Budget yields optimism

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

"It's a good budget." That's what Wayne State College Vice President of Finance John Struve said Friday in regard to the 1987-88 budget recently introduced by the Appropriations Committee to the Nebraska Legislature.

The budget summary shows percentage increases (from the revised base of 1986-87 to what has been introduced in the Legislature for 1987-88) of up to 30 percent in some areas of the budget. The greatest percentage increase is in the area of library materials, up 30 percent subject to the legislature's action. A 20.4 percent increase has been introduced in the area of computer operating for Wayne State.

Increases were also noted in salary and benefit areas, including Full Time Equivalency (FTE), 2.4 percent; permanent salaries, 6.2 percent; supplemental pay, 4 percent; retirement, 5.6 percent; social security, 8.3 percent; life insurance, 2.9 percent; and health insurance, 8.5 percent. A decrease of 6.1 percent would be recorded in temporary wages if the legislature approves what has been introduced.

Other budgeted expense items proposed for an increase are personal services (5.6 percent); utilities (3 percent); travel (3 percent); instructional equipment (3 percent); other equipment (3 percent); and tuition remissions such as scholarships, up 2.5 percent. There is a minor decrease of .2 percent marked for operating expenses.

STRUVE SAID permanent salaries were increased by 3 percent, including adjunct faculty and graduate assistant salaries, while temporary salaries were not increased. The budget which has been introduced to the legislature will create six new FTE positions, which is one reason why the salary and benefit package has increased.

The temporary salaries were not increased, he mentioned.

It has been proposed that two FTE positions be added to business, one FTE be added to Math Science and another FTE position be distributed to divisions as required for general education.

Struve said the amount funded for these four positions is $128,000 plus

CRP program gains interest

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Bids on nearly 11 percent of the total cropland in Wayne County currently on file with the Wayne County Agriculture and Stabilization Service have been accepted into the federal Conservation Reserve Program.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is a program initiated by the federal government to take highly erodible land out of crop production, according to Ray Butts, executive director of the Wayne County A&S office.

There have been four sign-up periods for farmers to enter their bids and become eligible for the program. Several of those sign-ups were last year, and the most recent sign-up period took place earlier this year.

The program requires farmers to seed the erodible cropland to grass. The grass on the cropland cannot be grazed on, or harvested, for 10 years. The farmer is also required to control the weeds on the land in the program.

THE GOAL IS to have 40 million acres of highly erodible cropland taken out of production nationwide within a five year period.

There are currently 1,265 farms in Wayne County that have a feed grain base on them, totalling over 225,000 acres of cropland. The maximum amount of acres in Wayne County that could be bid into the CRP program, Butts said, is 25 percent of the total acres of cropland, or approximately 56,000 acres.

Bids have been accepted on 181 total farms in Wayne County, totalling 25,077 acres.

