will mix up its defense with man-to-man and some zone defense. Stenwall said this year's team will play more man-to-man defense than her teams the last two years.

The Winside mentor lists front-line quickness, rebounding and experience as the team's strong points.

Stenwall said state runner-up Wausa will be the team to beat in the Clark Division. She said Allen will be a front runner in the Lewis Winside Coach Mark Freburg said the boys' basketball team is still in the rebuilding process.

The Wildcats are 0.36 in the last two years but Freburg, entering his fifth year as head coach, said there is reason for optimism in Winside returns four players with starting experience and three from last year's team. Back from last year rec Kevin Jaeger, Mike Thies and Tim Voss. Daryl Mundil was a part-time starter as a soptomore but missed all of last season with an Injury.

Freburg sald his team's strength is its inside play on offense. He said the Wildcats will look into Jaeger, 6-3, Mundil, 6-2, and Thies, 6-2. Although the Wildcats lack the "big man" they boast a good-sized front line.

"We'll be looking into our seniors inside but we've also got a couple of good outside shooting guards," Freburg said. "But if we want to win we have to get if done inside."

The Wildcats outside peach will come from guards. Voss and I'm Jacobson. Freburg said his team may, be in the unique situation of having a different high scorer every night.

On defense, Winside will hilk It up by playing both straight man-to-man and zone defense. Freburg said his team has been working on defense in practice and he feels comfortable playing either defense.

An obstacle the Wildcats have to clear this season is the toss of Brent Nau. The 6-4 senior injured his knee this summer and will be lost for the entire season.

Freburg said he gives Beemer the nod to win the Lewis and Clark Conference. They will be tough for anybody to handle, he said. The skipper said that there are several good teams in the conference.

"Our seniors are going to have to lead the team," he said. "I'm expecting some good things out of those kids."

Inside game is key for Laurel girls

Pam Thies is the new coach of the Laurel Lady Bears but there will be several familiar faces on the court for Lauret this season.

Seven players return for the 1886-87 campaign with previous varsity experience.

Leading the pack are seniors Gail Twiford. Penny Dempster and Sara Adkins: juniors Becky Christensen, Julie Schutte, Tama Reifenrath, Dawn Addison and Holli

Addison comes to Laurel from Coleridae where-she lettered in basketball. Thies said she will start the season with Christensen in the middle. Twiford and Addison at forwards and Adkins and Dempster at the guard spots. Twiford, Dempster and Adkins were starters for last year's team that went 7-10.

Thies said Twiford will be a key for the Lady Bears. She led the team in scoring and rebounding last year. Adkins was the team leader in assists.

The skipper said Laurel's inside game, height advantage and overall experience is the strength of this year's squad.
"Our inside game is important," she said.

"We need to grab some rebounds and intimidate some people."

Thies said her team's weakness at this point is its lack of outside shooting. She said. Dempster is the team's best bomber but as a squad they are not strong in that area.

To start off the Lady Bears will not be a running team. They will slow the tempo and cut down on the turnovers. Thies said that may change during the year.

"In time I hope we can start running the fast break and get some easy baskets," she

On defense Laurel will be a pressing team. They will use the full-court press and a halfcourt trap defense.

Thies doesn't know how deep her bench is. She said some of her younger players are looking real good and if they keep progressing she won't hesitate to put them in a game

"I'm geffing anxious for a game to see what they look like," Thies said. "I think the practices are getting long for the klds."

Rebounds key for fast break

A good nucleus returns from last year's 5.11 boys' basketball team, according to Laurel Coach Mark Hrabik.

The Bears will return four full-time starters and one part-time starter. The starter starter is senior Brent Haisch. Other returners are juniors Joedy Cunningham. Steve Schmitt and Scott Marquardt and sophomore Doug-Manz. Hrabik also returns a pair of 6-3 lettermen in Rick Läge and Kyle Nixon.

Hrabik, entering his third year as head coach, said he will get to do something this year that he hasn't been able to do in the past. Go deep to his bench. The skipper said he plans to go nine deep it necessary.

With that depth Laurel will be looking to keep the game up tempo.

"We'll run with the ball to utilize our experience and our team speed," he said." "We'll try to keep pressure on the ball and go' to our bench to keep fresh people in the name."

Hrabik said he will start the season with Lage at center, Cunningham and Halsch at forwards and Marquardt and Schmitt at the guard positions. He said Manz, Nixon, junior Randy Sherry and freshman John Schutte witt play coming off the bench.

Hrabik said the 6-2 Schutte will figure predominantly in the Bears' future. His playing time will increase as he gets more game experience, the coach said.

Hrabik said while the team's strengths are its experience and team speed, the Bears must work \( \text{My rebounding.} \) He said the oftense depends on strong rebounding. Laurel must control the boads to run the fast break oftense:

Hrabik Ilsts Wausa, Homer and Bancroft as the teams to beat in the Lewis and Clark Conference. He said if his team remains competitive they will have the opportunity to beat the favorites.

"I'm pretty optimistic," he said. "The kids that took the bealing last year have an extra year of experience under their belt this year."

First-year coach strives for .500

This is Ellie Studer's first year back into varsity coaching after a long lay-off, and she has in mind to improve the Wakefield Trojan's girls basketball record from 176 to at least a .500 season.

"Our girls have a good attitude this year and are wilting to learn," she said.

Last year's letterwinners who return this year are Kodi Nelson, Stephanie Fischer, Marci Greve, Karen Hallstrom, Stacey Kuhl, Sharon Wenstrand, Desiree Salmon and Tricia Schwarten.

