Engagements

Schafer-Johnson

The engagement of Beth S. Schafer, Lincoln, and Rick L. Johnson of Omaha is announced by the bride-elect's parents, Judy and Gerry Schafer, Wayne.

Beth graduated from Wayne-Carroll High School in 1983 and is a candidate for graduation this month from Nebraska Wesleyan University. Rick, son of JoAnne and Dan Johnson of Wayne, also graduated from Wayne-Carroll High School, in 1980, and from Wayne State College in 1984. He is a transportation broker for C.H. Robinson Co.

The couple plans an August 1 wedding in the Wayne Presbyterian Church.

Bosch-Luhr

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bosch of Parker, S.D., and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Luhr of Wayne announce the engagement of their children, Vernae and Steve.

Vernae is a graduate of the University of South Dakota with a master of arts degree in audiology. She is employed at Educational Service Unit One, Wakefield. Steve is a graduate of Northeast Technical Community College and of Wayne State College. He is engaged in farming near Wakefield.

They plan an Aug. 8 wedding.

Hartman-Fox

Derwin and Alice Hartman of Wakefield and Leonard and Dorothy Fox of Bronson, Iowa, announce the engagement of their children, Gwen Ellen Hartman and Joseph Alan Fox, both of Wayne.

Both the bride-elect and the groom are candidates for graduation from Wayne State College Saturday—she with a teaching degree in mathematics and he with a major in business administration management. They are graduates respectively of Wakefield and Lawton-Bronson high schools.

The couple plans an August 1 wedding at the Evangelical Covenant Church, Wakefield.

Dancers to twirl on Ag Day

Jerry Junck of Carroll was the caller when the—Town Twirlers Square Dance Club met Sunday evening at the Laurel Auditorium, with eight squares of dancing.

Hosting were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Potter of Concord and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cunningham of Randolph. The next dance will be Sunday evening, May 17, with Bob Johnson as caller. This will be salad night—with members asked to bring one large salad that will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Courland Roberts of Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Vanderheiden of Laurel.

Arnold Junck of Carroll, president, was in charge of a short business meeting. The club elected these new officers: Fred Stark of Ponca, president; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Koester of Allen, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Grone of Wayne, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Edward Fork of Carroll reported on the recent new dancing class—with 28 graduating from the course. Tentative plans are for a new dance class next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Potter of Concord attend the federation meeting in Norfolk Sunday, May 3.

A free square dance will be held at the Laurel Auditorium Wednesday, June 10, at 8 p.m. The city of Laurel is sponsoring the dance in observance of Ag Days, June 9-10. Duane Nelson will be the caller.

Belden couple notes fortieth anniversary

Don and Lola Painter of Belden were honored for their 40th wedding anniversary at a May 2 open house in the Belden Presbyterian Church.

The hosts were their children: Beverly Bowers of Anchorage, Alaska; Jerry Painter of Hoskins, Dan Painter and Rick Painter, both of Norfolk, and the sons' wives.

Bertha Heath of Belden, an attendant to the couple when they were married May 4, 1947, in Wayne, registered 125 guests for the anniversary celebration.

The guests came from Bassett, Norfolk, Carroll, Pierce, Hartington, Fordyce, Stanton, Valentine, Laurel, Coleridge, Bertrand, Randolph, Belden and Wayne in Nebraska; Colome, Winner and Millboro, South Dakota; Madison, Wisconsin, and Anchorage, Alaska.

The Painters have lived in Wayne County for 17 years and in Cedar County for 23 years.

Gifts to the couple were arranged by Paula Bowers of Hartington, Gary Schulte of Fordyce and Sarah Painter of Hoskins.

Irma Docken of Bassett and Trula Heath of Millboro, S.D., cut and served the cake. Emma Eckert of Wayne served the coffee and Lela Peterson of Winner, S.D., served the punch.

Care centre invites all to share week

Wayne Care Centre will observe National Nursing Home Week with a series of special events next week.

Staff member June Baier said the public is welcome to come to any of the activities, which will illustrate the week's theme, "Discover Life's Treasures."

The Care Centre will begin its activities on Sunday, Mother's Day, by inviting the public to visit between 2 and 4 p.m.

On Tuesday there will be a demonstration of basket making, starting at 2 p.m. On Wednesday, again at 2, the Larry Thompson family of Pilger will entertain with a musical act.

Thursday at 2, Otto Field will give a musical concert with his accordion.

Friday morning at 10, the Care Centre will be host to the weekly Chamber of Commerce coffee at 10 a.m.

Baptisms

Wade Matthew Jarvi

Wade Matthew Jarvi, son of Keith and Mary Jarvi of Wayne, was baptized Sunday, May 3, during worship services at the First United Methodist Church, Wayne. Rev. Keith Johnson conducted the service.

Sponsors for Wade were Dick and Linda Nelson of Battle Creek. Dinner guests at the Jarvi home were the Nelsons and Zelma Juhlin of Laurel. Afternoon callers were Russ and Gladys Juhlin of Battle Creek. Wade was born Friday, March 6, 1987.

Christina Marie Jaeger

Christina Marie Jaeger, daughter of Doug and Shelly Jaeger of Winside, was baptized Sunday, May 3, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winside.

Sponsors were David and Joni Jaeger of Winside and Cindy and Keith Clausen of Carroll.

Christina wore a baptismal gown that her aunt Deb Lienemah had worn and a shawl worn by her father Doug and her brother Jared on their baptismal days.

A baptismal dinner was served at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Jaeger. Guests included her grandmother, Mrs. Dwayne Granfield of Carroll and great-grandfather, Herman Jaeger of Winside; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Clausen and family of Carroll; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Jaeger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Jaeger and family, all of Winside; Mr. and Mrs. Monty Granfield of Sholes, and Deb Lienemann of Norfolk. A special baptismal cake was baked by Joni Jaeger.

Afternoon guests included Mr. and Mrs. Brian Hoffman and family of Carroll; Arlene Zoffka, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Hoffman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hoffman, all of Winside; LeNeil Zoffka of Scribner and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Steukrath and family of Stanton.

Christina Marie was born March 25, 1987.

Brandon Kyle Leonard

Brandon Kyle Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Leonard of Pender, was baptized Sunday, April 26, during worship services at Salem Lutheran Church, Wakefield. Pastor Joe Marek officiated. Sponsors were Linda Greve, Wakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Kurtis Marotz of Hoskins.

Dinner guests in the Roger Leonard home included grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Bill Greve of Wakefield and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leonard of Emerson, and great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Morris Thomsen and Mrs. Evelyn Greve, all of Wakefield.

Other guests were Linda and Wes Greve, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtis Marotz and family of Hoskins, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Leonard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bach and family, Dawn Erikson and Rod Gilliland. Joining them in the afternoon were Pastor Joe Marek and Frank.

Brandon's great aunt, Denise Thomsen, baked and decorated a Bible cake for the event.

Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce

108 West Third Street P. O. Box 347
Wayne, Nebraska 68787 (402) 375-2240

On January 13, 1987, the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors presented a petition to the Wayne City Council asking them to put the Sales Tax Issue before the voters and that a tax of 1 1/2% be presented on the ballot with 1% dedicated to economic development.