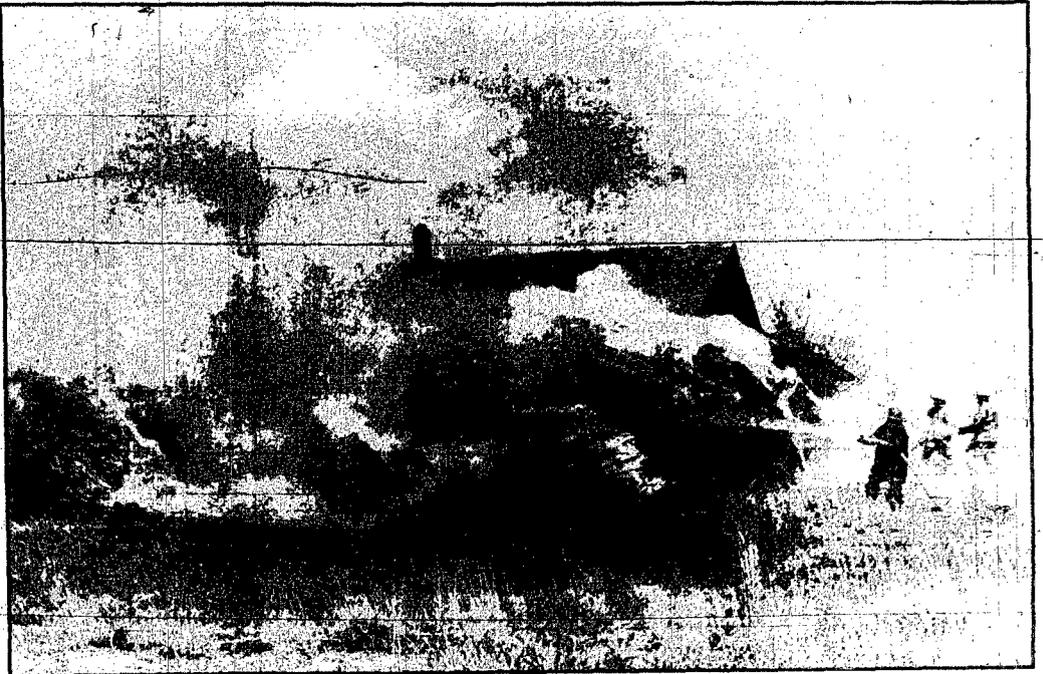

Prior to the fourth sign-up period, there had been only 29 farms accepted into the program.

A "one time" bonus incentive was added in the fourth sign-up period, according to Butts. "For each acre of corn base the farmer would put into the CRP, they would get $2 a bushel payment, based on the yield that is listed with the A&S program," Butts mentioned.

One reason for the increased participation in the fourth sign-up period, he said, was because of the one time bonus payment.

The highest bid accepted in the CRP program in Wayne County was $70, the lowest $57.50. "The bids averaged from $68.50 to $69 an acre. Not too many were below $68 an acre," Butts said.

Smoke stacks

WAYNE AND WAKEFIELD Fire Departments combined efforts to douse a fire which burned up 19 hay stacks Friday afternoon about three miles south and six miles east of Wayne.

Temperature was at 93 degrees, and high winds were prevalent, causing the stacks to quickly burn. An abandoned school house near the stacks was saved from the blaze.

Weight-Off results tallied

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Willpower certainly carries a lot of weight when it comes to controlling or losing pounds.

And at the Allen Consolidated School, women on the staff found more willpower on their side and the scales tipping their way as they defeated, the men staff members in the school's first ever "Weight-Off" contest. Since Jan. 5, the staff at Allen School have been engaged in a contest which had the men competing against women to see who could lose the most weight by May 1.

Twenty-six women entered the contest, competing against eight men.

WHEN THE FINAL figures were tallied on Friday, May 1 at the start of the school day, 321 pounds of total weight were lost among the eight men and 26 women who participated in the contest.

And the women, on the average, lost about an average of 10 pounds each. On the other side of the scale, the men average 7 pounds lost each. So it will be the men treating the women at the spring picnic, as was stated in the contest rules at the beginning of the competition.

The men lost 55 pounds in total, the women 266 pounds total.

No date has been set by staff as to when the picnic will be. The event was first publicized in The Wayne Herald in the Jan. 12 edition. Since then, other media have been watching the results of the "Weight-Off" contest. The challenge was issued by Superintendent (and participant) John Werner to create a more physically fit staff and to provide an incentive for all staff to watch their weight.

BUT IT WAS more than just that, said Werner in an interview Friday. "Overall, we accomplished good things with this contest," he said.

For instance, the seven pound average of "excess" garbage carried by the men has been lost. "A number of people were able to get their high blood pressure lowered," he said.

"It was definitely a morale booster, as well as a health booster," he said.

Normally through the winter months, staff morale can be hindered by the kids or by the weather. However, the "Weight-Off" interest was high and so was morale.

Darlene Fahrenholz, secretary-bookkeeper at the Allen Schools, said that while the competition had been keen, the contest was enjoyed, and many have said they would like to keep on losing weight, even though the competition has been completed.

One of the contestants lost 28 pounds. Three had lost 18.

"People enjoyed the competition," she said.

"It kept the junk food out of the office," she added.

