Or grant new trial

Lawyer asks Supreme Court to overturn Ashker conviction

The lawyer for former Wayne resident Lewis Ashker, who was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment for the June 13, 1985 murder of a Delmont, S. D. man, has asked the South Dakota Supreme Court to throw out the murder conviction or at least grant Ashker a new trial.

According to an Associated Press (AP) news release, Tom Alberts of Avon, S. D., lawyer for Ashker, told the high court last Wednesday that Ashker's conviction should be overturned because the state never presented sufficient evidence to show the Wayne man committed the crime.

According to Alberts, South Dakota prosecutors failed to show Ashker was in Delmont when former policeman Jerry Plihal was stabbed to death, and evidence that linked Ashker to the murder scene could have been planted.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY General Jon Erickson, according to the AP news release, said the state presented enough evidence to tie Ashker to the murder because Ashker's pickup truck was seen in Delmont about the time the killing occurred.

The Supreme Court will issue a written decision in the case later after reviewing last Wednesday's arguments and written briefs submitted by the lawyers.

Also convicted of first-degree murder for Plihal's death in a separate trial was Kurt Novaock of Wayne.

ALBERTS SAID THE state contends Plihal was killed on June 13, 1985, but some witnesses testified they saw Plihal alive on the following day. Plihal's body was found several days later.

Law officers said they found paint chips from a pickup registered to Ashker's wife on a clothesline pole in Plihal's yard, but Alberts said the circumstances surrounding the discovery of the paint chips "could lead somebody to conclude that the evidence was planted."

Alberts also said there was no evidence whatsoever to link Ashker with Plihal's death and that no witnesses ever testified they had seen Ashker in Delmont.

Ashker has contended that he left his home in Wayne on June 13 after quarreling with his wife, started drinking, and then picked up Novaock.

He argues that the two men went to Omaha to try to sell marijuana and wound up in a dispute with some men outside an Omaha fast-food restaurant.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY General Erickson, according to the AP news release, said evidence shows Plihal was murdered on June 13 and the paint chips show the pickup registered to Ashker's wife was at Plihal's home.

Erickson added that law officers didn't discover the paint chips for several days because the grass around the clothesline pole was tall. "This pickup truck placed Lewis Ashker there," said Erickson. "He was driving the vehicle. He was in the house."

ASHKER'S LAWYER also contends that Ashker was denied a fair trial because a woman was allowed to testify about statements made by Novaock's wife that tied Novaock to the murder.

"The testimony, which said Novaock returned to Wayne with blood on his shoes and clothes the

Year-end results

Farm Credit Services reports $82.6 million loss

Farm Credit Services in Omaha has announced year-end results for 1986 which show its three divisions recording a net loss of $82.6 million — One division, the Federal Land Bank of Omaha and the Federal Land Bank Associations (FLB/FLBA), experienced a net loss of $39.4 million in 1986, compared to a net loss of $385.1 million in 1985.

Officials said the net loss amounts are after recording income of $233.7 million in 1986 and $177 million in 1985 from other System banks under the capital preservation agreements. Officials added that the 1986 FLB/FLBA loss was due to a $221.9 million provision for loan losses and a continuing high level of nonaccrual loans and acquired properties.

ANOTHER DIVISION, the combined Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Omaha and Production Credit Association of the Midlands (FICB/PCA), recorded a net loss of $40.6 million in 1986, compared to a net loss of $123 million in 1985 after financial assistance of $113.2 million received from other System banks.

Officials said the 1986 loss was due primarily to continued stress in the PCA loan portfolios as a result of adverse economic conditions in agriculture.

In addition, the FICB/PCA provided $9.5 million in financial assistance to other Farm Credit institutions under terms of Capital Preservation Agreements.

THE THIRD division, the Omaha Bank of Cooperatives (OBC), reported a net loss of $2.6 million for 1986 due to $5.5 million in financial assistance provided to other System banks.

The OBC recorded a net loss of $1.6 million in 1985 after providing $3.7 million in financial assistance to other System banks.

ACCORDING TO James Kirk, Farm Credit Services president and chief executive officer, all three banks experienced significant reductions in net loan volume during 1986.

The FLB net loan volume at year-end was $3.8 billion, compared to $4.8 billion at the end of 1985.

Combined FICB/PCA net loan volume at Dec. 31, 1986, was $565 million, compared to $1.1 billion at the end of 1985.

The OBC net loan volume stood at $255 million at Dec. 31, 1986, compared to $418 million at the end of 1985.

Kirk said reasons for the declines in loan volume for all three banks were similar and included — a conservative and cautious approach to incurring debt by farmers and ranchers and their cooperatives; attrition in the number of farmers and ranchers; loss of business to other agricultural lenders; and efficiency measures on the part of cooperatives which included downsizing and mergers.

"OUR LOSSES WERE expected," said Kirk. "Since Farm Credit Services lends only to agriculture, our profitability is tied directly to the farm economy."

"In spite of the 1986 year-end financials, there are some important factors which go beyond Farm Credit Services' year-end financial figures."

According to Kirk, those factors include:

—A slowdown in the decline of land values across Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming — the four states served by the Omaha system;

—Reductions in the interest rates to more competitive levels;

—Continued decreases in cost of funds for Farm Credit Services;

—Passage of the Farm Credit Amendments Act of 1986 which provided the System greater control over setting interest rates;

—Major staff and budget reductions in the Farm Credit Services in Omaha operations during 1986.

"AGRICULTURE AND Farm Credit Services in Omaha experienced a tough year in 1986, but we know our agenda for 1987," said Kirk.

"The Omaha district is addressing its financial problems through its business planning process. We have plans in place to deal with the situation."

WAYNE SENIORS STRUT their stuff every Tuesday and Thursday at Melodee lanes. The league was first established in 1978.

