Ba-a-a-k to spring

HEATHER NICHOLS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nichols of Wayne, had the task, over recent weeks, to care for orphan twin lambs. All it takes is a bottle and some tender loving care.

Harrison sets the stage for return to teaching

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

DeWayne Harrison has traveled around the world. He has been introduced to Hollywood stars of fame and fortune. He has worked for a company that had been nominated for an Emmy Award.

But what Harrison seeks now is not the glimmer of Hollywood. What he desires is a high school drama instructor position — a career choice he first entered after his graduation from the University of Nebraska, where he received his Bachelor of Science degree majoring in Speech and English.

Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Harrison of Wayne, was a 1963 graduate of Wayne High School. He attended Wayne State College for three semesters before transferring to the University of Nebraska.

It's been about six years since Harrison had returned to Wayne. But he has been a very busy man.

Since 1984 he has worked for KTLA-TV, Setefx, and P.C. Sets based in Los Angeles, serving as a liaison person for the production or set construction companies that are responsible for the building and producing of commercials and movies.

HE HAS BEEN involved in the set construction of commercials for Honda, IBM or Mattel Toys; or rock videos by Madonna (Material Girl), Oingo Boingo (Weird Science), Pat Benatar (Invincible), Pointer Sisters (Freedom) and Janet Jackson (What Have You Done For Me); or television specials such as the Pee-wee Herman HBO Special; or movies such as "The Eye of the Tiger," "Friday the 13th-Part VI," "Hanoi Hilton," and "Halley's Comet" for the American Film Institute.

Building and doing freelance work designing sets was not his first love. Acting was.

From his teen years as a freshman to when he performed in his last high school production of "Diary of Anne Frank" during his high school senior year, Harrison had always played a part in the school productions.

He participated in the children's theatre and drama productions at Wayne State College. At the University of Nebraska, he was a theatre major.

During his teaching experience after graduation from UN-L, covering a span of 10 years in three Illinois high schools, he found out immediately that drama instructors were often responsible for constructing their own sets. "I started to like it a lot (set construction)," said Harrison.

HOWEVER, Harrison was itching to see the world. He decided to become a world-wide traveler. In 1977 he became a flight attendant for Trans World Airlines (TWA). "I wanted to see the world; I think I've now seen every free country in the world," he said.

"I wanted to fly places and see what I've been teaching all through the years," he added.

DeWayne Harrison

Harrison witnessed the set creations in Rome, Egypt and the Orient. "I could see them put the sets together, and watch what form they took. I could actually see how they worked instead of looking at pictures in books," he said.

Master contract approved by ESU board members

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

The Educational Service Unit board of directors unanimously approved a two year master contract for certified staff members during Tuesday's regular meeting.

Within the master contract are terms for salaries, benefits and terms and condition of employment for the current year (1986-87) and 1987-88.

The contract covers certified employees such as teachers, psychologists, resource people or speech therapists who must be certified with the state of Nebraska.

According to ESU 1 Assistant Administrator Rodney Garwood, the biggest changes of the master contract appear in the areas of salary increase and salary schedules.

The current base salary for an individual with a bachelor of science degree will now be $14,200, with the base at $14,700 for 1987-88. The previous base salary was at $13,200. Also, the internal index of the salary schedule has changed.

A separate salary schedule has been approved for non-degreed nurses. They will receive a base salary of $12,000, with an increase to $12,100 in 1987-88.

"The fringe benefits will essentially be the same for both years," said Garwood.

THE SALARY increases will be retroactive to Sept. 1, 1986, he added.

Representing ESU 1 Education Association in negotiations were Tom Ketterling, chairman, Sandy Kuchta, Kim Calvillo and Maria Grier. Serving on the ESU 1 board for negotiations were Claire Hansen of Coleridge, chairman, John Post of Bloomfield and Leo Kramp of Dakota City.

Salaries and benefits for the ESU 1 office manager and classified staff (which includes aides, secretaries, media personnel and custodians) will be reviewed next month. The board of directors will receive a recommendation on salaries and benefits from the ESU 1 administrator at its next meeting.

Also Tuesday evening, the ESU 1 board of directors unanimously voted to authorize the issuance of "potential RIF (Reduction In Force)" notices to four employees with the ESU 1 service district.

RIF notices will be sent to three fulltime resource teachers — Maureen Westergaard of Yankton, Diane Popple of Newcastle and Laura Straight of Wayne — and part-time resource teacher Sue Way of Ponca.

Reasons for the RIF potential, according to ESU 1 special education administrator Duane Tappe, is because one K-12 school district, and several other Class 1 schools, have not contracted with ESU 1 for services.

"It will be a headache for us with the driving distance involved," said Tappe.

"We'll end up losing some good people because all of them are very good teachers," he said.

GARWOOD SAID he was in agreement with the sending of the potential RIF notices. He said the four resource teachers have seven days to request a hearing if they desire, once they receive the notices. Within a period of 30 days, the hearings on the RIF proposals must take place.

The teachers can declare whether or not they would like to have an open or closed hearing.

In other action, the ESU 1 board of directors:

• Listened to a presentation by Carol Sheldon, physical therapist, who explained her special program which deals with handicap awareness (through the use of puppets) and rehabilitation of the physically disabled.

• Learned that ESU secretary Julie

Services set for Prather

Flags at Wayne State College flew at half-mast Wednesday following the Tuesday evening death of Frank Prather of Wayne.

He also served several years on the Wayne City Council.

The funeral service is set at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne on Friday, April 10 at 10 a.m., with burial at the Greenwood Cemetery.

A complete obituary will appear in Monday's edition of The Wayne Herald.

Wayne Herald wins newspaper awards

The Wayne Herald captured seven awards — three first places, three second places and one third place — in the annual Nebraska Press Association's annual Better Newspaper Contest.

Announcement of contest winners was made during the Awards Banquet Friday night (April 3) at the Nebraska Press Association's (NPA) 113 annual convention at Omaha's Red Lion Inn.

The Wayne Herald was second in total sweepstakes points in the weekly division, tallying 55 points. Winning the weekly newspaper sweepstakes was the Burt County Plaindealer of Tekamah, which finished with 60 total sweepstakes points among weeklies.

Upon winning the weekly sweepstakes, the Plaindealer was presented the Mack E. Cramer Award, named for the late publisher of The Wayne Herald and provided to the NPA by his son, J. Alan Cramer, current publisher of the Herald.

The North Platte Telegraph was the first sweepstakes winner in the NPA's Contest for daily newspapers. In its own division (circulation of 2,500 or more), The Wayne Herald took first place honors. Second place was won by the Cozad Tri-City Tribune with 46 points and third went to West Point News with 42 points.

Another first place was recorded in the "Best Front Page" category, which took into account an October front page judged on layout and design, newswriting, use of artwork and use of headlines.

The third first place award was won in a new category called "Best Lifestyle Section." Anderson is editor of The Wayne Herald Lifestyle Section.

Taking a second place award was a feature photograph by Managing Editor Chuck Hackenmiller of a cluster of monarch butterflies on a tree branch at the Wayne County Courthouse.

A spot news story, written by Hackenmiller, also took second place — detailing an account of a spring blizzard that took place last April.

Get the facts

Why Wayne, America? For over 100 years, individuals and families have planted or transplanted their roots into the Wayne Community. There are most likely several reasons that each of us has decided that Wayne provides for our own version of the Good Life. The reasons may include — a comfortable, clean and safe community in which to live, shop and work; a variety of businesses and services that meet nearly every need whether they are urban or rural in nature; an opportunity for pursuing business, professional or laboring occupations for the residents of Wayne and from the surrounding rural areas; good educational programs, from pre-school through adult levels; and a centralized and easy access for those living throughout the trade area.

