College rec facility nears completion

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Construction of the new Rice/Carlson Recreational Facility at Wayne State College is well ahead of schedule.

John Struve, vice president of finance at Wayne State, said the new facility should be accepted for completion by mid-April of this year. After the acceptance, the contractor can begin remodeling areas such as the current gymnasium and the locker rooms in the older Carlson Building, said Struve.

Completion on the remodeling of the Carlson facility should be no later than August 1 of this year, said Struve.

Work on the new recreational facility began last April. Having it nearing completion within a year of when construction began is a credit to good planning, a good contractor and the luck of having abnormal warmer winter weather, according to Struve.

"The high level of cooperation between the contractor (RaDec Construction of Hartington), the architects and the college officials has contributed to the progress," Struve said Tuesday afternoon.

He also cited "a good planning job" as another reason why the construction of the new recreational facility is ahead of its September, 1987 occupancy date. Most of the problems encountered, he mentioned, were defined in the early stages of the construction project.

"We have an excellent contractor in RaDec," Struve mentioned.

Occupying the greatest amount of space in the new 66,074 square foot facility is "the multi-purpose area (38,100 square feet). In this area of the new facility will be an indoor track with locations for the pole vault, long and triple jump pit and shotput; three full basketball courts which can be transformed into tennis courts, volleyball or badminton courts; and areas for shuffleboard play.

ALONG THE east side of the new recreational facility are four racquetball courts, an area for lifting weights or other forms of exercise; meeting rooms and storage area.

Struve said the heating and cooling system installation at the new facility is nearing completion. Major work remaining on the construction project is to install the floor for the multi-purpose area, and add carpeting to the office and meeting room areas.

"The ceiling and lighting system within the facility also need to be completed, and the furniture and weight room equipment also needs to be ordered," he said.

It is possible that there could be limited access to the facility, primarily by students who must use the recreational structure while renovation is going on in the Carlson building. He anticipates there will be limited access to the structure before September 1.

"Currently, we're working on policies and procedures concerning the facility and its appropriate uses," said Struve.

The new facility project has been budgeted at nearly $3.5 million. Construction of the new facility will be financed through the sale of bond anticipation notes and a long term 20 year revenue bond sale.

Pluses, minuses discussed

Radioactive waste issue confronted

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

For the first time in 1987, the Department of Environmental Control and the Western Nebraska Resource Council jointly appeared on a program at the same meeting to discuss the consequences of establishing a low level radioactive dump site in Nebraska.

The panel discussion at the Villa Inn in Norfolk was sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska Press Association and was attended by over 75 people.

Among those in attendance were Dennis Grams, director of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control; Sam Welsch, chairman of the resource council; State Senators Stan Schellpeper of Stanton and Elroy Hefner of Coleridge; and Harold R. Borchert from the Nebraska Department of Health. Potential radioactive waste dump sites have been identified in both Wayne and Dixon Counties and in other areas of northeast Nebraska, which has drawn concern among property owners who reside along the designated areas.

Grams told the audience that the low level nuclear waste classification does "not include high level radioactive items like fuel rods" but includes items such as contaminated tools, clothing or other radioactive wastes from hospitals.

He added that there has been no physical work on surveying potential radioactive waste dump sites in northeast and northwest Nebraska, or any other state in the five-state Central Interstate Low Level Radioactive Waste Compact Commission.

WELSCH SAID that although low level radiation doesn't include fuel rods at nuclear plants, it will include those rods which are next to the fuel rods or other material contaminated by the filtered water, where the radioactive concentration is no less lethal.

Potential developers of a radioactive waste dump site, expected to occupy approximately 160 to 200 acres, are to submit proposals to the Compact Commission by April 1 on the development and operation of the facility. After hearings are conducted on the proposals, the developer will be picked by the commission in early summer.

The developer would then meet that year with the individuals and communities within the five-state compact that are interested in the facility. "He would have to find a place where it would be welcome, where it might be acceptable by the local people," Grams said.

Welsch said the radioactive waste dump would create "a negative image." It would not bring in any economic development, he said.

THERE WOULD be a positive factor of creating more jobs, Welsch said, but "the risk of environmental pollution" is another negative factor, he said.

"There is definitely a plus and minus to [radioactive waste dump] facility," Grams mentioned.

Department of Health official Borchert said leakage from radioactive waste could occur two ways — either as a result of a transportation accident or inhalation or injection of material into the soil. He said the low-level radioactive material would be solid material and not liquid material.

"The site in operation would have to be monitored extensively," Borchert said. The vegetation, soil air and water would be monitored, he added.

State Senator Schellpeper commented on LB 426, a bill making the licensing process of a low-level radioactive waste disposal facility more responsive to citizens and legislative input. "Mainly it states that the state has its hands on what's happening. If anyone does not want the [radioactive waste dump] site, they do not have to be forced to have it," Schellpeper said.

Schellpeper said there may be some towns that want the site, or some farmers would be willing to sell their property for the waste dump. The assurance of protection of the public and the environment upon disposal of low-level radioactive waste, he said Governor Kay Orr has proposed establishment of a low-level radioactive waste disposal task force.

The task force will: "Review events and actions taken both nationally and within the Central States compact since Congress passed the 1980 act [requiring all states to be responsible for their waste and encourage the states to look at forming compacts for waste disposal]."

Study the short and long term liability issues facing the Compact States and determine if additional legislation is necessary.

College president says

Budget cuts 'harmful'

Nebraska's Legislative Fiscal Office has indicated, in a preliminary report, a recommendation to reduce state appropriations to Wayne State College by $248,474 for 1987-88.

Wayne State's budget would also be reduced for 1988-89 by $246,398. Both reductions are from the level of general support established at the end of the last general session of the Legislature in June of 1986. The overall general fund appropriation to Wayne State would be $5,906,374 in 1987-88 and $5,918,450 in 1988-89.

Wayne State College President Dr. Thomas A. Coffey addressed the state reductions before 300 people during a forum last Thursday on the college campus.

He told the audience that the decrease in funds is especially difficult to accept because Wayne State has "increased its enrollment by over 25 percent in the past five years."

Enrollment at Wayne State is currently 2,948 students — 120 more students than last year at this time.

"We need to have the proposed reductions eliminated and we need to be funded at the level we requested," Dr. Coffey said. "We adamantly oppose the proposed reductions. We clearly need the additional funds that we requested because we have sustained a dramatic increase in enrollment. We have had our budget requests for the last several years reduced, but at the same time we have been educating more students."

"It is not possible to make up reductions in the general fund with cash funds because the proposed reductions are permanent general

Pedestrian injured

A car-pedestrian accident occurred late Tuesday afternoon about 2 1/2 miles southwest of Wayne.

At around 5:40 p.m., the Wayne County Sheriff's Department was called to investigate a personal injury accident on a county road two miles south and a 1/2 mile west of Wayne.

According to the sheriff's report, a westbound car, driven by Kristine Blohm of Allen, age 14, came into the path of Chad Davys, age 16, a westbound jogging pedestrian on the same county road.

Davys was wearing a radio headset and was apparently not aware of traffic on the road until the last minute. He was taken to Providence Medical Center by the Wayne rescue unit. Assisting at the accident scene were members of the Wayne Fire Department Rescue personnel and the Nebraska State Patrol.

He was transferred to Marian Health Center in Sioux City later in the evening. As of Wednesday noon, he was reported to be in stable condition.

At Winside meeting

Waste site concerns aired

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Area meetings concerning the establishment of a potential radioactive waste dump site in northeast Nebraska were conducted Friday and Saturday in Winside and Norfolk.