News Briefs

Snyder chairs bike ride

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital officials announced that Mrs. Debra Snyder will chair the hospital's "Wheels for Life" bike ride in Allen this spring. This ride will raise funds to support the hospital's battle against childhood cancer and other illnesses being studied there.

Founded in 1962 by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Hospital has become the world's largest center for the study of childhood cancer and is the only institution dedicated solely to the treatment and study of catastrophic childhood diseases. The hospital is non-sectarian and inter-racial.

In addition to direct treatment of patients throughout the United States and 29 foreign countries, St. Jude has provided the world's doctors with the best methods of treating their own young cancer patients. This life-saving knowledge is given freely and with no charge to any other hospital or private physician.

Fleck meets with Rotary

Dr. Joseph W. Fleck, interim president of Wayne State College, will speak to Wayne Rotarians Wednesday morning at 7 a.m. at the Sportsman's Cafe.

Last Wednesday, Gary West, physician's assistant with the Benthack Clinic, was their guest speaker and after giving them a 10-question personal test, he gave them informative health-related answers that would be of great benefit to all.

According to Gil Haase, the group is still in need of one more member in order to charter. Any interested businessman should contact him as soon as possible at the Care Centre, 375-1922.

Sand donation noted

In the article concerning the sandbox fill sponsored by the Wayne Jaycees, it was not mentioned that Gerhold Concrete donated the sand supply.

Gas rates decline

For the second month in a row, Peoples Natural Gas is reducing rates to Wayne customers to pass on the savings resulting from Peoples' success in buying lower-priced gas supplies.

Tim Conneely, district manager for Peoples, said that with this latest decrease, residential gas rates for Wayne customers are now over 15 percent lower than last year at this time.

Presidential scholar

Brian Schmidt of Wayne has been announced as one of the semifinalists for 1987 in the United States Presidential Scholars Program, according to the U.S. Department of Education and the Commission on Presidential Scholars.

Schmidt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schmidt, and he will be a graduating senior at Wayne-Carroll High School.

This program identifies annually the most distinguished and accomplished graduating high school seniors in the nation. Schmidt is one of the 500 outstanding young Americans to become a semifinalist in this program.

Area art show winners

Several area artists received ribbons in the Northeast Nebraska Art Association's annual exhibit.

A blue ribbon went to Elaine Neiman of Wayne for her exhibit entitled "Roses".

Among the red ribbon winners were Carlos Frey, Sherlan Frey, Elaine Neiman and Elaine Francis, all of Wayne; and Debra Schmidt of Emerson.

The top four entries, plus the red ribbon winners, will be eligible for entry in the state competition of the Association of Nebraska Art Clubs scheduled in June at Grand Island.

Sherlan Frey also received a white ribbon.

benefits. He said two FTE administrative positions have been proposed for a new Information Management Office. The staffing for this office includes a director and secretary.

Purpose of this office, he noted, is to provide training and assistance in the installation and operation of the administrative computer system. The office will act as a service center for information requests and special problem resolutions.

The amount for this, funded on a continuing basis, is $64,000.

INTRODUCED in the legislature for the 1987-88 budget is a proposed increase in the general fund (over the 1986-87 revised base) of 4.6 percent and an increase of 5.2 percent in the cash fund for an overall funding increase of 5.2 percent.

In summarizing the increase, Struve noted that the amount recommended for the Cash Fund included a 4.0 percent increase in tuition rates as well as using approximately $80,000 in cash generated because of greater than projected enrollment growth. He mentioned that tuition remissions were increased by over $19,000 to adjust for the increase in tuition rates.

With the 1987-88 budget, Struve said there is "reducing and adding going on simultaneously." Currently, the total effect on budget reductions from the beginning of the 1986-87 fiscal year to the beginning of the 1987-88 fiscal year is $13,343, he said.

CRP

state in regard to participation of the program, behind Dixon County and Kimball County.

Kimball County leads with 33,559 acres tentatively bidded into the CRP program, which encompasses 97 farms. Dixon County has 156 farms participating in the program, adding up to 20,863 acres.

Approximately 12,000 acres (124 farms) were bidded into the CRP program in Cedar County.