How interested are all of you in guaranteeing that Wayne, America, will continue to provide the Good Life to those who trade, work, live and study in our community or travel through it? Hopefully you are interested enough to make an investment in the Good Life that the Wayne community can provide regardless of the part you contribute to the well-being of Wayne.

You do realize, however, that a guarantee does have a cost. Over $350,000 of the cost is an annual local obligation to fund the operation and maintenance of city streets, street lighting, police and fire protection, parks and recreation facilities, solid waste disposal, city library and community planning/development services. Another local cost obligation is the securing of funds for economic development. This program is vital if Wayne is to re-establish and stabilize an economic foundation not only for ourselves but for the future seekers of the Good Life that only Wayne can provide.

How much each of us, residents and non-residents, are willing to invest in the continuation of expected city services and our economic future through a city sales tax will be decided by the resident voters of Wayne on May 12th. During the next few weeks several facts and figures will be presented on how the 1 1/2% city sales tax issue will affect you. You will need to digest these numbers and facts to the point of becoming comfortable with them. To do this you will need to ask questions. When you do, by all means, make sure the answers you get are validated from a reliable and accurate source. This is not a time to let hearsay and assumptions determine the future of the Good Life in Wayne, America. Get the Facts—Then Decide.

No doubt John Q. will speak up

John Q. Public was the center of attention at a recent Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee hearing. Sen. Richard Peterson of Norfolk used John Q. Public liberally in promoting a Constitutional Amendment that would limit legislative sessions to 60 days.

John Q. Public thinks senators introduced too many bills, he said.

John Q. Public would not vote for a salary increase for senators unless it were tied with something like a shorter legislative session.

John Q. Public thinks 60 days a year is long enough for senators to meet.

But Sen. Lee Rupp of Monroe pointed out that John Q. Public wears many faces.

"When Coach Osborne wants a new indoor practice field John Q. Public says, 'Sure, give him a big red pad,'" Rupp said.

"When the Supreme Court throws out evidence from breath tests, the and their ideas and we'd be here 365 days a year," Rupp said.

They should want the very best," said the Hastings senator.

And Sen. Ron Wilhem of Papillion also objected to the perception built into a proposal linking shorter legislative sessions to higher senatorial salaries.

"It says, 'We now have 90 days of screwing up the state. We would have 60 days.' I feel a little more positive about the kind of job we do down here."

The committee sent a proposed Constitutional Amendment to the full Legislature for consideration. Under the amended version of LR 7, senatorial pay would be raised to $1,000 a month.

But few committee members believed the amendment would get voter approval even if it receives the blessing of the full Legislature. "I will bet anyone the biggest ice cream sundae in town that if it gets on the ballot it will die," Rupp said.

The cure for hunger: Reading, writing, and arithmetic

Though most developing countries spend a substantial share of their national budgets on education, unfortunately they just don't have enough to meet the need. Thailand and Brazil can spend only $4 per student a year on classroom materials. In Bolivia, only 80 cents per student a year is available for classroom materials. Literacy rates are over 70 percent in Bolivia, Bangladesh and many Sub-Saharan countries.

We have evidence that by improving basic educational skills we also improve nutrition and reduce hunger-related disease. Investments in primary education earn a very high rate of return. The poorer the country, the higher the payoff for teaching its citizens to read, write, and perform basic arithmetic skills. Foreign assistance programs designed to address nutrition, sanitation and health problems have a much greater chance of success among illiterate populations.

The Agency for International Development has an education account which funds basic education, secondary, postsecondary, vocational and technical education. AID funding for basic education has declined significantly since 1980, when it was almost one-third of the total AID education account. The drop for specific regions has been even more dramatic. Between 1980 and 1987, the percentage of basic education funds for Asia declined from 29 percent to 2 percent, and in Latin America and the Caribbean, the percentage went from 37 percent to 24 percent. University scholarship programs now consume 49 percent of the total fund.

Representative Tony Hall of Ohio and I have introduced a bill that would require that half of the educational account be used for basic education, which includes teaching primary school children and providing adult literacy programs. In addition, last week I was successful in adding a provision to the Foreign Aid Bill that requires that at least 30 percent of the AID education be used for basic education. This is an important step in our efforts to expand these basic education programs.

Soil Conservation Service Funding Must Continue

The Soil Conservation Service has led the battle against soil erosion

since the Dust Bowl years of the Great Depression, but the war is not yet won. Many of us in the House of Representatives have strong objections to proposals to terminate funding for almost all Soil Conservation Service programs in the fiscal year 1988 budget. This is not the time to cut Federal funding for soil conservation programs, and I will not stand by and watch as desperately needed funds are cut from these programs.

Progress has been made in the fight against soil erosion, but there is a lot of work yet to be done. The conservation reserve in the 1985 Farm Bill will go a long way toward helping control erosion, but the reserve—if it is ever fully implemented—will fall far short of the level of erosion control that is desperately needed and that only the SCS programs can provide. The conservation programs can help us to achieve a comprehensive approach to the soil erosion problem, but it alone cannot be viewed as a full and permanent solution to the problem.

Risky, Conway says of tax bill

Much attention was devoted last week to LB 185, sponsored by Senator Rex Haberman of Imperial. This bill would grant a sales tax exemption for certain farm implements. Some of the states bordering Nebraska grant a similar tax break and the bill's proponents have argued that $1.6 million is being spent out of state annually as a result.

The bill, however, would cost state revenues $5.6 million during 1987-88 and $8.4 million in 1988-89. Last year the Legislature was called into a special session to cut $4.5 million from state budget because of a lack of tax revenues. There is no guarantee that the revenue lost as a result of LB 185 will be made up anywhere else in the budget and thus trigger a general tax increase.

At this point, the success of LB 185 on General File (first level of floor debate) can be attributed to the fact that it has been linked to several other bills that if enacted would generate the necessary tax revenue. I voted in favor of advancing LB 185 for further debate with some reservations, but I am very cautious of this situation. The linking of revenue

Capitol Views

by Sen. Gerard Conway

measures is a risky venture. There is no certainty that all of these other bills will pass. It is conceivable that LB 185 could pass without any of the other linked bills doing so and leave the state with another massive shortfall in funds.

TWO BILLS which I sponsored and have written about in previous columns, LBs 332 and 712, were both given final approval by the Legislature and have been sent to Governor Orr for his signature. Both of these bills have the potential of creating many new jobs for Nebraskans without any cost to the taxpayer. I am very proud of these proposals and quite happy the Legislature saw fit to change our laws and accommodate these ideas.

Another bill presently on General File is LB 114, sponsored by Senator David Landis of Lincoln. It deals with the process of selecting a hazardous waste disposal site in Nebraska. There has been some confusion about the impact of this bill and its effect on the low-level radioactive waste bills. LB 114 does not pertain to radioactive waste and it has no role in the Central States Compact or Nebraska's Radioactive Waste Disposal Act. Low-level radioactive waste is a separate issue and this bill does not apply to that problem.

Hazardous waste is a major issue, however. In some circumstances, hazardous wastes are more dangerous than low-level radioactive material. This area deals with the improper disposal of petrochemicals, insecticides, pesticides, and many other wastes that can be extremely toxic. Federal law presently requires each state to set up a site location process by 1989 or lose federal funds. LB 114 would allow local governing bodies near proposed hazardous waste sites to approve or disapprove sites, but a site-review board could override any rejections by the subdivisions.

