Circus tickets available

In about two weeks, the Wayne County Fairgrounds will be bustling with activity as the Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Circus caravan makes its way to Wayne and puts on an afternoon and evening show.

As the press release says: "From the bleak Siberian steppes to the deepest jungles of Africa, wild animals convene to form a veritable United Nations in the menagerie compound of the greater Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Circus, which comes to Wayne for one day only — with performances at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on June 11, sponsored by the Wayne Kiwanis Club."

There will be some 25 species of animals with the Carson & Barnes Circus. More than 200 animals, including some 25 mammoth elephants, are carried by the show. Children of all ages will have an opportunity to view the big zoo without additional charge when attending either circus performances. The animals also will be exhibited free to everyone in the morning during preparations for the day's activities.

Carson & Barnes is America's only circus carrying a free zoo of wild and domestic animals. The amount of food, bought locally for the animals, is staggering.

The list of feed consumed daily can include 115 bales of hay; 1,000 pounds of oats; six bushels of ear corn; 50 pounds of lettuce; a bushel of carrots; 1,000 pounds of bran; 100 pounds of sweet feed; 100 heads of cabbage; 25 pounds of onions; and a variety of others.

IT IS ALSO necessary for the big circus to buy groceries to feed 450 meals a day to the more than 150 people in the circus company. The head of the cookhouse makes daily purchases and likes to make use of local products.

Clown coloring contest entry forms have been distributed to elementary schools in Wayne, Carroll, Wakefield, Winslow and Laurel.

The contest is open to children who are ages 11 and under; and circus people will judge the entries in two age groups — for those age 7 and under, and those for ages 8 to 11.

Children are instructed to use crayons to color the picture of Charlie the Clown. Work must be done by the individual child, with no assistance, and only one entry per person. Entries will be judged on originality and quality of coloring.

Children can bring their entry to any performance. There will be separate competitions for each show. Winners will be announced and prizes will be awarded at each performance. Prizes include stuffed toys, balloons, hats, caps, T-shirts and other novelties.

Any child who missed getting a clown coloring entry form at school, might inquire at his or her school, or at the banks.

According to circus owner D.R. Miller, the Carson & Barnes extravaganza is the last big traditional circus in America — the big top stretches more than a city block long. Along with the circus comes a brass band, a host of funny clowns and several hundred human and animal performers.

An almost all-new contingent of performers presents a vast array of acrobatic and aerial tricks, including three troupers of flying trapeze performers, wire walking, bareback riding, juggling, contortion, teeterboard, trampoline, unicycle, adagio, single trapeze, dual aerial perch, Spanish web, head-balancing trapeze, rola bola, aerial loop-the-loop, rolling globes, balancing and iron jaw.

One of the stars of the two-hour show is Patricia White, one of the nation's preeminent wild animals trainers and the only lady trainer mixing male and female lions and tigers in one act.

The circus company uses some modern machinery to erect the tent, but still calls on some of the 25 elephants to pull the tent — like oldtimers remember when the circus came to town.

OTHER ANIMALS that arrive with the Carson & Barnes circus include a giraffe, hippopotamus, rhinoceros, zebras and 21 other species.

Advance ticket sales for the two Wayne performances, through June 10, are available from Wayne Kiwanis Club members or at the following locations:

Wayne — First National Bank main office; State National Bank and Trust and Drive-in; and the 7-11 Store.

Carroll — Farmers State Bank.

Delinquent taxes discussed

Water tower parts arrive

Water tower parts have arrived and installation of the new system will begin soon, according to Don Steffen, Wayne city planner.

Steffen made the announcement at Tuesday night's short meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Steffen also displayed a drawing to the city council which revealed what the water tower would look like after it has been completed.

The top of the tower will be blue, with the long narrow stem being white. The project is underway at the Wayne Industrial Park, just west of the Timplet plant site.

Also discussed during Tuesday's council meeting was a storm sewer problem near the Black Knight in Wayne. The situation exists, according to Councilman Randy Pedersen, where water could run into the back door of the restaurant establishment after extremely excessive rains.

Water is also backing up on the corner of 3rd and Main, he mentioned.

Discussed by the city council as ways to rectify the problem would be to extend or enlarge the present line. No action was taken during Tuesday's meeting.

IN OTHER action, the city council:

• Accepted the recommendation of Clyde Flowers, representing Bruce Gilmore and Associates, to award the bid of the sanitary sewer main extension on East 4th Street to B.D. Construction of Columbus.

The bid was for $39,555, with work to start about July 15 and the completion date to be nearly 30 days.

• Passed a resolution acknowledging the delinquent assessments of the Predoehl property (Wayne Music Store, south of the Black Knight), and then passed another resolution allowing the city attorney to file a foreclosure on the Predoehl property.

Among the delinquent taxes was a special assessment of an improvement project in 1976 that involved the placement of new sidewalks in front of the business establishment.

It was also discussed among the council members that the awning on the business establishment needed to be removed.

"It's an eyesore to the community and it could fall and hurt somebody," said Councilman Pedersen.

Stelling strikes gold

THERESA STELLING of Wakefield hit the mother lode at the state track meet in Omaha last weekend. The freshman was the gold-medal winner in the 1,600-meter run. She also set a new Class C record during the race. As if that wasn't enough she won the Class C 3,200-meter run and finished fourth in the 800-meter dash. Stelling also anchored the 3,200-meter relay team that finished fourth.

WSC gains development study funds

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Wayne State College announced last Friday the receipt of a $5,000 grant, through the Wayne State Foundation, from the Northwestern Bell Foundation. The grant has been provided to supply funding for a Small Community Development Study by the Division of Business at Wayne State. The proposal for the study was initiated by Dr. Vaughn Benson, head of the Division of Business, and State Senator Gerald Conway of Wayne, in conjunction with the Wayne State College Foundation.

Karla Ewert, community relations manager of Northwestern Bell in Omaha, and Ken Berglund, manager of the Wayne Northwestern Bell office, presented the grant to Dr. Joseph Fleck, interim president of Wayne State.

Ewert said "good things will come out of the grant."

Northern Bell, she said, is excited about becoming part of the pilot project that will be executed at Wayne State College.

"I would like to thank the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company for this funding and extend an additional word of thanks to Senator Conway for his help and support on this project," Dr. Fleck said.

DR. FLECK said education is the primary mission of the college, but that the college's secondary mission is one of service to the area.

"While we have the resources for service, we often do not have the financial resources to serve northeast Nebraska," he said.

"It is grants like this that help us to fulfill our mission," he added.