"OF ALL THE long term type programs, this has had the best participation," said Butts. The previous Cropland Adjustment

Program, he said, didn't have near the number of participants in Wayne County — only about 50 farms.

The Wayne County ASCS will pay 50 percent of the cost for grass seed, drilling and ground preparation for participants in the program, according to Butts. Wayne County's Soil Conservation Service will also help with the planning, he added.

Butts said five farms in Wayne County have changed their mind and dropped out of the program since the bids had been accepted.

Another sign-up for the CRP program is scheduled for the last two weeks in July, he said. "There have been no other details available on that sign-up," Butts said.

'Hacken' Away

by Chuck
Hackenmiller

Ever been in jail before? In reality, I've never been charged with anything deserving a jail sentence.

The only times I've visited a jail cell at any type of law enforcement center were during an interview with a prisoner, and when I was invited to photograph a jail cell equipped with a new stainless steel toilet.

That was all outside of the prison walls.

Such was not the case on Thursday. An officer of the law (Jail and Ball law, that is) came to the Wayne Herald office and officially read me my rights, right in front of the people I work with each day.

Then she escorted me, with my hands behind my back, to her car and she transported me directly to jail—located at the former Griggs Rexall building on South Main in Wayne.

The judge was ready and waiting just as I walked inside the door. My charge was "allowing a Wayne Herald subscription to run out," enough to get me a jail sentence and bail set at $100.

One way I could break bail was to telephone people and come up with the $100 in bail money. After that, I could be a free man.

A few minutes after they had taken my mug, Wayne Mayor Wayne Marsh was arrested—charged with failure to pay his green fees—and he too had to make $100 bail within the hour.

Within minutes, Linda Brown from the area Chamber office and Bev Eiter of the State National Bank had joined me in the Klinik.

The telephone lines got busy.

ALL OF THIS was part of the Wayne County chapter of the American Cancer Society's efforts to raise money to fight cancer.

Swan Johnson of Wayne had to come up with $1,000 bail, Dean Jacobs had his bail set at $250, then higher. All the bail money pledged through the prisoner's efforts were donated to the cancer society.

One fact that you find out about doing this sort of volunteer work:

You really find out who your friends really are when it comes to raising bail.

I'm thankful that this wasn't the real thing or else I'd still be eating dry bread and asking the officers to fill my tin cup with water.

My fellow employees, had it not been for a good cause such as fighting cancer, probably would have let me rot in that jail cell until who knows when.

But in the end, they came through for me with a sizeable chunk of my jail bail.

THE WAYNE Stater staff that publishes their fine newspaper at The Wayne Herald, a crew of dedicated college students who have the monstrous task of paying for their college education, contributed ten cents to my bail. Their advisor clipped in a dollar.

Bless their hearts for helping me out. The advisor also gave me a meal of dried beef jerky as a last meal.

Mayor Marsh, sitting next to me, offered to pay me $5 if I would pay him $5, just to help break bail. I accepted his offer immediately.

Corruption? Naw. Us cons have to work together, you know.

It was fun. But I don't know if I could do it again. My four-year-old son, absolutely concerned about the reality of the situation when he found out I had to go to jail, asked me how come I had to go there?

"I volunteered," was my reply.

"Why is it wrong to volunteer?" he asked.

Depends on what you volunteer for, I said.

In this instance, I'd say the cause was "well worth volunteering for."

Out Of Old Nebraska

Over the years Nebraska has had a number of spring storms that are well worthy of comment. One of the latest in the season, certainly in recent history, and quite a severe one was May 27 and 28, 1947 in western Nebraska. The Alliance Times Herald reported that the temperature dropped to 19 degrees and that there were about 12 inches of wet snow that had fallen. In its weather comments a week later it mentioned the fact that there had been about two inches of moisture in the snow that had fallen. This snow coming after trees had leafed out was especially destructive in breaking off branches, and the freezing also caused some damage to wheat.