Although the hazardous waste problem is very real, I question whether it is wise to rush into selection regulations because of federal pressure. Who will have final authority over site selection is critical. There is still time to look at this situation and develop a better program than LB 114 presently contains.

Enough of this president bashing! Let him get on with vital business.

by Richard L. Leshner
President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States

The Tower Commission let President Reagan have it with both barrels, of that there can be no doubt. The Commission determined that the president erred in sending arms to Iran and that he did not exercise sufficient diligence in supervising activities of certain members of the White House staff.

For his part, President Reagan has accepted the Commission's report with humility and graciousness. He has faced up to his own mistakes, acknowledged them before the American people and is now acting aggressively to install a new crew and resume his responsibilities with renewed energy.

Many individuals in the news media and Congress who would like nothing better than to continue this inquisition, but we cannot permit it. Our country is confronted by many formidable challenges at home and abroad. It is imperative that we have an effective and dynamic chief executive in the White House.

DESPITE the recent lapses, we must keep in mind that President Reagan has proved himself to be precisely that kind of chief executive. Consider:

- That when he assumed office in 1981, inflation was running at 13.5 percent. In 1986, consumer prices increased 1.3 percent, the smallest such increase in more than two decades.
- That when he assumed office, the prime interest rate was 20.5 percent. Today it is 7.5 percent and falling.

- That by the end of 1986, civilian employment hit a new peak with well over 110 million Americans working, 10 million more than when President Reagan took office.
- That in the last two years, more than 2.5 million people have been removed from the poverty rolls and the growth of poverty has been limited to the overall growth of population. Between 1977 and 1981, the number of persons below the poverty level was growing seven times faster than the population.
- That from 1977 to 1981, per capita disposable income, adjusted for taxes and inflation, increased 2.4 percent. From 1981 to 1985, the per capita increase was 8.1 percent and it is now 10 percent above the level of 1981.

the president's achievements in rebuilding our nation's defense and — perhaps most important of all — reviving that traditional American spirit of pride and optimism that was so conspicuously lacking before he assumed office.

The president is now eager to resume the forward thrust of his administration and tackle what is probably the most formidable challenge facing our country today — making our business and industry more competitive in the world marketplace. His agenda to achieve this is sound, but he can scarcely be heard amid the mini-riot of hysteria, and controversy swirling around the White House.

I say this orgy of president-bashing has gone on long enough. Enough is enough. We have important work to do and it is time for us to get up it.

AND DO I really need to mention

Challenge to CAP crews: Be quick!

The Wayne Squadron of Civil Air Patrol has begun a new project—training a ground rescue team to answer emergency calls.

And the squadron goes a step beyond the famous slogan of "the Marines looking for a few good men." The Wayne unit also is looking for "a few good women" as well as men to fulfill CAP's purpose.

Two squadron members, Dick Mantley and Karl Rump, learned about a new state emphasis on emergency training when they attended the Nebraska CAP Wing's annual conference Saturday and Sunday in Kearney.

Wing Commander Richard L. Anderson declared a goal for the 16 Nebraska squadrons: Each would, as soon as possible, have a ground search and rescue team prepared to answer a real emergency call within an hour.

Most of the squadrons also are expected to have a flying team prepared for action within an hour if there is a real mission, Col. Anderson said.

Search and rescue capability is one of three major purposes of Civil Air Patrol, according to Mantley, commander of the Wayne Squadron.

The other two purposes—mandated when Congress chartered CAP 46 years ago—are aerospace education and cadet training.

The search function had a wartime purpose originally. Private pilots volunteered their skills and airplanes to look for enemy submarines along American seacoasts. They actually bombed and sank one or two German subs.

In peacetime, CAP has become the nation's only organization equipped and trained to fly search missions.

While aerial search may seem the glamorous activity, Mantley said, there must be teams on the ground trained and equipped to coordinate with flight crews and with other emergency agencies.

It is people on the ground who usually reach missing persons or the site of a disaster.

Wayne Squadron's director of operations, Orin Zach, said the unit currently has three fliers with mission-pilot status. Others in the squadron could gain that rating.

The squadron has both senior and cadet members, and it invites interested people to inquire about membership—and join.

Cadet membership is open to boys and girls who have finished sixth grade. Senior membership is for people 21 and up, except that cadets can become seniors at age 18.

Grandstand Gab

by
Gregg Dahlheim

A recent letter that appeared in the Voice of the Grandstand column in the Omaha World Herald kind of got under my skin.

So I allowed myself to cool down and got some statistics from the University of Nebraska Sports Information Department to support my argument.

The letter, written by Mike Miller of Sioux City, read as follows: "Top 20 in football, within an eyelash of the Final Four in basketball, second in wrestling, women's field hockey champs, women's final eight in basketball. What a program!

A salute to the best athletic program in the country — Iowa."

What a joke, I thought to myself.

There has always been a long-standing feud between the sports programs and the fans of the University of Iowa and the University of Nebraska. I imagine this letter will help fuel the fire.

After some research I present you, as one television detective was famous for saying — the facts man, just the facts.

Everything Mr. Miller said statistically about the Hawkeye program is correct as far as I can tell. I must admit I haven't kept up on the sport of women's field hockey.

Let's start with football. Here the Cornhuskers hold a large lead. Iowa appeared in the lower half of the top 20 but they had to beat the likes of San Diego State in the closing seconds of the Freedom Bowl to accomplish that.

Nebraska had its ups and downs last season but they finished 10-2 and came away with the Sugar Bowl crown.

The Hawkeyes evened it up in basketball. An appearance in the final eight of the NCAA outwashes a Final Four spot in the NIT. But give Danny Nee a chance.

IU takes a slight lead in women's basketball with its NCAA appearance.

And Iowa also has a better wrestling tradition than Nebraska, although, the Cornhuskers compete in the toughest conference in the nation.

The rest of the way out it's all Nebraska.

The women's volleyball team continues its dynasty in the Big Eight. Coach Terry Peffler's team has won 11 conference titles in a row and was the runner-up in the NCAA this past season.

The men's cross country team was second in the conference while the women finished fourth. Both the men's and women's swimming and diving teams earned conference championships this year. The indoor track teams were again crowned Big Eight champs.

The Lady Huskers gymnastics squad earned their first Big Eight title in several years just recently while the men finished second and will advance to another possible national championship.

Currently Coach John Sanders and the NU baseball team is in the midst of another solid season. The Cornhuskers are rated 20th in two polls and sport a 22-4 mark.

The softball team could be this year's national champs. The Lady Huskers are currently rated fourth in the nation with a 23-9 record.

If Nebraska doesn't have the best overall program in the country it is certainly among the top two or three. But I know one thing, from top to bottom Nebraska has a superior program over our friends to the east.

Marvin Hagler got the shaft! From everything I've read and seen Hagler should still be World Boxing Council middleweight champ.

I'm not taking anything away from Sugar Ray, because he fought a great fight and surprised almost everyone. But fell me this how many times has a challenger won a split decision. In past title fights the challenger has usually had to knock the champ out or totally dominate him, something Leonard didn't do.

Moves to 15-3

Cats split four over weekend

The Wayne State Wildcats played .500 baseball over the weekend when the hosts split a pair of doubleheaders against Bellevue College and Kearney State.

The Cats, 15-3 and 6-2 in District 11 play, are looking for a spot in the district playoffs. The top four in the seven-team district qualify for the double elimination tournament at the end of the season. The winner of the tournament will advance to the national tournament.