Over 170 individuals were on hand at the Winside meeting to review the radioactive waste dump site issue. Speakers at the meeting were: Dr. David Hoelling, M.D., of Pender on the topic of potential hazards and dangers of underground radioactive disposal sites; Mrs. Allen Schrant of Winside with information from the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control and a review of her recent testimony before the Nebraska legislature's Natural Resources Committee; Mrs. Russell Welch from Howells, Nebraska; and Marvin Cherry, mayor of Winside who read a letter on the square miles of sites in each state and a letter concerning the disposal site which was sent to the village clerk.

ALSO DURING the public meeting at Winside, those who attended were provided an opinion sheet concerning the disposal site issue. Opinion sheets were filled out at the meeting by 126 individuals who said they did not want "any underground dump sites containing radioactive wastes in their county."

One hundred and twenty-two individuals said they would like all of Nebraska to be excluded from having any underground sites that would contain radioactive wastes. There were 119 people who said dump sites for radioactive wastes should be above ground and next to the companies disposing of wastes and 117 said Nebraska should withdraw from the Central States Compact and that Nebraska should take care of its own wastes.

IN ADDITION, 115 people marked their support of legislative bills 426 and 427.

Schrant said 23 individuals volunteered to be active citizens in combating the radioactive waste disposal site issues.

"What we do on these issues today and in the future, will affect our children and grandchildren," said Schrant. The 14 sections of ground in Brenna, Plum Creek and Leslie Precincts, designated as potential sites, start about a mile for Schrant's home and business (Roadside Dairy Farm) which is one mile east and one half mile south of Winside.

And it will take up to March 10 to get the bugs out and then to get the bills out," mentioned City Administrator Phil Kloster. On May 1, the actual reading will be taken for water and electricity, resulting in actual water, sewer and electricity costs. If earlier estimates were greater than actual, adjustments will be made on the next billing.

Club looking for members

Join the growing number of Wayne business men who are interested in becoming Charter Members of the new Wayne Rotary Club. Breakfasts are scheduled for the next three Wednesdays, March 11, 18 and 25, at the Sportsman's Cafe at 7 a.m. Interested individuals are assured of being released by 7:55 to make it to work on time. Any questions should be directed to either Gil Haase at the Wayne Care Centre or Dr. Thomas Coffey at Wayne State College.

The original Rotary Club was organized in Chicago, Illinois, USA by Paul P. Harris, a Chicago lawyer. It first met on Feb. 23, 1905. Harris was lonely and wanted friendship and fellowship. His idea was to bring together men of different businesses and professions so they could recapture the friendliness of the small towns, such as Wayne, Nebraska that many had known as youngsters.

The name "ROTARY" was chosen because the club met in rotation at each member's place of business. Soon their group became too large for this and the members began gathering for lunch. Camaraderie alone could not sustain the organization, and soon service to the community became the group's binding strength. Thus, the Rotary motto "SERVICE ABOVE SELF". The second Rotary Club was founded in San Francisco, California, USA in 1908. The National Association of Rotary Clubs formed in 1910, and that same year the organization became International with the founding of the Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada club. Expansion has been steady since and today some 400 new clubs are admitted annually to Rotary International.

Waste

low-level radioactive waste disposal if Nebraska is to continue to participate in the Compact process.

"And study other questions of legal and technical importance related to this issue and decide how Nebraska's interest can be best protected.

The bills introduced set stricter rules and regulations, says State Senator Elroy Hefner. "We didn't think the five-state compact rules were strict enough. The site should be approved by the legislature. We don't want the elected officials and the legislature to lose control," Hefner said.

LB 427, Hefner said "lets us withdraw from the compact if we are chosen as the host state."

HEFNER QUESTIONED whether it would be feasible to withdraw from the compact because of the "monetary liability."

"It would cost the state a lot of money to prepare its own site and maintain it," Hefner said.

IT IS ESTIMATED that it would cost the state up to $35 million to build its own facility.

Grams was asked why there is resistance to build an above ground storage facility rather than the shallow burial method of disposal being considered.

Grams said that radioactive waste can be stored in an above ground structure, but it cannot be disposed in an above ground facility, according to the rules of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The five states in the Compact (Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana) must have the same type of disposal regulations. Oklahoma currently follows the guidelines of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Grams said different types of alternatives are covered by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in relation to ground storage.

"We'll just have to see what the developer comes up with. They may come up with something unsuitable. Perhaps nobody will bid on it. We'll just have to wait until April 1 to see what is proposed," said Grams.

"How can a proposal be economically viable when you don't know where you want to build it. You're asking bidders to propose without adequate information," said Welsch.

PREFERRED SITING areas have been located in 18 counties in Kansas, 10 counties in Nebraska, two counties in Arkansas and no counties in Oklahoma. A consulting firm had chose the sites based upon a number of criteria including distance from population, depth to ground water, type of soil and distance to rivers and lakes.

By the end of 1987, the developer will utilize all existing studies and information available to determine a suitable site for the facility.

The host state must be selected by the Compact by Jan. 1, 1988 and a site plan must be approved. The five states in the Compact would have finalized comprehensive regulations to be used if the state is selected as host for the facility.

A licensed application must be filed by Jan. 1, 1990 with the licensing agency to license the facility. If the proposed site is in Nebraska, the license must be filed with the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control.

By Jan. 1 of 1993, the disposal facility must be operational at the site proposed.

Nuclear waste issue closely followed

The Legislature has completed just over one-third of the 90 days in this legislative session. The majority of the activity to date has centered around the holding of the mandatory public hearings for each bill that was introduced. The typical day consists of mornings on the legislative floor addressing bills that advanced early from the committees and afternoons in public hearings.

Attention to the nuclear waste disposal problem has continued, and thanks to the display of concern taken by so many individuals from northeast Nebraska I am confident that positive steps towards resolution are being made. The Governor's task force which I requested is beginning to take shape. The task force will address five specific areas: The members will be asked to:

- Review events and actions taken both nationally and within the 5-State Compact.

*Study the short and long-term liability issues facing the Compact states and determine if additional legislation is necessary.

*Determine if the best option for low-level radioactive waste disposal for Nebraska is to continue to participate in the Compact process.

*Study questions of legal and technical importance.
*And determine how Nebraska's interest can best be protected.

THE TASK force is still in the process of formation. Members will be chosen and will begin work within the next few weeks. At the present time people are being sought with technical expertise. If you know of individuals who are qualified and interested please let me know and I will pass on the information to the Governor's office.

As of January 1, 1988, individual states or their Compacts must choose a host state for a waste site in order to be in compliance with federal mandate. At that time, each state must also have a plan for establishing the location for the facility.

Between now and January 1, 1988, the 5-State Compact and the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control have identified milestones in order to meet this deadline. The most important in the immediate future is a public meeting to be held on March 16th. The meeting is to be held to receive public input on the Phase I study (the document that tentatively identified the various proposed sites in Nebraska). Location of this meeting has not yet been determined, but when it is I will make sure it receives adequate publicity.

I would also like to congratulate both the South Sioux City and Ponca Girls basketball teams for earning the opportunity to represent northeast Nebraska at the Girls State Basketball Tournament. We are well represented and I wish both teams the best of luck.

Return funding

It really doesn't make a whole lot of sense. Wayne State College has had an enrollment increase of over 25 percent in the last five years. For the past several years, Wayne State College's budget request has been reduced, even though they have been educating more students. So why must Wayne State College's budget be reduced in 1987-88 by nearly $250,000 and nearly $246,000 the following year?

That question has Dr. Thomas Coffey, and many others, concerned about the welfare of Wayne State College, fretting to the point of considering a variety of proposals on how to compensate for the lack in state funding.

State funding losses could occur to some of the organized campus activities, such as the college's weekly newspaper, theatre production, student government, intramurals, music tours, the forensics team, intercollegiate athletics, international programs and other areas.

The college newspaper, The Wayne Stater, serves a vital role in the area of journalism education. It fulfills an important function, yet it is also in line with the state funding cuts. Dr. Coffey has proposed realignment or consolidation in regard to cutting costs in the administrative areas.

