Alaskan adventure retold by Wayne woman

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Picture being isolated in one of America's 50 states, where in some regions English is almost a foreign language; where there are few televisions and telephones; where on a winter day the sunlight exists for only a few hours.

"This land is in Alaska — found in Eskimo country that is distant from the U.S. commercialized cities of Juneau, Anchorage and Fairbanks.

Wayne residents Renae and Doug Porter know from experience how cold and desolate Alaska can be. They grew acquainted with the lifestyle and culture of the Eskimo people.

"It is probably one of the neatest adventures that I have ever experienced," said Renae.

"When we got there, it was a culture shock — it's a whole lot different than living in the lower 48 states," she said.

During 1982-83 and 1983-84, the Porters lived in Manokotak, one of the thousands of small villages that thrive in Alaska. Renae was employed there as the teacher for the first and second grade class. Doug was a general education instructor in Manokotak with responsibilities including coaching basketball and volleyball.

Manokotak, located close to Dillingham and about 20 miles from the Pacific Ocean, is a village populated with 250 people, with about 50 houses and no roads.

How does one get to Manokotak? "To get there, we flew from Seattle to Anchorage (about a five-hour flight), took a smaller jet to Dillingham and then took a small single engine airplane to near Manokotak," she said.

THE VILLAGE is surrounded by tundra, with a river nearby. In warmer climate, when it can reach a maximum temperature of 70 degrees, the tundra ground is mushy and "almost like walking in heavy snow," Renae said.

"In the spring, you sink in mud up to your ankles," she said. "And in the winter, when it got so bitterly cold, Renae said "It was just like living on a great big ice cube."

The average winter temperature is about 35 degrees below zero on the tundra. "Almost everyone stayed inside. It took nearly 20 minutes just to bundle up and you had to wear goggles for protection from the cold," she said.

Some winter days in Alaska, there are only four hours of daylight as it gets dark by 3 p.m.

BUT THE Yupic-speaking Eskimos have learned to cope with the weather conditions. With no roads, the people had no cars. Parked in front of almost every home in Manokotak were two vitals for transportation and entertainment —

3-wheeler recreational vehicles and snowmobiles.

"There were usually a lot of accidents," Renae said. It was not surprising to see up to 13 snowmobiles parked in front of the Manokotak homes — one for each member of the family. "Families are very large there. And the 250 people that live in the village seemed all related to each other," she said.

Things were pretty much "open" in the village of Manokotak, including doors of the family homes. One never needed to knock on the doors, Renae said, "cause you just walk right in."

Houses are pre-fab models (there are few igloos in this part of Alaska), with the material brought in by barge. The barge came to Manokotak twice a year from Seattle during the spring and fall, as did other items of the "latest fad."

"The Eskimos did a lot of catalog shopping," Renae said. Some of the catalogs included Penny's or Sears, or any other catalog they can get their hands on. "They were able to keep up with the fashion," she said.

ALSO ON THE barge were supplies, such as powdered milk and lots of canned foods for the Porters. There were no grocery stores in Manokotak, no restaurants. A co-op about the size of a 7-11 Store was there, but it carried the non-essentials such as candy, pop and other items that were craved for among the sweet tooth Eskimos.

"It was a big day for the village when the barge came in," Renae said.

Television was new to the people of Manokotak. "They didn't know English well so they couldn't understand words. They would have the television on, the sound off and the CB radio on," Renae added.

Nearly all the homes in Manokotak had CB radios. No. communicated message was secret, not even from the only telephone in town. Everyone could pick up, on their CB's, the telephone conversations. "So we usually waited to fly to Anchorage if we wanted to talk to somebody on the telephone," mentioned Renae.

Flying was a major means of transportation for the Porters. But at times the weather was so bad, planes would not go up or down. If there was a medical emergency, the planes would only arrive or take off at the mercy of the weather.

"We went for a period of two weeks when we didn't get any mail," Renae remarked. She had experienced many hurried airplane rides, where the air pockets can be violent. "But it was the only way for us to get anywhere, so we got used to it," she said.

Eskimos were fearful of bush planes. The Eskimos also feared bears, such as the Kodiak and the grizzly.

Manokotak was a popular place for the bears. Bears like berries, as did the Eskimos, and there were up to eight different varieties of berries growing in the vicinity of the village.

Another attraction for bears was the smell of fish. Manokotak was a village that thrived on the fishing industry. "The village smelled like fish the moment we stepped off the plane," said Renae.

FISHING SEASON started in May. That was also when school ended, and the whole village seemed to close up shop. Homes were closed up and electrically shut off. Seemed like every member of the family went fishing, according to the Porters.

And the fish could be caught faster than the lines hit the water. The Eskimos had substantial earnings from the fishing industry. But often ran into financial problems because they lacked budgeting skills.

Every house had a fish drying rack. "The kids ate fish for breakfast, lunch and dinner," Renae said. Fish was a part of holiday or birthday celebrations.

For treats at Halloween, the children would receive dried fish or ice cream (made of Crisco and the berries).

On birthdays, people of the village were invited to feasts that commonly featured duck soup (recipe consisted of one whole duck plucked of feathers, gutted, with the head, eyes, bill and webbed feet intact, along with rice and water), a bowl of raw fish and a bowl of fish eyeballs.

A DELICACY among Eskimos was "stinky fish heads." Fish heads were saved, placed into a plastic bag and put near a warm spot in the household. Days later, the head was consumed by the Eskimos.

"And they didn't get sick from it, either," Renae said. Eskimos hunted porcupine, walrus, muskrat, caribou, moose and other wildlife for other meat, and used the skins to make clothes and crafts. "In some animals, they used everything but the bones," she mentioned.

To express their thankfulness for bountiful hunting, the Eskimos buried the bones where the animal was killed; the fish bones they threw back into the river.

Home Ec program at WSC

The Home Economics Department at Wayne State College will host approximately 80 Future Homemakers of America (FHA) students from six area high schools for a program Wednesday, Jan. 28, said Dr. LaVera Roemhildt, associate professor of home economics.

The FHA SEARCH (Student Events for Achievement and Recognition in Consumer Homemaking) program will involve students from Wakefield, Emerson-Hubbard, Wisner-Pilger, West Point, Randolph and Stanton high schools.

FHA is a national organization for the vocational home economics programs at the high school level. The SEARCH program is designed to assist students in developing personal leadership, citizenship, knowledge and skills for personal, family and community living through vocational home economics education. Dr. Roemhildt said.

Participating students will prepare projects in the following categories: consumer homemaking, peer education and star events. Students who receive "superior" ratings are eligible to participate in the statewide FHA SEARCH event.

WSC braces for cuts

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Budget cuts of $245,165, imposed on the state college system during a special session of the state legislature last month, were approved with reluctance on Friday by the State College Board of Trustees.

The trustees were critical of the cuts, saying they hampered efforts by the state college system to provide the best educational opportunities possible.

Each of the four state colleges will suffer these budget cuts for the 1986-87 year: Wayne State College, $56,658; Kearney State College, $104,283; Chadron State College, $53,813; and Peru State College, $29,811.

State college officials have said that less dramatic cuts have been made in previous years, but the cuts proposed this time would be extraordinarily difficult to absorb.

Dr. Thomas A. Coffey, president of Wayne State, said Saturday that of the $56,658 cut, $11,500 will be taken from instruction and the remainder from operation of the college.

"There is no surplus. We have to take it out of planned expenditures," Coffey said.

WAYNE STATE College had received a small percentage increase in the last regular legislative session. At that time, Coffey said the division heads were told to reserve the increase, pending the outcome of the special session.

Now, the division heads will not be able to expend the increase, which will be used to absorb the cuts. Wayne State College is currently in the process of obtaining a new computer system. Considered will be a proposal to not hire a computer research assistant to help in the changeover of the new computer system. "We'll be taking a calculated risk by doing that," Coffey said. Salary savings to be received by retirees are also being considered to help absorb the budget cut.

The cut in funding will also hamper efforts in going out and getting faculty members to replace those who retire or move away, Coffey mentioned.

Coffey said the college is currently operating on the same amount of money as last year, yet there has been a 9.5 percent increase in students when comparing fall enrollments of last year and the year before.

"And we were given only 1 percent increase to work with these increases," Coffey said.

Coffey said a cut in Wayne State's budget is being anticipated at approximately $112,000 in 1987-88 — doubling the current year budget cut.

"That will have a very direct bearing on the programs and services we offer. At this point, it is already hurting our programs and services," Coffey said.

There is a faculty shortage at Wayne State College, Coffey said, because of the increases in class size. Just how long the quality of education can hold up to the lack of financial support remains to be seen.

"I fear for the quality of our education program. Not because of the quality and effort of our teachers, but because of the lack of resources," Coffey said.

news briefs

Faculty recital

Three members of the Wayne State College Division of Fine Arts faculty will perform in an 8 p.m. recital Tuesday, Jan. 27 in Ramsey Theatre of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Dr. Christopher Bonds (violin), assistant professor of music, Dr. Jay O'Leary (clarinet), division of Fine Arts, and Brad Weber (percussion), adjunct instructor of music, will each perform as soloists. They will be accompanied by Tony Garlick, professor of music at Wayne State, and Arne Sorensen of Sioux City, Iowa.

Dr. O'Leary and Weber will also perform a clarinet and percussion duo.

The recital is free and open to the public.

Scholarship deadline nears

High school students interested in applying for $1,000 college scholarships should request applications by March 16, 1987 from Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation, 721 N. McKinley Rd., Lake Forest, Ill., 60045.