The Cats lost the opportunity to sweep the Bruins when they squandered an 11-4 lead in the fifth inning of the game scheduled for seven innings. Bellevue came back to tie the score with the help of a seven-run seventh inning. The visitors won the game with a single run in the top of the eighth inning off of loser Randy Raabe. The senior reliever's record dropped to 1-1 after giving up four runs in two innings of work.

The hosts scored three runs in the first inning when five of the first seven Cats reached base on hits. Dale Clayton, Paul Calvert and Mike Hoffart all came around to score.

The Cats tallied three more runs in the second. Calvert singled, stole second and scored on a single by Pat Salerno. Salerno came around to score when Hoffart connected on his fifth homer of the season.

Wayne State chalked up two more runs in the fourth inning. Monty Shultz started the frame with a double. He scored on Calvert's base hit. Calvert came around to score on a fielding error. Wayne State scored its last three runs in the fifth inning when Dale Irving, Craig Koehler and Clayton came across the plate.

Everything imaginable happened to the Cats in the seventh inning. A bases-loaded walk started the ball rolling. With the bases still loaded Calvert went back for a fly ball and lost his footing on the wet grass and fell down allowing several Bruin runners to score.

But Wayne State still had a chance to win the game in the bottom of the seventh. With one out Koehler singled. He moved to second on a sacrifice which set the stage for the last out. Clayton singled, advancing Koehler to third. Clayton tried to get in a run down to allow Koehler to score. The play was almost successful but the third baseman was tagged out at the plate on a close call. Bellevue came back and scored the winning run in the top of the eighth.

The locals rebounded with vengeance in the nightcap as they belted the Bruins 8-4. Kevin Hoffart improved to 3-0 as he went the distance allowing four runs on seven hits while striking out five.

Wayne State scored two runs in the second, three in the third and three more in the sixth. The Cats pounded 11 hits, including three doubles. Clayton, Salerno and Randy Yarke each collected two hits. Yarke also drove in three runs and scored two with a pair of doubles.

The Sunday doubleheader against Kearney was twice as important. Not only did it count in the District 11 race, it also went a long way in determining which school will play in the CSIC three-team playoff at the end of the year.

The conference school with the best series record against their interstate opponent advances to the playoff. Although Wayne and Kearney are to play each other four times whoever wins two of the first three games advances. The deciding game in the series is set for Saturday in Kearney.

The Cats whitewashed the visitors in the opener 10-0 but dropped a 5-4 decision in the second game of the twinbill.

Jose Ruiz cruised to his second win of the season as he limited the Lopers to just one hit in seven innings.

Wayne State led only 1-0 before they tallied two runs in the fourth, four in the fifth and three more in the sixth inning.

Hoffart opened the inning with a single and scored on a sacrifice by Bretschneider. Yarke also scored in the inning. The first three Cats reached base in the fifth before Hoffart unloaded a three-run homer. The senior finished the game 3-4 with four ribbies. In the sixth Bretschneider, Irving and Koehler came across to complete the shutout.

Koehler finished the game a perfect 3-3, scoring three times and knocking in one run.

In the nightcap Omar Serghini pitched a neat six hitter but the freshman took the loss. Serghini, 3-2, was hurt by five Wildcat errors. None of the five runs he allowed were earned.

Kearney took an early 4-0 lead heading into the bottom of the third. The Cats cut the lead in half when they collected two runs in their half of the third. With one out Shultz singled and Dean Haying came in to pitch. Clayton followed with a walk and both men scored on a base hit by Hoffart.

Hoffart.

The Cats cut the lead to 5-4 with a pair of runs in the fifth inning. With Koehler at first base Hoffart lifted his third homer of the weekend. He finished the game with two hits and was responsible for all four RBI's. In the last inning the Cats went down in order. The win enabled Kearney State to up its record to 3-18. Several of those losses came to Division I schools.

Over the weekend Hoffart went 8-16 with 12 RBI's and three round trippers. That boosted his average to .482. He leads the squad with seven home runs and 27 RBI's. Calvert is the Cats' top hitter with a .485 average. He's collected 13 hits in 16 games.

LAMONT LEWIS takes a deep breath before he tries his next lift. Lewis placed seventh in the 181-pound division.

Huskers hand locals first loss of year

The Wayne State win streak came to an end 14 games after it started when the Cats were thumped by Nebraska 16-4 at Buck Beltzer field.

The Huskers struck quickly with seven runs in the bottom of the first inning ending starting pitcher Omar Serghini's day after pitching just one third of an inning. The loss was the Omaha freshman's first of the season after posting three wins.

Another Freshman, Jeff Sharp of Charter Oak, Iowa, came in and pitched the next two and two-thirds innings. Sharp faced 14 Cornhuskers giving up four hits and six runs while walking seven. Jeff Pasold carried on in the fourth to finish the game. Pasold gave up three hits and three runs.

Wayne State got its runs in three innings. The Cats scored a single run in the second inning when Gale Bretschneider opened the frame with a walk and scored on a RBI single by Monty Shultz. The locals got two more runs in the fourth inning. Bretschneider and Dale Irving each walked and came around to score without a hit. The Cats closed out their scoring in the fifth. Mike Hoffart started the inning with a single. He also scored without the services of a hit.

Wayne State ended the game with six hits while the Huskers stroked 11 hits. Hoffart led the way with two singles. Dale Clayton added a double while Randy Lau, Bretschneider and Shultz each singled.

Coach Len Klaver said although his team didn't perform well he thinks playing a team of Nebraska's caliber will help the Cats in the long run.

Wayne State will make a return trip to Buck Beltzer field for an April 20 rematch.

Several records set at powerlifting tourney

Forty-five lifters turned out for the 1987 Nebraska Powerlifting Championships held at Rice Auditorium over the weekend.

During the day of lifting several state records were set.

Super heavyweight Levi Webb of Wayne set new state marks in the squat lift and bench press. Webb squatted 825 pounds and benched 505 pounds. His total weight for the three lifts was 2,000 pounds, also a state record.

Mike Nelson of Omaha set a new record in the 114-pound division with a bench press of 275 pounds and a total weight of 1,115 pounds. Jay Olson of Omaha posted a new record in the 148-pound division with a squat lift of 560 pounds and a total of 1,455 pounds. Charles Brown finished second at 148 pounds but he set a new mark in the bench press with a lift of 370 pounds.

The Nebraska Elite Power Team of Omaha won the title with 39 points. The Wayne Barbell Club was a close second with 37 points.

Russ Steinhauer was named the outstanding lightweight lifter of the meet. Last November Steinhauer finished second in the world championships. Outstanding heavyweight lifter was Webb. Russ Mitchell was named the outstanding teenage lifter.

The following are the winners in their respective weight classes: 114 pounds — Mike Nelson, Omaha; 123 pounds — Michael Johnson, Omaha; 132 pounds — Russ Steinhauer, Holdrege; 148 pounds — Jay Olson, Omaha; 165 pounds — Carmen Magistro, Omaha; 181 pounds — Dwayne Hanel, Omaha; 198 pounds — Rick Hussey, Omaha; 220 pounds — Doug Paulsen, Lincoln; 242 pounds — Dale Pearson, Kearney; 275 pounds — Ken Emry, Norfolk; Super heavyweight — Levi Webb, Wayne.

Several other Wayne lifters also placed in the meet. Joe Tedrow finished third at 148 pounds. Lamont Lewis placed seventh at 181 pounds. Mike Bultard was runner-up at 198 pounds and Sonny Jones finished fifth at 220 pounds.

With their performances at the meet Bullard and Webb qualified for the Junior National Championships at Kansas City in June.

Webb said the support of Wayne State College, Athletic Director Ron Jones and Frank Teach helped to make the meet the best ever in the state of Nebraska.