Rich Bringelson, secretary to the Nebraska Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State College, will be one of several individuals who will be speaking before the Legislative Appropriations Committee on Thursday, March 5 at 1:30 p.m.

Community residents, college staff and students from Wayne will be attending the hearings. Bringelson will point out that the Nebraska state college system has a student population of nearly 16,000 and is continuing to grow. That increase is the result of hard work and determination of staff and faculty and the support of the leaders within the state college system.

Despite the growth, the state college system makes college affordable for people, even for those forced to resign from a financially-troubled profession and pursue other careers.

Revenue, from other than what is allocated to the state college education system, has also increased in ways of student fees and tuition. This proves that students are carrying their fair share in the providing of quality education.

Dr. Coffey mentioned in a news release that Nebraska ranks next to the bottom in the nation for state support of public higher education.

Officials from the four state colleges certainly would like a turnabout of this figure. One place to start is to restore what has been proposed for removal from the state college budgets.

Tort reform, liability issue considered

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
They call it tort reform, the changing of state laws dealing with liability for personal injury or damage. And it's heralded as one of the major controversial issues of the 1987 session.

If money is any indicator, tort reform does rank at the top. There's more than $100,000 in easily identifiable lobbying money resting on the issue and even more tucked away in the corners of lobbying reports.

Project Justice Inc., a group of more than 90 businesses, chambers of commerce and governmental subdivisions, are paying two lobbyists $65,000 to convince senators that the state's civil liability laws covering personal injury and damage should be more changed.

The Nebraska Association of Trial Attorneys is the big spender on the other side. The group is paying about $51,000 to four lobbyists for the six-month legislative session. The major issue this year for that group is stopping tort reform.

Tort reform itself is a complex and emotional issue. On one side are those who purchase liability insurance—businesses, professionals and government subdivisions like counties and cities. These folks have seen the premium rates increase dramatically in the past few years. In some isolated cases liability insurance is unavailable at any price.

On the other side are the future victims of negligence and the lawyers who earn their living helping victims sue and settle claims.

In the background are the insurance companies which would benefit from the reduced risks that tort reform would bring.

SENATORS HAVE introduced 17 bills that touch on tort reform issues. For the most part these changes would not increase the availability nor reduce the costs of liability insurance. Former Insurance Director Michael Dugan made that very clear at a public hearing before the Legislature's Judiciary Committee late last month.

The major tort reform issues include the following:

- Exemptions for volunteer activities like athletic coaches and unpaid directors of nonprofit corporations. This is commonly referred to as the Little League issue. Immunity from liability would not include cases of willful or gross misconduct.
- Putting a $250,000 cap on noneconomic damages (for pain and suffering) a person can collect. There is no proposed lid for verifiable economic damages like lost wages or medical expenses.

- Changing the current law on what is called joint and several liability. Currently all parties are equally liable for payment of damages. If one or more responsible party has no insurance or assets, the others pick up the full damage costs. The proposed change would allow claimants to recover from each defendant only the percentage of damages attributable to that defendant. This issue is important to insurance companies and governmental subdivisions, who are usually the deep pockets of available money.

One bill, LB 425, sponsored by Sen. Gerald Conway of Wayne, embodies most of the proposed changes. But it is near death in the Judiciary Committee. Committee members voted once to indefinitely postpone that bill, then agreed to let it live a while longer.

Despite the problems LB 425 has seen in committee, tort reform is far from dead this session. With more than $100,000 in tort reform, lobbyist and interest groups will nurture the pertinent issues back to life.

Helmet law debated

by Senator Elroy Helmer
When the Legislature's Transportation Committee held a public hearing on LB 428 which would require all Nebraska motorcycle riders to wear helmets, the hearing room and halls were packed with opponents and proponents. Opponents of the bill, many of them members of the motorcycle group ABATE, said they are not against helmet use, but are opposed to mandatory helmet laws. Some proponents of the bill cited personal experiences while others felt that more lives could be saved with a mandatory helmet law. Nebraska had a mandatory helmet law from 1967 to 1977 when it was repealed. Bills to restore the helmet requirements have been killed twice since then. The Committee took no action on LB 428.

A bill (LB 774) was introduced by the Government Committee this week which would move up the effective date of daylight saving time in order to comply with federal changes. Daylight saving would start the first Sunday of April instead of the last Sunday of April if this bill were passed.

Governor Orr's first veto, of $100,000 for the State Department of Social Services, was overridden this week by the Legislature. LB 392 would have restored about half of the amount that was cut from the Social Services Department budget in the December special session.

Governor Orr's first veto, of $100,000 for the State Department of Social Services, was overridden this week by the Legislature. LB 392 would have restored about half of the amount that was cut from the Social Services Department budget in the December special session.

This week the mail-order sales tax bill (LB 304) was passed by the Legislature. It is believed that it will generate about $17 million a year for the coffers of Nebraska. This bill will protect Nebraska businesses from being undercut by out-of-state mail order companies. Right now it is very unfair to the merchants on main street. Mail order sales are increasing at a very fast rate. Experts in the business expect sales to double in the next two years. The bill awaits the Governor's signature.

Never gave up

When students wear school uniforms they feel a certain pride in their hearts that no one else could feel. Having the crowd behind you helps but knowing for whom and what you stand for gives you the drive to go on.

Sometimes a fan has to stop and think, "could I do any better?" and that fan realizes the players are doing all that is humanly possible.

Wayne High students are proud of their basketball teams. The fact that neither team came out on top at Districts is beside the point. What really matters is neither of the teams or the cheerleaders quit! The only loser is a quitter and we as cheerleaders are proud to say that our teams never quit! The student body would like to thank the coaches and players. The cheerleaders would like to thank our sponsors and most of all Eunice Wacker, our captain who never gave up.

Taxing on machinery

There comes a time when the citizens of Nebraska must be heard in the Nebraska Legislature. That time is now!!!

LB 185, a bill that would remove the sales tax on the purchase of farm machinery and equipment will now be before the full Legislature for a vote in the next couple of weeks. By giving a sales tax exemption for these purchases, $6.5 million will be saved for the farmers in the first year alone. That means, there would be over $6 million kept in your own communities. Next year, this bill would help keep some $7 million in your own communities.

Nebraska is surrounded by states that offer some kind of sales tax exemption on the purchase of farm machinery. Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Missouri and North Dakota have all seen fit to give their own people such a break. Because they have, Nebraska suffers from what is called border bleeding. The border bleed to Iowa alone has been projected to amount to $1.6 million in lost sales.

I have been trying for three years to get such a sales tax exemption for farm machinery and equipment. Now, I need your help. I urge you to call your own senator, Senator Gerald Conway, at (402) 471-2716, or 375-1556, and tell him that Nebraska must help the farmers as well as the local communities, just like the farmers have come to the aid of Nebraska all these years. Vote YES on LB 185.

I thank you for your support in the passage of this very important bill.

Sincerely,
Rex Haberman
State Senator
Imperial, Nebraska

Ethanol commitment needed

A strong U.S. ethanol industry makes sense for the American farmer, as well as for our environment and our energy future. For that reason I have joined with over forty other members of Congress to form a revived "Alcohol Fuels Caucus" in order to promote policies that favor ethanol. The Alcohol Fuels Caucus will work for policies that assure the continued growth of this important domestic industry.

The Federal government must live up to the commitments it has made to the ethanol industry, including continuation of a partial excise tax exemption for motor fuels mixed with up to 10% ethanol. Ethanol has been used to replace lead as an octane enhancer, providing a cleaner, more environmentally sound motor fuel.

A repeal of the excise tax exemption now would be a cruel blow to an industry that is just beginning to grow and thrive. In addition, it would hurt farmers by threatening a market for 300-million bushels of corn and other feedgrains annually.