To receive an application, students should send a note stating their name, address, city, state and zip code, approximate grade point average and year of graduation.

Sixty-five winners will be selected on the basis of academic performance, involvement in extra-curricular activities and need for financial aid.

Whisenhunt on Dean's List

Donald W. Whisenhunt, son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald W. Whisenhunt of Wayne, a graduate of Wayne High School, has been named to the Dean's List at Grinnell College.

Eighty-five students were honored for outstanding academic achievement by being named to the Dean's List for the first semester of the 1986-87 academic year.

Move completed

The Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council has moved its Corporate offices to Wisner. The office will be open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The mailing address is: P. O. Box 200, Wisner, NE 68719.

The new phone number is (402) 529-3513.

An outreach office will remain in Wallkill, at the site of the former headquarters.

THE WAYNE LIONS CLUB contributed funds to the Wayne McGruff House program recently. Fred Mann of Wayne presented the $200 check to program coordinator Officer Robert Tracole. The money will be used to purchase informational material to be distributed to the children, and for possible purchase of McGruff stickers to place in vehicles that contain radio communication, such as utility trucks or buses as protection to children in the rural areas.

Adventure

Elementary School, brings some of the crafts given to her by the village residents. Some of the items include jewelry, water-tight weaved baskets, footwear, drums and children's toys — all made from the fur, skin or bones of the hunted animals.

CRAFTS ARE made with pride in the village of Manokotak. "But the most prized possession in their culture is a little baby," Renae said.

The state of Alaska spends a lot of money in educating the children as they grow.

Prior to her employment in Alaska, Renae taught five years at a school in Salem, Oregon. "After five years of teaching I was making about $15,000. My first teaching year in Alaska I was started at $31,000," she said.

Renae started up a pep club at the Manokotak school. She coordinated the activity of cheerleading and helped with the routines. Doug traveled thousands of miles with his athletic teams to compete against schools that were as far away as Nome.

Teaching in Manokotak was sometimes frustrating, Renae said. Instructors were conceived as babysitters at times. The education was geared to college and not to vocational skills. Some students had tried college, but later return to the village. "The outside world was scary to them," she said.

Alcohol was not allowed in the village. Therefore, dances were outlawed in the village.

Recreation for the children was confined to riding snowmobiles and three-wheelers.

Despite all of this, it was the culture and lifestyle of the people of Manokotak that had made the Alaskan teaching adventure memorable for the Porters.

Memories that will, for certain, never be left out in the cold.

Pack 175 meets

The Jan. 22 meeting of Cub Scout Pack 175 opened at the Methodist Church with the presentation of the colors by the Webelos. Den 3 reports were given by Mark Lentz for December and Craig Wetterberg for January. Den 2 members presented a story in Indian sign language and spelled each of their names and the entire alphabet in American sign language.

They were assisted by Girl Scout Wendy Korth.

The Den 4 Scouts demonstrated the correct method of folding the American flag and told of proper flag etiquette. Connie Webber led the group in singing.

Cubmaster Galen Wiser informed everyone that Cub Scout Sunday is Feb. 8. That day marks the end of Cub Scout Week. All the Cub Scouts are to wear their uniforms to their church on Feb. 8. He also reminded the group that Pack 175 will hold its Blue and Gold Banquet on Thursday, Feb. 26 at the Wayne Elementary School, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Pine Wood Derby will take place at the March pack meeting. Wiser described sustaining membership in the Mid-America Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Awards were presented as follows:

Den 1 — Christopher Davis, wolf and one gold arrow; Nicholas Hagmann, wolf; Terry Hamer, wolf and one gold arrow; Shaun Jorgensen, wolf; Trevor Luther, wolf and one gold arrow; Jeremy Luff, wolf; and Neil Munson, wolf.

Den 2 — Michael Imdieke, wolf, one gold arrow and three silver arrows; Ryan Korth, wolf, one gold arrow and two silver arrows; Carl Samuelson, wolf, one gold arrow and three silver arrows; and Andy Witkovski, wolf, one gold arrow and three silver arrows.

Den 3 — Steve Webber, wolf.

Den 3 — Todd Koeber, bear and one gold arrow; Mark Lentz, bear, one gold arrow and one silver arrow; Andrew Metz, bear and one gold arrow; Damon Wiser, bear, one gold arrow and two silver arrows; and Chris Headley, one silver arrow.

The Cubby Award was won by Den 1.

The Cub Scouts of Pack 175 are collecting aluminum cans as a fundraising project for the Pack. Anyone wishing to donate cans to the Pack can call Dave and Terry Headley at 375-3160. They will make arrangements to pick up your cans.

business notes

Dr. S. Jay and Ken Liska of Wayne attended the 90th Annual Convention of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association held in Kearney, Jan. 19-21.

Included among the educational speakers were Nebraska veterinarians: Dr. Dale Groteschken of Scottsbluff speaking on "Alternate Spading Techniques for Heifers"; Dr. Alex Hogg, Lincoln, "Pseudorabies Update"; Dr. Don Hudson, North Platte, "Integrated Reproductive Management: What's In It for the Practitioner"; and Dr. Gerald Duhamel of Lincoln, "Congenital Infection by the Virus of Bovine Virus Diarrhea, a Possible Cause of Late-Term Abortion in Nebraska Cattle".

Also appearing were Dr. Kenneth Odde of Colorado State University who presented information on "Calving Management and Colostral Immunity" and "Reproduction in the Postpartum Beef Cow and Yearling Heifer"; Dr. William Moyer of the University of Pennsylvania discussed "Diseases of the Horse's Foot" and Dr. Wayne Wingfield of Colorado State University spoke on "Geriatric Medicine for Small Animals".

'Hacken' away

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Friday and early Saturday's frigid temperatures in northeast Nebraska got me in the mood to do a story about Alaska, which is why you see the story on the Porters on the front page of this edition.

Renee was speaking to the Carroll Elementary School students Friday afternoon. She has spoken to other schools and service organizations about Alaska.

Several years ago, while working at a publication in Stacyville, Iowa, I did a story on a second cousin of mine who spent quite a bit of time in the wilderness of Alaska.

During the winter months, he was a professional trapper and lived in a log cabin some 120 miles from the nearest city.

He was encouraged by the Alaskan government to homestead in the wilderness, to create some interest in living off the land.

On his 160 acres, he planted oats and broom grass, then started planting berries. He began planting with the intention to coax wild game onto his acreage. There, the wildlife was abundant—loaded with moose, caribou, buffalo and a huge variety of fish.

At the time, he had been a special agent to the railroad. But that wasn't the life he wanted. As an avid sportsman, hunting and fishing were his ambitions. So he left the railroad job and moved to the wilderness.

He would return to Fairbanks on occasion, particularly during the summer months. He was the official photographer one year for Miss Alaska.

The only thing my cousin didn't catch during the winter was a cold. Other game was plentiful.

Rules of the wilderness is to always leave the cabin door open, so that it can be used for emergency situations by others. One time, two mechanics working in the area went into my cousin's place and literally ate him out of his house—leaving no meat or any type of food supply.

The cousin was forced to go on a hunting trip that resulted in bagging 18 grouse and nine rabbits in order to replace his food surplus.

He said the most dangerous animals in the wilderness were the wolverines, the badger and sometimes the lynx.

Wolverines are fearless, he said, and have more horsepower. A trapped wolverine will drag its trap and chew up everything in sight.

And he followed a trapper's code.

If a trapper comes across a kill by another trapper, he gives that guy a certain amount of time to make an attempt to find the kill. They respect someone who kills before the trapping season begins.

ONE TIME my cousin was cutting a new trail for his trap line, leaving in the morning with temperatures hovering at 30 below zero. His problem was that he was overressed. The temperature suddenly "warmed up" to 0 and he began perspiring.

If got frigid again and my cousin was wet from sweat. While trying to get back to his cabin, he slipped into a ravine and twisted his leg.

He was able to limp to the main trail. Walking backwards was all he could do to fight the bitter cold and reach his cabin. When he finally arrived at his cabin, he found his backpack frozen to his coat and he was drenched. A dose of hot tea and honey curbed the symptoms of pneumonia.

Why did he prefer this type of life?

He said there is lots of elbow room and there is a sense of accomplishment that he feels after getting through a tough winter. Alaska is full of challenges and opportunities.

The snowfall is also plentiful. But my cousin said the snow dehydrates, making it good for hunting down trails of wild game and for setting traps.

It's like a paid vacation, if one is a sportsman, he mentioned.

Someday it would be nice to visit and photograph Alaska.

But live in the wilderness? With my hunting abilities, I doubt it very much.

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

by Cheryl Stubbendick, vice president/information. Dairy farmers participating in the government's whole herd buyout program have been encouraged in recent months to "Save the Cows," rather than send them to slaughter for the manufacture of hamburger.

The agency making the pitch is Heifer Project International, a non-profit, interdenominational organization headquartered in Little Rock, Ark. Rather than send high-quality heifers to slaughter, the agency is asking dairy farmers to sell or donate them for shipment to parts of the world where milk is in short supply.

To be perfectly honest, the agency is more interested in heifers than cows, since it would be difficult if possible to milk lactating animals while they're traveling long distances to their destinations. And although the name says "heifer," the agency also ships dairy goats and other livestock to nations in need. If another species will better fill the bill and the stomachs of hungry people.