Lady Wildcats win three, lose to North Dakota 1-0

The Wayne State women's softball team breezed through pool play at the Augustana tournament but the Lady Cats were eliminated after the first game in the championship bracket.

The locals won three pool games Saturday and then lost a 1-0 decision to North Dakota State University. The 3-1 weekend record upped the Lady Cats season mark to 10-5.

Wayne State started the first game by blanking Briar Cliff 6-0. Mary Lingelbach picked up the win as she went the distance. The Elkhorn senior allowed just five singles in her 58-pitch performance. She set the Lady Chargers down in order in five of the seven innings.

Both pitchers were cruising along until Briar Cliff's Jo Urbain ran into trouble in the sixth inning. With the score tied 0-0 the Lady Cats broke the game open with a six-run inning.

Shelle Tomaszkiwicz started the inning by getting hit by an Urbain pitch. She scored on a Lingelbach single. Rhonda Peck, Paula Dolesh and Kerianne Kluge followed with singles to score two more runs. Kristi Govig reached on an error to load the bases. Pitch-hitter Ann Bauer then came through with a three-run single to complete the scoring.

As a team the Lady Cats pounded out a dozen hits. Michelle Blomberg and Dolesh each collected two hits. Dolesh also scored a run, was credited with a RBI and stole two bases.

In the second game of the day the women made short work of Moorhead State zipping them 15-0 in three innings due to the 10-run rule. Coach Marilyn Strate used two pitchers in the blowout. Peck started the game and got the win. The Beemer sophomore threw two innings giving up one hit. Freshman Anne Wilbur came in to pitch the third inning facing the minimum. Wilbur recorded her first save of the season.

The Lady Cats sealed the win in the first inning as the locals scored 12 runs as 15 Wayne State hitters came to the plate.

Govig, Dolesh, Mary Jean Guenther and Peck all scored twice in the inning. Shell Schumann, Lisa Jacobsen, Natalie Highman and Kelly Rich each scored once.

Kelly Rich scored the Lady Cats lone run in the second inning on a Moorhead error. The locals tallied two more in the third when Guenther and Wilbur crossed home plate.

Although the locals accounted for 15 runs they only collected six hits, half of them coming from Guenther. The senior also scored three times, knocked in a run and stole a base.

The Lady Cats advanced to the single-elimination portion of the tournament with a 6-3 win over the University of North Dakota.

Peck went the route as she recorded her fifth win against no set backs. The Beemer hurler allowed three runs on four hits while walking five and striking out four.

The Lady Cats jumped on top 2-0 in the top of the first collecting four hits. Govig led off with a single, stole a base and scored on a Peck base hit. Peck later came around to score when Schumann stroked a single.

The locals tallied two more runs in the second inning. Kluge and Govig both got on via the base on balls. The pair scored on a one-out single by Blomberg. Wayne State increased the lead to 6-0 in the fifth when Guenther and Rich each singled and later came around to score.

The opposition got back into the game with a pair of runs in the sixth. The rally was snuffed in the bottom of the seventh when they scored only one run.

Blomberg led the 10-hit attack with three singles and two RBIs. The senior also stole three bases. In all, the Lady Cats swiped seven bases in the game.

No offensive support did Lingelbach in. In the one-run loss to North Dakota State, Lingelbach 3-3, allowed only three hits in throwing just 67 pitches.

The winners pushed across the only run of the contest in the fifth inning.

A close play at first and a bad call on a pick-off play allowed NDSU to push across the winning run. The Lady Cats had the tying run at second base in the bottom of the seventh with one out. But pinch-runner Rich advanced no further as Schumann flew out to left field and the game ended on a ground ball to second base by Peck.

Tomaszkiewicz paced Wayne State with two of the team's four hits.

The Lady Cats will host Mt. Marty College in a doubleheader today (Thursday). The first game will start at 4 p.m. with the nightcap set for 5:30 p.m.

Wayne State takes two from Peru State

The Wayne State Lady Cats softball team got out the broom Tuesday when they traveled to Peru State.

The women swept a doubleheader by scores of 6-1 and 2-1. The wins upped the women's record to 12-5.

Although the Lady Cats went 3-1 last week recording two wins over Division I schools they dropped from 12th to 14th in the NAIA weekly rankings.

In the first game at Peru Roni Johnson threw a four hitter to improve her record to 3-2. She got help offensively from the two RBI performances of Michelle Blomberg and Kathy Didder. Kristi Govig and Mary Jean Guenther each collected two hits and Paula Dolesh scored twice.

In the nightcap Mary Lingelbach also topped the .500 mark with a three-hitter. The senior upped her record to 4-3.

The locals only mustered four hits with Blomberg collecting two of them. Ann Bauer went 1-3 knocking in both Wayne State runs.

Harrison

HIS LOS ANGELES connection opportunity came, he said, as a result of his employment later with a property management corporation based in Santa Monica, California. He managed and supervised maintenance for 966 apartments and 720 boat slips.

Harrison worked for the property management corporation while on leave from the airlines from 1980 to 1982. For the next two years, he taught speech and stage movement classes for cosmetic stylists in preparation for beauty shows and seminars.

In 1984 he joined up with KTLA-TV, Setefax and P.C. Sets, production and set construction companies. "I started out as construction coordinator/carpenter," Harrison said.

He said he acted as a liaison between the art director and the client, and most of the work involved building sets for commercials. "You could say I was involved in set construction and also dabbled in set design," he mentioned.

"This type of work is extremely competitive," he added.

After nearly three years, Harrison said he found the work as almost unstable. "It was just not secure enough for me."

"I think that teaching will be much more secure and stable," he said.

The company of P.C. Sets eventually was nominated for an Emmy for the construction of the set for the Pointer Sisters video "Freedom."

WHEN FIRST working with the set construction companies within the confines of Los Angeles, Harrison said he was excited, particularly upon seeing such stars as Donna Summer or Diana Ross. "But after a while, it became a job and it was not so important to meet all the stars," he said.

It was important, he mentioned, to watch the performance on television "so you could see if you had made the artist look good."

His most prized set construction project, he said, was the construction of the Parthenon for a series entitled "The Immortal" starring Ed Asner as Socrates.

The set was so authentic that up to six production companies had wanted to buy the set. Instead of doing what is usually done with a set once it has completed its run — get torn apart.

One of Harrison's closest friends in Los Angeles was Ray Klausen, a set designer who has won at least five Emmy Awards for his work.

"This is no limit to his talent, one of the most creative people that I have ever known," he mentioned.

HARRISON feels that his experience in Los Angeles will provide valuable experience upon his eventual return to teaching on stage and in the classroom. "It's an experience I can take and relate to the class, to let them know what happens out there," he remarked.

Currently, he is attending Wayne State College to fulfill the hours he needs to renew his teaching certificate for Illinois and Nebraska. He prefers teaching at the high school level.

At one point in time, Harrison said he tried to avoid any type of work on set construction or tearing down sets.

"I was an actor. I was never supposed to get my hands dirty," he said. But later he found the world of set construction as challenging and rewarding.

He tells young high school people interested in pursuing a career in this area that the field is extremely competitive, but also very wide open.

"I don't think there has ever been a time when Los Angeles has not had feelers out for people to train in this field," Harrison said.

HE ENCOURAGES high school students to get as much experience as possible in high school theatre, speech and also Industrial Education. Male and female carpenters and painters are certainly needed in Hollywood, he mentioned.

"And then perhaps they can go beyond that — to art designing, set decorating or acting. They would be there, right in the middle of it all," he said.

