Sales tax information meeting conducted

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

About 56 people attended an informational meeting on the 1 1/2 percent city sales tax issue, which took place Tuesday morning at The Black Knight.

Cliff Ginn served as moderator to a panel consisting of Norfolk City Administrator Mike Nolan; Norfolk Chamber of Commerce President Virgil Froehlich; John Vakoc, Sam Schroeder and Grant Ejlingson; Wayne City Administrator Phil Kloster; and Wayne Mayor Wayne Marsh.

Voters in Wayne will be deciding on May 12 whether or not to approve the 1 1/2 percent sales tax.

Prior to the question-answer segment of the informational meeting, Vakoc provided opening comments. He said excessive property taxes can be a deterrent to home ownership and a deterrent to economic development.

Vakoc said the city sales tax revenue is committed to property tax relief. He regarded the city sales tax as a way to broaden the city's tax base.

"He commented on the Wayne City Council's recently passed ordinance which pledges the 1 percent city sales tax portion to be used for reduction of real estate taxes in Wayne, and the 1/2 percent to be disbursed from the general fund of the city for economic development."

The ordinances mention that a property tax relief assurance committee and an economic development advisory committee will be appointed by the mayor to review and audit the use of the city sales tax revenue and to insure compliance.

Vakoc said that if the city's financing for economic development was determined solely by future funded grants and revenue sharing, or solicited private contributions, the city would be "out of the hunt."

THE CITY SALES TAX proves two issues, he said. They are, he said, "to have a broader tax base support of city services and to provide a viable economic program for the community."

Among the questions raised concerned how the city sales tax would be applied to individuals outside the city limits. City Administrator Kloster said that if an item is purchased on delivery at a farm place outside the city's corporate limits, "then technically there is no sales tax on that item."

The city sales tax would be imposed on the same transactions at which the state of Nebraska is authorized to impose a tax.

Another question was asked about whether the city could reduce its budget as a means to lower property taxes or to create funding for economic development.

Mayor Marsh said the current city budget was established at 9 percent below the year before.

KLOSTER ADDED that the latest figure shows the city's share of the total property tax bill is nearly 25.78 percent. Among the other entities which figure into the tax bill are the public schools; Wayne County, Natural Resource Districts and the technical schools.

"Right now we're [the city] the only entity of the local governments that has the allowable means by which we can broaden our tax base," Kloster said.

The municipal portion of the property tax revenue is divided three ways, according to Kloster — the general funds asking is .5001 per $100 valuation; .1257 per $100 valuation in askings is designated for general obligation bond or special assessment funding; and the remaining portion of asking is allocated to the Wayne Municipal Airport (.0794 per $100 valuation).

That amount totals up to .7052 per $100 valuation in municipal property taxes for the current year, according to Kloster.

He estimated that with the latest 12 month sales tax data, the city of Wayne could realize up to $275,000 in property tax relief.

A question was also asked if there were any plans in the legislature for a county sales tax.

Vakoc replied, that two bills were proposed on the county sales tax in the legislature this year, and both were killed.

NOLAN WAS asked about how the city sales tax in Norfolk has been working since its enactment in April, 1985. The people of Norfolk voted approval of the city sales tax in November, 1984.

Nolan passed out information showing that in April, 1985, $79,966 in local sales tax was collected. The latest figures (Dec. 1986) show there was $183,534 collected.

Norfolk has replaced "dollar for dollar" the municipal property tax, Nolan mentioned. In fiscal year 1984-1985, the general fund property tax was nearly $1.7 million. The fiscal 1986-87 general fund property tax for Norfolk is at $141,369.

Froehlich said that if the city of Norfolk had not received support from the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce "the issue would be dead."

"We knew what the city needed and that the chamber had to work with the city."

"There were all kinds of rumors on the streets. We had to be honest with the people, saying that dollar for dollar there will be tax relief," said Froehlich. "My property tax on my residence dropped nearly 20 percent."

Nolan said business was not driven away because of the enactment of the sales tax. "And I'll submit that it won't happen here either," Nolan said.

CURRENTLY, there are about 20 communities in Nebraska that have the local sales tax option. Kloster said that data from these communities indicate that without question, the pattern of buying in the communities with the sales tax has not shown significant changes.

Among the cities with the local sales tax option are Omaha, Lincoln, Bellevue (at 1 1/2 percent), North Platte, Lawton, Ogallala, Sidney, Gordon, Kimball, Oshkosh, Rushville, Chapell, Chadron, LaVista, Norfolk, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Crawford, Crete (at 1 percent) and Gothenburg (at 1/2 percent).

Area counties ranked among ag statistics

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Friday (March 20) marks the celebration of Ag Day, a day to give thanks to the producer of America's food supply.

"Our food supply is not only the most abundant and stable food supply in the world; it is also the lowest in price. The Indian worker spends 60 percent of his wages on food. Russia now spends about 50 percent and in the United States, we spend under 14 percent," said Jacque Cunningham, president of the Nebraska WIFE (Women Involved in Farm Economics).

