At Providence Medical Center Rehab program 'heartening'

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

The appropriateness of Heart Month during February is more so because of the association of hearts on Valentine's Day on Feb. 14.

But over the past few years, another designated event on Feb. 14, National Cardiac Rehabilitation Day, has been equally deserving of recognition.

And now, the Providence Medical Center's (PMC) three-year-old Cardiac Rehabilitation Program joins other programs affiliated with the Nebraska Cardiac Rehabilitation Network in promoting Nebraska Cardiac Rehabilitation Week.

The special week, from Feb. 8-14, was proclaimed by Nebraska Governor Kay Orr after the idea was presented by officers of the rehabilitation network.

To Karen Kwapnoski, coordinator of the PMC Cardiac Rehabilitation Program, the day set aside for recognition of cardiac rehabilitation unveils an opportunity to inform the public on the cardiac hospital program's many benefits.

TO ALETHA—Hines of Wayne, a participant in the PMC Cardiac Rehabilitation Program, no introduction on the merits of the program is necessary.

Hines suffered a heart attack in December. She was released from the hospital on Dec. 21. Five days later, Dec. 29, she started with the PMC Cardiac Rehabilitation Program.

SINCE SHE STARTED the program, Kwapnoski and Terri Munter, who helps with the program, have noticed considerable improvement in Hines' condition.

"It's really been good for me," Hines said. "I'm feeling better and stronger."

Currently, she is the lone participant in the PMC cardiac rehabilitation program, although two others will soon be starting, according to Kwapnoski. Over the past three years, 11 individuals have gone through the program — seven of them in 1986.

Any person who has had a recent heart attack, heart surgery or related heart problems can become involved in cardiac rehabilitation. However, a physician's referral is necessary to enroll.

"Usually, the doctor suggests that the individual enter our program," Kwapnoski said. Participants are monitored by staff members and hospital devices while they exercise.

The program is covered by most insurance plans, including Medicare and Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

"This is a fairly new area over the past five years," Kwapnoski mentioned. In the last decade, there has been a dramatic decline in the number of deaths from coronary disease. Therefore, nursing and medical care is now focusing on these coronary disease survivors and their families.

According to Kwapnoski, Phase I of cardiac rehabilitation starts in the coronary care unit.

THE PHASE consists of a teaching program for the patient about anatomy and physiology of the heart, risk factor awareness and modification, nutritional modification, stress management and knowledge of medications.

Phase II of cardiac rehabilitation begins after the patient is dismissed from the hospital. The patient comes to the hospital on an outpatient basis three times weekly, for approximately six to 12 weeks.

She explained that each patient in the second phase is placed on a cardiac monitor during the session and blood pressure is monitored carefully — both before and after exercise.

Next, the patient is put through a series of warm-up exercises. The remainder of the time is spent working out in five minute stations on one of three exercising devices — a treadmill, exercise bike and an arm ergometer.

"The whole session takes about an hour, with exercising consisting of some 30 to 40 minutes. There are periods for resting," said Kwapnoski. Before the patient leaves the hospital, he or she goes through a five minute cool down period.

SHE SAID EACH patient has an individualized exercise prescription and is exercised according to the patient's target heart rate that was determined by their physician on prior exercise testing.

For street improvement program

Logan Street taken off list

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

The widening of Logan Street has been removed from the city of Wayne's one and six year street improvement program following a public hearing Tuesday evening involving the program proposals.

Protests were filed by the city council during the public hearing from several of the property owners along the proposed Logan Street road improvement project.

Projects approved by the city council, in order of priority for 1987, included the improvement of Providence Road from East 10th Street and Providence Road South to Highway 35 (concrete paving with curb and gutter) at an estimated cost of $175,000 (with 75 percent federal share and 25 percent local share), and reconstruction and enlarging of storm sewer on 3rd Street from Logan Street to Main Street, estimated to cost $40,000.

HOWEVER, most of the discussion centered around the proposed widening of Logan Street listed on the one and six-year street improvement plan for 1988, with an estimated cost at $61,000.

This Logan Street project was one of the very first projects put into the one and six year street improvement program, according to Public Works Superintendent Vern Schulz.

The project would be considered a federal funded project (75 percent federal funding and 25 percent as general obligation).

Councilman Darrel Heier said Tuesday night that he had questions about the Logan Street widening project being necessary. He said he was contacted by people living near Logan Street who do not approve of the improvement. Petitions stating objections to the street widening were submitted to the city council at a previous meeting.

City Administrator Phil Kloster gave a slide presentation Tuesday evening which showed the irregular widths of Logan Street. He said trees along the proposed street improvement project would not be destroyed.

Marla McCue, who resides along Logan Street, asked: "Two trucks can still pass each other on the street, so why widen it?"

INSTEAD OF widening the street to accommodate increased truck or regular traffic, McCue suggested that the city council install stop signs for traffic control and speed control on the street.

Bob McCue said the difference in widths on Logan Street is consistent to the type of neighborhood. Business areas have wider streets while if narrow in the residential areas. "Just because there is a difference in width, is no reason to make the street wider. It just reflects the neighborhood," he said.

Kloster said one of the questions asked to the state of Nebraska when looking at the project was what effect the widening project would have on the trees "because Logan Street is a very picturesque street with a very pretty line of trees on both sides."

"The state of Nebraska has assured us, as well as the engineer looking at the preliminary design, that those trees would be protected, and saved and that is a key to what we wanted to do on Logan Street. I think that should be entered into the record also," Kloster said.

Excessive speeding on Logan Street was also brought up by several of the property owners along Logan. "Speeders avoid Main Street because of speed traps there. They use Logan to speed through town," said one resident.

"We probably run radar on Logan Street more than any single street in the city of Wayne with the exception of Main Street," said Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild.

Paperwork continues on sales tax

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Wayne's city administration has been given the go ahead to draw up a city sales tax petition, or whatever is necessary, in the amount of 1 1/2 percent with the instruction that great care be exercised in handling the distribution of the funds.

The motion was made Tuesday evening by Councilman Freeman Decker and seconded by Darrel Heier.

City Attorney Kem Swarts said the draft of documents will be generic, working documents. "A lot of the specifics you are going to have to wrestle with yourself and look at and see what you are comfortable with," Swarts mentioned.

In earlier discussion Tuesday evening on the sales tax issue, City Administrator Phil Kloster said there is significant amount of paperwork that needs to be prepared and considered by the city council.

"What [the administration] would like at the very least is a motion authorizing us to prepare the necessary paperwork, if in fact you want this issue to proceed to the ballot, at a percentage you wish to have put on the ballot," Kloster said.

Councilman Heier said he was not ready to make a hasty decision because he was still "hashing over the pros and cons of the issue."

Councilman Freeman Decker said he personally favors a sales tax and will vote for it. "I haven't made up my mind on the split of the two," he said.