Being from Nebraska is also a big plus for people looking for work in this area, or other occupations as well, Harrison said.

Nebraskans, he said, have a reputation of being consistently hired because of their strong sense of responsibility and dependability.

"They will take a chance on hiring someone from Nebraska as a preference over anyone else," said Harrison.

Harrison, once married, has two sons — Chadd and Ian — currently attending schools in Omaha. He is enjoying his stay in Wayne. "I feel very comfortable here. People are very friendly," he said.

One thing is for certain.

If indeed "all the world's a stage", then you can bet Harrison would be the first one who would try and design a set for it.

ESU

Dolen will be resigning from her position as soon as a replacement is found. Dolen has been employed with ESU 1 since July 11, 1983.

Also, Lynnette Hansen has been hired as a custodian to replace Janice Lester, who became disabled.

•Hear a proposal from Garwood about bringing in a consultant for a one-day workshop to meet with the board of directors, representatives of the staff and...superintendents over the summer to set up goals and objectives for ESU 1.

"It may be worthwhile to investigate this," Garwood mentioned.

•Accepted a state bid of $9,774.44 for the purchase of a Pontiac vehicle to be used primarily by the administration of ESU 1.

Garwood said there would be enough miles traveled on the new vehicle to justify a purchase. He said money is available in the budget for the purchase of the vehicle.

At the previous meeting, the administration was directed to develop specifications for the automobile purchase.

Board member Marvin Borg voted against the purchase.

•And gave unanimous approval after the second round of readings to change ESU 1 board policy.

The board policy would eliminate the assistant administrator's position from the ESU 1 administrative structure and eliminate the assistant administrator's job description.

These changes are a result of current administrator Harry Mill's announcement that he will be retiring effective June 30, 1987. Garwood, who has served as assistant administrator at ESU 1 since July, 1983, was named to replace Mills as administrator effective July 1, 1987.

STORED 2, 4-D

Cold temperatures will not deteriorate the active ingredient in any of our commonly used herbicides including 2,4-D. Low temperatures may cause separation of liquids. If this has occurred placing the container in sunlight at room temperatures and rolling the container periodically will reconstitute the formulation. The herbicide will not have lost its effectiveness as a result of the low temperature storage.

NUTRITION FOR THE BEEF COW

The calving and rebreeding period is probably the most critical time of year for nutrition for the beef cow. The cow's work load peaks at 2-6 weeks after calving.

After she calves, her nutrient needs soar. The total daily feed intake should be about 26% of total digestible nutrients. The phosphorus level goes to 23 grams a day. Her calcium and vitamin needs nearly double.

Why does this happen? She must produce milk for the calf and rebuild her reproductive tract back to normal so that she will be in condition to cycle and conceive. This shouldn't take longer than 90 days after calving. If the cattle are on low quality roughage the addition of 10% of alfalfa hay per day should provide enough supplemental protein and energy until grass is available.

SHELTERBELT TREE INJURY

When the evergreen leader (the very top-most branch) has been broken, drive or tie a stake near the center of the tree and tie with cord the most flexible remaining branch to the stake. It will become the new leader, and provide the tree with height growth.

When branches have been pulled out of the trunk of the tree, nothing can be done except to pile them where they will not interfere with growth. Where they have been broken, pruning the branch flush with the stem or trunk will result in early healing.

In some pines only the leader will remain or just some tufts of needles. Leave this tree alone to let it recover in the way best suited for itself.

Damaged shrubs or deciduous trees can be severely pruned and make an excellent recovery in just a few years.

Says Bereuter

Training bill amended

The House Education and Labor Committee added the provisions of Representative Doug Bereuter's Agriculture-in-Transition Act to the Omnibus Trade Bill on April 1.

The provisions of Bereuter's bill were added to a section of the Omnibus Trade Bill that provides services to people who have lost their jobs or who need assistance to continue in their present occupations.

The Agriculture-in-Transition Act, which was introduced by Bereuter and Representative Steve Gunderson, is modeled after a successful Nebraska program that provides managerial assistance and job training to a variety of individuals whose lives have been disrupted by the distressed agricultural economy. It offers help to two groups of people — those who seek managerial assistance to stay in business and those seeking alternative jobs.

"This action by the House Education and Labor Committee is an important first step toward getting a permanent authorization for Agriculture-in-Transition services," Bereuter said. "The provision for as many as ten demonstration projects assures that Nebraska will get the funding it needs to continue its program."

Types of services provided by the program for farmers who are attempting to continue farming include assistance in the evaluation of an operation's financial condition, assistance with financial planning, and assistance in managing temporary crisis.

Those wishing to change their occupation would be eligible for vocational evaluation, job search assistance, classroom and on-the-job training, and other social services necessary for retraining.

Representative Tom Tauke of Iowa, who serves on the Education and Labor Committee, proposed that the committee adopt the Bereuter proposal and the other members of the committee agreed unanimously. The amendment adopted by the committee provides for Agriculture-in-Transition demonstration projects of two to three years duration in up to ten states.

Fun day held at Winside

Forty-five Wayne County 4-H members met for a day of fun and learning, Saturday, April 4 at the Winside City Auditorium. Sponsored by the Wayne County 4-H Council, the day was designed to provide a series of educational programs, spiced by fun activities, for 9-11 year olds.

The children had a chance to share favorite "camp" songs in a rousing sing-a-long. "Chris Clover" led them through an example of parliamentary procedure, and they had the chance to practice what they learned in a mock group meeting.

Two programs were planned to stimulate interest in new projects. Mary Temme introduced the NASA sponsored, "Blue Sky Below My Feet," project. The video, filmed just before the space shuttle Challenger accident, was narrated by Colonel Ellison Onizuka. Col. Onizuka was a 4-H alumna from Hawaii. Rosemary Severson, Hoskins, brought her menagerie of small animals for a petting session and insight into the Rabbits, Poultry and Dairy Goat projects.

Helen McMahon, Nebraska Poultry Industries, Lincoln, demonstrated the "Incredible Egg." While she illustrated the art of omelet cooking, she delivered an informative presentation on the nutritive value and cooking properties of eggs. Minutes later, 45 young 4-Hers were proudly making their own ham and cheese omelets for lunch! They rounded it off with orange juice and cinnamon muffins. The line for "seconds" was long, and it was obviously one of the highlights of the day.

Creation of Batik Wallhangings gave the members another opportunity for a "hands-on" learning experience. Using crayons, paraffin wax and fabric dye, the members were able to turn a simple drawing into a sophisticated work of art complete with mat frame.

There were sessions to help members make their own bumper stickers, an outing to the park, and workshops on completing a 4-H record book and the art of giving a demonstration.

Other presenters and coordinators for the day were Sherill Svoboda, Marla and Margo Sandahl, Stuart Rethwisch and Maureen Bruening Jensen.

Vo-Ag judging contests April 9-11.

Over 2,350 Nebraska high school students will be on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus April 9-11 to compete in the annual state-level vocational agriculture judging contests.

Literally every county of the state will be represented in the contests, according to Cliff McClain, UNL agricultural education instructor and contest coordinator.

The vocational agriculture contestants will represent 127 schools in the 14 contests, which range from judging milk quality to entomology to soil and water management. The contests are sponsored by the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and are held in conjunction with the state Future Farmers of America convention.

The livestock management contest will draw the most participants, with 324 students from 81 schools. Dairy cattle selection and meals judging will have 246 and 234 participants, respectively.

An awards ceremony, including the presentation of a sweepstakes award for the top vocational agriculture school group in the contests, will be held on Saturday morning in the UNL East Campus Union.