Among other issues on the Caucus agenda are the continued monitoring of unfair ethanol imports, which were reduced through the closing of several import tariff loopholes last year. The Caucus also will examine proposals for further research into the use of ethanol to de-sulfurize high-sulfur coal, as well as increased use of ethanol in motor fuels in cities that have not yet attained Federal clean-air standards.

As farmers confront a time of grain surplus and falling prices, it is more important than ever to encourage products such as ethanol which will expand market opportunities for farm commodities.

USDA Excludes Oats from Cross Compliance Requirements

I am very pleased that Agriculture Richard Lyng has agreed to exclude oats from cross-compliance requirements in the 1987 feed grain program.

In early February I wrote to Secretary Lyng to ask that oats be excluded from the cross-compliance requirements. At that time I explained that the new requirement that farmers participating in any farm program comply with farm program regulations for all crops was causing a particular hardship for many farmers who had planted oats.

Because many farmers had not certified their oats base, when the five-year average was determined, it was misleading. Farmers were assigned oats bases that were significantly lower than what they had been producing.

We do not have a surplus of oats and there is not much justification for a policy limiting oats production.

Underdogs prevail at B-4 districts

If the saying that says everyone loves an underdog is true, well then the boys' Class B-4 district tournament has got to be the best in the state.

You can throw district seeds out the window in this district. This year the top four seeds will be watching the state tournament as a spectator.

In opening round action at Northeast Community College in Norfolk, the top four seeds were eliminated.

Eighth-seeded West Point got things started by disposing of top-seeded Blair 44-42 in the first game of the tournament. West Point, 8-10, ended the 16-2 Bears' season by hitting a layup with six seconds to play. Blair held down the top ranking in Class B for most of the season.

Next to fall was the tourney's fourth seed, Schuyler. The Warriors were ousted by Columbus Scotus 45-40.

Saturday night the giants continued to fall as third-seeded Harlington Cedar Catholic was dumped by sixth-seeded North Bend 49-35. Finally it was seventh-seeded Wayne's turn. The Blue Devils upended the tournament's second-seed Columbus Lakeview big time, by a 68-52 count.

West Point will continue its ride through dreamland as the Cadets fill into Cinderella's glass slipper. The 11-10 Pointers advanced to the state tournament by downing North Bend in the district finals Tuesday evening.

Three cheers to another underdog!

The Cornhusker basketball team prior to Saturday, had already surpassed the expectations of many roundball fans. But the 83-81 overtime thriller over Kansas was frosting on the cake.

The win over the highly-touted Jayhawks, the first in eight tries, boosted the Huskers record to 17-10 in Coach Danny Nees rookie season. The win marked the first time this year's seniors have beaten the Jayhawks.

The Huskers are a prober for the NIT Tournament and many think the NCAA tournament isn't out of reach.

I think Nees and his group of overachievers belong in the NIT. They are a good basketball team but unless they win the Big Eight tournament, they are not NCAA tournament caliber.

Nebraska will be losing five seniors from this year's team that was expected to hover around the .500 mark.

Nees already has three commitments from prep cagers. The most recognizable being the 7-2 center from Omaha Burke, Rich King. Nees outrecruited Larry Brown, Nees outrecruited Larry Brown, Nees outrecruited Larry Brown, Nees outrecruited Larry Brown.

Nebraska will also have the services of 6-9 redshirt Beau Reid, the son of Husker Assistant Coach Arden Reid. Eric Johnson, a transfer from Baylor University and younger brother of Vinnie Johnson of the Detroit Pistons, will also be a member of the 1987-88 Cornhuskers.

Nees should be in the running for coach of the year honors in the conference. It should be a three-man race between Nees, Norm Stewart of Missouri and Lon Kruger of Kansas State.

Congratulations also should go to Steve Aggers and the Wayne State Wildcats. The Cats advanced to the finals of the District 11 playoffs for the second year in a row.

Wayne State got to the finals by beating Bellevue and Hastings in the first two rounds.

Aggers, in his second year has a record of 29-37 at WSC. This year the Cats are 16-17 heading into the championship game against Kearney State Wednesday night.

The winner of the game will qualify for the NAIA National Tournament in Kansas City.

Blue Devils end cage year with 57-44 loss to NBC

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Wayne Blue Devils quest for a third consecutive trip to the state tournament ended Monday night when an inspired North Bend team tripped the locals 57-44.

Wayne advanced to the semifinals of the Class B-4 District Tournament by bombing Columbus Lakeview 68-52 Saturday night at Norfolk Community College.

The Blue Devils got off to a horrendous start while the Bersers came out on fire. The Tigers posted a 9-0 lead before Jason Jorgensen got Wayne on the board with 2:37 left in the period. That was all the scoring the Blue Devils could muster in the first period as they trailed 12-2 after the first eight minutes.

It didn't get much better for the Wayne boys. In the second stanza, with 6:45 left in the half Ted Lueders gave Wayne its second basket and pulled the Blue Devils to within 10 points at 14-4.

The sly Tiger defense continued to stymie Wayne and the Bersers took a 22-6 lead at halftime.

Wayne Coach Bob Uhing said his team came out flat.

"They just weren't ready to play," Uhing said. "We didn't do a good job of making our players understand that you have to play a full game in districts or your season is over."

It was as if a different team came out of the locker room to start the second half. They hustled after loose balls played solid defense and got their offense on track.

Wayne outscored the Tigers in the second half 38-35.

Wayne scored its first-half total in less than two minutes of the third quarter. The full-court press the Blue Devils applied started causing North Bend problems late in the third period. A free throw by Nick Engelson got Wayne back to within single digits with just over a minute to play in the third period. Lakeview held to a 10-point lead by quarter's end.

Wayne continued its comeback in the fourth quarter. A three-point play by Jorgensen got the Blue Devils to within six points with 4:49 left. The locals inched closer and cut the lead to 38-34 but could get no closer. From there the Tigers went on an 8-2 streak to post a 46-36 lead with 2:32 left.

Wayne was forced to foul and North Bend responded by making 13-21 free throws in the final quarter. The Blue Devils outscored North Bend from the field but the Tigers hit 15 more free throws to make the difference.

Lueders paced the Blue Devils with 14 points on seven field goals. Jorgensen added 11 points and six rebounds. Senior Bill Liska also pulled down six boards.

The winners had two double figure scorers. Jeff Peters took game-high honors with 21 points while Steve Peterson tossed in 17 markers.

The Blue Devils got to the semifinals by avenging an earlier loss to Lakeview. The locals lit the scoreboard for 68 points while limiting the Vikings to 52 points.

Lakeview beat the Blue Devils 71-55 in the second game of the season.

Wayne took a slim 12-10 lead after the first period. The Blue Devils upped the lead to 29-24 at halftime. The locals blew the game open in the fourth quarter after holding a 45-39 lead after three quarters.

Wayne outscored the Vikings 23-13 in the last eight minutes. The Blue Devils iced the game by hitting 19-24 free throws in the last period. For the game the locals were 28-35 from the charity stripe. Lakeview hit on 18-20 gift shots.

Uhing said he thought the team's past district experience helped the Blue Devils down the stretch. He said his team was mentally ready to play.

Nick Engelson led all scorers with 25 points. The junior hit 11-13 gift shots. Lueders added 13 points and Troy Wood tossed in 10 points.

Mike Hilger and Ric Greenwall paced the 16-4 Vikings with 16 and 15 points respectively.

The win marked the third year in a row that Wayne had beaten the Vikings in districts. Last year it took the Blue Devils six overtimes to overcome Lakeview. In 1985 Wayne downed the Vikings 50-46 in the semifinals.

Wayne finished the season one game under .500 at 10-11. Seniors Lueders, Jon Stollenberg, Jorgensen, Liska, Wood and Corey Dahl played their last game for the Blue Devils.

Wildcats win four in Florida

The Wayne State baseball team hit Cocoa Beach by storm this week. The Wildcats but could be heard up and down the Florida coast as the Cats won their first four games of the eight-game trip.