Rod Swanson, president of the Nebraska Corn Growers Association, also said Americans spend less of their disposable income for food than anywhere else in the world. He also said agriculture continues to play an important role in supplying income or wages to a large representation. "One in five Americans draws his or her income or wages from agriculture. For every $1 a farmer spends, another $7 is generated in the broader economy. When farm income and purchasing power decline, a significant number of people working in the seed, chemical, equipment, transportation and food sectors are hurt directly," said Swanson.

HE SAID even though farm programs seem expensive, only one to two percent of the federal budget actually goes in the farmers' pocket.

This year, he said, the federal budget will be a little over a trillion dollars and farmers may receive, in actual cash, around $20 billion, according to the Department of Agriculture Economic Research Service.

State Senator Rod Johnson of Sutton, who is Nebraska's chairman of the Legislature's Agriculture Committee, said Nebraskans need to focus their attention on finding a federal solution to the nation's farm policy. Urbanites in the State, he said, already realize that their future is closely tied to the health of the ag industry.

"What's needed now is a joint effort, in the form of a legislative coalition, to find a better farm policy," Johnson mentioned.

Nebraska currently ranks first in the nation in alfalfa meal production and first in Great Northern beans production, according to 1986 figures.

Nationally, Nebraska ranks second and third in the areas of cash receipts from cattle and calves, fed cattle and calves marketed, cattle on feed, and commercial livestock slaughtered.

Also during 1986, Nebraska ranked second in sorghum silage production and dry edible beans production.

The state finished third in 1986 in corn for grain production and pinto beans production. Nebraska was ranked fourth nationally in commercial hog slaughter during 1986.

Nebraska's rye production in 1986 was ranked fifth in the nation and sugar beet production, oats production, honey production were ranked sixth.

THE STATE WAS ranked seventh in soybean production and eighth in corn silage production in 1986. In addition, Nebraska was ranked 10th in farm real estate value, 11th in all wheat production, 12th in sheep and lambs on feed, 13th in barley production, 17th in potato production and wool production, 19th in turkeys raised, and 24th in eggs produced.

And how does Wayne, Dixon and Cedar Counties rank statewide in the production of wheat, corn, sorghum and soybeans?

Figures from 1985, the latest received from the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, show Wayne County ranked 17th among the 93 Nebraska counties in soybean production; Cedar County ranked 14th and Dixon County ranked 33. The top soybean producing county was Saunders County.

A REVIEW OF sorghum production shows Wayne County ranked 50th in production statewide during 1985, with Cedar and Dixon Counties ranked 67th and 68th. Gage County produced the most bushels of sorghum during 1985.

In 1985 corn production statewide, Wayne County ranked 35th, with Cedar County ranked 18th and Dixon County placing 31. Holt County had the number one ranking in corn production.

Wayne County and Dixon County had little wheat production in 1985, while Cedar County ranked 89th in production.

Said Allen G. Blezek, executive director of the Nebraska Leadership Education/Action Development (LEAD) Program: "All to often we take for granted the most favorable costs, quality and availability of agricultural products in the United States which is virtually unequalled in any other part of the world."

"American agriculture exemplifies the very best traditions of personal dedications to the enhancement of our standard of living."

Juniors get lessons in government

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Thirty six high school juniors from Wayne-Carroll and Winside were guests last Thursday of county government officials during Wayne County Government Day.

The event was sponsored by American Legion Post No. 165 and Auxiliary of Carroll; American Legion Post No. 252 and Auxiliary from Winside; and American Legion Post No. 43 and Auxiliary from Wayne.

The students attended a court session conducted by Judge James Duggan. Duggan later spoke to the students about the first ten amendments to the United States Constitution. He then administered the oath of office to the students, and the juniors then accompanied the county officials to their respective offices.

There was also a slide presentation entitled "Nebraska County Government."

About 80 people were in attendance at a noon meal prepared and served at the Wayne Vet's Club by the Winside Auxiliary.

Among those assisting with the Wayne County Government Day were Wayne County President Helen Siefker of Wayne; District III President Arlene Lundahl of Emerson; District III Vice Commander Roy Sommerfield of Wayne; Wayne American Legion Post No. 43 Commander LaVerle McDonald of Wayne; Sons of the American Legion Detachment Commander Harold E. Thompson, Jr. of Wayne; Wayne County Service Officer Wayne Dendau of Winside; American Legion No. 43 Adjutant Chris Bargholz of Wayne; District III Past President Evelyn Thompson of Wayne; and Past President Auxiliary No. 165, Edith Cook of Carroll.

WAYNE HIGH Juniors Terri Gehner and Sarah Peterson review county government material with the county commissioners.

COUNTY JUDGE James Duggan spoke to the students about the Constitution.

Vandalism occurs in county

Friday the 13th was a day of vandalism in Wayne County.