JOHN VAKOC, owner of Vakoc Building and Home Center of Wayne and a proponent of the 1 1/2 percent city sales tax, said Tuesday night that property taxes in Wayne had gotten to the point where they are actually a deterrent to home ownership.

"When a lender looks at a potential homebuyer, he not only looks at the ability to pay the principle and interest on the loan, but he also looks at the borrower's ability to maintain the property," he said.

Vakoc also mentioned his support of the 1/2 cent dedicated toward economic development. He said the community needs to diversify in gaining new industry or business. Wayne cannot stay in the hunt, he said, if the only funds available for economic development is the $4,600 in funds from Wayne Industries.

Brian McBride, a Wayne businessman, commented that federal funding for economic development is rapidly depleting. "Where would we be without that money?" he asked.

Vakoc said it is the city council's job to look into the future. "If you can say that you believe that the extra 1/2 cent for economic development is going to pay dividends 10 years down the road, then I think it is your job to support it," he said.

Councilwoman Carolyn Filter said she favors the 1 percent sales tax now. "What is stopping me and worrying me on the 1/2 percent is the control of it. I have not received a good answer on the control of it that I would feel is acceptable," Filter said.

"I learned a long time ago that sometimes it is better to compromise and not lose the whole ball game. I'd rather get some of it than lose it all," she added.

VAKOC PRESENTED a proposal to develop an "economic development commission."

The commission would be there to advise the council, which would eventually have the final say on the funds.

Rod Tompkins and Edward (Sam) Schroeder, both of Wayne, encouraged the city council to pursue the city sales tax.

Kloster said that for the past 18 months, the city of Wayne has been a leader and the envy in the state of

Contracts approved for Garwood, Mills, Tappe

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

The board of directors of Educational Service Unit One, meeting in Wakefield Tuesday night, unanimously approved contracts for Rodney Garwood, Harry Mills and Duane Tappe.

Garwood, who has served as assistant administrator at ESU 1 since July 1983, was named administrator last month following an announcement by Harry Mills that he will retire as ESU 1 administrator effective June 30, 1987.

Garwood's two-year contract as the new ESU 1 administrator runs from July 1, 1987 to June 30, 1989. His salary, as approved by the board Tuesday night, was set at $39,000 for 1987-88 and is negotiable after the first year.

Garwood's salary as assistant administrator during 1986-87 was $36,000.

MILLS, WHO HAS served as ESU 1's chief administrator since its inception in 1966, will be retained as a consultant to the ESU 1 board and administration following his retirement.

As a consultant, board members Tuesday night offered Mills a one-year contract at a salary of $7,200.

Mills' duties as a consultant will include advising the board or administration upon request with respect to budget, personnel, programs, equipment needs and purchases. He will also undertake such studies and prepare such reports as may be directed by the board and/or administration.

In a press release issued last month, ESU 1 board members stated there were many years during which the administrator did not come under any form of retirement program and this plan (retaining Mills as a consultant) provides a means to restore some of those lost values.

ALSO OFFERED A two-year contract Tuesday night was ESU 1

Presents "EYE OPENERS"

Q. Recently I started seeing dark spots and thread-like strands before my eyes. What causes this? Is it serious?
A. You are seeing spots and floaters. They are usually harmless but sometimes they signal a serious eye problem in need of prompt attention. These include such vision-threatening conditions as retinal detachment, other retinal disorders, cataracts, diabetes, high blood pressure or leukemia. You should, therefore, make an appointment with your optometrist for a thorough eye examination covering eye health as well as your vision. Be sure to mention the dark spots and strands you are seeing. More than likely you are seeing harmless particles of protein or other natural materials floating in the fluid inside your eyes. But you need a professional diagnosis. Even if your optometrist diagnoses the spots as harmless, have them re-evaluated every year or more often, if you notice a change.

Bears upset Coleridge

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Laurel Bears put together a full game and downed Coleridge 63-55 in a Clark Division game Monday night in Laurel.

The hosts played perhaps its best 16 minutes of the season in the first half. The Bears were connecting from inside and out and the Laurel defense collapsed on the taller Bulldog offense.

Laurel Coach Mark Hrabik said that was his team's game plan to collapse inside and make Coleridge beat them from the outside.

The hosts never trailed in the contest. Laurel jumped to a 15-7 lead and was on top 17-11 after the first period. The Bears really started clicking in the second period.

Reserve Steve Schmitt provided the Bears with an offensive spark as he scored seven points in the quarter. Laurel led at halftime by 16 points at 33-17.

Coleridge staged a fierce comeback in the third quarter. Before the fans could get settled back in their seats the Bulldogs chopped the lead to 35-25. The visitors applied full-court pressure and came up with several turnovers as they outscored Laurel 10-2 in the early going.

The Bears regained their composure after Hrabik called a timeout and got the lead back to 40 points. Laurel continued to collapse on defense but the Bulldogs started to warm up from the outside. The hosts still led after three quarters 47-35.

A turning point in the game came with about 4:17 left to play. The Bulldogs cut the lead to eight points and looked like they were about to come up with a turnover off of the press when a foul was called. Coleridge Coach Randy Huebert disagreed with the call and was given a technical foul. Scott Marquardt hit both free throws and John Schutte picked up a basket underneath and stretched the lead to 53-41.

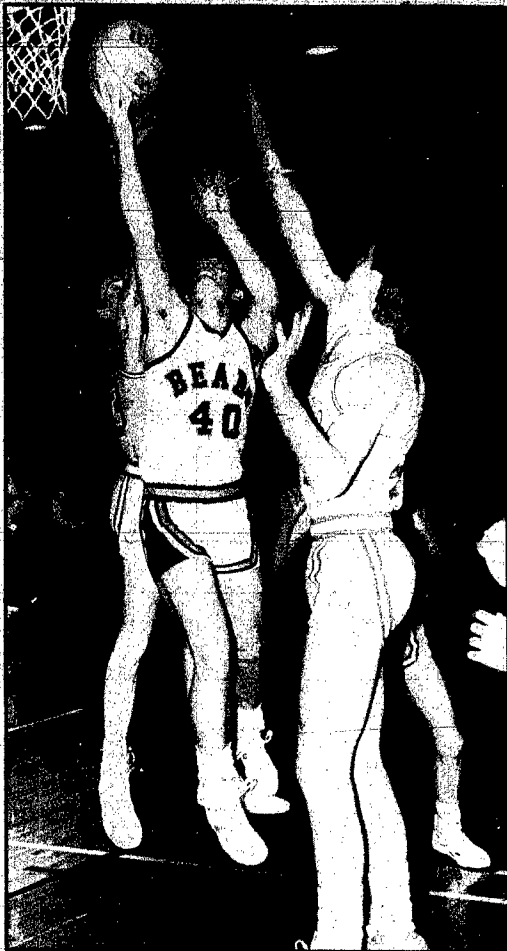

From there the Bears hit a few free throws down the stretch and boosted their record to 5-7. It was the first home win of the season for the boys.