In the four seven-inning wins, Wayne State outscored its opponents by a combined total of 58-8. Two of the four wins were by shutout.

Monday the Cats opened with a 14-3 whipping of Rose-Hulman College. Wayne State scored 14 runs on only five hits. The Cats' hitters received 16 base on balls. Randy Raabe led the hitting attack with a three-run double in the Cats' seven-run sixth inning. Randy Yarde also added three RBI's. Kevin Hoffari was credited with the win. The Madison junior went five innings, striking out four. Raabe worked the final two innings. Rose-Hulman was limited to three hits while they committed four errors.

Monday afternoon the Wildcat offense didn't miss a beat as they trounced the Milwaukee School of Engineering 14-5. Wayne State pounded out 13 hits. Gate Bretschneider and Raabe each collected a double and two RBI's.

Omar Serghini got the win as he went the distance. The Omaha freshman struck out 13 while walking six. The Wayne State defense helped Serghini by playing errorless baseball.

Loras College was the Cats next victim as the locals recorded a 13-0 decision. Jose Ruiz shutout Loras on one hit Tuesday morning. The San Diego native walked only one batter while striking out Corey Weinmaster who finished the game.

Raabe's hot bat continued as he collected a double, a triple and six RBI's. Paul Calvert was 2-3 at the plate and Dale Clayton recorded three stolen bases.

In the afternoon game Tuesday the Cats recorded their second shutout as they tripped Penn State-Behrend 17-0. Wayne State ripped 15 hits while limiting its opponents to just two hits. For the third game in a row the Cats played flawlessly in the field.

Ed Heritage got the win as he went the distance. The senior from Des Moines, Iowa struck out nine while walking only two Penn State hitters.

Clayton, Calvert, Dale Irving and Desher struck out eight, two baggers. Pat Salerno, Randy Lau and Randy Yarde all collected triples. Clayton and Salerno finished with three RBI's each.

After a day off Wednesday, the Cats will take their 4-0 record into a rematch with Rose-Hulman followed by a game against Rochester Institute of Technology on Thursday. The locals will close out the trip with two games on Friday.

Wildcats one step away from Kansas City

For the second year in a row the Wayne State Wildcats are one step away from the NAIA National Basketball Tournament in Kansas City.

A turnaround jumper. By Byron Haas with eight seconds left in the game gave the Cats a 58-55 win over Hastings and advanced them to the title game in the District 11 playoffs. Wayne State battled Kearney State Wednesday night to see who advanced to the national tournament.

Saturday night the Cats never lost their cool as they clawed back from a 29-13 deficit in the first half. The locals cut the 16-point margin to 10 points at halftime at 34-24. "We beat a very good team on their home court," Wildcat Coach Steve Aggers said. "Their student section stood up the whole game. Our guys did a good job of overcoming the crowd."

The Broncos, 17-10, got off to a good start. They forced the Cats into several turnovers with their pressure defense. Aggers said although his team fell behind early they never lost their poise.

The Bronco defense limited Wayne State to 38 percent shooting in the first half. Hastings hit 48 percent from the field in the opening 20 minutes.

The second half was a different story. It was Wayne's tenacious defense that kept Hastings at bay. The Cats held the hosts to 34 second-half points as the Broncos hit only 24 percent from the field in the half. Wayne State started to click offensively as they made 13-23 field goals for 57 percent accuracy in the last 20 minutes.

Aggers said multiple defenses caused the Broncos problems. The switching defenses confused Hastings. The Wayne State coach also said the Cats' depth took its toll on Hastings.

"I think our team depth wore them down," he said. "They played basically five guys.

The Wildcat defense shut down the Hastings perimeter game. It limited Craig Frahm, Ron Jacks and Lee Keller Hastings' outside threats, to a total of 26 points. The Broncos' leading scorer, Scott DeBoer was limited to 5-15 shooting as he finished with 13 points and eight rebounds.

Wayne State's balanced scoring attack was paced by Scott Hurley, Russ Rosenquist and Mike McNamara. Hurley led the way with 14 points while McNamara and Rosenquist added 12 and 11 points respectively. McNamara was also the Cats' top rebounder with seven boards. Wayne State, 16-17, was outrebounded as a team 35-31. Hurley was credited with seven of Wayne State's 20 assists.

Wayne State appeared to have the game in hand leading 55-48 after a Rosenquist dunk with 4:45 left to play. Hastings got to within a point at 56-55 on a hoop by DeBoer. Haas scored on a slam off of a lob pass from Hurley with 51 seconds left to give the Cats a 58-55 lead. The Broncos came right back to knot the score when Frahm canned a three pointer with 34 seconds to play.

That set the stage for Haas' game winner with eight seconds left.

Schnitzler, Bernt named to all-district team

Wayne State's Linda Schnitzler and Dawnn Bernt were named to the District 11 All-District Basketball Team for the 1986-87 season.

The team was selected by district coaches. Wayne State, Kearney State and Hastings all placed two women on the 10-member squad.

Schnitzler, 5-6 guard from Battle Creek, was named to the squad for the second straight year. The sophomore completed the season averaging 18.2 points a game. Schnitzler was sixth in the district in free-throw percentage hitting 75.6 of her gift shots and ninth in field-goal percentage making 46.3 percent of her shots.

Bernt averaged 17.6 points and was second in the district in rebounds averaging 10.2 rebounds a contest. It was the Stromsberg native's first season since transferring from Northeast Community College in Norfolk where she was named a Junior College All-American. Bernt also finished third in the district in field-goal percentage connecting on 51.8 percent of her field goals.

Linda Schnitzler

Six of the all-district performers are repeat selections. This year's list is made up of three seniors, four juniors and three sophomores. Concordia's Carl Everts was named the District 11 Women's Coach of the Year. Junior Shelly Poppe of Concordia was named the district's Player of the Year. The Norfolk native averaged 21.2 points a game.

The District 11 All-District team is as follows: Shelly Poppe, Concordia; LaNell Cox and Brenda Vankengen, Kearney State; Lori Briscoe, Midland; Mary Perrier, Chadron State; Linda Schnitzler and Dawnn Bernt, Wayne State; Becky

Dawnn Bernt
Chromola and Kim Cook, Hastings; Diane Foli, College of Saint Mary.

Choral Festival scheduled

The 17th annual High School Choral Festival will be held at Wayne State College of Nebraska Tuesday, March 10. The festival will take place in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

About 500 high school students from eight Nebraska and Iowa schools will be taking part in this event, said Dr. Cornell Runestad, professor of music at Wayne State.

In the afternoon, the eight choirs will sing their own selected pieces.

The other choirs and a plaque will be given to the best overall group. Also, the Wayne State Concert Choir and Madrigal Singers will be giving an afternoon performance.

In addition to the eight high school groups, the Hastings High School choir, under the direction of Robin Koozer, will perform as this year's honor choir. Hastings High will perform in Ramsey Theatre at 11:30 a.m. and is not in the competition.

"There are several reasons for the choral festival," said Dr. Runestad.

"The first is to provide high school singers a chance to hear college groups. The second is to offer the groups a chance at out of town performances and the last is a chance to perform in a mass choir."

Nebraska high schools included in the choral festival competition are Norfolk Senior, Pender, Seward, Stuart and Wayne. The Iowa high schools are Glidden-Ralston, Maurice-Orange City and Westwood of Sloan.

Budget

fund reductions," he said.

DR. COFFEY said the college must reallocate and realign existing resources to continue serving its students. To achieve the possible reduction, he announced seven guiding principles to be used in considering reductions and reallocations:

- Protect, to the extent possible, all permanent full-time employees.
- Protect, to the extent possible, the role and mission of the college.
- Protect the integrity of the college.
- Protect, to the extent possible, the enrollment of the college.
- Protect the institutional ability to recover and expand from budget reductions.
- Protect, to the extent possible, resident life occupancy.
- And protect, to the extent possible, the quality of student life.