Early Friday morning, between the hours of 1 and 2 p.m., up to 13 mailboxes near Winside were vandalized.

According to LeRoy Janssen, Wayne County Sheriff, up to 13 mailboxes were damaged in a line from Winside to five miles east, two miles south and then back east again.

He said the individual(s) that did the vandalism allegedly got out of a vehicle, pulled out the mailboxes and damaged them.

The mailbox incident is still under investigation as the sheriff's department continues to check out witness reports.

Another Friday the 13th vandalism incident that is under investigation by the sheriff's department is a break-in at the home of Larry Siebrandt, located on Highway 35 just south of Wakefield.

Neither of the Siebrandts were home when the break-in occurred.

Janssen said the individual(s) had taken an axe from the Siebrandt garage, broke a window on a door to the house to gain entry into the home, then began destroying all of the electrical items in the home.

He said there has been no estimate as to how much damage was done to the electrical appliances in the home and that the incident is still under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Appointment of Karnes follows tradition

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
David Who?

That was the comment of the day last Wednesday when Gov. Kay Orr announced that she would appoint David Karnes as the next U.S. senator from Nebraska.

In appointing the 38-year-old Omaha attorney, Orr stuck with tradition. An Omaha has held one of the two Nebraska senate seats since 1911.

But her appointment defied conventional wisdom. She bypassed veteran politicians. Reps. Hal Daub, R-Second District, and Doug Bereuter, R-First District, and Omaha attorney Kermit Brashear—who all hankered for the senate seat.

Who ran second to Orr in the gubernatorial primary.

Even as they were analyzing the traditional field of candidates, Karnes and his wife Elizabeth were pondering the pro's and con's of the senate appointment offered that morning by Orr.

At 7:30 Tuesday evening he accepted the Orr appointment. And the next morning David, Elizabeth and their four young, curly-headed daughters met the state house reporters at a news conference. It was a picture perfect family that Orr said, represents "what Nebraska is all about."

He is a Republican who labels himself fiscally conservative. In interviews last week Karnes had no major disagreements with any of President Reagan's positions. He supports a constitutional amendment banning abortion, aid to the Contras in Nicaragua and Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative.

Karnes is a senior vice president and general counsel of Scouler Co. of Omaha, an agribusiness firm. He also serves as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Topeka, KS, which regulates savings and loan associations in Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma.

Karnes was active in Orr's gubernatorial campaign as campaign manager for the Second Congressional District, but he has not run for nor held an elected office himself. This is not necessarily a disadvantage, he told reporters.

"I think I have good judgment and common sense. I think that's what characterizes Nebraskans anyway."

BOTH KARNES and his wife worked in Washington D.C. for two years from 1981 to 1983. They returned to Nebraska "because Nebraska is the best place to live and raise a family."

Family concerns were an issue in their decision to accept the appointment. They called Washington acquaintances, including Vice President George Bush, to find out about the pressures Washington life places on young families. "It's not the easiest place to be a good person, and family is number 1 with me," he said.

David who? Karnes has a big job ahead of him gaining statewide name recognition before the 1988 senate race. Already the political pundits are predicting he won't make it through the primary.

Letters welcome

During the past few weeks this newspaper has received numerous letters to the editor regarding a wide variety of topics.

We think it is important that people, other than those that write for our publication, have the opportunity to express their opinions. We encourage letters to the editor because they are widely read by our subscribers and one of the most popular features of the newspaper — according to returned survey results that The Wayne Herald has received.

Last October The Wayne Herald began the practice of sending out a survey, with their renewal notice, which lists many features of the newspaper. Subscribers were asked to mark the features that they enjoy, and comment on any changes which they would like to see.

The surveys continue to come in. And what we do notice is that at least one out of every three surveys returned have markings where letters to the editor is listed.

What we simply ask is that the letters do not endanger the writer, or this newspaper, in any way or form in regard to libel statements (or anything else that could end up as a lawsuit). We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter, primarily for protection purposes.

There have been times were we have been criticized about allowing the author's name to be omitted if so desired. The purpose of this practice is to allow individuals the opportunity to air their viewpoint without fear of the consequences.

But we do encourage people to sign their names to their letters, if they strongly believe in the point they try to get across.

All letters that come to us still must be signed by the author. Unsigned letters simply will not be printed. We encourage you to keep on writing to us.

NACI endorses economic development tax bill

The policy making body of the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry (NACI) voted to endorse Governor Kay Orr's Economic Development Tax bill during a meeting on Friday, March 13, 1987, in Lincoln. The bill, LB773, was introduced on Tuesday before the 1987 session of Nebraska's 90th Legislature.

Robert Harris, NACI Chairman of the Board, said the NACI leadership endorsed Governor Orr's plan because of its far-reaching promise for economic growth and the creation of new jobs in Nebraska. "If passed total; this bill will send a signal to the nation's business community that Nebraska is a great place to start and to expand businesses," Harris said.