Coleridge outscored the hosts from the field 48-42 but Laurel hit 21-36 free throws while the visitors made just 7-12 giff shots. Another key was rebounds. Laurel outboarded the Bulldogs 37-32. Schutte and Brent Haisch tallied 11 each for the winners.

Three Bears scored in double figures. Schutte was tops for Laurel with 15 points while Haisch and Marquardt added 13 each.

Coleridge, 9-6, was led by Scott Gray's 16 points.

Next up for Laurel is top-rated Wausa Friday night at Laurel. Hrabik said his team will enter the contest with a "nothing to lose" at-

Wayne rebounds from loss to pound O'Neill

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Wayne Blue Devils rebounded from an opening round loss to pound O'Neill Saturday afternoon in the consolation game of the NAC Tournament in Wayne.

The Blue Devils were beaten by South St. Louis City Friday night 61-55. The Cardinals downed Hartington Cedar Catholic Saturday for the tournament championship.

Saturday it was all Wayne as they claimed a 78-41 win over the Eagles. The locals only led by four after the first quarter at 16-12.

The first four or five minutes we were not very intense and it showed," Coach Bob Uhing said. "All we want is hustle from all five of the players on the floor, we're not getting that. That's the only thing that is stopping this team."

Wayne outscored O'Neill in the second and third quarters 44-11 as the Blue Devils coasted to their eighth

Lady Blues wear out WSC

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Washburn Lady Blues broke open a close game in the second half and handed the Wayne State Lady Wildcats a 74-59 loss at Rice Auditorium Saturday night.

Washburn led 48-27 at halftime and outscored the hosts 46-32 in the second half. The Lady Blues went to 20-4 overall and stand atop the CSIC with an 8-1 mark. The Lady Cats dropped to 9-13 and 3-7 in the conference.

Things looked tough from the start as the Lady Blues reeled off the first six points of the game before Michelle Blomberg hit a three-point goal to cut the lead in half with 18:17 to play in the opening half. The locals took their first lead on a basket by Tonya Kelley with 12:47 to go. The women increased the lead to 27-18 with 7:04 left in the first half.

Washburn rebounded and tallied the last 10 points of the half to go on top at intermission by a single point.

The Lady Cats got back on top early in the second half and after their last lead of the game at 41-40 after a Kris Smith basket. From there the Lady Blues scored the next 11 points and were never challenged again.

Wayne Coach Len Klaver said he thought Washburn's physical size wore his team down in the second half. The Lady Blues boast a front line of 6-4 Kelly Jennings, 6-2 Laurie Agard and 5-11 Brenda Shaffer.

Smith again played a big part for the Lady Cats. The junior from Pender scored 10 points and hauled down eight rebounds. Friday night Smith contributed 23 points and 14 rebounds in the loss to Emporia State. "Kris has taken more of a leadership role," Klaver said. "She leads by example, she works very hard all of the time."

Wayne State hit only 36 percent from the field for the game. They connected on only 25-70 shots. The Lady Blues cashed in on 48 percent of their shots from the field.

Blomberg led the Lady Cats with 16 points. Dawnn Berni and Smith added 11 and 10 points respectively. Berni also pulled down 13 rebounds. Wayne State's leading scorer Linda Schmitzler was held to a season-low six points.

Shaffer paced the Lady Blues with 27 points. Jennings and Latisha

Winside wins frosh-soph tournament at Allen

The Winside entry downed Wakefield 54-44 to claim the championship of the Allen Freshmen-Sophomore Basketball Tournament.

Winside advanced to the finals by beating host Allen 81-49 in an opening-round game Jan. 31. Wakefield advanced by downing Newcastle 48-33. Newcastle claimed the consolation prize by edging Allen 38-32 in overtime.

In the championship contest Winside capitalized from the free-throw line as they hit 14-21 while Wakefield tossed in 8-14 giff shots.

Tim Jacobsen paced the winners with 27 points. Steve Helmenann added 14 points for the winners. Scott Lund and Doug Roberts tallied 12 points each for the Trojans.

Yarnell added 11 each.

Looking down the road Klaver said if his team is to qualify for the District 11 playoffs they need to win three of the last six games. A team must win 40 percent of its games to be eligible. Klaver said the Lady Cats need to win two of the three games remaining against Chadron State, Kearney State and the College of Saint Mary to get into the playoffs.

tion this weekend with a pair of road games. The Cats will do battle with Missouri Southern Friday night and Pittsburg State on Saturday. Wayne State stands in fifth place in the conference with a 4-6 mark.

Ranked Washburn whips Cats

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

Wayne State, playing without senior-point guard Vincent White, entertained nationally ranked Washburn Saturday and were thumped by the Icabods 83-52.

The Cats were without White who watched the game in street clothes after suffering a sprained ankle in Friday night's win over Emporia State. The Joiner, Arkansas native is expected to suit up for the Cats next game against Bellevue but he is not expected to see much action.

"It's like losing a starting quarterback off of a passing team," Coach Steve Aggers said about the injury to White.

The loss dropped Wayne State to 11-14 overall and 4-4 in the CSC. The ninth-ranked Icabods went to 22-4 and 8-1 in the CSC.

The Cats stayed close throughout the first nine minutes of the game. They led by three points at 9-6 and their last lead came at 9-8 with 14:56 to play in the first half. Washburn outscored the hosts 19-4 in the last seven minutes of the first half.

The Icabods hit 54 percent from the field as they posted a 42-20 halftime lead. The Cats hit 8-21 shots in the first 20 minutes. Byron Haas had half of the Cats points in the opening 20 minutes.

The second half was more of the same as Washburn outpointed Wayne State 41-32. The locals finished the game hitting 42 percent of their shots while Washburn connected on 58 percent for the game.

"That just shows you what 12 full rides (scholarships) can do for your program," Aggers said. Nebraska state colleges can only offer partial grants to its athletes.

Washburn hurt the Cats on the boards as they outrebanded the hosts 40-22. The Icabods also placed five in double figures. The Icabods' 6-8 center Rich Hamilton led the way with 19 points. Ex-Wayne States Calvin Spraw followed with 14 points while Bobby Sumner added 13 markers. Power forward Tom Meier popped in 12 points and James Davenport contributed 10 points.

MARK GRACY battles inside against several Washburn defenders in action at Rice Auditorium Saturday night.

Haas was the only Wildcat that scored in double figures as he finished with 12 points. Everyone got to play for Wayne State. At one time Aggers had five freshmen on the floor against Washburn's top-line players. Wayne State enters an important stretch of the season. The Cats need to win two of their last six games to qualify for the District 11 playoffs. If Wayne State can beat Bellevue College and Chadron State they would host a first-round playoff game.