It was mentioned at the forum that because of the proposed reductions, some organized campus activities may lose their state funds. These include the campus newspaper The Wayne Stater, theatre productions, student government, intramurals, music tours, the forensics team, intercollegiate athletics, international programs and a reduction in the president's special project request fund.

THE OFFICES of Student Life and Administrative Services could face realignment and a consolidated Office of Enrollment Management may be established to include admissions, the registrar and extended campus. Also, the current eight academic divisions could be consolidated into four for administrative purposes. Vacant faculty positions would be reallocated to areas of greatest need. Rental fees charged to the general public to use college facilities could also be increased as a result of decreased funds.

Dr. Coffey announced the establishment of a special committee to review the areas affected by state reduction. The committee will review his proposals and receive other opinions, statements, constructs, and modifications from individuals and organizations within the college community. The committee will report its findings and recommendations to the college president by April 10.

"Such reductions would indeed cripple the progress of Wayne State College, placing its ability to provide education and service to northeast Nebraska and to the State of Nebraska in jeopardy," said Dr. Coffey.

"Such reductions will serve as a catalyst for reducing the morale and efficiency of a highly effective, efficient and professional faculty and staff within the college."

HE SAID students at Wayne State will also be affected, receiving less than they should expect from the college and the "quality of their student life, as well as their academic programs, have the potential of being seriously harmed."

He added that he is "extremely pleased" with the groups of interested persons who will travel to the state capitol in Lincoln on Thursday to show their support for Wayne State College.

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce Legislative Committee and a voluntary group of students, (who are on spring break this week) have organized two caravans for Wayne community members and Wayne State students and faculty members to travel to Lincoln to ask lawmakers not to reduce funds for the college, but rather to increase funding.

The caravans will leave Wayne on Thursday at 7 and 9 a.m. The earlier group has a meeting scheduled with Gov. Orr. Both groups will attend the Legislature's Appropriations Committee meeting at the capitol at 1:30 p.m.

Dr. Coffey said he was "pleased, impressed and grateful" for the response of the students, faculty and staff of the college, as well as the business community of Wayne.

"I am sure," said Dr. Coffey, "with a reasoned position on what we are doing at Wayne State College, and the resources that we need to do our job, coupled with the support of our community and our college, that the Appropriations Committee will revise its preliminary recommendations and will move to provide us with the support we need to do the job for Nebraska and for our region."

THE PRESIDENT of Wayne State said some of the increased enrollment of the college are men and women who have suffered economic distress and have returned to college full-or part-time to seek new avenues in planning for their future.

"For the college to be reduced in its capability of responding to these people withdraws one of the last strong measures of hope available to these citizens of northeast Nebraska," Dr. Coffey said.

"This college and the State Colleges of Nebraska have sustained reductions in their requested appropriations for the last several years," he continued. "The results of which places Nebraska as number 49 in the nation for state support of public higher education."

"Such a position harms our state as a whole and seriously limits the possibility of a positive future."

I'M FREE!

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free
I'm following the path God laid for me
I took His hand when I heard Him call
I turned my back and left it all
I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to work, or play.
Tasks left undone must stay that way
I found peace at the close of day.
If my parting has left a void,
Then fill it with remembering joy.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss
Ah, yes, these things too I will miss.
Be not burdened with time of sorrow,
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow,
My life's been full, I've savored much.
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.
Perhaps my time seemed all too brief,
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me
God wanted me now. He set me free.

Thanks so much to everyone who sent cards, flowers, brought in food, expressed words of sympathy and helped out in any way in the recent loss of our beloved wife, mother, grandmother and sister. A special thanks to Pastor Fate for all his prayers and special visits, to the staff at Lutheran Community Hospital, and the ladies of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. We will all miss her very much, but we do have so many beautiful memories that will last forever. The family of Verna Miller. M5

OUR SINCEREST thanks and deepest appreciation to friends and neighbors who brought food and helped in any way with our sale. Rick and Bonnie Lund. M5

THANKS TO my family, relatives and friends for the cards, telephone calls, visits and food brought in during my recovery. It was very much appreciated. Dave and Betty Miller. M5

Five Ways Drugs Work

Medicines work in the body by numerous mechanisms. The following are five different ways drugs work:
Block nerve impulses: Local anesthetics such as lidocaine and procaine prevent sensations of pain or discomfort from being transmitted from body tissues to the brain.
Stimulate nerves: Nicotine, caffeine, and a variety of medicines used to control symptoms of depression cause various nerves to be stimulated in one way or another. The effect depends on which nerves are stimulated.
Affect foreign cells: Antibacterial agents such as sulfonamides and penicillin selectively kill or prevent growth of bacteria.
Replace deficiencies: A variety of natural and synthetic drug products simply replace or supplement substances that are not present in the body in sufficient quantities. Examples include insulin, estrogen, thyroid and many vitamins and minerals.
Constrict vessels: Some nose drops contain medicines which constrict blood vessels and shrink tissues, thereby relieving congestion.

this and that

Since the first snap peas appeared in seed catalogs more than six years ago, they have continued to delight gardeners.

Snap peas have edible pods and peas are forgiving of the forgetful gardeners. Unlike other edible-podded peas (snow peas or oriental peas) which must be harvested while the peas are still tiny, snap peas stay sweet even as the pods get plumper. As good as the first snap pea variety "Sugar Snap" was, it still had a few shortcomings.

"Sugar Snap" has strings in the pod which have to be removed. It is also a tall variety whose 5- or 6-foot vines require trellising. Newer varieties of snap peas have attempted to compensate for these shortcomings. In 1985, the performance of four snap pea varieties were compared in a trial at the UNL Horticulture Garden in Lincoln.

"Sugar Ann" (you'll see it sold as "Sugar Mel" and "Sugar Rae") is a dwarf version of "Sugar Snap" and reaches only 2 1/2 feet in height. It also bears two weeks earlier. The flavor is very similar to "Sugar Snap." Unfortunately, like many dwarf varieties, the smaller version yields less than the taller version.

ALTHOUGH THIS variety is advertised as being self-supporting, it will not stand up to the winds of Nebraska. (For easier harvesting and fewer diseases, all peas should be trellised or supported.) "Sugar Ann" does have a longer harvest season, and is ideal for the gardener who prefers small pickings over a longer time.

"Sugar Daddy" was released in 1985 as the stringless descendant of the original "Sugar Snap." "Sugar Daddy" showed poor germination in the UNL trial. Its pods were stringless as advertised, and were more tender than "Sugar Snap." Some seed catalogs continue to carry this variety, but few mention that it should be planted more thickly than other peas because of the decreased germination.

Burpee released its newest version this year. Called "Snappy," it reaches over five feet high, but is well worth the trouble of trellising. "Snappy" was the stellar performer in the trial — yielding more peas than "Sugar Snap," and bearing them one week earlier. The pods of "Snappy" are slightly curved and very tender, with a milder flavor than any of the other varieties.

It's a jungle out there

SOME HOGS weave their way through tall brush on an acreage several miles south of Winside.

Chemigation the farmer's wife by Pat Matlock training program scheduled

It's the last day of the shortest month, and we just watched Nebraska defeat KU via the television set. And we are in Kansas! But it doesn't matter, because our hosts are NU alums, and they've been rooting for the Huskers, too.

When we were married, the Big Farmer had two cousins farming in the area: Don, just down the road; and Paul, north of Norfolk. Both left the farm several years ago. In fact, Mike comes from farm families on both sides, and he and one cousin in Minnesota are the only ones in this third generation still involved in agriculture.

Paul and Muri live on an acreage near Topeka. So when we knew Don would be going to the NAAIA meet in Kansas City, we made plans to visit. Friday morning was drizzly. There was snow to the west. When we got in to the car at noon, it wouldn't start. A quick trip from the service station

The Nebraska Department of Environmental Control has asked the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Nebraska to provide educational training for people interested in being certified by their Department in order to apply fertilizers and pesticides through irrigation systems.