We ask consideration of this issue and encourage all voters of Wayne to represent their rights by voting on Tuesday, May 12.

2 Girl Scouts will receive Gold Award

Two Wayne girls have earned the highest rank that Girl Scouting bestows, and Saturday they will receive that honor from the highest ranking citizen in Nebraska.

Gov. Kay Orr will present the Gold Award to Jill Jordan and Ann Perry, capping their 10 years of Girl Scout activity.

The ceremony is scheduled for 12 noon at the Wayne Presbyterian Church—finishing in time for the governor to make another appearance, as speaker for the Wayne State College commencement starting at 2 p.m.

Jill's parents are Bob and Sheryl Jordan. Ann's parents are Mike and Jill Perry.

The two girls have gone through all levels of Girl Scouting in a decade and now are members of Senior Troop 243.

They have attended Day Camp and helped in Day Camp, attended Camp Crossed Arrows, and in 1986 received their God and Church Award and the Silver Award.

To earn the Gold Award, they performed 25 service hours, 25 work experience hours, and 25 leadership hours. They earned four interest projects. In 1986 Ann and Jill attended a Wider Opportunity at Our Cabana in Cuernavaca, Mexico.

They assisted in leading a Brownie troop for four months. For their Community Service Challenge they organized and carried out a Colon Cancer Screening Test with Providence Medical Center.

Ann and Jill are members of the Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship. At Wayne-Carroll High School they are sophomores and members of the varsity band, varsity girls golf team, Spanish Club and W.C. Club.

Corrections

Two first names were incorrectly reported in engagement stories of the May 4 Herald, we are sorry to say, but we take solace that the correct name of each bride-elect was printed in each of the stories:

—It is Mary Steler of Wayne, not Marie, as it appeared in once in the story of her engagement to Dale Phipps.

—And it is Susan Wichman of Wayne, who is engaged to Jeffrey Stratton. The name also appeared once as Sally, which is her mother's first name.

We apologize for the errors, especially in stories as important as the announcement of engagements.

Briefly Speaking

Church women unite in fellowship

Church Women United gathered Friday, May 1, for a Fellowship Breakfast, with about 80 attending the event at the Wayne United Methodist Church.

Marjorie Porter opened with a welcome and prayer. Breakfast was served by the Methodist ladies. Roll call was answered by the show of hands from each church represented.

Theme for the program was "For Such a Time as This." Members of the board and Pastor Kevin Johnson participated in the program, with the Treble Clef Singers singing between each of the six parts.

Members of the board taking part were Marjorie Porter, representing Methodists; Margaret Luff, St. Paul's Lutheran; Marjorie Olson, Presbyterian; Linda Carr, Baptist; Blanche Backstrom, Redeemer Lutheran.

Next celebration will be World Community Day in November at St. Mary's Church in Wayne.

Mother-Daughter social at Redeemer

A Mother-Daughter Social marked the Redeemer Lutheran Church calendar April 29, with 122 enjoying the April Showers theme. Tables were decorated with rainbow color streamers, umbrellas for favors, and plants.

Dorothy Nelson and Jill Nelson presented a mother-daughter response. Alleen Sievers and Audra Sievers gave a grandmother-granddaughter response.

Carol Rethwisch entertained with a theme of "Friendship," a sing-along and a skit.

Plants were given as prizes to the oldest person present, Martha Frevort; youngest mother, Debra Wesley; youngest guest, 11-month-old daughter of Debra Wesley; youngest grandmother, Doris Gilliland; and also for who came the farthest, most colorful dress, and lots more.

Towns represented were Wayne, Wakefield, Winslow, Norfolk, Concord, Laurel, Allen, Thurston, Bloomfield and Sioux City.

Hostesses were Mylet Bargholz, Barbara Sievers, Darlene Gathje, Alma Lueschen, Dorothy Nelson and Alleen Sievers. They served dessert luncheon.

Jorgensen graduating from UNL

Jeffrey Scott Jorgensen, son of Rod and Cynthia Jorgensen, is a candidate to graduate from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln at spring commencement Saturday in the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

Jeffrey will earn a bachelor of science degree in business administration, majoring in finance and minoring in speech communications. He has accepted a position at Allied Group Corporation in Lincoln as an auditor.

Compassionate Friends to meet

The May meeting of the Compassionate Friends is scheduled for May 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria room A of Lutheran Community Hospital, Norfolk.

Anyone dealing with the death of a child is welcome to attend meetings of the Compassionate Friends. For further information, contact any of these officers:

Etelle Anding of Albion, 395-2928, president; Ruth Melsgetker of Neligh, 887-4559, vice-president and treasurer; Rachel Nelson of Norfolk, 371-7525, secretary; and Ann Letheby, Norfolk, 371-3666, newsletter editor.

At the May 14 meeting there will be a memorial service in observance of Memorial Day followed by election of officers for 1987-88. Old and new members are invited to attend and present ideas.

Sue Ross honored in Wakefield

Sue Ross of St. Edward was the honoree at a miscellaneous shower in the Wilbur and Lucille Baker home, Wakefield, May 2. Hostesses for the 25 guests were Lucille Baker, Vivian Muller, Carolyn Kramer and Carol Carlson of Wakefield, and Amy Magnuson of Emerson.

Miss Ross, daughter of Dave and Ann Sextro of Erwin, Iowa, is engaged to Steve Oberg of Albion, son of Robert and Gloria Oberg of Allen. They will be married July 18 at Zion Lutheran Church, Albion.

Five generations

Linksters earn win at Oakland

Things just keep getting better for the Wayne high golf team.

The Blue Devils fired their best team total of the season by posting 311 and winning the Oakland-Craig Invitational at the Oakland Country Club on Saturday. In doing so the Blue Devils beat rival Oakland-Craig for the second time in three tries. Wayne shattered its previous high score of 329 in regulation play.

The team title came down to the last group of the day which Jed Reeg of Wayne was playing in. Wayne and Blair were neck and neck but Reeg's two over par 72 sealed the championship for the locals. Blair finished second with a 317 score while Oakland-Craig was third at 318 in the 16-team field.

"The kids really played terrific," Coach Terry Munson said. "I would like to see them maintain that score. It would have to be tough to shoot a 317 and only get second place."

Reeg, a sophomore, took home top honors in the individual medal chase. He recorded one birdie, 14 pars, three bogies and three double bogies in the round.

The rest of the Blue Devils' squad also turned in some fine scores. Robb Reeg placed third with a 76 while Kevin Griess won a fourth place playoff when he and two other golfers carded a 77. David Ellis posted an 86 and Eric Runestad shot an 89.

Wayne will next be in action Friday when they travel to the Hartington Country Club to play in the Northern Activities Conference Tournament.

Wayne Bowling

Senior Citizens

On Tuesday, April 28 15 senior citizens bowled in league action at Melodee Lanes. The Swede Halley team defeated the Vern Harder team 3,491 to 3,326.