Perhaps the most famous of Nebraska's late spring storms, however, was the Easter blizzard of 1873. The story of that storm has been told in a number of Nebraska reminiscences. The following are some excerpts from an account of the story by Charles B. Letton as it appears in Nebraska Pioneer Reminiscences. Mr. Letton, later a member of the Supreme Court, was a resident of the Fairbury area when he experienced the storm.

On the afternoon of Easter Sunday it began to rain and blow from the northwest. The next morning I had been awake for some time waiting for daylight when I finally realized that the dim light coming from the windows was due to the fact that they were covered with snow drifts.

At the point where the door to the stable should have been there appeared a hole in the drift where the snow was eddying. On crawling into this I found that during the night the snow had drifted in around the horses and cattle, which were tied to the manger. The animals had trampled it under their feet to such an extent that it had raised them so that in places their backs lifted the filthy roof, and the wind carrying much of the covering away, had filled the stable with snow until some of them were almost and others wholly buried, except where the remains of the roof protected them.

In the forty-six years that I have lived in Nebraska there has only been one other winter storm that measurably approached it in intensity. This was the blizzard of 1888 when several people lost their lives. At that time, however, people were living in comfort; trees, hedges, groves, stubble, and cornfields held the snow so that the drifts were insignificant in comparison.

To Housing Act

Bereuter amendments added

Representative Doug Bereuter was successful in having two provisions added to the Housing Act of 1987 that will help residents of rural areas. While the House Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs considered H.R. 4, Bereuter, when a family in a smaller community begins to look for a commercial or government guaranteed home mortgage, the only advice they are given is to move to a larger town. This amendment should make available from $50 million to $100 million in money that has already been authorized for unsubsidized loan guarantees for those families.

Bereuter added that the additional paperwork burden created by these loans would fall on the commercial lending institutions and not on FmHA county offices. Nebraska savings and loan institutions have already indicated their interest in the program. Another amendment that Bereuter successfully added to the Housing Bill will change the minimum property standards for HUD's mortgage guarantee program to allow the use of a water purification unit. At present, under HUD regulations, individual water purification units are not acceptable as treatment for individual water systems. When the existing water supply for a house does not meet minimum standards and a permanent alternative water supply is not available, the owner cannot sell the home under HUD's guarantee program.

The practical effect of this regulation is to bar purchasers and builders in areas where chemical pollution is a problem. Bereuter said, "And increased nitrate and chemical pollution make the problem more common." Bereuter became aware of the problem after he was contacted by people attempting to build homes in Seward County.

When considering the shopping choices I make, I don't think that a 1 1/2% city sales tax added to the sale price will influence me to go elsewhere with all of my shopping dollars. I do know that Wayne will always be one of my choices to shop no matter if there is a city sales tax added or not.

Ruth Berglund
Revenue is greater

I would like to take this opportunity to express to you the experience of the City Sales Tax on the budget of Nebraska City. In 1986, the voters of Nebraska City approved a 1% City Sales Tax to be used for property tax relief. This sales tax went into effect October 1, 1986.

The property tax requirement for the city's 1986-87 budget was reduced by 24% due to the anticipated sales tax revenue. So far, the revenues from the city sales tax have been even greater than we had anticipated. We anticipate further reductions in the property tax requirement for the 1987-88 budget year.

We are very grateful for the impact the City Sales Tax has had upon Nebraska City. I would encourage you to keep in mind the experience of Nebraska City, as well as other cities and towns throughout the state, as you consider a City Sales Tax for your town.

Vote 'Yes'

On May 12th there will be an election in Wayne to decide whether to have a 1 1/2% city sales tax. I hope the majority of the voters will vote "YES", like I am. Why? Because 1/2% of the sales tax added to my taxable purchases will be used for economic development. That means it will be used to help businesses expand that are already here and to help bring new businesses to Wayne. Yes, I already have a good job in Wayne but a lot of my friends have had to move away from Wayne to find work. They didn't want to leave but had to because there was not enough opportunity here. The 1/2% sales tax for economic development will hopefully change that so other young people won't have to leave this area to find challenging work.

The 1/2% sales tax for economic development will only add 3¢ on a $6.00 purchase or 50¢ on a $100.00 purchase. Is that too much to pay? Not if it will help to create new jobs so more people like me can continue to call Wayne—"Home."