Tourney champs

Wayne girls claim consolation game

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Wayne girls' basketball team won the battle Saturday but they may have lost the war.

The senior injured her finger late in the second quarter. She played sparingly during the rest of the game and finished with a season-low six points.

Coach Marlene Uhing said the 5-11 center's playing status is up to Corbit and her family.

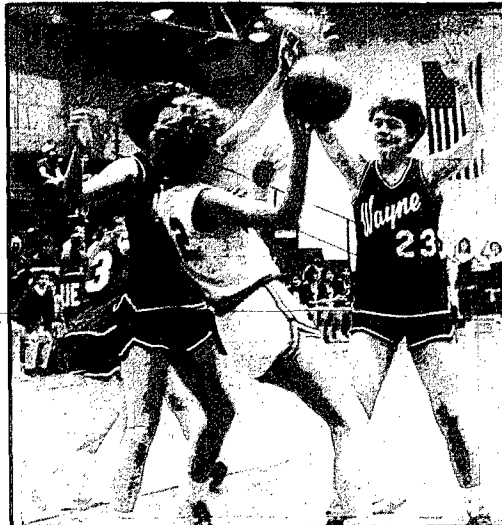

"It's pretty painful right now," Uhing said. "The doctors said if she took 10 days off the pain would go away."

Uhing said the encouraging thing is that the injury isn't to her shooting hand. The coach said she will know more after Corbit tests the finger.

The Lady Blue Devils rebounded from their first-round loss to South Sioux City in fine shape in the first half of the O'Neill game. They led 14-4 after one period and 29-11 at halftime. Shelly Pick propelled Wayne in the first half as she scored 10 of her game-high 12 points in the first quarter.

The girls let down a bit in the second half as the Lady Eagles scored the first eight points of the third quarter and outscored the locals 20-12 in the second half.

Pick was the only Lady Blue Devil scorer in double figures. Wayne outrebanded the Lady Eagles 42-29. Pick was the top rebounder with 15 boards. O'Neill got eight points from Lisa Poes.

ROBIN LUTT (23) of Wayne appears happy to pick off a pass thrown by an off-balanced O'Neill girl.

Wayne's problems at the free-throw line continued. The girls hit only 9-22 free throws in the game. Prior to the fourth quarter the Lady Devils made just 5-16 gift shots.

Winside folds in fourth quarter

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The game was a lot closer than the final score indicated but nevertheless the Winside Wildcats dropped a 65-49 decision to Wynot Tuesday night at Winside.

The margin varied from one to five points most of the evening with both teams holding the lead.

Lack of defensive pressure was the Wildcats' downfall in the second half as they allowed Wynot 44 second-half points while they could muster only 27 markers.

"We weren't moving our feet on defense in that third quarter," Winside Coach Mark Freburg said. "We never got a hand in the shooter's face."

The Wildcats started the game cold from the field. Wynot scored the first six points and led after the first quarter 15-13. Winside took the lead in the second quarter and was on top 22-19 late in the period. The Wildcats had the ball and were stalling for the last shot of the half. Wynot came up with a steal with six seconds to play and Mike Hansen drilled a 25-footer at the buzzer to pull the Blue Devils to within one point at halftime, 22-21.

The teams played evenly in the third period but Wynot came up with one more basket and took a 41-40 lead into the final period.

That's when things started to turn sour for the hosts. The Blue Devils outscored Winside 24-9 in the last quarter.

The visitors scored the first four points of the quarter and later stretched the lead to 49-42 with 5:33 left. The Wildcats' shots started to come up short and Wynot cashed in on several transition baskets for the final 16-point margin.

Two players in particular really hurt Winside in the final stanza. Mike Eskens tallied 10 fourth-quarter points while teammate Corey Stratman added nine in the period. Up to that point Freburg said his team did a good job of defending the two leading Blue Devil scorers. Both finished the game with 18 points apiece.

Winside was led by a trio of double-figure performers. Mike Jaeger topped the list with 15 points. Tim Jacobsen added 14 points while Chris Nau tossed in a dozen. Jaeger also added 12 rebounds and 10 assists to his performance. Jacobsen was right behind him with seven boards and five dish-offs.

Winside, 2-12, will hit the road for a game tonight (Thursday) at Osmond.

Lady Bears bow to Wausa in Lewis and Clark tournament

The Laurel Lady Bears couldn't overcome a sluggish first half as they bowed to Wausa in the finals of the Lewis and Clark tournament.

The Lady Vikings outscored Laurel 19-11 in the first half and held on for a 45-38 win. The victory allowed Wausa to advance to the finals where they downed Ponca 37-35.

Laurel Coach Pam Thies said her team came out a little nervous in the first half but they played more relaxed in the second half.

Leading by as many as 12 points in the third quarter Wausa went into their stall game. Laurel put some pressure on the Wausa guards and got a couple of steals as the third period ended with the Lady Vikings hanging onto a 31-19 lead.

Laurel put together a late charge in the fourth quarter and outscored Wausa 19-14 but it wasn't enough. Wausa scored 10 of its 14 points in the final stanza from the free-throw.

win in 16 games. All 12 players that suited up scored in the contest.

The Blue Devils shot better than 50 percent from the field. Three players hit double figures for the locals. Ted Luuders led the way with 15 points. Nick Engelson added 11 points and Scott Hammer tossed in 10 points off the bench.

The Eagles, who dropped to 1-14, were led by Rick Marcellus' 13 points.

Wayne will get a chance at avenging the South Sioux loss when they play the Cardinals on the road Friday night. Uhing said South Sioux is playing as well currently as anyone they'll face. He said although the Cardinals record isn't that good they have been in every game they've played. Their worst loss came to Class A Norfolk by 15 points. It is also very important to the Blue Devils because if they win they can claim the championship of the Northern Activities Conference with a perfect 3-0 conference mark.

Over halfway mark reached

The halfway point has been reached in the Wayne Herald's "4,000 Reasons To Shop Wayne" contest, with eight finalists already named and eight more names yet to be drawn.

The latest names drawn, on Tuesday morning at Daylight Donuts, are Mabel Sommerfeld of Wayne and Genevieve Fredrickson of Wakefield.

Both of these names were drawn on registration coupons that were clipped from advertisements published in The Wayne Herald (one from Corvett Derby and the other from Coast to Coast). If one of these people have their name drawn for the grand prize, then they will receive a trip for two to a choice of popular vacation spots along with a five-piece luggage set.

Those vacation areas include Florida, Las Vegas, Aspen (Colorado), Phoenix, Bermuda, Hawaii or a boat cruise to the Virgin Islands.

The second name drawn will receive $1,000 in vacation bucks to be spent at any of the 54 businesses participating in the contest.