High series and games were bowled by: Norman Anderson, 205-514; Harold Maciejewski, 170-487; Charles Denesia, 168-449; Winton Wallin, 160-445; Art Brummond, 161-440; Swede Halley, 159-439; Ben Fuelberth, 157-435; Vern Harder, 173-434; and Otto Baier, 166-429.

On Thursday, April 30 12 senior citizens bowled. The Warren Austin team defeated the Charles Denesia team 2,913 to 2,889.

High series and games were bowled by: Warren Austin, 224-201-601; Vern Harder, 195-516; Swede Halley, 179-490; Winton Wallin, 193-481; Norman Anderson, 167-475; Harold Maciejewski, 183-475; Floyd Sullivan, 166-469; Perry Johnson, 162-454; Charles Denesia, 167-468; and Elmer Roemhild, 175-432.

Wakefield summer ball

All Wakefield boys and girls who want to play baseball and softball this summer should register Saturday at the Wakefield Community School in the multi-purpose room beginning at 10 a.m. Anyone interested and cannot attend the registration should contact Joe Coble at the school.

Registration fees are $10 each for the first two participants in every family and $3 for each additional member of the family. The fees cover all girls teams and Pee Wee, Pony League and Little League teams for boys.

All children ages eight through 18 are eligible to play ball during the summer. The boys teams will be coached by Coble while Jelene Bartels and Kristal Clay will coach the girls.

The Wakefield Lions Club and the Wakefield Community Club will be sponsoring the teams and are planning a fund raiser May 30.

Allen recreation program

The Allen Summer Recreation Program sponsored by the Allen Community Development Club, with members Bob Noe, Keith Hill, Duane Mitchell, Sandy Chase and Neil Biehm, met recently.

Among the items discussed were the hiring and payment of coaches, the organization of fund raisers and the use of the concession stand at games.

A fee of $10 per child was agreed upon for equipment, uniforms, insurance, entry fees for tournaments and salaries for coaches. This year's coaches at Dave Uldrich, Pony League, Pee Wee and boys T-ball; and Sheryl Boyle, girls softball and T-ball.

All students interested in playing ball this summer should contact Uldrich at the school.

Overin concludes season

Steve Overin of Wayne is swinging a hot bat as his team, Iowa Western, prepares to finish up the season.

Overin went into the final game hitting .387. In that game he went 4-6. Three of his four hits went for home runs while the fourth, a single, hit the top of the wall and came back into the park. One of Overin's homers traveled more than 450 feet. He also leads the Clarinda, Iowa school in home runs with 13 on the season. Iowa Western is set to play in a regional tournament in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Midland camp

Midland College Coach Joanne Bracker will again be offering girls basketball camps this summer.

The camps are offered to all girls who will be entering 6th-12th grades. There will be a fundamental boarding camp offered May 31 through June 5 and June 7-12. The all-star camp will be held June 14-19 and teams camps are set for June 14-19, June 22-23 and June 25-26. Individual, group or team shooting lessons are offered July 1-31.

For more information contact Bracker at Midland College, Fremont, Ne. 68025 or call (402)721-5480 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

THIS IS National Pet Week, and kindergartners at Wayne Elementary School enjoyed some excitement as a result Tuesday. They had a visit from a Scottish Terrier, accompanied by the wives of three Wayne veterinarians. Mrs. Jan Liska (right) explained Pet Week while Mrs. Donna Liska and Mrs. Kay Swerczek distributed special balloons to the pupils in teacher Joan Hansen's class. Meanwhile, Max the Scottie made friends all around. The three women also presented school librarian Claudia Koeber two books written by the noted English veterinarian James Herriot: "Moses the Kitten" and "Only One-Wool."

They also delivered three other Herriot books: "Dog Stories" to the Middle School library and "The Best of James Herriot" to the City Library.
These books were gifts by veterinarians J.J. Liska, Kenneth Liska and David Swerczek, of the Wayne Veterinary Clinic. Jan Liska, wife of Ken, is president of the

VOTE YES FOR CITY SALES TAX

Many Wayne voters still are being told that there is no proof that a city sales tax will result in lower property taxes. Here is the proof:
Section 1 of Ordinance No. 87-2 clearly stated that ALL revenues collected by a sales tax shall be used ONLY for property tax relief.
Section 2 of that same Ordinance No.
87-2 clearly states that a 3-member citizen committee will report its fin-revenues and publicly report its findings.
Section 3 of Ordinance No. 87-2 clearly states that there will be no changes except by the voters.
 VOTE YES FOR CITY SALES TAX

TRUST

The opponents of the city sales tax would like you to believe that your elected representatives and city officials cannot be trusted to keep their word that sales tax revenues will be used to reduce property taxes.
Aren't they really saying that you can't be trusted to elect responsible council people and mayors? Be a voice for a positive future!

VOTE YES FOR CITY SALES TAX

JOBS

The only stimulus for a community to grow is the creation of new jobs. The creation of those jobs does not occur by chance any more. Communities are fiercely competing for businesses and resources available for attracting new business. Without the funding proposed by with the City sales tax, Wayne will be out of the race for those new jobs.

VOTE YES FOR CITY SALES TAX

FAIRNESS

Several charges have been made that the proposed city sales tax is unfair.
What is unfair about:
• Asking all users of city services to share in the support of those services
• Asking all beneficiaries of Wayne's efforts to expand the area's economy with new industry to share in the financial support of these efforts.

Day Neutral vs. Everbearing Strawberries

Day neutral strawberries, unlike everbearers, are fruitful throughout the growing season as they produce flowers regardless of the length of the night. On the other hand, Junebearers and everbearers produce flowers only under a specific day length.

Tristar and Tribute are the two most readily available day neutral cultivars. Their fruit quality is superior to the standard everbearers although their fruit size is smaller than Ozark.

Day neutrals require mulching during the summer. Ground corn cobs provide an excellent mulch to keep the soil cool and moist. High soil temperatures can reduce flower production in midsummer.

Plant day neutrals 12 inches apart in double rows. Offset the plant in the two rows (spaced 12 inches apart) so that the plant in one row is midpoint between two plants in the second row.

Grow the plants in the hill system, that is, cut off all runners. Remove blossoms in the planting year up to June.

Apple mint a Garden Herb

Apple mint has gained interest this year as an herb for the garden.

A native of Europe, the Apple Mint is often referred to as the "Dry-Land Mint" since it is tolerant of full sun and dry conditions. The plant will grow to three feet tall with leaves that are an inch or more in diameter. The leaves are woody and have the scent of apple. The plant also has white flowers that are produced at the top of the plant in late summer.

Place plants in a sunny location that provides good garden soil. Plants should be about 18 inches apart to allow for the rapid spread that they are known for. Every three years the roots should be lifted and the old roots discarded and just the young and growing portions replanted. The Apple Mint will spread quickly and should be chopped out to keep it under control.

Apple Mint leaves are used chopped in salads and mint sauces, or whole leaves are used to make candied mint leaves. The leaves are also dried for cooking and for use in nosegays and sachets.

Apple Mint seems to be one of the newer plants for this season and that could mean a new perennial for the future.

