Chapter 12 analyzed

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Filing on the Chapter 12 form for bankruptcy could be considered by some farmers as a means to save part of the homestead. If not able to save the entire farm.

However, some local lending institution officers feel that the new Chapter 12 form of bankruptcy will tighten credit to all farmers.

Bill Dickey of First National Bank was one of several from this area who attended a recent meeting in Norfolk which had addressed the limitations and the specifics of Chapter 12.

What Chapter 12 is designed to do is allow those with family farms to stay in business by paying off their debts over a period of years. The law will provide a better opportunity for the farmer in that if the homestead is already subject to a loan, that loan is written down or up to the current market value of the homestead.

The loan period can then be re-amortized for 30 years and the interest rates reduced to the current real estate interest rate.

HOWEVER IN some instances where the loan amounts and interest rates are scaled down to what the present farmer's property is reappraised, the lending institutions will be unable to collect that reduced amount.

Where family farm loans exceed $1.5 million, or where less than 80 percent of income is derived family farm operations, filing for Chapter 12 bankruptcy does not apply.

Dickey said he believes that the Chapter 12 law favors the debtors and will not be good for agriculture in general. "I think it will tighten credit for all farmers — particularly those farmers who are considered as marginal, or who are on the verge of bankruptcy."

In his opinion, he said, the new law not only affects the banking industry, but also the suppliers of agricultural products. "It will make credit more difficult to get," Dickey mentioned.

With Chapter 12, the process will be speedier, but there there will be more rigid time constraints. Farmers are required to have a good plan and they must live up to those plans.

CHAPTER 12 goes into effect as of Nov. 26, Dickey mentioned. And the big factor in regard to the new bankruptcy law will be the appraisals of the land and the farm machinery.

"I think it will be difficult for the appraiser to come up with a fair market value," said Dickey.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Timothy Mahoney was present at Tuesday's session that dealt with the new Chapter 12 law. Dickey learned that Mahoney will be giving high priority to Chapter 12 filings because he is concerned about the family farms.

Dickey said Mahoney does not want to see the Chapter 12 filings get "backlogged into the court system."

J. David Aiken, associate professor of agriculture economics at University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said in a news release that many farmers would be better off using Chapter 12 Bankruptcy to save their farms rather than using the Homestead Redemption Act — that was recently signed by Gov. Bob Kerrey.

Under the new Homestead Redemption Act, a farmer can pay just the appraised value to the lender to redeem the homestead, but only on those loan papers filed after Nov. 21, Aiken said.

Instead, he said, farmers may decide to go through Chapter 12 bankruptcy procedures rather than adhere to the Homestead Redemption Act.

Seasonal hours set at Post Office

To accommodate the heavy mail-rush brought on because of the holiday season, the Wayne Post Office has arranged to have two mail runs to Norfolk beginning Wednesday, Dec. 10 until Tuesday, Dec. 23.

Exception to the two-run-a-day will be on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 13-14 and Dec. 20-21.

Mail for the first delivery must be at the post office by 2 p.m. The next delivery will be as usual, with mail to be at the post office by 5:30 p.m.

On the dates when there is only one run (Saturday and Sunday), the mail will go out as posted on the box at 5:30 p.m.

When the lobby is not open, mailers are encouraged to use the drop boxes outside the post office.

Post office officials also emphasize the importance of mailing cards and gifts early to assure timely arrival.

Men's night out

It's men's night on the town Wednesday, Dec. 10.

Several Wayne merchants have combined their open hours with some timely specials and are offering a Men Only Shopping Night.

The hours for shopping are from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The men are welcome to come into the stores participating in the Men's Only Shopping Night and browse around for extra savings when purchasing those extra special Christmas gifts.

See page 12 for more details.

Combining their efforts

SOME NEIGHBORS and friends from the Dixon, Laurel and Concord area provided a helping hand to Norman Lubberstedt and his family during the past week. Lubberstedt is currently recuperating from a heart attack he suffered over a week ago. On Tuesday, the volunteer workers cleared about 90 acres of corn near the Laurel Cemetery and on Wednesday and Thursday, up to 300 acres of corn was harvested near Dixon. All totaled, the number of helpers reached 63, and up to eight combines were in the Lubberstedt fields throughout the harvest ordeal. Without their help, Reg Lubberstedt said it would have taken at least a couple more weeks to complete the harvesting.

Wayne State launches new Business Partner campaign

A partnership between Wayne State College of Nebraska and Wayne and northeast Nebraska businesses was unveiled Thursday morning by Wayne State President Dr. Thomas A. Coffey.

The Wayne State Business Partners is a project sponsored by the Wayne State Foundation to have the college and area businesses work together in order to mutually meet their goals.

At a breakfast for Wayne business persons, Dr. Coffey explained that for a minimum annual gift of $200 to Wayne State, an area business can become a member of the Wayne State Business Partners. The gifts to the Foundation are used by the college to support student scholarships, programs, services, educational equipment and books.

More than 80 percent of Wayne State College students receive some form of financial aid. Investment in the 1987 Business Partners Fund helps to keep a Wayne State education affordable and within reach of as many young people as possible.

Dr. Coffey explained that business which becomes a Wayne State Business Partner will receive recognition of its membership in newspaper ads and other publications; will be included on an Annual Donors Plaque to be displayed in the Student Center and a Lifetime Giving Plaque to be displayed in the Fine Arts Center lobby, and will receive a decal for its window or door.

The Wayne State Partner will also receive the support of the college.