THE HEIFER Project pre-dates the dairy buyout by 40-some years. It was started in 1944 by the late Dan West, an Indiana farmer who came up with the idea after distributing powdered milk as a Church of the Brethren foreign relief worker. Since that time, it has shipped more than 25,000 cattle, 12,000 swine, 20,000 goats, 5,000 sheep, 1.3 million chickens and animals of other species to foreign nations.

Requests for heifers often come through Peace Corps or church workers in Third World countries. If a project to help a certain area within a country is approved, the recipients receive training in how to care for the animals in their new environment. And, each must agree to give one of the animal's offspring to a neighbor in need, who is then asked to do the same.

Jordan, Egypt, Jamaica, Bolivia and Mexico are among countries currently slated to receive heifers; China and Honduras are under consideration. Shipments are planned through August of this year. It costs an average of $1,000 to get a heifer to her new home, considering transportation costs and the cost of buying her at slaughter prices—if she is not donated.

To be eligible, Holsteins must be from dams producing at least 15,000 pounds of milk a year while Brown Swiss and Jersey heifers should be from dams producing 11,000 pounds. Knowing that the animals will not produce as well in their new environment as in the dairy barns of the U.S., the project wants the best possible animals to work with.

months old and three to six months pregnant at the time of shipment. Bred heifers are preferred, since they offer their superior genetics for two generations.

For dairy producers who have worked for years to produce high-quality dairy animals, only to find that, economically, they must participate in the buyout, the Heifer Project offers some compensation. Knowing that the calves they bottle-fed and sheltered will provide milk to hungry children can help ease the pain of closing out their businesses.

HEIFERS CAN be from eight to 14 months of age and not bred or up to 20 months old and three to six months pregnant at the time of shipment. Bred heifers are preferred, since they offer their superior genetics for two generations. The Heifer Project International can be contacted at P.O. Box 808, Little Rock, Ark. 72203 or 501/376-6836.

ARE HYBRID VEGETABLE AND FLOWER SEEDS WORTH THE EXTRA MONEY?

Hybrid seeds are becoming more commonplace, and green-thumbers, especially those who save seeds for use the following season, are wondering what hybrid seeds are, why they cost more and if they're really worth the extra money.

What is a hybrid? Commercial seed companies select as parents two plants that have good characteristics they want to combine. The object is to produce an offspring with the best qualities of both parents.

To do this, pollen from one parent plant is transferred to the other parent plant, frequently by hand. After this cross-pollination occurs, seed is formed. This seed is then termed a hybrid seed. It is best not to collect your own seeds from vegetable and flower hybrids. The chances are great that you might get an inferior plant from these seeds—its hard telling what you might get.

Assuming that you need to purchase fresh, new seeds each year, hybrid seeds will cost you more because of the expensive hand labor required in selection and pollination and thus cost more.

So what are these benefits? Commercial vegetable hybrids may have greater vigor, higher yields, larger size, earliness, heat and cold tolerance and disease resistance. They may also have better flavor and higher nutritional value. Vigorous hybrid flowers are more uniform in size and color.

Corn was the first vegetable hybridized, followed by tomatoes and cucumbers. Hybrid varieties of several vegetables really shine. In sweet corn, hybridizing has given us earlier and sweeter corn. Tomato breeders are working on earliness, large size and more flavor. Hybrid cucumbers are extremely uniform and produce heavily. Choose hybrids of muskmelon and watermelon for earliness, increased vigor, excellent quality, good size and disease resistance.

To sum up, hybrid seeds are worth the extra cost. The return from a vegetable garden is so great that it's worth investing a few more pennies in quality seeds.

Trade may dominate Congress

First District Congressman Doug Bereuter will once again serve on the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade.

"Trade may well be the dominant focus of the 100th Congress," said Bereuter. "By virtue of my seniority of the Trade Subcommittee, I will be leading the uphill fight to protect agricultural exports from dangerous protectionist measures that are already surfacing in Congress."

Bereuter is the only representative from the Grain Belt to serve on the Trade Subcommittee.

"The next crucial battle for agriculture will be fought on the trade field," said Bereuter, "and we must be ready to respond quickly and effectively."

NEBRASKA'S First District Congressman will also take a seat on the Europe and Middle East Subcommittee for the 100th Congress. "This was my next choice for subcommittee assignments because of our trade battles with the European Community are real and ready to explode."

"I intend to join forces with Clayton Yeutter (U.S. Trade Representative) to challenge the Europeans to live by the rules of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade," said Bereuter. "We are entitled to be reimbursed for our lost markets under those rules, and we insist on being treated fairly."

The European Community's moves to restrict Spanish and Portuguese markets for several agricultural commodities, including corn, sorghum, and oilseeds, could deprive American farmers of millions of dollars worth of agricultural exports, according to Bereuter.

"If we don't insist that the Europeans live up to their agreement resulting from the accession of Spain and Portugal to the Common Market, they will think the U.S. government continues to be a paper tiger which can be ignored in the competition for export markets."

"The European Community must send a clear message that we will, if necessary, match them tariff for tariff, quota for quota, until they reimburse us for the large agricultural export markets we were denied in Spain and Portugal."

"There's a natural link between the Trade assignment and my new one on the Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East," said Bereuter, "and I intend to see that a Nebraskan's viewpoint is at the center of key decisions in these areas."

ask a lawyer

Q. Can a person who has been given a power of attorney by a dependent relative make a will for that dependent person? How can a dependent person's finances best be handled?

A. Nebraska law requires that a will be "in writing signed by the testator, or in the testator's name by some other individual in the testator's presence and at his direction." While the authority granted by a power of attorney can be very broad, it does not extend to making a will on behalf of another person. If the individual is not competent, he or she could not make a valid will.

There are many ways in which a dependent person's finances can be handled. For example, an individual (the "principal") could draft a power of attorney giving another person (the "agent") broad authority to handle his or her financial affairs. Generally, a power of attorney ends automatically upon the death of the principal, or in the event that he or she becomes disabled or incompetent. However, it is also possible to draft a power of attorney that will start at, or continue through, the incapacity of the principal. An individual must be competent to execute a power of attorney, and can revoke it at any time.

In the event that a person becomes unable to handle his or her own affairs, a petition can be filed in the county court seeking the appointment of a conservator to handle the person's financial affairs. The person for whom a conservator is sought must be notified of the proceeding and may oppose the appointment.

There are also a number of trust arrangements which a person may enter into to assure that his or her property is distributed according to his or her wishes.

Your letter refers to a "dependent" relative, but does not indicate whether that person is mentally competent to make a will or participate in other estate planning decisions. Talk to your family lawyer about the alternatives which are available to best care for and assist your relative.

Q. We had a farm auction and the auctioneer promised one fee, then later charged us 1% more than promised. Also, we paid the advertising costs and the ad included items from other people which were included in our auction. We do not feel we should have to pay to advertise items which weren't ours. Is this the accepted practice, or do we have any recourse?

A. If your auction involved personal property only, you may or may not have had a written agreement with the auctioneer; if the auction involved real estate, a written agreement would have been required. Generally, the written agreement will spell out all terms of the auction, including the date and location of the sale, the percentage of the sale proceeds to be paid to the auctioneer as a commission, how the costs of the advertising will be assessed, and any other terms negotiated between the property owner and the auctioneer.

The commission to be charged is negotiable, and will vary depending upon the size of the sale, the type of property and other factors. If the auction includes property from more than one owner, the costs of advertising are usually pro-rated, based on the total sales. Thus, if one person's property brings in 25% of the total receipts, and the other person's property brings in 75%, the advertising costs would generally be split in the same way. This is the usual practice, but the auctioneer is not required by law to pro-rate the costs. The auctioneer's records should show the actual costs of advertising and how they were pro-rated.

If you had a written agreement and were charged a higher percentage or more in advertising costs than is stated in the agreement, you could bring a lawsuit against the auctioneer to recover the difference. (This is assuming that you have been unsuccessful in reaching an agreement directly with the auctioneer.) If the amount in question is $1,500 or less, you could pursue the matter in small claims court.

If you had no written agreement, you could still bring action against the auctioneer for breach of your oral agreement. This would obviously be more difficult to prove in court unless you had witnesses, correspondence from the auctioneer, or other proof of your claim. In the absence of such evidence, the judge would have to decide the case based on each party's testimony, and on such factors as what the usual commission and charges would be in your area for such an auction.

If the total amount in questions is higher than the small claims court limit, or if you need further information about pursuing the claim, talk to your lawyer.

Businesses to face tough battles

by Richard L. Leshner, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce

The honeymoon that business has enjoyed with government in the past six years is coming to an abrupt halt as a dramatically altered 100th Congress prepares to convene in the nation's capital.

With the Democrats in solid control of both houses of Congress, it is safe to assume their constituency groups will be lining up to demand increases in domestic spending. New House Speaker Jim Wright of Texas has already called for higher taxes, and as we might expect, the new Senate leadership to follow suit. The new chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, Lawton Chiles of Florida, is a strong proponent of higher taxes. The pressure will be intense and President Reagan, embroiled in the Iranian controversy, will be hard pressed to stem the tide.

The Democrats have also announced their intent to push early and hard for new trade legislation. In this sphere, business has less cause for concern because Speaker Wright and other prominent Democrats appear sensitive to the threat of protec-

engagements

Marshall-Heaton

Merton and Alice Marshall of Wayne announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Loretta Marshall, to Tim Heaton, son of Richard Heaton of Sioux City and Sandra Thompson of Bancroft.