Redirection of BLM program needed

Wild horses costing U.S. millions

Some of us are prone to saying that wild horses could not keep us from doing something we really have our minds set on. Whether this is so or not, wild horses are doing at least one thing: costing the U.S. millions of dollars a year for their maintenance in holding facilities.

It's been more than 15 years since Congress enacted a law requiring protection, management and control of wild free-roaming horses and burros on public lands. The law resulted from public concern that the animals were being captured, often inhumanely, and used for commercial profit. It sought to protect these animals as living symbols of the historic and pioneer spirit of the West.

To say that much has changed since enactment of the Wild Free-Roaming Horses and Burros Act of 1971 is to indulge in understatement. Protected from human predators and being subject to few non-human ones, their numbers have increased greatly — about 64,000 animals were being managed on Bureau of Land Management lands in 1980. Though it says it's still planning, the BLM estimates that a population of about 30,000 wild horses and burros is need-

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
by Cheryl Stubbendieck, Vice President/Information

ed to maintain the resource. At higher levels, they are destructive to another resource; the rangeland itself, and can provide unacceptable competition for domestic livestock.

When population exceeds need for any of its management areas within 10 western states, excess animals are captured and removed from the lands. Aged, sick or lame animals are humanely destroyed. Healthy animals are offered for private maintenance by qualified individuals — meaning they are not to be slaughtered for horse meat or byproducts. If homes can't be found, they are to be humanely destroyed. At least that was the plan, but the director of the BLM placed a moratorium on destruction of healthy animals in January of 1982 and it remains in effect.

THE BLM HAS been trying to find homes for the animals through its Adopt-a-Horse and Adopt-a-Burro programs and some 70,000 animals have been removed from public maintenance in this way. But with 7,500 to 10,000 unadopted animals maintained on BLM lands at all times, at an annual cost of more than $9 million, much of the funding for the total program is going to maintenance.

The BLM is proposing to deal with the problem through adoption of a new policy, which it is offering for public comment through May 22. It includes continuation of the adoption programs, special adoption at lower prices, training of horses by prison inmates prior to adoption, humane destruction of healthy animals not adopted after 90 days, and adoption and placement of horses on privately funded sanctuaries located on private lands.

The draft policy also requires management of wild horses and burros on public lands at the minimum level necessary to maintain the resource, and where private lands are intermingled with public lands, to reach cooperative agreements with private landowners before a herd management area is established.

THE NEW DRAFT policy is an improvement over the 1971 legislation. The original act was adopted in the wake of public concern for the animals, and it did not provide adequate protection for the land itself or address competition with domestic livestock. BLM Director Robert F. Burford — the man who enacted the moratorium on destruction in 1982 — now says, "Our emphasis must remain on humane treatment of the animals, but we also must consider their impact upon the public land resource that we are required to protect, upon other public land users and upon neighboring private landowners, as well as the cost effectiveness of the program."

That's a significant redirection for the program, and one that's needed. While there is value in keeping a population of these symbols of the pioneer West, it is also important to maintain the land itself and consider the rights of private landowners.

Higher residue improves control of soil erosion

Producers are hearing the term "conservation tillage" from a variety of sources; whether it be in farm magazines and newspapers, from neighbors, on TV and radio, or from University, SCS, LASCs, and NRD personnel. Unfortunately, many farmers think they are using conservation tillage because they no longer use the moldboard plow. However, conservation tillage is not defined by the tillage implement used but by the amount of residue cover remaining on the soil surface after tillage and planting.

Conservation tillage is any tillage or planting system that leaves at least 20 to 30 percent residue cover on the soil surface at planting. This residue cover will decrease erosion by more than 50 percent of that which occurs from a cleanly tilled field. Increased residue levels will improve erosion control.

An essential element of any conservation tillage system is estimating the residue cover, an easy and quick process which any producer can do in the field.

Learning to measure residue cover is important because the success of conservation tillage depends on the percentage of evenly distributed residue remaining on the soil surface after planting. In addition, many of the conservation plans currently being developed in order for producers to comply with the 1985 Food Security Act (Farm Bill) have conservation tillage and residue management as integral parts of them.

"Soil erosion from agricultural land continues to be a major concern for Nebraska farmers and ranchers," said Don Spitzze, Extension agent in Wayne County, adding that each year approximately 1.4 million tons of topsoil is washed away from Nebraska farmlands.

"Leaving the soil surface protected by crop residue, through the use of conservation tillage, has proven to be one of the most effective and least costly methods of erosion control."

He suggested two ways to estimate residue: the line transect and photo comparison methods.

Line-Transect Method:
This method involves stretching a 100-foot tape diagonally across the crop rows and checking at every foot, meter to see if that point touches a piece of residue. The percentage of residue cover is the number of times points are touched by residue.

When checking, a good question to consider is: "If a raindrop falls at this point, will it hit residue or bare soil?" Look straight down at the tape and take all readings on the same side of the tape. If there is any doubt whether residue touches the point, do not count it. Care should be taken not to overestimate the residue cover.

To reach the most accurate figure, measurements should be taken at three sites, none of which are in turnrow areas.

*Residue cover also can be estimated by comparing actual field conditions to photos of known residue cover. Photos can be obtained at the Wayne County Extension Office at the courthouse.

Olson, Greve gain honors

The annual banquet of the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders was held April 26 at the Black Knight Restaurant in Wayne.

The Outstanding Service Award was presented to George Olson of Emerson in recognition of his outstanding service and leadership provided to the livestock industry.

George, a life-long resident of Northeast Nebraska, was born on a farm near Wakefield and moved to a farm near Winnebago five years later where he lived until 1985. When he and his wife moved to Emerson, he is a past Master of a Masonic Lodge, Past President of the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders, and spent 14 years on the Winnebago School Board while his four children attended school there. He has also been an Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassador for 20 years, a church council member of St. Lukes in Emerson, and an active member of the Farm Crisis Committee and the American Legion.

George has always been a tireless worker and supporter of the livestock industry. His efforts are sincerely appreciated.

Molly Greve of Wakefield will reign as the new Feeders queen and will represent the Northeast Feeders in the State Contest this fall. Molly, the daughter of Art and Mae Greve, is a junior at Wakefield high school. Besides taking an active interest in the family farming and livestock operation, she is involved in numerous church and school activities, including music, sports and FHA. She is also an active 4H member.

The Feeders Association and Auxiliary expresses appreciation to those individuals and businesses who helped plan and sponsor this year's events.

Check for cutworms on plants

Corn producers in eastern and central Nebraska should check for cutworm damage as soon as their plants emerge from the soil, according to University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension entomologist Fred Baxendale.

Cutworms usually attack river-bottom corn and corn which follows sod, pasture, alfalfa, soybeans or small grains. Baxendale said. Fields with heavy plant residues or, early season weed growth are also susceptible.

Dingy and black cutworms do most of the damage in Nebraska, though dark-sided cutworms are active in the western and northeastern portions of the state, Baxendale said. Black cutworms rarely appear west of the one-hundredth parallel, which runs through Dawson County.