At Melodee Lanes

Wayne area senior citizens enjoy 'friendly' competition

By Gregg Dahlheim

Sports Editor

Every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon since 1978 senior citizens from in and around Wayne have been meeting at Melodee Lanes for friendly conversation, exercise and bowling.

The league's first secretary was John Dahl. In 1981 Otto Baier took over and he has been at the helm ever since. Baier said bowlers from 58 to 87 gather twice a week for friendly competition. The stakes are high. The losing team has to buy the winners coffee after three games are completed. Clarence May also usually rounds some cookies up to go along with the coffee.

Baier divides the bowlers into two teams according to the order they walk into the door. They use a 100 percent handicap to make things easier.

Baier said when the league started about 20 seniors bowled. Currently, the membership is up to 41 members. About 15 of the original members still bowl in the league today. Many of the bowlers have previous league experience and some do not. Still others are starting to bowl after a long layoff.

Baier said the attendance drops in the summer to about 15 because several of the men put away the bowling ball for the summer and get out the golf clubs. The attendance picks up again in the fall.

As I sat in on Tuesday's session I could hear chuckles, friendly advice and a few scattered compliments.

Tuesday the Roy Summerfeld team nipped the Art Brummond team by nine pins, 5,185 to 5,176. But the members of the Art Brummond team got out of buying the coffee because Charles McDermott picked up the tab to celebrate a recent anniversary. That day, Don Sund turned in a fine three games: Sund bowled a 224, 203 and a 196 for a nifty 623 series.

Baier said the group is always looking for new bowlers. Another fellow sitting at the table interjected, "We ain't busy, we let anyone bowl."

Baier said anyone interested can contact him or just show up at the bowling alley on a Tuesday or Thursday afternoon.

Youth citizenship and safety seminars

This year's Youth Citizenship and Safety Seminars will run concurrently, March 22-24, at the Youth Leadership Development Center campground near Aurora.

Each county Farm Bureau is eligible to send two young people to each program. Students should be completing their sophomore or junior year in high school.

Students interested in attending are asked to contact the local Farm Bureau Office in Allen, 635-2166, or Mrs. Ed Fahrenholz of Allen, 635-2120, no later than noon on Monday, March 2 so selections can be made from applications submitted.

Students in the citizenship section will learn about Nebraska heritage and will travel to Lincoln for a visit to the state capitol and meetings with Governor Kay Orr, Secretary of State Allen Beermann and NFBF President Bryce Neidig.

Students in both groups will attend sessions about drug use and patriotism, and both will hear motivational speakers. Dr. Maria Grovas of Wayne will address students at the closing luncheon.

Play opens at Wayne State

A new production opened Sunday, Feb. 22 at 2 p.m. in Ley Theatre on the Wayne State College campus.

The name of the play is "Strider," which is also the name of the leading character, who happens to be a horse.

Because he is piebald (having black and brown spots), Strider is deemed inferior. The tale of Strider is told in flashbacks and in songs.

The audience sees his birth, life and death. In-between, the audience also meets the various people who come in touch with Strider during his moments of triumph and tragedy.

DR. ANDRE Sedriks, associate professor of humanities and director of the play, said "Strider," is set in old Russia and offers glimpses of life under the czar.

The major playing area is in front of the stage and up and down the aisles of Ley Theatre. "The overall approach is in the spirit of presentational theatre — the actors being quite direct with the audience," said Sedriks.

A lively gypsy orchestra accompanies the action.

"STRIDER WILL continue on stage tonight (Monday) through Wednesday at 8 p.m. each evening.

Admission is $3, with Wayne State College students, faculty and staff admitted free.

Democratic national committeeman announces proposed selection rules

Mike Fahey, Democratic National Committeeman and Chair of the 1988 Delegate Selection Rules Committee today released the proposed delegate selection rules for Nebraska for the 1988 Democratic National Convention for a 30 day public comment period prior to its adoption.

The delegate selection and affirmative action plan is to be adopted at the next Democratic State Central Committee meeting to be held on Sunday, March 15th at 2 p.m. at the Performing Arts Building on the Dana College Campus in Blair, Nebraska.

"The plan is similar to the one used in 1984," stated Fahey. "The plan provides procedures for the selection of 30 delegates and 8 alternates from Nebraska to the 1988 Democratic National Convention. Delegates will be chosen at the Democratic State Convention to be held in mid-June of 1988.

Seventeen delegates will be chosen by Congressional District Caucuses; 5 delegates will be chosen at-large by the entire convention; and 3 delegates will be reserved for the pledged party and elected officials, also to be chosen by the entire convention. The remaining 5 delegates are reserved for the State Chair, Vice-Chair, and National Committee people, and they will be automatic delegates as stated in the national rules," said Fahey.

"As in 1984, delegates will be allocated to presidential candidates according to the May 10, 1988 presidential primary results," said Fahey.

Opinions and comments from Democrats concerning the proposed rules are encouraged and welcomed. Comments must be in writing and should be sent to the Nebraska Democratic Party, 715 South 14th Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508. For a copy of the proposed 1988 Delegate Selection Plan, please write the Nebraska Democratic Party at the same address.

ASHKER and Novaock were arrested in Wayne in early December 1985 after a grand jury investigation that produced the charges of murder and manslaughter.

Both Ashker and Novaock were extradited from Wayne County to South Dakota to face the first degree murder/manslaughter charges.

Initially, both sought extradition, however in the early months of 1986, Ashker was extradited and was the first to stand trial on the charges. Novaock's extradition and trial followed.

Both were found guilty of first degree murder and were handed sentences.

Erickson said the trial didn't have to be moved because Ashker's lawyer never showed that it would be

EPA, USDA study conducted

Unleaded gas damages older farm engines

The Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced in early February the results of their research on running older farm engines with unleaded gasoline. EPA was not keen on doing the research, but was directed to do so in the 1985 farm bill.