Senator Conway thanked Northwestern Bell for having the "confidence in picking Wayne State College for the pilot project."

The study is intended to help leaders of small communities deal with the variety of community problems which are affecting them in today's economic environment, Dr. Benson said. "These communities need assistance in gathering information for assessing and developing an approach to self improvement," Benson said.

Dr. Fleck said Wayne State's Division of Business is experienced in business study and consultation and that this experience will enhance the ability of the college to carry out the study.

Bank seeks office in Wayne

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

First Federal Lincoln, of Lincoln, has filed an application to establish a branch office in Wayne.

According to information contained in a legal document to be published in the May 28 edition of The Wayne Herald, submitted by First Federal Lincoln, an application has been filed with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board seeking permission to establish a branch office to be located at, or in the immediate vicinity of, 214 Main Street in Wayne.

The notice of filing for the application appears in this edition's legal notice section.

Rules and regulations of the Federal Savings and Loan System require that the notice of filing be published to inform the public.

No further information or news releases on the First Federal Lincoln bank branch proposal will be provided until a decision has been made on the filed application, according to a spokesperson from the First Federal Lincoln office in Lincoln.

ConAgra 'move-out' threat criticized

From the beginning ConAgra has threatened to move out of Nebraska unless the Legislature provides a specific package of tax exemptions. The Omaha-based company's position has been no secret, according to many state senators.

"I have always explained to my colleagues that if they want to save ConAgra they have to understand that ConAgra wants its way," said Sen. Vard Johnson of Omaha, who has been floor leader for the major tax incentive bill (LB 775). That means no negotiations; no compromises.

LB 775 provides 15 years of sales and income tax credits for companies which invest at least $3 million and create 30 jobs or invest $20 million. It also provides personal property tax exemptions for food processing equipment, jet planes and mainline computer equipment purchased for a new company or an expansion.

ConAgra made its position perfectly clear when the Legislature changed the bill in early May. That change effectively eliminated the property tax exemption for jet planes and mainline computer equipment.

SEVERAL DAYS later ConAgra threatened to begin looking in other states for a location for its headquarters (now in Omaha) and its new research facility unless the jet and computer equipment exemptions are restored.

Those exemptions would provide the company with about $12 million in additional tax benefits over the 15-year period.

Privately, many senators have called ConAgra's threats, blackmail, and labeled its attitude, arrogant.

But publicly most senators agreed to pass the bill ConAgra's way.

No one wanted to be responsible for losing a major corporation that puts $100 million into the economy of the Omaha area.

But senators had to endure a more than eight-hour filibuster by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha on May 19 before they could restore LB 775 to its pristine form.

Chambers, who has consistently criticized LB 775 as a tax give-away program for the rich, offered a series of amendments intended to drive that point home. He offered to exempt jewelry costing more than $25,000, yachts worth more than $500,000, evening gowns purchased by corporate executives for their "wives, mistresses or significant others," leather briefcases with 24-carat gold fittings, and more.

This bill is written for the rich so the rich "should get the whole hog."

AND ALONG THE way he repeatedly criticized the giant corporation, its chief executive officer, Mike Harper, and the Legislature's response to the company threats.

"Mike Harper can make you roll over and lick spittle," Chambers said.

"I'm going to run my amendments even if Mike Harper has a heart attack or Gov. Orr has an infant," Chambers promised.

Harper has intimidated senators, Chambers said.

"The legislative process has been taken over and co-opted by ConAgra."

Mike Harper, Chamber said, doesn't consider senators his "social equal. You're his tool."

As Chambers offered amendment after amendment, other senators wandered around the floor or went to the lounge to talk, read books and watched the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds baseball game.

And they voted against each Chamber amendment.

Finally the filibuster ended and senators amended the bill to ConAgra's satisfaction. But Chambers has promised a similar filibuster when the bill comes up for final approval this week.

Gov. Kay Orr would like to put the ConAgra debate behind her. The bill, she repeatedly points out, is not a ConAgra bill. It will encourage non-Nebraska companies to come into the state and Nebraska companies to expand. The state has heard from more than half a dozen companies including Taggares Co., which wants to build a french fry plant in the state.

"We're going to create jobs with this," Orr said.

Support appreciated

On behalf of the American Cancer Society, I would like to thank everyone who helped with our residential crusade this year. It was not only a great financial success, but also approximately 2500 homes were reached with our educational message on mammography. Through your efforts, I'm hopeful that many breast cancers will be detected at a stage when the cure rate is very high.

Last year, through money raised during the crusade, we were able to provide cancer education programs to 153 adults, 1713 youth and 32 health professionals. We provided services to 17 cancer patients in Wayne County.

These services ranged from dressings and health care equipment to wigs and transportation to their treatment facility. Last September we held a skin cancer detection clinic at which 99 people were examined by a dermatologist free of charge. We also sponsored an "I Can Cope" program designed to educate cancer patients and their families about the disease and some of the emotions which often accompany it and how to deal with them. We initiated a "Cancer Update Series" which is an annual program of four evenings of lectures presented by experts in particular types of cancers to teach the people and health professionals about the disease, new modes of treatment and strides in research.

It is our unit's goal to provide as many services as we can for Wayne County. Although the final total for this year's crusade has not yet been tabulated (not all kits are back yet), I can see that combined with our recent Jall and Bail we are going to far exceed our financial goal and so we feel an even greater responsibility to return as much as that as we can in the form of education and service to our county.

Thank you for your support!

Funny how all of a sudden the city coffers are running dry. We think the voters (those that voted on the sales tax issue) blew away a smoke screen.

Legislation proposed

When this column goes to print the Legislature will be in the final week of this legislative session. Adjournment for this session will occur on May 29th. Appropriation and revenue battles are at the forefront of the legislative agenda and will increase their domination of the center stage as these last few days pass.

By now the infamous "Conway Amendment" to LB 775 has left the news. I appreciated your support. There has been some misunderstanding about the amendment and its impact on the overall bill. Statements were made throughout were then specifically reinstated in the bill at ConAgra's demand.

IN LIGHT OF the corporate tax cuts made in LB 772, the income tax break granted to high income individuals (over $90,000) in LB 773, and the rest of the very generous tax credits and exemptions provided in LB 775, I was convinced that changing the computer and aircraft exemptions to prevent "double-dipping" of both tax credits and personal property exemptions for a single expansion project was a reasonable attempt to strike a balance between economic development and the increased tax burden which will be placed on the state's taxpayers. I'm still convinced of the validity of my amendment. Unfortunately, a majority of the Legislature disagreed.