This is part of the necessary requirements in order to comply with the new NEBRASKA CHEMIGATION ACT which became effective January 1, 1987.

Because of the short time frame between the signing of the contractual agreement with the Department of Environmental Control and the upcoming 1987 season, the Cooperative Extension Service is currently making a special effort to insure all prospective chemigators have access to training prior to spring field work. Therefore several sessions will be conducted throughout Northeastern Nebraska in mid-March.

Training will be held on Tuesday, March 10, at 8 a.m. in the Wayne City Auditorium and at 1 p.m. at the North Research and Extension Center in Concord. Sessions are approximately four hours in length.

According to the law, all chemigation applicators are required to attend a training session and pass a written examination for eligibility for certification by the Department of Environmental Control. Interested persons "must" preregister at the Extension Office (in person or by mail) by filling out an application form in order to obtain study materials helpful in preparation for successful passing of the written examination.

Also a $15 fee (check or money order, payable to the University of Nebraska—no cash please) must accompany the application form. Forms are also available at the Natural Resources District offices.

Additional training meetings may not be available until next fall. Bring a pocket calculator and the pink copy of your application form to the training session.

revealed a burned-out bell, and we left at 1:00.

We went through Tekamah, over the river at Blair, and headed south on I-29. By careful reading of the map and remembering what the coach had told us, we were able to get off at the right exit and drive straight to the municipal auditorium. Inside the entrance, a man offered two free tickets.

From there, we took a turnpike to Lawrence, where our hosts met us and led us to their home. A quick visit to the hot tub and we fell into bed.

We've been watching the rain, eating, and visiting all day today. There was a quick tour by the capitol, the Governor's Mansion, Capper Foundation, and Mannings. Had not stopped to think that Mom's Capper's Weekly originates here. So does Washburn University, whose teams, the Ichobods, play Wayne State regularly.

We had a little travelogue to Spain by way of slides they took there last fall. There were some beautiful sights of marble palaces, white-washed houses, olive trees and ceramic-tile sidewalks.

One slide featured a "Nebraska" restaurant. There were a chain of six in Grenada, and they never did find out who owned them, or how they came to be there.

When they came home from Spain, their faithful beagle had gone to the great kennel in the sky. They now have a young Bassett hound named Maggie who is incorrigible. She loves the Big Farmer, and crawls all over him. She also loves popcorn, and is helping us eat it.

Tomorrow it's back home and back to work. The snow has missed us again. Topeka is a nice place to visit, but you wouldn't want to live here. They can't get KFAB and Big Red football broadcasts.

Unless grain is excessively wet, farmers should wait until mid-March before running the fans in their natural air drying bins.

December, January and February provided ample drying time, Pierce noted.

THE SPRING objective, beginning in mid-March when temperatures rise significantly, is to start a secondary drying zone to bring the moisture content of the top layer down to 15.5 percent, or 14 percent if the grain will be held long-term.

Given 18 percent moisture throughout the bin and a fan rated at one CFM per bushel — 10 horsepower for a 10,000-bushel bin — drying will require three-to-four weeks of continuous fan operation. Many bins, Pierce said, are drier this year, with top-layer moisture at 18 percent and the bottom half basically dry. These bins will require just one-to-two weeks of continuous fan operation.

Most operators, he said, have accomplished their fall objective of lowering moisture content to less than 18 percent. Good weather in

Wait until mid-March

Don't run drying fans

Unless grain is excessively wet, farmers should wait until mid-March before running the fans in their natural air drying bins.

According to University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural engineer Richard Pierce, the mild winter has led some operators to turn their fans on during the day and then turn them off at night when temperatures drop.

"That is absolutely a mistake," Pierce said. "During winter, when we're going to hold the grain for two or three months, it's critical to keep the grain cool so it doesn't go out of condition."

By running fans on winter days, operators move a drying front through the bins. But the air does not move quickly enough through the warm grain. "Some bins have started to heat in the 17-percent moisture range, which normally we could hold quite easily over the winter," Pierce said.

Reduced horsepower-to-bushel ratios increase drying time.

Winter operation of fans makes sense, Pierce said, only when moisture levels are extremely high. "Although we've had mild conditions all winter," he said, "I still see a few bins with 20 or 21 percent moisture on top. Those bins should have been dried out months ago, but if they're still at that level, it's definitely time to get the fans going and get the moisture back down."

Unless the weather turns much colder, bin operators with very wet grain should turn their fans on now and make certain that the drying zone moves through the bin before the grain goes out of condition, Pierce said.

But in all other cases, he stressed, operators should wait until mid-March.

More pets needed

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation by Cheryl Stubbendieck, vice president/information.

It's been said that if every American would just drink one more glass of milk a day, we wouldn't have a dairy surplus problem.

Maybe we're on to something here. If every American would just eat one more bushel of corn a week...

Maybe not.

Milk is food, corn is feed. Maybe what we need is more family pets in America.

Not more dogs and cats per se—there's plenty to go around in animal shelters across the country. But if every family brought one home and started buying cans and bags of pet food every week, we could think about clearing land for more corn and wheat acres. Instead of wondering how to store and dispose of our surpluses.

Ever think about what's in dog food and cat food? As an alumna of Cat Food Can Buyers of America, I can tell you that a mouse gets into one of those little cans only by mistake. Nope, what's in there is stuff like poultry, meat, wheat flour, liver, soybean meal, dried whey. They pack a lot into those little round cans. Good thing, too; cat food can cost more per pound than what the family is eating.

There's ground yellow corn, dry skimmed milk, ground wheat, corn gluten meal, animal fat and soybean meal. Yes, it's true, America's cats are eating America's farm commodities, to the tune of some 900 million pounds of dry food a year.

I have been owned by cats, but have never owned a dog, so what I know about dog food is secondhand. I have it on good authority, though, that dog food is similar to cat food, only the cans are taller and they cost less.

Our friend Fido is eating such things as beef, high fructose corn syrup, soybean meal, soybean grits, wheat flour, chicken skins, and dried cheddar, cheese solids. And those snack bone things are said to contain corn, beef, wheat flour, corn gluten meal, and, surprise—bone meal.

If every family added a pet, just think of how quickly the commodities we have in surplus could be gobbled up. And consider all of the new jobs created in the pet food processing industry to supply the demand.

Extremely patriotic families might want to add two pets, maybe even more, and this would be okay; maybe they could even get a tax credit. But there would have to be one invariable rule: No fair feeding table scraps. Think about it.

It's a modest proposal.

FARM TILING

Do you have a farm worth $350 per acre with some wet unproductive acres on it or a wet area along a waterway app. 30 by 1200 ft.? With just 12 rows lost you have app. 1 acre of unproductive land. Did you know that 1 acre of this wet land is actually costing you app. $43.00 per acre per year or app. $430.00 per acre every ten years by not having it tilled out?

Example: $350.00 per acre at 6% = $33.00
Average land tax per acre = $10.00
= $43.00

Most every farm has two to 40 acres of wet ground along waterways, bottoms, and potholes that either can't be farmed or it doesn't pay to try to farm it. A few lines of drain tile would make this ground as productive as the rest. Leaving this land untilled is costing you $40 to $50 per acre per year to own it, and remember this cost is coming off the profit on your other acres.

Free estimates on jobs. References furnished — Forty years in the drain tiling business.

Q: What's the best color for sunglass lenses? How dark should they be?
A: Good color choices for sunglasses are gray, which does not modify colors, or green. Brown is also okay for most people. Sun lenses should screen out 75 to 90% of light; be perfectly matched in color and absorption; and be free of distortion and imperfection.