Farm Bureau sought the provision that required the joint testing program, because it was concerned that the planned phase-out of all lead in gasoline could damage the many older engines still in use on many farms.

gasoline engines commonly found on farms showed unacceptable valve seat wear as a result of running unleaded fuel. Valve damage in one engine was so severe that it was two-thirds worn out after running for only 200 hours on unleaded under high loads and high RPMs.

Lead in gasoline helps prevent wear by forming a cushion between the valve and valve seat. The EPA-USDA research found that the amount of wear was greatly reduced in all engines when they ran with gas having .1 (one-tenth) gram of lead per gallon—which is the current allowable level.

as a possible solution for farmers, many of whom plan to run older gas engines indefinitely.

THE EPA'S phase-out plan calls for gasoline to be completely lead-free by 1998.

Farmers can only hope that the results of the research prompt the federal agency to stop at the .1 gram per gallon level, or that an exemption is provided for farmers who need leaded gas for their vintage machinery.

It is imperative—and only fair—that farmers be protected from the added repair costs they incur when running older engines on unleaded, either through continued availability of leaded gas or through development of satisfactory substitutes.

There's a catch though; many oil refiners, sensing the handwriting on the wall, have already announced plans to drop production of leaded gas. And, some have already dropped below the .1 gram per gallon level still allowed and still needed for older engines.

Certainly EPA complied with the letter of the law when it agreed to the joint testing program, but it's arguable that the agency complied with the spirit of the thing, unless it takes steps to solve the problem its phase-out is causing for farmers.

Another ritual dance?

By Richard L. Leshar, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

The Nobel Prize-winning economist George Stigler said relying upon government to solve economic problems was "equivalent in rationality to calling for a dance to placate an angry spirit."

In fact, he said the advantage is with the Indians who were sure to get some good exercise as they performed ritual dances. The benefits of government intervention in the economy are less certain.

I am gratified that our government has finally become aware of the need to make our economy more competitive in the world marketplace. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has been sounding that bugle for a long time and is glad to get some company.

AT THE SAME time, the solution is not greater government intervention into the economy with some sort of national economic policy. That could easily become a cure worse than the disease, for the government is conspicuously ill-suited to make economic decisions.

In fact, most of what our government can do to help is to undo problems created by Congress in the first place, such as overspending and overregulating.

We must begin with a candid assessment of our assets and weaknesses. When the chips are down, as athletes say, you go with your strength. Our main strength is, and has always been, reliance on our market system and it has served us well.

Despite our difficulties, we remain the world's most powerful economy and its largest exporter. We are creating millions of jobs at a time when job creation in most of the world is relatively stagnant. All nations have economic problems, and I think most would gladly swap theirs for ours. We must be doing something right.

I AM NOT suggesting our government sit on its hands and do nothing. To the contrary, there are many things Congress and the administration can do to enhance our competitive posture.

For example, many nations engage in unfair trade practices to our disadvantage. A level playing field is basic to free trade.

Congress should require retaliation against nations that violate trade agreements. It also should address issues such as clarification of the foreign Corrupt Practices Act, telecommunications market access, presidential multilateral negotiating authority and strong intellectual property protection.

On the home front, Congress' first priority should be to control federal spending which continues to distort our financial markets. We need to reduce the cost of capital for investment and restore investment tax credits.

In a world where most workers earn far less than ours, we simply must invest in the latest, most efficient capital plants and equipment.

BUT IN ITS haste to do something to make the United States more competitive, Congress must exercise great caution.

An ill-considered trade bill could precipitate a trade war in which we, as the world's largest exporter, would have more to lose than anyone. And a full-fledged national economic policy could infuse political considerations into economic decisions, a surefire prescription for disaster.

We must proceed with deliberate speed and develop policies and legislation that will enhance the power and reach of private enterprise, not circumscribe it.

We have the best economic engine in the world. All we have to do is rev it up and turn it loose.

1986 is quiet year

Animal rightists gearing up

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION By Cheryl Stubbendieck, vice president/information

All things considered, 1986 was a pretty quiet year in terms of animal rights activity in the U.S.

To be sure, animal welfarists "liberated" laboratory animals and laying hens here and there. And a celebrity or two came out for more humane treatment of animals. But the total animal rights issue failed again to make it onto the national agenda.

No one should think, though, that the animal rightsists and animal welfarists have packed it in. Their lesser visibility this past year is likely just an indication that they are regrouping for their next salvo.

For the most part, talk and action from these groups have centered around laboratory animals. But now, recognizing that four percent of the animals they are concerned about are in labs and 96 percent are on farms, we can expect more attacks on animal agriculture.

THE ANIMAL rights movement had its start in Europe several decades ago. Over the years, it has evolved into a wholesale restriction and even abolition of certain animal production techniques.

For example, cages for laying hens have essentially been outlawed in Northern Europe. And in West Germany, a scientist cannot use an animal in research without permission from an oversight council.

Here in the U.S., Congress passed an act in 1906 requiring that livestock transported great distances by rail be properly watered and rested during transport, and in 1958, the Humane Slaughter Act prescribed acceptable slaughter methods.

Legislation specifically aimed at lab animals was passed in 1966 and expanded in 1970. Then, in the 1985 farm bill, Congress increased standards for lab animal care, toughened enforcement and required research facilities to appoint committees with at least one outside person to oversee conditions and animal care.

THUS FAR, animal agriculture has largely escaped unnecessary harassing legislation, for a simple reason which continues to be true: no one cares more about farm animals than the farmer who is producing them.

Most livestock growers genuinely enjoy working with animals, but there's a more compelling reason. It is simply not profitable for a producer to allow harm to or neglect his livestock. Animals under stress need more feed and medical attention and gain less efficiently than those that are healthy and well-cared-for.