Dingy cutworms, which overwinter as larvae, strike in the spring, particularly following legumes and in fields with heavy crop residues. Since dingy cutworms feed primarily on foliage and rarely cut stems, treatment is not justified unless extensive feeding accompanies poor growing conditions, Baxendale said.

Black cutworms pose more of a threat. Moths deposit eggs on grasses and weeds prior to corn planting. Worms progress from leaf-feeding to stem cutting as they mature. Damage occurs soon after the corn plants emerge from the soil.

"Severe cutworm damage in Nebraska is relatively rare," Baxendale said. "We have no evidence to suggest that 1987 will be a heavy cutworm year."

Hamburger supplies to decrease

For many American families, the versatility, cost and ease of using hamburger has made it a staple in their diets.

This may change, however, in the next few years.

Hamburger supplies per person were up 4 percent in 1986 to 32.7 pounds, according to Al Weltman, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension marketing specialist.

Supplies however are expected to decrease in 1987 and possibly for the next three to five years, he said, adding that such reductions may cause moderate to sharp price increases.

A 1986 USDA study indicated that ground beef was one of the four cheapest sources of protein. It cost approximately 34 cents for a serving providing 20 grams of protein.

The beef industry will have to evaluate some possible changes in consumer eating habits if the price of hamburger increases too much, Weltman said.

He questioned whether consumers would be as apt to select hamburger over a lower-priced poultry or pork product.

A steak and hamburger price study indicates that the consumer no longer identifies hamburger with steak. It showed that the consumer is willing to pay a premium for the higher priced beef cuts but will switch to alternative meats when the "price" of hamburger increases too much, he said.

In cow-calf operations

Good records aid management

Cattle will be part of Nebraska agriculture for centuries to come because of their unique ability to use forages. But producers need to keep both production and financial records to aid in making correct management decisions, according to Rick Rasby, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension beef specialist.

Cow-calf producers have been slow to change to a detailed recordkeeping system. "We are entering an era when records of individual cow performance, overall herd performance and feed inventory are a necessity," Rasby said. "To remain profitable in cow-calf production, producers must replace traditional management decisions with decisions based on business options."

Management changes that producers can implement to increase net dollars returned include:

— A greater percentage of calves born early in the calving season, resulting in heavier calves at weaning and as yearlings.

— If retaining ownership of the calves is not a viable alternative, then weaning heavier calves is a major objective. The heaviest calf at weaning is usually the calf born early in the calving season because weaning weight is a product of birth weight and daily gain from birth to weaning.

— A short calving season results in more efficient use of time and labor. Some producers have other farm enterprises that require time overlapping with the critical times needed for cow-calf operations. Calving in a shorter period of time is labor intensive, but eliminates dividing time between the two enterprises. Cows need to be monitored at regular intervals, during calving so assistance is available when needed.

— Calves produced in a short calving season are more uniform and make a more attractive package at market time.

A MAJOR goal of cattle producers is to produce as many pounds of beef as possible at minimal expense. Profitability of cow-calf enterprise can be assessed using three general criteria: percent of calf crop weaned, weight of calves at weaning and production costs.

"Most operations rely on weaning weights of the calves for their income," Rasby said. "Because of the feed resources available, many producers have to market their calves at the same time every year, which may result in consistently selling calves when the market price is low."

A good and accurate feed inventory may show that at times there is enough feed or pasture on inventory so some or all of the calves could be retained to sell at a later date, he said.

Retaining ownership may allow more marketing flexibility and increase possible profits to producers.

UP WITH AGRICULTURE
By David Garst

If you think all the thoughts about American agriculture these days are doom and gloom, you're listening to the wrong people.

We recently completed judging entries in our annual "Up With Agriculture" Writing Contest among FFA members, and I can't help but feel confident about the future of American agriculture.

To be sure, FFA members certainly aren't lacking when it comes to creativity. We received everything from short stories to anecdotes and poems. But more importantly, these young people know there is both a lot of challenge and opportunity in agriculture today.

An excellent example of this optimism is expressed in a poem by Jeff Conner of Taylor, Nebraska. His entry was named the overall winner from the estimated 7,000 entries in this year's contest.

Jeff's winning entry reads:

My mom's just like my dad in ways,

*Cause she's a farmer too,
She drives a tractor, hauls the grain,
Just like my dad can do.
In spring, as the ground warms up,
She plants and hoes the weeds.
It's surprising what my mom can do
With a little pack of seeds.
The shellys down in our basement
Are neatly lined with rows,
And rows of fruits and vegetables,
Just another way she shows,
When times are tough, she'll do her best
To help us make it through.
That's why I'm proud to say my mom's Involved in agriculture, too!*

Jeff's proud of his mother's role in American agriculture. And rightly so. There's never been a better, more efficient team in American labor than a husband and his wife farming together. They've made American agriculture the envy of the world.

The pride and optimism of bright, young people like Jeff in his family and profession are contagious. With people like him leading the way, great things are ahead for American agriculture.

For American Cancer Society

Memorial Fund established

The Memorial fund of the American Cancer Society has been established to provide a practical and fitting means by which families or friends can commemorate a loved one who has died of cancer or other cause.

Contributions made in memory of a family member or a friend are acknowledged by the American Cancer Society, Wayne County Unit, and a Memorial card is sent to the family, either group or individual, stating that a memorial has been received and giving the name of the donor. These contributions may be in any amount and are tax deductible.

Memorial funds are used in support of the American Cancer Society's unceasing fight against cancer through coordinated programs of research, education and service.

Although the major source of funds for these programs comes from the Society's annual April Crusade

Memorial gifts received throughout the year are becoming increasingly important to the Society, as more of a loved one toward ultimate victory over the dread disease of cancer.

The American Cancer Society is deeply grateful to families, other groups, and individuals of Wayne County who are using this practical means of assisting the American Cancer Society in expanding counter-attack on cancer.

Memorial funds should be sent to Mrs. Fred Gildersleeve, 1005 Sherman, Wayne, Nebraska, Memorial Chairman of the Wayne County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Memorial Day might be an appropriate time to turn our thoughts to the custom of honoring those who have died of cancer by contributing to this special fund. This expression of love and devotion to the deceased is most fitting.

The Farmer's Wife

by Pat Melencherry

Have you ever plopped into a chair at the end of an especially busy day, completely exhausted, and felt as if you couldn't get back up again even if the house was burning down around you?

That's the Farmer's Wife this week so this is the "Nurse's Husband's" column today. A year or two ago I wrote one of these weekly episodes and commented that I admired anyone who could do it week after week. I still have that feeling about it.

Sometimes I look at her calendar and suspect she schedules so many things just to have lots of writing material. Could that be? She knows if she doesn't get it done over the weekend she's in trouble. So let me tell you about the weekend.

Saturday morning at 9:00 we left for the Nebraska Intercollegiate athletic conference track meet at Hastings because Jon would be high jumping at 12:00 and Kay would be throwing the discus at 1:00. They couldn't have scheduled those events any better for us. We're usually just happy they don't both compete at the same time on opposite ends of the field.

There was one disappointment however. When we got there we found out Jon had thrown the javelin at 10:00 and gotten second place. Of course we missed it. As a matter of fact I've never seen Jon throw the javelin, even in practice. He doesn't always compete in it because it's often scheduled at the same time as the high jump.