Under provisions of the bill, any qualified business could receive several tax incentives by creating at least 30 new jobs and investing $3 million or by making a new $20 million investment in the business. The incentives that would be available include (1) a refund of all sales tax on depreciable property used in connection with the business; (2) an option to use a sales only factor in computing the business' income attributable to Nebraska; (3) a jobs creation credit on 5% of the payroll of the new jobs created for seven years; (4) an investment credit of 10% for seven years on the investment in depreciable property used in connection with the business. The tax credits could be carried over for up to 15 years from the date of qualification and be used against any business income tax due or sales tax paid by the business.

The governor's bill also includes a provision that would allow for a limited capital gains exclusion for persons who sell stock they have gained during the course of employment with a corporation that has done business in Nebraska for a minimum of three years.

Additionally, NACI endorsed three other bills in the Governors package — LB773, income tax revision; LB772, changes in the unitary tax; and LB270, which increases credits and the Employment Expansion and Investment Incentive Act.

out of old nebraska

The life of a minister in Nebraska Territory could be extremely frustrating. His parishioners were scattered over large areas and many seemed more interested in crops than Christ.

The hardships of one such minister, Amos S. Billingsley, are reflected in excerpts from his diary, a copy of which is now in the archives of the Nebraska State Historical Society. Billingsley was sent west by the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions and lived in Florence during 1856-1857. He served various congregations in Douglas and Washington counties.

- July 23, 1857 "...Two drinking places opened lately—the year is passing. What am I doing? What Good? Not been as I know of, instrumental in saving one soul this year. Lord, who hath believed or reported? I am afraid I will not be as useful out here as in the East. The Lord help and direct me."
- August 10, 1857 "Just returned from a preaching tour. Left DeSoto this afternoon. Preached three times yesterday. A mighty tempest arose last night while preaching. ...Some persons much alarmed. I was not afraid. Had to quit preaching. Went through mud and wet grass and slept in a post office on a wet floor. Took no cold."
- August 24, 1857 "Preached yesterday three times in three different places. Florence, Calhoun, and DeSoto. Rode 15 miles."
- September 17, 1857 "Sab. Eve. Too late getting to the church—detained crossing river—people nearly all waited over half an hour."
- October 4, 1857 "...Day rainy, streets muddy. The other two all, Shame! A Sin. People of Florence stayed from church on a wet day. The Lord forgive their sins of omission. I don't like these dry weather Christians. If I had no more love for the cause than to be kept home by a little rain, I would fear I had none at all."
- October 18, 1857 "Sab. No preaching today in Florence—no turn out. God have mercy on the people."
- November 19, 1857 "Preached three times last Sab, and rode 15 miles. Best attendance in DeSoto ever saw there. Good attention and order. Several new families lately arrived. Writing on 'Lovest Thou me'—Good text. I fear too many me too easy satisfied with their mere hopes of salvation."
- December 31, 1857 "For the last time 1857—another year just closing—gone forever—Day warm—very pleasant. Most pleasant Dec. ever saw. Street dusty. Seen many strange things. Much sin—much country. Told story across many places. Don't know as any have been converted through it. It may be the most profitable year of my ministry."
- March 12, 1858 "a year today since I left Pittsburgh, Pa., for Florence, Neb. There have been many things strange and new. Time seems short. How many souls have instrumentally saved. God only knows."

Passage of bill would result in loss of road fund revenues

by Senator Elroy Hefner

With the Legislature completing just over one-third of this ninety-day session, we have passed and the Governor has signed 100 bills. 105 bills have been indefinitely postponed.

Traditionally, the sales tax collected on motor vehicle sales has been deposited into the Highway Trust Fund. This Fund is used to construct state highways, county roads, and city streets. It is based on the principle that revenue raised from the sale of vehicles ought to be used to construct good roads.

Last year the Legislature temporarily diverted some of the motor vehicle sales tax to the General Fund for the support of general government operations.

The Revenue Committee advanced LB 470 for debate before the full Legislature by a 5-3 vote. It is a bill which continues this diversion created last year for an indefinite time period. If the bill passes, it will mean a break in the principle that motor vehicle sales tax should be used for road and street construction. It will result in a $2.8 million loss for state highways and $1.3 million loss for county roads and city streets. I opposed the bill because I feel that we need those funds to improve our state highways, county roads and city streets.

Another bill would also remove funds from the Highway Trust Fund. This bill which would shift the $8.4 million State Patrol road safety enforcement program from the General Fund to the Highway Trust Fund is becoming a perennial battle in the Legislature. Money in the Highway Trust Fund comes from the gasoline tax and sales tax on automobiles. Money in the General Fund comes from general sales tax and income tax receipts.

Proponents of LB 230 feel that this part of the Nebraska State Patrol budget should be moved over to the Highway Trust Fund because they are a cost of the highway system. The Nebraska State Patrol is receiving $20.4 million this fiscal year from the state's General Fund, whereas many other states finance their patrols with highway funds.