Animal welfarists, with their emotional appeals, reject the logic of this approach which serves the interests of both the farmer and farm animals.

And because emotion plays better than truth much of the time, we will likely see more attacks on animal agriculture in the U.S. this year—not just in the abstract arena of the TV talk show, but down home on the farm and ranch.

As with other issues, the best recourse for the farmer and rancher is to tell his side of the story—the rest of the story, if you will.

Zorinsky urges Czech Heritage Week

Senator Edward Zorinsky (D-Nebr.) has asked Congress to declare the week of the annual Wlber, Neb., Czech festival "National Czech American Heritage Week."

In a resolution and letter sent to senators, Zorinsky said declaring July 27 to Aug. 2 Czech Heritage Week will recognize the key role Czech immigrants played in American history and help preserve their culture.

Senator J. James Exon (D-Nebr.) is cosponsoring the resolution.

Korea asked to open markets by Jim Exon United States Senator U.S. Senator Jim Exon (D-Nebr.) is urging Korea to open its markets to high quality Nebraska beef and pork. "Consumers in Korea are precluded from enjoying the high quality beef and pork products of Nebraska," Exon said in a letter to the President of the Republic of Korea.

capital of the United States, celebrates its 26th Czech Festival Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 1 and 2. The festival, intended to promote Czech heritage, annually attracts thousands of people from around the nation and abroad.

Zorinsky noted that, since the 1600's, "Czech immigrants have arrived (in this country) by the thousands seeking religious, economic and political freedoms."

In addition to selling in cities such as New York and Chicago, he said, Czech Americans established large numbers of farming communities in the Midwest from Wisconsin to Texas. Nebraska, Zorinsky noted, has the largest percentage of Czech descendants per capita of any state.

"CZECH AMERICANS made notable contributions to the cultural legacy in the United States," he said. "Adoption of this resolution will contribute to the preservation of their unique heritage."

Zorinsky urged the Senate to join him in recognizing the week for Czech Americans "who have played such an integral role in the development of urban and rural life" in this country.

"THE UNFAIRNESS of the situation is motivating aggressive Congressional action on trade legislation," Exon said in the letter.

"Korea has a $7 billion trade surplus with the United States and enjoys open access to American markets," Exon said, "while the Korean market is virtually closed to many of America's most competitive products." "Free trade is impossible without fair trade. Nebraska consumers purchase a multitude of Korean products. Consumers in Korea should be given the opportunity to purchase high quality Nebraska beef and pork," Exon added.

ask a lawyer

a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q. I am a single mother who would like to see my daughter's father pay some child support. However, I never married her father, so she does not have his last name. What can I do? What does this involve?

A. You do not state whether your daughter's father has legally acknowledged that he is the father. If he has not and will not, your first step toward receiving child support is to contact your lawyer. He or she can help you begin a court proceeding to establish paternity, which is necessary before you can obtain a court order of support payments for your daughter. This proceeding must be brought during the pregnancy or within four years after the child's birth.

The trial to establish paternity is conducted in much the same way as other non-criminal trials, and you will be allowed to testify as to the identity of the child's father. However, your testimony alone is not enough to support a finding that the alleged father is actually the father. Your lawyer can explain what proof may be required. The alleged father must, of course, be properly notified of your claim and of the court proceeding. If he wishes to contest your allegations, he may appear in court and provide testimony and evidence in support of his claim.

If the court finds in your favor, it will enter a judgment that includes whatever support orders it deems necessary. Depending upon the circumstances, the judge may also provide for visitation rights for the child's father.

If the child's father has already claimed or established paternity of the child, (either through filing an acknowledgment or through an act such as voluntarily furnishing support), then a paternity proceeding would not be necessary. You would, however, have to obtain a court judgment, or a judicially approved settlement, of the amount of support he is required to pay each month.

Once a court proceeding or an acknowledgment has established paternity, the father is liable for the support of his child to the same extent as the father of a child born in a marriage. If he fails to meet this support obligation, the mother can begin a proceeding in the district court of the district in which the child lives. That court can then issue an order directing him to pay child support. Failure to meet the requirements of that decree will subject the father to further court action.

Q. A person made a will many years ago leaving her minor children in the custody of a relative in case of her death. Her property was to be sold to help raise the children. Now these children have all grown and have families of their own, so what happens to the property since the will was never changed or updated? Does the relative named as guardian still get the property, or does it have to be sold and divided among the now grown children?

A. An important factor in the situation you describe, and one which you did not address in your question, is the exact language contained in the will itself. If the will provided for the minor children, but also provided for the expiration of that part of the will once they reached the age of majority, then the relative named as guardian is no longer eligible to hold the property under the will. Rather, the children are eligible to take the property either as specified in the will or under Nebraska laws. The law provides that if a person dies leaving no spouse, the children will receive the property in equal shares.

If the will made no mention of what was to happen to the property after the children reached the age of majority, it is still unlikely that the relative would receive it. Your letter indicates that the relative was to receive the property in his or her capacity as guardian "to help raise the children." Since there is no longer a need for a guardian, it is unlikely that a court will construe this to mean that the relative should still receive the property.

If the language of the will states that the relative will receive the property, and does not require the relative to use the proceeds from the property for the care of the children, the relative could have a claim to the property. However, this is rather doubtful based on your letter, and it would appear that the property would just be divided among the children.

The fact that the children were no longer minors at the time of death does not automatically revoke the will. The only situation in which a will is automatically revoked is that after a divorce, those portions relating to the ex-spouse are revoked.

Q. In the process of settling an estate is it legal for the attorney to request a listing of all government bonds which were owned jointly by the deceased and his or her spouse? Also, is it legal (and customary) for the attorney to send forms to the listing of all government bonds owned jointly by the deceased and his or her spouse?