I think that's because there are very few athletes who do both of those particular events. Jon said he felt a little out of place throwing javelin with those 250 or 300 pound shot-putters. He did it in a decathlon last spring and one of the coaches saw some potential and has entered him whenever it doesn't interfere with his high jumping.

Anyway, Jon won the high jump at 6'10", and Nebraska Wesleyan won the mens division of the meet so everyone was happy. We left at 2:00, had a quick McDonald's dinner, and headed for my sister's home at Central City. There we picked up my mother to bring her back to Norfolk where she lives.

Pat, as a juniors mother, had to help serve the meal at the Winside junior-senior prom that evening. She didn't quite get there by 5:00 as she'd planned.

That event kept her tied up until about 10:30 p.m., but she doesn't sleep very soundly until Ann gets home. I won't even specify what time that was.

Sunday evening at 6:00 was a supper for the Nebraska Wesleyan track team at Lincoln. We didn't even discuss not going to it, but I believe the thought crossed both our minds. We knew Jon was to be honored as one of only three juniors, so we'd always planned to go.

We would have left at noon after church but Pat had some charting to do from Friday's patient visits and she knew it would be midnight or later when we got home from Lincoln. So we left here at 3:00 p.m. The meal was delicious, and afterward the coaches handed out letters and awards.

We were very impressed with the fact that they said some good things about every single athlete, even some of the freshmen who hadn't done real well. In my eight plus years as a member of a public school Board of Education and many more as a parent I've seen lots of coaching styles. Those coaches with a positive attitude still make me feel good about the value of sports.

The awards to the three seniors were appropriately last on the program. I know if Pat were writing this column what happened next would be in it. As a matter of fact, it would probably occupy most of the space. The head track coach whose name is Ted described all the accomplishments of Denny a distance runner and former roommate of Jon's, and of our Jon.

He then proceeded through a long and very impressive list of successes of the 3rd senior, Scott Eatherton, a Lincoln Northeast graduate. Scott's specialty is the hurdles and among his past awards are 9 All-American plaques. This means he has placed (top 5) in nine events at National N.C.A.A. division III track meets over his 4 years come later this month. He holds a bunch of Wesleyan record and meet records. He also competes in the broard jump, triple scored 43 of the team's 171 points at Hastings on Saturday. Quite an athlete!

After finishing this list, Ted started to tell us what a dedicated athlete Scott is and how hard he works. He paused for a short time as if searching for words, but we could see tears in his eyes from where we sat. Another sentence about Scott working out in the weight room early Sunday mornings even after a track meet, then a much longer pause.

While the coach regained his composure I glanced around at the Farmers Wife and Denny's mother. More tears. Scott took the long, walk up to the podium amidst a standing ovation of teammates and their parents. I knew while watching a coach and one of his most talented athletes hug each other with mutual pride why neither of us was willing to miss the event.

VOLUNTEER TEA

Guests and residents of the Wakefield Health Care Center soared high April 22 when they attended the annual Volunteer Tea. The dining room was decorated with colorful kites in keeping with the theme "Kites Give Us A Lift-Volunteers Give Us A Lift."

Administrator John Viken welcomed the guests and all in attendance. Stephanie Torczon lifted all in song as she sang "Go Fly a Kite", accompanied by Kay Hansen on the piano. Volunteers also participated in the afternoon program by Compar-Kites and Volunteers. Kite tales provide balance; kites are colorful; kites are uplifting to view; kites are free soaring; kites come in all shapes and sizes; and watching kites provides one with a tranquil feeling. Sharing their thoughts on how volunteers fit those descriptions were Margaret Paulson, Eleanor Park, David Rusk, Betty Lou Hladky, Lois Nuernberger, and Faye Greve.

Lilith Fredrickson entertained them with several numbers on the accordion. To thank the volunteers from the residents of the Care Center, Corrine Carlson composed and read a poem entitled, "Volunteers Give A Lift"

Just as kites give us a lift
Soaring above—so bright and free
So volunteers give us a lift
As they come to visit, you see,
They may read me a letter from a friend
To give me a lift 'ere the day ends
They may give me a push when the ball seems long
So I can enjoy someone's message in song
Or, take me out on the patio
The sunshine and birds, I enjoy them so
They may wheel me down the street
To see the flowers that smell so sweet.
They may even bring a treat
From their kitchen for me to eat.
They may help tie a quilt or stuff a bear
To let me know they really care.
Bingo is the game we play
When friends join in on Friday
A flower to smell—a cat to pet
A child's laughter, Bible studies too
From our pastors we wish to do.
A few moments of talking and sharing God's
Is like a touch from my Heavenly Father above.
Yes, volunteers "lift" is a precious gift.
Today—We Thank You—for the Lift.

To further add color to the occasion, the tablecloths and napkins were all pastel colors. Spring blossoms, flowers and kite note cards added to the interest. Irene Jeffrey prepared the delicious pastel colored cakes for the refreshments.

DONATIONS SOUGHT

The Avenue of Flags at the Wakefield Cemetery began Memorial Day 1981 with 42 flags. The number has been increasing each year. Seventy-five flags were flown in 1986.

The Avenue of Flags Committee wishes to thank everyone who has contributed to this project. All donations and memorials are very much appreciated.

Again this year more casket flags have been given and more poles are being added so these flags can also be flown on Memorial Day. Anyone desiring to give a cash donation to help buy poles may do so. Your donations may be left at Anderson Lumber Co., or at True Value or given to the Avenue of Flags Committee, Chairman Harold Fischer or Marvin Muller.

If you have a casket flag of a Veteran buried in the Wakefield Cemetery that you would like to give, you may leave the flag with Norman Minola, Tom Anderson, Harold Fischer or Marvin Muller. Each Veteran's name is printed on a white band at the end of the flag.

Several people in the Wakefield Community have inquired from Marvin Muller about buying flag poles and flags for their homes. This year some poles and flags will be available at True Value and Anderson Lumber Co. or you may contact Marvin Muller. The prices are: pole $35; 3'x5' flag - $15; and 5'x8' flag - $45. Proceeds from the sale of poles and flags will be used for the Avenue of Flags.

WINNERS IN STATE SPANISH CONTEST

Bobbi Welershauser, daughter of Robert and Judy Welershauser, and a sophomore at Wakefield High School is the first place winner for level II of the Nebraska Chapter of the National Spanish Exam. Cam Thies, son of Lyle and Betty Johanson, is the third place winner.

"These two students certainly make their school and teachers proud," commented their instructor Olga Tappe, "but I wasn't too surprised, because they are excellent scholars and have an outstanding command of the Spanish language." The exam consisted of five levels ranging from Beginning High School Level I to Native Speaker Level V. Both students entered Level II because both have studied two years in High School. Bobbi is presently in Spanish 2, but Cam was enrolled in Spanish 2 in the 84-85 school year, and wasn't about to work it into his schedule again during his junior and senior years.

This is the first time Wakefield has participated in the exam which is run as a State wide contest. There will be a trophy awarded presentation in Omaha on May 9, at 10 a.m. at District 46 School.