"We as a college will strongly encourage our students, our faculty, our staff, our alumni, and our friends to do business with a Wayne State Partner because they are wanting to help our college," Dr. Coffey said.

"We're going to say that openly and directly — the kind of people we want you to do business with are Wayne State Partners," he added.

DR. COFFEY said he believes the program will be effective for the businesses as well as being a "tremendous" help for the college.

Coffey told the audience that Wayne State College is no longer state supported, but "state assisted."

He said only 72 percent of the college budget comes from the state legislature and that "outside help" is needed desperately.

Annual fund gifts of any size are valued and important to Wayne State and its students. Groups available are Corporate Presidents Society ($2,500 or higher); Presidents Society ($500 to $2,499) and most recent, Business Partners ($200-$499).

President's Society members each year receive a pass for athletic events and the Black and Gold Series; a framed, limited edition print of a campus landmark; and an invitation to social functions on the Wayne State College campus.

SHANE GIESE, executive director of the Wayne State Foundation, said the Business Partners proposal has received favorable response thus far. In previous years, the business drive was "conducted" among Wayne business people.

However, in 1987, it was decided to expand the business drive on a regional basis, eventually to achieve the ultimate goal of including all of the "businesses in northeast Nebraska."

Giese said that because of time and manpower, the 1987 target areas for the Business Partners drive is South Sioux City, Wayne and Norfolk. Those targets will expand in future years.

With the new Tax Reform Act of 1986 being phased in beginning on Jan. 1, 1987, Giese said it is helpful for business people and others to know about the Business Partners project. Professional advisors are recommending that taxpayers take as many deductions (including making the largest possible gifts) this year instead of next, when tax rates will generally be lower.

Heating assistance

Gina C. Dunning, Director of the Nebraska Department of Social Service, has announced that her department has funds available for heating assistance this winter. This assistance is available through the Nebraska Low Income Energy Assistance Program. Applications may be made at local Social Services offices across the state.

The program provides assistance to eligible, low income Nebraska households in paying their heating costs. A household of one is eligible if their total gross income for the year will be less than $5,896. The maximum yearly income for a household size of four is $12,100. The household would also have to be responsible for their heating costs and their resources could not exceed $5,000 for any size household.

Recipients of last year's program will receive applications in the mail during the next few weeks. Other interested households may request applications by contacting their local Department of Social Services office. Applications must be made by March 31, 1987.

If you or anyone you know needs this service, contact the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging at 371-7454 or Toll-free 1-800-672-8368.

'hacken' away

by Chuck Hackenmitter

When reviewing the Christmas survey answers the past week, Lufefisk was entered as one of the foods served at the individual's traditional Christmas meal.

To some people, Lufefisk is not so appetizing. To others, it is a taste to savor. I've never had the meal of Lufefisk. Probably because some people have told me that the taste is one that has to be acquired.

Lufefisk, or sometimes referred to as Lufisk, is defined as "stockfish which has been soaked for several days in lye water to prepare it for cooking."

Stock fish is defined as fish dried flat in the open air without salt, especially cod, haddock, hake, ling and torsk. Also, figuratively "it" means something thoroughly beaten and fattened out.

The definition of "lye" says originally, a strong alkaline liquor (containing chiefly potassium carbonate), obtained by leaching wood ashes and formerly much used in soap making or washing.

I guess there goes my appetite for Lufefisk. Even if someone offered to give me a taste at no cost, I still would not be able to decide if I could bite down on the fish.

At most dinners, the Lufefisk is served with something else like Swedish meatballs. In this instance where the Christmas dinner is concerned, potato bologna was joined with the Lufefisk.

Now potato bologna — that's something I could eat over and over again.

But Lufefisk? That kind of scares me.

By the way, if anyone still wants to answer that Christmas survey, it is reproduced somewhere on this page.

We are asking that the surveys be in our hands by Dec. 17.

The answers we have been receiving are interesting, to say the least, and they will be compared to the other surveys and tabulated as to popularity — and uniqueness — of the answers.

And we appreciate those who have spent the cost of a postage stamp to mail the survey in to us.

Once in a while we run a column "Up With Agriculture" by David Garst. Garst recently received a poem from Sandy Schwenecker, a farmer and mother from Seneca, Illinois. Sandy's poem reads:

"I had a seed deep in my heart, a seed to grow a farmer. How'd you get that seed you say, I got it from my father.

He got it from my grandpa, while sittin' on his knee. They held it dear and nourished it, and passed it on to me.

I've held it close for all these years; I've kept that seed alive. I've planted it in my own son's heart, a farmer he should be.

I gave him all the same things that my daddy gave me. The sunshine, soil and lots of love, you see.

I teach him how to trust in God, and that he makes each crop. I taught him that he must pray for rain, and cherish every drop.

I let him smell the new mown hay and hold a baby calf. I let him drive the tractor, and I teach him how to laugh.

He isn't very big yet, he'll be eleven soon. But he works right there beside me, as I harvest beneath the moon.

Someday he'll be a grown man, and a farmer just like me. And that seed will grow a farmer, just you wait and see."

ask a lawyer

a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. If there is a hall for dining and meetings and a kitchen in the basement of a church, would the furniture, supplies, equipment, etc., purchased and used there, be state tax (sales tax) exempt?

A. Yes. Purchases by any organization created exclusively for religious purposes are tax exempt. This includes purchases of food and food products for sale by a church at a function of that church. The church must use purchasing agents in order to procure the goods on a tax-exempt basis, and their appointment must be in writing and have occurred prior to purchasing the goods.