Employees attend seminar

The Utilities Section of the League of Nebraska Municipalities held a electric line seminar at Lincoln. Thirty-six utility representatives from 18 municipalities throughout the state attended.

Attending from Wayne were Randy Burnison and Garry Poutre.

Salmonella concerns aired

Cleanliness is the key in avoiding the upset stomach that comes from the salmonella bacteria. Contact with the bacteria can occur when washing, cutting and cooking chicken.

Scottie Misner, extension nutritionist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said extension agents have received calls recently concerning salmonella. Calls increased again after the television show "Sixty Minutes" aired a story March 29 on inspections in chicken processing plants. Meat inspectors interviewed on the show complained that the high rate of speed on the automated processing line made it difficult to properly inspect chickens.

Nebraska does not have any fryer or broiler chicken processing plants. There is a turkey processing plant in Gibbon, but Earl Gleaves, UNL extension poultry specialist, said its assembly line operates at a slow rate. Nebraska imports much of its chickens from the South, Gleaves said.

THERE ALSO is an egg processing plant at Wakefield, (Milton G. Waldbaum Co.). The UNL specialist said that eggs also carry the salmonella bacteria. But he stressed that the Wakefield plant pasteurizes everything before it goes through processing and that frequent inspections are conducted.

"Consumers might want to buy a frozen chicken, instead of a fresh one," Gleaves said. Freezing stops the growth of salmonella bacteria. Gleaves said if more consumers would request more frozen chickens, more grocery stores would stock them.

A chicken with salmonella bacteria does not look any different.

"You won't see much. You won't be able to tell by the way it looks," Gleaves said.

WHEN YOU are preparing chicken, Gleaves and Misner offered these suggestions:

—Thoroughly wash the chicken with warm water. If it is a whole chicken, rinse well inside the cavity. Wash your hands with soap and water.

—After cutting up the chicken, wash the knife used in hot soapy dish washing water. The water's hot temperature will kill the salmonella bacteria.

—Thoroughly wash off the counters and wood cutting boards which were in contact with the chicken. Rinse with hot water.

—Wash your hands again.

—Don't let anyone who is sick touch food. Oftentimes salmonella bacteria spreads through hands touching foods.

—Be sure foods are cooked to temperatures up to 165-170 degrees F. No pink should be evident in the meat.

If you really want to be cautious, Misner said to be careful eating ham, chicken, eggs or gravies in buffets or restaurants. "Don't eat those products out unless I know the cook," Misner said.

Grain explosion reduction noted

Nebraska was, at one time in recent years, the leading state in the number of grain dust explosions. Since then, the number of grain dust explosions has been reduced to two in 1986. Rollin Schnieder, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension safety specialist, said this reduction can be attributed, in part, to research and to the continuing education of elevator operators.

One educational tool now being used by the Nebraska State Fire Marshall's office was developed by UNL's agricultural engineering research shop. It is a grain dust explosion demonstrator which shows an explosion on a small scale.

The demonstrator shows what a small volume of dust it takes to cause an explosion. "For an explosion to occur there must be dust, pressure and a spark," according to Marv Anderson, shop foreman. "The demonstrators combine these three elements to show how the explosions occur."

OSHA maintains regulations on grain storage and has determined the amount of dust that can accumulate before it becomes volatile. Only one level teaspoon full of corn starch, which is comparable to grain dust, used in the demonstrator produces a very loud explosion and flash of flame. "This shows people how much can happen with just a little dust," Anderson said.

Schnieder said, "The point we make the most to elevator operators is housecleaning and maintenance. When you limit the dust, you limit the chance for explosions."

GRAIN DUST explosions also can be set off by more than a spark.

"Say a bearing goes bad in the elevator. The friction from it creates heat and acts as a glow plug. If the other conditions are right a grain dust explosion can occur," said Anderson. "It takes so little under the right conditions. Dust clouds have been ignited by open flames, smoking materials, electric arcs, hot filaments of light bulbs, friction sparks, high pressure steam pipes and welding and cutting torches.

Dust explosions usually occur as a series.

"Frequently, the initial explosion is rather small in volume, but intense enough to jar dust from beams, ledges, and other out-of-the-way places. This creates a much larger dust cloud from which secondary explosions occur. The secondary effects are just as damaging or more damaging than the first," Anderson said.

"Flame fronts often occur with grain dust explosions and move very rapidly, causing re-explosions. The headhouses in elevators transfer these explosions. It's like the domino effect," he said.

"That is why elevators being built today do not have headhouses," Schnieder said.

The state fire marshalls are taking the demonstrators to groups of small town fire fighters and grain elevator operators throughout the state. They say the demonstrations are going well and the industry as well as the public will benefit from the demonstrations.

The Farmer's Wife

by Pat Melehenry

I've just finished the Sunday paper and Ann just washed the pickup. She says it was filthy. I can imagine. Beautiful days like this put us in the mood for cleaning windows, yards, and vehicles.

As I read about all the stock losses in Kansas and western Nebraska, I just shudder and wonder how we escaped. Memories of '83 and '84 will be etched in my brain forever.

One article made the point that those stockmen with shelter belts had fared better because the cows had some protection. Another case for trees.

With Indiana winning the Final Four, we can lay the basketball season to rest. Unless you are concerned with the pros. I think we were all amazed and pleased at how well the Huskers did.

I felt especially gratified for Bill Jackson. Five years is a long time to wait for a good season. Everything I've read and seen about Bill indicates that he's been a gentleman about it all.

The pride for the Norfolk basketball team spills over into the surrounding communities, especially after I learned that they were called "Farmers" by the Omaha and Lincoln fans. I'm sorry to hear they considered that an insult in the big cities.

OUR BIG Farmer is feeling mighty frustrated these days. The step into the tractor cab was wet when he was getting out of it on Monday. His foot slipped while his hand was still in the handle, and his thumb was broken. When you can't use your left hand, a cast on the right is quite an inconvenience. Only five weeks to go, and counting.

I've got to get back to walking. I did a short jaunt today and found myself puffing. I'll never be ready for Old Settlers' at this rate. The longer days should help. Since Mike gets up with the sun, the time had been getting earlier and earlier. This morning, we were back to a reasonable hour.

I hadn't realized until this week that we were going on Daylight Savings three weeks early this year.

ON APRIL 1st, KNEN radion announced that the time had changed the night before, and that if our clock said 7:30 a.m., it was really 8:30. A few minutes later, they admitted it was April Fool. An irate mother called in and chewed them because she had wakened her kids in a panic, afraid they were late for school!

KNEN also tried to make Tilden Elkhorn Valley schools believe they were having prime rib for lunch.

Speaking of beef, my favorite food, I hope you all saw the announcement by the American Beef Association and the Beef Board, saying moderate amounts, 7 to 8 ounces, of lean red meat are okay for your heart.

In fact, one doctor stated that only 20% of the population has the potential to decrease their blood cholesterol with diet, and that "it makes no sense at all for the rest of us to put up with the dietary restrictions imposed with low cholesterol diets."

We are beginning to have all kinds of future steaks running around in the pasture. Crossbreeding is fine, but the little white-faced Herefords, just east of the house, are so cute.

Spring: New life, the song of birds, buds on trees, green plants, hope of Easter, the cycle goes on and on.

was named honorable mention only because he is not planning a career directly in chemistry. Dr. Rasmussen said. Hass, who has an equally-high grade point average, is planning to apply to admission into medical school. Dr. Rasmussen said it is the policy of the ACS to only give the higher honor to students who are going into careers in chemistry or who are planning to attend graduate school.