Bobbi is eligible for two drawings to be held at the Presentations Ceremony. One is for a scholarship to attend the annual Nebraska Foreign Languages Camp held in July, and the second drawing is for a free trip to Mexico this summer sponsored by a Minnesota Tour Agency.

Other Wakefield students who took the exam were in Level II: Kaye Hansen, Level I: Lana Ekberg, Tysha Nixon, Deanna Mulhair, Sean Neal, Biron Larson, Matt Tappe, Johanna Whil and Christy Oswald. Johanna, a Swedish foreign exchange student, had the highest Wakefield Level I score. There were 1,028 Nebraska students entered throughout the state with the Majority registered for Level I and II.

ACCEPTED INTO UN-L HONORS PROGRAM

Cam Thies, who will graduate from Wakefield High School in May, has been admitted to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UN-L) University Honors Program for the fall semester. One hundred high school seniors were accepted into the program for the 1987-88 academic year. Cam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle W. Johanson.

The University Honor Program provides students of proven ability and distinguished academic record with a challenging academic experience in college. Students are selected for participation in the program on the basis of a formal application that includes high school record, standardized test scores, recommendation from teachers and counselors and an essay.

Students in the honors program are required to take at least 18 hours of honors work in their college career and to write an honors thesis in their senior year. Credits earned in the program apply toward graduation requirements. A special notation is made on the student's transcript and diploma upon graduation from UN-L to inform graduate schools and employers of the student's outstanding ability and achievement.

RECEIVES AWARD

Staff of the Wakefield Health Care Center present for a Caring Practices Award presentation April 28 were: Joan Sharp, Willie Gustafson, Deb Gustafson, Lesa Urbanc, Cheryl Greve, Donna Johnson, Erica Diederker, Carol Nixon, Connie Roberts, Dawn Sievers, Theresa Soderberg, Marian Peters, Pat Oberg, Ruth Otken, Veneil Meyer, Annette Leapley and Dawn Lubberstedt.

The special award was given in recognition of WHCC's commitment to staff education and training in incotline management and skin care.

The award was presented by Pat Dehoff, R.N. representative of Attends to WHCC administrator John Viken and Director of Nursing Carol Nixon.

According to Ms. Dehoff, only a select number of facilities nationwide receive the Caring Practices Award. She continued saying that nine of 175 homes in her district received the award.

ACCREDITATION RENEWED

Principal Joe Coble of Wakefield Community Schools has announced that the school's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the 1986-87 school year. The Association reviews each year the school's meeting of NCA standards. Wakefield Community Schools has been commended by the Association for having no violations of standards.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Schools serves a nineteen state region encompassing the middle third of the nation—West Virginia to Colorado and North Dakota to Arkansas. It is a voluntary membership league of more than 6,000 schools and 900 colleges and universities working together in quest of excellence in education. The Association structures evaluation and accreditation activities for its member institutions.

FOUR TOP RATINGS

The Wakefield High School Music Department received four division I (superior) ratings and three division II (excellent) ratings at the District Music Contest. The competition was held on the Wayne State Campus Friday and Saturday, April 24-25.

The Girls Glee, Swing Choir, Girls Sextet, and the Trojan Band performances all were rated superior. According to Music Director Diane Turlinger, the three large groups have merited first division ratings for several years in a row.

Mollie Greve's trumpet solo, the girls ensemble and a duet of Susie McQuistan and Lynn Anderson all were rated excellent.

AWARDS TOWALDBAUM COMPANY

The Milton G. Waldbaum Co. received two awards at the Annual Nebraska Safety Days held in Lincoln, April 21-23.

The Certificate of Safety Excellence Award was presented to Bonnie Hintz—Fleet Safety Director. It was for an outstanding fleet safety program, accomplishment of 3.7 million miles driven without a reportable accident and no traffic infractions by company drivers in 1986. This is the second year in a row the Waldbaum fleet drivers have received this award.

The second award was a Certificate of Merit for safety within the plant which was presented to Larry Hintz-Safety Director.

WINS IOWA LOTTERY

Bonnie Bressler "scratched off" a Grand Slam on an Iowa Lottery Ticket last week and revealed that she had won $1,000.

NEED BUS SPONSORS

The Trojan Band will be taking part in the Orange City, Iowa, annual Tulip Festival. The band is scheduled to march in the 1 p.m. parade on Friday, May 15.

Band Director Diane Trullinger is looking for band parents to act as bus sponsors and accompany the band to Orange City that day. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Trullinger at the school.

CASSETTE TAPES

The Graves Public Library now has an interlibrary loan for audio cassette tapes. Available on the tapes are biographies and autobiographies, drama, foreign languages, literature, music, mysteries, novels, children's stories, poetry, speeches, plus many other areas.

The library has a catalog listing all the selections available. If interested in the tapes, please visit or call the library and ask for Mrs. Pat Berry about them.

BROWNIE ADVENTURE DAY

Twenty Brownie Scouts from Wakefield attended the 1987 Brownie Adventure Day in Laurel on April 25. The girls enjoyed a super magic show performed by David Arch, who uses his magic to help build children's self esteem. The girls also participated in singing, crafts and games, and had the opportunity to meet new brownies from other towns.

Girls attending were Penny Frederickson, Kristi Gustafson, Jamie Kelloug, Sabrina Kucera, Aubrey Leonard, Jennifer Sandahl, Julie Schroeder, Jennifer Simpson, Becky Wagner, Kellie Wilbur, Susan Brudigan, Rachel Dutcher, Emily Dalley, RaeAnne Larson, Amanda Wirth, Jamie Paulson, Mindy Eaton, Allison Benson, Katie Salmon and Tara Anderson. Driving were Joyce Wagner, Sue Sandahl, Tammy Salmon and Mary Brudigan.

PINEWOOD DERBY

Sixteen Wakefield Cub Scouts raced their small wooden cars in the Adam Keim Memorial Pinewood Derby April 25. The race was held at Scout Hall location in the old school building.

After many run-offs officiated by Cubmaster Tim Rouse and several fathers, Matt Gustafson's car was declared the winner. Cory Coble's blue streak finished second and Cory Brown's was third. The boys received ribbons and all received gift certificates.

News and Notes

by Mary Temme, Extension Agent-Home Ec.

This week is special for Home Extension Club members. May 3-9 is National Extension Homemakers Week.

What is a home extension club? It is part of the educational program of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service. Clubs meet monthly in members' homes or community meeting rooms to share and learn ideas.

Members take turns presenting lessons to their clubs. The extension agent for home economics provides training to club lesson leaders. All materials are provided to the clubs by the extension service.

Lessons for 1987 have included home filling systems, microwave cookery, understanding today's fabrics, affirming family and friends, women and the law, and grandparenting.

Wayne County has 12 home extension clubs organized into a county council. This council sponsors several activities throughout the year. Some of these include tours, workshops, poster contests for youth and cultural arts contests.

One of the Wayne County Council's major volunteer projects is providing manpower and prize money for the Wayne County Fair open class exhibits. Items exhibited in arts and crafts, foods, fruits, vegetables flowers and children under 12 all come under the guidance of extension club members.