Q. Can an "interested party" such as a friend, or distant relative, find out how an estate is being distributed, before the final distribution? The person who died hinted that he had left me something, but I have not been contacted since his death.

A. Anyone who has a property right in the estate of a deceased person (the "decendent"), or who has a claim against the estate's assets because of being a creditor to the deceased, or who may be affected by the probate of the estate, qualifies as an "interested party" under the laws of Nebraska. The personal representative of the estate has a duty to notify those persons who qualify as interested parties. Persons who are heirs of an estate because of their legal relationship to the decendent, or because of being named in the will, must receive notice of any probate of a will, notice of the appointment of a personal representative and notice of the location of probate proceedings.

When an estate is filed, it becomes a matter of public record, and there is nothing to prevent you from going to the court and looking at the file to see if you are an interested party. In doing so, if there is a will you might examine the will and see if any provision has been made for you. You may also look at the inventory which will show what property was owned by the decendent at the time of death, and whether or not you appear to have any interest in that property. Upon payment of any required fees, you may also request copies of documents that have been filed.

It is possible that your friend never carried out his intention to make a bequest for you in his will. The only ways in which property passes from a decendent to another person are through a will, or through jointly owned property, or through a payable on death account, or through a life insurance policy. All of these, with the possible exception of the insurance policy, will be shown in the estate proceedings.

If you have a legal question, write "Ask a Lawyer," P.O. Box 2528, Lincoln 68502. This column is intended to provide general legal information, not specific legal advice. "Ask a Lawyer" is a public service of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

USSR trade discussed

Representative Doug Bereuter met on Wednesday with a five-member Soviet trade delegation that included Soviet Minister of Trade, Boris Aristov.

The Soviet delegation was in New York and Washington for a meeting of the U.S. — USSR Trade Council, and for the first time the group came to Capitol Hill to meet with members of Congress.

Bereuter and Iowa Congressman Cooper Evans spent two hours with the Soviet officials at a meeting in Bereuter's office.

The focus of the discussion, according to Bereuter, was on the issue of USSR non-compliance with the long-term grain trade agreement and Soviet intentions regarding future purchase of U.S. grain. The Soviets raised concern over U.S. grain prices, which are higher than competitor prices, and over grain quality.

The Soviets revealed more information about a dramatic shake-up in the Soviet grain purchasing entity, in which officials apparently were convicted of the misappropriation of funds and of permitting an inferior quality of grain to be delivered to Soviet customers.

"Because of this shake-up," Bereuter said, "the Soviets are adamant about the quality of grain that they are importing, and they feel that their efforts are being resisted by U.S. grain shipping companies. This attitude on the part of grain shippers is very detrimental to American grain farmers."

At the meeting a proposal was made that a small shipment of grain go directly from U.S. producers to the Soviets, circumventing the existing U.S. grain export companies.

"A shipment could go directly from a Nebraska elevator to the USSR customer," Bereuter said. "This would provide a demonstration of real quality in American grain."

BECAUSE THE Soviets do not now have a mechanism for shipping such small amounts of grain, this proposal would require some bureaucratic adjustments on their part.

The Soviet delegation also pointed out that they can now buy grain at a lower cost from a half dozen other countries because of the export subsidies that these other countries use.

"This is why I have contended that the export enhancement program should be applied to all traditional U.S. grain customers," Bereuter said.

The delegation also reminded us that last year, even with lower wheat purchases, they bought $2.4 billion in U.S. products, while we bought $400 million in Soviet products," he said.

"They pointed out that this has been the typical deficit between the two nations and that they need to sell more if they are to get the hard U.S. currency necessary to buy our grain."

The most usual U.S. purchases from the Soviet Union are anhydrous ammonia and urea.

"We concluded a lengthy and candid meeting on a positive note," Bereuter said, "by agreeing to continue to explore ways to improve our trade situation. While sudden major breakthroughs are unlikely, I think that positive changes can be made incrementally."

Trees light up Christmas

By Steven D. Rasmussen, Northeast District Extension Forester, Nebraska Forest Service

With the Thanksgiving holiday over with and Christmas fast approaching, many households are packing away the turkey decorations and putting up Santa Claus and reindeer displays.

Another Christmas tradition you may be thinking about is the selection of the Christmas tree. Each year, over 30 million American families bring a natural Christmas tree into their homes to become the warm and glowing center of their Christmas celebration.

When purchasing a "Real" Christmas tree, the basic rule of thumb is to buy a fresh tree and keep it fresh. There are two simple tests for freshness. If you are visiting a local Christmas tree choose and cut a farm, freshness is not a problem. However, if you are purchasing from a retail outlet, there are two simple tests for freshness.

First, check the condition of the needles by placing a needle between your thumb and forefinger. Then bring your fingers together. If bent gently the needle from a fresh tree should bend rather than break.

The second test for freshness is to lift the tree a few inches off the ground and then drop it down on the stump end. If outside green needles fall off in abundance, the tree may not be fresh. Pine trees shed their inside needles every fall and sometimes needles lodge among the branches. This is a normal process and not the sign of an old or dry tree.

ONCE THE TREE is home, care for it as carefully as you would care for cut flowers. Keep the tree outdoors (but protected from the wind and sun) or on an unheated porch or patio until you are ready to decorate. An area that provides protection from the wind will help the tree retain its moisture.

If you've purchased your tree a week or more before you intend to decorate, it's best to keep the trunk of the tree in water. Any large container will do. Simply make a fresh, straight cut across the trunk about an inch from the original cut. This opens the tree stem so it can take up water. Then plunge the trunk end immediately into fresh water. If you allow the water level to drop below the fresh cut, a seal will form, just as it does on a cut flower, and a new cut will be necessary.