Rural health care has become a national dilemma and Nebraska is not immune from the difficulties of attracting doctors to rural communities. Because of a specific problem here in the 17th district, I was asked to aid in making the state's medical licensing laws more conducive to attracting qualified doctors to rural Nebraska.

Due to the lateness of the session, finding a means of accomplishing this through legislation was extremely difficult. Through two legislative maneuvers, I attached an amendment to LB 390 providing that the State Board of Examiners may waive a three-year residency requirement for graduates of non-accredited schools if the applicant meets all other licensure requirements.

The doctor must have still completed at least one year of residency (which is the standard for all but one of our six neighboring states), prove to the State Board of Examiners that he or she is fully qualified based on the Board's criteria, and agree to practice in a rural area which has a doctor shortage. The creation of this option will give Nebraska a better opportunity to recruit doctors for our smaller communities.

by Sen. Gerald Conway

the debate on LB 775 that my amendment should be removed because, in its original form, LB 775's property tax exemption for mainframe computers and corporate jets was essential to overall business development in the state and that as part of the original package of economic development bills, the exemptions were necessary incentives.

The point needs to be made that the original bill brought to the Revenue Committee in March had no such provision for computers and aircraft. Instead, the original bill provided a tax exemption for ALL personal property used by businesses in their expansion projects.

This, of course, would have included jets and computers if the projects qualified. The Revenue Committee originally planned to remove the entire provision because of its tremendous erosion of the counties' tax base. The computers and aircraft

Veteran bills reviewed

"It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people..."

—Abraham Lincoln

Those words of the fall of 1863 were intended as salve for a nation divided by civil war, yet blessed with the bounties of wealth and strength. Lincoln saw much to be thankful for, much to praise, even in the midst of great anguish over the loss of so many American lives.

Nebraskans joined on May 25th in observing Memorial Day with gratitude and reverence for the past, with pride and in awe of the present and its opportunities, and with confidence and hope in a future that has been built upon determination, struggle, and sacrifice.

Freedom is the gift left by our fallen veterans; it is indeed fitting and appropriate to remember them, as Lincoln said, "with one heart and one voice."

In addition, we owe the blessings of liberty to those who have selflessly served and risked life and limb to defend our nation. To them also our nation owes a debt of gratitude. In this spirit, I am pleased to inform you of my cosponsorship in the 100th Congress of bills regarding Veterans' Affairs.

H.R. 303 is a bill to eliminate the offset between military retired pay and VA disability compensation. Under present law, service-disabled retirees must surrender a portion of their retirement pay if they want to receive the disability compensation to which they are entitled. Military retirees are the only group subject to this offset. H.R. 303 will end this discrimination.

H.J. RES. 155 is a joint resolution designating April 9, 1987 as "National Prisoner of War Recognition Day" and H.J. Res. 100 designates September 18, 1987, as "National POW/MIA Recognition Day."

In addition, I have cosponsored two legislative bills which pertain to the Philippine Scouts who ably served with our Armed Forces during World War II. H.R. 2065 equalizes the retired pay of the Philippine Scouts with the retired pay of other members of the U.S. Armed Forces of corresponding grades and length of service. H.J. Res. 243 authorizes a memorial in honor of the Filipino veterans who served in the U.S. Army during W.W. II.

Finally, on April 9, I joined my colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives in approving a $27.9 billion budget for the Veterans Administration for fiscal year 1988. This budget will allow the VA to continue to deliver essentially the same levels of services with inflation factored in, commonly referred to as a "current services" budget.

The House-approved budget, as recommended by the Committee on Veterans' Affairs, provides for:

full cost-of-living adjustments in VA compensation and pension payments. The pension COLA is tied to the consumer price index and the compensation COLA is considered annually by the Congress.

a current services health care budget, which includes an allowance for inflation and most of the cost of facility activations. It also authorizes a permanent GI Bill with basic entitlement payments remaining under the jurisdiction of the VA;

no change in the home loan origination fee (the Administration had requested an increase from one percent to 2.5 percent); and rejects the Administration proposal to limit eligibility requirements for burial plot allowances to veterans with service-connected disabilities, veterans in receipt of pension, and certain other limited categories of wartime veterans.

THE UNITED STATES has always been a nation that cares for its veterans, a true gauge of a nation's pride and strength. Congress has established a comprehensive program of benefits and services to address the needs of veterans, their dependents and survivors. You may find the following information about the Veterans Administration interesting:

* It has a potential constituency of almost one-third of the U.S. population: 27.8 million veterans, 52 million survivors and dependents of veterans;

* largest independent agency in the Federal government. Ranks only second to the Department of Defense in number of personnel with 235,000 full and part-time employees;

* annual budget - over $27 billion;

* administers the largest direct insurance program in the United States;

* operates one of the Federal government's major home loan guaranty programs;

* administers job training, vocational rehabilitation, and education programs;

* pays compensation benefits to 2.2 million veterans with service-connected disabilities; and;

* pays disability pension to 641,000 veterans.

Viewpoint

Economic strategy

One of Nebraska's legislative bills that gained widespread attention in 1987 was LB 775, which provides tax credits for companies that expand and create new jobs.

LB 775 was adopted Tuesday by the legislature on a 37-11 vote. However, Governor Orr, in a past visit to Wayne, said it isn't just LB 775 alone that the state would offer for creating jobs in Nebraska. It's LB 270 as well which is the legislative bill that is more likely to assist the smaller businesses.

The bill supplies tax credits to small businesses. LB 775 is good, she said, because "a business must qualify first of all before they can even be considered. They must make a certain level of investment and create a certain number of jobs."

The bill should not be considered as "giving something away," she mentioned.

"We're particularly pleased to know of the excitement shown by businesses outside of our state," she said, "that are seriously considering coming to create jobs in this state because of this piece of legislation."

The bill is misunderstood, she said, adding that it is not just for the benefit of big business. The whole comprehensive package enables the state to create jobs in Wayne, Ord, Valentine or anywhere out of the state.

Corporations that move to the state or those that expand with a $3 million investment and create 30 new full-time jobs would qualify for the tax credits.

One area of the bill which drew controversy involved including jets and computers (part of all personal property used by a business in its expanding project) as a tax exemption.

State Senator Gerald Conway of Wayne was convinced that changing the computer and aircraft exemptions provided in LB 775 would be one way to prevent "double-dipping" of both tax credits and personal property exemptions for a single expansion project. He said it was a "reasonable attempt to strike a balance between economic development and the increased tax burden which will be placed on the state's taxpayers."