Study first

The 15 years our family has lived in the Wayne Community have been very rewarding in the friendships and business relationships formed. That can never be forgotten. But, I don't consider myself ungrateful or unpatriotic for opposing the local option sales tax.

As has been pointed out many times, it is taxation without representation for those outside the city limits. Just how strongly do farmers feel about this? A questionnaire in the Wayne Co. Farm Bureau newsletter in the past month brought an excellent number of responses. Over 97% felt the organization should oppose the issue to the extent its limited funds would permit. Several volunteered additional funding despite planting time money shortages.

There has been a growing awareness at state and national levels of taxpayer unrest relating to the growth of government and governmental costs. The call for governmental bodies to live within their income without additional revenue has resulted in cutting revenue sharing funds to lower governmental levels. I feel this is as it should be. If Wayne adopts this additional tax it will delay adjusting to these trends. This could result in a much more severe adjustment down the road.

Check Wayne First is an excellent slogan. It will work if Wayne residents recognize economic trends and what continues to be the communities number one industry. Study, think and vote!

Bottom line

When I go shopping there are many things to compare before I make a purchase. Regardless of what it is—clothing, appliances, building materials, food, motor vehicles, personal items, etc.—my comparisons include quality, customer service, selection or how well the item meets my own needs or appeal, and of course the price. I feel that my decision to buy will be the result of the best balance between all of these comparisons.

The importance of the bottom line, final cost—sales tax included—will depend on how well all of the other things to be compared weigh out on each of my purchases. Will a 1 1/2% Wayne city sales tax added to the 4% state sales tax make me shop

Viewpoint

Children crossing

At Tuesday's regular city council meeting, the council approved a motion to eliminate parking on the west side of Main Street (between 4th and 5th Streets) when the Highway Department begins resurfacing South Main.

Parking would be allowed on the east side. The parking restrictions were necessary in order for resurfacing to meet the specifications of the federal and state guidelines.

We have major concerns about the safety factor involved with children darting across the street to visit the library, located on the block where the parking would be eliminated.

The council did have the alternative to allow parking on the west side of the street near the library and eliminate the parking on the east side of the street across from the library. However, they opted, by a 5-1 margin, to allow the parking on the east side, thinking that there would be room enough to form an area for parking spaces behind the library.

This, it would seem, would be an alternative that can be worked out, just as long as the safety of the children or parents (who must deal with the alley behind the library) is kept foremost in mind and traffic is monitored in the alley.

If at least the parking cannot be on the west side of the street, then we feel the children will be safer entering the library from a parking lot behind the building rather than contending with the sometimes steady stream of traffic as they cross Main Street to get to the library.

TAX FACTS

QUESTION: DOES THE COMMUNITY OF WAYNE NEED THE 1/2 PERCENT SALES TAX FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT?

ANSWER: During the past two years, Wayne has used Federal dollars, funneled through the State of Nebraska, to assist in creating over 300 jobs within our community.

Those Federal funds have been or are scheduled for elimination under the new Federal budget guidelines. Local economic development funds will be an absolute necessity if we are to create additional jobs for our children, neighbors and friends in the years to come.

With split

Wildcats claim District 11 title

The Wayne State Wildcats clinched the District 11 title by splitting a pair of games with Bellevue College Wednesday at Bellevue.

The split will give the Cats the top seed at the District 11 tournament May 7-9.

The marathon doubleheader against the Bruins which started on Wednesday wasn't completed until early Thursday morning.

The locals took the first game 3-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Randy Raabe. The senior went the distance to up his record to 4-2.

The Cats took an early 2-0 lead in the second inning. With one out rightfielder Randy Yarkie drew a walk. Dale Irving sacrificed him to second and he went to third when Craig Koehler reached on an error. The next hitter, catcher Monty Shultz, ripped a two-run double to put the locals on the board.

Bellevue came back to tie the score in the bottom of the second on a pair of hits.

The game remained tied until the top of the sixth when Wayne State scored what turned out to be the winning run.