Opponents of LB 230 feel passage of this measure would lead to the depletion of the Highway Trust Fund which is vital to the construction and upkeep of the state road system.

The bill is still under consideration by the Appropriations Committee.

Leaders

A disservice

The Nebraska Bankers Association (NBA) is engaged in an hypocrisy. Its President, C.G. Hollhus, piously scolds Initiative 300 supporters for wanting to keep corporate cattle feeding out of Nebraska. (Opinion, March 2), lecturing us all the time about the virtues of competition. But at the same time, NBA's lobbyists are scurrying throughout the capitol stonewalling legislation that would permit interstate banking, multi-bank holding companies, or any other form of competition for local banks. Mr. Hollhus and the NBA want to deny to 80,000 family farmers the very protection from unfair competition that they so zealously insist for three or four hundred bankers. They do a great disservice to the capability of our state's business leaders with such two-faced posturing.

Courthouse figures

I would like to take this opportunity to explain that the figures used in my recent letter regarding city sales tax came from the courthouse. The county treasurer's office assisted in getting the base figures.

Mayor Marsh was very quick to say that facts and figures in recent letters are all wrong. However, he didn't give us any hard facts to let us know what property tax relief we might expect from a city sales tax. Let's see it in print so that rumors are dispelled.

Soybean markets crucial

The Administration is considering proposals to offer 260,000 metric tons of vegetable oils to Turkey, Algeria, Morocco, and Tunisia under the Export Enhancement Program. I have written to Secretary of State George Schultz to strongly urge that the State Department approve this Export Enhancement Program offer.

The large decline in U.S. agricultural exports has been one of the major factors contributing to our troubled farm economy. The condition of the export market can make the difference between having a viable or non-viable rural economy. Soybeans are one of the four primary crops grown in Nebraska, and over one-half of the soybeans grown in Nebraska and in the nation are exported. Producers offer 260,000 metric tons of vegetable oils under the Export Enhancement Program would equal approximately 52 million bushels of soybeans. That is over half the amount of soybeans produced last year in Nebraska.

Without our action, there is little doubt that the European Community will continue to capture these soybean oil markets by using large export subsidies. We cannot afford to stand by and watch the European Community capture these markets for their own benefit.

marketplace for agricultural products. It does not make sense to implement policies that encourage the over production of grain, while undercutting the United States in the world agricultural marketplace, simply to dispose of EC surpluses.

This first Export Enhancement Program offer of vegetable oil is an opportunity that we cannot afford to miss. As I told Secretary Schultz, it is crucial for the American soybean industry.

Doing Business With The Federal Government

As the largest purchaser of goods and services in the world, the Federal government buys everything from paper clips to jet aircraft. Nebraska businesses, however, may be missing out on these sales opportunities because they are either unaware of the government's needs, or confused by the procurement and bidding process.

To assist Nebraska businesses, I am sponsoring a Federal Procurement Conference on March 27, 1987, at the Hilton Hotel in downtown Lincoln, Nebraska.

This one-day conference is specifically designed to help smaller businesses understand Federal procurement procedures, and it will provide the information and instructions on how to increase the chances of selling products or services to the Federal government.

It is not necessary to be a major contractor to profit from this seminar. The Department of Defense buys more than just planes, ships, and tanks. The Department and its prime contractors also buy thousands of other items and services from large and small businesses all across the country.

Representatives from several Federal and state agencies also will be available throughout the conference for one-on-one consultations to explain government programs and policies—and to help solve problems that participants may be having with these government agencies.

'Learning Willpower for Weight Control' course set at Providence Medical Center

"Learning Willpower for Weight Control," an eight-week class, will be offered beginning Tuesday, March 24 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne as part of the hospital's wellness program.

Instructor Verlyn Anderson, a registered nurse at Providence Medical Center, said classes each week will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the hospital's dining room.

THE "LEARNING Willpower for Weight Control" class costs $90 for eight weeks and includes a binder of materials, diet and exercise diaries, calorie counters' book, and audio cassette tape as well as class instruction.

This is a one-time fee, and anyone wishing to take the class more than once can do so at no additional cost.

Anderson said the first session, on March 24 at 7:30 p.m., will be a free introductory class.

Pre-registration is not required, however anyone wishing additional information may contact Anderson at Providence Medical Center, 375-3800.

ANDERSON SAID the "Learning Willpower for Weight Control" class is unique because it deals totally with behavior instead of concentrating on how many pounds are lost each week.

"Even dieters who successfully reduce often lose their so-called willpower once their goal is reached, and find the pounds beginning to return," said Anderson, adding "If you learn to change your behavior, your weight will change accordingly."

The instructor said the reason failure outweighs success is that people never learn the long-term meaning of willpower.

"They only perceive it as a temporary condition, so they never actually change their behavioral patterns or alter their psychological mindset."

ANDERSON, WHO recently returned from Omaha where she attended a course certifying her to teach the class, said the program particularly appealed to her because it teaches people sensible eating habits and points out the problems inherent in fad diets and quick-loss plans.