And that brings on the question: Just how much additional tax burden will there be on taxpayers when the tax credits and personal property exemptions for the expansion projects are initiated?

But then consider this: More people will be employed because of additional jobs available when the companies take advantage of the incentives offered in LB 775 and expand or relocate to Nebraska. Will more tax dollars then be generated to the state?

Not everyone agrees that tax incentives are the sole recruiting tool for expanding the state's economic base. Nebraska does have other plus factors going for it, such as moderate wage rates and high productivity records. It is in the heartland of America and can be a nucleus to all parts of the nation.

Some companies will move to a Nebraska community because of the broad community support displayed, because of the ample source of labor and an excellent education system (elementary, high school and college) that would be available.

Normally, one would think that all of these amenities would be incentive enough to draw new or expanding industry into the state, or into a Nebraska community.

But would it have been enough incentive for the state to forget about providing tax credits to expanding business?

Area coaches and parents should be proud of their athletes' performances during the 1987 State Track and Field Championships at Omaha Burke over the weekend.

Several fine performances were turned in by the athletes from Wayne, Wakefield, Winside and Allen.

Among them was a gold medal, state record performance from a freshman from Wakefield. Theresa Stelling captured the gold medal in the 1,600-meter run. Not only did she have the best time of all runners in the event at the meet, she also bettered her personal best time by more than 20 seconds. Her 5:05.18 eclipsed the Class C state record of 5:06.82 set by Tamara Resh of Shelton in 1985.

Breaking the five-minute mile in high school girls track is almost unheard of in this area but with small strides of improvement each year Stelling has a shot at it. After all she has three seasons to do it.

A day earlier "Bug," as her friends and coaches call her, won the Class C 3,200-meter run in a time of 11:17.67. She bettered her personal best of the season by more than 11 seconds. In addition she placed fourth in the 800 with a personal best time and was a member of the 3,200-meter relay team that finished fourth.

Stelling also caught the attention of the large crowd at Burke high and the media.

After she sprinted the first 200 meters in the 1,600 to take a comfortable lead over race favorite Fran tenBensel of Arapahoe people paid close attention to the girl from Wakefield. She was met down the home stretch with a nice applause.

After receiving congratulations from numerous runners, several journalists were at the end of the runway waiting for a few words from the winner.

Watching her, as reporters from the Omaha World Herald and Lincoln Journal-Star popped questions at her, she seemed almost embarrassed. Short, quick answers were the rule. But I imagine that will come with experience.

All this deserved attention was going to a girl who stands five-feet tall, maybe, and weighs less than 90 pounds.

The performance of Jyoti Kwankin must not be overlooked. The hurdler from Allen retained his Class D 300-meter intermediate hurdle crown by posting his best time of the season, 40.59. Earlier in the day the senior narrowly missed out on taking home first place in the Class D 110-meter high hurdles. He was edged out at the tape by Alan Hardy of Stratton by five one-hundredths of a second. The race marked the first time in two years he has been beaten at that distance.

Not a bad way to end a high school career!

Many Special Olympics athletes also returned to the area this weekend with gold, silver and bronze medals hanging from their necks.

A group of nine athletes, coaches and sponsors traveled to Creighton University to compete in the Nebraska Special Olympics Chapter Games. I think the weekend could be called a success.

The kids were bubbling with excitement and anticipation Thursday morning when they gathered for a picture before departing for Omaha. Looking at the results, the excitement must have carried over well after the competition.

Wayne is now the home of a PBA bowler. Barry Dahlkoetter recently returned from Professional Bowlers Association School in Cleveland where he passed both the school and the exam. That enables him to participate in national tournaments after he has qualified in several regional tournaments.

It may not be long before we're seeing Dahlkoetter hit the big time.

Area runners place at state meet in Omaha

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

Several firsts were achieved by area athletes and schools during the running of the 1987 Boys and Girls State Track Meet at Omaha Burke over the weekend.

Theresa Stelling became Wakefield's first all-class gold medal winner by recording the fastest time in the 1,600-meter run on Saturday. The freshman left race favorite Fran tenBensel in the dust as she broke the tape in a Class C record time of 5:05.98.

On Friday she captured the Class C 3,200-meter run as she clocked in 11:17.67. Stelling recorded the third fastest time in the four classes. Kelly Loos of Lincoln High won the gold medal in a time of 11:03.03.

Stelling received another medal with her fourth-place finish in the 800-meter dash. She turned in a personal best time of 2:21.38. Miss tenBensel won the race and the gold medal by breaking her old Class C state record with a time of 2:15.46.

As a team the Lady Trojans earned third place with 29 points. Wahoo Neumann won Class C as they tallied 34 points. Neumann was in third place going into the second-to-last event of the day. In the 200-meter dash Wahoo Neumann's Sue Ahrens won the race giving the Lady Cavaliers the class crown. The Class C girls division was the tightest among all class competitions.

Arpahoe finished in second place with 31 points. Howells was fourth with 27 and Cedar Bluffs placed fifth scoring 26 points.

Wakefield also got fine performances from freshman Laurie Plendl and the 3,200-meter relay team. Plendl knocked 22 seconds off her previous best to earn sixth place in the 1,600-meter run. She earned the sixth-place medal with a clocking of 5:28.14.

The relay team of Cathi Larson, Michelle Orlin, Plendl and Stelling finished fourth in the medal dash in the 3,200-meter relay. The foursome crossed the finish line in a time of 10:17.53.

Allen also had a class champion crowned when Jyoti Kwankin took the 300-meter intermediate hurdles on Saturday. Kwankin's time of 40.59 was good enough to edge Eric Schepers of Fairmont who was clocked at 40.80. The senior's time in the finals was his best performance of the season. Kwankin earned a second-place finish in the 110-meter high hurdles. His 15.62 was second best to Stratton's Alan Hardy who broke the tape in 15.57.

DEB UEHLING of Allen battles for position during the Class D 1,600-meter run. Uehling finished the race in second place in a time of 5:35.32.

Kwankin's 18 points gave Allen a sixth-place tie in Class D. Clay Center ran away with first place by tallying 62 points. Arnold was the runner-up scoring 32 points.

The Allen Lady Eagles scored 22 points enroute to their sixth-place finish. Leigh won the Class D crown by scoring 45 points. Eustis and McCool Junction placed second and third with 38 and 34 points respectively. Verdigris was fourth and Potter rounded out the top five.