In 1986, 80 home extension club members worked nearly 300 hours entering exhibits, assisting judges, arranging exhibits and providing security.

Individual home extension clubs include community service projects in their yearly plans. Many provide entertainment in care centers, resource books for libraries and get involved in local community projects.

Home extension club membership is open to all people including young homemakers; working women, grandparents, men and women both. Clubs meet at a convenient time for the members and charge yearly dues of less than $5.

Anyone interested in joining or forming a club — like a group or friends or neighbors — can call the Cooperative Extension Service at 375-3310 for information and help.

JUNIOR/SENIOR PROM
Darin Schellenberg and Mindy Janssen Nuss were crowned as the 1987 prom King and Queen during the May 2 dinner banquet held in the elementary building multi-purpose room. Attendees chosen were seniors Tammy Falk and Brent Nau. Theme for the evening was "Sea of Love". Decorations were done in blue, green and silver. A tarped, fluorescent lighted tunnel led into the dining area where a ceiling of sea waves and hanging stuffed dolphins greeted everyone. A huge wood constructed chaired painting of a wrecked ship named the WHS Wildcat (Winside High School Mascot) graced the front of the stage area and spilled out a treasure chest filled with coins and jewels. A large constructed chalk picture of a sea shell adorned by the king and queen thrones decorated another area of the room. Decorations were done by the junior class and their sponsors Kathy Hladky and Jim Halferty. Approximately 40 juniors, seniors and faculty dined at the 6:30 p.m. banquet of chicken and fish catered by Lee and Rosies and accompanied by salads, vegetables, and desserts prepared by the junior mothers. Serving the meal were sophomores Cam Behmer, Wendy Boldt, Mary Bruger, Steve Heinemann, Tim Jacobsen, Chris Nau, Rhonda Suehl and Darren Wacker. Pastor Walter Greene of Hoskins gave the benediction and invocation. Tammy Jenkins, junior class president gave the welcome and Cindy Berg, senior class president, read the seniors wills and prophecies. The senior class sponsors are teachers Joan Jensen and Penny Baler. A dance was held following the banquet from 9-12 a.m. Music was provided by R & J Sound, Norfolk. A post-prom party was held at midnight in the city auditorium by the junior and senior parents, Las Vegas night was the theme. Games of chance were played with play money. Barbeque sandwiches, nachos, fresh fruits, bars and pop were served all night. About 4 a.m. an auction was held of donated gifts which they purchased with the play money won. A drawing was held afterwards from names of the juniors and seniors present. Darin Schellenberg won $75 cash, Cindy Berg won $50 cash, Doug Paulson won $50 savings bond, Connie Smith won $25 cash and Mindy Nuss won a rectangular mirror with a sand blasted "W" in the center and 1987 on it. Post prom chairpersons this year were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Topp and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Janssen.

GUEST DAY
April 28 was "Guest Day" for the United Methodist Church Women of Winside. The welcome was given by Dorothy Nelson, UMCW president. Theme for the day was "The Rainbow, God's Promise". Lenora Davis registered the over 80 guests in attendance. Marie Suehl distributed name tags. The group sang the hymn "Standing on the Promise" accompanied by Mrs. Helen Holtgrew on the organ. Special music was also provided by the Treble Clef of the Wayne United Methodist Church. Rev. C.A. Carpenter led the group in a prayer. Coursages for Missions were presented to the United Methodist Women District Officers present and to Rev. Carpenter. Guest speaker was Donna Hedlund of Osmond. She is the activities director at the Plainview Nursing Home. The speech she gave was titled "Look for the Rainbow".

A hanging rainbow mobile decorated the room. From this, ten small hand crafted rainbow refrigerator magnets were removed and given to ten of the guests. A sandwich luncheon was served. Others assisting were Charlotte Wylie, usher; kitchen chairman, Audrey Quinn; table chairman, Dottie Wacker; and Program chairman, Rev. Carpenter. The next meeting will be Tuesday, May 12 at 2 p.m. Charlotte Wylie will have the program and Elsie Reed will be hostess.

Pharmacy & Your Health

Will Davis

Your Family Pharmacist At Sav-Mor Pharmacy

Your Prescription

Written prescriptions typically contain the drug name (generic name, brand name, or both), dosage form (e.g., tablet, capsule, suspension, suppository), strength or concentration, amount to be dispensed, directions for use, and refill information. Some parts of a prescription are often written in abbreviations derived from Latin words. The practice of using Latin abbreviations is not to confuse the patient, but simply a tradition that has evolved over several decades.

Each prescription is unique. The prescriber considers patient characteristics such as age, sex, and weight as well as mental and physical status. The prescriber also usually considers how long the medicine is to be taken, and the best times of day for the medicine to be taken. Prescriptions should obviously not be shared with other persons who have "similar" symptoms or health problems.

Your prescription is a personal document that is transformed by the pharmacist into an appropriately labeled medicine—exactly as the prescriber intended. We welcome questions about your prescription.

On clothes

Avoid contamination

This is the season when many people head for fields, gardens and back yards. The jobs they must get done often involve the use of toxic pesticides. How much of these toxic products cling to clothes, gloves and shoes, and how are these contaminated clothing items laundered? Contaminated clothing should be removed from the body as soon as possible and kept separate from other family laundry. If heavily contaminated with a highly toxic product the garments should be burned or buried, not laundered. When laundering contaminated clothing, first pre-rinse or pre-soak. Do not mix contaminated clothing with other laundry in the same load. Wash only a few items at a time. Machine settings should be at hot temperature (at least 140 F.), full water level and longest wash cycle. It may be necessary to rewash the load two, or three times depending on degree of contamination. Heavy duty detergents are recommended, however, research has found that heavy duty liquid detergents are more effective than other detergents in removing some pesticide formulations. Laundry additives as bleach or ammonia do not contribute to removing pesticide residues. Rinse the washer thoroughly after removing the load of contaminated clothing, so that residues left in the washer will not contaminate the next load. Line dry the clothes to avoid contaminating the clothes dryer. Remember to read the pesticide labels for information and warnings. Also be aware of when family members use pesticides so that clothing can be appropriately laundered. Consider using disposable protective clothing when using highly toxic pesticides.

For more information, request a copy of HEG 81-152, Laundering Pesticide Contaminated Clothing, from the Dixon County Extension Office, Concord, NE, 68728, phone 584-2234.

How to live with loss of bladder control

Incontinence, the loss of bladder control, is a common problem that affects over 4,600 people in Siouxland. Many people with incontinence suffer extreme embarrassment and refuse to leave the safety and security of their own homes. Fortunately, with proper medical help, almost every form of incontinence is treatable, manageable—even curable!

St. Luke's Regional Medical Center is offering a free and confidential educational program on incontinence. There are answers. We want to help you overcome the emotional and psychological aspects and learn about treatment alternatives. A panel of health care experts, including urologists, gynecologists and nursing educators, will discuss the causes of incontinence and the various methods of treatment. Above all, we want you to know that even if you do suffer from incontinence, you can still lead a normal, happy, active life.