Branches trimmed from the bottom of your new tree provide bouqs for centerpieces and decorations, adding a delightful fragrance to your home.

If possible, bring the tree into a partially heated area (basement or porch) the night before decorating. This will help it adjust gradually to the warmer temperatures in your home.

AVOID USE OF combustible decorations. Check all electric lights and connections. Do not use lights with worn or frayed cords and never use lighted candles. Place the tree away from fireplaces, radiators, television sets and other heat sources. These elements with in your garden and the trunk can be used for fuel or chopped for mulch. Branch tips and needles provide aromatic stuffing for sachets.

Trees are thirsty. They may drink between two pints to a gallon of water per day, so make sure to check daily and supply fresh water as needed. A tree stand which holds at least one gallon of water is recommended.

A natural Christmas tree engages not only our senses of sight, smell and touch, but also the sense of tradition. The tree evokes a mood of holidays from long ago.

There are a number of "Real" tree retailers, and it doesn't hurt to shop around. If you want the adventure and excitement of choosing and cutting your own tree with your family from a plantation, contact your County Extension Agent or District Forester's office for a reference to local Christmas Tree Farms.

news and notes

many terms extension agent-home et

The art of thoughtful toy buying Christmas and toys are almost synonymous. You probably remember a special toy you received as a child at Christmas. More than likely that toy became special because it was chosen with your wants, needs and activities in mind.

So when you choose toys for a child this Christmas, look beyond the luster and glitter of toy departments and evaluate the child you're buying for — his age, play space, temperament and favorite activities.

Children's play is more than just amusement. It is their way of exploring the world and finding out what makes things tick. Toys can help stimulate imagination, curiosity, ingenuity, concentration, physical skills and social contacts.

CAREFULLY CHOSEN playthings have an important role in a child's informal education. Children don't need many toys, just different kinds of toys that offer different experiences.

The color of a toy doesn't have to be the same as a similar object in the adult world. Too many colors on a toy can be confusing or frustrating. Toys are tools for children and do not need useless decorations. Incompetence in detail can even be a challenge to a child's imagination.

Consider the durability of a toy you select. This will depend on its intended use and the age and temperament of the child. Toys should withstand rough treatment, but not abuse. A little boy or girl should not have to go through the sorrow of having toys broken.

WHEN PURCHASING a toy, remember that high price itself is no guarantee of quality and pleasure. An expensive toy which will be used for a long time can, however, be the best buy.

In the long run, cheap toys of poor quality and little attraction are the most expensive of all. Also realize that small girls, like tiny accessories for a doll house, can give a lot of pleasure and may stimulate long-lasting play.

Remember these developmental guidelines when purchasing toys:
—For infants up to one year, proper gifts are playthings to chew, squeeze or drop. They should be washable and unbreakable. Allow the infant to come in contact with different materials, shapes, textures, color and sounds to offer variety. Although this variety is desirable, too many experiences at once confuse and overwhelm them.

—Toddlers have very short interest spans. They like to push or pull things, load and unload, and pick up items again and again. Their fingers are becoming more skillful and they like to stack things and poke things into holes. A toddler also likes to look at pictures, but only for short periods of time.

—Older children like toys with big movements to exercise their growing muscles. But they also need small toys to help develop body control and dexterity.

Toys help a child grow physically, emotionally and mentally. Be a wise shopper and choose a toy that can help your child grow in these ways.

Cats use 9 lives in double-overtime burner

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

A great team effort, those were the words Wildcat Coach Steve Aggers used to describe Wayne State's 76-75 double-overtime win over Missouri Western Wednesday night.

The win makes the Cats undefeated at home, 3-0 and boosts their season record to 3-5. Aggers' team is on top of the CSIC with a 1-0 mark.

Junior Scott Hurley paced the Wildcats in overtime as he scored 13 of the team's 15 points in the extra periods. The Anaconda, Montana native scored a team-high 24 points on the night. Russ Rosenquist, making his first start of the season, responded with 22 points.

Wayne State had a chance to win the game in regulation. The Cats called time out after a Griffon turnover with 36 seconds left.

After the time out they ran the clock down to 14 seconds before they started to run the play designed by Aggers. Senior Vincent White started his drive to the clear side of the court and threw up his shot with seven seconds to go. The shot went in and out and Missouri Western got the rebound. Mark Ross, a native of Omaha, put up a desperation shot from about 30 feet, the ball hit the rim and bounced out. The score after 40 minutes was 61-61.

After a Griffon basket Hurley put the Cats up by a point with a three-point hoop with 4:40 left in the first overtime. Seconds later White stole the ball but missed the layup. Hurley followed the miss to give the Cats a 66-63 lead.

After freshman David Washington hit a three-pointer to tie the score at 69 Missouri Western again had a chance to win the game but Maurice Collins missed two shots from in close and the game went into the second overtime.

Washington came out and canned a three-pointer to give the Griffons a 72-69 lead. A basket by White and a pair of free throws by Hurley gave the lead back to the Cats. The winning basket was Hurley's second three-pointer from the left baseline with 2:03 left in the overtime period.

Daniel Gambrell added another basket for the Griffons but it wasn't enough. The game ended after Missouri Western got the ball trailing by a point. The visitors ran the clock down to four seconds when Collins let his shot fly it was no good and the Cats began to celebrate.

Wayne State started the game by jumping on top 17-6 after about nine minutes of play. With each possession the Cats used about 30 seconds off the 45-second shot clock. The locals went scoreless for more than seven minutes. That's when the Griffons mounted their comeback which brought them even at halftime, 25-25.