Deb Uehling accounted for 16 of Allen's 22 points. Uehling was the runner-up in both the 1,600- and 3,200-meter run. The senior turned in a 5:35.32 in the 1,600. Sylvia Veit of Polk overtook Uehling and won the race in a time of 5:30.25. In the 3,200 Uehling ran in either first or second the entire race. Dana Ottoson of Potter won the race as she crossed the finish line in 11:52.72. Uehling finished right behind her in 12:09.93.

The Lady Eagles' 400-meter relay team earned a third-place medal. The quartet of Amy Noe, Missy Martinson, Kristi Chase and Candace Jones ran a 52.99 and were edged out of second place by the Spalding Academy entry by one one-hundredth of a second. Leigh won the race in 51.40.

Several other area-athletes competed in the two-day event but failed to place among the top six.

Others running at the state meet were: Jody Navrkal of Wakefield in the Class C 200-meter dash, Jones of Allen in the Class D 400-meter dash, Martinson of Allen in the Class D 100-meter dash, Val Krusemark of Wakefield in the Class C discus, Christi Thies of Winside in the Class C high jump, Mace Kant of Winside in the Class D 3,200-meter run, the 1,600-meter relay team of Chase, Pam Kennedy, Martinson and Jones of Allen and the 1,600-meter relay team of Larson, Stacey Kuhl, Sheila Anderson and Plendl of Wakefield.

Stelling thrills crowd at state

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The girls they call "Bug" made believers out of the crowd attending the state track meet at Omaha Burke over the weekend.

Wakefield's Theresa Stelling set a new Class C record enroute to winning the all-class gold medal in the 1,600-meter run. The freshman also won the Class C 3,200-meter run, finished fourth in the Class C 800-meter run and was the anchor member of the 3,200-meter relay that finished fourth in Class C.

Stelling's most impressive performance came in the 1,600 where she was pitted against the heavily favored Fran tenBensel of Arapahoe. Miss tenBensel already had a gold-medal performance under her belt in the 800-meter run. In the race in which Stelling placed fourth tenBensel set a new Class C record in a time of 2:15.46.

After the 1,600 Stelling said she wasn't about to get beat by the Arapahoe runner twice in one day.

Going into the race not many gave Stelling a realistic chance to beat tenBensel except for the Wakefield coaches and Theresa herself. Coaches John Torczon and Dennis Wilbur were already talking about "The Race" minutes after Stelling captured the 3,200 on Friday.

The freshman beat tenBensel in the first 200-meters of the race. She sprinted out of the blocks until she had a comfortable lead after the first 200. Stelling ran her first 400 in a split of 68 seconds. She won the race easily in a time of 5:05.18. The Arapahoe junior came in a distant second in a time of 5:14.61.

Stelling said her strategy was simple.

"I wanted to get out in front early and not get boxed in," she said.

It was the first head to head competition between the two but Stelling was familiar with her opponent.

"I just wanted to beat Fran, she's a good runner," she said.

The Wakefield runner had to sweat it out and watch the Class B and A race before she knew she won the gold medal. Torczon wasn't surprised with the results.

"We've been running in hurricanes all year long," he said. "I knew if we had a good day she turn in a good one."

In deed it was a good one. Stelling took 25.8 seconds off her previous personal best.

In the 3,200 Stelling ran much the same race. She led form gun to wire to win the Class C crown in a time of 11:17.67. It bettered her previous best of 11:28.9. She said she didn't think she would be able to set a personal record because of the windy, cold conditions.

"I didn't think I would be able to set a personal best today," Stelling said. "But after the first mile I thought I had a chance."

The freshman said the wind didn't bother her. She said she would rather run in cold weather.

Both Stelling and tenBensel will be back for a rematch next year. It will be a rematch anxiously anticipated by many.

KEVIN GRIESS chips out of trouble during the state tournament at McCook. Bad weather and a difficult course caused problems for the Wayne golfers all day.

Wayne golfers slip to fourth at state meet

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

For the second year in a row the Wayne golf squad shot its highest score of the season at the Class B state meet.

This year the site was McCook's Heritage Hills Country Club. The Blue Devils earned fourth place in the class by shooting a team total of 346.

Elkhorn Mount Michael won the state championship by posting a 337. Minden was the runner-up with a score of 342. Chadron finished ahead of Wayne in third place with a team total of 344. Rounding out the top five was Grand Island Northwest with a score of 347.

The individual medalist was Elkhorn's Jason Hoover. Hoover fired a 74 and won by one stroke over Mt. Michael's Rob Lighthart. Corey Johnson of Ord finished third with a 77.

Wayne Coach Terry Munson said he didn't want to make any excuses but he thought the weather conditions hampered the golfers that drew the early tee times. He said when the tournament began at 9 a.m. Thursday, the weather was wet, cold and windy. As the day progressed the conditions improved. The golfers with the later tee times posted the better scores on the front nine, Munson said.

Unfortunately for the Blue Devils, Wayne had three golfers with early tee times. The times were arranged according to district seeds. The better scores played earlier.

Munson said after looking at some final scores, only three golfers out of the 87 entrants shot under an 80, only 16 got in under 85.

Wayne's top performer was sophomore Jed Reeg. Reeg finished sixth overall and fired an 18-hole total of 81. Robb Reeg came in with an 84, good enough for a share of 13th place. Eric Ruestad tied for the 34th position by posting a 90 and Dave Ellis carded a 91, good enough for a 37th-place tie. Kevin Griess got in trouble on the first hole and came in with 93.

Munson said winning or losing wasn't the problem. The coach said his team didn't shoot the score they were capable of.

"If we could have shot the scores we were capable of and finished fourth, well that would have been a different story," Munson said. "I thought we were ready to go but we just didn't play that well."

After rerun

Stoltenberg second in hurdles

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

First-place finishes at the state track meet over the weekend was a distinct possibility for the two qualifying Wayne athletes prior to the meet.

But "Lady Luck" dealt the Blue Devils a bum rap and Wayne settled for eight points and a tie for 19th place in Class B. Elkhorn won the boys division as it scored 69 points. Boys Town and McCook tied for second with 45 points apiece. Waverly finished fourth with 43 and Elkhorn Mount Michael and Lexington tied for the fifth spot tallying 41 points each.

Jon Stoltenberg entered the meet at Omaha Burke with one of the best times in the 110-meter high hurdles in Class B. The senior had recorded several times of 15.1 during the season.

On Friday he won the preliminary heat in a time of 15.12. It was the second fastest qualifying time to Shaun Galligan of Waverly who turned in a 14.94.