People must now re-register for the drawing to take place next Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. at Daylight Donuts. A reminder that the registration coupons clipped from The Wayne Herald must be placed in the registration boxes of the advertiser named on the coupon.

"Any registration coupon advertised in the Wayne Herald that is placed in the wrong business' registration box is disqualified.

Sommerfeld and Fredrickson join these other finalists in the running for the grand prize: Gail Jaeger, Winslow; Erwin Fleer, Wayne; Tom Serbeck, South Sioux City; Carrie Kuthof, Wayne State College; Kathy Rutenebeck, Wayne; and Kevin Echtenkamp of Wayne.

STACIE HOEMAN of Wayne, daughter of Sheri and Todd Hoeman, draws two more contest names for the 4000 Reasons To Shop Wayne grand prize.

William J. Vrtiska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Vrtiska of Wayne, enlisted in the Air Force recently according to Sgt Bob Wafers, Air Force Recruiter, in Norfolk.

Upon successfully completing the Air Force's six weeks basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Texas, Vrtiska is scheduled to receive technical training in the Air Cargo Specialist career field.

He is a 1982 graduate of Wayne High School and also attended NTCC as well as Wayne State College. He will be earning credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

Street

ONE RESIDENT along Logan Street asked for the exact dimension of the widening project. Kloster said the project is still in the design stage which is a long way from being funded and becoming a reality.

Council member Carolyn Filter suggested that the Logan Street improvement project remain on the one and six year program, but not specifically for widening purposes. She expressed concern about possible deterioration of the base beneath the bricks on Logan Street, and when the base would eventually have to be replaced.

Kloster told the council that the only way federal money would be available would be if the street was widened.

He then placed a motion to remove the widening of Logan Street from the one and six year street improvement program. The lone dissenting vote on the removal was cast by Councilman Larry Johnson, who said earlier that he felt the street project should not be deleted from the program.

OTHER PROJECTS in the one and six year improvement program for 1988 that were approved by the city council included the following:

- Overlay existing surface with 2" asphalt from Clark Street to 7th Street on Highway 15; estimated at a cost of $120,000.
- Grainland Road — from Sherman Street to Blaine Street. Concrete paving with curb and gutter and storm sewer, estimated cost $80,000.
- Walnut Street — 12th Street to 14th Street, concrete paving with curb and gutter, estimated cost $35,000.
- East 13 Street — Walnut Street to Schriener Drive, concrete paving with curb and gutter, estimated cost $10,000.
- One project is slated for 1989, which is to construct storm sewer, then close the open ditch from the National Guard Armory to the State Department of Roads driveway on East Highway 35, estimated to cost $190,000.

The remainder of the program (for 1990, 1991 and 1992) is listed as "maintenance only."

Sales tax

Nebraska. "We have got some things going in this community that we in the process I feel have developed some new positive attitudes."

"We have some other possibilities [for future industry or business] in the wings. Right now, one of them tonight, at this very moment is slipping through our fingers because we do not have the tools to hold it at this point," Kloster said.

"The fed monies and state monies are drying up. We need some additional tools to work with, and the only way we are going to have those tools is if the voters of Wayne have the foresight to give us some of those tools. That will have to be today through some kind of sales tax to allow us some kind of economic development monies to work with," he mentioned.

KLOSTER DID not elaborate on the industry or business.

Kloster said that if the sales tax issue goes to the voter, two boards or commissions would be organized — one to look after the property tax relief aspects and to assure voters of the community that the tax relief is guaranteed; the other to work in cooperation with the industrial development interest of the community of Wayne.

The commission would make recommendations to the city council and work to get the needed state statute revisions and constitutional revisions to perpetuate and create jobs for young people or displaced agriculture people who need a place to have a second income, Kloster mentioned.

He said there is not going to be a 100 percent shift in taxation from a property tax base to a city sales tax base.

IF THE CITY council decides to place the 1½ cent city sales tax issue on the ballot through resolution approval, it will also be recommended that an accompanying ordinance be placed on the ballot that would delineate how the city sales tax will be handled.

"It would be a lot more difficult in years to come to change the ordinance without the voters approval," Kloster said.

Rehab

monitoring throughout the sessions, she mentioned, many heart dysrhythmias may be detected earlier which could prevent further complications or another costly hospitalization.

"Cardiac rehabilitation improves physical and psychological health by dealing with the entire patient — body, mind and spirit," she said.

She said patients actually feel better about themselves, because through the program they gain confidence and learn that they are still able to do many of their former activities.

"Patients must want to achieve their goals of cardiac rehab so that it will become a way of life for them," she added.

In many cases, the person emerges from the program in better health than they were before their heart attack or heart surgery because the heart has to work harder to supply oxygen-laden blood to the muscles.

People who exercise regularly reduce the demand on their hearts because their muscles have the need of it to sustain longer workouts. "Thus, the programs teach through behavior modification since the process must continue for the rest of the person's life," mentioned Kwapioski.

For more information on the program, contact Kwapioski or Terri Munter at 375-3800.

Special Education Director Duane Tappe, an employee of ESU 1 for the past 13 years.

Tappe's salary for 1987-88 was set at $36,000 and is negotiable after the first year. His salary during 1986-87 was $33,000.

Fringe benefits for Garwood, Mills and Tappe will remain the same as last year.

With realignment of the ESU 1 administrative structure (naming Assistant Administrator Garwood as the new ESU 1 chief administrator) board members Tuesday night voted unanimously to eliminate the position of assistant administrator.

The board directed the administration to adopt a new chart eliminating the position of assistant administrator, effective July 1, 1987, and to present it at next month's meeting.

IN OTHER BUSINESS Tuesday night, the ESU 1 board voted unanimously to approve a list of board committees for 1987 as presented by Ken Lahrs, board chairman.

Claire Hansen will chair the negotiations committee. Serving with him are Leo Krampfer and John Post.

"On the board policy committee are Jim Martindale, chairman, Dr. Ervin DeBoer, Randy Shaw and Jan Rohan.

The insurance committee is comprised of Lahrs and Paul Steffen, and serving on the advisory council will be Randy Shaw, chairman, along with Dr. Ervin DeBoer, Marvin Borg and John Post.

Borg and Lahrs also will serve on the legislative committee.

ALSO TUESDAY night, board members voted unanimously to invite ESU 1 staff members to each monthly board meeting.

"I have had some other experiences along this line and found it to be very beneficial," said board chairman Lahrs. "I would like to see us start a policy of inviting staff members to our meetings where they can devote 15 to 20 minutes explaining their jobs," added Lahrs.

"I think it would promote good staff relations and allow board members to become familiar with the individuals and the jobs they are doing."