Mo. Western posted a seven-point lead, 38-31, after Gambrell scored with about 15 minutes left in the game.

The Wildcats clawed their way back to knot the score at 49 with eight minutes remaining. From there the Griffons ran off eight straight points to go up 57-49. Hurley tied the score at 59 with 3:10 left on a backdoor feed from White. From there each team exchanged baskets and the pair went into overtime.

MARK GRACY and Wayne State teammates celebrate the thrill of victory after they downed CSIC foe Missouri Western in a pair of overtimes Wednesday night.

Aggers got his wish in the closing minutes of regulation when the crowd began to get into the game. Earlier in the game he was jestering to the fans to make some noise.

In the overtime periods the crowd of 1,200 sounded much larger. Among the cheering was chants of D-E-F-E-N-S-E and "sit down Skip," referring to Missouri Western Coach Skip Shear.

"We need that homecourt advantage," Aggers said. We need the students to become more involved."

The Cat defense, for the most part shut down Western's leading scorer Gambrell. He came into the game averaging 20.3 points a game. The junior from Cleveland, Ohio scored a game-high 26 points but was not a factor in the overtime periods. He managed only five points in overtime.

"That was our game plan," Aggers said. "We played behind him and when he got the ball we double-teamed him."

The Wildcats ended the game shooting 44 percent from the field compared to Missouri Western's 43 percent. The Cats held their own on the boards as they pulled down 37 rebounds compared to 41 for the taller Griffons.

White, the shortest man on the court led Wayne State in rebounds with seven. White also dished out 10 assists and scored 10 points. Gambrell led Western with 17 rebounds.

SHELLY PICK of Wayne puts up a shot during the game against Madison on Thursday. Pick was the team's high shooter with 14 points in the win.

Lady Blue Devils nip Madison in waning minutes of ball game

Who's ahead when the buzzer sounds is all that matters.

The Wayne Lady Blue Devils won their first game of the year Thursday nipping Madison on its home court 54-53.

Wayne took the lead for the first time with about 30 seconds left in the game on a follow-up basket by Shelly Pick. The senior grabbed the offensive rebound after Dana Nelson missed a 15-foot jump shot and put it in to give Wayne a 52-51 lead.

After a Madison time-out, the host tried to run time off the clock before taking the last shot but it backfired. Robin Luff deflected the ball and Nelson grabbed it and was fouled. The sophomore drilled both free throws with less than 10 seconds to go to give Wayne a 54-51 lead. The Lady Blue Devils let Madison dribble the length of the floor to score and let the rest of the time run off the clock for the win.

In the first half things didn't look so good for the locals. The Lady Blue Devils' big people got in serious foul trouble. At one point, Wayne had guards Jodi Dittman and Marnie Bruggeman playing the forward and center positions.

That forced Coach Marlene Uhing to play senior Kecia Corbit. Corbit has practiced very little because of an illness. Corbit responded with 13 points and 10 rebounds in less than two quarters.

"I didn't expect to get that much out of her," Uhing said. "She struggled in the first half but played well in the second half."

Wayne trailed in the third period by 10 points. Uhing said the team would mount a comeback then they would send Madison to the free-throw line and allow some easy baskets and the Lady Dragons would again increase their lead.

In the fourth quarter that all changed.

"By the end of the game we were playing real smart," the coach said. "We were executing on offense and the kids knew what they were doing." Uhing said another factor in the comeback was conditioning. She said she thought that the Madison girls were tired at the end of the game.

Pick was the top Lady Blue Devil scorer with 14 points. The senior also added eight rebounds. Nelson was the third Wayne girl in double figures with 11 points. She scored all of her points in the second half. The girls hit 20.63 shots from the field and they connected on 66 percent of their free throws.

Earlier in the evening the Wayne junior varsity downed Madison 27-24. Luff led the way with six points and eight rebounds. Jennifer Wessel contributed seven boards.

Led at halftime 26-7

Lady Eagles soar to victory

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Allen Lady Eagles got off to a flying start as they caged the Winside Wildcats 60-35 Thursday night at Winside.

The Allen girls jumped out to a 26-7 lead at halftime and never looked back.

Allen Coach Gary Troth said good defense and a fast-break offense got the Lady Eagles the big lead. Allen posted a 19-5 lead after the first quarter and held the Wildcats to two points while scoring seven points in the second period.

Winside Coach Jill Stenwall said 13 first-half turnovers and tough luck shooting spelled trouble for the hosts. The Wildcats connected on only one of 32 shots from the field in the opening half.

"The shots were where we normally shoot the ball but they wouldn't go in," she said.

In the second half the Wildcats played on an even keel against the Lady Eagles. Allen outscored Winside by only six points in the final half.

With Allen holding the big lead Troth's team stayed in a zone defense the second half. He said his girls got a little tired towards the end of the game, something that is not unusual for the first game of the season.

Troth said his team was able to score several easy baskets when the girls in the middle hit the gaps in the Winside zone defense.

Allen placed three girls in double figures. Lana Erwin paced the Lady Eagles with 16 points. Kris Blohm and Tiffany Harder added 13 and 12 points respectively.

"We played well under control," Troth said. "We did the things we wanted to do."

Stenwall said she was happy with the Wildcats play in the second half. She said the team will start to play better after they learn to play together.

Sophomore Kristy Miller led Winside in scoring with 12 points. Ann Meierhenry added eight points and Christi Thies tossed in seven points.