A Feb. 7 wedding is planned at the Independent Faith Baptist Church in Wayne.

Schlueter-Snyder

Kimberly Schlueter and Eric Snyder, both of Orchard, announce their engagement and approaching marriage. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schlueter and is a student at Wayne State College majoring in English education. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Snyder, also attends Wayne State College and is majoring in music education. The couple plans a June 13 wedding at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Orchard.

Eastman-Krajicek

Making plans for a Feb. 14 wedding at St. Columbkille in Papillion are Diane Eastman of Lincoln and Stephen Krajicek of Omaha. Their engagement and approaching marriage have been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eastman of Grand Island.

Miss Eastman graduated from St. Patrick High School, North Platte, in 1971 and from Kearney State College in 1976. She is vice president of Ayres and Associates in Lincoln. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krajicek of Hoskins, graduated from Springfield-Platteview High School in 1970 and from Peru State College in 1974. He is employed as a sales representative for Consumer Supply Distributing Co.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area. We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all wedding and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Grace Lutheran LWML Evening Circle meets

The LWML Evening Circle met Jan. 13 at Grace Lutheran Church with 23 members present. Standing committee reports were given, and it was announced that the treasurer's books were audited and found to be in order.

Mary Lou Erleben reported on the Zone Executive Board meeting she attended. Verdina Johs reported she had purchased new pages for the scrapbook. She also has donated an artificial Christmas tree to Evening Circle for use in the basement.

LANORA SORENSEN read excerpts of a letter from Missionary Tom and Mary Brinkley of Togo, West Africa.

Evening Circle will continue its missionary support to the Brinkleys, and to the Rev. Larry Larson of Rogate Lutheran Church, a deaf congregation in Florida.

Evening Circle is again planning to recognize shut-ins of the congregation on Valentine's Day. Orvell Blomkamp and Leola Larson are on a committee to plan the event.

The Sunday school mission project will be Bethesda Lutheran Home. Anyone wishing to bring a white washcloth next month to be given to Bethesda.

SERVING ON the program committee were Elsie Echenkamp and Carol Rethwisch. Several articles in the LWML Quarterly were reviewed, and the Rev. Jon Vogel showed a video, "Unless They Are Sent," about preparing pastors for the ministry.

Lunch was served by Lanora Sorensen and Susan Vogel.

New officers are installed at Immanuel Ladies Aid Meeting

The Rev. Steven Kramer installed new officers when the Ladies Aid of Immanuel Lutheran Church met on Jan. 15. Pastor Kramer also led the Bible study on the Lord's Supper.

New 1987 officers installed during the afternoon were Hazel Hank, president; Bonnie Nelson, vice president; and Beverly Ruwe, secretary. Treasurer Lois Lessman was absent from the meeting.

The annual report revealed the following perfect attendance records — Beverly Ruwe, 15 years; Alma Welershauser and Hazel Hank, seven years; and Mrs. Ernest Echenkamp and Nila Schuttler, four years.

BERNIECE REWINKEL and Mrs. Lloyd Roeber reported that all shut-ins were doing well at the time of their visit.

Nila Schuttler reported on the Wayne Zone officers meeting held

Jan. 12. Delegate to the International LWML Convention at Fort Worth in June is Clara Woten of South Sioux City. Alternate is Ada Hunt, also of South Sioux City.

Mrs. Lloyd Roeber, Mrs. Merle Roeber and Eleanor Rauss will serve on a committee to plan a program honoring 12 women who have belonged to Ladies Aid for 35 years or more.

Cleaning church in February will be lone Roeber, Margaret Sampson, Bonnie Schrieber and Donna Jacobsen.

ALICE ROEBER and Alma Weier-shauser were honored with the birthday song, and Bonnie Nelson and Alice Roeber served lunch to the 17 members and two guests, Bernita Sherbahn and Katie Schroeder. Next meeting will be Feb. 19 at 2 p.m.

bridal showers

Nancy Gowery

The Laurel United Lutheran Church was the site of a bridal shower Jan. 17 honoring Nancy Gowery of Wynot. Seventy-five guests attended, and decorations were in red and white.

The program included devotions by Mary Ann Christensen, and a skit by Ella Larson and Jan Twiford, entitled "Purchasing a Marriage License." Assisting the honoree with gifts were Lisa Gowery of Wynot and Karen Koch of Yankton, S. D.

Hostesses were Joan Malchow, Jan Twiford, Jean Vogle, Joan Johnson, Darlene Burns, Ella Larson, Mildred Christensen, Lois Marie Smith, Janice Schmitt, Karen Granquist and Mary Ann Christensen.

Miss Gowery, daughter of Harley and Shirley Gowery of Wynot, and Glen Maxon, son of Larry and Norma Maxon of Laurel, will be married Feb. 14 at the Laurel United Lutheran Church.

briefly speaking

Annual prayer breakfast slated

The Wayne County Right to Life Chapter will hold its seventh annual prayer breakfast on Saturday, Jan. 31 at 9:30 a.m. in the Women's Club room, located in Wayne city auditorium.

The public is invited to attend the event and may purchase their tickets ($1.50) at the door or in advance from any Right to Life member. Juice, homemade rolls and coffee will be served.

The breakfast commemorates the Supreme Court's ruling of Jan. 22, 1973 which legalized abortion.

Guest speaker during Saturday's breakfast will be Ann Witkowski, area home health care nurse. Her topic will be "The Right to Life Until Death." Providing special music will be Kenny and Rhonda Cleveland of Wayne.

Twirlers dance in Laurel

Seven squares of dancers from Yankton, S. D.; Crofton, Laurel, Dixon, Ponca, Allen, Coleridge, Hartington, Randolph and Carroll attended the Jan. 18 meeting of the Town Twirlers Square Dance Club in the Laurel city auditorium. Caller was Dean Dederman.

Duane Nelson will call for the next dance, on Feb. 1. The session from 8 to 10:30 p.m. will be graduation night for the new class.

Pleasant Valley family dinner

Pleasant Valley Club met Jan. 21 at noon at the Black Knight for its annual family dinner with 22 attending.

Cards were played with women's prizes going to Louise Larsen and Alta Pierson, and men's prizes to Ivan Frese and Erwin Fleer. Walter Baier received traveling. Pie and coffee were served at the close of the afternoon.

Next meeting will be with Ruth Fleer on Feb. 18.

Lunch 'N Learn in Laurel

A Lunch 'N Learn lesson, "Clothing Labels — Reading Between the Lines," will be presented Monday, Feb. 2 from 12:10 to 12:50 p.m. at Bartel's Country Cafe in Laurel.

The lesson is open to the public and will be given by Carol Schwarz, Cedar County extension agent-home economics.

Hospital Auxiliary elects officers

The Jan. 16 meeting of the Wayne Community Hospital Auxiliary was called to order by President Wilma Moore, with 18 members attending. The thought for the day, "Especially For You," was read by Aileen Sievers.

Marian Jordan, representing the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers, who were voted in unanimously — Aileen Sievers, president; Louise Jenness, vice president; Erna Sals, secretary; and Marilyn Carhart, treasurer. Lois Hall was named to the nominating committee and will serve with present members Marian Jordan and Marjorie Olson.

Hostesses Lillian Berres and Jessie Hamer served lunch following the meeting.

Next meeting of the auxiliary will be Feb. 20 and will include installation of officers.

File it Easy — Find it Fast

Every household has important papers it needs to keep. For safety and peace of mind, a home filing system that allows these papers to be filed and retrieved quickly is worth its weight in gold.

January is a good time of year to organize your home filing system. Many office equipment stores and discount stores run specials on filing equipment at the start of a new year. You may also have more time to sort through papers.

Finally, you are probably beginning 1986 tax preparations and can see what type of filing system you really need.

THE HOME-FILING system is two file systems in one — an active system for current materials and an inactive system for permanent records. Active files are located in the business center of your home. They may be stored in a file cabinet, desk drawer, cardboard box or kitchen cupboard. Go through active files annually and remove materials that are no longer current. Throw useless papers away and store those you need in the inactive file.

Special papers or important documents such as mortgages, deeds, or household inventory should be stored in a safety deposit box or similar location.

Inactive files can be stored anywhere they will be clean, dry, safe from pests and still accessible. You might locate them in an attic, closet, basement, garage or farm building.

Tax returns, records of home improvements, account books and other permanent records should be stored in your inactive files.

DESIGN YOUR file system to meet your specific needs, personal preferences and finances. Many people find color-coding helpful in their active files. Using colored labels or folders can identify household records, farm or business records, guarantees and warranties or reference materials.

Arrange files alphabetically using one or two word labels for quick filing. A filing index is a necessity if more than one person will be using files. The main system user can make notations on the index to help a spouse or other person locate items quickly.

Many people build their filing system around an account book or record keeping system. Farmers may find it especially helpful to use the expense categories from tax returns as filing guides. This helps speed tax preparation and insures that receipts are kept.

FOR MORE INFORMATION on organizing a home filing system, attend the lesson "File it Easy — Find it Fast" at the Winside Fire Hall.

The lesson is Tuesday, Jan. 27 at 1:30 p.m. and open to the public.

Allen resident Joe Bennett observes 99th at open house

Longtime Allen resident Joe Bennett celebrated his 99th birthday on Jan. 19.

Several friends and relatives attended an open house reception in his honor held Jan. 18 following worship services at the Allen United Methodist Church.

Bennett was born Jan. 19, 1888 at Verdigre to Mary and Anlone Bennett. He moved to Creighton at age 18, and in 1908 came to the Allen area where he farmed and later worked for the State highway department for 27 years.