BOARD MEMBERS Tuesday night also:

—Voted unanimously to approve a 1987-88 coop purchasing contract between ESU 1 and ESU 17 headquartered at Alinsworth;

—Voted unanimously to authorize the payment of ESU 1 bills for the month with the exception of a one-year subscription to the Wall Street Journal at a cost of $119;

—Discussed the National School Board Convention slated April 4-7 in San Francisco. Board members wishing to attend are asked to notify Mills so reservations can be made;

—Heard reports from Assistant Administrator Garwood and Special Education Director Tappe concerning 1987-88 staff recommendations. Garwood recommended that all nurses on staff be retained. Tappe told board members that he still has not heard from several school districts regarding contracts and it was too early for him to make staff recommendations at this time;

—Reviewed board policy guidelines on purchasing equipment. Board members recommended that the administration consult with the board before taking action on the purchase of equipment;

—Authorized the administration to look into leasing or purchasing a vehicle to replace one presently being used by ESU 1 staffers.

Exercise gets 'bum rap'

by Jeff Berger

Is that stress that you've been battling all week still causing you problems? If so, there are several things you can do about it: 1. Visit us at the Wayne Stress Prevention Center, 7 p.m. Thursday in Room 202 of Wayne-Carroll High School. We meet regardless of whether or not there is a school function that night. 2. Have us visit you and your group by contacting either Doug (375-2420 or 375-2200) or Jeff (375-5289 or 287-2012) at your convenience. We are able to discuss a wide variety of stress-related topics, including job stress, parenting stress, stress in relationships, financial stress and general stress. And to top it off, we can help you pinpoint your stress if you know you feel it, but don't know where it comes from. 3. Write us at 510 E. 7th St., Wayne, NE 68787 with your questions about stress and 4. Read this article and practice the technique that follows.

Last week I described a technique that is used by many people under stress to relax when being by yourself is not practical. This week, I would like to present an exercise that has really gotten a "bum rap" by many people who don't know what the technique is about. The Relaxation Response, a technique developed by Dr. Herbert Benson, is a form of what is commonly called meditation.

NOW PLEASE, before you giggle, grunt or turn the page, let me explain what this technique is not. It is not an exercise which forces you to wear a white sheet, or even shave your head. No fresh fruit or flowers need be involved and you will not float off of the floor while doing it.

to block all other sounds and to focus your concentration on basically the sound itself and nothing else.

Third, a passive attitude toward the exercise is needed. Don't force yourself to relax and don't worry about if you are relaxed or not. If distracting thoughts occur, let them pass on through without dwelling on them.

wayne stress prevention center

Fourth, a comfortable position is needed. Reduce your muscular effort to a minimum, but try not to lie down. Sleep is not the objective here. Sit in a chair, prop your feet up a bit, loosen tight clothing and support your head, if you like.

NOW YOU ARE ready to relax. Close your eyes. Relax your muscles by breathing deeply and slowly through your nose. Make sure all your muscles are relaxed fully.

Breathe through the nose and become aware of your breathing. As you breathe out, say the word "one" silently to yourself. Thus: breathe in, breathe out with "one", over and over again.

Continue this for 20 minutes. You may open your eyes to check the time, but no alarms. When you've finished, come back slowly, sitting quietly for several minutes.

Are you relaxed now? If not, don't fret. These techniques need to be practiced regularly to work their best. Don't expect a quick cure for your stress after one attempt, give the techniques a chance to work. With practice, all of the techniques discussed in this column can deal quickly with stress. And after all, why not try this for a week? The stress you are feeling might have taken years to grow!

The Wayne Stress Prevention Center is funded by the Providence Medical Center Foundation.

Choir performs Feb. 15

WSC schedules home concert

The Concert Choir from Wayne State College of Nebraska will once again cap its annual tour with a "home concert" on campus Sunday, Feb. 15 at 3 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center. The concert is free and open to the public.

The home concert is the final performance during the five-day tour to 10 towns and cities in Iowa and Nebraska, Feb. 11-15. The 55-voice group, directed by Dr. Cornell Runestad, professor of music at Wayne State, will present a program of sacred and secular a cappella and accompanied music spanning several centuries. Six featured soloists will also be heard, and a chamber choir from the larger group, the Elizabethan Singers, will also perform.

One of the Midwest's most widely-traveled groups, the Wayne State choir toured Europe in 1980 and again in 1984, sang in Mexico in 1978 and Canada in 1983. In May, the choir performed with the Omaha Symphony, and in April will sing with the Sioux City Symphony.

The group, which has sung with Robert Shaw, will be touring Europe again in May of next year.

Presently director of choral activities and former head of the Division of Fine Arts at Wayne State, Dr. Runestad received his doctorate in choral conducting from the University of Illinois. He also holds degrees from Concordia College (Minnesota) and an M.A. from the University of Minnesota, as well as additional studies at Syracuse and Northwestern universities.

Carroll schools

Past and present students can express their appreciation to a favorite teacher as part of a contest being held in conjunction with Teacher Recognition Day, Tuesday, March 3.

The "Nebraska Outstanding Teacher Contest," sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald and the Teacher Recognition Day Committee, allows both past and present students to nominate a teacher they feel has had a positive influence on their lives.

To enter the contest, participants must write about why they feel their favorite teacher is outstanding in 200 words or less and mail it, with an entry form, to: Nebraska Outstanding Teacher Contest, Omaha World-Herald, World-Herald Square, Omaha, NE 68102. According to the contest rules, any living, present or former public parochial or private school teacher of any grade from kindergarten through 12th grade may be nominated for the honor. Entries must be received no later than Friday, February 13.

Winning entries from both an adult and student category will be selected from each of the state's three congressional districts. Each of the six teachers selected will receive an engraved plaque from the World-Herald. Additionally, each teacher nominated will receive a certificate of appreciation.

Winners will be announced on Sunday, March 1, and the person submitting the winning entries will receive dinner for two at a restaurant of their choice with the teacher they nominated.

Spirit Night

by Jill Nelson

For the second year at Wayne High School, they had Spirit Night. Spirit Night is when the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors compete against each other in three categories: spirit, posters, and sportsmanship. Spirit Night was held January 30 when the boys' basketball team played West Point.

Last year, juniors and freshmen tied for first but the juniors won with a coin toss. This year the sophomores showed their "True Blue" and beat out the other classes. Pizza Hut sponsored Spirit Night, so the winning class members who participated got free pizza.

Another Spirit Night is scheduled for February 10th when the girls' basketball team plays South Sioux City.

Biology I Projects

by Julie Jensen

This year the Biology I class will be doing projects again. There will be many different kinds of projects. Some will be on plants, some will be on the behavioral habits of animals, and of course, some students will think of some original projects.

The projects will be due March 15 or 16. The students will be collecting data and finging background information on the project they have chosen. After they have collected all their information and data, they will write a research paper about the project and their findings.