If you can see your eyes through your sunglass lenses, they probably are not dark enough. This test, of course, won't work with light-sensitive lenses. With them, look for manufacturers' labels telling how much light they screen out in their darkest state. Whether or not you wear prescription glasses, your optometrist can advise you about such sunglasses features as ultraviolet protection, polarizing lenses, light-sensitive lenses, lens coatings, lens tints and plastic vs. glass lenses. He or she can also provide prescription sunglasses, if you need them.

Five qualify for forensic nationals

Five members of the forensics team at Wayne State College of Nebraska have qualified for the National Forensic Association Championships in Mankato, Minn., April 22-27, following successful performances in a state tournament in Seward Feb. 21.

One of the five students, Dave Whitt of Marquette, Mich., also qualified for the Interstate Oratory National Contest to be held May 7-8 at the University of Maryland.

The five students qualified for the national tournament in Mankato by placing high in the rankings at the Nebraska Intercollegiate Forensics Association State Championship Tournament at Concordia College in Seward.

RAE BROWN OF WAKEFIELD, a fourth grade teacher at Thurston Elementary School, represented the Pender-Thurston school system in the Outstanding Young Educator contest held recently at Sidney. Pictured with Brown are two of her students, Shannon Kelly and Jeremy Olsson.

Area teacher nominated for award

A Wakefield woman, 35-year-old Rae Brown, represented the Pender-Thurston school system in the Outstanding Young Educator contest held Feb. 14 at Sidney.

Brown, a fourth grade teacher at Thurston Elementary School, was nominated to compete for the statewide honor by the Pender Jaycees organization.

The Outstanding Young Educator contest is sponsored each year by the Nebraska Jaycees, with the winner of the state contest eligible to compete in the national contest.

Brown received a plaque at the awards ceremony held in Sidney.

BROWN HAS been teaching since graduating from Wayne State College with a degree in elementary education in 1972—three years after graduating from Wakefield High School.

All of her teaching experience has been in the Pender-Thurston school system. She taught fifth grade from 1972 to 1976 before moving to fourth grade in 1977.

In addition, she worked with a group of gifted-talented students during the summer of 1985.

BROWN, WHO has 30 hours of college credit toward her master's degree, has been active in a variety of professional groups and organizations.

She has attended numerous seminars and workshops on everything from teacher salary negotiations to gifted students.

She also belongs to several professional organizations, including the National Education Association and the Nebraska State Education Association.

In the local Pender Education Association, Brown has served as negotiator, treasurer, building representative and co-president.

SHE AND HER husband Gene reside on a farm northwest of Wakefield.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER
World Day of Prayer celebrates its centennial tomorrow (Friday) with the theme "Come and Rejoice." The service will be held at the Evangelical Covenant Church at 2 p.m. All area women are invited to attend.

A 100-year prayer movement of global dimensions, World Day of Prayer is a world-wide expression of mutual prayer and Christian unity.

World Day of Prayer offerings make possible, in part, the mission of Church Women United including the Intercontinental Grants of Mission program that funds national and international projects in support of the empowerment of women, human right, justice and peace.

SCOUT FUND DRIVE ON
Local Boy Scout Troop 172 and Cub Scout Pack 172 are assisting in the Mid-American Council campaign to recruit citizens for the sustaining membership enrollment drive.

About 43 percent of the council support comes from sustaining memberships. All of the donations go toward supporting the chartered organization, campgrounds, scout programs and the scout office.

In Wakefield, cards are being distributed to citizens and businesses that have contributed in the past. Anyone else wanting to make a tax-deductible contribution can get a card from Duane Tappe, local scoutmaster. Donations can also be turned in to Duane and he will forward them to the office in Omaha.

Donations of any size can also be mailed directly to the Mid-American Council, B.S.A., 519 S. 15th St., Omaha, Neb. 68102.

Local fundraisers for troop and pack use include the selling of fireworks and tickets to the annual Scout-a-Rama.

LEGION FUNDRAISER
Currently the American Legion Post 81 fundraiser is slightly over two-thirds of the way to its goal of $6,000. Over $4,000 has been raised and put toward the debt retirement. This has been achieved with several fundraisers and numerous donations from Legion members and friends of the post.

Donations are still welcome and can be given to any Post 81 member or mailed to post treasurer Dennis Meyer of Wakefield.

The post raised over $800 on Feb. 21 at the pork feed and smoker. This money will be used for the purchase of new baseball uniforms for the Legion teams, and will not go towards the debt retirement.

SENIOR CITIZENS CENTER
In observance of Black History Month, Pastor Floyd Brown of Sioux City was the speaker on Feb. 19 at the Wakefield Senior Citizens Center. He told a little about some black heroes and also shared some of his experiences growing up in a segregated society.

Pastor Schult's message on Feb. 20 was about fears and how to deal with them.

"Love Those Trains" was the VCR tape shown on Feb. 23.

LIBRARY WORKSHOP
Chris Wilbur and Mary Brudigam attended a library workshop on Feb. 10. The workshop was held at Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk.

The all-day event included sessions on book selection and ordering, plus reviews of children, young adult and adult books.

Mrs. Wilbur and Mrs. Brudigam are both current members of the Graves Public Library Board.

TOP COOKIES-SELLERS
Over 2,000 boxes of Girl Scout cookies arrived in Wakefield Feb. 24. Anyone who was missed during the cookie sales, or anyone who would like additional cookies, there are additional boxes available. To purchase some contact Mary Brudigam at 287-2756.

ADVISORY COUNCIL
The Winside Advisory Council met Thursday at the high school library. Dianne Jaeger, Council president, conducted the business meeting. Carol Blomfield gave the secretaries report.

Discussed were current adult education classes. It was suggested we look into instructors for classes in knitting and crocheting, quilting, crafts, and minor electrical wiring. Members decided it would be best to start these in the fall of 1987. If you are interested in any of these or have other suggestions, please contact Mr. Ron Leapley, high school principal or Dianne Jaeger, as classes need a minimum number of students.

Nebraska State Patrol Trooper Bref Friesz of Norfolk then presented a program on Drugs and Alcohol Awareness in our area. He gave a slide presentation of actual drugs and paraphernalia confiscated within a 20 mile radius of our area. He discussed prevention, and intervention of the problem.

A similar program will be presented to the Winside students grades 7-12 on Tuesday, March 24 at 2:30 p.m. Iowa State Trooper Michael Gilbert will present the program on "Drug and Alcohol Awareness". He is public information officer and is being sponsored by the Nebraska Safety Center at Kearney. Parents of Students are welcome to attend.

Mr. Leapley will be attending the annual Center for Continuing Education Conference April 29-30 at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. Title of the conference is "Excellence in Education". Our school would like to invite a parent to accompany him to this conference. If you would be interested, please contact Mr. Leapley 286-4465 for further details.

The next advisory Council meeting will be Thursday March 26 at the high school library 7:30 p.m. Mr. Mark Freburg and Miss Jill Stenwall, physical education instructors, will be explaining our school's P.E. programs in grades K-12. All parents and taxpayers of the Winside school district are welcome to attend.

The Golden Years

by Gil Haase

Who feels better, old people or young? The surprising results of a Louis Harris and Associates poll are that, in general, younger Americans have more common complaints about their health than seniors. Last year, 85 percent of the young people surveyed reported that they'd had at least one headache, compared with just 50 percent of people over 65. Younger people also suffered more stomach aches, more muscle pains, dental pains and backaches. The only area in which seniors showed a higher incidence of common complaints was joint pain; 71 percent of older people experienced it, compared with just 41 percent of younger people.

The bathroom is no place to keep your medications, Dr. Arthur I. Jacknowitz, a pharmacy professor at West Virginia University, warns in a recent article. Steam from a bath or shower, he writes, can cause drugs to spoil or lose their effectiveness. Some medications require refrigeration; most should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place such as a linen closet or kitchen cabinet.

Remember When? June 11, 1947 - World War II sugar rationing came to an end.