The finals on Saturday started out to be a nightmare for Stoltenberg. The Wayne hurdler was assigned a middle lane next to Boys Town's James Payne. As Payne went over one of the hurdles he lost his balance and hit Stoltenberg causing him to lose his balance and fall. He was unable to finish the race. Galligan won the race in a time of 15.09.

The referee threw up the red flag, declaring that the Boys Town runner had interfered with Stoltenberg. After much discussion meet officials decided that there was no clear-cut leader at the time of the infraction so the race should be rerun, with Payne being disqualified. Mike Morris of Albion also was disqualified because he didn't finish the race the first time.

Stoltenberg said that the officials decided that he should get another chance since he had one of the better qualifying times in the prelims.

Payne appealed the decision but it was overruled. Things turned out better for the local second time through. The race was run cleanly and Galligan and Stoltenberg went head to head over each hurdle. It stayed like that the whole way but the Waverly hurdler edged Stoltenberg at the tape for first place. Galligan turned in a 15.15 while Stoltenberg finished second in a time of 15.18.

Wayne's Bill Liska also had a rough time in the high jump. Liska, who came into the meet with a best leap of 6-7, failed to clear the opening height of 6-0. Going into the meet the senior's school record jump of 6-7 earlier in the year was tops in Class B.

Chuck Ellis tournament detained due to weather

Heavy rains are putting a damper on this year's Chuck Ellis Memorial Tournament in Wakefield.

Monsoon-like weather in the area has postponed several of the games after the first four days of the event.

Unfortunately for the Wayne Midgets their game against the Norfolk Reds wasn't wash-out. The locals were eliminated by dropping an 11-10 decision to the squad from Norfolk.

The game ended on a controversial play which went in favor of the winners. With the game tied 10-10 Norfolk had a runner on second base with one out in the bottom of the seventh inning. The batter hit a ground ball down the third-base line. The home plate umpire signaled fair while the third base ump called it foul. After a long discussion the home plate ump's call stood and the winning run came around to score.

Coach Hank Overin used four pitchers in the contest. Jeff Luft started the game. He was relieved by Craig Schmidt who gave way to Jess Zels. Matt Peterson finished the game and was the pitcher of record. The loss dropped Wayne to 0-1.

The big hit of the day came in the fourth inning. Schmidt laced a two-run double to give Wayne a 7-6 lead. Unfortunately for the locals the lead didn't hold.

Overin said both teams appeared to have first-game jitters. "It looked like the team that had the last ticks was going to win it," Overin said.

The Wakefield Midgets won their opener in a wild one. In a game that featured 43 walks and five hit batters, Wakefield turned back Pender 22-17. With the win Wakefield advanced to the second round where they will play the Norfolk Blue team who received a first-round bye. The game was scheduled for Tuesday but due to the rain it has been pushed back a couple of days. No tentative schedule has been announced.

Kwankin retains 300 IH crown

By Gregg Dahlheim

Jyoti Kwankin made it two straight Saturday as he successfully defended his title in the Class D 300-meter intermediate hurdles at the state track meet at Omaha Burke.

The Allen senior took the lead in the early going and held on to nip Eric Schepers of Fairmont and Jerod Burge of Madrid Wheatland. Kwankin broke the tape in 40.59. Schepers finished in 40.80 and Burge turned in a 40.97.

Kwankin said he was happy with the way he ran the race. He said he was in stride over the hurdles the whole race.

The winning time was Kwankin's best of the season. He won the event last year in a time of 40.97.

Kwankin said he had something to prove entering the 300 IH's. Earlier in the day he was edged out of first place at the tape in the 110-meter high hurdles.

"Getting revenge was all I thought about," Kwankin said after winning the 300.

Alan Hardy of Stratton won the highs in a time of 15.57. Kwankin got outleaved at the wire as he turned in a 15.62. Kwankin's coach Dave Uldrich said it was the first time in two seasons that his hurdler had been beaten in the high hurdles. Last year at the state meet the senior was disqualified in the 110 finals after false starting.

Food goes to waste

Sometimes the news in agriculture is more interesting than earth-shattering, more amusing than thought-provoking. This is a good thing, sometimes.

Oregon State University researchers say that in the average household, $150 worth of food went to waste, not to the waist, last year. That's the dollar value of food thrown

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
by Cheryl Stubbendieck,
Vice President/Information

away. One family in Salem, Ore., contributed the high side to the average by tossing $1,687 worth of food. It's said that garbage haulers compete for their route.

In households with children under 10, more eggs and milk were discarded. Households with teens threw away more fruit, vegetables, and, believe it or don't, sweets.

An extension nutritionist at the University of Tennessee estimated that 30 percent of the discarded food was thought to be of poor quality or unsafe to eat. As for the other 70 percent, maybe the families just got tired of looking at it.

The Packer newspaper reports that one-third of respondents it surveyed said they're eating more fresh fruit now than a year ago, mainly as snacks. It must not have talked to teenagers.

BANANAS LEAD the list of fruit-snacks, followed by apples and seedless grapes. After the big three, it's a long drop to oranges and peaches on the popularity list.

The newspaper asked the thousand respondents which fruit they'd bought for the first time during the last year. The overwhelmed winner was kiwifruit. At the same time, more than half of the folks said they'd never purchased some of the more common fruits — apricots, avocados and cranberries. That might explain why those three aren't on the snack-fruit list.

And speaking of newspapers, several are testing soybean oil-based ink in place of the traditional petroleum-based product. The Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Gazette, finds soy ink as good as, and maybe better-looking than, the regular stuff. Right now soy ink is a little more expensive than petroleum-based ink, but the Gazette thinks that if using soy ink will help farmers, it's worth doing.

PRINTERS USE 300 million pounds of oil each year. If every paper switched over, about 28 million bushels of soybeans would be needed to satisfy demand. At $5 a bushel, that's a $140 million market — quite a hill of beans.

Wouldn't it be great if soy ink didn't come off on white shirts the way the petroleum product does?

And again, from Iowa, a farm couple here is saying "Move over, Rover." Last August the couple bought a pair of Vietnamese pigs from a wild animal dealer in Missouri and it's promoting them as housepets. It's the perfect choice for the family that wants a hog for a pet, but doesn't want a 300-pound porker jumping on the bed. Adults weigh 80 pounds and stand just 18 inches high. Gilts, girl pigs, go for $1,000 and boars for $500. Be the first in your neighborhood to own one.

by Pat Meierhenry

Friday, May 29th, marks the birthdays of two special people. One has contributed to the field of comedy for decades and is well-known all over the world — Bob Hope. The other is rather young and has not yet had the opportunity to leave her mark — my sister Kay.