He has made his home the past several years with his daughter and son-in-law, Sylvia and Elmer (Whit) Whitford of Allen.

On a nice day, residents of Allen may see Bennett walking downtown to get the mail, groceries or maybe a haircut. He always had a large garden and still can be seen snipping beans or picking strawberries.

Congregate meal menu

Ashley Meyer hospitalized

Young Ashley Meyer of Wayne is a patient in a San Diego, Calif. hospital. With her are her parents, Steve and Cindy Meyer.

Cards and letters will reach the Meyer family if addressed c/o C. M. Weeks, 4491 Santa Cruz Ave., San Diego, Calif., 92107. Their telephone number in California is 619-224-8807.

Basketry lesson presented

Doris Meyer and Phyllis Rahn presented a basketry lesson at the Jan. 19 meeting of Monday Mrs. Home Extension Club. Members learned how to make a small market basket.

Eleven members attended the January meeting at the First United Methodist Church, answering roll call with a New Year's resolution they've already broken. Hostess was Connie Upton.

The citizenship report focused on the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr.

Next meeting will be Feb. 16 with Imogene Brasch as hostess.

Klick and Klatter meets

Thirteen members of Klick and Klatter Home Extension Club met at The Lumber Company on Jan. 13 with Emelia Larsen as hostess.

President Marcella Larson called the meeting to order, followed with the flag salute. A thank you note was read from a woman of Wayne Care Centre for the Christmas gift she received from the club.

Marian Jordan led the group in singing "Happy New Year to You" as they joined hands. Mrs. Jordan also read a story of the song "Walking in a Winter Wonderland," which members sang.

Joyce Niemann presented two readings, entitled "Things You Can Do to Make Your Life Happier" and "Things You Can Do to Make Others Happy."

Emelia Larsen told about the treatment and care of suede and leather, and Barbara Sievers read an article by Dr. Branson, entitled "Do You Value Your Health, and What Are You Doing About It." Mrs. Sievers also demonstrated how to test blood glucose.

Angie Denesia told about basketball and wrestling at the high school and college, and she read a poem, "Seasons of the Heart" by Grace Eastley.

Stella Liska received the scrapbook from Orvella Blomkamp. Marvel Corbit announced that six members of the club had perfect attendance during 1986.

Next meeting of the Wayne County Home Extension Council will be Jan. 26. Klick and Klatter Home Extension Club will meet again on Feb. 10 at 1:30 p.m. in the home of Ruth Fleer.

Baby shower at Winside

Mrs. LeRoy Damme of Winside hosted a baby shower brunch on Jan. 21 honoring Mrs. Ernie Jaeger and daughter Ashley Marie of Winside.

Mrs. Damme read several poems before gifts were opened. Guests included Ashley's grandmothers, Mrs. Alfred Carstens and Mrs. Gottlieb Jaeger. Other guests were Mrs. Dale Krueger, Mrs. Lyle Krueger, Mrs. Tyler Frevort, Mrs. Randall Bruestad, Mrs. Alvin Bruestad, Mrs. Kuct Scheast, Mrs. Ella Berg, Christine Lueker and Mrs. George Jaeger.

Ashley was born Dec. 29.

Hats off to the elementary kids

IMAGINATIONS FLOWED FREELY last Tuesday at West Elementary School in Wayne as the kindergarten through fourth grade students, along with their teachers, observed National Hat Day. Students and teachers arrived in a variety of hats made with everything from feathers to fur to plastic buckets and lampshades. Students with the most ingenious creations were presented special certificates during a pro-

Area women attend district LWML meeting in Norfolk

Lutheran Women's Missionary League Nebraska District North board members and zone presidents met Jan. 10 at Grace Lutheran Church in Norfolk.

Area women attending included Beverly Ruwe and Nila Schuttler, both of Wayne, and Darlene Schroeder of Laurel.

Chosen at the board meeting to be Young Women representatives from the district were Martha Kuhlman of O'Neill and Toni Kropal of Columbus. Carol Rethwisch of Wayne, immediate past president of Nebraska District North, has been selected to travel to England this fall in the second phase of "Disciplining Woman to Woman."

A "Heart to Heart" treatshop will be held Saturday, Feb. 28 in Norfolk for all members of the district. Participants are asked to wear sweats (or very comfortable clothing) to match the physical fitness theme.

Last year, Mrs. Rethwisch hosted Martha Udoma of Africa during the first phase of the program.

The 1987 district retreat will be held in September at Camp Luther.

THE INTERNATIONAL convention will be in Fort Worth on June 22-26. Delegate from the Wayne zone is Clara Woten of South Sioux City. Alternate is Ada Hunt, also of South Sioux City.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board noted that its second project, $5,000 to Lutheran Family Services of Nebraska, has been paid.

Members of the district previously donated $5,000 to Camp Luther by using their mites.

LOWER ELKHORN NATURAL RESOURCES DISTRICT

FREE TREES ON CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM ACRES

Landowners, if you have enrolled land in the Federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) or plan to, now you can put trees on these acres free! Whether you plan to put this back into production after the 10 year contract or not, trees will be a valuable addition.

Lower Elkhorn NRD in its Wildlife Habitat Program is offering to pay the landowners share of the cost of trees, planting and weed control spray on CRP acres. Details of the program are:

1. CRP pays 50% of the cost of establishing trees and grass.
  2. LENRD pays the remaining 50% of the cost of establishing trees.
  3. Planting plans will be developed between landowner, SCS, Game & Parks Commission and Lower Elkhorn NRD.
  4. Contract runs concurrently with CRP contract (normally 10 years).
  5. The field containing the trees will be open to public access.
  6. The NRD will provide fencing materials in the last year of the contract so the landowner can fence the trees to protect them from livestock.
- Trees planted on CRP acres will provide badly needed wind protection for livestock, crops, wildlife, and soil erosion control. Other benefits may be incorporated such as firewood or lumber production and living snow fence.

For more information or to apply for this program, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

CHEMIGATION MEETINGS

Lower Elkhorn NRD, the Cooperative Extension Service and several local businesses have sponsored six public meetings around the district to inform irrigators about the Chemigation Act. Over 200 irrigators attended the meetings to learn about the Chemigation Act which passed in 1986 and became effective January 1, 1987. Irrigators must comply with provisions of the law in order to apply any chemical (includes any fertilizer, herbicide, or insecticide) through their irrigation system.

A permit from the Natural Resources District is needed to mitigate this year. Requirements to obtain a permit are:

1. Chemigation applicator must receive training and pass a test to become certified (EPA Applicator card does not qualify).
2. Irrigation system must be equipped with required safety devices and pass inspection by the NRD.
  - a. Mainline check valve
  - b. vacuum breaker and inspection port
  - c. low pressure drain
  - d. checkvalve on chemical injection line
  - e. interlock between irrigation pump and chemical injection pump

At the public meetings, cooperative extension specialist and NRD personnel explained how the process will work and what step irrigators should be taking now to get prepared.

The Chemigation Act is a good law whose time has come. It will not be completely painless, but it will safeguard one of our most precious resources — groundwater. The NRD and the Extension Service will continue to work with irrigators so that everyone who wishes to chemigate will be able to do so in a safe and legal manner. For more information contact your local Extension Service or NRD office.

TREES AVAILABLE

Lower Elkhorn NRD has a full inventory of tree seedlings available for sale for spring planting. The seedlings are priced at $8.25 per 25 trees ($33 per 100) and must be ordered in lots of 25 trees per species. Available species:

- Evergreens: Redcedar, Ponderosa Pine, Austrian Pine, Scotch Pine (Nobr.), Scotch Pine (Tur.), Jack Pine; Hardwoods: Hackberry, Honeylocust, Cottonwood, Silver Maple, Black Walnut, Green Ash, Red Oak, Bur Oak; Shrubs: Cotoneaster, Lilac, Honeyuckle, Chokecherry, Nanking Cherry, American Plum, Autumn Olive, Russian Olive, Skunkbush Sumac, Sand Cherry, Caragana.
- Also available is a Wildlife Packet priced at $33.00 which includes the following: 10 Honeylocust, 10 Rocky Mountain Juniper, 10 Orange Orange, 10 Buckthorn, 10 Red Stemmed Dogwood, 10 Cotoneaster.
- For more information or to order trees, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

CONSERVATION COST SHARING AVAILABLE

Landowners in the Lower Elkhorn NRD may now apply for cost share funds to construct terraces and dams. The NRD Board authorized $300,000 in cost share funds for spring and summer construction of conservation practices.

Up to 65% of the cost of construction may be provided by Lower Elkhorn NRD funds. This figure is down from the 75% level of the past, and may be an indication of things to come. The 1985 Farm Bill and the Nebraska Erosion and Sediment Control Act each contain provisions which will cause many producers to either construct conservation practices on their highly erodible land or take the land out of production. This will mean a large increase in conservation work and the demand for cost share dollars by 1990. Since the amount of tax dollars available for conservation cost sharing is not increasing, the NRD must make the available funds go farther and help more people.

Local Soil Conservation Service personnel are available to assist landowners with conservation planning both structural and management practices. They also design necessary practices and help you apply for cost share funds.

For more information on conservation planning and cost share assistance, contact your local Soil Conservation Service Office.