A. When a personal representative begins to administer an estate, one of the most important determinations that must be made is the value of the estate. This involves locating the estate's assets and applying them toward payment of the deceased person's creditors, taxes on the estate, and costs of administering the estate. If after administration, there are assets and property remaining, these are distributed to the heirs.

It is required that the personal representative file an inventory of the assets of an estate, including all bonds and notes that belonged to the decedent. This is why the attorney representing the estate in question asked for a listing of government bonds owned by the decedent and his or her spouse. The fact that the bonds were jointly owned simply means that the proceeds belong to the surviving spouse. The need to include all funds that belonged to the decedent, either wholly or jointly, in an inventory of the estate is the reason the attorney requested from the financial institution a listing of funds owned by the decedent.

The personal representative of the estate has a duty to report all assets that can be discovered through reasonable care. If any party interested in the estate (such as an heir or creditor) feels that the personal representative has not fulfilled this duty, he or she can register a complaint with the court handling the estate. This court may then require the personal representative to provide a full accounting of all the assets of the estate. Thus, the actions of the attorney you describe can be seen as good faith efforts in assisting the personal representative to track down every possible asset belonging to the estate in question.

Shopping for an appliance? Plan ahead!

Shopping for a home appliance today means being confronted by rows of appliance models with different prices, energy efficiencies and tempting features.

However, just as a grocery list helps guard against wasteful impulse-buying, a well planned appliance shopping list can save money now and well into the future.

Before shopping, carefully consider what your family needs in an appliance and how these needs will be influenced by your lifestyle and family size.

Lifestyle affects how appliances are used. Small basic appliances may be adequate for people who are seldom home.

If convenience is important or if you entertain frequently, you may want a stove with special features, a refrigerator with extra space, and a dishwasher that can easily handle the aftermath of a dinner party.

FAMILY SIZE ALSO is an important consideration when selecting the right appliance. If you have grown children who will be leaving the house soon, you might consider buying smaller appliances.

If you have young children, the appliances will probably last until they are teenagers. Thus, larger models could be a wise investment.

Your shopping list should include information on size, color and special features. For some appliances, you may not know how to determine the appropriate size. In this case, use the shopping list to record information on intended use of the appliance so that the dealer or contractor can help select an appliance that best meets the family's needs.

Unless you are planning to remodel your kitchen, any new appliance will have to fit in the available space and blend with the present decor. Measure the space carefully and keep it in mind when shopping. As a precaution, also check the width of doorways.

Solid cooking tops offer many options

Solid element or solid disk cooktops are becoming increasingly popular for American electric ranges. These "Eurostyle" appliances offer the consumer one more option — and one more decision — when buying a range.

A solid element cooktop uses flat cast-iron disks with electrical wires embedded in ceramic insulation underneath the disk. The electric wires spread the heat throughout the disk. The heat is then transferred to a pan placed on the disk.

The cast-iron disks heat more slowly than conventional electric range elements. However, the cast-iron disks retain heat longer, and the range controls can be turned off before cooking is actually complete.

These characteristics of cast-iron can be a real advantage when slow and even cooking is desired.

FOR MAXIMUM efficiency, heavy gauge, flat bottom pans are important to use with the solid disk elements.

Warped pans with uneven bottoms have less contact with the heated surface. Therefore, there is less heat transfer, and cooking time and energy use is increased.

Solid disk elements are sealed to the range top. There are no drip pans and spill covers are less likely to come in contact with the hot disk. As a result, most users say care and maintenance is easier.

When used in a range, the solid disk elements may require some changes in design. Ovens in electric ranges are typically vented through a back surface unit. This venting is not possible with the sealed cooktop used in solid disk elements.

Solid element cooktops add to the cost of a range. Additional features, such as thermostatic controls or thermal limiters, also can increase costs.

Wayne nips Schuyler

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

A seven-point run late in the game was enough to give the Wayne Lady Blue Devils a 38-34 win over Schuyler in the last regular-season contest of the year for both teams.

The game was close the entire way until the Lady Blue Devils tallied seven points in about a minute midway through the final period to take a 37-30 lead. The game was tied 30-30 with less than five minutes to play. Two baskets and a free throw by Kecia Corbit and two gift shots by Robin Lutt gave the hosts the seven-point lead.

Wayne scored only a single point in the game's final 3:44 but they limited the Lady Warriors to six points in the final quarter. The win boosted Wayne's record to 15-4 while Schuyler dropped to 4-13.

The game was tied 10-10 after the first period and 18-18 at halftime after a last-second shot was missed by Wayne's Shelly Pick.

The Lady Blue Devils came out in the third quarter and took a 24-20 lead on a layup by Dana Nelson and a basket by Corbit. Then it was Schuyler's turn. The guests tallied six of the next eight points to take a 28-26 lead with 1:35 to play. Corbit hit a shot at the buzzer to tie the score at 28 at the end of three periods.

Wayne Coach Marlene Uhing said the game was a defensive struggle. Uhing said both teams showed good patience on offense waiting for the good shot.

Schuyler-packed its defense inside the lane and dared the hosts to take the perimeter shot. The Wayne coach said her perimeter shooters weren't looking for the shot in the second quarter but they came out shooting in the third period.

The game was a clean contest until the fourth quarter. Only two free throws were shot in the game's first 24 minutes. In the last period Schuyler started to foul and sent the Lady Blue Devils to the line 14 times. The locals could have put the game out of reach if they would have made their free throws. Wayne connected on just 6-16 gift shots. The Lady Warriors didn't shoot a free throw all night.

Uhing said her team did a good job of controlling the game after the girls got the lead in the final quarter. Wayne went into a delay which forced the visitors to put Wayne at the foul line.

Corbit led all scorers with 22 points. The senior was the only Wayne scorer in double figures. Pick grabbed 10 rebounds as the locals were outboarded 29-23.

Schuyler was led by Lori Baumer's 12 points.