Being the middle daughter, she has had to endure much strife and hardship brought about by older siblings. She bears a striking resemblance to her older sister, causing many cases of mistaken identity. During high school, people asked her how college was. Then she started college at Wesleyan and began working at Arby's and it got worse. No one could figure out why Sue was back in school after she had graduated. She complains frequently, but deep down, I believe she enjoys being associated with me.

Kay has always had a soft spot in her heart for animals. Most animals. She is deathly afraid of frogs. They used to congregate around the water hydrant surrounded by bushes in front of our house. Jon and I would get our kicks by watching her turn on

Sheep weigh-in event takes place on Saturday

The weigh-in's that began the official rate-of-gain contests for Wayne and Dixon County 4-H Market Sheep took place Saturday, May 23 at the Dixon and Wayne County fairgrounds. Members brought 81 project lambs to be sheared, weighed and ear-tagged.

The rate-of-gain contest is optional for 4-H livestock project members. A member can be enrolled in the sheep project and show their lambs at county fair and other shows without entering the contests. All 4-H project livestock are identified with their respective County Extension Service by June 15 of each year.

4-H Sheep project participants learn to take responsibility and develop livestock handling and showing techniques. In addition, record keeping and financial management skills are developed.

Coordinator for the Sheep Shear, Weigh and Tag Day in Dixon County was Kathleen Plueger of Concord. Shearer was Kurt Liermann of Wisner. Steven Gramlich, Lincoln, sheared the lambs for Wayne County 4-H'ers.

In dealing with bankruptcy

SCORE assists farmers

Chapter 12, the new federal bankruptcy law designed to help farmers and ranchers, is not an easy document to understand. While its general purpose is clear, the details aren't.

A farmer who thinks Chapter 12 might be an answer for him needs to find out those details. But very likely he's reluctant to talk to his banker about it — because the bank, as one of his creditors, would be affected if he did file Chapter 12 bankruptcy. If he can, he'd prefer to ask his questions elsewhere.

Recognizing that the new law is complex and farmers are hesitant to go to local sources for help, Tim Mahoney, the federal bankruptcy judge for Nebraska, asked the Small Business Administration office in Omaha if it could help through its SCORE program. SCORE stands for Service Corp of Retired Executives. It was begun in 1964 to take advantage of the knowledge and expertise of retired business owners and executives. SCORE volunteers work with small business owners, providing expertise the businesses can't afford to buy.

SCORE recruited H.L. Tintley, retired president of Farmers National Company, to develop a program to advise farmers. Tintley in turn recruited other retired executives whose expertise includes farm management, banking and accounting. This nucleus of experts is available to counsel farmers who request help.

So far the program has worked through telephone conference calls. One or several of the SCORE volunteers telephone the farmer to gather initial information and figure out what expertise is needed. Future phone calls deal with the nitty gritty. If it's necessary, the SCORE volunteers may make in-person visits. They'll continue to work with the farmer as long as help is needed.

AS A RESULT OF SCORE's help, some farmers have proceeded and filed Chapter 12 bankruptcy. Some have not, after determining situations. One of the big advantages of the program is getting an outside perspective from an objective but knowledgeable party.

SCORE volunteers are not paid and the Small Business Administration picks up the program's costs, so there is no charge to the farmer. And so that farmers and ranchers may talk freely about their financial problems, the service is confidential.

Although they are not paid, the SCORE volunteers are compensated in intangible ways, says Doug Cozad, project coordinator for the Small Business Administration. SCORE volunteers are "very, very successful people, most of whom feel they owe the success to the American free enterprise system. They feel a debt to repay the system in some way. When they work with young businesses, they reinforce the free enterprise system that was good to them." That's in addition to the general satisfaction of helping others and seeing them implement their recommendations and be successful with them, he says.

SCORE will continue the program as long as there's a need and it will recruit more retired executives to fill the need if the demand is great.

Farmers who want to use the service should contact SCORE at the U.S. Small Business Administration office at 11145 Mill Valley Rd., Omaha, NE 68154, 402/221-3604.

Extension system expanding, Task Force work explained

Establishing and clarifying national priorities for the Cooperative Extension System "is a dynamic, constantly changing process," said Dean Leo E. Lucas of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Lucas, director of Nebraska's Cooperative Extension Service, is the former chair of the national Extension Committee on Organization and Policy (ECOP). During his tenure, ECOP initiated a four-year project to create "a new agenda for the extension system."

Phase I of the project began in mid-1986 with the establishment of eight priority initiative task forces composed of extension staff from across the country. The task forces have identified critical issues and formulated possible extension roles in addressing those issues.

"The concept of setting national priority initiatives is important to the Cooperative Extension System," said Lucas, who continues to serve on the project's national coordinating committee. "We are clarifying the major issues."

Four UNL extension staff members serve on initiative task forces. Entomology Department head Roger God investigates Water Quality, crop specialist Chuck Francis co-chairs Alternative Agricultural Opportunities, marketing specialist Michael Turner concentrates on Revitalizing Rural America and agricultural engineer Elbert Dickey contributes his expertise to Conservation and Management of Natural Resources.

OTHER TASK forces include: Competitiveness and Profitability of American Agriculture; Improving Nutrition, Diet and Health; Family and Economic Well-Being; and Building Human Capital.

ECOP also established a separate Futures Task Force to investigate the overall structure and funding of the extension system. Lancaster County extension chair Don Miller is a member of that task force.

In March, each of the eight program task forces published a data sheet listing important issues and projecting appropriate goals and roles for extension. The initiative reports will be refined further in the next few months and presented for approval at the land-grant universities meeting in November. Along the way, input will be provided by many organizations, groups and individuals from across the country. "The project is proceeding according to our expectations," Lucas said. "We had hoped to complete the first phase this year. As the task force reports mature, we start to look toward the next steps."

ECOP will accept, then continually re-evaluate the task force reports. "It will be a fluid process," Lucas said. "Some recommendations will be incorporated relatively soon, some over a period of time, some never."

Lucas noted that ECOP can only make recommendations to member state organizations. Individual states decide whether to incorporate the suggestions, he said.

IN CONJUNCTION with the national initiative process, Nebraska is establishing state priorities, Lucas said. UNL extension program evaluation specialist Robert J. Fiorelli is coordinating the effort, which will reflect the input of thousands of Nebraskans.

"We will look at the state priorities in relation to the national," Lucas said. "I think there will be a lot of commonality. For example, water quality is a concern at the national and state levels. We might refine the national initiative statement to say the issue in Nebraska is nitrates in our groundwater."