Mike Hofferf led off the frame with a base hit. He was thrown out at second on a sacrifice attempt by Gale Bretschneider. Bretschneider then stole second and scored on a hit by Yarkie.

The Bruins threatened in both the sixth and seventh innings. In the sixth Bellevue got its lead-off hitter in the inning to third base but Raabe ended the threat with two outs when he got the sixth hitter to fly out to left field. In the seventh the hosts tried to stage a late rally. With two outs the ninth man in the order doubled. Raabe went to work and struck out the lead-off man to end the game.

Bellevue was out for blood in the second contest. They ripped four Wayne State pitchers for 11 runs in the 11-2 rout.

Jose Ruiz start the game and pitched four innings giving up four runs on five hits. The senior was saddled with the loss which dropped him to 3-2.

Bellevue jumped to a 4-0 lead in the bottom of their first inning. Two doubles and a single accounted for the runs. Neither team could mount any offense in the second, third and fourth innings.

In the top of the fifth the Cats cut the lead to 4-1. With one out Dale Clayton singled and advanced when he stole second. Paul Calvert scored Clayton when he doubled on a 2-2 count. Calvert got to third but a fielder's choice ended the frame.

In the bottom of the fifth Omar Serghini came on in relief. The Omaha freshman was greeted rudely when all four of the men he faced reached base and eventually scored. Corey Weinmaster spelled him and allowed a grand slam to up the hosts lead to 9-1. Senior Ed Heritage was brought in to replace Weinmaster. Heritage pitched one and two-thirds innings allowing two runs.

The Cats scored their last run in the top of the sixth. Yarkie led off with a single. He advanced to second on a single by Dale Irving. The rightfielder went to third on a fielder's choice and scored on a bases-loaded walk to Calvert.

The Bruins came up with two more runs in the bottom of the sixth to increase the lead to 11-2. In the top of the seventh Wayne State had the bases loaded but the Bellevue pitcher struck out the side.

Yarkie and Clayton each collected three hits in the twinbill. Calvert and Shultz were credited with two RBI's apiece and Bretschneider stole two bases.

Wayne State set a new school record for most wins in a season, 29, when Doane forfeited a Friday doubleheader to the Cats. The locals boast a 29-11 for the season. They concluded the regular portion of the schedule with a twinbill against Dana at Blair on Saturday.

Nebraska Outdoorsman

By Tom Keith - Nebraska Game & Parks

It happens every year, usually right around the first of May during the first shirt sleeve fishing weather of spring. That's when shallow areas in lakes and ponds start to warm and crappie fishing action begins.

At this time of year crappie are in the shallow for two reasons, to feed on small minnows and other forage, and to spawn. In either case a small crappie jig, fished either plain or tipped with a small minnow, can be a very productive lure.

There are several types of crappie jigs on the market. The old standby is the marabou type that is nothing more than a tuft of fluffy marabou feather fibers tied onto the hook shank behind the weighted jig head. Another popular style of marabou jig has a body of wrapped chenille and uses a bunch of marabou for the jig's tail. The marabou fibers provide a lot of action in the water and the weight of the jig head allows the lure to be fished at whatever depth the fish are found.

There are some types of jigs that have thin rubber or plastic strips rather than marabou fibers for the tail, and some jigs are made of chenille and hackle feathers. Other have fat soft plastic bodies and thin curved tails that create a twisting motion in the water, and still others have a small spinner attached to the head of the lure to give an added flash.

Though nearly all jigs can produce fish under a variety of conditions marabou and rubber-hackled jigs are usually most productive when jigged slowly and vertically, so that the fall material is allowed to puff out and wave seductively in the water as the jig bounces on rocks and along the lake bottom.

Jigs that have plastic twister tails are made to be cast and retrieved horizontally through the water at various speeds. They require a steeper, more rapid motion to make the plastic tail flutter and twist as it was made to do.

Jigs are among the most versatile lures you can use. There is no one proper way to fish a jig. Some fishermen have developed their own rhythm that works best for them in certain situations, but there are no hard and fast rules to go by. If one method doesn't work it's easy to try something else, and a good fisherman must be willing to try as many different methods as necessary to catch some fish.