AREA CONSERVATION TILLAGE MEETINGS

The Cooperative Extension Service and Soil Conservation Service will present several public meetings in February and March to promote conservation tillage. The benefits of conservation tillage have been talked about for several years, but it is a constantly changing field. The technology and types of tillage are ever expanding as is the knowledge gained from research. New emphasis on soil conservation in the federal farm program, will be added incentives for farmers to adopt some form of conservation tillage.

Meetings in or near the Lower Elkhorn NRD are:
February 23 - 8:45 a.m. Hilltop Bowling Alley, Dodge (1/2 day); February 23 - 1 p.m. St. Johns Sodal Hall, Howells (1/2 day); February 24 - 9 a.m. City Auditorium, West Point; February 25 - 9 a.m. City Auditorium, Madison; March 5 - 9 a.m. Ag Park, Columbus.

Agenda items vary between meetings, but generally include such topics as: weed control, insect control, erosion control, fertilizer management, and equipment modifications. For more information contact your local Cooperative Extension Service or Soil Conservation Service Office.

Zeiss lifts Blue Devils to victory

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

Jess Zeiss picked the right spot for his only two points of the game Friday night. His basket with two seconds left gave the Wayne Blue Devils a 45-43 victory over Hartington Cedar Catholic.

The game was tied at 43 with 1:05 left in the contest after Paul Krause of Hartington made one of two free throws. Wayne brought the ball down the floor and stalled for the last shot. With 17 seconds to go Wayne Coach Bob Uhing called a timeout.

Uhing said the play he designed was meant to go either to Ted Lueders or inside. The Trojans came out in a diamond and one on Lueders and the inside was clogged so Zeiss dribbled to the baseline and let loose with a 10-foot jumper that bounded around the rim before it fell with two seconds left.

Cedar Catholic called timeout but the clock had expired. After the officials met with the time keeper and the coaches four seconds were put back on the clock. The Trojans lost the game when Krause threw the inbound pass into the Wayne bench.

The Blue Devils got the ball back and Corey Dahl was fouled immediately. Dahl missed the free throw and a desperation shot fell short by Hartington and the Blue Devils won their sixth game of the year against seven setbacks. The loss dropped Cedar Catholic to 9-3.

Uhing said the win proved something about his team.

"I'm real happy," the skipper said. "We didn't play our best game but we hung in there and won anyway, that's a mark of a good team. That says a lot."

The locals played the last couple of minutes without two of their starters. Nick Engelson exited the game with five fouls at the 2:09 mark and Jason Jorgensen fouled out with 3:26 left in the game.

The game was tight the whole way. The biggest lead for either team was five points. Wayne held that several times. The Blue Devils led after one quarter 11-9 but trailed at halftime 23-21. They came back in the third period to take a 35-32 lead into the final quarter.

Uhing said he had hoped for a low scoring game. The Trojans are an up tempo perimeter team that likes to run. Their tallest starter was 6-2 Pat Krause.

night long. Bill Liska, Corey Dahl and Troy Wood did the majority of the damage. The Blue Devils outrebounded Cedar Catholic 25-19. Liska tied the way with nine rebounds; five of them coming on the offensive end. Dahl added seven carroms.

Engelson topped Wayne in scoring before he exited. The junior tossed in 14 points, eight coming in the third quarter. Liska also finished in double figures with 10 points. Junior guard Matt Stiefen led the way for the Trojans with 15 points. Both teams struggled from the free-throw line. Wayne hit 9-18 gift shots while the visitors connected on 11-18.

Wayne will next be in action Friday when they host West Point. The Wayne-Cedar Catholic rivalry could continue in two weeks at the Northern Activities Conference Tournament in Wayne. If both teams win their opening-round game they will meet in the finals.

UNL's Pettit to speak at Wayne Athletic Banquet

Wayne-Carroll High School has landed Nebraska Cornhusker volleyball Coach Terry Pettit as its guest speaker at the Athletic Banquet scheduled for May 19.

Pettit, in his 10th season as head coach at Nebraska, has compiled a 323-89 record. Pettit's teams have won 10 straight Big Eight championships.

This year the Huskers women won the Midwest Region and were the NCAA National Runner-Up. Pettit was rewarded by being named the 1986 CVCA National Coach of the Year.

Big 4th quarter gives Laurel 50-48 victory

The Laurel Bears like to hit the road these days and Friday night was no exception as they nipped Hartington on its own floor 50-48.

The Bears, 4-5, are undefeated on the opponents home court. On the other hand Laurel is winless at home and 1-1 on a neutral floor.

Laurel Coach Mark Hrabik said his team didn't play as well as they have in their last several games. He said both teams played a little sloppy at times during the contest.

It looked as if the Bears were going to drop another one in the game's waning moments.

Hartington scored with less than a minute to play to go on top 48-47. Laurel worked the clock down to about 20 seconds when senior Rick Lage got inside for the winning basket, which at the time gave the Bears a one-point lead. The Wildcats missed a shot with about eight seconds to play and the ball went out of bounds last touched by Hartington.

That's when the nightmare started for Hrabik. Laurel turned the ball over on the inbound pass and Hartington's Bryan Johnson was fouled in the act of shooting with five seconds to play. Hartington's leading scorer stepped to the line and missed both free throws and Laurel added a free throw to ice the game.

"We needed a win," Hrabik said. "It's nice to win a game when you don't play your best."

Laurel trailed the entire first half. The Wildcats led 12-11 after one quarter and 27-22 at halftime. In the third quarter the guests got rolling as they outscored Hartington 19-13 and took a 41-40 lead into the fourth quarter.

The Bears finished with a balanced scoring attack. Brent Halsch led Laurel with 12 points. Although he finished under his average, the senior made up for it with five steals and four assists. Joey Cunningham was also in double figures with 10 points.

Hrabik got a good performance from John Schutte. The freshman, pressed into the starting lineup for Lage, who was battling the flu, scored nine points and gathered eight rebounds.

Hrabik said the Bears turned it around in the third quarter when they applied a full-court press and their half-court trap defense. In the first half Hartington got several baskets inside. The change of defenses stopped the inside scoring.

Laurel's next game will be on the road again when they travel to Wakefield Friday night to take on the Trojans.

Winside puts scare in Wausa

The Winside Wildcats gave Wausa all they wanted and then some but came up short as the top-ranked Vikings won going away 71-59.

Winside Coach Mark Freburg said the final score was not an indication of the game. Winside, 1-10, battled undefeated Wausa for 32 minutes.

Wausa was never able to land the knockout punch against the Wildcats. Winside trailed by six with about three minutes left in the game.

Winside came out in a triangle and two defense to stop Wausa's big guns. Terry Nelson and Ken Clausen. Daryl Mundil was assigned to Wausa's 6-7 Nelson and Tim Jacobsen guarded Clausen. Freburg said he thought the defense worked well. Winside had a chance to tie the game midway through the third quarter. "Our kids played a whale of a ballgame," Freburg said. "We played as well as we have all year." After watching Wausa up close Freburg said he thought the Vikings deserved their No. 1 ranking.

Wausa boasts a starting lineup of 6-7, 6-5, 6-4, 6-2 and 5-11. But with all that height Freburg said his team held its own on the boards. Kevin Jaeger led the Wildcats with nine rebounds. The senior also had eight assists and four steals.

Not only was the Winside coach pleased with his team's play, he couldn't say enough about the home crowd. He said it was the loudest crowd he has heard at Winside.

Winside placed three guys in double figures in scoring. Chris Nau and Tim Jacobsen paced the Wildcats with 16 points each while Mike Thies added 12 points.

Mike Thorell led the Vikings with 24 points, Nelson added 22.

Freburg said he hopes the team's intensity can carry over to its next game. The Wildcats will host Hartington Thursday night.

Wakefield edged in 4th quarter by Wynot

The Wakefield girls came within an eyelash of winning for the second time this year as they were edged by Wynot 36-35 Friday night.

The Lady Trojans squandered away a seven point lead in the fourth quarter as the Lady Blue Devils outscored Wakefield 16-8 in the final period to gain the win.

Wakefield started out slow and trailed after eight minutes by a 12-6 count. The Lady Trojans brought it to within three points at halftime, 18-15. The guests came out strong in the second half and outpointed Wynot 12-2 in the third quarter. But the bottom fell out in the fourth period to drop Wakefield to 1-11.

Fouls and free throws had a hand in the loss. Wakefield outscored Wynot from the field 32-30 but made only 3-15 free throws. The Lady Blue Devils went to the line 13 times in the fourth quarter.

The Lady Trojans were dealt a big blow when Marci Greve fouled out of the game with about seven minutes to play. Greve provided rebounding strength inside for Wakefield.

The Lady Trojans still had a chance to win the game in the closing seconds. Stacey Kuhl's last-second shot hit the rim and bounced off as Wynot claimed the win.

Kuhl was Wakefield's big gun as she finished with 16 points on eight field goals. Tricia Schwarten added nine points. Wakefield outrebounded Wynot 37-35. Kody Nelson was the top rebounder with 13 boards. Greve added eight.

Next up for Wakefield is Laurel Thursday night in a Clark Division clash.

Wayne State teams drop two games

The Wayne State mens' and womens' basketball teams took their act on the road for a CSIC showdown with Washburn University.

Both came up on the short end of the stick. The Lady Cats were beaten by the Lady Blues 77-57, while the men lost a 73-61 decision.

The women dropped to 8-8 on the year and 2-3 in the CSIC. The win raised Washburn's record to 16-2 and 4-0 in the conference.

The Lady Cats jumped out in front early as they led 26-18. In the next 14 minutes before halftime the locals were outscored 23-6 as the Lady Blues took a 41-32 halftime lead.