Allen was victorious in the junior varsity game by a 78-10 score. Toni Boyle was the top scorer with 10 points. Lisa Janke led Winside with six points.

Greve scores 24 in Wakefield loss

The Wakefield-Trojans started the 1986-87 basketball campaign on the short end of a 63-44 score against Pender Thursday night.

The Trojans lost the game in the middle quarters as they were outscored 36-14 in the second and third periods.

Wakefield Coach Paul Eaton said he didn't think the score indicated how one-sided the game was.

"The game was worse than the score indicated," he said. "The guys played hard but they didn't play well."

Eaton went on to say that the coaching staff took as much blame for the loss as did the players. He said the Trojans offense was too one dimensional.

"Pender had better overall size than we did but their tallest starter was only 6-1," Eaton said. "That is why we thought we could get the ball inside to Kevin (Greve). But we went into him too much."

As a result of forcing the ball inside, Eaton said, the Trojans had several turnovers on the pass.

Greve led Wakefield in scoring with 24 points. Junior Mike Nelson added 13 markers. No other Trojan scored more than two points.

The Penderons were led in scoring by Brad Vogt's 28-point performance. Eaton said they applied a box and one defense on Vogt to slow him down but it didn't help.

Winside breaks losing streak

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The drought has ended. The Winside boys' basketball team bounced Allen 57-33 in both teams' season opener Thursday night at Winside. The win was the first for the Wildcats since they beat Decatur 46-43 on Feb. 10, 1984.

Winside Coach Mark Freburg, who was coach at the time, said he didn't mention the 36-game losing streak to the kids before the game. "We started out the new year fresh," Freburg said. "The kids have a good positive attitude."

The Wildcats came out hot in the first quarter thanks to the inside punch of senior Kevin Jaeger. Max Oswald kept Allen in the game in the first half as he hit from inside and outside. The Wildcats led after the first quarter 13-10. They stretched the lead to 25-17 at the intermission. In the second half Winside came out with confidence and took it to the Eagles, outscoring them 13-4.

Both teams installed full-court pressure throughout the game. Winside got a couple of quick baskets off of the press in the third quarter. The Wildcats also played well on defense. Allen could only manage one shot each time down the court.

Allen Coach Dave Uldrich said he felt that his team's youth and inexperience showed during the game. Seven of the 15 players that suited up for the Eagles were freshmen, one, Kent Chase, started the contest.

Freburg said he was pleased with the play of his frontline. Seniors Kevin Jaeger, Mike Thies and Daryl Mundil combined for 38 points with Jaeger tallying 18 and Mundil and Thies collecting 10 points apiece. Sophomore guard Tim Jacobsen scored 17 points from the outside.

"Our post guys pass the ball well," Freburg said. "They look for each other if they are covered. It's tough to lose a game when you have four guys in double figures."

It was just the opposite for Allen. Oswald closed a game-high 25 points. The next closest Eagle was Chase with four points.

"We're either going to have to make more shots or we're going to have to play better defense," Uldrich said.

The taller Winside squad out-rebounded Allen 37-32. The trio of Jaeger, Mundil and Thies pulled down 13, 12 and nine rebounds respectively. Freburg said he stressed rebounding to his team. The Winside skipper said he was pleasantly pleased with the low number of turnovers. "We handled the ball much better than I expected," he said. "Eight turnovers for the first game is very good."

Bears sneak by Norfolk Catholic

Laurel got in the win column Friday night with some tough defense and a balanced scoring attack as they defeated Norfolk Catholic a 45-42 setback at Norfolk.

Coach Mark Hrabik said the game wasn't pretty but the Bears got the job done. Good defense by both teams and tough shooting luck kept the score low.

It took the Bears nearly three minutes to score their first points of the year but they managed to lead after the first quarter by a 7-4 count. Both teams picked it up some offensively in the second quarter. Laurel held onto a four point lead at halftime, 21-17.

"We felt like we were in pretty good shape," Hrabik said. "We didn't play very well in the first half and we still led by four points."

Hrabik said he was unhappy with his team's rebounding in the first half. The Knights had 10 offensive rebounds in the first half and scored many of their points from the inside. The skipper said the Bears did a much better job of controlling the boards in the second half.

Laurel opened up a 10-point lead in the third quarter but didn't hold it for long. They allowed Catholic to get back into the game by missing several free throws and not playing smart. Hrabik said he was a little disappointed how his team lost its composure during that stretch.

Laurel didn't have the big scorer but they had several fine performances turned in. Brent Halsch was second in scoring and he was the top rebounder. The senior tallied 10 points and 11 rebounds. Scott Marquardt was tops in scoring with 11 points. Steve Schmitt added eight points. Hrabik was also pleased with the play of Kyle Nixon. Nixon was named as a last-minute starter after Rick Lage became ill.

Norfolk Catholic, 0-1, was led by the 11-point performance of Ben Borgman.

"We need to get better. We were a little sloppy at times but playing down here we'll take a win," Hrabik said.

Lady Wildcats keep winning

There was another overtime game at Rice Auditorium this week and this time it was the Lady Wildcats winning.

Wednesday night the Wayne State men's basketball team downed Missouri Western in double overtime. Friday night the Lady Cats nipped Chadron State in an extra period 68-66.

The win lifted the Lady Cats' record to 6-1 and more importantly, they move to 2-0 in the Nebraska Athletic Conference.

Wayne State suffered through a rough night shooting as it managed to make only 32 percent of its shots, 26-82. Chadron State hit 35 percent of its field goals.