The entire process is essential to the continued effectiveness of the extension system, Lucas said. "If this university is committed to providing outreach to the people of Nebraska, we must understand what the issues are, then deliver the needed services. It's important to us, and it's important to the people of this state."

POSTEMERGENCE WEED CONTROL IN CORN

Some of our planned corn is ready for postemergence weed control. Suggestions for effective control include the following:

When using atrazine with oil annual grasses are best controlled when less than 1 1/2 tall. Bladex 80W or 90DF can also be used postemergence but omit the oil. Tandem in combination with atrazine or Bladex increases postemergence activity. Bladex should be used when corn is 4" or less. Apply Marksman when corn is under 5".

Buctril or Brominal alone or in combination with atrazine should be applied when most broadleaf weeds are under 6". Use drop nozzles when applying Banvel or 2,4-D to taller corn. Observe all label cautions on crop heights, rates, and safety to nearby crops, gardens, and windbreak.

Tough a new postemergence herbicide from Terra just received an Experimental Use Permit. Tough is to be used with atrazine or Bladex for control of emerged grass and broadleaf weeds.

ALGAE AND MOSS CONTROL IN WATER TANKS

With warmer weather, moss and algae will again make their appearance in plastic nurse tanks used to hold water supplies for spraying operations. Control is simple and inexpensive.

The recommended control is copper sulfate. A convenient way to measure copper sulfate is to dissolve 1 oz. in a pint of water using a glass jar. Add 7.5 tablespoons of the prepared copper sulfate solution to each 1000 gallons of water. Mix thoroughly. This concentration can be used for moss and algae control in livestock tanks as well as water holding tanks.

PEANUT BUTTER VS. MEAT

It would take 7 1/2 tablespoons of peanut butter to get as much protein as from a 3 1/2 ounce serving of cooked beef chuck roast; 12 1/2 tablespoons to get as much iron; 2 1/2 oz. as much thiamin; 11 1/2 to equal the riboflavin and only two tablespoons to get as much niacin.

Beef contains no carbohydrate while a comparable 3 1/2 ounce serving of peanut butter would contain 19.5 grams. And each serving of peanut butter contains twice as much fat as protein; while with most beef cuts just the opposite is true.

Country store nets

$2,313

A Country Store held April 25 to raise funds for Winside's museum committee netted $1,313. An additional $1,000 will be provided in matching funds by Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 1960.

The museum committee is raising funds to move the former Theophilus Church into Winside for use as a branch museum of the Wayne County Historical Society.

To date, funds raised and pledges total $14,887.

MEMBERS OF the museum committee met May 18 in the home of Ruby Ritze, with President Bill Burris conducting the meeting.

Additional fund raising events were discussed, including a kiddie car ride during Winside's Old Settlers celebration on July 18. The committee also discussed a fund raising event to be held during Chicken Days in Wayne.

Burris reported that there will be a final afternoon worship service at the Theophilus Church on Sunday, June 7. There will be a social hour following the service.

MEMBERS OF the museum committee have decided to finalize the purchase of a lot from George Voss, located south of the city park, to relocate the Theophilus Church as a museum.

Leonard Jones of Wayne will be hired as contractor, and work at the site is scheduled to begin sometime in June.

Next meeting of the museum committee will be June 15 at 8 p.m. in the home of Irene Dittman.

The Golden Years by Gil Haase

At age 110, Charlie Lowe of Phoenix, Arizona, reaffirmed his disdain for modern inventions. He never flew in an airplane or owned a car. He always refused to take any kind of pills.
Born in 1876 to sharecroppers who made their living growing corn and cotton in Arkansas, Charlie never did learn to read or write. He didn't retire and start collecting Social Security until he was 85. At the age of 99, while digging ditches for a friend, Charlie suffered the first of two strokes. "I took him to the doctor, who said he'd never make it through the year," said Charlie's granddaughter. "Well, the doctor died about eight or nine years ago." And Charlie kept right on going.

Remember When? April 7, 1927 - The first public demonstration of long-distance television took place in New York City where Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, spoke with and saw United States Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, who was seated in his office in Washington, D.C.

Bulk-Forming Laxatives

Constipation is often caused by lack of bulk (fiber) in the diet, insufficient fluid in the diet, or the consumption of foods that harden the stools, such as processed cheese. The bulk-forming laxatives can aid regularity if constipation is caused by any of these factors.

The public has an increased awareness of the importance of fiber in the diet. The bulk-forming laxatives are popular, in part, because many contain fiber that is derived from naturally occurring plant sources (agar, plantago seed, gums, and kelp). However, some of the bulk forming preparations contain synthetic ingredients such as methylcellulose or carboxymethylcellulose.

Bulk-forming laxatives absorb water and swell, speeding the movement of fecal materials through the intestine. The powdered or granular type should be taken with an 8 ounce glass of water, juice, soft drink, or other beverage. Additional fluid in the diet, consumed at various times during the day, helps this class of laxatives work more effectively. Not drinking adequate amounts of fluid with bulk-forming laxatives can result in obstruction of the intestine.

THE REV. DAVE RUSK, pastor of the Wakefield Christian Church, delivered Monday's Memorial Day address during services in the Wakefield Community Schools auditorium. Services, which were scheduled to take place at the cemetery, were moved indoors because of inclement weather. Also taking part in the program were members of the VFW and American Legion posts and auxiliaries, the Wakefield Trojan Band, and Dwight Fischer, who read the preamble to the Constitution of the United States.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES

Memorial Day services were held in Laurel with the parade to the school auditorium at 9:45 a.m. The services were opened with the playing of the colors and the playing of the National Anthem by June Dickey. The invocation was given by Regg Ward, post chaplain. Introductions were made by Gene Twiford who introduced the guest speaker Dr. Jon Ericson, professor at Drake University and a former resident of Laurel.

Several musical selections were sung by a vocal group under the direction of Mrs. Marian Mallatt. The services continued at the Laurel cemetery where the "Avenue of Flags" was dedicated by Glen Anderson. The placing of the flowers was done by the American Legion and VFW commanders and the Auxiliary representatives. The roll call of deceased veterans was given by Lonnie Nixon. The salute to the dead was done by Jerome Donner and Boyd Sutton. Taps were played by Bob Dickey.

There were over 500 who attended the dinner in the high school gym, sponsored by the Laurel Ladies Cemetery Association.

The "Avenue of Flags" is an Eagle Scout project of Chris Ebneler of Laurel. It was explained by his father, Steve Ebneler.