Dale Hochstein, the Biology I teacher, will grade on the five to seven minute oral presentation, on the work involved in the research paper, and on the originality of project.

Conway named to post

Senator Jerry Conway, Wayne, has been named to the Commerce, Labor and Regulation Committee of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL). As a standing committee of the State-Federal Assembly, the NCSL's policymaking body, the group sets the agenda for the Conference's efforts before Congress, the White House and federal agencies.

The State-Federal Assembly meets three times a year with federal officials to develop recommendations on a full range of national issues that affect state-federal relations. Issues high on the committee's agenda this year include consumer banking, unemployment insurance, housing and liability insurance.

"Serving on the Commerce, Labor and Regulation Committee will allow me to voice the concern of state legislatures nationwide and those of specific interest to Nebraska," Conway said. "Many federal actions have serious consequences on the states and we are able to have an impact on these issues through the State-Federal Assembly and NCSL. I look forward to working with my colleagues from throughout the country on critical issues throughout the year."

NCSL represents the nations's 50 state legislatures. NCSL has three basic objectives: to improve the quality and effectiveness of state legislatures; to foster interstate legislatures a strong, cohesive voice in the federal system.

Herd health programs helpful

Dairy men have gained an increase in income by using artificial insemination totally in their herds, according to a recent nine-state survey. Those producers' herds have posted an average of nearly 16,000 pounds of milk and nearly 600 pounds of fat.

The survey on dairy management practices, conducted by state extension dairymen, will be used to help producers make their operations more productive and efficient, according to Jeff Keown, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension dairymen.

About 54 percent of the surveys sent to 8,000 dairy producers were returned. Seventy-nine percent of Nebraska dairymen responded.

An analysis of the surveys, merged with Dairy Herd Improvement Association data, indicates that several management practices greatly increase gross income. While the most striking increases are as a result of the use of artificial insemination, routine herd health programs and separate dry cow rations are also significant, he said.

"If you talk about your milking animals, your heifers are the best genetic potential animals that you have in your herd. So if you breed your heifers by using artificial insemination, you are doubling up on genetics and you're really getting the jump on genetic potential. You're always going to be one generation ahead. Producers that don't breed their heifers are always at least one generation behind. If they would breed their entire herd they would have a marked increase in the production level of the herd," he said.

PRODUCERS using routine herd health programs had herd production averages of more than 1,200 pounds of milk over those who did not implement a health program.

Separate dry cow rations also increase income. Survey results show that those who fed a separate dry cow ration had production levels more than 800 pounds higher than those who did not.

Keown said the survey most likely will be taken again in two years.

Report reveals study on financial institution land

The latest report on corporate farming and Initiative 300 indicates that financial institutions own 400,000 acres, or one percent, of the land in farms in Nebraska.

Maurice Baker, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said that financial institutions that own land include commercial banks, life insurance companies, Farmers Home Administration and Farm Credit Banks.

Nearly two-thirds of the land owned by financial institutions is west of a line drawn north and south through Kearney. Fifty-seven percent of all land in farms in Nebraska is west of Kearney, Baker said. The eastern part of the state has less land in farms because of the number of towns and cities located there.

"One of the most surprising things we found was that commercial banks are the largest single owner of farmland," Baker said. "They own between 178,000-179,000 acres, or 43 percent of the land owned by financial institutions. This is surprising since commercial banks are not normally thought of as loaning lots of money to buy farm land."

ALMOST 20 PERCENT of the land owned by financial institutions was acquired prior to the time that Initiative 300 took effect in November 1982. Nearly 60 percent was acquired between January 1985 and mid-1986.

Baker said the survey revealed several concerns of financial institutions as a result of the initiative.

"Financial institutions are concerned with the devaluation of the land they acquire through satisfaction of indebtedness. They are concerned that they are required to divest the land within seven years after acquisition. Both concerns stem from the fact that they are fearful that they may not get the money back. I think this is understandable in view of the fact that these institutions are loaning other peoples' money and therefore they have an obligation to those people also," he said.

Two areas that have not been major problems for lending institutions are finding tenants that are eligible under the terms of Initiative 300 and the cost of managing the land.

"Most financial institutions never really wanted to become landowners," Baker said. "Most would like to get the land back in other hands. But they do suggest in the report that they may acquire between 300,000-350,000 acres by the end of 1987. However, this does not mean they are going to end up owning nearly twice as much as they do now because they are actively trying to sell."

Pollution liability needs to be reviewed

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
By Cheryl Stubbendieck, vice-president/information

It would be an understatement to suggest that public concern about farm chemical use is at an all-time high. Certainly interest has never been greater, but what's missing many times is a healthy dose of reality.

Consider the case of five Connecticut farmers, who are now supplying drinking water to their neighbors because state inspectors found infinitesimal amounts of pollutants in local wells. Using state-of-the-art equipment, scientists determined that nearly 300 private wells and 52 public wells were pumping water that contained more than one-tenth of one part per billion of ethylene dibromide or EDB.

EDB was a popular soil fumigant used in production of potatoes, strawberries and tobacco, but it was banned recently after the Environmental Protection Agency determined that it caused cancer. Because the law now says any amount of EDB is bad, the farmers were held responsible and ordered to pay for and provide drinking water to their neighbors.

One farmer has chosen not to comply with this court-ordered penalty and is racking up contempt charges at the rate of $10,000 a day, while his case is under administrative appeal.

Were these farmers the cause of the problem? Is EDB in excess of one-tenth of one part per billion a problem? The answers are unclear.

CONSIDER California, where voters passed Proposition 65 last November. Dubbed by the "toxics initiative," it requires a listing of all cancer-causing chemicals or compounds that can affect reproduction. It prohibits discharge of any of the listed chemicals in any detectable amount into any source of drinking water or onto land, and provides fines of up to $2,500 per day. There is also a bounty hunter clause in the California law that encourages individuals to report suspected polluters in return for 25 percent of the fine.

Is the "smallest detectable amount" of any of these chemicals harmful? As detection equipment becomes more sophisticated and able to find smaller and smaller amounts of chemicals, does the "toxic cut-off" level go down, too? It would seem so.

These two examples are probably the most extreme, but there are others. They point out the need for protection for farmers against the risk of being blamed for pollution. The potential for bankruptcy is very real, both for a farming operation and for the farmer as an individual.

Farm Bureau has worked for many years to pass federal legislation exempting farmers from liability if they have applied approved chemicals according to manufacturers' recommendations. Such a measure nearly passed in the 99th Congress and will be supported again in the 100th Congress.

The recently formed Pollution Liability Insurance Association is working to provide another kind of protection for farmers, unless and until they have legislative protection when they apply farm chemicals properly.