Color can be an important factor in crappie fishing. Most crappie experts say they begin by observing the time-tested rule "in dark water or at night use a dark jig, in clear water use a light colored jig." If that doesn't work, they experiment until they find the right combination of color and retrieve for that particular situation.

Light and ultra-light spinning gear is usually the choice for crappie fishing. Most experienced crappie fishermen choose 1/32nd and 1/16th ounce jigs for most of their crappie fishing, but if they have to go unusually deep they will use a jig as heavy as a 1/8th ounce. Lighter jigs have an advantage, they are smaller and lighter, so they fall more slowly in the water, and in most situations a slow decent is more productive than a rapid one.

There are times when crappie are very particular and strikes on a bar jig are few and far between. Sometimes tipping the jig with a small minnow can be the magic touch needed to take reluctant feeders.

When you put a minnow on a jig hook, always hook it from below the chin up through the front of the head. Hooked in this manner the minnow will move through the water right-side-up and will be held more securely than if it is hooked only through the lips.

Try jigging in shallow water near rocks, weed beds or weedy shorelines and use a number of different retrieves until you find the one that will help you to take home a few early season crappie.

A free copy of NEBRASKA and Magazine's "Guide to Good Fishing" which lists the location and information about all of the state's public fishing waters is available from any Game and Parks Commission office, or by writing Game and Parks Commission Headquarters, Box 30370, Lincoln, Ne., 68503.

Lady Wildcats' softball team stands at 2-1

A trip to the regional tournament was still a possibility for the Wayne State softball team after it went 2-1 in the first day of the District 11 tournament.

The winner of the district advances on to regional play. The Lady Cats entered the tournament at Dill Field in Omaha as the third-seeded team behind Kearney State and the College of Saint Mary.

The women downed Concordia in the first game Friday afternoon by a 7-2 score. The win allowed the Lady Cats to advance to the winners bracket to play Saint Mary. The Flames took that game by a 3-0 score.

Wayne State had to come back in the nightcap and battle Dana to avoid elimination. The locals did so by beating the Lady Vikings 12-2.

A complete story of the weekend action will appear in Thursday's edition of The Wayne Herald.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WAYNE:

Wayne Co. Farm Bureau sympathizes with you as you struggle with your property taxes. We also have much concern about property taxes. Nebraska Farm Bureau was a prime mover in the instigation of the independent tax study now being conducted for the Nebraska Unicameral by Syracuse University. Results of this study are to offer guidelines to the senators as they consider potential legislation to lessen tax impact on property owners.

Farm Bureau has opposed the local sales tax because it is taxation without representation for those residing outside the city limits. People outside the city help underwrite the municipal budget without having any input on the makeup of the budget.

The sluggish ag economy is as devastating to businesses in Wayne as it is to our businesses in the country. We understand this. These slumps in the economy have always turned around in the past. Currently stabilizing land prices indicate we are at or past the bottom this time. As the economy turns around, pressures on the city budget should decline given sound council decisions and prudent administration. Pushing the panic button by voting for a sales tax could damage the business climate far more than the hoped for tax relief envisioned by tax supporters.

We believe that Wayne, with its unique blend of agriculture education and industry has more going for it than any town its size in the state. Let us not change that!

Please vote no to the Sales and Use tax proposal.

Naturally, a dance!

May Day has come to mean Dance for folks who keep active in Wayne's Senior Citizens Center. They had a dance last year on May Day, so what better than do it again this May Day? So they invited musical combos from Northeast Nebraska to play, built a May Pole and planted in the middle of the City Auditorium floor Friday, and proceeded to have a dandy time. Several dozen people arrived even before the 1 p.m. starting time. The number rose to more than 130 while six bands played. Although the number dwindled gradually, there were still people dancing or watching when the sixth combo began about 4:30. Elkhorn Valley Fiddlers opened the show (pictured at lower right), followed by the Madison Keenagers (upper right), then Lester Bethune the Music Man, Otto Fields and Willis Draube, Ralph Olson and Ray Petersen, and finally, the Emerson Elderberries.