"They've proven that dieting can actually make you fatter," Anderson said.

"Starvation or extremely low calorie diets — particularly those below 1,000 calories a day — don't get at the heart of the problem which is learning to live differently on a day-to-day basis."

Anderson also pointed out that losing and regaining weight constantly is more harmful to your health.

"When you lose weight too fast, you lose muscle and connective tissue as well as fat and water. And your body's metabolism actually slows down to conserve energy, making it more difficult to lose and causing you to regain the weight more quickly."

IN ADDITION, Anderson pointed out that most diet plans place the responsibility for weight loss on the plan, not the dieter.

They promote a certain weight loss within a time frame and the dieter is rigorously monitored. However, when the weight loss is achieved, the dieters haven't learned to be responsible for their own bodies and so they return to old eating patterns.

"We don't weigh you on this program," stressed Anderson. "You're responsible for monitoring your own weight."

"We don't want you starving a day or two before class to look good on the scale, and then feeling so deprived that you leave class and head for the nearest restaurant to binge."

A GOOD DIET, said Anderson, should be well-balanced with foods from the four food groups. It should have flexibility and choice, no forbidden foods, no skipped meals, and no radical changes in lifestyle. It should also include an increase in physical activity and a focus on changing eating habits.

Anderson pointed out, however, that losing weight involves more than just following a sensible diet plan. It also means changing your mindset and learning to think differently.

"When you learn to think differently, your behavior will change accordingly."

ANDERSON SAID the "Learning Willpower for Weight Control" course will include several tools to help participants learn to accomplish these goals.

"This program encourages you to change your self-concept. Too many people let their inability to lose weight alter their self-concept, and they think of themselves as losers so they program themselves to fail."

"Think thin thoughts," said Anderson. "Act like a thin person."

NCAA tourney selections

Well college basketball fans we're down to the "Sweet 16." Four dozen teams have been eliminated since the NCAA tournament began last Thursday. Among them are such traditional basketball powerhouses as Kentucky, Houston, Michigan, Georgia Tech, UCLA and North Carolina State.

On the other side of the ledger unnotables like Providence, Florida and Wyoming keep their hopes of grabbing the brass ring alive.

Kansas and Oklahoma keeps the Big Eight's hopes alive while Iowa and Indiana have escaped elimination in the Big 10.

By late Friday evening only eight will remain and by next week we'll be down to the famed Final Four. The semifinal games are scheduled for March 28 in New Orleans with the national championship game set for March 30 in the Superdome.

It wasn't going to allow myself to make my predictions unless I hit 50 percent or better on my state tourney picks last week. Unfortunately for you I picked three champions correctly, Aurora in Class B, Fremont Bergan in Class C-1 and Clearwater in Class D-2, in the six championship games.

So here we go! Starting in the Southeast Region, Alabama will get by Providence and Georgetown will down Kansas. The Hoyas' depth will allow them to down the Tide and advance to the Final Four.

In the East Region Dean Smith and North Carolina will avenge an earlier loss to Notre Dame that knocked them out of the top spot. Syracuse will dump Florida on the strength of playing in its own backyard, East-Rutherford, New Jersey.

In the Eastern final Carolina will run it up on the Orangemen and head south to N'Orleans.

It will be UNLV in the West Region. The Runnin' Rebels will end Cinderella Wyoming's season Friday night. They will meet Oklahoma after the Sooners nudge Iowa in a high-scoring affair. UNLV is still hot at OU for giving the Rebels their only loss of the season.

The last Final Four spot will be gained by my darkhorse, DePaul. The Blue Demons will down LSU in the Midwest semifinals. Joey Meyer's gang will battle and edge Indiana in the region finals after the Hoosiers have eliminated last year's runner-up Duke in the semi's Friday night.

I'm picking the Tar Heels to edge Georgetown in the semifinals. The game will be a rematch of the 1982 National Championship game in which Carolina won in the closing seconds. In the other semifinal contest UNLV will get past DePaul in an up and down game.

In the final game Freddie Banks' three-point bombs will be too much for the Heels as the Runnin' Rebels will finally reach the summit of college basketball.

Of course you realize if my picks miss the mark I'll do it all over again next week.

Can you believe it? The Cornhuskers keep on rolling. The 78-71 win over Arkansas Tuesday night left NU one game from the Final Four of the NIT. The game wasn't without its tense minutes. I was breathing easy for the first 25 minutes of the game but the remaining 15 minutes were the longest in the history of the game, it seemed.

But as Coach Danny Nee has said all year long his team "just found a way to win."

Saturday afternoon NU will try it again when the host 7-0 Christian Welp and the Washington Huskies, Washington, 20-14 will pose a problem but all the Huskers need is one more ugly win and they will find themselves in The Big Apple.

Congratulations to the Washburn Icebods on claiming the National Championship of the NAIA. The Bods beat Wayne State in both CSIC meetings this year.