The Lady Eagles took a one-point lead into the locker room, 31-30. Their leading scorer Amy Randel had 14 of her 18 points by intermission. Linda Schnitzler led Wayne State with eight points.

The Lady Wildcats took the lead with 15:46 to play on a follow-up shot by Dawnn Berni. From then on the lead changed hands numerous times. The Lady Eagles biggest lead in the second half was four points at 47-43. Wayne State widest margin was three points at 56-53.

Mary Beth Ehrhorn had a chance to put the Lady Cats on top with 1:09 left after she was fouled. The sophomore missed the first of a one and one opportunity and Chadron State rebounded.

Guard Michelle Blomberg fouled Lisa Berry with 49 seconds remaining. Berry hit both free throws and the Lady Eagles led 60-58. Schnitzler put the game in overtime after putting up a missed shot by Berni.

Tonya Kelley put WSC ahead in the overtime period on a feed from Blomberg. Kelley scored five points in overtime: She had a chance to ice the game with 20 seconds left but missed a free throw. That gave Chadron one last chance to tie the score but a shot by Michelle Dahlberg bounded away with four seconds left to seal the win.

Berni turned in a fine performance. The junior scored 22 points and pulled down 13 rebounds. Three other Lady Cats finished in double figures. Kelley and Blomberg each tallied 13 points. Kelley also added 14 rebounds. Schnitzler, the team's leading scorer, finished with 10 points. The 5-6 guard also pulled down 10 rebounds. Wayne State outboarded Chadron 53-50.

The good news for Blue Devil fans is seniors. Bill Liska and Jon Stofenberg could be back to full strength for the Aquinas game. Both have been unable to practice because of injuries.

Blair zips past Blue Devils

The Wayne Blue Devils were treated rudely when they traveled to Blair for their opener losing 72-41.

The game was not left in doubt as the second-rated team in Class B posted a 38-20 lead at halftime. Coach Bob Uhing said the Bears took the Blue Devils completely out of their man-to-man offense.

Blair increased the lead to 58-26 after three periods and managed to blow the faithful crowd in the final 10 minutes.

"Blair is a veteran ball club," Uhing said. "Anytime you play a talented team like them their early with kids that haven't played together it's going to be tough."

The coach said his team will have plenty to work on before they travel to David City Friday to play David City Aquinas.

"We need to work on a lot of team things," said Uhing. "They played harder than we did tonight. We have to learn to play harder with more intensity."

Blair also dominated the rebounding game. In the first half the Bears held a 15-4 edge and things didn't change much in the second half as rebounding remained a key.

Wayne got an outstanding performance by senior Ted Luaders. The guard scored a team-high 18 points.

Laurel girls get win over smaller Coleridge

The Laurel Lady Bears gave Coach Pam Thies her first win as the Laurel skipper Thursday night as they trounced Coleridge 43-22.

The game could have been titled the Gail Twiford Show. The senior dominated on both ends of the floor as she pumped in a game-high 27 points and pulled down 18 game-high rebounds. Twiford scored 11 of the team's 18 field goals.

Laurel broke open a tight game in the third quarter by outscoring Coleridge 10-2. The Lady Bears held a 22-17 lead at the intermission. "I was concerned at halftime," Thies said. "I thought Coleridge would come out rarin' to go with a full-court press but they didn't. Instead Gail scored four or six quick points off of our press and after that the game wasn't close."

Thies said going into the contest the Lady Bears' game plan was to go inside to Twiford and Becky Christensen because of the large height advantage. Coleridge didn't have a starter taller than 5-9.

Although Laurel held the visitors to six points in the second half Thies said the team still needs to work harder on defense.

Another area the Lady Bears need to work on is shooting the ball. Besides Twiford no other Laurel players scored more than six points.

"I hope to get more scoring from other girls besides Gail," Thies said. "That will be a key in the later games."

Laurel also came out on top in the rebounding category. They out-rebounded their opponents 55-41. After Twiford's 18, Christensen was next in line with 12 rebounds. Julie Schutte added eight boards. Jodi Anderson led Coleridge in scoring with seven points.

Four Wayne wrestlers win in dual

Schuyler's varsity wrestling team had an enviable position that added up to 18 points during the match against Wayne-Carroll Thursday evening in Wayne.

But the Blue Devils didn't dwell on the disadvantage of three forfeits (which adds up to 18 points) that they gave up in the first three weight classes. They held their own and fought back against a strong formidable northeast Nebraska wrestling foe. The final score showed Schuyler winning by a score of 42-16.

"The kids put the 18 points out of their mind and gave it their best effort possible," said Blue Devil Head Coach John Murtaugh.

That effort produced four Blue Devil match wins in the next nine weight classes.

Marc Rahn got the Blue Devils on the scoreboard first at 119 pounds as he jumped to a 5-0 first period lead and was able to extend that lead in the second and third period to come away with a 16-7 win.

The next match at 126 pounds saw Blue Devil Corey Frye in a dogfight with Nick Kasik. Frye trailed 2-3 at the end of the first period, but came out on top on a Schuyler penalty and reversed in the second period to move ahead 6-5. He pulled away in the final period on a near fall and won by 8-5 score.

After Greg DeNaeyer was pinned in the second period by Schuyler's Dean Novack, the Blue Devils came with a pin on their own from Shane Geiger.

HE JUMPED to a 2-0 lead, but then Schuyler's Tom Kluck tied the score and went ahead, 5-2 when the first period ended. The score remained the same throughout the second period.

With about 1:14 seconds left in the third period Schuyler was able to get Kluck on his back for a pin.

Murtaugh characterized Geiger's performance as gutsy.