What's missing in the Connecticut and California cases is an understanding that chemicals both harmful and beneficial occur in nature as well as through science, and that tolerances exist for each of them. The solution is not for farmers to quit using chemicals altogether. Rather there needs to be public understanding of what constitutes an acceptable risk, and that it's a reasonable trade-off for our abundant food supply.

PHOSPHOROUS FERTILIZATION OFTEN A WASTE
Next to nitrogen, phosphorous (P) is the most important fertilizer and nutrient for crop production in Nebraska—yet P application often is wasted. Extension soil specialists say much of the P fertilizer applied in Nebraska is either applied by improper methods or is applied to soils that are not deficient in P.

Phosphorous needs to be placed where the crop roots have a high probability of contacting the fertilizer. P should be placed into the root zone relatively near the crop row.

Recent research has shown that knifed in P in a spacing of 18 to 24 inches is the best method of applying P to corn. Knifed in or seed application on wheat is superior to broadcast or incorporated P.

Broadcasting P on either row crops or wheat can only be rationalized on the basis of either maintaining or building soil P level in the hope of obtaining high yields in the future. In Nebraska there is research evidence that this is not a feasible objective let alone profitable.

Since P costs from $6 to $20 per acre most crop fertilizer programs, it is very important that you establish that P is actually needed by the crop before application. A soil test is the best way to determine need.

Present low grain prices are an indication a re-evaluation of fertilizer P applications is in order. Recent data suggests that you probably cannot profitably apply P to soils with a soil test of over 15 parts per million (instead of 25) for wheat and 10 parts per million (instead of 15) for corn and grain sorghum.

TGE AND FARROWING DON'T MIX
Pigs under 21 days old are very susceptible to death from TGE. Precautionary measures are all-important to avoid a devastating TGE outbreak in baby pigs. This is particularly important with colder weather when TGE is more prevalent.

Preventive measures include keeping baby pigs and breeding stock away from other livestock, particularly newly-purchased pigs. After pigs have recovered from a TGE outbreak, the TGE virus can be found in the digestive and respiratory tracts for up to four months.

Because the carrier state cannot be determined by testing, spread by carrier pigs that appear healthy is possible. Newly purchased breeding and feeder swine should be kept away from the farrowing area. A much better plan is never to bring feeders onto a farm with farrowing sows.

Care should also be taken to avoid transporting the virus via manure on clothing, boots, trucks, and other machinery. Particularly during the winter, this type of spread can be significant.

Failures offer realistic view of ag situation

A 368.9% increase in Nebraska business failures from 1984 to 1985, and a 24.7% annual increase in bankruptcies filed by Nebraska farmers and ranchers are two of a variety of economic and social statistics cited in a report released by the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

Researched and developed for Ag-In-Transition, a program offered by Job Training of Greater Nebraska (JTG), this report presents a current, realistic view of Nebraska's economy.

"Although it is widely acknowledged that there is an agricultural crisis, it is important to study the statistics and information, and look deeper into their social implications for rural Nebraskans," said Randy Klein, Research Analyst for the NDA.

Commissioned by the JTG, a division of the Nebraska Department of Labor, this report documents the impact of the agricultural crisis on the state's economy, and examines the economy's effect on local community structures and individual farm families. The goals of this report include highlighting current and future needs of rural Nebraskans and the importance of a realistic awareness of the current economic situation.

"Although many positive programs are in place that can meet the needs of rural citizens, this report presents a realistic view of the situation; which is that there are inadequacies in meeting the social needs of rural Nebraskan," explained Randy Klein.

HE ADDED THAT such programs as Ag-In-Transition; Cooperative Extension's Managing for Tomorrow; and Interchurch Ministries of Nebraska's Farm Crisis Hotline are proving successful in their objectives of serving farmers and ranchers but need to be continued and expanded.

Key indicators monitored in this report were selected by JTG and the NDA in order to document specific areas of reaction to economic changes. These ranged from economic indicators such as rural employment, business closings, farm debt/asset ratios, and farm/ranch bankruptcies; to social indicators such as poverty, hunger and population shifts.

A variety of relevant sources were researched and documented to ensure an accurate and complete analysis. Cited sources include surveys, testimony, reports and statistics from state and federal agencies, University staff and private industry groups.

The report was made available to Nebraska's congressional delegation, state policy makers and agricultural leaders to serve as a concise, comprehensive source of current information on the effects of the agricultural crisis on rural Nebraska.

The leak in the tub has been cured! The Big Farmer finally broke down last week and called a plumber because the sewer was acting up. I told him that if a plumber was on our place and that faucet didn't get fixed, I would be very disturbed. It took three trips, but it got fixed.

I was running the washer one cold evening, and there was sudsy water in one corner of the basement. He couldn't figure out where it was coming from, so he assumed the sewer line was frozen.

I warmed up again, and we kept having water on the basement floor. I picked up the rug and got out the fan. Eventually, we had to ration showers and washer loads. Most of the month of January was spent trying to figure out the problem.

When the plumber arrived, they spotted water on the ground. This led to the discovery of a broken pipe. Now we can run water and shut off the faucet, both. Why is it these things drive us nuts?

We actually had snow this week, though it's almost gone already. I was admiring the scene on the way to work Thursday—it was actually a Winter Wonderland—until I saw two cars in the ditch.

That made me stop gazing at the scenery and pay attention to the roads. I've also been admiring the new license plates. They are really snazzy.

I BROKE down and went for an eye exam two weeks ago. The old bifocals weren't doing the job anymore. When I played the organ, I had to take the glasses off to see the notes. Then I couldn't see the pastor at the front of the church. I now have trifocals, and my co-workers are calling me Grandma. I'm still learning to bend my head right.

Someone asked me today about the Round Robin I mentioned last week. I need to clarify how a letter like this works. The first writer sends it to the second person on the list. She adds her letter and sends it on to the third, and so on. When it gets to the last one on the list, he sends it back to the first one. She takes her letter out and puts another one in. And on it goes again. There are pictures, church bulletins, and newspaper clippings included. It does come in a big envelope.

One aunt has saved every letter she's written, so that file spans family history for 39 years. That sounds like some kind of record to me.

I ordered Sports Illustrated at work because I got a good deal on it. The swim suit edition arrived today, and the physical therapist saw it in the mail box. I almost didn't get it home. My observation is that if women pay those prices for those funny things, they are being rooked.

For the Valentine holiday, I offer this from the Alzheimer's newsletter: "Hugging: 'the perfect solution.' No moveable parts. No batteries to wear out. No periodic checkups. Low energy consumption. High energy yield. Inflation-proof. No monthly payments. No insurance requirements. Theft-proof. Non-taxable. Non-polluting. And, of course, fully returnable. Hugging is healthy — it relieves tension, combats depression, reduces stress, improves blood circulation. It's invigorating — it's rejuvenating. It generates good will. It has no unpleasant side effects. It is nothing less than a miracle drug! Try it, you'll like it."