On the injury list are Jessica Robin and Racquel Lueth.

The Trojans will also rely on the experience of returning starters Greve, Hallstrom and Kuhl. Kuhl averaged 6.3 points a game last year.

There are 10 freshman on this year's squad according to Coach Studer.

"Quickness will be our strength as well as having confidence on the floor," Studer said.

Currently the team is polishing its shooting fundamentals and basic basketball techniques.

Two of the tougher teams on the Trojan schedule are the Wausa and Pender teams, she said.

1948 since last championship

Team of destiny is mood of Wakefield

The Wakefield Trojans have a goal in mind, during this upcoming 1986-87, basket ball season, to become a team destined toward the district championship.

Trojan Head Boys Baskelball Coach Paul Eaton said it has been in the 60's since a Wakefield team has participated in a state baskelball tournament — 1948 since a Wakefield team had won a state baskelball championship.

Returning as letterwinners from last year's 6-12 squad are Todd Kratke, Mike Nelson-and four seniors who include 'Kevin Greve, Brad Lund, Randy Kinney and Bruce Partols

The 6'3". Greve was the team's second leading scorer last year, averaging about 10 points a game. "The strength of, our, team will be to get the ball inside to Kevin. And we plan to be as aggressive as last year," said Faton.

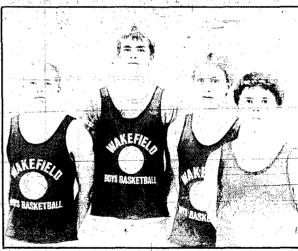

Early-in-the sqason. Brad and Scott Lund are currently practicing lightly, getting over injuries suffered prior to the start of basketball season. Their playing status for the first game against Pender on Dec. 4 is questionable.

Wakefield will play the conference's toughest opponents early in the schedule. Those two teams are Wausa, which Eaton said is the best team on the schedule, and Bancrott/Rosalle.

"By the time districts roll around we should be coming on. Our goal is to win the district tournament," Eaton said.

The Trojans have 22 boys out for basketball this year, with at least nine good freshman players to challenge some of the more experienced players.

"We hope to have a good, fun year," Eaton mentioned.

Three starters back from 13-5 squad

Unlike last year, Allen Lady Eagle Coach Gary Troth has the luxury of having experience on his side.

Troth returns three starters and five of his top seven players from last year's 13-5

The starting front line of Kris Blohm, 5:11. Ifflamy Harder, 5:9, and Lana Erwin, 5:9 willalso give Troth a decided height advantage against a majority of the opponents. Kristi Chase and Barb Hansen also have starting experience and round out the probable allsenior starting lineup.

Troth said he will feel comfortable to go to his bench when necessary. Sophomore guard Amy Noe and 5-9 junior Liz Hansen will see plenty of action. By midseason, the coach said, he hopes to be able to go eight deep off his bench.

Troth said experience and team height are his team's strengths.

"We've worked together and know a little bit about each other," he said. "The top five girls are all at least 5-8."

The skipper said the Lady Eagle offense is designed to go inside. But, he added, Chase and Irwin should give the team some outside punch. He said the offense will have to adapt to whatever the detense gives them.

Troth's squad will also be looking to push the ball up the court.

"We'll try to score off the fast break," he said. "If we get a chance to run and post up our guards on shorter opponents we'll do that Troth said fans will see a different team on defense this year.

"For the last three years we've played strictly man-lo-man-defense." Troth said: ""We will be playing a little more zone defense this year."

Troth warned about the possibility of a lack of intensity. He said with the kind of experience he has there tends to be a break between the Top unit and the bottom unit. He hopes to avoid that problem.

Troth said he looks for Ponca and Emerson to be tough in conference play. He said the Lady Eagles must also look out for an improved Homer squad.

"I don't like to take anyone lightly," he said. "But I'd like to think we will be among the favorites."

Allen squad plans fast break

The opponents of Allen better have their running shoes on when they take the court against the Eagles this year.

Coach Dave Uldrich, in his fifth year as head coach, said his team will try to get up and down the court and try to avoid becoming a half-court team.

"The key will be if we can ruh," he said.
"We have the best people to run a break that we've had."

The Eagle's have one starter returning from last year's 3-14 squad. He is 6-3 senior Max Oswald. Oswald, a three-year starter, will alternate his time playing forward and center. Uldrich has two other lettermen returning from last, year on his 13-man squad. They are senior's Jyoff Kwankin, and Jeff Gotch.

Uldrich said his team's strength heading into the season is its shooting ability. He said Oswald will probably lead the team in the offensive categories. He is probably one of the better offensive players in the conference, Uldrich said.

On the other hand defense, or lack of and inexperience are the team's weakness.

"Some nights we may give up 70 points or 50 points, it just depends," he said.

Seven of the team's 13 players are freshmen. Only three of Uldrich's players have varsity experience.

Because of Allen's inexperience, the coach said, the pre-Christmas schedule could be rough for his team.

"The pre-Christmas schedule could be a challenge to get everything to fall into place," he said. "After Christmas we should be a lot more competitive."

Good team balance is also a plus for Allen. Uldrich said he has eight or nine players that could star tist they were pressed into duty. He said they really don't have a severe drop from top to bottom. "The Eagles will be without the services of senior Mark Isom. Isom may be sidelined until late in the season due to a broken wrist. If he can get back into shape, Uldrich said, Isom may see some action late in the season. Uldrich said the team's goal is to have a

"With our youth, a .500 season would be successful," he said. "Anything more would be icing on the cake."