Kant and Leapley earn medals at state meet; Winside tallies 21 points

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The three state-qualifying Winside wrestlers found it tough going in the opening round of the state wrestling tournament held at the Bob Devaney Sports Complex Thursday morning.

Max and Randy Leapley each lost in the first round but they qualified for the state meet because each took a 20-0 lead at the end of the first period. Koller took a 3-0 lead on an escape and Kant got a takedown with less than 10 seconds left in the second stanza.

Heading into the last period Kant trailed 3-2. The Winside grappler rode Koller for about a minute before Koller got a reversal to go on top 5-2. He got three near-fall points to round out the scoring. Max Kant entered his match with a 28-6 mark. He was matched up against 18-1 Mike Watts of Lincoln Christian. Watts downed Kant 5-2.

Watts scored all of his points in one sequence. He scored a takedown and a near fall before Max could score again. Kant closed out the scoring with an escape but he could get no closer.

Winside's last hope was 155-pound Randy Leapley. Leapley, 20-6, was bracketed against another Arapahoe wrestler. This time it was 25-5 Pat Breinig. But the results were the same as the Arapahoe grappler won 4-1.

Breinig took the early lead as he recorded a takedown with eight seconds left in the first period. Leapley cut the lead to 2-1 on an escape but Breinig again got the takedown to go up 4-1 after two periods. Neither wrestler could score in the third period.

Koller advanced to the semifinals Thursday evening by downing Tom Moore of Dorchester 6-4. Watts won his second match 16-8 over Troy Hemelstrand of Arapahoe. Breinig advanced as he downed Ed McGannon of Crawford 3-0 in overtime.

Max Kant was eliminated from the tournament when he was pinned by Tom Moore of Dorchester in 2:30 of the first round of the consolation wrestle backs.

Max Kant and Leapley survived Friday as each won three matches. The pair wrestled for third place Saturday afternoon.

Max fought his way back by beating Troy Hemelstrand of Arapahoe 14-0. That win earned him the right to wrestle in the second round consolation against Sean Hagan of Bertrand. Kant decided Hagan 9-2. Kant downed Virgil Banzhaf of Cambridge 9-3 to advance to the consolation finals. In the match for third place Kant wrestled Eric Homolka of Friend.

Leapley had three tough matches to get to the consolation finals where he was rematched with Breinig. To get there Leapley edged Ed McGannon of Crawford 3-0. In his next match he decided Alan Nichte of Sargent 7-4. In his third round consolation match Leapley was pushed to the limit but he held on to nip Craig Stephens of Bertrand in overtime 6-5.

Winside scored 21 points on Friday to place them 21st in Class D. Clay Kent clinched the title. The Wildcat twisters scored 146½ points through Friday's action. They outdistanced second place Palmer by 49½ points.

Wayne State men and women drop two games to Ft. Hays

It wasn't a good night for Wayne State basketball as both the men's and women's basketball teams dropped games to Fort Hays State.

The Lady Cats were on the short end of a 80-77 decision. The loss dropped the women to 11-16 overall and 4-9 in the CSIC. The win boosted Hays to 13-18 and 6-7 in the conference. The win gave the Lady Tigers a sweep in the season series. Ft. Hays beat the Lady Cats 65-56 at Rice Auditorium earlier this season.

In Friday night's game Hays shots 55 percent from the field and 86 percent from the line to win. The Lady Tigers clung to a 37-36 lead at halftime. Hays led by nine points at one point in the first half. Wayne State rallied back and eventually took a six-point lead.

The locals shot 47 percent from the field as they made 32-67 field goals. The Lady Cats were 3-6 from three-point land.

Four women played in double figures for Wayne State. Linda Schnitzler and Dawn Berni paced the Lady Cats with 23 points apiece. Berni added 12 rebounds. Mary Beth Ehrhorn added 12 points and guard Michelle Blomberg tossed in 11 markers.

Chris Biser led all scorers for Ft. Hays with 27 points. The conference's leading rebounder added nine boards. Staci Derstein and Penny Fischer tallied 14 and 13 points respectively for the Lady Tigers.

In the men's game Hays won hands open in the second half by outscoring the Cats 48-27 enroute to a 90-58 win.

Wayne State was outscored from the field 74-48. The Tigers shot 62 percent from the floor while limiting Wayne State to 33 percent from the field.

The Cats stayed close in the first half. The game was tied 10-10 in the early going. Wayne State was within six points at 30-24 with 5:51 left in the half.

Hays stretched the lead to 61-42 with 14:46 left in the game. Then the Tigers ran off the next five points to take a 60-42 lead. The hosts outscored Wayne State 39-16 in the last 15 minutes of the game.

Wayne State, 14-16 overall and 5-8 in the conference, placed three men in double figures. Russ Rosenquist led the way with 15 points. Scott Hurley added 14 and Marcus Wilson tossed in 10 points. The Cats were badly outboarded 42-28.

Wayne girls begin district tournament

The Wayne Lady Blue Devils will enter the Class B-4 District Tournament as the fourth-seeded team in the eight-team district.

The girls will play their first-round game Monday evening against The Journey's fifth seed, Blair. The game will begin at 8 p.m. at Norfolk Community College.

Blair will enter districts with a 10-7 mark. The Lady Bears have been rated in the top 10 in Class B at several times during the season.

Wayne Coach Marlene Uhing said her team is similar to the team from Blair. Both teams rely heavily on their inside game. For the Lady Bears it is 6-0 senior Janet Kruse. Uhing said Kruse is an excellent jumper and a good passer. Blair also shows patience on offense and has a solid perimeter game.

Uhing said Blair relies more on full-court pressure but the Lady Bears are no quicker than Wayne.