WAYNE STATE-first baseman Mike Hoffart stretches for the ball thrown by the second baseman in the Cats' 12-5 win over Dana College.

Wayne State remains undefeated with sweep

A nine-run fifth inning enabled Wayne State to win the first game of a doubleheader sweep over Dana Saturday to run the Cats record to 12-0.

A good crowd showed up to cheer the Cats on in the team's home opener. The fans saw contrasting games. The first game, which Wayne State won 12-5, was full of runs. The second game, a 3-0 Wildcat win, was a pitchers duel.

In the opener the Cats scored the first run of the game in the first inning without collecting a hit. Paul Calvert walked, stole second and scored on an error. The hosts led 2-0 in the second inning after Dale Irving walked and eventually scored after the Dana pitcher walked three more Cats. In all, Dana pitching was responsible for 13 walks.

The Vikings tied the game at 2-2 in the fourth inning when they collected a double and a single. Wayne State put the game out of reach with the big nine-run fifth. In the inning the winners stroked five of the team's six hits. Fifteen batters went to the plate, during the inning, Irving, Monty Shultz, Dale Clayton, Mike Hoffart and Gale Bretschneider each collected RBI singles. Hoffart finished the game 2-3 with a single and a double.

The Cats closed out the scoring with a single run in the sixth frame. Jose Ruiz started the game for Wayne State. The senior hurler pitched four strong innings but excited with the score tied. Corey Weinmaster came on in the fifth and pitched one inning to earn the win. The Sidney freshman improved his record to 2-0.

The second game featured a sterling performance by pitcher Kevin Hoffart. The Madison junior went to 2-0 by tossing a three-hit shutout. He struck out three Vikings and walked one en route to the win.

The Cats took the lead with a pair of runs in the third inning. Clayton started the rally with a single. He advanced to second on a stolen base. Calvert walked to put runners on first and second. Raabe followed with a two-run single.

Wayne State finished its scoring in the sixth when Bretschneider, pinch running for Mike Hoffart, scored on a double by Randy Yarke. Yarke finished the game 2-3.

The Cats continued to run the bases well. Wayne State Coach Benny Klaver said his knew coming into the season that team speed would be one of his team's strong points. Saturday the Cats were successful on all seven of their stolen base attempts. On the year Wayne State base runners have stolen 44-46 bases.

Wayne State's game against Nebraska was postponed Tuesday because of wet grounds. The game will be made up as a doubleheader April 20 in Lincoln.

CSIC notes

Hurley only Cat on CSIC list

Scott Hurley completed a successful season for the Wayne State basketball team by being named to the CSIC All-Conference team.

Hurley, a 2 junior from Anaconda, Montana, was the only Wildcat selected to the team. He finished 10th in the conference in scoring averaging 17.7 points a game. Hurley was one of the top three-point shooters in the conference. The junior was also named to the All-District II team.

Senior Vincent White was selected to the honorable mention squad. While, of Joiner, Arkansas, was third in the conference in assists, while averaging 7.9 points a game.

CSIC champion Washburn, Missouri Southern and Emporia State all placed two men on the list. Wayne State, Ft. Hays and Missouri Western had one selection apiece and Pittsburg State didn't have a representative on the first team.

The first team had four repeat selections with Washburn's Tom Meier making the squad for the third time. The first team was dominated by seniors with seven making the list. Three juniors rounded out the top team.

First-team selections are: Marvin Chalman and Derrick Howse, Emporia State; Mark Harris, Ft. Hays; Bari Kotoed, Kearney State; Marvin Townsend and Chris Tuggle, Missouri Southern; Donli Gambrell, Missouri Western; Tom Meier and Rob Reilly, Washburn; and Scott Hurley, Wayne State.

Bob Chipman of Washburn was this year's conference coach of the year. In other honors Kotoed was named player of the year, Jerone Gambrell of Missouri Western was tabbed freshman of the year and Mark Harris was newcomer of the year.

Blue Devil golfers return strong nucleus

A very strong nucleus returns from the Wayne Blue Devils' state qualifying team of 1986.

Seven of the top eight golfers return for the upcoming season. Only Tom Perry is missing from the squad that finished seventh at the state meet held in Wayne last year. Perry is a freshman on the Central State University golf team. The school is located in Edmond, Oklahoma.

Terry Munson returns for his second season as the Blue Devils' coach. Last year Munson's squad was 5-1 in dual meets. The Blue Devils also won four invitational meets and were crowned champions at the Class B-1 district meet.

Those returning with state tournament experience are senior David Ellis, sophomores Rob Reeg, Jed Reeg and Eric Runestad. Other top returners are senior Kevin Griess and sophomores Elliot Salmon and Kevin Hausmann. Those looking to challenge are seniors Tim Griess, Dennis Mendel, Marc Rahn and Chris Straight.

Munson said tough competition for the top five spots will ultimately help his team.