Washburn opened up a big lead early in the second half and led by as many as 23 points. Washburn's 6-4 Kelly Jennings hurt the Lady Cats for 23 points. Jennings was a two-year starter at Kansas University before transferring to the CSIC school.

Wayne State was led by Dawn Berni and Linda Schmitzer. The pair tallied 14 points apiece. Guard Michelle Blomberg added 11 in the losing cause. WSC outrebounded the Lady Blues 41-37. Berni was tops with 10 boards.

The mens' game started just the opposite. The Cats were ice cold in the first half and fell behind early. Wayne State shot just 24 percent from the field in the first half. The 13th-ranked Icebods led at halftime 33-20.

The Cats clawed their way back in the second half. Wayne State got to within six points on two occasions at 52-46 with five minutes left and 58-52 with three minutes to play.

But with time running short Coach Steve Aggers crew was forced to foul and Washburn hit six free throws in the game's last two minutes.

Washburn, 16-4 and 2-1 in the CSIC, was led by All-American candidate Tom Meier's 18 points. Ex-Wildcat Calvin Sprew added a dozen.

Wayne State was led in scoring by Scott Hurley. The junior tossed in 13 points. Mike McNamara added 12 points and Russ Rosenquist finished with 10 points. Byron Haas led the club in rebounds with seven before fouling out. Wayne State was outrebounded 35-32.

The loss drops the Cats to 9-9 and 3-2 in conference play.

Wynot rally spells trouble for Trojans

Things appeared to be going in the right direction for the Wakefield Trojans Friday when the bottom dropped out in the fourth quarter as Wynot downed the Trojans 46-44 in Clark Division play.

Wakefield, 4-8, led 36-31 heading into the final quarter. But the Blue Devils outscored the guests in the final period 15-8 to claim the win.

The contest was close in the first half before the Trojans opened up the six-point lead. Wakefield led after the first quarter 12-9 and at halftime 22-21.

The Trojans opened up a seven-point lead early in the final period before the Blue Devils mounted their comeback. Wynot finally took the lead with about one minute to play. They increased the lead to 46-44 with less than 10 seconds remaining on a free throw.

Wakefield's chance to send the game into overtime disappeared when Brad Lund shot at the buzzer, hit the rim and bounced away harmlessly.

Wakefield Coach Paul Eaton said his team played a good defensive battle. The Trojans defensive charge was led by Randy Kinney and Kevin Greve. The two seniors also led the team in scoring. The 6-4 Greve contributed 17 points and 12 rebounds. Kinney added 12 points.

Wynot's Mike Eskens led all scorers with 19 points. Wynot made only 35 percent of its field goals, 17-48, while the Trojans hit 20/44 shots for 45 percent. Wynot outscored the hosts 12-4 from the free-throw line.

These two teams will do battle again in the first round of the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament beginning Jan. 31.

In the preliminary game the Wakefield JV's downed Wynot 30-23. Tony Krusemark paced the junior Trojans with 10 points. Fellow freshmen Matt Tatpe chipped in eight points.

Wayne State signs five gridder; 45 earn letters

Wayne State football Coach Pete Chapman has announced the signing of five transfer athletes for the upcoming season.

The new acquisitions are linebackers Brad Fuebacher, Terry Besta and Ryan Clark and linemen Steve Schiek and Harry Gardner.

Brad Fuebacher is transferring to Wayne after sitting out last year as a redshirt at the University of South Dakota. The 6-3, 230-pound Norfolk native will have four years of eligibility as a Wildcat.

Chapman is happy to land Fuebacher. He said he recruited him out of high school. He hopes he can step right in and contribute as a freshman.

Terry Besta comes to Wayne State from the University of Nebraska at Omaha. The Valley product stands 6-1, 220 pounds. Besta will have three years of eligibility at WSC.

Steve Schiek joins the Wildcats after transferring from Iowa Lakes Community College. Schiek, a junior, is originally from Algona, Iowa.

Chapman said the 6-5, 250 pounder is one of the best technique blockers he has seen in a long while. The budding future opponents, Chapman said, is he is still growing.

Harry Gardner also comes to Wayne from Iowa Lakes Community College. The 5-10, 220 pound Toledo, Iowa, native will have three years of eligibility. Gardner comes in as a center but Chapman said he can also play other offensive line positions.

Ryan Clark follows teammates Schiek and Gardner from the Iowa school. The 5-11, 218 pound junior is from Humboldt, Iowa.

Chapman also released the names of the 45 varsity letterwinners from the past season. Chapman said the letters are awarded based on participation during the 1986 season.

Three Wildcats, Darin Blackburn of Maivern, Iowa, Sonny Jones of Omaha and Lamont Lewis of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, were four-year letterwinners. Eleven others received their third letter.

The following is a complete list of letterwinners.

Allen cagers split with Newcastle

The Allen junior high basketball team opened the second week of the season with four games against Newcastle.

Allen split the four games with the boys and girls 8th grade teams winning while the seventh grade teams lost. The 8th grade boys came from behind to edge Newcastle 24-19. Shane Dahl and Jody Marlinsen led Allen with eight and seven points respectively. The boys' record increased to 2-0.

The 7th grade boys dropped to 0-2 with a 50-16 loss. Chris Maggert led the girls A team crunched Newcastle 29-4. Robin Schaffer scored a game-high 15 points for 1-1, Allen.

The B squad wasn't as lucky as it lost an 8-6 game to run its record to 0-2.

by Tom Keith - nebraska game & sports nebraska outdoorsman

Have the winter blazes got you down? How about trying some late season cottontail hunting to put a spark back into those long dreary weekends.

It's getting to be a long winter. The weather has been too warm to make ice thick enough for safe fishing in most parts of the state, nearly all of the hunting seasons have come and gone, and by now your wife has finished most of the chores around the house, so it seems natural that a guy would be getting a little bored just hanging around on weekends. Cottontail hunting is the perfect cure for the winter blues.

One nice thing about cottontail hunting is that it needn't be a "big deal". All you have to do is put the .22 rifle or a shotgun in the back of the truck and head for your favorite hunting spot. You don't have to drive far, you don't have to make long-range plans, or order a bunch of new gear, you just kind of get in the truck and go. There is bound to be some fine rabbit hunting within a few minutes drive of your front door.

Nebraska has plenty of good rabbit habitat in just about any rural area of the state, and it's easy to recognize. Just look for farmland that has overgrown fencerows, treelines, orchards, some grassy and weedy areas, thickets, brushpile, abandoned buildings or machinery, and you're almost guaranteed to find a bunny or two.

The absolute best cottontail hunting situation is for the hunter to be out in the early morning after a light snowfall. The countryside is still, the air is crisp and it's a pleasure just to be outside. Cottontails are easy to spot against the white background and if you've never paid much attention before, you'll be surprised at the number of rabbit tracks you'll find in the snow.

The Indians always said if you follow a rabbit's tracks long enough, you'll eventually find the animal. That's probably true, but it's often tough to do with rabbits because of the large number of tracks that dot the landscape. The easiest and most enjoyable way to go after bunnies is with the help of a beagle or two. Those little dogs love to get out and chase rabbits the way they were born to hunt - by keeping on the trail of a bouncing cottontail and bragging about it at the top of their lungs. Watching and listening to the dogs is a part of the hunt, and they'll save you a lot of walking as well as putting up rabbits you probably would never have seen on your own.

But, if you don't have a beagle or know someone who does, don't let it keep you from going hunting. Just walk slowly, check each clump of cover you encounter, and keep an eye on the area around you. Cottontails will usually sit fairly tight, more often than not refusing to move until you are so close they will startle you when they move.

Some rabbit hunters use only a .22 rifle and pick their shots carefully, choosing most often to take only head shots at sitting targets. That tactic insures a swift kill if the rabbit is hit, and if the shot is missed, the rabbit escapes unharmed. It also eliminates the loss of edible meat that sometimes occurs when hunting with a shotgun.

Wrestlers drop dual to Wisner-Pilger

The Wayne wrestling team dropped to 1-3 in dual meets as they were beaten by Wisner-Pilger Thursday night 37-18.

The Blue Devils lost some early matches but came on strong in the heavier weights to make the match close. The locals recorded wins in three of the last four divisions when Jason Cole, Chris Luft and Stuart Rethwisch all bettered their opponents.

The Gators received forfeit points at the 105 and 112-pound divisions. Neither team was able to fill the 98 pound class.

Coach John Murtaugh said his team got in a little early and couldn't recover. He said they lost some matches they should have won. Besides the three wrestlers that won, Murtaugh also credited Tim Sievers on his fine effort. Sievers wrestled at 185 pounds and was beaten 8-7. He held his own at 185 pounds while weighing about 165 pounds.

In the only reserve match of the evening Wayne's Shane Geiger won by technical fall over Shane Lierman by a 21-6 count.

The Wayne grapplers will be at home for two matches this week. Tuesday the Blue Devils will host West Point and Thursday Lyons-Decatur Northeast comes to town for Parent's Night.

- Results:
 *119—Mark Rahn was decided by Kory Kohms 6-5.
 *126—Chad Frye was pinned by Daryl Houghton, 3:06.
 *132—Greg DeNaeyer was pinned by Todd Heller, 1:36.
 *138—Tom Etter was decided by Troy Schilling 18-4.
 *145—Robbie Gamble wrestled to a 4-4 draw with Marc Dinklage.
 *155—Jason Cole decided Chris Loewig 10-0.
 *167—Chris Luft pinned Chris Lierman, 5:59.