"There were a number of our other wrestlers who had to get tough when they had to, like Rahn, Frye and Chris Lutt and others," Murtaugh said.

Lutt, wrestling in the 167 spot, found himself in a tough match with Aaron Henry and at the end of the first period the score was deadlocked at 2-2.

Down by 4-2 in the second period and 6-5 in the third period, Lutt took advantage of a Schuyler penalty for grabbing the uniform and then scored a reversal to post the 8-6 win.

Wayne-Carroll's Jason Cole took Jeff Taake to the limit before losing 12-8 in the 185 weight class.

Although generally pleased with the Blue Devils' wrestling performance, Murtaugh said the team still needs to get in better shape. "But it is early in the season. That will come later with the competition," he added.

In B team competition, Tom Etter wrestled twice and each time recorded a pin. The same was true for Blue Devil Chad Frey.

Another getting a win in B team action was Brian Nelsen at 155, on the winning end of a 19-7 score.

Moral victory pleases Allen head coach

"I know a loss counts as a loss but this was a victory for us tonight," said Allen Eagle Coach Dave Uldrich.

Allen dropped its second game of the season, this one to highly-touted Coleridge Friday night by a score of 68-51.

Uldrich said he was very happy with the play of his young team. He said they trailed by only 10 with about two minutes left in the third quarter.

"We didn't win but we looked like a team tonight," he said.

Allen shot 50 percent from the field hitting 22-44 shots. They were again led by senior Max Oswald. He took game-high honors with 30 points. Oswald made 13 field goals and was 4-7 from the free throw line. He passed in 25 points in the opener. Fellow senior Jeff Gotch added in 12 points. Uldrich said Coleridge played man-to-man defense and Oswald took advantage of it.

The coach was also pleased with the way the Eagles moved the ball up and down the court.

"We played a team known to run and I think we wore them out in the first half from running," Uldrich said.

The taller Coleridge squad outrebounded Allen 40-25. They placed three people in double figures. Rod Benson scored a team-high 17 points. He was followed by Kelley Stallbaum and Scott Gray with 14 and 12 points respectively.

"I believe they're a state tournament team and we played well," he said. "I think if we play like this consistently we'll win some games we're not supposed to win."

Lady Wildcats win first CSIC contest of the year

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Lady Wildcats are on a roll. Wednesday night they increased their record to 5-1 with a 72-64 win over the Lady Griffons of Missouri Western. The win was also the first CSIC win for the Lady Cats in two years.

Coach Lenny Klaver's crew broke open a close game late in the second half enroute to the win. The Lady Griffons led at halftime 27-26.

Wayne State came out in the second half and hit 19-32 shots for 39 percent accuracy. The half also featured the 3-3 performance by junior Michelle Blomberg from three-point range. Coming into the game the Albert City, Iowa native was 0-2 from that range.

The first half was nip and tuck. The biggest lead for the Griffons was four points. Wayne State biggest margin was two points.

"They (Missouri Western) were the best team that we've played so far," Klaver said. "I knew we would have to play real hard to win."

The Cats held Western's top scorer Terry Haist to 12 points. She hit just 6-19 shots from the field. Haist entered the game averaging 17 points a game. Western had four girls in double figures, led by Anne Holland's 18 points.

The cats were led by their leading scorer Linda Schnitzler. The sophomore from Battle Creek tossed in 23 points. Through the first six games Schnitzler is averaging 20.6 points a game.

Center Dawn Berni added 16 points and seven rebounds. Blomberg also finished in double figures with 13 points. Sophomore Tonya Kelley also had a good game. The Omaha native scored eight points and pulled down a team-high nine rebounds.

Wayne State outrebounded the more physical Western squad 39-36. "I was real concerned with their physical strength inside," Klaver said. "That's credit to us because we outrebounded them."

The Lady Cats began to take control of the game after about the first five minutes of the second half. They cranked up their running game and got several easy baskets.

Wayne State led 45-35 after Schnitzler hit a jump shot with 14:29 left in the game. After that the pace began to slow back down in the favor of Western. The Lady Cats aided the visitors in their comeback with several costly turnovers. Western pulled to within a basket at 49-47 but could get no closer.

Winside's loss to Homer evens mark

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

Winside's one-game win streak was halted rather abruptly Friday night as Homer came to town and handed the Wildcats a 72-33 loss.

"I knew there was a chance for a big emotional letdown after last night," Coach Mark Freburg said referring to the Wildcats' win over Allen. "I told the kids we'll come back strong and I believe it."

The Knights jumped up 6-0 before the hosts could get on the scoreboard. With 4:40 left in the opening period Kevin Jaeger put up the first points for the Wildcats. Jaeger scored Winside's first six points.

Homer put full-court pressure on the Wildcats after made baskets. The press didn't bother Winside that much. Most of its turnovers came after the Wildcats had broken the press.

Homer opened the gap to 15-4 at the end of the first quarter, thanks largely to the Knights inside game. Juniors Kirk Harris and Chris Hergenrader controlled the offensive boards for the victors.

"I'll tell you what, they are a rough and physical team," said Freburg. The second quarter was much the same as the first with Homer opening up a 22-point lead at halftime, 38-16.

After halftime Winside tried to reestablish its inside game as it scored its first two baskets inside of the lane but the best the Wildcats could do was trade baskets with the Knights and trailed after three quarters 52-27.

Jaeger led the Wildcats with 11 points and 11 rebounds. Senior Mike Thies was also in double figures with 10 points.

Mark Bliven was the Knights' top scorer with 17 points.