"We have a very strong nucleus coming back," he said. "The competition within the squad will be interesting to determine the top five. It keeps everyone sharp and playing their best golf."

The Blue Devils will open their season on the road on March 31 with a dual meet against Oakland-Craig. The first home dual will be April 14 against Norfolk Catholic. Wayne will try to repeat as champions at the Harold Maciejewski Invitational Tournament at Wayne on May 6.

Munson said he doesn't know what to expect at the district meet. This year the Blue Devils will compete in a new district at Albion. But the coach said if things go as planned 1987 should be another solid year for the Blue Devil golf squad with the ultimate goal being the state meet in McCook on May 21.

Wayne's Don Larsen completes first season

Don Larsen, a 1986 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School, recently completed his freshman season with the Nebraska Wesleyan University basketball team.

The Plainsmen finished the year 21-7 and 7-3 in the NIAC. It marked the fourth consecutive season that Wesleyan has won or shared the NIAC title.

Larsen missed several games in his first season because of an injury. He finished the year playing in eight games. Larsen was 3-6 from the field and 1-3 from the free-throw line. He collected 12 rebounds in limited action.

Winch starts 18th year

Competition fierce for Winside

Jim Winch begins his 18th year as the girls' track coach at Winside but this season marks his first try at coaching the boys' squad in addition.

Winch said the competition again poses a problem for the Wildcats. This season, as in the past, Winside will be competing against Class C powerhouses Battle Creek, Madison and Howells. Next season the Wildcats will drop a class to Class D.

Only two seniors top the list of 23 girls on this year's squad. Christi Thies will be trying to make her way back to the state meet for the fourth year. Thies has qualified the last three years in the high jump. She hopes to top her best leap of 5-1.

Tracy Topp is the Wildcats' only other senior. Topp will be competing in the long jump and the 300-meter intermediate hurdles in addition to some relays. Topp qualified for the state meet as a freshman.

Some other top performers for Winch are junior Lisa Green in the sprints, sophomore Kristy Miller in the high jump and the 800-meter run and junior Kathy Leighton in the 1,600 and 3,200-meter runs.

Winch said the boys, although they may not have any state qualifiers, are pretty well balanced. He said they will be able to fill most of the events. This year's squad consists of 14 boys.

The Wildcats only state qualifier will be hobbled most of the season. Brent Nau, who placed second at the state meet last season in the 110-meter high hurdles, is still hampered by a knee injury he suffered last summer. Nau won't be able to participate in the hurdles but he may be able to run in some sprints by the end of the season.

Winch is also looking for some encouraging things from junior Mace Kant in the 1,600 and 3,200-meter runs, senior Kevin Jaeger in the discus and shot put, sophomore Tim Jacobsen in the sprints and freshman Max Kant in the 400-meter dash.

The Wildcats first scheduled meet is April 4 in the Coleridge Invitational at Wayne State College. Winch said a dual meet may be scheduled before the Coleridge meet. The Winside Invitational is set for April 28 at Wayne State. The Lewis and Clark Conference meet is at the college on May 9. The season will conclude with the district meet May 14 and the state meet in Omaha on May 22-23.

Hiccups Treatment

Hiccups are bursts of activity in the diaphragm muscle and other muscles that control inspiration and expiration. Causes of hiccups are numerous and almost everyone experiences them from time to time.

The list of home remedies for hiccups is almost endless. Three favorites involve holding one's breath for as long as possible, taking several small sips of water without taking a breath, and breathing into a paper bag. Some people believe that "scaring" the hiccup victim relieves hiccups. Research has not proven any of these methods to be superior to another.

In the early 1970s, a researcher determined that 19 out of 20 hiccup sufferers obtained relief by swallowing one teaspoonful of dry, granulated sugar.

Several prescription medicines have been used to end hiccups. A recent report in the New England Journal of Medicine describes the treatment of a 17-year-old boy who had experienced hiccups for approximately one year. Although a variety of techniques and medicines had been used, hiccups continued. Giving the boy the antidepressant medicine amitriptyline produced almost instant relief.

MARCH IS A GOOD TIME TO PRUNE TREES
The best time to prune live branches, particularly for deciduous trees, is generally during the late dormant season (late winter or early spring before bud break).
1. Pruning live branches on close or possible to the trunk, but do not cut behind the branch bark ridge, (this bark ridge separating it from the main stem).
2. Do not use flush cuts.
3. Do not leave branch stubs (beyond branch bark ridge).
4. If removing dead branches, do not cut into the collar that has formed at the base of the dead branch.

CONSERVATION TILLAGE GAINING
Conservation tillage was used last year on a record 32.9% of all planted acres, according to CIG's new 1986 National Survey of Conservation Tillage Practices.
The county-by-county survey reports 97.8 million acres under all forms of conservation tillage.
"we continue to see some good growth in conservation tillage practices in various parts of the country again this year, in spite of the significant drop in total acres planted," says Jim Laska, CIG Director.