Shotgun hunters have an edge in that they can make accurate shots on running rabbits and collecting bunnies is easier. Just about any shotgun is suited for rabbit hunting, and most shotguns choose low base field load shells in size six shot.

Rabbits are easy to clean and provide tasty eating whether they are fried, baked, grilled, or used as the base for fancy rabbit stew, or the greatest of rabbit dishes, hasenpfeffer.

Nebraska's rabbit hunting season is open through February 28. The daily bag limit is seven cottontails, the possession limit is 21.

Freshmen win, JV's lose to Hartington CC

*185—Tim Sievers was decided by Bret Geist 8-7.
 *Heavyweight—Stuart Rethwisch pinned Kyle Borgelt, 1:26.

The Wayne freshmen and junior varsity squads were in action Friday night as they hosted Hartington-Cedar Catholic.

The freshmen handed Hartington a 45-39 setback while the JV's were on the short end of a 44-34 score.

The freshmen led most of the way as they boosted their record to 5-4. Willie Gross led the way with 18 points, Neil Carnes added a dozen points.

The JV's led after the first period but lost the lead and never got it back. Wayne trailed by four points most of the contest. The game was closer than the final score indicated but the hosts were forced to foul which led to the final 10-point margin.

Cedar Catholic outscored Wayne from the free-throw line 12-0. Jess Ziess led Wayne with 14 points. No other Blue Devil had more than four points. The JV's dropped to 6-5 on the year.

Allen drops to 1-10 in loss to Walthill

A slow first quarter was responsible in Allen's 79-47 loss to Walthill Friday night.

The Eagles fell behind 18-2 in the first period before they got untracked. By the end of the first eight minutes the hosts trailed 25-11. Walthill led at halftime 41-29. Allen started the third quarter flat and was outscored 20-7 as the Bluejays took a 61-26 lead into the final quarter.

The game was decided in two areas, turnovers and free-throw shooting. Allen committed 44 turnovers compared to only 13 for Walthill. Many of the miscues resulted in easy baskets for the Bluejays. The guests had a hot hand at the free-throw line. Walthill made 85 percent of its charity shots, 23-27. On the other hand the Eagles hit just 9-23 gift shots.

Allen got back in the game before halftime as they cut the lead to 10 points with about 1:30 left in the half. "We came out flat in the second half and they blew us away," Coach Dave Uldrich said.

Allen was also beaten on the boards. Walthill outrebounded the Eagles 39-25. Max Oswald pulled down 10 rebounds for the hosts. Oswald also led the team in scoring with a game-high 24 points. Jyoti Kwankin was next with six points as 10 Eagles hit the scoring charts.

Walthill placed five guys in double figures. Rick Slansbery and David Wingett led the way with 18 and 17 points respectively.

Allen, 1-10, will next hit the court Friday when they host Emerson-Hubbard.

Eaton Field is site

Eaton Field in Wakefield will be the site of the 1987 Class C Area A American Legion Baseball Tournament beginning July 30.

Other Class C sites named at the conference are: Area B—Plainview; Area C—Daykin; and Area D—Oxford. The Class C state tournament is scheduled for Rushville beginning Aug. 7. There will be two divisions, middlets and juniors, in the area and state tournaments.

The Class C teams must have a school enrollment of less than 199 students.

Hoscheit to speak

Vern Hoscheit, bullpen coach for the world champion New York Mets, will be the featured speaker at the annual Nebraska State Baseball Hall of Fame Banquet to be held at the Dodge Bowling Alley Sunday, Feb. 1.

Hoscheit was born and raised on a farm near Brunswick, Nebraska. He began his baseball career in 1941 as a catcher in the New York Yankees system. He began coaching in 1948 in the Yankees minor league system. He also coached for the Oakland A's and scouted and coached for the Baltimore Orioles.

In 1982 he was called out of a six-year retirement by the Mets to manage in the rookie league at Sarasota, Florida. The next year Mets Manager Davy Johnson asked Hoscheit to join the team in his current position. He has been a part of three world championship teams.

For ticket information contact Dick Wobken at the Farmers and Merchants Bank in West Point.

Sievers is state bound

Tracy Sievers, the daughter of Rod and Theresa Sievers of Wayne, qualified for the Nebraska State Gymnastics Meet to be held on March 21.

The nine-year old qualified by scoring 29.40 points in the overall competition at a state qualifying meet Jan. 18 at the Omega School of Gymnastics in Papillion.

Sievers competed on the balance beam, uneven bars, vault and floor exercise. She is a member of the YMCA Gymnastics Rainbows.

Texas punter named

James Parker, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Herbolsheimer of Wakefield, was named the punter of the 1986 All-Southwest Elite Football Team. He was one of 10 players selected to the team.

The senior from Medina, Texas averaged more than 40 yards a punt this year. As a junior, Parker was named to the area all district team.

Bowhunters banquet

The Nebraska Bowhunters Association will hold their third annual Big Games Awards Banquet at the Holiday Inn in Kearney on Feb. 7.

Paul Schafer, famous for the silver-tip bow, will be the guest speaker. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. followed by various seminars. The state-wide meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m.

For more information contact Perry McDaniels at 308-234-1260 or Denise Durrflinger at 365-4192.

Ponca girls jump out early in 71-34 win at Wakefield

Ponca came out firing and never gave Wakefield a chance as the Lady Indians scalped Wakefield 71-34 Monday night.

Ponca scored 25 first-quarter points as they led 25-4 after the first eight minutes. The guests slowed down a bit in the second quarter but still led at halftime 41-12. They kept up the pace in the third quarter as they took a 57-18 lead into the final period.

Wakefield Coach Ellie Studer said the Lady Indians came out and scored the first eight points and intimidated Wakefield.

Amy Armstrong, the Lady Indians high scoring guard pumped in a game-high 30 points and impressed Studer. She hit 15-19 field goals. "She was awesome," Studer said. "She's the best high school player I've seen in quite a few years. In the second half Studer tried to defend Armstrong with a triangle and two defense. The defense shadows the player with two defenders.

Looking on, the bright side Wakefield shot 40 percent from the field. The 16-40 shooting was the best of the season for the Lady Trojans.

Marci Greve led the way with 14 points. The senior was 7-7 from the field.

Open Wednesday thru Saturday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

METHODIST WOMEN
The Laurel United Methodist Women met on Wednesday in the fellowship hall with 29 members in attendance. Lavonne Madsen, president, opened the meeting by reading a poem. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. "Corsages for Missions" were presented to outgoing and new officers for 1987. Those receiving corsages were Judy Pehrson, Carl Heitman, Lois White, Mary Iler, Mary Ann Ward, Shirley Wickett and Myrtle White.

Shirley Stohler became a new member of the Laurel Unit.
Ruby Smith, Christian Social Involvement coordinator, reported on the medical assistance from Nebraska Methodist Hospital in Omaha because of the rural crisis.
Roberta Lute read from the prayer calendar and announced that the Northeast District Missionary Society's Mission Festival will be held at Orchard on Sunday, Feb. 7 beginning at 2:30 p.m.
Shirley Wickett, program resources coordinator, promoted the reading program and had several new books for members to read.

Circle reports were given. The new Sunshine Circle met in the Lavonne Madsen home on Jan. 8 at 9:30 a.m. The next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 5 in the Jean Hartman home.
The Faith Circle will meet today (Monday) in the home of Ardis Cunningham. The Joy Circle met on Jan. 8 in the Mildred O'Gara home.
The Laurel Unit paid for a quarter of the registration fee for Becky Stanley and Stacy Strawn, youth from the church that attended the Christmas Conference in Aurora in December.

Correspondence was read, including a thank you from Vern McNabb who was honored on his 80th birthday by the Laurel Unit.
Members were reminded to remember Hazel Bruggeman's birthday on Jan. 31. She is the adopted resident for the Laurel Unit, who lives at Hillcrest Care Center.
Mrs. Shirley Wickett passed out the new program books for 1987. They were prepared by Mary Ann Unwiler, vice president, and Lavonna Bowman.

The Call to Prayer and Self Denial lesson was given by Judy Pehrson and Roberta Lute. It was entitled "Women: Equality and Development" by Joan Kelsey. The special offering will go to Deaconess and Home Missionary pensions, the women of Guatemala, Niger and Solomon Islands and for a women's cross cultural learning exchange program in Europe.
The hostesses were LaVonne Madsen, Gladys Holmes, Mary Iler, Lucille Shell and Rosie Samuelson.

STRESS WORKSHOP
The Laurel-Concord School will host another stress management workshop on Saturday, Jan. 31 from 10 a.m. to noon in the board room of the school. Michael Nesbit, school psychologist, plans to offer additional background information on stress, which will increase participants' awareness of stress in their lives. He will also demonstrate and provide time for individual practice of a relaxation procedure.
The workshop is free for area residents, but they must pre-register so that adequate materials are available. To register call Betty Heitgen at the Laurel-Concord High School office, 256-3731.

MEN'S BREAKFAST
The men's breakfast was held at the Laurel United Methodist Church on Wednesday with 28 in attendance. The breakfast was served by Don Oxley, Kevin Wacker, Tom Boeckenhauer and Roy Stohler. Devotions were given by the Rev. Fred Andersen.

The cooking crew for the Feb. 18 breakfast will be Tim Boeckenhauer, Brent Johnson, Regg Ward and Art Lipp.