The Wayne skipper said the district is wide open. Any one of four or five teams can win the tournament if they put together three solid games. Columbus Scutus is the top seed in the tournament. Scutus is 18-0 and top-ranked in Class B. The Shamrocks will play eighth-seeded Schuyler. Once beaten Harlington Cedar Catholic is second seed and will play North Bend. The other first-round game features third-seeded West Point against Columbus Lakeview.

Pierce edges Wayne as shot is disallowed

The "Wayne cardiac cagers" were back in action Friday night and the results weren't good as the Blue Devils dropped another close one to end the regular portion of their schedule.

Pierce handed Wayne its 10th loss against nine wins by holding off the Blue Devils 41-37. The win, Pierce's seventh in a row, gave the Bluejays a 12-4 mark.

It was a game where Pierce led at all stops. The Jays led 10-6 after the first period and 19-16 at halftime. Wayne scored the first four points of the third period to take a 20-19 lead but the hosts recaptured the lead and went on top 30-28 after three quarters. Each team scored 11 points in the final period to give Pierce the win.

Wayne had several chances down the stretch but the shots wouldn't fall. The Bluejays looked like they had a lock on the game as they led 37-30 with 3:54 left. From there the Blue Devils scored seven straight points to tie the score at 37-37 on a Ted Lueders free throw with 2:12 to play.

The hosts came back to take a 41-37 lead with 1:15 left. Lueders made it 41-39 with just over a minute to play.

Wayne still had one last chance. The Blue Devils got the ball on the alternating possession with nine seconds left. Jason Jorgensen fired a baseline shot with three seconds to play. The shot was short and Pierce got the ball out of bounds. A Bluejay threw the ball the length of the court and out of bounds which gave the guests the ball with three seconds left.

Jorgensen got the inbound pass, his shot missed the mark. Bill Liska got the rebound and put the shot in but it came after the buzzer and Pierce got away with the win.

Wayne Coach Bob Uhing said he couldn't find anything wrong with his team's play. He said the effort and attitude was there and he thought the boys played within themselves.

Only four Bluejays scored in the game. Nick Engelson and Lueders hit double figures. Lueders led all scorers with 17 points. Engelson tossed in 14 points in the losing cause.

Pierce had three score in double figures. Troy Zlerke tossed in 14 points while Brian Shane and Pat Muhs each tallied 10 points.

The Pierce JV's also won as they tripped Wayne 42-37. Doug Larsen led Wayne with 14 points and Scott Hamner added a dozen points. The JV's ended the season with a 9-6 mark.

Wayne will next be in action over the weekend when they begin play in the Class B-4 district tournament at Norfolk Community College. Drawings for the tourney will take place tonight (Monday).

Lady Bears advance after win

Laurel breezed through its first subdistrict game Wednesday night as the Lady Bears crushed Pierce 54-22 at Norfolk.

Laurel posted a 16-point first quarter and never looked back. The Lady Bears led 16-3 after the first eight minutes and 28-9 at halftime.

The Jayettes put together a little run in the third period but Laurel came back to outscore Pierce 13-10 and take a 31-19 lead into the fourth quarter. Laurel outscored Pierce by 10 in the last quarter for the final 32-point margin.

The winners were paced by seniors Gail Twiford and Penny Dempster. Twiford was 8-11 from the field and 1-2 from the free-throw line for her game-high 17 points. Dempster was right behind as she hit 7-11 field goals and 2-2 free throws for 16 points. The pair combined for 14 of Laurel's 16 points in the first period. No other Lady Bear scored in double figures. Laurel also held a large margin in rebounding. As a team, the Lady Bears pulled down 34 boards. The girls were led by junior Becky Christensen. The 6-0 junior gathered 16 rebounds. Freshman Amy Adkins added 10 caroms for the winners.

Laurel Coach Pam Thies said her team was ready to play. The girls were up for the game and the first quarter showed that. The Lady Bears shot about 48 percent from the field as they hit 21-44 shots.

The win advanced the Lady Bears to the finals of the Class C1-10 Subdistrict Thursday night. This time they weren't as lucky as Norfolk Catholic downed Laurel 47-41. The loss ended Laurel's season and gave the Lady Bears a 11-7 final mark.

For three quarters, it looked like the Lady Bears were going to advance to the district finals. Laurel held a 41-38 lead with less than two minutes left to play in the game. The Lady Knights scored the last nine points of the game to win.

Laurel was looking forward to the district finals. If the Lady Bears would have gotten by Norfolk Catholic, Ponca would have been the only thing standing between them and the state tournament. Ponca had beaten the Lady Bears twice this season.

A complete article of the Laurel-Norfolk Catholic game will appear in the Feb. 26 edition.

Laurel loses finale to Randolph

The comeback bug bit Laurel again Friday night this time it was against Randolph in the regular-season finale.

Laurel led for more than three-quarters of the game before dropping a 54-45 decision to the Cardinals on their home floor.

The Bears led 16-14 after the first period. They increased the margin to 29-22 as both teams headed to the locker rooms. Laurel still led after three quarters by a 39-34 count. The Bears held that lead until Randolph took control with about three minutes left in the game.

"We controlled the game until about three minutes to go when we went ice cold from the field," Laurel Coach Mark Hrabik said.

Free throws told the story down the stretch. Laurel missed the front end of three one-and-one opportunities and a two shot foul in the final period. On the other side, the Cardinals made 12-15 gift shots in the fourth quarter.

The Bears trailed by three points and had the ball with less than a minute to play. Brent Halsch drove into the lane and put up a shot. The senior appeared to be fouled but nothing was called. On the rebound Randolph was fouled and they hit both free throws to take a five point lead.

From there Laurel was forced to foul which led to the final nine-point margin.

Laurel, 5-10, was led by guard Doug Manz. Manz hit for 16 points. The sophomore scored all 10 of the Bear's points in the third quarter. No one else scored in double figures for the Bears. The visitors outrebounded Randolph 33-23. Halsch pulled down a team-high 14 boards. Rick Lage added eight rebounds and John Schutte pulled down seven caroms.