"This is a very impressive group," said Dr. Rasmussen. "Their accomplishments are something the college can be very proud of."

He added that it is very unusual for a college to have so many chemistry students earn the ACS awards in one year.

Thiem and Ernesti have been accepted into graduate school at the University of Arizona. Flanagan expects to work as a chemist or biochemist and eventually attend graduate school, and Dungan, who has already graduated, is currently attending graduate school at Iowa State University.

A cooperative lunch was served later in the afternoon.

Sleepless Nights

Difficulty falling asleep or staying asleep is one of the most common of all complaints. Sometimes the cause of sleepless nights is clear — a crying baby or other source of noise in the home, pain, depression due to loss of a loved one or excessive napping during daytime hours. At other times the reason is not clear. Problem sleep that does not respond to nondrug approaches or an over-the-counter sleep aid should be evaluated by a physician, because the problem could be a symptom of a more serious condition.

Some individuals have found that obtaining moderate exercise during the daytime hours is helpful. Relaxing in a warm bath or reading before bedtime are effective sleep inducers in others. Drinking a glass of milk may also bring on sleep, perhaps due to the amino acid L-tryptophan that is present. Studies have shown that this particular amino acid may be useful in increasing total sleep time.

A nonprescription sleep aid may also be helpful. Virtually all of these products contain an antihistamine such as diphenhydramine or pyrilamine. Drowsiness is a side effect of the antihistamines. This "side effect" becomes the major therapeutic effect when these products are used as sleep aids.

Out Of Old Nebraska

Way back when men wore the perfume

Almost fifty years ago the Nebraska State Historical Society sent out a plea to the housewives of Nebraska asking for old newspapers that were cluttering up attics.

Today the society's vast newspaper collection is on microfilm, and the thousands who use the collection annually find a new dimension of history. Through the pages of old and not so old newspapers, people and events of the past assume a reality that is not found elsewhere.

Few history books elaborate on the type of perfume used by men on the Nebraska frontier as does the following newspaper account of pioneer life. Published in the Nebraska State Journal in 1917 while Nebraska was celebrating its 50th year of statehood, the account was written by a woman born in Merrick County in 1862.

"The first building erected in Merrick county was the twenty-mile station house of the Western Stage company. The first gospel sermon was preached by the Rev. L. H. Jones, March 5, 1865. The first Sunday school of the county was organized in school district No. 1 June 30, 1867. They were simply the reading of scriptures in classes and each one possible to memory as much as possible. I doubt whether better results are obtained now. Going to Sunday school was an experience in itself. The Sunday clothes of the children were a feature. Every child gathered a bunch of wild flowers, more especially wild roses on the way. The variety of wild flowers was very great. The songs sung in the Sunday school were the same hymns used in the church service. Some of the teachers and scholars came a distance of from six to eight miles.

"SINGING SCHOOLS were numerous and highly prized. Everybody went to singing school. The harmony of the pieces sung was very peculiar and not at all according to the rules of the present musical grammar. I can see the old singing masters in imagination yet as they paced the floor and beat the air with their arms as if splitting rails. In order to keep good time, some of them had violins to give the starting sound or key note, and perhaps also play the soprano. The one that could sing the loudest and clearest was considered the best singer. Some pupils came several miles on horseback and it furnished an excellent opportunity for the boys and girls to learn the art of horsemanship.

"The social habits of the people were peculiar in those early days. There was a great deal of friendly visiting both among the old and the young. The interests of the people seemed identical, which produced a great deal of genuine harmony and neighborly kindness.

"When there was sickness or want every hand was started out to relieve. If there was a barn full of corn to husk, all the neighbors came together in the evening and worked until it was all done. So it was with the quilting parties, butchering bees and whatever there might be to do. "The ladies did not then as now use perfumes and cosmetics that I can remember, but the gentlemen did. This perfume usually consisted of peppermint essence or cinnamon oil put plentifully on colored silk pocket handkerchiefs. I have no means of knowing what advantage this gave a young man as it was not old enough to know or have experience and could therefore only judge by observation. I have an idea, however, that those who were scented up the loudest had the greatest need of it.

"Marriages were celebrated with a two day festival, one at the home of the bride, and one at the home of the groom. The whole neighborhood was often invited. Funerals were conducted then very much as they are now, except that wagons were used instead of hearse and carriages. The Indian scares and grass hopper plague are also something to be remembered."

Merrick County, where these events took place, is the only county in Nebraska named in honor of a woman—Elvira Merrick DePuy. — Betty Loudon

Gosper took the time to help the poor

"From rags to riches" stories are a part of Nebraska's heritage, but Nebraska has other stories without the happy endings.

Such a story is told about the proud man for whom Gosper County was named.

John J. Gosper, a Civil War officer, was elected Nebraska's Secretary of State in 1872, often serving as acting governor in the absence of Gov. Furnas.

Gosper died—a ward of the county—on May 4, 1913 in a Los Angeles hospital.

Just five months before his death, Gosper wrote a letter to the editor of the Nebraska State Journal. None would guess from Gosper's letter which follows, that he was having financial difficulties:

"I am pleased to comply with your request to hand you a letter expressing a 'New Year's Greeting' to my old Nebraska friends.

"I located in Lincoln in the fall of 1869. Dealing in real estate, breeding high bred hogs and horses was my principal business. Gosper's hogs and horses took many first premiums at state fairs held in Lincoln.

"I took a lively interest in public as well as private affairs. In April, 1871 was elected councilman to the city government, was selected to serve as president of the council and was acting mayor much of the time. (Lincoln's population in 1870 was 2,441.) In October, 1872 I was elected to the office of secretary of state, and part of the time was acting governor. I did not seek either of the offices.

"WHILE SERVING as secretary of state a new county was organized and given my name without my solicitation. Of course I did not object and am proud of the fact that there is a Gosper county in my old home state.

"I was an earnest worker in the campaign for Governor Saunders of Omaha for the United States Senate. Through his influence I was appointed by President Hayes to the position of secretary of the territory of Arizona, and was most of the time in the executive chair.

"I left Lincoln in May, 1877 to take up official work in Arizona. In 1886 I located in the lovely city of Los Angeles where I have been a citizen ever since.

"My business here is mining, real estate and politics. Have been a delegate to nearly all the city, county and state conventions in this locality. Have been on the stump as state speaker for my party and otherwise have had important offices offered me but have declined them all. Have always been a straight republican of the 'standpat' kind.

"Am now in my seventieth year, and in body and brain as strong as I ever have been—have never allowed myself for a moment to think that I am growing old.

"There are many persons from Nebraska residing in this city, and the rooms for many others. Come out here and dwell with us in 'God's Own County.' — J. J. Gosper"

GOSPER REFUSED to accept charity, but "his friends overpowered his scruples and placed him in the hospital, where his last days were given every attention possible."

Gosper had lived apart from his second wife, Waitlie, for a number of years. There were no children from this marriage.

Waitlie Gosper died in Lincoln in 1914. She had established a millinery business on the southeast corner of 12th and O in the capital city. Her favorite pursuit, according to an obituary published at the time of her death, was "helping the poor." — Betty Loudon

The so-called "empty nest syndrome" apparently is a myth, according to two institutions which research the aging process. A study by the Andrus Gerontology Center at the University of Southern California showed that contrary to popular opinion, the majority of women surveyed did not feel bored, sad, lonely or useless when their children moved out of the house. A University of Chicago research found that middle-aged women actually experience a rise in their spirits after the last child leaves home.

Older people are particularly vulnerable to illnesses associated with heat and cold because their bodies cannot regulate temperature as well as they once did.