Randolph's high scorer was Chuck

Gubbles. Gubbles hit for 14 points.

Laurel will begin post-season play Tuesday night when they play Station in the first round of the Class C1-10 subdistrict tournament at Norfolk.

Newcastle bombs Winside

It was like their worst-nightmare for Coach Mark Freiburg and the Winside Wildcats Friday night as Newcastle dismantled the Wildcats 81-34 in the season finale for both teams.

Winside scored only 12 points in the first half as they trailed 41-12. Things got worse for the visitors in the third quarter as Newcastle outscored Winside 19-5 to take a 60-17 lead into the fourth period.

"There's not much a guy can say," Freiburg said. "We started out bad and our shots wouldn't fall but there's no excuse for a 41-12 halftime score."

Freiburg said Newcastle is a quick team and they forced the Wildcats into a lot of turnovers. The Winside coach said the reserves played for about the last 12 minutes and ended up outscoring the varsity.

Wynot prevails in physical contest over Allen 71-51

Allen ran into an offensive machine Friday night and dropped a 71-51 decision to Wynot on the Blue Devils' home floor.

Wynot broke open a close game late in the second period. Both teams were tied 12-12 after the first quarter. The hosts outscored the Eagles 23-12 in the second quarter to take a 35-24 halftime lead.

The Eagles got into early foul trouble. Allen's leading scorer Max Oswald picked up his fourth foul in the second period. Starting forward Craig Hoffman had three fouls in the first half. Neither of the two fouled out of the contest.

Allen Coach Dave Uldrich said the game was a very physical contest. "It was very rough," he said. "It got like a hockey game."

Uldrich said that was one of the reasons his team had trouble rebounding. Wynot outboarded the Eagles 34-23.

The Allen coach said he wasn't disappointed with his team's offensive play. He said it was one of the better offensive games Allen has played this season. Three Eagles scored in double figures. Oswald led the way with 19 points. Jeff Gotch and Hoffman added 14 points apiece.

On defense the Eagles had trouble shutting down Wynot's Corey Stratman. The 6-2 senior erupted for 33 points.

The Eagle JV's ended the season with a 44-42 overtime win over Wynot. Todd Hohensteln tossed in 12 for the winners while Ben Jackson added 10 points.

Allen, 2-14 will enter post-season play Tuesday night as they played sixth-ranked Bancroft-Rosalie in the first round of the Class C2-7 subdistrict tournament at Homer.

LOWER ELKHORN NATURAL RESOURCES DISTRICT

CHEMIGATION TRAINING AND CERTIFICATION

The Chemigation Act, passed by the Nebraska Unicameral last year will affect all irrigators who apply fertilizer or any other chemicals in irrigation water. The Act requires that anyone applying chemicals in the irrigation water must first have a permit from the local NRD. Requirements for the permit are:

1. Required safety equipment must be in place and pass inspection by the NRD.
 - a. Mainline checkvalve
 - b. vacuum relief valve
 - c. low pressure drain
 - d. observation port
 - e. chemical line check valve
 - f. simultaneous interlock between chemical injection system and irrigation pump
2. Foo of $30 per injection site ($10 for annual renewals)
3. Chemigation applicator must attend a training session and pass an examination.

The Cooperative Extension Service has developed the training materials, and conducts training sessions and examinations. The schedule for training sessions is: February 25 - Columbus, March 9 - Laurel and Pierce, March 10 - Wayne and Concord, March 16 - Osmond and Hartington, March 17 - Tilden, March 19 - Croighton and Elgin, March 20 - Nolligh and Norfolk, March 23 - Wisner and Emerson.

Application forms for the training sessions may be picked up at NRD and Cooperative Extension Service Offices. The application forms must be mailed to the Certification Training Coordinator with a check for $15 in order to pre-register for the session and receive study materials.

For more information, contact the Lower Elkhorn NRD or Cooperative Extension Service Office.

LEGISLATIVE BILLS ON RESOURCES ISSUES

Lower Elkhorn NRD Board of Directors customarily study legislative proposals dealing with natural resource issues which may affect NRDs and the people of the District. Lower Elkhorn NRD has taken a position of supporting the following legislative bills which the Unicameral is now considering:

L.B. 45 - Would exempt Natural Resources Districts from paying state sales tax. Most Governmental subdivisions do not pay sales tax.

L.B. 114 - Would amend existing statutes governing the licensing of hazardous waste disposal facilities.

L.B. 124 - Would require a permit from the local NRD (if NRD adopts regulations) to convert highly erodible native grasslands to crop production. May protect sandhills areas from poorly planned development. (Lower Elkhorn NRD supports this concept)

L.B. 148 - Allows NRD Boards to adjust number of directors, and require voting subdistricts to be more equal in population (no more than 3:1 ratio). Would enable NRDs to levy up to 7 cents tax on each $100 of actual valuation. Would eliminate provisions for non-voting advisory board members.

KIEWIT FUNDING GUIDELINES CHANGED

The Nebraska Center for Landscape Stewardship (CLS) has revised the funding guidelines for the Peter Kiewit Grant that has been available to communities for educational park and street tree planting. Until recently the community had to raise a minimum of $1400 to match a like amount from the Kiewit Grant. It was apparent that this level was too high for some of Nebraska's smaller communities.

The new guidelines set the minimum level at $200 or $1 per capita (whichever is greater). For example a village of 110 people would set a fund raising goal of $200. A village of $238 people would set a goal of $300 (rounding up to the nearest $100). This new level should allow for more small community participation in the funding program.

The Kiewit Grant is an excellent source of funding for street tree plantings. To get further information about the program contact the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum, Forestry Sciences Lab, UNL-East Campus, Lincoln, NE 68583. (reprinted from CommunityTree)
